Kalona Farmer Shoots Neighbor After Long Feud

Jesse Dayton Fires on John Grecian from Ambush

A neighborhood quarrel, magnified by a recent automobile accident, is blamed for the shooting at 9:15 a.m. yesterday in which Jesse Dayton, Kalona farmer, shot and perhaps fatally injured his neighbor, John Grecian.

Dayton was said to be lying by the side of the gravel road at the English river bridge between here and Kalona when his neighbor drove along in his car. When Grecian was close by, Dayton let fire with a shotgun, striking the farmer in the right shoulder.

Although bleeding from the wound, Grecian did not stop his car but drove to his home near Kalona where friends took him to an Iowa City hospital. He was reported yesterday to be in a critical condition.

Dayton walked to his home after the shooting and made no effort to evade arrest. He is now in the Washington county jail awaiting action by the district court which convenes there Monday. He has little to say about the affair, blaming it to a long standing quarrel. He has not asked for a preliminary hearing.

Both men are over 50 years old, are married and have families living less than one-half mile apart near Kalona. Dayton alleges that Grecian bumped into him with his car recently and that he has otherwise been abused and injured by his neighbor.

Hoover to Fish in Sea During Trip to Latin America

ON BOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND EN ROUTE TO AMAPALA, Honduras, Nov. 20 (AP)—Herbert Hoover intends to engage in his favorite sport of fishing tomorrow morning on the sea off Cape San Lucas, the extreme southern tip of lower California.

Today the Maryland was speeded up two knots to 17 knots in order that the president-elect may not lose any time on his return mission to Latin America by his fishing.

After the battleship lays to, Hoover with other members of the party will put off in the admiral's barge for the fishing grounds.

Hoover was up early this morning. He walked the quarter deck at a brisk pace in the bright sunshine before going in for breakfast. Later he discussed with Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher the details of their itinerary.

It was decided that the president-elect would visit both Honduras and Salvador before Nicaragua and that the contemplated stop at Panama canal will be omitted to give greater time for the acceptance of the many invitations from republics of the southern continent. The itinerary as determined goes no further than Chile, the southernmost of the western countries of South America.

The Maryland is expected to drop anchor in the Gulf of Fonseca early next Sunday morning. From there both Amapala, Honduras, and La Union, Salvador, will be visited. The ship will next visit Corinto, Nicaragua, and Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, and is scheduled to reach Ecuador Nov. 20, Valparaiso, where Hoover will leave the Maryland and journey to Buenos Aires by the trans-Andean railway, is expected to be reached Dec. 7.

Engineer Mechanist Invents New Sleeve Valve for Engines

A quick-acting rotary sleeve valve which may exert a radical influence upon future automobile engine manufacture has been invented by Ernest A. Putnam, mechanical in the University of Iowa college of engineering.

Now operating successfully on a four-cylinder test engine in the laboratory of the department of mechanical engineering, the valve also can be used on six and eight cylinder motors.

The basic feature of the engine is its valve gear mechanism. One part opening in the sleeve valve serves for both the intake and the exhaust. This sleeve valve rotates through 360 degrees during one complete power cycle of the piston, its speed of rotation being increased and decreased at the proper time by a mechanism of its own.

Steady opening and closing of the valve and then a slower movement throughout the remainder of the cycle overcomes the difficulties in other rotating sleeve valve engines due to the slowness of action.

Supreme Court Frees Stewart of Perjury Charge

Friends Congratulate Noted Oil Man After Trial

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—Reaching a verdict in less than an hour, a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court today acquitted Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, of charges of perjury which followed his appearance last February before the senate public lands committee.

Frankly and exuberantly happy at the outcome of the trial which lasted a week and a half, the oil man with his chief of counsel, Frank J. Hogan, at his side, was surrounded by a throng of friends offering congratulations. He thanked the members of the jury individually and bestowed upon each woman who served on the panel a hearty hug.

The case was given to the jury at 2:30 p.m., with instructions from Justice Jennings Bally to consider first whether a quorum was present at the session of the senate committee at which Stewart gave his testimony.

Stewart's acquittal on the perjury charge clears him of the last indictment pending against him as a result of his testimony before the senate committee. A charge of contempt of the senate was tried upon three questions which, the late in May and also resulted in an acquittal.

The perjury indictment was based government asserted, were propounded by the committee and which, it was charged, Stewart answered with deliberate falsifications.

These questions were whether he knew anything of the distribution of the Liberty bond profits of the Continental Trading company of Canada, which the committee was attempting to trace; whether he received any of the bonds; and whether he had had any conversation or had any knowledge that would lead him to believe that any individual or organization had received the securities.

It was charged that Stewart answered all three questions in the negative when as a matter of fact the president of the Continental had given him bonds to the value of $749,500.

Hatchet Maniac Hurts Two, Kills Three in Omaha

Authorities Search for Young Negro After Cruel Attacks

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 20 (AP)—Two hundred policemen and officers and as many citizens were on watch in all parts of the city tonight seeking a trace of a maniacal hatchet slayer who, police are convinced, is responsible for the death of three persons, and the wounding of two, one probably fatally.

The latest victims of the "hatchet maniac" were revealed early this morning when Mrs. Harold Stribling, wife of a former high school football star, was twice attacked, and struck in the face with the hatchet. She was taken captive by him and led to a lonely spot in a swamp not far from their home. Stribling, struck first by the fiend, is not expected to live.

Leaving the wife in the swamp, the man, described by Mrs. Stribling as a Negro, light complexioned, about 21 years of age, disappeared. She, her face bleeding from wounds, wandered to the nearest street intersection and there met a policeman who summoned aid.

Rewards Total $1,000

Rewards offered now total $1,000. Both Stribling and his wife are former University of Nebraska students. Two women and a man are dead, presumably victims of the same man. The first was J. W. Blackman, 72-year-old express man, found dead in his bed Sunday morning. Yesterday about 2 p.m. Mrs. Waldo Rosso and her sister, Crede Brown, 18 years old, were found slain, hacked to death by an ax or hatchet. The Stribling crime was in Iowa territory.

All day long Negroes were herded into the bullpen of the police station to be interrogated by Inspector of Detectives Ben Danbaum.

Bloodhounds were brought to Omaha tonight from Beatrice, Neb., to aid police in tracing the slayer.

Police Hold Suspect

A Negro suspect was taken to the hospital late today to be viewed by Mrs. Stribling for possible identification, but attending doctors told detectives Mrs. Stribling was still too weak to be disturbed. He probably will be returned tomorrow.

The suspect approximately fitted the description given by Mrs. Stribling. Police doubted if he was the right man, but wanted to take no chances, they said.

Mrs. Stribling underwent an operation late this afternoon in an attempt to save the eye which was severely cut by the slayer's weapon.

Stribling, who received four distinct skull fractures, is in a critical condition, with little hope for his recovery.

Kentucky River Flood Recedes

PINEVILLE, Ky., Nov. 20 (AP)—With three persons dead and property damage in this vicinity estimated at between $300,000 and $500,000, the Cumberland river was receding late today after one of the worst rampages in its history, leaving a layer of mud from one to three inches thick.

Hundreds of families, forced from their homes by the flood, tonight were returning to repair the damage. In Pineville, the water plant was out of commission and residents were forced to boil water for drinking or travel to the highlands for their supply.

The bodies of Melvin Tatron, Lawrence Wiles, and C. S. Taylor, drowned yesterday at Relay, Ky., when a tree floating on the flood waters struck a bridge on which they were standing and swept them into the water, were recovered today.

Business was resumed in Middleboro today after that city had gone through the biggest flood in 20 years. The loss there was estimated at $50,000. About 500 Middleboro residents were driven from their homes.

Noted Excavator Tells of Olynthus

Robinson Lectures on Pre-Historic Art in Greece

David M. Robinson, professor of archaeology at Johns Hopkins university described his findings in the excavation of Olynthus in an illustrated lecture in the chemistry building last night. The speaker was brought by the Iowa society of the American Archaeological association.

He was introduced by Prof. Roy Flickinger, head of the department of Latin and Greek, who was a fellow graduate student with him at the University of Chicago.

Professor Robinson's excavation of the ancient Greek city on the coast of Macedonia marked the first time that its ruins have been touched since its destruction by fire by Philip II of Macedonia in 348 B.C.

His discovery of stone implements, of idols, and of black glazed vases indicate that the city was inhabited in pre-historic times ranging from 1000 B.C. to 3000 B.C.

By digging a trench lengthwise and then crosswise across the hill which he had judged to be Olynthus, Professor Robinson found that the city was about a mile wide, and extended across several hills. It was necessary to dig only about six inches below the surface in order to find the basements of houses.

One of his discoveries is a collection of 50 terra cotta heads found upon the floors of the houses.

Professor Robinson was able to estimate the extent of trade carried on by the old city by the coins which he found in the houses. There were 1,200 of these perfectly preserved coins from 50 different places.

Southern Flood Waters Recede

QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 20 (AP)—Tired and mud stained levee crews rested tonight with the knowledge that the high waters in the Mississippi tributaries had done their worst. Dynamite was resorted to late today in the Marks, Mo., district, whose north levee went out Monday.

The blast, an effort to drain the flood waters into the north river, was only partially successful, drainage commissioners said tonight. More dynamite will be used tomorrow.

In the Lima Lake district, on the Illinois side of the river 20 miles north of Quincy, huge pumps were sucking out the flood waters. Breaks in the south levee, which went out Sunday, were repaired. Damages to crops in the Lima district will be comparatively light, it is believed.

Report that three lives were lost when the Marks levee broke was definitely disproved today when every worker was accounted for.

Anet Proves Himself Well Versed in "Love of Art" at Round Table

Claude Anet, university lecturer, demonstrated to a small audience in Old Capitol yesterday afternoon that he is equally as versed in the "love of art" as in the "art of love." "Art is intimately connected with love," said Mr. Anet, in his illustrated lecture on "Art—The French Miracle."

The novelist regards conditions in France as ideal for the flourishing of a great art. The miracle about French art he believes to be the fact that it has endured through 19 centuries, while that of other countries has manifested itself through relatively brief periods.

"We look at the affairs of life and love in a very human way," he continued. "We have not set up artificial constraints limiting the liberty of our emotions."

Mr. Anet feels seriously that no people can live without art. "Art is not born in schools; it needs the cooperation of an entire people; art needs an atmosphere," he declared. "Cold, calculating, matter-of-fact intelligence may produce business success," he said, "but art has its root in our sensibilities and in our emotions."

President Plans Final Message

Coolidge May Speak of Boulder Dam Legislation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—A number of old and a few new problems are before President Coolidge as the time approaches for him to send his sixth and last annual message to congress.

The president's final communication of this character will be read day in Capitol Hill two weeks from today. The prospects are that he will departure from Washington next week for a Thanksgiving vacation in Virginia.

He already has the material before him upon which he may base his recommendations for legislation regarding Boulder Canyon dam, a project which figured to some extent in the presidential campaign.

The president has received a confidential report from the commission appointed by the interior department to inspect the engineering feasibility of the proposal for a huge dam on the Colorado river.

The report will not be made public by Mr. Coolidge since it was given him only as convenient reference containing the latest information on the project. The whole document probably will be laid before congress when it convenes for its short session Dec. 3.

Wine Gives Profit

He referred to the French use of wine in moderation as giving them great pleasure and profit. Such a life as can be lived in France, he considers, leaves a person leisure, and the possibility of idling and dreaming. "Do not think that it is so easy," he warned. "The mere idler is a bore, but without idleness and the possibility of dreaming, art is impossible," he declared.

At the conclusion of his remarks which were interspersed with slides illustrative of his comments, the meeting was thrown open for questions. In responding to these the Frenchman compared a work of art to a novel. "Put your ideas in good order, see the different values of these ideas, put them in their place," he said. "There are no external rules of art, but there are internal rules and nobody can avoid them."

Vestris Inspectors Deny Intoxication

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—An accusation that two government inspectors were drunk when they examined and passed the liner Vestris five days before she sank with a loss of more than 100 lives was read today at a department of commerce inquiry, and immediately drew a shouted denial from Capt. Edward Keane, one of the examining officers. Both Keane and his assistant said they had found the Vestris seaworthy.

A letter containing the liquor charge was read at a hearing in the customs house before Dickerson N. Hoover, supervising inspector-general of the steamboat inspection service of the department of commerce. The latter, signed "Samuel Lawson" and dated Nov. 14—two days after the Vestris foundered—was received by the steamboat inspection service in an envelope on which was printed "United States Lines." The United States Lines, outside the hearing, said no Samuel Lawson was employed by them.

The letter said that a four day examination of the Vestris by Captain Keane, assistant inspector of hulls, and Frank N. Bruning, assistant inspector of hulls and life saving apparatus, included "swilling whisky and beer in the ship's bar" by the inspectors.

"The whole thing is the most outrageous lie I ever heard," said Captain Keane, who is 62 years old and the holder of a master's certificate. "I am the fourth generation of my family which has never touched a drop of any stimulant."

Captain Keane said he and his assistant had thoroughly examined the Vestris and had found everything in seaworthy condition.

Officers of the Vestris being testified at the federal hearing being conducted by United States Attorney Tuttle this morning poured into the ship through both the coal ports and the half doors, and some of the survivors said flares and lanterns in lifeboats were unserviceable.

Special interest centered in the sensational advances in Case Threshing Machine, Dupont, International Harvester, and Radio. Two Men Answer Charges in Court

George Allen, San Francisco, Cal., and Everett Cummings, Riverside, were brought before Police Judge Paul Custer Tuesday afternoon to answer to charges of intoxication and disturbing the peace.

Patients at Mercy hospital and residents nearby were disturbed about 2 a.m. Tuesday by loud cries for the police, and shouts of "murder."

Three complaints were sent into police headquarters. Officers Joseph Doland, and George Speaks caught Allen and Cummings after chasing them eight or nine blocks. Cummings, armed with a heavy club, was chasing Allen who brandished a razor. Both men were taken to the city jail until time of trial today.

Allen alleges that he arrived in Iowa City Monday evening and that he is on his way to Chicago. Having traveled as far as Laramie, Wyo., by train, and running out of funds at that time, he said he walked the distance from Laramie to Iowa City and intends to make Chicago in the same manner.

Judge Custer placed a fine of $5 and court costs against Cummings and told him to leave town immediately. Allen's fingerprints were taken and sent to Des Moines. He will be held in the city jail awaiting further information.

Record Breaking Climb of Stocks Results in Chaos

Small Traders Take Alarm, Liquidate Investments

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—With four high priced issues skyrocketing $35 to $63 a share, and at least 50 others climbing $1 to $10 a share to new high records, Wall street today witnessed the wildest stock market in its history. The violence of the advance scared many small traders and investors into liquidating their stocks, with the result that many of the gains were cut down, and a number of issues showed losses of $1 to $5 a share.

Total sales set a new high record at 6,311,905 shares, against the previous record of 6,714,400 established last Friday.

Orders poured in such gigantic volume that the ticker ran 30 to 100 minutes behind during the greater part of the day. The usual last minute rush of orders delayed the printing of the final transaction until two hours and 42 minutes after the market closed, the longest delay on record.

Officials Revise Service

Forced by the thousands of complaints against the present service and the widespread confusion caused in brokerage houses throughout the country to take drastic action, officials of the exchange today decided to drop all sales volume from the tape, except for a few minutes after the opening, beginning Thursday.

Under the new plan, only stock prices will be printed on the ticker, and it is expected that the quotation service will be speeded up at least 25 per cent. Arrangements are being made by the exchange to supply sales volume of individual stocks to press associations and newspapers, pending the installation of special telegraph printers which are being provided for this service, but the details have not been worked out.

Based on an average price of approximately $85 a share for all listed stocks, today's tremendous turnover involved an exchange of securities valued at nearly $600,000,000.

Advance Sets New Record

The average of 20 leading industrial stocks, compiled by the Associated Press, advanced $2.71 a share today to a new high record of $252.67, which compares with the year's low of $178.84, and an average of $224.45 at the end of last month. The average of 20 leading railroads advanced $2.51 a share to $155.30, but is still about $1.75 below the year's high.

School of Religion Officials Convene Monday Afternoon

Reports Given of Other School's Interest in Work Here

Eleven members of the board of trustees of the school of religion in their semi-annual meeting, Monday afternoon, heard reports on the progress of the school, and the forming of religious schools in other universities.

Organized in 1925 as the first university school of this kind, it has attracted attention throughout the country. Dr. M. Willard Lampe, director, reported numerous inquiries and surveys other universities have made of this school. The University of Oregon, has adopted the Iowa plan almost without modification, and has started a school of religion there this year.

Lampe Reviews Progress
Dr. Lampe spoke of the activities and progress of the Iowa school to date, of the increased enrollment, and of the greater variety of courses offered. He reviewed the increased participation of the school in activities of the university.

Foster Speaks to Board
O. D. Foster of New York, director of the American Association on Religion in Colleges and Universities, who participated actively in plans leading to the establishment of the Iowa school, spoke to the board of the nationwide interest in the school. He stated that this form of cooperation between state universities and the various religious groups marks a new day in religious education.

The association of which Mr. Foster is director is a national organization of Catholics, Jews, and Protestants and university representatives. Present, Walter A. Jessup, and Dr. Lampe are members of its board. Mr. Foster is in close contact with practically all the state universities of the country and reported that a number of them are developing plans for religious schools similar to the one here.

Discuss Financial Support
The financial support of the school was discussed especially with reference to providing a permanent foundation. Dean George F. Kay, chairman of the board, was authorized to pick a committee to consider the matter.

He appointed: E. P. Adler, Davenport, chairman; H. C. Ring of Cedar Rapids; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. W. P. Shanahan, 228 Court street; J. F. Rall, Cedar Rapids; and R. H. Fitzgerald, director of Iowa Union.

Illinois Professor Talks to Chemical Society on X-Ray

"What Can the Chemists Do with the X-ray" is one of the newest addresses given by Prof. George L. Clark of the University of Illinois, before the November meeting of the Iowa Chemical society Monday evening.

The X-ray is one of the newest means of research in the study of chemistry, although it has been used for a long time in medical science and in the study of physics.

Chemists use the X-ray in super-microscopic study of all branches of research. X-ray is used to detect flaws in the casting of the metal, its structure, age, grain size, and number of grains, internal strain, and many other facts which could not be determined by microscopic study alone.

The size, shape, and position of molecules are determined in the study of organic compounds, and with the help of the X-ray, research problems which formerly took three or four years of study can now be solved in one afternoon.

Professor Clark will address the Ames section of the Iowa Chemical society, and will go from there to Nebraska where he will address the Nebraska section.

A Business Proposition

REMARKS overheard from players and fans alike characterized Iowa field last Saturday as a "floating cow pasture." The many authors of this or similar opinions spoke correctly. It is only employing the ridiculous to better substantiate the opinion that canoes, water wings, or Noah's Ark would have been much better vehicles for either football team.

The condition of the field is not used as an excuse for the loss of the game, for it was as unfair to the Badgers as to our own team. In fact the field cannot serve as an excuse for anything or anybody.

The field was very, very muddy. The attempts to keep the field dry with straw proved a fizzle.

The solution to the problem is a covering for the field, and such a covering would cost in the neighborhood of $10,000, the proceeds from approximately 3,300 tickets or the revenue from one-tenth of our Homecoming crowd.

Next fall we hope to have a new stadium, which will seat 50,000 persons, but it never will have to seat that many, if the playing field is a quagmire, such as it was Saturday. Buying a cover for the field would not be an extravagance, but a sound business proposition.

Still Fighting

WITH one more football game left on the 1928 schedule, Iowa rooters are awakening from the natural lethargy following the disastrous Wisconsin game, and are pointing for Michigan.

Iowa still has a possibility for an undisputed conference championship, and a good run for a tie for first place. Of course a few hypotheses come into play. But if Ohio and Illinois should fight to a tie, which seems as likely as not, and if Wisconsin should fall before Minnesota, then Iowa would have a clear claim to the conference championship, providing the Hawkeyes win this Saturday.

This may sound like too much supposition. But facts show that this result is not at all beyond the stretch of possibility. Wisconsin was psychologically keyed to the victory point last week. The natural reaction will be for the team to slump this week, and it will not take much slumping to make the Thistlethwaite men victims of Minnesota.

So it is better to be safe than sorry. In case the unexpected did happen in the conference and Iowa was again defeated, this campus would be more despondent than it was last Saturday night. At any event, we must rally about our football team once again. Last year we celebrated because we won one conference game. How much more jubilant we should be now that we have lost but one!

An Excellent Suggestion

A PLAN by which, not only the band, but other groups on the campus could be helped, has been suggested by a member of the faculty. He made the suggestion several weeks ago when the argument was on whether the band should go to Ohio State or not. His idea was not made for the express purpose of publication, so we withhold his name.

His plan embraces the idea of a "Loyalty" series of entertainments to be put on by four groups on the campus, namely the band, orchestra, university players, and the Iowa Union. The band and orchestra would each provide a concert; the players would present one play a year, and the Iowa Union would sponsor an all-university party.

A season ticket similar to an "I" book, would be sold for a nominal price, say $1. This would admit the student to all of these entertainments, as well as supply a fund, which with judicious handling, could be used for the advancement of groups that are important parts of the university. A student committee could work in conjunction with a similar group from the faculty to work out minute details on the plan.

THE DAILY IOWAN believes that this is a starting point to work from, whereby some plan can be worked out that will benefit the students and the university. It asks for suggestions and criticisms along this line that we may all receive the benefits from these groups, which are now handicapped by lack of finances.

Tennessee's Contribution

TENNESSEE, scene of the famous Scopes trial, and fortress of dyed-in-the-wool anti-evolutionists, now boasts a new born baby with a seven inch tail. The baby was recently born at Knoxville where the girl-mother was fearful lest the father should exhibit the child as a freak. The grandmother, however, took a firm hand in the case and declared that the tail would be removed by some scientist or school who would perform the operation in order to secure the appendage for scientific study.

What a quirk of fate that such proof of evolutionary theories should appear in a state where the theories of evolution are taboo material in the schools. How ironic that the representative of the older generation in the family should be the one to offer the proof to science for study and investigation. Which all goes to prove that nature, as well as other things, is no respecter of persons or states.

Reducing Accidents

A DECREASE in fatal automobile accidents, amounting to slightly more than 4 per cent in the last nine months, is shown in a report by a large life insurance company. This is the first time in 17 years that a decrease has been shown.

Is it possible that the great amount of killing done by automobiles has caused people to drive more carefully?

Most people know how to drive cars—at least enough to make it go. But there is need of continued campaign for prevention of accidents. Motorists must be educated and re-educated to the danger of fast driving and careless handling of cars in cities or other crowded places.

We are a nation of leaders. We left the rest of the world in the wake in our development of the automobile industry. Why should we not do the same in making the roads safe for passengers and pedestrians?

Girl Scout Week

THIS week is being observed all over America as Girl Scout week. Special attention is being given to Girl Scout activities, both by the girls with their leaders, and civic organizations interested in the scout work.

Starting with groups of the scouts attending church Sunday, the girls are giving demonstrations all week with the idea of making the value and extent of scout work known to the public. This, if successfully accomplished, will in itself make Girl Scout week worthwhile.

Few people seem to realize the great amount of good a girl may obtain from the scout training. Constant stress is made on homemaking, the fundamental principle on which this nation or any other nation is built. A gradual development of a girl into a woman who will be a good citizen, an honorable wife, and worthwhile mother, is the aim of the Girl Scout organization.

This movement deserves more whole-hearted support from the citizens.

David and Goliath

KING MICHAEL, the seven year old monarch of 18,000,000 Roumanians, wants to be a king like David. Perhaps his Goliath will be the petty wars of the Balkan states, which have kept all Europe under powerful arms for half a century. Or it may be an internal struggle against scheming politicians, who are already plotting against him.

Whatever it is, we hope that this little David may have a strong sling, and pick for a cabinet men who will be as unerring when sent upon a mission as was the stone which David selected for his task.

Who will draw pay as members of the presidential cabinet for the next four years? The man who will do most of the work has already been selected.

In New York the rolling pin seems to have given place to the lipsticker as a disturber of marital quiet.

It is to be hoped that on the next national holiday fewer citizens will leave it to boy scouts, former service men, and military students to show respect for the passing flag.

As Coolidge Goes Out

(From The Des Moines Register)

It is hard to read some of the eulogies of President Coolidge, now the question is up as to Hoover and his probable course, and not have in thought what Will Rogers said in the closing days of the campaign: "Coolidge won't come out for either side. He is afraid it will be held against him in 1932. Paste that in your hat and remember it. I am the original Coolidge in '32 man."

Coolidge may have no thought of coming back into politics, but it is so sure that certain interests will not magnify the Coolidge vogue to hold a club over Hoover?

On this page the Wall Street Journal goes to some lengths to have it appear that the Hoover journey to South America is part of a Coolidge program.

In any event it will be interesting to watch just the slant things take in this closing session of the old congress and then turn approvingly to the proposals of the new administration.

Chills and Fever

What a week end!!!

Wisconsin didn't get all of the good breaks—we got our share, personally, even if we did lose the proverbial five on the game. Oh well, we're still ahead cause we bet on every game and the old Iowa aggregation is still a long, long ways from the bottom of the percentage column, and we still have the best team in the conference.

We got it fairly straight from a Wisconsin insider that before the game Thistlethwaite told the Badgers that their only chance to win was to kick every time that they got the ball, thereby eliminating fumbles as much as possible and to watch for breaks cause there were sure to be plenty of them. You know the rest—it worked pretty well.

We're indeed indebted to the Wisconsin folks for carrying off our goal posts because it saves us a lot of time and trouble. We won't need them anymore anyway.

We felt so badly and sympathized with one of the returning alumni Saturday morning who poured out a heart rending tale. He wouldn't give us his name but told how he hadn't been back to the old alma mater since 1912. "Sixteen years ago," said he, sobbing on our shoulder "and then we have to weather like this."

We note with interest the fact that it is becoming necessary for a Frenchman to lecture before the students of the University of Iowa, on Love. Can our technique be getting so poor that the faculty is investigating and attempting to remedy the situation?

About three fourths of the fidelets were there and Johnny Young and one of the D. G. university players—my, my, there is excuse for the D. G. cause they might need it but why all the fidelets?

And now we are getting around to what this column is going to be all about.

In the first place, we weren't going to say a word about the game but we have just finished reading an article in the Milwaukee Journal that all but burns us up.

Perhaps you have read the first editorial in yesterday morning's Iowan. If you haven't—read it. It is the absolute truth and there are a number of witnesses to the act, among them a Wisconsinite who was even disturbed by it, himself. A Wisconsin man told us today that he thought that the reason for the editorial was because there wasn't anything else to write about. We knew somebody would say something like that so at first we refrained from writing anything about the game—now you are going to get it.

Nobody begrudged the Badgers a win—and we at least tried to have a little respect for them—but after the bunch of heels that they have shown themselves to be—we hope all their children are flagpole sitters.

The goal post business was all right—but after we beat Wisconsin next year, watch what the Iowa gang does to the Badger stadium. Last year, after defeating them 16-0, we at least showed them that Iowa students were gentlemen enough not to become childish and brainless about the aftermath.

We were at the game last year, and speaking of courtesy, a Wisconsin student drove his car into a double parking space downtown and when we tried to park, we asked him to let us shove it ahead a little so we could get in also—his answer was "Go to Hell"—and he put on his brakes and threatened to start a row if we touched it.

Wisconsin hospitality? What do you think of that one?

Roundy says in the Wisconsin State Journal: "In 1926 we beat them in a snowstorm, in 1928 we beat them in a rainstorm. We can beat them in the sunshine any old time."

Ostensibly, our Mr. Roundy who prides himself on his terrible English and who admits he was pushing a broom about the streets three years ago—forgot last year's score. Funny how he can remember 1926 and 1928 and still forget the year between.

He then raves on about Iowa's roughness, denouncing Jensen and Farron in particular. Perhaps his story is a trifle one-sided. Does he know that the famous Wisconsin left tackle made it his business to take out the Iowa left end in a very crude manner. Every time the ball was snapped, he struck Moore in the face with both hands, throughout the game. Of course, on the defensive, it's entirely legal as long as his fists are not clinched, but this bit should at least slightly dim the stories of Iowa roughness.

Queer how people can change their minds so suddenly, to conform to the rabble—even Roundy conceded Iowa as having much the better team—before the game.

And we still think so. —Petz

WIRELESS OPERATOR GRILLED

Repeated "I don't remembers" coming from Charles Verchere, wireless operator aboard S. S. Vestris (shown above in witness chair) so angered United States District Atty. Charles A. Tuttle that he threatened to prosecute him for contempt. Testimony developed that Lampport & Holt liner had been scraped in collision with freighter as she put out from New York harbor.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To Mr. Miller

In his attempt to be clever and because he was jostled in his free berth by someone better qualified to write about a game of football, whatever his occupation might be, than myself Mr. Miller, this same-so-called Staff Correspondent unconsciously lets fall the mask he has been wearing as a football writer and reveals himself as he is.

Henceforth the sports department at Iowa will probably see that the press stunts will contain one less "tormented scribe" than it did at the Iowa-Wisconsin game.

In the first place, he doesn't know the meaning of the terms offense and defense when applied to football, as a casual survey of his efforts will reveal.

The idea of his stating that Iowa had no crisp and intelligent plays to perplex the Badgers. As if anything savoring of crispness was possible in such a quagmire. Could Wisconsin show anything of such a quality when they were within one foot of Iowa's goal line? He also unwittingly suggests a forward passing attack. To comment on such ignorance is giving him credit for an ounce of brains. And he thinks he knows football. The fact that he is used to reporting "small town" games where he has plenty of room is no excuse for allowing him to launch all this "hokey" upon the public.

W. G. Whitney—Alumnus.

Iowa Spirit?

The Iowa-Wisconsin game is over, but it is not forgotten and won't be forgotten by those loyal students who saw it. We lost the game, but what of it? The winning of the game is not all! There is something greater than the mere winning of a game. That something is the spirit, the morale, and the loyalty with which the game is played. Our boys showed their spirit, showed their morale, and loyalty to the school they represent. They fought like devils-dogs, everyone of them. They gave every ounce of strength their bodies and minds possessed.

Students of Iowa, we have a team, a great team. A team that knows no limit in grit, knows no limit and acknowledges no end of stamina; a team that will fight until it is a victim of exhaustion.

Yet some of you—I mean you who sit in the stands and fired caustic remarks at our boys because of their fumbles and because of Wisconsin's score—had shown the meanest kind of cattiness. I wonder whether you yellow cads have seen the way our boys were assisted to the dressing room, or have seen the watery-eyes of our boys on their way out of the stadium. To have seen you in that pig-pond, sliding, skidding, and wallowing in that mud and drenched with it would have been a joy to sore eyes indeed! Would you have fought as they? By George, NO! You would have given up the ship and scurried to dry places the moment you sank in that mud.

The spirit you have shown does not belong in Iowa. It is out of place. If you cannot give your team the best in you, you're in the wrong school. Iowa wants your best. Iowa needs your best. Give it till it hurts.

Michigan is our next hard game, one that will be equally as tough. Let us all join in one big unit and cheer the team to the utmost. Let us show the boys that we are with them more than ever; that we appreciate and feel what they are doing for good old Iowa. Be at the coming pep meeting.

When you see the boys on the street, clasp their hands; give them a good word and make them personally feel that you are with them in body and spirit in their fight for Iowa.

Yours for a greater Iowa spirit,
N. A. Seldin

Anet Tells Class About Near East

Claude Anet, visiting university lecturer, spoke informally yesterday morning to students of Sudhigna Bose's class on the near East. Mr. Anet, who has spent a great deal of time in the near East, spoke on Persia.

The Frenchman attributed the power Russia yields in Persia to the fact that the Russians are devoid of race prejudice. He depicted Persia as a country of escape, where men go for a change of environment and to forget their troubles.

Ingwersen Primes Hawks for Final Battle With Wolverines

Undaunted Iowans Scrimmage With Reserve Machine

Schleusner, Jessen, Westra See Drill From Bench

Chilly winds from the north were no deterrent to the title-seeking Hawks as they pranced through a snappy workout Tuesday in preparation for the last game of the season at Ann Arbor. For the first time since 1922 the Hawkeyes are involved in a championship affair, and they are determined that Michigan will be the year's fourth conference victory.

Nothing was neglected by Coach Burton A. Ingwersen as he keyed his men for the Wolverines. Starting off with the usual passing and kicking drill, the boys soon found themselves in the midst of a heated scrimmage with the championship "B" team, the varsity using passes and runs to good advantage. Every available man was pressed into service, and the chances are that an unusually large squad will be taken to the Michigan stronghold.

Three Linemen Out
Three Iowa linemen watched the performance from the sidelines, Jessen being kept out with an injured hip, Westra nursing a pair of "charley horses," while Schleusner did not even get into uniform, preferring to give his sprained ankle another day's rest. With these stalwarts out, Benjamin and Ely manned the tackle positions and "Fighting" Meyers took care of Westra's guard berth. All of the cripples will be ready for Michigan, in fact it would be difficult to keep those boys out of the Wolverine tangle, they are altogether too anxious to take the Michigananders.

After the varsity had its prescribed amount of offense the reserves were asked to do a little offense in Michigan, with Captain Pignatelli and "Traveler" Bunn cracking through the line, and "Sew" Leeka passing and running, they made the regulars look bad at times. But after the varsity had diagnosed the style of play it was not long until Brown and his pals were smashing through to smear the reserves. The day's work was concluded by a snappy signal drill.

Wolverines Outweigh Hawks
According to the information from Ann Arbor, the Hawkeyes will be outweighed for the second time this year, the other weight disadvantage being in the Ohio fray. The two backfields are about equal, Michigan having "Dynamite" Gembs at fullback who compares favorably with our own jumbo of the backfield, Mayes McLain. However, Gembs has yet to show the mastery of the gridiron that Mayes has done in every game. In fact, the Wolverine offense has been the weak spot all year, but each game has seen a development that will undoubtedly reach its peak in the Iowa affair.

Iowa is worried about the strong Michigan line, with Pomeroy and Squier two huge tackles likely to cause plenty of trouble. An interesting battle is expected between Schleusner, Iowa's star tackle, and the Wolverine jair, all of whom will be playing for all-conference honors.

U. High May Have Swimming Team on Calendar of Sports

For the last several years there has been no swimming team representing U. High, but this year there is a possibility of an entry in that sport. Last night prospects for the team had a practice at the pool in the old men's gym.

As yet there has not been a great number reporting but more may come out later. Some of the men who have been out are McClintock, who has been elected captain, Cozine, Starbuck, Messner, Myers, Frybill, and Fitzsimmons. The team is being coached by A. Lowell, formerly of Omaha, and a student in the university.

No meets have been scheduled, but offers have been received from schools in Omaha. The team has not assumed definite form, but will probably be represented in the dashes and diving by Capt. McClintock.

Iowa State Eleven Roms Over Frosh

AMES, Nov. 20 (AP)—With Captain Lindholm and Trauger frequently breaking away for long open field runs, the Iowa State Cyclones romped over two freshman elevens during practice today for Saturday's Drake game. The varsity forward wall ripped the prep lines wide open, and the backs found it comparatively easy to shift through to secondary defense.

The Bears' End Man of the various stadiums. And on top of that, the numbers which are turned away from every game runs into amazing figures.

While all of the games on the Pacific coast are important struggles from a local standpoint, one game which creates a lot of country-wide interest is the yearly struggle between the Bears and Stanford. The tilt this fall is scheduled to be played at Berkeley this coming Saturday.

Phillips Captains Bears
The Bears are captained this year by Irving Phillips, a wingman, and have a hefty gang which Pop Warner's squad may have difficulty in stopping. Stanford and California, both boast of plenty of man power and while the Bears' rosters rather bemoaned the fact that the boys couldn't do better than one touch-down against St. Mary's earlier in the season, "Nibs" Price's crew succeeded in holding Southern California to a scoreless tie and this may mean that Stanford will have their hands full when it comes to keeping the Bears away from their goal posts. Last year the Southern Branch defeated the Bears 13 to 0, and Stanford was also a victor, 13-6.

The Stanford rosters, however, feel confident that "Pop" Warner's fledglings will successfully defend the honor of dear old Stanford when they hook up with the Berkeley contingent Saturday, and "Pop" has a reputation of turning out some excellent teams on the coast following his good work at Cornell, Pittsburgh, and Carlisle.
However, the experts in their early fall prophecies rated Southern California on a par with Stanford to lead on the Pacific coast, with the other teams trailing. On this basis—remembering that 0-0 game between Southern California—it seems likely that the coming Saturday battle will turn into a struggle well worth watching. And the Bears apparently have

University High Trounces Sharon Center Hoopsters

Locals Show Pep in Scrimmage With Rival Team

Last night the University high and Sharon Center basketball teams clashed in a lively contest on the part of the U. high boys. The scrimmage was on the U. high floor and the Skienmen played circles around their opponents, scoring about 13 baskets in the first 20 minutes while they held the Sharon Center squad scoreless.

The locals displayed an abundance of pep and handled the ball smartly. Coach Jack Skien started Captain Johnson and Messner at forwards, Myers and Starbuck at guards, and Blackmer at center. This combination went through Sharon Center at will.

Shortly after the scrimmage began Captain Johnson was slightly dazed when he collided with another player, and was taken out while Schmitt took his place. He was soon put back into the game and the original five bewildered the Sharon Center team.

Starbuck and Messner garnered four field goals apiece, Messner had three, and Johnson and Myers had two each when the contest was about half over. Captain Johnson was playing a forward position, and it looks as though Coach Skien may keep him there, although his regular position last year was at guard.

The starting lineup for Sharon Center was Meer and Bailey, forwards; Hartsock and Miller, guards; and Rhodes, center. Windborn was put in the game later when he substituted for Rhodes at center.

The U. high schedule is nearly complete. It now stands: Dec. 7, Washington, here, Dec. 14, Fairfield, there, Dec. 15, Ottumwa, there, Dec. 28, Iowa City, here, Jan. 2, West Liberty, here, Jan. 9, Ottumwa, here, Jan. 15, Monticello, here, Jan. 18, Marengo, here, Jan. 22, Open, Jan. 25, Spirit Lake, here, Jan. 29, Keokuk, here, Feb. 5, Monticello, there, Feb. 8, West Liberty, there, Feb. 12, Washington, there, Feb. 16, Keokuk, there, Feb. 18, Iowa City, there, Feb. 22, West Waterloo, there.

A return game will probably be scheduled with West Waterloo here.

DES MOINES, Nov. 20 (AP)—The annual winter meeting of the Missouri Valley conference, will be held in Des Moines Friday, Dec. 7, it was announced today at Drake university here.
The meeting will arrange track and baseball schedules and complete the 1929 football schedules.
Members of the conference are Drake, Creighton, Grinnell, Washington university, and Oklahoma Aggies.

1929 Hawkeye Grid Schedule Announced

Six Big Ten Games on Card; Iowa, Illinois Meet Homecoming; Reserves Play Three Game Program

Six western conference football games will be played by the Iowa football team in 1929, the schedule standing as the heaviest in six years, according to an announcement from the office of P. E. Belting, director of physical education.
The first conference game on the home schedule calls for Illinois to appear here Oct. 19, as the Homecoming attraction. The next conference game will be with Minnesota, Nov. 9, the Gophers making their second consecutive appearance on Iowa field. These are the only Big Ten games to be played at home.

Ohio State, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Purdue will be met on foreign grounds next season. The return of Illinois to the schedule is welcomed by Iowa fans, for the Illini have long been bitter rivals of the Old Gold. Purdue will mean another hard game for the Hawks since the Indiana institution has made itself a factor in Big Ten circles in the last few years.

The policy of having a schedule for the reserve teams will be continued and Iowa will meet the same teams that were played this year. Indiana at Bloomington; Notre Dame at South Bend, and Illinois at Iowa City comprise the schedule for the "B" team.
The 1929 schedule:
Oct. 5—Non conference game at Iowa City
Oct. 12—Ohio State at Columbus.
Oct. 19—Illinois at Iowa City
Oct. 26—Wisconsin at Madison
Nov. 2—Non-conference game at Iowa City
Nov. 9—Minnesota at Iowa City
Nov. 16—Purdue at Lafayette
Nov. 23—Michigan at Ann Arbor

Harrison Prepares Frosh for Varsity Cage Scrimmage

In making preparations to scrimmage the varsity next week, Coach "Topsy" Harrison is sending his freshmen basketballers through strenuous sessions daily.

Fundamentals and shooting drills are taking up most of the practice sessions. Instruction also is being stressed on Coach Barry's short pass system. Work, however, at present is being concentrated on individual defense. Coach Harrison plans to keep close tab on the varsity forwards next week.

When the original call for frosh cagers was made 90 candidates reported for the early drills. The number has slipped, however, and only 30 men are working at the present time. After the football season about 15 candidates from the freshmen football squad will report to Coach Harrison. After the new men have a chance to show their prowess a squad cut will be made.
During the practice sessions several squads have been working together. On the first squad, Aschenbrenner is at center, Beckner and

Hagen to Captain Ryder Golf Team

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20 (AP)—Walter Hagen was endorsed by the Professional Golfers' association of America today to captain the United States Ryder cup team of professional golfers which will go to England next spring for the biennial meeting with the Great Britain team.

The honor went to Hagen when Leo Diegel, who defeated the former P.C.A. titleholder demurred in favor of him. Notwithstanding the fact that he took the national pro championship from Hagen after the latter held it for four consecutive years, Diegel said he considered Walter the logical man to head the American team.

The association also recommended 12 leading professionals of the United States from which the American team, numbering 10 members, will be selected. In addition to Hagen and Diegel there are Gene Sarazen, Joe Turnesa, Johnny Farrell, William Klein, Billy Burke, and John Golden, all of New York; Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo.; Al Espinosa of Chicago, Ed Dudley of Los Angeles, and Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich.
Final choice of the team members will be made next April.

Western Conference Elevens Scrimmage

Thistlethwaite Uses Reserve Eleven Against Varsity; Illinois, Ohio State Prepare for Battle Saturday

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 (AP)—Mittened and sheepskin clad, Western conference football teams went through their first scrimmage of the week today in preparation for the season's finals Saturday. It was the first time in more than a week that most of the teams were able to run signals on a firm field. Freezing temperature, however, furnished uncertain footing.

At Madison, where Wisconsin meets Minnesota in the important titular contest, Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite sent members of the "B" team against the first string. With the reserves on the offensive, the Badgers failed to stop the off, on, and over tackle plays—Minnesota's favorite ground gaining methods. Harold Smith and William Lusby, star backs, who were injured in the Iowa game, worked in the scrimmage.

Gophers Get Stiff Drill

Fearing Wisconsin's famed over-head game which was not put to use against Iowa, Dr. Spears sent the Gophers through a stiff practice against a passing attack. Spears expects to have two complete backfields to throw into the Wisconsin game and will employ Minnesota's running attack style of play if the field is dry.

Ways and means of stopping Ohio State's diversified attack were considered by Coach Bob Zuppke and his large varsity squad and freshmen. At the close of a lengthy practice, the problem apparently had not been solved, as the freshmen backs tore through the varsity line for repeated gains. Judd Timm, fleet halfback, is expected to be in shape for Saturday's encounter.

Ohio State Strong

Jack Wilce's Ohio State hopefuls found the cold weather to their liking and went through a spirited drill against Illini formations. Wilce will have practically his entire strength to throw into the game at Champaign—a game that may result in the winner having a partial claim on the Big Ten title.

Coach Bert Ingwersen overhauled the Iowa line material in a snappy practice session in anticipation of a battle of forward walls at Ann Arbor. Substitute guards and tackles received much of the coach's attention in the defensive workout.

Michigan's hopes of turning back Iowa were given a boost when Dalheim returned to his position at halfback after a week's layoff. Gembis, who worked out with the varsity in a long defensive drill against Iowa plays, will also probably start.

Wildcats Scrimmage

Dick Hanley's Northwestern Wildcats had another easy day, but will engage in their weekly scrimmage tomorrow. Hanley sent the varsity through a dummy scrimmage against Dartmouth plays, followed by a lengthy signal drill.

Indiana's varsity scrimmaged against the freshmen team, using Purdue plays in a snow storm. Assistant Coach Otto Strohmeier, former Chicago star, was in the frock backfield, but Pat Page was well pleased with the showing of his regulars.

At Lafayette, Coach Jimmy Pheelan spent most of his time perfecting a defense against Indiana's great quartet of backs.

Intramuralights by Red

More than 180 entrants in the inter-fraternity swimming meet which is the main attraction in the field of intramurals tonight will dive into the pool at various intervals in an effort to grab off the aquatic championship for their respective fraternities.

Six events are on the card for this meet, two relays and four individual races. Last year's champions, Phi Gamma and Delta Upsilon, have a number of men out to repeat their hold on the championship and incidentally add a few points toward the participation trophy.

No dope on the probable winners of sectional basketball tournaments will be given out in this column until the first week of games is over. Until then, write your own basketball results.

Haven't heard any kick about the all-fraternity soccer team, must be that everybody is satisfied and we, for once in our lives (Dad Schroeder, the referee, and Red), have managed to strike it right. According to Hoyle, that is not real "experting."

Maybe I'm wrong.

The weekly standing list of the fraternities working for the participation cup will appear again this Sunday morning. With the swimming meet, more points will be added, teams may change places, and a few more will have something to brag about.

Last Year Grid Powers Fail to Establish Leads

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—The parties in football power at the close of the 1927 season seem to have been tossed out of the picture this year with little or no ceremony. Of the seven main groups scattered about the country, only two of the erstwhile office-holding teams have a chance to repeat. These two are Southern California in the Pacific Coast conference and Georgia Tech in the Southern conference. Neither had an altogether undisputed hold on the top last season.

Elsewhere the carnage among the old champions has been heavy. Yale and Pittsburgh, which disputed the mythical all eastern title last year, are in the background while Carnegie, Boston college, New York university, Army, Princeton, and Georgetown figure in the concluding arguments.

Wisconsin Leads

Illinois has been bumped off the Big Ten peak with Wisconsin now in the lead but needing a victory over Minnesota to trifling assignment, to keep on top.

Nebraska has all but clinched the Big Six championship in the Missouri Valley conference, where the University of Missouri set the 1927 pace, though not without a dispute with the Cornhuskers.

Texas Aggies and Colorado Aggies, rulers of the Southwestern and Rocky Mountain conferences, had last season, both have slumped. Texas and Utah universities now are out in front in these races.

No team stood out substantially above the rest last year when it came to awarding the national palm. Pittsburgh and Georgia were perhaps the most conspicuous by the end of November, but both were thrown for losses in their final games, Georgia by Georgia Tech and Pittsburgh by Stanford.

Complicated Situation

The situation gives every indication of being more complicated this year, with about a dozen undefeated major teams having a voice in the debate.

The shouting has already begun. From the University of Florida, for instance, where "there are six backs who run the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds flat or 10.1 at the worst."

"How about Carnegie, with a backfield boasting such stars as Lelzelter, Harpster, and Karles?" asks another observer.

Wisconsin calls attention to its record, with victories over Notre Dame, Alabama, Chicago, Iowa, and Michigan. The Badgers were tied by Purdue, but if they beat Minnesota no one will deprive them of a place in the top flight.

Other correspondents demand a hearing for Detroit. Gus Dorais' machine has romped through eight straight victories and been scored on only by Tulsa.

This and That in Sports

Current Comment By Guss

Any inconvenience which the wintery weather yesterday may have been to the Hawkeye football players was more than made up by the zest with which the athletes went about their work. During the first part of the session the Iowans worked on an offensive attack which they will use against the Wolverines and to wind up the day's work the reserves took the ball and pulled off some Michigan plays against the varsity.

It would be stretching things a point to say that the Hawks showed championship form, but the none-too-good showing is easily explained. Three of the regular linemen did not appear in the workout and this weakened the forward wall. The trio of absentees included Vinnie Schaefer and Ernie Jessen, regular tackles, and Pete Westra, veteran guard. All three are out with minor injuries, but expect to be back in the lineup in time for the game Saturday.

While the Iowa fans are sitting up late nights figuring out just what possibility there is that the Hawkeyes can capture the Big Ten flag, the players themselves are intent upon only one thing—the task of beating Michigan. If they can down the Wolverines, The Ingwersonians are willing to figure out where they stand after the game. And this little job which lies before the Hawks is one which is bound to require concentration. Any team which beats Michigan can rightly feel that it has done something. It is not often that the Wolverines go down in defeat, even this season.

It is true that the year started badly for the proteges of Yost and Wieman, but they since have redeemed themselves. A victory over the previously undefeated Illinois team and a tie with the Navy can not be sneezed at by anyone. Moreover they are on the up grade and have high hopes of finishing the season with a victory over the Hawkeyes. Defensively, the Wolverines have a great aggression, and while their attack is reputed to be weak it has certainly improved since the beginning of the season.

John Glekrist, hefty tackle of the reserve eleven, set the style in winter football yesterday. He wore a flashy red and white pair of buskins; mittens to protect his hands from the biting north air.

This week Coach George T. Brennan will put his winning harrier team up against the final test of the season—the conference meet. The annual championship race for the turf troopers will be held at Madison and is going to be some battle royal. Competition is due to be the toughest which the Iowans have thus far experienced and will bring together the stellar hill and dale men of the Big Ten. There will be another factor also, which will handicap the Hawks. Used to running over hills, the boys will have to run on level ground in their quest for the title. The race will take place over several streets in the outskirts of Madison.

Barry Prepares Cage Team for Coming Schedule

With approximately a dozen and a half candidates reporting daily, Coach Justin M. Barry is preparing for the coming cage campaign. Fundamentals are still being stressed by the Hawkeye mentor. These tactics will be followed until next week when scrimmages with the freshmen will take place.

Competition for the five returning letter men will be plenty hot. At the pivot position Captain Wilcox will find ample fight from Joe Wagner, rangy sophomore.

At the forward positions there is Woodrow, Plunkitt, last year's letter man, Rohrer, numerical winner in 1926, Rinehart, Spradling, Nelson, and Simpson, all numerical winners of last year.

At the guard positions, David and Kinman, "D" men are back to fight for their berths. However, they will find plenty of competition in Jebens, Geneva, Mitchell, and Malish.

A few more aspirants will be added to the squad at the close of the football season. Farroh, Rogge, Cummins, Leeka, and Reedquist will report.

Three Main Threats in Iowa Attack

In the above picture are three reasons for the powerful offense demonstrated by the Hawkeyes during the present season. Pape, mercury football halfback, is probably the fastest back in the conference, and is always a threat. Arnil is the Iowa field general whose all around play has been a feature of the Iowa attack. Little need be said about the happy warrior McLain, who has proved himself to be the prima donna of Big Ten fullbacks.
