Hard to Differentiate

"Legitimate persuasion and help shade off into offensive recruiting and subsidy in such way that it is practically impossible to draw a sharp line of distinction. It is possible to make an enumeration of types of situations falling on one side of the line or the other. These may serve as guides, according to which unlisted practices may be tested, and that is about as close as one may come to formulating rules. After laboring with this problem for years, the conference, in May, 1927, legislated as follows:

Press Stories Misleading

Touching on the Iowa case, the report said: "As is so often true when public information is dependent upon the press accounts, people generally have gained a grossly wrong impression as to the conference action regarding Iowa and the reasons therefor. It is not uncommonly believed that the report contained the famous Carnegie bulletin on college athletics and made a financial statement of the Wolverine athletic department.

Oppose 'Unfair Rushing'

"Alumni and students, whether as clubs, fraternities, informal groups, or individuals, shall not only scrupulously follow the rule of conduct governing financial assistance set forth in the first paragraph, but shall do all in their power to prevent its violation by others. They shall vigorously oppose all such unreasonable and unfair rushing of prospective athletes as practically deprives a student of a free and deliberate choice of his university. They shall recognize the truth that any resort to questionable recruiting methods is a manifestation, not of loyalty, but of disloyalty to their university, and poor sportsmanship as well.

Bristol Gives Radio Talk on Wholesaler

Continuing his series of Monday night talks on marketing, William F. Bristol, professor of commerce, spoke from WSUI last night. The topic of his speech was the "Problems of the Wholesaler."

"From the earliest day the wholesaler has been considered unnecessary. It is indeed a problem of the future to decide on whether he is to be eliminated or if he will be improved upon by the course of time," said Professor Bristol.

Talk Stresses New Formula

Stressing a new formula, Prof. Victor K. La Mer, of Columbia University, New York city, addressed the Iowa section of the American Chemical society in the chemistry building last night at 7:30 on the subject "Electrolyte solutions."

He explained the theory of solutions of electrolytes, basing his arguments on peculiar effects produced on hydrogen ion concentration when neutral salts are added.

The old idea, partial ionization, an equilibrium, does not apply to these solutions. The new theory assumes a complete ionization of the salt. The speaker also discussed the development of a new formula based on the Boltzman distribution law.

Professor La Mer has applied his deductions to the explanation of various solution phenomena, involving solubility, catalysis, and reaction velocity.

He also gave a lecture yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to advanced students of physics and chemistry on "Mathematical phases of the present day theories of solutions," in which he dealt with some of the more mathematical phases of electrolyte solutions.

Professor La Mer is the most outstanding authority in America on modern electrolyte solutions, and at present holds the position of associate professor of general and organic chemistry at Columbia university.

The lecture was preceded by a dinner held by the American Chemical society at the Alpha Chi Sigma house.

Who Are We?

Just ordinary folks who live in your home town—folks who have the same interests that you have. We are dependent upon this community for our livelihood. Consequently and naturally we are anxious to see our community grow and prosper, just as you are.

During the past several years we have seen riches come easily to some fortunate ones,—but in the past few months we have seen riches vanish into thin air as a result of the crash in the stock market.

We think there is a lesson to be learned from this experience, and we believe that, after all, the old safe and sane method of building a fortune is the most dependable—save!

Mack Sennett to Pick '31 Hawkeye Beauties From 15 Candidates

Mack Sennett, known for his selections of Hollywood's choice pulchritude, will select six of the most beautiful from this group of 15 University of Iowa women to make up the beauty section of the 1931 Hawkeye. The candidates were chosen by students who purchased Hawkeyes, each subscriber getting a vote for his favorite beauty.

Photographs of these 15 candidates have been sent to Mr. Sennett and he will have several weeks in which to make his selections as the beauties will not be announced until the Junior Prom, April 11.

PAUL WHITE NIGHT EDITOR

Love Your Enemies—If Any

MUCH has been printed the last three days to reveal the true character of at least one man's attitude on intercollegiate athletics. That man is George Huff, director of athletics at the University of Illinois.

It was popular to regard Huff as a bitter foe of Iowa. Probably it still is thought proper to do so. Hasty reaction to the Big Ten suspension in May, 1929, carried the idea that Huff, Stagg, and Yost were bad ones from way back.

Now Huff is quoted as saying that Illini track men will compete in such relays as the one at Drake without reference to entries by Iowa. Though his school was the sole Big Ten university whitewashed completely by the Carnegie report, Huff has no purist complex that would prohibit sending men where they might rub shoulders with Hawkeye athletes.

Curiously enough, the coach of a small college in Illinois, who is in the know, gave Huff a boost when he was here scouting an Iowa basketball game. Huff, he said, sincerely believed what was proclaimed as the principle of the conference, and still does. Coach Alonzo Stagg of Chicago, this coach asserted, had had a change of heart within the last year. The third committee member and Commissioner John L. Griffith seemed to him the active forces.

Further information about Huff is obtainable from an interview in the Chicago Daily News. He feels that in some ways the Carnegie report was one of the poorest returns, on an investment by "Auld Andy" in his beneficence. One point which is not impractical idealism enough to support is the idea that there should be no paid coaches.

Huff meets the semi-pro issue squarely by himself bringing up the fact that southern conferences, and others, approve play for hire during the summer under school supervision or sanction. But he adds that nowhere is proselyting permitted officially, while nearly everywhere the practice continues.

Though it might come more readily to hate and revile George Huff, or to attribute hostile motives to him, developments appear to indicate that he is fighting evils in amateur athletics and not the University of Iowa. Would that there were more like him.

Iowa's Football Honor Roll

DURING the past decade football luminaries wearing the Old Gold and Black of Iowa have taken an active part in bringing fame to this institution. Saturday night another name was added to the honor roll, when Bill Glassgow received the trophy awarded the Big Ten football player most valuable to his team.

Glassgow's playing during the past season was of all-American caliber. A marked man at all times, playing with a broken bone in his face, Bill's play was spectacular. To a very large extent, Iowa's reputation as a "tough" team can be credited to Glassgow. Not necessarily as an individual, but as the spark plug around which a coordinated and loyal team revolved.

Famous names are to be found on Iowa's honor roll. Starting with Aubrey Devine, a big parade of stars has fought for Iowa through varying football fortunes. Two championships have rewarded their efforts while at all times, the sportsmanship and clean play of the Hawkeye teams has been of championship class.

Glassgow is a worthy addition to the honor roll. During the season, which may have been Iowa's last in the Big Ten, Bill was in there fighting to win and to win fairly. He has played his last and will be a memory, but his name will go down in history as one of Iowa's brightest stars. His brilliance will not fade in a day.

Night Schools

ALTHOUGH Chicago may be financially bankrupt, 35,000 adults of all ages and nationalities are attending night schools there. The number enrolled in evening classes in the 13 high schools and seven elementary schools offering night courses is equal to the population of Elgin, Ill.

The class work offered consists not only of elementary courses and special classes for the foreign born, but high school and technical work and business courses with a complete commercial school in operation evenings.

One of the most unusual and remarkable night schools is to be found in the heart of the Negro section. Enrolled in this school are four great-grandmothers, eight grandfathers and grandmothers, and a large number of parents.

A course in child care and home nursing open to women of all ages in four high schools, was introduced this year. Working in cooperation with the schools by furnishing qualified nurses and teachers and supplying materials and equipment is the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross.

Big Shoes to Fill

FOLLOWING the footsteps of Jimmy Phelan, brilliant Purdue coach, Dr. Clarence W. Spears, head coach at Minnesota, signed a contract to coach football at Oregon university. After five years as a Big Ten coach, Spears answered the call of the Pacific coast and will desert the middle west.

Spears has been signally successful at Minnesota. Following a period of lean football years at the Gopher institution, his five year reign was extraordinary. No conference championships were won but the name of Minnesota was not to be taken lightly on the gridiron.

During his regime, the names of Alquist, Phamer, Nagurski, and Tanner have ranked with the great and near-great football players of the country. Of more lasting value is the esteem in which Dr. Spears was held by young men with whom he came in contact.

The loss of Phelan and Spears will be a severe blow to the Western conference. Both admit that conditions within the conference were not to their liking and both welcomed the opportunity to transfer their ability to more appreciative fields. Spears proposed a drastic change in athletic administration at Minnesota on the eve of his departure which have amounted to a break with the conference.

Higher salaries probably did enter into the coaches' decisions. Wage scales for athletic directors on the coast are higher than the middle west. But when two men of the Spears and Phelan type forsake the most important conference in the football world for slightly more lucrative positions at independent schools, there are indications that circumstances other than financial entered into consideration.

Army officials have declared violations of the prohibition amendment a military offense. Could that be a method of explaining the use of marine methods on the Canadian border?

Why is it that so many people who brag on not being lean as to brain are such fat heads?

Scientists fear for the health of humans who live in modern civilization, and advise everyone to get up from the dinner table hungry. Fortunately, those of us who eat at restaurants have no worry in this connection.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Gordon G. Gauss

Dallas, Tex., has a mayor who is a real democrat—so real that in many ways he recalls the figure of Andrew Jackson. Despite the fact that his name is J. Waddy Tate, he is the champion of the commoners, and the aristocrats can go hang. Since he has been in office—which he was elected on a "hot dog" program—he has removed innumerable restrictions which he believes will make life more enjoyable for the common people.

He took the spikes off the railings around the city hall so that the loafers can sit there if they choose. He sold the snakes from the zoological garden and used the money to buy donkeys for the city's kids to ride. He took off the 10 p.m. closing rule on the parks. He ordered free days at the public swimming pools, and he discharged all married women employed by the city, saying that it was a husband's job to support his wife. All of which may seem queer, but at least it is different from most large cities, where mayors ape royalty.

Meanwhile, Monte Carlo, long reputed the gambling center of fashionable Europe, is endeavoring to "hit" up. It has been a source of worry to inhabitants that the tiny state of Monaco is becoming more of a tourist center than a gambling rendezvous, for the state derives its income from the gaming tables. A comic revolution took place last spring when 600 citizens gave the prince the opportunity either to turn over his power or be run out of the country. He gave up the power. Then the reorganizers got busy.

Now Monte Carlo is again a glittering spot on the Mediterranean. Colored fountains play all night and 80 shafts of light are shot into the air. The casino stands emblazoned like an American movie theater and has been entirely redecorated and re-equipped, so that it is thoroughly up to date. Three American jazz bands have been imported to further liven things up. Once again Monte Carlo seems on the road to prosperity.

American jazz orchestras also are proving to be "the thing" at famous skating resorts in Switzerland, and college bands gain the preference. They have the reputation of doing more work for their money than the older professionals, and as a rule will play as late as anyone wants to skate. It is rumored that not the least of the collegians' attractions is that they are amiable skating partners early in the evening before the music begins.

Not all American "products" are meeting such an enthusiastic reception in foreign countries as the orchestras, however. In Brazil there is considerable sentiment that the "talkies" should be barred. This came originally from the numerous musicians at the minor theaters who were thrown out of employment with the advent of the sound pictures. Now it seems likely that the government will put a tax of $120 per night upon talkies to force movie houses to return to the silent drama. There also is considerable fear that sound pictures threaten the existence of the national language.

Workmen building a road through the heart of Smyrna, Turkey, recently uncovered a sarcophagus which is supposed to be that of a Byzantine ruler of a thousand years ago. With the body were found 50 gold ornaments of great value, indicating the high position of the deceased. Imagination easily conjures up a picture of the funeral, with homage paid to the potentate by thousands of subjects and tributes being made to his immortality. Today we do not even know his name, and his rest place was moved to make way for a modern street. The world must move forward.

"Odd" classes, whose first or only weekly meeting occurs on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, or Saturday; or which meet "as arranged"; will be assigned for examination at either one or another of the following periods, as announced to each class by the instructor in charge of the class:

Monday, January 27, 2-4

Thursday, January 30, 2-4

Friday, January 31, 10-12

It should be borne in mind that there is possibility of announcing two or more "odd" classes for any one or more of these three periods available for "odd" classes. Therefore, in connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in one other class for the proposed period. To be sure, it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times—if no student is a member of more than one of these classes. Since very few students in French (2) and (4) will also be in "odd" classes, it is possible for certain "odd" classes to be accommodated during the period provided for these classes in French, subject to the precaution suggested in the second sentence of this paragraph.

According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester examination program, "The instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit, provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for an phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time."

Hawks to Renew Basketball Relations With Drake University Friday

Iowa Cagers to Face Stiff Tilts on Road

Williams Team Plays Bulldog, Husker Quintets

His touring squad as yet undecided, Coach Williams will leave Friday morning with his basketballers for a neighboring jaunt to Des Moines where they will take up their old rivalry with Drake where it left off 14 years ago. Following the game with the Bulldogs Friday night, the Hawks will jump to Lincoln, Neb., for a battle with the Cornhuskers Saturday.

Coach Williams permitted his regulars to warm up for a few minutes yesterday and take a few free throws, and then got rid of them to give his attention to the reserves for the rest of the workout.

Kansas Jayhawks Basketball Squad Gets Blindfold Test

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 20 (AP)—The undefeated University of Kansas basketball squad tried its hands at blindfold shooting today.

The Jayhawkers were blindfolded at the regular practice session and led to the penalty line to try free throws.

It is to develop the equilibrium, explains Coach Allen.

yesterday in an effort to find a panacea for the lack of reserve strength. In an effort to find a substitute center, he alternated Schwartz previously a guard, with Simpson at center. Eschman and Rogge remained at forwards, and Jensen and Diwocky held down the guard posts as usual in a hard scrimmage against the frosh.

Badgers Go Into Second in Big Nine

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 20 (AP)—Wisconsin went into undisputed possession of second place in the Western conference basketball championship game tonight, trouncing Chicago, 32 to 23, in a rough game.

The first 15 minutes of the contest was evenly waged, but the Badgers pulled away, and except for another brief flurry by the Maroons at the start of the second period, were in charge. Capt. Bud Foster again was the Wisconsin mainstay, while Marshall Fish led the Chicago attack. Twenty-six personal fouls were called, and the referee called a technical foul on Wisconsin because the crowd booed a decision.

One Pure Hawkeye

As to personal fouls, Hildreth is 39 and 44-100 per cent pure, for with the exception of one foul made in the Pittsburgh game, he has not made a personal foul since. His record is on the way to bettering that of Jimmy Laude, former university star, who made only four fouls in 17 games in 1925.

Kinnan, on the other hand, has been ousted from two successive games on fouls, with Jensen doing a creditable job in his place.

Sprad Leads Scorers

Although Hildreth is gradually creeping up on him, Spradling still leads the Iowa scorers with 42 counts. Hildreth has a total of 30, while Kinnan is third with 19. As against their opponents' 206 points, the Iowans are far behind with an aggregate of 166.

Having solved the problem of his regular lineup, Coach Williams spent

Strikes and Spares

By garnering a total of 2,652 pins to take three straight games from Racine's team, the Lenoach and Clek pin toppers increased their lead in the business men's league last night.

Fryauf led the hardware team with 578 mapsles. The league leaders were in snappy form, having four men with a final count above the 500 mark.

Individual honors for the evening went to Clark of the Instant Tire outfit, who floored a total of 534 pins. The Tire shop team had high total for the evening getting 2,799 pins. Lenoach and Clek dropped the most mapsles in one game, getting a total of 969 in the third fray.

Other results of the meet at Dee Brothers' alleys were the Instant Tire team took three easy games from Dewey's cafe, the Gartner Motor team won two out of three from the Russell Clothing aggregation.

TILLIE THE TOILER—"Brother Frank"

St. Pat's to Make Jaunt

Play Clinton Thursday, Moline Friday

Coach Lew of St. Patrick's high school has begun to prepare his casters for their two game trip this weekend when they will play St. Mary's of Clinton and St. Mary's of Moline. The game at Clinton will be played Thursday and the Irish will move on to Moline for the game Friday.

Only seven men reported for a short practice last evening. Lew gave his men a drill on offensive tactics and had his hoopers practicing follow in shots after they had worked the ball down the floor. The Green and White have been missing steepers shots all year and a drill on their backboard angles has been needed.

Two on Sick List

Reserve forwards Tremmel and Dreckmann were on the sick list last night but are expected to be in shape for the trip. Tremmel has been bothered by illness all year and this alone seems to have kept him on the side lines. Captain Welch was still absent from practice because of the death of his brother, but may report for drill tomorrow night.

St. Mary's of Clinton is reported to have an unusually strong team this year. They have been undefeated in eight starts and have displayed a powerful scoring attack. The same class team which represented them in last year's tournament is back intact.

The clever team representing St. Mary's of Moline noted out St. Pat's in their initial start on the local floor by one point. The Irish are anxious to reverse this defeat as they were cheated of victory only by the final gun when they had rallied to almost draw ahead of their opponents.

Welch Adds Strength

Coach Lew is planning to stop in Davenport and arrange for a date for the tilt with St. Ambrose which was scheduled to be played here last night but was postponed because of the death of Joe Welch, former St. Patrick's player. St. Ambrose defeated St. Pat's in the finals of the state tournament last year after the local Irish had defeated them twice earlier in the year. The game will probably be played early in February.

The Green and White are in better shape at the present time than they have been all season. The return of Joe Welch, who has been ineligible, to his guard position fortifies the reserve strength which has not been overly strong. Spratt, Dreckmann, Kelly, Tremmel, and Wilkinson are waging a battle for the two forward posts and all have been showing class of late. If Welch is successful in regaining his guard post, Megan may also be shifted to a forward to further complicate the fight. This would provide Lew with three pairs of forwards of about equal ability.

A long practice will be held tonight to determine how many men will go on the trip.

Risko Outpoints Bertazzola, Italian Heavyweight Fighter

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 20 (AP)—Johnny Risko, the rubbery baker boy of Cleveland, whipped Ricardo Bertazzola, the Italian heavyweight champion, decisively in their ten round slugfest here tonight.

Risko clubbed the big Italian all over the ring. Bertazzola was down twice in the seventh round, once for a count of nine and once with no count.

In the final round Bertazzola was hanging on grimly while Johnny landed rights and lefts to the jaw. Risko weighed 193 3/4, Bertazzola 210 1/2.

Fred Pirone of Cleveland and Tom Freeman of Erie, Pa., fought a slow ten round welterweight bout to a draw.

Lou Briz, right hand man of Tom McCordle, matchmaker for Madison square, was at the ringside tonight with a contract for the winner of the Risko-Bertazzola bout to meet Vittorio Campolo, the huge Argentinian.

This and That in Sports

by Walter T. Hanson

The retirement of Hugo Bezdek from the coaching staff of baseball and football teams at Penn State brings about the loss of another famous coach from the place that he has been holding, where he gained a great reputation. Bezdek now retires, and his place will find a new man to take over the post vacated, while he directs. Looking over the vacant places that have either been filled or have been chances since the past season, we find such institutions as Washington, Oregon, Purdue, Cornell, Princeton, Columbia, and Minnesota hit by the resignations. Coaches, whose names have been bywords to the American grid fans have figured in shifts during the past year.

Bashaw was forced out of Washington university, McEwan, late Oregon mentor resigned after a controversy with the chiefs have had their places filled by midwestern coaches, Jimmy Phelan of Purdue resigning to take the Husky job, and Spears of Minnesota taking over the other coach, Crosby resigned at Columbia. Leon Little took over the place, and Gil Dohie is apparently passing out of the picture at Cornell.

Hugo Bezdek, first gained a reputation in the big leagues as a pitcher, but retired to take over the coaching at Penn State. In both football and basketball, and at this school he built up many powerful teams. The fact that a Penn State game is scheduled on the University of Iowa's grid card next fall makes this doubly interesting to Hawkeye fans. Penn State should be the best intersectional game that Iowa has had since the Hawkeyes invaded Los Angeles in 1925 to meet Southern California university, coached by Howard Jones, when Burt Ingwersen's team lost a hard fought 18 to 0 tilt. The last of Iowa's great intersectional games with eastern teams took place in 1922, when Howard Jones was still head football mentor for the Hawkeyes. Jones took his Iowa team east. At that time his brother Tad was head coach at Yale, and a great battle was waged in Yale Bowl last year when football history was one of the greatest triumphs ever stacked up by an Iowa team. The name of LeLann was cleared, and the team went down to the ball of fame as he carried the ball over the goal line to enable the Old Gold gridlers to return to Iowa City tion C in the heavyweight game, winning easily by the score of 31 to 8. Lentz and Seegers split high point honors with five field goals each. Lineups were, section A: Lentz and Miller, forwards; Seegers, center; Peacock and Affre, guards; Keatzenberg, substitute guard; section C: Norris and Cuyler, forwards; Gantz, center; Wieland and Christman, guards.

Frankie Simms Fights 10 Round Draw With Gagnon

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 20 (AP)—Frankie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight and Jack Gagnon, Boston, drew in the 10-round preliminary to the Johnny Risko-Ricardo Bertazzola fight tonight. The crowd disagreed with the verdict.

The great Arthur Shires who was to come from Chicago to referee a bout on the card, was refused permission to act in that capacity by the Cleveland boxing commission today. Shires stayed in Chicago.

The card featuring the Cleveland baker boy and Bertazzola was a benefit for the family of the late Ray Campbell, nationally known Cleveland boxing writer.

Notre Dame Beats Mexicans, 29 to 23

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 20 (AP)—Using substitutes during all except the closing minutes, Notre Dame tonight defeated the fast basketball team of Mexico City, 29 to 23. The Irish reserves led the Mexican stars by 14 to 10 at the half, but staggered and the visitors brought the count to 19 all, late in the game. Donovan, Smith, and Crowe, Notre Dame regulars, were sent in and quickly built up the winning margin.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 20 (AP)—Lloyd Waner, Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder, had his appendix removed here today and was reported in good condition following the operation.

Hawkeye Mat Men Shift Dates of Three Wrestling Meets

Monday evening wrestling meets for the University of Iowa team now appear upon the schedule following the shifting of three dates, Coach H. M. Howard has announced.

Originally booked for Jan. 25, Monmouth college will be met here Feb. 24, while Cornell college will come to Iowa City Feb. 10 instead of Feb. 8. Date of the State Teachers dual meet now has been fixed at March 3.

With additional work and the acquisition of Capt. Roy E. Jarrard, crack 165-pounder, the Hawkeye team will be considerably stronger for the remainder of the schedule.

Oklahoma, one of the country's strongest teams, won Saturday by a ten-point margin from an Iowa team with four sophomores in the lineup. The Iowans were short on drill for a meet with as good a team.

Captain Jarrard, winner of three of four matches last winter, will represent the university Feb. 3, eligible for second semester competition.

Business Men Hear O'Hara on Rural Life

Co-operative Movement Can Solve Rural Problems

Approximately 75 members of the chamber of commerce heard the Rev. Edwin V. O'Hara, director of the rural life bureau of the National Catholic Welfare conference speak on "Rural Problems," at a luncheon yesterday noon.

"The co-operative movement is one of the great needs to solve the rural problem of keeping a large percentage of the intelligent, capable, and industrious boys and girls on the farm," he said.

"It cannot be on a pure financial basis," he continued, "but the human side is the one that helps the co-operative movement to be a success, and opens a new horizon to the farmer in the line of social life, a factor to be taken in consideration."

In speaking of the influx of farmers to the city he declared that it would be disastrous in that, first, the successful persons on the farm are the ones moving to the city, and second, all the intelligent and capable boys and girls of the younger generation are the ones going to the city.

The speaker told of the prosperity of the middle west as compared with the other sections of the country. He spoke of maps that are kept by the department of agriculture in Washington, D. C., that show Iowa as having the highest color on all the maps.

"Farming is not common labor, but is one of the highest specialized and one of the most important of occupations," Father O'Hara said when speaking of the drift of the farmers to common labor of the city.

He added that in the attempt to keep the intelligent boys and girls on the farm it is necessary to show to them first that the foundation of economic independence is to be the owner of a producing property, which is found on the farm, and second, the opportunity for self-employment, working on individual initiative, and such is found on the farm.

The Rev. Msgr. William P. Shanahan introduced the speaker to the members attending the luncheon.

Requiem High Mass Held for Joseph Welsh

Solemn requiem high mass for Joseph M. Welsh, 22-year-old university student and former St. Patrick's high school basketball player, who died Saturday at the university hospital, was celebrated yesterday at 10 a. m. in St. Patrick's church.

The Rev. Msgr. William P. Shanahan acted as celebrant of the mass; the Rev. T. J. Lew as deacon; Father Boeckman, assistant of St. Mary's church, as sub-deacon; Edward Collins, student at St. Ambrose college at Davenport, as master of ceremonies, and the Rev. J. J. Welsh of West Liberty, assisted in the sanctuary.

St. Patrick's high school, where Thomas and John, brothers of the deceased, are students, attended in a body.

Surviving Joseph are his mother, Mrs. Grace Welsh, a sister, Catherine M., the two brothers, all of 322 E. Burlington street. Relatives from out of town attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stewart and family of Moline, Mrs. Al e Berry and family of Rock Island, and Mrs. Daniel Whelan of Cedar Rapids.

The following acted as pallbearers: Frank Hogan of Des Moines; Ed Tuchfarber and Wells Robinson, both of Davenport; Paul Mattes, William Collins, Carl Wilkinson, John Pugh, Ed Nettmer, John Stewart, Thomas James, Francis Beecher, and Paul Fellman, all of Iowa City.

A new campus publication, as yet unnamed, will make its appearance shortly after the beginning of the second semester. It will be edited by "Bill" Williams of the Iowa Supply.

A contest, which will open today and close March 1, will be conducted in order to select a suitable name for the magazine. Suggestions must be enclosed in a sealed envelope and sent to Iowa Supply together with the name and address of the contestant.

A cash prize will be given to the winner. The board of judges to decide the best name submitted will be composed of two students to represent each college of the university.

Features of the magazine will include jokes, fads, fancies, sketches, student affairs, campus news, gossip, and announcements. All contributions for publication in the magazine will be acceptable and may be placed in a box located in Iowa Supply for that purpose. Photographs, snap shots and student comment will also be welcome.

Monthly copies of the magazine will be mailed to every student in the university. The members of the staff will be announced at a later date.

Girl Scouts to See Director

Elizabeth Bealer Holds Leadership Course

Girl scout work for the new year will launch a full program when Elizabeth Bealer, director of region eight of the national girl scout organization, arrives in Iowa City Feb. 4. She will stay in the city until Feb. 14. Miss Bealer will conduct a course in scout leadership in the university for all junior students in the women's physical education department. The courses will be held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 10 o'clock and daily at 2 o'clock. They will be open to all scout leaders and other persons interested in this work.

She will meet with the girl scout council at its regular meeting Feb. 3 at 7 o'clock at the American Legion building. Her discussion will center around the new five-year development plan adopted by the girl scout national organization at the New Orleans convention in November. This plan involves a $2,000,000 budget for five years to train girls for leadership in a rapidly growing organization.

In the 2,000 communities where girl scout troops have been organized, the membership has reached 204,000. The main advantage claimed for the plan is that by being budgeted for a definite period girl scout supporters will know in advance the financial needs of the organization and will thus not be confronted year after year with increasing demand for funds.

At the formal court of awards to be held Feb. 8, Elizabeth Bealer will assist the court of awards committee in making the awards to all girls who have won badges since December.

O'Connor Talks Before American Legion Auxiliary

Seventy-five persons attended the bi-monthly meeting of the Women's auxiliary, held in the assembly room of the American Legion building last night. Speakers were E. L. O'Connor, commander of the second district of the Legion, and H. I. Jennings, head of the local post. O'Connor spoke on "Legislation." He referred in detail to the bills before the present session of congress which are of vital interest to the Legion men and the women of the auxiliary. Jennings spoke on "Co-operation of the Legion and the Auxiliary." He stressed united action of the two units as to committee work, membership drives, and charity work.

A silver trophy was presented to Mrs. E. V. Campbell by Mrs. William Weeber, president of the local chapter. The award was made for obtaining the greatest number of members for the auxiliary during the annual membership drive.

After the speaking program a drill was given by the Mooseheart Junior Legion, composed of daughters of the chapter of the Moose lodge. This was followed by two solos, "Snowflakes" and "My Shadow," by Margaret Wallen. A trio composed of Mrs. Elmer Giblin, Mrs. Earl Gifford, Margaret Wallen and Aouchak sang a selection entitled, "Sing Me to Sleep." Two solos were then sung by Mrs. Elmer Giblin entitled "Mither Heart" and "Smilin' Thru."

The last number of the program was a "hoop dance" by a quartette of dancers, Josephine Walsh, Dorothy Sibill, Katherine Grim and Mary Burger, accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Grim. Refreshments were served after the program to the members of the American Legion who attended the card party in the club rooms of the Legion building and to the women of the auxiliary.

Author Writes Foreword for Hawk Wings

Thames Williamson, '17, author of "Hunky," the July book-of-the-month, has written an alumni foreword for the issue of Hawk Wings which is to be distributed Wednesday and Thursday. The former Iowan is also author of "Run, Sheep, Run," and a new story of Alaska will be published soon.

A feature of this number of Hawk Wings is a tall tale sketch, "How Could I Tell Her?" by Polly Thompson, A1 of Miami, Okla. Among other features listed in the table of contents are two articles, "A Muse Among the Corn Rows," and "Interpreter of the North," by Don Devel, A2 of Algona, a short story by Hazel Phillips, G of Woodbine, entitled "A Good Dirt Road," and a sketch, the Pierces, by Sue Chase, A2 of Clinton.

The spirit of adventure, which is the keynote of the issue, is carried out in numerous lineoleum cuts, including the cover design and tall tale piece by Edwin Lee Allen, A1 of Des Moines, and a frontispiece by Bertrand Adams, A3 of Webster City. There are also poetry contributions by Agnes West, A1 of Onawa, and Ruth E. Reade, G of Western Springs, Ill. "The Paper Book Club," by Joseph McKee, G of Stuart, contains current reviews.

Subscribers must call at the desk in the liberal arts building for their copies of the magazine Wednesday or Thursday. Those unable to call at that time may secure copies at the Hawk Wings office on the second floor of the Journalism building Friday afternoon.
