SENATOR BURTON OF OHIO DIES

Reed Predicts Tariff's Death in Conference

Senate Factions Hand Blame Around After Post Mortem

By HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—A pronouncement of ultimate death was read over the tariff bill in the senate today by one of its sponsors, Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, and the post mortems that quickly ensued found leaders of all factions passing the blame around.

DAVID REED

The assertion, a repetition of a statement by Senator Reed in a speech in Philadelphia over the week-end, led to a free for all political discussion which saw republican regulars and independent quarters of the committee, revolving over the attitude of President Hoover, democrats and republicans demanding that the president state his position on the tariff bill and all finally agreeing that the senate must get down to serious business and pass some sort of measure.

Smoot Reassures Senate
Although Reed predicted the bill would die in conference with the house, Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, in charge of the measure for the finance committee, assured the senate that no effort was to be made to kill the legislation in conference and that it would be handled as any other bill when it reaches that stage.

Senator Johnson, California, started the debate by calling attention to conflicting newspaper accounts, one to the effect that the coalition of democrats and western republicans was succeeding in getting the tariff bill, and the other quoting Senator Reed as saying the bill was dead.

Seek President's Stand
"We ought to be advised whether the president stands for this bill as reported by the finance committee or is desirous of what the coalition is attempting to do with it," asserted the Californian.

Adverting by inference to the president's statement urging retention of the flexible provisions, Johnson said members of the executive department had used the "party lash" to whip senators into line on the proposition. Yet "no one knew how Mr. Hoover stood on rates."

The Californian said it was "up to the executive to say whether he wants one kind of a bill or another."

Reed Sticks to Opinion
Senator Reed said he had been quoted correctly about the bill being dead and still was of that opinion. He based this belief on the fact that the coalition had placed the export rebate plan in the bill and had "kneaded the flexible provisions out of it—two actions which he predicted the house majority would not sanction. With a clear senate majority in favor of these steps, he said a hopeless deadlock was in sight between the two houses.

The Pennsylvania senator said that if the usual course were followed and he were named a senate conferee, he would insist upon retention of the rebate plan and repeal of presidential power over rates, unless the senate instructed its conferees otherwise. He opposed both proposals in the voting.

PANTAGES PUTS ON CHALLENGING FRONT

Norris Makes Censure Plans

Senate Expects Motion for First Time in 27 Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—The dire promise of a resolution proposing censure for Senator Bingham of Connecticut, stilled a savage, verbal exchange in the senate today between the Connecticut senator and his accusers of the lobby investigating committee.

An expectant quiet came over the stormy scene when Senator Norris of Nebraska, one of those who came under Bingham's assault, announced he intended to offer a resolution tomorrow. It would be the first time in 27 years that the senate would be called upon to censure a member.

Will Denounce Bingham
The resolution had not been drafted tonight but it was indicated that it would ask the senate to denounce the use by Senator Bingham of a scabbed employe of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association to assist him in helping to frame the tariff bill.

Smarting under the condemnation heaped upon him last Saturday by Chairman Caraway of the lobby investigators, Senator Bingham took the floor at the outset of today's session to strike back. He charged that the lobby committee was "framed" against any friend of the administration and had been unfair to him.

The tall senator who once taught at Yale, was white of face as he pounded his desk in conclusion and said:

Bingham Resents Purpose
"The purpose of this committee has been to help me with political slime by the twisting and torturing of flimsy evidence and I resent and I shall resent it until the end of my life."

One by one, four of the members of the lobby committee answered in language as severe. Finally Senator Robinson of Indiana, who had been referred to by Bingham as the lone friend of the administration upon the committee, arose and pronounced his own condemnation upon the Connecticut senator for his relations with the Connecticut manufacturers.

Clothes, Books Burn in Room Blaze at Delta Gamma House

Fire at 8 p.m. yesterday, resulting from a defective wiring in a third-story room of the Delta Gamma house, did considerable damage, to books, clothing, and furniture before it was extinguished by the local fire department. No estimate of the loss has yet been made.

Multimillionaire Says Court Gave Him Raw Deal

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28 (AP)—The stoical attitude in which Alexander Pantages received a jury's verdict convicting him of a statutory offense against youthful Eunice Pringle, co-ed dancer, passed today, and in its stead was a challenging front.

"A raw deal—that's what I got," he told his motley array of cell mates throughout his first day in jail. "I'm going to fight this thing," he repeated. "If I have to go to the highest court in the land."

The 54 year old multimillionaire theatre chain owner seemed confident of his success in another court. As the hours behind the jail bars wore on, Pantages gave vent to charges against the jury.

"I am sure the jurors did not know what they were voting for," he said. "In addition, I have evidence that one juror said he would vote to send me to prison even before he got on the jury." The verdict carried a one to 50 year penitentiary sentence and asked that Pantages be recommended for clemency. It was returned yesterday after 21 hours deliberation.

Meanwhile, all state witnesses were given their freedom without guards.

Will Durant, Writer, Talks on Philosophy

Will Durant, writer and nationally known philosopher, will give a lecture in the auditorium of the natural science building tonight at 8 p.m. Professor Durant is well known for the book "The Story of Philosophy," which he wrote two years ago. This book is composed of lectures he has given at Labor Temple school, and within three weeks of its publication it proved to be the best seller of non-fiction books in America, and is still third on the list, after two years of publication.

Professor Durant is also noted for the work he has done while he was instructor at Columbia University. His philosophy lectures in the classroom have attracted nation wide interest among students and those who have heard him declare that one will never forget his educational talks.

End Charges Against Pape

Board Clears Standing; Await Fuhrman Vote

Iowa's board in control of athletics last night definitely established the eligibility of Oran "Nanny" Pape, Hawkeye speed merchant, who has twice been confronted with charges of playing professional football. Although his status before the Wisconsin game was not entirely clear, Pape was allowed to compete against the Iadgers. At that time investigation of the latest charges against the player failed to substantiate any of the accusations.

At last night's meeting, however, several minor points remaining for investigation were finally written off the books. Pape was accused last week of playing semipro ball with the Dubuque Bears in October, 1926, under an assumed name of King. He was cleared of that specific charge when Jesse Graves, former Dubuque university star and now teaching in Bessemer, Mich., stated that he played in that game under the name of King.

Hawkeye officials are awaiting the result of a vote taken by conference committee members on the eligibility of John Fuhrman, guard, who has been accused of playing semi-pro ball with the Dubuque Bears. Although the big guard admitted playing with that team, reinstatement was asked on the grounds of not receiving any pay.

Rabbi Decries Extremists at Vespers Talk

Decrying the doctrine that preaches "back to nature" and upholding the "up from nature" theory, Rabbi David Philipson of the Rockdale Avenue Temple addressed an audience of 400 at the second university vesper service Sunday afternoon in natural science auditorium.

"The whole story of the builders, thinkers, and doers of the world comes from the subduing of natural impulses," Rabbi Philipson pointed out. "Extremes are bad," he warned. "It is better to have both joy and self denial in moderation."

and the radical thought, literature, and stage of today cry back to nature while the promise of human effort and achievement apparent in this modern day indicate that man is above nature," he continued.

George F. Kay, dean of the liberal arts college, introduced Rabbi Philipson, and Moses Jung of the school of religion had charge of the devotions. The vesper choir under the direction of Prof. Walter Leon sang Tschakowsky's "A Legend," and the string orchestra directed by Prof. Frank E. Kendra of the school of music played Svendsen's "Romance."

Stocks Crash Again When Wall Street Cleans House; Market Closes at Bottom

Total Sales of 9,212,800 Shares Equalled Only by Last Thursday's Slump; Bankers Meet With J. P. Morgan

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—A further collapse in stock prices, exceeding in intensity last Thursday's demoralizing session, took place today as Wall street continued to weed out its weakened speculative accounts, and place its house in order after the wild orgy of speculation for the advance which has taken place in the last five years.

Net declines in many of the active issues ran from $10 to $60 a share, with the market closing practically at the bottom. Total sales were 9,212,800 shares which have been exceeded only by the record breaking total of 12,894,600 shares last Thursday.

Leading New York bankers met in the offices of J. P. Morgan and company, after the close of the market, to canvass the situation but no formal statement was forthcoming as a result of the conference.

Orderly Market Assured
Unofficially, it was intimated that the conferees took a more hopeful view of the situation, that nothing had been brought to their attention to indicate that any stock exchange house was in trouble. Their cooperation in maintaining an orderly market was assured.

One banker present at the conference privately expressed the view that important investment interests, which had been standing on the sidelines until the storm blew over, were prepared to enter the market immediately as large buyers of high grade stocks.

While today's decline lacked some of the hysteria, which accompanied last Thursday's break, it was viewed with even greater alarm in some quarters. Wall street generally believed that strong buying support would be supplied over the week-end and that the low prices reached Thursday probably would hold at least for a time. Instead, the market started to plunge downward from the opening ring.

False Alarm Causes Rally
A slight rally occurred around 1 p.m., when reports which later proved to be unfounded, were circulated in the financial district that Morgan brokers were heavy buyers of stock, and that another conference of bankers was being held in the Morgan offices. The selling increased in intensity when financial news tickers printed a bulletin quoting Thomas W. Lamont, of the Morgan firm, as saying that no statement would be forthcoming as the situation did not warrant it.

Confusion Prevails
Scenes of confusion, rivaling those in last Thursday's break, took place on the floor of the New York stock exchange and in the large brokerage houses of the city. Floor traders, whose nerves frayed by the strain of the big markets last week, seemed more belligerent and irritable than usual.

Pale and haggard faces were the rule in the customers rooms of the leading commission houses as few traders had escaped entirely in last week's decline. Patriotic scenes were enacted in some offices when men and women brought in stock certificates, which had been put away in safe deposit boxes through the profits derived previously in the "bull" market, and were placed on brokers' desks to provide additional collateral or to be sold to make good losses sustained last week.

Senior Medics Elect Miner for President

James Miner of Charles City was elected president of the senior class of the medical college at a meeting held at the medical laboratory last week.

Other officers of the class are: Arthur C. Pattison, Oelwein, vice president; Pauline V. Moore, West Branch, secretary-treasurer; William A. Boice, Washington, Ia., and John J. Clemmer, Cresco, representatives of the class to the medical student council.

Radical Program Salvation of French Conservatives

Would Whip Radicals by Stealing Their Own Political Thunder

PARIS, Oct. 28 (AP)—All France has become increasingly absorbed in the internal political situation created by the overthrow of the Briand ministry and the attempts of the radical socialists to establish a ministry by alliance with the socialists and with the more moderate groups represented by M. Briand himself.

Conservative elements in the country say that a really radical cabinet cannot last long and insist that it will create uneasiness and instability. There is, however, another side to the picture. Many Frenchmen, who are apprehensive over the intensive propaganda campaign carried on by the communists, believe that a radical program with a progressive, but limited program would best serve the present political demands of France. Believing that communism in France is becoming a genuine problem, they think that the radicals' program would satisfy the working classes and prevent any new drift toward the extreme left.

Bad Weather Causes Plane to Lose Way

Five People Missing in District of Arizona- New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 28 (AP)—An eastbound Western air mail passenger liner with two passengers, two pilots, and a steward aboard, bound from its western terminus at Alhambra, Cal., to Kansas City, was reported lost somewhere in eastern Arizona or western New Mexico by express company officials.

The plane was last reported headed for the Mt. Taylor region in western New Mexico, where only a few weeks ago a transport airplane was wrecked with the loss of eight lives. A search by scores of airplanes for several days was fruitless, but a passing plane flying on schedule spotted the wreckage.

Region Inaccessible
Some parts of the Mt. Taylor region are next to inaccessible. Foot parties only are able to traverse some sections because of deep canyons, precipitous cliffs, heavy underbrush and timber. In other places there are outcroppings of lava, making travel a slow and dangerous undertaking even on foot.

Western Air Express officials were advised by their field manager at Holbrook, Ariz., that the plane passed over Navajo, Ariz., about 10:30 this morning, flying low. A severe storm was raging at the time. Navajo is 60 miles east of Holbrook and 180 miles west of Albuquerque.

The liner left Alhambra at 5:30 a.m. today, and was due in Albuquerque at noon today.

Weather Conditions Bad
Weather reports were reported "quite bad" with general rain and low visibility indicated from the Arizona-Mexico line to Kentucky.

James E. Doles of Los Angeles was at the controls as chief pilot. Doles has had 2,720 hours flying, the greater portion of his training and experience having been in the army. He joined Western Air express on June 14, 1928.

Allan C. Barrie, co-pilot, has a record of 1,900 flying hours. He makes his home in Burbank, a Los Angeles suburb.

R. L. Britton of Los Angeles, formerly of Denver, is the steward. C. C. Cole, superintendent of operations, expressed hope that Doles had set the plane down in eastern Arizona or western New Mexico when he discovered bad weather ahead of him, and that delay in hearing from the three crew members immediately to reach a telephone or telegraph office.

Detroit Greet Soviet Flyers

DETROIT, Oct. 28 (AP)—The four intrepid flyers of the Russian plane, "Land of the Soviets," were greeted today by Henry Ford after their arrival from Chicago at the Ford airport at Dearborn. The automobile manufacturer congratulated them on their achievement in conquering the storms of the northern Pacific ocean and placed the facilities of his airport at their disposal.

Tonight it was announced they would continue their journey to New York Wednesday morning. Meanwhile, they will be feted by various Slavic organizations of Detroit. They will be presented with ten farm tractors which will be shipped to Russia to be used in cultivating the soil of the Soviet Union.

End of Long Illness Came Last Evening

Funeral Arrangements Are Uncompleted; Capitol Grieves

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—Sen. Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, died tonight after an illness of several months.

Word of Burton's death grieved official Washington from President Hoover down. From time to time the president had called on the 77-year-old legislator to keep in close personal touch with his condition.

Among the late visitors to the bedside were Senator Fess of Ohio and Bishop William T. MacDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal church. Miss Grace Burton, a niece of the senator, and a nephew, William Burton, were with him through the last hours. He had been unable to take nourishment through the day.

Ever since Mr. Burton suffered a relapse in his long standing illness last week, messages of friendship had been reaching his home from Ohio and elsewhere. One today was from Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, through the British embassy. Mr. MacDowell expressed appreciation for the work the Ohio senator had long done in the cause of peace and expressed a devout wish for his recovery.

Death Follows Coma
Death came shortly before 10 o'clock. It followed a sinking spell which swept him into unconsciousness from which he did not recover. A rising temperature and fainting pulse already had alarmed attendants at his bedside, and they hastily summoned his physician, Dr. Robert Baker. Before the doctor could reach his residence, however, those gathered in the sickroom found that he had died.

Death Expected
Among his last visitors tonight was Bishop William T. MacDowell of the Methodist Episcopal church. The bishop yesterday had administered the sacrament to the dying man at his request before he lapsed into the unconsciousness which lasted until the end.

The aged man died without apparent pain. Drugs had been administered earlier in the day. For the last 24 hours he had been unable to take any nourishment, and his weakened condition late today had brought the statement from his physician that the end probably was not more than 24 hours away.

Funeral arrangements will not be made until tomorrow, but Senator Burton had made known his wishes to be buried at his home in Cleveland.

Works for Peace
When time shall write its final estimate of Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, it must turn for its most colorful chapters to his untiring efforts in behalf of world peace that climaxed more than two score years of intermittent public life.

At the age of 68, when most men are looking forward to retirement, he turned to congress to round out an active life by seven years of service in the house and senate devoted almost entirely to the furtherance of international amity.

By his return to both houses of congress the veteran statesman established a precedent. No other American had ever served first in the house, then in the senate, returned to the house and again served in the senate.

Burton Holds Record
Until Burton, John Quincy Adams with service in both houses, then in the presidency and again in the house and William E. Mason of Illinois with first in the house, then the senate, and once more in the house, had held the record.

Burton's second period of service in the house started as American troops were returning victorious from France and a war weary world was sighing for perpetual peace. He first advocated the abolition of poisonous gas in warfare; then threw his force behind a move to outlaw the aggressor nation in international strife; and finally clashed with his party leaders in the house in their contest with Calvin Coolidge in 1926 over the appropriation of funds to start the last three of the eight 10,000 ton cruisers authorized two years previously.

Fined $2,000 for Having Pheasants

REDFIELD, S. D., Oct. 28 (AP)—Because he had 150 pheasants in his possession the day before the season opened, Paul Jonkers of Lake Geneva, Wis., was fined $2,000 and costs today after arrest by Sheriff Floyd Bradley of Spink county. All but eight of the pheasants were canned. The pheasant season in South Dakota opens Tuesday. Jonkers is held in jail.

Hamlin Garland Pleas for Originality in New Writer

An art that will exist for its own sake and for the sake of truth, is the goal toward which the rising generation of writers must direct their pens, to bring out the finest and the best in literary history. Such a plea, a plea to write with the conviction that one is creating only what is new and worthwhile, was made by Hamlin Garland, Iowa's "literary tradition" at the opening round table of the year yesterday.

"Why follow the crowd?" Mr. Garland asked, and defined his question as meaning modern novels of the age old triangle plot. "I believe in writing stories of my day," he declared. "The trite sex novels of the man, wife, and a third party—that's not original nor new. That's the most ancient trick known to the literary world."

"In the present day the writer must compete with movies, the radio, and the greedy fingers of the advertisers," he conceded, "but to be a finer literature our work must be stamped with creative force—not merely the lust for money."

The lure of his literary ideal never wavering for himself, the Iowa writer, nearly 70 years old, has found that he can not give up his work and now is completing his second score of years as an author. He is

Dickman Talks to Humanists

"Belgium Wants Equal Language Rights"

"Equal language rights is the goal towards which the Flemish portion of Belgium is aspiring," Adolphe J. Dickman, assistant professor of Romance languages, said before a meeting of the Humanist society last night.

At the meeting, held at the home of Tacie Knease, instructor of Romance languages, Professor Dickman explained that Belgium is divided, linguistically, into two parts, the Flemish group, speaking the Holland-Dutch language, and the Walloon group, speaking the French language. For years the French language has been the language of the government, the universities, the army, and the bourgeoisie; the Flemish element, greatly in minority, being looked down upon by the Walloon group. The Holland-Dutch speaking people have come to resent this attitude towards them, and are demanding equal language rights with the French speaking people.

Professor Dickman, himself a native of Belgium, said that the occupation of Belgium by the Germans during the years 1914-1918 did much to increase this agitation, some of the Flemish people taking advantage of the reign of Germany to press their claims. Others of the Flemish people condemned this alliance with the enemy, thus making two factions within the Flemish group.

The following were elected to membership at the business meeting: Addison Alsop, instructor of music; J. C. Babcock, graduate assistant of Romance languages; Elizabeth Barton, instructor of Romance languages; Enrique Blanco, associate professor of Romance languages; Rolfe Brooking, graduate assistant of English; Edith D. Edwards, stenographer of Hyg. and Prev. Med.

"Why follow the crowd?" Mr. Garland asked, and defined his question as meaning modern novels of the age old triangle plot. "I believe in writing stories of my day," he declared. "The trite sex novels of the man, wife, and a third party—that's not original nor new. That's the most ancient trick known to the literary world."

"In the present day the writer must compete with movies, the radio, and the greedy fingers of the advertisers," he conceded, "but to be a finer literature our work must be stamped with creative force—not merely the lust for money."

The lure of his literary ideal never wavering for himself, the Iowa writer, nearly 70 years old, has found that he can not give up his work and now is completing his second score of years as an author. He is

Dickman Talks to Humanists

"Belgium Wants Equal Language Rights"

"Equal language rights is the goal towards which the Flemish portion of Belgium is aspiring," Adolphe J. Dickman, assistant professor of Romance languages, said before a meeting of the Humanist society last night.

At the meeting, held at the home of Tacie Knease, instructor of Romance languages, Professor Dickman explained that Belgium is divided, linguistically, into two parts, the Flemish group, speaking the Holland-Dutch language, and the Walloon group, speaking the French language. For years the French language has been the language of the government, the universities, the army, and the bourgeoisie; the Flemish element, greatly in minority, being looked down upon by the Walloon group. The Holland-Dutch speaking people have come to resent this attitude towards them, and are demanding equal language rights with the French speaking people.

Professor Dickman, himself a native of Belgium, said that the occupation of Belgium by the Germans during the years 1914-1918 did much to increase this agitation, some of the Flemish people taking advantage of the reign of Germany to press their claims. Others of the Flemish people condemned this alliance with the enemy, thus making two factions within the Flemish group.

The following were elected to membership at the business meeting: Addison Alsop, instructor of music; J. C. Babcock, graduate assistant of Romance languages; Elizabeth Barton, instructor of Romance languages; Enrique Blanco, associate professor of Romance languages; Rolfe Brooking, graduate assistant of English; Edith D. Edwards, stenographer of Hyg. and Prev. Med.

Party Postponed by Club Members

The Pioneer dinner party of the University and Triangle clubs has been postponed from Tuesday, Oct. 29 to Tuesday, Nov. 12. The date had been set forward, but owing to several conflicts, the party will be held on a later date, which is the day on which the Triangle club has its regular monthly picnic dinner.

Mrs. C. E. Seashore will be in charge, assisted by a committee of 16, representing the two clubs. Only members of the clubs are invited.

Agnes Kurz, who is teaching chemistry at East Waterloo high school, spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kurz, 317 E. Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan, 516 Ronalds street, spent the week-end in Clinton at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Edward Halbach.

End That Feud Now

FOR A YEAR hostilities have raged between Iowa and Wisconsin. They began last fall when several hundred Badger fans, exulting unduly in their slippery victory from the Hawkeyes, uprooted the Iowa goal posts and tore down several flags. Since that time, to breathe a good word for Wisconsin has been treason in the minds of Iowa followers.

Revenge came Saturday when the Hawkeyes won a clean cut triumph over the Cardinals. Although the after game onslaught against the goal posts was repulsed, it took on the proportions of a riot.

Imagine the scene—several thousand young men slugging each other, attempting to tear down colors, and convinced that they were doing it for the "honor" of their respective universities. This picture turns from the ludicrous to the pathetic when it is realized that these same groups represent—to a large measure—the future intellectual leadership of two great states.

No doubt most of the participants regret their part in the fight as they think it over logically. Yet, under the stress of similar excitement they would probably do it again tomorrow if the opportunity was presented.

Now things stand even. The most rabid feeling that Iowa's "honor" has been avenged, although it is a question whether the affair Saturday helped any university's good name.

Wisconsin is not all bad; nor are all Iowans farmers who "smell of the morning's chores." There have been illogical conceptions on both sides. One has been as guilty as the other of preserving the animosity.

The two universities have much in common—educationally, socially, and athletically. It is high time we start to "act our age," and join hands with Wisconsin in the promotion of the good will which ought to exist between the two schools.

Communism in the South

COMMUNISM generally makes its greatest inroads where the population is intermixed with a number of alien races. Fortunately its opponents are aware that such sections are its "meat" and organized opposition rises up quickly, and against organized opposition communism is not able to stand. The party leaders, therefore, have turned their attention to the textile mills of the south—particularly to those in North Carolina and the states south of Virginia where wages are at a minimum and hours at a maximum. The south is made of of pure blood for the most part, with little or no racial mixture except the black peoples. Interestingly enough the communist leaders' attempts to organize the Negroes into what are known as "nuclei" have failed utterly. The Negro has a certain amount of instinctive horse sense!

In spite of the uniformity of race in those parts, the leaders under William Z. Foster have found "good pickin's" for their theories in the south, and during the last two years have added innumerable members to their organization, the National Textile Workers union, from mills in North Carolina, Georgia, and other southern states. It is not through the high minded ideas of their creed that they have appealed to the southern laborer. The average southern laborer doesn't know a communist idea from a book review. But the group leaders have elinked the melodious metal against steel of higher wages beside his ear and tickled his conceit with the promise of shorter hours than he has ever dreamed of, and without asking when nor where, he has believed them.

Early this month the results of this communistic inroad revealed themselves. In no fewer than 12 southern milk towns preparations were set in order for a series of "demonstrations," or to speak vulgarly, strikes. Due to certain legal differences which arose to involve the party at that time, the "demonstrations" never demonstrated, but the spirit that germinated their preparations is still there.

It is time the communistic inroad was checked, for the state control of property, labor, etc., idea is built upon the shifting sands of politics and not upon the solid rock of economics. Labor conditions may not be all that they should throughout the southern milling districts, but if the past may be cited as indicative of the future, communism will not deliver the goods viz. high wages and shorter hours.

The very bases upon which the communistic leaders have manipulated their southern campaign have been not uneconomic but deceitful and underhanded. Their program has been twofold: first, the surveyors who were got together by the party to study conditions, sought to bring to light as many points of friction between laborer and capitalist as they could, either uncover or invent by means of frenzied oratory and pastel colored literature. Second, they have set up wherever possible "nuclei" with local men as leaders apparently, in order to appeal to the southerner's hatred of the "furriner," but with an inconspicuous organizer as the actual protagonist of the group.

Their aim is to abolish capitalism and to create a mass political party of the working class, which is in flat contradiction to the policy of the trade union, whose objectives are economic rather than political. Whereas the communist appeals to the ignorance and stupidity of the laborer, the trade union appeals to the thoughtful and economic thinker. The trade union works on the theory that the laborer is not a political force but an economic force, and that the solving of his problems is up to persons who are longheaded on the subject of labor and not to politicians who are long-winded on the subject of race equality, miscegenation and other questions that belong in the drawing room and not in the mill yard.

A Filipino Objects

A FILIPINO student at Nebraska university complains of his consul at Washington of a "social ban" placed by Dean Thompson against Filipino students mingling with American girls.

Dean Thompson, citing several recent marriages between American girls and Filipinos, and one marriage of an American girl to a Chinese, explained, in a letter to the Daily Nebraskan, that he was not prohibiting all association between the two, but was limiting it to "entirely platonic and incidental and educational wherever it occurs." And that "Filipinos are not held in as high regard since those marriages as they were before."

Dean Thompson is to be commended by every American and by every student of sociology on his practical ruling. The restriction he imposes will not preclude such chance social relationship as there might be—in fact, it may, by reason of the unorthodox, daring suggestion offered, even tend to excite adventure in the always-present few who find happiness solely in unconventional paths—but it will place a clandestine stigma on the unnecessary, unnatural co-mingling found occasionally wherever cosmopolitan groups center.

In Chicago and other great cities cabarets and night clubs harbor mixed couples. It is solely a business proposition. And being of a business consideration, it smacks of vice. The pretext of an educational motive is frankly waived.

Ultimate marriage between two of different color is so rare, and when occurring so seldom successful, that Dean Thompson acted fairly and judiciously when he prohibited so far as possible a free trial-and-error system in relationship. Well meaning students at the University of Nebraska undoubtedly have adequate facilities to mingle in approved cosmopolitan groups for educational purposes.

The Evening of Life

IT IS A common opinion that wealthy and influential persons very often escape their due penalty for any illicit actions. There is no doubt considerable truth in such a statement. However, the senate investigation of the notorious Teapot Dome oil scandal although somewhat slow in action has finally brought about justice.

Of the three men principally involved in the shady deal Harry Sinclair has been sentenced to a jail term and heavy fine. Albert B. Fall, former secretary of interior, was Friday convicted of felony which carries with it a fine up to $300,000 in addition to imprisonment up to three years, while Edward L. Doheny will be subject to trial next January for giving a bribe.

The greatest penalty, however, that these men will sustain is the scorn of public opinion and respect. The closing years of their lives will not be hallowed by the sense of having served the public to the best of their ability and as having dealt honestly with their fellowmen.

Mr. Fall, 68 years old, broken in health, has been denounced by the supreme court as a "faithless public officer." Harry Sinclair near a nervous collapse has been branded in the evening of his life with the mark of a convict and his wrongly acquired wealth is not a source of pride and self-respect. Mr. Doheny, now 73 years old, will very probably be placed in a like condition.

All this proves again the worth of the adage "honesty is the best policy."

Tear Up the Tracks

WITH THE discontinuance of street car service from Fairchild street to the City park along Dubuque street, it seems that a much needed improvement in that vicinity would be the tearing up of the tracks in that area and the widening of the pavement. At the present time, the tracks are of no good to the streets as they are no longer being used.

An unusually large number of automobiles are generally parked along the curb in that district. With the discontinuance of the street car tracks, the property belonging to the street car company from the Triangle house north to the bridge should be bought by the city and used for a street. In that way, cars could be parked on both sides of the street and yet a double row of traffic could easily prevail.

Pheasants Fly as Hunters Wie in Iowa Corn Fields; Bagging Begins Wednesday

By HENRY B. HOOK
"There goes that pheasant, nail him!" Bang—bang—bang, and maybe a few more bangs, and maybe, no pheasant, for the birds have a peculiar shyness all their own, and are not as easy to lay down as ducks or cottontails.
A large number of Iowa City men will be represented among the thousands of hunters who will invade the northern Iowa corn-fields Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday, during the open pheasant season.
Among those who have donned their hunting togs and polished their weapons for the annual treat are: Edward Strub, Charles Strub, and George E. Leonard, who will divide their time between ducks and pheasants in the vicinity of Spirit Lake, in Dickinson county. Robert Tomlin, local tailor, says that he will do his chasing around Emmetsburg and Estherville. Fred Miller of Miller and Miller Feed company, with Walter Jones, Otis Elevator company, will try their luck around Clarksville.
Chris Zetter, H. L. Bailey, Edward Hezard, and Joe Holubar, maintain that Butler county is as plentiful with pheasants as any of the counties, according to past experience, and will point their guns in the direction of Shell Rock and Parkersburg. I. F. "Dewey" Donbrava of Racines and Frank Malcom, local barber, will try their luck in Weight and Hancock counties. Grundy county will be the hunting ground for Fred Jacobs, 11 E. Bloomington street, who has not missed out on a single open season. Mike Mitvalsky, A4 of Cedar Rapids, intends to roam the meadows around Clarksville.
A number of men at the Phi Kappa Sigma house are basing their confidence in Sanford M. Stoddard, A3 of Shell Rock, who will pilot a party of Phi Kaps along the Wapsipinnac river next Saturday. Included in the party are J. A. Varenham, C4 of Creston; Carol H. Wild, A3 of Allisor; H. Stanley Woodring, J3 of Council Bluffs; Harold W. Eck, C3 of Richland; Ray Hauptert, L2 of Louisville, Ky., and H. Lloyd Smith, A3 of Council Bluffs. Mr. Stoddard will be host to a pheasant dinner at his home Saturday evening, if the pheasants materialize.
"The early bird catches the worm," and those hunters who have had experience with the ringnecks in former years will make an effort to invade the open territory on the first day of the season. On that day the comparatively tame pheasants may be shot with much less difficulty than on Friday and Saturday, for after the first day the birds will be somewhat gun shy, and will not venture out.
Many of the farmers have taken time out from their corn husking duties this last week to hang out "No Hunting" signs. In most cases the signs do not mean that the farmers entirely object to the hunters coming on their premises. They are willing to grant permission to hunt on their land within reason, but object to having their premises overrun with careless and destructive hunters.
The farmers in all the open counties have petitioned for the open season, which indicates that they favor to check the increase of the pheasant. They do object, however, to promiscuous shooting, trespassing on their property in large numbers, leaving gates open, and cutting fences.
Hunters should particularly observe the bag limit and the hours of shooting. Violators of the law,

Officials Search for Psychopathic Patient

According to reports from the psychopathic hospital last night, R. W. McCoy, who escaped Sunday morning, has not been found. McCoy escaped two weeks ago, but was traced to Cedar Rapids, where he had gone in a stolen car.
McCoy was wearing a blue checkered shirt, gray trousers and bed room slippers, when last seen. A man answering this description was reported seen about five miles south of Lone Tree Sunday afternoon, but officials did not find him.

Velie Motors File Suit Against Men

Alleging that full payment has not yet been made on a promissory note dated 1922, the Velie Motors corporation has filed suit against Joseph A. and Albert F. O'Leary. They ask judgment for the sum due, including interest, totaling $36,932, and costs for the action.
The case will come before the November term of district court. Stevenson and Long are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Woman Gets Skull, Hand Injuries When Cars Collide Sunday

Mrs. Anna Johnson, 518 N. Van Buren street, was injured Sunday morning when the car in which she was riding collided with one driven by Dr. L. S. Potter at the intersection of Davenport and Van Buren streets.

Mrs. Johnson received skull and hand injuries, which were treated at a local hospital. Her condition is reported as not serious, but she is badly bruised and shaken.
She was riding in a car driven by her son-in-law, Harry E. Black, 518 N. Van Buren street, when the collision occurred. Though Mr. Black or Dr. Potter were not injured, the two cars were badly damaged.

Man Incriminates Family in Series of Car Robberies

A family involved in theft was disclosed by the confession of George Beltz, when arrested for auto theft in Lancaster, Mo., Sept. 18. He supplied information incriminating Glenn Beltz, his brother, and Uriah Beltz, his father. Glenn Beltz was found guilty of a series of robberies and sentenced Sept. 1 to the state reformatory at Anamosa for 10 years.
Uriah Beltz is now being tried here for receiving stolen goods. The case was brought before the court Thursday and has not yet gone into the hands of a jury. George Beltz, an important witness, escaped from the county jail Sunday and is still at large.

"THE MASKED HOSTESS"

by Blair Stevenson

CHAPTER XXVIII. At the tumultuous breakfast with which Monty's splashing champagne party was concluded and during which it began to break up, Nathalie sat watching Stefano wonderingly, trying to match what John Sloan had told her about him with his carefree air and his light manner of being all seemed to be a man with endless resources at his command and not weighted with a serious thought. She believed Sloan was right—that Stefano was in an embarrassed money situation; for Sloan was generally right and he had told her that he had communicated with South America in checking Stefano up. She believed, too that Stefano was being used by others, as Sloan had said, and was at The Firs preliminary to dropping out of sight. As an aristocrat herself, she realized that he would seize any opportunity to do so—but she could not think of any reason why those who might be financing Stefano could be willing to pay so lavishly for the hospitality he was dispensing at The Firs. She had not seen the article in Gotham Topics intimating that The Firs was being "promoted" to sell to some social climber. If she had it would only bewilder her for as an insider in society she knew The Firs was in a neighborhood where not even a social climber cared to settle down. She was able to do all this calculating about Stefano because he no longer touched her in the emotional side. She watched him, fascinated with the lightness and sparkle of him while she knew him to be in a financially tight place. Then she thought of the car he drove, an expoliceman's. Why? And as there rose before her swiftly the face of Ferris as he stood at her aunt's door at Southampton that day, demanding to see her and dash wildly after her aunt's servants had stood him off and she managed to escape from the house, there came to her—and she possessed her own what she believed to be the certain explanation of Ferris and Stefano and why The Firs had been opened and society invited in. She had been a passenger on a steamship once when police officials had boarded it at a Greek port and taken ashore an American bank employee who had embezzled money at the institution where he worked. A fellow passenger, an important New York banker with an authoritative air, had looked on approvingly at the defaulted clerk was taken off the vessel under guard, and had informed her father and other passengers, whom he knew, that American moneyed institutions never spare time nor effort nor any expense in bringing back to justice those who perpetrate frauds upon them and try to flee. "It has been found expedient," he had said in his pompous way, "to go to the ends of the earth if necessary, for any person guilty of fraud against an American bank. All important American financial institutions are members of an association which has its detectives in every quarter of the world. And it makes no difference who the criminal may be—how highly placed or what his influences may be. And the bankers' association will spend thousands to bring to justice one whose crime against a bank may have been for a contemptible sum." She shivered as she recalled his

him and ask for "action" in respect to Nathalie. Knowing now who Nathalie was and what Monty, through Sloan, would soon apprise her that she was well off and could come out of her incognito, he foresaw that even if he was able to keep Ferris in the dark another day, that by the end of it Ferris's scheme to own The Firs would be frustrated and he himself be dislodged from his pretended status as his host. And since this was inevitable and he was in a bad corner for money and Ferris had promised him ten thousand dollars, he meant to have it. "The filthy swine," he was saying to himself as he looked at Nathalie and was glad for her that her troubles were done. "He shan't escape paying it. I'll all but bartered my honor for it and I propose to have every cent. The swine—" As so often happens when the life ebbed out of a party, everyone at the breakfast tables rose almost simultaneously. Nathalie saw that the house would be emptied quickly and hastened upstairs for a wrap to put over her own dancing dress when she saw one of Stefano's servants who told her carrying his hat and motor coat. Full daylight had come and she had no fear that there was anyone in her rooms. She found them in order and the windows fastened and shuttered as she had left them. They had not been disturbed. But before she left them it occurred to her that when she went to Brookville she would need the pocket check book Polnd had given her and she lost a few minutes in a search she had to make for it before she was in the upper hall again on her way downstairs. At the top of the stairs she halted, weak with terror. There was no one below but Stefano—and Ferris, who had just come in. "Morning Captain," Ferris said, "How is every little thing?" "Ripping, old chap," she heard Stefano answer. "Come to pay up? If you are, I'm prepared with the information you've said you want." CHICAGO GRAIN CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—Cash wheat market was dull but firm today. Trading basis was steady to 3c higher, the latter on hard grades. Prices were 1 to 2c firmer. Shipping sales were 15,000 bushels and receipts estimated at 35 cars. Good export business was reported and foreign points accepted practically all offerings. Sales in all positions estimated more than 1,000,000 bushels, mainly hard winters. Leading Canadian exporters reported fair business but were not offering. Excellent demand prevailed for cash corn from Chicago industries. A local shipper was also in the market for contract grades. Prices were steady to 1c firmer. Trading basis was unchanged on old crop and steady to 1c easier on new. Receipts were estimated at 183 cars, including about 25 cars of new crop. Shipping sales were 134,000 bushels. Country offerings to arrive small and bookings only 5,000 bushels. Cancellations were 7,700 bushels of No. 2 yellow.

TWO MARINES LOVE A NURSE, FLY AND FIGHT There's Football, and Nicaragua, Too "FLIGHT" (Altaker) (One star means fairly good; two stars, good; three stars, excellent; four stars, extraordinary; no stars—just another movie.) Produced by Columbia. Directed by Frank R. Capra. Presented at the Studebaker theater. THE CAST "Panama" Williams Jack Holt Ellnor Lila Lee "Lefty" Phelps Ralph Graves Major Alan Roscoe Steve Roberts Harold Goodwin Lobo Jimmy De La Cruze By Mae Tinee Good morning! The Studebaker has gone movie again. With excellent reason as you will say after witnessing "Flight." This is, technically, I should imagine, the best flying film to date. The air stuff is magnificent and most of it must have been on the level. Miniatures, if used, have been so cleverly manipulated as to be entirely deceptive. The drone of the powerful planes as they sweep through the air stirs blood and imagination and you learn all about the Marine Flying Corps FROM them. For "Flight" was made with their cooperation, and its story circles about the marines, a pilot and a student, who love the same pretty nurse. The film opens with a football game where Ralph Graves as "Lefty" Phelps loses the day for his alma mater by running the wrong way. Unable to stand the ridicule that follows his homeplay he joins the Marine Flying Corps, where his instructor is Sergt. "Panama" Williams, who, by the way, had been the one man to give a word of sympathy and encouragement after the game. "Panama" takes a friendly interest in the boy (who, as impersonated by Mr. Graves, is a bit too old and husky to win much sympathy for the temperamental "Lefty") and the latter proves his most apt pupil. BUT—on the occasion of the chap's first solo flight, the panic that had muddled his mind on the gridiron, again possesses him. He is unable to leave the ground, crashes, is dragged from the burning plane by the sergeant and lands in the hospital. Once more he is an object of pity and ridicule and an edict has been issued that he is never again to handle the controls of a machine. Well—Ellnor loves him (it burned me up to have her prefer him to the sergeant) and "Panama," who loves her, and is ignorant of the state of affairs between her and "Lefty" arranges things so that the boy is permitted to ship as his mechanic when the squad is ordered to Nicaragua to quell a terrible bandit gang that has proved too much for the forces stationed there. "Flight" is, all told, a gripping, workmanlike production. Dialogue and sound effects are excellent, direction is brilliant, photography, superb. I am informed that the action in the clouds was recorded by automatic, electrically controlled cameras, fastened to the plane and so placed as to enable the actors to photograph themselves without assistance of a camera man, the cameras being sighted much as a rifle would be before the ship left the ground. The director had radio connection with the pilots and also used the marine system of the panel signaling. The acting is splendid, according special kowtow and sympathy to Jack Holt. "Flight," an independent production, is a mighty fine movie and don't you forget it! See you tomorrow.

WILLIAM POWELL He gives his comrades a white feather, a symbol of cowardice. RICHARD ARLEN He is four times branded "coward," but he makes them eat their words. FAY WRAY She loves him—but she cannot find it in her heart to marry a coward. CLIVE BROOK He is courageous, but the hero, who redeems himself, is even more fearless. NOAH BEERY He is a cruel tyrant, a slave trader, a man whom physical force must and does subdue.

Hawkeye Gridders Drill on Passes With Gopher Game Two Weeks Away

Hickman Gets Back in Action After Illness

Sophomore Returns to Varsity; Drills on Passing

Although the Hawkeyes have no game scheduled for Saturday, Coach Burton A. Ingwersen began yesterday to drill his men for the Minnesota contest to be staged here Nov. 9. Randall Hickman, flashy sophomore back who has been absent from practice since early in the season with an attack of pleurisy, reported in uniform yesterday.

Just before Hickman took ill, Coach Ingwersen began giving him work on punting in an endeavor to make him a triple-threat man. He is a consistent ball toter and a fairly accurate passer. Last year he was awarded his numeral in both football and basketball.

The practice yesterday consisted mostly of pass offense, with Mike Farroh, Jim Haggerty, Leo and Lloyd Jenvold, Nanny Pape, Pigmatelli, Reedquist, Rogge and Mastrogony being on the receiving end of the tosses of Capt. Bill Glassgow.

Team Uninjured

The team, as a whole, emerged from the Wisconsin game without any major injuries. Aside from a few bruised muscles, all the men are in good shape, and ready to combat the powerful Gopher team.

According to the Hawk mentor, drill will be light until Thursday when more intensive work will begin. The first string line received a needed rest yesterday, after having competed against the strong Wisconsin forward wall.

Three Major Contests

For the last three successive weekends, the Hawks have been keyed for major contests. The upland trend of football fortunes led them from defeat to tie and from tie to victory. Ohio downed the Hawks in the season's Big Ten opener. Bob Zupke's Illini tied them and they downed the Badgers.

With nearly two weeks to recuperate before the Gopher game, it should not be so difficult to point toward another important tilt.

Strikes and Spares

Although it made the high score for the single game (942) and the high score for the three games (2658), the Gartner Motor company bowling team was defeated two games out of three last night, by Racine's in the business men's league. Baldwin, playing with Gartner Motor, was high man for the three games, bowling 601. C. Tauber of the Instant Tire company, was high for the single game, with 24 pins.

Russell Clothing company took two out of the three games from Dewey's cafe, while Instant Tire company won two and lost one to Lenocho and Cilek.

PIGSKIN PHENOMS OF 1929

Marty Brill
"FORMER PENN BACK—NOW ONE OF ROCKNE'S '4 HORSEMEN'"

Dartmouth seems to be personified at football this season by Al Marsters, a great back; and Marty Brill is already exciting avid public interest as one of Knute Rockne's latest edition of Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen." Marsters became a "Big Green" star in 1927. This is Brill's first year as a "Roaming Rock" but he is experienced, having shown stellar promise during two years at the University of Pennsylvania.

In Marsters, Dartmouth has a replica of the Army's Cagle—a natural player who can do all things well and, true to the tradition of most superstar backs, Al's finest forte is open field running. Marsters has "the snake hips" of a Malian that glide away from the grasp of lunging tacklers, he can side-step when under full steam, wheel on a dime, twist with a top's spin through secondaries, and graze the side-line while sprinting just within bounds. Only the hardest sort of a firm tackle can bring Marsters down.

Last season, injuries and a rather weak line all but dimmed Marsters as a great star, but this year, Coach Jackson Cannell believes Dartmouth has a forward well worthy of "The Big Green" Youngstroms, Cunningham, Dielbis, Spears and Parkers of the past. If that be true, "Antelope Al" should win an All-American rating this year.

Brill, without seeking it, got a great publicity break when acclaimed by certain critics as Notre Dame's "Mystery Man" soon after he flashed brilliantly among the 1929 "Horsemen." Teamed with Carideo at quarter, Mullins at full, and Jack Elder at the other half, Brill is likely to strike the stride that he never quite reached when starting out with the Quakers.

Rockne has given the impression that Brill's chief function will be that of an interior half—with opponents watching Sprinter Elder so intently—Knute is apt to nominate his "Mystery Man" for one or two of those typical Notre Dame climax runs. And how Brill can run!

Five Tilts on Iowa Schedule

Non-Conference Games Booked for Cagers

Starting off with a non conference tilt with Des Moines, Ia., on Dec. 9 here four non conference basketball games have been scheduled as openers in the 1929-30 season to take place before the Christmas holidays, according to an announcement made yesterday by Coach Rolle Williams. A fifth non conference game will be scheduled immediately following the holidays.

The Pittsburgh Panthers, one of Iowa's staunchest cage rivals, are next on the card with a game scheduled for Dec. 16 here. The third battle will be waged out of town with Marquette at Milwaukee, Dec. 21. A tilt with Notre Dame at South Bend will complete the pre-holiday lineup, Dec. 23.

The schedule for the second semester will be announced as soon as the Big Ten situation is cleared up. Coach Williams put his varsity basketballers through an intensive drill on passing and fundamental plays, with special attention to speed and alertness yesterday afternoon. The cagers still had a little lead in their heels, but most of it was shaken out before the session closed.

More than 20 men reported for the work out. Among the forwards were Spradling, Plunkitt, Williamson, Fligg and Eshleman. Benson and Bliekan were working with the center, Coach Enoch Egeshaw of Washington, rushed onto the field and congratulated a touchdown to the Webfoots.

"I saw Robinson coming down the field with that ball and something flashed in my mind," said Westweller after the game. "I knew I shouldn't do it, but I just couldn't help it and I went after him."

Practice sessions will be held twice weekly, Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Fundamentals will be reviewed the first few weeks.

Iowa Harriers Take Workout

While the reserves and freshmen were swinging through a breezy three miles yesterday afternoon, the varsity harriers still stiff from Saturday's race loped through a short easy workout.

For several days the varsity will take it easy, then lengthen its work outs in preparation for their five mile tour of Finkbine field with Minnesota on Dec. 15.

Tomorrow the varsity will race the freshmen over the two mile course. Medals will be given to the first three to place.

Skein Issues Call for Frosh Cagers

Jack Skien requests the presence of all freshman basketball aspirants this evening in the field house at 7 o'clock for a housewarming party to inaugurate the winter sport.

Player Runs Wrong Way; Sideline Tackle Loses Game 14 to 0

WASHINGTON STADIUM, SEATTLE, Oct. 28 (AP)—Laroy Westweller, elongated Washington end, joined the ranks of Roy Reigels and Fred Merkle et al yesterday with a tackle from the sidelines in the second period of the Oregon-Washington football game which Oregon won 14 to 0.

Bobby Robinsons, Oregon's Negro halfback, intercepted a Washington pass on his five yard line and was away in a flash. He passed the center of the field near the sidelines with four teammates protecting him from behind.

As he neared the Washington 20 yard line, far ahead of the Washington players, Westweller, who was on his way to the dressing room with a blanket wrapped around his shoulders, flung the cloak aside and tore onto the field. Much to the amazement of the fans the husky end hauled the Oregon halfback down on the Washington 25 yard line.

Before Referee Bill Muligan had a chance to make a decision on the play, Coach Enoch Egeshaw of Washington, rushed onto the field and congratulated a touchdown to the Webfoots.

"I saw Robinson coming down the field with that ball and something flashed in my mind," said Westweller after the game. "I knew I shouldn't do it, but I just couldn't help it and I went after him."

Handy Drills U. High Team for Wellman

Highly displeas'd with the showing made by his football team in last Friday's game with Tipton, Coach E. R. Handy lectured his men on their poor work and lack of fighting spirit shown in the game last Saturday. Especially stressing the work of the line Handy dwelt on the subject of charging and bringing down the man tackled.

After the talking to, the University high mentor took his outfit onto the gridiron to put into practice the work of charging and tackling. Forcing his ball carriers to run a gauntlet of line men to develop a better offense and defense, the coach gave the men an extended period on drill in this work.

Wellman high school is the Blue and White's next opponent, the game to be played on the Wellman gridiron. Last year the University high's game with Wellman was cancelled on account of very adverse weather conditions, so there is no means of estimating the strength of the opposition.

BAKER TAGES FIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—Sergt. Sammy Baker, soldier welterweight from Mitchell field N. Y., knocked out Joey Silvers in the eighth round of their 10 round bout at the Jamaica arena tonight. Baker won easily, putting over a right to the jaw for the final punch in the eighth. He weighed 147 pounds, Silvers 152.

Glenna Collett to Enter British Golf Championship Flight

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—Miss Glenna Collett, America's greatest woman golfer, is going to Europe again next year to try for the British championship, it was revealed here today by the four times national titleholder.

In announcing her decision to make another trip in quest of the coveted championship now held by Miss Joyce Wethered, Miss Collett said that a number of America's ranking women players have discussed the matter of joining forces abroad to compete in the British championship, and to play the courses of England, Germany, Scotland and France. This indicates that 1930 may see the greatest invasion of Europe yet made by American women golfers.

There is the possibility that if a sufficient number of top-notch American players make the journey, a representative squad will be formed for informal team matches in England.

Miss Collett's determination to play abroad again was prompted by her splendid showing in the 1929 tournament, when she went to the finals against Miss Wethered. The fact that although finally defeated, she rounded out the first nine holes in that championship match in a sensational 34, to lead her rival by 4 up, has convinced the American ace that she has a chance to turn the tables on her English rival.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28 (AP)—Charles Berlinger, Canadian light heavyweight boxer, won the decision over Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, in a 10 round bout at the arena tonight. Berlinger weighed 175 pounds, two pounds more than Jones.

Frosh Hold Slow Drill

Yearlings Tutored on Minnesota Plays

Frosh gridmen loafed through a sluggish practice session yesterday afternoon. Ringmaster of the yearling troops, Jack Skien, consulted his assistants on dates for future intracamp struggles. "Spike" Nelson's Yellowjackets will probably clash with Wayne Smedes' Huskies this Thursday. Skien's Giants and Lesley Irvin's Warriors may meet this Saturday.

Minnesota plays and formations were taught several groups. It is not likely the first year men will scrimmage the varsity until next week. The brevity of the workout displeased the candidates, who were anxious for action. Skien assured them that this afternoon there would be action aplenty.

The standing of the inter-squad league in the furious dash for the yearling championship is as follows:

W. T. L.	Pct.
Huskies	1 1 0 1.000
Giants	0 0 0 .000
Yellowjackets	0 0 0 .000
Warriors	0 1 1 .000

Walker, Hudkins Fight for Middleweight Title in Los Angeles Tonight

Hudkins Bids for Walker's Fistic Crown

Nebraska Challenger to Try Second Time for Boxing Honor

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 28 (AP)—Mickey Walker's fistic crown will be placed on the boxing mat of the world at Wrigley field tomorrow night when Ace Hudkins makes his second bid for the middleweight title against the toy bulldog of Rumson, N. J.

Realizing that defeat probably will mark the exit of the vanquished from the 160 pound division, both scrappers will climb into the ring in superb condition, as the result of a month of conditioning.

The champion broke training camp today at Spohrer ranch in the Ventura hills. The contender packed up his belongings at East-tanchury ranch in the orange groves yesterday and went through three light rounds at a gymnasium here today to finish off.

Walker, generally considered to be a bit heavier for the middleweight class, was reported by his manager, Jack "Doc" Kearns, to tip the beam at 162 pounds. The Nebraska wildcat weighed 157 before his final workout.

While the general opinion based on 8 to 10 betting odds placed the champion a favorite to retain his title, the outcome of the 10 round battle was conceded to depend on the change which has come over the pair since their meeting in Chicago a year ago last summer.

Walker contends that on that night he had a decided advantage over Hudkins, who was making his first stab at the middleweight division. The former Lincoln, Neb., newsboy insists that he was never so surprised in his life when the battle was awarded Mickey.

Since that time the fast stepping, two fisted brawler from the Corn-husker state has improved his style, judging from the fight with Armand Emanuel, when he met the light heavyweight's stabbing left to outbox the San Francisco barrister. He has also added several pounds in weight, and maintains that he can hit harder than ever.

Coach Wells Pleased by Grid Showing

For the first time in weeks, Coach George Wells was pleased with the showing of his Little Hawks. The impressive Red and White win over the Washington high eleven of Cedar Rapids last Saturday on Shrad-der field was the cause.

Team spirit was more in evidence than ever before, and that is the principal thing the City high men- tor has been after. The line de- fense was excellent. The forward wall held the fast charging Tiger backs in check during the entire game. The backfield offered a bet- ter attack, both in ball carrying and interference.

There are a few men on the casualty list who received injuries in the Washington high game, name- ly Stimmler who has a severe hip bruise that will keep him out of the play for some time. Horack received a wrenched back and Vestermark is nursing a badly battered face, but both are expected to be back in uni- form in a short time.

Coach Wells, in last night's prac- tice session pointed out a few of the defects of last week's game and out- lined the plan of the attack for the Grinnell game when the locals visit the foreign lot.

Hilt Shepherd, 22 of Mount Pleas- ant, is now in charge of athletics at North high school in Des Moines. While attending the university, Mr. Shepherd affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon and was captain of the swim- ming team in 1922.

Cassery Says:

Iowa Deserves Badger Support for Services in Past Years

Editors Note: Hank Cassery, sports editor of the Madison, Wis. Capital Times wrote the fol- lowing in his column appearing in that paper Saturday after- noon. The article shows a friendly attitude towards the University of Iowa.

The news of Oran Pape's eligibil- ity was glad tidings for not only the Hawkeye coaches and squad but for local football fans and the coaches and players who represent the Uni- versity of Wisconsin. Iowa has been picked over more than they de- serve and the Hawks are not in a position to defend themselves.

The expulsion of Iowa from the Big Ten was done on Direc- tor Belting's say so, and we haven't any definite reason to be- lieve that this same disgruntled director, who has been given the gate by the Hawk school after he had impeded their prog- ress in all branches of sports, might not be a bit prejudiced when it came to revealing the secrets of the athletic depart- ment to the Big Ten faculty.

Personally the writer will always believe that the Hawk director acted like a small boy who wants to be the captain or he won't play. It was evi- dent that Belting wasn't wanted at the Hawk school, but the $7,500 loomed large and he was deter- mined to hang on as long as possible. Furthermore, under his regime, the coaching staff at the Hawk school was the lowest paid in the Big Ten, with the single exception of the ath- letic director. He wanted to look like a big shot business man by keeping salaries low, but he received the usual salary that other directors are paid.

But that's all past and gone and in E. H. Lauer, the Iowa school has a man that is known to be square, but won't stand for anyone taking picks at his school. He'll battle forever for his boys when he believes they are right, but as a director he will keep the school as clean as it is possible from any subsidizing and recruiting of athletes. He cannot control the alumni in all cases, but neither can the other schools in the country and it be- comes increasingly more evident that a majority of the schools in the Western conference want Iowa readmitted. I know of but one school that is against such a proposition and they may come to see the light ere long.

Burton Ingwersen has battled all season against charges of this and that but despite these handicaps he has welded together an excellent team. The boys all love their coach and would go through Hades for him. Burt is a nervous individual but he is full of fire and he had his lids going great Saturday afternoon at Camp Randall. Willie Glassgow was getting away a number of good kicks, but Mike Farroh, the greatest blocking back in the middle west was outkicking the Hawk captain. Far- roh is an ideally built athlete, lean as a greyhound but with tremendous power of arm and leg. He is the key man in the Hawk backfield and many a coach would trade a couple of his great ball carriers for a play- er of Farroh's type. As a defensive star, he leaves little to be desired.

George Bresnahan, track coach at Iowa is here with the cross country team. George was a pupil of Coach Tom Jones and he absorbed a great deal of knowledge from Tom as a com- petitor and since has made a careful study of track athletics until he stands as one of the best younger men engaged in this profession. George was the goat of the Iowa expulsion from the Big Ten, but anyone realizes that he was without blame, or at least as free from it as any other Big Ten director.

Iowa stood by Wisconsin when we were having trouble getting foot- ball games and agreed to play two successive games here, when we couldn't schedule contests with

Boy Scout Camp Inspected Yesterday

More than 50 persons, according to scout executive Paul McGuire, took advantage of the opportunity to inspect the John B. Snow cabin at the Rotary-Boy Scout camp Sunday afternoon. Five scouts, picked from the different local troops, were sta- tioned at the cabin to receive the guests. These scouts, Jay McNamee, William Smith, Donald Chapman, Eugene Paine, and Russell Huband, stayed for the night in the cabin with Mr. McGuire.

Everyone present was enthusiastic about the camp and the facilities it affords for scouting.

Iowa's Fake Play a Masterpiece in Gridiron Strategy

If one were to pick out the most thrilling moment of the Iowa-Wisconsin game, his choice would assuredly be that juncture of the battle when the Hawks scored their second and final touchdown by a trick play. Coming as it did in the waning moments of the game, the deceptively move taken by the Iowa team to gamble for a touchdown, more than to score by a dropkick, was a masterpiece in gridiron strategy, carefully thought out and brilliantly executed.

When Nelson trotted out to replace Glassgow, who with Pape, had led the drive of the Hawks down to the 15 yard line, the crowd, the Badgers, and even the most blasé member of the press expected to see an attempted dropkick. It was the logical thing to be attempted. The credit for Iowa was leading 7 to 0 and the extra three points only meant a safer margin of victory.

Yet, the unexpected happened! Nelson, on receiving the ball, faked a kick and tossed the pigskin to Pape who came around behind him. Then the "Nanny" slashed over Wisconsin's right end, tore for the goal line and pilled over for a touchdown. The credit for the field. The Badgers, set to block the kick, were completely sucked in by the play, and turned back too late to catch the fleet blond boy.

Peculiar to the play was the formation employed by the Hawks. As Nelson stepped back to kicking position, Pape, Susen, and Farroh lined up on his right, leaving the dropkick- er unprotected from the left. The Wisconsin end cut in diagonally towards Nelson, who neatly blocked him out of Pape's way, and Vester completed the inter- ference by turning in the Badger tackle.

A counter part to this play was the one used by the Hawkeyes in defeating Ohio State last year at Columbus when Nelson posed for a dropkick and Mayes Mc- Lain, giant fullback, drove through the Buckeye line for the winning touchdown.

Press-Box Patter
Most every sports writer was unanimous in his praise of Cap- tain Glassgow who led the in- dividual ground-gainers with a total of 74 yards. Unofficial and pre-season predictions point to an all-conference berth for the Iowa dancing master and a good claim to all-American honors.

Each one of the Wisconsin players retiring from the game limped wearily through the gate to the showers, evidence enough that Iowa still has the bone-crushing strength of last year.

The Hawks tackled and blocked viciously.

Farroh turned in the best ex- hibition of what a blocking half should be. The big Serb power- house paved the way for gains by Glassgow and other backs be- sides playing a great game as de- fensive fullback.

That riot after the game al- most made the crowd, staying to see the fun, forget the thrill of Pape's spectacular dash for a touchdown. Wisconsin may have saved its goalsposts but it took plenty of men backed by the Cardinal freshman football squad to keep the Hawks from reversing last year's proceed- ings.

Rex, the big Iowa mascot, started Roundy Goughlin, who conducts a column for the Wis- consin State Journal, when he loped out on the field after the band. The well-known Madison comma-dogger wanted to know where Iowa got the "elephant."

other schools, and it would be mighty poor appreciation for Wisconsin to do anything but pitch for the Hawks now, when a little assistance would be more than appreciated.

The writer has travelled the width and breadth of the Big Ten and never has he met a better group of fellows than the ones that compose the Hawkeye staff. Always hospita- ble to a fault, they treat everyone with the utmost consideration. I have been at Iowa City numerous times and they certainly treat offi- cials, coaches and sport writers in a manner that cannot help but bring results.

Rain or shine, the interfraternity cross country run will be held this afternoon at 4:30. The half mile course located west of the field house will be marked out by flags. Ernest G. Schroeder will issue the numbers to the athletic managers, who will have to see that the members of their organization have a number pinned on their chests before starting time.

No doubt weather conditions will largely determine the number of men out of the 479 registrants that will run, and in case of rain, Mr. Schroeder insists that the barriers wear old clothing for the course will no doubt be a little muddy.

The trophies and medals for the leaders have been ordered but have not yet arrived.

The interfraternity soccer game between Sigma Chi and Delta Tau Delta, scheduled for this afternoon will be postponed until Friday after- noon at 4:20 p.m. when Sigma Phi Epsilon lines up against Phi Beta Delta, last year's champions. Phi Beta Chi will meet Phi Epsilon Phi Thursday afternoon. The delayed conflicts of last week, between Sig-

George Beltz Still Missing

Officials Fail to Find Trace of Prisoner

No trace had yet been found last night of George Beltz, 18 years old, who picked his way out of the Johnson county jail about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Beltz, who was brought here from the Marshall county jail at Marshalltown, where he was held on charges of breaking, entering, and the theft of four automobiles, was a star witness in the case of the state of Iowa vs. Uriah Beltz.

It is believed that Beltz picked the lock on his cell with a small piece of iron or wire. After securing his freedom, he locked the cell again before making his departure.

Sheriff Frank L. Smith, who was in Swisher Sunday investigating a case, did not know of the escape until his return to the jail about 6 o'clock Sunday evening.

Beltz was arrested in Lancaster, Mo., during the latter part of September, for the theft of an automobile from Independence. When he was returned to Iowa, he confessed to stealing four automobiles and to breaking and entering a number of stores, including stores at Bennett and Quasqueton.

Beltz was indicted by the grand jury of the September term of district court and at that time he gave evidence which implicated others as accomplices in some of the robberies.

Beltz was an important witness in the case of the state of Iowa vs. Uriah Beltz, who was charged with recovering some of the stolen property which George Beltz admitted he took. He told police where the loot had been hidden.

Beltz is described as being about five feet nine inches tall, with reddish hair, blue eyes, and fair complexion. At the time of his escape he was wearing a light gray cap, striped overalls, a blue shirt, and a long brown overcoat. He was rather shabbily dressed and was described as being of quick action.

Spooks Will Walk at Boy Scout Party

"All the goblins and spooks will be with us," declared Paul McGuire, local Boy Scout executive, in referring to the scout Halloween masquerade. The party will be held Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. in the American Legion building. A large number of scouts and their guests are expected to attend.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN

Install Light on Car
No longer will the local "Black Maria" be just one of the common herd of automobiles; no longer will it be able to steal upon wrongdoers without a warning. Yesterday a red spotlight, bearing on its lens the words, "Police department," was installed in front of the radiator, to signify the official capacity.

Marriage license was issued to Samuel H. Cot of Iowa City, and Regina A. Bourke of Oxford, both 24 years old, at the court house yesterday.

Record One Transfer
Record was made at the court house yesterday of the transfer of lots 5 and 6, block 2 of Zimmerman's addition to Lone Tree by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Berry to Mellicie J. Lingco.

Troop "I" Drills
Troop I of the 186th cavalry, held its weekly drill at the American legion building yesterday evening. Regular routine drill was held.

Inspector Issues Permit
The city inspector's office issued a building permit to the Skeely oil company for a gas and oil filling station yesterday. The cost was estimated at $2,500.

School News

HORACE MANN
The highest per cent of attendance in the Horace Mann school was 54, having 99.7 per cent. The lowest record was 3b, having 95.4 per cent. The school average was 97.1 per cent.

The kindergarten children made popcorn baskets and napkins to use at their party which they are planning for Thursday.

Kindergarten b was 100 per cent in banking, Tuesday, Oct. 22. The members of this group received red and white pins to wear.

Isaac Searl is a new pupil in kindergarten b.

Last Tuesday the children received their first report cards. They also took their bank books home to show their parents how their accounts had grown since they have their own pass books.

Pupils in 1b who were neither absent nor tardy the first six weeks are Dorothy Brisse, Robert Burger, Melba Douglas, Mary Alice Estelle, Leslie Harris, Lester Harris, and Ruth Hazelrigg.

1b have had 100 per cent in banking for the last six weeks. Bertie Smith is a new pupil in 1a.

These children in 1a wrote perfect spelling papers last week: Lillian Sasina, Nadine Anderlik, Mildred Dicker, Eunice Hamilton, Margaret Proehl, Jack Fltig, Robert Paik, Tommy Johnson, Jimmy Johnson, John Ed Schuppert, Mildred Burger, and Willis Ward.

2b children who wrote perfect spelling papers were Marie Smith, Raymond Reiland, Jack Mathes, Cherie Kadgin, Donald Hebl, Betty Messer, Donald Scheber, William Norden, and Dorothy Rankin.

In 2b Kenneth Bright, Wendall Coulter, Albert Schmidt, Arthur Stevens, Ernest Zeman, Ruth Fink, and Marie Schintner, were neither absent nor tardy in the first six weeks. Those in 2a making this record are Junior Cate, Gordon Coon, Joseph Eckrich, Eugene Gordon, John Graham, Edward Korao, Clyde Lenoeh, Richard Snodgrass, William Voelckers, Phyllis Paekler, Jane Gatens, Lovita Schneobelen, and Marie Stieghitz.

Marcella Kron has been absent three days on account of illness.

Children in 3b neither absent nor tardy in the first six weeks are Lawrence Kron, John Lemons, Joe Sasina, Bobby Shaffer, Richard Slaby, Fredrick Rankin, Clifford Heacock, Margaret Bittner, Evelyn Burke, Wilma Larsen, Patricia McVicker, Florence Ann Prizler, Wilma Powers, Marie Shmitz, and Virginia Wiebe.

4a have 97 per cent in banking, and 5b have 100 per cent.

SHIMEK SCHOOL

There are now 14 children drinking milk at the Shimek school. The physical examinations showed that just two of the pupils were under weight and since these are among the milk drinkers it is hoped that all the children will soon be 100 per cent in this respect.

New primers were provided for the 1b's this week and they are very much interested in them. Dental work is still being done by many of the children. Among those already having returned their blue cards are: Eileen Prizler, Beatrice Elchler, Alice Kanak, and Arthur Kanak. Those pupils writing perfect spelling papers last week were: Dolores Eichler, Joseph Koudelka, Mildred Dvorak, Alice Kanak, and Arthur Kanak.

LINCOLN SCHOOL

Halloween and suggestions of the festive season comprise the decorative scheme throughout Lincoln school, and plans for parties are buzzing in every room as the day of witches, ghosts, and jack-o-lanterns draws near. The kindergarten room have definitely announced Thursday as their day of rejoicing.

The pupils were given their physical examinations last week by Mrs. Gartner and those with 100 per cent teeth are: Jean McKnight, Louise Williams, Joan Freund, Kenneth Kobes, Carl Jordan, Barbara Mezek, George Dane, Rote Howell, Harriet Albright, and Margaret Kobes.

The following students who received perfect marks in spelling are: Ray Stanley, Betty Vaick, Louise Walters, Louise Breen, Gene Sid-well, Harriet Albright, Barbara Mezek, Jean McKnight, Henry Peizer, and Norman Carlson.

The thrift thermometer registered 100 per cent in the primary room, and the kindergarten room banked a total of $1.21.
Everyone in the kindergarten room drank milk at the table last week and enjoyed it like one large party.

KIRKWOOD SCHOOL

Two changes were made in the Kirkwood school enrollment this week, one pupil was lost and another was gained. Raymond Congrave entered kindergarten while Mary Jane Motts moved and will now attend Longfellow.

Donald Hamilton, a former pupil in Kirkwood, visited the school Friday afternoon. He is now in St. Patrick's school. Bernice Keating has been absent several weeks on account of illness.

The following children have teeth in good condition: Ruth Williams, Martha Chappell, Shirley Jane Miller, Charlotte Frank, Jannet Lina Baumling. Others who have returned their blue cards showing completed dental work are: Livina Switzer, Evert Swisher, Frederick Boarts, Virginia Jones, Esther Swisher, and Robert Myers.

LONGFELLOW SCHOOL

There are eight children in the 1b room whose teeth did not need attention. They are: Jeanne Johnston, Richard Conrad, Dorothy LeVora, Geraldine Miller, Mildred Matteson, Geda Dickens, Mary Ann Kurtz, and Donald White. The first child to bring the blue card from the dentist was Helen Heim and the next one was John Horst.

The following 6b's are proud of their 100 per cent record in spelling: Roscoe Yank and Bernice Keating. Friday: Billy Schultz, Lawrence Gartner, Paul Batie, LuVerna Foraker, Alice Eakes, Dorene Berkey, and Helen Motts. Helen McCune of West Liberty has entered our room.

6a—Those pupils getting the right letters in the right place in spelling last Friday were: Catharine McKnight, Fredrick Sydeman, Darryl Svalds, Junior March, Thomas Nelson, Kelvin Roose, Dorothy Oris, James Jones, Dorothy Harms, Irene McLachlan, Kenneth Jones, Edwin Ellis, Margaret Ginrich, and Genora Chappell.

5b—The 5b's have decorated their room for Halloween and are planning a party for Thursday afternoon. The following pupils were neither absent nor tardy the last 6 weeks: Lewis Brown, Henry Bush, Charles Deal, Ogden Frazier, Donald Guengerich, Ina Mae Hornbeck, Clarence LeVora, Paul McCune, Donald Ohl, Kathleen Lotts, Audrey Pierce, Mildred Sexton, Robert Snider, Geneva League, Thelma White, and George Wright.

4b and 4a—Eileen Cliff and Duane Means have brought back their dental cards. This makes seven of the 10 4b's in Miss Carrigg's room who have returned their cards.

The 4a's and the 4b's have each written a very interesting story. They are reading and criticizing the stories now and will choose the best one for the paper next week. Those who received 100 per cent in spelling this week are: Marybeth Langston, Marvin Chapman received a perfect Livingston, Jean Margaret Opstad, Duane Means, Dick Schroder, Tom Rowley, Loring White, Christian Schrock, DeLoris Pechman, Rogers Jenkinson, and Helen Whitney. Marvin Chaman received a perfect score on self testing No. 3.

UNIVERSITY HIGH

"The U High Life" will make its first fall appearance this week-end. Herbert Dill, editor, is making final arrangements for the first edition. Other members of the staff are Myrtle West, Geneva Hunter, Helen Perkins, Clifford McGinnis, Wendell Thomas, Grant Leamer, Phillips McClintock, Robert Woods, and Helen Osbrn. M. F. Carpenter is faculty sponsor.

The home room programs last week were devoted to Edison in memory of the fiftieth anniversary week. Alice Jean Bates, Betty Bolter, and Kitty Holloway, assisted by Suzanne Krueger, James Echlin, and Billy Rienow, presented "The Wistful Witch" before the seventh grade home room Wednesday.

Try-outs for the all school play are being held under the direction of Agnella Gunn. Sheridan's "The Rivals" will be presented. More Alice Jean Bates, in an appearance at the first meeting, and from this number a good cast is assured for the play, which will be given early in December.

The annual carnival of University high is scheduled for Nov. 15. Each home room is to have a concession. A carnival dance will be one of the features of the evening. The ninth grade girls have charge of the bulletin board this week, and will decorate it in honor of Theodore Roosevelt. Last week the bulletin board was filled with information concerning Edison's life and works.

ST. MARY'S SCHOOL

The following pupils in the second grade of St. Mary's school had a perfect record in spelling last week: Billy Schindhelm, Robert Knoedel, Richard Bredure, Eunice Berger, Patricia Baldrige, Margaret Hoover, Helen Chukalas, and Mary Kathleen McGurk. Robert Parrott has transferred from Shimek school to St. Mary's, where he is in the second grade.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOLS

Forty-eight children of the university elementary school are receiving instruction in instrumental music. Lessons are being given on the piano, violin, and wind instruments. The children come before and after school for instruction. No school time is taken up for this project. The interest taken in the training is remarkable, and it is hoped that more of the children will take advantage of the opportunity.

Amish Makes Effort to Eliminate Fire Risk of Hallowe'en

With the advent of Hallowe'en season, fire chief Herman Amish wishes to call attention to the dangers accompanying the merry-making. Hallowe'en celebrations rank with the Fourth of July and Christmas in the matter of fire hazards and consequently the menace to lives and property is very great at this time.

The presence of inflammable materials, such as imitation pumpkins, false faces, flimsy decorations, and other such materials, constitutes a very serious fire menace. The fire chief earnestly desires that the people regulate their use so as to keep away from all possible danger from fire.

Hallowe'en decorations should be of fire proof materials only, says the chief, in order to get away from the possibility of serious or fatal injuries. Others who have returned their blue cards showing completed dental work are: Livina Switzer, Evert Swisher, Frederick Boarts, Virginia Jones, Esther Swisher, and Robert Myers.

Local Legion Post Gives Box Social

Using the slogan "a whole box full of fun for everybody," the Roy L. Choepel post No. 17, American Legion, will sponsor a box social tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Shadowland hall of the community building. Dancing, cards, and other forms of entertainment will be offered.

Faculty Members to Appear on P. T. A. Convention Program

Three members of the University of Iowa faculty will take part in the biennial convention to be held by the Iowa congress of parents and teachers in Des Moines, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. Delegates representing the local P.T.A. associations will also attend.

Mrs. May Pardee Youtz, assistant professor of parent education, will lead a conference on parent education child study groups, the necessity for adequate leadership, and the sources of materials for study, will be discussed.

Ralph H. Ojemann, research associate in child welfare, will speak on the research of parent education. The work of the council will be outlined by Esther N. Cooper, executive secretary of the state council for child study and parent education.

Gyro Club to Meet

The local Gyro club will have its weekly luncheon this noon in the Jefferson hotel. An invitation from the Melroe Gyro club to attend a Hallowe'en party at the Back Hawk country club, will be discussed.
