Man Released From Cave-in Will Recover

OTTUMWA, Sept. 7 (AP)—Rescued this morning from a cave-in which he was imprisoned for more than 42 hours, Wilkins Priest, 55 years old, late today was recovering from the effects of cold and exposure more favorably than physicians had dared to hope. Unless pneumonia develops, Dr. D. L. Rater said, Priest will recover. His injuries were confined to bruises, although his body, when taken at 47 a.m. from a 30-foot shaft, was numb and he was suffering from hunger and thirst. His temperature, sub-normal in the morning was normal this afternoon. As he lay in a hospital bed today, Priest expressed a renewed wish to live, a desire which he said he nearly lost Friday night, when rescue work seemed to be moving most slowly. He had fought a creeping death while scores of rescue workers had raced against time and won.

Company Announces Discovery of Metal Stronger Than Steel

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Discovery of a metal that while red hot is stronger than steel was announced today by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Its field of usefulness is for another step in confining the powers of raging heat and making them run machines, the announcement says. The new alloy can be used in the moving parts of internal combustion engines and in other extremely hot places. Its strength when red hot—that is, at about 1100 degrees Fahrenheit—is 60,000 pounds per square inch for pressure. It is made of cobalt, nickel and ferrotitanium. The name is a combination of cobalt and nickel.

Smoot to Give Cold Facts in Tariff Battle

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Although his voice may become heated in the swirls of debate, the man who will carry the burden of administration support for the tariff bill in the senate said today that he intends to talk only "cold figures and facts" to avoid "arguments for political purposes." The tall and bespectacled chairman of the finance committee—Smoot of Utah—revealed his plans as he sat engaged beside a desk piled high with documents containing what he termed the "evidence" in support of tariff increases endorsed by the republicans of his committee.

Eckener Sails to Rejoin His Giant Galleon of Skies

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—A modern Magellan sailed today to rejoin his giant galleon of the skies. He is Dr. Hugo Eckener, skipper of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, returning to Germany on the liner New York acclaimed as the pilot of the fastest voyage in history. His ship, that shortened by months the Jules Verne dream of an 80-day aerial world cruise, is back at its base in Friedrichshafen, there, comparatively speaking, to be "shelved" in favor of greater sky laurels to come.

Briton Speeds to Victory in Seaplane Race

RYDE, ISLE OF WIGHT, Sept. 7 (AP)—A flying bridegroom in a silver comet of a seaplane hurtled to victory for Great Britain in the race for the Schneider trophy today, establishing a new average speed for the 218 mile course of 328.63 miles an hour, which is just a bare fraction under five and one half miles a minute. This is an improvement of 49 miles an hour over the speed record by which Great Britain won the last Schneider trophy race at the Lido, Venice, two years ago. The victorious British pilot was Flying Officer H. R. D. Waghorn, royal air service pilot and a bridegroom of two months. He is the only married man among the six daring British and Italian high speed pilots who today risked their necks for the sake of science and speed supremacy in the seven circuits of the course marked out over the Solent, between England and the Isle of Wight.

Roosevelt Prefers to Discuss Panda Instead of Politics

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt here today preferred to talk Panda to politics. Back from the jungles and deserts of little known interior China, the colonel said that he was out of touch with affairs of state and could not tell when he would assume his duties as governor of Porto Rico but he spoke volubly of the Panda, prize of the Kelley-Roosevelt expedition of the field museum to eastern Asia. The expedition was financed by William V. Kelley, prominent Chicago business man, and resulted in the addition of some forty specimens of rare animals to the museum collection. The Panda is a black and white bear about the size of the American black bear. It was shot by Col. Roosevelt and his brother Kermit, joint leaders of the expedition.

Wreckage of Missing Liner Found on Mountain; Crew of Three, Five Passengers Die

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7 (AP)—Racing from a storm, the monoplane City of San Francisco crashed into the side of a 10,000 foot mountain and burned last Tuesday in the most desolate section of central New Mexico, with death to its human cargo of one woman and seven men, advices to the Transcontinental Air Transport company here today indicated. The wreckage of the big tri-motor all-metal air liner, a twisted mass of metal, was discovered on the south slope of Mt. Taylor at 11:30 a.m. today by a Western Air Express eastbound passenger plane. Express Pilot Finds Plane. Lieut. George K. Rice, pilot of the Western Air Express transport, which had four passengers and was bound from Los Angeles to Albuquerque, made the discovery. He first noticed what appeared to be a bit of snow on the side of the 10,000 foot mountain. He swerved his big Fokker monoplane around and zoomed down to within a thousand feet. There the appalling sight of twisted, burned metal, and a circle of charred trees surrounding it was revealed to Lieutenant Rice, his copilot, and the four passengers. Rice dived to the ground, and the wreckage was seen. The wreckage of the big tri-motor all-metal air liner, a twisted mass of metal, was discovered on the south slope of Mt. Taylor at 11:30 a.m. today by a Western Air Express eastbound passenger plane.

Victim of Playground Accident Hangs On

A new kind of endurance trial. Not for fame or honor, but a child's fight against time with the child's life in the balance, is being waged at the Mercy hospital. Little Geraldine Smith, 9 years old, victim of an accident Tuesday morning when an apparatus, designed for play, broke and drove a steel handle into her temple and brain. Abandoned hope of recovery is the competitor in this strange endurance contest. Unconscious since Tuesday afternoon, just a small still form with only the movement of clock-like breathing, the girl wages her fight for life at the hospital. At midnight last night it had been 13 hours since she had been carried to the hospital and it was but shortly after that physicians gave up hope for her recovery. But life persisted in the little girl and with only nourishment from liquid foods, forced between unconscious lips at intervals, she continues to live. "Constant," she is the only report of her condition given out since she was removed to the hospital four days ago. Hospital authorities say she has shown no sign of improved condition and in the same breath report no change for the worst. Day after day the fight continues in the narrow hospital bed, while family members sit hopefully by, now the question foremost on the lips of those connected with the case is "How long can it last?"

Hoover Starts Investigating Ship Builders

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Thorough inquiry into any activities of American shipbuilding corporations against international naval disarmament agreements was assured today as the department of justice got to work on orders from President Hoover and the senate naval committee was called for a meeting Tuesday to consider separate investigation. William B. Shearer, naval expert, who has sued three American shipbuilding corporations for more than $300,000 which he alleged is due him for services in their behalf in connection with the unsuccessful Geneva naval conference in 1927, is the immediate object of the department of justice and senate moves. Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee, who called upon the senate to inquire into Shearer's activities earlier in the week, today suggested to Chairman Hat of the senate naval committee, that Shearer and the directors of three corporations which he has sued be called before the committee. Meanwhile, there is considerable speculation as to what can be done about the matter if Shearer's court charges are upheld. There is some doubt whether Shearer violated any law if he did represent the shipbuilding companies at a naval disarmament parley. "I am interested to know," said Senator Borah, "if powerful corporations are actually employing men to influence conferences having to do with disarmament and world peace. If this can be brought to light certainly it will sterilize their activities hereafter. That much, at least, can be accomplished." Shearer sued the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, the American Brown-Boveri Electric corporation, and the Newport Shipbuilding and Drydock company. These corporations are now engaged in building cruisers for the American navy.

Smoot Has Facts

Whatever the outcome, the tax resolution is expected to be debated at length and the promised clash over the administrative provisions which the minority has announced will set up as its initial target probably will be delayed for several days. Breach of Faith. Smoot is expected to take the position, that to make available to all senators for use on the floor in public debate, income tax data regarded as secret would be a breach of faith by the government to the tax payers. A second aim of the democrats will be repeal of the principal provisions granting the president power to change tariff rates after investigating by the tariff commission, and restoration of this power to congress. Indications are that these matters will be ironed out before an attempt is made to recommit the bill with instructions to confine it to a revision solely in the interests of agriculture.

Another Mark Falls

Another British aviator, Flying Officer B. L. R. Atcherley, on a machine identical to Waghorn's, captured another world's speed record for Great Britain during the race when he surpassed the fastest time ever flown by man anywhere, shooting through the air on two of his laps with a mark of 332.49 miles an hour. Atcherley had the misfortune to be disqualified for the total distance for failing to pass outside a pylon marking one of the course points, but an official announcement made it plain that his world's speed record would stand because he attained it on two different laps. Lone Italian Finishes. The Italian ace, Dal Molin, was the only Italian to finish the course, but his time was fast enough to give him second place ahead of Flight Lieutenant D. D. Argy Greig. Dal Molin averaged 284.2 miles an hour. Greig averaged 282.21 miles. Dal Molin flew the same machine in which Major Mario de Bernardi set up a straightway record of 318.43 miles an hour last year. An impressive array of British and Italian battleships and yachts provided a colorful background for the flyers' exploits. The presence of the British prime minister and the Prince of Wales among the million spectators added to the brilliance of the spectacle.

80 Drown in Ship Tragedy

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 7 (AP)—At least 80 lives were lost today, including those of many children going to their homes to spend Sunday, when the Finnish steamer Kuru sank in a heavy storm. There were 200 passengers on board. Many were in the cabins when the disaster suddenly occurred and it was believed that the heavy death toll resulted from the inability of these to get on deck when the fore part of the vessel suddenly dipped into the sea. The rescue of many was effected by the steamer Jarganne while other passengers were washed ashore alive with lifebelts supporting them. Owing to the extreme confusion in the port and the heavy weather outside which prevented many boats from going to the rescue, it was impossible late tonight to ascertain the exact number saved. The Kuru had sailed from Tampere this afternoon and had only just cleared the harbor when the bow dipped into a huge wave and the steamer failed to right itself. Some passengers succeeded in getting to a lifeboat but heavy seas upsetting it. Some of this party were able to cling to the overturned craft until they were rescued. The steamer turned over completely before sinking.

Receiver Gets End of Career

DES MOINES, Sept. 7 (AP)—Bested by administration difficulties, student riots and court injunctions, Des Moines university came to an end of its career as a Baptist "fundamentalist" school today when it was placed in the hands of a receiver. The school, acquired in June, 1927 by the Baptist Bible union, reverted to the Boatmen's National bank of St. Louis by foreclosure of a mortgage of $203,000, and thence was given into receivership by John Blanchard, Des Moines attorney, by Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey. The university and the Des Moines National bank, as holders of annuity and endowment funds, were given one year to redeem the property, which after that time would be offered for sale. Foreclosure and receivership came six days after Miss Edith Rebnan, secretary of the board of trustees, announced abandonment of the school by the bible union through action of the trustees, headed by Dr. T. T. Shields. The latter and Miss Rebnan were the center of an attack when students staged a rock and egg throwing demonstration last May. The trustees at that time closed the school but it was reopened by court order so that graduates could receive their degrees. Famous Song Writer Dies After Illness. BATH, England, Sept. 7 (AP)—Frederic Edward Weatherly, 81 years old, whose songs are sung the world over, died here today after a short illness. His success included "Nancy Lee," "Daddy and Joan," "Beauty's Eyes," "Bid Me Goodbye," "London Bridge," "Danny Boy," "Rose of Picardy," "The Holy City," and "Ships of My Dreams."

Cold Wave in West Holds On

DENVER, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Rocky mountain region still remained in a storm area tonight that promised continued cold weather, with more snow predicted by the weather bureau for mountain districts and freezing temperatures for Wyoming, Montana and the extreme north central part of Colorado. Temperatures as low as 24 degrees above zero were reported in the storm area. This minimum was recorded at Havre, Montana and at Yellowstone. At Denver the mercury reached 34 degrees. The first snow of the year, and the earliest ever recorded here, fell last night. It was light, melting as it fell. Mountain passes along the range from Denver south were reported covered with snow today and with traffic up the highway of Pike's Peak suspended. The cog road on Pike's Peak managed to keep open by the use of snow plows.

Arabs, Jews Make Protest

JERUSALEM, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Palestine government today received a barrage of protests and criticisms from both Arabs and Jews for the manner in which it had suppressed the rioting between them although the country as a whole appeared peaceful. An Arab peasant from Beit Haninah was seriously injured today, allegedly from Jews from Bir Jacob near Jerusalem. It was charged that other similar incidents had occurred during the week and Moslem feelings were much aroused. The Grand Mufti, leader of the Moslems, said in an interview that he was experiencing great difficulty in restraining the Arabs from acts of reprisals. Meanwhile the general council of the Jewish community in Palestine and other Jewish bodies submitted a joint memorandum to the high commissioner criticizing the government and demanding alleviation of the situation in Palestine. It was charged that the government did not take proper precautions to prevent the outbreaks and did not use proper methods to stem the riot. Among other things, appointment of a commission was demanded to study ways of establishing security of life and property in general, and Jewish settlements particularly throughout Palestine.

Hunt Banker in Dominion

Private detectives hired by the American Bankers' association turned towards Canada today in their search for Charles Delos Waggoner, missing president of the bank of Telluride, Col., who obtained $500,000 to his bank's credit from six large New York financial institutions through fraudulent telegraphic transfer orders, drawn on as many Denver banks. Their search has been centered in western Kansas and Nebraska, but late clues picked up indicated that Waggoner has gone to Canada. While search was still going on for him in the west, United States attorney here, Charles H. Tuttle announced that the federal grand jury would on Monday, investigate the manipulation by which Waggoner obtained the $500,000 credit. Waggoner used messages in banker's code to obtain the credit. Authorities disclosed that although he actually did not obtain any money in the transactions, it will take much litigation, probably stretching over a two year period, to get the tangle straightened out.

Draft Men to Aid in Fighting Forest Fires in Minnesota

ST. PAUL, Sept. 7 (AP)—Forest fires, scattered over an area of 40,000 to 60,000 acres in Lake of the Woods county, seriously menacing vast timber tracts, brought an order today from Grover M. Conzet, state forester, to his assistants, to impress labor into the ranks of the fire fighters where necessary. Mr. Conzet said the forestry department had been badly handicapped in its efforts to cope with the situation by refusal of many settlers in the threatened district to aid in fighting the fires. From 30 to 50 men have already been drafted, he said, and others will be impressed daily. The men are paid 25 cents an hour for their work.

Two Persons Die in Crash

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Two persons were killed and seven injured late today as a seaplane made a crash landing on Coney Island beach amid thousands of bathers seeking relief from the heat. The dead are Mildred Jakowisky, 8 years old, and Meyer Kessler, 16 years old, both of Brooklyn. The injured included the pilot of the plane, William Alexander, who suffered head lacerations. Others hurt were Charles Herman, a life guard; three women, a child and another man. Their injuries were not considered serious. Alexander, who was piloting the ship for the Coastal Airways corporation, said he had lost his way in a heavy fog and exhausted his gasoline. Circling downward he saw the beach crowd and tried to select a place where the crowd was thinnest. The crowd scattered, but eight persons were struck down by the wings of the plane.

Edison Discounts Theory Man Ready for Scrap Heap at 36

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 7 (AP)—Eighty-two years old and rapidly recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia, Thomas A. Edison is quoted as discounting a theory attributed to English authors that a man is ready for the scrap heap at the age of 36. The quotation is in an article in the current issue of the Edison plant magazine, written by W. H. Meadowcroft, chief aide and secretary of Mr. Edison. "The man who has reached the age of 36 is just about ready to discard the illusions built upon false theories, for which wrong instructions and usual ignorance previously have made him an easy mark," Edison declared. "At 36 he is just beginning to get down to business. If he is really worth while he has passed through a period of hard knocks by that time. The youthful man never leads the easy sheltered, knockless, unshocked life. At 36 he ought to be prepared to meet with realities and after that period in his life until he is 60, he should be able to handle them with steadily increasing efficiency." The inventor assumes that the man he is speaking of has not undetermined his health by a life of in temperance. "Subsequently, if he has not injured his body by unhealthy living, he may very rightly continue to be increasingly efficient up to his eightieth birthday, and in exceptional cases until 90."

British, Irish Asked to Join United Europe

GENEVA, Sept. 7 (AP)—The French delegation announced tonight that both England and the Irish Free State had been invited to a meeting on Monday arranged by Premier Aristide Briand to discuss his project for a European economic confederation. Reports had been current earlier in the day that only continental countries would be asked to attend. The British delegation said that Britain would accept and would be represented, probably by President Graham of the board of trade. It was understood that M. Briand was to refrain in every way from seeming to impose any plan of unity upon Europe. His present idea is to ask for an exchange of views and perhaps for appointment of a committee to study the whole question. This committee would report to the next assembly of the league of nations if not before. Participation by England in the preliminary discussions was deemed of importance to continental Europe, England, like the United States, was believed by many delegates to be desirous of avoiding political entanglements on the continent and was therefore expected to exercise the greatest circumspection toward the proposed confederation.

How to Spend Sunday

EVERYONE is entitled to a day of rest, one in seven. In this country that day is conceded to be Sunday, since it is the day when business activities in general cease, and so far as it is possible people are released from their regular routine. It is on this day that time for stimulative thinking and reflection upon the spiritual can well be devoted.

During the week energy is expended in providing for the physical needs of the body. This takes much of both muscle and brain. However, the bow which is never unstrung and the human body which is never relaxed, in time lose their power for resistance and energy to spring into usefulness. Six days spent in the quest of material things make a day for spiritual uplift the more necessary.

Observation teaches us that "One man's meat," as the old proverb puts it, "is another man's poison." Surely Sunday is well spent when besides church attendance it is devoted to the quest for beauty such as is included in listening to beautiful music, looking at pieces of sculpture or paintings; discussing current topics with mutual friends, reading great literature, or for those who like to walk or drive, going to quiet spots where they can have repose, sunshine, fresh air, and the beauty and solace of natural scenery. Where the sunset, the clouds, the birds, induce reflection upon the spiritual things.

The motive is the life of the body. If the life turns dark it is because of the motive. Spiritual reflection enriches the freedom and control of the will, so that we may become more like the creator.

Automatic Farms by 1979

FIFTY years from now—
Manless plows, cultivators and harvesters, operating automatically, will prepare the seed-bed, plant and harvest the crops. Fields will be made to produce twice as much as they do today by entirely new methods of soil cultivation and weed extermination.

These are no visionary's dreams but the calculated predictions of a widely known agricultural engineer, C. R. F. Smith of Iowa State college, writing in the current issue of The Farm Journal.

"The agricultural progress of the last 50 years will be little when compared with the revolution that will take place in the next 50 years," asserts Mr. Smith.

Already the driverless plow is in operation in Iowa and Nebraska, he shows. Guided once around a field, it then shifts automatically from furrow to furrow, holding its own course so long as there is ground left to plow. It is the forerunner, Mr. Smith sanely believes, of a family of farm machines that will be directed automatically by guide posts, and which will run 24 hours a day if necessary under the occasional supervision of a single man.

A feed grinder starts automatically at a certain time, is fed automatically and stops when the grain runs out. It is operated by electricity at night, when a cheap power rate should be available.

Under the present system of seedbed preparation it is often two or three years before all organic material has decomposed sufficiently to release all the plant food it contains," the engineer shows. But farming scientists are approaching a soil-tilling machine which will so pulverize soil, organic material and plant food as to make their full richness available the same year. Also progress has been made in destroying weeds by battering their roots till they die completely or by shooting electricity through the soil.

Given these two developments—a machine that will make all plant food available to the crop and another that will really kill weeds instead of merely checking their growth—it is easy to see how the soil's productivity can be doubled. Given automatic machinery and it is obvious that man power will be doubled.

Airplane Used as Ambulance

THE AIRPLANE has again proved its value as a swift agent of mercy. Last week Richard Longyear, 24-year-old

University of Minnesota engineering student, was stricken with a serious mastoid complication at Missoula, Mont., while enroute to his home in Altadena, Cal. It was deemed advisable that he be taken to a Los Angeles hospital immediately.

Lying on a stretcher, Longyear was placed aboard a private plane at 5 o'clock in the morning. At noon the "flying stretcher" arrived in Salt Lake City. There the stretcher bearing the suffering youth was loaded aboard a tri-motored 12-passenger liner which immediately took off for Los Angeles arriving there at 5:45 o'clock that evening.

Longyear was attended on the journey by Dr. Asa Willard of Missoula. The cabin of the giant plane resembled a hospital, with Longyear on the stretcher and the physician standing over him with stethoscope and blood pressure gauge.

MEN WHO FLY The Air Mail

Ray Meskimen joined the army air service during the war, hoping to fly, but instead he got a job as dispatch carrier on the ground.

The war was over before he got an assignment. But Meskimen wouldn't be kept down.

Meskimen joined O'Garra's flying circus at Chicago, soloed in July 1919, and went through complete training courses. Meskimen then did armstronging and exhibition work for three years.

He flew the Chicago-Minneapolis mail, and flew for newspapers and movies at night over unlighted courses.

With 4,000 hours in the air, Meskimen joined the pilot staff of Boeing Air Transport. Now he logs down on an illuminated airway, with lighted emergency landing fields every 30 miles, a flashing beacon every 10 miles, and a blinker every three miles. Meskimen hustles the air mail between Cheyenne and Salt Lake City. He has never had an accident.

WASHINGTON BYSTANDER

Army Bombers Demonstrate Effectiveness for Coast Defense; Great Formations

By KIRKE SIMPSON
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—Uncle Sam's army bombers did a bit of work in August that justifiably drew prompt appreciation from that stout old soldier, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff.

Forty-nine hours from the time the group of heavy-duty air fighters lifted into the sky from their home station at Langley field, Va., just a stone's throw from ancient Fortress Monroe on Chesapeake bay, they had executed a bombing mission at sea off San Diego, Cal.

This needed but a half hour after arrival at that port to refuel, load dummy bombs and sweep out over the Pacific to face a hypothetical enemy fleet.

The flight, according to Summerall's prompt congratulatory message to Maj. Hugh Kneer of the air corps, commanding, afforded "most illuminating data on possible operations of such groups in time of emergency."

It did more than that, the Bystander imagines, for it tended to confirm judgment of the army strategists who originally worked out the location of various air bases and the organization of the combat groups.

And as Kneer pointed out in his own report, it gave opportunity for tests of use of civil air field equipment and personnel to service military ships. He urged further cooperation with the civilian installations in peace time training.

A BRILLIANT GROUP
The Langley field bomber wing has long been a bright spot in air corps accomplishments. The Bystander recalls watching a year or so ago maneuvers there between the heavy ships, flying in light formation, and the fleet of single fighters brought on from their home port in the interior of the purpose.

The defighters lost themselves in the sunpath above the seemingly slow moving bombers, then came howling down in attack. From the ground below it seemed that the bombers must have had the best of it in a real row. They flew so close together that 20 or more of them made a target too small for the attackers to blanket with fire.

Riding one of the bombers in this tight formation was first. To see monster planes seemingly at arm's length over each side of your ship, all of them joggling up and down on the air currents as they swept along at nearly a 100-mile gait, was appalling until you got used to it and your trust in those blue young army pilots was revived.

SCHOOL FOR BRONCHO BUSTERS

Miss Branch Williams, shown on a horse and in portrait, likes riding so well that she conducts horsemanship classes at her ranch. One of the classes is shown.

DENTON, Tex., Sept. 7 (AP)—Branch Williams is teaching broncho busting at an age when most young women are thinking of "careers" or matrimony.

It is no secret "riding academy" that Miss Williams operates in a cow boy on the Williams ranch north of Denton. This golden-haired girl, herself a college graduate and an artist, has established a genuine cowboy school with no frills—but thrills aplenty.

Simply as a hobby—for her family is wealthy and can afford hobbies—Miss Williams puts "tenderfoot" riders through the paces. A day's classwork resembles a rodeo, and the may reveal why Miss Williams prefers broncho busting to the drawing room. She comes of a hard-riding line that boasts the name of John Chisholm, southwest cattle king of the seventies, who blazed the famed Chisholm trail. Branch took her unusual name from his wife.

Denton physicians, noting benefits to the health of Miss Williams' pupils, frequently advise patients to ride instead of taking bottled tonics. For that reason, among others, the cowgirl-teacher is convinced she can do far more good on her father's ranch than in any less masculine pursuit.

Late Demand Causes Wheat to Take Rise

Corn Prices Register Weak Gains After Light Frost

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—A ninth inning rally enlivened the wheat pit today after a drab start. The tone for the most part had been heavy, but improved demand from northwestern millers for December wheat at the easier levels inspired a late upturn in which short covering played a part.

Pressure of cheaper Argentine wheat at Liverpool, with resultant sluggish prices, induced scattered commission house sales at Chicago and values averaged lower but a narrow range through much of the board of trade session. Corn was weak throughout, the overnight frost along the Canadian border having wrought no apparent damage to corn.

Wheat closed firm at prices unchanged to 1/2 higher than Friday, corn was easy, 1/2 to 1/4 lower, and oats were firm throughout, finishing at net gains of 1/2 to 1/4. Provisions were unchanged to 1/2 down.

The Buenos Aires market closed lower, but crop news from Argentina had the same refrain: no rain, and none in sight—but with a possibility of good crops, given a general rain within a fortnight. The Australian dry spell also remained untroubled. Liverpool was lower due to Argentine offerings and some cheap sales from the Danube.

Iowa and Nebraska for the most part escaped last night's freeze and the regions affected are unimportant corn growers. With trading quiet and rains in order corn values were easier. Oats gained strength from bullish views of the feed situation and of the Canadian yield. Provisions declined a little on scattered liquidation.

Bond Prices Show Slight Upturn in Rather Dull Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Prices strengthened a shade in today's bond market, which was the dullest of the summer. Sales approximated only $200,000 during the two hours of trading.

Convertibles ran up some good gains in the first hour, but the subsequent weakening of stock prices erased completely some of the advances and pared others. International Telephone 4 1/2 rose 5/8 points soon after the opening, and closed for a net gain of 2 points. American Telephone 4 1/2 marked up about 2 points during the general advance, finished with a net loss of 1. Aetchnon 4 1/2 improved 1/2.

A few high grade bonds of standard types were bought in small blocks at better prices. Among them were Chesapeake & Ohio general 4's, Baltimore & Ohio 5's, Columbia Gas & Electric 5's, and Lehigh Valley general 4's.

United States government securities and foreign obligations were dull. The foreign list worked irregularly higher.

Stocks Close Hectic Week on Up Grade

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—The stock market ended the most turbulent week since early August today with speculative enthusiasm still at a high pitch. Week-end profit taking came in some volume but net gains more than offset a long list of net losses at the close. The day's turnover fell just short of 2,600,000 shares, the largest Saturday's business since last March.

Seminmons was a high flyer, selling up 17 points to 175. Standard Gas and Electric and American Water Works again rose several points to a new high. Philadelphia Co. jumped 10 points to a new top. American Power and Light and American Foreign Power did likewise, but reacted before the close.

Case Threshing soared 32 points to a new high at 332. Du Pont and Worthington Pump reached record levels. In the rails, Erie and Lackawanna were in strong demand. Food shares and copper were firm, and National Cash Register was given a boost of about 10 points.

Radio fell back 31 points in realizing. General Motors was again heavily traded, but failed to make headway. Loose Wiles Disc fell back 4. General Electric, Otis Elevator and U. S. Steel lost about 3 to 5 points.

Foreign exchanges were fairly steady, but Sterling Cables were again under pressure, moving a shade lower at $4.84-23-32.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Manitoba Free press said that in spite of the many draw-backs of the past season, the three prairie provinces have produced very close to 500,000,000 bushels of the five leading cereal crops. This amount is made up of 266,077,693 bushels of wheat, 141,354,455 of oats, 70,445,368 of barley, 9,648,090 of rye, and 2,932,298 of flax.

Bartlett-Frazier company have a Buenos Aires cable dated yesterday stating that the weather continues clear, with wheat suffering seriously in Colorado, and Santa Fe wheat also going back considerably. Buenos Aires wheat is fair to good but needs rain. Wheat in South Pampa is good but in Northern Pampa it is only fair and wants rain urgently.

The Illinois crop reports said excessive heat prevailed in the greater part of its Iowa territory the past week. Hot south winds have been unfavorable to corn. Good rains fell in a few places, of considerable benefit to the crop, which is denting rapidly. A good deal of early planting has been done. Firing is pronounced on light ground and ridges. Continuation of the long drought will doubtless reduce the yield. In Illinois the weather continued hot and dry but it is not considered corn has been badly damaged. Good soaking rain would be beneficial.

TILLIE THE TOILER—Patience Will Be His Only Reward

BLUE BLOOD AND RED

By Robert Terry Shannon

What has gone before: Eddie Regan, once a member of a New York gang, has escaped and gone to Virginia, where he befriends Penfield Paradine, who dies and leaves all his possessions to Eddie. Eddie has been in love with Bernice Yeress, "gang girl," but all thought of her is put out of his heart when he meets and falls in love with Marian Thordike. Eddie declares his love for Marian, but she discourages him and tells him she expects to marry Tom Freeman. Freeman dislikes Eddie and one afternoon when Eddie is calling on Marian, Freeman comes in and insults Eddie. Marian tells Eddie it is hopeless for him to love her, and Eddie, discouraged, decides to go to Richmond. While he is there he meets Mike Arno, a former member of the gang. Arno tells him that Bernice is still in love with him (Tillie) and Eddie's thoughts once more swing to her.

CHAPTER XXVII

This seeing Mike Arno again aroused a faint melancholy in Eddie. They talked exclusively of New York—the new shows on Broadway, the Polo Grounds, the Yankees at the Stadium, the fights at the Garden and Fuzazy's outdoor shows that were giving Tex Rickard some thing to worry about. Once, Eddie closed his eyes and he could imagine himself riding up Broadway just before the theater hour, the whole street gloriously ablaze. It was home.

"You can say what you like, but there's no place on earth like New York for guys like us," Arno said, sentimental for the moment because he was far from Manhattan. "No place like New York—never was and never will be."

Mike Arno—he was a good guy, and square as a die, according to his own standards. In the half shadows of the underworld men have reputations for good and evil, just as they have in other kinds of society. A guy might be known as a square shooter, on the up and up, or he might be a rat.

According to his code, Mike Arno would be the last man on earth to cross a friend. To a pal in distress he might not give his last dollar, but it was a cinch he'd split it. The Big Guy hadn't been that type at all. Arno had no enemies, barring, of course, the cops and some of the suckers he had deprived of their candy. It was doubtful if Arno himself felt at all dishonest about working the old confidence racket. A sucker was a sucker and born to be trimmed. If some wise bird didn't take him, another one would. For what did the liles bloom in the field, except to be plucked?

Yes, Eddie had—always would have—a kindly feeling toward Mike Arno and square guys like him. If they weren't exactly honest in the broadest sense of the word it was because they just didn't understand the real difference between right and wrong. Their border lines were hazy. At that, fellows like Mike Arno weren't half as bad as some of the big fellows in history. Eddie remembered a lot of the stuff he had read in the "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

And in the midst of all this the face of Marian Thordike came up before him and thoughts of her

CHAPTER XXVIII

It was useless to expect Mike Arno to comprehend the angle of real love, and Eddie gave up trying to explain. Six months ago he would have agreed with every word Arno said—but it was all different now. He had seen a vision that guys like Arno simply could not get.

"Let's not talk about it any more, Mike."

"All right, Eddie. Some day you'll realize that I had the right dope. You've got a real girl waiting for you in New York—Bernice's been through the mill and, for a guy like you, she's perfect. I'd grab her off myself but there's no chance in the world. If you hook up with me we could make all kinds of jack—but that's over too, I guess."

"That stuff," Eddie said with a tone of finality, "is out with me forever. But that don't mean I ain't passing up my old friends, Mike. I'd like to hear from you sometimes—drop me a letter."

Before he parted he gave Mike Arno his address; but this was more politeness than anything else. Never again, he realized, more poignantly than ever, would his path go along with Mike's, or anybody like him. They parted after dinner and Eddie spent the night in the hotel. For the first time in weeks he did not sleep easily; his ears had become unused to the night noises of the city and he felt that he wasn't going to be gyped when his back was turned. Eddie had something on the hook now—and there's plenty of sugar in it for two if I can pull it off O. K. I could use you fine."

"It can't be done."

"Why not?"

"It just can't be done, Mike. That stuff doesn't interest me, I've got different ideas—that's all."

Arno's eyes narrowed shrewdly. "Sounds like a girl."

Eddie was silent.

"Good girl?"

"Good as gold, Mike."

"You mean you want to marry this dame and live down here in some God-forsaken spot?"

"Something like that, Mike."

Arno shook his head sadly. "It's a mistake, Eddie. Maybe it's all right for a guy born out in the cowpods to waste his life getting sunburned, but you belong to the asphalt, Kid. You made the switch too late in life."

"What are you going to do when night comes? You'll sit out there some place listening to the whippoorwills—you'll be sitting on the front porch in your shirt sleeves and wishing to God you was back where you could see a good show and mix around with some of the boys and girls that know what a cocktail was made for. You let one of these little corn-fed dames get her hook in you and you're gone, Kid. God! You couldn't sock me with that kind of life for a million dollars."

Eddie smiled at him. Vaguely Mike Arno's words started a little tremor of homesickness in him to see New York, but that kind of stuff was all apoplexy—bunk.

"You're all wet, Mike. It's not that bad."

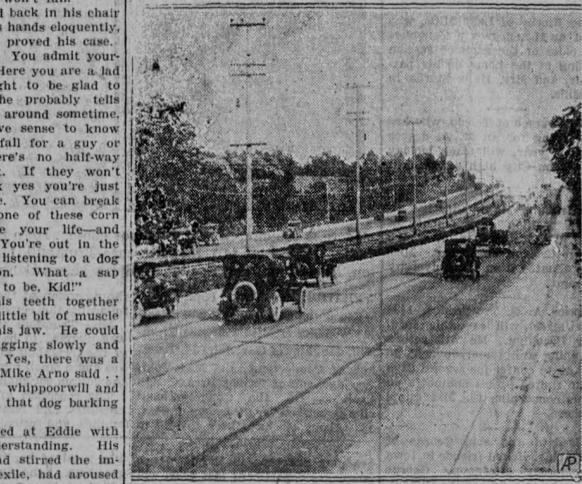

"You think it ain't because you're in love. Love has made a sucker out of better men than you are, kid. On the level, you're beginning to look like a hick already."

"Feh—and look at you," Eddie retorted. "Wasn't you telling me that you didn't have any peace of mind on earth in your racket?"

"I was exaggerating," Mike came back. "At that I bet I've got more peace of mind right now than you have. What is this country-jane saying about you—has she given you the O. K.?"

The fleeting expression of unhappiness that crossed Eddie's face

CHICAGO GRAINS

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Manitoba Free press said that in spite of the many draw-backs of the past season, the three prairie provinces have produced very close to 500,000,000 bushels of the five leading cereal crops. This amount is made up of 266,077,693 bushels of wheat, 141,354,455 of oats, 70,445,368 of barley, 9,648,090 of rye, and 2,932,298 of flax.

Bartlett-Frazier company have a Buenos Aires cable dated yesterday stating that the weather continues clear, with wheat suffering seriously in Colorado, and Santa Fe wheat also going back considerably. Buenos Aires wheat is fair to good but needs rain. Wheat in South Pampa is good but in Northern Pampa it is only fair and wants rain urgently.

The Illinois crop reports said excessive heat prevailed in the greater part of its Iowa territory the past week. Hot south winds have been unfavorable to corn. Good rains fell in a few places, of considerable benefit to the crop, which is denting rapidly. A good deal of early planting has been done. Firing is pronounced on light ground and ridges. Continuation of the long drought will doubtless reduce the yield. In Illinois the weather continued hot and dry but it is not considered corn has been badly damaged. Good soaking rain would be beneficial.

Johnston Wears Bobby's Crown by Defeating Willing Four Up

Rallies After Poor Start to Capture Title

Brand of Golf Below Championship Form of Bobby Jones

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 7 (AP)—The amateur golfing capital of the United States shifted today from Atlanta to St. Paul when Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, fighting son of the great Midwest, beat the battling dentist of the Pacific northwest, Dr. Oscar F. Willing, four up and three to play, in the final match of the first tournament ever held this side of the Rockies.

Johnston, competing in the title round for the first time in his career, succeeded to the championship relinquished by Bobby Jones when the favorite golfer son of Dixie was unceremoniously eliminated in the first round by Johnny Goodman of Omaha.

Gets Bad Start

The 33-year-old St. Paul investment broker, whose boyish mannerisms caught the fancy of the crowd, rallied after a bad start to overhaul and beat the veteran Dr. Willing in a match that was marred by erratic play and by an attitude of distinct hostility toward the loser on the part of a good share of the gallery.

Except for the gallery fighting spirit manifested by both contestants right up to the finishing stroke on the thirty-third green, where Johnston got the half that clinched the issue, the brand of golf was not up to championship standard as it has come to be exemplified by ex-Emperor Jones; but the attitude of the gallery toward the contest was as remarkable as anything ever witnessed in thirty-three years of competition for the amateur crown.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Willing carried the banner of the Pacific coast in the final round for the first time in the first tournament ever held in the far west, the gallery of perhaps 5,000 spectators manifested strong support of Johnston throughout and gave him a tremendous ovation at the finish.

The contrast between the bareheaded Jimmy and the portly, somewhat unkempt looking dentist may have had some influence. Johnston, too, was the younger, for Willing is a campaigner of 39 and Jimmy was the underdog for the first half of the match. Furthermore, the doctor's known disinclination to concede short putts has found disfavor among the spectators, a number of times during the tournament and that, too, appeared a factor in the unusual partnership of the contesting pair.

Traps Jinx for Willing

Whatever it was, the match witnessed a startling outburst of cheers at the eighth hole, when Willing missed a shot in a trap and Johnston won his first hole after apparently having tossed it away by putting his second shot over the cliff of the coastline. Again at the sixteenth hole, when St. Paul "Jimmy" really began his uphill fight to victory, scattering cheers echoed as Willing's second shot trickled over the edge of the green into a trap, from which it took the doctor two to get out.

Again at the eighteenth, the partisan spirits in the gallery groaned as Willing's approach shot, apparently headed for a trap, just cleared the hazard and made the green. It was on this hole that Johnston made the most magnificent recovery shot of the entire match. He had just cut Willing's lead from three to one hole by taking the sixteenth and seventeenth in succession but it looked dubious when Jimmy pulled his lasso over the bank and down to the edge of the ocean. The surf lapped around his ankles as he took his stance but he doubted the ball to within six yards of the green, just short of a trap from where he chipped dead to the pin for the par five; that gave him a half.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7 (AP)—Errors by the Brooklyn infield gave the Pirates a 6 to 2 victory here today. Pittsburgh got two runs in the first inning on errors by Bancroft and Moore and three more in the seventh added by Bissonette's error.

Ray Keener lightened up after the third inning and permitted only four hits thereafter. Lloyd Water had a great day with three hits, three runs and two stolen bases.

The score was 4 to 1, the Cardinals' stable run coming in the ninth inning. Knutson pitched for the Phillies, held the Cardinals to eight scattered hits. The only other break in the seeded ranks came when German Uppmann of Cuba's Davis cup team, was spilled by Jack Mooney, Atlanta, Ga., 6-4, 8-6, 6-3.

Among the day's other surprises was the uphill struggle Johnny Doeg, the giant Californian southpaw was forced to wage to defeat Jerry Lang, one time Columbia ace, at 5-7, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1.

Coggeshall Takes It Easy

Iowa Coaches Survey 1929 Grid Season

Ingwersen Faces Huge Task With Heavy Schedule

By DON MCGUIRE
Associated Press Staff Writer

With King, Football rising to his throne and heavy schedules looming threateningly just around the corner, Iowa coaches are thinking serious thoughts and moaning pessimistically at the thought of the three months ahead.

And the high priests of Iowa's grid are Burt Ingwersen who last fall saw a well organized grid machine shattered in the last two games and now sadly views the wreckage with several valuable parts missing.

Mayes McLain, the pile driving line buster and bone crushing inference runner, is gone, the victim of a Big Ten ineligibility ruling. Schleusner and Jessen, a pair of hefty tackles are likewise missing.

But Ingwersen, still youthful despite five years of greying experience as a Big Ten mentor, manfully starts his task with the announcement that football practice will start Sept. 15 and two practices will be held daily until Sept. 23.

The Hawkeyes open against Carroll college Sept. 28 and two weeks later start a run of conference engagements with Ohio State, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Purdue and Michigan.

Captain Bill Glassgow, Mike Farrah and Oran "Speedy" Pape form the backfield nucleus. Westra and Roberts, veteran guards, and a group of reserves and untried freshmen are the line possibilities.

Coach Noel Workman plays the accompaniment for Ingwersen's moans. His Iowa State college squad possesses 18 lettermen but a straight schedule of eight tough games faces him. Missouri, Marquette, Drake and Nebraska are probably the hardest assignments.

Capt. Ed Schlenker, guard, leads the group of returning veterans. Nine of the lettermen are linemen and the others backs. The loss of Harry Lindholm, last year's captain, is probably the most serious.

One hymn of optimism rises from the host of wallers as Coach Ossie Solem, sanguine in the face of a difficult schedule, calls his Drake Bulldogs to practice. His team faces Notre Dame, Missouri, Creighton, Ames and Temple university of Philadelphia.

A squad of veterans is the Bulldogs' hope. Dick Nesbit, hard hitting fullback and a fine punter, Capt. Jack Barnes and Quarterback Lynn King are returning regulars. They will be aided by four backfield lettermen. Ten other lettermen have line experience.

Ginnell fans look hopefully to Coach Lester Watt, but he is far from jubilant over his team's prospects. He has a group of lettermen returning, headed by Captain Harold Rose, but his reserve power is untried.

Coach Moray Eby and his Kookaburras at Cedar Rapids start work with three linemen and one back from the team that lost only to Illinois last year. They face Minnesota in the second game of the season. Hunter, center, and DeWitt, guard, are the strongpoints in the line. Ed Barrows, twin brother of the former star, Dick, is the nucleus of the backfield.

A few miles away, Coach Dick Barker and his Cornell squad are devising means to down their old Cedar Rapids rivals. Barker is such in the same fix as Eby, with seven regulars missing. Captain Kirby Cook, all conference halfback, will be the central figure in the Cornell machine.

Iowa State Teachers college appears in fairly good shape with five backs and five linemen and all letter winners, returning. Captain David McCuskey leads the backfield threats. Gay Orr, 1928 captain, is one of the linemen. In addition Coach Paul F. Bender may call on some promising freshmen, members of the team which defeated the Coe yearlings last year.

UNCLE SAM LOOKS AHEAD

With the veteran Bill Tilden, while still the ranking American player, undoubtedly on the down grade, tennis enthusiasts of this country are focusing their attention on three or four youngsters who may some day regain for America world supremacy in tennis.

Henri Cochet, the fiery little Frenchman, seems at this writing to be still firmly established as world's singles champion. And probably will hold this honor for some time to come. But, and it's a great big "but," he is finding that his job of fighting off Uncle Sam's determined youngsters is getting tougher with each year. In the recent Davis Cup competition in Paris, Cochet had his own troubles quashing the inspired, youthful George M. Lott, of Chicago, who seems to be well on his way to the top of the tennis heap.

Lott's sensational fight against Cochet, when he carried the latter through four heart-breaking sets, proved that Uncle Sam will have to build around this flashy Chicago youngster when making a bid for the 1930 Davis Cup. Despite Lott's two defeats in France, by Borotra and Cochet, he looks like America's best bet to win back world tennis supremacy.

And in addition to Lott, Uncle Sam has other promising young players who are bound to arrive shortly. Fritz Mercier, of Pennsylvania, who has won over Tilden to his credit, and Johnny Doeg, of California. These two young men are ranked seventh and eighth respectively in American tennis, and if they keep coming on, as they undoubtedly will, they, with Lott, as singles players, and Van Ryn and Allison in doubles, will help Uncle Sam to resume his rightful place in the tennis world.

Man Released From Cave-in Will Recover

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.) work passed. Another cry came that the entombed man was reached. In the next few minutes, with the crowd even more hushed, no progress seemed to be made. Then came a tug on a steel chain extending into the sloping shaft. In exactly a minute a cot, bearing Priest's inert, blanket wrapped body, appeared at the surface, followed by B. H. Johnson, Negro miner, acclaimed as his personal rescuer.

Another moment's delay while Dr. Rater hastily examined Priest, who gasped "water," and the man was in an ambulance. For an instant the crowd was immovable. Then, freed from anxiety the spectators pressed around the perspiring Johnson and the other members of the rescue crew.

Stone Endangered Life The slightest movement near the mouth of the well, workers said, would have caused the stone to topple on Priest's head.

Air was driven to the prisoner by a pump and tube through the well. Priest was able to converse at intervals with the rescue party. At 3 a.m. today digging was stopped and silence ordered while a shout went down the well, "are you all right?"

"Yes," very faintly. "Well soon be to you." "Hurry, hurry! My chest is hurting!"

With renewed vigor the work went on. Every sound of the digging and of hammering supports for the shaft in place was magnified greatly to Priest's ears, workers said. The vibrations must have been nearly as painful, they believed, as the cramped position in which he was standing.

Throgs At Scene Dr. Rater, who remained at the well all day and night Friday, made frequent visits to the adjacent house in which Mrs. Tony Genocchio, wife of the owner, lay seriously ill. The Genocchio yard today was piled high with dirt, its flower beds trampled and grass obliterated by the curious throgs and the stamp of work horses.

Whether the county would be responsible for the cost of the rescue work and of replacing the dirt was a problem worrying Ottumwans today. There was talk of a popular subscription to meet expenses.

Big Six

By the Associated Press By crashing out three hits in five attempts as the Phils defeated the Cardinals at St. Louis yesterday, Frank O'Doul lifted his average two points to .395 and gained the batting leadership of the Big Six and the National League. Babe Herman of Brooklyn got two out of five at Pittsburgh, but remained stationary at .393. Rogers Hornsby put on a stamper for four out of six in two games against Boston, gaining four points to .373 and ousting Jimmy Foxx from third place. Little Hawks Answer Call

Approximately 50 warriors are expected to answer Coach George Wells' initial call for grid material Monday afternoon. The moleskin garb, along with cleated shoes and jerseys was issued to the men yesterday by the new city high minister.

Among the large list of candidates will appear eight letter men from last year's squad. Only two weeks are available to whip the Little Hawk aggregation into trim before the first contest with West Liberty, here Sept. 21.

C. R. Cannon and Irvin Keeler will act as assistants to Coach Wells. Officials are endeavoring to change either the date or location of the Clinton game Oct. 19, because of the Iowa Homecoming with Illinois here on the same day. It is hoped that the date may be changed or that the game may be played here in the morning of Oct. 19.

Impresarios of 1929 World's Series Will Hold Meeting Tuesday

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—The impresarios of the 1929 world's series have been called to Chicago for a meeting next Tuesday to work out their plans and schedule for the October classic which will determine the world's baseball champions.

Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, issued the call today, inviting representatives of the seven clubs in the two major leagues which still have at least a mathematical chance of winning the pennants. These clubs are Chicago, Pittsburgh and New York of the National League and Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland and St. Louis in the American League.

While the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Athletics appear to have virtually clinched the flax in their leagues, Commissioner Landis decided to "risk nothing and in case the unexpected should happen" the winning clubs will know what its all about.

Such details as the prices for tickets, the starting times for the games, the dates and similar important matters will be worked out at the meeting. It is understood that the series will open at the home park of the National League pennant winner on Oct. 8, which apparently means that the opening game of the 1929 series will be played on Wrigley field at Chicago, home of the Cubs.
