

SAVE TIME!
Send Your Letters by Air Mail

SCOFFLAWS SQUELCHED!
New York sponge squad padlocks
26 Broadway Night Clubs.
See page 4

Volume 28 6 PAGES An Aggressive, Progressive Daily Newspaper Iowa City, Iowa, Friday, August 3, 1928 Full Lined Wire Reports of The Associated Press FIVE CENTS Number 58

POLISH PLANE HOPS OFF FROM PARIS

Steamer Rescues British Trans-Atlantic Flyers Takes Off Against Advice of Officials

Drifting Plane Found 650 Miles From Coast

Courtney Directs Searchers by Radio From His Wave Tossed Plane in Mid-Atlantic

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—After drifting helplessly in mid-ocean, sending occasional radio messages to guide searching ships, Captain Frank T. Courtney and his three flying companions were rescued by the steamer Minnewaska today in the flying boat in which they had attempted a flight from the Azores to Newfoundland.

A wireless message from the liner at 4 p. m., announced that another tragedy of the air and ocean had been averted. The sturdy plane had been located 650 miles northwest of Horta, where it took off, and about 766 miles southeast of Cape Race. It was drifting 275 miles northwest of the point where the Italian flyer, De Pinedo, was picked up last summer after a forced landing en route from Newfoundland to the Azores.

Gives Position

When the flying boat, which had taken off from the Azores for Newfoundland late yesterday, was forced down, Courtney sent out a radio distress call giving his position as 43 north 41 west. A dozen ocean liners turned from their courses to race to the rescue, but when the first of them arrived at the position given, the Courtney plane could not be found. Hours of silence from the distressed plane after its landing led to the general fear that its radio had gone out of commission after its one cry for help, but the steamer Acathina got in direct communication with the plane again just before noon and was given the new position of 42.20 north and 39.40 west. This indicated that the plane had drifted steadily to the northeast since its landing, and was almost 190 miles from its first position.

Message Disperses Fears

The second message from Courtney dispelled fears aroused by failure of radio messages to find him at the landing position given and in silence of his radio, and caused general confidence that the British flyer would be able to direct the searching steamers to his rescue. Accompanying Courtney are E. N. Homer, wealthy Montreal banker of the flight, Fred Pierce, mechanic, and E. W. Gilmour, wireless operator. A later message from the steamer Minnewaska to the radio marine corporation, sent at 6 p. m., eastern daylight savings time, announced that Courtney and his crew had been taken aboard the steamer and that all was well.

Rescued Captain Courtney and his crew from their plane and all is well," the message said.

The steamer, which is westward bound and due to reach New York next Monday, gave its position at the time as latitude 42.27 north, longitude 39.55 west.

The history of Capt. Frank T. Courtney's attempts to fly the Atlantic is one long succession of disappointments and misfortunes.

He first announced that he intended to try the ocean flight on April 5 of last year. In June his flying boat was ready but weather delayed a takeoff.

Plane Smashes

From then on, his hopoff was announced and countermanded almost daily. At last a start was made with diminished fuel supply and a safe landing made in Spanish waters, whence it was planned to fly to the Azores and thence to America. But the plane was smashed in a collision with a steamer.

Captain Courtney kept his hopes alive during the winter, however, and this spring began planning again, with a new flying boat. He made most of his preparations at Pisa, Italy, and flew to Lisbon, Portugal, on June 12. On June 23 he took off from Lisbon and successfully negotiated the flight to Horta in the Azores. There, delay again became the order and necessary repairs and foul weather held him up until yesterday, when he began the flight to Newfoundland which ended when he was forced to land in mid-ocean and radioed for help.

Franco's Plane in Tow to Cadiz

MADRID, Aug. 2 (AP)—Captain Ramon Franco's hydro-airplane, Numancia, damaged in a forced landing off the Portuguese coast yesterday, soon after starting on a world flight, was being towed by a sailing boat tonight from Heulva to Cadiz. It is understood that the flight will be renewed, but that the start will be delayed until some time in September.

The plane's hull was damaged badly when it struck the water with great force, after descending from a height of 90 feet. The bottom of the hull was ripped open and its supports broken. Yet in spite of its condition the plane managed to reach Heulva, about 100 miles away.

The "Chase" Continues By Quin Hall

Jury Investigates Election Frauds

Loesch Impatient to Get Coroner's Testimony

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—An inquiry regarding the intimidation of witnesses was begun today by the special grand jury investigating election irregularities.

Steger Reinstated

With the announcement of the investigation, word was received that the grand jury's special investigator, John Steger, former deputy chief of detectives under Mayor Dever, had been reinstated as a captain of police. Judge Joseph D. David quashed the order of the civil service commission, dismissing Steger on charges that he had joined the police under false pretenses and also misapprehended the name, Steger instead of Stegge.

Coroner Before Jury

In response to a subpoena, Coroner Oscar Wolff went before the special grand jury to tell of the list of deputy coroners to whom "courtney stars" have been issued. He declined to tell reporters whether any of the men indicted for political crimes are on the list—a question he was expected to answer to the grand jury.

Committee Holds Business Meeting

A meeting of the special business and building committee of the state board of education was held in Old Capitol yesterday, with E. P. Schoenberger of Council Bluffs, chairman of the committee, and George T. Baker of Davenport, president of the board, the out-of-town members in attendance. J. M. Fisk, superintendent of grounds and buildings, is also a member of the committee, though not a member of the state board of education.

Miners Attempt Settlement

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—The first joint conference of the newly formed sub-wage scale committees of the Illinois miners and operators adjourned today without reporting what progress, if any, had been made toward reaching a new working agreement for the Illinois coal fields. The joint wage scale party will continue daily until a settlement has been reached or until an agreement appears impossible.

Lowden Supporter Bolts to Camp of Nominee Al Smith

Politicians Discuss Farm Questions Two Hours

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—In his fight for the presidency, Governor Smith gained an ally today from the corn belt—George N. Peek of Illinois, one of the champions of the McNary-Haugen bill, which was frowned on by the Coolidge administration.

Peek announced that he had bolted the republican party to enlist under the Smith banner after his and the democratic nominee had discussed the farm question for two hours.

Immediately after their conference, which took place over a breakfast table in the governor's suite at the Baltimore, Smith reaffirmed his intention, if elected, of calling on the best minds for advice in the shaping of a farm relief program. He mentioned Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, as one of the republicans he would like to consult.

Platform Favor Control In his statement, the governor reiterated that he would discuss the farmer's problem at length in his acceptance speech, and observed that "control of the sale of agricultural surplus is recognized by our platform as an essential need, its cost to be imposed on the unit to be benefited."

"That principle is fixed by our platform, on which I stand."

"Peek, who supported Lowden for the republican presidential nomination, came out for Smith formally after he had visited Chairman Ransford of the democratic national committee at campaign headquarters late in the day.

"Certain of Smith" As a result of my conference with Governor Smith this morning," he dictated to newspapermen, "I feel certain that he has a clear and correct understanding of the farm problem, and that he will solve it with intellectual honesty if he is elected president."

"Upon the strength of his statement to me, as epitomized in his public statement this morning, I shall support his candidacy for president."

In his formal statement Peek then said he had been asked what he thought would be the effect of Mr. Hoover's forthcoming statement on agriculture in his speech of acceptance, and added:

"I think that no campaign promise which Mr. Hoover now makes for the purpose of placating himself in the good graces of the farmer will obliterate his past record from the memory of grain and livestock producers, many of whom have lost or are in the process of losing their homes."

Chemists Invent Deadly Explosive

Same Compound Will Counteract Gas Attacks

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Science may now develop a terrific war weapon which will explode when poured on water, and of the same compound it can manufacture an absolute defense against poison gas.

The compound which contains "such active possibilities was explained today to be the institute of the American chemical society.

"Most persons in a civilized country know hydrogen peroxide," said Dr. C. R. Kokatnur, consulting chemist of Arlington, N. J. "It has become a household necessity as a harmless disinfectant and antiseptic."

"It may be described as being composed of two parts: an oxide head and hydrogen trunk. If this oxide head of the hydrogen peroxide is attached to a trunk of a different genus, such as one severed from organic compounds, we get organic peroxide."

"Some of these peroxides will explode with terrific force—even in water, and when it is recalled that most of our present explosives are useless when dampened, the importance of the compound is easily realized. When the farmer has to uproot stumps in under water areas, he is confronted with intricate and expensive dynamiting. Yet by merely pouring the proper peroxide in the water around the stump and igniting it, he would blow up the most stubborn root."

The doctor said while the chemical could be used to manufacture deadly gases it could be made to counteract gas attacks. Mustard gas, when treated with peroxide becomes tame. Clouds of it might be sent up to stop a gas attack in times of war.

Cedar Rapids Man Missing From Home

CEDAR RAPIDS, Aug. 2 (AP)—Search was made here today for Edward Kula of Solon, who has been reported missing since he left the Victor Breza farm near Solon yesterday after having received threatening letters.

Kula, a brother, came here today after being notified by garage men that the missing man had left his automobile here. Edward had said he intended to visit his parents at Prairieburg.

The missing man, who is about 25 years old, had received at least four threatening letters warning him to cease his attentions toward a girl.

City Should Own Airport, Declares W. J. MacKenzie

Municipal Operation Now Becoming Popular

Airports should be owned by cities in which they are located, is the belief of W. J. MacKenzie, airport expert of the department of commerce, who was here yesterday inspecting the local airport and who gave the address at the Rotary luncheon at the Jefferson hotel.

City docks and public highways are operated and controlled by the municipality and an airport should be the same.

The air commerce act of 1926 suggested this by providing that city airports shall not be owned or operated by the federal government and providing for the transfer of municipalities of the airports which had been established by the post office department.

Municipal Airports Important Besides emphasizing the importance of the municipal airport, Mr. MacKenzie told of the recent great developments in the building of airports throughout the country.

Growth of the passenger business will result in use of larger, more expensive types of aircraft, Mr. MacKenzie said, and these are two reasons why our ports should be larger and better equipped.

Another aspect of aviation which calls for improved and increased area of airports is the large number of privately owned and operated planes which are coming out. Airplane factories are now demanding more room for testing purposes and the speaker said he believed that within a short time there will be a demand for space for dealers at nearly every port.

Chinese Student Speaks Hsi Cheah Lin, a university student from China, gave a short talk of his native country, dwelling on the conditions at the present time as they affect the United States.

Proceeding Mr. MacKenzie's talk, Jeanette Smith gave two violin solos, with Helen Coffey playing the piano accompaniment.

Fred J. Seaman read the week's contribution to the fund-up. It was written by Thomas Farrell.

Senator-Elect, Vare Subject of Stroke

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP)—United States Senator-elect William S. Vare, of Philadelphia was reported weak and only partially conscious in bulletins from the bedside tonight.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP)—The condition of William S. Vare of Philadelphia, United States Senator-elect, seriously ill at his home here, was said to be unchanged tonight by his daughter, Beatrice Vare.

Dr. Ellwood R. Kirby of Philadelphia, Mr. Vare's personal physician who hurried here from Philadelphia this morning, was expected to return to his patient later tonight. Miss Vare said this evening that in the meantime no other physician had attended her father.

Doctor Kirby announced that Vare suffered a paralytic stroke which deprived him of the use of his left arm and leg, and, temporarily, of his speech. He was stricken at 10:30 p. m.

Head of Philosophy to Lecture Monday

Prof. Jesse H. Housner, head of the philosophy department at Swarthmore college, Swarthmore, Pa., will lecture on "The Meaning of Patriotism" next Monday at 8 p. m. in the chemistry auditorium. Professor Holmes, who has just returned from a year in the Orient, will also conduct a round table conference in the Senate chamber of Old Capitol at 4 p. m. Monday, on "Philosophy of Religious Ethic and West."

"In view of Count Keyserling's recent interpretation of the Oriental mind, Professor Holmes' lectures should prove of particular interest," says Bonno Tapper, acting head of the philosophy department.

Excursion Depends on Weather Outlook

The condition of the weather and roads will determine whether or not the trip to Keokuk and Port Madison will be made Saturday, according to Prof. Charles E. Young, director of the excursion. Taxicabs have been engaged, but there are a number of detours and considerable dirt road to cover.

Telephone numbers of those going have been taken in order that they may be promptly notified in case it is necessary to cancel the trip.

Council Backs Up on Air Regulation

DES MOINES, Aug. 2 (AP)—Des Moines' new aircraft safety ordinance, passed this week to forbid the operation of unlicensed planes or flying by unlicensed pilots within the city limits, was withdrawn for consideration by the city council today after local aviators denounced it as discriminatory.

Burd and Harold White, local flyers, declared that the clause forbidding unlicensed plane and pilots is contrary to air commerce regulations for non-commercial aviators.

American Legion Band Gives Free Campus Concert

Under the auspices of the merchants of Iowa City, the American Legion band presented the second free summer band concert on the steps of the liberal arts building at 7:30 p. m. yesterday. Approximately 200 persons attended.

The program was as follows: March, "The Invader," by Southwell; overture, "Operatic Mingle," by Berry; popular number, "Rain," by Ford; Serenade, "A Night in June," by King; novelty number, "Shady Sue," by Skaggs; overture, "Southern Melodies," by Hayes; an old favorite, "There's a Long, Long Trail," by Elliott; march, "Mt. Healthy," by Beans; popular number, "Ramona," by Wayne; "Stars and Stripes Forever," by Sousa.

Des Moines Milk Fight Still Unsettled

DES MOINES, Aug. 2 (AP)—The close of the two days of litigation in the city milk inspector controversy failed to bring a decision from Judge Herman Zeuch today as to whether Mayor John MacVicar is guilty of contempt of court.

Ordering the hearing to continue for a third session, Judge Zeuch indicated that he would probably determine tomorrow if the mayor violated the injunction in which he was forbidden to discharge Inspector W. B. Barney, Jr.

The merits of Barney's discharge were the principal issue today, and the question of whether the injunction order issued by Judge Lester Thompson, is valid due to technicalities in its filing, will not be argued until tomorrow. It is on this point that members of the city legal staff, appearing in defense of the mayor, hope to clear him of the contempt charges.

THE WEATHER

IOWA—Unsettled Friday, probably showers in east and central portions; cooler in south and extreme east portions; Saturday partly cloudy; somewhat warmer in extreme west and north central portion and in extreme southeast portions.

Lowest temperature Wednesday night, 72; temperature at 7 a. m. yesterday, 76; highest temperature yesterday, 96; temperature at 7 p. m. yesterday, 85. A slight trace of precipitation was registered at 10:10 a. m. yesterday, not enough to be measured. Readings made by Prof. John F. Reilly, official government observer.

Unofficial temperature at midnight, 67. Moonset today 6:55 a. m. Sunrise 5:02 a. m. Sunset 7:22 p. m. Moonrise 9:01 p. m.

Showers

The Daily Iowan

Published every morning except Monday the entire year by Student Publications, Incorporated, at 124-130 Iowa Avenue, Iowa City, Iowa.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Iowa City, Iowa.

Subscription rates: By carrier, $5.00 for 12 months; by mail, $5.00 for 12 months. Single copies 5 cents.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the reproduction of all news dispatches credited to it or otherwise credited in this paper, and also the local news published herein.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES
Roy Barnhill, Inc., 40 E. 34th St., New York; 410 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.; Colgate Special Advertising Agency, Inc., 503 Fifth Ave., New York; 612 N. Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

TELEPHONES: Editorial Office, 2523; Business Office, 250, 291.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES
Frank L. Mott, chairman; Eben MacEwen; Raymond E. Kirtledge; Sidney G. Witter; Roy F. Porter; Herschel G. Langdon; James E. Carroll; Frederic A. Schaefer; John D. Falvey.

EDITORIAL STAFF
HARRY E. BYRD, Editor
Ralph P. Young, Managing Editor
Virgil L. Lewis, City Editor
Grace Clark, Campus Editor
Louis M. Rich, Sports Editor
Marjorie Gilbert, Society Editor
Louise E. Wolk, Alumni Editor
John B. Freund, Columnist

BUSINESS STAFF
William T. Habel, Business Manager
Francis J. Tobin, Circulation Manager
Ages W. Schmidt, Accountant
Louis M. Rich, Advertising Assistant
William Thompson, Advertising Assistant

Friday, August 3, 1928

NIGHT NEWS EDITOR
Maurice Crabb

A Progressive Move

An ordinance forbidding unlicensed pilots to operate airplanes over the city of Des Moines was passed by the council Wednesday. The operation of unlicensed planes is also prohibited and violators will be fined $100 or sent to jail for 30 days.

Des Moines authorities are to be congratulated upon this forward step they are taking in promoting aviation. Some might consider it a hindrance to aviators, but it is nothing less than a boost for this new phase of activity.

Less than a month ago, a serious crash destroyed a plane at Des Moines and seriously injured the occupants. It was clearly the fault of the pilot, who was not a capable flyer.

People who read of occasional accidents to planes are prone to feel pessimistic about aviation and to declare that the industry will never become successful.

On the contrary, statistics show fewer persons killed by planes than by automobiles, considering the number. Most casualties from airplane crashes are the result of experiments of foolhardy stunts of inexperienced flyers who should not be allowed to handle a plane.

The federal government might well follow the example of the Des Moines city council, and outline a set of laws restricting operation of airplanes by inexperienced persons.

We have arrived at a critical point in the greatest of all phases of travel and transportation. Already, regular routes have been set up and airplanes are winging their way across the continent both day and night, carrying mail, express, and passengers.

Factories are being established in many cities, and several universities have included courses in aeronautics in their curricula. People everywhere are intensely interested in any kind of flying, and commercial aviation projects are booming.

We cannot let a few persons who insist upon risking their own lives, as well as those of their neighbors, wreck the faith in aviation which it has taken so many years to build up—which men like Lindbergh worked so hard to perfect and advance.

A Job for John

THE days of leisure and idleness have come to an end for John Coolidge, son of the president. Now that he has graduated from Amherst, his father is canvassing openings for him to go to work with no more delay. Whatever business he takes up, he will take up very soon, leaving him only a very short time to enjoy the sunshine and the breezes of Cedar Island lodge.

How different this from the story of some of our wealthy citizens whose sons have graduated from college. No trip to Europe for John, no dallying in society, no posing as "son of the President." He has received his education and is supposedly able to make his way in the world; the next thing is to find a suitable job.

The sturdy New England puritans have no space on their family program for loafers or parasites, and the Coolidges are of this industrious type who have always worked for whatever they had. Mr. Coolidge "chooses" that his son shall do the same. Though busy as any man in the nation, he is concerning himself with John's future work and canvassing openings which seem attractive.

Some fathers sidestep the problem with which Mr. Coolidge is grappling. They are "too busy" to trouble themselves and say, "He doesn't need to work for a while. Let him play around a year or so." When they do have time to look about, the son has formed such idle and pernicious habits that he is of no use to anyone.

A parent's duty to his child is not completed with feeding, clothing, and educating him up to a certain age. It continues till the youth has been fairly launched in some business or occupation. Even then the young may profit by heeding advice from their elders.

Mr. Coolidge is setting an example which all fathers might copy. Who is better fitted to help and advise the young man than the father? He has had more experience, knows something of the advantages of different lines of work, and usually is acquainted with persons in each field of activity. He also knows his son's traits of character, his tastes and his habits, and surely ought to be an invaluable assistant to the boy choosing a vocation.

John Coolidge will not have the easiest time in the world. Because of his father's prominence, he will be subjected to more severe criticism than will other young men. People will expect more of him, just as they expect more of ministers' sons and deacons' daughters. It isn't quite fair, but it is the way of the world.

Mr. Coolidge will not ask nor expect favors for John, but will want John to stand squarely on his own feet, as much as though he were the son of any private citizen. And this is right.

In a democracy such as ours the criterion is not "Who is your father?" but "How well do you do your work?"

John Coolidge will not have the easiest time in the world. Because of his father's prominence, he will be subjected to more severe criticism than will other young men. People will expect more of him, just as they expect more of ministers' sons and deacons' daughters. It isn't quite fair, but it is the way of the world.

Mr. Coolidge will not ask nor expect favors for John, but will want John to stand squarely on his own feet, as much as though he were the son of any private citizen. And this is right.

In a democracy such as ours the criterion is not "Who is your father?" but "How well do you do your work?"

Sound-Proof Apartments

APARTMENT flat dwellers will sooner or later thank the government for the work which its scientists are doing in devising sound-proof floors and walls. A complete building set up by the bureau of standards is being constantly altered to test the acoustics of different materials and constructions. Many kinds of partitions have been tried and it has been found that air space between the walls is the best deadener of sound. Absorbent plaster can reduce noise. Unlined doors between rooms will not conduct sound if they are covered with layers of hair felt and wall board. Floor supports of padding, cork or rubber, and suspended ceilings make the footsteps upstairs less audible.

Modern apartment houses are models of construction and design, but the sound-proof element has so far been lacking. This fact has led occupants to vacate, after having their slumbers disturbed by the incessant wailing of the Smith baby next door.

Consider the varied types of humanity housed together under one roof in a modern apartment house. There is the tired business man on one hand, living next door to the young artist who invites his friends in for an all night frolic, with the phonograph grinding out jazz through the wee, small hours. There are the spinsters across the hall from the young married woman who hurls bitter words at her spouse when he comes straggling home from a poker game at 3 a.m.

It will be a great boon to apartment dwellers when transmission of sound is controlled so that complete privacy and comfort may be maintained.

Modern apartment houses are models of construction and design, but the sound-proof element has so far been lacking. This fact has led occupants to vacate, after having their slumbers disturbed by the incessant wailing of the Smith baby next door.

Consider the varied types of humanity housed together under one roof in a modern apartment house. There is the tired business man on one hand, living next door to the young artist who invites his friends in for an all night frolic, with the phonograph grinding out jazz through the wee, small hours. There are the spinsters across the hall from the young married woman who hurls bitter words at her spouse when he comes straggling home from a poker game at 3 a.m.

It will be a great boon to apartment dwellers when transmission of sound is controlled so that complete privacy and comfort may be maintained.

Tabloid Editorials

The test of generosity is the ability to contribute cheerfully to a worthy cause even though a tightwad does the collecting.

The Tammany tiger is likely to have its tail twisted frequently during the campaign.

With Other Editors

At every other house I would stop, knock, mop my forehead, and brush the hair out of my eyes. Usually no one was at home, the bill-paying member of the household was out, or I was out—of luck. Oh, money, money!

The Presbyterian minister asked me my denominational preference. It didn't take me long to inform him—"Bills, the bigger the better."

Before long I wandered into the municipal building in search of the constable. In a dingy downstairs room I discovered a Velvet can, a bottle, several cigar and cigarette "snipes," and some playing cards strewn over a large table. The scene brought tears to my eyes as my memory recalled the college room of a senior law who was expelled last year.

In front of the domicile of authority was a drinking fountain, evidently for sick folks—at least the alleged water was hot.

This fact doesn't indicate more than an average crossroads, but there are over half a dozen filling stations there.

At four o'clock I deposited the $22.13 there was to show for my day's work and hit the turnpike for home. "Hit" really isn't expressive enough. My racing bike bounced and jumped, and heavingly crashed into its own layers of freshly laid rock in its non-stop plight. At a conservative estimate of four bumps to the foot, I absorbed about $4,487 jolts over the four miles of, or—well, let's glorify it and call it a road. The bike escaped unharmed, but then it had a human shock absorber inside it. I had visions of Sloan's liniment and arnica. At least people wouldn't think me impolite for sitting down for a few days.

If the entire race were subjected to torture like that, nature would take care of the need by having babies born with cushioned seats or anti-bump callouses.

It may be dangerous how to bet on the outcome of the marathon, but I'll bet Nurni is in for the Finnish.

Very often a man will be brought up for membership who will not raise the standards of the house in his present stage of development, but is 17 or 18 years old and still in the formative stage. If he seems to have possibilities for development in the sought direction, he may be pledged anyway. The wise organization does not quibble much about table manners, about dress, or that bugaboo to membership chairmen—uncomfortable bearing among rushers.

Pre-Rushing Thoughts

With the first official rushing days just six weeks off, fraternity and sorority membership chairmen and rushing captains as they are variously called, are actively seeking recommendations of promising prospects from their alumni and active members, and then hunting up the prospects to get dates with them.

In the excitement of the six rushing days, Sept. 12 to 17 inclusive, many fraternities will force decisions for which they will be later sorry, and many guileless freshmen will give in and later regret their acceptance. They always do—both parties.

But this matter of getting recommendations and references (the stage most houses are in) is rather interesting. Membership chairmen will sooner or later discover that all freely-given recommendations are made for one of two reasons: either the one making the recommendation believes the organization will be benefited by having that particular person in its membership, or he believes that the person he is recommending will be benefited by being a member of the society.

It's up to the membership chairman to separate his recommendations into these two groups; often he can't do this until he has seen the man, and sometimes it is difficult and almost impossible to tell where the line comes even then. But a fraternity obviously is not looking for men to benefit, it is selfishly (although properly so) looking for men who will be strong members, men who will build up the house, men who will be active on the campus, men who will be scholars, men who will be good fellows.

The campus standing of a fraternity is principally determined by the character of its members. It's the duty of the membership chairman to see that the organization pledges freshmen who will exemplify the type of character the fraternity aims to be judged by.

Very often a man will be brought up for membership who will not raise the standards of the house in his present stage of development, but is 17 or 18 years old and still in the formative stage. If he seems to have possibilities for development in the sought direction, he may be pledged anyway. The wise organization does not quibble much about table manners, about dress, or that bugaboo to membership chairmen—uncomfortable bearing among rushers.

Very often a man will be brought up for membership who will not raise the standards of the house in his present stage of development, but is 17 or 18 years old and still in the formative stage. If he seems to have possibilities for development in the sought direction, he may be pledged anyway. The wise organization does not quibble much about table manners, about dress, or that bugaboo to membership chairmen—uncomfortable bearing among rushers.

Chills and Fever

Collecting More Bruises Than Money

Before you finish this, you may think I borrowed some from Dante. But there's some consolation about these collection trips. We've a snippy bookkeeper, an officious little dinnner who makes absence from headquarters a pleasure. (Please remember that truth is stranger than fiction, especially to Chills and Fever.)

Those of you who had to make your getaway from small Iowa towns had better stop right now, for I'm going to expose everything from the squeaky town pump to the mourners' bench in front of the solitary department store. I'd hate to make anybody homesick by mentioning the horseshoe pitching courts, you know.

This large man is the original of "The Old Home Town." Its business section lines the main drag on both sides for a block. On the side that's shady in the afternoon is a peewee two-story shack wedged into a row of similar structures. The store is painted green, a cream coating glazes it from the remainder of the building. The windows upstairs have different make-ups. One is cracked and spots of green shade; the other is disguised with a layer of dirt.

But it's the signs on the shop front that catch your eye. In various shades and ages of gray they proclaim:

Furniture Rep. and Upholstering
Auto and Car-Tain Rep
SAW FILING
SHOE DYEING
AND Shoddering

The unorthodox lettering includes mixed sizes of caps and a generous sprinkling of lower case letters.

But I didn't spend all my time staring at the scenery. The people I talked on must have been visited recently by an epidemic of aluminum, hoodlery, and magazine salesmen. All most of them had lost some money and their confidence in agents.

"Alibi Ike" wouldn't have been a bit conspicuous in that community. Nearly everyone had an airtight excuse. Ten years ago there was a subscription contest, and the winner of the car seems to have given everybody in town a subscription—and the paper kept on coming. Of course, they read it—what else was there to do with it? Several assured me that they'd said "STOP!" and, unlike the modern flapper, they meant it.

Others had "jest took an' spent all our change," and didn't have any loose cash. Their idea of farm relief (or tired or retired comprow jockeys) was not to be relieved on their money, apparently.

Before long I felt the urge of nature and led me to the cafe for a final. I got there just in time to miss the last regular order. Would I have a small steak? Yes, anything. Ten minutes later the proprietor's son informed me that they had no more small steaks, and would a hamburger sandwich do? Yes, yes, just so I could give my jaws their noonday exercise. Believe me, they got it.

And so to work again. After walking all over it, I decided that the town was a pretty big place for the size of it.

At every other house I would stop, knock, mop my forehead, and brush the hair out of my eyes. Usually no one was at home, the bill-paying member of the household was out, or I was out—of luck. Oh, money, money!

The Presbyterian minister asked me my denominational preference. It didn't take me long to inform him—"Bills, the bigger the better."

Before long I wandered into the municipal building in search of the constable. In a dingy downstairs room I discovered a Velvet can, a bottle, several cigar and cigarette "snipes," and some playing cards strewn over a large table. The scene brought tears to my eyes as my memory recalled the college room of a senior law who was expelled last year.

In front of the domicile of authority was a drinking fountain, evidently for sick folks—at least the alleged water was hot.

This fact doesn't indicate more than an average crossroads, but there are over half a dozen filling stations there.

At four o'clock I deposited the $22.13 there was to show for my day's work and hit the turnpike for home. "Hit" really isn't expressive enough. My racing bike bounced and jumped, and heavingly crashed into its own layers of freshly laid rock in its non-stop plight. At a conservative estimate of four bumps to the foot, I absorbed about $4,487 jolts over the four miles of, or—well, let's glorify it and call it a road. The bike escaped unharmed, but then it had a human shock absorber inside it. I had visions of Sloan's liniment and arnica. At least people wouldn't think me impolite for sitting down for a few days.

If the entire race were subjected to torture like that, nature would take care of the need by having babies born with cushioned seats or anti-bump callouses.

It may be dangerous how to bet on the outcome of the marathon, but I'll bet Nurni is in for the Finnish.

Very often a man will be brought up for membership who will not raise the standards of the house in his present stage of development, but is 17 or 18 years old and still in the formative stage. If he seems to have possibilities for development in the sought direction, he may be pledged anyway. The wise organization does not quibble much about table manners, about dress, or that bugaboo to membership chairmen—uncomfortable bearing among rushers.

Before you finish this, you may think I borrowed some from Dante. But there's some consolation about these collection trips. We've a snippy bookkeeper, an officious little dinnner who makes absence from headquarters a pleasure. (Please remember that truth is stranger than fiction, especially to Chills and Fever.)

Those of you who had to make your getaway from small Iowa towns had better stop right now, for I'm going to expose everything from the squeaky town pump to the mourners' bench in front of the solitary department store. I'd hate to make anybody homesick by mentioning the horseshoe pitching courts, you know.

This large man is the original of "The Old Home Town." Its business section lines the main drag on both sides for a block. On the side that's shady in the afternoon is a peewee two-story shack wedged into a row of similar structures. The store is painted green, a cream coating glazes it from the remainder of the building. The windows upstairs have different make-ups. One is cracked and spots of green shade; the other is disguised with a layer of dirt.

But it's the signs on the shop front that catch your eye. In various shades and ages of gray they proclaim:

Furniture Rep. and Upholstering
Auto and Car-Tain Rep
SAW FILING
SHOE DYEING
AND Shoddering

The unorthodox lettering includes mixed sizes of caps and a generous sprinkling of lower case letters.

But I didn't spend all my time staring at the scenery. The people I talked on must have been visited recently by an epidemic of aluminum, hoodlery, and magazine salesmen. All most of them had lost some money and their confidence in agents.

"Alibi Ike" wouldn't have been a bit conspicuous in that community. Nearly everyone had an airtight excuse. Ten years ago there was a subscription contest, and the winner of the car seems to have given everybody in town a subscription—and the paper kept on coming. Of course, they read it—what else was there to do with it? Several assured me that they'd said "STOP!" and, unlike the modern flapper, they meant it.

Others had "jest took an' spent all our change," and didn't have any loose cash. Their idea of farm relief (or tired or retired comprow jockeys) was not to be relieved on their money, apparently.

Before long I felt the urge of nature and led me to the cafe for a final. I got there just in time to miss the last regular order. Would I have a small steak? Yes, anything. Ten minutes later the proprietor's son informed me that they had no more small steaks, and would a hamburger sandwich do? Yes, yes, just so I could give my jaws their noonday exercise. Believe me, they got it.

And so to work again. After walking all over it, I decided that the town was a pretty big place for the size of it.

At every other house I would stop, knock, mop my forehead, and brush the hair out of my eyes. Usually no one was at home, the bill-paying member of the household was out, or I was out—of luck. Oh, money, money!

The Presbyterian minister asked me my denominational preference. It didn't take me long to inform him—"Bills, the bigger the better."

Before long I wandered into the municipal building in search of the constable. In a dingy downstairs room I discovered a Velvet can, a bottle, several cigar and cigarette "snipes," and some playing cards strewn over a large table. The scene brought tears to my eyes as my memory recalled the college room of a senior law who was expelled last year.

In front of the domicile of authority was a drinking fountain, evidently for sick folks—at least the alleged water was hot.

This fact doesn't indicate more than an average crossroads, but there are over half a dozen filling stations there.

At four o'clock I deposited the $22.13 there was to show for my day's work and hit the turnpike for home. "Hit" really isn't expressive enough. My racing bike bounced and jumped, and heavingly crashed into its own layers of freshly laid rock in its non-stop plight. At a conservative estimate of four bumps to the foot, I absorbed about $4,487 jolts over the four miles of, or—well, let's glorify it and call it a road. The bike escaped unharmed, but then it had a human shock absorber inside it. I had visions of Sloan's liniment and arnica. At least people wouldn't think me impolite for sitting down for a few days.

If the entire race were subjected to torture like that, nature would take care of the need by having babies born with cushioned seats or anti-bump callouses.

It may be dangerous how to bet on the outcome of the marathon, but I'll bet Nurni is in for the Finnish.

Very often a man will be brought up for membership who will not raise the standards of the house in his present stage of development, but is 17 or 18 years old and still in the formative stage. If he seems to have possibilities for development in the sought direction, he may be pledged anyway. The wise organization does not quibble much about table manners, about dress, or that bugaboo to membership chairmen—uncomfortable bearing among rushers.

Before you finish this, you may think I borrowed some from Dante. But there's some consolation about these collection trips. We've a snippy bookkeeper, an officious little dinnner who makes absence from headquarters a pleasure. (Please remember that truth is stranger than fiction, especially to Chills and Fever.)

Those of you who had to make your getaway from small Iowa towns had better stop right now, for I'm going to expose everything from the squeaky town pump to the mourners' bench in front of the solitary department store. I'd hate to make anybody homesick by mentioning the horseshoe pitching courts, you know.

This large man is the original of "The Old Home Town." Its business section lines the main drag on both sides for a block. On the side that's shady in the afternoon is a peewee two-story shack wedged into a row of similar structures. The store is painted green, a cream coating glazes it from the remainder of the building. The windows upstairs have different make-ups. One is cracked and spots of green shade; the other is disguised with a layer of dirt.

But it's the signs on the shop front that catch your eye. In various shades and ages of gray they proclaim:

Furniture Rep. and Upholstering
Auto and Car-Tain Rep
SAW FILING
SHOE DYEING
AND Shoddering

The unorthodox lettering includes mixed sizes of caps and a generous sprinkling of lower case letters.

But I didn't spend all my time staring at the scenery. The people I talked on must have been visited recently by an epidemic of aluminum, hoodlery, and magazine salesmen. All most of them had lost some money and their confidence in agents.

"Alibi Ike" wouldn't have been a bit conspicuous in that community. Nearly everyone had an airtight excuse. Ten years ago there was a subscription contest, and the winner of the car seems to have given everybody in town a subscription—and the paper kept on coming. Of course, they read it—what else was there to do with it? Several assured me that they'd said "STOP!" and, unlike the modern flapper, they meant it.

Others had "jest took an' spent all our change," and didn't have any loose cash. Their idea of farm relief (or tired or retired comprow jockeys) was not to be relieved on their money, apparently.

Before long I felt the urge of nature and led me to the cafe for a final. I got there just in time to miss the last regular order. Would I have a small steak? Yes, anything. Ten minutes later the proprietor's son informed me that they had no more small steaks, and would a hamburger sandwich do? Yes, yes, just so I could give my jaws their noonday exercise. Believe me, they got it.

And so to work again. After walking all over it, I decided that the town was a pretty big place for the size of it.

At every other house I would stop, knock, mop my forehead, and brush the hair out of my eyes. Usually no one was at home, the bill-paying member of the household was out, or I was out—of luck. Oh, money, money!

The Presbyterian minister asked me my denominational preference. It didn't take me long to inform him—"Bills, the bigger the better."

Before long I wandered into the municipal building in search of the constable. In a dingy downstairs room I discovered a Velvet can, a bottle, several cigar and cigarette "snipes," and some playing cards strewn over a large table. The scene brought tears to my eyes as my memory recalled the college room of a senior law who was expelled last year.

In front of the domicile of authority was a drinking fountain, evidently for sick folks—at least the alleged water was hot.

This fact doesn't indicate more than an average crossroads, but there are over half a dozen filling stations there.

At four o'clock I deposited the $22.13 there was to show for my day's work and hit the turnpike for home. "Hit" really isn't expressive enough. My racing bike bounced and jumped, and heavingly crashed into its own layers of freshly laid rock in its non-stop plight. At a conservative estimate of four bumps to the foot, I absorbed about $4,487 jolts over the four miles of, or—well, let's glorify it and call it a road. The bike escaped unharmed, but then it had a human shock absorber inside it. I had visions of Sloan's liniment and arnica. At least people wouldn't think me impolite for sitting down for a few days.

If the entire race were subjected to torture like that, nature would take care of the need by having babies born with cushioned seats or anti-bump callouses.

It may be dangerous how to bet on the outcome of the marathon, but I'll bet Nurni is in for the Finnish.

Very often a man will be brought up for membership who will not raise the standards of the house in his present stage of development, but is 17 or 18 years old and still in the formative stage. If he seems to have possibilities for development in the sought direction, he may be pledged anyway. The wise organization does not quibble much about table manners, about dress, or that bugaboo to membership chairmen—uncomfortable bearing among rushers.

Before you finish this, you may think I borrowed some from Dante. But there's some consolation about these collection trips. We've a snippy bookkeeper, an officious little dinnner who makes absence from headquarters a pleasure. (Please remember that truth is stranger than fiction, especially to Chills and Fever.)

Those of you who had to make your getaway from small Iowa towns had better stop right now, for I'm going to expose everything from the squeaky town pump to the mourners' bench in front of the solitary department store. I'd hate to make anybody homesick by mentioning the horseshoe pitching courts, you know.

This large man is the original of "The Old Home Town." Its business section lines the main drag on both sides for a block. On the side that's shady in the afternoon is a peewee two-story shack wedged into a row of similar structures. The store is painted green, a cream coating glazes it from the remainder of the building. The windows upstairs have different make-ups. One is cracked and spots of green shade; the other is disguised with a layer of dirt.

But it's the signs on the shop front that catch your eye. In various shades and ages of gray they proclaim:

Furniture Rep. and Upholstering
Auto and Car-Tain Rep
SAW FILING
SHOE DYEING
AND Shoddering

The unorthodox lettering includes mixed sizes of caps and a generous sprinkling of lower case letters.

But I didn't spend all my time staring at the scenery. The people I talked on must have been visited recently by an epidemic of aluminum, hoodlery, and magazine salesmen. All most of them had lost some money and their confidence in agents.

"Alibi Ike" wouldn't have been a bit conspicuous in that community. Nearly everyone had an airtight excuse. Ten years ago there was a subscription contest, and the winner of the car seems to have given everybody in town a subscription—and the paper kept on coming. Of course, they read it—what else was there to do with it? Several assured me that they'd said "STOP!" and, unlike the modern flapper, they meant it.

Others had "jest took an' spent all our change," and didn't have any loose cash. Their idea of farm relief (or tired or retired comprow jockeys) was not to be relieved on their money, apparently.

Before long I felt the urge of nature and led me to the cafe for a final. I got there just in time to miss the last regular order. Would I have a small steak? Yes, anything. Ten minutes later the proprietor's son informed me that they had no more small steaks, and would a hamburger sandwich do? Yes, yes, just so I could give my jaws their noonday exercise. Believe me, they got it.

And so to work again. After walking all over it, I decided that the town was a pretty big place for the size of it.

At every other house I would stop, knock, mop my forehead, and brush the hair out of my eyes. Usually no one was at home, the bill-paying member of the household was out, or I was out—of luck. Oh, money, money!

The Presbyterian minister asked me my denominational preference. It didn't take me long to inform him—"Bills, the bigger the better."

Before long I wandered into the municipal building in search of the constable. In a dingy downstairs room I discovered a Velvet can, a bottle, several cigar and cigarette "snipes," and some playing cards strewn over a large table. The scene brought tears to my eyes as my memory recalled the college room of a senior law who was expelled last year.

In front of the domicile of authority was a drinking fountain, evidently for sick folks—at least the alleged water was hot.

This fact doesn't indicate more than an average crossroads, but there are over half a dozen filling stations there.

At four o'clock I deposited the $22.13 there was to show for my day's work and hit the turnpike for home. "Hit" really isn't expressive enough. My racing bike bounced and jumped, and heavingly crashed into its own layers of freshly laid rock in its non-stop plight. At a conservative estimate of four bumps to the foot, I absorbed about $4,487 jolts over the four miles of, or—well, let's glorify it and call it a road. The bike escaped unharmed, but then it had a human shock absorber inside it. I had visions of Sloan's liniment and arnica. At least people wouldn't think me impolite for sitting down for a few days.

If the entire race were subjected to torture like that, nature would take care of the need by having babies born with cushioned seats or anti-bump callouses.

It may be dangerous how to bet on the outcome of the marathon, but I'll bet Nurni is in for the Finnish.

Very often a man will be brought up for membership who will not raise the standards of the house in his present stage of development, but is 17 or 18 years old and still in the formative stage. If he seems to have possibilities for development in the sought direction, he may be pledged anyway. The wise organization does not quibble much about table manners, about dress, or that bugaboo to membership chairmen—uncomfortable bearing among rushers.

Before you finish this, you may think I borrowed some from Dante. But there's some consolation about these collection trips. We've a snippy bookkeeper, an officious little dinnner who makes absence from headquarters a pleasure. (Please remember that truth is stranger than fiction, especially to Chills and Fever.)

Those of you who had to make your getaway from small Iowa towns had better stop right now, for I'm going to expose everything from the squeaky town pump to the mourners' bench in front of the solitary department store. I'd hate to make anybody homesick by mentioning the horseshoe pitching courts, you know.

This large man is the original of "The Old Home Town." Its business section lines the main drag on both sides for a block. On the side that's shady in the afternoon is a peewee two-story shack wedged into a row of similar structures. The store is painted green, a cream coating glazes it from the remainder of the building. The windows upstairs have different make-ups. One is cracked and spots of green shade; the other is disguised with a layer of dirt.

But it's the signs on the shop front that catch your eye. In various shades and ages of gray they proclaim:

Furniture Rep. and Upholstering
Auto and Car-Tain Rep
SAW FILING
SHOE DYEING
AND Shoddering

The unorthodox lettering includes mixed sizes of caps and a generous sprinkling of lower case letters.

But I didn't spend all my time staring at the scenery. The people I talked on must have been visited recently by an epidemic of aluminum, hoodlery, and magazine salesmen. All most of them had lost some money and their confidence in agents.

"Alibi Ike" wouldn't have been a bit conspicuous in that community. Nearly everyone had an airtight excuse. Ten years ago there was a subscription contest, and the winner of the car seems to have given everybody in town a subscription—and the paper kept on coming. Of course, they read it—what else was there to do with it? Several assured me that they'd said "STOP!" and, unlike the modern flapper, they meant it.

Others had "jest took an' spent all our change," and didn't have any loose cash. Their idea of farm relief (or tired or retired comprow jockeys) was not to be relieved on their money, apparently.

Before long I felt the urge of nature and led me to the cafe for a final. I got there just in time to miss the last regular order. Would I have a small steak? Yes, anything. Ten minutes later the proprietor's son informed me that they had no more small steaks, and would a hamburger sandwich do? Yes, yes, just so I could give my jaws their noonday exercise. Believe me, they got it.

And so to work again. After walking all over it, I decided that the town was a pretty big place for the size of it.

At every other house I would stop, knock, mop my forehead, and brush the hair out of my eyes. Usually no one was at home, the bill-paying member of the household was out, or I was out—of luck. Oh, money, money!

The Presbyterian minister asked me my denominational preference. It didn't take me long to inform him—"Bills, the bigger the better."

Before long I wandered into the municipal building in search of the constable. In a dingy downstairs room I discovered a Velvet can, a bottle, several cigar and cigarette "snipes," and some playing cards strewn over a large table. The scene brought tears to my eyes as my memory recalled the college room of a senior law who was expelled last year.

In front of the domicile of authority was a drinking fountain, evidently for sick folks—at least the alleged water was hot.

This fact doesn't indicate more than an average crossroads, but there are over half a dozen filling stations there.

At four o'clock I deposited the $22.13 there was to show for my day's work and hit the turnpike for home. "Hit" really isn't expressive enough. My racing bike bounced and jumped, and heavingly crashed into its own layers of freshly laid rock in its non-stop plight. At a conservative estimate of four bumps to the foot, I absorbed about $4,487 jolts over the four miles of, or—well, let's glorify it and call it a road. The bike escaped unharmed, but then it had a human shock absorber inside it. I had visions of Sloan's liniment and arnica. At least people wouldn't think me impolite for sitting down for a few days.

If the entire race were subjected to torture like that, nature would take care of the need by having babies born with cushioned seats or anti-bump callouses.

It may be dangerous how to bet on the outcome of the marathon, but I'll bet Nurni is in for the Finnish.

Very often a man will be brought up for membership who will not raise the standards of the house in his present stage of development, but is 17 or 18 years old and still in the formative stage. If he seems to have possibilities for development in the sought direction, he may be pledged anyway. The wise organization does not quibble much about table manners, about dress, or that bugaboo to membership chairmen—uncomfortable bearing among rushers.

Before you finish this, you may think I borrowed some from Dante. But there's some consolation about these collection trips. We've a snippy bookkeeper, an officious little dinnner who makes absence from headquarters a pleasure. (Please remember that truth is stranger than fiction, especially to Chills and Fever.)

Those of you who had to make your getaway from small Iowa towns had better stop right now, for I'm going to expose everything from the squeaky town pump to the mourners' bench in front of the solitary department store. I'd hate to make anybody homesick by mentioning the horseshoe pitching courts, you know.

This large man is the original of "The Old Home Town." Its business section lines the main drag on both sides for a block. On the side that's shady in the afternoon is a peewee two-story shack wedged into a row of similar structures. The store is painted green, a cream coating glazes it from the remainder of the building. The windows upstairs have different make-ups. One is cracked and spots of green shade; the other is disguised with a layer of dirt.

But it's the signs on the shop front that catch your eye. In various shades and ages of gray they proclaim:

Furniture Rep. and Upholstering
Auto and Car-Tain Rep
SAW FILING
SHOE DYEING
AND Shoddering

The unorthodox lettering includes mixed sizes of caps and a generous sprinkling of lower case letters.

But I didn't spend all my time staring at the scenery. The people I talked on must have been visited recently by an epidemic of aluminum, hoodlery, and magazine salesmen. All most of them had lost some money and their confidence in agents.

"Alibi Ike" wouldn't have been a bit conspicuous in that community. Nearly everyone had an airtight excuse. Ten years ago there was a subscription contest, and the winner of the car seems to have given everybody in town a subscription—and the paper kept on coming. Of course, they read it—what else was there to do with it? Several assured me that they'd said "STOP!" and, unlike the modern flapper, they meant it.

Others had "jest took an' spent all our change," and didn't have any loose cash. Their idea of farm relief (or tired or retired comprow jockeys) was not to be relieved on their money, apparently.

Before long I felt the urge of nature and led me to the cafe for a final. I got there just in time to miss the last regular order. Would I have a small steak? Yes, anything. Ten minutes later the proprietor's son informed me that they had no more small steaks, and would a hamburger sandwich do? Yes, yes, just so I could give my jaws their noonday exercise. Believe me, they got it.

And so to work again. After walking all over it, I decided that the town was a pretty big place for the size of it.

At every other house I would stop, knock, mop my forehead, and brush the hair out of my eyes. Usually no one was at home, the bill-paying member of the household was out, or I was out—of luck. Oh, money, money!

The Presbyterian minister asked me my denominational preference. It didn't take me long to inform him—"Bills, the bigger the better."

Before long I wandered into the municipal building in search of the constable. In a dingy downstairs room I discovered a Velvet can, a bottle, several cigar and cigarette "snipes," and some playing cards strewn over a large table. The scene brought tears to my eyes as my memory recalled the college room of a senior law who was expelled last year.

In front of the domicile of authority was a drinking fountain, evidently for sick folks—at least the alleged water was hot.

This fact doesn't indicate more than an average crossroads, but there are over half a dozen filling stations there.

At four o'clock I deposited the $22.13 there was to show for my day's work and hit the turnpike for home. "Hit" really isn't expressive enough. My racing bike bounced and jumped, and heavingly crashed into its own layers of freshly laid rock in its non-stop plight. At a conservative estimate of four bumps to the foot, I absorbed about $4,487 jolts over the four miles of, or—well, let's glorify it and call it a road. The bike escaped unharmed, but then it had a human shock absorber inside it. I had visions of Sloan's liniment and arnica. At least people wouldn't think me impolite for sitting down for a few days.

If the entire race were subjected to torture like that, nature would take care of the need by having babies born with cushioned seats or anti-bump callouses.

It may be dangerous how to bet on the outcome of the marathon, but I'll bet Nurni is in for the Finnish.

Very often a man will be brought up for membership who will not raise the standards of the house in his present stage of development, but is 17 or 18 years old and still in the formative stage. If he seems to have possibilities for development in the sought direction, he may be pledged anyway. The wise organization does not quibble much about table manners, about dress, or that bugaboo to membership chairmen—uncomfortable bearing among rushers.

Before you finish this, you may think I borrowed some from Dante. But there's some consolation about these collection trips. We've a snippy bookkeeper, an officious little dinnner who makes absence from headquarters a pleasure. (Please remember that truth is stranger than fiction, especially to Chills and Fever.)

Those of you who had to make your getaway from small Iowa towns had better stop right now, for I'm going to expose everything from the squeaky town pump to the mourners' bench in front of the solitary department store. I'd hate to make anybody homesick by mentioning the horseshoe pitching courts, you know.

This large man is the original of "The Old Home Town." Its business section lines the main drag on both sides for a block. On the side that's shady in the afternoon is a peewee two-story shack wedged into a row of similar structures. The store is painted green, a cream coating glazes it from the remainder of the building. The windows upstairs have different make-ups. One is cracked and spots of green shade; the other is disguised with a layer of dirt.

But it's the signs on the shop front that catch your eye. In various shades and ages of gray they proclaim:

Furniture Rep. and Upholstering
Auto and Car-Tain Rep
SAW FILING
SHOE DYEING
AND Shoddering

The unorthodox lettering includes mixed sizes of caps and a generous sprinkling of lower case letters.

But I didn't spend all my time staring at the scenery. The people I talked on must have been visited recently by an epidemic of aluminum, hoodlery, and magazine salesmen. All most of them had lost some money and their confidence in agents.

"Alibi Ike" wouldn't have been a bit conspicuous in that community. Nearly everyone had an airtight excuse. Ten years ago there was a subscription contest, and the winner of the car seems to have

Social Events

Orville Wheelon, Alice H. Dewell Married Jan. 28

Orville A. Wheelon and Alice H. Dewell, both of Pierre, S. Dak., were married Jan. 28, before coming here for the second semester of the last school year...

Dr. Robert Collins and her sister, Lois Van Horn, returned last Tuesday from a trip to Chicago where they visited relatives.

Mrs. Dorothy Peters Jordan of Iowa City and Icyde Edwards, A2 of Crawfordville, will start Sunday on a 6,000 mile hike through the western states to the Pacific coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Casper Shannon have left on a vacation trip driving to the lakes in northern Iowa.

Mrs. John P. Oakes, daughter, Fay and son, Perry, accompanied by Lois Van Horn and Louis Davis of Iowa City will drive to Lake Okoboji next Tuesday where they will vacation for the following week.

Ted Watkins and John Malone, A4 of Iowa City have returned from an auto trip through the west.

Eva Fillmore, of the child welfare research station, left Wednesday night for St. Paul, Minn., where she will visit for several weeks.

Mary Hogarth, who has just completed her work in the graduate college, has gone to Chicago to visit relatives.

Alice Reed, who completed her work in the graduate college last week, left Tuesday for her home in Mount Pleasant.

Zita Fuhrmann to Present Genevieve Neuzil, Ruth Soll

Zita Fuhrmann will present Genevieve Neuzil in a piano recital this evening at 8 o'clock at the Neuzil home. Miss Neuzil is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Neuzil, 214 Davenport street.

Club Meets

Miss M. B. Huffman, 1218 Rochester avenue, will be hostess to the members of the L.T. club at her home this afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

PERSONALS

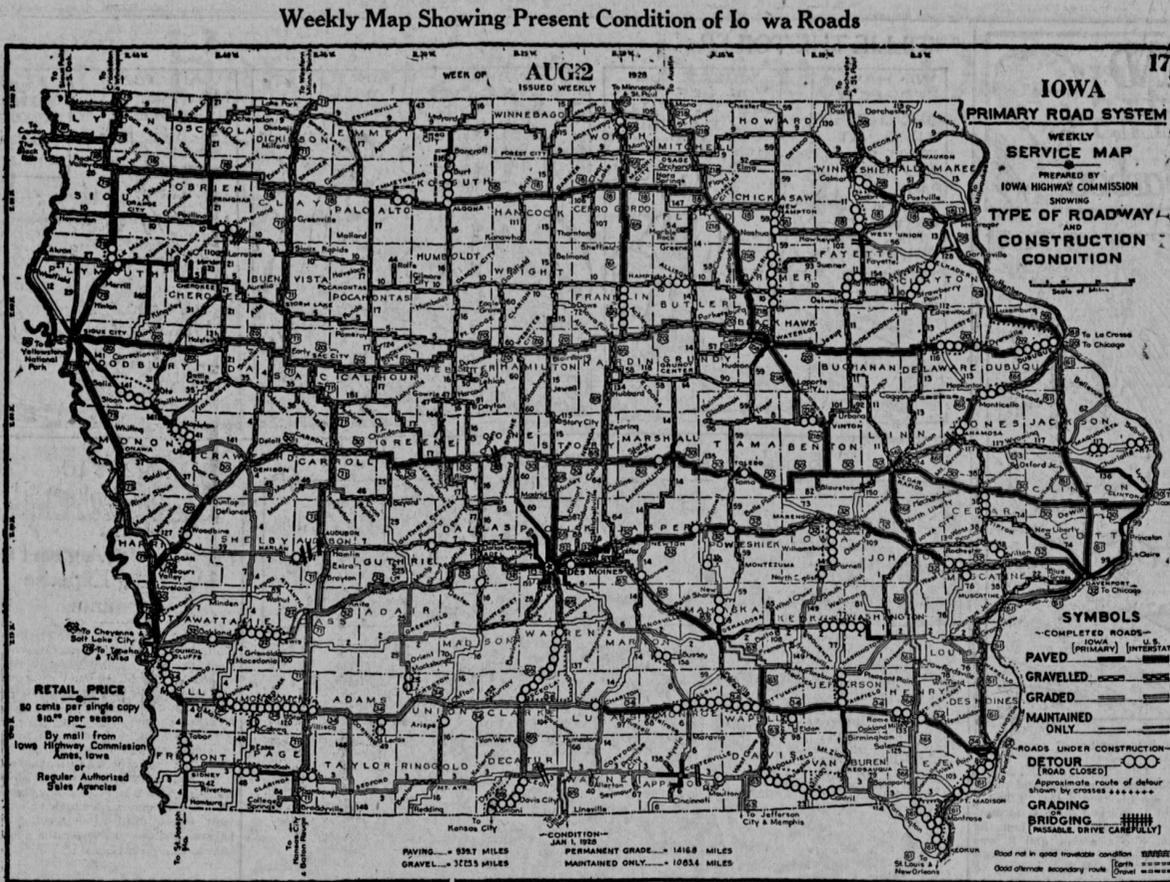

Martha and Helen Spence, Gretchen Gibbs, and Helen Fountain returned Tuesday from Clear Lake where they have spent a week at the North League institute.

Alpha Delta Pi to Give Rushing Party

In compliment to a number of city and out of town rushees, the members of Alpha Delta Pi sorority will give a bridge luncheon Saturday, Aug. 4 at 1 p.m. at Red Ball Inn.

Anything You Want—Just the Way You Want It—At the RED BALL MEAT MARKET

Poor quality meats are usually the highest priced meats one can buy even though the price is low. Buy your meat at a market where they cut nothing but the best quality meats.

President Visits School, Industrial Plants in North Iron Mines, Lumber Take Coolidges From Camp

VIRGINIA, Minn., Aug. (AP)—President Coolidge today abandoned the quiet surroundings of the summer white house to journey to the heart of the great iron fields of the northwest and witness, in the turmoil and roar of steam shovels and locomotives, the exploitations of the great iron reserve which have brought to the United States the industrial supremacy of the world.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Oakes, 1139 E. Court street, will drive to Cedar Rapids tomorrow to spend the day with friends there.

Miss Ray Last Recital Artist

The last recital of the artists series course for the second term of the summer session will be given Wednesday, Aug. 8, at 8:15 p.m., in natural science auditorium.

Preston - Hansen Troth Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling E. Peterson, 1307 Elmherst drive, Cedar Rapids, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marjorie to Louis A. Hansen of Chicago.

Ohio Blue Tip Matches Per Carton 26c

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY Northern Toilet Tissue, 3 rolls 25c Calumet Baking Powder, 16 oz. can 28c Q Macaroni, 2 pkgs. 11c

R. Boynton Leaves to Visit Chicago Academy of Artists

Ray Boynton, art instructor at the University of California at Berkeley, is leaving Iowa City tomorrow night for Chicago where he will visit the Academy of Artists.

Iowa Roads

Roads in Iowa varied from being in good to fair condition today, said the report of the Iowa Automobile association.

WSUI Program

The following program will be broadcast over WSUI today: 9 a.m.—Market reports 10:30 a.m.—News hour 12:25 p.m.—News review. Music 6 p.m.—Jefferson hotel orchestra

Jimmy McLarnin Knocks Out Chile Boxer in Fourth

DETROIT, Aug. 2 (AP)—Jimmy McLarnin of Los Angeles, the baby faced boy with a heavyweight wallop, knocked out Stanislaus Loayza of Chile in the fourth round of their scheduled ten round battle in the Olympia arena here tonight.

1 minute to phone us 2 minutes to bundle up clothing means a 3 minute washday

New Process Laundry & Cleaning Co. Soft Water Used Exclusively Phone 294 Our Red Cars Go Everywhere

Miss Ray Last Recital Artist

The last recital of the artists series course for the second term of the summer session will be given Wednesday, Aug. 8, at 8:15 p.m., in natural science auditorium.

Preston - Hansen Troth Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling E. Peterson, 1307 Elmherst drive, Cedar Rapids, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marjorie to Louis A. Hansen of Chicago.

Ohio Blue Tip Matches Per Carton 26c

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY Northern Toilet Tissue, 3 rolls 25c Calumet Baking Powder, 16 oz. can 28c Q Macaroni, 2 pkgs. 11c

Extraordinary! Every Summer Dress Now Only $7.95

CHOICE of Entire Stock including late summer frocks. Values as High as $16.95—Come Today. Right at the height of the season comes this remarkable dress offering.

President Visits School, Industrial Plants in North Iron Mines, Lumber Take Coolidges From Camp

VIRGINIA, Minn., Aug. (AP)—President Coolidge today abandoned the quiet surroundings of the summer white house to journey to the heart of the great iron fields of the northwest and witness, in the turmoil and roar of steam shovels and locomotives, the exploitations of the great iron reserve which have brought to the United States the industrial supremacy of the world.

Iowa Roads

Roads in Iowa varied from being in good to fair condition today, said the report of the Iowa Automobile association.

WSUI Program

The following program will be broadcast over WSUI today: 9 a.m.—Market reports 10:30 a.m.—News hour 12:25 p.m.—News review. Music 6 p.m.—Jefferson hotel orchestra

Jimmy McLarnin Knocks Out Chile Boxer in Fourth

DETROIT, Aug. 2 (AP)—Jimmy McLarnin of Los Angeles, the baby faced boy with a heavyweight wallop, knocked out Stanislaus Loayza of Chile in the fourth round of their scheduled ten round battle in the Olympia arena here tonight.

1 minute to phone us 2 minutes to bundle up clothing means a 3 minute washday

New Process Laundry & Cleaning Co. Soft Water Used Exclusively Phone 294 Our Red Cars Go Everywhere

Extraordinary! Every Summer Dress Now Only $7.95

CHOICE of Entire Stock including late summer frocks. Values as High as $16.95—Come Today. Right at the height of the season comes this remarkable dress offering.

President Visits School, Industrial Plants in North Iron Mines, Lumber Take Coolidges From Camp

VIRGINIA, Minn., Aug. (AP)—President Coolidge today abandoned the quiet surroundings of the summer white house to journey to the heart of the great iron fields of the northwest and witness, in the turmoil and roar of steam shovels and locomotives, the exploitations of the great iron reserve which have brought to the United States the industrial supremacy of the world.

Iowa Roads

Roads in Iowa varied from being in good to fair condition today, said the report of the Iowa Automobile association.

WSUI Program

The following program will be broadcast over WSUI today: 9 a.m.—Market reports 10:30 a.m.—News hour 12:25 p.m.—News review. Music 6 p.m.—Jefferson hotel orchestra

Jimmy McLarnin Knocks Out Chile Boxer in Fourth

DETROIT, Aug. 2 (AP)—Jimmy McLarnin of Los Angeles, the baby faced boy with a heavyweight wallop, knocked out Stanislaus Loayza of Chile in the fourth round of their scheduled ten round battle in the Olympia arena here tonight.

1 minute to phone us 2 minutes to bundle up clothing means a 3 minute washday

New Process Laundry & Cleaning Co. Soft Water Used Exclusively Phone 294 Our Red Cars Go Everywhere

Extraordinary! Every Summer Dress Now Only $7.95

CHOICE of Entire Stock including late summer frocks. Values as High as $16.95—Come Today. Right at the height of the season comes this remarkable dress offering.

Rabbi Mendelsohn Talks on Folklore

Stressing the importance of folklore as a literary form as well as a source of first-hand information about the race, Rabbi Felix Mendelsohn last night discussed "Jewish Folk Tales" in his second lecture at the chemistry auditorium.

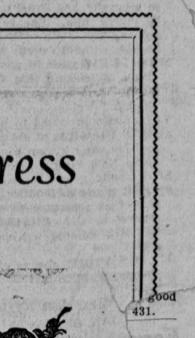

"Fairy tales represent the ideals of the people," said Rabbi Mendelsohn. "In a way, they are psychologically related to dreams, for dreams are the expressions of unfulfilled wishes. When people cannot attain their ideals in actual life, they express them in dreams."

Continuing his discussion of fairy tales as the verbal expression of a people's dream, Rabbi Mendelsohn declared that in that lay one importance of folk literature, for through the fairy tales one can get a real insight into the spiritual life of a people.

Rabbi Mendelsohn scouted the old contempt for imaginative tales. "People used to think they had to read 'highbrow' philosophy to get literature," he said. "As a matter of fact, the real literature is the literature of the people, told in the language of the people. You can learn the philosophy of a race from its folk lore."

The speaker illustrated his points by relating a number of the fairy tales and legends. The talk last night was the second and final address in Iowa City by Rabbi Mendelsohn, speaking under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua association of Philadelphia.

Rent a Typewriter NEW UNDERWOODS also CORONAS REMINGTONS Special Rates to Students WILLIAMS IOWA SUPPLY 8 So. Clinton

Extraordinary! Every Summer Dress Now Only $7.95

CHOICE of Entire Stock including late summer frocks. Values as High as $16.95—Come Today. Right at the height of the season comes this remarkable dress offering.

A Thrilling Dress Event at End of Season Savings

PHYLLIS HERRICK GIFT AND ART SHOP

A HUSBAND AT HER HEELS

By Mildred Barbour

"You wonder why I haven't made Jim my heir, don't you? . . . I'll tell you why . . ."

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

CELIA DREW, has been obliged, after the death of her father, to go to work. She is the secretary of BENJAMIN HARRINGTON, and is engaged to his son, TOM. The Harringtons disapprove of the match, but Celia does not know this. She has recently rejected a proposal of marriage from HORACE VAIL, one of Harrington's business associates, and incurred his ill will as a result. THE HARRINGTONS, to be rid of Celia, concoct a plot, with Vail's help, whereby Tom finds her locked in her office at midnight.

LARRYCROSS, a dissipated young chap, who is hopelessly in love with her. Without waiting for explanations, Tom rushes off. The next day Celia finds herself jobless and the object of gossip. Her sole defender is GWEN BURNS, who is rich and socially prominent. Larry, aghast at what he has done, urges Celia to marry him. She refuses and returns Tom's ring when the day passes without word from him.

MRS. DREW goes to pieces at the shock of hearing that Celia's engagement is broken and that Tom has left town.

VAIL again proposed to her. SHE is unable to obtain another position, and Gwen urges her to go to New York.

SHE finally goes. AFTER many difficulties, she finds a post as secretary to a rich, eccentric invalid, RICHARD FALCONER, who is writing his memoirs.

IN HIS HOME she meets his attorney, JAMES ANNESLEY.

CHAPTER XVII

MAN OF MYSTERY

Sometimes Celia did not see her employer for a week or more. He would be too feeble to work. During these times, she sat in the pretty city assigned to her and worked up her notes, or read the manuscript already prepared. She found it most entertaining. Falconer had wit and humor and a wealth of understanding and experience. She marveled at the life and the adventures he so vividly described, and felt a pang when she realized that he could not finish the story. Each day he was weaker, but the spirit that had carried him through a brilliant and successful life sustained him now. Sometimes, when the day's work was over, he chatted with her in friendly fashion. She understood his loneliness. There were no callers at the big house, except Annesley and the physician. No flowers came, except those ordered by the housekeeper.

When one day, in early spring, Celia came in and proffered a cluster of primroses, saying, with a shy laugh: "They look so pretty, and I thought they'd make you think of spring on the avenue," he took them without a word.

She thought he was displeased, but later she saw them in a case beside his couch and, while he talked with her, his gaze rested upon them more than once.

It was then that he said suddenly: "You must think it odd that I have no friends. . . . But the old friends, the real friends, have gone on ahead of me. I'll join them soon. And the people who want to call themselves my friends now want only the old man's money. Oh, I know!" he laughed harshly. "I'm not a misanthrope, but I'm not a fool. It's the way of the world. They come here, these people, and they want to hold my hand and smooth my pillow. But, after a little while, it always appears that they've a pet charity that needs support, or a relative who makes good in some sort of business, if he had a little capital, or a daughter who'd be a second Nordie; if only she had a chance to go abroad to study. . . . We're a pretty obvious lot, you know, aren't we, Miss Drew?"

Another time, he spoke of his nephew. "That young wastrel who bears my name," he called him, and added: "It's in his blood. His father was like him—clever and talented, but not too scrupulous. And yet I love the boy, I suppose. He is lovable, but marked for disaster, if ever a youngster was. He was going to the dogs, here in New York, so I gave him the money that would have been his after my death, and told him to get out and never let me see his face again. I had a splendid girl-picked for him to marry; she loved him. And then the fool got into a scrape and it was either skip or jail. I hear he's down in Central America now, trying to start a revolution. Always some crazy enterprise. Anything that's a couple of jumps ahead of law and order.

"Perhaps that's only because he's so young," suggested Celia mildly. "Well, he'll grow up too late," was the grim response. "He's had the last penny he'll get from me. Every cent of my money is willed to charity. I made Annesley see to that."

"Mr. Annesley is very clever, isn't he?"

"I wish to heaven he was my son. He's one of the most brilliant young lawyers in this city. He'll be governor some day."

Celia wanted to ask why, if he liked Annesley so much, he was leaving his fortune to charity, but she remained silent, studying him gravely. It was as if he read her thoughts, for he said suddenly:

"You wonder why I haven't made Jim my heir, don't you? . . . I'll tell you why. It's because he refused. He said to me, Mr. Falconer, do you want to make a pampered puppet out of me, or do you want me to stand on my own feet and amount to something? And, furthermore, I'm your lawyer. Would you have them say that I used my position to get your fortune? And he's right," Falconer went on. "It's a great burden, wealth, Miss Drew. When we lay it down at last, we don't realize the trouble we may be creating for the very people we wished to help. I often wonder how the Almighty will reckon up the accounts of those of us who ruined another soul by our own effort at benevolence."

He turned his head aside, and Celia saw, as she had seen so many times lately, a pallor spreading over his cheek. She got up so softly and motioned for the valet, but, before she went away, her hand stole out in a gesture of pity and tenderness toward the figure on the couch.

"It was not until later that she remembered the mirror on the wall at the foot of the couch. She flushed hotly.

"If he saw, he will think I am another who is kind only because he has money. . . . But, oh, I am sorry for him. So sorry for him. It must be terrible to know you are dying, and to be all alone."

She was having her tea before the fire, wondering whether Falconer would want her again that day, when Mrs. Glover rapped at the door.

"Mr. Annesley is coming for dinner tonight, Miss Drew, and Mr. Falconer wants you to stay and dine with him."

"TO BE CONTINUED NEXT ISSUE" (Copyright, 1928, M.N.S., New York)

Bond Market Dull as Credit Eases; Broker's Loans Up

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—The bond market was dull again and unsettled today, traders being uneasy over the credit situation, although the call money rate ruled slightly easier at 7 per cent.

The weekly announcement of brokers' loans, after the close showed a substantial increase rather than the desired decrease.

Rail developed some strength. Canadian Pacific 4's and Seaboard Air-line 5's advanced a point, and St. Paul 5's improved under fair demand. Rock Island 4's, and Missouri Pacific 5's also advanced, while Atlantic Coast Line Louisville & Nashville 4's dropped a point, and Baltimore & Ohio 5's were in supply.

In the industrial group Cuban cane sugar 8's gained 41 in fair demand. Youngstown electric 5's were strong. Kayser & co. 5's were weak, and American dynamite 5's, Andes copper 7's, and Paramount famous Lasky 6's were in supply. Dodge Brothers 6's were still accumulated.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

Thursday	20 Ind. 20 Ralls.
Wednesday	195.35 143.19
Tuesday	196.46 143.89
Week ago	192.78 142.64
Year ago	169.40 148.47
High 1928	238.04 157.03
Low 1928	178.84 128.26
Total stock sales 1,796,300 shares.

TILLIE THE TOILER

Broadway Hostesses—and Their Nemesis

Somehow Helen Morgan (left) and Texas Guinan, rival night club hostesses, always managed to get the better of any argument with a mere male over the prohibition question. But when a woman took the trail it was a different story.

Cash Demand for Corn

Brisk Sales Force Market Up; Fresh Receipts Dwindle

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—In the face of considerable selling to realize profits, the corn market moved sharply upward much of the time today. Spot cash demand for corn to be shipped out of here was in evidence, and fresh receipts of corn in Chicago today totaled only 121 cars.

Closing quotations on corn were firm, 1c to 2 1/2c net higher, with wheat 1c to 1 1/2c up, unchanged to 1c advance, and provisions unchanged to 25c down.

Scarcities of offerings except at material advances in price formed the rule in the corn market, and with traders nervous it frequently happened that simultaneous transactions in various sections of the pit were widely different figures, sometimes 1 1/2c apart. Previous speculative sellers were especially active in changes to the buying side of the market, owing to dwindling of receipts here and to reports that the new corn crop was curling from heat at some points in Nebraska and South Dakota.

September delivery of corn particular indications of strain toward higher price levels, and at today's price was 3c to 3 1/2c above yesterday's finish. Meanwhile, vessel-room was chartered here for 210,000 bu. of corn to go to Georgian Bay, Canada, and there were European requests for offers of corn for trans-Atlantic export, 10 days shipment. On the other hand, a leading authority estimated the new domestic corn crop at 3,682,000,000 bu., making the average of unoffered forecasts now 3,019,000,000 bu., or 29,000,000 bu. more than a month ago and comparing with revised harvest returns of 2,774,000,000 bu., last year.

Wheat sympathized with corn strength and reflected the influence of export business in Canadian wheat today estimated at 2,600,000 bu., hedging pressure, however, appeared in the upturn in price. Talk was current that with Chicago wheat values about 19c a bushel lower than a year ago bearish conditions had already been allowed for. Oats held inside narrow limits, and trading lacked volume.

Provisions were easier, owing to a good deal to a smaller decrease in bird stocks during July than was expected.

NEW YORK STOCKS

American Can	93 1/2	91 1/2	92
Am. Locomotive	95	92 1/2	92 1/2
Am. Smelt & Ref.	20 1/2	19 1/2	20 1/2
American Sugar	69 1/2	68 1/2	69
Am. Tel. & T. Co.	176 1/2	174 1/2	175 1/2
Am. Tobacco	163 1/2	161 1/2	161 1/2
Anaconda Copper	66 1/2	65 1/2	66 1/2
Atch Top & S. F.	188 1/2	187 1/2	188
Bethlehem Steel	56 1/2	56 1/2	56 1/2
Chrysler Motor	72 1/2	72 1/2	72 1/2
Consolidated Gas	145	143 1/2	144
Dodge Bros. A	158	155 1/2	155 1/2
Dupont De Nem.	271	270 1/2	270 1/2
Eric. Railroad	52 1/2	51 1/2	52
General Electric	151	149 1/2	149 1/2
General Motors	189	186 1/2	187 1/2

Markets at a Glance

NEW YORK
Stocks—Irregular; radio falls more than 7 points.
Bonds—Dull; rails active.
Foreign exchanges—Mixed; sterling and guilders at new 1928 lows.
Cotton—Barely steady; weevil reports offset by profit-taking.
Coffee—Easy; lower Rio cables.

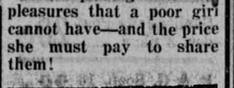

CHICAGO
Wheat—Steady; improved export demand.
Corn—Firm; small receipts.
Cattle—Steady.
Hogs—Lower.

PASTIME THEATRE

Last Times Today
Come and See Laura Jean Libbey's

Soul-Stirring Drama of the Youth of Today

—of the pulsing thrill-mad pleasures that a poor girl cannot have—and the price she must pay to share them!

also showing Latest Pathe News Selected Comedy Usual Prices

NEW YORK STOCKS (continued)

ENGLERT

Now! Last Time As the "Devil Virgin" of The Dread Cuck of The Black Lamas

Gilda Gray

The DEVIL DANCER

On The VITAPHONE

MORISSEY — MILLER "Nite Club Revue"

ADELE ROWLAND "Jazz Singer"

HOLLYWOOD BOND "Clever Playlet"

Late News — Bick

STRAND

Now Showing Double Feature Program Two shows for the price of one

Louise Fazenda Clyde Cook In a Roaring 6-Reel Comedy

"Domestic Troubles" also showing Hoot Gibson in The Rawhide Kid

With a Merchant's Ticket! 25c

He Knew it Would Happen That Way

Dry Raiders to Padlock 26 Clubs

Prohibition Agents Deny Big Expense Accounts

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—Prohibition law padlocks today threatened thirty-six more night clubs, passed by the indictments returned against 26 clubs and 131 individuals earlier in the week. The new proceedings against white way resorts, it was learned, will be in the form of summons and complaints to be served on the owners and managers. No temporary padlocks or injunctions have been issued against these places, the names of which will be kept secret until after service of papers. Failure to answer the summons will result in a padlock order being issued by default.

This new action by federal authorities in a campaign to mop up New York followed upon a day of denials and counter charges and revelations from both camps—the night club hostesses and the prohibition authorities.

Commissioner Moran in Washington denied that the picked squad of dry sleuths from the capital spent $65,000 to hoodwink Broadway's night clubs. Their expenses amounted to about $9,000, he said, adding that the agents spent their own money and were reimbursed through government vouchers.

Affidavits of the raiders list expenses for one night's entertainment at from $25 to nearly $100. But the liquor they bought, they said, was all "phony." The champagne, they said, was nothing but grape juice and soda water fortified with alcohol.

Helen Morgan and Texas Guinan, two of the hostesses indicted, entered strong denials to the dry raiders' stories. Miss Guinan asserted that there was no bar in her place to padlock.

One agent—Lon H. Tyson—who quoted Miss Morgan as telling him confidentially she had "an understanding with Campbell," misquoted her, the summer home hostess said. "I never had such a conversation with Tyson or anyone else," she said.

Power For Montreal

MONTREAL (AP)—A project for diverting water in the St. Lawrence river between Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis to furnish electric power to the region surrounding Montreal has been approved by the Dominion government.

Some $30,000,000 will be spent on the hydro-electric development with the government receiving $20,000 rent annually for the first five years and $50,000 for the next five.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

Protected by Shell Motor Oil you can tour with confidence

THE terrific punishment of long trips at high speed has no terrors for SHELL MOTOR OIL. Just the right body... thin enough to flow freely and cushion every moving part with a tough, clinging film... heavy enough to stand the gaff.

When your foot has held the accelerator down on the floor-board for hours at a stretch, it is natural to be a little uneasy about the oil "standing up" unless it is SHELL.

SHELL MOTOR OIL is made for just such gruelling service. The carefully selected crudes which are its base... and the special refining process employed... and the specifications to which it is refined, combine to produce an oil of exactly the right body. It is thin enough to flow freely to every moving surface... heavy enough to come through heat and friction unharmed... a constant protection to your motor and pocketbook.

Nobody forces a car to the limit all the time, but it gives a comfortable feeling of security to know that your engine is always protected by a lubricant which will withstand a far more severe test than you could possibly give it.

All SHELL yellow-red service stations and authorized Dealers are glad to give free crankcase service.

400 "Extra Dry" SHELL Gasoline

Shell Gasoline is EXTRA DRY... free from heavy, greasy, carbon-bearing elements... it's a quality product, alive with power, more expensive to produce, but costs you no more than the ordinary kind.

ROXANA PETROLEUM CORPORATION SHELL BUILDING • SHELL CORNER • MONTREAL

Friday, Au
Nu
Americ
Only in D Ray C
in E
M OLYMPIC
Aug. 2 (AP) successor to 1500 meters
slim 20 year responded by threat "Ches and smashing
ord.
This latest Fins demon
now confin
longer distan
the field and the tape in olds, just 2-Nurmi's 1924
Congre
Larva's vic
classic in wh
Ray Conger, finished tenth of the Olym
competition.
One world's records were United States
results yet. I be the Americ
they fared eq
figured as E
many and Ja
principal spoli
The United
place in the Levi Casey an women's 800
ence MacDona
the day's acc completely in well as the 1
liminary trial
fifty break in
in which Ray Phillips, both qualified, but Sluder were Sweden
Javelin hono for the first young sign po
slung, smashes
with a throw 218 6/10 inches
all six finalis
Mikio Oda wo jump for Ja championship inches as the Winter of Aus quality.
The only wo produced one seasonal rac
a sturdy Germ
in world's rec
pin winners,
can girl better
Frau Radke's
18 4/5 seconds,
faster than her
record.
U. S. Ad
The United
points to its m hills a comma
but Finland se
to make a str
up to second p
events in now
Finland's jav
holder, suffere hands of the yo
va and his tre
put on a spec
to even matters
There were t
senting eight m
ple equivalent
two young Fin
start to finish
trest exhibition
set the pace fo which Porje to ment and set a field until the domogue, Fre
bid.
Strate
Finish strate
The Frenchman
a premature sp
bounding on to Ladouegue ha stave off Porj place.
Conger ran v
all the way.
The rest of
cluded little fo
about. Barbu was clocked in water time, 48
man Joachim B
Phillips won t
than 50 second Sluder faltered
dated after win
Casey V
Casey saved jumpers from less than 2 ft
Oda. None of chance—Lloyd B man, and Bob
the first trials.
ers were more
by a great Eur
Baker, best of just short of 2
throw of 60.46
low, Creth Hen Chicago were eliminated.

Nurmi's Successor, Harry Larva, Breaks Olympic Record

Americans Rate Only Two Places in Day's Events

Ray Conger Beaten in Equivalent to Mile Run

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Amsterdam, Aug. 2 (AP)—Finland trotted out a successor to Nurmi in the Olympic 1500 meters this afternoon and the slim 20 year old star, Harry Larva, responded by outrunning the French threat "Chesty Jules" Lidoumeque and smashing Paavo's Olympic record.

This latest addition to the flying Finns demonstrated why Nurmi is now confining his efforts to the longer distances by galloping around the field and past all rivals to break the tape in 3 minutes 53.15 seconds, just 2.5 seconds better than Nurmi's 1924 record.

Conger Daily Beaten

Larva's victory in this Olympic classic in which the lone American, Ray Conger, was badly outrun and finished tenth, featured the fifth day of the Olympic track and field competition.

One woman's and two more Olympic records went by the boards as the United States obtained the slimmest results yet. It was not expected to be the American's day to shine but they fared even worse than that they figured as Finland, Sweden, Germany and Japan divided the day's principal spoils.

The United States had a second place in the hop, step and jump by Levi Casey and a sixth place in the women's 800 meter final by Florence MacDonald to show for the entire day's scoring, being shut out completely in the javelin throw as well as the 1500 meter final. Preliminary trials produced a fifty-fifty break in the 400 meters final in which Ray Barbut and Herman Phillips, both running well, easily qualified, but Joe Tierney and Emil Spider were eliminated.

Sweden Wins Javelin

Javelin honors returned to Sweden for the first time since 1912 as a young sign painter, E. H. Lundquist, smashed the Olympic record with a throw to the equivalent of 218 3/4 inches beat a field in which all six finalists surpassed 207 feet.

Mikio Oda won the hop, step and jump for Japan's first Olympic championship with 49 feet 10 1/2 inches as the 1924 champion A. W. Winter of Australia failed to even qualify.

The only women's final, the 800, produced one of the day's most sensational races and was won by a sturdy German frau, Lina Radke, in world's record time as all six point winners, including the American girl bettered the former mark.

Frau Radke's time was 2 minutes 14.4 seconds, more than 7 seconds faster than her own former world's record.

U. S. Adds Five Points

The United States, adding only five points to its men's team score, still holds a commanding lead with 128 1/2, but Finland served notice it is ready to make a strong finish by moving up to second place with 48, displacing Britain whose total after 15 events is now 37.

Finland's javelin throwers, including Eino Penttila, world's record holder, suffered set backs at the hands of the young Swede but Larva and his teammate Eino Porje put on a spectacular 1500-meter act to even matters.

There were twelve starters representing eight nations in this Olympic equivalent to a mile run but the two young Finns dominated it from start to finish with one of the pre-tent exhibitions ever seen. Larva set the pace for the first lap, after which Porje took over the assignment and set a killing pace for the field until the last turn. There Lidoumeque, French hope, made his bid.

Strategy Works

Finish strategy worked perfectly. The Frenchman ran himself out in a premature sprint while Larva came bounding on to win by three yards. Lidoumeque barely had enough to stave off Porje's bid for second place.

Conger ran with the rear guard all the way.

The rest of the day's story included little for Americans to cheer about. Barbut, running strongly, was clocked in the second best 400-meter time, 48.45 seconds, the German Joachim Buchner doing 48.35. Phillips won two heats in better than 50 seconds but Tierney and Snider faltered badly and were eliminated after winning their first trials.

Chicago Sox Defeat Boston Red Sox 6 to 3

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Lyons won his first game in two weeks to defeat Boston 6 to 3. It was the sixth consecutive victory for the White Sox and their third defeat of Lyons allowed seven hits, but his mates gave him nearly perfect support and rapped out 12 hits besides the Red Sox.

Giants Beat Reds in Series Opener

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Giants took second place from the Reds by one point here today, winning the opener of a four game series by 7 to 5.

The turning point came in the fifth, when, after Terry had been purposely passed to fill the bases, Jackson doubled, scoring two runs. That broke a 3 to 3 tie, giving the Giants an advantage which they never thereafter lost. Red Lucas, one of four Cincinnati pitchers, was in the box.

Score: Cincinnati 100 020 020—5 10 1 new York 000 031 000—7 12 2 Batteries: Kolp, Jablonowski, Lucas, Mays, and Hargrave and Pielnich; Genewich, and Hogan.

Yanks Bite Dust by Score of 4-3 Before St. Louis

Browns Need Extra Innings to Conquer Champions

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Browns nosed out the Yankees 4 to 3 in the fifteenth inning here today, dropping the champions to within four and one half games of the onrushing Athletics who defeated Cleveland for their tenth straight victory. Ogden and Stewart outpitched Herb Pennock. Stewart won his own game by singing with the bases filled and none out in the fifteenth. Score:

NEW YORK—A. B. R. H. P. O. A. E. Koenig, ss 6 0 0 4 5 1 Gazela, ss 1 0 0 0 0 0 Combs, cf 7 2 2 2 0 0 Ruth, lf 5 0 0 4 0 0 Gehrig, 1b 2 2 4 1 0 0 Meusel, rf 2 0 4 5 0 0 Robertson, 3b 4 0 0 2 5 1 Durocher, 2b 7 0 0 2 3 0 Grabowski, c 3 0 1 3 1 0 Bengough, c 3 0 2 3 0 0 Pennock, p 6 0 1 1 3 0 Dugan, pb 3 0 1 0 0 0 *Paschal 1 0 1 0 0 0 *Lazzeri 1 0 1 0 0 0

Totals 58 3 14 42 18 2 *Batted for Grabowski in ninth. *Batted for Koenig in thirteenth. *None out when winning run was scored.

ST. LOUIS—A. B. R. H. P. O. A. E. McNeely, rf 7 0 1 3 0 0 Brannon, 2b 2 0 0 1 3 0 Melillo, 2b 4 0 0 1 2 0 Manush, lf 7 1 2 6 0 0 Schutte, cf 7 1 2 6 4 3 Kross, ss 1 1 1 2 5 0 Blue, 1b 4 1 1 19 1 1 O'Rourke, 3b 6 1 3 2 6 0 Schang, c 5 0 1 4 0 0 Ogden, p 3 0 2 1 1 0 Stewart, p 3 0 1 2 0 0 *Bettencourt 1 0 0 0 0 0 *Manion 1 0 1 0 0 0

Totals 57 4 15 45 20 2 *Batted for Brannon in fifth. *Batted for Ogden in eighth. Score by innings:

New York 102 000 000 000—3 St. Louis 000 001 020 000 001—4 Summary—Runs batted in, Meusel 2, Gehrig, Manion 2, O'Rourke, Stewart; two base hits, Schang, Meusel 2, Combs, Grabowski, Bengough 2, O'Rourke 2, Manion; sacrifices, O'Rourke, Pennock; stolen bases, Koenig, Schutte; double play, O'Rourke (unassisted); base on balls, O'Rourke 2; struck out, off Pennock 4; struck out, by Ogden 1, by Stewart 3, by Pennock 6; hits, off Ogden 8 in 8 innings, off Stewart 6 in 7; left on bases, St. Louis 17, New York 16; winning pitcher, Stewart; Umpires—Hildebrand and Guthrie; Time of game—3:13.

St. Louis Bunches Hits to Beat Boston

BOSTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—St. Louis bunched hits off Delaney in the first and eighth inning today for three runs in each inning and defeated Boston in the first game of the series 6 to 1. Three fast double plays helped Pitcher Rhem out of tight corners. Harper drove in three runs. Catches by Clark, Farrell and Score:

St. Louis 300 000 030—6 9 1 Boston 000 001 000—1 7 0 Batteries: Rhem, and Wilson; Delaney and Taylor.

Phillies Take Usual Beating; Lose to Pirates

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2 (AP)—The tall end Phillies took their usual beating today, this time from the hands of the Pittsburgh Pirates 18 to 4. The Pirates clinched the game by scoring 12 runs in the first three innings. Glenn Wright hit a home run with two on in the second inning and Grantham duplicated the stunt in the third.

Score: Pittsburgh 000 001 014—18 20 2 Philadelphia 000 110 002—4 12 1 Batteries: Grimes, Dawson, and Hensley; Miller, Lennon, Walsh, and Davis.

Casey Wins Second

Casey saved the Yankee triple jumpers from rout and came within less than 2 inches of the winner, Oda. None of the other three Americans—Lloyd Bourgeois, Sidney Bowlsman, and Bob Kelley—got beyond the first trials. The javelin throwers were more completely outclassed by a great European field. Arthur Sager, best of the Americans, was just short of 200 feet with a trial throw of 60.46 meters. Charley Harlow, Creth Hines and Lee Bartlett were eliminated in the preliminaries.

Chicago Cross Country Moving

Maher Bros. Transfer Tel. 1732

Our Galaxy of Stars

Lawson ROBERTSON OF PENN, COACH OF AMERICA'S OLYMPIC TEAM.

Baseball Standings

Table with columns for League, Team, W, L, Pct. Includes American League and National League standings.

Chuck Wiggins Gets Decision Over Illini

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis heavyweight, stopped the winning streak of Les Marriner, University of Illinois football player, tonight when he won the decision in their 10 round bout at Mills stadium. It was Marriner's first defeat in his 17 professional starts.

Yankee Oarsmen Place Three Shells

SLOTEN, Holland, August 2 (AP)—Only one of four boat loads of American oarsmen, the Harvard crew, met defeat as the Olympic rowing regatta opened today on the Sloten canal. The big University of California eight came through its first test in sensational style crushing Belgium by eight lengths.

Two New Motor Trucks

With the smoothness and speed of the finest motor cars. We have added these fine motor trucks to our delivery service—First, that we may be able to give you quicker service—Second, that your orders will reach you in better condition as these trucks are as easy riding as the better passenger cars.

POHLER'S GROCERIES MEATS Dubuque at Iowa Ave.

Cubs Bunch Hits to Beat Brooklyn

Carlson Makes First Start of Season With Win

BROOKLYN, Aug. 2 (AP)—Harold Carlson, making his first start of the season, defeated Brooklyn here today, 3 to 2, in the opening game of the series. Although out hit by 9 to 5, the Cubs won by bunching McGuire's single with two errors by Flowers, an infield out and a sacrifice in the sixth. Stephens's homer in the second accounted for the other Chicago run.

Score: BROOKLYN—A. B. R. H. P. O. A. E. English, ss 3 1 0 3 1 0 McGuire, 2b 4 1 1 2 3 0 Cuyler, rf 4 0 0 2 1 0 Wilson, cf 2 0 0 5 0 0 Stephens, lf 5 - 2 3 0 0 Grimm, 1b 4 0 0 8 1 0 Hartnett, c 4 0 1 3 1 0 Beck, 3b 4 0 1 0 1 0 Carlson, p 4 0 1 1 2 0

Totals 32 3 5 27 10 1

BROOKLYN—A. B. R. H. P. O. A. E. Carey, cf 4 0 1 2 0 0 Hendrick, 3b 4 0 0 1 0 0 Bierman, rf 4 0 1 1 0 0 Fressler, lf 4 1 2 2 0 0 Bissnette, 1b 4 0 1 16 0 0 Flowers, 2b 4 1 3 1 2 2 Hancock, ss 3 0 0 9 0 0 *Gooch 1 0 0 0 0 0 DeBerry, c 3 0 0 5 0 0 Mcweeney, p 2 0 0 0 5 0

Umpires—Rigler, Hart and Jordan. Time of game—1:40.

Philadelphia Pitcher Stops Mackmen Scoreless

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2 (AP)—Unable to solve the delivery of George Earnshaw, Philadelphia's new pitcher, Cleveland bowed to the Mackmen 6 to 0 in the second game of the series today.

George Uhle, making his first start for the Indian in 8 games, was a venerable target. He allowed the foe 12 hits and contributed one error that was responsible for an extra base.

The score: Cleveland 110 201 001—6 12 1 Philadelphia 000 000 000—0 6 1 Batteries: Earnshaw, and (Cochrane; Uhle, and L. Sewell.

American Association

St. Paul 6-5; Indianapolis 7-3; Minneapolis 5-7; Louisville 0-3; Kansas City 11-2; Toledo 0-4.

Detroit Out Hits Senators, 5 to 4

DETROIT, Aug. 2 (AP)—Detroit came from behind to tie the score in the ninth and then win in the second game of the series from Washington here today, 5 to 4, in 12 innings. It was the ninth victory of the last 11 games for the Tigers. Barnes, Washington centerfielder hit a home run in the seventh with Hadley on base.

Score by innings: Washington 100 100 200 000—4 Detroit 000 300 001 001—5 Summary—Runs batted in, S. Rice, Hellmann, Hargrave 2, Barnes 2, McManus, Gehring; two base hits, Barnes, S. Rice, Hellmann, McManus 2; three base hits, Judge, McManus; home run, Barnes; stolen bases, Bluege 2; sacrifices, Tavenar, Hadley, Gehring; double plays, Tavenar to McManus, Judge to Cronin to Judge; Harris to Cronin to Judge; left on base, Washington 9, Detroit 8; base on balls, off Hadley 4, off Carroll 7; struck out, by Hadley 9 in 8 2-3 innings, by Marberry 2 in 3, by Carroll 7 in 11 none out in twelfth, by Yangildner none in one; passed ball, Hargrave 2; winning pitcher, Yangildner; losing pitcher, Marberry.

Umpires—Barry, Owens, and Geisel. Time of game—2:31.

Want Ad Rates

One or two days 10c line Three to five days, 7c per line Six days or longer, 5c per line Minimum charge, 25c Count five words to the line. Each word in the advertisement must be counted. The prefixes "For Sale," "For Rent," "Lost" and similar are to be counted in the total number of words in the ad. The number and letter in a blind ad are to be counted as one word. Classified display, 50c per inch. One inch business cards per month, $5.00 Classified advertising in by 5 p. m. will be published the following morning.

APARTMENTS

FOR RENT—VERY DESIRABLE furnished apartment—for second semester. Phone 604. FOR RENT—APARTMENT. Phone 654-W. FOR RENT—APARTMENTS. Furnished or unfurnished. See J. A. O'Leary, Phone 793. FOR RENT—FIRST CLASS MODERN, well furnished apartment. July 1st—Phone 2592-J. FOR RENT—NEWLY DECORATED, well furnished apartment. Close in. 419 E. Washington. Two rooms with or without sleeping porch, $30. Also light housekeeping rooms and sleeping rooms. Phone 1650. FOR RENT—FINE FURNISHED flat, modern, four rooms, inlaid hardwood floors, large sleeping porch, garage, garden, lawn, front porch, hot and cold water. Reference required. C. H. Dayton 415 So. Summit.

PROFESSIONAL

Dr. Charlotte MacDougall OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN Office over Coasts' 123 S. Clinton Phone 130-W.

FOR RENT—ROOMS

FOR RENT—IN NEW COOL home, furnished room with private bath. Phone 3541-W. FOR RENT—ROOMS IN DESIRABLE home—board if desired. 824 E. Burlington, phone 3904. DESIRABLE ROOM—5 WINDOWS—private bath. Phone 346.

USE A WANT AD

DIRECTORY

Directory section containing various advertisements for services like RENT-A-FORD, TAILORS, MISCELLANEOUS, MOVING, etc.

Aviation Expert Inspects Airport MacKenzie Declares Flying No Longer Experimental

W. J. MacKenzie of Washington, D.C., an airport expert from the department of commerce, was here yesterday making an inspection of the local airport and advising the Iowa City authorities on the plans for enlarging the field.

Mr. MacKenzie is one of four men who have been working at this business for the department of commerce for the last six months. Each of the four men inspects one airport a day, and they are now far behind their schedule.

Dubuque was the city visited by Mr. MacKenzie before he came here. He left last evening for southern Illinois where there are several airports to be visited.

"Aviation has progressed to a point where it is no longer considered a pastime, but is a vitally important factor in the development of industry," Mr. MacKenzie said. "Cities are now realizing the value of establishing airports and the interest in them has grown to the point where many places are in a feverish haste to build and improve their aviation facilities."

Transport companies and others carrying passengers are especially interested in seeing the fields brought up to the AIA standard, which is the best rating given by the department of commerce. Insurance rates will be lower for planes landing on this type of field, and this will of course mean that the transport companies will save several thousands of dollars annually, depending upon the size of their operations.

Most of the cities Mr. MacKenzie has visited are now undertaking building programs to bring their fields up to the new high standard. Iowa City's field will need an addition of territory on the north side as well as a slight expansion on the west side before it can qualify for the new rating. The border lights will also have to be improved slightly, and the surface kept up to its present good condition.

Textile Strikers Submit Returns of Poll to Board

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 2 (AP)—The poll of operatives affiliated with the New Bedford textile council unions, on the question of submitting the strike issue here to arbitration, was completed tonight and the decision forwarded under seal to the state board of arbitration.

Police broke up a crowd of more than 2,000 strikers and sympathizers at the Whitman mill tonight. A picket line of about 10 men, women, and children were about to disperse when police arrived. No arrests for picketing were made although the crowd hooted and jeered the police, when the latter threatened that unless streets were cleared rapidly they would take as many as they could handle into custody.

Former Fighting Kentucky Gov. Dies in Peace

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 2 (AP)—A political drama of a quarter century ago that had its setting in the capitol of Kentucky and Indiana, was recalled today by the death here of William S. Taylor, one of the principals. Taylor was a willing exile from Kentucky, the state he left in 1900 when bloody reprisals were threatened following the assassination of William Goshel with whom he waged a bitter fight for the office of governor of the blue grass state.

Taylor died in his seventy-fourth year, a victim of heart disease. Funeral arrangements are being held in abeyance pending word from a son who lives in San Gabriel, Calif.

Longleys on Vacation

The Rev. and Mrs. Harry S. Longley and their daughter, Nancy, 212 S. Johnson street, are in Evanston, Ill., where they will visit Mrs. Longley's parents until Sept. 1.

President of University of Texas Favorably Impressed by Iowa Union

An inspection of Iowa Union was the primary object of the visit of Harry Vandell Benedict, president of the University of Texas, in Iowa City yesterday. President Benedict, in company with J. H. McCurdy, secretary of the Texas ex-students' association, and G. H. Dahl, and R. L. White, both architects, have been visiting student unions at various universities in this section of the country, as a basis for making plans for a similar structure at the University of Texas.

President Benedict expressed himself as "liking the Iowa Union very much." He was particularly impressed with the lounge, which is the biggest he has seen. "It is immense, without oppressing you by its size," he said.

"The university has made great progress since I was here four years ago," President Benedict remarked. "At that time they were just beginning the medical buildings west of the river—it was all torn up over there. They had just finished the chemical laboratories. And the slope west of your old Capitol—that was torn up too."

News About Town

Council to Meet

Consideration of regular business will be taken up by the city council members at the regular meeting in the city hall at 8 o'clock tonight.

Alderman Kohl Better

Leo P. Kohl, city alderman, is reported to be recovering rapidly from an appendicitis operation which he underwent at Mercy hospital last Saturday.

Detour Abandoned

No longer do motorists going between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids have to use a detour at the Northwestern railway tracks just south of Cedar Rapids on Highway No. 161. The overhead bridge has been completed and thrown open for use so that motorists do not have to leave the pavement before entering Cedar Rapids now.

No Births or Marriages

No births were filed nor were any marriage licenses issued from County Clerk W. J. Barrow's office yesterday.

Miss Shaff Leaves for Vacation

Addie Shaff will leave her duties as district court reporter for one month to visit her mother at Kansas City, Mo.

Rebuild Marengo Depot

Under the direction of General Manager P. F. Paterson of Iowa City, a force of men are rebuilding the Rock Island station at Marengo this week.

Paving Nearly Done

Paving from the Bushman corner into North Liberty, slightly more than five miles, will be finished today if good weather permits steady work. A period of 28 days will be allowed for the road to set before it is opened to public use. This is the first section of paving in Iowa county to be finished under the $999,000 program voted last year.

Equity Petition Filed

A petition in equity was filed today by S. T. Morrison against Ezra Bliss, Jr., Mary N. Bliss, et. al. The plaintiff prays to be decreed absolute owner in fee simple of the real estate property along the Red Ball road beginning at the southeast corner of government lot two, section three, township 79, north, range six, west of the fifth p.m. The property runs 54 feet along the center of Red Ball road.

Three Deeds Filed

Three warranty deeds were filed yesterday by County Recorder John M. Kadlec as follows: George B. Stapp and Blanche A. Stapp, lot 19 of block 40 of East Iowa City; Fred Gegenheimer and Lizzie Gegenheimer to R. R. Ropp, lot four in block one of Oxford; and Anna Dennis and Gertrude F. Dennis to Edna P. Choate, lot one in block one, Chautauqua Heights addition to Iowa City.

Shebek Funeral Arrangements Not Complete

Funeral arrangements for Tom Shebek, 48 years old, who committed suicide by hanging yesterday morning, have not yet been completed, and the body will remain at the Hohenstuhli mortuary.

Mr. Shebek used a hay rope to end his life, and he had been dead more than an hour before his brother, Joe Shebek, found the body. Coroner George Maresh was notified at once, but after investigation found it unnecessary to conduct an inquest.

As Mr. Shebek had apparently been in good health, no reason for his act could be determined.

Paris Cleaners Get Permit for Cleaning Plant

Paris Cleaners were granted a building permit yesterday to erect a new cleaning plant between Iowa avenue and College street, back of the Block coal company.

The estimated cost of the new plant is $2,000. J. H. Huntzinger company will be the contractors.

Ott to Serve Time at Mt. Pleasant Hospital for Insane

Mike Ott, who was arrested Monday night, has been sentenced by the insane commissioners to an indeterminate sentence at the state insane hospital at Mt. Pleasant.

Ott was arrested with William Slattery Monday night at Chicken Inn, a sandwich shack near Coralville. Slattery was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail, by

Sullivan Drops Dead; Apoplexy Cause -- Maresh

Justice of Peace Elias J. Hughes. Ott was arrested and served a jail sentence recently for driving while intoxicated.

Mr. Sullivan made his home at the Holub hotel, and has resided in Iowa City practically all his life. He is survived by four sisters, Mrs. C. A. Burns, Alice and Ella Sullivan, all of Iowa City, and Mrs. Mary Martin of Sioux City, and three brothers, Dr. Lawrence E. Sullivan of Donahue, and James and Dennis Sullivan of Iowa City.

Nicholson Shows Educational Zeal Among Laborers

"There is an intense zeal among the working people of England to gain knowledge," said Prof. John H. Nicholson, director of the extramural studies in the University of Bristol, England, in his lecture at Old Capitol yesterday at 4 p.m.

"After the World war, there came a great social reform and the laboring class thought that it should be able to understand the current political and social problems. To this end the work of adult educational movements was stimulated by co-operation of the universities, the state, and the city authorities. The movement was most strongly developed in London."

The education of the adult in England is closely connected with the social development and was prompted by religious and humanitarian motives. In the earliest adult schools, reading and writing were taught and the Bible was the most accessible textbook. In 1823, the Mechanics Institutes were started; in 1854, the Working Men's college;

Hickman Doomed

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP)—The fate of William Hickman, slayer of Marion Parker, 12 year old Los Angeles girl, was sealed today when the California state supreme court handed down a three line decision denying him a re-hearing of the appeal refused him a few weeks ago. Hickman must go to the gallows at San Quentin prison within the next four months.

Chicago News

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Chicago police department today announced that it had arrested a man who was charged with the murder of a woman in the city last week.

Pope Rejected

ROME, Aug. 2 (AP)—The pope's rejection of the Chinese government's offer to recognize the new government was announced today.

---Starts This Morning---

FINAL CLEANUP SALE

Balance of our Spring and Summer Hart Schaffner & Marx Suits

206 Hart Schaffner & Marx Suits go at

HALF PRICE

- $25.00 Suits now $12.50
- $28.50 Suits now $14.25
- $35.00 Suits now $17.50
- $45.00 Suits now $22.50

This is the final cleanup of our spring and summer suits--no foolin'--it's the biggest value event you'll see in years--plenty of sizes, plenty of patterns to choose from, but you'll have to act quickly

COASTS'

Volume 28
F
"Hoo
for Leader for F in CHICAGO,
man L. J. D. leader of the bloc in the today told J.
manager of committee, t
Hoover was the fall coun
nominee's ho
Mr. Dickin
corn, and w
west has ev democratic place the co program in planters inst
author of the Dekinson
The Iowa
a conference added to the
ers at wester devote his e remainder of Hoover's cam
Mrs. A. C.
today for t
called by Dr morrow. She faction over
home state,
the best they
Arkansas
Mrs. Romme
not forgotten
in the Mis
Arkansas is with Hoover
extremely ro
Mrs. Romme
ordinarily yote of near one, she exp
can victory
She said Ar
Senator Joe
state would favorite son.
Jury Me
Electi
CHICAGO, special grand regularities
April primar higher ups, t directing its quity started Returning charging con
election laws,
jury included
persons, the city collector
nee for sanit
son, Judge E
cently acting criminal cour
B. Leonardo,
the Eilers, ar
politics in t
Ward," of v
the "boss."
The July gr
out of exist
ments, namin
persons o ch
kidnappings omended the grand jury t
the investigat
tioned for t
In court against the E
the defendant
killing of Oct
elan, and opp
for ward cor
shot on prim
Pope Re
Nation
for C ROME, Au
of the pope
bishops in Ch
is generally recognition of ee-governme
The pope's was address clergy, and them to all o
noble Chinese pontiff recall
China and re
national inter
The pontiff always has t ing of perfect
ancient symph
tion of the B
St. Peter's.
Thanks to pressed with the city war
liff said, that peace both at be insured by
of charity and
In order to holiness teach aspirations" a be fully ackno