ZEPPELIN MAY POSTPONE TAKEOFF

Legion Post Names 28 for New Election

Post Selects Delegates to State Convention; to Help Auxiliary

Twenty-eight men were nominated for offices in the Roy L. Chopek American legion post and delegates and alternates were selected to represent the post at the American legion convention at Marshalltown, Aug. 27, 28, and 29.

Besides the nominations and appointments, the members carried on the regular routine of the monthly meeting. The meeting next month will bring forth the election of the nominated officials.

Will Cooperate

The ninth annual convention of the American legion auxiliary will be held in Iowa City at the American legion community building Aug. 20-23, under the auspices of the local auxiliary and the men voted at the meeting to cooperate with the women in making the convention a success.

The nominations were as follows: for post commander—George P. Zeithamel, Alec Brown, George Frohwein, and H. I. Jennings; for adjutant—Guy Fink and Clem A. Boyle. For vice commander—L. E. Clark, Delmar Sample, H. H. Boyles, Elmer Giblin, E. S. Crawford, and Elmer Dewey.

O'Connor for Candidate

For quartermaster—Guy Fink, C. C. Kennett and Francis Boyle. For finance officer—J. E. Gatens. For chaplain—the Rev. H. S. Longley and Clem A. Boyle. For sargeant at arms—H. H. Mitchell, Elmer Giblin, Ellis Crawford, Lloyd Howell and I. R. Atwood. For historian—F. J. Mezik, Jr. Color bearers—R. V. Campbell, Roy Murphy, Clem Boyle and Francis Boyle.

Kenneth M. Dunlop, George P. Zeithamel, L. E. Clark, Clem A. Boyle, H. I. Jennings, Guy Fink and Elmer Giblin were appointed as delegates to the convention at Marshalltown. Alternates to the convention are: W. P. Gipple, George Frohwein, Ed. O'Connor, Ellis Crawford, Francis Boyle, W. R. Hart, and Judge Harold D. Evans.

Ed O'Connor, district vice commander, was appointed to run for the district commandership.

Student Cast Will Present Play, "Minick"

Tomorrow evening at 8:15 old man Minick will arrive at the New York apartment of his son and daughter-in-law—old man Minick with all of his provincial, small town ideas and his "old man" ways. What will Fred, the son, and Nettie, the daughter-in-law, do and say? How will their sporty young friends like Minick?

The New York apartment is set up on the stage of the natural science auditorium with all the realism of stagecraft and modern fittings. Old man Minick, Nettie, Fred, their friends, and Lula, the colored maid, have been created by university players in an effort to achieve the humorous characterizations of the play "Minick" by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman.

This domestic comedy played a popular season in New York several years ago. The humor and pathos of the elder Minick and his queer old friends trying to live in a modern setting made an appeal to the audience.

"Minick" is being produced under the direction of Harry G. Barnes, associate in speech and technical director in the department.

"Young Switzerland" Groomed for Journey by Youthful Aviators

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 12 (AP)—A spotless white airplane with the name "Jung Schweizerland" (young Switzerland) painted on the forward part of the fuselage today was given careful tests to prepare it for a transatlantic flight near the end of the week.

Three young Swiss aviators worked over it, but only two will be aboard when it heads out over the ocean for the Azores and thence to Nova Scotia and the American mainland. They are Oscar Kaeser, pilot, 22 years old, and Kurt Luescher, backer and mechanic, 21 years old. Alfred Tschopp, a mechanic who accompanied them here from Zurich, will remain behind to permit additional fuel to be carried.

Beside its name the Farman monoplane bears the number "CH245." A supply of 650 gallons of petrol and 195 gallons of oil will be taken for the single motor of 230 horsepower.

THE WEATHER

IOWA—Partly cloudy Tuesday, probable local thunderstorms, warmer in extreme east portion; Wednesday, mostly fair, cooler.

NAVY DEPARTMENT TO BACK MERCURY'S PILOT

This is the tiny Mercury racer which Lieut. Alford J. Williams, the navy's flying ace, intends to pilot in the Schneider cup speed races at Cowes, Isle of Wright, England, in September. 24-cylinder motor develops more than 1,000 h.p. The plane has a wing spread of 26½ feet. Its

Case Coming to Quick End

Snook's Fate May Go to Jury Wednesday

COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—The closing of direct testimony on behalf of Dr. James H. Snook, confessed slayer of Theora Hix, Ohio State university co-ed, and the launching of the state's rebuttal in efforts to prove the defendant falsified while on the witness stand indicated today that Dr. Snook's fate may be placed in the hands of the jury not later than Wednesday.

The defense rested this afternoon wih a final attack on the autopsy by which Coroner Joseph Murphy decided that Miss Hix died from a knife wound which severed her jugular vein.

The state immediately began its rebuttal to show that Dr. Snook, contrary to his testimony last week, admitted he cut the girl's throat to relieve her suffering from hammer blows, which he inflicted during a quarrel.

The rebuttal testimony will continue tomorrow and unless something unforeseen occurs, the final arguments of counsel and Judge Henry L. Scarlitt's charge to the jury immediately after that.

Decision of the defense attorneys o dispense with the testimony of their two alienists and to leave the plea of insanity supported solely by the evidence that has gone into the records thus far brought the end of the trial several days nearer.

State May Revoke Autoist's License on Unpaid Judgment

DES MOINES, Aug. 12 (AP)—First action looking toward revocation of an automobile license for failure to pay a damage verdict arising from an automobile accident was taken Monday by B. V. Veneman, who filed with the county treasurer a certificate showing a judgment against Bert Saltzman for $44.63, was granted in municipal court today.

If the judgment is unpaid for 60 days the county treasurer may proceed to revoke Saltzmann's automobile registration. This is the first case known to be begun under the new Iowa law which provides for revocation of licenses for unpaid judgments.

Williams Will Continue Tests of Seaplane for Cup Race

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — Carrying with him the assurance that the navy department would give him whatever assistance is needed, Lieut. Al Williams, crack naval pilot, returned to Annapolis, Md., today to resume his tests of the Mercury seaplane with which he hopes to win the Schneider cup race in England in September.

Lieutenant Williams conferred with Secretary Adams and high naval officials on the progress of the taxiing test of his plane and reported thus far they were satisfactory, only minor adjustments being needed before the first flight is attempted.

Williams is suffering slightly from a cold resulting from a drenching by the spray thrown up during the seaplane's taxiing tryouts. But he added, he was in good physical condition with the exception of being somewhat exhausted because of the work of the tests.

Message of Searcher Tells of Discovering 3 Canadian Flyers

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12 (AP)—A message telling of the finding of C. A. "Duke" Schiller, missing Canadian flyer and two companions at Wager inlet Saturday was received today by Jack Hammel, president of the Northern Aerial Mineral Exploration company, which employs Schiller.

The message, sent by T. M. Reid, one of the flyers engaged in searching for Schiller and his party said: "Located Schiller party tenth. All safe and well at Wager inlet."

Schiller, accompanied by Jack Humble, mechanic and Tom Creighton, a prospector, set out on a prospecting flight about two months ago.

Frisco Engine Holds 7,148 Miles Record With Minor Repairs

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 12 (AP)—Frisco engine 4113 pulled into the Frisco station here this afternoon, having completed a total of 7,148 miles without having its fires drawn or major repairs made.

The engine will have made five round trips between Kansas City and Birmingham, Ala., when it arrives in Kansas City at 2 a.m. Wednesday.

Pacific Flyer Finishes Hop

Flies From Vancouver to Agua Caliente

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 12 (AP)—Tex Rankin, Portland aviator, who left Vancouver, B. C., at 4:30 a.m., today in his airplane "Three Flags" for a nonstop flight over the entire Pacific coast section of the United States, landed at Agua Caliente, Mexico at 5:48½ p.m. today.

Rankin passed over the eastern section of San Diego about 5:40 p.m. flying about 1,000 feet high. Before landing at Agua Caliente about 20 miles from San Diego, he circled over the Mexican flying field several times and then came down gracefully.

The pilot was greeted by a large delegation, including Mayor Harry C. Clark of San Diego, to whom the flyer brought greetings from the mayor of Vancouver and the mayor of Tijuana, Mexico.

Rankin said that after taking off in the north, he did not see the ground again until he was near Portland, Ore., because of the heavy fog. The weather through the San Joaquin valley was particularly warm, but he said he was not bothered to any great extent by head winds. He said he used only 75 gallons of gasoline.

3 College Men Plead Guilty to Liquor Charge

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Selling liquor to pay their way through college, three youths were arrested today on the steamer Manitou by federal prohibition agents as the boat docked at navy pier. They pleaded guilty before United States Commissioner Walker and were held in the county jail tonight.

The youths gave their names as Arthur Schaible, 21 years old, Wanatah, Ind., who said he had completed a pre-medical course at the University of Indiana and planned to enter the medical school in the fall; Roy B. Laird, 20 years old, Milford, Ill., sophomore at the university of Illinois, where he said he was a member of the football squad; and Edward A. Shrewe, 19 years old, of Manistee, Mich., who planned to enter the school of architecture at the University of Michigan this fall.

Meteor Watchers Note Fall of 223 Bodies Sunday Night

University Group Map Sky Trails; Note Exact Time

The party of astronomers, under the direction of Prof. Charles C. Wylie of the mathematics department, who observed the sky Saturday and Sunday nights recording the path and the velocity of the Perseid meteors, rested last night but will resume study again tonight. Because of atmospheric conditions and the fact that the volunteer committee, composed of students attending classes, found its night vigils strenuous and because the star maps upon which data were being recorded, were covered with meteor trails during the two previous nights, the group decided to take a vacation for one night.

In approximately two and one-half hours' study Sunday night the six watchers saw 223 meteors, they made more careful plots of 103. Some, they reported brighter than any stars. Success Saturday evening was somewhat less, 50 having been recorded.

Eyes Need Protection

Since quiet periods were interspersed with others of rapid fall, the watchers had to be ready at all times. Professor Wylie, Prof. Claude J. Lapp of the physics department, and H. W. Pietenpol of the astronomy department, at Central college, Pella, the most experienced astronomers, assumed a partially reclining position which gave them a good view of the skies except for a small area near the horizon.

Because most meteors disappear 40 or 50 miles up, a careful scanning of the lower part of the sky was not necessary. Flash lights covered with paper to prevent the blinding sensation of bright light to eyes accustomed to dark, were used by the observers.

Immediately upon sighting a falling meteor, the observer called "time." Ray Bath, C of Des Moines, recorder, noted the exact time to the second on a ship's watch. The observer by sighting along a rule, determined the path of the fall and drew a meteor trail on his map.

Miners Escape After Blasts

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP)—Four men were burned, three seriously, and 25 escaped through an air breach in an intersecting gangway tonight when a series of four explosions occured in the Primrose vein of the Sherman Coal company here.

Fire, caused when the first blast ignited a gas pocket, swept through the vein of soft anthracite which runs beneath the southern end of the city.

Guy Irvin, a miner, Harvey Hilbert, mine foreman, and W. C. Schott, colliery engineer, were in the Pottsville hospital suffering from severe burns about the face and body. Physicians reported their condition not critical. Leo Berski, another miner, escaped with slight burns.

Twenty-five miners working in a gangway running off to the west from the Primrose vein, escaped through an air breach a quarter mile away and joined the crew to fight the fire. None was injured or burned.

The blazing workings lay 700 feet below Shuyville avenue and Boone and Bannen streets. No danger to the houses above was expected.

Horrabin Co. Gets Contract Paving Work

Low Bid of $45,322.92 Accepted by Council Last Night

The William Horrabin construction company was awarder the contract for paving streets and alleys, including the repaving of Dubuque street from Burlington to College street. The improvement will cost $45,322.92, with the contract calling for work to begin Thursday and to be completed by Oct. 1.

The bids were opened yesterday at 2 p.m. by the street and alleys committee of the council last night. On the same piece of work Connell and company was awarded the contract to place all gas, water, and sewer connections.

The paving program includes the paving of Governor street from N. Dodge street to Kimball avenue; Kimball road from Whiting avenue south to lot 16; Prairie du Chien road from N. Dodge street to Kimball avenue; Dubuque street from Burlington to College street; Clinton street from Benton street to Lafayette street; Lexington avenue from River street to Park road; and two alleys in block 39 and 69 Old Town addition.

All of the paving will be of concrete construction with the exception of the Clinton and Dubuque street portions.

Shulman to Furnish Coal

The H. Shulman coal company, with a bid of $5.09 per ton on western Kentucky nut coal for 100 tons, was awarded the contract for furnishing the city hall with coal for the coming year. Fifty tons will be delivered Sept. 1, with the balance Jan. 1. The bidders for the coal were Shulman coal company, Yoder coal company, Boone coal company, Johnston coal cmpany, and the City fuel company.

A new ordinance was introduced by Jacob Van der Zee and passed the first reading. The ordinance specifies the cost of gas stations in using the parking for gas pumps, and driveways. Each oil station must provide the city with a map showing the number of pumps and position of driveways.

The fee assessed will be $25 for one pump and $5 for each additional pump in zoning district 2A, and $15 for one pump with the $5 additional in any other district. A cost of $35 will be assessed for a driveway in excess of 40 feet in zoning district 2A, and $25 in other districts. This ordinance does not affect the present zoning ordinance. The fine imposed for failure to comply with the rules will be $100 fine or 30 days jail sentence.

Jacob Van der Zee introduced an ordinance which conforms with the state law that each city must pass a special ordinance which controls traffic and designates the penalty for violation. This ordinance went through the three readings after the rules were suspended. This ordinance specifies that the city must make school, surburban, and business districts relative to establishing speed limits. Maximum speed limits will be designated, and signs will be placed for the motorist to know the speed limit.

Map for Airport Planned

A resolution was passed which allows the council to contract for a topographical may for the airport with Leonard Macomber incorporated of Chicago at a cost of $750. W. L. Bywater is chairman of the airport committee and introduced the motion. The cost will be divided so that $250 will cover the preliminary

Reparations Crisis Postponed by Ignoring Problem; Rhine's Evacuation Discussed Instead

PHILIP SNOWDEN

Finance Body to Meet Again After Recess to Wednesday

THE HAGUE, Aug. 1 2(AP) — Adroitly skirting the crisis that has deadlocked its deliberations, the Hague conference, to make the Young plan for reparations effective, today took a new tack and sailed long toward a solution of the Rhineland evacuation problem, just as if the tieup over reparations did not exist.

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the British exchequer, who is generally credited with having almost run the Hague conference ship on the rocks by challenging the Young plan experts for reducing Great Britain's reparations payments, himself helped save the situation by calling for the adjournment of the finance commission until Wednesday.

This move in the committee where the reparations crisis exists came as a surprise, but it enabled the political committee to inaugurate discussion of Rhineland evacuation. These delibertions developed the opinion that before any particular date could be considered it would be necessary for military experts to pass on a great number of technical questions connected with the transport of troops.

Foreign Minister Stresemann, Premier Briand, Foreign Minister Homans, and Foreign Secretary Henderson will study these subjects tomorrow with their respective military advisers and will meet privately during the afternoon at the British foreign secretary's apartment to talk over the situation before referring it to the technical committee.

It was announced authoritatively on behalf of the committee that no particular dates for Rhineland evacuation had been considered by any delegates and that if any date became public it could be taken as an imaginary one.

Parachute Jumper Broadcasts Thrills in Leap From Plane

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—A parachute jumper today leaped from a plane at an altitude of about 10,000 feet and described to a radio audience his sensations as he descended.

Officials of the National Broadcasting company said it was the first successful broadcast of its kind.

The feat was performed by H. G. "Buddy" Bushmeyer, parachute expert here. He remained in communication with a radio audience until he was 3,000 feet above the ground.

Bushmeyer wore a 24-pound transmitter strapped to his chest and a microphone attached to a band around his head.

His broadcast was picked up by a short wave receiver and sent out on a nationwide network of the National Broadcasting company. Two test jumps had been made previously in preparation for the feat.

CITY AUDITOR DIES

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Aug. 12 (AP) —John Francis McAneney, 69 years old, city auditor of Council Bluffs for 23 years, died of heart disease at his home here late yesterday following an illness that had confined him to his home for more than a month.

Series of Earthquakes Shake Eastern States, Slight Damage

300 Men Out of Work Result of Damage to Machinery

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—Throughout parts of five eastern states and one Canadian province the earth's crust vibrated in a series of quakes of varying intensity and duration today.

When the last tremor died away it was found that while the shocks were felt from Connecticut to Ohio and from Pennsylvania to the province of Ontario, the resultant damage was but slight. Residents of a score of cities resumed their daily tasks and left to the scientists the work of determining the extent, intensity and location of the quakes.

Suspends Operations

Observers in various laboratories scanned their seismographs and announced that the tremors had moved in a north and south direction through the central and western part of New York and that the center of the disturbance probably located somewhere near Bellfonte, Pennsylvania.

The greatest damage was reported from Attica, where one industrial plant was forced to suspend operations because of damage to its machinery, throwing 300 men out of work. One wall of the Attica Methodist Episcopal church was grazed and the roof damaged by falling chimneys. A huge chimney on an industrial plant at Warsaw also collapsed.

Lasts 12 Seconds

The earliest manifestations of the tremble was at Binghampton, where residents reported the shocks between one and three a.m. The majority of the reports, from other sections, however, fixed the time approximately 7:30 a.m., the scientific observation at the seismographic laboratory at Canisius college, Buffalo, giving it exactly 24 minutes and 55 seconds past 7 a.m. eastern daylight saving time.

The Rev. John P. Delaney, S. J., in charge of the laboratory reported that the principal shock lasted 12 seconds, and as followed by minor tremors at intervals during the next six minutes. He fixed the center of the quake at a point at least 200 miles south of Buffalo.

Poor Weather May Hold Air Liner at Port

Commander Eckener to Await Report of Another Day

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 12 (AP)—Although the dirigible Graf Zeppelin today was ordered "cleared for sailing" early Wednesday morning, weather reports from Russia tonight made it almost certain that it would be Thursday morning before it starts on the longest flight ever attempted by an airship.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the ship, will await another weather report tomorrow before making public announcement of his plans for the long flight to Tokyo, the second stage of the voyage around the world.

Reports sent him tonight by Russian meteorologists indicated that there was a widespread low pressure area over northern Russia which would probably make it impossible for him to enter over soviet territory from Koenigsberg as he had hoped. He was considering tonight proceeding by a southern route which would follow the course of the Danube to the Black sea.

Five Days Needed

Over steppes and mountains, many of which have never been mapped, Dr. Eckener faces a flight estimated by Zeppelin officials at between 6,250 and 7,500 miles. It was thought the Zeppelin would need five days to cover the distance. This totals 120 hours, which is longer even than on her first difficult passage from Friedrichshaffen to New York in 1928.

With her new motors tuned up and broken in, an engineer from the Maybach Works said they were good for 1,000 hours of flying. Dr. Eckener said today that "the soviet government has been most obliging in every respect. At the beginning of negotiations the soviet authorities suggested a certain route over the vast Russian territory to us. We immediately asked them whether this was a prescribed or an optional route.

Merely Suggests Route

"The soviets replied this was merely a suggested route based on their meteorological experience. They did not in the least wish to prescribe our course."

Dr. Eckener said it was "absolutely impossible to forecast" his route across Russia and Siberia. He would choose a northern or southern route on the basis of last minute weather reports.

When the Graf takes off for Tokyo she will have aboard a greater aggregation of experts on different subjects connected with air ship navigation than on any previous voyage. In addition to her own tried and trusted officers and crew there will be enough reserves among the passengers for almost any emergency.

The positions of Dr. Eckener and Captain Lehmann could at any time be taken by the Americans, Com. Charles E. Rosendahl and Lieut. J. C. Richardson, United States navy, or by Com. Nashiro Fujiyoshi, of the Japanese navy, who has often navigated the airship at Friedrichshafen.

Captain Flemming, the Graf's navigation expert this time will have the excellent voluntary assistance of the German weather bureau expert, Dr. Seilkopf and the Russian geographer, Professor Karklin. Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins in a pinch could qualify for almost anything, commander executive, navigation officer or even chief engineer.

Should anyone fall sick Dr. Heronimo Megias of Madrid, reputed to be one of the best physicians in Spain, is there to attend them. And should legal difficulties arise Joachim Rickard of Boston and Madrid, is a specialist on American, Roman and international law. Even financial difficulties are provided for by the presence of William B. Leeds of New York.

This enumeration does not take into account the other half of the passengers which is entirely composed of journalists. In all, it is authoritatively stated that 19 men and one woman will go as passengers.

2 Shenandoah Girls Die in Automobile Crash Near Clarinda

CLARINDA, Aug. 12 (AP)—Two girls were killed, one critically injured and two others are in a hospital at Shenandoah, as the result of an automobile accident near here tonight. The dead are: Ona Mullison and Louise Moore, both 16 years old. Colleen Gallup, Opal Troy and Helen Harter are the injured.

The five girls were members of a Sunday school swimming party of 15 Shenandoah girls' and were in the first of three cars enroute to Clarinda. While attempting to pass another car on the road their car collided head-on with a truck belonging to the Kinney Produce company of Clarinda.

The dead were taken to Clarinda, and the three injured to Shenandoah.

Behind the Law

HERBERT HOOVER himself is responsible for the statement that the surest way to repeal an unpopular law is to enforce it with strictness.

The president also believes that all laws must be enforced. He means not one law, a few laws, or the majority of laws, but every single law that is kept on the statute books. If a regulation should not be enforced, let it be repealed.

A pertinent example of his first statement can be seen in certain laws which England's parliament legislated for English America. Almost from its passage in 1730, the Molasses act remained mere ink scratches in the statutes. Prime Minister Walpole believed in "letting sleeping dogs lie." He wished to stir up no unnecessary trouble. So the laws were not enforced.

But those legislative acts remained in existence, and were revived in 1763. It was not new laws, but enforcement of old ones that riled colonial waters in those turbulent times. Whether or not parliament might legislate for the colonies which had grown up in virtual independence, British authorities were not going to collect money from colonial pocketbooks. Enforcement brought home the unpopularity of those laws.

During the period when statutes lay idle in English law books, the colonies acquired the habit of legislating for themselves and disregarding parliamentary provisions for their government. Gradually they came to question even the authority of parliament. Non-enforcement to disrespect for law of English origin as applying to the colonial mainland in America.

Today all kinds of legislative provisions are passed and forgotten, or remain from a long time back. See the Iowa code for so-called "blue laws" prohibiting the doing of things on Sunday which nevertheless happen frequently. Are Sunday movies legal? Perhaps not, but they have the sanction of custom, which is more important.

Custom likewise has dictated a speed pace of 35 miles per hour on Fifth avenue in New York. Were anyone to obey the 25 mile limit actually provided for, he would be picked up for obstructing traffic. Blasphemy is a punishable offense, yet who is ever arrested for blaspheming?

Winking at the law develops a poor eye for justice. Should it continue? Should provisions which don't mean anything remain in effect? In the long run, as Sen. Jim Reed of Missouri, so frequently observes, the people dictate what is law, not the legislators whose fancies sometimes get set down in ink on the official records.

What really counts is, as students of English history have learned, common law and not statute law. Those institutions and rules for the behaivor of society which are cresceive or the result of growth and development will last. Those which are enacted, coming almost full-grown from the minds of senators and representatives, may or may not survive, depending on how well they fit conditions.

The constitution of the United States has always been a product of natural evolution. Its first draft was not the result of a month's thought on the part of colonial statesmen. It was crystallization of the best developments in colonial life, in harmony with leading elements in the young nation, and elastic enough to permit changes when altering situations demanded additions.

Elsewhere, however, and particularly in state and city law books, there is a cluttering of enactments and ordinances. Many city ordinance books in this state have not been revised since Dewey captured Manilla. People know of some laws which are not enforced, and come to wonder whether any laws have meaning.

Let us have on our statute books only those laws which fit the present situation, which can be enforced without meeting wholesale opposition, and which have a reasonable place in our government. Doubtful cases might be put up to popular referendum. In any case, there ought to be a house cleaning.

One of Napoleon's greatest achievements was the codification of French law. Statutes in the United States—national, state, and city—ought to be put in a form which would represent all the laws in effect so that the ordinary citizen can understand them.

As it is, the befuddled average American stands at the cross roads between obedience and disrespect bewildered by the maze of sign posts from which he is unable to select. How can he know which still have meaning? Let's leave up only the necessary signs and guide him to true citizenship.

Some day the airplane endurance record will make a record remaining a record a record length of time.

Busses for Small Cities

WILL motor busses replace the street car in the smaller cities of the United States? Two eastern Iowa cities, Burlington and Keokuk, have experienced a change from street car service to that of the huge motor bus. Davenport is using busses for transportation in the outskirts of the city, although street cars still ply on the main thoroughfares down town.

The center of the street, usually reserved for street car tracks, can be filled in with smooth paving, making a decided improvement in the condition of the streets. This also lessens traffic congestion as it answers the same purpose that widening the streets does. More room is made for motor traffic. This argument has been used by large eastern cities to procure bus service.

A motor bus can pull around traffic and can come up to the curb to take passengers. That lessens the danger of pedestrian accidents as a street car must unload its cargo in the center of the street.

More rapid transportation might be possible with the bus, but at the same time the motor bus should be subject to the same regulations that apply to other motor vehicues. Busses can be operated more frequently over the same route as has been experienced in Burlington which now has 10 minute service as compared to the 15 minute service formerly had with street cars.

Cheaper transportation is possible under the newer system. Expenditures for laying track and track maintenance are lacking and the original cost of the bus is less. Routes can be changed or lengthened to meet new demands because of city growth, without tearing up the streets to lay new track or to change the old track.

The absence of the clang and jangle of the street car will be mourned by none. Busses operating on pneumatic tires help to rid the city of unnecessary and unnerving noises.

Although the motor bus may not displace the street car entirely, especially in the larger cities, there is no doubt that it will be the favorite method of transportation in cities of 50,000 and less. The bus should prove satisfactory from the standpoint of handling traffic quickly, economically and with less noise.

Savagery Persists

WHY DOES savagery persist in civilization is a question that may be well asked, but one that is of a more serious nature than it might, on first thought, seem.

We are living in an age of rapid progress. Periods of rapid progress are followed by periods of rest and relaxation. In these periods of relaxation we have evidence of waves of crime and epidemics of immorality. We say that the world is going to the bad. However, our judgment is a bit too hasty, such things are incidental with progress. The thing we have witnessed is a kind of moral relaxation, or what might be called a relapse to primitive conditions, due in part, no doubt, to progress that is too rapid and of too great tension. A condition somewhat like moral fatigue takes place and reaction follows.

Our manner of life has been very strenuous. The tension has been high, something must happen. The world has been getting too serious and laborious, too much hard thinking is being demanded to keep up with the modern pace. We are being taxed to a degree that is incommensurate with the possibility of physical adjustment. We are not physically so constituted as to adapt ourselves to this suddenly increased demand, certain functions which are comparatively new and unstable. Reaction of one kind or another is inevitable since we can not go forward, we go back, unless some adequate means of escape is provided.

In our own country we have what we choose to call the amusement crazes, sports, playground and recreation movements, an interest in outdoor life. In Europe where the temper of the people lends itself less readily to these forms of release we have witnessed the reaction in its most repulsive form, a return to the most brutal and the most elemental kind of behavior, that of war, which is a reversion to actions that are very old in the race and easy to perform.

The social development of mankind is always in the direction of restraint and inhibition of primitive impulses which are thought to be detrimental to social order. When adequate means of escape is not provided, outbreaks and disturbances, spasmodic reactions are bound to occur to restore balance and thus bring relief from high tension.

PARAGRAPHS OF COMMENT ON TOPICS OF THE DAY

The population of Sing Sing is now 1,970, the highest on record. Which proves that it is possible for a community to grow without a chamber of commerce.

Who remembers the good old days when you could take your girl for a 15 mile drive with a horse and rig and bring her back home thinking she had a wonderful time?

Scientists now seem to be putting forth every effort to rebuild glands to give old men youthful ideas. It might be just as well to devote a little time toward finding a process that will instill a little of the wisdom of the ages in the youth of the land.

A lot of our liberals who used to feel so sorry for China and her troubles have suffered a change of heart now that China is having some difficulty with red Russia.

Who says that our youth are not progressing in this commercial age? The boy who used to be satisfied by charging two pins admission to his circus now has a youngster who can get a dime a head from other kids and sell them candy and near-lemonade on the side.

CHILLS AND FEVER

Down with coats. Up with pajamas. Carry on, brave sons, and some day our country will realize that the heads of the families, the presidents of our chambers of commerce, the deans of our colleges, the sons of toil and the governors of our land are being subjected to needless, foolish and merciless slavery. We repeat it; down with coats.

UNIVERSITY STUDIES
Vol. XXII No. 3

A survey of animal life on the campus yields us the following identifiable groups of lower insect life. Some suggestions are appended.

1. Library Chatterers. Why not use the upper portion of head in library, not lower?
2. Groups who think the best place to stand and chat is in the most used entrances and stairs. Why don't they carry detour signs? *
3. That insect pest who keeps a reserve book all afternoon and evening and then takes it out over night. Why not steal the book?
4. The cootie who continually wastes class time giving his views on the subject. This type is too low to respond to any suggestions.
5. Yahoos such as we are, who write column dope that isn't funny. Why not go to a chiropractor for mental treatment, since all lower forms of thought are supposed to originate in the lower nerve centers?

*For further data, see north entrance of L. A. building any school morning.

Thorn Dike and Mall Man.

Adeline remarks that clothes don't make the man, but that they do help make up for deficiencies.

Rope writes that he's glad the column conductor is a doctor because some of his stuff needs doctoring so often. How we'd like to really disect some of those contributions and find. . . . .

And then after Rope dashes off a line "for your own amusement," he adds the next installment of

Radio Fan's Letters Tell of Value Received From WSUI

Indicative that educational broadcasting is coming into its own are the communications received by the university from two sources. An interested public, obviously above the ordinary run of radio fans solely concerned in locating new stations, has signified its approval of the new departure in broadcasting.

Other universities are making inquiries as to the success of the project. Most significant, probably, is the fact that broadcasting agencies of a commercial character including the chain broadcasting system, and manufacturers of radio equipment are investigating the subject.

Reply to Letters

In reply to queries, Prof. Frederic G. Higbee has formulated a statement in which he says, "In response to this widespread interest (with which University of Iowa lectures and experiments were received) the university is increasing its educational program to make it possible for listeners to take advantage of an educational program in a supervised manner."

Speaking of the evidences of interest in four experiments conducted for a radio audience, Mr. Higbee continued.

"Whenever the University of Iowa experiments are put on the air, the response indicates great interest in scientific and educational programs and approval of a departure from entertainment."

Widespread Interest

Statistics, compiled to determine how widespread interest in educational broadcasting is, show letters from 22 states and four provinces in Canada. Listed are commendations from heads of large companies, educators, and newspapers. The number of letters received was considered remarkable by the compilers of the information considering, "the disinclination of persons to write letters."

WSUI, the university's station for broadcasting educational programs has facilities for educational broadcasting far surpassing those of most other stations according to a summary report of various stations entitled, "Radio and Education," by Armstrong Perry. Its purpose has been to try every new idea that presented itself in an effort to collect data as to the most effective procedure.

Extension courses in English literature, Spanish, French, political parties, and short story have been offered in connection with written work for college credit.

Many Programs on Air

A still greater step has been begun with the transmission of classroom discussion as well as lectures of professors.

Music appreciation; home and family topics touching home economics, child welfare, religion, and physical education; radio equipment and practice; and business research are some of the subjects touched in the educational broadcasting scheme.

Four experiments were broadcast last year. Dr. Lee E. Travis of the speech clinic demonstrated nerve currents; Prof. Edward P. Tyndall of the physics department, the magnetization of iron; and Prof. Milton Metfessel of the speech deparment, the measurement of musical talent and work in the psychological laboratory of the University of Iowa.

S. W. Barnett Patents Corn Picking Device

DES MOINES, Aug. 12 (AP)—Sell W. Barnett of Webster City, has received a patent for a corn picking and husking machine designed to speed up the process, it was announced in a list of patents granted Iowans.

Barnett holds 10 claims to orginality on his invention. He asserts that a change in the routing of the picked corn before it is husked speeds up picking. The machine, driven by a tractor, picks two rows of corn at once.

Richard Habel of Sioux City, was granted a patent for a cleaning machine for automobiles. Wiggert Langerak of Pella, patented a grain weighing device for threshing machines, and Lester Williams of Marshalltown, a radiator for hot-air furnaces.

Four Des Moines men received patents. They and their inventions are: Louis Lohberg, combined casket and vault display rack; Harry Schlesinger, safety device for dry cleaning machines; Frank R. Steelsmith, washing machine agitator, and Everett Woodard, yacht-race game.

LEGION FOR WORLD COURT

WASHINGTON BYSTANDER

Rear Admiral in Navy, Commanding 50 Ships, Receives Less Pay Than Lieutenant

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—How would the reader feel if he were a rear admiral in the navy, commanding a force of 50 fighting ships and was getting $138 less a year in pay and allowances than a lieutenant serving as a subordinate aboard one o fthose ships?

That situation actually exists in the fleet, or did at the time Rear Adm. Luke McNamee's interdepartmental board on pay schedules made public its report. The specific case was extreme, the report said.

It resulted from allowances to officers for various things like dependents, length of service in other than commissioned grades and the like. But the board added that similar situations where there was a difference of only two or three instead of four grades in rank between the two officers occurred frequently.

Clearly what the board is shooting at among other things is the pay provision that counts enlisted service as well as commissioned in computing base pay. During the war a number of long time enlisted men were commissioned in both army and navy. You still see them about at times, gray headed men nearing the retirement age, yet still with the rank insignia of ensigns or lieutenants.

They Lacked Proper Training

They have not been advanced in rank because they lacked the educational background to qualify for higher technical duties. And the McNamee board finds that "any system which pays junior officers more than their seniors detracts from the respect and authority of the senior and is in some degree subversive of discipline."

The McNamee report also brings to a head a revolt that long has been brewing among unmarried officers against the allowances now made by law in regard to dependents.

Many of them have dependents to support, but the board points out that "the procedure necessary to establish the right of the unmarried officer to receive the allowances for dependents has become so formidable and so inquisitorial as to arouse intense dissatisfaction among this class of officers."

Humiliating Red Tape

Many an officer has made no application for such allowances "rather than expose his dependent mother to the humiliation of laying before the public in an official document such intimate details of her life as are required by the form devised by the comptroller general," the report said, adding:

"Sound logic requires that an officer be paid for his value to the government, without regard to his family status, not for his expenses of existence."

Just why the McNamee report happened to pop out on the very heels of the administration project to study means of cutting military and naval service costs has not been disclosed.

Nor does the report indicate what the increase in cost it proposes would aggregate. The Bystander has heard it estimated at from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 a year.

In any event, congress will have to deal with the matter at the regular session if there is to be a change in the pay system. And Admiral McNamee and his board colleagues of the six services involved, which include the coast guard, geodetic survey and health service as well as army, and navy and marine corps folk, have included "data" as to what happened to other government pay groups during the last two decades.

Cabinet pay jumped .25 per cent, under-secretaries 111 per cent, senators and members of the house 33 per cent, judges 62 per cent, foreign service officers 175 per cent and civil personnel from 87 to 153 per cent. At the same time, army and navy pay actually went down, the board says, an average of 3 per cent.

Number of August Weddings Among Alumni Threatens to Take Title Away From June

Candlelight Service at Harkins-Mann Nuptials; Other Marriages—Rittgers-McCormick, Miller-Hood, Brown-Paugh

Rivaling June in popularity with the young brides, August also is proving a favorite month for summer weddings. University of Iowa graduates continue their march to the altars, and no longer can one count the hundreds who have said, "I do."

Harkins-Mann

At a candlelight ceremony, Aug. 7, at the home of the bride, Millie Marian Mann, daughter of Mrs. Nina Mann of Clear View, became the bride of George B. Harkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benton Harkins of Newell. The Rev. J. E. Feller officiated.

The couple was attended by Iris Mann, and Dr. M. Braley, a fraternity brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Harkins attended Des Moines university where she was affiliated with the Delta Chi Delta sorority. Mr. Harkins attended the University of Iowa and was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

After a trip to Minnesota lakes, the couple will make their home at Newell after Sept. 1.

Rittgers-McCormick

Dorothy Evelyn McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McCormick of Perry, and Raymond P. Rittgers of Fayette, Idaho, were married July 31, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. G. F. Martin of Renwick. The Rev. C. E. Van Horne, pastor of the First Baptist church of Renwick, performed the ceremony.

The bride attended Iowa State college at Ames and for the last three years has been an instructor in the schools of Boone county.

Mr. Rittgers graduated from the University of Iowa and has been head of the science department of the schools of Fayette, Idaho, for the last two years.

The couple are motoring through the Black Hills of South Dakota, and the Yellowstone national park. They will make their home at Fayette.

Miller-Hood

At the home of the bride's parents, Vera Hood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hood of Independence, became the bride of Earl A. Miller of Cedar Falls, Aug. 7. Mrs. Miller is a graduate of the University of Iowa, majoring in the department of speech.

Mr. Miller is a former member of the faculty of the Independence high school and of the Independence Junior college. Next year he will be a member of the faculty of the junior high school of Dubuque.

Brown-Paugh

Frances Paugh and Fred F. Brown of Iowa City, were married Sunday, Aug. 11, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Paugh of Ringsted. The single ring service was read by the Rev. Mr. Gladstone in the presence of 30 relatives.

Zelpha Brown of Iowa City, sister of the bridegroom, and John Doss of Iowa City, attended the couple.

Mrs. Brown is a graduate of the commerce department of the University of Iowa. She is a member of Phi Gamma Nu, commerce sorority, and Pillar and Chapiter. For the last year she has been employed in the business office of the J. C. Penney company of Iowa City.

Mr. Brown is connected with the Chrisman Produce company of Iowa City. Following a wedding trip through western Iowa, the couple will be at home after Sept. 1 at 314 E. Burlington street.

Birthday Party for Charles Gay Given Yesterday Afternoon

Dorothy English Will Tell Historical Origin of Early Roman Wall

Although Hadrian's Wall is almost 73 miles long, extending from New Castle on the east coast of England to Carlyle on the west coast, few people have ever heard of it. This almost unknown wall will be the subject of discussion, "Hadrian's Wall," by Dorothy English in room 116 in the liberal arts building at 4:10 p.m. Wednesday.

Because of its situation in a wild and almost deserted spot in the heatherland of England, few travelers are able to visit it.

Kipling's idea of the wall is expressed in some stories in "Puck of Pook's Hill." Disregarding the enchantment of Kipling's stories, Miss English will bring out the historical background and facts in connection with this wall.

The lecture will be illustrated with slides showing altars, monuments and inscriptions. All students of classics, history, and literature are invited to attend.

Rev. H. L. Searles Chosen as Chaplain August Convocation

The Rev. Herbert L. Searles, who is directing the work in character education this summer, has been selected as chaplain for the August convocation.

The Rev. Mr. Searles received his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Iowa in 1925. He is head of the department of biblical history and literature at James Milliken university of Decatur, Ill.

All-State High School Chorus Gives Concert

Group Includes Voices From Thirty-Six Iowa Towns

The all-state high school chorus, under the leadership of H. Stanley Taylor of Morley college, London, will be presented in its initial concert Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of the natural science building.

The program will include "Song of the Volga Boatman" arranged by Stoessel, and "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Mount of Olives" by Beethoven. All concert numbers are among the pieces selected for the state musical contest in 1930.

Forty voices, representing the high schools in 36 Iowa towns, comprise the chorus. During the second term of the summer session these junior musicians have been attending special music and academic courses arranged in a unique schedule, the first offered by a university. The courses are under the direction of Prof. Ernest H. Wilcox of the school of music. Opportunity to attend these courses was given in recognition of the talents shown in the music festival last spring.

Mr. Taylor is director of the chorus, and conducts the mixed chorus numbers. He is assisted by Clyde Matson, Chicago concert tenor, who is in charge of numbers adapted to boys' glee clubs. Mrs. Mildred B. Paddock, a member of the regular staff of the school of music, will direct the girls' glee club songs.

The personnel of the chorus includes:

Sopranos, Irma Campbell of Hampton; Dorothy Giorgetti of Knoxville; Vera Bauman of Lake City; Erma Marr of Manilla; Ann Zache of Mt. Vernon; Maxine Culbertson of Panora; Helen Spicer of Red Oak; Marian Tharp of West Liberty; Maxine Moore of Newton; Betty Jane Matson of Oak Park, and Catherine Smith of Iowa City.

Altos: Geraldine Rife of Emmetsburg; Mary Soechtig of Ft. Madison; Helen Davis of Lime Springs; Marian Jackson of Manilla; Elizabeth Stevens of Mason City; Lucille Bucher of Plover; Edythe Nelson of Red Oak; Margaret Woods of State Center; Helen Baxter of West Liberty; Georgia McCollister of Iowa City, and Helen Nordin of Gowrie.

Tenors: Drexel Gold of Gravity; Marlin Foderberg of Denison; Lynn Miller of Morley; Donald Shay of Red Oak; Herbert Hebel of Iowa City; Homer Lancaster of Manson, and Ronald Moore of Stuart.

Basses: Keith Mound of Keota; Burdette Moeller of Cedar Falls; George Menard of Sergeant Bluffs; Robert Henry, Jr. of Traer; Donald W. Rock of Williamsburg; Daniel Hughes of Ames; Herman Gunter of Red Oak; George Sutton of West Liberty; Robert Manley of Iowa City, and William Cummings of Council Bluffs.

Honor Birthday of Friend With Picnic

In honor of her sixtieth birthday, Mrs. Ida Kaspar, 713 E. Ronalds street, was surprised by a group of friends Sunday. At noon a picnic dinner was served, and games of cards were played in the afternoon.

Those who attended the party were: Mr. and Mrs. William Kron and family of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Clair Kron and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Grager and family of Hills; Mr. and Mrs. Jake Kaspar, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kaspar, and Mrs. Philip Scherre and family of Iowa City; Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. John Dana of Dubuque; and Mary Ellen Dana of Davenport.

Here's a Play for the Books; Ripley Explains His Puzzle

Believe it or not, but Ripley knows how to solve his own baseball puzzles. In a recent cartoon, the wonder artist presented a puzzle about which many of our readers have inquired. Several have sent in solutions to the puzzle, but none of the Iowa City Ripley fans were able to get the correct solution. The next time Ripley has a puzzle, we'll try again and give him the correct answer in order to win one of those books, "Believe It or Not," which he offers for a correct solution.

Out of the avalanche of some 10,00 answers received, only 103 correct solutions were found, according to Mr. Ripley.

Ripley asked in his puzzle how a team could make one double, two singles, three triples, and steal two bases in one inning without scoring a run. The solution follows:

No. 1 triples and is thrown out at the plate.

No. 2 likewise.

No. 3 doubles.

No. 4 singles. No. 3 does not advance.

No. 3 and No. 4 execute a double steal.

No. 5 singles. No advance. Bases full.

No. 6 hits long safe drive. No. 3 loafs, falls, or is in some way incapacitated between third and home, holding up scoring. If either No. 4 passes No. 3, or if No. 5 passed No. 4 AFTER No. 6 reaches third, or if No. 6 passes No. 5 or is tagged out between third and home before No. 3 scores, he is credited with a triple.

Doctors Plan to Hold Clinic at State Fair

Iowa Children to Have Full Examinations Without Cost

Iowa children will have their physical condition thoroughly investigated free of charge by a staff of University of Iowa physicians and dentists at the state fair beginning Aug. 20.

Cooperating in the project will be the division of maternity and infant hygiene, and the bureau of dental hygiene, the first unit under the direction of Dr. Henry S. Houghton, dean of the college of medicine, and the other supervised by Dr. T. A. Gardner.

No phase of the child's well-being will be overlooked, according to plans. Dr. Julian D. Boyd of the department of pediatrics will check each child for physical defect or ailments, and will make recommendations to parents as to their treatment.

Advice as to proper feeding will be given by Dr. Kate Daum, university hospital dietitian and an authority on nutrition. Dr. Everett D. Plass, head of the department of obstetrics and gynecology, will be in charge of the maternity section.

Examination of children's teeth, and advice concerning their repair and care, will be made by Doctor Gardner, head of the bureau of dental hygiene. All of the university specialists will be on duty throughout the duration of the fair.

Nurses who have been named assistants are Nan Clark and Alma Hartz of the division of maternity and infant hygiene, and Jane Wiley, dental hygiene.

Iowans Visit Kansas, Nebraska for Study of Taxation Methods

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 12 (AP)—For a direct study of the Nebraska system of taxation, members of an Iowa legislative committee and the chairman of the Iowa board of assessment arrived here for a conference with local state officials.

Though particularly intent on studying the Nebraska intangible tax scheme, which is netting the state many thousands of dollars this year, the Iowans also are interested in the taxes here on public utilities franchises. It is possible they will recommend both these innovations to their legislature.

From here the party will go to Topeka for a similar investigation of Kansas conditions.

Roy Dickerson, starter at the Arlington track, Chicago, at the end of the season remitted the fined he levied against 27 jockies.

McColl Denies That Companies Defaulted on Prison Contracts

DES MOINES, Aug. 12 (AP)—A. M. McColl, chairman of the state board of control, today denied that companies holding contracts for prison labor in Iowa, had defaulted in contract obligations to the state in the sum of "hundreds of thousands of dollars" as claimed by J. C. Lewis, president of the Iowa state federation of labor in a letter to Governor Hammill.

Only one company, Mr. McColl said, was behind in its payments to the state, and the sum in default was "nowhere near" the sum claimed by Lewis who Saturday demanded that Governor Hammill conduct an investigation.

Sioux City Baseball Nine Loses in West

DENVER, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Piggly Wiggly grover's team of Denver won the Denver Post's annual baseball tournament here today, trimming the Hanaford Owls of Sioux City, Ia., 9 to 5.

The grocers went through the 11 days of the tournament undefeated and their victory today marks the first time a Denver team has won the championship.

Earlier in the day, the Hanafords had eliminated the Denver Stockyards team from the contest 5 to 2.

The tournament was played on a two game elimination basis.

Will blue blood and red MIX?

Could You, a daughter of the old South with the blue blood of an aristocrat in your veins, fall in love with a young man whose red blood carried the taint of the underworld?

What if you were engaged to another man of your own kind?

Would red blood have an appeal to you?

Would the existence of an old family prejudice against "red blood" hold you back.

THE GREEN ARCHER

By Edgar Wallace

THE STORY SO FAR

Valerie Howett, adopted daughter of Senator Howett of Pennsylvania, is searching for her mother, Elaine Held, who, as Valerie suspects, was hidden in Garre castle, the owner of which, Abe Bellamy, is a Chicago millionaire with a repellant past, who now resides in England. Bellamy's motive was vengeance on the woman for refusing to marry him. The Howetts lease Lady's manor, which adjoins the castle grounds. Bellamy identifies Valerie as an infant whom years before he delivered to Howett to rear when the latter was a poor farmer. Spike Holland, an American reporter working on a London newspaper, is investigating reports that a ghostly archer clad in green haunts the castle. Bellamy suspects Valerie of being the green archer. Featherstone, a Scotland Yard official, who is in love with Valerie, is helping her search for her mother. When next Bellamy enters the secret underground chamber where he has been keeping Valerie's mother he finds that his prisoner has disappeared. Bellamy and Coldharbour Smith, keeper of a low resort in London, plot against Valerie. She is carried off by a ruse and put on board the steamer Contessa, but is rescued. Julius Savini and his wife, Fay, accept positions at Garre castle. In the night they hear mysterious tappings from underground and a muffled explosion. Old Bellamy is working at some unexplained plot. Later Bellamy entices the Savinis into the dungeon and imprisons them.

CHAPTER LXIII.

JULIUS ROASTS MONEY.

At the Blue Bear Jim Featherstone found that the faithful Angus had arrived with a change of clothing in preparation for his master's release—an act of thoughtfulness which the captain appreciated. As soon as he had changed and shaved he made his way to the Howetts' house, expecting to find that Valerie had gone to bed. To his surprise she was in the drawing room, and with her was John Wood.

She came toward him with her hands outstretched, and he took her in his arms.

"I wanted to stay with you, but daddy hurried me away," she said. "You know Mr. Wood?"

Jim nodded to the man, and John Wood, with a little smile on his sensitive lips, watched him steadily, his eyes never leaving the detective's face.

"I have a great surprise for you, Jim," she said. "The most wonderful thing has happened! Guess whom I found when I came here?"

He shook his head.

"My—my mother!"

As she spoke, the door opened and the senator came in, on his arm a frail, beautiful woman, and Jim instantly recognized the likeness between her and Valerie.

"This is Jim—mother," Valerie said the words shyly. "You've heard of Jim Featherstone?"

Mrs. Held took both his hands in hers.

"I owe you a great deal, Captain Featherstone," she said, "but I think you will have your reward."

Her eyes strayed past Jim to the man on the sofa, and she smiled.

"You must meet my son, Captain Featherstone," she said.

"Your son!" gasped Jim.

She smiled at his astonishment.

"John Bellamy," she said quietly and Jim, who knew so much, yet did not know this vital fact, could only look bewildered, from one to the other.

"Do you think him too old to be my son?" asked the mother, still smiling. "He is much younger than he looks. His sufferings in prison, where he was confined and cruelly treated because of my persecutor's evil plots; his hardships in the war and the extreme perils and labors that enabled him finally to rescue me from a living death have lined his face and turned his hair gray."

"I can well understand that," said Jim, gazing fixedly upon the man.

* * * * * *

Jim was still feeling the effects of his struggle in the water when he came again into the village and walked toward the inn. The little street was filled with people, despite the lateness of the hour. He found Spike Holland in the midst of a crowd. The story of the castle's capture and all the thrilling details of the flooding of the dungeons and the death of Abe Bellamy had made him riotously cheerful.

"Where is Julius?" Jim asked.

"Come and see him," Spike squeaked in his joy. "He is sitting before the fire, toasting ten pound notes and Fay has borrowed a flatiron from the landlady and is doing laundry work that would turn a Chink blue with envy."

Jim followed him up the stairs. In the big sitting room, which Spike had occupied since his arrival in Garre, Julius Savini was literally roasting bank notes. Wearing a suit of Spike's pajamas, he was sitting cross legged on the hearth rug, holding at a distance from the fire with the aid of a toasting fork a square of white paper.

"Come right in, Feathers," said Fay. "Julius is drying those bank notes that old man Bellamy gave him the day he put us in the clink. They're our own," she added, with a certain dignity, "and if that poor nut, Lacy, ever suggests that my Julius robbed him I shall ask you to lock him up."

"How much money have you there, Fay?" asked Jim, much amused.

"Nearly ten thousand. We haven't counted it as yet, but that is our estimate. Julius and I are going into the country to start a poultry farm. Eggs have always been a passion of mine—where is Lacy?"

"I've sent him to the nearest hospital, and I don't think you need worry about him. When we searched him before he left, Sergeant Jackson found a considerable sum in his pocket."

"Lacy's money doesn't interest us," said Fay, loftily. "Does it, Julius?"

He shook his head, but he did not meet the detective's eye.

"If that poor gink has money, I'm glad. Where was it?" asked Julius.

"I think it was in a pocket under his foolish green coat where the other money was."

"What other money?" asked Fay innocently. "Was it much—I mean the dough you found?"

"About two thousand," said Jim, and Fay uttered an exclamation of annoyance.

"Do you hear that, Julius?" she asked sharply. "He had £2,000 in his pocket." She recovered her self possession with an effort. "I'm very glad," she said, without any great heartiness, "though it is a waste of good money, because a man like Lacy doesn't know how to spend it. I suppose it was in the left pocket of those funny pants of his?" she asked carelessly.

"I'm not sure, Fay," said Jim, "but I believe it was."

"And I told you, Julius," she began reproachfully.

Julius coughed.

"I told you," she went on, "to take his gun and leave the money alone. You see how nicely Julius behaved, Featherstone?"

He took her by the shoulders and, before Savini's discriminating and approving eye, he kissed her lightly on the cheek.

"You're too good a woman to be a crook, too nice a woman and at heart too straight a woman," he said quietly. "And if Julius lets you go that way again I shall never forgive him."

CHAPTER LXXIV

THE SECRET OF THE GREEN ARCHER

The following morning Jim went by appointment to meet the senator. Valerie had gone to town with her mother and John, and the senator was alone.

"You ought to be told the whole story from beginning to end, Capt. Featherstone," he said. "So I will begin at the very beginning.

"There were two brothers, Abel and Michael Bellamy. Abel was the elder, Michael six years his junior. The Bellamys' circumstances were very much like mine; that is to say, they were poor at first, and they could not give to Abel the education they gave to Mike. From the very first Abel hated his brother and when, as he grew up, he saw the difference in their social positions, he hated with a bitter loathing. Almost from the first Abe made money. He had a remarkable series of successful building speculations. Gold simply flowed into his lap, but he never forgave his brother for his educational advantages; and after their parents' deaths he lost no time in plotting his brother's downfall.

"Michael, unhappily or happily, fell in love with a woman—the only woman who ever inspired anything bearing the slightest resemblance to love in Abel's life. Her name was Held—Elaine Held, a girl of a good family, who committed the indiscretion of showing Abe how much his ugliness appalled her. Abe, in his brutal way, went to the girl's father, offered him a large sum of money if he would stop the marriage of Michael and Elaine and induce the girl to marry him. The father, who was a member of a good social set in Cleveland, rejected the idea indignantly and the marriage of Michael and Elaine took place.

"It was the first serious setback that Abe Bellamy had met in his career, and he took it to heart to such an extent that he spent years in organizing methods for bringing his brother to ruin. From time to time he made attempts to induce Elaine to divorce her husband on some excuse and marry him. Elaine never told her husband and to the day of his death Michael Bellamy was not certain of the cause of his ruin.

"A child was born—a boy, and for a time Abe ceased his persecution. It was after the birth of the second child that, meeting Elaine by chance one day in New York, the old desire seems to have revived and Abe renewed his plea. When she rejected his suggestion, it was, I believe, in such terms as would leave Abe in no doubt as to how she felt about him, and he went away swearing revenge. A month later the little girl, the second child, was taken out by the nurse and while the attention of the nurse was distracted elsewhere the child was kidnaped.

"Abe sought the distracted mother and father as a disinterested friend and offered to expend the whole of his wealth to recover the baby. Secretly he told the mother the price she would have to pay, which was then, as always, that she should divorce her husband and marry him. She dared not tell Michael, although she was suspicious that Abe was behind the abduction. She could only pray that his heart would be softened and the child restored. At last, when Michael had decided to put detectives on the trail, Abe seized the opportunity which the River Bend disaster offered, sent a man to drop the shoe near other personal debris that had been gathered for purposes of identification—and the rest was easy. Witnesses were produced who testified that they saw a woman and the child, and the hunt was dropped."

"But that was not Valerie," said Jim; "that occurred twenty years ago and Valerie came to you twenty-three years ago?"

Texans Will Inspect Iowa's Dairy Farms

DES MOINES, Aug. 12 (AP)—A group of prominent agriculturists from Texas, headed by the governor of that state, arrived in Iowa yesterday to inspect dairy farms of the state, Mark G. Thornburg, secretary of agriculture, has been informed.

One of the principal stops on this tour will be in Waterloo, Aug. 13, where the work of inspection will be confined almost exclusively to Orange township.

Mr. Thornburg and possibly Governor Hammill will accompany the party to Waterloo.

Wheat Prices Drop as Corn Remains Firm

Break-up in Argentina Drought Sends Values Down Suddenly

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP) — In a swift collapse of wheat values today, the market went down 5 5-8c a bushel, largely due to break-up of Argentine and Australian drought. Record breaking increase of the United States wheat visible supply acted also with tremendous force in the direction of lower prices, but in the late dealings something of a rebound took place from the day's bottom figures, the lowest that wheat has reached in fully a month.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 3 1-2c to 4 1-2c under Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1 1-2c to 2 1-2c down. Oats 1 1-4c to 1 7-8c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12c.

Wheat prices here received their heaviest jolt from an unexpected sharp break in Liverpool quotations, the British market today closing at 3 1-2 to 4 3-8c drop, whereas a decline of only a small fraction had been looked for.

Influenced by upturns in hog values, provisions averaged higher most of the time, but later eased down with grain.

The break in wheat, fair showers in the southwest and a slow general demand combined to make a heavy market in corn, with considerable long selling, as well as local pressure. The cash situation was not much changed, with receipts here today of 135 cars against respectively 244 and 45 a week and a year ago. The cash basis was about steady and there was not much indication of any heavy counter selling. The weather map showed good rains at several Kansas points. Commission houses were fair buyers on the dips, but the market was affected by the heavy tone in wheat.

Investment Bonds Skid Again After Friday's Reaction

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Prices of investment bonds skidded again today. The reaction was not as severe as last Friday's nor was liquidation as heavy but the close found the Associated Press average of ten first grade rails at a new four-year low.

One of the few encouraging signs in the dull session was the steadiness of the liberties. Convertible bonds made a broad recovery and accounted for about 50 per cent of the total volume. American Telephone 4 1-2s showed an extreme gain of 6 1-4 points, closing a point below the top on a turnover of $2,500,000. Atchison 4 1-2s changed hands a small fraction below their record of 159 1-4. International Telephone 4 1-2s showed a two point advance, and American I. G. chemical 5 1-2s closed 3 points higher.

In the soft rails, Baltimore and Ohio first 5s, Great Northern 7s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Northern Pacific 6s and 5s and Union Pacific 4 1-2s sold down from 1-2 to 3-4, while losses of a point or more appeared in Great Northern 5s, Northern Pacific 4 1-2s and Pennsylvania consolidated 4 1-2s. Baltimore and Ohio gold 4s touched a new low.

The tone of the industrial group was easy, while utilities were mixed. Foreign sugars again developed weakness. National dairy products 5 1-4s, under pressure last week, rallied about 1-2 a point.

Activity in the foreign list dwindled and prices ruled irregularly lower. British United Kingdom 5 1-2s touched the new low of 101 3-4, but closed at 102.

Stock Prices Show Strength With Reaction

Steels, Chemicals, and Utilities Lead in Market Upturn

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Prices developed spectacular bouyancy in today's session of the stock market as the bear element, which has heavily committed itself in expectation of a secondary reaction, was submitted to ruthless punishment.

Steels, chemicals, utilities, rail and railroad equipment issues lead the advance. Bullish activity was resumed in the oils for the first time in weeks.

Call money was adequate at 8 per cent, and the undertone in time was easier with all maturities quoted at 8¾ to 9 per cent, against a flat 9 per cent all last week.

Bullish activity centered in such leaders as U. S. Steel which rose more than 11 points to a record price above 229. American Telephone and General Electric were sent up 8 points, and American Can 5. Allied Chemical and Commercial Solvents sold up about 13 and 14 points. Adams Express gained 32 points in a small turnover. National Power and Light reached new high ground, and Consolidated Gas, Standard Gas, Pacific Lighting and Stone and Webster made substantial headway.

Atchison rose about 5 points to a new peak, then reacted. Rock Island and Norfolk and Western gained about 5 points. Baldwin Locomotive was in good demand on reports of valuable contracts, and Union Tank Car mounted nearly 8 points to a new peak. In the oils, Indian Refining and Houston made extreme gains of about 4 and 6 points, and Standard of New Jersey mounted more than 3 points.

Peoples Gas dropped about 21 points.

Foreign exchanges were easy, generally, although Sterling Cables held fairly steady at $4.84 13-16. The lira sagged to 5.22⅜ cents, a new 1929 low.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—The cash wheat market broke with futures. Prices showed declines of 4 to 5c. Trading basis steady to 1c easier. Demand continues moderate and offerings good. Shipping sales 3,000 bu. and booked to arrive 17,000 bushel. Sales to go to store 50,000 bushel. Vessel room was chartered for 500,000 bushel wheat to Georgian Bay, foreign demand for wheat was reported as slow, there was a little hard winters and Manitobas sold, but no important business indicated. Omaha reported gulf basis 1c better.

Corn was fairly active and market easier with futures prices 1 to 2c lower, basis steady to ¼c lower. Shipping sale 78,000 bushel. Cancellations 27,240 bushel. Country offerings to arrive, small.

Oats closed 2@3c lower. Basis dropped ½@1c. Shipping sales 40,000 bushel. Booked to arrive, none.

Cleveland Indians Conquer Yankees; Braves Down Chicago 4-3

Belt 3 Yankee Moundmen for Fourteen Hits

Babe Ruth's Circuit Clout Fails to Turn Tables

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians belted three Yankee pitchers for fourteen hits and an 11 to 7 victory today that dropped New York another full game behind the pace setting Athletics. Averill and Luke Sewell set the Indian pace with four hits apiece while Fonseca gathered three, two of them triples.

Babe Ruth's thirty-first homer of the season with two on in the third started Joe Shaute toward the showers but could not turn the tide. Miljus replaced Shaute and in turn gave way to Red Shoffner in the sixth. Shoffner fanned Ruth, Lazzeri, and Meusel in the eighth.

The Indians managed to get at least one hit an inning off Pipgras, Pennock, and Sherid, the Yankee hurlers.

Tennis Tournament Centers on Women's Play at Rye, N. Y.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—With most of the early round matches of men's play out of the way, attention in the eastern grass court tennis championships at the Westchester country club today centered on the women's division.

Only three matches involving men were played, Berkeley Bell, of Texas, national intercollegiate champion, eliminated Eugene McAuliff, former Fordham college captain, in a second round contest, 6-2, 6-2. Frank Hunter, New Rochelle veteran, making his first appearance, defeated H. H. Hyde of Hartford, Conn., 6-3, 4-6, 6-0. John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., eliminated Travers Le Gros of Brooklyn, 6-0, 6-2.

In the women's division four contestants advanced to the third round—Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Santa Monica, Cal., seeded No. 1 player; Clara Greenspan of New York, Ruth Bailey of St. Louis and Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn.

Rube Walberg Shuts Out Tigers 6 to 0 Simmons Hits Homer

DETROIT, Aug. 12 (AP) — Rube Walberg shut out Detroit with five hits today as the Philadelphia Athletics whitewashed the Tigers 6 to 0. Simmons hit a homer in the fifth inning.

Speed Limit Signs Removed From Roads

AMES, Aug. 12 (AP)—The signs which for years warned Iowa motorists, "This road is patroled, speed limit 40 miles an hour," are no more. The state highway commission, since the speed limit on highways of Iowa was removed by action of the last state legislature, has ordered all such signs removed. No substitute signs of caution or otherwise will be put up in their place, the commission said today.

The law on reckless driving, however, has been made more stringent since the removal of the speed limit and all state highway commission employees have been designated as deputies to help control careless driving on the highways.

Ethan Allen, Cincinnati outfielder, is one big leaguer, who plays on his home club.

Levi's Bat Active

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 12 (AP)—The war club of John Levi, who rated all-American selection as Haskell institute's fullback five years ago, is menacing Western league pitching this year.

Released by the New York Yankees as a poor prospect, the giant Indian is fielding flawlessly and hitting .335 for Topeka's Jayhawks. "Big John" is taking his baseball more seriously since his big league flop.

Levi has responded to Topeka's need for a hitting outfielder by smashing the ball with regularity. Jimmie Payton, Jayhawk manager, says Levi has one of the greatest throwing arms of any player in the game.

Stanwood Gets 6 Run Rally in Ninth

A six run splurge in the ninth overcame a four run lead and Stanwood came through with the long end of a 13 to 11 score against the Iowa City Independents at the city park Sunday afternoon. When it seemed that the local club was about to pick up a win, the visiting hitters staged rallies in each of the last three innings against three local moundsmen to offset their inactivity of the first six frames.

At the end of the first six periods, the Iowa City gang led by 8 to 1 and the sluggers of the outfit had collected 12 hits, including "Skim" Miller's triple that scored two counters on his first time at bat.

Wallace Starts Count

"Red" Klema held Stanwood hitless in the opening inning and Wallace started the ball rolling for Iowa City when he lived on the first baseman's error. Eastwood stepped up to bat and got a single sending Wallace to second. Miller's three-sacker brought the first two men home and Edmundson's single sent Miller across the plate. Maus gave the infield a fielder's choice, Edmundson was put out at second and Conklin's one base hit brought Maus in.

Standwood wasted every inning, except the third, until the fatal seventh. Here they touched "Red" for a pair of runs and as many hits. The real trouble started in the eighth, however, when the visitors collected four solid hits which netted four runs.

Manager Waller jerked Klema from the game and Gundecker went in. Iowa City came back in the last of the eighth and a third baseman's error and Hathaway's two bagger netted three counters.

Gundecker in Trouble

Gundecker got himself into trouble in the ninth, starting the inning with two walks. Two singles sent these two home and Gundecker went to the field and was replaced on the mound by Joe Maus. E. Thomson, rival pitcher won his own game with a single which clinched the game for the visitors.

First Paving Laid in Webster County

FT. DODGE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Webster county soon will enjoy the first paving under its county primary road bond paving program, the work of pouring concrete having started this week on U. S. highway No. 20, four miles east of here.

When the contract for paving No. 20 from Ft. Dodge east to the Hamilton county line and a similar contract, let this week by the Iowa State highway commission for paving from that point to Webster City, are completed, a 20-mile stretch of paving will connect the two cities.

Both Webster and Hamilton counties voted their primary road bonds this year, Webster having approved a $1,900,000 issue while Hamilton passed a $1,350,000 proposal.

BIG SIX

By the Associated Press

Reorganization of the Big Six clouters of the majors brings Babe Herman, socking right fielder of the Brooklyn Robins to the top with an average of .413 and drops Al Simmons into a third place spot behind his Athletic team mate, Jimmy Foxx, with .379. Chuck Klein, Phillies home run belter, trails the new lineup with .348.

Simmons and Ruth added to their home run laurels yesterday but did little for the general averages, Simmons hitting his twenty-seventh of the season and the Babe his thirty-first. Herman set the pace for the day with two hits in three tries, one a homer.

The standing:

Iowa to Abandon Soccer Football

As an intercollegiate sport, soccer football has had its revival and its demise at the University of Iowa.

No team will be developed here next fall, according to Ernest G. Schroeder, the assistant professor of physical education who coached the squad of the past two seasons.

Financial and schedule difficulties are blamed for the abandonment of the sport. The Hawkeye team, recruited from comparatively inexperienced men, played a single game in 1927 and 1928, losing each time to University of Illinois athletes.

After a lapse of 13 seasons, soccer football was placed on the Hawkeye list of intercollegiate sports two years ago. However, the game will be retained by fraternities competing in the university's intramural program.

UTAH'S LINKS TIGER

Enthusiastics who are awarding Bobby Jones the 1929 National amateur golf championship before it is played may experience a real shock if George Von Elm is in excellent form when that event takes place at Pebble Beach in California next month.

In the 1926 National amateur, Von Elm defeated Jones for the title at Baltusrol and—Pebble Beach is one of George's favorite and familiar courses.

The diminutive blond plays with such agile strength and intensity that sportdom's phrasemakers (with reference to his native state also) call him "Utah's golf tiger."

In the National open last June, Von Elm was fifth with a score of 297, just three above the winning score; but in the Canadian open, about a fortnight ago, he made a rather mediocre showing.

Von Elm has been playing consistently high class golf, which rates him a close second to Jones as the best of the amateurs, and well above most of the crack professionals.

Unquestionably, "The Utah tiger" has high hopes of winning the National amateur. He is thoroughly seasoned, knows the Pebble Beach course as well as he does his own clubs, and has no "Bobby Jones complex," i.e, George beat Robert for the title once and believes, naturally, he can do it again.

Furthermore, there are thousands on the Pacific coast who are familiar with the "Tiger's" play out there and who think his chances of topping Bobby are even better than he does in his own modest way.

If Von Elm can only improve his putts—the one, big, weak spot in his powerful game, he really would be an even choice to win the amateur crown. Were it not because of inferior putting, he would have undoubtedly won the United States open this year as well as last. Just note his consistent shooting in those two great 72-hole events: 1928 at Olympia fields—74-72-76-74; at Winged Foot—79-70-74-74. And not once during those eight rounds of championship play did he hole a long putt!

Yes, Mr. Jones will be lucky to come in a good second at Pebble Beach, if that "Utah Tiger" can but sharpen his putting claws!

Dan MacFayden Leads Boston Red Sox to 3-0 Win Over Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—The White Sox suffered from too much Danny MacFayden today and they lost the third game of the series to Boston, 3 to 0. It took the bespectacled MacFayden just one hour and 25 minutes to turn the Comiskey team back with just 3 hits. The Sox made one hit in the fourth and two in the eighth and that was the extent of their ferocity.

Ted Lyons yielded four safeties in 8 innings, but wildness proved his undoing. Two walks, a triple by Rothrock and a double steal gave the Red Sox their three tallies in the opening session.

Seats in Stadium Extend 12½ Miles

Striking a brisk pace, a man can walk all morning on the rows of seats in the University of Iowa's football stadium before he arrives at the end of the 12 1-2 mile trail.

If all the 148 rows of seats were placed end to end, they would extend that distance, according to the computations of Charles S. Galiher, business manager of athletics.

Ushers, seating the crowds in the stadium for the two conference games next fall, will have a total aisle length of one and one-half miles to tread, Galiher has figured.

Marengo to Dedicate Air Port Monday

21 Planes Enter, $800 in Prize Money, Many Races

(Special to The Daily Iowan)

MARENGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Twenty-one planes will join in Marengo's air races and flying dedication next Monday, according to a count of acceptances made by R. Paul Baldwin, secretary of the committee in charge, this morning. Pilots famous in tours, stunting and racing have entered. Over $800 in prizes are provided for the four races which will be the major attractions in the afternon.

A full day's program has been arranged. Leo Kirkpatrick, chairman of the committee, will preside at a short speaking program at noon, which will formally dedicate the field. Mayor M. Furgeson will give one of the dedicatory addresses. He has issued a proclamation declaring Aug. 19 a holiday.

Congressman Accepts Field

Judge F. Dickinson Letts, second district congressman, will be the principal speaker, accepting the field for the government.

Planes are due to arrive at 9:30 a. m. Passenger carrying is scheduled from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. and in the late afternoon. A formation flight will then be organized to go over Blairstown, Luzerne, Belle Plaine, Victor, Ladora, Millersburg, North English, Parnell, Williamsburg, Conroy and the Amanas.

At 1 p.m. the race program will begin with an altitude climb. A balloon bursting contest a pony express race and a free-for-all 24-mile race around a three-mile course will occupy most of the afternoon. An hour of stunt flying is scheduled for mid-afternoon.

Triple Parachute Drop

At 5:30 p.m. Fred Welsh, an intrepid 19-year-old boy of Cedar Rapids, will execute a triple parachute drop from a Parks biplane at an altitude of 5,000 feet. He will be piloted by Karl Fischer, a noted world war ace with 17 months service on the front lines in France.

Paul B. Shaw, manager of the Shaw aircraft company of Iowa City, will pilot The Daily Iowan Air King biplane in the races, according to announcement by Mr. Baldwin.

"Rusty" Campbell, prominent pilot of the Curtiss flying service of Moline, has informed Mr. Baldwin that he will bring an exact duplicate of the St. Louis Robin, world's record endurance ship. John Livingston of Waterloo, known as Iowa's premier stunt pilot, will fly a Waco tapered wing sport plane.

Air Route Opened

Dan Hunter, manager of the Cedar Rapids airways, and L. M. Pedigo, manager of the Iowa-Illinois airways, Friday visited the 55-acre field which is a mile west of Marengo on No. 32, and found it in good condition. Both believe it affords ample room for the races.

The new transcontinental air route through eastern Iowa was officially opened Saturday night. All the intermediate landing fields and beacons between were lighted and pilots directed over that course.

Mrs. Moylan Buried Today

Funeral service for Mrs. Mary A. Moylan, 56 years old, will be held today at 9 a.m. at St. Patrick's church, of which she was a member. Mrs. Moylan died Sunday at 7 p.m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. C. White, 610 Rundell street, after suffering from poor health for several years.

Mrs. Moylan was born Dec. 15, 1872, at Farmington, but for the last ten years has made her home in Iowa City. She and her son, R. E. Moylan, were engaged in conducting a lunch shop.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. A. C. White, Iowa City, and Teresa Moylan, Chicago, and one son, R. E. Moylan, now of Oelwein. She is also survived by three brothers and one sister.

Interment will be made in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Rock Island Route Puts New Pullmans in Use Over Route

A new type of Pullman, of steel construction throughout, is now being used on the Rock Island railroad between here and Chicago. The first car was used Sunday night and the second one to be put on this run was here last night.

Although this type of Pullman has been in use on the Century Limited for several years, this is the first to be put on this road.

All of the new type cars are to be named with either "rock" or "prairie" in the name. The car on the tracks here last night was named, "Rock Rapids." Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, daughter of Mr. Pullman, is naming the new cars. Mrs. Lowden has been naming all Pullman cars in past years.

Porters call the new cars the "1929 straight eights." The car here last night was madeup of eight sections and three compartments, each section consisting of an upper and lower berth.

The best of luxurious fittings are used throughout the car.

Outdoor Life School Opens Fifth Session

Students Will Observe Without Destroying Natural Life

"Observation without destruction" is the motto which has been adopted for the fifth annual session of the Outdoor life school of instruction, and conference which will be held today and tomorrow in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Prof. Bohumil Shimek of the botany department, in speaking of the meetings says: "The purpose of the conference is to bring to the attention of nature lovers not only the possibilities of outdoor work, but also the ways and means by which it may be carried on most satisfactorily."

"We hope to suggest to teachers what can be done in field work and above all to stress methods in this study. The discussion will bring out the best possible manner of observation for outdoor work."

Round Table Discussion

The aim of the conference is to hold a round table discussion rather than a lecture series. Methods and possibilities are to be suggested not only for teachers but for those persons who wish to find enjoyment in contact with the living world.

There has been an increasing interest in outdoor life but the charge is often made that nature-lovers are destructive. The conference will emphasize how field work may be carried on without this feature.

Trees, ferns, flowers and birds, in fact many phases of outdoor life will be discussed informally by faculty members. Those who will direct the conference are Professor Shimek, Prof. Frederick J. Lazell. Prof. Walter F. Loehwing, Prof. Frank A. Stromsten, and Prof. M. D. Cody.

Bird Hike Wednesday

Professor Lazell will conduct a bird hike early Wednesday morning. The party will leave the east porch of Old Capitol at 5 a.m. and will proceed across the campus to the upper bridge. From there the trail will follow Templin road as far as the home of Prof. C. B. Wilson, then around the city park and home by way of Dubuque street. The return will be made by 7 o'clock.

"In the spring," Professor Lazell says, "it is possible to see as many as 70 different birds on this walk, but, owing to the lateness of the season, probably about 40 will be observed."

In discussing the habitat of birds, Professor Lazell will tell the group of their customs of living, the kind of plants they feed on and other food that they require.

Two Meetings Daily

There will be two meetings daily, one from 3-5 p.m. and the other from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Formerly the conference has occupied four days and next year it will again have a full program of that length.

The extension division and the summer session are sponsoring the conference.

GREAT INCREASE IN CARS

LAMONI, Aug. 12 (AP)—County Treasurer H. G. Scott has compiled figures on automobile registration showing that there were eleven more cars licensed on August 6 this year than for the entire year of 1928. The number is 3,603.

Grover Cleveland Alexander fanned 241 men in 1915, the year he won 31 games for the Phillies.

Windham-Iowa City Gravel Road Opened

Another boon to Iowa City business is the completion of surfacing the road from Windham. The Dane Coal company has been doing the work and the road is now completely graveled.

A large trade area not otherwise served by good roads or railroad is opened up to Iowa City.

County road resurfacing on three roads leading from Iowa City was announced yesterday, with the surfacing of the Windham road with crushed rock just completed. The Dane Coal company through the River Products company is placing crushed rock on the Amana road west across the county from Cou Falls.

Gravel is being placed now on Primary No. 1 between the city limits and the Washington county line. These county roads will be improved so that farmers from isolated communities with no outlet to Iowa City may reach here in all kinds of weather.

Watchers See Meteors Drop

by 40 miles were to scan the same territory. Iowa City on the eastern edge looked west; Columbus Junction, northwest; Oskaloosa, north; Des Moines, east; Gilman, southeast, and Cedar Rapids, southwest.

The idea involved is that any one judging the fall of a meteor may find difficulty in locating its exact fall, but if another observer watches the same one fall from a different point on the compass the junction of their lines of vision will be very closely the point of fall. If Iowa City observed a fall from the east, and other cities from the north, south, and west, the ingoing paths marked by each observer would meet at a point likely to be accurate. Because of the brightness of several meteors, it was believed that most of the stations would be able to see the same ones.

Others assisting at the Iowa station were Prof. Fred Reusser of Buena Vista college, Storm Lake and Vernon Chase, G of Little Rock.

Meteors Seen 108 Years Ago

Cedar Rapids did not observe either night due to the absence from the city of the group leader, P. C. Daniels, a graduate of the university.

Stations observing with their leaders are: Columbus Junction, William R. Connor, graduate of the university; Oskaloosa, C. C. Sherman, graduate of the university, and Professor Hockett of Penn college; Des Moines, Theodore Mehlin, and Gilman, Frank D. Weaver, a graduate of the university.

The Perseid meteors are so named because they occur near the constellation Perseus in the northeast sky. In August they make their annual migration earthward. They were first noted about 108 years ago. They are best seen between midnight and 2 a.m.

Steep Hill, Gravity Land Car in Dump

When the brakes failed to hold, the auto belonging to Mrs. Violet Williams, 222 Brown street, rolled down the Brown street hill and turned over three times yesterday afternoon befre it came to a stop. No one was in the car at the time the accident occurred. It was not learned whether the car could be repaired.

The machine ended its journey when it fell in the dump in a vacant lot.

Camp Dodge Inspection Saturday Morning

By SGT. GUS A. PUSATERI
(Special to The Daily Iowan)

DES MOINES, Aug. 12—Inspection of equipment and quarters, followed by a free afternoon for the men at camp, closed the first week of training for the 186th Hospital company at Camp Dodge. The entire company area, the hospital, and all the equipment were carefully cleaned for the inspection, which took place at 9 a. m. Saturday.

Following inspection, the men were free to spend the remainder of the day as they desired. Many went to Des Moines for the ball game, shows, and general sight seeing.

Religious services for all faiths were held in camp Sunday morning. Corp. Bernard Sheridan and Pvt. Francis Murry served the mass for Chaplain Wolfe, who conducted the Catholic services at 8 a. m.

Many relatives and friends of the members of the company were guests for Sunday dinner and during the day. The many visitors from Iowa City included the following:

Mr. and Mrs. George Kron and daughter, Dorothy; J. G. Moravec, Kenneth R. Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Riley, Mrs. Ed Vassar, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kanak and daughters, Evelyn and Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Telford Larew and son, Gene, Mrs. A. J. Larew, Mrs. Eva M. Horrabin Co. Gets Contract Paving Work work, and $500 for the topographical survey.

The contract with the Chicago firm will be made subject to the approval of the city solicitor. This map is the last step by the council relative to making the airport a municipal port. The map will be forwarded to the state board of railway commissioners for approval. The contract will specify that no payment will be made until the survey is approved by the cimmissioners.

A letter was read from the chief engineer of the state board of health who approved the water in the Big Dipper swimming pool for swimming purposes. The sample of water was tested and found to be free from germs, contrary to previous claims.

City of Ft. Dodge invited Iowa City to attend the meeting of the Iowa League of Municipalities at that place Aug. 20 to 22. This letter was placed on file.

Owners Would Salvage Brick

The third reading of the ordinance which will revise the boundaries of the business and industrial districts of Iowa City was withheld until Sept. 6 to allow a public hearing.

Petitions were read and placed on file by the council from property owners on Dubuque street where the new paving will go in asking for the right according to law to salvage the bricks after the present paving is torn up. The owners who signed the petitions were Fred C. Miller, Ollie E. Jones, and Grace E. Dean.

The council decided to notify radio station, WSUI to put a red light on the west radio tower on top of the engineering building. It was thought that the light burned out and that the station was unaware of the darkened tower.

The city clerk was asked by petition to notify E. M. Brown of Coralville that a fence in Suburban heights must be removed immediately. A request to include dates on water bills hereafter was referred to the water committee. The committee went into session at once and reported that it was unable to reach a decision. Lou H. Kaufmann is chairman of the committee.

Motor Co. May Place Sign

Iowa City Iron works asked the city for permission to install a 500-gallon gasoline tank on their property on S. Gilbert street. The company was requested to abide by the new ordinance and install the tank after it governs itself by the document.

Sadie S. Price asked the council for permission to subdivide into lots the tract of land on Kirkwood avenue to the east and south of the Rock Island tracks, and east of Clark street. The petition was referred to the street and alley committee, the city solicitor and the city engineer.

The Burkett-Updegraff motor company was allowed to place a sign over the sidewalk at 1-3-5 E. College street. The council adjourned until Aug. 26.
