Hoover Proposes Extended Journey to Latin America

President-Elect Seeks South American Friendship

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 9 (AP)—A goodwill trip to Latin-American countries is proposed by Herbert Hoover, before he returns to Washington for his inauguration on March 4.

Announcement of the intention of the president-elect was made at the white house in Washington and at the Hoover home today.

"I have had the suggestion of a visit to certain Latin-American countries before me for some days," said the statement issued by the president-elect. "There are considerations of the time required and other matters which delay final determination for a few days."

Plans Indefinite

Although the plans necessarily are definite at this time, it is the understanding that departure will be made from San Francisco late next week on a battleship, probably the Maryland, flagship of the U. S. battle fleet.

Should Hoover follow the usual routes for such tours of South America, his trip would require about two months as it would take him to all of the larger countries of the southern continent.

The expectation is that from San Francisco the president-elect will go to Colombia, Ecuador, Argentina, Peru, Brazil, Chile and larger countries on the continent. After completing his tour of the continent, Hoover would board another battleship and return to the United States.

Future Indefinite

The direction of his future travels and the manner in which he would spend his time between the date of his departure from South America on the return trip still is a matter of conjecture, however.

The president-elect has given much time during his seven and a half years as secretary of commerce to the work of fostering trade between the United States and her Latin-American neighbors to the south, but this would be the first time that he has ever set foot upon that continent, although as an engineer, his business carried him into most of the other parts of the world.

Supreme Court Nullifies Claim to Snyder Insurance

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—A supreme court ruling today, nullified the insurance of $95,000 which Mrs. Ruth Snyder took out on the life of her husband, Albert Snyder, for whose murder she and her lover, Henry Judd Gray, were executed.

Supreme Court Justice Mahoney who handed down the decision ruled that though there was no evidence that Mrs. Snyder was thinking of killing her husband when she took out the insurance, still she got the policies by deceit and for that reason they were null and void. The Snyder's young daughter, Lorraine, will receive only the amount of the premiums paid—$1,652.28—instead of the value of the policy.

Justice Mahoney ruled that the policy was void in that Snyder never knew of its existence and that, therefore, it never took effect in the eyes of the law. He held that the insurance company should not be made to pay, since it was ignorant that Snyder had not entered into the contract himself.

Meehan Testimony Pictures Rothstein as Mean Spirited

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Another and less romantic picture of Arnold Rothstein, popularly known as the Gambler Prince of Broadway, was drawn in the district attorney's office today by one of his own cronies, the host at the dead gambler's last fling at cards.

When he died it was rumored that he had been killed because he refused to pay a debt incurred to sharpshooters who stuffed a deck with marked cards.

But Jimmy Hochen, Broadway betting commissioner in whose apartment Rothstein played the game where he dropped a roll of $380,000 and then welched on his I.O.U., told his version of the affair today. Through his eyes, Rothstein was seen as a mean spirited sort, a "squawker" who was merciless in collecting debts, but who pleaded poverty or cried "thief" when he lost.

Meehan didn't play in the game himself, he said, but watched it closely, and it was as straight as a string. When Rothstein won a hand, Meehan told the district attorney, he would take his winning in cash, but when he lost he would give his I.O.U. when the game was over, he asked for time although his reputed fortune ran into the millions.

Brigham Elected Leader of Home Economics Group

Dubuque Woman Gets Honor as Head of State Teachers

Alice Brigham, associate professor of home economics here, was elected president of the Iowa State Home Economics association for 1929. The election took place at the general sessions of the state teachers' association in Des Moines last night, according to an Associated Press report.

Esther Helbig of Dubuque was elected president of the Iowa State Teachers' association, which brings the honor to a classroom teacher, and one of the few women in Iowa history to attain the presidency of the teachers' group.

Executive committee selections were: Erna Kraut, Oskaloosa, and K. D. Miller, Fort Dodge, Theodore Saam, Council Bluffs in the holdover member of the committee.

Clay D. Slinker Re-elected

The association re-elected Clay D. Slinker, Des Moines, treasurer, and elected district vice presidents as follows:

A. E. Jewett, Waterloo, Northeastern; A. E. Harrison, Lake View, Northwestern; A. J. Steffley, Knoxville, central; J. P. Overmeyer, Algona, North Central; E. W. Fannon, Centerville, southeastern; M. M. McIntire, Audubon, southwestern, and Bertha Taylor, Orient, south central.

Anna Olson of Des Moines was named vice president of the home economics association. Anita Hanson of Stuart, secretary; Elsie Wilson, Ames, treasurer, and Mrs. Helen Wagner, Des Moines, councillor.

Officers of the county superintendents' association elected were: E. C. Wissler, Boone, president; Celia Bell, Ottumwa, secretary; Anna Johnson, Fort Dodge, and C. F. Clark, Sioux City, members of the reading circle board.

Pre-School Education Advances

Remarkable advance in pre-school education and parent education are looked for in the next few years by Charles Pye, secretary of the association.

Mr. Pye declared that while "nursery" schools may not be generally in vogue, great strides would be made by private institutions in developing children of pre-school age. Recent trends, Mr. Pye said, point to increase of parent education on a large scale.

"When these forces reach larger proportions, we will witness the cultural age of America," Mr. Pye declared.

Teaching methods are due for changes, in the opinion of Mr. Pye. History which now contemplates the memorizing of dates will be taught by allowing pupils to select phases and develop them by means of original research work, he believes.

Smith Goes to Work

City Council Lets Bonds for Paving; Sidewalk Projects

Mary Zitelman Seeks Damages for Fall on Linn Street

Resolutions were passed by the city council last night authorizing the city clerk to issue two series of bonds. The first one for the sum of $29,030.94, to pay for the paving projects on McLean street, Myrtle and Kirkwood avenues, and Madison street.

The paving bonds will bear 5 per cent interest and will fall due in the sum of $11,030, May 1, 1929 and in the sum of $2,000 every May 1, until 1938.

The other series was issued in the sum of $7,724.37 to be used to defer the cost of recently constructed sidewalks.

Guy Wire Causes Fall

The sidewalk bonds will become due in the sum of $4,124.37, May 1, 1929, and in the sum of $900 every May 1 until 1934.

A claim was presented to the council by Mary A. Zitelman stating that she had received serious injuries when she stumbled over a short post and guy wire in the sidewalk on the east side of Linn street near Burlington street. Her claim stated that both her eyes were injured by the fall she received, and that her nose was broken and one thumb dislocated.

It also stated that she had received other minor injuries. In her claim she did not set a figure for the damages. The accident occurred Nov. 3.

The claim was referred to the claims committee.

Council Seeks Damages

A resolution was passed notifying the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company that the city had suffered $289.62 damages from the negligent service of John Wiencke who was formerly employed by the city as garbage collector, and whose bonds were furnished by this company. Mr. Wiencke was discharged several weeks ago after a number of complaints were received about the garbage service.

A resolution was made by Charles W. McGinn, alderman of the first ward, directing the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the paving of the hill on Grand avenue. The resolution was seconded by C. O. Paine, alderman at large. The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote.

A petition was received asking that a culvert be constructed at 211 N. Madison street. The matter was referred to the street and alley committee.

An invitation was presented by the American Legion to the city council asking them to appear in the Armistice day parade. The invitation was accepted.

The meeting adjourned until Nov. 23, at which time bids will be opened on proposed sewer projects.

Lava Pours From Mount Etna Upon Village in Sicily

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 9 (AP)—Another Sicilian village has fallen prey to the all-devouring lava, which continues to pour from Mt. Etna. Nuziata tonight was undergoing the same fate as its neighbor village, Mascali, which already was completely buried and buried under the advancing flow.

Only a part of Nuziata had been destroyed, but it had been completely evacuated by its inhabitants who feared the same fate that overtook three men of Mascali whose escape was cut off while they slept.

The smoking volcano was more active tonight than for some hours. The principal fiery stream that it had discharged had reached a point only sixty meters from the railway station at Mascali and was proceeding inexorably onward at a rate of five meters an hour.

The spirit of the Sicilians, who have dwelt for generations in the shadows cast by this giant who periodically has roused itself to real destruction, is undaunted. The inhabitants of Mascali have been comforted by the government's promise to rebuild their town.

Dads Will Receive Reservation Blanks

Letters from the faculty committee on the Dad's Day program, containing blanks for the reservation of tickets to the Iowa-Wisconsin football game, for rooms, and for tickets to the Dad's Day dinner, were mailed yesterday to the dads of all Iowa students.

As a final effort to attract the dads to the celebration members of A.E.F. and Mortar Board visited all fraternities and sorority houses yesterday noon, asking that each student see to it that his or her dad received a personal invitation to the program. All students who are planning on going home over the week-end were asked to make a special effort to get their dads to attend.

Pals Again

Rumania Accepts Peasant Minister

BUCHAREST, Nov. 9 (AP)—After 36 years of almost uninterrupted rule by powerful capitalists and landed interests, greater Rumania, with its agrarian population of 16,000,000, passed today into the hands of a peasant government led by Lulu Maniu.

"It is a triumph of constitutionalism over despotism," declared Maniu after the regency had given the mandate. "In the future our country will be governed by a parliament elected by the people and not by a professional political clique."

The designation by the regency of Maniu to form a cabinet after Nicholas Titescu had failed, caused a profound gloom among the liberals, who had been in expectation of being summoned by the regency as the only party capable of solving the crisis which had endured for a week.

Scarcely any member of the new "people's ministry" had had experience in national public office, so that the rural government's accession to power presents a rare experiment in modern democracy and political science.

When the regency entrusted Maniu with the mandate, drawing a typewritten list from his pocket, he said, "Here is my cabinet. I am ready to assume the government immediately."

His first new act undoubtedly will be to ask dissolution of parliament for he has repeatedly charged that body with not being representative.

WGy to Broadcast on Full Time Basis

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—The General Electric company's station WGy at Schenectady, N. Y., was given temporary permission today by the District of Columbia court of appeals, to broadcast full time on a 790 kilocycle channel, the same frequency assigned to KGO the company's station at Oakland, Cal., pending a hearing on the station's merits.

The quality of the station's programs and the question of chain programs were not considered by the court.

Frank J. Hogan, attorney representing the company, asserted that millions of listeners in New York, Vermont, and New Hampshire and Massachusetts depended on WGy for programs.

Attorney Frank Scott for the commission said that allowing both stations to broadcast simultaneously would blanket the mid-west with heterodyne whistles and create a precedent which would cause "chaos" to the broadcasting band.

Corn Huskers Vie for Hawkeye Title

RED OAK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Corn husking as an outdoor sport reaches its climax in Iowa tomorrow when the state championship will be settled by 14 star pickers on a farm 3 miles north of here.

The winner will be Iowa's entrant in the mid-west contest in Indiana.

The rules call for an hour and twenty minutes of husking. Skill is not limited to speedy throwing of ears of corn, since the rules penalize contestants who leave unpicked ears behind them or fail to remove all the husks.

Officer Names Senator in Trial

Prohibition Conspiracy Charges False Says Wagner

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—United States Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York was mentioned today in the trial of Luigi Cardì and four others for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in Luigi's restaurant here.

John J. Mitchell, a prohibition agent who came to New York from Denver last spring testified that he was in the restaurant last May when a commotion was heard outside. Carl Bartl, a waiter, one of the defendants, reassured Mitchell and his party, the witness said.

"That's all right," Bartl told them, Mitchell testified. "Don't be alarmed. Luigi pays well for protection here and everything is fixed."

"Was the name of the fixer mentioned?" asked Norman J. Morrison, special assistant attorney general, who was conducting the examination.

"Yes," replied the witness. "I believe it was Senator Wagner."

"Was there any mention of the cost of fixing?"

"Yes," said Mitchell. "I believe the waiter told me every time Luigi opened the doors in the morning it cost him $300."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Sen. Robert F. Wagner of New York denied as a "terrible outrage" the allegation of a prohibition agent that he had "fixed" enforcement agents to secure protection for a restaurant.

Envoys to Attend Regal Ceremony

Ten Nations Convey Congratulations to New Emperor

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 9 (AP)—Twenty-six foreign nations will be represented at the enthronement of Hirohito, one hundred twenty-fourth emperor of Japan, here tomorrow.

The 26 chief envoys, only 10 will convey the congratulations of other monarchs, now a dwindling company to the new occupant of the throne of a "lineage unbroken for ages eternal." The other 16 come from republics.

Eighteen nations sent envoys to Kyoto in 1915, when Hirohito's father, the late Emperor Taisho, was enthroned. The eight additions represent the alterations in the political complexion of the world in the intervening 13 years. Germany and Turkey, then enemy countries, are again friendly. New nations have arisen in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Finland. Japan has opened diplomatic relations with Brazil, Mexico, and Rumania.

The 1915 enthronement was attended by 1,922 persons, of whom 42 were foreign envoys and members of their suites and 18 were wives of members of this contingent. A special American naval mission also was present, headed by Rear-Admiral A. G. Winterhalter, four officers and two ladies were in this party, making the foreign guests total 66. Ambassador George W. Guthrie will be the chief American envoy.

The enthronement of Hirohito will be witnessed by approximately 2,500, including a diplomatic contingent of 97. Only those ranking highest in the Tokio embassies and legations are invited to the climactic ceremony in the Shishin-Den tomorrow, including the ambassadors and ministers, the counselor or ranking secretary of each mission, the military, naval, and aviation attaches. The wives of these diplomats are included in the invited list.

Bay State Desires Dry Law Change

BOSTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Sentiment in favor of repeal of the prohibition amendment was expressed by a majority in Tuesday's election while four districts returned a majority against repeal.

The question was in this form: "Shall the senator from this district be instructed to vote for a resolution requesting congress to take action for the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, known as the prohibition amendment?"

Hear The Game

Play by play results of the Iowa-Ohio game will be broadcast at THE DAILY IOWAN office and at Iowa field, beginning at 1:30 this afternoon.

THE DAILY IOWAN has arranged for a special Associated Press wire direct from the field at Columbus, O., where the Hawkeyes will battle today on their way toward the conference championship.

An extra edition, carrying the play-by-play account of the Ohio-Iowa game, as well as stories on all Big Ten and other major games, will be on the streets immediately after the game is over.

Injuries Cripple Both Conference Leaders

Dope Indicates Buckeye Victory But Strong Old Gold Eleven Conceded Chance; Casualties Worry Coaches

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer)
CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Two undefeated teams, Ohio State and Iowa, meet in the big Ohio horseshoe at Columbus tomorrow for the unchallenged lead of the Western conference gridiron championship.

The losers will become an also ran and the winner will remain the only 1,000 per cent team in the conference, because Wisconsin, although undefeated, has a 19-19 tie game with Purdue to tarnish its record.

While victory for either Ohio State or Iowa team does not necessarily mean the championship, tomorrow's game will clear up the situation for the present.

The game will be fought before a crowd of upwards of 60,000, with the Buckeyes going into the fray a slight favorite.

Edge Favors Ohio
The edge favors Ohio State because the team scores quickly with deception and finesse, while Iowa's game is to start walloping and keep right on battling down the opposition with power, hard blocking, meanwhile waiting for a break that will enable the blond speedster, Oran Pape, to get into the game and gallop away on one of his sensational runs.

Both teams will be handicapped by injuries, although Ohio's hospital list is more serious than Iowa's and it will not be known until the last minute what kind of a line coach Wilce will send out to face the Hawkeyes.

The boys from the Tall Corn state are in good shape, except for two important members of the backfield, Mayes McLain, the churning Cherokee, and Farroh, the blocking half-back. McLain nearly had a finger torn off in the Minnesota victory two weeks ago and has been resting to allow the injured hand to heal. Farroh has been bothered by a twisted back. McLain is sure to be in the starting line but his condition makes it doubtful if he will be in there all the time.

Barratt, Ohio's massive center, suffered a badly wrenched leg in the Princeton game last Saturday and if he cannot start, the Buckeyes will be in bad shape, because there is no capable substitute center on the squad. Raskowski, the all-American tackle, who played a fine Wisconsin game in the Princeton encounter, but undoubtedly will start.

Ohio State has an advantage tomorrow. Coach Wilce can keep his regulars in the game as long as they last for the Buckeyes have only an easy frolic with Muskingum a week away, while Iowa faces Wisconsin in a week hence, and Coach Ingwersen must conserve his reserve strength as much as possible.

Hawkeye Attack Powerful
It is probable that the outcome of the game will depend upon the power of the running attack of the two teams, for the lines average up about even.

Iowa seems to have a slight advantage on the offensive with Glassgow, McLain, Arml and Farroh to take care of the blocking and ball carrying, against Byron Eby, who is the big threat of the Buckeye attack. Ingwersen has another ace in his sleeve, the sophomore flash, who is an ideal man to send in against a tiring team.

Smoke Phenomena Darkens Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—For more than three hours today Chicago's downtown district was plunged into darkness when a high pressure area with absence of winds caused clouds and smoke to gather over the loop.

Huge electric signs were illuminated and downtown office buildings were ablaze with lights while automobile lamps and street car lights added to the illusion of midnight at midday.

The weather bureau reported that the phenomenon, the most pronounced ever witnessed in the loop district, was not the result of storm clouds although the day was cloudy, but was caused by a ceiling of smoke with no wind to carry it away.

Schaap Goes to Ohio
Claire Schaap, D3 of Sheldon, head cheerleader, left yesterday afternoon for Columbus, where he will lead the cheering of the Iowa fans attending the Iowa-Ohio football game. Schaap will attend the game as the official representative of the cheering squad and is being sent by the university.

Student Missionary Tells About Conditions That Prevail in India Gandhi, national leader of India and a high caste man, has adopted into his own home a small out-caste girl as a proof to his people that he does not believe in caste in its present state, and that it must change if the condition of the more than sixty millions of the "untouchables" is to be improved. This revolutionary act is an index to the many startling changes which are going on in India, according to Lucile Colony, G of West Liberty, who returned last year from a five year residence in India as a missionary, and is now working for her master's degree in the university.

"It is a common idea," says Miss Colony, "that there is no change in India, that anything connected with the east is, always the same. But this is not true, for, in the last few years especially, a great many things have happened to India, and many of these changes have been wrought from within."

Four Castes Existed Miss Colony explained that there are four different castes in India, the high or Brahmin caste made up of the priests, the soldiers caste, the business caste made up of the shop keepers and including the richest people, and the laborer caste to which the farmers belong. Besides these, there are sixty millions of "outcastes," people who have no caste at all, and are allowed only to sweep the streets and do other filthy work.

Though the feeling against caste is only starting to gain a foothold, the old ideas are beginning to break, an advance which shows how much more is to come, according to Miss Colony.

Widows Remarry Another evidence of the changes going on in India is that in some cases widows are being permitted to remarry, something unheard of until the last few years. "The Punjab, or north," says Miss Colony, "seems to be leading in this reform. Its effect is not general, as shown by the fact that even now in one of the advanced communities, a man who marries a widow usually suffers for it, but it is remarkable that it is beginning to have a place. In the last few weeks a Hindu, who came to America to study, returned to India and organized a scavenger's union of the untouchables. It is hard for those who have never lived in India to realize the magnitude and significance of such an act, says Miss Colony. But for outcastes, the lowest of the low, the very scum, to form any sort of an organization or to assume any individuality or importance of any kind, is almost inconceivable.

In summing up her ideas on caste, Miss Colony says, that to her the worst result of the system is that "it breeds an extreme lack of concern of one person for another." Caste is hereditary; it is impossible to improve a person's condition, so no one bothers to help anybody.

Miss Colony graduated from the University of Iowa in 1922. In 1923 she went to India and was stationed in Jubbulpore, in the central provinces half way between Bombay and Calcutta. There are 13 million people in the central provinces and in all this territory there are only five high schools for girls. One of these is at Jubbulpore.

Missionary Talks "Hindu" "All missionary work is varied," said Miss Colony when questioned as to just what kinds of things she had done. "One must meet all kinds of situations and must not segregate one's interests." She has done everything from taking charge of the hospital connected with the high school, to supervising the hotel department where the girls were boarded. Of the many languages spoken in India, Miss Colony learned "Hindu," the language of the province. It is a marvel to Miss Colony that white people have the influence and are accorded the respect that they do have in India, because the missionaries speak the language so poorly and bring ideas so foreign.

"The Indian people feel a special bond with those of the United States because they compare their present condition under England to our situation before the Revolutionary war."

Teachers Build Character In an effort to put before teachers and parents the idea that the teacher should be the artist in character training rather than a didactician, Professor Starbuck explained that the institute of character research has been established at the university. He told the teachers of a "Guide to Literature for Character Training," a series of eight books being prepared by the institute. Volume one entitled "Fairy Tale, Myth, and Legend," has already been completed. "We must stimulate the moral instincts of children through art, music, and literature," Professor Starbuck said. "It has been proved that it is useless to burden a child's mind with the 'virtues.' Teachers and parents should stimulate the moral impulses toward correct conduct by more dynamic and natural methods."

"In getting together fairy tales, we found that there were some 20,000 to be considered. We kept cutting down through a process of rejection until we reduced the number to 800. These stories have been judged by a staff of literary critics at the cost of $30,000."

The opinions of school children were also taken into consideration. Mimeographed sheets were sent to thousands of school children. The second volume, "Fiction for Children," is expected to be ready in 1929.

Fire Hits Second Well in Santa Fe Springs Oil Field LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9 (AP)—While deputy sheriffs fought back long lines of sightseers attracted by a 100-foot torch of flame, several hundred men tonight battled the second outlay well in the Santa Fe Springs oil field which was ignited when it came in as a gasser this morning. The fire already has caused damage estimated at more than a million dollars.

Nine derricks on nearby locations were destroyed by the flaming gasser and others in the immediate district were pulled down to save them. Another oil well was in danger; if the wind should throw the flames in its direction.

A network of steam and mud lines was being connected up tonight to be used in the major offensive against the burning well, on property owned by the Belle View Oil syndicate. The Texas, General Petroleum, Associated, and Vulture Oil companies will be represented at a general meeting of operators in the field tomorrow called to organize a fire-fighting campaign.

As pipe-fitters worked tonight to prepare the long lines of steam and mud lines, other men attached cables to derricks considered in danger and trucks then pulled the towering structures down. One derrick fell of its own accord early this morning when the blast of the well coming in and the explosion which followed shook the foundations from beneath the nearby structure.

Two Youths Under Sentence for Killing at Target Practice ATLANTA, Nov. 9 (AP)—Two youths whose target practice last Saturday resulted in the death of another, tonight were under sentence to the chain gang.

The prohibition of Paul Seymour and Robert Pettit, both 19, imposed Oct. 15, for attempting to rob a church safe, was revoked today by Judge John D. Humphreys after they had re-enacted their target practice last Saturday, that resulted, police said, in the killing of Paul Hume, 16 years old.

The youths arrested last night, readily told of firing the fatal shot and today visited the scene with police, who after an investigation declared the shooting was accidental.

Professor Starbuck Talks to State Teachers on Moral Education Law Art can teach morals, but morals cannot be "pounded in" to children, Prof. Edwin D. Starbuck, director of character education, told teachers assembled in Des Moines this week-end for the annual state convention.

"A rule has just been passed in Nebraska which requires all teachers throughout the state to teach morals. Aren't they up against it though?" Professor Starbuck exclaimed. "Such drastic methods of teaching children the difference between right and wrong are entirely out of accord with the principles now set forth by the institute of character research at the University of Iowa."

Ensign Speaks to Iowa Educators

Makes Predictions for Junior College Movement

Prof. Forest C. Ensign, of the college of education, predicts as a solution to the difficulties facing junior colleges at present, that within 50 years the larger cities of the country will have junior colleges offering four years of college work. Professor Ensign spoke in Des Moines before the junior college section of the State Teachers association which closed the second day of its meetings last night.

He believes, however, that in the immediate future there are advantages and opportunities offered by the junior colleges which more than offset any real or imaginary dangers. "With the further development of good roads, the junior college puts two years of opportunity for advanced study before every boy and girl who has finished high school and can afford the time, or summon the intelligence, or embrace the opportunity, while enjoying college training, to spend the nights and week-ends at home," he pointed out.

Enthronement of Japanese Emperor Begins With Rites for Sun Goddess

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 10 (Saturday) (AP)—Hirohito, 124th of the imperial line that reigns over Japan, began his day of enthronement by kneeling this morning before the shrine of the sun goddess, his great ancestress, and invoking her blessing to the end that the "heavenly sun dynasty" continue "unbroken for ages eternal" and that perpetual prosperity and happiness be vouchsafed its loyal subjects.

The morning's ceremony preceded and was preparatory to the enthronement proper this afternoon, when the emperor will ascend his canopied dais and announce to his subjects and the nations of the world the fact of his accession. The morning observances were essentially religious. Those of the afternoon will be rather political.

Communes with Sun Goddess—The emperor's communion with the sun goddess took place in the Shunkyo-Den, the detached half of the imperial palace now containing the Kashikodokoro, the "place of awe." This sanctuary, portable like the biblical ark of the covenant, wherein is enshrined the sacred mirror of the imperial regalia, symbol of the sun goddess' spirit, carried before the emperor in his imperial progress from Tokyo to Kyoto, was placed shortly after his majesty's arrival here on Nov. 7 in an inner recess of the Shunkyo-Den which thus becomes for these days the holy of holies of the empire.

Approximately 2,000 guests witnessed this morning's rites. His majesty was clad in a ceremonial robe of white silk damask, used from ancient times for the most august religious ceremonies; the empress wore a five-fold kimono under a short silk tunic, all of white silk. A train of classical style, ornamental hair pins and a ceremonial fan completed her costume.

Court Dresses Picturesquely

The other members of the imperial family, the highest participating court officials and the guards of honor in the courtyard before the hall pletion of the ceremony. Likewise were dressed in the picturesque and colorful garb of the ancient Kyoto court.

Drums and songs rained round a stage in the central courtyard boomed thrice, the signal that the rites were to begin. Food offerings were placed before the sanctuary, a Shinto priest read a prayer, and to the strains of ancient Shinto music, so old that its origins and full meanings are lost, the screens of the sanctuary were drawn aside. Then the emperor, having laved his hands in consecrated water as an act of purification while waiting in an outer chamber, took his place in the area reserved for him within the temple, followed by the empress and members of his court.

On stands near the emperor's kneeling place a chamberlain placed the sacred sword and sacred jewel of the imperial regalia. Thus, for the only time in the whole of the enthronement ceremonies, the three sacred treasures—mirror, sword and jewel—appeared together, the mirror in the sanctuary before which the emperor was kneeling and his ancient companions by the sovereign's side.

The ceremony reached its climax as Hirohito advanced to the altar in front of the Kashikodokoro and addressed himself directly to the spirit of his divine ancestors. He was followed in this act of worship by the empress and other members of the imperial family. The thrice-repeated booming of the gongs and drums announced to the assemblage the con-

Czechoslovakia Observes Tenth Birthday

Led by Pres. T. G. Masaryk (upper right) and Dr. Edvard Benes, foreign minister (center) both among its founders, Czechoslovakia is celebrating its tenth anniversary as an independent republic. Woodrow Wilson,

PRAGUE, Oct. 28 (AP)—Ten years ago Czechoslovakia was an obscure Austrian province. Today it is one of the most progressive and virile states in central Europe.

American inspiration has guided the builders of Czechoslovakia. Since Oct. 28, 1918, when the Austrians surrendered the keys of the city of Prague to a committee of public security, the young republic, which is about the size of the state of Wis-

Federal Highway Aid Recommended to Rebuild Roads in Flood Areas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Appropriation for reconstruction of federal aid and state highways in the flooded areas of the United States are recommended to congress by the American Motorists' association and various interests within the affected states.

"The value of highways," Weeks declares, "was demonstrated in the Mississippi valley when rail transportation was wiped out entirely and travel by water over the swollen streams was difficult, dangerous, and slow. Without good highways near the inundated territory, measures of relief would have been almost entirely impossible."

Effort is concentrated chiefly behind the so-called Dowell highway bill, which would provide $165,000,000 in federal aid for the fiscal years of 1930 and 1931.

"Solution of the flood relief problem should include the construction of modern highways in the stricken areas, of a type suitable to withstand emergency conditions of the future. These highways should be strategically located so as to be of maximum value and to be of greatest aid in event of future disasters."

New Mexico Sands Hold Much Gypsum

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Nov. 9 (AP)—Several hundred million tons of white sand, 94 to 96 per cent gypsum by scientific test, go begging on the White Sands desert west of here.

Because Hollywood film companies have found suitable locations nearer home, not even a shiek can be found to gallop his amorous way across the "burning sands," and cowboys detour around it because of the lack of water.

Railroad geologists who recently surveyed the 270-square mile area, report that it contains 1,100,000 tons of nearly pure gypsum to the square mile, and that the material could be used in making plaster, wall board, or cement.

But attempts to market the gypsum always have been unsuccessful. A brick plant established a decade ago failed, and a plan to use the sand in scouring wood did not materialize. A promoter started a development company, sold some stock and then went away.

The sand is snow-white, and the desert is one of the most immaculate anywhere. During rare seasons of rainy weather the sand turns a cornmeal yellow.

Children Regarded As Best Investment

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 9 (AP)—Survey of the aged poor by the Heller committee for research in social economics, of the University of California, results in the finding that children are "seemingly the only sure investment" which people can make for the future.

Four-fifths of the aged dependents studied by the committee in San Francisco were found to be childless. Some of those in institutions were persons who have devoted their lives to caring for indigent parents. Thus, the committee points out, although children should, if the occasion arises, relieve the community of the cost of supporting aged parents, still this sometimes creates "a vicious circle" for young people undertaking the financial burden often are unable to save and in the death of the parents find themselves too advanced in life to provide for their own old age.

A life of hard work and careful saving, the ownership of a small business, training in a professional career "none of these are absolute guarantee against an old age of poverty," the committee reported, prefacing the conclusion that offspring are the best assurance against suffering and want in later years but that reliance upon children is not a perfect solution of the problem.

The investigation is part of a statewide movement authorized by the legislature to determine the need of old age pensions.

Robber "Sticks up" Clerks; Hides Loot

FT. WORTH, Tex., Nov. 9 (AP)—A satchel containing $50,300 in currency was discarded, perhaps inadvertently, by a man who robbed a mail car of an east bound Texas and Pacific railway passenger train less than a mile from Ft. Worth early tonight.

The bag containing the money, in bills of $5, $10, and $20 denominations and in packages, was found by an emergency policeman beneath an abutment on the viaduct near which the hand left the train after he had "stuck up" two postal clerks, M. E. Pruitt and P. E. Carney, both of Ft. Worth, disarmed them and tied them up in mail bags.

On the theory that the robber might have hidden the bag under the abutment, officers placed a guard around the spot.

Woman Convicted of Selling Moonshine

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 9 (AP)—Moonshine is moonshine no matter by what other name one might disguise it.

That, in effect, was an opinion handed down today by the Minnesota state supreme court in unholding the Douglas county district court where Mrs. George Vierling was convicted of selling intoxicating liquor.

She was charged with unlawful sale of "one pint of intoxicating moonshine alcohol."

The supreme court, however, held that the sale of intoxicating liquor was the gist of the action and that the difference between moonshine alcohol and moonshine whiskey as shown by the evidence was insufficient to constitute a variance between the accusation and the proof.

Radial Air-Cooled Engines Improved

New Cowling System Results in Great Efficiency

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Development of a new form of cowling for radial air-cooled engines which adds more than 20 per cent to the effective horse power of airplanes in flight was announced today by the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

This accomplishment is regarded by Dr. Joseph S. Ames, provost of Johns Hopkins university and chairman of the committee, together with other members, as the most valuable single contribution to airplane efficiency since the war.

Great Savings to Result—Costing only about $24 if installed as standard equipment on a plane at the factory, its total cash value to the industry and the public is described by those familiar with the problems of aviation as incalculable. Figured in terms of horse power required to produce the increased speed it allows, they estimate it represents a saving of three gallons of gas for each hour of flight.

The new cowling device, which resembles a large bowl with the bottom knocked out to make room for the propeller shaft, is placed over the engine.

Covers Entire Engine—In effect, it covers the entire engine, but lets in sufficient air at the front to cool the cylinders. This air flow is controlled in such a manner that it issues from the rear of the cowling in a smooth stream around the fuselage. The device thus cuts down the air resistance of the machine in flight while assuring proper functioning of the engine.

Flight tests were made with Curtiss Army pursuit training plane equipped with a 200 horse power engine. The maximum speed of this machine was found to be 118 miles at 1500 revolutions a minute. Reporting on the tests after the plane was equipped with the new cowling, Thomas Carroll, the committee's chief test pilot, declared it had attained a speed of 137 miles an hour at 1500 revolutions.

Coolidge to Seek Farm Relief Views for Annual Speech

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Having had no opportunity to consult either with Secretary Jardine or leaders in congress regarding their views on possible farm legislation in the forthcoming short session of congress, President Coolidge as yet has come to no decision as to what specific recommendation he will make in his next annual message.

The chief executive feels that his advisers may consider that the question of farm relief should be left for disposal by a special session of congress which President-elect Hoover has announced he may call for this purpose. The advice of such leaders, however, in the opinion of the president, will largely be dependent upon the certainty of the special session being called.

MILL STRIKERS GET SIX MONTHS' SENTENCES

Here are 26 of the 27 Allen A. knitting mill strikers at Kenosha, Wis., who have been sentenced wholesale to serve six months in the Milwaukee house of correction for their unanimous defiance of federal Judge F. A. Geiger's order to pay fines of $100 and costs by Oct. 29, assessed when the judge found them guilty of violating a federal injunction against picketing at the Kenosha mills.

Railroad Shares Rise

Corn, Oats Reach New Price Levels; Wheat Values Jump

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Anticipating the substance of the government crop report, grain traders today hoisted corn and oats both to above topmost prices heretofore reached this season. The report shows 16,000,000 bushels less corn production than the average of latest unofficial estimates, with farm reserve stock of corn about 6,000,000 bushels below target expectation.

From the outset today, commission houses were active in purchasing corn future deliveries, being influenced by snow and rain over the corn belt and by correct belief that the government crop report due after the close would show reduced figures on corn yield. Receipts of corn here today, 135 cars, were hardly half as much as a week ago, country offerings were again scanty, and eastern shipping demand was good.

Markets Affected Slightly by Recent Election Activity

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—The outburst of great speculative activity that followed the national election has had no counterpart in strictly commercial movements, although the buoyant tone of general trade and of sentiment reveals a further strengthening. Exceptions to that trend are by no means completely absent, yet their influence is more than offset by the wholesome progress that is occurring in a widening circle of business enterprises.

Hawkeye Reserves Meet Notre Dame Seconds Here Today

Pignatelli to Lead Old Gold Eleven Against Invaders

Young Iowa Gridders Get Opportunities in Encounter

Iowa City will not want for a football game of real class this afternoon, as the Hawkeye reserves and the Notre Dame reserves are due to furnish enough scrapping to satisfy any spectator.

While the game is not as highly advertised as the Iowa-Ohio tangle at Columbus, and while there is not as much at stake, it still is due to be a good battle, with plenty of real football being displayed by both elevens.

Leading the Old Gold team on the field will be Carl Pignatelli, of Rock Falls, Ill., a letter winning quarterback last season. "Pig" was handicapped at the start of this year by a "charley-horse" and is just recovering his true form. Pignatelli is especially good as a ball carrier and has demonstrated good form every time he has had an opportunity this season.

Young Players Get Chance
The veteran member of the team will be "Bullet" Dunn, for two years a minor letter winner, who also will hold down one of the backfield berths. Dunn is a hard plunger and a good defensive player and will back up the line in strong fashion. Seward Leeka, Independence, Mo., is another reserve backfield man who is due to come through in today's game. Leeka is especially adept at passing and running through a broken field and may get his chance before the game has progressed long.

While this trio should be the outstanding group of ground gainers in the assault on the Irish goal, the other members of the team are well-qualified to give them support. For the most part the Hawkeyes who will play are young players waiting for their chance to show their ability and toss some wabbling veteran out of his job.

Iowans on Irish Team
They can be depended upon to put up plenty of fight in the game, and they probably will have to if they are to win over Rockne's proteges. The "Micks," little brothers of the famous fighting Irish, are not far behind when it comes to putting up a scrap.

Most of them have been used by the coach this year as shock troops in one game or another. Several of the athletes who will play here got their baptism of fire against the Navy in the 7 to 6 Notre Dame victory.

Incidentally, two of the toughest of the boys the Hawkeyes will have to buck are Iowans. John Carberry, whose home town is Ames, and Joe Stephan, of Des Moines, will occupy the wing positions for the invaders. Carberry is a brother of the famous Irish captain of several years ago who also played end.

Hines Coaches Iowans
In the fullback position, Joe Savoldi is rated as one of the strongest Notre Dame players. Weighing 190 pounds, the big boy is also a track star for the South Bend aggregation. The two guards on the visitors' squad, Vik and Metzger, both are rated as strong players.

Directing the Hawkeyes will be Don Hines, assistant coach, and former Iowa tackle. The probable lineups:

Tuffy Griffith Wins
DETROIT, Nov. 9 (AP)—Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City light heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Joe Anderson, Covington, Ky., in the fourth round of a scheduled 10 round bout here tonight. Griffiths led all the way and in the fourth sent over a hard right to Anderson's chin. He followed with a barrage of rights and lefts and Anderson's seconds threw the towel into the ring to prevent further punishment.

Attractions at Ohio State-Iowa Game

When Ohio State meets Iowa at the Buckeye Stadium today one of the contenders for the Western Conference Championship will be eliminated. Both teams have a clean slate in the Big Ten and are pointing for the Columbus battle. Led by Director of Football J. W. Wilce of Ohio State and Burt Ingwersen of Iowa, two of the strongest elevens in the country will tangle in this affair. Iowa is captained by Center Richard M. Brown, while Allen Holman has been serving as field general for the Bucks. Brown will be opposed by Fred Barratt and both men will be fighting for All-American recognition.

Iowa City Maple Knockers Defeat Visiting Bowlers

Golden Tornado, Vanderbilt Meet in Feature Game

Southern Teams Rely on Pass Attacks for Victory
ATLANTA, Nov. 9 (AP)—Flying ovals should do much to clarify the Southern conference gridiron atmosphere tomorrow. Doubtless Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt, deadlocked with two others for leadership in the title race, will look upward often in search of victory. With such passers as Dunlap and Risel to hurl them for the Golden Tornado, and Armstrong, effective long range passer for the Commodores, it is reasonable to expect that a decision may come from the air.

Flamingo
While the Tech affray centers the widest attention of southern games the Florida-Georgia encounter at Savannah is running a close second. The aerial game there is also expected to be a big factor though both teams have strong heavy defenses. McCray, Hooks, Dudley and Johnson of the Georgia secondary should find plenty of competition in Bowyer, Brumbaugh, Goodbread and Crabtree, and both teams have strong reserve backs.

Florida, in a tie with Vanderbilt, Tennessee and Georgia Tech for first place, will be battling to maintain its championship pace while Georgia, also unwhipped in the conference. Reeves and Plymates of Louisiana State University, another conference team boasting a perfect conference record, will throw everything into their game against the University of Mississippi.

DAVENPORT, Nov. 9 (AP)—Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City lightweight, was signed today to meet Jackie Williams of Denver, in ten rounds of a boxing program here Nov. 20. Griffith is a contender for Tommy Loughran's title. Williams is a former sparring partner of Gene Tunney.

Iowa-Ohio Scrap Dominates Other Big Ten Clashes

Maroons Make Last Stand in Struggle at Wisconsin

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Featuring the Big Ten games of tomorrow is the Iowa-Ohio struggle at Columbus which brings together the two teams in the conference with perfect records to see which will emerge as the potential champion of the circuit.

Three other strictly conference games will be fought tomorrow, with Purdue tangling with Northwestern at Evanston; Chicago engaging Wisconsin in one of their traditional games at Madison; and Indiana mixing with Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Michigan Plays Navy
Michigan and Illinois will collide with non-conference enemies. The Wolverines, bolstered by their upset victory over Illinois, go to Baltimore to battle the Navy, while Illinois moves to Indianapolis to tangle with Butler in the dedication of Butler's new stadium, which, when completed, will seat 60,000.

The Buckeye Maroons, now a dis-satisfying 1st in the conference standing, tangle with the Badgers in the homecoming at Madison with Wisconsin favored to administer another walloping to Stagg's battered Maroons. The Maroons may be down but they are not out, and they may accomplish what Michigan did to Illinois a week ago.

The Minnesota-Indiana game will be a battle of cripples. Each team will be minus the services of some of its outstanding stars. The Gophers, who have lost two straight games by a one-point margin, are in a vindictive mood.

Purdue will meet a rejuvenated eleven in Northwestern, pepped up because of its 10 to 9 upset of Minnesota last week. Purdue has had two weeks rest to oil up the machine that routed Chicago, 40 to 0.

Illinois probably will send its reserves against Butler. The game will be master against pupil as Patsy Clark, Butler coach, once was a star lugger for Coach Zupnik of the Illini.

Workman Says Holman Ineligible

AMES, Nov. 9 (AP)—Coach Noel Workman of the Iowa state college football team today declared that Allan Holman, star quarterback of the Ohio State university football squad, questioning of whose eligibility has caused a flurry in Big Ten circles, played on the Ames varsity through the season of 1925, and reported after practice here in 1927.

Holman, who came here and made the 1925 freshman team after playing one year on the Parsons college team at Fairfield, was under scholastic condition when he disappeared from the local school after attending one practice last fall, Workman said.

These facts, it is pointed out, are at variance with the statement of L. W. St. John, director of athletics at Ohio State university, declaring that Holman had established the two years residence at Ohio, required by western conference rules, by enrolling there about Oct. 1, 1926.

J. E. Sage, Iowa State registrar, admitted today that an official ruling on Holman's status here had been sent to Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western conference, at the beginning of the 1927 season, school records were said to show, Holman had 44 hours of credit and needed 45 to become eligible for the Ames eleven.

Vogel to Inaugurate Night Workouts for Battery Candidates

Beginning Tuesday, Coach Otto H. Vogel will initiate evening drills for his varsity and freshman battery candidates. All pitchers and catchers have been requested to report for workouts at 7:30 each evening except Wednesday and Saturday.

Intramurals by Red

Dull day yesterday—nothing doing in the line of soccer games, horse-shoe matches, or cross-country. The best of the situation is that this afternoon must run, sports or no sports. And here I am with no excuse for a stupid life today.

Well there's no law against trying, s. here goes:
Fraternity cagers will swing into action Nov. 20 according to "Dad" Schroeder who manipulates the activities for the intramurals. Yesterday more than 40 entry blanks were sent out—which means another edition of the student directory for the column.

When the games do start, there will be plenty of writeups for the cut-the-house boys to mull over while they are crunching the wheeling and coffee combination. Believe it or not, there will be some hot games if history repeats itself.

When this rain gets through, reports of semi-final matches in the quadrangle horseshoe tourney may appear in this weekly indigest. Seems as if the meet is like "off again, on again, Finnegun." Agree?

After the soccer tournament dies a natural death (we hope without any more postponements) the referees, "Dad" Schroeder, and ye old will risk further notoriety by selecting an all-fraternity soccer team. There are eleven places to be filled—and there may be many disappointments. Don't worry—think of the time you had your name in the entry list.

Pledges who have been in the "habit" of taking an icy lunge in intermittent mornings will, no doubt, have the advantage over others when the inter-fraternity swimming meet comes off Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the field house pool.

Plunging will not be the only event on the program as "Dad" has carried several relays and individual races. Cups, medals, and all that sort of thing, will be awarded to the place winners while others not so fortunate will have the pleasure of a bath.

Hawkeye Harriers Hold Light Practice

In the absence of their mentor, George T. Bessmahon, who is at Madison for the Wisconsin Homecoming this week-end, the cross country squad took optional work yesterday which consisted of a light limbering up drill.

Weather conditions and the absence of a meet this week have slowed up the usual stringent training workouts required of devotees of the hill and dale sport. Next Saturday will find the Iowa harriers again hot on the trail of the conference championship when they meet Wisconsin here Friday, Nov. 16, over the four mile course on Pinkbine field.

Eastern Grid Teams Meet in Big Games

Notre Dame-Army, Michigan-Navy Tangles Important Sectional Tilts; Princeton, Yale Play "Set-up" Schools

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—All along the eastern football battle line, from Cambridge where Harvard takes on Penn, to Baltimore where Navy wages intersectional war upon the Wolverines of Michigan, the big things of the season are at hand.

The biggest single assembly totalling some 86,000 will be found filling the Yankee stadium in New York where the annual extravaganza between Notre Dame and the Army holds an added attraction this year in the question as to whether Rockne's comparative unimpressive team can check the all-conquering Army's winning streak.

On its merits as a football game alone the battle between the undefeated and united legions of Georgetown and Carnegie Tech at Albany, N.Y. ranks with the best.

Army Rated Favorite
The nearest thing to a favorite in these four sectional games is the army which conquered Notre Dame last season, but over a period of years has found the Rockne elvies hard to beat.

The great record made by Capt. Bud Sprague and Hymen in sweeping aside such teams as Southern Methodist, Harvard, and Yale—the last two on successive Saturdays—has given them the edge over a Notre Dame team which some consider below par because it was beaten by Wisconsin and Georgia Tech.

In the other three games there is no favorite, there is little to choose between the records of the Navy and Michigan which have lost three and four games respectively but the braces shown by the Middles in beating Penn and by the Wolverines in turning Illinois gave assurance that the football will come close to the standard of past years.

Dartmouth-Brown a Toss Up
Penn has lost only to the Navy and Harvard only to Army while Georgetown and Carnegie have downed everything that has come their way.

Two more games that look like toss ups are those between Dartmouth and Brown at Hanover and between Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson at Pittsburgh.

Yale and Princeton take it easy in preparation for their classic battle next week at Tigertown. The Tigers tackle Washington and Lee, while Yale sharpens its fighting edge in a game with Maryland.

Syracuse Orange may have its hands full tomorrow against unbeaten Ohio Wesleyan which last year held the Orange to a tie.

Davis Permits New Officers' Uniforms

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Army officers have been given permission to enhance their appearance by clothing their legs in trousers of a lighter hue.

The olive drab of regulation army uniforms, as compared to the resplendent gold braid of navy and marine corps dress has been a tender subject in army circles. Secretary Davis of the war department, today gave permission for pants of a paler hue. They are not to be worn while officers are in formation or under arms.

Hersaby to Sign Contract

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Rogers Hersaby will officially become a member of the Cubs next Wednesday, when he will arrive to talk terms with Pres. William L. Veeck. The signing is the only a formality, as the Cubs took over the contract from Boston, which called for approximately salary of $40,000 a year.

GRINNELL
Grinnell started this year to play Iowa row, it was Macy, regatta of this and Macy's and Macy's 450, a- the physical balance of sophomores position.

Old Gold Basketeers to Report Next Week

Prospects for Winning Five Appear Bright; Barry Has Veteran Squad Led by Captain "Rags" Wilcox

With the opening of the regular basketball season less than four weeks away, Coach Justin M. Barry has issued a call for varsity basketeers to report Tuesday.

Drills will be held in the evenings at the start. Coach Barry plans to spend a week on fundamentals before getting down to intensive work.

A tough season looms up ahead and Coach Barry will have a job on his hands in rounding his men into condition for the opening tilt with South Dakota at the field house.

Five Lettermen Back

Forrest Twogood, captain of the 1927 squad, will be back to cause opposing guards to use a bit of gray matter on the court. "Twogies" as he is known on the campus, has been a mainstay on Old Gold fives during the past two seasons.

Doyle "Buck" Plunket of Frankfort, Ind., leading scorer of the squad last year, will also return to give battle for a berth on the squad. Buck's deadly eye was a great asset last season and enabled him to top the team scorers.

Another "I" man of versatile ability will be found in Virgil David of Oskaloosa. David's long accurate shots and snappy dribbling kept most opponents guessing. "Ved" also won his letter in baseball, being one of Coach Vogel's stellar performers last spring.

Sophomores to Report

"Robby" Kinnam will also be back in uniform. Kinnam had a big job on his hands last year in filling the shoes of "Chuck" McConnel, but he turned in creditable performance and shows promise of developing into one of the best guards of the conference.

More sophomores will be "in there" fighting for a place on the quintet. Those who won numerals last year are: Mike Farroh, Michigan City; Sewald Leika, Independence, Mo.; I. L. Nelson, Omaha.

Skien Builds U. High Eleven Into Strong Machine

Undaunted by the many factors which worked against his success, Coach Jack Skien built a football team at University High this fall that moved through all opposition without the loss of a single game.

The victims in the order of their appearance were West Liberty, Tipton, Marengo, and Williamsburg. Two contests were called off. The first, against Grant high of Cedar Rapids, was unplayed because no playing field was available here.

The Skienmen were scored on only once and amassed a total of 78 points while their opponents garnered six. Beginning with a few experienced men, Coach Skien succeeded in getting out several athletes who had never played football and by the end of the season these recruits were playing a strong game.

"Fat" Perkins, one of the mainstays on the line, is only 14 years old and has been more years of competition left. However, all but three of the regulars will be lost to next year's team.

Sixteen men constituted the squad at U. High and practices were considerably hampered by the fact that there were not enough men for a scrimmage. Only five combats were indulged in by the team—one was a scrimmage with Iowa City high early in the season, the other four were the regularly scheduled games.

Sicken and accidents took a heavy toll during the season. Bridenstine, one of the regular ends, was out of the lineup for a large part of the time with an injured hand. Captain Stinocher was inactive for a short time when he suffered an infection following the Marengo game. Johnson, who was perhaps the most consistent ground gainer, received a broken nose in mid-season that inconvenienced him in the later games.

All indications pointed to a clean slate for the U. High pigskin toters when the cancellation of the Wellman game made it a certainty and the locals came through with their best record in several seasons.

Grimnell Player Out With Injury

GRINNELL, Nov. 9 (AP)—As the Grinnell college football team departed this evening for Cedar Falls to play Iowa State Teachers tomorrow, it was announced that Howard Macy, regular halfback, will be out of this and probably all subsequent games this season.

Macy suffered a leg injury several days ago, a blood clot forming which was operated on today. Afterwards the physician said he would probably not be in shape to play for the balance of the season. Macy's sophomore, will probably fill Macy's position.

Other Crimsons Stars

While Captain French is a capable player he is by no means the only star in the Harvard line-up and the Crimsons are blessed with a large group of reserves who are nearly as dependable as the so-called first-string players.

Hard to Stop

French is one of those runners who must be checked before he passes the scrimmage line or at least by a tackler who is in front of him. It is warred that he is difficult proposition to bring down from the back once he has hit his stride.

French has drilled the squad patiently in the forward pass and in the early games the Crimsons used it regularly as an offensive weapon and not merely as a life saver as they have been accustomed to use it in the past. This slight change may

Current Comment By Guss

At last the day of the great Iowa-Ohio game draws and one team or the other must do or die this afternoon. Not that we are wishing Ohio any hard luck, but Iowa simply must win.

But football games are not won by weight alone. It often has been proved that a good little man is better than a big man, but pay what you will, a good big man is bound to come out on top of a good little man.

Ohio has had an unexpected flurry of excitement with the announcement that perhaps Allan Holman, star quarterback, would be out of the game or absent of eligibility.

Michigan is stepping out of the conference for an inter-conference tilt against the Navy at Annapolis. The Wolverines, aside from their victory over Illinois last week, have done nothing to brag about this season but neither have the mid-western, Eastern experts, always inclined to favor their own section, call the result a toss-up.

On the other hand, Coach Noel Workman of Ames declared yesterday that the present Buckeye flash was scholastically intelligible when he left Ames. If such is the case it is only fair that Holman be barred from playing.

The rule which causes all of the trouble in athletics is the rule that a player must serve one year in the school before he is eligible for intercollegiate competition. But if he left the first school with a scholastic deficiency he must remain at the second school for two years before he can compete in athletics.

Other Big Ten contests today include the last stand of the Chicago Maroons against the Wisconsin Badgers before a Madison Homecoming crowd. If the Stagmen should win, we are willing to agree that the age of miracles is not past.

The Purdue Boilermakers and the Northwestern Wildcats, likewise will spend the afternoon fighting to see who is the better. In a fourth conference battle, the Gophers, who have lost two straight games by one-point margins, will tangle with Indiana.

Iowa Scores Over Ohio in Past Tilts

All of the University of Iowa's three football victories in the short series with Ohio state were scored in the Buckeye stadium since 1922, a survey of the record indicates.

The Hawkeyes have won three, lost two, and tied one. Rivalry will be resumed at Columbus Saturday when the teams, both untested, meet in a critical championship game.

Iowa's last victory over the Buckeyes was registered by Burt Ingwersen's eleven of 1925. This is the series record. 1922, Iowa 12; Ohio State 9, at Columbus; 1923, Iowa 20; Ohio State 6, at Columbus; 1924, Iowa 6; Ohio State 6, at Iowa City; 1925, Iowa 15; Ohio State 6, at Columbus; 1926, Iowa 6; Ohio State 23, at Columbus, and 1927, Iowa 6; Ohio State 13, at Iowa City.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 9 (AP)—Kirksville College of Osteopathy defeated Western Union college of Le Mars, Ia., here today 56-0. The locals kept the ball in the telegraphers' territory most of the time, and only twice was the ball in possession of the visitors on Kirksville territory.

While the average fan still is thinking the gridiron season, the field generals of basketball already have turned to the winter season. Coach Justin M. Barry has issued his first call for Hawkeye cagers to report next week, and other mentors are doing likewise.

Nebraska Faces Oklahoma in Big Six Battle Today

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9 (AP)—Oklahoma this week has the opportunity to cast the Big Six football race into a turmoil.

The Sooners tangled at their home base in Norman with the undefeated Nebraska Cornhuskers, potential Big Six and national champions. If Oklahoma, known as the "upset" team of the circuit, should defeat the Huskers tomorrow it would achieve perhaps the greatest upset of its career as well as halt the crushing march of one of the nation's leading elevens.

Despite Oklahoma's surprising defeat last week by Iowa State 13 to 6, a team Nebraska downed early in the season by two touchdowns, the Huskers are going into battle primed for anything. The experts rate Oklahoma as just another hurdle in the path of Nebraska but Coach Bear has cautioned his men to forget newspaper reports.

The other conference fray of the week-end brings Missouri and the Kansas Aggies together in Manhattan. Missouri won two games, displacing a powerful offensive, then

Washington Plays California Today on Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Gridirons of the Pacific northwest will bear the brunt of football's surge along the coast tomorrow.

In the other game of conference bearing, Washington State and University of California at Los Angeles, meet on a neutral field at Portland.

With Stanford added to its list of victims, Southern California takes on Arizona in a "breather," while pointing for Washington State a week later.

Buena Vista Falls Before Methodist Gridders, 19 to 7

Five Cases Filed at Clerk's Office

Iowa City Men Named Defendants in Last Day's Petitions

Yesterday marked the deadline for petitions which will find their way into the November term of district court. There were five petitions filed at the county clerk's office.

Lawrence Wolfe, doing business as the River Road garage, was named the defendant in a petition filed yesterday by the Fidelity Service company represented by R. W. Dahme.

The action is a result of goods bought by the defendant from the Firestone Tire and Rubber company and the Western Auto Supply company to $100.48 and $97.08 and which was never paid for, according to the petition. The plaintiff was assigned the value of the case by these two companies. The plaintiff prays the amount owed as well as interest from Jan. 9 for the one amount and from April 19 for the other.

The Vacuum Oil company filed a petition naming Lawrence Wolfe as defendant. The petition alleged that the defendant owed the plaintiff a balance of $194.03 on merchandise. This amount with six per cent interest is prayed by the plaintiff.

The Iowa City Ice company has named Frances A. Hotz defendant in another petition filed yesterday. The defendant was the owner and operator of the Cornville Ice company of Iowa City, and the petition states that the plaintiff sold and delivered to her ice on which is due $226.43. The plaintiff prays this amount as well as interest from March 7, 1927.

Ralph Garber filed a petition against John Storm yesterday. He alleged that the defendant owned and operated a vehicle and drove negligently, colliding with the plaintiff when the plaintiff was driving with great care. He asks of the court the amount of the damages which is $105.65 and costs of the action.

B. F. Sturtevant filed a petition against V. J. Moravec. The plaintiff claims that Moravec bought furniture cleaning equipment from his wholesale house situated at Boston 17th st., and that the defendant owes him the amount of $200 on this deal. He asks of the court the amount due as well as six per cent interest from Nov. 20, 1927.

Jury Investigates McPherson Case

Finds Information in Office of Attorney Asa Keyes

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9 (AP)—Documentary evidence asserted to deal with the quashing by District Attorney Asa Keyes of charges against Mrs. Almeda Semple McPherson brought following the investigation of her story of being kidnapped today was before the grand jury investigating the operations of Keyes' office.

A sheaf of information presented to Los Angeles newspapermen by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy several weeks ago was turned over to the grand jury, witnesses disclosed after the group had adjourned tonight.

Bank checks, statements and pass books, and other documents are in the hands of the inquisitorial body, all said to deal with the famous case. A newspaper official related that she had been taken to an isolated spot in the desert of southern Arizona by "Steve and Rose," who never were further identified, before being released many days later, and the profession by Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sellaf that she, instead of the hunted woman was seen at Carmel, Cal., during the latter's absence, the grand jury is reported to have summoned Mrs. Wiseman-Sellaf to appear Tuesday to repeat her story.

The exposure of Lorraine Wiseman-Sellaf as an impostor resulted in the indictment of Mrs. McPherson, and her mother, on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice and conspiracy to commit perjury.

The quashing of these actions is the center of the new investigation.

Student Missionary Tells About Conditions That Prevail in India

Gandhi, national leader of India and a high caste man, has adopted into his own home a small out-caste girl, as a proof to his people that he does not believe in caste in its present state, and that it must change if the condition of the more than sixty millions of the "untouchables" is to be improved. This revolutionary act is an index to the many startling changes which are going on in India, according to Lucile Colony, G. West Liberty, who returned last year from a five year residence in India as a missionary, and is now working for her master's degree in the university.

Four Castes Exist Miss Colony Explained That There are Four Different Castes in India, the High or Brahmin Caste Made up of the Priests, the Soldiers Caste, the Business Caste Made up of the Shopkeepers and Including the Richest People, and the Laborer Caste to Which the Farmers Belong.

Another evidence of the changes going on in India is that in some cases widows are being permitted to remarry, something unheard of until the last few years. "The Punjab, or north," says Miss Colony, "seems to be leading in this reform. Its effect is not general, as shown by the fact that even now in one of the advanced communities, a man who marries a widow usually suffers for it, but it is remarkable that it is beginning to have a place. In the last few weeks a Hindu, who came to America to study, re-

Professor Starbuck Talks to State Teachers on Moral Education Law

Art can teach morals, but morals cannot be "pounded in" to children, Prof. Edwin D. Starbuck, director of character education, told teachers assembled in Des Moines this week-end for the annual state convention.

Complete Fairy Tales

"In getting together fairy tales, we found that there were some 20,000 to be considered. We kept cutting down through a process of rejection until we reduced the number to 800. These stories have been judged by a staff of literary critics at the cost of $30,000."

Teachers Build Character

In an effort to put before teachers and parents the idea that the teacher should be the artist in character training rather than a didactician, Professor Starbuck explained that the institute of character research has been established at the university. He told the teachers of a "Guide to Literature for Character Training," a series of eight books

General Receives Invitation to Cook Eggs for Soldier

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 9 (AP)—A soldier's confidence in his commanding general's ability to cook eggs properly was causing military and Tacoma police to unite tonight in a search for the private who was still A.V.C.L. at last report... As explained by the police, the soldier, a trifle tipsy, entered a Tacoma restaurant very early this morning and ordered ham and eggs. He disliked the way the chef prepared the dish and after some argument declared that he would "call up the general and he'll tell you how to cook ham and eggs the way I want them..." Going to the telephone the soldier put in a call for Brig. Gen. Michael J. Lenihan, commander at Ft. Lewis, General Lenihan, aroused from a sound sleep, answered. Giving his name, grade and company, the soldier said: "General, I want you to come down town and show a chef how to cook ham and eggs the way I want them..." There was an audible click of the receiver at the general's end of the line and the search was on.

Ensign Speaks to Iowa Educators

Makes Predictions for Junior College Movement

Prof. Forest C. Ensign, of the college of education, predicts as a solution to the difficulties facing junior colleges at present, that within 50 years the larger cities of the country will have junior colleges offering four years of college work. Professor Ensign spoke in Des Moines before the Junior college section of the State Teachers' association which closed the second day of its meetings last night.

He believes, however, that in the immediate future there are advantages and opportunities offered by the junior colleges which more than offset any real or imaginary dangers. "With the further development of good roads, the junior college puts two years of opportunity for advanced study before every boy and girl who has finished high school and can afford the time, or surmount the intelligence, or embrace the opportunity, while enjoying college training, to spend the nights and week-ends at home," he pointed out.

"Recent partial studies of the junior college pupils have shown that a considerable percentage of the students enrolled, believe that they would not have been able to attend college if such attendance involved absence from home.

"At present the fairly economical student who attends college, pays the ordinary tuition and lives away from home, must draw upon his parents for approximately $800 a year. Most of the students in junior colleges will continue to live at home, they will pay tuition of approximately $100 a year and other expenses will probably not amount to more than $200. This is an economical service, which on the face of things, offers a very distinct advantage to people in ordinary circumstances."

Germans Ignore Revolution Date

BERLIN, Nov. 9 (AP)—The tenth anniversary of the German revolution and the proclamation of the German republic was observed by the Berlin newspapers merely according to the tenets of their respective parties, while the public paid little attention to the observance.

As was expected, the appeal by the association of ex-officers that citizens should hoist the monarchical colors, draped with black, at half staff as a token of mourning was not taken seriously. It was completely ignored by the present generation which appeared not to be interested in the historic event.

Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the foreign minister, commemorated the occasion in an article in the Lieztiger Neuste Nachrichten. He writes that the reconstruction of Germany justified the existence of the republic, which, however, he adds, long ago might have become more inviolable. "If certain super-republicans did not persist in showing their republican allegiance by lip service, instead of deeds."

Enthronement of Japanese Emperor Begins With Rites for Sun Goddess

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 10 (Saturday) (AP)—Hirohito, 124th of the imperial line that reigns over Japan, began his day of enthronement by kneeling this morning before the shrine of the sun goddess, his great ancestress, and invoking her blessing to the end that the "heavenly sun dynasty" continue "unbroken for ages eternal" and that perpetual prosperity and happiness be vouchsafed its loyal subjects.

The morning ceremony preceded and was preparatory to the enthronement proper this afternoon, when the emperor will ascend his caponied dais and announce to his subjects and the nations of the world the fact of his accession.

The morning observances were essentially religious. Those of the afternoon will be rather political. Communes with Sun Goddess. The emperor's communion with the sun goddess took place in the Shun-kyo-Den, the detached hall of the imperial palace now containing the Kashikodokoro, the "place of awe."

This sanctuary, portable like the biblical ark of the covenant, wherein is enshrined the sacred mirror of the imperial regalia, symbol of the sun goddess' spirit, carried before the emperor in his imperial progress from Tokyo to Kyoto, was placed shortly after his majesty's arrival here on Nov. 7 in an inner recess of the Shun-kyo-Den which thus becomes, for these days the holy of holies of the empire.

Approximately 2,000 guests witnessed this morning's rites. His majesty was clad in a ceremonial robe of white silk damask, used from ancient times for the most august religious ceremonies; the empress wore a five-fold kimono under a short silk tunic, all of white silk. A train of classical style, ornamental hair pins and a ceremonial fan completed her costume.

Court Dresses Picturesquely. The other members of the imperial family, the highest participating court officials and the guards of honor in the courtyard before the hall pletion of the ceremony. Likewise were dressed in the picturesque and colorful garb of the ancient Kyoto court.

The brilliance of the scene was completed by the court uniforms of Japanese officialdom, commingled with the gold and scarlet of the full dress of diplomats and army and navy officers from the principal nations of the world, who took their places among the guests in the two halls of attendance.

Drums and gongs ranged round a stage in the central courtyard boomed thrice, the signal that the rites were to begin. Food offerings were placed before the sanctuary, a Shinto priest read a prayer, and to the strains of ancient Shinto music, so old that its origins and full meanings are lost, the screens of the sanctuary were drawn aside. Then the emperor, having washed his hands in consecrated water as an act of purification while waiting in an outer chamber, took his place in the arena reserved for him within the temple followed by the empress and members of his court.

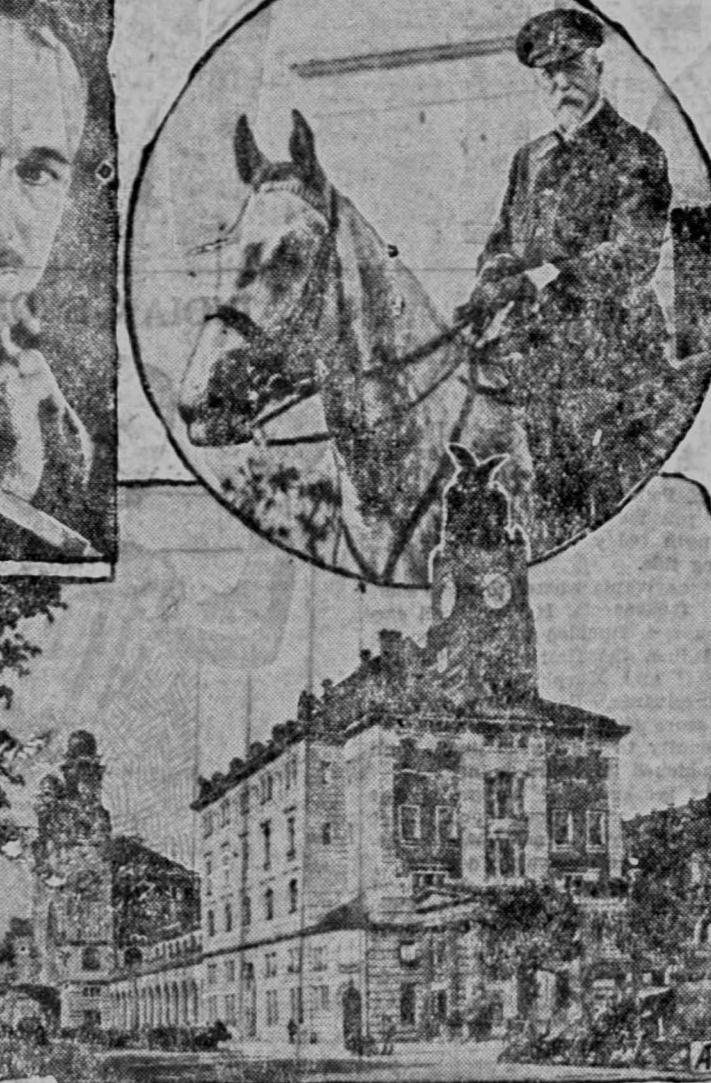

Sacred Sword Used. On stands near the emperor's kneeling place a chamberlain placed the sacred sword and sacred jewel of the imperial regalia. Thus for the only time in the whole of the enthronement ceremonies, the three sacred treasures—mirror, sword and jewel—appeared together, the mirror in the sanctuary before which the emperor was kneeling and its ancient companions by the sovereign's side.

The ceremony reached its climax as Hirohito advanced to the altar in front of the Kashikodokoro and addressed himself directly to the spirit of his divine ancestress. He was followed in this act of worship by the empress and other members of the imperial family. The thrice-repeated booming of the gongs and drums announced to the assemblage the com-

Czechoslovakia Observes Tenth Birthday

Led by Pres. T. G. Masaryk (upper right) and Dr. Edward Benes, foreign minister (center) both among its founders, Czechoslovakia is celebrating its tenth anniversary as an independent republic. Woodrow Wilson,

PRAGUE, Oct. 26 (AP)—Ten years ago Czechoslovakia was an obscure Austrian province. Today it is one of the most progressive and virile states in central Europe. American inspiration has guided the builders of Czechoslovakia. Since Oct. 28, 1918, when the Austrians surrendered the keys of the city of Prague to a committee of public security, the young republic, which is about the size of the state of Wisconsin, has gone steadily forward. It modeled its constitution and laws after those of the United States. American mass production methods are applied to its rising industry.

A huge socialist parade Oct. 14 commemorated the food riots a decade ago when workmen attacked the Austrian soldiery. Dedication of a monument of Ernest Denis, French historian whose work in behalf of the Czech nation endeared him with the people, and of an obelisk in the court of the historic Prague castle to commemorate the republic's founding, was part of other anniversary ceremonies.

Pres. T. G. Masaryk's part in the independence celebration included the delivery of a message from the palace steps. Officers and men of the army are recipients of decorations and other honors, a new jubilee medal having been struck for that purpose. Jubilee stamps and special coins also have been designed for the anniversary.

While Bohemia gives itself up to pleasures, church services are celebrated in all parts of the country and memorial services are solemnized in honor of Woodrow Wilson, who as president of the United States contributed to the liberation of Czechoslovakia.

"The value of highways," Weeks declares, "was demonstrated in the Mississippi valley when rail transportation was wiped out entirely and travel by water over the swollen streams was difficult, dangerous, and slow. Without good highways near the inundated territory, measures of relief would have been almost entirely impossible."

"Solution of the flood relief problem should include the construction of modern highways in the stricken areas, of a type suitable to withstand emergency conditions of the future. These highways should be strategically located so as to be of maximum value and to be of greatest aid in event of future disasters."

J. Burton Weeks, president of the American Motorists' association, has insisted to the house committee on roads that the flooded states are entitled to more assistance than that provided under the regular federal aid program. Under the present provisions of the law, he says, none of the money set aside for federal aid may be expended except in the manner prescribed by the government, and the recent emergency has made special aid necessary.

New Mexico Sands Hold Much Gypsum

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Nov. 9 (AP)—Several hundred million tons of white sand, 94 to 96 per cent gypsum by scientific test, go begging on the White Sands desert west of here.

Because Hollywood film companies have found suitable locations nearer home, not even a sheik can be found to gallop his ahornous way across the "burning sands," and cowboys detour around it because of the lack of water.

Railroad geologists who recently surveyed the 270-square mile area, report that it contains 1,100,000 tons of nearly pure gypsum to the square mile, and that the material could be used in making plaster, wall board, or cement.

But attempts to market the gypsum always have been unsuccessful. A brick plant established a decade ago failed, and a plan to use the sand in scouring wood did not materialize. A promoter started a stove and cement company, sold some stock and then went away.

The sand is snow-white, and the desert is one of the most immaculate anywhere. During rare seasons of rainy weather the sand turns a cornmeal yellow.

Children Regarded As Best Investment

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 9 (AP)—Survey of the aged poor by the Heller committee for research in social economics, of the University of California, results in the finding that children are "seemingly the only sure investment" which people can make for the future.

Four-fifths of the aged dependents studied by the committee in San Francisco were found to be childless. Some of those in institutions were persons who have devoted their lives to caring for indigent parents. Thus, the committee points out, although children should, if the occasion arises, relieve the community of the cost of supporting aged parents, still this sometimes creates a vicious circle, for young people undertaking the financial burden often are unable to save and at the death of the parents find themselves too advanced in life to provide for their own old age.

A life of hard work and careful saving, the ownership of a small business, training in a professional career—none of these are absolute guarantees against an old age of poverty," the committee reported, prefacing the conclusion that offspring are the best assurance against suffering and want in later years.

The investigation is part of a statewide movement authorized by the legislature to determine the need of old age pensions.

Robber "Sticks up" Clerks; Hides Loot

FT. WORTH, Tex., Nov. 9 (AP)—A satchel containing $50,300 in currency was discarded, perhaps inadvertently, by a man who robbed a mail car of an east bound Texas and Pacific railway passenger train less than a mile from Ft. Worth early tonight.

The bag containing the money, in bills of $5, $10, and $20 denominations and in packages, was found by an emergency policeman beneath an abutment on the viaduct near which the bandit left the train after he had "stuck up" two postal clerks, M. E. Pruitt and P. E. Carney, both of Ft. Worth, disarmed them and tied them up in mail bags.

On the theory that the robber might have hidden the bag under the abutment, officers placed a guard around the spot.

Woman Convicted of Selling Moonshine

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 9 (AP)—Moonshine is moonshine no matter by what other name one might disguise it.

That, in effect, was an opinion handed down today by the Minnesota state supreme court in upholding the Douglas county district court where Mrs. George Viering was convicted of selling intoxicating liquor.

She was charged with unlawful sale of "one pint of intoxicating moonshine alcohol."

The supreme court, however, held that the sale of intoxicating liquor was the gist of the action and that the difference between moonshine, alcohol and moonshine whiskey, as shown by the evidence was insufficient to constitute a variance between the accusation and the proof.

Radial Air-Cooled Engines Improved

New Cowling System Results in Great Efficiency

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Development of a new form of cowling for radial air-cooled engines which adds more than 20 per cent to the effective horse power of airplanes in flight was announced today by the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

This accomplishment is credited by Dr. Joseph S. Ames, professor of Johns Hopkins university and chairman of the committee, together with other members, as the most valuable single contribution to airplane efficiency since the war.

Great Savings to Result. Costing only about $24 if installed as standard equipment on a plane at the factory, its total cash value to the industry and the public is described by those familiar with the problems of aviation as incalculable. Figured in terms of horse power required to produce the increased speed it allows, they estimate it represents a saving of three gallons of gas for each hour of flight.

The new cowling device, which resembles a large bowl with the bottom knocked out to make room for the propeller shaft, is placed over the engine.

Covers Entire Engine. In effect, it covers the entire engine, but lets in sufficient air at the front to cool the cylinders. This air flow is controlled in such a manner that it issues from the rear of the cowling in a smooth stream around the fuselage. The device thus cuts down the air resistance of the machine in flight while assuring proper functioning of the engine.

Flight tests were made with Curtiss Army pursuit training plane equipped with a 200 horse power engine. The maximum speed of this machine was found to be 118 miles at 10,000 revolutions a minute. Reporting on the tests after the plane was equipped with the new cowling, Thomas Carroll, the committee's chief test pilot, declared it had attained a speed of 137 miles an hour at 1500 revolutions.

Coolidge to Seek Farm Relief Views for Annual Speech

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Having had no opportunity to consult either with Secretary Jardine or leaders in congress regarding their views on possible farm legislation in the forthcoming short session of congress, President Coolidge as yet has come to no decision as to what specific recommendation he will make in his next annual message.

The chief executive feels that his advisers may consider that the question of farm relief should be left for disposal by a special session of congress which President-elect Hoover has announced he may call for this purpose. The advice of such leaders, however, in the opinion of the president, will largely be dependent upon the certainty of the special session being called.

Murrel Scores Touchdown Early in Third Period

Cagle Stars for Cadets, Neimiec Shines for Notre Dame

LEAD ARMY-NOTRE D IN NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—The powerful Army and the Irish from Notre Dame played great football here today to find themselves locked in a 6 to 6 deadlock with one period left to play. Notre Dame came from behind in the final minutes of the third period and through line thrusts by Collins, Chevigny, and Neimiec battered their way for a touchdown to tie the score. Both teams failed to annex the extra point after touchdown.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Nov. 10 (AP)—West Point's 1928 gridiron championship hopes were staked today against the challenge of Notre Dame's warriors before close to 85,000 spectators in the most colorful intersectional fracas of the eastern season.

After a kicking exchange Notre Dame completed a beautiful pass, Neimiec to Chevigny, for a gain of 22 yards, putting the ball on Army's 43-yard line. A penalty and a few wild heaves broke up the threat, forcing Neimiec to kick.

Neimiec, outpacing his cadet rival, Murrel, kept the Army on the defensive, gradually pushing the soldiers back toward their own goal. Neither running attack had shown any symptoms of breaking loose so far, although it was taking smart defensive work by the Notre Dame secondaries to plug gaps torn in their line.

The first period ended scoreless. Notre Dame got a "break" early in the second period when Neimiec's punt took a sharp twist out of bounds on Army's 3-yard line. Murrel kicked out to his 37-yard mark. Fred Collins, Hooser fullback, got loose for a dash to the cadet 17-yard stripe.

Collins Fumbles Jack Chevigny slashed through center for six yards and Collins added 10 more through the same gap. Army stopped the next play. Then Collins fumbled as he plunged for the goal line. Murrel recovered for the Army.

The cadets registered first down on their 36-yard line after an exchange of punts. The scrappy Hooser forwards there however, forced Murrel to punt.

Chevigny circled Army's right end for a 12-yard dash. Fred Collins, in two lunges, made another first down on the 37-yard line. The soldiers stopped the march forcing Neimiec to kick out of bounds on the 20-yard line just before the half ended.

Cagle, Army star, got 20 yards to Army's 47-yard line soon after the third period opened. He then dropped back and hurled a magnificent pass to Messinger, who was downed on Notre Dame's 13-yard line.

Army Scores Cagle dashed off tackle to the 8-yard line. Murrel made three more, then Cagle registered first down on the 3-yard line. The red-headed Army ace knifed through for two yards more and Murrel went over for a touchdown in two plunges. Sprague missed goal. Score, Army 6, Notre Dame 0.

A 15-yard penalty against the Cadets for roughing gave Notre Dame the ball on Army's 37-yard line. Fred Collins circled right end to Army's 24-yard line. Chevigny then hurried through a big gap at center to the 12-yard stripe.

Collins, Chevigny and Neimiec advanced in short thrusts. Collins making first down on Army's 2-yard line. Chevigny finally fought his way over for a touchdown on the fourth down. Neimiec failed to kick goal and the score was tied, 6-6.

The third period ended after Notre Dame kicked off.

Notre Dame opened up another hard hitting attack in the final period, Collins going through the line for 17 yards on the first play. Checked on Army's 36-yard line, Carideo, substitute Notre Dame quarterback,

Harvard Renews Rivalry With Penn

HARVARD STADIUM, CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 10 (AP)—Renewing an ancient rivalry for the second straight year before parting again, Pennsylvania's powerful eleven invaded Cambridge at full strength today to tackle Harvard's rising tide.

Pennsylvania wasted no time scoring. Guarnaccia, Harvard ball carrying ace, fumbled on his own 18-yard line, the first play after the kickoff and Murphy recovered for Pennsylvania. Scull went over for the score after the Crimson suffered a penalty to the 3-yard line. Scull drop-kicked the extra point.

The remainder of the period was consumed penalizing Penn twice more for 15 yards and Harvard once. There was no chance for scoring.

Harvard staged a brief display of power in the second period when French, on a lateral pass from Guarnaccia, scooted around the Penn left end for 24 yards. With two yards to go for first down on Penn's 37-yard line, the Crimson kicked and the flurry was over.

tried a placement field goal but it was short.

Neimiec put the ball back in Army territory with a 9-yard dash. Chevigny whirled around end to the 30-yard line.

the advance. Chevigny recovered a fumble on Army's 32-yard line but was badly hurt and carried from the field. Billy Drew replaced him.

Neimiec hurled a long pass that O'Brien, substitute, grabbed, juggled and then carried over the goal line for the winning touchdown. Carideo's kick for extra point failed.

Final Score, Notre Dame 12; Army 6.

Hoover Proposes Extended Journey to Latin America

President-Elect Seeks South American Friendship

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 9 (AP)—A goodwill trip to Latin-American countries is proposed by Herbert Hoover, before he returns to Washington for his inauguration on March 4.

Announcement of the intention of the president-elect was made at the white house in Washington and at the Hoover home today.

"I have had the suggestion of a visit to certain Latin-American countries before me for some days," said the statement issued by the president-elect. "There are considerations of the time required and other matters which delay final determination for a few days."

Plans Indefinite Although the plans necessarily are definite at this time, it is the understanding that departure will be made from San Francisco late next week on a battleship, probably the Maryland, flagship of the U. S. battle fleet.

Should Hoover follow the usual routes for such tours of South America, his trip would require about two months as it would take him to all of the larger countries of the south ern continent.

The expectation is that from San Francisco the president-elect will go to Columbia, Ecuador, Argentina, Peru, Brazil, Chile and larger countries on the continent. After completing his tour of the continent, Hoover would board another battleship and return to the United States.

Future Indefinite The direction of his future travels and the manner in which he would spend his time between the date of his departure from South America on the return trip still is a matter of conjecture, however.

The president-elect has given much time during his seven and a half years as secretary of commerce to the work of fostering trade between the United States and her Latin-American neighbors to the south, but this would be the first time that he has ever set foot upon that continent, although as an engineer, his business carried him into most of the other parts of the world.

INDIAN SCORES FOR IOWA

McLain leads Iowa's march for first touchdown, plunging over to give Iowa a 7 to 0 lead at half time. The big Indian was a great factor in the Iowa offensive.

Gophers, Indiana Play Grudge Game

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—Minnesota and Indiana football teams, handicapped with crippled stars, met in Memorial stadium today to play off the 14-14 tie of last year when the Hoosiers prevented the Gophers from sharing the Big Ten conference title.

Indiana recovered a Minnesota fumble on the first play after the kickoff on the Gopher 22-yard line. Brubaker galloped around end for a touchdown. Hughes failed to place-kick goal. Near the end of the period Brockmeyer broke through for 80 yards and a touchdown. Pharrmare place-kicked his team into the lead, 7 to 6.

The Gophers smashing line attack in the second period carried the ball to the Hoosiers' 3-yard line before they lost the ball on downs. Indiana punted and they renewed their march.

Howe on a double pass went 23 yards for the second Gopher touchdown and Pharrmare place-kicked goal to make the score 14-6, shortly before the period ended.

Meehan Testimony Pictures Rothstein as Mean Spirited

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Another and less romantic picture of Arnold Rothstein, popularly known as the Gambler Prince of Broadway, was drawn in the district attorney's office today by one of his own cronies, the host at the dead gambler's last fling at cards.

When he died it was rumored that he had been killed because he refused to pay a debt incurred to sharpshooters who stuffed a deck with marked cards.

But Jimmy Heshan, Broadway betting commissioner in whose apartment Rothstein played the game where he dropped a roll of $380,000 and then welched on his I.O.U., told his version of the affair today.

Through his eyes, Rothstein was seen as a mean spirited sort, a "squawker" who was merciless in collecting debts, but who pleaded poverty or cried "thief" when he lost.

Meehan didn't play in the game himself, he said, but watched it closely, and it was as straight as a string. When Rothstein won a hand, Meehan told the district attorney, he would take his winning in cash, but

Smoke Phenomena Darkens Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—For more than three hours today Chicago's downtown district was plunged into darkness when a high pressure area, with absence of winds caused clouds and smoke to gather over the loop.

Huge electric signs were illuminated and downtown office buildings were ablaze with lights while automobile lamps and street car lights added to the illusion of midnight at midday.

The weather bureau reported that the phenomenon, the most pronounced ever witnessed in the loop district, was not the result of storm clouds although the day was cloudy, but was caused by a ceiling of smoke with no wind to carry it away.
