Council Announces Plan of Registration

Four Day Limit Set; Bovine Test, County Students Register at Iowa Union

The voters of Iowa City must register this month, at places soon to be designated by the city council, in order to cast their ballot Nov. 6. Persons living in the country will not be required to register.

Oct. 25, 26, and 27, and Nov. 3 have been set as the days for registration here.

Qualifications

Any citizen of the United States who is 21 years of age, and who has been a resident in the state six months and in the county 60 days, and who complies with certain requirements, and has not been denied the franchise for some special reason, will be permitted to vote.

Persons who are absent from the city on all four days during registration period may register on Nov. 6. Sick and absent voters need not register because the absent ballot and affidavit will fill that capacity. Any person who is ill during the four day period may request the registration board to visit him and carry out his registration.

Absent Voters

If a voter expects to be out of the county on election day he may at any time 20 days before the election make application to County Auditor Ed Sulek for an official ballot. The application must be made on blank supplied by the auditor.

This ballot is then filled out and forwarded to the auditor who turns it in on election day. The application blank and ballot must be filled out before a notary public. It is not necessary to disclose the way in which the ballot is marked.

Inconvenience may be avoided by making a personal application to the county auditor for the blank, and ballot as they may be filled out in his presence and left with him to be turned in on election day.

Student Voters

Student voters will have the convenience of being able to make their applications for ballots at the Iowa Union Oct. 23. A rotary public will be there to have charge of this affair, thus doing away with the inconvenience of students having to send to their respective counties for ballots.

On Nov. 1 the students must again go to the notary public in the Iowa Union and mark their ballots which will be held until election day.

One Eyed Sleuth Discovers Large Cache of Opium

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—A customs sleuth, Edward Starace, with only one eye but an unusually keen sense of smell today led his colleagues to a cache of 15,990 ounces of opium that had been concealed in the anchor chain locker of the Dollar liner President Roosevelt.

The officers said the seizure was the largest opium confiscation ever made at an eastern port, numbering 2,655 tins.

The drug, valued at about $1,000,000, bootleg prices, was seized yesterday after the liner had docked at Jersey City from a trip around the world. She had touched at Shanghai and Hongkong, and the customs authorities, who quickly decided that none of her officers knew anything of the contraband's presence aboard, held the opinion that the opium had been smuggled into the locker while the ship was anchored at a Chinese port.

The Dollar Steamship company, operating the vessel, was ordered not to let her sail for a foreign port pending filing of a $400,000 bond.

The agent who detected the hidden opium is a customs service veteran, and lost the sight of one eye in a government raid years ago.

Candidates File Petitions for All Student Offices

Twelve Persons Hand in Nominations for Election

Only 12 candidates, one for each office in the four classes, filed petitions yesterday, making them eligible to run for class offices at the liberal arts elections next Wednesday.

The candidates for the senior class are: for president, John Falvey, A4 of Albion; for vice president, Marvin Logan, J4 of Manchester; for secretary, Ila Bookhart, A4 of Ida Grove.

Junior candidates are: for president, Virgil David of Oskaloosa; for vice president, Fred Roberts of Knoxville; for secretary, treasurer, Mace Brown of North English.

The sophomore nominees are: for president, Oran Pape of Dubuque; for vice president, Charles Akre of Algonia; for secretary, Ruth Orth of Maynard.

The freshman candidates will be: for president, Harold Saks of Council Bluffs; for vice president, Arnold Anderson of Minneapolis; for secretary, treasurer, Helen Wareham of Davenport.

Approximately 800 students registered as student voters yesterday. Only those who registered yesterday will be allowed to cast a ballot at the election Wednesday. About 820 students voted last year, when registration was not necessary, and it is probable that this year's vote will be about the same.

Registration was conducted on the campus east of Old Capitol and at Iowa Union by members of the student council. A student council committee drafted the new regulations for elections, in an effort to do away with the dishonesty which has characterized some previous elections.

The petitions were filed at the Y.M.C.A. office in Iowa Union, 6 p.m. yesterday being the deadline. Each petition had to be signed by 30 qualified voters from the class to which the candidate belonged.

One was civil, and the other according to the ritual of the Roman Catholic church of which the bridegroom has been a lifelong communicant. The supposed honeymoon route would take in Perugia, Assisi, and Florence.

The twenty-minute civil ceremony was performed by Attorney Brofferio. Senator Brofferio read all the articles of the Italian code on marriage, requiring each of the contracting parties to signify acceptance. The religious rites were performed by Monsignor Joseph A. St. Louis Favorite for Series Combats

Iron Men Sparkle in Hoyt Faces Sherdel in Mound Duel; Weather Ideal

By ALAN J. GOULD

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—World's series history sparkles with the achievements of pitchers who, by iron-man, or consistently brilliant work have virtually twirled their clubs to victory single-handed.

The immortal Mathewson needed only one brief day's aid from old Joe McGinnity to pitch the Giants to triumph over the Athletics in 1905, when all five games of the series were shutouts and mound masterpieces. Later, down the brilliant twisting trail, Coombs, Babe Adams, and Coleskie, shared Matty's feat of turning in three winning games, Grover Alexander, again in the series spotlight, won two games, and saved a third in the 1926 series with a performance that ranks among the best.

The opportunity is ripe for some star of the Yankee staff to step in with an iron-man stunt, for seldom has a team gone into the big battle with its mound corps any more depleted or over-worked than that of the New Yorkers. To be more specific, the chance beckons to the sturdy capabilities of Waite Hoyt, ace of the Yankee staff, to duplicate a performance that hasn't been added to the record books since Coleskie last registered a "triple" in 1920.

Hoyt will work the first game tomorrow against the Cardinals. With three days' rest he would be ready to come back next Monday for the fourth game at St. Louis. Should the series last that long, his recuperative powers are such that he could twirl the sixth game in New York, slated Thursday, or the seventh, on Friday.

Hoyt's world series record is greater than is apparent on the surface from the bare fact that he has won four and lost three games in five championship affairs. Two of his losses were by single run margins. He pitched three complete games against the Giants in 1921, winning two with an allowance of only one run, and losing the third, 1-0 to Art Nehf. He dropped a 3-0 decision to Jack Scott in 1922. In 1926 he was charged with the final 3-2 defeat of the Yankees by the Cardinals although it was chiefly due to the collapse of his defense in one inning in which the Cards scored all their runs.

Depend on Hoyt

No other member of the Yankee staff has as much stamina as Hoyt for any super-stunt. So far as the Cardinals are concerned, they will depend more on the weight of pitching numbers than any one star, with a three-star combination in Sherdel, Haines, and Alexander. Hoyt has been on hand for almost daily duty in the final drive of the Yankees, when their pitching resources were at lowest ebb.

George Pipgras, who will probably start the second game, will be Hoyt's running mate, but the slender resident of Slayton, Minn., has felt the strain of extra duty more than the Brooklyn undertaker, Tom Zachary, and Harry Johnson appear to be the other best bets for a Yankee staff that sorely misses the able arm of Herbert Pennock.

Chain Stations to Broadcast Series

DES MOINES, Oct. 3 (AP)—World's series baseball games starting Thursday, will be broadcast in conjunction with chain stations by WHO, Des Moines; WOC, Davenport; and WOW, Omaha; it was announced today.

Stations will come on the air at 12:10 p.m., central standard time, for the New York games, and at 1:10 p.m., for the St. Louis contests, it was announced.

Fair Weather Forecast

Today was ideal for baseball and tomorrow may be even better, weather bureau officials said. The forecast for fair weather with no decided change in temperature but a tendency to warmer.

The "world series" crowd descended on New York today and hotel lobbies were filled with fans talking baseball. The Cardinals seemed to be the favorites of a majority of the visitors.

The usual wild scramble for tickets gained momentum and was expected to continue right up to game time tomorrow. Many seeking the rare bits of pastebord were not trying for themselves, they said, but "for a friend."

All the reserved seats to be had were held by speculators at greatly advanced prices. Unreserved seats in the stands and bleachers will be placed on sale at the Yankee stadium tomorrow morning, insuring a good crowd hours before game time.

The Cardinals were a slight betting favorite on the eve of the series opening but top-heavy odds favoring the National leaguers were more discussed than laid. Wagers of $ to $100 on the National league entry to win the series were reported with even money on the first game.

Pres. John A. Heydler of the National league and Pres. E. S. Barnard of the American were equally confident of victory for their standard bearers, while Baseball Commissioner Landis maintained a neutral position.

Men Try Out for Varsity Debate

Final tryouts for the men's varsity debate squad will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the liberal arts auditorium. Spurred on by the possibilities of making the team which will debate in England this spring, approximately 100 candidates, the largest turnout for debate ever registered in the university, have signed up for competition.

Each man will deliver a five minute speech on a topic of his own selection. From this speech his debating abilities will be judged by a committee of five selected from the speech department, and the candidates with the highest rankings will be eligible for the varsity squad.

The judges of the contest will be as follows: Howard Gilkinson, graduate assistant in speech; Lester Thomson, G of Wentworth, S. D.; M. S. Evans, G of Iowa City; S. W. Lambertson, G of Sparta, S. D.; and Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of debate.

From the tryouts this afternoon two varsity teams will also be selected for the opening debates of the mid-western debate conference to be held Dec. 13, when Iowa will debate Minnesota at Iowa City, and Wisconsin at Madison. The question chosen by the nine schools of the conference for these debates is as follows: Resolved, that the senate should ratify without reservation the Kellogg peace pact.

The two teams chosen will begin participation immediately for the coming debates.

Seniors Apply for Army Internships

Twenty applications for seniors in the college of medicine for the one year internship in government hospitals offered by the U.S. Army Medical Corps have been received by Major H. H. Sharpe, commander of the E.O.T.C. medical unit. The internships are offered by the army to only class "A" medical schools and but two to four members will be selected from this unit.

After one year's service as an interne, a doctor has the choice of leaving the army and opening up his own practice or continuing his studies as a lieutenant in the medical corps at Walter Reed hospital in Washington and in actual field work at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Applicants must undergo a rigid physical examination and receive a scholarship recommendation from the dean of their college before their names are sent in to the surgeon-general of the army. The matter of selection lies entirely within jurisdiction of this officer.

Applications have not yet been turned in to the surgeon-general as yet and Major Sharpe urges more senior medical students who have had military training to file their names with him at once.

Psychiatrist From Switzerland to See College of Medicine

Dr. Hans W. Maier, head of the psychiatric clinic in Zurich, Switzerland, and one of the most distinguished of European psychiatrists, is expected to arrive in Iowa City this morning at 7:15 o'clock from Chicago. He is playing official visits to a few of the medical colleges in the United States, among which is this institution.

He leaves again at 3 o'clock this afternoon. During his stay he will be a guest of Henry S. Houghton, dean of the medical college. By Nov. 1 he must be back in Switzerland, so he is making short visits at the medical colleges. During the day he will look over the psychopathic hospital.

Zoology Class Sets Attendance Record

One of the greatest increases in attendance in any class in the university is that of zoology 3, a two hour lecture course on the principles of zoology, which has 71 students enrolled this year as contrasted with the 21 of last year, or an increase of 233 per cent.

The course, under Prof. G. L. Houser, was started last year as an experiment to see if students whose major activities lie in some other field, could not be benefited by getting the results of modern knowledge in zoology without the laboratory work.

A novice swimming meet is planned for 4 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 23. This is to be a meet for all swimmers who have not taken a first, second, or third place in any meet staged at the University of Iowa. Being the first meet of the year it is used as a sounder by Seals and a forecast medium for class and intramural contests.

It was decided to send letters to intramural managers as soon as possible giving all necessary information concerning sports and contests throughout the year's program. Talks are to be given to physical education classes informing them of class and intra-mural sports in progress at present.

To give the track and baseball managers more experience before taking up their duties it was voted that heads of these sports serve as assistant one season before taking charge.

She had wealth, luxury, comfort, but she found herself bored to distraction because that thrill of thrills - LOVE - had escaped her. How she turned "working girl" to win him forms one of the most absorbing adventure tales which Kane O'Day has ever produced.

Iowa Drama

THE sales campaign of season tickets for theater productions will begin soon. Students, faculty members, and townspeople should support the theater as one of the most educational units of the university.

In addition to the regular repertoire of the players, the season includes the Iowa play production contests held here annually, and the commencement play. Studio plays are given by classes in the speech department apart from the regular university theater productions.

Despite handicaps of lack of space and equipment, the theater has attracted as much favorable comment from visiting celebrities and current magazines as any other activity of the University of Iowa. Professor Mabie has done much to bring about its success.

Ordinance No. 701 NOT a pleasant subject, of course, ordinance No. 701. And yet, it is undoubtedly worthy of a slight reminder. When we, the men, realize that that ordinance is not only insinuating possible discourtesy, but, in the next instant, attempting to discourage the lack of proper respect toward our co-educationalists, who can hardly, from that point of view, remain unfamiliar with it.

The familiar placards, posted in the street cars and in conspicuous and strategic locations throughout the city, sound the warning and extoll the penalties for transgressing. Is that the proper manner for successfully combatting an ill-mannered situation? Is it a well-considered move to ban, by decree, a practice that should be governed by the rules of etiquette—by the social standards of a modern school?

A Safeguard to Health JOHNSON county voters will be asked at the general election Nov. 6 if they want to place the county on the approved area plan for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis.

The Top or the Cellar?

SPORTS writers throughout the middle West are proclaiming that there are no weak sisters in the Big Ten this year and that the grid eleven that wins the championship will be entitled to all the rah rahs and banquets that can be given them. "It's going to be a tough fight," they say.

Iowa again is classed as one of the underdogs of the conference, according to many mid-western sports scribes. The consensus prediction as to the final in the Big Ten standings places Iowa seventh, while Illinois has been doped again to lead the grid-ders. Minnesota, Ohio, and Michigan are forecast to fight it out for second, third and fourth places.

Warning WITH the approach of winter, all students new and old should get some kind of a face covering to protect themselves from the deluge of soot which pours forth from the smokestacks of various Iowa City enterprises.

Where the Vodka Flows VLADIMIR, Russia, orders that saloons, beer houses, and vodka shops shall be closed on pay days.

With Other Editors Red Eyes (From The Daily Nebraskan) "The true university is a library, and the true student a man whose eyes are red with strain. He reads far more widely and intensely than the average person believes quite sane."

These are right down cynical—and damned true! "Satyrs used to fall for nymphs, just the same as other symphs; same as many a modern goof, cupid kept them on the hoof."

In this regard he writes that the true student should be allowed to take the first steps toward a method of thinking which he hopes eventually to make habitual—to put under way a process which will continue and, ideally, will accelerate during the rest of his life.

Chills and Fever

Take Heed—Look Out! Stop! THE COLUMN WILL NOW ATTEMPT TO BE LITERARY. YOU'D BETTER LOOK OVER YOUR NOTES FOR THAT NEXT CLASS ANYWAY.

Those are our exact sentiments. We especially hope the young man stays in good health until we have a chance sometime to thank him personally.

THIS BIT WILL TWIST THE HEARTS OF THOSE FAITHFUL WOMEN WHO STILL MISS VALENTINO. "There may be some . . . Who'd like to waste their love and care."

I like to think I think I do." Farmer lads and lassies will appreciate this— "I should be quite cast down to see the country come to town. I like the country best for this— Because they put it where it is."

"I could not love thee, dear, so much, Were I not born to be in Dutch." "If you love me, as I love you, We'll both be fiendly and untrue."

"Your little voice, So soft and kind, Your little soul, Your little mind!" This is the song of "A Father Whose Heart is Touched" to his little one.

It would be fun to be shipwrecked with this book, but it would be necessary to have someone to read it to and with— —Epeozetty

A HUSBAND AT HER HEELS

CHAPTER 70.

THE LETTER OF A SCAPEGOAT

Headless of the hour, Celia tore open the letter addressed in Falconer's handwriting. It read:

"You infernal little hussy—but also, darling girl! This will naturally surprise you, coming as it were, from the grave. I've no doubt that you buried what you thought was my body, with pomp and ceremony and a large amount of thankfulness. I ought to hate you for the nasty trick you played me that last night—I might have known I couldn't trust you—but, unfortunately, I'm still crazy about you. However, this is not meant to be a love letter—incidentally, I've never written one in my life. I'm sending along this little missive—it will probably startle you out of your wits—to inform you that the man who posed as your husband and whom you gleefully imagined you'd planted in the charmingly peaceful cemetery of your charmingly peaceful town is not dead at all. You buried Manuel, who poor deluded child! Manuel, who is dead, partly by my fault, partly because of his own avarice. . . . Here is the way of it:

"On the night when I planned to make my getaway, with you as my companion, and your obnoxious friend, Larry Cross proceeded to waylay me and try to hammer the daylight out of me—incidentally I don't know yet why—I missed the 8 o'clock train. You, false child, undoubtedly know that I'll tell you I wasn't feeling any too good, with Manuel right across the street to witness the whole performance and see that I was double crossing him about the money. There wasn't another train, so I had, perforce, to sacrifice my comfort and dignity and jump the freight that went through shortly afterward. With honesty, I have to admit that I'd done such a thing before, but never by preference.

"By another unfortunate mischance, Manuel saw me and followed me. I went up the ladder reserved for the use of the brakemen, like a monkey up a pole. Manuel, being slightly heavier and not so young, had more difficulty. I was three cars ahead when he caught up with me. Naturally, I can't tell you what he said to me. But he tackled me. He should have known better—on top of a speeding train. He had a knife, and I fought for my life, I'll tell you that. He thought, of course, that I had the money and was trying to sneak off without giving him any. It was a pretty fight, Celia, not the sort Cross treated me to when he took me away. If I'd been prepared for Cross, I could have broken him like a reed, with a couple of grips I have, but I will say that he's some wildcat when he starts.

"Anyway, to go back to Manuel, I thought my last minute had arrived. We struggled all over the roof of the freight car and were within an ace of going overboard half a dozen times. The end came rather suddenly. Manuel slipped. I saw him going and I swung to you, Celia, that, in spite of my fear of him, I would have saved him, if I could, because I won't forget for a long time the scream he gave as he went over the side. I saw him land on the opposite track. And then, a moment later . . . but it seemed like an eternity, I saw the headlights of a train bearing down on that track. It was over in an instant. I heard the crash of the other train, and the freight slid around a curve. That's all I know. I didn't try to look back.

"I dare say I should have returned to town, but I had an idea in the back of my head that the police might be too anxious to see me, if Manuel had been recognized during his sojourn there. Also, I had to get to Central America, if the revolution was to go forward as we planned, and delay would have been fatal. After all, I wasn't responsible for Manuel's finish. If he hadn't been so keen for money, he'd be alive today.

"I got a boat, cursing you for double crossing me at the last moment, and sailed alone. And here I am. But, alas, not yet president of our pretty little republic, nor controller of those tempting oil wells for which Manuel lost his life and for which I've got myself into something of a jam. Of that more later.

"The point is that I've only just heard what happened back in your town—that it was I who was supposed to be killed, and that your wild young friend, Cross, is to be tried for my murder. I've no cause to love him, but I'm writing this letter to save his skin, even though I may get myself into hot water. I'm not entirely the rotter you always thought me, Celia. There's a strain of good blood that shows, now and then—mostly to my undoing.

"Just at present, I'm in a mess myself. I was caught by the good old U.S.A. in a little smuggling proposition, and the future doesn't look too bright for Richard. However, we'll hope for the best. I've already informed your chief of police of my part in Manuel's sad demise. That will fix things for Cross, I think. And as for you, my little spiffire, I have only to say that I'm still mad about you and, when I've extricated myself from my present precarious situation, I shall be coming back to get you. Celia, honestly, I've never loved a woman before and—"

The letter fell from Celia's nerveless fingers. She didn't try to finish reading it. She sped to the phone. But, even as she reached it, the bell rang. Annesley's voice, cool and calm, came over the wire.

"The trial is off, Celia. Your husband is alive; it was Manuel who was killed. . . ."

"I—I know. . . . I've just received a letter."

"You too?" He laughed shortly. "He certainly did things thoroughly, this nephew of my old friend, once he started. Both the chief of police and the district attorney have affidavits from him. Cross will be freed at once."

Celia tried to say something, but the wave of thanksgiving that swept over her robbed her of her voice. Annesley went on: "There are a great many details to be gone into. I shall be busy all the morning and part of the afternoon. . . . But may I see you later, to tell you the full story?"

"Oh, yes. Please. Please."

There was a moment's silence. Then he said: "So you are not a widow after all, Celia."

Market Rises on Crest of Demand as Wheat Declines

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP)—Export business in corn alleged to be larger than the public has known of gave a hoist to the corn market today despite wheat weakness. Cancellation of 1,000,000 bu. of corn warehouse receipts here a circumstance pointing out of likelihood of big shipments out of Chicago, counted also as a bullish factor. Meanwhile, foreigners were credited with speculative selling of wheat here, and the world's available supply of wheat showed 35,234,000 bu. increase for the week.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled 1/2 to 1 1/2 net higher, wheat 1/2 to 1/4 off, oats unchanged to 1/4 up, and provisions varying from 25c decline to a shade advance.

In connection with today's advance in corn values, much notice was taken of announcement that on account of corn shortage Roumania is to import corn. Helping further to strengthen the corn market today was a dispatch saying United States corn in Europe is underselling Argentine corn as much as 9c a bushel. There were also estimates from a leading Chicago authority that farm stocks of old corn in this country at present amount to only 90,000,000 bu., against 165,000,000 bu. a year ago.

Predictions were current that the corn carry-over on Nov. 1, would be but 60,000,000 bu., compared with 111,000,000 bu. last year and 133,000,000 bu. two years ago. Under such circumstances, buying of corn future deliveries developed on a broad scale today, and influential trade leaders asserted that United States corn not only has the inside track now abroad so far as new corn is concerned but that prices are on an export basis for old corn.

Talk was likewise heard that a period of extremely small receipts of corn is at hand and that stocks of corn will be down to low proportions by the time new corn moves in volume.

Emphasizing foreign selling of wheat here and giving stress also to the big increase of the world's available supply total, it was reported that western markets today were offering No. 2 hard winter wheat to Chicago at equal to the price of the December delivery in this city. Total world stocks are now 244,796,000 bu., against 171,313,000 bu. last year. Oats sympathized with corn.

A passenger train recently waited 20 minutes near Memphis, Tenn., while a mule was released from the cross ties in which it had become trapped.

Score of Issues Set New Records on Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—The stock market gave another impressive demonstration of recuperative power today, rallying sharply after one of the weakest openings in recent months. Although final prices were irregularly lower, new high records were established during the session by nearly a score of issues, including Barnsdall A. Chrysler, National Dairy Products and Packard. Total sales crossed the 4,000,000 share mark for the first time this week.

The selling movement was still under way when pools began to play up their favorites. This helped to restore speculative confidence. The recovery was aided by a lowering of the call money rate from 8 to 7 1/2 and finally to 7 per cent.

Wall street derived considerable encouragement from the optimistic character of the weekly steel trade reviews, which referred to the heavy bookings, lengthening deliveries and stiffening price tendencies. Chrysler was again the outstanding feature. Breaking more than 4 points to 119 on the first avalanche of selling, the stock subsequently rallied to a new high record at 123, closing at 126 1/2, up 3 1/2 net. Transactions in this one issue comprised more than one-tenth of the day's business. Packard moved up 4 points to a new high record at 96. General Motors rallied from a low of 210 1/2 to 214, closing just below that level for a slight fractional loss.

U. S. Steel common closed unchanged at 158 1/2 after fluctuating between 156 and 159 1/2. Ludlum Steel was bid up nearly 10 points to a new high at 83 1/2. Pierce Oil preferred ran up more than 6 points to a new top at 43 1/2 on reports of an unusually large increase in earnings. General Ice Cream attained a new peak at 87.

Wright broke 7 points but recovered 5 1/2 and Curtis rallied from a low of 13 1/2 to 13 3/4, off 2 1/2 net. Montgomery-Ward dipped 6 1/2 points and regained 3 1/2 while Radio made up all but 2 1/2 points of an early decline of 5 1/2. Case Threshing, Warren Bros., Midland Steel Products and American Machine & Foundry closed 3 to 5 1/2 points lower. Murray corporation rallied from a low of 101 to a new high record at 112 and Mullins corporation from 84 1/2 to a new peak at 94. Indiana Motorcycle dropped 3 points to a new 1928 low at 20.

Rails yielded with the industrials. Jersey Central broke 7 points on two sales and Canadian Pacific, Gulf, Mobile & Northern, Delaware & Hudson and a few others yielded a point or two. Pittsburgh & West Virginia broke nearly 5 points and Hen rallied to a new high record at 162 1/2, up 3 points net.

Foreign exchanges drifted lower, with sterling cables quoted around the year's low of $4.55.

U. High Gridders Revamp Lineups for Tipton Contest

Strenuous practices have been on the docket for the University high graders this week as Coach Jack Skein works his proteges in preparation for the important game with Tipton Friday. Walter Johnson, right halfback who is temporarily out of the game as a result of a broken nose, is now suffering with boils and may not be out for practice at all this week.

Coach Skein's search for someone to take his place seems to be fairly well rewarded in the person of Milo Moore. This newcomer has never played football, his experience being limited to one week, but he is rounding into form rapidly. As a punting halfback he looks good both on offense and defense. Moore is not as heavy as Johnson, weighing only 133 pounds as compared with Johnson at 150. However, he shows up well in breaking up plays, he is a good tackler, and he runs well with the ball.

Young May Play End
George Young is going good at right end and may replace Hebel at that position in Friday's game. The game with West Liberty revealed a weakness in the center of the line on defense, and an effort is being made to strengthen the pivot position.

Much emphasis is being placed on end runs and forward passing to develop a good offense. Coach Skein is working on end plays mainly because the light forwards are a little weak on offense, especially the five center men. For a dependable ground-gaining play, the end runs seem to be the best bet, with forward passing coming next.

Schmidt is still working at quarter and Captain Stinocher at full. With the exception of Moore for Johnson at halfback, and Young for Hebel at end, the lineup will be the same as has been used so far this season.

Indications are that the University high-Tipton game will be a battle royal, with plenty of scrap in it. Whichever team plays head-on football will probably be wearing the laurels Friday night.

Continue Play in Quad Net Meet

Forced to extend himself in winning the deciding and incidentally the longest set played in the quadrangle tourney, L. Mueller advanced to the third round with a win over Hubert Cooley, 4-6, 6-3, 14-12. Leo Hasse defeated P. W. Ports, 6-2, 6-3, and S. Miller bested Saul Sigel, 6-0, 6-0. In the only of the second round matches played yesterday. In third round play, John Becker defeated P. E. Lehr in straight sets, 6-3, 7-5, while J. R. Wilson won from Harry Druker, 6-0, 6-1.

Hawkeyes Show Defensive Power Against Yearlings

Iowa Bests Opponents in Total Weight of Players

Iowa's hard-sought Hawkeyes dug their cleats into the sod of Iowa field yesterday afternoon and held the freshmen in one of the classiest defensive drills seen in many a moon. Only once did the yearlings make any headway and that was when Sampson made a spectacular catch of a pass heaved by Carver and traveled on for a touchdown.

Brown of Linn proved to be the best ground gainer for the frosh before he was taken from the game with a sprained ankle. Schlessner, tackle, and Westra, guard, were the star defensive linemen for the varsity and Brice Thomas proved the defensive find in the backfield.

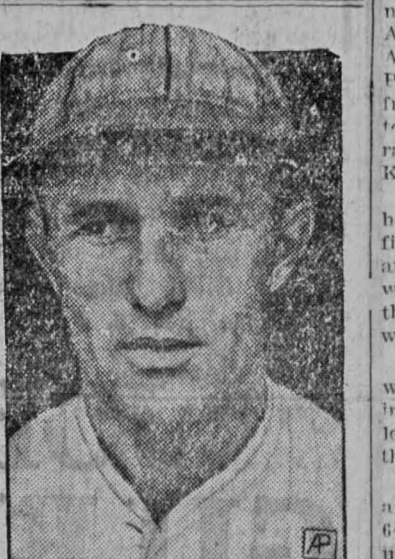

The Hawkeye first string that will face Monmouth Saturday at 1:45 p.m. will outweigh the visitors 14 pounds to the man and should have little trouble rolling up a neat score. The second game of the afternoon, between the Indiana reserves and the Iowa reserves, will test the Hawkeye reserve strength to the utmost. The weights of the Iowa lineups will be as follows:

Ames Works Hard

AMES, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Iowa State football squad had a hard workout in preparation for Nebraska this afternoon. The practice was devoid of scrimmage and consisted of a long signal drill, kicking, and passing. Dummy scrimmage on the defense went up the day.

"All Ready," Says Boss of Cardinals

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—"Did you ever see a manager win a world series—from the bench?" demanded Bill McKechnie, chief of all the Red Birds, as he sat comfortably in a field box at the stadium today while the Cardinals, splik and span in new road uniforms, frolicked under an Indian Summer sun.

Simpson Drills at Night

DES MOINES, Oct. 3 (AP)—Members of the Simpson college football squad obtained their first idea of night football tonight when they were sent through a prolonged practice session at Drake stadium under the new floodlights. Simpson and Drake will clash here Saturday night in the first night game ever played in the middle west by college teams.

"We Are Satisfied," Announces Huggins

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—"We are satisfied," mused Huggins standing over a plate of roast chicken at the stadium today. "We are not, however, so well satisfied," he continued in the same passionless voice, "as we would be if Combs could play, which he cannot, and if Lazzeri were in form, which he is not."

Six New Athletes Join Hawkeyes in Harrier Practices

Yesterday afternoon the cross country squad was strengthened by the addition of several new men. Three men reported for varsity and three for the freshman team. The new varsity men are John Eyster, A2 of Winterset; L. P. VanDongen, A2 of Hoboken, N. J.; and Joe E. Puccio, M2 also of Hoboken. The freshman candidates are John Welter, A1 of Davenport; R. L. Cochran, A1 of Norfolk, Neb.; and L. E. Kennedy, A1 of Great Falls, Mont.

Soccer Players Show Speed in Fast Scrimmage

Two picked teams composed of freshman and varsity soccer football candidates battled furiously for thirty minutes yesterday in the third practice game of the week. No definite lineups were selected as Coach Ernest G. Schroeder shifted men from one position to another constantly.

Stoerner, Williams, Margolin, and Kenny vied with each other for the best individual performance in the scrimmage. Time after time well-placed boots by Kenny brought the ball in scoring position. The others played a steady game but were overshadowed by the playing of the St. Louis flash.

Promising no letup in the scrimmage program, Coach Schroeder will turn his attention upon possible candidates for the end positions. Lack of good wingmen cost the varsity a victory against Illinois last year.

Hornsby Trade Denied

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP)—Robbers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, is not coming to the Chicago Cubs. William L. Veech, president of the Cubs, made flat denial of the report which was printed in New York today.

Knoxmen Practice Offensive to Meet Des Moines Team

Grim determination with deadly blocking and tackling prevailed in last night's practice as Coach Walter S. Knox sent his Iowa City high graders through their last hard scrimmage before the East Des Moines game there, Saturday. The Little Hawks mentor spent most of the session in perfecting new line plays.

Zelthamel, 175 pound guard, was given a show at fullback. The husky lineman showed great driving power when once in motion but appeared slow in starting. He is likely to be called back from the line when a couple yards are needed for a first down.

Memories of the 12-6 defeat last year, in which both the Des Moines touchdowns were earned by passes gave Coach Knox sufficient cause for strengthening his aerial defense. The regulars had little difficulty in grounding the passes hurled by the second team displaying a perfect defense against the aerial game.

out of the week would be on Thursday and Saturday. The hour of Saturday's practice will be at 4:30 sharp. Transportation will be provided men who are required to get to work by 5:45.

Cubs Bunch Hits in First; Trounce White Sox 3 to 0

Malone Wins Opener in Annual Windy City Series

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP)—The shoots of big Pat Malone aided by the timely hitting of Cuyler, Wilson and Grimm, subdued the White Sox today and the Cubs won the opening game of the city series, 3 to 0, before a crowd of 26,000 fans in Comiskey park.

The Sox hit safely only five times and only one man reached third. "Red" Faber was the goat of the game, getting credit for the defeat although hurling only two-thirds of the opening inning. Faber walked English, the lead off man.

MaGuire filed, but then the trouble started. Cuyler doubled sending English to third. Both scored on Wilson's single through second. Stephenson forced the Cub center fielder at second but scored himself when Grimm drove a ball down the left field foul line.

Girl Asks Court to Annul Marriage

Elizabeth Webb Gives Temporary Insanity as Reason

Temporary insanity is the excuse which Elizabeth Webb, an 18-year-old student of Leon, gives in her plea to the Johnson county district court to annul her marriage to Stanley C. Davis, 22 years old, also of Leon. She also asks the court to restore her the rights of a single woman. Although the couple was married here Sept. 22, by a local minister, the petition filed in the office of the clerk of courts states that they did not live together after the ceremony. The plaintiff's petition declares "that at the time the said plaintiff and defendant attempted to be married, this plaintiff was insane and was unable to contract a legal marriage, and that since the plaintiff became sane, she refuses to carry out the said marriage." A temporary injunction was granted Mrs. Davis which restrains her husband from molesting her in any way. She asks that this injunction be made permanent, the marriage annulled, and the use of her maiden name, restored.

Magazine Publishes Picture of Exhibit

The work of Paul R. McGuire, Iowa City scout executive, in the direction of a Lone Scout exhibit at the Iowa State fair this year was praised in the September issue of "The Lone Scout," national magazine published by the Boy Scouts of America. In addition to a picture of their exhibit booth, which was in the educational building, the scout magazine printed a full column article in recognition of the work. It stated in part: "Rural scouting made its first great stand in Iowa at the state fair. All in all, the exhibition was a great success. The Lone Scouts and Mr. McGuire enjoyed their work, and all felt that Lone Scouting has been firmly established in the hearts of hundreds of Iowa people."

Yell Leaders Try Out at High School

Faculty, Student Talk to Assembly; Ask Cooperation

The initial tryouts for yell leaders at the Iowa City high school were held yesterday morning in the high school assembly hall. Because all but two of the contenders are men who have never had experience of this kind, there will be at least one more tryout before the final selections are made.

The boys who tried out yesterday were: Jack White and Lewis Galta, both veterans from last year, Donald Anderson, Seydel Ersland, Russell Powers, Robert Berry, Allen Barth, and Raymond Bywater.

Dorothy Kircher Speaks

Dorothy Kircher, business manager of the Red and White, announced in the assembly that only 310 of the desired 400 subscriptions had so far been taken. She explained that if the 400 mark has not been reached by Friday, one of three courses will be taken. Either there will be no annual at all this year, the size of the book will be decreased, or the price charged for the paper will be raised.

Urge Ticket Sales

Merritt Fausler, instructor of mathematics, who has been in charge of the sale of season tickets for football and basketball games, reported to the assembly that there have been only 245 tickets sold. Of this number about 45 have been purchased by merchants and townspeople, and he urged the students to buy their tickets at their earliest convenience.

Cyclists Must Obey Arterial Stop Signs

Mayor J. J. Carroll requests that cyclists obey traffic laws the same as motorists, and thereby reduce the number of accidents caused by cyclists riding on the sidewalks, riding too fast, or without lights. Mayor Carroll believes that many accidents could be avoided if the cyclist would obey the laws governing these situations. The revised ordinance of 1925 reads, "It shall be unlawful for any person to ride dangerously fast or at an immoderate rate of speed in any part of the city. It is also unlawful for any person to ride or cross, unless at a suitable driveway, or to leave any vehicle standing on the sidewalk." Many accidents are occurring at the arterial highway, and all vehicles

Iowa City Credit Stands Unusually High Compared With Other Cities

Eighty per cent of the persons in Iowa City pay their bills promptly at the first of every month. That is the contention of officials of the Iowa City credit bureau, who have compared Iowa City with other cities of a like size and find it rates unusually high. The average city of the size of Iowa City has only 55 per cent of the citizens paying their bills promptly at the first of each month. Several things come in for a share of credit for the high rating given Iowa City. First of all, the officials believe, are the university students, who watch their credit closely and rarely abuse credit privileges.

Another thing which helped Iowa City in gaining a high standing is the fact that there are no large factories here and thus the large foreign population, often slow in payments, is avoided. Officials have noticed that there is an unusually large number of persons requesting credit rating this year than in past years. The Iowa City Credit Bureau urges that the stores receiving questionnaires from the department of commerce regarding a federal credit survey, fill them out and promptly return them to Washington, D. C.
