SEVEN KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

Congressman, Four Others Crash to Deaths as Plane Takes Off at Bolling Field

Craft Falters Shortly After Leaving Port

Homeward Christmas Flight Ends in Tragedy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—A homeward Christmas flight ended at its start here today with the deaths of Representative William Kaynor of Massachusetts, and four others with him in an army transport plane.

Its three motors apparently functioning perfectly, the monoplane took off from Bolling field, climbed 300 feet, started a left turn and crashed so quickly that witnesses were uncertain even of the precise manner of its fall.

Striking the ground, the big ship bounded away, then struck again nose down, killing Representative Kaynor; his secretory, Stanley B. Lowe of Springfield; Capt. Harry A. Dinger of Mayport, the pilot; Arthur A. McGill of Scarsdale, N. Y.; and Assistant Secretary Davison, Conn., the mechanic.

Planned Surprise

Kaynor had planned to surprise his wife and six children by flying to them for Christmas. He arranged for this, his first flight, and considered himself fortunate to obtain the personal plane of F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aviation.

His secretary, who also lived in Springfield, and is survived by a widow and three children, accepted an invitation to make the flight, as did McGill, who originally had intended to fly to Boston yesterday with Representatives Martin and Foss of Massachusetts. McGill was to have been married in January and was going to Boston to spend Christmas with his fiancee.

Engines Buried

Those first to reach the scene found all of the five men dead. The engines were buried about three feet in the ground and the Fokker plane was badly smashed. The bodies were moved to the field clinic and Assistant Secretary Davison, who was hurriedly summoned, directed that an injury be made.

News of the accident saddened the house, which adjourned out of respect for Kaynor, who was serving h's first term but had made himself popular. He only recently had been appointed to the military committee.

Cold winds were tearing across Bolling field when the happy party arrived there shortly after 9 a.m. All bundled themselves into heavy clothing and donned parachutes. Meanwhile, the transport plane was being warmed up for Captain Dinger, a widely known army pilot.

Attempts to Bank

All ready, he raced the plane across the field to lift it into the air and attempted a bank turn at 300 feet altitude. The ship's nose went down and did not come up again. Before field men watching the maneuver realized what was happening, the huge cabin transport was a tangled mass near where Lieut. George Cuddihy had crashed a few days ago.

The first news of the tragedy was received at the capitol from an unnamed woman who drove hysterically from the field. The white house and war department were notified immediately and tonight an investigation was under way to determine the cause of the accident.

Sample Resigns as Alderman; Becomes Inspector of Milk

Charles Sample, alderman from the fifth ward, tendered his resignation to the city council last night. The council, after accepting the resignation, offered him the position of city milk inspector, which was open due to the death of Dr. C. S. Chase.

The council had debated for some time on the question of appointing the milk inspector. Mr. Sample tendered his resignation to the mayor, which was adopted upon motion of the council. The position of milk inspector was then offered to him and he accepted. Equipment for the position was discussed, but no action was taken on the question. The council adjourning immediately.

GENERAL CROWDER

Brush Blaze Causes Panic

Exclusive District of Los Feliz Threatened

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20 (AP)—A brush fire raging over the dry hillsides of beautiful Griffith park on the edge of the city before a thirty mile an hour wind, threw residents of the exclusive Los Feliz district into a panic today, burned one home and was battled to a standstill by a thousand men after five hours of frantic effort.

In the confusion attending the blaze five men were injured, one probably fatally, in traffic accidents as all available fire apparatus in the city sped to the scene by a five alarm call.

A zoo in the southwestern corner of the park narrowly escaped damage when a timely change in wind swung the flames away from their initial course toward the reserve.

Traffic Halted

The yellow clouds of smoke billowing from the mile long fire front spread a pall over Los Angeles and Hollywood, obscuring the sun for a while. Traffic on nearby streets through the park was halted.

The blaze originated from an undetermined cause at the base of Nottingham avenue on a knoll in the park. The brush, rendered tinder like from lack of rains, provided an extremely dangerous situation and at one time residents in the adjoining Los Feliz district were ordered to evacuate their homes.

Late today the principal danger had passed although sections of the hillsides still were ablaez.

Men Injured

The men injured were J. G. Dollar, believed fatally hurt; J. S. Monoya, J. H. Calvin and G. E. Davis, all park employes whose car overturned as they sped to the blaze. The fifth man was M. J. Lakey, a fireman who was run over by an automobile.

The park is located between Los Angeles and Glendale. It comprises 2,571 acres and contains golf links, tennis courts, swimming pools, a zoo, horse stables, bridle paths and picnic grounds.

Teeters Finds Poison Traces in Girl's Body

ELDORA, Dec. 20 (AP)—Deaths of Morion and Raymond Silvest, 7 and 5 years old, respectively, became a matter of state concern today with the receipt of a report from the University of Iowa that traces of poison had been found in the viscera of Marion.

The body of Raymond, who died three weeks earlier, is to be examined for similar evidence by Dean W. J. Teeters, of the university college of pharmacy. What action will be taken in connection with the deaths will depend upon the report made on the second examination, county attorney James L. Cameron said.

Meanwhile, Dave Hughes, 32, employe of the Silvest farm, is being held in the county jail. He has been held since Dec. 11, the day after county officials started an investigation based upon reports of physicians that the boys died following high fevers and that dark spots appeared on their bodies after death.

Raymond died Nov. 19 and Marion Dec. 10.

Senate Lobby Investigators Get Evidence

War Department Takes Hand in Inquiry of Lobbying

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—With the war department taking a hand in the reported action of former Ambassador Crowder in divulging war plan secrets to Cuban sugar interests, the senate lobby committee today followed up another phase of its inquiry concerning sugar tariff activities and received a letter saying Edwin P. Shattuck had conferred with President Hoover during consideration of the Hawley-Smoot bill.

A personal friend of the president, Shattuck testified yesterday that he never had talked on the sugar tariff with Hoover—although the man who employed him to work against an increased sugar levy had said he was retained partially because of his relations with the president. The letter was one to Shattuck from H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba company which retains him. Dated last Aug. 24, it was placed in the record as follows:

"Just before we last went to Cuba you had an interview with President Hoover, you understood him to approve of Cuban newspaper criticism. I enclose translations of the two editorials from El Comague-Zano. I think that they ought to be given some publicity but to be called specially to the attention of the white house."

Caraway to Reappear

Chairman Caraway of the committee said Shattuck would be given an opportunity to reappear for testimony in relation to the letter.

Meanwhile the war department decided to consider reports that Major General Crowder, who was ambassador to Cuba after his retirement from the army, had disclosed some plans involving maneuvers in connection with the Philippines in event of war. Caraway had said at the capitol he would ask no investigation.

"All we want to do," said the Arkansas senator, "is to develop the facts. Anyone else can take any action deemed advisable."

He had announced previously that Crowder would be called for questioning concerning his activities for a low sugar duty.

Senate Gets Report

Developments today shared interest with a report submitted to the senate by the lobby committee concerning the manifold activities in regard to legislation by J. A. Arnold, manager of the southern tariff association. The report called his operations "reprehensible in the highest degree," and said the public should be protected from such "lobbying."

The report was the fourth returned by the committee since its inquiry was instituted, and called Arnold's activities as regards legislation a "type of lobbying against which the public ought to be protected by appropriate legislation." Chairman Caraway described Arnold as having "no seeming sense of self respect."

Document Bristling

The bristling document, based on Arnold's nine day interrogation by the committee, dealt not only with the activities of the southern tariff association in the interest of tariff legislation, but those of the American taxpayers league for "wise revenue legislation," and the national council of state legislators for repeal of the federal inheritance tax.

All of these organizations, the report said, were "aliases under which one J. A. Arnold, operates ostensibly to influence congressional legislation but in fact for the purpose of making a living for himself and a small group associated with him."

Lifer Who Escaped From Fort Madison Returned to Cell

FT. MADISON, Dec. 20 (AP)—James Davis, lifer, a member of the famous Red Burzette gang, who escaped from the state penitentiary here Dec. 7, 1921, will spend Christmas behind the bars of his prison home, Davis was returned to the penitentiary today after his capture in Vancouver, B. C., by Canadian officials.

Davis is serving a life term for the killing of Detective James Britton in a Sioux City restaurant July 22, 1919. Burzette, leader of the gang, was killed by Britton during the battle.

Court Upholds Minnesota Law on Newspapers

Rules Suppression Law Constitutional for Second Time

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 20 (AP) — The Minnesota supreme court today for the second time upheld the constitutionality of the state's newspaper suppression law, ruling that the act does not violate the state's constitutional provision guaranteeing freedom of the press.

Attorneys for the Saturday Press, a Minneapolis weekly suppressed under the law, announced they would appeal the case to the United States supreme court. The last legislature defeated a move to r epeal the act."

Newspaper Nuisance

"No claim is advanced," the opinion read, "that the method and character of the operation of the newspaper in question was not a nuisance if the statute is constitutional. It was regularly and customarily devoted to malicious, scandalous, and defamatory matter.

"We see no reason, however, for defendants to construe the judgment as restraining them from operating a newspaper in harmony with public welfare to which all must yield. Though this is an equitable action, defendants have in no way indicated any desire to conduct their business in the usual and legitimate manner."

Chief Justice S. B. Wilson upheld the contention of County Attorney Olson that the law is a nuisance and not a libel statute as contended by attorneys for the defendant. He also held that neither the federal nor the state constitutions are violated by its provisions.

Enacted in 1925

Enacted by the 1925 legislature, the law gives a district judge, sitting as a court of equity, the power to suppress any publication printing "malicious, scandalous, and defamatory matter." Floyd B. Olson, Henepin county attorney, characterized the Saturday Press as a "scandalous sheet."

After the newspaper was suppressed by a temporary injunction, its owners appealed to the supreme court which upheld the constitutionality of the act. The injunction then was made permanent and another appeal was taken. It was on this appeal that today's ruling was made.

Japanese Complete Huge Naval Drydock

KURE, Japan, Dec. 20 (AP)—A naval drydock capable of receiving the largest fighting ship afloat and said to be the largest in the world has just been completed at the naval base here.

Its construcion required eight years, the work having begun in 1921, when Japan was preparing to build 40,000 ton super dreadnaughts. The Washington conference prevented completion of any such huge naval structure, but the drydock was completed and will be used in repairing the navy's capital ships. The largest of these are the Nagato and Mutsu, 33,800 tons each.

ROBBERS STEAL WHEAT

MARYSVILLE, Kan., Dec. 20 (AP)—Three men today robbed Francis Blazer, 32 years old, a farmer, 15 miles southwest of here, of 90 bushels of wheat and then attempted to kill him with a hatchet. After the attack, the men departed with the wheat in a motor truck.

Farm Lad Clings to Tail of Plane for Seven Miles

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 20 (AP) — A 17-year-old farmer's boy had a terrifying seven mile ride from the tail of an airplane today.

The lad, William Coumbe, with other farmhands, was asked by Don Darby, a Curtiss-Wright flying pilot, to hold down the tail of his machine while he warmed up the engine. William readily assented.

When the motor was ready Darby signalled to the volunteers to let go. Coumbe did not hear the warning and soon found himself clinging to the tail unit.

Unaware of his passenger, Darby flew his craft for the seven miles between Moorestown and Camden at an altitude of 1,500 feet. As the plane leveled to make the landing the boy jumped and rolled over several times. He was taken to a hospital where it was said he suffered only a shaking up.

Dry Agent's Trial Today

Government to Support Weinheimer

DES MOINES, Dec. 20 (AP)—Trial of Roy H. Weinheimer, federal prohibition agent, on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, at Iowa City tomorrow will be attended by representatives of the U. S. district attorney's office and the federal prohibition headquarters here, G. A. Brunson, deputy prohibition administrator, said tonight.

Weinheimer came to Des Moines today to lay his case before Brunson, his chief, and stated that the liquor seized in his hotel room was "government evidence" in liquor violation cases, and not subject to seizure by local authorities at Iowa City. He told Brunson he attended a "party" in the hotel, for the purpose of obtaining evidence against liquor law violators, and was arrested by police with other members of the party, when it became too boisterous.

Brunson said an attempt would be made to regain the liquor seized by the police, and the Weinheimer would be supported at the trial by the government.

Book Shop Manager Sentenced for Sale of Obscene Writing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 20 (AP) —A sentence of one month in the house of correction and a fine of $500 was imposed on James A. De Lacey, manager of the Dunster House book shop, a favorite shopping place for Harvard students, by Judge Frederick W. Fosdick in superior court here today after he had been convicted of selling an obscene book.

A stay of sentence was granted De Lacey pending the outcome of exceptions to the supreme court. The court, the counsel for the defense and the district attorney prosecuting the case assailed the tactics of John Sleymaker, an agent for the Watch and Ward society, and the chief witness against the defendants. Sleymaker testified that he had asked for the book, the work of D. H. Lawrence, and was told by De Lacey that the shop did not carry it because of its nature, but that Sleymaker could order it. This the agent did, giving an assumed name.

Pope Pius Ends Voluntary Seclusion; Leaves Vatican

Celebrates Mass at St. John Lateran

ROME, Dec. 20 (AP)—The Bishop of Rome in the person of Pope Pius XI today took possession of his own Cathedral of St. John Lateran, the mother church of Christendom, for the first time since 1870.

Pope Pius, ending the voluntary seclusion of the popes in the Vatican since their loss of temporal power, left Vatican soil early this morning and entered Italian territory to celebrate mass at St. John Lateran. The last pope to do so was Pius IX, who ruled over all Rome as a temporal monarch.

The pontiff's exit took Rome by surprise, and no one was aware of his history-making trip until the Stefani News agency announced it in a bulletin at 9:55 a.m. He drove to the cathedral in an automobile of American make, which was recently presented to him.

Profiting by the provision of the Lateran treaties, by which Cardinal Gasparri and Premier Mussolini settled the Roman question on Feb. 11, his Holiness left the Vatican at 6:45 a.m. while workaday Rome was rubbing the sleep out of its eyes. He went to the Lateran hill where on Sept. 19, 1870, Pius IX, with the Italian forces threatening at the gates, went to pray.

POPE PIUS XI

In the cathedral Pope Pius celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination, saying mass at the very altar of confession before which he was made a priest half a century ago to the day.

Elder Huckins Ready to Give Self up Soon

"Financial Wizard" to Submit to Arrest for Fraud

HANCOCK, Wis., Dec. 20 (AP)—Arrangements were under way tonight for the surrender of Elmer S. Huckins, missing "financial wizard" sought on a fraud warrant, as soon as certified copies of the warrant are received here from Cedar Rapids, Ia.

R. A. Milner of Cedar Rapids, an attorney for Huckins who left his estate near here earlier in the week, and has not since been located, conferred with District Attorney Gad Jones of Waushara county.

He indicated that Huckins would submit to arrest under fugitive proceedings, which would necessitate an extradition hearing before Governor Kohler. The governor now is ill at Rochester, Minn., and the case probably could not come before him for several weeks.

Milner Reaches Agreement

Milner indicated that he had reached an agreement with the district attorney of Linn county, Cedar Rapids, Ia., for the amount of bail to be furnished. The certified warrant is expected here probably tomorrow afternoon or Monday when the financier will surrender.

Milner said that Huckins was not trying to evade the law "but has needed the time for certain business matters and to arrange the matter of bail." It was disclosed in Hancock today that the Huckins estate and all his properties hereabouts had been mortgaged to their full value.

Milner's statement follows:

"Mr. Huckins is near enough to this vicinity that he can be produced if, and when, it is deemed desirable. He has not now nor had he at any time attempted to evade the process of law, but he has needed time to attend to certain business matters and to arrange the matter of bail."

Attempt Four Civil Suits

"He did not propose, in other words, to surrender at once and shut from himself the opportunities he might need to exercise."

He said that Huckins is exempt from the $73,000 civil suits to recover investment funds started in Cedar Rapids if taken to that state under extradition proceedings, as are planned. The attorney cited this to dispute claims that Huckins was trying to delay action on the cases or settle them.

BARGROVER READY FOR CLIENTS' TRIAL

CEDAR RAPIDS, Dec. 20 (AP)—Walter J. Barngrover, attorney for George E. and Elmer S. Huckins, reputed heads of a mysterious business which pays investors high dividends, returned today from an out of town trip to announce that he would be ready to have his clients stand trial on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses as soon as the state was ready. He would not, however, say where he had been.

George, the younger Huckins, is under arrest in Excelsior Springs, Mo., on a telegraphic warrant sent by Linn county officers. He is reported ill in a hotel there, but is under guard.

Barngrover said the younger Huckins would return here Dec. 26, the last day of service on the warrants issued for the arrest of himself and his father, provided he is able to travel by that time. If not, the attorney said, Huckins would come as soon as he is able.

Police Rescue Girl Chained to Bed by 53 Year Old Man

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 20 (AP)—Suffering from exposure and mistreatment at the hands of a 53 year old man, Dorothy Van Camp, 14 year old school girl, this afternoon was rescued from an under ground chamber of a garage where police found her chained to a bed.

Since yesterday morning the girl had been without heat or water. She had been beaten severely with a strap by her attacker, Russell Arnold, a discharged street car operator, because she screamed and cried. Arnold was arrested and police said he confessed that he dragged her into his home, chained her to a joist, attacked and beat her, then held her captive in the under ground room.

Arnold, police said, admitted that he had enticed the girl into his home yesterday morning, had carried her in a specially constructed box to the room under the garage, mistreated her and then held her prisoner.

PILOT BEGINS FLIGHT

NOME, Alaska, Dec. 20 (AP) — Pilot Ed Young took off from Teller, Alaska, today for Siberia, following the lead of Pilots Joe Crossen and Harold Gillam who departed yesterday for North Cape in search of Pilots Carl Ben Eielson and Mechanic Earl Borland, missing since Nov. 9.

Black Fights Demo Ruling

Questions Legality to Bar Candidates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—The legality of the decision of the Alabama state democratic committee to bar from the next party primary candidates who failed to support the national ticket last year was challenged today by Senator Black, democrat, Alabama.

The decision would exclude Senator Heflin of Alabama, from running for renomination on the democratic ticket when he comes up for re-election next year but Senator Black, in a formal statement, made no reference to his colleague.

While questioning the legality of the committee action, Black said the "courts should not be called upon to settle a question upon which there can be no reasonable grounds for disagreement."

"It is a situation," he added, "which calls for the best thought and action of all democrats who respect the ancient rights of citizenship, and who love the traditions and principles of the democratic party."

"A study of the resolution adopted by the Alabama state democratic committee convinces me that the majority has acted in contravention of existing laws and statutes. The committee, in my judgment has no legal authority to adopt one rule of qualifications for voters in the primary and another rule of qualifications for candidates in that primary."

700 Taken Off Ferry Boat After Crash With Barge

WEEHAWKEN, N. J., Dec. 20 (AP)—Seven hundred men, women and children were taken off the west shore ferry boat "West Point" tonight after it crashed with an Erie car float off Hoboken early tonight.

The crash occurred as the ferry boat slipped from the New York slip at 42nd street bound for Weekawken. Five railroad tugs answered the call of distress sent out by the ferryboat. Three boats from the electric ferries also hastened to the scene of the accident.

All passengers were taken off the West Point by the Charles W. Perkins of the Electric Ferry line. The ferry boat began to list few minutes after the passengers were taken off. Tugs pushed her to the mud banks along the shore to prevent her from sinking.

ALGER PLEADS GUILTY

VERNON, Ind., Dec. 22 (AP) — Gene Alger, 21 years old, a former student at a university in Indianapolis, pleaded guilty today to a charge of robbing the Paris Crossing State bank, and was sentenced to serve 15 years in the state reformatory. He was on parole from the reformatory when the robbery was committed. Alger was first sentenced to the reformatory for the slaying of a Negro traffic policeman at Indianapolis. He was sentenced two to 21 years on a manslaughter charge.

Train Headed for Clarinda Strikes Car

Six Members of One Family Riding in Truck Die

CLARINDA, Dec. 20 (AP) —The family of Fay E. Glass was wiped out here tonight in the crash which took the lives of seven persons when the truck in which they were riding was struck by a Burlington train.

The dead:

Mr. and Mrs. Fay E. Glass of College Springs, Ia.

Their children, Frank, 13 years old; Dee, 9 years old; Mary, 8 years old; and Meza, 4 years old.

Charles Adkins of Charles Springs.

Heading homeward after a day of Christmas shopping here, the group failed to notice the approach of a train on the Tarkio branch of the Burlington line. The engine of the train caught the truck in the middle and carried it down the tracks nearly a thousand feet. All seven occupants were dead when picked up.

Car Hurled Down Track

James Thompson, who operates an oil station near the crossing, said he heard the train whistling as it approached. He paid no further attention until he heard a crash and then saw the Glass truck being hurled down the track.

The children were riding in the rear of the truck, and the three adults in the cab.

The condition of the bodies prevented immediate identification, but letters in the clothing of Glass and Adkins established their identity. Relatives of Glass at College Springs were called and completed the identification.

Crossing "Open" One

Why the group failed to note the approach of the train was a question tonight. The crossing was described as an "open" one. The air was clear, giving them a good view in both directions along the tracks.

For a thousand yards along the tracks, toys were mingled with the broken wreckage of the truck and the battered bodies of the victims. The bodies were brought to a funeral home here and relatives gathered tonight to prepare for final [illegible].

Mrs. Glass is the daughter of John Anderson of Hopkins, Mo. Glass was a truck driver at College Springs and lived at the edge of the town. Adkins had been employed as a corn picker north of Clarinda.

Adkins is survived by a widow and two children. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Adkins, live at Elmo, Mo.

President of Bank Routes Hold-up Men

GRACEMONT, Okla., Dec. 28 (AP) —Two men were routed and shot by William Granger, president of the Gracemont bank here lote today while they were attempting to rob the bank.

The two men, Oscar Logston of Tulsa and Joseph Cherry, were in the county jail at Anadarko tonight wounded. Logston's condition was said to be dangerous. Cherry had been shot through the right elbow.

Cherry said he lived in Ft. Smith, Ark.

The men entered the bank, Granger, said, with a sawed off shot gun and a sack, compelling him to put all of the handy cash, about $1,623, into the sack.

They then asked him to open the vault where most of the bank's money is kept and this Granger told them he could not do. It was locked for the night.

One of the men forced him to go with him to the vault. Finding it locked, the man retreated and with his companion bolted from the bank.

Meanwhile, Granger seized a revolver and opened fire. He ran after the robbers to the sidewalk and as they climbed into a motor car, shot Logston in the left thigh. As the car raced awoy he continued to fire, one of his bullets striking Logston in the left shoulder. Cherry was slightly wounded.

Attracted by the firing, several merchants grabbed arms from a store nearby, leaped into a motor car and pursued.

Logston and Cherry abandoned their car about a mile from town and fled through a field. The small posse closed in upon them, firing and the robbers raising their hands over their heads, surrendered.

RALSTON APPOINTED

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 20 (AP)— Col. J. L. Ralston, minister of national defense, tonight was appointed as Canada's representative at the London conference on naval disarmament. Announcement of the appointment was made by Prime Minister Mackenzie King after a lengthy cabinet meeting.

Remember Others Besides Yourself

CHRISTMAS is just a few days off. We have planned months for this day. We have rushed about getting gifts for friends and relations. We have addressed card greetings to hundreds of acquaintances. It looks as though Christmas is going to mean much happiness for most of us.

But there are others who have not been so fortunate. There are children who have no parents to play Santa for them. There are hundreds of fathers and mothers in the world who will have to face hungry, cold families on Christmas day and tell them that Santa wasn't able to come this year. There are lonely hearts in the world today, who will have no one to say "Merry Christmas" to them. There are hundreds, indeed thousands of sick people in the hospitals. What will Christmas mean to them?

We can not be so happy that in our preparations for Christmas, we will forget all these unfortunates. They are our fellow-men and love the same things we do. A little remembrance of the poor, the unfortunate, the sick, will not make the Yuletide season less bright for us. Every poor kiddie should have just a little thing from Santa. Every sick person should have his pain lightened by a cheery wish. Every lonely heart would appreciate a "Christmas greetings" on Christmas day.

There are a few days left for you to remember these little things so easily forgotten. By a trick of fortune you might have been the unfortunate. A kind deed goes a long way in brightening the world.

"Practice What You Preach"

THE old never settled question of the evolution of man is as prominent today as it was 20 years ago. Scientists in China are now hunting for the skulls of 10 skeletons which were unearthed in the quarries at Chow Outien, 30 miles from Peiping. Every now and then we hear of some one digging up the remains of some prehistoric animal of human being.

Evolution, like religion, your wife, your children and any number of things, are cases upon which no two honest people can agree. Each man to his own judgment, as so it stands. But these men who devote their entire life's work trying to prove what they believe are men to be admired. They are usually the most narrow minded of their particular subject too.

After all our Creator put us on this earth to prove our faith. Some of us can't say much if we are asked just how we have done thus far in life, but nevertheless each man has some one big purpose back of all his actions which is the governing hand of his life. Some of our actions are very questionable when looked upon in this light. Each man is his judge and gives his own sentence as long as he remains within bounds.

We no longer believe that might is right. Civilization has reached the height where each individual can choose his manner of living if given a chance. Man is no longer cursed or punished for what he believes. All the world asks is, "practice what you preach."

On Suppression

WARDEN LEWIS of Sing Sing in an interview given some time after the recent outbreak at Auburn, stated that he was not going to withhold the newspaper accounts of the riot from his own charges.

Probably the warden wished to impress upon them the futility of trying to escape.

More probably he realized that the prisoners would know of the attempted getaway anyhow, and preferred that they should know the entire truth of the affair, in place of a garbled, one-sided report.

Warden Lewis has set a good example in the matter of not trying to suppress news. If is even more important that sources of information should not withhold the items from the newspaper in the first place.

Whenever any attempt is made to hush a matter up, readers get the impression that there is something rotten in the state of Denmark. Soon exaggerated and false rumors are circulated in the place of truth.

Suppression of news always falls short of its aim in that it creates a worse impression than the publication of the existing facts would have produced.

That Bloom of Youth

PROF. WILLIAM LYON PHELPS of Yale university says, "Nature makes boys and girls lovely to look upon so they can be tolerated until they acquire some sense."

And his observation seems to be quite valid. Youth is generally attractive for no other reason than that it is fresh and unfurrowed. Older people may be attracted simply because youth is young and they are not, but that is not genuine attraction, it is but the mild affinity of envy.

To follow out Professor Phelps' premise, in order to be tolerated one must have either lovely youth or some sense. And the whole proposition is ominous for the upper class student who feels the bloom of youth fading away from him, and has acquired but a modicum of sense. He is in a fair way to be intolerable and he has no way out. His "lovely youth" was nature's protection for his early inanities, but he has worn out his protection.

Gold Bricks?

THE poor we have always with us—and what about the "suckers?"

Whether or not George S. and Elmer E. Huckins have made fools out of their clients remains to be seen. But even if the Huckins are found guilty of fraudulent schemes, we have a suspicion that they are not the ones who made their investors "suckers" — they merely called attention to the fact.

Just what the business, in which so much money has been invested, is, no one seems to know. Why do not the investors know?

It is the old, old story of the blind following of the "get rich quick" lure. No thought is given to what happens to the money after it is handed over to the company's officials. Their assurance that it will buy gold bricks is sufficient. Where the bricks are to be bought and whether or not they will be plated instead of 14 carat remains a minor detail—until the bubble bursts.

And then the milk is spilled and the crying is futile.

It is said that a child never learns that a stove is hot until he burns his fingers. The follies of a child can be excused.

But when he becomes a man he prides himself that he thinks like a man. Will some of these "suckers" never grow up?

Dame Fashion Faces Relapse

IN FACE of the fact that Madame Style's henchmen dictate that skirts must be long and garment manufacturers state that the new mode is being endorsed by retail buyers, members of the New York state federation of woman's clubs contradicted these decrees by expressing themselves in favor of short skirts.

The federation pointed with apparent glee to the report of stylists who in a recent convention stated that the trend toward longer garments was destined to be but a short lived fad.

"The male sex, which has been grinning from ear to ear at the advent of the new styles and the apparent relinquishment of the freedom which the fair sex won after a long-fought battle, faces the possibility of having the smirk removed," is the pugilistic comment of the federation.

Where's That Foot Bridge?

SOME time ago the Cedar Rapids-Iowa City Railway company promised to add a foot bridge to the interurban bridge crossing the river. This bridge is used by several hundred university students as well as some of the townspeople as a short cut across the river.

Now the bridge is covered with ice and it is difficult to cross without great danger of falling. If some unlucky person would be caught in the middle of the bridge his chances would be remote in reaching a pole before the interurban car reached him. Now is the time when it is most needed.

Although the company is still working on the bridge across Templin road, it would not take long to put a foot bridge across the river. In a few days the ice will be frozen sufficiently to make crossing the river safe, but in the meantime something should be done.

Add Gift Suggestions

PROVIDING the utmost in service, an eastern railroad is offering a gift in the form of a prepaid order, exchangeable for a ticket to or from any point in the United States reached by the company's lines.

Even an appropriate form has been devised, carrying the season's greetings. A sum of money may also be included in the order, to be delivered with the ticket and the Pullman fares. So if you want your worst enemy in Halifax, or your best friend with you, here is your opportunity.

Perkins Talks in Des Moines

R. M. Perkins, professor of law, returned yesterday from Des Moines where he gave addresses before the County Attorney's and the Iowa State Sheriff's associations in the three-day school of instruction held there this week.

The subjects of Professor Perkins' lectures were "Psychiatric Jurisprudence" and "The Defense Pleads Insanity." The latter was scheduled to be given by Prof. Winfred Overholser of Boston, but because of Overholser's illness, Professor Perkins acted as substitute. Professor Perkins and Professor Overholser have been working together upon the subject of insanity in criminal cases for several years, the one being chairman of the committee on psychiatric jurisprudence of the American Bar association, and the other chairman of a similar committee of the American Psychiatric association.

In addition to the lectures, Professor Perkins responded to a toast at the annual banquet of the County Attorney's association.

Lone Bandit Holds Up Nebraska Bank; Gets $600 Loot

MINDEN, Neb., Dec. 20 (AP)—A lone bandit held up the Minden Exchange National bank here late today and escaped with approximately $600 in cash.

After herding all employees of the bank into a vault at the point of a gun and threatening to blow up the bank with dynamite if they attempted to escape, the lone worker scooped up all the cash in the cashier's cage and walked out.

One customer of the bank who walked in while the robbery was in progress, was forced into the vault with the imprisoned employees. No attempt was made to raid the vault where most of the bank money was kept.

The robber was described by employees as a man of medium height, about 35 years of age, and was dressed in common laboring clothes.

All roads leading out of Minden are being guarded.

Man, 118, Hopes to Outlive Sister 126

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Dec. 18.—"Uncle" Tommy Kemp, retired farmer, who lives with his daughter five miles from Popular Bluff in the Ozark hills, expects to spend the remainder of his life in this section. Already he has had 118 birthdays and he hopes to live longer than a sister who died four years ago in the state of Washington at the age of 126.

"Why should I die?" he says. "I never felt better in my life, and I've never been sick."

Uncle Tom believes in eating what you please and doing as you please so long as it does not conflict with the privileges of his fellow man. He is crippled, having been injured when a stage coach toppled off a mountain side in southern Tennessee just ninety-eight years ago. He uses no glasses, however, and can read almost as well as he could 100 years ago.

"Nope, I'll never get married again," he said. "I've been married twice — married sisters — but I've been single for forty years, since my last wife died. I don't want to be burdened with another woman.

"Back in my days women dressed to keep themselves warm and to hide their bodies. Now they don't wear enough clothes to whip the flies out of the sugar barrel. But I have no objection. If they want to go out without clothes, bob their hair, paint pictures on their knees and doll up, that's all right, I guess. At least I have no objection. Fact is, they are good to look at any way you take it. The world would be a tough place without women."

Sun Shines Over Middle West After 12 Days of Hiding

CHICAGO, Dec. 20 (AP)—Winter's deep white spread today reflected glaring evidence to a doubting, chilled middle west that the solar system hasn't lost its sun.

After 12 days of absence, the orb of day slid across clear skies to shine on scenic splendors left by yesterday's devastoting blizzard.

Dusk found traffic again moving over lanes and highways that had been covered with snow, trains running on or nearly on time, air mail and passenger schedules resumed and the thermometer in places at a much more comfortable position.

Despite the cheering rays that found their way to earth, there was still a hint of snow in the atmosphere, and brief return of the flaks was predicted for Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas. Drifting was believed ended and highway officials hoped to have all the principal throughfares throughout the middle west in good shape for traffic by tomorrow.

Instructors to Attend Meeting

Several of the college of commerce faculty members will attend various conferences during the holidays. Dean C. A. Phillips and Prof. Dale Yoder will attend a conference of the American economics association to be held at Washington, D. C., Dec. 26-28.

Prof. G. R. Davies will attend the convention of the American association for the advancement of science to be held in Des Moines Dec. 30-31. He will read a paper on the "Analysis of frequency distributions." Prof. E. G. Blackstone will go to Chicago on business and to be present at a meeting of the National commercial teachers association.

Prof. E. G. Reuter, of the sociology department, will go to a sociology conference at Washington, D. C., Dec. 27-30. On Dec. 31 he will read a paper entitled, "Civilization and the mixture of races" at the meeting of the American association for the advancement of science, at Des Moines.

Guests for the ceremony were Mrs. Vivien McCarty and Elizabeth A. Moeller, G of Davenport.

Law Students Honor Jones

Review Lists Sketches Pictures, Comments

The December issue of the Iowa Law Review, dedicated as a memorial to the late Dean Henry Craig Jones, came off the press yesterday. Contents include biographical sketches of Dean Jones and Prof. Elmer A. Wilcox, together with their pictures and comments by deans, professors, and other persons of prominence.

Other leading articles are "The restatement of the common law by the American Law institute" by Arthur L. Corbin, professor law at Yale, and "Enforceable promises in Iowa" by O. K. Patton, professor of law here.

Editorials, statutes, and notes, writen by members of the editorial board follow. The subjects of the notes are "Right of injured persons to recover from insurer of tortfeasor," "Admissibility of mortality tables in Iowa," "Mortgagor's liability after extension agreement between mortgagee and one who has assumed the mortgage," and "Corporate liability for torts of subsidiaries."

Under the title of "Statutes," the recent Iowa statute abolishing the rule prohibiting comment on the failure of the accused to testify in his own defense and the so-called "Jones-Stalker Act," which may be imposed for violation of the national prohibition act, are discussed.

Twenty-five pages of the number are devoted to discussions of "Recent cases," which are selected from among the decisions of the state supreme courts and the federal courts because of involving novel legal or fact situations or because of showing some modification or need for modification of law.

Three book reviews and a list of books received for review conclude the publication.

The editorial board in charge of the Iowa law Review consists of Paul E. Raymond, L3 of Vinton, president; James W. Bellamy, L3 of Rapid City, S. D., case editor; Albert S. Abel, L3 of Iowa City, note editor; Dwight Brooke, L2 of West Liberty; William W. Crissman, L3 of Cedar Rapids; William M. Dallas, L3 of Mechanicsville; Harry Druker, L2 of Marshalltown; Russell C. Grahame, L2 of Iowa City; Marion Hirschburg, L2 of Centerville; Charles I. Joy, L3 of Perry; Herschel G. Langdon, L2 of Iowa City; Arthur O. Neff, L2 of Onawa; John L. Mowry, L3 of Marshalltown; Charles B. Nutting, L3 of Iowa City; Peter J. Siegers, L3 of Iowa City; Richard D. Watson, L2 of Indianola; J. Dudley Weible, L2 of Des Moines; and James R. Wilson, L3 of Greene.

Prof. Clarence M. Updegraff is faculty editor of the publication.

Bartows Travel in War-Torn Manchuria

Prof. Edward Bartow tells of a wonderful trip to the Great Wall and the Ming tombs in a letter dater Nov. 25 from Peking, China. He said that because of the war, transportation is very poor and their journey to these places of interest was accomplished part of the way on very rough and rutty roads, and part of the way in freight cars, in which bags of produce were used for seats.

They had come from Mukden, Manchuria, where the weather had been very cold, according to the letter. The war was being fought 300 miles from there.

At the present time the Bartows should be in Singapore.

High School Seniors Plan College Night

Seniors of the Deerfield-Shields high school are planning to hold a college night Feb. 1 in order to permit the students and their parents to become acquainted with the educational opportunities offered by the various colleges.

They have asked that films of scenes of campus life and literature about the University of Iowa be sent to them in view of carrying out this plan.

Girl Pays Second Fee of $20 to Get 75c Driver License

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 20 (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Eleanor Oleson of Wisner, Neb., today paid another $20 in her fight to secure a 75 cent driver's license.

She has just appealed to the supreme court from the judgment of the district tribunal, denying her the permit. The filing fee in the state's highest court is $20.

Her father, who acted as her attorney in the prior case contends that she is deprived of her automobile without due process of law, although the statutory age limit for those getting drivers' licenses in Nebraska is 16.

Bears Stage Holiday Party in Wall Street

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—"Bear" traders, who have had little joy at holiday time in past five years, took advantage of recent unfavorable business developments today to stage "a Christmas party" by hammering down scores of issues on the New York Stock exchange $2 to $24 a share, but many of these declines were cut down $1 to $5 a share by last minute covering. Total sales crossed 5,500,000 shares, the largest total since full five hour sessions resumed, with the ticker an hour late at the close.

The attack centered at first on the merchandising issues to the accompaniment of rumors of disappointing holiday trade, but soon spread to the general list, with few stocks immune from the day's selling movement.

Montgomery Ward was beaten down more than $11 a share to $42.62, which contrasts with the November low of $46, but snapped back to $45.50 at the close. Abraham and Straus, Spiegel May Stern, May department stores, Gimbel Brothers preferred and National Bellas Hess preferred also sank to new lows for the year.

Columbia Carbon broke $24 a share andd rallied $3. American Machine and Foundry fell $19, Brooklyn Union Gas $17.65, Pere Marquette $16, Simmons $11.25, J. I. Case $10 and a flock of others, including Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, American Tobacco "B." American Water Works, Chesapeake and Ohio, International Business Machines, R. H. Macy, Reading, Sears Roebuck, Underwood Elliot Fisher, Union Carbide, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Woolworth, lost $5 a share or more.

Grain Corporation Obtains Kellogg as Operating Executive

CHICAGO, Dec. 20 (AP) — Announcement that the farmers national grain corporation had entered into a contract with W. G. Kellogg of Minneapolis, to take charge of the corporation's grain marketing operations was made today by officials of the organization in consultation with Sam R. McKelvie, grain member of the federal farm board.

Mr. Kellogg, who started in the grain business in Milwaukee 25 years ago, comes to Chicago from Archer, Daniels, Midland company of Minneapolis, with whom he has been in charge of the wheat department since its organization about 2 1-2 years ago.

Prior to that he was president of the Delmar company of Minneapolis, a subsidiary of the Armour Grain company. Mr. Kellogg went to Minneapolis about 11 years ago from Milwaukee, where he was a partner in the firm of Stacks and Kellogg, grain dealers.

Dry Leaders Seek Report On Findings

Democrats Serve Notice of Desire of Early Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP) — Curious concerning what President Hoover's law enforcement commission is doing, two democratic dry leaders served notice in the senate today that efforts would be made to open its proceedings to the public and to get an early report of some sort.

Senator Harris of Georgia who sponsored the increased dry fund appropriation, was blocked in an attempt to have the senate adopt a resolution requesting Hoover to obtain a preliminary report from the commission for use in appropriating next year's enforcement fund.

Jones Halts Consideration

A republican dry leader—Senator Jones of Washington—halted consideration of this resolution. He explained that he did so because he thought it an extraordinary proceeding for the senate to be asking the president for such a report.

Senator Glass of Virginia, another democratic dry who was the author of the $250,000 provision authorizing the law enforcement inquiry, said the commission is "shunting aside" the real purpose of congress for the expenditure of this money—an inquiry into prohibition.

Both Harris and Glass notified the senate that they would seek to withhold funds for the continuance of the commission unless some manner of report was made and Harris also demanded that the commission hold its hearings in public.

Harris Opposes Wickersham

In the first debate on the commission in the senate, Harris struck out at Chairman Wickersham, declaring he did not "believe the prohibitionists are going to get any report from this commission to the congress if the chairman of the commission and some others can prevent it."

A democratic wet leader, Senator Hawes of Missouri, some time ago demanded that the commission open its hearings to the public and urged that it be required to submit an early report.

All Quiet on the Western Front

By Erich Maria Remarque

CHAPTER XXXI.

But sometimes it broke out in other ways, this danger, these pent-up things, as from an overheated boiler. It will be enough to tell how Berger met his end.

Our trenches have now for some time been shot to pieces, and we have an elastic line, so that there is practically no longer any proper trench warfare. When attack and counter-attack have waged backwards and forwards there remains a broken line and a bitter struggle from crater to crater. The front-line has been penetrated, and everywhere small groups have established themselves, the fight is carried on from clusters of shell-holes.

We are in a crater, the English are coming down obliquely, they are turning our flank and working in behind us. We are surrounded. It is not easy to surrender, fog and smoke hang over us, no one would recognize that we wanted to give ourselves up, and perhaps we don't want to, a man doesn't even know himself at such moments. We hear the explosions of the hand-grenades coming toward us. Our machine-guns sweeps over the semicircle in front of us. But behind us the attack crashes ever nearer.

A few minutes and we are lost.

Then, at close range, a second machine-gun bursts out. It is set up in a crater alongside us; Berger has fetched it, and now the counter-attack comes over from behind; we are set free and make contact with the rear.

Afterwards, as we lie in comparatively good cover, one of the food-carriers reports that a couple of hundred yards distant there lies a wounded messenger-dog.

"Where? " asks Berger.

The other describes the place to him. Berger goes off either to fetch the beast in or to shoot it. Six months ago he would have been reasonable. We try to prevent him. Then, as he goes off grimly, all we can say is: "You're mad," and let him go. For these cases of front-line madness become dangerous if one is not able to fling the man to the ground and hold him fast. And Berger is six feet and the most powerful man in the company.

He is absolutely mad for he has to to pass through the barrage; but this lightning that lowers somewhere above us all has struck him and made him demented. It affects others so that they run away—there was one man who even tried to dig himself into the ground with hands, feet, and teeth.

It is true, such things are often simulated, but the pretence itself is a symptom. Berger, who means to finish off the dog, is carried off with a wound in the pelvis, and one of the fellows who carry him gets a bullet in the cheek while doing it.

* * *

Muller is dead. Someone shot him point blank with a Verey light in the stomach. He lived for half an hour, quite conscious, and in terrible pain.

Before he died he handed over his pocketbook to me, and bequeathed me his boots—the same that he inherited from Kemmerich. I wear them, for they fit me quite well. After me Tjaden will get them, I have promised them to him.

We have been able to bury Muller, but he is not likely to remain long undisturbed. Our lines are falling back. There are too many fresh English and American regiments over there. There's too much corned beef and white wheaten bread. Too many new guns. Too many airplanes.

But we are emaciated and starved. Our food is so bad and mixed up with so much substitute stuff that it makes us ill. The factory owners in Germany have grown wealthy—dysentery dissolves us. The people at home ought to be shown these gray, yellow, miserable, wasted faces here, these figures who with lips trembling and distorted with pain, still grin at one another.

Our artillery is fired out. It has too few shells and the barrels are so worn that they shoot uncertainly, and scatter so widely as even to fall on ourselves. We have too few horses. Our fresh troops are enaemic boys in need of rest, who, cannot carry a pack, but merely know how to die. By thousands. They understand nothing about warfare, they simply go on and let themselves be shot down. A single flyer routed two companies of them for a joke, just as they came fresh from the train—before they had ever heard of such a thing as cover.

"Germany ought to be empty soon," says Kat.

We have given up hope that some day an end may come. We never think so far. A man can stop a bullet and be killed; he can get wounded and then the hospital is his next stop. There, if they do not amputate him, he sooner or later falls into the hands of one of those staff surgeons who, with the war service cross in his button-hole, says to him: "What, one leg a bit short? If you have any pluck you don't need to run at the front. The man is A-1. Dismiss!"

Kat tells a story that has travled the whole length of the front from the Vosges to Flanders—of the staff surgeon who reads the names on the list, and when a man comes before him, without looking up, says: "A-1. We need soldiers up there." A fellow with a wooden leg comes up before him, the staff surgeon again says A-1.—"and then," Kat raises his voice, 'the fellow says to him: 'I already have a wooden leg, but when I go back again and they shoot off my head, then I will get a wooden head made and become a staff surgeon.' " This answer tickles us all immensely.

There may be good doctors, and there are, lots of them; all the same, every soldier some time during his hundreds of inspections falls into the clutches of one of these countless hero grabbers who pride themsives on changing as many C-3's and B13's as possible into A-1's.

There are many such stories, they are mostly far from bitter. All the same, they have nothing to do with mutiny or lead-swinging. They are merely honest and call a thing by its name: for there is a very great deal of fraud, injustice, and baseness in the army. It is nothing that regiment after regiment returns again and again to the ever more hopeless struggle, that attack follows attack along the weakening, retreating, crumbling line?

From a mockery the tanks have become a terrible weapon. Armored they come rolling on in long lines, and more than anything else embody for us the horror of war.

We do not see the guns that bombard us; the attacking lines of the enemy infantry are men like ourselves; but these tanks are machines, their caterpillers run on as endless as the war, they are annihilation, they roll without feeling into the craters, and climb up again without stopping, a fleet of roaring, smoke-belching armour-clads, invulnerable steel beasts squashing the dead and wounded—we shrivel up in our thin skin before them, against their colosal weight our arms are sticks of sal weight our arms are sticks of straw, and our hand-grenades matches.

Shells, gas clouds, and flotillas of tanks—shattering, starvation, death.

Dysentery, influenza, Typhus—murder, burning, death.

Trenches, hospitals, the common grave—there are no other possibilities.

* * *

In one attack our company commander, Bertinck, falls. He was one of those superb front-line officers who are foremost in every hot place. He was with us for two years without being wounded, so that something had to happen in the end.

We occupy a crater and get surrounded. The stink of petroleum or oil blows across with the fumes of powder. Two fellowes with a flame-thrower are seen, one carries the tin in his back, the other has the hose in his hands from which the fire spouts. If they get so near that they can reach us we are done for, we cannot retreat yet.

We open fire on them. But they work nearer and things begin to look bad. Bertinck is lying in the hole with us. When he sees that we cannot escape because under the sharp fire we must make the most of this cover, he takes a rifle, crawls out of the hole, and lying down propped on his elbows, he takes aim. He fires—the same moment a bullet smacks into him, they have got him. Still he lies and aims again;—once he shifts and again takes his aim; at last the rifle cracks. Bertinck lets the gun drop and says: "Good," and slips back into the hole. The hindermost of the two flame-throwers is hit, he falls, the hose slips away from the other fellow, the fire squirts about on all sides and the man burns.

Bertinck has a chest wound. After a while a fragment smashes away his chin, and the same fragment has sufficient force to tear open Leer's hip. Leer groans as he supports himself on his arm, he bleeds quickly, no one can help him. Like an emptying tube, after a couple of minutes he collapses.

What use is it to him now that he was such a good mathematician at school?

* * *

The months pass by. The summer of 1918 is the most bloody and the most terrible. The days stand like angels in gold and blue, incomprehensible, above the ring of annihilation. Every man here knows that we are losing the war. Not much is said about it, we are falling back, we will not be able to attack again after this big offensive we have no more men and no more ammunition.

Still the campaign goes on—the dying goes on —

Summer of 1918—Never has life in its niggardliness seemed to us so desirable as now;—the red poppies in the meadows round our billets, the smooth beetles on the blades of grass, the warm evenings in the cool, dim rooms, the black, mysterious trees of the twilight, the stars and the flowing waters, dreams and long sleep—O, life, life, life!

Summer of 1918—Never was so much silently suffered as in the moment when we depart once again for the front-line. Wild, tormenting rumours of an armistice and peace are in the air, they lay hold on our hearts and make the return to the front harder than ever.

Summer of 1918—Never was life in the line more bitter and more full of horror than in the hours of the bombardment, when the blanched faces lie in the dirt, and the hands clutch at the one thought: No! No! Not now! Not now at the last moment!

Summer of 1918—Breath of hope that sweeps over the scorched fields, raging fever of impatience, of disappointmena, of the most agonizing terror of death, insensate question: Why? Why do they not make an end? And who do these rumours of an end fly about.

Davenport Officers Hold Man Sought by Keokuk Authorities

DAVENPORT, Dec. 20 (AP)—W. L. Eubanks of Davenport, was held here tonight for Keokuk county officers while officers speculated on how he received several flesh wounds on his face.

Eubanks refused to discuss the wounds further than to say that they were caused by bullets fired by the Keokuk county sheriff.

Deputy Sheriff E. M. Robinson of that county, however, said Eubanks was shot near Keota last night "by a man named Hubbell of Des Moines, believed to be an under-cover agent." He said Eubanks was shot as he dashed away in his automobile after being stopped. Robinson said Eubanks' companion escaped while "Hubbell" fired at the fleeing Eubanks.

Davenport police held Eubanks in connection with prohibition law charges preferred against him by Keokuk county officials.

At Des Moines, Glenn Brunson, prohibition administrator for Iowa, said there was no agent or officer named "Hubbell" on the staff of the federal prohibition officers in Iowa.

Vestermark, Moffitt Lead Locals in Scoring

CLINTON, Dec. 20 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Led by Vestermark, who scored three field goals, Iowa City high overwhelmed the Clinton high basketball team last night to the tune of 23 to 9.

The game was evenly contested throughout the first half, the local team leading at the end of the quarter by a 6 to 4 margin. At the end of the half Iowa City was on the long end of the an 8 to 6 score.

Coming into the second half with a rush the Red and White quintet tore the Clinton defense to pieces and carried the boll into the enemy territory at will. They were able to pile up a 16 to 6 lead at the end of the third period.

Pursuing the same tactics in the final quarter the Little Hawks increased their lead to 23 to 9.

Vestermark tied with Moffit for high scoring honors on the local team each garnering six points. Vestermark made three goals from the field while Moffit sunk two free throws and dropped in a pair of field counters.

Iowan Carriers Win Over Press Newsies, 13-12

A Daily Iowan carrier team defeated a team made up of carrier boys from the Press-Citizen last night by a score of 13 to 12.

The Iowan boys, coached by Clinton Davis, Iowa City high athlete, displayed good team work and maintained a stellar defense throughout the contest.

The score at the end of the half was 8 to 5 in favor of the Iowan boys. The Press-Citizen newsies rallied in the second half and forced the contest but were unable to take the lead.

Brown led the Iowan team in points, with a total of four, while Ruby and Huffman each garnered two field goals for the evening paper boys.

Iowa State Wins Rough Contest 22-18

Defeats Simpson Team in Final Minutes of Play

AMES, Dec. 20 (AP)—In a slow, rough game, marked by poor basket shooting, Iowa State college won the second of its preseason games with Simpson college here tonight, 22 to 18.

The game was close throughout with the lead alternating between the two teams. Capt. Glenn Woods of Irwin, Cyclone forward, finally put Iowa State safely in the lead by scoring two baskets in the final minutes of play.

Both teams had difficulty in hitting the basket, the misses becoming monotonous as the game wore on. The accurate passing of the Cyclones was more than offset by the close guarding of the Simpson five and the Iowa Staters had difficulty in getting through the set defense of the Methodists.

Captain Woods of Iowa State led the scoring with six field goals for a total of 12 points. Anderson, Simpson guard, led the visitors with two field goals and three free throws for seven counters.

Bill Carrigan Quits as Red Sox Manager

BOSTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—Bill Carrigan, who piloted the Boston Red Sox to two world championships, today resigned that baseball berth for the second time in 13 years. He told President Bob Quinn, who visited him at his home in Lewiston, Maine, that he had to quit baseball or neglect his own affairs.

When Quinn returned to Boston tonight, he said he was not ready to announce Carrigan's successor, who will probably be "Heinie" Wagner, "Wild Bill's" first lieutenant for many years.

Carrigan's business interests, which are extensive and varied in and about Lewiston, forced him out of baseball in 1916, when he was at the peak of his managerial career. During his two years at the helm, he has led the club to two world championships.

Bob Quinn lured him back in 1927, when the Red Sox fortunes were at a low ebb. Carrigan tried to strengthen the team, but was unable to obtain needed players and, as a result, the team finished last in the next three American league campaigns. During the last month of the past season, Carrigan assembled a team which played better ball than any Red Sox outfit since that of 1916.

Carrigan, now 46 years old, has spent most of his baseball career in Boston as a catcher and manager.

Oregon Grid Coach Ousted

McEwan Resigns After Disagreement

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP) — The victim of an ouster apparently effected under extraordinary circumstances, Capt. John J. McEwan, one time All American center and head football coach at the University of Oregon for the past four years, today found his name involved in the rapidly growing list of gridiron shakeups.

McEwan joins Enoch Bagshaw of the University of Washington in the general upheaval among the principal colleges of the Pacific northwest but under different circumstances. Bagshaw yielded to pressure and resigned in the midst of an unsuccessful season, to be succeeded by Jimmy Phelan of Purdue. McEwan, with a contract carrying him through 1930, has been relieved in spite of his willingness to continue and after one of Oregon's best seasons, ending with a tie for the Pacific Coast conference title.

"My only trouble was that the president of the university and I could not agree on whom to substitute at critical moments," Captain McEwan told the Associated Press today in making it clear that he would not put up a fight as Bagshaw did, to fulfill the remainder of his contract.

Another curious sidelight of McEwan's case was an apparent attempt to show that as a former army player and coach, he attempted under cover to supply West Point with motion pictures of the Stanford-Oregon game, designed to aid the cadets in their forthcoming engagement at Palo Alto. No one at West Point saw the pictures in connection with McEwan's visit, but this incident resulted in an exchange of telegrams between Army and Stanford coaches.

RENO, Nev., Dec. 20 (AP)—University of Nevada athletic officials announced tonight that they were considering an invitation from the University of Nebraska to meet the Cornhuskers in Lincoln during the 1930 football season.

Benny Bass Defeats Tod Morgan in 2nd

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—Chairman James A. Farley of the New York state athletic commission tonight ordered the purses of both fighters withheld by Madison Square garden after Benny Bass of Philadelphia knocked out Tod Morgan of Seattle, in two rounds to become the junior lightweight champion of the world.

Farley said that a rigid investigation of the match would be conducted by the commission and in the meantime the purses of both fighters would be retained by the fight club. He indicated his belief that the match had not been fought on its merits. He summoned both Morgan and Bass to appear before the commission Tuesday with their managers.

As a general rule unless there is suspicion of a "fake" fight the commission withholds purses of fighters only when a foul occurs. Before the match Bass ruled a favorite as high as 6 to 1 to win the crown.

Before the match, Commissioner Farley warned Referee Jimmy Crowley to be on the lookout for "anything suspicious." Crowley did not hesitate in counting Morgan out and declaring Bass the winner on a knockout in the second round.

The match itself displayed an amazing reversal of form. In the first round Morgan several times staggered Bass with right hand punches to the chin, only to go down himself under a sweeping right smash to the head at the start of the second. He rose at the count of nine, protected himself for a few rounds, and then was floored again for the knockout.

Southern California Starts Practice for Tournament of Roses

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 20 (AP)—Minus the advice of Head Coach Howard Jones, who was kept from Bovard field by a bad cold, the University of Southern California football squad today started its drills for the tournament of roses clash at Pasadena New Year's day with Pittsburgh.

The squad went through a light signal drill with Bill Hunter, director of athletics, in charge. The Trojan staff plans another light workout tomorrow. If Coach Jones is able to take up the task again, some dummy scrimmage probably will be held with the Trojan pigskin experts working on defensive tactics.

Alumni of Big Ten Schools Regret Expulsion of Iowa

The feelings that the alumni of other Western conference schools hold toward Iowa and her suspension from the Big Ten are clearly expressed in the following articles that were taken from the alumni bulletins of the University of Minnesota and the University of Wisconsin. The first article is from the Minnesota Alumni Weekly for Dec. 14, and reads:

"The expulsion of the University of Iowa from the Western conference is a thing to be regretted by the students and alumni of Minnesota. In the athletic arena there has always been a keen rivalry between the teams representing the two institutions. There have been insinuations that the two close-margin defeats suffered by the Gophers during the last two seasons have led Minnesota students and alumni to desire the expulsion of Iowa. That is nonsense. Such an insinuation is a slur upon Minnesota's spirit. The defeat at the hands of Iowa this year makes we Minnesotans regret the more that the two teams will not meet again next year so that things may be set aright by the Gophers.

"It is evident that the members of the conference faculty athletic committee gave the Iowa problem thorough consideration before such drastic action was taken. It is the duty of the group to take such action after charges of wrong doing have been substantiated by sufficient evidence. If the committee failed to perform the functions outlined for it, then there would be little value in having either the conference rules or the committee.

"It is certain that Minnesota's faculty representative was sincere in the action he took in the matter.

"Minnesotans look forward to a renewal of athletic relations with Iowa when the conference athletic committee feels that Iowa is prepared to abide by the rules set up by the conference members. Iowa, rather than any other school, should be the tenth member of the conference."

The Wisconsin Alumni Magazine for December says:

"If Iowa has abandoned the practices accused of, what is to be gained by holding the matter in abeyance any longer? It seems to us that the faculty representatives should accept the pledge of the Iowa faculty that Iowa will abide by the rules. The Western conference is outstanding. If it is disrupted, will its high standards continue to prevail? We don't think so. A free agent does pretty much what he pleases.

"We think it a wiser policy to restore privileges to any member who has promised to be good than to take what may be the first step in breaking up an organization that has done a great deal to place intercollegiate athletics on a high level."

Charming, but

—It really isn't a pretty girl. It's Byron Dalrymple, University of Michigan wrestler, in the costume he'll wear as leading lady in the annual university opera, "Merrie-Go-Round."

KING AND QUEEN OF TENNIS

Not a shadow falls athwart the sunlight of their titles—for the present they are world's champions without a serious challenger in sight—they are the year's sport standouts. In that wise does Miss Helen Wills dominate women's tennis; and Karl Kozeluh looms above the male stars in that game, though official competition with amateurs is denied him because he is a professional and has been such for many years.

Even sport followers unfamiliar with tennis know the salient facts illuminating the remarkable court career of Miss Wills. Early in 1926, she was defeated by the extraordinary Suzanne Lenglen in France, the victory definitely established the winner as the women's tennis champion of the world. Later Lenglen became a professional, a field thus far in which there are not many great female players. Ever since, few if any have imperilled "Queen Helen's" regal sway.

This year, Miss Wills again went abroad and, like in this country, she won all her matches decisively. No opponent came even close to winning.

Almost as completely as "Our Helen" holds sway in women's tennis, the amazing Karl Kozeluh masters male racket-wielders just as he has done for more than a decade. Many critics rate the Czecho-Slovak as the greatest tennis player of all time. As a pro, he cannot compete for amateur title but, in private, he has defeated consistently many a court champion.

Last year, Vincent Richards turned pro at the peak of his form and won a hard-fought series against Kozeluh. This year, the latter defeated Richards in impressive style. The leading American pro is one of those who believe that the veteran Czech genius is still the mightiest of all court champions. And Richards ought to know. He played Tilden in his prime and scores of other amateur brilliants.

This and That in Sports

by Walter T. Hanson

Captain Bill Glassgow rises to a place in the Hall of Fame in football, when Grantland Rice, famous sport writer selected him on his All-American grid team in the last issue of Collier's weekly. This honor is the first that Iowa has had since the days of Aubrey Devine, when Walter Camp was the official All-American picker for Collier's. As successor to Walter Camp, Rice has been carrying on the annual work of picking All-Americans. One of the features of the 1929 team is the fact that the midwest rates the highest of any section of the country. Only Chris Cagle, the flashy back of the Army is in the backfield, Rice having selected him from the whole field of eastern ball carriers this year.

Carrido, great Notre Dame quarterback has been appearing on every All-American selection that is published, and Grantland Rice likewise places him at the quarter position. "Pest" Welch, the Purdue ace draws the assignment at fullback. An all around backfield, with Bill Glassgow getting ample recognition for the fine performance of the past season on the University of Iowa. Six midwest grid stars is perhaps the biggest percentage of players selected since the critics, Walter Camp and Grantland Rice began to sort out the stars on All-American teams. The line is represented by Cannon of Notre Dame at one guard, Sleight of Purdue, and Nagurski of Minnesota at the tackles.

For the first time in several years the Pacific coast failed to gain recognition with a place on the team. Schoonover of the University of Arkansas represents the south, gaining a place at end. Pittsburgh like Purdue, and Notre Dame, rates two stars on the GrantlandRice team. The Pitt Panthers have Donchess at end, and Montgomery at guard named by the critic, while Harvard is the other eastern institution to find a man on the team, with Ben Ticknor at center.

High tribute was paid to Bill Glassgow. The article remarks that H. G. Salsinger, representing Collier's advisory board in the middle west, rates him as "the best back in the Western Conference. Glassgow was one of the best quick-kickers from coast to coast." On top of the fact that critics over the nation have been selecting Glassgow for honors, the Iowa star being rated as a possible selection for being awarded the most valuable player trophy in the Big Ten for 1929. He is now making ready to do his share in turning in a victory for the east in the big game in the Rose Bowl on the coast Christmas day, when east meets west. Iowa will miss Glassgow on the gridiron in 1930.

Iowa had a great team this past year, and the fact that they did not rate the highest in the conference did not necessarily detrack from the strength. 'Pete Westra, and Denny Myres, the Iowa tackles have been selected by Jimmy Phelan to play in the all-star game in the southwest on New Years day at Dallas, Texas. At the same time Fred Roberts, another veteran guard, who finished his career as a University of Iowa gridder, has also been given recognition by the critics. All in all, Coaches Burt Ingwersen, Frank Wickhorst, Rollie Williams, and Burt Jenkins have been accomplishing some noble work at the job of building teams.

Bad Weather Cuts Army Practice Short at Hutchinson, Kan.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Dec. 20 (AP)—Bad breaks on the weather, which have disorganized the transcontinental schedule of the Army football team en route to California to play Stanford Dec. 28, continued today and cut short an emergency practice session arranged by Coach "Biff" Jones here.

Frigid temperatures and a frozen field caused cancellation of plans for an hour's stiff workout and only twenty minutes of limbering up exercises was given.

Dressed in sweat clothes, the squad boarded busses when the special train stopped here and was transported to the local gridiron a mile from the station. Frank Wandle used most of the time for a series of calisthenics, then the players did a little passing and kicking, closing the session with a run.

Promoter Attempts to Get Great Shires N. Y. Boxing License

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—An application for a New York state boxing license in behalf of Art Shires was filed today by Charles Murray, Buffalo promoter, who wants to pit the battling Chicago White Sox first baseman against an opponent not yet chosen in a bout in Buffalo Dec. 26. The license will be granted when Arthur sees fit to make application himself, Bert Stand, secretary of the state athletic commission, said.

Deciding that Otto Von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight who was suspended for fouling Phil Scott in the recent Madison Square Garden affair, had been punished enough, the commission sanctioned his return to the ring in a bout with the Spaniard, Paulino Uzcudun, at the Garden, Jan. 10.

Iowa Faces Marquette in Game Tonight

Will Meet Notre Dame Monday Night at South Bend

A revamped Iowa basketball squad will face a rival of six years standing at Milwaukee tonight when it engages Marquette university.

The team left last night for a two game road trip meeting Marquette tonight and Notre Dame Monday night. Despite the defeat suffered at the hands of the Pittsburgh quintet Monday night the Iowa basketeers were hopeful of annexing both contests on the road.

In view of the Pitt game, in which the Hawkeyes displayed considerable difficulty in finding the hoop until the last few minutes of play, Coach Rollie Williams has been sending his squad through intensive basket shooting practice. The Iowa offense showed snappy aggressive power at times during the second game of the season but were unable to keep up a constant scoring challenge.

Williams believes that the Hawk defense will not be penetrated at will. Kinnan and Reinhardt demonstrated their ability to hold down the oposition in the Pitt contest, Jebens, another guard, will probably see service during the trip.

Spradling, Rogge, and Hildredth will be relied on to carry the bulk of the play against Marquette and Notre Dame. Spradling is expected to do the most of Iowa's basket tossing.

The men to make the trip are: Rogge, Hildreth, Eshleman, and Talbert, forwards; Spradling, and Simpson, centers; Kinnan, Reinhardt, and Jebens, guards.

Army Team Gets Reinforcements by Air-Mail Route

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 20 (AP)—The Army took more than 100 football players west for the intersectional battle with Stanford Dec. 28 but re-inforcements are on the way by the air-mail route.

John M. Lazar, one of the best cadet centers, failed to pass his mathematics examination early this week and was left behind when the West Point special, bound for Palo Alto, pulled out last Wednesday.

Today the Chicago youth passed a special make-up test, became eligible again and immediately left to join his teammates. He was booked for passage tonight on the transcontinental air-mail line that will put him in Los Angeles Sunday afternoon, about the same time that the main party reaches Palo Alto.

Two Tie in Open Tourney

Hagen, Von Elm Shoot 2 Under Par

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 20 (AP)—Walter Hagen, Detroit professional, and British open champion, today tied with George Von Elm, Detroit, America's second ranking amateur for the lead in the opening day's 18 hole round of the $4,000 Pasadena open golf tournament. Hagen and Von Elm turned in cards of 69, two under par.

Stroking one under par, four professionals tied for the opening round second honors with cards of 70. They were Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J.; Denny Shutt, Columbus, O., and Dave Hackney, Lawrence, Mass.

Larry Montes, Manila professional champion of the Philippine Islands, and, Hutt Martin, Reno, Nev., professional, stroked 71 to tie for third.

Dvorsky Gets 6 Points for High Scorer

Iowa City Team Grabs Early Lead in Slow Game

CEDAR RAPIDS, Dec. 20 (Special to the Daily Iowan)—Piling up an early lead, and stopping a last minute rally St. Patrick's high school of Iowa City defeated St. Patrick's high school of Cedar Rapids, 15 to 8. It was the first Iowa City victory in three starts.

Both teams played ragged basketball, and many personal fouls were called. Iowa City's man to man defense held the Cedar Rapids team in check for three quarters of the game. Dvorsky, who led in scoring, played a great defensive game.

The first quarter was slow with Iowa City annexing a 3 to 1 lead. In the second quarter the visitors began to hit the hoop, and the score at the half was 10 to 1 for the Lew men.

The third quarter was a repetition of the first two periods, the Iowa Citians adding 3 more points to their total. In the last quarter the Cedar Rapids outfit made things warm, but lack of time and the tightening up of the Iowa City defense, stopped the threat. The final score was 15 to 8 in favor of the Iowa City men.

The lineup:

Council Votes Paving Bonds $41,525.58

$39,690.49 of Amount to be Paid for Work Finished

A bond issue of $41,525.58 to cover the cost of new street paving completed Nov. 26 by the William Horrabin construction company was voted last night by the city council. Of this amount, $39,690.49 will be paid the Horrabin construction company, and the remainder will be put into a fund created by the city treasury.

The bonds are to be of a value not less than $100 and not more than $1,000, bearing 5 per cent interest payable annually, and will be taken up at the rate of $23,525.58 on May 1, 1930, and $2,000 on May 1 of each succeeding year until 1939.

Disregard Protests

A motion to disregard the protests of tax-payers against assessments on property affected by this new paving was passed, with an amendment removing the sum of $112.64 for the item of a guard rail on Harrison street between Dubuque and Linn, and the removal of $73.68 from the assessment on St. Patrick's parish. Objection of Harry Abbott and Anna Nortman to levying of assessment on property of lots 2, block 9, was placed on file.

A petition from residents on north Dubuque street to extend the business district north to include lots 4 and 5 of block 68 and lots 1 and 8 of block 77 was passed upon favorably and a new city ordinance to this effect will be drawn up for the approval of the council. A petition for an electric light at the corner of Hutchinson street and Park road was granted.

Remit Tax Interest

The interest on taxes levied on residents of Bella Vista place for paving improvements, which had been in litigation since 1922, was remitted when it was shown that these residents were not the cause of the litigation, and were unable to pay their taxes while the case was in course.

The contract of the city with Carl Stach, for the construction of electric light fixtures on both sides of Dubuque street from College to Burlington street was extended until Jan. 15, 1930, in order that the work might be completed. The report of the weighmaster of the city, and $1.83 in cash accruing therefrom were accepted by the council.

Twenty-nine citizens will be presented with bills for the expense of cutting and destroying noxious weeds on their property, according to a resolution passed last night. The mayor was instructed to order city employees to purchase all gasoline and motor oil from the Capitol Oil company, at the corner of Gilbert and Market streets. The communication of A. H. Wieters, asking for assistance in preparing a chapter on "Water resources of Iowa" by the Iowa industrial survey commission, was placed on file.

Give Sign Permits

Bert Chase was granted permission to hang a sign at 2230 Muscatine avenue, and his indemnifying bond for $1,000 was accepted; the Log Cabin filling station on Muscatine avenue, owned by the Shell Petroleum company, was granted permission to hang a sign, and indemnifying bond of $1,000 was accepted; G. R. Kinney company was granted permission to put up a neon gas sign at 128 S. Clinton street was granted and indemnifying bond of $1,000 was filed; and the indemnifying bond of Sang Yuen for $1,000, covering the erection of a sign at 213 S. Clinton street was accepted.

A bill for $25.54 from the Boeing Air transport company to cover one-third of the cost of operating the 24-inch beacon for the month of November was accepted. George D. and Leo D. Koser, and the Kappa Sigma fraternity were assessed costs of removing dirt from the streets in front of their property.

Gifford Granted Lease

E. J. Gifford was granted a lease for $1 per year on the land in the northwest corner of lot 4, block 14, East Iowa City addition, running thence northward along the east side of Third avenue to the south side of Muscatine avenue. This property is to be used for park purposes only, and no building is to be erected thereon.

William J. White was granted $15 for the expense of going to Des Moines for the State Board of Review meeting. A motion providing for the winding of the motor on the sewer lift pump and the installation of a thermo switch and roller bearing at the corner of Davenport and Madison streets was passed, and the money will be drawn on the sewer fund.

Stillwell Given Permit

The Stillwell paint store was granted permission to install four tanks, to hold denatured alcohol, turpentine, and oil. These tanks are of 120 gallon capacity each, and are in accordance with regulations of Fire Chief Herman Amish.

It was also voted to try a case in court to see if persons living next to the alley in block 1 of Cartwright's addition could not be forced to remove obstructions from this alley. A check of $50 to the fire fund was presented from Amana in payment for services rendered by the local fire department in a recent fire in that city, and was gratefully accepted by the council.

Chamberlin Rites at North Liberty

Funeral services for the Rev. L. F. Chamberlin, of North Liberty, former pastor of the Church of God at that place, will be held at 2:30 o'clock today. Services will be held in the Methodist church at North Liberty, burial taking place in the North Liberty cemetery.

The Rev. Mr. Chamberlin died Tuesday night at the home of his son Allan Chamberlin, who resides at Muscatine.

House Votes Agriculture Supply Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP) — The annual supply bill of the agriculture department carrying three amendments which increased its total of $153,284,000 was passed by the house today without a record vote.

The measure was sent to the senate, where it will be acted on after the Christmas holidays.

The three amendments provided $15,000 for three game wardens to protect fur bearing animals in Alaska; $10,000 for study of cranberry diseases and $4,320 to control the peach moth in Tennessee.

The measure is the last of agricultural bills to be handled by Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee for agriculture, who has become a candidate for senator in Iowa.

Representative Buchanan of Texas, ranking democrat on the subcommittee, told the house that he regretted to see the Iowan leave the committee as he "has ever acted in the interest of agriculture in every section of our country."

The Texan said Dickinson had "never let politics influence his action in that committee," and described the Iowan as "honest, capable and faithful."

Coal Hole Enthusiast Sees Art Published

LONDON, (AP)—Once there was a medical student who admired coal holes. Coal holes, in fact, became a passion with him, and on all his rambles about the city he carried pad and pencil with which to sketch "their infinite variety and beauty."

His 150 sketches of coal hole covers remained in obscurity for more than 65 years, but now they are being published in a booklet called "Opercula," which is the scholarly name for any lid-shaped object closing the aperture of a tube.

"These coal hole opercula," explains Dr. Shephard Taylor, the 90-year-old author of the booklet, "were all sketched by me in the year 1863 when a medical student in London.

"I was a lodger, at the time, in Argyle street, near King's Cross, in which district my attention was first drawn to the great variety of devices on the opercula.'

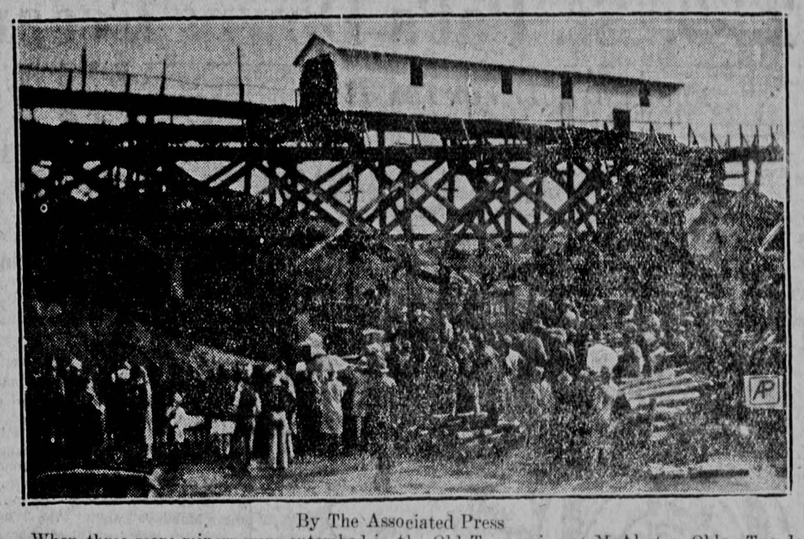
CROWD AWAITS BODIES FROM COAL MINE DISTRICT



By The Associated Press

When three score miners were entombed in the Old Town mine at McAlester, Okla., Tuesday, after an explosion, their families waited stoically at the workings while rescuers brought out the bodies of victims. The photograph shows one group of them. Most of the entombed men were brought out dead.

Cutler Rites in Michigan

Burial at Hartford on Sunday Afternoon

The body of Mrs. A. H. Cutler, who died at the home of her mother, Mrs. O. H. Hungerford, Thursday evening, was sent to Hartford, Mich., last night where burial will take place at 3 p.m., Sunday. Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at the Hohenschuh mortuary.

Mrs. Cutler was born in Michigan, and graduated from the University of Michigan in 1910. The following year she was married to Arthur Cutler who preceded her in death seven years ago. Since the death of her husband she has been making her home with her mother in Melrose heights.

Being an enthusiast for journalism, Mrs. Cutler had returned last October from a trip in Europe, where she had gathered material for three manuscripts which she was preparing at the time of her death. She was working on her M.A. degree at the university her. Mrs. Cutler was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, and was an active alumnus of the New York and Iowa City chapters.

She leaves to survive two children, Margaret Frances, 16 years old, and Billy 14 years old, her mother, Mrs. O. H. Hungerford, one sister, Frances Ann Hungerford, of Iowa City, and one brother, E. James Hungerford of Portland, Ore.

Local Scout Master Extends Appreciation for Aid to Scouts

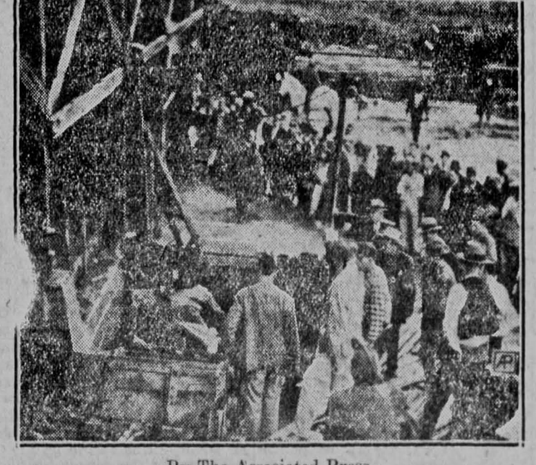
Scout Executive Paul R. McGuire wishes to extend his sincere appreciation to the citizens of Iowa City and particularly to C. R. Cannon, of the Iowa City high school for their cooperation with the Boy Scouts in the collection of toys for distribution to the poorer children at Christmas. A generous response with old toys was made by many persons. Toys needing repairs or paint were turned over to the manual training department of the high school, and much credit is due Mr. Cannon, head of the department, for the efficient work done.

Distribution of the toys will be under the supervision of the Social Service league.

Fire Chief Amish Urges Societies to Obtain Watchman

Fraternities and sororities are urged by Fire Chief Herman Amish to leave a competent man in charge of the house during the Christmas vacation to guard against fires. In a statement yesterday, Amish pointed out that nearly every year during the vacation the department is called to some house to extinguish a fire which might easily become a serious loss.

The chief also wishes to call attention to the water supply in houses where no custodian will be left in charge. Arrangement should be made to have the water turned off to avoid freezing of the pipes.



By The Associated Press

Those who watched rescue squads remove the bodies of three score miners entombed by the McAlester explosion Tuesday were reminded of the ever present element of danger in the life of a man who works inside the earth. A sign at the mouth of the shaft which was undisturbed by the blast read: "BE THOUGHTFUL TODAY."

Training Sessions for Scout Workers Close Last Night

Last night marked the last of a series of Boy Scout training sessions held for adult scout leaders and patrol leaders. The school has been held twice weekly for the past four weeks.

A thorough course in scout training has been conducted under the supervision of Scout Executive Paul McGuire. Those in attendance were divided into group patrols and completed the course in this manner.

The men who qualify will receive a minimum certificate in the five year course, and the patrol leaders will receive a special second class patrol leaders school certificate. Announcement of those qualifying from the local scout area will be made soon.

Chopek Post Gives Program at Oakdale

A program was presented by the members of the Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion at Oakdale sanatorium Thursday night. Musical selections were played by Ellis Crawford and Lloyd Howell. H. I. Jennings sang a solo; and Edward L. O'Connor and William R. Hart gave a serio-comical debate, the question being, "Resolved that the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment were a mistake."

"School Daze" was scheduled to be presented but owing to the inability of several members to be present it was postponed until after Christmas.

Schmidt Rites at Zion Lutheran Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles Schmidt, 54 years old, of the west side, who died at a local hospital Thursday morning, will be held at 2:30 o'clock today at the Zion Lutheran church. Th eRev. A. C. Prohl will officiate. Burial will be at Oakland cemetery.

Schneider brothers funeral home is in charge, and the body may be viewed there until the time of the funeral.

Two Men Hold Up Student on Way Home Near Laundry

Two large heavy set men stepped out from the side of the Peoples Steam laundry, 106 N. Linn street, about 11 o'clock Thursday evening and demanded Robert B. Pollock, A4 of Rolfe, who was returning to his room on S. Linn street, to fork over all the money he had on his person. On being told that he did not have even a cent with him, they proceeded to search him missing his watch pocket in which he had four one dollar bills. The only spoil they took was a box of matches, as they even missed his wrist watch.

Two men answering to the same description through a money trick short changed the cashier at Stemen and Fisher cafe the same evening. Shortly after the men left the cafe, Clifford Graeber, A1 of Rolfe, on preparing to leave the cafe discovered his overcoat to be missing.

Aged Negro Slave Rewarded for Loan

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., (AP)—The bread on the waters has come back to John Rogers, 91 years old, former slave.

In 1870 John gave $1 each to four sisters, members of a family which had owned him in slave days, who were leaving Georgia to go to Arkansas. Now John has $139.80, the sum earned by the $4 at compound interest, plus the original gift.

The refund was made by Harvey Couch, Arkansas utility magnate, whose mother was one of the girls. Mr. Couch took his mother back to her native state for a visit and at Griffin, Ga., found the aged Negro whon they had thought dead.

Ramseyer of Iowa Desires "Just" Tariff

Democratic Leader in House Terms Plea "Flourflushing"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)— A plea for enactment of a "just and fair" tariff bill made in the house today by Representative Ramseyer, republican, Iowa, brought a charge of "flourflushing" from Representative Garner, the democratic leader.

The days of house debate on the bill now before the senate were recalled as the Iowan demanded that farm organizations and representatives unite their efforts for the revision proposed by President Hoover to the special session.

Garner Challenges Iowan

Representative Garner challenged him to make clear his position on the agricultural rates written into the tariff bill by the senate. He asked Ramseyer whether he would exhaust all parliamentary methods in an effort to have the house accept the senate measure.

The Iowan said he wanted the rates "just and fair" and added that he would use every parliamentary means to obtain the senate agricultural rates, if he considered them more beneficial to the farmers.

"Now is the time to speak out in approval of the proposed rates that are right and in disapproval of the proposed rates that the wrong," he maintained, and the Texas representative interrupted to ask his precise position.

Asks For Fair Rates

The Iowan replied that he wanted the rates fair on industrial products as well as farm products, but added he could not foresee what the rates in the senate bill would be.

"You are four-flushing," Garner shouted, "you say you want to help the farmer, but you advance technical reasons for not doing so. If the gentleman were interested more in the farmer than in the republican party, he would use every effort to help the farmer, but when he gets the opportunity he won't do it."

Ramseyer said the farmers in the corn and wheat belt feel that the house tariff bill does not comply with the president's recommendation.

Legion Building to be Scene of Five Parties Next Week

Five parties are listed on the program for the American Legion building next week. The community Christmas carols program sponsored by the Iowa City Woman's club will be held Sunday afternoon. The program is in charge of Mrs. Alexander Ellett, Mrs. Maude Smith, and Zita Fuhrmann.

They will be aided by the Iowa City high school orchestra and glee clubs, and the junior choir of the Methodist church. Celeste Fuhrmann and William Holland will also assist in the program, and the choirs of all the Iowa City churches.

The girl scouts will hold a party Monday evening. A card party of the Woman's Auxiliary club will be held Friday. The Welfare Council Community Chest drive will meet Friday. The Nonpareil club is planning a dancing party on New Year's eve.

Alleged Whiskey "Cooker" Wards off Prohibition Men

DUBUQUE, Dec. 20 (AP)—An alleged whiskey "cooker" armed with a .45 caliber revolver, warded off two federal prohibition agents who sought to arrest him on an island in the Mississippi river near here today. A warrant for the arrest of the man, Arthur Duccini, was sworn out later.

The agents raidded the island and attempted to enter a boathouse in which Duccini barricaded himself. He refused them entrance on grounds that they had no search warrant.

A still on the island was destroyed, the agents said, but they left Duccini in possession of the boathouse. The agents said a search warrant was unnecessary because the island was government property.

Iowa Promised "Old Fashioned" Winter Weather

DES MOINES, Dec. 20 (AP) — Christmas weather "of the old fashioned kind" was promised for Iowa today by Charles D. Reed, government meteorologist.

He predicted temperatures will range between 10 and 30 degrees above during the next week with additional snow.

Wintry blasts continued to whip over the state today, with trains late but slowly resuming their normal schedules.

Charles City was reported the coldest spot in Iowa today, the temperature touching six below. Sioux City officially reported two below and Council Bluffs and Des Moines zero. Keokuk registered two above and Davenport and Dubuque four above.

Greyhound Bus Line Petitions Council for Curb Parking Space

A petition of the Greyhound bus line for the exclusive use of a parking space of 33 feet along the curb directly west of the north entrance to the Jefferson hotel at the corner of Dubuque and Washington streets, was referred to the street and alley commission last night by the city council, and will be reported back at its next session, Jan. 3, 1930.

This exclusive use of the parking space would only apply during the noon hour and the hour from 6 p. m. on, according to the Greyhound bus line representative who presented their case. This petition was presented in an effort to eliminate double parking and the danger to both bus passengers and motorists caused by such parking.

Because of the fact that Greyhound busses make three trips east and three west each day through Iowa City, a suitable depot space is highly desirable, and the lobby of the Jefferson hotel has been secured for such purposes. This fact would make the proposed reserved parking space of great value to the bus line and its passengers.

Several other locations were suggested by various members of the council in an attempt to find a less crowded section of the city that could be used as a bus station, but all of these were rejected as being financially unsuited to the needs of the company at present.

Ludlow Wray Gets Head Coach Position

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20 (AP)—J. R. Ludlow (Lud) Wray, line coach of the University of Pennsylvania football team for the last seven seasons, was today selected as head coach by the football committee of the Pennsylvania athletic council. Wray succeeds Lou Young, who recently declined reelection as head coach in order to become assistant to the chairman of the University of Pennsylvania athletic council.

TROLLEY HITS CAR

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 20 (AP)—In a blinding storm this afternoon, a northbound trolley car ploughed into a standing car on the International railway company's high speed line near Hyde Park boulevard, this city.

Marjorie Williams, 12 years old, was seriously injured and nearly a score of others were cut and bruised, five being treated at hospitals. All were residents of this section.

80 Injured in Subway Train

Passengers Stampede as Car Stalls

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—Eighty persons were injured today in a stampede as a crowded subway train, speeding through a tunnel 30 feet under the bed of the east river, was halted by a grounded third rail.

Thirty-five of the injured were taken to hospitals. All of the 80 were suffering from inhalation of smoke from burning insulation.

At no time were they in any particular danger from the burning insulation, which was a small blaze quickly put out by a repair crew which was already at work on the conduit and had dropped back as the train approached.

In their terror, however, the passengers would not listen to guards and a policeman who was one of the passengers. They broke the windows, and clouds of smoke came into the cars.

To quell the frenzy inside the cars the guards had to open the doors before the current was cut off, thus adding to the danger the peril of electrocution by the third rail.

Some of the passengers made their way all the half mile back to Queensboro Plaza, in Long Island city. Others got out through the emergency exit to Welfare island. All of those who could be controlled by the guards were placed in another train, heading toward Long Island city, and taken out without further difficulty.

Brussels Joins in Demonstration for Reduction of Taxes

BRUSSELS, Dec. 20 (AP)—A city wide demonstration in favor of tax reductions began at six o'clock tonight. Shopkeepers complied with the request of the trades unions and banged down their shutters and snapped off their lights, leaving Christmas shoppers uncertainly milling about in the streets.

For the first time in Belgian history one could not get a drink or a meal in any of the many thousands of cafes, bars and restaurants. A few theaters were open, but most people preferred to attend protest meetings. Resolutions demanding tax reduction and commercial liberty, condemning the policy of the government, were drawn up for transmission to King Albert, the government and parliament.

St. Ambrose Beats Knox in Close Fought Battle, Score 26-24

DAVENPORT, Dec. 20 (AP)—St. Ambrose opened its basketball season here tonight by defeating Knox college, 26 to 24, in an overtime game. The battle was close throughout, a last minute 8iwash spurt allowing them to knot the count after the locals had gained a three point lead with less than two minutes to play.

Hay, Knox forward, led the scorers by slipping in five field goals and two free throws.

After the Saints had held the lead for most of the first half, Knox went out in front 13 to 11, at the half on two counters by Hay in the last minute. Again in the last minute of the second half Hay staved off defeat by sinking a long toss that knotted the count. Toffanelli gave the Saints their winning margin in the extra period.
