Mrs. A. S. Pillars Entertains Seven at Garden Party

Mrs. A. S. Pillars, 308 Muscatine avenue, entertained seven friends at a garden party yesterday afternoon. Part of the guests played bridge at a table placed in the garden, while the others played croquet. At 5 p. m. the hostess served a two course luncheon at the garden table.

The guests included Mrs. Clyde Nicholson, Mrs. B. F. Heck, Mrs. H. W. Chebeck, Mrs. R. J. Phelps, Mrs. J. O. Long, Mrs. G. H. Miller, and Mrs. Jerry Miller.

Nettie R. Steady Weds Elgin Man

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Nettie Ruth Steady, 27 of Elgin, Ill., daughter of Frederick Steady, to John Lewis Ruessner, also of Elgin.

The wedding took place on Thursday, Aug. 16, in Princeton, Ill. Mr. Ruessner received his master's degree from the University of Iowa. The couple will make their home at Anamosa.

Lillian Young Gives A Dancing Party

Lillian Young was hostess at a dancing party Saturday night at her home in North Liberty. Six couples were included.

Among the out-of-town guests was Cecelia Miller of St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. John Piper were chaperons at the dance last night at the city park pavilion. Guy Ogilvie's orchestra furnished the music.

TEACH CHILDREN SPORTSMANSHIP MRS. LYNE SAYS

By MRS. AGNES LYNE
The American Davis Cup team has recently suffered defeat at the hands of the French. But our national pride can hear it since the American players met their reverses gallantly. Defeat, though never welcome, is disgraceful only when it is taken in a poor spirit.

Good grace in adversity is a trait all need to have in reserve. Like every other virtue it must be ingrained in the young child if it is to be an easy and natural response in the adult.

During his early years the child must learn to take without a feeling of being cruelly wronged such disappointments as the picnic that couldn't come off because of the rain, the balloon that burst in its prime, the candy forbidden for reasons of health. It comes running home with a woe-fell tale about the boy who got all his marbles, he should be told in a quiet and detached manner that when he plays marbles he must make up his mind that he is likely to lose them—and if he can't lose cheerfully he had better not enter a game.

It is his mother's attitude at such moments which largely determines that of the child. She should discuss the incident in a kindly but matter of fact way, and immediately divert his attention to some happier preoccupation. Thus she fixes in him the habit of accepting the inevitable unpleasant without dwelling upon it and of speedily turning his interest into more satisfactory channels.

No amount of ingenuity in handling the child's defeats and frustrations, however, can counteract the bad effect of the spectacle of mother's obvious irritation when she loses a game of bridge or father's open exasperation at a flat tire. The child who sees his mother graciously fuss 'tix the tire has been taught more good sportsmanship than he could learn from any number of talks on the subject.

Breakfast Honors Marguerite Thomas

LEMON MERINGUE PIE
The Crust
1 cup flour,
1/2 teaspoon salt,
1/3 cup fat (lard preferred),
2 tablespoons cold water.

Mix the flour and salt. Cut in the fat with a knife. Still mixing with the knife, very slowly add the water. Mix thoroughly and when the dough is well blended, take up and press into a ball in the palms of the hands.

Place upon a well floured board or paper. Roll out very thin to fit into deep pie pan. Press into the pan. Prick with holes on the bottom and sides. This will prevent blistering during the baking. Bake in a moderate oven for ten minutes or until the pie becomes a golden brown color and shrinks away from the sides of the pan. Add the filling.

LEMON FILLING
3 egg yolks,
1 cup sugar,
1/2 teaspoon salt,
1/3 cup flour,
1/3 cup lemon juice of one large lemon),
1 1/2 cups water.

Beat the egg yolks and add the sugar. Beat for one minute. Add the salt and flour and blend. Add the lemon juice and water. Cook in a double boiler until the filling becomes very thick. Stir frequently to prevent lumping. It will require about fifteen minutes to thicken the filling. Pour into the pie shell.

MERINGUE
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten,
1/2 cup sugar,
Beat the egg whites until very stiff. Add the sugar and beat for two minutes. Roughly pile on the filling and bake in a slow oven for twenty minutes. Set the pie on the back of the stove for half an hour to prevent the meringue from falling. Cool and serve cut in wedge shaped pieces.

LAMB SALAD, SERVING SIX
1 1/2 cups diced cooked lamb (cut in 3/4 inch pieces),
1 cup diced cucumbers,
1/2 cup diced carrots (left over from dinner),
1/2 cup diced celery,
2 tablespoons finely chopped onions,
2 tablespoons finely chopped green peppers,
1 teaspoon salt,
1/2 teaspoon paprika,
2/3 cup salad dressing,
Mix and chill the ingredients. Serve in a bowl, lined with lettuce leaves.

To remove rust stains from fabrics, cover the spots with lemon juice and salt. Expose to the sun's direct rays.

Serve brown sugar with cereal for a change for the youngsters. They will like the variety and relish the cereal.

Set your alarm clock to notify when your baking period is completed. You may continue your work in the other part of the house without worry.

Freshman Girl Students Can Call Currier Hall, Eastlawn "Home"

Hundreds of women students at the University of Iowa in past years have called Currier Hall "home." This year Eastlawn, formerly used as a nurses home, will serve also as a woman's dormitory.

Currier hall has comfortable living quarters for 300 women, while Eastlawn will accommodate 54. Both dormitories have practically the same conveniences and furnishings, and both are covered by the same regulations.

Rooms at Currier hall are lighted by electricity, and with the exception of those on the top floor, have hot and cold running water. Kitchens for the use of the students are on each floor. Private telephones are installed in each room, doing away with the old system of one line for the entire building.

The university provides rugs, shades, single cots, each with a mattress, pad, pillow and pair of blankets, dressers, study tables, and chairs. Students furnish their own bed linen (sheets 54x31 inches), additional covering, couch covers, dresser scarfs, window curtains, towels, and napkin rings. Students may bring lamps and shades, and such pictures as may be hung from the molding.

Parlors are on the first floor. A resident nurse has a suite in the building, as in the matron's suite. There are three dining rooms, where all the residents of Currier hall take their meals.

The government of the hall consists of a house council, made up of the head of the house, the president, secretary and treasurer of Currier hall association elected by the women for one year; and a head of each of the five floors, elected by the women of the floor during the first week. Proctors who serve six weeks are appointed by the head of the floors with the advice of the house council.

The social rules are those of the university with the addition of "signing out," quiet hours, and other details. Each evening after dinner there is a recreation hour with music and dancing. Guests may be entertained at any time. The women are trained to be hostesses, and rotation duties at each dining table are carried out. A formal reception for faculty and friends is planned every year.

School of Music Gives Opportunity for Cultural Study

Courses Receive Full Academic Credit on Degrees

The school of music of the University of Iowa is a department in the college of liberal arts. All courses offered by the school receive full academic credit toward the bacheor of arts and bachelor of music degrees, while all advanced courses are likewise accredited in the graduate college toward the degree of master of arts and doctor of philosophy.

The university recognizes the cultural value of music to the general student and at the same time the need of a sound general education for the professional student. A student of promise is not obliged to choose between a general and musical education, but is enabled to study music either as a major or an incidental subject in a broad course leading to good citizenship, liberal culture, and all-around development of mind and character.

There are three aims for music study at the University of Iowa: first, to bring music into the life of every student who can profit by it through fostering a love of good music; second, to discover and cultivate students who have special talents for performance, teaching, or composition; third, to furnish exceptional advantages for graduate work to teachers and other professional musicians by opportunities for advanced and intensive specialization.

It is the aim of the school to teach a reasonable number of pupils well rather than, for the sake of revenue, to crowd teacher's schedules with formidable numbers of unpromising pupils. Every member of the staff is an expert—a broadly trained musician. This faculty is glad to welcome students of capacity, energy and perseverance.

The requirements for admission imply the student's completion of a four-year high school course. Individuals whose general qualifications will admit them to the university will be accepted in the music department.

The University of Iowa has devoted much attention to the study of the psychology of music under the direction of Prof. Carl E. Seashore, dean of the graduate college and head of the department of psychology of emotion are of particular value to music students.

Music students find the advantages of the entire university at their service as is illustrated by the fact that Dr. Henry J. Prentiss, head of the department of anatomy in a course on the anatomy of the vocal organs.

Prof. Edward D. Starbuck, head of the department of philosophy, offers a course in aesthetics which is attended by many music students. The whole field of musical aesthetics and appreciation is still in the speculative stage awaiting the advent of individuals who are at once scientists and artists, the type of musical scholar whom a university alone may expect to train.

"... Celia, have you died to me? Are you really married? Tell me!"

CONEERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

CELIA DREW, has been obliged, after the death of her father, to go to work. She is the secretary of BENJAMIN HARRINGTON, and is engaged to his son, TOM. The Harringtons disapprove of the match, but Celia does not know this. She has recently rejected a proposal of marriage from HORACE VAIL, one of Harrington's business associates, and incurred his ill will, as a result.

THE HARRINGTONS, to be rid of Celia, concoct a plot, with Vail's help, whereby Tom finds her locked in her office at midnight.

LARRYCROSS, a dissipated young chap, who is hopelessly in love with her. Without waiting for explanations, Tom rushes off. The next day Celia finds herself jobless and the object of gossip. Her sole defender is GWEN BURNS, who is rich and socially prominent. Larry, agast at what he has done, urges Celia to marry him. She refuses and returns to Tom's ring when the day passes without word from him.

MRS. DREW goes to pieces at the shock of hearing that Celia's engagement is broken and that Tom has left town.

VAIL again proposed to her. SHE IS UNABLE to obtain another position, and Gwen urges her to go to New York.

SHE finally goes.

AFTER many difficulties, she finds a post as secretary to a rich, eccentric invalid, RICHARD FALCONER, who is writing his memoirs.

IN HIS HOME she meets his attorney, JAMES ANNESLEY.

A PLEASANT friendship springs up between Celia and Annesley, whom Falconer looks upon as a son. His nearest kin, RICHARD FALCONER, the second, is a scapgrace, and the old man has disinherited him.

FALCONER sends for Celia one evening when his death is only a matter of hours.

HE MARRIED HER on his death bed and leaves her his fortune.

CELIA plans a trip abroad, but is called home by her mother's illness.

MISS PAGE Mrs. Drew's companion, tells everyone of the brilliant marriage Celia has made, and the girl's stock booms socially.

TO make her mother, who has been brought almost to death's door by worry, happy and content, Celia conceals the fact of Falconer's death. Mrs. Drew pictures her daughter as married to a rich young man, and Celia says nothing to dispell the idea.

ONE DAY Celia meets Tom Harrington on the street.

SHE REALIZES that he still loves her and that she cares for him. Mrs. Drew, as she convalesces, urges Celia to have her husband down for a few days.

Chapter XXXII
THE IMPASSE

Celia was agast at Gwen's suggestion that she ask Annesley to visit her and pose as her husband, for the sake of her mother's peace of mind.

"Oh, Gwen, I couldn't. I'd die of shame. Besides, how do I know he could or would do it? He has an enormous practice. He might not be able to get away, even if he didn't scorn the very idea."

"Nonsense! He's your attorney, as well as your friend. From what you've told me of him, I think the man has a sense of humor. The situation would probably amuse him."

Celia put her hands to her temples.

"Oh, I can't. I can't."

"Then what's to be done?" demanded Gwen sensibly. "You adore your mother. Dr. Barnett says it's absolutely necessary to humor her. She's fretting herself into a colic, because her son-in-law doesn't come to see her. Your duty is plain."

Celia knew that something had to be done. All that day she fought with herself, trying to down her embarrassment at the thought of making such a request of Annesley. But, on the other hand, she had to humor her mother.

The invalid had spent a restless night. She said to Celia, the next morning

"I think I'm dying. Oh, my dear child, before I go, I want to see the man to whom you've given your life. I want him to promise me that he will love and cherish and protect you always. I can't forget those horrible days last year when you were all alone and people were gossiping about you. I used to wake in the night, after terrible dreams, seeing you alone and friendless and without money, imagining all the dreadful things that can happen to a girl as pretty and attractive as you, when she has no one to protect her. Darling, I must see your husband!"

Celia was frantic. But still she told herself that she couldn't foist upon her mother a man who was not her husband—even Annesley, if he would play the role.

"What will I do afterwar-d?" she demanded of Gwen, when the latter came to call, later in the day. "I can't, I won't believe that mother is not going to get well. How can I explain a husband who appears only once?"

Gwen was always practical. "You can kill him off, somehow. Quickly, you know. In some remote place, so there won't have to be obsequies that your mother might want to attend."

Celia moaned: "Oh, why did I ever get into this? Why didn't I tell the truth, in the first place? Why didn't I say that my husband was dead?"

"Of course, that would have been best," answered Gwen. "But I can see your reasoning. It wasn't so much the money that your money was thinking of. It was knowing that you are provided for and loved and respected by a nice young man, after that beastly mess last year. And I'll tell you frankly, Celia, that the real truth would never have helped you in this town as your nice little fabrication has."

"I don't care about myself," declared Celia despairingly. "It's only mother whom I'm thinking of."

"You're a sweet daughter, Celia. In fact, you're sweet all around. And you've had a rotten deal. It seems to me you're pulling out splendidly."

"Pulling out splendid!" cried Celia bitterly. "When I haven't a husband to my name, and it's absolutely essential that I produce one?"

All that day she debated with herself, weighing the situation, wondering whether Annesley would actually consent, if she summoned up the courage to ask him.

When Miss Page went for her daily work, she stopped in the living room, where Celia sat, considering her problem.

RUSS COLEMAN

"Mrs. Falconer, I really think you should send for your husband. The nurse thinks so, too. Your mother is simply fretting herself to death. And you know that invalids should be humored. May I ask if there's some real reason why you don't want him to come?"

Celia stared at her, saw the sly, suspicious eyes, the small, malicious mouth, caught a gleam of something that made her flush with indignation.

"Mr. Falconer is a busy man, Miss Page. I have hesitated to ask him to make the journey just now. But there is no reason, aside from his business responsibilities, why he shouldn't come."

"Oh, I thought maybe there was," murmured Miss Page significantly, as she went.

Flaming with anger and wishing with all her soul that she dared dismiss the impertinent young person, Celia went to her mother's room.

"I can't stand Miss Page," she said abruptly. "Would you mind very much if I missed her?"

"Oh, I would, Celia," declared the invalid. "She's so pleasant and chatty. She tells me all the news, when she comes in from her walks. That's pleasant, for a shut-in like myself."

With a sigh, Celia resigned herself to the inevitable.

"How are you feeling this afternoon, darling?"

"Not very well," answered the mother. "Celia, I'm beginning to worry frightfully. Why doesn't your husband come to see you and me? ... Celia, have you lied to me? Are you really married? Tell me!"

Iowa Hall of Fame Numbers Twenty Per Cent University of Iowa Alumni

Want to be a "Who's Who"? Come to Iowa, then.

Twenty per cent of all the Iowans listed in "Who's Who" are graduates of the state university—65 out of 340. These include two state governors, seven congressmen one senator, four judges on the state supreme bench including the chief justice, one judge on the Iowa federal bench, 19 professors, one college president, two editors, one psychiatrist, the governor of Porto Rico, the U. S. public printer, five physicians, nine lawyers, one geologist, one personal expert, one former state school superintendent, and three college deans.

Here They Are
Here's the list:
Frederick W. Beckman, Ph.D., '97

University Claims Sen. Daniel Steck Among Graduates

The university has one standard bearer in the U. S. senate—Daniel F. Steck, L'06 of Ottumwa, Iowa's first democratic senator in years, and the man who won the contest election with Smith W. Brookhart.

Steck practiced law in Ottumwa until the world war after completing his course here. Then he served as captain in the 109th field signal battalion in America and in France. After the war he was state commander of the American Legion and chairman of its national legislative committee in 1921.

He is on the senate committee of military affairs. While at the university he was a Sigma Nu and Phi Delta Phi.

Alumna Completes Primary Textbook About Philippines

Mrs. Matthew C. Cavell, '18 of Marlborough-on-Hudson, N. Y., has just completed a book for primary study concerning the Philippines.

The book includes stories, lesson plans, and suggestions for teachers. It was written at the request of the Missionary Education Movement, and will be published in 1929.

Mrs. Cavell was formerly Jean Moore. For five years before her marriage she was associate professor of religious education at Hartford seminary, Conn., where she had previously taken her Ph. D. degree.

In September the Cavells leave Marlborough for New York city, to be at home at 49 Greve street.

Varied Program to Feature Lodge Picnic, August 29

Athletic contests, stunt program, ball game, picnic supper, musical comedy and a dance comprise the program for the annual family picnic of the Iowa City Eureka Lodge No. 44, I. O. O. F. to be held in the Iowa City park, Aug. 29, at 10 a. m. and evening.

The committee in charge, S. D. Whiting, Albert Husa, Jr., J. L. Ruppert, Alfred Oathout and William Nered have announced that prizes amounting to $7 will be awarded boys and girls winning the athletic contests. These will begin at 1:30 p. m. and will last until 5 p. m. when the ball game between the Eureka lodge and other lodges starts.

The lodge furnishes free coffee and lemonade to all members of the lodge for the picnic supper. Immediately following the supper a musical comedy, "Marrying Marion," will be presented under the direction of S. D. Whiting. The play is open to general public, but the dance following the performance beginning at 9 p. m. is only for Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and members of their families.

On the boys and girls athletic program there will be a 100-yard dash open to boys 12-21 years of age; 100-yard dash for girls 12-21 years of age; 100-yard dash, free for all; 100-yard dash for boys between the ages of 8 and 12 years of age and a corresponding race for girls of that age.

In addition another feature on the program is a baseball throw for boys 15 years and under and one for girls, which precedes a tug-of-war between the Eureka and other lodges.

393 Persons Will Constitute Faculty for Coming Year

Three hundred ninety-three men and women holding ranks from professor to instructor will be members of the University of Iowa faculty during the year 1928-29.

This staff will begin its instructional duties Sept. 17 when the university opens its classrooms for the seventy-second year.

The rank of professor, highest in the scale, is held by 129 persons in the nine colleges and four schools. Associate professors number 46, while there are 81 assistant professors.

Instruction will be given by 26 associates and by 112 instructors. Eight staff members are listed as lecturers.

Among the men who have served the university for many years and who will again teach are Prof. Charles Burdy Wilson, head of the department of German since 1888; Prof. Elbert W. Rockwood, who joined the chemistry staff 40 years ago as an instructor; and Dr. Frank T. Breene, dean of the college of dentistry. Dean Breene became connected with the institution during the same year that Professor Wilson and Doctor Rockwood began their teaching here.

Eighteen Iowa City Boy Scouts Sign for Special Work

Eighteen Boy Scouts, members of local scout troops, had signed up yesterday for service at West Branch on Hoover's Day, Aug. 21. A group of 30 to 40 scouts will be needed to aid in the various activities of that day.

They will be in regular uniform and will be assigned to special duties as ushers, messengers, and assisting in the parking of automobiles.

Those expected to go are: Robert Cornog, Paul Reed, Tom Connell, Jean Reddick, William Donovan, Rodney Stewart, Ray Latham, John Carran, Woodrow Fousek, Carl Cone, Robert Herdlika, Dennis Estridge, Loran Huff, Howard James, Dudley Huff, and Walter Brown.

Officials Make Change in Rules of Aviation Race

W. C. Bollinger, president of the Iowa City chapter of the National Aeronautical association, yesterday received notice from the headquarters office that a different mode of timing the finish of plane in the transcontinental airplane race will be used.

Each plane will be timed as it crosses a line in the aid and not on the ground as heretofore planned. This will not only make the finish more safe, but will cause the scores less apprehension if too many planes finish at the same time.

The planes, which will all be piloted by Canadian flyers, will arrive here about noon of Sept. 9. They will be flying in the Canadian transcontinental race and will come here from Chicago and Ottawa, Can., Iowa City being the second stop on the route.

News About Town

Attend Dental Meeting
Among the local dentists attending the national dental convention at Minneapolis next week are: Dr. John Voss and Dr. F. B. Whinery.

Request Local Aid
The state highway commission has sent a request to D. W. Crum, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, asking that two men be furnished Tuesday for duty at the bridge just outside the city limits on highway No. 139. The narrowness of the bridge makes double traffic dangerous and the commission hopes to speed up travel of the road that day and relieve general congestion by having two men watch the place and direct the motorists.

To Give Party Tomorrow
Members of the Iowa City W.R.C. are giving a card party tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the K.P. hall. Bridge will be played. The public is invited.

Councilman's Son Injured
Councilman Charles O. Payne has received a letter from his family at Pipestone, Minn., stating that his son, Eugene, has a broken arm, received while cranking a tractor. Mrs. Payne, with her children, Eugene, Ethyl, and Florence and sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Simhauser and son, Donald of Bloomington, Ill. is visiting at Pipestone this month.

Miss Baker Hears Hoover
S. May Baker, 298 1-2 E. College street, has received a letter from her sister, Alice C. Baker, who is doing nursing work at Piedmont

Cal., in which she tells of hearing Herbert Hoover make his acceptance speech. Miss Baker was formerly with the American Red Cross here.

Third Signal Started
A new stop-and-go signal at Clinton and Washington streets was put into operation yesterday, making the third for the Iowa City business district. The second signal was put into operation at Dubuque and College street last week, and the first of the new type traffic regulators was started at Dubuque and Washington streets about two months ago. The signals are so regulated as to give the motorist a clear right of way through the streets, if he maintains a steady speed.

Trucks to Aid at Celebration
Motorists who drive to West Branch Tuesday to attend the Hoover homecoming can rest assured that they will be given good service in case of accidents, breakdowns or bad weather. Paul W. Schmidt, president of the Iowa City Automobile club has arranged for the services of nine local trucks. The trucks will not go to West Branch, but will be here ready for immediate service.

Volunteers Sell Taxes
Under the direction of Betty Shattava, a large number of Iowa City girls were selling tags on the streets yesterday to raise money for the Volunteers of America. Funds raised will be used in aiding families of prisoners, and in other like ways.

To Leave for State Fair
Paul R. McGuire, Boy Scout executive, plans to leave this week for

Des Moines where he will direct Lone Scout exhibitions during the state fair. Lone Scouts from several parts of the state will assist Mr. McGuire and give demonstrations of the scout work.

Barth Gets Permit
William Barth, 647 Grant street, was granted a building permit yesterday to erect a $300 garage back of his residence. It will be built by day labor.

Winfield Man Dies
Earl Woodworth, 26 years old of Winfield, died at a local hospital yesterday. His uncles, J. G. and F. J. Jennings accompanied the body to Winfield. The funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Lewis' Friends Arrange Separate Funeral Services

The funeral service for Mrs. Jessie F. Lewis, who was killed by her husband Thursday night, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Oathout funeral chapel. Interment will be in the Hummer cemetery. Vernon L. Sharpe will officiate.

The service for J. F. Lewis, who killed himself after shooting his wife, will be held from the McGovern funeral home at 10 o'clock today, and will be private. The Rev. C. Rollin Sherck will conduct the services, and interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Band to Furnish Opportunities for Young Musicians

The university band furnishes opportunity for incoming musicians to keep up and to gain experience in band music. It has held the honor position in every Big Ten school which it has played. It is considered by the band conductors of the middle western universities to be one of the best concert bands in any school.

The band is under the direction of Dr. O. E. VanDoren. Dr. VanDoren spent years in concert work as a musician. His marches "Pentecost" and "Men of Iowa" are well known among bandmen.

There are practically always openings in every section and a musician with band experience is usually likely to find a place in the Iowa band. When there is a large number out, the best man from the standpoint of ensemble playing and technique is selected for the position.

Students making the band are exempt from military drill for the first two years of college as the band is a part of the military department. Drill takes up considerable time the first few weeks of school and again the last few weeks before national inspection and Governor's day.

The band meets three afternoons a week, usually from 4:30 to 5:30 o'clock.

Every winter a concert is presented of the type of music played by a professional band and during graduation week at the close of the year several concerts are presented.

The band plays at many of the athletic events. The bandmen are admitted free to such events in return for their services. They play for all the home football games, basketball games and some of the baseball games.

Some years the band makes a concert tour of Iowa cities during the spring vacation.

Uniforms Furnished

The bandmen are furnished uniforms. The student must make a ten dollar deposit for the suit which is refunded at the end of the year. Sophomores or freshmen are paid for the few days after school during graduation week which the band must play for. Juniors and seniors get $25 for their services during the year.

Freshmen Should Arrive Wednesday

In general, freshman registration will be completed on Thursday, Sept. 13, as the initial day of "Freshman Week." All freshmen should be here by 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 12, to receive registration materials and instructions to be carried out that afternoon and evening in preparation for formal registration the next day. Upper classmen will register on Friday and Saturday.

Here is the procedure for registration beginning Thursday, Sept. 13:

1. Get registration material and a number slip, telling the time to report for further registration, on the ground floor of the natural science building.
2. New students, never before enrolled in the university, go to room 1, university hall, for admission cards, unless these cards have been received by mail during the summer.
3. All new and old students have fees assessed at the registrar's office, and pay fees at the secretary's office, both in the ground floor of university hall.
4. Go to Iowa Union, where registration is completed.

Engineers May Select Work in Five Divisions

Five branches of the engineering profession are offered in the college of engineering: civil, mechanical, chemical, and commercial engineering. Courses were offered as early as 1857, and were chiefly civil engineering subjects.

Research in floor control carried on in the field by Professors Sherman M. Woodward and Floyd A. Nagler, of the university faculty, has brought the latest, noteworthy distinction, national in scope, to the college of engineering. The Engineering News Record, a leader in its field, said of these men, "Their studies will stand as classic examples of scientific engineering analysis, and will be of distinctive assistance in fostering sound engineering thought on flood protection."

The equipment of the engineering college is the very finest, and with the completion of the new university power plant, facilities for instruction in power plant engineering are exceptionally good. The university water supply system makes possible first hand observation for study of sanitary engineering.

The engineering school maintains a fine broadcasting station, WSUI, for scientific study and investigation as well as to broaden its educational service to the people of the state. The university also maintains two smaller stations for experimental purposes.

There are many courses in advanced wind instruments and in preparation for professional band work. The credit is given in the school of music. These courses for beginners and advanced students are under Dr. VanDoren.

Many graduates of these courses are now playing in leading professional bands of the country. All who have taken the work have found plenty of opportunity for band work during the summer and have secured positions after graduating.

Churches With School Sponsor Religious Side

The moral and religious side of the university is not lacking. Though the university is a state institution and thus non-sectarian, it exercises a religious influence of a positive nature. There are the church of the city, there are the religious organizations on the campus and there is the university through the school of religion and the monthly vesper services to care for the religious side of the student while here.

University Maintains Monthly Vesper Services

The monthly vesper services are given by the university. Speakers of note are brought to the campus and the university music organizations help to make these services effective. The majority of the speakers are clergymen or university men whose field is applied Christianity or history of religion. Next in number are college presidents. The rest are social workers, judges, business men, authors, and newspaper men.

Dr. Edward A. Steiner, Albert Parker Fitch, Rufus M. Jones, Archbishop J. J. Keane, Reinhold Niebuhr, Paul Hutchinson, Mary K. Simkhovitch, Rev. Miles K. Krumbine have been among the vesper speakers during the last two years.

The committee for selection tries to select the leaders in religious thought regardless of denomination. At Christmas and Easter, the Vesper service is entirely conducted by the school of music.

Practically all denominational churches are to be found in Iowa City. They all make special effort to be of help to the students.

In many there are organizations which are part religious and part social.

The Baptist church with the Reverend Elbert J. Smith as minister and student pastor has a regular Sunday school class for university students and the students have a young people's union which meets every Sunday night for worship. The Baptist men have an organization named Delemas and the women have an organization named Theta Epsilon. These organizations are partly social and partly religious.

The Catholic students will find St. Patrick's Catholic church and St. Mary's of help to them. There is a special mass on Sundays for students. The Catholic men and women have a religious organization, the Newman club, on the campus.

The Christian church has places for teachers of Sunday school classes and classes for university students. They maintain an orchestra and chorus in which the students participate.

There are student Sunday school classes and young peoples meetings at the Congregational church. In the new part of the church are student headquarters where they meet each other.

The Episcopal church uses students to teach Sunday school classes and also has the Morrison student club which meets every Sunday night. There is a student center which is always open for student use.

Lutherans Have Forum Class

The First English Lutheran church has a Forum Bible class for students as well as Luther league every Sunday. At Luther league programs special speakers are secured monthly.

All "Laws" Pass Bar Examination

The University of Iowa college of law is one of the foremost in the country, and is one of the 64 members of the Association of American Law Schools. It's first graduating class in 1866 consisted of 11 men; this spring there were 61. All of the 61 graduates passed the Iowa State Bar examination this summer, which is an enviable record.

The Iowa college of law is the oldest law school west of the Mississippi river. It was established at Des Moines in 1865, and was moved to Iowa City and made a department of the university in 1868.

A number of scholarships and prizes are given each year to worthy students and those having a high scholastic record. A loan fund is also available for second and third year students. This year, L. Dale Coffman, won the $75 prize for the best work done in the law of public utilities, offered by the Northwestern Telephone company.

In 1914 the academic requirement for admission was one year of college work, in 1915 two years were necessary, and after January 1, 1930 a degree in arts or sciences from an institution of recognized standing will be the prerequisite. The exception will be the six-year Arts-Law combined course.

The classic law building, built of Indiana limestone, contains a law library of 47,000 volumes, class rooms, a fully equipped court room, study rooms, faculty rooms and a lounge room.

Golf Course Kept Open for Students

The University of Iowa is fortunate in having one of the largest and most sporting golf courses in this part of the country. Finkbine field covers 170 acres of land adjoining the field house. It has an office building, an eighteen hole golf course, and a practice putting green.

The fee for playing is well within the reach of every student. A semester ticket costs but $5, while an occasional round for those who do not care to invest in a semester ticket is charged for at the rate of fifty cents.

Journalism Students Use The Daily Iowan

Newspaper Serves as Laboratory for Classes

Twenty years ago comparatively few workers in either education or journalism believed that colleges could train men and women for successful newspaper work. It was the general idea that in order to be a journalist, one must grow up in the print shop.

It has been demonstrated in the last two decades, to the satisfaction of most leaders in both these fields, that such training is not only practical but necessary. The best possible training should be given, for the good of society, to those who are to control the press. A college education is coming to be more and more an asset, in the tightening competition for newspaper positions, to the individual beginner. Both society and the individual demand education for the journalist.

The school of journalism at the University of Iowa is organized as an integral part of the college of liberal arts, and its curriculum leads both to the degree of bachelor of arts and to the certificate of journalism.

Requires Mental Background

The student is required to take at least two-thirds of his work in the arts and sciences, and thus acquire a mental background and discipline outside his chosen field. His journalistic training is then begun with an orientation course and work in reporting, and pursued through courses in copyreading, organization and management, editorial and feature writing, newspaper law, journalistic history and ethics, advertising, the arts of printing and engraving, and other special courses.

The student is also required to do laboratory work on the practical publications projects of Student Publications, Inc. Thus he comes into contact with the technical manufacture of printed matter and the actual publication of a newspaper, to be sold on the street; he has an opportunity to get his fingers stained with printer's ink—the ambition of a true newspaper man.

Shows Rapid Development

In 1921, the school of journalism offered only four courses, all taught by one man. Up to the present time it has developed until there are 14 courses given during the school year. In 1921, registrations in the school numbered 138. Last year registrations in classes numbered 770 students, with duplications included. There are now five competent members of the staff.

The school of journalism at first occupied one class room in the liberal arts building. The journalism building today is a commodious brick structure, three stories in height, and is devoted wholly to the school of journalism and Student Publications, Inc.

On the ground floor are the business offices of Student Publications, stock rooms, and the composing room. The printing equipment includes four linotypes, flat bed press, a cylinder book and job press, two platen presses, folder, a cutter, and a sticher, besides well filled type-cabinets, composing stones, and other equipment. In this shop are produced a daily newspaper, several magazines, and the university year book.

Large Editorial Quarters

The second floor is occupied by the editorial rooms of The Daily Iowan, the telegraph room, the reporters' room, classrooms, the Hawk-eye office, a women's rest room maintained by Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic sorority, a reading room, and the office of the director, Prof. Frank L. Mott. With the beginning of the fall term, a journalism library is to be instituted. It will be located in the reading room of the main office.

On the third floor are found the offices of members of the instructional staff, the rooms of the University News service, and the offices of Frivol, the Iowa Literary Magazine, Quill and Scroll, and the Iowa Journalist. A total of more than fifty typewriters are in use in the building. Freshmen are welcome to look over the office, reading racks, and building although courses are open to only sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

Publishes Daily Paper

The Daily Iowan is an eight-column morning newspaper of eight to ten pages, and is published daily except Monday throughout the calendar year. It carries the full-leaded wire service of the Associated Press, with additional feature and cut services. It must pay its own way as a commercial venture. Its editors, reporters, and advertising and circulation staff are all journalism students, and since direction by the faculty is exercised only in suggestion and criticism, the student managers are trained to make independent decisions and accept responsibility.

Students of the school of journalism annually put out all editions of some daily in a large city; they have thus edited such papers as the Des Moines Register, the Cedar Rapids Gazette, and the Cedar Rapids Republican. The class in community weekly has pursued a similar course with regard to weeklies in neighboring towns.

Graduates Successful

Graduates of this school have been successful in journalistic work to the extent that it is impossible to list them all here. However, they are stationed all over the country, working at various phases of newspaper work. The following are a few of the representative names: Philip D. Adler, editor, Star Courier, Keokuk, Ill.; Demaree Bess, teacher of journalism, Shanghai university, Shanghai, China; Marquis Childs, editor, Associated Press, St. Louis, Missouri; Graham Dean, managing editor, Press-Citizen, Iowa City; Ainslee Hickerson, editor,

Brownsville Publishing company, Brownsville, Pa.; Frank Hicks, managing editor, Star, Rockford, Ill.; Joseph A. Kelly, managing editor, Independent Democrat, Washington, Ia.; Theodore Koop, editor, Associated Press, Des Moines.

The school of journalism maintains a placement bureau to assist its students in obtaining positions. They have been very successful in finding places.

New Field House Largest in World; Will Hold 15,000

Contains Mammoth Swimming Pool for Students

The University of Iowa has an armory and field house which has no equal in the world. The only structure approaching it in size is Madison Square Garden, New York City. Eleven different sports can be carried on under the roof of this field house at the same time and with a large audience watching each one.

On the main floor of the building one could see a football game, a baseball game, a basketball game, a golf match, a tennis game, and wrestling and boxing matches without moving from his tracks.

This is one of the few buildings in the world in which a football game can be carried on indoors with a crowd to watch. There are in the building seating accommodations for 15,000 people. Five hundred field and track stars could compete in a meet in the field house.

Mammoth Swimming Pool
The swimming pool is one of the features of the building. It is 150 feet long and 60 feet wide. It holds 500,000 gallons of water, and this is kept so pure that it can be used for drinking water at all times even when 2,000 men are swimming in it daily. A special ultra violet ray filter process keeps this pool transparent as well as pure. There is only one other indoor pool equal to it, that at Annapolis, Md.

The armory and field house is being erected and equipped entirely by proceeds from the athletic department. State funds or donations are not used at all. The only thing in connection with it that is a donation is Pinkbine field, a golf course adjoining the field house.

Trophies Exhibited

A trophy room in the entrance to the building contains several hundred souvenirs of Iowa victories. Some of the trophies date back to 1878. These, with the pictures of outstanding Hawkeye athletes make a beautiful entrance to the huge main room.

The field house is doubly interesting to students entering the university, because it is here that military training and physical education courses are given. These are requirements for beginning students and their work is made more interesting by the fact that they are in the largest and best equipped athletic building in the Western conference.

Some of the dimensions of the building will give one an idea of the immensity of the structure. The building itself is 460 by 430 feet. It is 98 feet from the ground to the roof. It has a 120 yard straight-away on the indoor track and seats 15,000 persons. There are five basketball courts, one regulation football field, one regulation baseball diamond, two regulation tennis courts, besides the swimming pool, rifle range, and several lesser areas for other activities, all under the one roof.

Iowa's Mammoth New Armory and Field House

Men Students May Choose Own Sport

The policy of physical education at the University of Iowa is to allow the young man student to have as much liberty as possible in his choice of exercise. In this way it is believed that the student will not find physical training irksome and get so he dislikes the work.

Young men entering the university this fall will be allowed to enroll in the sport of his choice. The armory and field house is so large and so well equipped and the staff of supervisors so large that this is made possible.

They may choose golf, swimming, gymnastics, track, wrestling, boxing, fencing, tennis, basketball, football and many other types of sport that may please their fancy. Each of the different activities is, of course, supervised by a man trained to teach that particular sport.

The only requirement is that the student attend class three times a week for one hour. Another requirement added since the acquisition of the new swimming pool is that he be able to swim the length of it or 150 feet. This of course can not be considered as a requirement in that sense of the word, as every boy likes to swim. This mammoth pool holding 500,000 gallons of water offers an unusual opportunity to indulge in this sport.

The department of physical education also offers a course in corrective physical training and in some cases it is required. This is for the benefit of students not capable of enduring the more strenuous sports and for those who have some physical derangement that necessitates correction.

Engineers Celebrate During Mecca Week

Mecca week given annually by the college of engineering displays the work of the engineers. The college maintains an open house that week to enable the public to see the exhibit. Niagara Falls was represented one year.

A traditional feature of particular interest is the Mecca show in which the actors are engineers.

School of Religion Proves Successful

Catholics, Protestants, Jews Included in Group

That religion may be an integral part of the student's course of instruction, the University of Iowa maintains a school of religion as a part of the college of liberal arts. The school was equipped to offer courses for the first time in the fall of 1927.

A plan has been worked out whereby the university and the churches cooperate in the teaching of religion without sacrificing any fundamental religious principle. University, state, and national religious authorities maintain that such a school forms a wholesome combination of the "scholarly ideals of the university and the religious ideals of the church." The plan has been approved by the state board of education and by the American Association of Religion.

The school is under the direction of an incorporated board of trustees who represent the Catholics, the Jews, the Protestants and the university. The membership of this board was elected by a body of "electors" who represented these various groups in a meeting in Iowa City three years ago.

Lampe Heads School
The director of the school is Prof. M. Willard Lampe, who holds a degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Pennsylvania. Prof. Lampe has been doing religious work among students for many years.

There are three members of the teaching staff. Prof. Henry G. Takkenberg holds an M. A. degree from Harvard and S. T. D. degree from Rome. Professor Takkenberg represents the Catholics. Prof. Maurice H. Farbridge, who represents the Jews, is a graduate of Victoria University, Manchester, England. Prof. Charles A. Hawley, who represents the Protestants, holds a doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia University.

These teachers are supported by their respective religious groups. They each have the standing of professor and their courses are fully accredited toward a degree.

Many Tributes Paid
The school, as has been said, is a new one, having had but one year to indicate its value. That it has done so is revealed by the many tributes paid to the school's activities by students, faculty, churches, and by local and state citizens. In May of this year, the board of directors of the Iowa conference of the Congregational church granted $1,000 for the support of the school.

The fact that during the first semester last year, 74 persons were enrolled in religious courses indicates the interest and confidence university students have in the plan for religious instruction. The enrollment for the second semester was somewhat higher.

Activities of the school throughout last year were varied. A close relationship was maintained with the religious groups of the campus and the community, the Christian associations, the student groups, and the city churches. Moreover, the school frequently supervised conferences, lectures, and round table discussions of a religious nature.

Numerous Religious Clubs
Besides the university Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. there are a number of student religious clubs that are of interest to various groups. The Morrison club is a student organization of the Episcopal church, which acts as an aid in church extension. The Newman club is a Catholic student organization for religious, literary, and social purposes. The Hillel club is composed of Jewish students for the purpose of promoting a better understanding of Jewish achievements.

On May 8 of this year, officers for the board of trustees for the school of religion were nominated and elected at a joint meeting of the electors and trustees in Old Capitol.

Dean George F. Kay, of the college of liberal arts, was elected president; H. C. King, of Cedar Rapids, first vice president; E. P. Adler, of Davenport, second vice president; R. H. Fitzgerald, director of Iowa Union, secretary; and Thomas Farrell, of Iowa City, treasurer.

In addition to the election of officers, eight trustees were elected for a term of three years, as follows: W. R. Hart, Iowa City, trustee at large; H. C. Ring, Cedar Rapids, Methodist; the Rev. A. B. Leamer, Des Moines, Lutheran; G. F. Henry, Des Moines, Episcopal; E. F. Kimmelshire, Des Moines, United Presbyterian; J. F. Ball, Cedar Rapids, Baptist; and Mr. Fitzgerald of the University of Iowa.

The school of religion is located in the hall of natural science. The suite in which classes are conducted and offices are located adjoins the university library.

The courses offered are: the religion of the old testament; Jewish contributions to moral and religious values; life and teachings of Jesus; Christian apologetics; Christian ethics; history and theory of religious education; Hebrew language; history of religion; comparative religion; archeology and the Bible; persistent problems in religion (seminar); and seminar for graduates students.

University Gives Students Chance to Earn Living Employment in Many Lines of Work Obtainable

For many students who desire to get a college education, the problem of "making ends meet" is a serious one. There are many opportunities at the university for both young men and young women to earn all or part of their expenses.

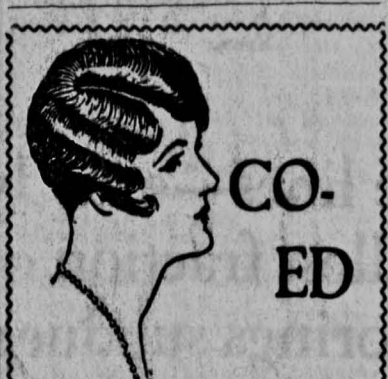

The chief difficulty lies in the amount of time that a student can or ought to take from his class work in order to earn his way through college. The university discourages a student from working his way through college unless he finds it imperative to do so. He has enough to do in the preparation of his class assignments if he carries a full schedule. If he has extra time, he may well devote it to helpful pursuits such as attending lectures and concerts, reading, athletics, and other forms of recreation.

It is impossible for the university to guarantee any person work. Students, at the outset, should fortify themselves with $100 or $200. Many have started with less and have made good when they are determined, but the road is rugged. University authorities recommend that students who must earn their way should not take the full amount of class work.

Many Lines Open
However, almost every line of employment is open, from caring for children to digging ditches. One of the most successful methods for young women to meet their expenses is by working for their room and board in private homes. Four hours of service a day are recommended for both board and room; three hours for board alone, and one hour for room. The duties administered carefully, is available in different households.

Certain university officers employ a limited number of women students for stenographic and clerical work. Because these positions are comparatively few, personal application should be made by students experienced in office work. The maximum rate for such work is 40 cents an hour. Calls for clerical work, caring for children, ironing, housework, waiting tables, and similar work are daily listed with the university Y.W.C.A.

For college men the field is fairly wide also. Men students are wanted as house men, stenographers, waiters, part time clerks in stores, jan-

Dentistry College Offers Four Year Course for Degree

The college of dentistry, an integral part of the university, was organized in 1882, and is now one of the foremost dental schools in the country. The dental clinic in connection with the school is patronized by more people than any similar clinic in the United States.

The dental building has teaching facilities for 350 students, and the equipment is the very best obtainable. The building contains special laboratories, lecture rooms, examination room, a library, radiography room, administrative offices, and an infirmary 60 by 140 feet, with accommodations for 150 patients.

The college of dentistry is a member of the American Association of Dental Schools, and is also on the recognized list of the National Association of Dental Examiners. A diploma from the dental college is recognized by law in every state in the union, and in every foreign country where an American diploma confers legal rights.

One year of academic work is the prerequisite for admission to the college of dentistry, and then four years are required to complete the laboratories, lecture rooms, examination room, a library, radiography room, administrative offices, and an infirmary 60 by 140 feet, with accommodations for 150 patients.

The degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery is awarded to those who have successfully completed the requirements for graduation.

Scholarships Available
Scholarships, loan funds, and fee exemptions are other direct and indirect financial aids for both men and women. An unlimited number of fee exemptions to the amount of $30 per semester are given to "needy" students who show merit and need. Application blanks should be obtained from the university secretary before Sept. 1 of the registration year.

A small loan fund, which is administered carefully, is available to tide students over rough places. Additions to this fund are made from time to time by persons of means. Certain fraternal and other organizations have provided similar loan funds.

Students who expect to earn at least a part of their expenses will be interested in knowing that a survey of the city is made by university labor bureaus a week or ten days before the opening of school in the fall to find out where the student jobs are. This method saves the student much time when he comes to seek employment. Inquiries concerning employment should be sent to the offices of the deans of men and women.

Opportunities for work for married students are numerous. The university is in sympathy with the ambition of married couples to get a college education. In many cases both the husband and the wife are able to get employment. At present, several wives of students are doing clerical work in the offices of the university.

Student Attitude Wholesome
The attitude of the University of Iowa toward all self-supporting young men and young women is very wholesome. There is no social distinction between those who earn their own expenses and those who have their time free for class work and recreation. Many fraternity men wait tables for their board, and in some instances, there is an exchange of waiters between fraternities.

By experience in former years, it has been shown that if a student must be self-supporting he will find that the sympathy and admiration of his fellows will help him to forge ahead in his efforts to get a university education.

Only Senior Laws May Swing Canes

Early in the fall, after induction ceremony, the old law college battle-cry "and the law school goes rolling on" has a different tune, something like "and the law-canes come tapping along."

In the fall the senior students, first exercise the privilege which they, of all the professional and nonprofessional registrants have, the right to carry canes, and these have become established as an underclassman of the law college who appears with the cane of a senior law.

Iowa Faces Wisconsin, Michigan, Chicago, Minnesota on Gridiron

Football Men to Open Season Here With Monmouth

Five Games Will Be Played on Home Field

Chicago, Minnesota, Ohio State, Wisconsin, and Michigan—these are the Western conference universities which will bar the way of the University of Iowa football team in its quest for a creditable season's record.

No one of them is a minor barrier for in this day there are few soft spots on a Big Ten football schedule. The standing at the close of the 1927 season showed Minnesota unbeaten but conceding the championship to Illinois which won more games, Michigan in third place, and Chicago in a tie for fourth. Ohio State and Wisconsin were less powerful but will have increased strength this fall.

Those five conference games are the headliners of the Hawkeye schedule. Supplementing them and giving the players a "let-down" between, are the contests with Monmouth College of Illinois, Ripon College of Wisconsin, and the University of South Dakota, joint champions of the North Central conference in 1927.

Five Home Games

Iowa will play five of the eight games on Iowa field. Monmouth comes here to open the season October 6, Ripon is scheduled for October 20, Minnesota for October 27, the homecoming game; South Dakota for November 3, and Wisconsin, for November 17, Dad's Day.

The feature of Iowa's home schedule will be the contest with Minnesota. Homecoming attracts thousands of visitors, and the Iowa stadium is almost filled to its capacity, about 28,000. It has become somewhat a tradition for Iowa to meet the Gophers in the Homecoming game, for since 1914 the teams have played six times. Iowa has won four games—in 1918, 6 to 0; 1920, 28 to 7; 1922, 28 to 14; and 1924, 13 to 0. Minnesota's victory in 1926 was the first on Iowa field since 1914.

To Meet Badgers

For the tenth time in football history, the Hawkeyes will play Wisconsin. Last fall, Coach Burton A. Ingwersen's men completely ruined the Badger homecoming by smashing out a 16 to 0 victory, and 1924 accomplished the same result, 21 to 7. But those are the only wins over a Wisconsin team. The game is the occasion of Dad's Day, when fathers of students will visit the university, and also that of Iowa

Picture shows the dramatic finish in the 400-meter hurdles race at Philadelphia which determined America's representatives in that event at the Olympic games. Frank J. Cuhel, Iowa's track captain in 1927-1928, and Morgan Taylor, Illinois Athletic club entry, are shown clearing the last barrier. Cuhel, running in the outside lane, finished a yard behind Taylor, forcing him to run the distance in 52 seconds, a new world's record. Cuhel is the first Iowa man to win points in an Olympic contest, having placed second in the hurdle event at Amsterdam. The inset illustrates Cuhel's starting position, and shows the use of the wooden starting blocks invented by Coach George T. Bresnahan.

Day, annually observed by members of the state's civic clubs.

Of the non-conference games, the South Dakota tilt probably will be the most attractive. Boy Scouts of Iowa will be guests of the athletic department at this game. Last fall some 2,500 Boy Scouts saw the Hawkeyes defeat Denver in an inter-sectional combat.

South Dakota's Coyotes, played several times in past years, have never been able to defeat an Iowa team, but their 1928 eleven is expected to be at last as strong as last fall's team which won seven of nine games.

For the second year in succession, Monmouth college will come here against Amos Alonzo Stagg's men since 1920 as well as the opening contest of the conference schedule.

Beat Chicago But Once

The championship team of 1900 defeated Chicago 17 to 0, and the 1899 eleven tied, 5 to 5. All of the other nine games were won by Chicago, but four were very close. Most sensational was the 1919 game, when, with the time-keeper tolling off the seconds in the last quarter, Iowa failed to score from the one-foot line. Chicago won, 9 to 6, but the Hawkeye drive, led by Aubrey Devine, took its place in history.

Rivalry between Iowa and Ohio State is comparatively recent, for the 1928 game will be only the seventh to be played. Iowa has won three, lost two, and one was a scoreless contest on the Buckeye gridiron, so tradition favors Ingwersen's eleven in its battle at Columbus November 10.

Mighty Michigan, possessor of a phenomenal record in football, will be Iowa's opponent at Ann Arbor in the season's final game, November 24. The Wolverines also are infrequent rivals of the Hawkeyes. If Iowa can win, the series will be thrown into a tie, for the count is now 3 to 2 for Michigan. Not since 1924 has a Hawkeye team played a "Maize and Blue" eleven. Then it was that Ingwersen's initial team outplayed Yost's, to win 9 to 2 in one of the surprises of the conference race. The 1900 team's victory is the only other on record.

Reserve Team to Play

While the varsity team is laboring through its schedule the reserve eleven will be active in three games. The plan of sending a second eleven into battle is being revived here for the first time in more than 25 years, and has been adopted generally by the conference.

Iowa and Indiana reserves play here on the afternoon of October 6. Since the varsity is scheduled to meet Monmouth on that date, the affair will be a doubleheader. Notre Dame will send its second-best to Iowa field November 10, while Iowa travels to Illinois the following week.

Staff of Seventeen Coaches Develops Hawkeye Athletes

The University of Iowa coaching staff numbers 17 men under the direction of Paul E. Belting. The respect shown Iowa throughout the sporting world is ample proof of the success of this staff. Director Belting is starting his fifth year at Iowa. He is a graduate of Illinois university.

Coach George T. Bresnahan, starting his ninth year, has not only developed several champion track and field stars but has turned out winning teams. In 1926 his indoor track team won the western conference championship. In 1928 his teams won second place in both indoor and outdoor track. In the national collegiate meet in 1921 his team won first.

Developed Olympic Men

During Coach Bresnahan's regime he has developed 11 men who won 29 western conference championships. He has had seven men on the American Olympic teams. Notable among these stars are Charles R. Brookins, George T. Baird, and Frank J. Cuhel.

Burton A. Ingwersen, head football coach, is starting his fifth year at Iowa. His first year team took second in the western conference. Since then, while there have been no championship teams, Iowa has always ranked high in football.

Justin M. Barry, head coach of basketball is starting his seventh year. In 1923 and 1926 his teams tied for the western conference championship. He has won 28 and lost 44 conference games. He has developed two all-conference men and one all-western man.

Athletic Department to Publish Souvenir Book of 'I' Men

Under the direction of Paul E. Belting, director of physical education, the athletic department of the University of Iowa is preparing a book that will contain the history of Iowa athletics, with a complete list of all men that have ever won their major or minor "I's". This will be the first book of its kind ever published. It will not only give the names of the men who have upheld the honor of Old Gold on the gridiron, diamond, track, and gym floor, but will present many pictures of teams, and their respective records.

These books, when completed will be given to the men whose names are inscribed in the list of letter men. The first man ever to win an award for competing on an Iowa team is Arthur E. Goshorn, Winter set. He was the star catcher on the Iowa baseball team from 1877 to 1898, when all the receiving behind the plate was done with bare hands and no protecting mask or pad.

The picture record of the teams is incomplete, due to loss of, or failure to take, pictures of the Hawkeye teams. The first picture is that of the baseball team of 1883. From 1890 on the record is nearly complete and many Old Gold alumni will view with pleasure pictures of their old cronies.

The books will be on general sale to those who wish to purchase them.

Reserve Seats for Big Ten Games

Students who do not purchase a yearly Iowa athletic coupon book, better known as an "I" book, will be forced to pay the usual three dollars for reserved seats to see the two Western conference football games on Iowa field this season.

On Oct. 27, when Iowa celebrates Homecoming, Minnesota's fighting Gophers will invade the Hawkeye camp. Nov. 17 will bring the members of state civic clubs to observe Iowa day; fathers of university students to celebrate the annual Dad's day, and the Wisconsin Badgers to fight the Old Gold eleven on the gridiron.
