PAPE ELIGIBLE FOR BADGER GAME

Terrifying Wave of Selling Sweeps Stock Exchange With Record Turnover of Shares

Extra Police Necessary to Handle Crowd

Gallery Closed to All Spectators Except by Permission

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Four hours and eight minutes after the close of the New York stock exchange today, the ticker recorded the final sale of the most frantic day of stock trading in history. This last quotation on the tape, appearing at 7:08 p.m., was a final clarification of the confusion that hung over the wild course of prices as the record total of 12,844,650 shares was traded.

Such a roar arose from the stock exchange floor that it could be heard for blocks up and down Broad and Wall streets. Speculators and sight seers poured in Wall street in such volume that extra traffic police were required to handle them, and the stock exchange gallery, to which spectators are admitted only upon recommendation of a partner in a member brokerage firm, was closed to the public.

Orders Four In

The torrent of selling orders poured into the market over the congested private wire systems of commission houses from all cities of the country, over telephone and telegraph wires, and came from abroad by cable, radio and transatlantic telephone. Foreign security markets and domestic and foreign commodity markets broke sharply in sympathy with the stock exchange, and intensified the terror of the speculators.

The turning point of the day came soon after the heads of the three largest banks of the country were observed, singly, hastening up the steps of the sober, grey stone house of Morgan, at the corner of Broad and Wall streets, during the early afternoon.

Shortly Thomas W. Lamont, senior Morgan partner, consented to see reporters. He stated that the conference, purely informal, had found that no financial house had been placed in critical circumstances. He added:

Situation Technical

"We consider the situation on the floor of the stock exchange this morning a technical one rather than a fundamental one, and that it will result in betterment."

After the close of the market, Col. J. W. Prentice, senior resident partner of Hornblower and Weeks, called a conference of partners of 30 leading commission houses, whose aggregate business accounts for about 75 per cent of the trading on the stock exchange.

Science Meet Hears Lecture by Morehouse

"Pure science is related to culture in that it stimulates a desire to find the eternal 'whyness' of things and creates a passion for knowledge," D. W. Morehouse, president of Drake university, said last night in an address delivered before the Iowa teachers of science who are attending the University of Iowa science conference here this week.

The proposition now is in a committee comprising Henry C. Shull of Sioux City and C. C. Sheakley of New Hampton.

Hope Dwindles for Safety of Montana Flyer

Clue to Fate of Pilot Dies as Reports Termed False

(By The Associated Press)

A clue to the fate of the midge-toned monoplane Golden Hind was born yesterday only to live a few hours and when it died the plane and its one-man crew seemed beyond even the faintest hope for survival in their attempted crossing of the Atlantic.

The Newfoundland government steamer Kyle relayed a report that an unidentified ship had found a bit of black and orange wreckage—a description fitting the craft of Urban F. Diteman, Jr.—and for a time the flyer's fate was tentatively decided. The Newfoundland government, however, denied the authenticity of the message, and there were left only the chance that Diteman had landed in Greenland or had been picked up by a ship without wireless.

Both these chances were slim. It had been reported that Diteman had ordered a supply of gasoline sent to Julianhaab, Greenland, but the governor of Greenland denied that any gasoline depot had been established there. Mrs. Diteman at her home in Billings, Mont., said that while her husband had considered attempting his flight from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to London by way of Greenland and his belief had been decided against it before he took off at 10:45 a.m. (B.S.T.) Wednesday with a fuel supply sufficient for only 25 hours.

Airmen pointed out, however, that the cold fog and northern winds which Diteman faced on the first 500 miles of his flight, had forced him to change his course of land in the north. Other theorized that he may have been forced down at sea and picked up by a ship without radio.

Oxford Team Arrives Today

The members of the Oxford debate team will arrive in the 44th century, for the second debate with Iowa to be held Saturday evening in the natural science auditorium. They are brought to the United States by the national student federation of America, to promote friendly relations with colleges of other countries.

The Britishers will be entertained at the fraternity houses of the members of the intercollegiate debate board and will attend a dinner to be given in their honor at Iowa Union tonight at 6 o'clock. Prof. Jacob Van der Zee, of the political science department, who also has charge of the Rhodes scholarship committee of the university, will be the presiding officer.

First Science Conference at Iowa Convenes

Morehouse Gives Talk at Opening Session Yesterday

With a discussion of the significance of a science conference, D. W. Morehouse, president of Drake university, opened the first annual science conference yesterday at 2:10 p. m. Previous to President Morehouse's address, registration at Old Capitol and an address of welcome by Pres. Walter A. Jessup had officially started the conference.

R. B. Wylie, professor and head of the department of biology, then spoke upon "The environment of Iowa as a source of plant material for general science." "Iowa lakes," said Professor Wylie, "make up for their lack in number by their attractive opportunities for collection and study. State parks, now quite numerous, fortunately, are not only preserves but centers as well of an awakening interest in outdoor Iowa. This state has much of interest for workers in the plant sciences. In the temperate zone, no other equal area is more favorable for the growth of plants."

Using the subject, "The environment of Iowa as a source of animal materials for general science," H. M. Kelley, professor and head of the department of biology, Cornell college, told of the material and information in the field of biology, obtained in Iowa by research and how this material might be obtained by teachers for their use.

Illustrating his lecture by means of slides, George F. Kay, dean of the college of liberal arts and head of the department of geology, discussed the character of geological materials to be found in Iowa and the method for finding them. Unique rock formations and strata were discussed. Dr. Kay is a state geologist. His subject was, "The environment of Iowa as a source of geological material for general science."

R. L. Abbott, professor of natural science, Iowa State Teachers college, used the topic, "Materials and methods in general science," and described methods of presentation of the study of biology. Professor Abbott approached the method of teaching sciences in their relation to each other.

Escapes Bullets

Crown Prince Humbert (below) of Italy, whose engagement to Princess Marie Jose (above) of Belgium, was officially announced yesterday, narrowly escaped death when some political assassin fired at him.

Man Fires on Crown Prince

Humbert of Italy in Narrow Escape

BRUSSELS, Oct. 24 (AP)—On the day of the official announcement of his engagement to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, Crown Prince Humbert of Italy narrowly escaped death from the bullet of a political assassin fired at him.

The man, who escaped lynching by the protection of the police, told the authorities later he was an Italian named Fernando di Rosa. He affirmed that he had intended only to fire in the air as a protest. He was born at Milan in 1908 and had been living in Paris where he was a law student at the university. Prince Humbert himself was remarkably cool and contemptuous of di Rosa's bullets. He quietly intimated to Count de Broqueville his desire to go on with the ceremony without the slightest interruption of the program.

Colleges Throughout Country React to Carnegie Report on Commercialism in Athletics

Indignant Protests, Sweeping Denials, and Outright Approval Follow Report Released by Foundation

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—With indignation ranging all the way from indignant protest and sweeping denial to outright approval and commendation of the country's colleges today faced the challenge contained in the Carnegie Foundation's sensational report of the commercialism and kindred ills in college sport.

At Brown university the report was denounced by Norman S. Taber, chairman of the athletic council, as "in part false and in total so misleading as to make it impossible to believe the authors could present it."

"Broken faith" was charged by Prof. B. W. Griffith, graduate manager of athletics at Bucknell university, where it was declared the Carnegie investigator was given access to files and records that the understanding that "specific names would not be mentioned."

Allegations of an "intensely organized, sometimes subtle, system" of recruiting athletics at the University of Michigan were vigorously denied by William H. Yost, director of athletics there.

Speaking for the Western conference as a whole, Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner, averred Big Ten universities are cleaner athletically than any other ten universities any one can name.

Band Goes to Wisconsin as Fund Total Reaches $660.19

Iowa Fights! And the band goes to Wisconsin! Contributions yesterday totaling $168.95, together with other assured contributions, will send the Hawkeye band into the stronghold of the Badgers early Saturday morning.

Yesterday's total together with the $491.49 gathered on the two preceding days hoisted the "Send the Band to Wisconsin" fund to $660.19.

High contributions yesterday went to A. F. I. Mortar Board, and Union board with $25 subscribed collectively. Additional Quadrangle subscriptions reached $24.77, giving that organization a total of $49.77 for the fund. Currier hall added $13.14, which sent the fund over the $600 mark.

It is Iowa spirit that is sending Iowa's band to Wisconsin. There was an "Iowa Fights!" band every nickel, dime, and quarter that came in to help the band. It is Iowa spirit that gave the squad a magnificent send-off last night. It is Iowa spirit that is carrying hundreds of fans to Madison. And don't forget, it is Iowa spirit that is going to win that football game from Wisconsin tomorrow.

Five Convicts Hang for Attempted Break

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 24 (AP)—Five of the six convicts who acted as leaders in the attempted Thanksgiving day break in 1927 at Folsom state prison, were sentenced to hang in January.

Beat Wisconsin, Yells Crowd in Spirited Send-off

From fraternity houses and the quadrangle, and all other campus meeting places, 2,500 students swarmed over Old Capitol campus and down to the Rock Island station to give the team an "Iowa Fights!" send-off to Wisconsin last night.

Led by Rowland Evans, AS of Davonport, ear-splitting yells floated over Old Capitol tower at 9:30 p.m. The quadrangle men who had assembled at 9 p.m., and snake-danced to the campus mingled the clanging of their cowbells with those of the fraternities who marched down Dubuque street. Women were in the minority due to the lateness of the hour set for the meeting.

After giving several yells in front of Old Capitol, the crowd, led by the university band, marched down to the Rock Island station in time to see the team board the train at 10 p.m. "We want Wisconsin's goal posts" and the more vociferous shout of "we want Pape," echoed through the night air.

Several more yells were given, then the crowd slowly dispersed up the street, the jangle of their cowbells mingling with the clang of the train bell as it pulled out "on to Wisconsin."

Boat With 52 Aboard Sinks in Lake Gale

Abatement of Lashing Storm Reveals Fate of Six Vessels

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—With abatement of a lashing storm which whipped at the great lakes region for three days the curtain was lifted today on the fate of at least six lake vessels—one, with human cargo of 52, was at the bottom of Lake Michigan, another sunk in Lake Erie and four were grounded.

In addition, battered wreckage along lake shore lines indicated property loss that may run into many millions of dollars.

Find Wreckage

Bodies and wreckage of the currier Milwaukee, caught in the embrace of the storm as it proceeded from Milwaukee toward Grand Haven, Mich., were found today near Kneeshaw, Wis. They bore evidence that the vessel was sunk and that all 52 on board were lost.

Persons aboard other distressed vessels either were rescued or reported safe.

Freighter Goes to Pieces

The old wooden freighter, N. J. Nessen, went to pieces last night on a sand bar off Leamington, Ont. Its crew of 13 was rescued.

The sand sucker, C. W. Cadwell, was grounded only five miles away from near Point Pelee light. Its crew also was safe.

Twenty-three persons were rescued from the grounded steamer, Maple Court, which is held fast on Magnetic reef near Cockburn Island in upper Lake Huron, by coast guards early today. The ore carrier William B. Pilkey, was stranded off Gravel Island near Detroit, but word of its crew of 32 had not been received early tonight.

Probe Clears Iowa Back of "Pro" Charge

Confession by Graves Gives Grid Star Clean Bill

Status of Oran H. Pape as to eligibility has not been changed from what it was last week.

The blonde speed demon boarded the train for Madison with his teammates last night and is slated to appear against the Badgers tomorrow.

E. H. Lauer, in company with Pape and John J. Fuhrman also seen through professionalism, and J. A. Butler, from Maj. John BEESSEMER, Mich., Oct. 24 (AP)—Amplifying his statements clearing two Iowa football stars of professionalism charges, Coach Jess Graves of Bessemer high school tonight explained why he had used assumed names in playing with the Dubuque Bears team.

Graves said that because he wanted to preserve his amateur standing at Dubuque university, where he was then studying, he decided to employ fictitious names.

Discussing the linking of a professional player nicknamed "Big Boy" with Johnny Fuhrman, one of the two stars under fire, he said he was sure that "Big Boy" was some one other than Fuhrman.

L. Griffith's office, were in Dubuque until late last night conducting an investigation of the charges made through the offices of John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, that Pape and Fuhrman had played under assumed names with the Dubuque Bears in 1926.

Manager Denies Reports

Lauer said that he had found no members of the team who would admit that Pape or Fuhrman played on the team. Joseph Schurly, manager of the team, denies that the men were members of his team.

New evidence to aid in clearing both Pape and Fuhrman came from a telephone conversation with Jess B. Graves, basketball coach at Bessemer, Mich., high school early last night.

Graves Clears Gridders

Graves said, when called by long distance telephone from Iowa City last night:

1. That he (Graves) played with the Dubuque Bears in 1926.
2. That he played under the name of "King."
3. That he was acquainted with Oran Pape.
4. That Pape did not play with the Bears.
5. That Pape was acquainted with John Fuhrman.
6. That Fuhrman did not play with the Bears.

Graves is blonde, built much like Pape, and a sprinter. At the time of the games in question he was a student at the University of Dubuque, which was not participating in intercollegiate athletics due to action by its president.

Graduate Students Aid

First knowledge that Graves had appeared with the Bears came from Edgar Boell, a graduate student here, who told a Daily Iowan reporter that he was a fraternity brother of Graves' and that Graves had played with the Dubuque Bears, the team with which Pape was charged with playing.

Soviet Flyers Visit Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—Enroute to New York on their around-the-world flight, the four Russian flyers in the monoplane, "Land of the Soviets," arrived at Curtiss airport at 3 o'clock today after a non-stop trip from North Platte, Neb.

Met by a crowd of about 300 civic leaders, army men and aviation enthusiasts, the flyers were driven to Chicago to a hotel. Tomorrow, formal greetings of the city will be extended at a luncheon in their honor. Although the Russian government is not recognized by the United States, the four aviators were welcomed by Capt. W. W. Duncan, air corps officer for this area, who was designated to extend full military courtesies.

The flyers followed the air mail route from Oakland, Cal., to Chicago, by way of North Platte. They have been on their way since Aug. 8, having flown from Moscow, to Omsk, Siberia; thence across Siberia to Alaska and down the Pacific coast. They expect to hop off for New York about Monday.

The crew consists of Simon A. Shostakov, first pilot; Philip E. Bolsakov, second pilot; Boris V. Stelgiov, navigator; and Dimitry V. Fultsev, mechanic.

Club Hears Music Talk

Mrs. Paddock Speaks on Study in Paris

The University club gave a luncheon in the university club rooms yesterday noon, in honor of Mrs. Mildred Paddock, Mrs. Paddock, who is a member of the music faculty, spoke on "Studying music in Italy and France."

Mrs. Paddock studied in Paris and Rome last year. In answer to the question, "Why don't you study in America?" she replied that the study of music abroad offers more background and atmosphere. While as good music is found in the larger cities of America as in Europe, Mrs. Paddock contends that it is more interesting to hear and study the music where it was written.

She also said that one can hear orchestral novelties in Europe, especially in Paris, that are not heard in the United States. Mrs. Paddock told the members of the club that there is so much music in Paris that it is necessary to spend hours in choosing the program one wants most to attend. She said there are six symphony orchestras in Paris, each giving two programs every week, and each gives open rehearsals which the public may attend at a small cost.

Mrs. Paddock also discussed operas and schools of music in Paris and Rome.

Mrs. Rufus H. Fitzgerald was hostess at the luncheon.

Meteor Seen Near Storm Lake, Oct. 15

The midwest meteor association with headquarters at the University of Iowa, has received the report of an exceptionally brilliant meteor observed in the northeastern sky by a resident of Storm Lake, Oct. 15, at 4 a.m.

Prof. C. C. Wylie of the astronomy department of the university states concerning the body: "This meteor was seen at a time when most people are asleep which makes it difficult for us to get information concerning it. Practically all our computations on meteors are based on reports received from people over Iowa and neighboring states who are kind enough to write us when they happen to see a bright meteor. When such a report is received we write members of our association who secure us additional information."

"The brightest meteors are visible as far as 500 miles; in fact the intense brightness at 400 miles makes it appear exceedingly close. On July 25, 1929, a meteor burst almost over De Kalb, Ill. and people in eastern Nebraska thought it very near. Other meteors, much brighter than these stars have been reported in Iowa on Sept. 16, 17, and Oct. 15."

College of Pharmacy Exhibits Night Tapers

As part of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the perfecting of the electric lamp, which is being held this week, the college of pharmacy is exhibiting a small wooden box of night tapers of the type used more than 50 years ago.

Each of the tapers consists of a piece of wick, about one-half inch long, stuck through a small cork disc. When in use, the disc is placed on a light metal tripod, the legs of which are tipped with small semicircular pieces of cork. The tripod floats on oil placed in a saucer or shallow dish, and the wick extends into the oil.

The tapers were presented to the college last year by E. L. Boerner, 235 Ferson avenue, Iowa City. They were made by J. C. Hebart at Nurnberg, Germany, more than 50 years ago and were imported by Lehn & Fink of New York.

Better Teeth Causes Better Health, Says Dental Bureau

Adroit fanning of the sparks of competitive rivalry is resulting in better teeth, and therefore improved health, of Iowa's school children.

The agency responsible for the fanning process is the bureau of dental hygiene operated by the University of Iowa's extension division, with Dr. Thomas A. Gardner as director.

So effective is the "Iowa Plan," which stresses an educational rather than a clinical program, that more than one-third of the state's counties, and about 137 cities have adopted it. Dr. Gardner declared Wednesday. Some 100,000 children have already been benefited.

Playing upon the child's natural spirit of rivalry and pride, as well as stimulating interest by such devices as pictures, posters, and playlets, the university bureau has greatly increased its activities this year. Schools in 24 counties have enrolled in the campaign in recent months, bringing the total to 38.

Three major aims set forth to the children are diet, regular dental inspections, and cleaning of teeth. Dr. Gardner said. Modern research has proven that diet is of first importance while cleaning of teeth, formerly rated first, now is placed third.

The Best Policy

ATHLETICS throughout America are in the spotlight of the Carnegie foundation report and many dirty places are showing through under the intense illumination of this beacon, certainly one which is respected for its accuracy.

The picture focused under this light is especially interesting to Iowa and Iowa followers because of the program of investigating and cleaning which has been going on at Iowa since the beginning of the regime of Dr. Edward H. Lauer as director of athletics.

Because other institutions in the Western conference, of which Iowa is a member, have stood quietly at the side, their jam-smearing hands behind their backs, and pointing the apparently clean fingers at Iowa, the report of the Carnegie foundation becomes even more interesting.

Although many persons offered evidence for use of Iowa officials in charging other institutions with professionalism, the Iowa leaders declined to take this method.

Instead Director Lauer immediately began a complete investigation of the Iowa situation. He was not interested in dragging others into the mire, nor was he interested in excusing Iowa for any jam she might have stolen, by saying, or even proving, that others took some.

THE DAILY IOWAN believes in Dr. Lauer. He has been criticized at times, perhaps, by persons not acquainted with the situation, because he has not chosen to expose other universities. Yet his policy now appears to be the best. The facts are out.

What others will do will be seen. What Iowa has done has been seen. Surely the policy of Dr. Lauer should find favor with all Iowans—and meet with the approval of the world.

Suggestions?

THE 1930 Homecoming is a thing of the past. We smile contentedly when we think of the success it proved to be. It is only fitting that such a great educational institution as Iowa should have a Homecoming worthy of it. Though weather conditions were anything but conducive to a peppy, successful celebration, Iowans proved that the worst kind of weather cannot dampen their spirit or their love for their alma mater.

Not only did the students prove their loyalty but the whole university and the city aided in making the 1930 Homecoming the greatest and best on record.

The city decorations, the fraternity and security decorations and the university decorations aided in imparting that Homecoming's spirit to all visitors. Traffic was handled so well that our visitors could leave Iowa City with the impression that they were leaving one of the best organized towns in the state. Accommodations for the thousands of Homecomers were handled with the greatest degree of efficiency.

We have due reasons to be proud of our city, of our university, student body and faculty, but highest praise should be given to the Homecoming committee chairman, Prof. Forest C. Ensign, and those who aided him in his plans.

It is evident that as the years go by, Iowa's Homecomings will be bigger and bigger affairs. It is evident that there might be little things which can be improved—things which can make a world of difference in the success of Homecoming.

Perhaps some of you have suggestions. Now is the time to make these suggestions. Now is the time to tell just where and how conditions can be improved for the 1931 Homecoming. If you can make any suggestions, do not hesitate—for Homecoming means just as much to everyone of us and we want it to be just as nice as we can make it. Suggestions can be sent to the editor of THE DAILY IOWAN or to Professor Ensign.

Remember Your Dad

IN TWO weeks Iowa will celebrate Dad's day. That will be Nov. 9. This is a yearly tradition of the university—to dedicate one day to the dads who make it possible for us to be here at school.

him about—all those things which mean "college" to you.

Now is the time to write to dad and ask him to come. If you wait to long he may not be able to make arrangements for the little vacation away from his business, or he may have to go to great trouble to get here. Write early and invite dad—he will appreciate your thought of him. We want all our dads to come, and see what the greatest university in the country is doing. We want all our dads to visit Iowa.

Holton vs. Hiawatha

BY CERTAIN observances in some communities, football is taken seriously by the populace, and it was this problem proved a discovery for a certain fellow by the name of Schroedermeier. In Kansas the natives gave another display of the frontier war, that made the Jayhawkers famous in the old days.

Last Saturday the annual football event between Holton high school and Hiawatha high school took place. The game was saddened for the home team of Holton just before the tilt, when an affidavit was sworn out by one Schroedermeier before the game that a Holton star was ineligible—whether as a ringer or because of scholarship difficulties, the reports did not say, nor does it much matter.

This Schroedermeier person, had been superintendent of schools at Holton and now holds that office in Hiawatha. If the Hiawatha gridders had, the teacher may have got away unscathed. But Holton lost and its former superintendent was held in slight esteem as a turncoat and informer. He suspected this frame of mind when he was forced to flee from Holton under guard, pursued by a shower of rotten eggs, decayed vegetable matter, and an occasional stone to add zest to the situation.

So let the bigger schools take notice that in vile Kansas any official who takes exception to the time-honored practice of playing ineligible stars, runs the risk of a loyal lapidation. There are still some people who take their football seriously.

Somebody's Mother

WITH THE slush on the streets, the wet snow falling, and the weather in general very disagreeable, one college youth did not have to be reminded of the poem "Give to the world the best you have—, and the best will come back to you."

An old lady, not long for this world and not even yet acquainted with many of its luxuries, was plodding methodically down the street stopping now and then to pick up a bargain in vegetables or other kinds of edibles. It was already dusk when she started to cross a busy downtown street on her long and tiresome journey homeward. The wind was cutting and she was busy with her thoughts. . . thinking perhaps of the warm stove fire she was soon to enjoy.

Her thoughts were almost too busy, for as she crossed the street she was unmindful of oncoming traffic. Not until she heard a frightening blare from an inconsiderate motorist was she rudely awakened to the fact that she was in danger. But it was by an act, more to be classed as thoughtful and kind than heroic, that she was saved from a great deal of nerve racking fright.

A college youth, seeing her plight and realizing her state of mind, hurried to her side, gently took her arm, and inconspicuously guided her across the remaining stretch of treacherous pavement. Her look of gratitude was his only thanks, but what volumes it spoke. He was more than amply repaid.

Wisconsin's Welcome

WELCOME to the Iowa students who are making the trip to Madison this weekend has been extended by the president of the Wisconsin Memorial union. Iowa visitors are urged to make the new building their headquarters during their stay and to take advantage of the entertainments planned for them.

Old Gold supporters would probably do well to take advantage of the invitation, for the Wisconsin union will probably make a convenient meeting-place during the stay in Madison. The wide spread use of our own Union is an indication of the value of such a headquarters.

The telegram sent by the Union president to THE DAILY IOWAN reads as follows: "We invite the team, band, and students of the University of Iowa to make their headquarters at our new Memorial Union building during the coming week-end, and especially to attend the special dances arranged for them both Friday and Saturday nights and to use the dining facilities provided for the day."

Deucedly Odd . . .

HE WAS a good looking, well dressed young man, this fellow standing on a street corner yesterday. He wore his hat at that rakish angle which depicts a college student without fail. He had an engaging smile which he flashed now and then as he nodded to acquaintances. His topcoat was of the latest cut, and undeniably "nifty."

Then we noticed his shoes and the lower part of his trousers legs. They were spattered with yellow clay mud for which Iowa is so famous. It is that kind which spatters on as one walks, and gives the cuffs of the pants the appearance of being made of mangy leopard skin.

"Deucedly odd," we muttered to ourselves, "the top four-fifths of a young man looking like a matinee idol, and his shoes like a hod carrier's."

We determined to find out this perplexing problem without delay, so we stopped the first friend we met and asked him.

"Oh," he laughed, "he's one of the boys who live on the west side. You know they haven't any sidewalk to the bridge from over there."

"Ain't it a shame?"

CHILLS AND FEVER

It seems that there's going to be a general public laundry of soiled linen which has been hanging in the closets of various educational institutions a little too long.

Dr. Lauer has been rubbing his out by hand a little in advance of the others, but now it appears that he is a little ahead of the others. There are blood spots and some just plain black spots, and oh—what a lot of scrubbing it will take!

One: "How did you like that date Mary got you with Bill?"
Another: "He's a perfect soul mate."
One: "Yeah?"
Another: "Yeah! A regular heel."
—Adeline

And Says Bill—
"Why shouldn't a library be as good a place to get your dates as any other? I was told librarians had to know everything but I never knew they studied nature before until I found one of them left her glasses in the park."
And Bill, what made you think librarians knew everything? We'll admit it would be nice if some of them did know something.

Author Speaks Here Tuesday

Subject Chosen After Durant Arrives

Will Durant, writer and internationally known philosopher, will deliver a lecture in the natural science auditorium at 8 p.m., next Tuesday evening, Oct. 29. Professor Durant is widely known for his work at Columbia University, where he has been an instructor in philosophy.

He will speak on one of the following subjects: "Is Progress Real?" "The Ten Greatest Thinkers," "The Emancipation of Woman," "Is Democracy a Failure" and "Fact and Fad in Psycho-Analysis." Just which topic Professor Durant will decide on will not be known until he arrives in Iowa City.

"The Ten Greatest Thinkers" is an account of the struggles and victories of some of the world's greatest philosophers.

"The Emancipation of Woman" is an analysis of the causes and results of the most fundamental change in modern life. It concerns woman's moral code and mental qualities.

Professor Durant has written a book, "The Story of Philosophy," which is composed of lectures he has given at Labor Temple school. This book, within three weeks of its publication proved to be the best seller of non-fiction books in America, and is still third in the list, after two years of publication.

Montana Professor Studies Psychology in University Labs

Franklin O. Smith, professor of psychology and head of the department at the University of Montana, is spending a part of his year's leave of absence from his university in the psychology laboratories at the University of Iowa.

Professor Smith has been appointed honorary associate in psychology and is particularly interested in learning the latest types of apparatus and techniques which have been recently developed for the study of emotion. He will proceed to investigate also the special devices perfected by the department in analyzing the voice. Next semester he will sail for England where he will continue his studies.

Dr. Smith graduated from the Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, and received his bachelor's degree at the University of Iowa in 1906. He also received his master's and doctorate degrees here. He has published several important papers on pitch discrimination, retinal sensitivity to purple, college entrance examinations and human learning in the labyrinth.

The men selected were, H. E. Wendt, A1 of Council Bluffs; H. A. Peterson, E2 of Essex; S. P. Nugent, A1 of Council Bluffs; T. C. Nugent, A1 of Council Bluffs; L. A. Knowles, A2 of Hedrick; W. H. Scabbard and Blade May Introduce New System of Sponsors

A new system of honorary sponsors for the military ball was discussed at the Scabbard and Blade meeting held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the sun room of the Iowa Union.

A committee was appointed to investigate the proposition of having an honorary colonel and staff of four majors to be chosen from the women of the university. The honorary colonel is to be queen of the military ball.

Investigations at the universities of South Dakota, Indiana, and Kansas are under way for further information in regard to this system of sponsors. The following are members of the committee of investigation: Boyd Liddle, A3 of Davenport; Emil Rausch, E3 of Waverly; and Capt. Herbert C. Gee, A4 of Anamosa.

It was also decided that the saber drill team will be composed of the entire company rather than a select few. Announcements will be made later concerning the results of the investigations of the committee.

Dill Conducts Tour through Museum for State Teachers

An extended tour through the university museum in the natural science building was conducted by Prof. H. R. Dill, director, yesterday at 4:45 p.m.

This tour was in connection with the first annual conference of science teachers of Iowa, here this week end.

Quoting from William T. Hornaday, taxidermist, in his article "Masterpieces of American Bird Taxidermy" in Scribner's magazine: "The largest and by far the most spectacular of all the world's habitat groups of birds is to be seen in the museum of the University of Iowa, at Iowa City. The great Laysan Island Chickadee was developed because of the vision and enterprise of Prof. C. C. Nutting, director, and Homer R. Dill, then chief taxidermist, who saw a golden opportunity and felt that it was too good to be lost. They felt that other bird groups might come, even from the ends of the earth, but the people of Iowa and the middle west should be given one grand opportunity to see a star-spangled island in the far-off mid-Pacific ocean, and a sea-bird paradise, inhabited only by birds."

"The museum is a big factor in bringing those outside the university in direct contact with the university. It is one place where we can permanently preserve those parts of life which are rapidly disappearing in America today."

"THE MASKED HOSTESS"

by Blair Stevenson

What has gone before:
An abandoned Long Island estate, "The Firs," is the only inheritance Nathalie Van Slack finds left by her once wealthy sportsman father. Repulsed by her rich aunt, Mrs. Swayne, Nathalie, in desperation, cashes a check with no funds in the bank. Nathalie agrees to act as hostess to a South American, Capt. Ramon Stefano, who has taken over "The Firs," supposed to entertain his wealthy friends, on condition that she remain masked and her identity secret. John Sloan, young lawyer, has fallen in love with Nathalie. Without her knowledge he has made good the false check. Neither of them knows that Stefano is being financed by Paris, a New York ex-policeman, who wishes to obtain possession of "The Firs." Long Island's wealthiest attend the opening of "The Firs" and are intrigued by the Masked Hostess. None of her friends recognize her. Nathalie, fascinated by the handsome Stefano finds herself in his arms. Ferris, irritated and questions Stefano about the Masked Hostess. At a masked party at "The Firs," Mrs. Swayne questions him closely about the Masked Hostess. Suddenly Stefano realizes the girl is Nathalie.

Now go on with the story:

CHAPTER XXV.
Two of the rooms at the club seated on the edge of the low board fence which surrounds the polo field at Meadowbrook, were watching the man dribbling the ball down the field while his pony rode beside it at a gallop.
"And on a green pony, too," cried one of the groomers, jumping to his feet in his excitement. "It ain't human, 'Arry. You've got to doff your hat to Stefano. 'E's the greatest player in the world." The other groomer demurred.
"Appy Jack could 'old him if he were 'ere—'ad just a paper thin edge on 'im. Not that the Spaniard ain't top 'ole. But two polo players like Jack Van Slack can't be born."
They did not know that he had come out on the field to do some especially intricate and important thinking. And that because the thinking was as important as he deemed it to be he was doing it in Spanish.
Stefano always thought most accurately and successfully on horseback and with a polo mallet in his hand. And as his changes of ponies galloped and turned sharply under him he was thinking about Nathalie—whether he ought to follow his heart and gather her to it, or his head and "go wide" till he learned more accurately her worldly situation and the extent of the money

Mrs. Swayne came over full of graciousness:
"Of course I shouldn't interrupt your confidences"—here Sylvia pinched Stefano—"but you haven't forgotten the particular request I left with you last night, have you Capt. Stefano, about poor, dear Nathalie. I have been thinking about her incessantly since we spoke of her last night, and it occurred to me as almost certain that she will visit "The Firs" some night; probably when you give another masked party."
Sylvia pinched Stefano again and he had to struggle to keep his mirth down, in light of the fact that to all intents and purposes not he but Mrs. Swayne had given the masked party.
"She is so devoted to dancing," went on Mrs. Swayne, "and it would be so like her for she is just a little bit bizzarre. And there is the other reason that The Firs belongs to her and her curiosity will be aroused about it now that you have made it the most popular rendezvous in society. So be sure to watch for her for I want to see her very much."
After she had gone away Sylvia too begged him to discover Nathalie's hiding place if he could.
"I'm horribly worried about her," she said, "she resented something mother did—and she was absolutely right about it—at Southampton and went away overnight. If you see her for me I want to help her. It's frightfully important that some one should find her for I'm convinced she is absolutely without money and I can't imagine how she's living."
"I heard something recently replied Stefano, "about money due her from some source. Know anything about it?"

Sylvia shook her head: "I'd love to believe it is true but it can't be possible. I'm certain it can't for I asked mother specially, and she said that Nathalie had nothing but The Firs and that it isn't worth saving from some law suit that has been brought against it. No, I'm poor Nathalie had absolutely nothing. Mother would know."
Stefano left for The Firs just before twelve. Reaching there on the stroke of the hour he found that another vehicle was at the door before him. It was a motor truck, well loaded and covered with a tarpaulin. A young man in evening clothes jumped down from beside the driver. It was Monty Delaine.
He was in that state which made him take off his hat and toss it into a tree. "Bring forth your myrmidons 'n minutes, Stef, and have 'em unload what's on my wagon. Champagne old boy. Oceans of it. I put through the deal of a lifetime today and tonight you don't pull a cork."

Four Big Ten Squads Off for Crucial Tilts of Season

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—Move-ment of troops to the scenes of Saturday's Big Ten football battles was started tonight from the camps of Michigan, Iowa, and Indiana, with Purdue heading for Chicago tomorrow morning before heading for Chicago. Michigan was sent through a short, brisk workout, before leaving for Chicago where the squad tomorrow will take its final practice for its encounter with Illinois. Coach Klopke named 30 players for the trip and indicated that Morrison, hitherto used at fullback, would start at tackle against the Illini.

Indiana entrained for Columbus, O., for its game with Ohio State, following a short defensive session and skull drill. Coach Page took 26 men, but was undecided on his starting lineup.

Coach Burt Ingwersen and 34 members of the Iowa squad departed for Madison where Wisconsin will be met Saturday, but the list did not include Oran Page and John Fuhrman, Ingwersen, however, left orders for the pair to join the squad at Madison if they are declared eligible.

The Badgers were given a long ofensive drill today in which the var-

TILLIE THE TOLLER—Conspicuous Absence

University Hi Meet Muskies

University high hill and dale men will run against Coach Jack Hunn's Muskies this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the Pinkbine field course. Hunn's squad is making a strong bid toward taking the race, it being predicted that he has three men who will finish in first place.

However, Coach Carpenter's harriers have been doing good work and are out to keep their record clean. The Blue and White carried away first honors in the triangular meet held at Keokuk last Saturday, and were victorious over the Muscatine boys last year.

The men that Hunn is counting on to take the meet for Muscatine are, McElroy, Satterfield, Saxton and Wilson. While Herbert Dill, Van Epps and Van Phillips are expected to carry the Blue and White colors to victory.

Star Gridder Severs Finger

Stellar U. H. Fullback Out Indefinitely

Old Man Hard Luck, who has been bombing university high athletes all fall, threw another shell into the Blue and White grid squad last night. Milo Moore, flashy fullback who was counted on to do much of the ground graining for the locals at Tipton today, had the tip of his fingers severed in a planing machine.

Moore was doing work in his manual training course when the accident occurred. It is certain that he will be out for several weeks now, if not the whole season.

Shake Up in Backfield

The loss of Moore will cause some shake up in the backfield. Rowe will assume his position at quarter, although Captain Thomas will continue to call signals from his right half berth. The remainder of the backfield will be Fairchild at left half, and Snavey at full. Thomas will do much of the ball toting for the Blue and White.

Tipton Powerful

Tipton is presenting an especially powerful machine, which will give Coach Handy's boys stiff opposition today. Although the two elevens will average about the same weight, the Tipton crew will have an edge on the Blue and White by reason of their greater experience. Tipton has played five games this season, winning from Muscatine 6-0, and West Liberty, 15 to 6. They engaged in two scoreless ties, Stanwood, and Marion, and lost to Lone Tree, 13-0.

Today's game will be the homecoming game for the Tipton high school, and Tipton will fight hard to avenge last year's defeat at the hands of the Blue and White. Tipton is counting on their fullback Patterson to tug the pigskin much of the time.

The Big Two

Eight out of ten have it. Only two are pure, Chicago and Illinois. The "it" is a little trouble bug, contagious it seems, and eight of the Big Ten schools have become involved. To date, nothing has been pointed at the two schools who have neither paid athletes or allowed them to play with professional teams.

Out of 130 institutions whose athletic situation the Carnegie report covered, only 28 were above reproach.

Wanta Buy a Lead Pencil?

Michigan, it was revealed, has athletes who pose as salesmen, advertising solicitors in the daytime and then saunter down to the football field in the afternoon, throw away their brushes, and don the moleskins.

Defeated two weeks ago by Ohio State, tied last week by Illinois and now, if the upward trend of the Hawkeyes' grid fortunes is to continue—a win over the Badgers at Madison tomorrow. Burt and his boys left for Madison at midnight last night. Reports from Milwaukee, 80 miles from Madison, say the sleet, snow and rain have been the menacing hazards which have hampered active drill of the Wisconsin gridder.

And on the other hand the Hawks have been faithfully drilling every day. Not a day passed this week that was so dismal or rainy that the Old Gold gang could not work out. Coach Burt has drilled his men on passing, punting, running—everything in an endeavor to acclimate his men to a muddy, slippery grid.

Cage Practice to Draw St. Mary's High School Crew

St. Mary's high hoopsters took their regular semi-weekly workout last night at the Iowa City high gym. Coach Francis Suplee putting the nine men, who were able to report, through a two and a half hour practice session.

St. Mary's team has been practicing for two weeks on Monday and Wednesday evenings in an effort to get in shape for the toughest schedule they have ever played. Coach Suplee has three regulars back from last year's team, and is rather optimistic over this season's prospects.

Several promising reserves are out at present because of injuries or ineligibility.

Offensive plays were emphasized in a strenuous drill, which concluded with a ten minute scrimmage. Although the passing was rather ragged and the plays lacked smoothness, the team as a whole showed possibilities, and in the last minute or so ran wild dropping several short shots.

Johnnie Grim, star guard, who is playing his last year of high school basketball looked especially good. His floor work and shooting bracing the team considerably. Shay played the other guard on the first string last night, while Knoedle held down the pivot post and Gaulocher and B. Grimm were at the forwards.

The reserves are: forwards—Corso and Riffenmeyer; center—Seeman, and guards—Morrison and Healy.

DECORAH, (AP)—Paul J. Kvale, newly elected Farmer-Labor congressman from Minnesota, is a graduate of Luther college here. He succeeds his father, the late Rev. O. C. Kvale, in the house of representatives.

WATERLOO, (AP)—A. M. Garrick of Cedar Falls has purchased the 80 acre farm of Mrs. J. F. Woor, north of Farmer. The price was $177 an acre, the consideration of $14,200 being nearly all in cash.

Fumble Costs Warriors Tie With Huskies

A strong finish, the kind that thrills to the last minute, was offered by the Huskies and Warriors yesterday afternoon on Iowa field, when the Huskies eked out a 7 to 6 win over the stubborn Warriors. It was the second of a series of games between members of the freshman squad, the first tilt ending in a scoreless tie.

In arrears by 7 to 6 up until the last minute of play, the Warriors unleashed an attack that netted them a touchdown. Lubart fumbled the ball on the attempt to tie the count, spoiling an opportunity of ending the game in another deadlock.

Capt. Bill Leek of the Warriors, drove his team hard, and it was through his efforts that the Huskies were battled on even terms. Leek gained ground repeatedly, and was the outstanding star for the Warriors. Al Vestermark's steady play, along at center, was also a feature of the crew led by Leek.

Harvey Bush, halfback, was one

Telephone Co. Starts Conduit

Underground Cable to Span Continent

Work on the conduit for housing the underground transcontinental cable which will connect the Atlantic and Pacific coasts is being done at Market street.

According to Mr. Cone, superintendent of the telephone company, the new cable will run west on Burlington street, from Burlington and Gilbert to Brown street, north on Brown street to Dodge street, from where it strikes north to the Prairie Du Chien road.

From there it takes a straight course to Cedar Rapids passing through farms without any alterations. In the country the cable will not be housed in a conduit but simply laid in a dirt trench three to four feet deep.

In crossing the Cedar River the cable will be laid on the river bed similar to submarine cables. This will also connect with the transcontinental cables that now reach from Iowa City to New York City.

Here-to-fore any construction work undertaken by the local Northwestern Bell company was contracted. The present work is being accomplished by the company, which has Mr. Cone also said that the Western Electric company has a crew of men here installing the carrier system to handle traffic on long distance cables. The carrier system is a new apparatus which enables several conversations to take place at the same time on the same pair of wires, without any interference.

The local commercial offices of the national company are now located in the new building at Linn and Burlington streets. They are inviting the public to inspect this building.

Route Outlined to Wisconsin

Automobile Club Gives Advice to Hawkeyes

Many students and local persons will be driving to the Iowa-Wisconsin football tilt at Madison Saturday, and for their benefit Dorothy Sutton, of the Iowa City Automobile club, has outlined the following routes as the best for travel.

The longest but probably the most advisable because of the most surfacing is from Iowa City to Davenport on highway No. 22. Cross the bridge, go through the Tri-Cities and take No. 3 out of East Moline. Follow No. 3 to Denrock, thence north on No. 78 for several miles, then on No. 86 to Sterling, Ill. This road is all paved except for 22 miles of gravel between West Liberty and Durant.

From Sterling follow the Lincoln highway, U. S. No. 39, or Illinois No. 6, to Dixon. From Dixon take highway No. 26 to Freeport and then No. 74 to Monroe, Wis. Follow highway No. 69 directly northeast into Madison. The total distance of this route is 229 miles.

The second route is the same as the first as far as Dixon, Ill., but from Dixon take No. 2 northeast to Rockford, Ill., and Beloit, Wis. From there go north on No. 13 to Madison. The nearest route to Madison is through Dubuque, the report shows, but due to the fact that there are two detours on highway No. 161, between Marion and Dubuque, it is advisable to take No. 161 from Iowa City to Marion and thence north to Manchester on No. 13. This is a graveled road. From Manchester go east on U. S. highway No. 20, a paved road to Dubuque, cross the Wisconsin bridge and follow No. 118 to Dodgeville and then No. 18 into Madison. This road is all surfaced, mostly with gravel, and the distance is 210 miles.

Marjorie Lois Castor, 41 of Larabee, left yesterday noon by motor for her home, where she will spend the week-end with her parents.

Putnam Designs Badge for Homecoming

Iowa City high school homecoming parade will be held tomorrow at 1 p. m. The parade, which this year is under the supervision of the "Red and White," high school paper, will start from the high school. Florence Churchill, instructor of journalism, representing the year book, will lead the parade.

Robert Shea, Lester Parizek, Margaret Mapes, and Doris Blakesley are on the committee for the organization. The best design for the Homecoming button, chosen from ten entries, was submitted by Vernon Putnam this year.

The "Red and White" staff is also putting out a 16 page program which will contain news, snaps of players and yells. The money received from the sale of the homecoming buttons and programs will be used for extra features in the annual.

Maj. John H. Hester, newly appointed professor of military science and tactics at the University of Minnesota, will arrive here Sunday. He proposes to make a four day survey of the disciplinary and training methods used in the local R.O.T.C. unit.

Girl Scouts in Dancing Class to Earn Merit

AT THE AIRPORT

E. Hamilton Lee, the Boeing air pilot who holds the distinction of flying 1,250,000 miles, was the pilot on the mail going east in the evening. He returned at midnight with the west bound mail.

The Russian plane, "Land of the Soviets" passed over Iowa City yesterday morning on its way east. It recently crossed the Pacific ocean between Russia and Alaska, and then followed the Pacific coast down to Canada, and the western states.

Swimming classes will be held for girl scouts every Saturday morning at the women's gymnasium. Beginners will swim at 11 and advanced swimmers at 11:30. The advanced class will be instructed in the swimmer and life saving merit badges. Both classes are to participate in a swimming festival to be held in January. Bernice Wester, A4 of Marshaltown, is the instructor. Scouts must present a certificate from a physician saying that their heart and lungs are in good condition.
