Kellogg Embarks for Paris to Sign Anti-War Treaty

Fourteen Nations Will Send Delegates to Ratify Pact

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Secretary Kellogg left Washington today for Paris, where he will sign with fourteen foreign statesmen the treaty renouncing war as an instrument of national policy.

The secretary was accompanied by Mrs. Kellogg, and three aides of the state department, Lillian H. Beck, private secretary; Spencer Phenix, technical adviser; and Michael J. McDermott. They will go on board the steamship Le de France immediately upon their arrival at New York and the vessel will sail for Paris shortly after midnight.

Signing of the multilateral treaty in the famous clock room of the French foreign office in Paris at noon on Monday, August 27, will mark the consummation of a new movement toward the great ideal of world peace. The compact grew out of diplomatic discussions between the French foreign minister, Aristide Briand, and Secretary Kellogg and negotiations have been in progress since last December.

The other countries whose representatives will sign the treaty are Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the Irish Free State, India, Germany, Italy, Japan and Poland. When the treaty comes into effect after exchange of ratifications, it will be open to the adherence of all the other nations of the world.

Mr. Kellogg will remain in Paris only four or five days and then will go directly to Ireland, probably to board the American cruiser Detroit at Cherbourg, to return the call made on him in Washington by President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State. After a few days in Dublin the secretary will go to London to visit friends. He then hopes to be able to return to the United States on the steamship Leviathan, sailing from Southampton September 4.

Daily Iowan Starts "Jessie Mae Fund" to Help Orphan Girl

Today, Jessie Mae Lewis, 13-year old orphan of tragedy will learn that Iowa City not only has a heart that grieves over her loss of mother and father but has also, two generous hands that dig at once into well-filled pockets.

This morning, Jessie Mae will see for the first time the names of those firms and persons who lead off the Jessie Mae Trust Fund, established by THE DAILY IOWAN in behalf of the youngster, and to be administered by W. J. McChesney, president of the First National bank, where the funds are to be deposited.

In each successive issue of THE IOWAN will appear the names of those persons and business houses whose charity makes them share in the orphan's welfare. By the death of her parents the girl was left without any source of revenue or any means of support.

All the lights in Jessie Mae's world went glimmering Thursday night. Within twenty seconds the five shots that killed her father, Jess F. Lewis, and her mother, Anna M., swept away her plans for the future, removed her from a contented home, killed her hopes for education, and settled deep sadness upon her young shoulders.

Probably the girl didn't know, until this morning, that cities are awkward giants who move about until their cold hearts are stirred and then in their clumsy way, set about to right things.

Iowa City, today faces this task. Somehow there must be erased from Jessie Mae's mind, the memory of the tragedy, the frightful horror at the shots and her own helplessness—the panic at learning that her mother was dead. Then, there must be some provision made for Jessie Mae's future.

Hoover Journeys Eastward Toward New Battleground

Nominee to Arrive at Iowa Birthplace Tuesday

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17 (AP)—Rousing receptions, swelling into a tumultuous ovation at Los Angeles, were accorded Herbert Hoover today as Southern California sent him eastward to do battle for the presidency.

As the republican candidate turned to face the turbulent months ahead, he gave citizens of his adopted state the assurance that he joined them in desiring the "Greatest reservoir and the highest dam at Boulder canyon that the engineers will recommend."

The statement, delivered from the sunny front of the Los Angeles city hall, was greeted by cheers from the largest crowd that has welcomed the presidential candidate to any city since his nomination. Thousands thronged the street in front of him and covered the face of the hill before the moss covered hall of records.

Speaks at Los Angeles

His approach to the city hall led through a line between thousands of persons who had laid aside their work to welcome him to their city.

His speech concluded, the candidate returned to his automobile to be driven to Long Beach to visit awhile with his fellow Iowans and entrain again for the long journey to Washington.

Hoover's reception in Los Angeles was but a continuation of the hearty greetings that have marked his progress to this place from his home at Palo Alto. Sent forward from that place last night by the cheering words of friends among whom he lives, the nominee was hailed by crowds at four California towns before reaching Los Angeles.

Little time was given Hoover to make last minute changes in his West Branch speech. Each new stop brought additional dignitaries to be welcomed, and there was little opportunity for him to give the final touches to the address in which he is expected to give the residents of his birthplace additional light on his farm relief plan.

Week's Storm in South Takes Toll of Damage, Lives

Five States Emerge From Isolation of Wind, Rain

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 17 (AP)—Eleven lives and several millions of dollars' damage stood as the cost of this week's storms and floods in five southeastern states tonight as the flood waters drained toward the sea, and cities, towns and communities emerged from isolation.

Ruin from raging waters stretched through the valleys of streams from northern Virginia to the Lake Okechobee district of Florida. All of the dead except one were inhabitants of the Carolinas or Virginia. One man was killed in Georgia.

Crops, highways and railroads suffered the most extensive damage although property losses were severe in some sections as a result of cyclonic winds and inundations. Thousands of acres of growing crops virtually were destroyed and additional destruction was expected before the waters had passed off.

Macon, central Georgia city, had most of the communication facilities there open for travel, including the railroads which have repaired washouts and restored usual service to all points today. Wilkinson county, Ga., emerged from its isolation, and Milledgeville, Oconee river town saw the flood waters drop five feet, relieving acute situations there.

No estimates of the damage to highways in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia were available, but Georgia officials announced that $300,000 would be required to restore highways torn by the flood torrents. Florida estimated a similar sum unofficially.

Mesaville, the Savannah river which reached its fall line at Augusta, Ga., was raging from the mountains. Hamburg, S. C. Carolina, across the stream from Augusta was inundated and several hundred inhabitants had fled to higher ground. Augusta, protected by a nine mile levee, was safe and dry. The weather bureau said the river was higher than ever before recorded.

Lost War Boat Raised After 9 Years Mystery

British Admiralty Did Not Know How Crew Sunk

LONDON, Aug. 17 (AP)—A naval mystery of nine years standing has been brought to light by yesterday's announcement from Leningrad that the British submarine L-55 had been raised in the Baltic, for apparently the British admiralty itself had never known just how the submarine was lost.

A brief communique was issued on June 12, 1919, announcing that an unnamed submarine, operating in the Baltic was missing and that it was assumed that she had been lost with all hands. The relatives and next of kin were notified. That was all that the British public knew until yesterday's Leningrad news.

Russia Investigates

A Russian technical commission is making an investigation to establish whether the vessel was destroyed by Russia shell fire during fighting when the British were helping the white Russians against the Bolsheviks after the war, or whether she collided with a mine while submerged.

It appears, according to the Russian account, that when the conning tower of the L-55 appeared above the surface of the water the Russian destroyers Azard and Gavril began to shell it. After a few minutes an enormous cloud of black smoke arose, a dull detonation was heard and the submarine sank.

The Russian account says that the fight in which the L-55 was sunk took place on June 4, 1919, and that previous to coming to the surface the submarine fired three torpedoes, all of which went wide of their mark. It was not until last spring that Kaporisk bay was completely cleared of mines planted there during the war. The raising of the vessel from the bottom of the bay was attended by great difficulty.

Chapman the Commander

The British admiralty says the L-55 was commanded by Lieut. Commander C. M. S. Chapman and had a crew numbering 41. The government is making application to Moscow for permission to bring the bodies home for burial and if, as is expected, permission is given, a British warship will be sent to Kronstadt to bring the remains to England. It has already been announced by the head of the Russian admiralty that war honors will be paid on the Russian side.

The British admiralty will conduct the interment here with the fullest funeral honors to the men who lost their lives helping in the white Russian fight against the Bolsheviks.

Bootlegger Sells One Too Many

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Roger Radonah is an ambitious salesman. Federal agents say he has peddled red wine, champagne, cordials, and other illegal beverages to busy downtown business men. However, Roger made one sale too many. It happened this way:

Radonah called on a prospective client yesterday with a lively line of samples.

"I'm sorry," said the man, "but I don't drink. However, I'll send you to a fellow you ought to see—Hugh McQuillan. You'll find him in the old post office building. And he's always on the lookout for good stuff."

"All right," replied Radonah. "Thanks a lot." He was off for the federal building.

"I want to see Mr. Hugh McQuillan," said Roger to attendants. He was directed to a small office on the mezzanine floor. There was no name on the door, but Mr. McQuillan was there just the same, and received cordially. In fact, he gave him an order for six cases of liquor to be delivered at an uptown address where one Edward Carrette would receive them.

Radonah delivered the goods today but had no trouble delivering to Mr. Carrette. In fact the gentleman was waiting for him—with a federal warrant. Only then did Roger learn that Hugh McQuillan is chief of the intelligence unit of the international revenue office and that Mr. Carrette is an agent of that department.

The young man was held for hearing.

Des Moines Judge Considers Naming Company Receiver

DES MOINES, Aug. 17 (AP)—Following a hearing today District Judge Lester Thompson announced he would not determine for several days as to whether or not he will name a receiver for the International Life Insurance company.

Outside of the testimony of Don Harlow, assistant state insurance commissioner, the evidence offered before Judge Thompson was entirely documentary. A report of the examination made by state insurance commissioners into the company's status was introduced. It showed a deficit of more than $2,000,000.

At the close of the hearing, Judge Thompson announced he would take the case under advisement. The company, which is already under receivership in Missouri, has $1,900,000 in securities in Iowa.

Locher Gives Hunt Close Run in Ohio Race for Senator

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 17 (AP)—Only the official vote as declared by the state secretary after a canvass of their certified county by the 83 county election boards will determine whether Senator Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, or Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati liberal, has received the democratic nomination for the short term United States senatorship.

A complete check of the vote, the majority of which is still unofficial, gave Hunt the slender lead of 96 over Locher who had the endorsement of the anti-saloon league.

Hunt started out the day with a lead of 445, but corrections and revisions in the unofficial vote of many counties and the reporting of the official vote by others cut his lead down. The complete check gives Hunt $3,566, and Locher $3,470.

The contest is so close, the office of the secretary of state declared, that the final result can be obtained only through a completion of the vote from the official abstracts which the county boards will mail in.

Possibility of errors in transmission or even the official vote by telegraph or telephone would make it virtually useless to attempt to compile the final count in that manner. It was pointed out. It probably will be the middle of next week before all the official abstracts are received from the county boards.

Lindbergh Alive; Does Business of Aviation Company

BURLINGAME, Cal., Aug. 17 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, in San Francisco on business for the Transcontinental Airway Inc., tonight returned to the home of Thomas B. Eastland, here, after a busy day in his San Francisco office.

Personal reports that Lindbergh had been killed were denied by Eastland, who said he had stepped out of the house at 7:15 p.m. after returning there at the end of his day's work.

"Lindbergh is entirely all right. I've seen him within ten minutes," said Eastland.

A rumor that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had been killed or met with serious injury in an accident which has defied definite, well-authenticated news dispatches to the contrary for the past two days, swept across the state again tonight, and reached even Cuba.

In face of the news dispatch from San Francisco published late today stated that Lindbergh had conferred with business men there during the day, newspaper offices in all parts of the country were bombarded with telephone inquiries regarding the rumor of an accident to the flier.

Detectives Seek Insurance Man

St. Louis Authorities Accuse Toombs of Larceny

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP)—Roy C. Toombs remained in seclusion today while detectives sought the investment broker, banker, and insurance executive on a warrant charging him with larceny of $85,000.

The warrant was one of several that have been issued for the man whose financing as head of the International Life insurance company, is blamed for placing both companies in circumstances little short of failure.

The specific charge of larceny under which Toombs' arrest was asked today placed against him by St. Louis authorities. Assets belonging to the company totaling more than $3,000,000 are unaccounted for. It was alleged Toombs had converted much of them to his own use. His brokerage firm in the petition which brought about his receivership this week, federal authorities have begun an investigation of the brokerage concern, directed at possible frauds through the United States mails. Liabilities of the company amount to more than $5,000,000. Edward J. Hess, U. S. district attorney said he was informed.

Toombs, who began his career as a financier in his home town of Winfield, Kans., 20 years ago, has denied he acted illegally in any of his transactions. He contended the charges were made against him in efforts to force him from control of the companies.

His counsel, Eugene L. McGarry, said efforts to extradite Toombs to St. Louis would be opposed. Extradition papers have been requested.

New Mexico Has No Election Funds

Party Candidates Not Yet Chosen; Both Groups Stall

SANTA FE, N. M., Aug. 17 (AP)—A general election coming on and no money with which to finance it, is the predicament faced by New Mexico. The situation is further complicated by the fact that party candidates in the state are so far lacking.

Both parties are marking time with regard to holding the conventions to name candidates, apparently with the idea of waiting to see what candidates are designated by the other in order to present a better balanced ticket to fight the opposing ticket.

Meanwhile, a new complication over the failure of the last legislature to appropriate the necessary $5,000 to hold a general election arose today when State Treasurer Warren R. Graham announced that he would not sign the certificate of indebtedness order by the state finance board on July 6, until his right to honor it had been legally established.

Mr. Graham has asked an opinion from Attorney-General Dow and from J. O. Seth, his private counsel.

While it is generally believed at the capitol that the certificate of indebtedness is legal or that some way may be found to obtain the election money, it is pointed out that if the efforts should fail a special session of the legislature would be necessary before New Mexico could hold its election.

Clark Appointed to National Office

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 17 (AP)—Selection by President Coolidge of Reuben Clark of Salt Lake City, Utah, to be under secretary of state, was announced at the summer white house today.

The chief executive has not yet signed Mr. Clark's commission, which is on its way here from Washington, but the latter has already begun his duties and only formalities remain before the new under-secretary will take his oath of office and enter upon his duties.

President Coolidge regards Mr. Clark as one of the leading international lawyers of the country and therefore as especially suited for his new post. Although he has served the United States in a variety of positions, Mr. Clark has proved himself especially valuable to the state department. Mr. Coolidge was told, as general counsel of the American agent on the Mexican-American claim commissions and later in Mexico City where he went to help Ambassador Morrow negotiate for the renewal of the treaties under which the commissions functioned.

Mr. Clark will succeed Robert E. Olds of St. Paul, Minn., who resigned July 1.

Croatian Leaders Deny Reports of Plotting in Zagreb

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 17 (AP)—Belgrade newspapers today declared that the government had discovered a conspiracy for a coup d'etat, with headquarters in Zagreb. Thirty former Austrian officers are said to have been implicated.

Rumors of possible trouble in Croatia, even of civil war, have been rife in Belgrade since the death of Stefan Radich, leader of the movement for an autonomous state in the Yugoslav kingdom. The situation was more disturbed two days ago when the parliament at Belgrade, sitting without the Croat and Serbian agrarian deputies, ratified the Nettuno convention, with Italy when the absent deputies had opposed.

Authorities Seek Identity of Girl

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP)—Authorities faced an enigma today in their efforts to unravel the identity of the young woman whose charred body was found on a highway near Crown Point, Ind., yesterday, and the crime back of the slaying.

At first it was thought to be Adeline Zaccardo, missing sweetheart of a bank robber slain following a hold-up Monday. The woman's identity remains uncertain. Police and county officers have abandoned the theory that other members of the bank robber gang might have slain Miss Zaccardo to forestall her from talking.

The postmortem examination revealed the woman had never given birth to a child while the missing girl is the mother of two children. This, authorities said, offset the incomplete identification of clothing remnants made by the missing girl's relatives.

A possible clue was under investigation this afternoon, with authorities seeking to find the owner of an automobile seen in the vicinity of the slaying Wednesday night. The town marshal of Dyer, near Crown Point, reported seeing a motor car with several strange acting persons in it. He took the license number which he turned over to the investigators.

The body, shot through the head and burned beyond recognition, was found in a ditch. It appeared the slayers had pitched the body in the clothing and set fire to the body after shooting the woman.

Well Drilling for Pohler Completed

At a depth of 143 feet, a water vein sufficient for the well being drilled for the Pohler Grocery company was found Thursday. The well was placed along Iowa avenue just off Dubuque street and adjacent to the store. It was drilled by D. E. Edwards of West Branch.

The boring was difficult; the last forty feet being in hard rock. A casing measuring five and three-eighths inches was driven and the well will now supply fifty gallons per minute.

This well will be utilized in the refrigerating plant of the store. In cooperation with Mr. Edwards the well driller R. H. Pohler plans to install a public drinking fountain, the permit for which will be asked at the next meeting of the city council.

Danbaum Stages Race With Stork; Robbery Unsolved

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 17 (AP)—Further investigation into the $100,000 diamond robbery involving the kidnaping of Morris Kean, jewelry salesman, and Wilmer Klivett, taxi driver, will have to await the arrival of the stork, so far as police inspector, Ben Danbaum, is concerned.

Danbaum last night staged a race with the bird, leaving Chicago, where he was probing the case, and arrived here today, winning the race by many hours.

Klivett and Kean were found handcuffed to a tree several days ago in Wheaton, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

Danbaum said he learned enough in Chicago to convince him and Chicago police that Chicago "talent" was responsible for the job. There were still some questions, however, that he wanted to ask Kean.

PARENTS NOT TO DISCUSS CHILD IN HIS PRESENCE

Naturally parents want to talk about their children, and why not since they are among the most precious and fascinating things in life? It is an inevitable temptation to tell the clever child that Junior said the other day; or discuss with a neighbor the fact that little Ruth will and will not eat; or ask grandmother whether Peggy isn't looking rather peaked. Very likely real help or pleasure may be derived from talking the children over. But what if the child's ears are pricked up to hear? Why then Junior learns what a smart boy he is and tries to think up another. Little Ruth decides that her not eating rice pudding is an important event and maybe next time she won't eat spinach either. Peggy, looking into the mirror, begins to wonder whether it isn't a pretty fine thing to be so pale and so interesting. And thinks perhaps she feels a little dizzy too. No one wants Junior to grow up to be a show off, or Ruth to be always finicky about food, or Peggy one of those people who finds nothing so interesting as her own symptoms. Yet recent scientific research shows unmistakably that these traits are formed in early childhood in just this way.

Personal comments direct the child's interest towards himself and draw it away from action and inquiry in other fields where it belongs. They lead him to attach undue importance to his own talents and idiosyncrasies, thus fixing them as a source of satisfaction and allowing them to usurp the energy that should be turned towards an ever widening horizon of thoughts and deeds.

Parents always have, and always will talk about their children, but they must learn never to do so in their presence.

Ohmann Advises Guidance Clinic for Student Aid

Establishment of a guidance clinic to which students may come voluntarily for expert diagnosis and advice concerning their personal problems is recommended for all universities by Oliver A. Ohmann, a member of the summer session faculty.

Work among the students in the college of engineering enabled Ohmann, a psychologist, to discover the causes of deficiency and the application of remedial work. He sees the college as typical among professional ones.

Freshmen and sophomores encounter the greatest scholastic difficulties, he found, for 75 per cent of the cases of serious defect occur among these classes. The cases tend to persist for at least two semesters.

Nine major groups of causes of scholastic deficiency were discovered. Motivation and interests share first place with intellectual factors, the survey indicated.

Emotional factors rank third, with educational factors in fourth place. Others, in order of their frequency, are environmental factors, study habits and methods, physical factors, teaching methods, and motor factors.

Personal interviews with each student in the surveyed group led to discovery of the troubles which beset the university youths.

Robinson Works on Talk Accepting Demo. Nomination

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 17 (AP)—Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas today put the finishing touches on his speech to be delivered nearly two weeks hence in accepting the democratic vice-presidential nomination.

The notification ceremonies will be held August 30. The Senator declined to discuss what subjects he had touched upon in the address.

The senator said he would take the speech east with him tomorrow when he leaves for New York on his way to Albany to be present for the notification of the party's standard bearer, Gov. Smith, on Aug. 22.

While in New York Robinson expects to go over the details of the campaign with chairman John J. Raskob of the democratic national committee and other party chieftains. He hopes to obtain a more definite line on the speaking engagements to be filled in the early stages of the campaign and expressed regret that he would be unable to accept an invitation to address a meeting in Des Moines on his way home from Albany. The senator said he was afraid the Iowa engagement might interfere with plans for his own notification.

True American Gets High Honor

TOPEKA, Aug. 17 (AP)—An "American of Americans" will win new honors officially tomorrow when Senator Curtis, one-eighth Kaw Indian, is notified of his nomination by the republicans for vice-president. Indians in full dress regalia will be here to solemnize the affair.

Wearing their eagle feathers and war paint, some members of the Pottawatomies will come in early tomorrow from their reservation near Topeka to dance the eagle dance, a tribal religious ceremony. The dance will be given on Kansas Avenue prior to the notification exercises.

As a lad, Senator Curtis lived occasionally with his grandmother, Julie Papan, grand-daughter of White Plume, chief of the Kaws. But one moonlight night she stole to his side by the campfire on the Indian reservation and told him: "Go back to your white ancestors, my boy."

He did, but he never lost the love of the prairie life with the Indians and tomorrow he will have another reminder of those days as he is notified of his highest honor.

A HUSBAND AT HER HEELS

By Mildred Barbour

"I inadvertently threw out a letter I very much want to keep, and I'm trying to locate it..."

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

CELIA DREW, has been obliged, after the death of her father, to go to work. She is the secretary of...

BENJAMIN HARRINGTON, and is engaged to his son, TOM.

LARRY CROSS, a dissipated young chap, who is hopelessly in love with her...

GWEN BURNS, who is rich and socially prominent, Larry, against whom he has done, urges Celia to marry him...

MRS. DREW goes to pieces at the shock of hearing that Celia's engagement is broken and that Tom has left town...

VALL again proposed to her. SHE IS UNABLE to obtain another position, and Gwen urges her to go to New York...

SHE finally goes. AFTER many difficulties, she finds a post as secretary to a rich, eccentric invalid, RICHARD FALCONER, who is writing his memoirs...

IN HIS HOME she meets his attorney, JAMES ANNESLEY.

A PLEASANT friendship springs up between Celia and Annesley, whom Falconer looks upon as a son. His nearest kin, RICHARD FALCONER, the second, is a scoundrel, and the old man has disinherited him...

FALCONER sends for Celia one evening when his death is only a matter of hours.

HE MARRIED HER on his death bed and leaves her his fortune.

CELIA plans a trip abroad, but is called home by her mother's illness.

MISS PAGE Mrs. Drew's companion, tells everyone of the brilliant marriage Celia has made, and the girl's stock booms socially.

TO make her mother, who has been brought almost to death's door by worry, happy and content, Celia conceals the fact of Falconer's death. Mrs. Drew pictures her daughter as married to a rich young man, and Celia says nothing to dispel the idea.

ONE DAY Celia meets Tom Harrington on the street.

SHE REALIZES that he still loves her and that she cares for him. Mrs. Drew, as she convalesces, urges Celia to have her husband down for a few days.

CHAPTER XXXI. IN SEARCH OF A HUSBAND

In her letters to Annesley, Celia had mentioned the desirability of an occasional gift of candy, flowers, or fruit, to impress her mother with the devotion of this absent husband, and she had sent him drafts to cover the expenditures.

She had been gratified to see how happy these supposed love tokens made her mother; and she knew, furthermore, how quickly Miss Page spread the news of their arrival among the neighbors.

On the morning following her mother's expressed wish that her son-in-law pay her a visit, Celia received a magnificent bouquet of roses. In the box was a sealed note, addressed in Annesley's hand. She opened it and read:

"May I be permitted to offer occasionally the tangible evidence of an inspiration of my own, in the name of friendship?"

She held the roses against her face, inhaling their fragrance. Her heart was warm with gratitude for the friend she had found under such curious circumstances in a world that, for the moment, had been unkind to her.

She took the roses to her mother. "Did he say when he was coming to see us?" the invalid asked eagerly.

"He said he would be here before that the request of the day before had been only a whim on her mother's part and that she would forget it."

"Soon," she promised desperately. "But you must remember, darling, that Dick is a very busy man. He works hard and conscientiously."

Her mother sighed, disappointment mirrored in her eyes. "If he waits long, it may be too late," she murmured pathetically.

Celia knelt beside the bed and put her arms around her mother's frail shoulders.

"Don't you dare to talk like that! I'd die, if anything happened to you. I'd die, if all I have in the world," she declared recklessly.

Her mother's eyes opened wide. "Why, Celia, there's your husband."

"Oh, yes. Yes, of course," Celia caught herself up hastily. "But no talk on earth could mean what you mean to me."

She went downstairs, more than ever troubled. What was she going to do about this non-existent husband, whom her mother demanded to see?

She was torn between two conflicting desires—the desire to make her mother happy, and the longing to let Tom Harrington know that she was free to marry him.

"Where is your pride?" she asked herself despairingly. "Do you mean that you'd marry Tom, after the way he treated you?"

Her heart answered for her, and she realized that her love was stronger than her pride. She wrote to Annesley, thanking him for the roses and saying:

"You were kind, but you must not do that again. I have already demanded too much of you. Nevertheless, for my mother's sake, I am enclosing another letter for you to send. I blush for it, but I'll explain that it was not I who wrote it. I have a friend whose sense of humor is irrepressible, and it amuses her to dictate such awkward sentiment, just to embarrass me."

Annesley's reply was: "I read and copied your enclosed letter with appreciation. But I'll confess I was relieved to learn its source. I had believed that you were, perhaps, copying a real love letter sent you by one of your suitors. And call me a jealous and exacting friend, if you like, but, somehow, that idea didn't please me."

She laughed and tore up the letter, mindful of the prying eyes of Miss Page. Later she was thankful she had done so, for she found the woman in the kitchen, carefully going over the contents of a waste basket that the maid had just emptied.

Miss Page had the grace to blush, but she was quick with an excuse.

"I inadvertently threw out a letter I very much want to keep, and I'm trying to locate it in the trash."

"Isn't it funny, Mrs. Falconer, how we women always destroy the wrong thing when we go in for a burst of cleaning?"

"The voice was so sweet, the eyes so guileless."

"It is!" said Celia dryly, and left the kitchen, much disturbed. Had the girl done this before, and had she, Celia, always remembered to destroy, bit by bit, Annesley's real communications to herself?

"Something is troubling her? Do you know what it is? If you do, make every effort to correct it, because her condition is precarious just now."

In desperation, Celia appealed to Gwen.

"What on earth am I going to do?"

"Simple, my dear. Your nice Mr. Annesley has passed on your husband-on-paper. . . . Ask him to pose in person, for a day or two."

Canadian Prairie Estimates Predict Good Production

CHICAGO, Aug. 17. (AP)—Contrary to unofficial estimates that the Canadian prairie provinces will harvest 531,000,000 to 554,000,000 bushels, wheat prices advanced today failed to hold well. Buying which attained considerable volume at times, was based largely on opinion that at present levels the ownership of wheat is not a speculation but an investment.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, but lower to be adjusted, corn, he off to be up, oats to be down, and provisions varying from 5 to 10c setback to a rise of 35c.

In addition to Canadian crop estimates 118,000,000 to 141,000,000 bushels larger than was harvested last year—the wheat market late in the day had to withstand the fact that export demand for wheat from North America was disappointing, and was limited to a moderate amount, wheat price advances today.

It was pointed out that Chicago wheat quotations today were 25 to 28c a bushel lower than a year ago. Ideas that there is a tremendous world crop, and that wheat should seek an extremely low level were attacked.

Corn prices most of the day were firm for the September delivery but new crops were easier on account of favorable weather. Leading owners of cash corn were out of the market for the time being. Cash corn prices were steady to 2c up relatively, with No. 2 yellow selling at 14c over September, and corn arrivals in Chicago today totalling only 48 cars. Oats tended lower, influenced by liberal receipts here. 28c cars September and December oats sold at a new low price record for the crop.

Provisions acted easier, with the hog market 10c to 25c off. The Modern Miller says: "Winter wheat movement has slowed up after early rush of combine wheat. Northwest threshing progressing favorably. Weather in Canada cool and showery and crop ripening rapidly. Manitoba crop is ripe and cutting being rushed. Some early threshing shows good yields. Frost damage in Alberta negligible."

R. O. Cromwell wires Lamson Brothers from Des Moines: "From Marshalltown to Ames and here corn promises a large crop. From Cedar Rapids standpoint, increasingly heavy. Too heavy in some fields, three to four or more stalks fall and succor per hill, with ear smaller than normal. This condition probably due to planting seed liberally, because of several unfavorable spring seasons in the last few years and to rich ground previously in sweet clover, etc. Adjacent fields often do not show this condition. Plants are not very scarce. More Iowa farmers who have sold their cattle have bought more than is usually the case. Most year's new purchases are delayed until fall. One group of farmers went to Texas for cattle and found heavy competition, paying 11c for stuff to arrive October 1, after covering Nebraska and hills, where there was 12c cents. George C. Bryant wires Jackson Brothers from Columbus, Ohio: "Cleveland to . . . corn generally in splendid condition; only few late planted fields are weeding and stand thin; early fields are fast passing."

Want Money Back

Mrs. Pearl Champagne of Chicago, who a year ago married Bernard F. Champagne, believing him heir to an $80,000,000 estate in New York, made loans totaling $2,000 to her husband, since disappeared. She has wired police in Richmond, Va., where Champagne is said to be held for getting $15,000 from a widow whose daughter he courted.

The roasting ear stage and beginning to dent. Corn borers are at work in many fields in northern part of state, but no damage has resulted to date.

Grain futures purchased August 16, were: wheat 26,700,000; corn 15, 378,000; oats 2,406,000; rye 1,380,000. Total 47,032,000 bushels. Open interest August 16: wheat September 41,632,000; Dec. 64,755,000; corn Sept. 32,857,000; Dec. 41,586,000 bushels.

Europe Cuts Down on Military Supplies

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 16 (AP)—International distrust in Europe has disappeared and with it the need for maintaining huge military establishments, Sir Herbert Ames, former financial director of the League of nations secretariat today told delegates to the institute of politics.

"Ideals of peace are developing swiftly and surely in Europe," he said. "In eight years 90 treaties of arbitration and security have been signed, and now come the Kellogg treaties to cement the remaining gaps. Today there is no serious threat to European peace, and there is reason to believe the next ten years will see an even greater advance."

Speculators Upset Again by Flurry of Money Rates

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—A flurry from 5 to 7 percent in call money rates figuratively upset the apple cart of speculators for the advance in today's stock market. Early gains of 1 to 3 points were rapidly cut. Sales again fell short of 3,000,000 shares.

A slightly easier undertone was apparent, however, in the time money market where funds were again available at 6 to 8 percent as against 6 1/2 earlier in the week.

Motor shares were again among the leaders in speculative activity. Graham-Paige retained leadership by climbing nearly 6 points to a new high at 44 1/2 and then slipping to 41. Chrysler ran into further profit taking and closed 11 points lower at 94 after having dipped to 92 1/2. General Motors selling ex dividend 11, showed net gain of a point at 18 1/2 after having sold as high as 18 1/2.

U. S. Steel rallied nearly 3 points to 149 and then eased to 147 1/2. Republic Steel ran up 3 points to 65 1/2. American Smelting was big up to a new high record at 215* and then slipped back 2 1/2 points on realizing. It looks very much as if a young fellow named George Pipgras, who was doing some first-class flinging for the New York Yankees, will finish well up among the notables in the American League this season.

George made a mighty commendable record with the Yanks last year and finished off the season by winning the second game of the World's Series last fall. He held the heavy hitting Pirates to seven well scattered bingles and seemed to take up the business of pitching at the start of this year just where he left off last October with that Pittsburgh victory.

Yankee Ace of the Mound

It looks very much as if a young fellow named George Pipgras, who was doing some first-class flinging for the New York Yankees, will finish well up among the notables in the American League this season.

Relic of 1889 Days Lists Strange Rules on First Hawkeye Gridiron

A relic of the days when football games were won only by goals from field and when it was a foul to carry the ball, is the first rule book issued at the University of Iowa.

This pamphlet, discovered in old files at the department of athletics, was published in 1889 by Frank G. Pierce, for three years a fullback on the Hawkeye eleven and captain of the 1891 team.

But the rules were not kept in force during the entire season of 1889 nor were they used at all in 1890. In November, 1889, the first Iowa team to play football resembling the modern game took the field against Grinnell college, but was defeated, 24 to 0.

Yankee, Canadian Clash in Golf Meet

MONTREAL, Aug. 17 (AP)—For the first time since 1914 the final round of the Canadian amateur golf championship will be an international contest between an American and a Canadian player.

W. K. Lamman, Jr., of Columbus, Ohio, sole survivor of an American contingent that originally numbered seventeen players, seven of whom qualified for the match play, will meet C. Ross Sommerville of London, Ont., winner of the title in 1926, in the final 36 hole match over the Summerlea course tomorrow.

Lamman entered the final today with a sweeping victory over J. H. Mountfield of Edmonton, Alta., 16 and 8. Sommerville defeated F. J. Hobbilte of Toronto 3 and 2.

Pastor Publishes Reply to Smith's Debate Proposal

Straton Demands to Choose Suitable Meeting Hall

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP)—Dr. John Straton tonight made public a letter to Gov. Alfred E. Smith in which the pastor asserted that the failure of the governor to meet him in joint debate in any place designated by Dr. Straton "will automatically brand you before the world as a bluffer, a Tammany trickster and a coward."

The letter is in reply to communication from the Governor demanding a "yes or no" answer to his request that Dr. Straton afford the governor an opportunity to answer in Calvary Baptist church the charge made by the pastor from the pulpit two weeks ago that Governor Smith is the deadliest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom.

Declaring that his answer is "emphatically and unchangeably 'yes,'" Dr. Straton reiterated his demand that he be permitted to choose the meeting place, which he has insisted shall be other than Calvary Baptist church.

Full text of Dr. Straton's letter follows:

"Dear Governor Smith: Your letter of August 14 to hand. You have challenged me to a debate or a joint discussion of my allegations that your record proves you, as a candidate for the presidency of the United States, to be 'the deadliest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom.'"

"I have definitely accepted this challenge and stand ready to meet you face to face and submit my proof and to give you every opportunity to reply."

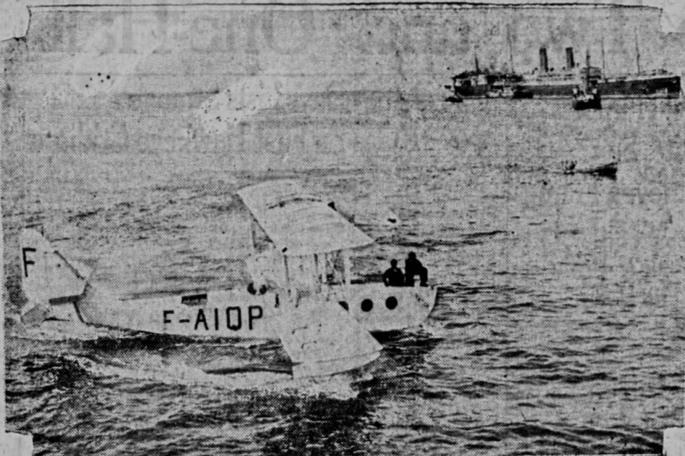

Demand for Honored Privilege—"As the challenged party, I stand on the time-honored privilege of naming the place for the discussion, and shall name a place that will not arouse sectarian bitterness nor drag the religious issue into the contest."

"The vital point is that you have challenged me to a joint discussion of your record and not to a personal appearance in a church. You have asked whether I would meet you and your last letter demanded a reply of 'yes' or 'no.' My answer is emphatically and unchangeably 'yes.'"

"Unless you can now stand up to your own challenge, your action in running to cover will leave me free to take whatever steps in the matter I may deem wise and right and will automatically brand you before the world as a bluffer, a Tammany trickster, and a coward."

"Very Sincerely yours,
John Roach Straton."

Smith Kept Busy With State Duties, Campaign Affairs

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP)—Kept as busy as the old woman who lived in a shoe, Governor Smith today gave a hot weather sample today of what it means to be the governor of a great state and a presidential nominee at the same time.

The governor's activities for the day, as he turned from one detail of state or campaign business to another, ranged from posing for talking movies to political conferences with two party leaders.

To Have Quiet Weekend

As he struggled to clear his desk, the nominee looked forward with relief to a relatively quiet weekend, and a brief rest before the delivery of his acceptance speech, which he has completed but has not memorized, from the east steps of the state capitol at dusk next Wednesday evening.

New Rate Causes Air Mail Record

San Francisco Mail Doubles Average in Day Load

Reduction of air mail rates to five cents per first ounce has already resulted in a new peak record load of 621 pounds of eastbound air mail in one day from the San Francisco bay region, W. G. Herron, vice president of Boeing Air Transport, operating the San Francisco-Oakland-Chicago route, announced yesterday.

This is nearly double the former average eastbound air mail load of 340 pounds per day.

Pacific Air Transport figures for the same date as the eastbound peak load, show 206 pounds of mail from Portland, including Seattle mail, and 189 pounds dispatched north from Los Angeles, these totals also representing a 100 percent increase.

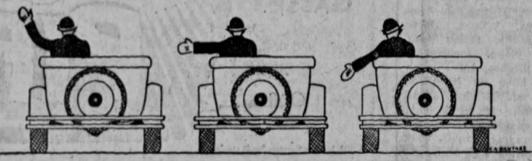

Northbound air mail from San Francisco now averages more than 100 pounds daily as compared to a former average of 55 pounds.

"With air mail rates now reduced so that the average business letter can be sent by air anywhere in the United States for five cents, business houses are rapidly beginning to use air mail for all routine correspondence, especially to distant points," Mr. Herron pointed out.

"When it costs, as it now does, only three cents more to dispatch a letter to New York by air mail than to send it by train, the business man figures the three full days saved in transit is well worth a cent a day to him."

"A recent check of San Francisco banks, insurance companies, and large mercantile establishments disclosed that most of these concerns have now reversed their former practice and are using air mail exclusively for all correspondence, with branches in the east, north and south."

HERE'S THE WAY TO SIGNAL

Kansas to Honor Curtis at Topeka

Next Week Kansas Focus Attention on Hoover

TOPEKA, Aug. 17 (AP)—In the heart of America's farm lands where the party fought its pre-convention battle, republican hosts were assembling tonight to join with Kansas in its celebration tomorrow at the formal notification of Senator Curtis of his nomination for vice president by the republican party.

Kansas stood by Senator Curtis to the end of his fight for the presidential nomination and it is going to make the most of its opportunity to honor its senator as the vice presidential nominee. Curtis after the pipe of peace after his defeat for the presidential nomination when he took the platform at the Kansas City convention upon his nomination for vice president and called for a united party. Tomorrow he will reiterate that declaration.

Leaders Arrive—Arriving republican leaders from all sections of the country found Topeka gaily draped today with flags, hunting and colorful insignia. While the national political leaders talked over politics generally they found the Kansans thinking principally about the prices for their bumper crops and the celebration for "Charlie" Curtis.

From almost every place of prominence hung a large picture of Senator Curtis. It is the same picture which predominated in this state in the republican presidential race and it still stands alone.

Hoover to Cross State—Next week when Herber Hoover, the party's presidential nominee, travels across this state on his return to Washington the Kansans will give him their attention. Senator Capper and David Mulvane, republican national committeemen from this state, will go with Mr. Hoover to West Branch, where he will expound again his views on agriculture.

While Senator Fess of Ohio, who will notify Senator Curtis of his nomination tomorrow, and a delegation of New Yorkers headed by Matthew Quay Glased, reached Topeka today, the vice presidential nominee gave his attention to meeting members of the family who came from the east. He was at the station with a sister, Mrs. R. Colvin, of this city, to welcome another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Gann of Washington, and his daughter, Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight of Providence, R. I.
