G. B. McCutcheon Dies Suddenly at New York Hotel

Famous Writer Drops Dead After Lunch With Friends

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—George Barr McCutcheon, author of the Graustark books and many other novels and short stories, dropped dead today just after lunching with a group of friends.

He had been seated at a table at the weekly luncheon of the Dutch Treat club in the Hotel Martinique with Loren Palmer, Arthur Train, Thomas L. Masson, and Robert Dickey. When dessert was served he rose and made his way to a washroom where he collapsed. The hotel doctor pronounced him dead.

His last book had been published only a few weeks ago and another one was already underway.

McCutcheon was born in Tippecanoe county, Indiana, in 1866, and was graduated from Purdue university.

He seems to have had some doubt in his youth as to what profession he would choose, for he was an actor for a little time and again ran away with a circus.

In 1889 he became a reporter on the Lafayette (Ind.) Morning Journal and from that moment writing became his career. From the Journal he went to the Lafayette Daily Courier, becoming that paper's city editor in 1893. He remained in that position for several years, finding time to write his first novel, which he called "Pootoo's Gods" but which was published in 1905 under the title "Nedra."

His first published novel was "Graustark" in 1901 and in what he then believed to be a burst of business acumen he sold that outright for $500. Just how much the publisher made by that arrangement has never been made known.

McCutcheon had recently returned from a vacation in the south. He is survived by his widow, whom he married in 1904, and his brother, John, of Chicago, cartoonist.

University Dance Will Follow Rally Homecoming Eve

Multi-colored lights will play on Doc Lawson's "Collegians" and on the dancers at the Homecoming party Friday evening beginning at 9 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union. The dance will follow the mass pep rally which ends at 8 p.m.

Two football players, representing Iowa and Minnesota, will dominate the decorations for the first all-university party of the year. The players will be cutouts set in panels, and Old Gold and black, and Maroon and gold sunburst arbor will be set on either side. Large baskets of Old Gold chrysanthemums will further emphasize the black and Old Gold color scheme.

Chaperons for the party are: Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Whinney, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Yoder, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Stoddard, Dean and Mrs. C. H. Phillips, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hart.

Student council chaperons will be: Bert Boehm, C4 of Ogden; Marian E. Ambad, A4 of Marshalltown; Theodore Rehder, C3 of Lincoln; and Joe Kennedy, L1 of Traer.

Members of the general committee in charge of the party are: Emerson Nelson, L1 of Cherokee, chairman; Harry Boyd, J4 of Iowa City; Frances Mullen, L3 of Des Moines; Dorothy Gillis, A4 of Osage, and Ruth Eikenberry, A4 of Chariton.

Britisher Makes Anti-War Speech

DES MOINES, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Kellogg peace pact cannot function as long as the world is armed for war, the Rev. Fred Norwood of the London temple told the University club of Des Moines tonight.

Describing war as a doomed system, he made a plea for the elimination of armaments. Disarmament, Norwood said, is desired as a means of eliminating tax burdens but dreaded because of international suspicion and fear.

Evolution Becomes Issue

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 23 (AP)—A new issue, that of evolution, has been raised in the presidential campaign. The charge that Herbert Hoover is an "evolutionist" was made by Congressman Henry B. Steagall, in an address at Abbeville.

Students who are chosen for parts in these plays will be recommended for apprentices or voting membership in University players.

Sociology Teacher Discusses Plan for Y.W.C.A. Drive

Prof. Clyde W. Hart, associate professor of sociology, led the discussion of plans for the finance drive at a joint meeting of the Y.W.C.A. council and cabinet last evening. The meeting was held in the club rooms at Iowa Union.

Professor Hart stated that, "the secret to success in every finance drive is good organization. Every member of the drive must assume full responsibility by calling on every student on her list in the minimum length of time. A second essential in a finance drive is that every worker on a team and the captain have personal interviews with the campaign chairman."

"Every solicitor must have confidence in the organization he represents," he continued.

Ruth Elkenberry, A4 of Charlton presided at the meeting. Florence Kingman, A3 of Des Moines, chairman of the drive, has appointed the following girls to assist her on the committee: Frances Reppert, A4 of Burlington; Velma Greenfield, A3 of Iowa City; Margaret Gustine, A4 of Moline; Dorothy Gillis, A4 of Osage, and Gracey Greenfield, A1 of Iowa City. The drive will be from Nov. 6 to 9 and the goal for the Y.W.C.A. is $1,800.

Commerce Students Plan Senior Insignia

Suggestions for a symbol of identification for senior commerce students were presented at the class meeting held yesterday afternoon. Among the ideas presented by the committee was the wearing of a black felt hat banded with a black ribbon having a narrow red stripe, or a black cap bearing a colored classification numeral.

Other suggestions included either white sweaters or a business man's vest with the national insignia of commerce. Spats or walking sticks were also considered.

Because of the number of possibilities discussed, it was decided to postpone the decision until 9 a.m. Friday, when the final vote will be taken.

Iowa City Voters Start Registration

Local Citizens May Have Five Days To Enroll

Every person who wishes to vote in Iowa City on Nov. 6, must register on one of the following days: Thursday, Friday, or Saturday of this week, Nov. 3.

Persons who are 21 years old or more, who have lived in Iowa six months, and in the county 60 days are qualified to register, unless prohibited by previous legal action. For the benefit of those who may be out of town on those four days the registration board will meet on election day.

Persons who anticipate using an absent voter's ballot will not be required to register as the submitting of the affidavit in making application for such a ballot automatically registers him.

Voters who may be ill during the registration period may upon application have the registration board of their ward call upon them and obtain their registration.

The following places have been designated by the city council as headquarters for registration: first ward, basement of the court house; second ward, Karl's paint store, 6-S. Dubuque street; third ward, C.S.P.S. hall; fourth ward, the old Rock Island Burlington street station; fifth ward, Iowa City Bottling works, 525 S. Gilbert street.

The registration boards will be in session from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. on all four of the registration days.

Zeppelin Prepares for Flight; Awaits Favorable Weather

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP)—Refreshed by a few days' rest at home, Alfred E. Smith will start out in the morning on what he expresses as the "battle of the Atlantic sea-board."

Except by the press and radio, his appeal to the south and west is over, and the democratic nominee will be seen only in the thickly populated industrial sections of the east.

Disaster fell suddenly on the innocent salamander, when the infuriated turtle first bit a chunk out of its back and finally consumed all but the spine and head. But justice came quickly and surely to Marry Ann when the turtle was discovered yesterday afternoon. A turtle's head has been added to the museum.

The meeting will begin shortly after 8 p.m. when the band assemblies at the corn monument. At 6:45 p.m. the procession will move to Iowa Union where E. H. Lauver, director of the extension division, will act as chairman.

Alumni who will speak include W. E. Hall, class of '18, managing editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette; and Robert J. Bannister, class of '03, of Des Moines.

Coch Burton A. Ingwersen and the coaching staff will be with the team in "rest camp" at the Country Club, where the Iowa gridsters will eat a late dinner and rest in seclusion for the coming battle with the Gophers.

The cheering will be led by Claire Schap, D3 of Sheldon, head cheerleader; Paul S. Myhre, J4 of Osage; and Rowland Evans, A2 of Davenport. These men will be assisted by Alfred Fischer, of Mason City, and John Dondore, of Iowa City, former cheerleaders in the University of Iowa.

A platform will be erected on the north side of the lounge room to accommodate the speakers and guests of honor. The cheering will be led from the overhead platform at the east end of the room.

Army officers from the university R.O.T.C. unit will rope the crowd into two sections in passing out. This will give easier access to the exits and will prevent casualties as a result of crowding.

Speakers were made by Dr. F. C. Titzell, Burlington apartments, candidate for congress; Edward O'Connor, 606 Oakland avenue; Gus Allbee of Muscatine; P. D. White of Williamsburg, candidate for judge, and Samuel D. Whiting, candidate for representative.

Another rally will be held at Bayardton this evening with Bill Daly, 502 Iowa avenue, formerly on the chautauqua platform, as the principal speaker.

Death Rate Decreases

WASHINGTON, D. Packers Elect President

Declares Election Should Depend on Character of Men

Statesman Maintains Party Question Unimportant

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 23 (AP)—The question in the coming election is whether Herbert Hoover or Alfred E. Smith is the better equipped man to hold the presidential office, said Charles E. Hughes in an address tonight. It was the first of five speeches which the former secretary of state is to make on behalf of the republican ticket.

"We have a choice between two men," Mr. Hughes said. "It is not merely a question as between two parties, or as to what qualifications one or the other of these two men has, considered alone, or as compared with someone else."

The question is between Smith and Hoover, and I decidedly prefer Hoover."

The voters, he declared, were called on to determine what were the policies that would make for the prosperity and the security of the country.

Economy Needed

"We need economy in administration. We have had it in an extraordinary degree. No derision or clustering misstatements can alter the fact. We cannot afford to commit the policy of protection to a party that has always opposed it."

Hoover to Cast
Vote in Palo Alto

Nominee Confident of Party Success
on Nov. 6

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Back in Washington today after closing his eastern campaign with a vigorous talk that brought him an ovation in the home town of his democratic opponent, Herbert Hoover began to lay his plans for the long trip westward to vote.

Hoover reached Washington early today from New York where last night in Madison Square Garden he was given a tumultuous reception as he appeared to deliver the last speech of his eastern campaign.

The candidate for the first time threw aside his rule against newspaper correspondents quoting his remarks at press conferences and expressed confidence that he would be the victor Nov. 6. He repeated this expression shortly afterward at a luncheon with state workers but warned them against over-confidence.

Under the tentative plans that have been made for his trip to California, the candidate with Mrs. Hoover and his party probably will leave Washington about Oct. 30 and he will speak at St. Louis either Nov. 1 or 2. These plans call for him to move westward from St. Louis by the most direct route to his home in Palo Alto probably arriving there Nov. 5. His last effort of the campaign will be made in a speech over a nation-wide radio hookup from his home in Palo Alto on the night before election.

Pep Group Plans
Card Feature for Homecoming Day

Pi Epsilon Pi, national pep fraternity, met last night for the second time this year, in Iowa Union, to discuss plans for Homecoming features.

It was decided that the card system would be used at the Homecoming game and Claire Schap, D3 of Sheldon, gave a report on plans for its use. Large cards with directions will be passed out to a section of approximately 500 people. The sides of the cards are different colors.

At a given signal the cards will be flashed according to the directions on the cards and a huge "T" will be shown in the section. At another signal a huge "M" will appear. This is the same system that is used by the Stanford cheering section.

The time for the parade was set at 11 a.m. Saturday. The floats will be in front of the dental building. Nearly all the fraternities and sororities will have entries this year. Four traveling loving cups will be awarded for the best floats in the parade. One will be given by the Pi Epsilon Pi fraternity and three will be awarded through the courtesy of the Gyro club.

Robbs Visit Museum

Principal George W. Robb of Horace Mann school, and Mrs. Robb spent three days in Chicago last week visiting the Winnicki schools. They spent one day in Marshall Field museum, and returned to Iowa City Friday. Saturday they motored to Toledo where Mr. Robb refereed the Toledo-Brooklyn homecoming football game. The Robbs attended the homecoming banquet at which 275 were present, and were entertained at the home of Supt. Will A. Pye while in Toledo. Mr. Pye was formerly principal of Horace Mann school.

Boys and Girls become eligible for the camp through the recommendation of their school authorities who credit them with musical talent.

Music is the motivating force in the camp, but there are other interests, boating, swimming, archery, wrestling, baseball and track.

"Health and music are inseparable," said Dr. Maddy, "each is an aid to the other."

INTERLOCHEN, Mich. (AP)—Into this Indian land, where cathedral pines echoed the war drums of Chipeways, Ojibways and Ottawas has come another music, peace time in its cadence.

It is the music of a new tribe that found its chief inspiration in the compositions of Beethoven, Bach, Tchaikowsky, Debussy, Wagner and Sousa.

The new tribe consists of 150 boys and girls who spent their first summer in the national high school orchestra camp, established by Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, dean of the University of Michigan school of music. Dr. Maddy is hopeful the camp will become a permanent summer institution.

It is sponsored by the music supervisors' national conference, the national federation of music clubs and the national bureau for the advancement of music.

Music is the motivating force in the camp, but there are other interests, boating, swimming, archery, wrestling, baseball and track.

"Health and music are inseparable," said Dr. Maddy, "each is an aid to the other."

A Review of "The First Year"

By HARTZELL SPENCE

The audience was satisfied. So was Prof. E. C. Mabie. What more needs to be said of the first performance of "The First Year," which opened the dramatic season last night at the natural science auditorium.

Those who fear that the first night of a play will be amateurish, that the little effects which add to or detract so much from a production, will be overlooked, or that the acting itself will not be polished, will have recognized few defects in last night's performance. Save for a faint touch of uneasiness as the chimes died away at the beginning of the first act, there was no hesitation on the part of the actors, or any flaw in stage technique or direction.

The cast of nine, Prof. Vance Morton, who directed the presentation, and the class in stagecraft, should feel that they have accomplished noteworthy work. The play was purely Tommie Tucker's and Jack A. Morphew carried his role exceedingly well. But the play was built for him. And while he may have seemed over-vigorous in the second act, it was merely because the pent-up hunger for liberty was at last showing itself. From his first entrance with Reading's best candy under his arm, to the final display of white spats and swallow-tail coat, Mr. Morphew was Tommie Tucker consistently.

Deft Touches

The details were carefully worked out. In the first act, Tommie nearly proposed to Grace. But Mr. and Mrs. Livingston perched expectantly on adjacent stools, like buzzards over a victim. The scene had a deft touch, which manifested itself at other times during the bridge game, and during the dinner party. A clock ticked away the suspense at the close of act two. Chiming bells introduced the acts. There was a comfortable feeling in the audience that nothing had been overlooked.

Marie Foley Please

But the fact that Mr. Morphew starred is an indication of the ability of the supporting cast. Helen Ruby made a delightful Grace Livingston. Lesser ability would have detracted from the big moments of the act.

A Suggestion

APPROXIMATELY 25,000 fans will watch the Iowa-Minnesota football game on Iowa field next Saturday. They will be able to see for themselves just how the plays are made and how the two opposing elevens compare with each other in strength.

Throughout the state, however, and at other scattered points in the United States, thousands of other Iowa fans will follow the progress of the game. Some will receive the reports by wire from the Associated Press. They can rely upon the account of the game, because they know it is told by a trained sports reporter who is familiar with the technique of describing a football game play by play.

Thousands of other fans, however, will listen to the games broadcast by station WSUI. They will want to know exactly what is happening when it is happening. They will want to know who is carrying the ball, who does the tackling, how many yards are gained, and how many yards are yet to be gained. To report such information accurately and swiftly is a job for an expert—one who is accustomed to doing it.

For the first two local games, the athletic department has asked sports editors of various Iowa newspapers to do the announcing. Although this plan has many advantages, and creates good will for the university, it does not make for the clearest, most easily understood account of the games. The visiting announcers are unfamiliar with the field, the players, and the actual business of radio announcing. Their reports sometimes become confused and lag behind the progress of the game.

Station WSUI has, in Carl Menzer, an announcer whose voice is excellent, whose articulation is distinct, and whose experience in broadcasting has carried him past the stage of "studio fright." In addition to these qualities, he has shown by his past accounts of football, basketball, and baseball games that he is capable of following rapid and intricate plays and of describing them simply and clearly.

We believe we voice the sentiment of many WSUI listeners when we suggest that the task of reporting so important a game as the Homecoming struggle Saturday be left to Mr. Menzer.

Students as Citizens

COLLEGE students have always been criticized for their lack of interest in state and national affairs, and for their sophistication which is claimed to remove them from the practicalities of life. But the number of students who made application yesterday for absent voter's ballots for the general election, Nov. 6, clearly indicates the sentiment of the student body in the presidential race, and further shows that they are vitally interested in affairs outside of the campus domain. It shows that they are students of national politics and are eager to do their duty as good citizens.

More than 500 applications for ballots were filled out at the Iowa Union yesterday, when registration for absentee voters with a free notary public service was provided.

If one considers the fact that a majority of the students at Iowa are not yet 21, then the number that registered yesterday represents a high percentage of qualified voters among the student body who intend to cast a ballot for president. Those who criticize students for neglect of duties had better think again. Students will do their duties as citizens as often as opportunity arises.

Johnson County's Gain

THE election in November decides, for Iowa, more than the political complexion of the federal government. Before the voters of the state will be the question of approving a $100,000,000 road bond issue. To voters in this county the issue is of special significance.

The proposal is that the state shall assume bonded indebtedness, not to exceed $100, 000,000, with which to surface the whole of the state's primary road system. If the measure is approved the work will begin in 1929. The bonds, issued in a series extending over a number of years, will be paid off in full by 1940.

Johnson county voters are especially concerned. This county has already bonded itself for the improvement of its roads. County debt in Iowa is limited. Until our county bonds are paid off, or decreased, Johnson county will be unable to incur further debt of any proportion. A state road bond act, if supported by the voters, will change all this. Under the provisions of the act, the state will assume the bonded indebtedness of all counties which have in the past taken this step to surface their primary roads.

Johnson county's road bond debt will be removed. The county will be free to assume normal indebtedness for the improvement of its secondary roads, or for any improvement it deems desirable.

Good roads over all Iowa are vital to Iowa's prosperity. And Johnson county will profit in this not only with the state, but to an even greater degree by the transfer of its obligation of debt.

Football Scouting

UNTIL recently it has been the practice of all large universities and colleges to hire men whose duty it is to "scout" football games to learn the plays of future opponents.

This football scouting should be abandoned if college athletics are to maintain the clean sportsmanship for which they are noted. Some of the leading schools in the east, including Yale, Princeton, and Harvard have drawn up an agreement among themselves that there will be no football scouting this year.

No formal steps have been taken in the Western conference, but at the last meeting of Big Ten athletic directors the problem was seriously considered. It was pointed out that scouting does not go to make clean rivalry, that it imposes too much of a burden on both the competing teams, and that it tends to distract from the interest of the sport.

Gridiron mentors of the institutions which permit scouting labor under a great handicap. Each week they must develop a new style of play, and the foremost coaches of the country, including Howard Jones, Robert Zuppke, Clarence Speers, "Pop" Warner and Fielding H. Yost have gone on record as opposing the practice.

The step taken by the members of the east's "Big Three" will no doubt pave the way for the abolishing of football scouting. It was a commendable step to keep high in the athletic sun the sportsmanship for which our country is noted.

Why Lose Your Vote?

NO CITIZEN votes unless he registers. No poll books are officially dead in Iowa City. The law requires a general registration this year. October 25, 26 and 27 and Nov. 3 have been set aside as registration days. Each citizen who intends to vote must register or lose his voting rights on Nov. 6.

The registration will be heavy this year and every intending voter should register as early as possible. The legal hours, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. cannot be changed for registering. When the closing hours come, the registration judges must close their poll books to the procrastinators. THE DAILY IOWAN has published the registration places in Iowa City for the four days set aside to register.

Every voter must register; don't allow procrastination to deprive you of your voice in the government.

Marriage in these modern days is said to be a fifty-fifty proposition. It is—50 for this and 50 for that.

No Place for Loafers

(From The Daily Nebraskan)

Because the students of today are living in an age far more complex and intricate in its requirements than that of their forefathers, they must devote themselves to their task with greater vigor and zeal than ever before if they hope to succeed. Dr. Harry W. Chase, president of the University of North Carolina, declared in a convocation last week at the opening of that school's 135th year.

In concluding his address to the student body, Dr. Chase emphasized the fact that universities are no place for loafers. No place for the loafer! It is as true in Nebraska as in the Carolinas.

A university always has been an institution of higher learning and always has had study and research as its primary function. But today too many young people place those things as secondary and start to school with the idea of having a good time uppermost in their minds. The results inevitably are disastrous. Too late it is realized that study is imperative and that work must come before play.

If a student will pledge himself to start each semester with diligent study he may gain the proper foundation for his courses, and secure an understanding of the underlying principles of these subjects which will make it many times easier as the weeks go on. As in a race, the start is important, but it is never too late to start.

That it is more difficult to concentrate and study in university than formerly because of the increased complexity of modern civilization is recognized as a fact. That is just another reason why work is necessary and why college is no place for the loafer.

Chills and Fever

The man who said—

"Believe nothing that you hear and only half of what you see," was only three-fourths right. And although that may be a personal conjecture, it probably goes for this column also.

How much truth there is in the philosophy which is attributed to one in the composing room of the Iowan the other night when he closed a precarious situation with the epithet, "Well, there are a lot more heels in this world than there are feet."

You may have gathered by now that we are in a satirical receptive mood this morning. But our philosophy is too meager in its extent to attempt a whole column so we'll change our style before long—however that column is brooding and when we can't control it any longer, we're bound to get it.

Isn't it a queer world though? Did you ever stop to think how many times you say one thing when you mean just the opposite? And when you hear that someone has said something in a way seeming to ridicule you, should you believe it, should you care, and if the person did say it . . . deep . . . did they really mean that? Oftentimes you'll find that they didn't. You probably have experienced just that, and have learned a lesson from it. But how many times? Each time seems different and the next time it happens, you seemingly live only in the present, forgetting that experience is the ultra teacher, forgetting that under such circumstances, history repeats itself—and there you are again—perplexed—what to do—what to think. Isn't it a queer world though?

Here we go—

We have had several complaints this morning on the invasion of pampered dormitories with regard to the sale of homecoming badges. One from the Phi Gamma, of course. They don't go in for that sort of thing. Two of the girls had the happy idea that they might be able to sell a few more badges if they put on a little show for the D.U.'s. They promptly carried out their idea, but the effect was negative. The boys forgot all about the badges.

Here is one who even deems it necessary to put it in writing— "With malice toward none and the good reputation of three particular sororities, selling homecoming badges at heart, the writer suggests that it would be well for them to refrain from invading the third floor of the Quadrangle at 7 o'clock in the morning, on the pretext of selling said badges." —Jack Frost.

According to the Iowan, Dan Dutcher has resigned from the presidency of University Players. He ambiguously gives his reason as "too much other work." For your benefit, we'll elaborate. Dan is now interested in journalism. Indirectly, however. At first we thought it strange that he should spend so much time at the Iowan after he was registered for any classes there. The mystery was quickly cleared by the suggestion, from Buster Betz, that Dan's outside work consisted primarily of regular visits to the Theta house.

Which reminds us that the pledges last night, up above (we promised not to tell you where it was and we haven't said anything in Greek) pulled a little stunt at dinner, in which four of them acted as flat tires on an automobile. Not knowing the girls under consideration, we hesitate to comment on just how difficult it was for them to attempt such a role.

When we get around to it, we have been requested to announce something about "Mr. Fieldhouse." More commonly known as Joe Allison from Davenport, he got the idea. More.

Chills and Fever— Try listening to a bunch of B.B.C. coeds as they chatter. The following was overheard at the football game Saturday:

"Look! there's—. I've got a blind date with him tonight. He's called me up four times. Do you suppose he needs? If he tries anything tonight, I feel in the mood to slap somebody good."

"Ordered some grape juice the other night, and it sure was hot!"

"Those are made at the girls' reformatory at Anamosa."

"I don't like nuts and I don't like chocolate, but I do like the ice cream. Don't chew that stick so hard Dorothy."

"Oh, I'm chewing it to keep from being bored."

"Well, you'll never make anything but board out of that."

"Lucille, will you still have my cigar case?"

"I wish — wouldn't walk that way. She's a cute girl, but she swings herself about so."

"She does that to keep from looking so tall!"

"Why men leave home and newspaper reporters denounce Iowa City as the source of all evil!"

AND don't forget the big pep meeting; get some ideas if you have any. Er, no, that's wrong, of course you have some—but anyway, get hot and let's see if Iowa can't make a noise which will be relatively somewhat near that which its team deserves this year.

German Says Chemistry's Task is To Build Health, Save Life

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 2 (AP)—The next great problems for chemistry to solve lie in the direction of human health and the prolongation of life, says Dr. Paul Walden, professor of general chemistry at the University of Rostock, Germany.

Professor Walden is filling the George Fisher Baker non-resident lectureship in chemistry at Cornell University.

"Chemistry is a science of peace, and is working for the rich and the poor," asserts Professor Walden. "It is making life easier and happier, but it will go much farther in this direction."

"We shall, for instance, find many new remedies for sickness and infection, decreasing step by step man's susceptibility to disease until we have found cures for every malady. For health is the primary condition of man's prosperity and welfare, and we must conserve it scientifically."

"As man searches for new synthetic materials he must always remember that nature herself is the cheapest producer, the chemist points out."

"She works on a simple plan," he says, "and does not need the heroic methods of the laboratory to accomplish her work. Sometimes, however, we find that we cannot wait for nature's slow processes, and so many substitutes for her products are coming into use. It is impossible to forecast how far our so-called synthetic chemistry can go, but science must not forget that nature's ways are frequently cheapest."

in the military department yesterday. At the same time a last call was issued for men who wish to try out for the varsity shooting team.

The schedule announced thus far only covers a minor number of the matches that will be fired. Meets with Big Ten conference and additional outside teams will be arranged and the completed schedule made public at a later date.

The present program of matches for the R. O. T. C. rifle team is being held under the auspices of the speech department of the university, and each year different phases of speech work are considered, the subject this year being speech pathology and experimental phonetics.

Special attention will be paid to the research work that has been accomplished by Lee Travis, professor of speech pathology at the University of Iowa. Dr. Travis, with his staff, has been carrying on experimental work in connection with speech correction. Dr. Travis is general chairman of the convention.

This conference is an annual event at the University of Iowa. It is being held under the auspices of the speech department of the university, and each year different phases of speech work are considered, the subject this year being speech pathology and experimental phonetics.

Tomorrow night's performance of Frank Craven's "The First Year" will open the speech pathology and experimental phonetics conference, which meets here Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The work is done by mountain women in their homes, and is being used by the textiles classes in studying weaving. The club is selling the articles in display for a commission to be used in financing the trip of two delegates to the national home economics convention at Boston.

The articles, which will be on display for a week, are woven of wool and of linen. There are old fashioned table squares, luncheon and bridge sets, couch covers, rag rugs, baby blankets, towels, skirts, muffers, dresses, and bags. The total collection is valued at $250.

PEAKS OF DESIRE

By KANE O'DAY

"If you think I was getting fresh or anything," Steve persisted, "you're all wrong."

What has happened so far.

Jerry Dunn, star reporter on a large newspaper, meets Ann Treman, debutante daughter of a wealthy broker. He convinces her of the emptiness of the life she is leading, and takes her to live at his boarding house. There she is projected into a new world of people. She is immediately attracted to Steve Harrison, a husky young pugilist. Jerry warns her of this, but she cannot put Steve out of her mind. The next day she gets a job as ticket seller in a small local theater owned by a Greek, Nick Pagalos. She tells Steve about her job and he offers to take tickets for her, paying her for the tickets then.

Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER XV.

FORBIDDEN thrill of feeling shot through Ann's breast like a faint electric current. She was not pleased; she was infuriated—first at herself and then, scarcely in justice, at Steve Harrison.

But for the moment the old, carefully trained self with it's clear-headed streak of caution, gained the ascendancy. Better to play safe . . . "Never mind giving me, the money for your ticket now," she said with a touch of coolness. "You can pay at the box office."

She closed the door practically in Steve's face; but not before, in the flash of an instant, she had seen the look of misunderstanding in his eyes. It was like rebuffing a great friendly puppy; he had thought she wanted to be chummy with him . . .

She had not estimated him quite correctly. He came back to the door that had been closed in his face.

"Say—"

"Silence." "Say, Miss Lynch—" At first she remembered that Jerry had given her the name as an alias. "What's the matter—were?"

"No, I'm not sore," Ann said through the door. "Good-night, Mr. Harrison."

Something, almost a cry of despair, welled up in her heart. She didn't want to be a snob, a conceited little jackass, a shrivel-souled fool—but she hadn't been used to men like Steve Harrison. He belonged to the crude, hard-handed tolling class, whereas the men of his set had been gentle and polished, polished with the thousand and one little niceties of breeding and manners. From childhood, ever since she knew anything at all, she

Butterbaugh Gets Threatening Letter

Local Man's Attorney Asks Dismissal of Larceny Case

Roy Butterbaugh, local automobile dealer, has been made the object of several threats through a letter received from a William J. Kafka, Chicago attorney.

Kafka was attorney for a local boy, Elmer "Tuffy" LeVora, who was indicted by the Cook county grand jury Monday on a grand larceny charge. His arraignment is scheduled for the next term of the circuit court in Cook county.

The indictment grew out of an alleged theft by LeVora of $170 in cash from Butterbaugh, while the two were in Chicago the early part of September. Butterbaugh has been pushing the case, and believes that this has caused the threatening letter.

Among other things, the writer of the letter threatened to expose several "shady" incidents concerning Butterbaugh and have them printed in the local papers.

The attorney demanded that Butterbaugh drop the prosecution and admit that LeVora was not guilty.

He alleges that Butterbaugh has falsely charged the boy and that the latter is not guilty of the theft. He declared in the three page letter that as Butterbaugh was now a citizen with a good reputation and, should he want to keep that reputation, he should consider the matter well before pushing it further.

Butterbaugh is paying no attention to the threats and said yesterday that he would continue working on the case against LeVora until a conviction is obtained. He considers the letter a joke.

Iowa City police arrested LeVora Sept. 13 at the request of Illinois authorities.

don't like to be misunderstood. Good night."

"Good-night."

Outside she knew he was turning to depart, but at that moment there was another step in the hall. Another voice—Jerry Dunn's.

"Hello, Steve! Thought I heard you talking."

"I was to her."

"Miss Lynch? Is she still awake?"

"Yes, she's awake. She said she wanted to tell you about a job she got."

Ann opened her door.

"Hello, Jerry! I left a note under your door. I've been waiting up to tell you the good news. I'm a working girl in dead earnest now. I've landed a job!"

He grinned, forgetting the presence in the background of the open-eyed Steve.

"Great stuff. Do you want to come back to my room and tell me about it? Or shall I come in here?"

With one-half of her divided mind, Ann realized that Steve Harrison, listening, could very easily draw a false conclusion of her intimacy with Jerry Dunn. To his single-track intelligence it would probably mean only one room after midnight . . . yet she was so filled up with eagerness to tell Jerry the story of her first thrill at earning a living . . .

"Oh, come on in here, Jerry!" she cried heedlessly. "I've been waiting hours for you!"

T. D. Kelley Files Suit Against Local Man for Larceny

Wilbur Lee, an employee of the River Products company, was arrested yesterday when information was filed against him by T. D. Kelley, owner of a local cleaning establishment, for larceny of a suit of clothes.

Lee entered a plea of not guilty before Justice B. F. Carter, who set the date for hearing Thursday at 9 a.m.

The defendant, upon failure to furnish $1,000 bonds, was confined to the Johnson county jail to await his hearing.

Hawk Gridders Squelch Frosh as Coach Develops Defense

Moore, Fuhrman Replace Veterans in Varsity Lineup

Yearling Attack Fute Against Regulars' Defense Play

Iowa's much-habused freshmen tried to interpret the part of the Thundering Herd against the varsity last night but found themselves stamped all over the lot by the vicious tackling of the regulars. And after each particularly hard thump the regular would say under his breath, "Take that, Nagurski."

With Iowa's backfield at least as good as anything the Norsemen can boast, Coach Ingwersen is working to develop his line, especially on defensive tactics. In order to perfect a stronger combination last night, Moore was used in place of Carlens at left end and Fuhrman replaced Roberts at left guard for most of the evening.

Ten Letter men

Minnesota will send a squad which includes ten letter men and an especially powerful line. It is a characteristically smart and heavy Gopher eleven, prototype of the ones which have taken sixteen of the twenty-two games from the Hawkeyes in the all-time series.

Both teams have won three games and have been saved upon only once. Minnesota defeated Creighton, 40-0; Purdue, 15-0; and Chicago, 33-7. Iowa won from Monmouth, 26-0; Chicago, 13-0; and Ripon 61-6. The last mentioned total is the largest score an Iowa team has rolled up since Knobell, 61-0 in 1922. No other conference team has run up such an impressive total this fall.

"Five-Yard" McLain

Iowa's great trio of backfield stars are running neck in neck in total yards gained this season. "Big Chief" McLain leads with 254 yards, Pape has 240 and "Little Papoose" Giffgog has registered 210. Pape's average is 12 yards while McLain's is five yards for every time he has carried the ball.

The Minnesota plays as presented by the freshmen last night failed to make any gains. The freshmen who carried the offensive were: Sansen, Carroll, Ishleman, and Willers. Willers was the bright light in the backfield. Despite his lack in weight he succeeded in making several good gains through his heavier opponents.

McKinnon, all-state quarter from Marion, was back in uniform but did not scrimmage because of a wrenched shoulder.

Golf Mentor Says Customary Ladder Tourney Uncertain

The customary ladder tournament for the golfers of the university will probably not be held this fall. The interfraternity golf tournament and football games on week-ends occupy so much time that Coach Charles Kennett does not see how a tournament this fall would be possible.

From 15 to 20 varsity and freshman golfers report daily. Practice consists mostly of lengthening drives and improving the golfers putting on the green.

They are not aiming at low scores yet, but many of the golfers are doing good work.

The sophomores are doing well in comparison with the older varsity men. Much is expected of Bill Ellwood, captain, and Marc Stewart, both sophomores in the varsity meets next spring. They both get off powerful drives, and are consistent players throughout the game.

Outdoor practice will continue until about Dec. 1, unless the weather becomes too bad before that time.

Fred King, '28 of Vinton, was a week-end visitor in Iowa City. Mr. King is teaching at the Vinton high school.

The university high football team has scheduled a game against the Grant high school reserves of Cedar Rapids to fill the vacant date which occurred in the U. high card this week-end. The game will be played Saturday morning at 11 o'clock on north Iowa field. The Cedar Rapids team has a strong aggregation and has made an enviable record this year.

A wire received Monday from Minnesota asked that 300 more seats be reserved for them. This now leaves 3,100 seats available for the Iowa fans. They are on the south east end of the stadium and in the bleachers. Work was started yesterday constructing additional seats at the corners of the fields.

Reservations can now be made for Dad's day Nov. 17 either with cash or with F-book tickets.

Twenty to Swim in Novice Meet Today

Twenty entrants are signed to enter the novice swimming meet to be held at the women's gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Only those who have held no other honors are eligible to enter.

Few names on the entry list have appeared before and the results are unpredictable.

Seals, honorary swimming organization for women, is sponsoring the meet and members of the club will officiate.

Bresnahan Installs Thermometers to Aid Harrier Drill

Temperature Gauges Determine Type of Workout

Efficiency to the last degree is the motto of Coach George T. Bresnahan. The newest device for the perfection of his cross country men preparing for their tilt with the Minnesota harriers' Homecoming, is the installation of thermometers in the field house dressing room and outside on the course.

The object of these temperature gauges is to aid the men in determining the type of workout and the amount of warming needed. On a chilly day more warmth is needed than on a mild one. As it is difficult for the individual to judge weather conditions accurately, the thermometers will aid in the standardization of drill.

The cross-country course on Finkbine field is in good shape for the meet Saturday, according to Coach Bresnahan.

The Minnesota team will arrive Friday morning, and will make headquarters at the Jefferson hotel.

In the morning the team will be shown around the course in automobiles and in the afternoon will be given a chance to work out on the course.

The Minnesota squad will be guests of the Iowa athletic department at the Iowa-Minnesota football game in the afternoon.

The Iowa team took an easy optional workout yesterday, and work the rest of the week will tend to ease off until Friday when the work will be a mere warming up drill.

The first preliminaries of the 100-yard dash will be held. Contrary to the original plans of Charles R. Brookins, assistant track coach, all the

Minnesota Develops Defense for Passes

Conference Elevens Prepare for Big Week; Wildcats Face Illinois Saturday; Four Chicago Vets Back

CHICAGO, Oct. 23 (AP)—Precedent, that had demanded Ohio State's annual obeisance to Michigan, Wisconsin's bowing to Notre Dame and similar subservience, may take another blow Saturday if Dick Hanley and his Northwestern Wildcats have anything to say about the matter.

Coach Hanley led the Northwestern eleven into Memorial stadium at Champaign for a Homecoming game with the champion Illini. The Wildcats have won only one of their last 12 games with Illinois and have lost seven straight since securing that lone victory back in 1912 by 6-0. Northwestern fans have been looking for better times ever since but have only seen the margin of defeat cut from 37-6 in 1913 to 7-6 last year.

Hanley Develops Offense

It is true that the Hanley-trained team are far from favorites in the impending battle with the conference champions. But it is also true that Northwestern has an unusually strong over-head game in which Illinois showed itself weak against Indiana last week.

Hanley today worked the varsity on a running attack. The Wildcats have exhibited a powerful attack in mid-field but the attack has fizzled when within the shadows of the goal line.

Down at Illinois a Northwestern jaded freshman team played hard with the varsity, sending Root and Schmitz through for repeated gains. Zuppke is not taking Northwestern lightly and announced scrimmages for every night of this week.

Spears Drills for Passes

With Minnesota's defense against passes—a style of game which he is expecting Iowa to resort to this week when the two undefeated teams tangle at Iowa City. Kakela, regular center was still out of the game with a bad leg but the remainder of the squad were in good condition. Bronko Nagurski was used in blocking for Hovde and Brockmeyer.

The outlook at Chicago was just a little brighter today as all but three regulars reported for practice. Two varsity elevens were put through a stiff scrimmage against the freshmen using Purdie's passing attack.

Indiana Works Late

At Lafayette Coach Phelan drilled through one of the heaviest drills of the season in preparation for the Homecoming game with Ohio State. The yearlings used Buckeye formations against the varsity.

The Michigan line will probably have two changes when the team starts against Wisconsin. Cragin will be at center and Stelkne at guard.

Pat Page sent the Indiana gridmen through one of the heaviest drills of the season in preparation for the Homecoming game with Ohio State. The yearlings used Buckeye formations against the varsity.

Against Grinnell the Knoxmen will have the advantage of the home ground. The game will be played on Shadet field at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

AMES, Oct. 23 (AP)—Captain Lindblom and Larson, backs on the Iowa State football team, were absent from practice today—both having injured shoulders received in the week. Peterson took Lindblom's
