IOWA STUDENTS LOST IN FAR NORTH

Three Weeks E lapse Since Men Disappear

Fur Trader Says Explorers' Food Supplies Low, Equipment Lost, Damaged as Quartet Pushes Toward Arctic

Four university students, John D. Fuller, M4 of Keokuk, Max J. Kane, L2 of Iowa City, Gordon Armstrong, E3 of Britt and Peder C. Boddum, C3 of Crystal Lake were reported lost in the Reindeer Lake region of northern Saskatchewan, Canada, with inadequate clothing, equipment and food, in Associated Press dispatches received here last night.

The four explorers, who left Winnipeg June 5, determined to travel the Arctic circle in a canoe, were last seen three weeks ago by J. M. Cummines, manager of the Hudson Bay company post at Brochet, one of the furthestmost points in northern Canada. Cummines reported to the mounted police at Prince Albert that when he met the explorers three weeks ago at the lower end of Rainbow lake they had little food, most of their equipment was lost or damaged and their clothing was poor.

Bodenheim Found in Massachusetts

Advises Them to Return

Cummines claimed that he strongly advised the men to turn back but as they were determined to continue, he gave them what food he could spare from his own supplies. No word has since come from the party.

The four men, registered on their Canadian passes as "scientists" were led by John Fuller. They started from the Pas June 7 with two 17-foot canoes, and ample supplies, among them a radio receiving set. They expected to maintain an average speed of 30 miles a day to enable them to complete the 3,000 mile trip by the opening of university in the fall.

The last message received by the men's parents was dated June 18 and received about July 5. The letters were written at Pelican Narrows, Sask., where the party took up supplies and repaired the canoes. Being far beyond the reach of mail they were able to send word to their homes, only through the chance meeting with a trapper bound for Starbuck, Canada, the last mail station on the route. He mailed the letters for the men.

Go as Scientists

The feat of reaching the Arctic circle by canoe has never been accomplished by a regular organized expedition. The permit which the explorers received from the Canadian government, permitted them to travel as "scientists and explorers" and to hunt game for food.

Should they paddle down the Kazan river, much of which is unknown and uncharted, they will paddle through a dangerous stretch, since it is known that the river has a fall of 900 feet in one relatively short distance.

None of the students except Fuller, has ever handled a canoe on any river other than the Mississippi and Iowa. Fuller qualified as leader of the expedition through the fact that he took a 500-mile trip into northern Ontario and southern Minnesota five years ago.

The Daily Iowan last night called the parents of the men and gave them the message that came over the Associated Press wires. Only Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, mother of Max Kane, who is in Keokuk on her vacation, and Mrs. M. J. Armstrong, father of Gordon Armstrong could be reached by phone. Mr. Armstrong expressed the belief that the men were safe and that they would come through all right.

Doctor Fuller, father of John Fuller, who called the Iowa office late last night, from Keokuk, also expressed confidence in the men and was of the opinion that they would pull through all right.

Flyers' Attempt to Break Record Looks Probable

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 21 (AP)—John Henry Mears and B. D. Collyer, globe circlers, completed a non-stop flight from Spokane, Wash., when they landed at World-Chamberlain field here tonight. They left Spokane shortly after 7:30 a.m. Pacific coast time, and arrived here at 7:55 p.m. central standard time.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 21 (AP)—Speeding eastward by airplane today on the last lap of their round the world journey, John Henry Mears and B. D. Collyer, seemed assured of success in their attempt to break the record for circling the globe.

The racers took off from Spokane after a brief stop this morning, with the intention of reaching New York, the goal, by tomorrow noon.

By accomplishing their aim, the Americans would cut more than four days from the existing world record of 28 days held by Linton Wells and Edward Evans, New York newspaper men.

Mears and Collyer landed with their plane from the steamer express of Russia at Vancouver, B. C., at 10:10 o'clock last night after a voyage across the Pacific from Tokyo. The folding wings of their plane were spread and they took off at 3:37 a.m., reaching here at 7:30 a.m.

The plane was quickly refueled and the racers took off for the east. Their route across the continent and their stopping place for the night was uncertain, but it was thought they would attempt to reach Minneapolis.

G.O.P. Judicial State Democratic Conventions Soon

DES MOINES, July 21 (AP)—Outstanding among events of the forthcoming week in Iowa are the republican state judicial convention at Cedar Rapids and the state democratic convention in Des Moines.

The judicial convention is called for July 25 while the democrats will build a platform and elect a new state central committee two days later. It is the function of the republican state judicial convention this year to nominate four candidates for places on the Iowa supreme court bench. These places are now filled by Justices Truman S. Stevens, William D. Evans, James V. Kindig, and Henry F. Wagner.

In the election to be held this year the post now held by Justice Wagner is a short term affair of which the successor must seek the unexpired term of the late C. W. Vermilion. Judge Wagner is in the position by appointment from Governor Hummel. Renomination of all the incumbents will be sought.

B. W. Garrett, clerk of the Iowa supreme court is keynote speaker and temporary chairman of the judicial convention.

The democratic state convention which is to be held at Des Moines coliseum, July 27, will have for its "keynote" and temporary chairman, G. A. Kenworthy of Iowa City, the party nominee for attorney general.

J. T. O'Neil Found Guilty of Slaying

FAIRBURY, Neb., July 21 (AP)—John T. O'Neil, an infant from Council Bluffs, Iowa, was found guilty of second degree murder by a jury in district court here today.

O'Neil was charged with the slaying of an unidentified man in a "hobo" camp near here July 2. The dead man was found, throat slashed, shortly after O'Neil was seen in his company.

O'Neil was arrested and a corner's jury recommended that he be held for trial. To account for his appearance, which showed indications of a struggle, on the day of his arrest, the defendant said he had been held up.

Testimony at the trial was that O'Neil was seen with stranger entering the camp and shortly after he came away, his face and head cut and bleeding. A state witness testified that he saw two men scuffling in the camp.

It is believed the verdict will be appealed.

River Claims Boy

BEDFORD, July 21 (AP)—John Ebdy, nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Ebdy, was drowned in the flood waters of the Hundred and Two river here today. He and his sister were wading in the streets of the town when the boy stepped into a hole five feet deep. A four inch rain fell at Bedford yesterday and another of equal amount early today.

Hoover to Come to Cedar Rapids Week of Aug. 12

Starts Preparation of Campaign Speech for Corn Belt

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., July 21 (AP)—Refreshed by a night of rest at his home here after a six days train ride, Herbert Hoover, was astir early today working on his acceptance speech immediately after breakfast. He was making the first draft of a series of political conferences which he is to have with party leaders from the coast and Rocky mountain states. His first caller was Gov. C. C. Young of California, who was invited to the Hoover home for luncheon and a discussion afterward.

A number of other leaders will be called in next week before Mr. Hoover packs up his bag and with a few associates, leaves for the Redwood district in northern California for a few days of fishing during which he will forget about politics and devote his full attention to his favorite sport.

After receiving official notification of his selection as the republican standard bearer, Mr. Hoover will remain at his home only a few days. He will leave early in the week of Aug. 12, for the return trip east by way of Cedar Rapids, where he will deliver the second address of his campaign. This is expected to be devoted largely to the farm problem since it will be delivered in the heart of the turbulent corn belt.

"Science to Give Farmers Relief," Says Whitmore

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP)—Farm relief will come eventually from science, not politics, Prof. Frank C. Whitmore, director of the Institute of Chemistry of the American Chemical Society, declared today as chemists of America and Europe assembled at Northwestern university for a month's session of the Institute opening Monday.

At present, Professor Whitmore said, farmers depended mainly on the use of their products as food, but may believe science will develop other uses for his produce, opening new markets and giving the agriculturists relief.

The first week's session of the institute will be devoted to agriculture, while other sessions will be devoted to organic chemistry, petroleum research, sanitation, ceramics and one session for chemicals in national defense.

Professor Cornog to Give Illustrated Lecture on Steel

Prof. Jacob Cornog, of the chemistry department, will give an illustrated lecture on "Iron and Steel" tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the chemistry auditorium.

The American Steel and Wire Co. made the moving pictures which will illustrate the production of iron ore blast furnaces, open hearth furnaces, and the rolling of steel. Professor Cornog will experiment with the recalcination of iron. A piece of wire will be heated to a high temperature by electric current then allowed to cool. In the process of cooling and contraction when the wire reaches a certain degree it will again become white hot before assuming its former temperature.

Carranza Given Salute at Border

Star Spangled Banner Played as Train Leaves U.S.

LAREDO, Texas, July 21 (AP)—Mexico's lone eagle today was re-taken to the country from which he flew on a mission of good will that international misunderstandings might be overcome.

Between a solid wall of packed humanity that overflowed into the streets of Laredo and Nuevo Laredo, the body of the late Captain Emilio Carranza was born in highest military honors to the center of the international bridge, where General Jose Amezua, chief of the aviation forces of Mexico, and a squad of picked men waited to receive their former commander who will be laid to rest with Mexico's immortal heroes.

There was a pause of five minutes, in which heads were bared as "taps" sounded the final tribute to the man who lost his life in an attempted non-stop flight from New York to Mexico City after coming to this country to repay the visit of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to Mexico.

General Albert J. Howley, commander of the eight coast areas at San Antonio, did the last official act for the United States government when he placed the only floral offering permitted on the casket.

American troops followed the cortege to Nuevo Laredo station where brief ceremonies were held before the body was sent speeding on to Mexico City. Mexican citizens cheered softly when the Star Spangled Banner was played and again for the national air of Mexico.

Fifty-two army airplanes, sweeping low in the skies and pouring down a constant stream of flowers, hovered over the international bridge as the officials of the two countries united in grief for the fallen flyer. The planes then flew across the border to drop flowers on the funeral train as it departed.

"It was what Captain Carranza would have wanted," General Amezua said of the ceremony. His was a mission of good will. His body has been returned by the careful hands of those who have guarded it since the berry picker found his tattered form in New Jersey. American soldiers are on Mexican soil as a simple courtesy to our country in our bereavement.

LEBANON, Ill., July 21 (AP)—Sara stockings McKenoree college co-eds will be barred from classrooms, Dean E. P. Baker announced today when three summer students displayed legs as nature on the campus. Several women of the century old school said they ignore the ban. Baker said those who persistently faked hose will be sent home.

Jury to Determine Position of Reed

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 21 (AP)—The Winnebago county grand jury will determine whether Paul Reed, 24-year old draftsman, should be held for the slaying of Vernon Plager the Rockford technician who was killed when a bomb exploded in his automobile two days ago.

While the coroner's jury made no recommendations affecting Mrs. Iva Plager, widow of the radio expert who also is held as a suspect, police said they would continue to hold her for the time being.

Hassell Awaits Weather Report Before Take-off

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 21 (AP)—A radio message from icy Greenland will be the signal for the hop off of the airplane "Greater Rockford" on its projected flight to Stockholm, Sweden, Pilot Bert Hassell announced this afternoon after declaring the big monoplane was groomed for the flight and ready to take off the first moment weather conditions were suitable after 10 a.m., tomorrow.

Hassell, who had planned on taking off Monday or Tuesday, said his plane had been gotten in shape sooner than he expected and would be ready for the flight any time after tomorrow. The radio message that will send him off will be a weather report from Greenland where he has arranged a base for his only stop, to refuel. Prof. W. H. Hobbs of the University of Michigan Greenland expedition, will send the message just as soon as Greenland weather appears suitable for the flight.

Both Hassell and Parker Cramer, his navigator and co-pilot, are ready for the trip, the plane has been stocked with clothing and provisions and nothing remains to be done except get satisfactory weather.

Al Smith Meets Trouble Planning for Broadcasting

Radio for Commercial Purposes Bothers Arrangements

ALBANY, N. Y., July 21 (AP)—Difficulties in working out radio broadcasting arrangements are delaying a final decision as to the date for Gov. Smith's nomination and it may be some days before a definite announcement of the time can be made.

The democratic presidential nominee and his political lieutenants want a nation wide hook so that his acceptance speech, which will be delivered from the east steps of the state capitol, will be heard by the voters in all states. Broadcast officials and Smith's managers are working out a schedule, but are finding it difficult to avoid conflicts with commercial broadcasting arrangements which are on a contract basis.

Discussing the situation today with newspapermen, Governor Smith indicated he was not entirely pleased with the progress made so far. He did not go so far as to make it appear that in his judgment he was being discriminated against. He was reminded that there was either a requirement in law or a regulation requiring all candidates for political office to have equal opportunity to utilize radio facilities.

The expectation is that the Smith ceremony will take place during the week of August 19, after both Herbert Hoover and Senator Curtis have been notified officially of their nominations by the republicans. The notification of Senator Robinson as the democratic vice presidential nominee will come a few days after the night ceremony here for Governor Smith.

Until the democratic nominee for president knows exactly when he will be called on to outline his views on campaign issues, it is unlikely he will do any actual work on the preparation of his acceptance speech. He already has assembled material for it, however, and has shaped up the frame work of the address in his mind. He intends to touch on all issues, among them prohibition and farm relief which he regards as of prime importance.

With his campaign organization taking definite form with the appointment of advisory and executive committees which will operate in close conjunction with the democratic national committee in New York, Governor Smith is leaving details largely to these groups of managers. He declined today to comment on the selection of these committees or on their functions.

Southwestern Iowa Operators Decline to Join Association

CENTERVILLE, July 21 (AP)—The southwestern Iowa coal operators association at a meeting today declined to come back into the Iowa coal operators association.

An effort of the Iowa association to gather in other operators' associations throughout the state was decided upon Friday at a conference between George Heaps, Jr., president, and union officials. The united mine workers had announced they would drop their demand for the Jacksonville wage scale. Miners officials said they want to make an agreement with one operators' association.

Obregon Buried; Officials Threaten Labor Secretary

Calles or Saenz to be Provincial President

NOGALES, Ariz., July 21 (AP)—General Alvaro Obregon, assassinated president-elect of Mexico, came home today to a silent demonstration of sympathy and respect, unequalled in all his brilliant earthy career as a soldier and statesman.

Tribe of Sic Yaguils and Mayas, three thousand federal Mexican troops and many thousands of the people of all Mexico were gathered today to meet the body of their chief and escort it to a final resting place.

General Alvaro Obregon, assassinated president-elect of Mexico, came home today to a silent demonstration of sympathy and respect, unequalled in all his brilliant earthy career as a soldier and statesman.

Senora Obregon Collapses

An added touch of tragedy to a scene already almost filled with evidences of grief, was the collapse of Senora Obregon this morning as the funeral train slowly crept into the railroad station at Navajo, Sonora. The widow was inconsolable and an American physician, Dr. V. A. Smelker of Nogales, Ariz., was called to attend her.

The burial of General Obregon in the broad lands bounding the Mayo river will bring him back to a final sleeping place, where, as a boy, he often rested under the trees of the valley. It is the true home of the Obregons and there at the Hacienda de Siquilista, Alvaro was born. All around lie the vast holdings of the man who rose to the premier position of his country but was not proof against an assassin's bullets.

Morones Must Go

What is regarded as a virtual ultimatum to President Calles by Congressman Soto y Gama, agrarian leader close to Obregon and long a fiery figure in Mexican politics, that Luis Morones, minister of labor "must go or there will be actual war" is privately disseminating to elements who are working to spare Mexico from another period of chaos and bloodshed.

Meanwhile despite Soto y Gama's declarations, the army continues to observe discipline and Secretary of War Amaro has issued an appeal to all the revolutionary elements to support the army which he promises will continue loyally to guarantee the maintenance of peace and order.

Religious Feeling High

Whatever foundation or lack of foundation the actual facts might reveal for their relief the Obregon leaders assert the conviction that the political enemies of General Obregon were behind the "religious fanaticism" which the police say was the immediate inspiration of the president-elect's assassin.

The name of Morones is constantly and openly used by Obregon leaders in discussing the assassination. General Obregon and Morones were long political enemies and no expressions that the secretary of labor has made since the assassination lamenting the crime have served to check the feeling against him openly expressed by some of the Obregon leaders. Threats to kill Morones have been made publicly and some of the secretary's friends have advised him to get out of the country quietly if he can.

Much confusion prevails as to when, where and how Jose de Leon Toral, the accused assassin is to be tried. There was much mystery attached to the "Amparo" or restraining order which practically disallowed from being taken for 72 hours. Some unidentified person dropped the application into a letter box. The second district court, as a routine matter, entered the amparo on the amparo on the docket, an action which constitutes an "official acceptance by the court."

Obregon Bloc Dominates

It is the present intention of the "Obregon bloc" which controls congress and at present dominates the political situation to make either President Calles or Aaron Saenz, governor of the state of Nueva Leon, provisional president, taking office when the Calles term expires, Dec. 1. One of the foremost Obregon leaders said that the provisional president presumably would continue in office for two years and then general election would be held. The present indications are that President Calles will be the provisional president.

Chief of Police Antonio Rio Zetche announced tonight that the investigation of the assassination of General Obregon was about completed and that its results would be announced next week.

At that time, he said, the persons responsible will be assigned to the attorney general of the federal district for civil trial. The number of persons to be charged was not announced.

The Traffic Tower

IN part of a single afternoon two police officers find more than thirty motorists driving past the red lights of one stop-and-go signal on Iowa City streets.

What does this mean? Does it seem to indicate that a stop-and-go signal erected to save motorists and pedestrians from injury to body and property is useless? Does it mean that the signal is merely a street ornament? It might indicate that a large number of automobile drivers have never been in a city where such signals are used and thus do not know what the red light of a signal means.

Chief of Police C. F. Benda and his men are to be commended for their drive to clear up the problem. A traffic signal can do much to prevent accidents—only in case it is properly observed at all times.

An occasional motorist dashing madly across when the red light is warning him to stop ruins the value of the signal and endangers lives of pedestrians.

If the motorists who are offended when the officers cite them to court for this traffic violation could realize that it is being done only as a means of protecting the interests of the motorists themselves, there would be fewer arrests from this cause.

Old Textbooks

THE perennial question of what to do with old books is again confronting students. There has always been a great deal of waste in textbook selling, due partly to the fact that textbooks change from year to year, and bookstores feel obliged to buy second hand books at an extremely low price in order to realize a profit.

There are just a few instances in which instructors are sure of their texts for the next year, and in these cases bookstores offer 20 to 40 per cent of the original prices. In fall, the books sell at about 80 to 90 per cent of the cost of a new book. This means a profit of 50 to 60 per cent for the bookstore.

Practically every student on the campus is eager to buy books as cheaply as possible; but due to the fact that the second hand book supply fails to meet the demand, new books must be bought. The reason second hand books do not hold out is that the stores hesitate to risk buying, and students hate to sell so cheaply when bookstores do offer a price.

The first of the conditions could be remedied to a great extent if instructors or heads of departments would make known what books will be changed.

The second can be remedied only by force of economic pressure. Discarded books could be sold for paper, if necessary. Anything is better than lugging them home to fill up the attics, or burning them.

And What of the Ladies?

EVERY woman in the United States is erasing and talking about the wives of the presidential candidates. There is something more to this than idle curiosity.

True, women may talk about the modes of dress, the physical appearance, and the hobbies of these ladies. But, subconsciously they are interested in these details because of the traits of character they indicate. And the character of the first lady of the land is of supreme importance to the women of America.

A wife helps or hinders her husband in his work, although he may be unaware of the fact. The women voters of the nation are aware of it.

The wife of the president may never directly influence the women of the nation, much less be seen by all of them, except through the means of television and photography. Yet, her character and ideals are viewed with as minute observation as the character of her husband. Her interest in social welfare measures may bring her into direct influence.

In either case, the first lady of the land will have her hand on the pulse of the nation.

ONE does not meet very often, in real life, the romantic detective of fiction. The one who examines the finger prints on a ham sandwich, shoves the front door in his pocket, and the next day returns to tell a thrilled world how the town's leading banker committed suicide by biting off his left ear.

Nevertheless, his counterpart is occasionally found, in this mediocre, uneventful world. One man who qualified has not yet risen to the dignity of a professional sleuth. If this gentleman continues to exercise the same intelligence and sincerity in any future cases that may fall his way, he should excel the fantastic exploits of the most skilled man hunter.

A short time ago, Burt Englert, of Chicago, answered an advertisement for a salesman. He was required to post some security with his "employer" to show his good faith. Burt left a liberty bond with the man and promised to return the next day. The following afternoon he discovered that both the man and the bond had departed for regions unknown.

Burt knew nothing about the employer. The man had advertised only by telephone number. The only clue he had to work on was that the man's voice had a peculiar ring over the phone.

Acting on an impulse, Burt bought five dollars worth of nickels and began his search for the absconder. He scanned all advertising carefully and everyone that listed a telephone number, he promptly called. He would listen until he was surprised with voice; then he would hang up.

Sixty-two nickels the amateur detective spent in vain. He listened to all sorts of voices, robust and scrawny, pleasant and harsh. Never, it seemed, would the right one materialize.

Then he deposited the lucky sixty-third. His heart leaped when he heard that voice. Quickly he made an appointment to meet the man; and even more quickly, he notified one of Chicago's official policemen. Together they went to the meeting place and the officer arrested the crook.

You men who can't figure out who it was that borrowed your best tie last Friday night, and your best girl the night following, here's the man to notify. Just let Burt know who you borrowed the tie or the girl from, in the first place, and a solution will promptly be forthcoming.

SOS

PRESUMABLY, as heretofore, Mother Nature will do her part in the fall elections. She will be forced to act as a silent standard bearer for useless placards of those battling for votes.

Ghostly pictures of homely men will be unmercifully hammered on trunks of helpless trees and other such places.

Candidates—judging by those who have filed by—will have no regard for nature. They will go in with the signboards to clutter up hill and valley, cheating men, women, and children out of nature's fullest and freshest beauty.

It is deplorable in this mad race of life that natural beauty is not protected more.

Exit the Scotch Joke
(From The Christian Science Monitor)

With the curtain rung down on the Scotch joke at one of the best-known radio stations in New England, it is likely that other stations will follow suit. The joke has been carried to excess. It has spread, multiplied and appeared in such attenuated forms as weary even the high hearted. Centering itself upon a characteristic of Scotsmen, although by no means confined to that race, it has had a long run and a patient hearing. Few Scotsmen rebelled at a joke at their expense, for it was generally recognized that there was no malicious intent, but the constant repetition of the same subject in different forms reduced the novelty to the vanishing point.

Contrary to a popular misconception, Scotsmen are anything but lacking in humor. The serious cast of countenance is deceptive. Haggart himself has said that the Scots should not be expected both to make the joke and see it. And who is better authority? He knew it took vegetables to make soup, but he declared it was not soup until it boiled. And although all the ingredients of a joke were often set before him, they meant nothing until his humor acted upon them. But the type of joke with which Haggart was identified was altogether different from that which has persisted in the last few years—the joke entirely based upon the habit of thrift. Useful as it has been as a prop to the program of many a humorist, no one will regret its

Mom likes to tell one about an old Dutchman. Her mother asked him why he couldn't say wheat. He wasn't to be accused wrongfully, however. He retorted, "I can say wheat shoot as good as anybody. Sometimes I use wheat dough for it."

Chills and Fever

It is with regret that we announce the departure of John B. Freund, more familiarly known to the readers of this paper as Lino, from the position of columnist. In place of Mr. Freund, who leaves today for parts west, we have secured Roland White, of Marengo, a junior in the university.

Mr. White is spending the summer at his home and will mail his contributions from there daily. He has been a consistent contributor during the past two years, and has written for Frivol. He is much better known by his pen name of "El Mono," than by his own cognomen.—The Editor.

This is Sunday, and you'll have to take a new columnist along with the "rest."

From now on, Chills and Fever is definitely an experiment. For the first time in its history, it is to be run regularly by remote control. Thus, most of my predecessors have exercised only the remotest kind of control, causing the comment "How come ya call it Chiltzeviah when it's so hot?" But now the conductor (what a column really needs is a flagman, not a conductor) resides far beyond the reach of frate profs and other thinking victims of his remarks. "And the columnist, 30 miles away."

You may disbelieve all that, but it's every bit as true as a Lucky strike ad. (How's that for not committing myself?)

The col. is to be conducted by mail (and a male). After killing so much space without saying anything, I have a notion to seek employment at wording the next set of instructions to new students issued by the registrar's office. Perhaps my prose wouldn't have the right rhythm, but it doesn't matter much. But after devouring political statements all summer, I should be able to write so as to be understood by nobody. Oh, I'll qualify for that job, all right!

Perhaps a few hints about this conducting business wouldn't be amiss. All you absolutely need is a typewriter, some paper, and a joke book or two. Perhaps a sense of humor would come in handy, but it's your readers that you want to have that. You might get a leadless pencil for the censor who strikes out things that offend his small town conscience.

Then just glance over the daily papers for ideas. Take a few recent headlines:

"Markets (the sine qua non of which are the butter and egg quotations): 'Corn Gains in Strength.' 'I didn't see the report on onions, the sampsons of the vegetable kingdom.' 'Bolts Starts Airplane Factory.'—He has a good name for the business. Wonder if he's a nut on aviation?"

"Rescued After Forty-two Days"—The pilot crew picture, but what a swell head for a story of the recent graduation. And it's just six weeks more till you get out.

"REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE DISCLOSES ABILITY IN ANGLING"
Some persons discovered that at Kansas City.

Ambassador Morrow certainly has a good name for the land of manana where he represents us.

There's at least one joke that's not mildewed with age. I know, because I was indirectly responsible for its origin. It was a traveling man who glimpsed me at the age of seven to whom credit should go for the famous remark, "Why bring that up?"

Fashion note: The hem on skirt-bottoms has been moved nearer the waist-line again.

There's a fellow in our office who believes in free trade because he thinks it would make him exempt from duty.

It's so much like tossing a coin to bank on his statements that he ought to be called the "weather" man.

The "most unkindest cut of all" is a reduction in wages.

Now for the funniest of all (borrowed, of course): "A grocer's boy carrying a basket of eggs recently was hit by a coal truck. The eggs are expected to live."

Major league managers are now deploring the fact that star players don't grow in the bushes.

As his B. W. Smith would view the so-called campus depravity "It isn't the heat, it's the humidity."

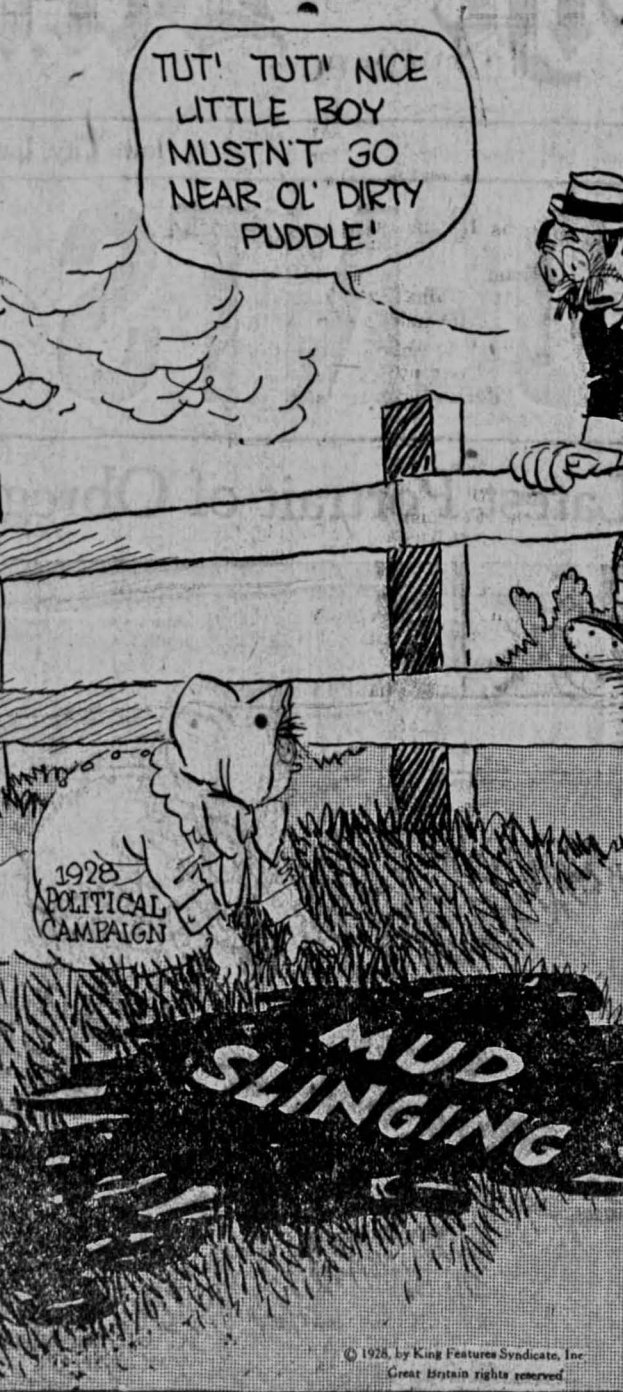

One of these suffering, overworked, self-pitying critters came along the other day, wheezing with apparent effort. "My," sympathized a bystander, "You're getting weak physically, too, aren't you?"

Another local pest always came back, "I don't know, too" if you failed to answer his questions. But he hasn't done it since one day last week when somebody added, "and two."

My stepfather says Grace quirk often at meals. You may think it strange, but you see, Grace is my mother's name.

NOTICES

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY
Candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy are reminded of three routine matters: (1) A thesis topic must be announced and approved before the qualifying examination is taken. (2) The qualifying examination must be taken at least one year before the candidate comes up for the degree. By the term "one year" is meant the equivalent of an academic year's residence on full time, with a definite minimum of 24 semester hours credit as a numerical measure of that residence. (3) The two language requirements must be fulfilled before the qualifying examination is taken.
G. W. STEWART for C. E. SEASHORE, dean.

To All Students in the First Term of the Summer Session
Who Expect to Register for the Second Term
The second term Schedule of Courses and other registration material are ready for distribution. We would be glad if you would call at the Registrar's office, University Hall, for these and so plan your second term registration and complete the filling of the various registration coupons this week; paying your tuition fees near the end of the week, so as to be entirely ready for unobstructed admission to your several classes next Monday and Tuesday.

In this way we will have a somewhat better opportunity to register the new students, who may defer their coming until Sunday or Monday; and the students now on the campus will have the opportunity which this plan presents.

We trust that all who can remain for the second term will be with us again.
H. C. DORCAS, registrar.

TIME LAPSE OF CREDIT IN THE GRADUATE COLLEGE
Experience has shown that the extension of graduate work over an unlimited period of time is impractical. The council of the graduate college in May of this year adopted the following regulation:

"In evaluating credits for the purpose of determining the fulfillment of residence requirements, no credit dating back over ten years shall be counted, and credits dating between five and ten years shall be reduced proportionately."

All graduate students in residence should take notice.
G. W. STEWART for C. E. SEASHORE, dean.

Mrs. Dorland declares that, contrary to most beliefs, South America is not at all uncivilized, and in the large cities the people are as cultured as in this country although not yet so enlightened. "Lady Lindy" to Tell Experiences

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP)—Amelia Earhart discussed her plans for the future today, revealing she had none.

"As soon as I finish with all my welcomes," the first woman to fly 24 hours off to think. Until then my plans are quite indefinite."

At a luncheon for newspapermen and members of her party, she said enough to inform the guests she wants to complete her book about her trans-Atlantic flight before considering much else.

The book will be named "Our Flight in the Friendship" and will be published by G. P. Putnam, New York publisher.

Miss Earhart said she would go to Mr. Putnam's home in Rye, N. Y., to finish her book after completing the reception tour.

Miss Earhart's trans-Atlantic party spent most of the morning flying over Chicago in a trimotored airplane, ignoring a steady downpour and poor visibility for the trip. To top a banquet completed the day's program.

Present plans are that they will leave Chicago by air at 10 o'clock Monday morning for Toledo, O., where another welcoming reception awaits them.

Republicans Plan Womens Campaign

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Organization meetings for republican women will be held in the far west and south, similar to the eastern gathering here and the middle-western conference at Chicago, under plans announced today by Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice-chairman of the republican national committee.

Radio talks by politically prominent women will be included in the republican campaign program, she said. The place and date for the far western and southern meetings have not yet been determined.

In final conferences today at the national committee headquarters before his departure for New York for a meeting on Monday with eastern committee members, Chairman Work received two resolutions of success for the republican ticket from two callers.

Glen B. Skemper, Florida committeeman, said that the Hoover-Curtis ticket would sweep that state with a 50,000 majority "if the election were to be held tomorrow."

Dwight B. Heard, publisher of the Phoenix, Ariz., Republican, reported that in Arizona "things are looking better all the time." Other callers upon Mr. Work included former Senator Weller of Maryland, Joseph O. Thompson, former republican state committee chairman of Alabama, and John Phillip, Postmaster at Dallas, Texas.

The sectional meetings of the republican women leaders were described by Mr. Hert as opportunities for the exchange of "ideas, to compare notes and recommend publicity methods suitable for their particular areas." She added that she does not expect to attend the far western and southern gatherings.

Graphic Outlines of History
EARLY STOCKADES
About the year 1787 when westward expansion started, great bodies of hardy people called "backwoodsmen" were pushing through the far backwoods. Stockades were built around the settlements they founded so that ample protection might be had from Indians. Above is a picture of one of the typical forts set up by these pioneers.

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 21 (AP)—Gene Tunney stands little or no chance of knocking out Tom Heeneey in their fifteen round battle for the world's heavyweight championship in the Yankee stadium next Thursday night, is the unqualified opinion of Tommy Loughran world's light heavyweight champion, and Benny Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight title holder, after watching the rugged New Zealander in a bristling workout this afternoon.

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, Autueil, France, July 21 (AP)—Two horsemen of the American Davis Cup tennis cavalry galloped roughshod throughout the last Italian defenses this afternoon and clinched the right for the United States to play France in next week's challenge round.

Picking up the pace where he left off yesterday, "Smiling John" Hennessey, coupled with George Lott, defeated the Italian pair of Baron Humbert de Morpuzo and Placido Basini whose last hopes of prolonging the inter-zone battle was extinguished in straight sets decided by scores of 6-3, 6-1, 6-2. This result gives America its third decisive victory and removes the remaining two singles matches Sunday to the realm of exhibitions.

Though he reduced boxing from six to four rounds today, two each with his sparring partners, he displayed more ring stuff in these 12 minutes than he has in the past 12 days.

Tunney Hits Hard
Tunney's actions against Harold Mays especially, indicated that he was bent on knocking out the challenger long before the 15 round title battle was half over. For the first time in the past three months, Mays was unable to land one solid punch.

Tunney Different
It was apparent today that Tunney will be a different man against Heeneey than he was in either of his two bouts with Jack Dempsey. Gene was on the defense when he met the Mauler. He had great respect for Dempsey's punches and wanted to avoid being hit.

Independent Nine to Play Ottumwa Today

Encounter to Decide Southeastern Iowa Title Claimant

The Iowa City Independents will face the Ottumwa Giants this afternoon at the city park diamond and if they succeed in turning back the invaders they will have a substantial claim to the southeastern Iowa championship. The Giants will give the locals the classicst opposition they have encountered this season as they are the present claimants of the southwestern title.

Corbin, veteran southpaw, may see action on the mound with Miller at backstop. Lemon, a righthanded twirler from the American Legion nine of Daveport will start the game. He has a reputation as a slow ball artist with a freak delivery.

Allen at Second
The only change in the Iowa City lineup will be the substitution of Allen, University of Iowa infielder, for Lane at second base. Allen made an impressive record in his competition with the Old Gold nine this spring and should fill the position of the veteran without much difficulty.

Rain Hinders Practice
Rain has hindered the practice sessions of the locals the past week but good hitting practices Tuesday and Thursday brought them out of their slump.

For the visitors Bernie Sheehan, righthander, or Bob Sheehan, a southpaw, will take the mound. The Independents' infield will be composed of Seemuth at first, Allen, second, Hogan, third, and Glasgow at short. The outfielders who will start will be Crawford, Koser, and Eastwood. Corbin Lemon and Miller will make up the battery.

Next Sunday the Iowa City pastimers will play Solon. The game today is called for 2:30 p.m. and "Chuck" Seemuth will act as umpire.

Autoists Get Fines for Disregarding Stop-Go Signal

Irving Justice Goes to Jail at Refusal to Pay $1 Fine

Violators of the city ordinance which requires that no automobiles cross an intersection on which the traffic signal shows red, are being brought to a sudden realization that it is not good practice to disregard the light.

Irving J. Justice, 1138 Kirkwood avenue, a Yellow cab driver, who was reported twice yesterday for driving through the intersection with the red light on the signal showing, was taken to jail last night to spend a sentence of three days.

He was given a choice of paying a fine of $1 and costs or the three day sentence. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of violating an ordinance and refused to pay the fine.

Enforcement More Stringent
The drive to enforce the ordinance more stringently began Friday afternoon when Chief of Police C. F. Benda ordered officers to watch the signal and cite all offenders to police court.

Two officers in less than three hours caught 30 offenders, all of whom have been notified to appear in Police Judge Paul E. Custer's court.

Those appearing Saturday morning were fined $1 and costs, which is the minimum fine allowed by law. A more heavy fine will be imposed if the violations continue, the officials announced yesterday.

Up until this time the officers have been warning offenders and only those who have been disregarding it entirely and frequently have been cited to court.

The violations have been increasing, however, and the chief has taken a step toward stopping it.

Those fined yesterday morning were: Mrs. R. L. Patty, Ruth Bywater, Florence Day, Jane Dutcher, Stephen Popoff, all of Iowa City and G. W. Stewart of Lons Tree.

Those paying fines Friday afternoon were: O. A. Mottet, J. H. Polwell, G. W. Beiswanger, Perry J. Oakes, Raymond Kinney, E. G. Gump, Otto Soukup, George Nesbit, Mrs. Ida Yetter, and William Kelley.

Seven of the group entered pleas of not guilty. They are: Irving Smith, who appeared yesterday afternoon, Mr. Justice, who elected to go to jail, Robert Ellis, W. Hal Stewart, Rose Miller, Frances Boyle, and Dr. O. Hyndman.

Local Officials to Mark Letters in First Consignment Chamber of Commerce to Use Cachet on Air Mail

When the first consignment of air mail going under the new rate of five cents for the first ounce leaves here August 1, each letter and piece of mail will be marked with a special rubber stamp or cachet.

Through an arrangement made by the local chamber of commerce through the post office officials, each letter will be stamped with the special mark.

The design was made by D. W. Crum, secretary of the chamber of commerce. It consists mainly of a small cut of the dome of Old Capitol, with a line border of the state of Iowa, showing Iowa City located on the transcontinental air mail route.

Lettering on Stamp
There will also be some lettering on the stamp, giving the reason for the cachet, and giving the location of the city together with a short inscription.

Several thousands of letters have already been received from stamp collectors all parts of the world. These are to be mailed out by the local authorities on the date when the new mail goes. Each of these letters will be stamped with the new cachet.

Letters Go Everywhere
These letters go to every continent and to nearly all of the principal countries of the world. Every state in the union will get a number of the letters bearing the new air mail stamp and the special cachet.

The word "cachet" developed from medieval times when a king marked all his documents and papers with a peculiar stamp. Since that time, and especially within the last few months, the idea has developed rapidly.

On many new air mail routes, and in cases of new stamps being used, collectors of stamps and papers with a special cachet made with which to mark the letters going in the first consignment.

Hoffman in Phillipine Islands; Sees "Southern Cross" Formation of Stars

Mrs. Sarah Hoffman, 530 S. Clinton street, received a letter yesterday from her son, Harry P. Hoffman, which had been mailed from Legaspi, Albany, Phillipine Islands June 8.

Mr. Hoffman is now a petty officer on the steamer, Ethan Allen, which is now on its way back from a trip to Shanghai.

The ship was leaving Legaspi for the island of Ilo Ilo. It originally came from New Orleans, at which place Hoffman boarded it. The trip to Shanghai was made by way of the Panama canal.

A big 8,000 foot volcano was erupting while Hoffman was at Legaspi.

When writing the letter, as leaving Legaspi, the ship was passing into a region a few degrees north of the equator where the famous "Southern Cross," for which the airplane which has been in the line-light the last few months was named.

It is made up of four very brilliant stars so arranged that they appear as a cross. This arrangement is the guiding power for explorers seeking the Antarctic pole and all navigators in the southern waters. It is visible only a few degrees north of the equator. Mr. Hoffman was very enthusiastic about the sight.

After leaving here last November Hoffman obtained work on a boat leaving New Orleans for Europe. He spent several months there and returned in time for the Mardi Gras this spring.

He graduated from the liberal arts college of the university in 1926 and since that time has been studying in the law college. He expects to return to take up his work as a senior law student next fall.

Country Students Win Prize With Illustrated Primer

Five students from two townships in Johnson county are winners in the contest for five-year old students, which was based on a book compiled by two former university students, H. C. Moore of the State Teachers College of Cedar Falls and Thomas J. Torrey, superintendent of schools at Grundy Center. This elementary text book, "First Days of School" was made especially for five-year old students, and was used throughout the Johnson county rural schools during the last spring term.

The winners of the first prize in the contest were: Alton Ashlock, Billy Barnes, Adamae Zahner, and Hal Knowling, all of No. Five Township school. These students attended school only fifty days during the spring term. The winner of the second prize was Edwin Melska of Jefferson Township District, No. One.

The object of the contest was to take the detachable cards with "fundamental words from the speaking vocabulary, and to make of them an illustrated primer. A total of one hundred and fifty primers were judged by the committee, consisting of Mrs. A. T. Rowe of Tiffin, Carrie Willinbrook and Sister Eulalia, of the Casgrove Consolidated School.

The primer which took first place was largely illustrated by original colored drawings and tracings.

The prizes were offered by Superintendent W. N. Leeper were: a choice to the teacher of the winning pupils of one from fifty teachers' professional books; and a book suitable to grade and age to the pupil.

Council to Hear Objections From Property Owners

Paving Addition Will Affect Nine Blocks, Four Streets

Objections to the smaller part of the 1928 paving program of Iowa City will be heard next Thursday night when the city council meets to complete the approving of the project.

After letting a $79,000 contract for paving parts of 12 streets and five alleys at a meeting July 6, the council laid out a program for paving on nine blocks of four more streets, property holders who may have objections to this can voice their approval or disapproval at the meeting Thursday night when the council will meet for that purpose.

To Open Bids
The council will also consider bids on this addition to the first group of paving at the meeting Thursday. Bids will be required for both concrete and brick paving and other usual specifications. If the prices are favorable and if property holders desire, the paving chosen may be brick.

On several streets having heavy traffic and on several which the adjoining property holders so desired, concrete was used in preference to the brick. Concrete, however, was used on the major portion of the paving in the first contract let.

Work on the paving is to start August 1, and be completed by Oct. 31, according to the contract. The William Horrah company of Iowa City received the first contract, having made the lowest bid on both the brick and concrete paving.

The streets affected by the new program to be considered Thursday night are:

Four Streets Affected
McLean street, from Person avenue to Beldon avenue, pavement 24 feet wide, with curb and gutter. Myrtle avenue, from paving on Riverside drive to paving on Melrose court, 19 feet west of the east side of Lot 20, Brookland place.

Rains Spoil Travel Over Eastern Iowa

With the more or less continuous rainfall the last four days, roads not hard surfaced have become difficult to travel and in many places impassable.

On No. 32 to West Liberty, the detour has become hard to travel unless the cars are equipped with chains. Two miles of paving have been opened to traffic, and the detour is thus shortened, but that remaining has been made bad by the excessive rains.

Most thoroughfare to Davenport has been through Tipton and West Branch.

The road to Des Moines has been marred by detours at Grinnell and at Brooklyn. The former has been improved slightly and was passable yesterday although it was very slippery.

Most motorists going to Dubuque have been going through Monticello in order to miss the detour at Anamosa.
