Method of Selecting Coaches at Minnesota Causes Alumni Members of Board to Resign

Withdrawal of Two Representatives Adds New Phase to Embarrassing Situation at Institution in Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 11 (AP)—Apparently dissatisfied with the manner of selecting H. O. (Fritz) Crisler as head football coach, and E. E. (Tad) Wieman as his assistant at the University of Minnesota, two alumni members of the senate committee on intercollegiate athletics resigned today.

Adding a new phase to the already embarrassing coaching situation at the Gopher school, R. B. (Bunny) Rathbun and Arnold Oss, both former star athletes, withdrew from the committee after expressing sharp criticism of the way in which negotiations were conducted for the new football coach.

Coffman Remains Silent

What effect this development would have on the athletic situation at the school was not apparent tonight, but it was pointed out that neither Crisler nor Wieman have definitely accepted the Minnesota offer. Although Pres. D. L. Coffman, who recommended their appointments, would not comment, he had previously said he expected both to accept.

In his letter of resignation Rathbun charged that alumni representatives on the committee had been virtually ignored in the negotiations for a coach to succeed Dr. Clarence W. Spears. He added that "representation of Minnesota alumni on the committee appears to have become so futile that I cannot justify my continuance thereon."

Rathbun charged that E. B. Pierce, the committee chairman, had broken a promise to call a meeting of the full committee after the sub-committee had assembled sufficient information about the various applicants for the coach's post before making any recommendations.

"Broke Promise"—Rathbun

"This promise you broke," Rathbun wrote, adding that "while these breaches of good faith" may not have been deliberate, "their effect has been to deny alumni of the University of Minnesota the representation to which they were entitled."

Oss, in his letter of resignation, said he concurred "absolutely in the sentiments expressed in Mr. Rathbun's letter." He added, however, he had received notification of the Jan. 16 meeting of the committee, but on inquiry learned that only routine matters would be discussed.

Banks Close Today

In observance of Lincoln's birthday all local banks will be closed today. Neither city schools nor the university will dismiss classes, but exercises in the schools will be devoted to the anniversary of the emancipator.

Fire Wrecks German Ship at N. Y. Pier

Explosions Kill Two, Injure Seven, Do Great Damage

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Raked by a fierce fire which followed a series of explosions in her hold just after her 349 passengers had been discharged, the North German Lloyd liner Meunchen tonight lay wrecked at her pier.

Her stern, buried in the mud of the river, prodded dangerously close to the Hudson river tubes leading to New Jersey, causing the closing of the tunnels to traffic and forcing thousands of commuters to wend their way Jerseyward by devious routes.

The Muenchen was tied to pier 42 in the Hudson river at the foot of Morton street when the fire, of as yet undetermined origin, was discovered in the aft hold, number 6, in which was stored nitrate of potash and varnish.

Blaze Kills Two

The blaze, the most disastrous marine fire in the harbor in 30 years, claimed two lives and injured seven persons before it was brought under control. Damage to ship and cargo was estimated at $3,000,000 to $6,000,000. None of the passengers was injured.

Firemen fought the flames with caution owing to the danger of additional explosions in the cargo of nitrate of potash and varnish stored in the liner's hold.

Spontaneous Combustion

Spontaneous combustion in these stores was blamed by firemen as the cause of the blase. The same cargo, of a highly imflammable and explosive nature, also was blamed for the terrific blasts which ripped up the Muenchen's deck plates, twisted her railings and funnels and littered her deck with debris.

The second of the blasts, which fcllowed in rapid succession, blew several members of the crew of the firetug, Thomas Willett into the river, resulting in the drowning of John Harvey, 48 years old, pilot of the tug. The other firemen were saved but four were taken to the hospital suffering from submersion. The other man to lose his life was an electrician named Franke, who was trapped in the hold and burned to death.

Clark Drops Out of Race for Senate

DES MOINES, Feb. 11 (AP)—Howard J. Clark, Des Moines attorney, today set at rest reports that he would file as a candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator. In a formal statement, he announced, "I have concluded not to be a candidate."

Clark's statement, coming at the time he had been expected definitely to announce his candidacy, surprised political circles. For weeks it had been believed that he would enter the race, in which Congressman L. J. Dickinson of Algona and Governor John Hammill formally have entered. His plans for a strenuous campaign were said to have been made, leaving only his formal announcement to be prepared.

His statement today gave no indication of whether he would lend support to the campaigns of either Dickinson or Hammill.

Withdrawal of Clark was accompanied by reports that Frank J. Lund of Webster City might enter the race. Although no boom has been started on his behalf, it was said Lund had considered entering the race provided Clark did not.

Paul Shaw Arrives Today in New Plane

The new Alexander-Eaglerock biplane belonging to Paul B. Shaw, 226 E. Bloomington street, local pilot, is scheduled to arrive here sometime this afternoon. It is being piloted from Colorado Springs, Col., by Ted Ashford of Omaha, former university student.

This model has a 90 horsepower OX5 motor, and according to Mr. Shaw, is the only ship of its power providing a maximum of safety. Two passengers besides the pilot can be accommodated.

Hoover Keeps Union Hours While Fishing

LONG KEY, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP)—President Hoover kept union hours today, spending exactly eight hours in an open fishing boat. He caught three game barracudas and four bonitas in his second day of deep sea fishing off this small island.

Assails Hughes

SENATOR BORAH

Opposition to Hughes Grows With Attacks

Borah, Glass Assail Appointment of New Justice

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Severe condemnation of the views of Charles Evans Hughes rang forth in the senate today as unexpected opposition to his nomination as chief justice of the United States developed and forced over until tomorrow a vote on his confirmation.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, and Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, assailed the attitude on public questions of the nominee. They stirred up a debate which brought two democrats—Warner and Copeland, of New York—and the veteran Senator Gillett, republican, Massachusetts, to their feet in praise of the nominee.

Westerners Oppose Hughes

The opposition to Hughes, centered principally in the group of western republican independents, appeared overnight after the speech yesterday of Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska. Leaders were confident tonight regardless that Hughes' nomination would be confirmed tomorrow by a decisive majority.

Citing the legal record of Mr. Hughes as a member of the supreme court and as counsel before the court, Senator Borah said he was of the opinion that the nominee "feels that practically no restraint ought to be placed upon the vast corporate interests of the United States; that he will go to the bench as chief justice carrying with him the conviction that these efforts at restraint are unwise and that after all we must leave, in a large measure, the course of these vast interests to their own discretion and to their own judgment."

Glass Denounces Action

Senator Glass denounced, first, the action of Hughes in resigning from the supreme court to run for the presidency in 1916. He then took up the Shreveport railway decision of the supreme court when Hughes was on the bench, contending this decision had destroyed all rights of states to a voice in regulation of intrastate commerce.

Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina, who has been urging the reappointment of William Howard Taft as the chief justice, informed the senate that he understood Taft was improving in health. He also expressed the fear of this becoming a "family government."

Wets Present Plan to House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — Legislative doors to the whole prohibition question will be thrown wide open tomorrow when the house judiciary committee opens hearings on measures to repeal or modify the prohibition laws.

With the aid of prominent advocates of their cause, the wets have prepared a plan of procedure which they hope will result in modification and ultimate repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Once they have had their say the drys will be heard.

While this phase of the prohibition controversy was being awaited eagerly, sentiment increased in both the senate and house against the Chrystopherson bills. These were intended to carry out the recommendation of the law enforcement commission to relieve court congestion by allowing federal commissioners to try minor dry cases.

A strong sentiment has developed among some members of that group that the measures would not accomplish what the commission expects, unless the Jones law is amended to define casual and slight offenses of the dry law.

Officers Push Searches for Bank Bandits

Authorities in Three Cities Take Steps to Find Gangs

(By The Associated Press)

New York, Chicago, and Sioux City authorities today took steps which it is hoped will lead to solution of recent bank robberies at Shambaugh and Leeds, Ia.

Freddie Dunn, 25 years old, and Miss Alice Morton, 20 years old, were arrested at Chicago this morning as they stepped off a bus from Council Bluffs, and were held for Sioux City police.

Meanwhile Walter J. Frelund, said to be a friend of Dunn, failed to appear in Sioux City police court for a preliminary hearing in connection with the robbery of the Leeds State bank, Feb. 7. He is believed to have jumped his $7,500 bond.

Hearing Date Set

Hearing in New York for James Fewin, 22 years old, held as a fugitive from justice in connection with the robbery of the Shambaugh Savings bank last Nov. 11 was set for next Monday.

Dunn was said to have tried to draw a revolver when Chicago detectives stopped him, but he was overcome. When searched at police headquarters, he was found to have $500 in cash, $2,500 in stock certificates, $25 in gold, and a .38 calibre revolver.

A telephone request from M. E. Farley, chief of Sioux City detectives, brought about the arrest, and Dunn was also said to wanted as a suspect in a Council Bluffs, Ia., bank robbery. After his arrest, the sheriff of Aberdeen, S. D., wired Chicago that authorities there wanted him for bank robbery.

Frelund Arraigned

Frelund was arraigned yesterday before Police Judge Dave Stockman and was granted a continuance until this morning under bond. When his name was called in court today, however, he did not answer.

Fewin was arrested last night while he left a theater with his wife and mother-in-law and was held without bail.

Cook County Jury Indicts 19 Gangsters

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP)—Chicago showed today that it meant business in its war on crime.

The Cook county grand jury swung into action to back up the sweeping drives conducted by city and county authorities and laid a heavy hand on nearly a score of known gunmen brought before it today. Indictments were reported to have been returned against nineteen men who live by pistol and machine gun and bond on each was fixed at $10,000.

Meanwhile, spurred on by public indignation at the recent outburst of murders and bombings, police continued to comb the underworld and by sunset had ferreted out another 800 hoodlums and gangsters.

The total enmeshed in police toils and brought to the bureau of identification since the city-wide clean-up started Saturday is expected to reach 2,000 by tomorrow and with another week of strenuous activity on the part of police, Commissioner William L. Russell hones to have broken the back of hoodlum lawlessness in Chicago.

Colonel Robert Isham Randolph, head of the secret "committee of seven," representing the allied business interests of Chicago arrayed against crime, today reported to State's Attorney John A. Swanson that unlimited financial support had been pledged his investigators and the work of the latter was meeting with "gratifying results."

Those against whom true bills were reported to have been voted today were: William Williams, Ade de Boekan, Nick Rosko, Salvatore Espinoza, George Footz, Albert Carter, Harvey Grandes, William O'Connor, Harry Jenks, Carl Hansen, James Riley, Andrew Taylor, Herbert Allen, Joseph Honsik, Jerry Van Kura, Charles de Voto, Joseph Maciong, Abe Rudsky and Woodward Clardy.

Powers Agree to Humanize Sub Warfare

Parley Thwarts Efforts to Abolish Vessels From High Seas

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP) — Although the Anglo-American effort to abolish submarines from the high seas was thwarted today by the opposition of France and Japan, the five nations represented at the London naval conference, sitting in formal plenary session, voiced complete agreement to outlaw barbarous activity.

They launched a definite conference program toward this which the delegates hope will be the beginning of the end of the war time horror and peacetime death trap of the oceans. Briefly, the sea-powers declared their stand on submarines as follows:

Italy supported abolition in principle, contingent upon drastic reduction in other classes of war ships.

Proposes Abolition

Great Britain, through V. A. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, proposed abolition in the general interests of humanity, based on the war-time terror of the submarine and its peace-time calamities.

Henry L. Stimson of the United States delegation supported Alexander and later presented a constructive proposal for restricting submarine warfare. The most tensely dramatic moment of the session came when Secretary Stimson declared: "The use of the submarine in the World war revolted the conscience of the world, and the threat of its unrestricted use against merchant ships was what finally determined the entry of my own country into the conflict."

Submarine Indispensible

France frankly maintained that the lesser naval powers could not do without submarines; that the submarine was only a death-dealing instrument like all other warships, but like other warships, could and should be regulated and limited.

Admiral Takarabe for Japan maintained that the submarine had its legitimate uses as a medium of defense, as a scout and in warding off the enemy in a nation's home waters.

Japan viewed the submarine as a convenient and adequate means providing for national defense but is "emphatically opposed to unlimited submarine warfare as witnessed during the World war."

Nebraska Boy on Trial for Snyder Killing

GRANT, Neb., Feb. 11 (AP)—Joy Crow, 15-year-old North Platte, Neb., youth went on trial today for the slaying of Babe Snyder, killed last December in a quarrel over liquor.

The state charges that Crow and his step-brother, Paul Duffy, 16 years old, killed Snyder and his companion, Axel Johnson, and that Duffy would also face the same charges.

On the other hand Attorney Beatty for the defense will uphold the theory of self defense, outlining to the jurors his contention that the boys were literally taken captive and their lives threatened.

The defense will also hold, Beatty declared, that Johnson had been drinking heavily prior to the theft of the liquor and that he invited and gave young Duffy a drink from one of three kegs in the tonneau of his car.

Further detailing the plans of the prosecution, County Attorney Hastings charged that Crow shot both men without warning with a .32 calibre gun obtained at the Duffy home after the two had dumped the liquor in a field, covering kegs with cornstalks.

In a statement to him after the tragedy, Hastings told the jurors, the boys declared Johnson threatened them, saying, "You'll tell where the liquor is or you'll never see home again."

In the crowd, which packed the courtroom, were numerous boys in their 'teens, friends of the two defendants.

Orville Truitt, Perkins county resident, was the first witness called during the afternoon and he was followed to the stand by his wife, both of them telling of finding the bodies of Johnson and Snyder in the highway.

Frank Smith, living near the scene of the slaying, was to be called next, to tell of the removal of the bodies to his home.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE

WEBSTER CITY, (AP)—Leaving a note indicating she was despondent, Mrs. John McAffigan, 39 years old shot and killed herself today in front of the Dunkel construction company's warehouse, where her husband works.

REFUSES TO BE AVIATION ENTHUSIAST

Thomas Edison, who was 83 years old yesterday, refuses to be enthusiastic over airplanes. Once singed in a rocket ship he planned, the inventor refused to ride in the blimp above.

Edison Scribbles Emphatic Opinions on 83rd Birthday

FT. MYERS, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP) — Emphatic opinions on prohibition, disarmament negotiations, science, and invention were scribbled with a stubby pencil here today by Thomas A. Edison, the electrical wizard, celebrating his eighty-third birthday and answering questions from newspapermen.

Mr. Edison believes that absolute prohibition eventually will be enforced in the United States and that manufacture of light wines and beer in the home through modification of the Volstead act would not aid temperance. The inventor said that the age of fully automatic machinery would find the laborer with a home and many new things providing alcohol does not intervene.

Belief that the London disarmament conference will "arrive at a sane compact to limit 'future troubles," was expressed by Mr. Edison. He cautioned, however, that developments in electrical and poisonous destructive elements have not made a future World war impossible or improbable.

The aged inventor, somewhat failing in health, but still active and alert, answered more than 20 questions.

Asked regarding his health, and how old he actually felt, Mr. Edison's eyes twinkled as he replied that he "generally felt 50 years, but lately some microbes have spotted me and done some experimenting with my internal machinery, so I feel about 85."

Ceremonies of unveiling a memorial plaque in his honor at city park were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Edison and Henry Ford, and Harvey Firestone and their wives together with a large crowd of citizens and visitors.

Stefansson to Give Another of Lecture Series Here Today

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, explorer and author, appears at the university today in the third of his series of lectures on the Arctic. Mr. Stefansson has been giving two lectures every Wednesday for the last two weeks, a subsidiary lecture given at the chemistry auditorium has followed more scientific lines.

His main lecture is given in the natural science auditorium and the title of tonight's lecture will be "The northward course of the empire."

Mr. Stefansson has been giving the same lectures at the University of Minnesota and Ohio State university.

During his visit here, Mr. Stefansson will attend a luncheon with a group of physicists at the home of Prof. G. W. Stewart, head of the physics department. There he will discuss the application of physics to exploration. This afternoon he will speak before a group of medical students at the university hospital, and tonight he will attend a dinner at the home of F. E. Horack, professor of political science.

Senate Pares Glass Duties

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — Democrats and republican independents continued their rate slashing drive in the senate tariff contest today by cutting to the level of the 1922 law the duties on window and plate glass proclaimed under the flexible provisions. By a vote of 41 to 40, approval was given part of an amendment by Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, to cut the window glass rates. Then, without a roll call the remainder of the reductions were adopted.

The plate glass reduction amendment was offered by Senator Mcmaster, republican independent of South Dakota, and carried, 43 to 20. McMaster asserted there never had been "a more deliberate misuse of official power" than in the proclamation of these increases.

Twelve republicans and 29 democrats combined to put over the Barkley cuts, while 36 republicans and four democrats opposed them.

Clayton Votes Second Bonds

Highways 18, 10, 13 to Be Completed

ELKADER, Feb. 11 (AP) — Complete but unofficial returns from all of the 24 precincts in Clayton county tonight showed a majority of 1,138 votes in favor of the proposed $690,000 primary road bond issue. The vote was 3,505 to 2,367.

The same issue was approved last semester by a majority of 367, but the election was declared illegal because of failure of one of the three official papers of the county to publish the election.

The issue passed today is the second for Clayton, a $1,500,000 issue being approved in 1927, and the funds used to pave U. S. 18 across the county east and west and portions of primary highways 10 and 13. Today's issue will furnish funds for the paving of the remainder of the last two highways.

With the passing of the new issue, Elkader is assured of a paved road to Dubuque, No. 13 from Elkader northeast to the junction with U. S. 18; No. 56 from Elkader to the Fayette county line; and No. 128 from its junction with No. 13, north of here, to the Dubuque county line north of Luxemburg, will be paved in the next year or two.

The Clayton county issue raised the total of bonds voted by the counties for paving to $101,621,657.

City School Board Plans for Election

Plans for the election of school board members the second week in March will be discussed at the meeting of the Iowa City school board tonight in the superintendent's offices of the administration building at 7:30. James E. Stronks is president of the board.

THREE REQUEST PAPERS

DES MOINES, (AP)—John Rider Wallis of Dubuque, I. T. Quirk of Wall Lake, and Lafe Hill of Nora Springs today requested nomination papers for the state senate, and J. M. Randall of Chariton for state representative.

Faces Charge of Violating Volstead Act

Doran Continues Drive Against Business Organizations

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP) — Indictment of J. E. Hubinger Brothers company, manufacturers of corn products, at Keokuk, Ia., was announced today by federal authorities at Springfield, Ill. The company was charged with the shipping of corn sugar in carload lots to a group of illegal distillers in central Illinois.

At the same time James M. Doran, United States prohibition administrator, made known a policy of "continued wholesale action against firms contributing to prohibition law violations." At a conference with district administrators he said the move of the government in indicting business firms was to be viewed as the first attempts to block "higher ups" who either consciously or unconsciously contributed to prohibition law violations.

The indictment of the Keokuk firm came on the heels of a similar one yesterday, against the Corn Products Refining company, of Chicago, Kansas City, and Pekin, Ill., and the Fleischmann Yeast company, of Cincinnati, O., both of which were accused of supplying bootleggers with stuff needed in the manufacture of illicit liquor.

31 Named Yesterday

Thirty-one other firms, were named in still another indictment in Chicago yesterday including 155 individuals, charging conspiracy in the unlawful diversion of government alcohol.

Mr. Doran, in commenting on the federal prohibition department's action against business firms, said, "if we can show that individuals and firms knowingly supplied law violators with materials to manufacture illicit liquor beverages, the courts will be called upon to give an exact interpretation of the scope of the prohibition laws."

Doran discredited the likelihood that indictments would be extended to still manufacturers, bottle works, and allied industries as "contributors of law violations."

Authorities Search for Tarro

Meanwhile, federal authorities here began the task of rounding up the 155 persons and 31 firms named in the conspiracy indictment. Assistant United States district attorneys were assigned to go to New York, Cleveland, St. Louis, and other large cities in which the conspiracy is supposed to have operated to institute removal proceedings under the indictment.

The whereabouts of Domminick Tarro, described as an important government witness in the case against the yeast company and the corn products refining company, remained unknown tonight. He disappeared two weeks ago when his automobile was found burned and riddled with bullet holes. While there was some belief that he disappeared voluntarily, there were also reports that he had been slain. Authorities were investigating the reported burning of a body behind a river side dance hall at Florence, Ill., a few nights ago.

Board Elects Smith Head of Pathology

Confirmation of the appointment of Dr. Harry Pratt Smith of the University of Rochester as head of the department of pathology and bacteriology here, was made by the state board of education at its meeting in Old Capitol yesterday.

Dr. Smith will assume his duties July 1. Dr. George H. Hansmann, who has been acting head of the department, will continue on the faculty.

Born at West Branch, Dr. Smith received degrees in arts and medicine at the University of California. He was on the staff of the Hooper institute at San Francisco and for two years was a faculty member at Johns Hopkins university.

Before joining the University of Rochester staff five years ago, Dr. Smith spent a year at Columbia university. He studied abroad as a fellow of the national research council.

The bequest to the university of the library of the late Prof. M. A. Shaw of the English department was formally accepted by the board.

The date for the next meeting of the board of education has been set as April 8 at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls.

AMES PROFESSOR DIES

AMES, (AP)—Prof Ernest A. Pattengill, 55 years old with the Iowa state college mathematics department since 1900, is dead of heart disease. He will be buried at Osage Wednesday.

Eastern Star Holds Annual Ceremonies

School for Instruction, Luncheon, Dinners, Feature Meet

Annual school of instruction for the newly installed officers of the Order of Eastern Star was held yesterday afternoon and evening at the Masonic temple. Mrs. C. A. Bowman, worthy matron of Jessamine chapter, presided over the affair.

Twenty-four persons attended the noon luncheon which was held at the American Legion building in honor of the state officers who are visiting in Iowa City. The tables were decorated with spring flowers and the color pink predominated.

Mrs. Bess McMurray of Newton, the instructor for this district, had charge of the afternoon meeting. Mrs. Sarah Bachman of State Center, who is worthy grand matron, was present at all the meetings.

Approximately 200 persons attended the banquet which was held at 6:30 p.m. at the temple for all members of the Order of Eastern Star. In keeping with the spirit of St. Valentine's day, the tables were decorated with red hearts, nut cups of red and white, and the lighted tapers were tied with red tulle.

At the dinner Mrs. Roy Lee presented Mrs. Bachman with a green desk lamp and Mrs. J. O. Maruth presented Mrs. McMurray with a pink crystal vase. Mrs. Lois Carson was chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner and Mrs. Caroline Darby was in charge of the committee for other arrangements.

After the banquet the following presentations were made: Mrs. Sarah Bachman, worthy grand matron; James L. Records, present grand patron order of Eastern Star of Iowa City, and treasurer of the home board; Mrs. O. E. Van Doren, grand sentinel; Mrs. Bess McMurray; Mrs. Bertha Payne, past grand of Eastern Star.

Mrs. Anis, past Ruth of Minnesota; Mrs. Emma Weeber, past grand Ruth of Iowa; present patrons and matrons visiting chapters, and past patrons and past matrons of Jessamine chapter. Mary Musser pinned a red rose on Mr. Records, Mr. Ferguson, and on the other men that were present.

Mrs. Lucille Leinbaugh presented Mrs. Anis and Mrs. Weeber with a rose. Bouquets of roses were presented to Mrs. Bachman, Mrs. McMurray and Mrs. Van Doren.

Nonpareil Club Has Dancing Party on Shadowland Floor

Shadowland in the American Legion building was the scene of the Nonpareil Dancing club's Valentine party last night. Thirty-five couples were present.

Two tag dances, and one specialty dance called "Turn on the Heat," were the main features of the evening's entertainment. The specialty dance was one in which a general mix-up of partners took place at a given signal, the partners would finish the dance.

Guests at the party were Boyd Shannon, and Carl Hastings. The committee in charge of the affair was Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wren, chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kaufman, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lantz.

The next party, which will be a boilermakers' party, will be March 4. Cliff Eastland will be chairman of the committee.

Eureka Lodge Gives Card Party Tonight

A card party and dance sponsored by Eureka lodge No. 44, I.O.O.F., will be held at the lodge rooms this evening at 8 o'clock. The card party will be in progress during the basketball game between the local Odd Fellows and the team representing the Timberwolves, scout organization of Shimek school. Euchre, bridge, and bunco will be played and prizes will be awarded to both winners and losers. The committee is withholding the nature of the prizes but promises a big surprise to all.

The dance will follow the game and is in charge of the committee composed of Albert Oathout, chairman; Wilbur Cerny, Alan Rarick, Henry Ruppert, and John Frenzen.

Historical Characters Feature Pageant of W. C. A.

Using historical characters and a vision of the map making of yesterday the "Pageant of American citizenship" was presented at the Iowa City high school auditorium by the women's relief corps last night.

The stage was surrounded by a floral display, and in the background a large map of the United States was set off by several flags. The characters were dressed in the costume of the times and music of the period gave added emphasis.

A modern scene composed of a girl's glee club chorus singing and dancing "Tip Toe Through the Tulips," and "The Iowa Corn" song opened the play. A candle scene was used to show the period which followed the Civil war.

The play was directed by Mrs. Ruth Crayne and the cast was composed of a large number of men, women, and children. The girl's glee club chorus included, Helen Redman, Helen Boss, Maria Tener, Mary Reha, Grace Sipple, and Edith Stoner. Frances Maude Crayne and Maurine Dever presented a costume duet.

The dancers were Katherine Grimm, Dorothy Kron, Dorothy Schenck, Eleanor Sherman, Paul Lauer, and Joseph O'Leary. Mrs. Alexander Elliott, Mrs. Floyd Nagler and William Holland were the soloists. A quartet was composed of Mrs. Nagler, Maria Tener, Victor Jones, and C. P. Gilmore.

Mrs. Maude W. Smith was accompanist.

James Brett Kenna to Speak at Annual Methodist Banquet

The main speaker on the program of the student-faculty banquet to be held at the Methodist church at 6 p.m. Thursday, is James Brett Kenna, pastor of the First Methodist church of Des Moines.

During his undergraduate days at Northwestern university and the Garret Biblical institute, Mr. Kenna continued with his voice lessons, considering an opera career at the time. After finishing his work at Northwestern, he studied two years at the New York Theological Seminary.

Since entering the pastoral work, Mr. Kenna has served many pulpits in school centers. This is his second year at Des Moines.

Tickets for this sixteenth annual dinner may be ordered from the Methodist student center, or from the Rev. Charles A. Fort, until 10 p.m. today.

Retailers Use Ad Mediums

Association Campaigns Against Chain Stores

Utilizing both radio and newspapers as mediums, an advertising campaign will be launched in a few days by the Greater Community association, E. A. Baldwin, who was elected first president of the new organization at Des Moines, Monday, announced yesterday.

With its permanent headquarters in Iowa City, the new state-wide association has been organized to encourage retail stores as against chain stores and mail order houses. The advertising campaign has been put into the hands of L. R. Fairall and company of Des Moines, and will be supported by money obtained by a canvass of all Iowa retail merchants.

Membership in the organization, which is extended to all Iowa retail merchants, will entitle the holder to a copyrighted display sign. This sign, according to Mr. Baldwin, will be placed in the window of any business house, which is a member of the organization.

Mrs. Langston Joins Book Review Staff; to Broadcast Today

With a review of Stephen Vincent Benet's "John Brown's Body," Mrs. William C. Langston today joins the book review staff of the school of journalism. Mrs. Langston, wife of Professor Langston of the college of medicine faculty, will broadcast a review of this metrical version of the civil war, over WSUI this afternoon at 2:30.

The fact that Mrs. Langston is a native of Georgia will enable her to give a southerner's interpretation of this Pulitzer prize poem.

Prof. Bartholow V. Crawford of the English department, whose earlier review was of "William T. Sherman," will broadcast comments on Edith Wharton's "Hudson River Bracketed" next Wednesday.

Professor Leon to Speak at University Club Lunch Today

Walter Leon, professor of vocal music, will talk before the University club at a luncheon tomorrow in the club rooms in Iowa Union at 12:30.

Professor Leon will speak on "Behind the scenery in producing opera." Ten years of actual experience on the stage as a singer of grand opera and comic opera in Germany, France, Italy and England will serve as his material.

Professor Leon will discuss the opera schools of Berlin and Paris from the standpoint of his personal experience. He will also show the rigid routine necessary for success in grand opera.

Those in charge of the luncheon include Mrs. C. A. Ruckmick, chairman, Mrs. J. H. Bodine, Mrs. Samuel Hayes, Mrs. J. R. Friedline and Gladys Lynch.

Post Office Clerks Auxiliary Entertains

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lorack, 637 S. Lucas street, entertained the members of the post office clerks auxiliary and their husbands at a Valentine party last evening. The party was given by the auxiliary for their husbands.

Special guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney G. Smith of Cedar Rapids. Mr. Smith is state secretary of the post office clerks, and Mrs. Smith is state president of the auxiliary.

Preceding the party Mrs. Smith presided at a short meeting of the organization. After the business meeting, games and stunts were played with prizes awarded to those most successful in the contests. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Assisting Mrs. Lorack were Mrs. Harry Seger, Mrs. J. W. Berry, and Mrs. Carl Neuzil.

Currier Hall Council Plans Two Parties

Plans for two informal parties to be given at Iowa Union were formulated at the meeting of the junior council of Currier hall which was held last Monday night.

Jaunita Reed, A3 of Clinton, was elected junior member of the house council.

Plans were also discussed for the annual stunt party which will be given the night of Feb. 22. A committee elected from each floor will put on a stunt.

Council Sets Feb. 24-25 as Contest Dates

University Women Will Compete in Speaking Tournament

Feb. 24 and 25 were the dates set by Women's Forensic council, at its meeting yesterday for the women's extemporaneous speaking contest.

University women who are not members of literary societies will meet in a preliminary contest Feb. 24 at 4 p.m., in room 14 in liberal arts building. The final contest will be held in the same place when the representatives of the six literary societies and the winner of the university women's preliminary contest meet.

The time allowed for the delivery of the speeches is not less than five minutes and not more than seven.

The subjects which the council chose for the contest are: "Is the existence of literary societies on our campus justified?"; "Should the honor system be adopted at the University of Iowa?"; "Would the students of the university favor a blanket tax to cover admission to all university events?"; Should the rule regulating mid-week dancing be tolerated?"

"Why should the state legislature appropriate funds for a central library?"; "Should the university library be open Sundays?"; "Should the present grading system at the University of Iowa be abolished?"; "Should the present regulations regarding signing in and out be modified?"

"Should the student council be more active in governing the student body?"; "Should final examinations be abolished?"; "Do university engagements usually culminate in marriage?"; and "Should student at the University of Iowa be forbidden to own and operate automobiles in Iowa City?"

Additional information may be obtained from Velma Bookhart, A4 of Ida Grove.

Mrs. Arthur Russell to Entertain W. M. B.

Mrs. Arthur Russell will entertain 24 members of the W.M.B. society at the Christian church at a tray luncheon today at her home, 508 River street. By WILLIAM RUTLEDGE

The University of Iowa will be the scene of six annual conferences and the bi-annual Commonwealth conference together with the yearly music festival, prep speaking contests, Academic meet, Iowa high school play production contests this spring and summer. Tentative plans are also underway for a conference of social workers during the summer.

The purpose of the conferences for high school teachers—the classical, fine arts, modern language, and commercial education conferences is to draw the attention of the teachers to modern methods of teaching and bring them in contact with prominent men in their fields.

Mabie Directs Play Contest

"In order to stimulate wider interest in the artistic production of plays, to encourage organization of amateur players in communities, to improve standards of acting and stagecraft among amateur players, and to bring amateur players and their directors together for mutual interchange of ideas and inspiration," the annual Iowa community and junior college play production contests will be staged here under the direction of Prof. Edward C. Mabie of the university speech department May 9 and 10.

The Commonwealth conference held every two years will convene here June 30, July 1 and 2. Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department, will be in charge.

The Classical conference, or the twelth annual conference of Latin teachers of Iowa, will take place this week-end. Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the university Latin and Greek department, has had charge of arrangements.

Many Speakers Scheduled

Talks will be given by Eleanor P. Marlowe of the University of Minnesota; Mark E. Hutchinson of Cornell college; C. G. Lowe of the University of Nebraska; Sherman Kirk of Drake university; Grant Showerman of the University of Wisconsin; Frederick W. Shipley of Washington University, St. Louis; and O. W. Qualley of Luther college, in addition to several Iowa professors.

In connection with the conference, the Latin laboratory, showing auxiliary devices for teaching of Latin, as well classical department's collection of reproductions of antiquities found at Mycenae, Cnossus, Pompeii, and Herculaneum, will be on display.

The annual fine arts conference will meet here Feb. 20, 21, and 22 for the purpose of increasing interest in the fine arts among high school teachers. Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, administrative director of the university school of fine arts, has charge of plans for this conference, at which seven prominent men in the fields of drama, music, and graphic and plastic arts will speak.

Feb. 28 and March 1, high school teachers throughout the state interested in the modern languages will assembly here for the yearly modern languages conference. This year the meetings of French, Spanish, and German teachers will be held at the same time instead of at different dates as in previous years. Edwin K. Mapes, associate professor of Romance languages at the university in charge of arrangements.

Waterman Directs Plans

The third annual Iowa waterworks conference for superintendents of waterworks systems and hydraulic men of the state will be held in the college of engineering April 9, 10, and 11. Prof. Earle L. Waterman is directing plans for the conference.

Prof. E. H. Wilcox of the university school of music, explained the music festival held annually under the auspices of the Iowa state high school music association, is the largest organization of its kind in the country. "The music festival is a contest in music for the high schools of Iowa. Three hundred and ninety-four high schools will participate. First will be a series of sub-district contests. The winners will advance to district contests of which there are six in the state. The winners in the district contests will come to the university for final competition May 1, 2, and 3.

There will be 30 events, including vocal solos, solos on all instruments, in addition to this various sized groups of singers and players from quartets to orchestras, bands, glee clubs, and choruses.

May 16 and 17 the annual commercial education conference will be held. There are three sub-divisions to this conference—the meetings of the Iowa political science association of economists and sociologists, the Iowa association of historians.

Academic Meet in June

The academic meet to which high school students of the state are invited to compete in brain wars for scholarships, and the annual high school play production contests will be staged here June 2 and 3.

June 17, 18, and 19, men throughout the state interested in child welfare work will meet here at the annual Iowa conference on child development and parent education.

A conference for social workers is being planned by Dale Yoder, associate professor in the university college of commerce, for this summer but plans are in the formative phase. No date has been set as yet.

Geraldine Farrar Will Give Concert Here Tomorrow

Geraldine Farrar, prima donna and noted concert artist, will sing in concert at Iowa Union tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. Miss Farrar will be assisted at the piano by Claude Gonvierre.

Miss Farrar received her early musical training in the conservatories of Paris and Berlin. She made her operatic debut in the Royal opera house in Berlin in 1901 singing Marguerite in "Faust."

In 1908 she joined the Metropolitan opera company of New York. Her roles with that organization include Marguerite, Tosca, Butterfly, Gilda, and others.

The program presented by Miss Farrar tomorrow night includes German, French, and Italian music. Mr. Gonvierre, the assisting artist, will play between the third and fourth groups given by Miss Farrar.

Three Iowa Teams Will Debate Soon

Three debating teams will represent Iowa Feb. 20 at one contest here and two others out of town. Prof. H. C. Harshbarger is coaching the three teams.

The women's team will take the affirmative side against Minnesota's negative on the question; "Resolved that installment buying is detrimental to the best interests of the American public." They will argue in the natural science auditorium at 4 p.m., Feb. 20.

Members of the team for this debate are; Aletha Butler, A3 of Atlantic, Opal Thurow, A4 of Macksville, Kan., and Elizabeth Larson, A2 of Council Bluffs. Prof. C. C. Cunningham of the speech department at Northwestern university will act as judge.

Another women's negative team will debate Wisconsin's affirmative team on the same question as the Iowa-Minnesota debate.

Members of this team include Jeanette C. Hyde, A4 of Des Moines, Dorothy Jane Fluke, A2 of Clinton, and Margaret Anderson, J3 of Ft. Dodge.

The freshman tean will uphold the affirmative side against Northwestern on the question; "Resolved that the principle of the chain store is detrimental to the best interests of the American public," in the high school auditorium at Davenport.

Debaters on this team are; J. Carlton, of Fairfield, and William Wolfe, of Council Bluffs. There will be no judge at this debate.

Herbert Witherspoon Will Speak Here at Fine Arts Meeting

One of the seven speakers who will appear here at the second fine arts conference ever held in an American university is Herbert Witherspoon, singer and educator of the Chicago music college. Mr. Witherspoon, whose home is in Darien, Conn., has toured the United States, Canada, and England as a singer.

He graduated from Yale in 1895 and then studied drawing and painting at the Yale art school. Since then he has sung with various singing teachers in New York, London, Paris and Berlin, including Henry J. Wood, Dubulle, and Lamperti. He has also shown himself as an actor, acting with V. Capoue and Anton Fuchs in Munich.

Later, from 1898 to 1900, he entered grand opera in England under Henry W. Savage. He toured America and England with the Thomas orchestra and the Pittsburgh symphony orchestra for many years and sang in the principal cities of these countries. He was a first basso in the Metropolitan opera company, singing about 25 leading parts.

Mr. Witherspoon will speak in the senate chamber of Old Capitol on the morning of Feb. 25.

Oil Stock Subject of Practice Court Case

The new case to be presented before the practice court, Thursday at 2:20 p.m., in the university court room of the college of law is entitled "The Good Luck oil company" vs. John Poor. It is a type of fraud case.

The theme of the situation is that the stock sold was not paid for in suit or stock subscription and a fraud was made on the grounds that the representative knew that the land called "The Grease Spot," in Texas had oil in it when the fact was, it was not even oil property.

The claims of the defense are that the stock was issued on unequal terms to influential people in order to get others to subscribe.

The attorneys for the plaintiff are E. K. Hagerman, L3 of Muscatine and Alfred E. Peterson, L3 of Clinton. The attorneys for the defendant are James W. Pattie, L3 of Clear Lake, and Charles L. Dollerhide, L3 of Davenport.

Iowa Alums Write Articles for Journal

The January issue of the Journal of Higher Education, a new publication of Ohio State university, carried articles written by three Iowa alumni. "New plan of registration," by Dean Carl E. Seashore explained the new system of registration at the University of Iowa in the graduate college, which emphasizes the specialization in study. Dean Seashore is an associate editor of the Journal of Higher Education.

"Social education," was the subject of the article written by Esther Allen Daw, who received her Ph.D. degree here in '19, and is now dean of women at Ohio State University.

An article on "Teachers wanted," by Chancellor John G. Bowman, B.A. '99, M.A. '04, of the University of Pittsburgh, was also published in the first issue of the magazine, Chancellor Bowman was president of this university during the years 1911-14.

Karl Zemen Speaks to Philosophical Club on "Speech Curves"

Speaking on "Speech curves and some of their applications," Karl Zemen, visiting lecturer from the University of Vienna, addressed 45 members of the Philosophical club at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Christian A. Ruckmick, 212 Ferson avenue, last evening.

Mr. Zemen, student of experimental phonetics, stated that condensations and rarefactions of air particles are the most important means of transferring thoughts and emotions from human mind to human mind, a kind of invisible bridge overreaching the space between the two psyches.

Zemen defined speech curve as being an image of an ever fluctuating flow of energy, and, in a mathematical sense, a function of time. He described the aspects of speech as being threefold: psychological, physiological, and physical. "Investigations must be based on the physical aspect thus enabling exact measurements of the basic factors of speech: duration, pitch, and tone-color or timbre."

Zemen is the author of a Russian text book in two volumes and articles on "Archin for die gesamte psychology." He was, until the time of his trip to the United States, pupil and assistant to E. W. Scripture, professor of experimental phonetics in the University of Vienna.

Waterloo Rotarians, Guests Hear Jessup

Pres. Walter A. Jessup addressed more than 500 persons attending the Rotary dinner given in Black's tea room in Waterloo, Monday evening. The occasion was the annual civic dinner given by the Rotary club for the public and parochial school teachers.

President Jessup was introduced by Benjamin F. Swisher, B. Ph., '99, LL.B., '00, and used as the subject of his speech, "Changing phases in education."

Mrs. Jessup accompanied President Jessup to Waterloo.

Fundamentals of Success

SUCCESS is talked about, written about, and preached about, yet it remans intriguingly baffling. It is a familiar subject, an attainment much sought after and greatly desired. Men and women endure hardships and struggle to attain it, still they do not understand it, and all too often fail to recognize it when it is theirs.

Today is the anniversary of a man who earned success and fame and recognized it as a substantial thing to be secured by tangible efforts. One hundred and twenty-one years ago Charles Robert Darwin was born. Throughout a life time devoted to science this man discovered certain principles with regard to his own success which are passed on to others in his "Life and Letters."

These principles which Darwin found so important in his own achievements are: a love of science; unbounded patience in long reflection over any subject; industry in observing and collecting facts; a fair degree of common sense.

To the man of insight and ambition these principles appear equally important today in achieving success. It is reasonably obvious that a love for the thing one is working in is a basic requirement for any measure of success in it. It is extremely difficult to put best efforts into forced interests. Equally evident is the principle regarding the industry expended in observation and collection of facts. Effort mixed with common sense is required for accomplishment.

Darwin has chosen four important essentials, but of them all, unbounded patience in long reflection over any subject seems the greatest, the most vitally needed. Particularly today in the rush of living is the loss of patient reflection marked. It takes more than the day dreamer and the idealist to bring progress and advancement and the practical minded realist is justified in his insistence that realities must be faced, but reflection does not mean mere day dreams.

More and more the world is faced with hurried situations and today it seems almost true that only the scientist and the reclusive scholar meditates and contemplates. The rest of the world has no time for deliberate thoughtfulness. It is small wonder that men and women fail to know success, and to notice paths that lead to it. They take no time to consider them.

Perhaps this lost art, the ability to reflect with unbounded patience, would unlock new doors to success if one had the determination to attain it.

Pay Your Bills

ONE of the Federal Reserve banks, checking up on the department stores in its district, which includes several states, finds that the proportion of credit business is steadily increasing while the proportion of collecting is steadily decreasing.

In other words, customers are going deeper into debt right along. They are hurting their own credit rating as well as jeopardizing the status of the business men who have been kind enough to give them merchandise when they were in need. Letting accounts run on and on is a bad habit.

It can easily be classed with overdrawing your bank account. Of course, most students would not deliberately write a bad check, but in Iowa City where students have had free sway with check books, they have not been careful enough to stay within the limits of their balances. When some of these checks are written at the end of a school year students forget about them and their obligations are never fulfilled.

Thus, with so many bad checks on their hands, together with the numerous bad accounts carried on the books, merchants are forced to keep the prices of their commodities at a higher level to keep out of bankruptcy. So the delinquents are a detriment to society.

Five years ago, stores would collect, in an average month, 40 per cent of the amount due at the end of the previous month, which at best was not a very good showing. Recently collections have only been 35 per cent and the curve is still running down-hill.

Now credit men have called a halt and have organized a Pay-Your-Bills Promptly campaign, which should benefit both stores and patrons. Paying of bills promptly and regularly or slowly and irregularly is mostly a matter of habit.

A Dream of Spring

Wears on his smiling face a dream of Spring."
Wear on his smiling face a dream of Spring."

There's an outdoor picture for you that never loses its interest—watching the coming of spring. No matter how uncomfortable the chill winds, or how bleak the view from your window, there is constantly the dream of spring. The knowledge that one day, after an early rain, the grass on the lawn will be greener, the sky bluer, the general atmosphere gayer, tides one over the last few dreary weeks of winter. A winter that only a few months ago transformed the world with her soft, fluffy, white veil into an enchanted garden—now covers it with a dark, damp, grey mask!

The pussy willows even now are pushing away their brown bud-scales and showing deliciously white little ears along the softening streams. The white maples along the river are almost ready to hang festoons of creamy blossoms over the released waters. A little later the elm tree will appear in bloom, stretching glowing red fingers toward the unattainable blue of the sky. In some states—but hardly Iowa—the red maples will follow their scarlet little flowers in color harmony with the red stigma threads of the hazel on the sparsely covered hillsides. The ruby buds of the linden will break into emeralds and the elms will burst into delicate pale green and silvery leaves to harmonize with nature.

Slowly, magically, everywhere one imagines spring wakening from her long winter's nap—and it is this image, this dream that spring is not far distant, that forever affords enchantment to the seemingly endless vigil of the coming of spring!

The Great Emancipator

THE years roll by and still Abraham Lincoln's memory remains clear and true in the hearts of the American people.

One hundred and twenty-one years ago today, in a little log cabin in Hardin county, Kentucky, the man who became the savior of our country was born.

The world had existed before Abraham Lincoln was born and it contiued to exist after he died. But it was a better world for his having lived.

So many eulogies have been written about this great-hearted kindly man that nothing new remains to be said. The world has paid homage to his memory by books, letters, sermons, prayers, and monuments. It has done everything within its power to honor him. Yet it is not satisfied. Every year some new eulogy is uttered or some old eulogy reuttered.

If Lincoln, the man, were alive today, he would be touched and, doubtless a little awed, by so much reverence. If asked he would probably say, "but I only did my duty as I saw it."

The greatest homage we can pay to Lincoln's memory, the honor that would please him most, would be not praise for his own deeds but inspiration for our own.

If from his life and his work we can derive inspiration that will help us to live a little better, a little less selfishly, and a little more courageously, Lincoln's life will not have been lived in vain.

To a university student, St. Valentine's day is just an occasion to tide over the slack love season between Christmas vacation and the spring holiday.

It is significant that the talkies exist chiefly in a United States which has also worshipped at the exhibitions of the hog caller.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Gordon G. Gauss

Today is Lincoln's birthday. One hundred and twenty-one years ago in a little log cabin on the Kentucky frontier he was born, and rose from that humble origin to the position of a demi-god which he now occupies. The story of Lincoln is one of the greatest romances of American history, and few indeed are the children who do not know about him before they toddle off to kindergarten.

* * *

In this telling and re-telling of the story, Lincoln has become more a myth than a real person. He symbolizes all that is worth fighting for, the strict adherence to ideals. While such a conception may be entirely in order for children, this loss of personality rather detracts from him so far as the adult is concerned. Lincoln loses his "humanness' although in life he certainly was a practical individual.

* * *

Lincoln could never have been an idle theorist and have withstood the hard life of the frontier. He had his dreams, to be sure, but he also was a man of action with hard, shrewd common sense. He was a clever politician and a manipulator of political strings—he had to be, or he should never have reached the pinnacle of politics. He had his likes and dislikes; his joys and his sorrows; his strong points and his weaknesses. And it is only when we dig into these that we really begin to understand and love Abraham Lincoln.

* * *

Chicago is instituting a cleanup campaign which may or may not be effective. During the week-end policemen—who have received no pay since the first of the year—hauled nearly 1,000 suspects into the city police stations and booked them on various charges. The reason for all this activity and war against organized vice is that at last the dormant public sentiment has been aroused and has demanded that the hoodlums be cleaned out. Whether this is only an attack against the insignificant and petty criminal or a real drive against the "rings" only time can tell. At least it is a beginning.

* * *

A year ago Mussolini, representing Italy, and the heads of the Catholic church signed the Lateran treaties, restoring peace between the two after half a century of dissention. Relations between the factions still are not the most friendly and are characterized with just a shade of suspicion. This condition, however, is gradually righting itself and cooperation and mutual recognition between the two will probably wipe out the traces of the old feud in the course of time.

* * *

Kipling's "City of Dreadful Night" finds its parallel in the village of Adiyaman, Turkey, where almost 6,800 of its 7,000 inhabitants are sightless through the ravages of disease. Five times a day the tap-tap of canes resounds across the cobblestones of the streets as the sightless feel their way to the mosque to praise Allah and give thanks for what blessings they do have. Located in an out-of-the-way eastern province, the district was long forgotten by the stagnating sultans, but the new government under Mustapha Kemal is endeavoring to remove such conditions by cleaning up the towns and building hospitals.

Considerable surprise throughout the country has been expressed at the opposition in the senate to the ratification of Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice of the supreme court. For two days now the senate has battled upon the point, with the insurgents fighting the nomination. No one apparently questions the honesty of Hughes, but his critics fear that his judgment has been warped by his legal work for large corporations. Another point of the opposition is that he quit the supreme bench to enter politics nearly 15 years ago.

Explanation of Yesterday's Cartoon:

WATER FALL THAT "FALLS" UPHILL—These facts are quite well known in Honolulu, and the fact is verified by Harold Coffin, editor of the News of Hawaii. The falls are located in Nuuanu Valley, a short distance from Honolulu, and are visible from the highway. The water starts to fall down the cliff but the wind currents there are so strang that they catch the water and carry it back up and over the cliff.

Tomorrow—A Strange Medical Case.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

You and your readers must be completely exhausted, after wading through the oceans of words pouring from the pens of my opponents. There is now a lot of confusion, although I started out with this very simple idea: Keep the interurban in Iowa City, off our paved streets, in its own yard on Front street.

Allow me, therefore, to focus the spotlight once more upon the interurban franchise question—to show just what the issue is. There need be no doubt in anybody's mind just where I stand, although some people have the wrong idea of my proposal. And to those who seem to worry about me personally, let it be known that I have paid taxes in Iowa City for 12 years and also that neither the university nor any group of men is dictating my views on any subject whatsoever.

Stated in a way that no voter can misunderstand, the question to be decided is simply this: Shall the citizens of Iowa City get back the free, open, convenient use of certain streets for unobstructed travel or shall they permit these streets once more to fall into the hands of a railroad company for another period of years?

The question is not: Shall Iowa City get rid of the interurban? Anybody who says that is the issue is deliberately misleading the voters. I resent the efforts of those who have deliberately poisoned the minds of many on a question that is very simple and certainly not unimportant.

My reasons for urging that the interurban railroad quit the city's paved streets and keep all its cars and passenger station in its own yard will be clear to any voter who will be honest with himself and answer the following questions:

I. Do you know what American interurban and steam railway officials, traffic engineers, city planners, and other students of traffic conditions in modern cities say about street conditions such as Iowa City has tolerated in and near its "loop" for the last 10 years?

2. Are the traffic experts of today slaves to what men believed wise 25 years ago—are they ruled from the graveyard by the dead men of the past so that they approve of unnecessary railroads in a city's streets?

3. How do Iowa City motorists and pedestrains who have been dodging the danger and obstruction caused by interurban cars the last 10 years—how do they feel about getting their streets back at this time?

4. Is not one of the biggest problems of the small city with a small business district, how to prevent traffic jams and how to promote the safety of life and property in the streets?

5. Do you know what small cities everywhere are doing with rail roads and railway cars in their streets?

6. What are streets primarily for in this day and age?

7. If you can not answer the previous question, will you take the trouble to read the Iowa Supreme Court's answer in 176 Iowa reports 593?

8. Do you believe that public streets in the busy downtown district of a small city are the proper place for railway traffic?

9. Is it necessary that a big railroad car with seats for about 60 should run and park in Iowa City's main streets to load and unload express, baggage, milk cans, and about a dozen passengers 17 times a day?

10. Is the place for a railroad's terminal facilities in the people's paved streets or in its own yard just two blocks from the business district?

11. What do you think of a corporation that will ask the city for the use of several blocks of the people's paved streets after the city (in 1901 and later) generously gave this corporation almost a dozen blocks to be used as a right-of-way and yard for all time to come?

12. Should the people of Iowa City who gave the interurban company a perpetual yard on Front street south of Iowa Avenue—should they give up the use of still more streets for unnecessary railroad traffic?

13. Admitting that the convenience of a handful of passengers is served by interurban cars running and standing in Iowa City's business district, do you think there is any real necessity for that when access to the heart of the city is so easy from the interurban's permanent right-of-way?

14. Should the city council meekly swallow the interurban's proposed franchise ordinance just as it comes from the hands of attorneys and should it then refer such action to the voters at a special election?

15. If it makes no difference what happens to a city's streets, why does the State of Iowa insist on bothering citizens to decide such franchise questions at special elections?

16. Do you want this interurban with its big cars, unsightly poles and wires and tracks—with its danger, noise, vibration, and radio interference, especially when it accommodates so few travelers?

17. Should the owners of homes and places of business fronting upon the interurban's tracks for the last 25 years—should they be crushed and sacrificed again for another period of years (and some forever) if there is no real necessity for it?

18. Should railroad cars be allowed to operate in any street without the consent of abutting property owners?

19. Does the payment of some $2,000 of local taxes by a $2,000,000 railroad entitle it to the special free privilege of doing business in Iowa City's paved streets, especially when the company's own yard is only a couple of blocks from those streets?

20. If a few Iowa City business men have been satisfied with the interurban's freight accommodations for the last 25 years, should the citizens of Iowa City be asked to pay off the debt of gratitude by giving away their streets for unnecessary passenger traffic?

Any citizen who can pass this examination is qualified and competent to vote on the main question when it comes up on election day. Any voter can answer these simple questions for himself without kibitzing and ballyhoo from me or anybody else: a little plain thinking should make the matter clear.

The main issue is not only plain and simple: it is also very important. The voter who lightly says this agitation is only a tempest in a teapot not awake to a serious situation. Raids on the people's street should no more be tolerated than raids on the public treasury.

Let me emphasize this fact: the appearance and even more the usefulness of the city's streets for a long period of years are involved in the outcome of the election soon to be called.

Let those who wish to advertise Iowa City please remember this: Iowa City has really only two model blocks in its entire business district: one on Washington street and one on South Dubuque street. There we can see excellent paving and electroliers and no unsightly poles, wires, rails and railway cars.

And these are the only two blocks in the business district that are 100 per cent useful for ordinary traffic and parking.

Keep the interurban in Iowa City off our paved streets, in its own yard. That, Mr. Editor, is the slogan of

Yours for "Greater Iowa City."

—J. Van der Zee.

Supreme Court Rules State May Send Child to Reform School Without Trial

Action Comes Before Group Second Time

Cherokee County Case Upheld by Jurists in Des Moines

DES MOINES, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Iowa law which permits the sending of an incorrigible child to a reform school without trial by jury was upheld today by the Iowa supreme court in a Cherokee county case. This law, the court said, is not a criminal statute and does not involve the principal of punishment. The action came before the supreme court for a second time on an application for rehearing which was overruled in the case of Norman Wissenberg, et al, vs. C. C. Bradley, judge.

A will written wholly by a testator and signed by him in the presence of witnesses is good in probate, other conditions being normal, the supreme court held in deciding that the Monroe county district court acted properly in admitting to probate the will of Dewitt D. Johnson over the protests of certain contesting heirs. The fact that the testator was ungrammatical in his decision, spelled heirs "hairs" and made other errors in his style of will, made no difference, the court found.

Bequeathed $10,000

Under the will, a grandson, D. Brock Foster was bequeathed $10,000 on his coming of age. Other relatives received only nominal legacies. The contesting heirs were Durl Johnson, Berniece Haymaker, and Melissa Hicks.

Habeas corpus proceedings brought against Warden T. P. Hollowell of Ft. Madison penitentiary for release of Leo Bailey and R. V. Smith proved unavailing on decision by the supreme court in reviewing the actions from Lee county. In the first instance the court sustained Judge John E. Craig in discharging the writ, and in the second the court held that Judge Frank Bechly properly sustained a demurrer to the application for habeas corpus writ.

Reverse Damage Suit

A verdict for damages for personal injuries received by Eugene Appleby in an automobile collision, in which L. S. Cass, Black Hawk county, was defendant was reversed by the court.

The supreme court held that Des Moines county district court should have directed a verdict for Harry Chanen who was convicted of receiving and concealing grave markers alleged to have been stolen from a Burlington cemetery. Chanen was given a 30-day jail sentence by the lower court.

MASTER OF MONEY

By Roy Vickers

Her bewilderment grew. His attitude was utterly incomprehensible. She could not believe that he was genuinely indifferent.

"We are getting at cross-purposes," she faltered. "I've been thinking ever since I got the letter. You've got the whip-hand. You can stop him from bringing this action."

Alan frowned.

"By suing him for the money he owes me?" he challenged. "No Shirley, I lent him the money for a definite purpose, as you know, and I'm not going back on it."

"No, you needn't sue him. I wasn't thinking of that. But if you were to see him and tell him that he has no cause for divorce—tell him he must not bring the action—he's afraid of you, Alan."

"Not because he owes me money."

"No, perhaps not because of that, but—"

Shirley hesitated. In the vast muddlement in her brain there lingered some idea that it was not fair to betray the whole of Roger's confession to Alan.

"Because he knows that I could put him in prison if I cared to make a few inquiries?" demanded Alan.

She caught her breath.

"You know, then?"

"You told me so, Shirley."

"I?"

"When you were telling me how well you were doing you mentioned that he had made a few thousands over some stock exchange tip or other. I knew enough of his affairs to know that he had no capital to invest in a tip on the stock exchange. Moreover, the other night when he believed Corto Bellas to stand at 58, he offered to pay me back $50,000.

"By a little simple arithmetic and a study of the market columns I was able to calculate that he must have put over a quarter million into Corto Bellas to be able to make me that offer. He is at his father's game and he must have begun by losing a quarter million."

"I gave him the right to do what he liked with my money," she put in irrelevantly.

"That means that you've lost everything," he pointed out.

"Oh damn the money!" she exclaimed. "We're not talking about that. Are you going to put Roger in prison?"

"No. And I'm not going to threaten him with it—blackmail him into declining to exercise what he believes to be his rights."

"Then—surely you will defend the case!" she tried desperately.

"A lot of trouble and publicity for nothing!" he answered. "You have admitted that your marriage is a failure and you were willing, for whatever reason, to break your marriage vows. I'm sorry if I hurt you, but you must see the plain horse-sense of it. Why not leave it at that?"

"But—" she protested, and bit off the word with a horrible suspicion that she was about to burst into tears.

"Have you had any breakfast?" he asked.

"I don't want any breakfast."

"You had better have some all the same, and we'll see what is to be done. Come along, Shirley."

He led the way into the cottage.

"I shall choke if I try to eat," she faltered as they came inside.

"You won't really," he said. "You have a hard day in front of you—you will want all your strength."

CHAPTER XXV.

The cottage was filled with the smell of bacon frying and from the kitchen came the sound of sizzling. Shirley laughed, a shrill, high-pitched laugh that spoke of jangled nerves.

"Steady!" warned Alan, glancing at her with quick anxiety.

"It's all right," she assured him. "I laughed because I really am hungry. It seems mad to want—just breakfast."

"It's the soundest proof of sanity," he smiled back. "The body is awfully useful for dragging one out of the clouds. . . I've arranged for a reasonably competent electrician to mend your magneto, Ah, here's Mrs. Downey."

They sat down.

"You'd better let me tackle the coffee-pot. Mrs. Downey's coffee requires very careful pouring. . . Funny finding an electrician in the country, isn't it? He's got rather a queer story."

She sensed that his attitude towards her had changed. He was still friendly and amiable and solicitous, but this was a mere interlude. After breakfast they must settle something.

"Suppose we have a stroll while Mrs. Downey is clearing up?" he suggested.

She murmured assent.

"I must just change this dress," she told him, and he carried the suitcase upstairs for her.

She came down in knickers, feeling more confident of herself. He was smoking on the porch. In five minutes they had reached the open without a word. In those few minutes she was resting, sure that, presently, Alan would tell her what they were going to do.

"Well, what about your personal plans?" he asked abruptly.

Alan's words chilled her. In a single sentence he had detached himself from her. He was willing to help her—to throw her a rope from the safety of the bank. But those few words had made it clear to her that she was alone in the waters.

"I haven't had time to think. Does it matter very much? I shall go back to New York and put up at a hotel."

"Why not go to Mrs. Sibley?"

"No," She was firm on that point. "I've dropped out, Alan. You don't seem to understand that."

He made no answer and she wondered whether he understood. It had been the most rigid of all the rules her father had taught her. "Remember, Shirley, if you drop out—drop out. Not like So-and-So, for instance."

"You see, a hotel will cost money," Alan was saying. "Your husband told me his income was about five thousand a year—that means he can make you an allowance of possibly two thousand—"

"Alan!" she cried. "How can you think I would ever take a penny from him——"

"But you will have to take money from someone," he interrupted. "There's the hotel bill, if nothing else."

"Need we talk like this, Alan!" she protested. "It isn't, after all, merely a question of money-grubbing."

He caught on the phrase.

"But it is—just exactly that," he exclaimed. "Let me tell you that by the mere act of wanting to breathe and live from day to day we are all money-grubbing is the solemn business of life. I tell you," he added warming to his theme, "Money-grubbing is the finest sport on earth—or the meanest—whichever you care to make it."

"It's easy enough for you to moralize about money," said Shirley ill-tempered. "You're rich."

"It goes deeper than that," he conntered. "There are money problems that riches will not solve. You cannot buy off money with money. I tried that with your husband and learned my lesson. Look here, I have money enough without hurting myself——"

"Alan!"

"Quite so! When I put it like that you realize at once that it cannot Be done. You realize that you cannot receive without giving. It's a copybook maxim but it happens to be much more than good morality—it's good science.

"You come from the class that inherits money, but believe me that class gives service of some kind in return—even if it is only the service of pretending to give nothing. I believe the service demanded of you was that you should marry a millionaire or some man who could provide you with the means of doing your work—the work of being an ornament to the high world, as you call it.

"I don't understand the high world but I do understand that society seems to require it. You were not willing to give that service—you chose romance."

"You cannot blame me for that. I loved him honestly and wholeheartedly at the time."

"I don't doubt it. But you accepted money—the money you inherited from your father—you accepted all the surroundings of the class in which you move on terms which might require you to sacrifice love. That's the contract the high world offers, you know.

"Throughout the decades that class has accepted the obligations of public service and of marriage in the interests of their class. They may be wrong fundamentally—that doesn't matter. You tried to accept their privileges and shirk the particular responsibilities those privileges involved. You tried to receive without giving."

Anamosa Defeats University High, 11-9; Ramblers Seek Fifteenth Win

Handymen Lose Battle to Invaders

Rowe Leads Locals in Scoring; Long Shots Feature Tilt

In a game featured by the tight defensive tactics of both teams, University high went down in defeat last night before the fast Anamosa high quintet by the low score of 11 to 9. Each team fought hard for possession of the ball. Nearly all the field goals were made by long shots, the ball handler being rushed when under his basket so that it seemed impossible to convert them into the scoring column.

A better brand of ball was played than has been seen in the local gymnasium all season. Each team was keyed up to a fighting pitch. Rowe was high scorer for the Handymen with four points, and O'Toole, with five points, took honors for his quintet and for the game. University high made good on five out of nine free throws, and Anamosa tossed in three out of seven attempts.

Potter Scores

As the game opened, the ball was carried up and down the floor for several minutes before Potter flipped one in from the center for the visitors. Rowe then dropped a charity toss through the hoop, which was followed shortly after by a long one by Thomas. Rowe tossed in a free one, as did O'Toole. The quarter ended as O'Toole swished the net from the middle of the floor. Score, Anamosa 7; U. high 4.

Van Epps went in at guard for Dill as the second quarter began. Neville sent a free throw in for Anamosa. Lenz was fouled by Meredith, but failed to make it good. Fairchild made a point from the foul line, and Meredith got under the basket for two points. The Blue and White took many shots at the hoop, but could not make them count until just before the half ended when Rowe tossed one in from under the basket. The score at the half-way mark was 10-7 in Anamosa's favor.

Teams Slow Up

In the third period, Thomas and Fairchild each made one point for the locals, and Foley a single counter for the visitors. Both teams slowed up at this time.

No scoring was made in the final quarter, but both teams fought desperately to change the score. McClintock went in for Thomas and Thomas replaced Lenz at center. Thomas made a freak basket that would have tied the score, but it was ruled out in accordance with an agreement made before the game. The tilt ended with each quintet battling toe to toe for possession of the ball. Score, Anamosa 11, University high 9.

Kelly Lays Plans for Cross Country

Although next fall is a long way off and the present track season is occupying most of the tracksters attention, Tommy Kelly, the mite "I" man from Parnell, has started to lay plans for a successful hill and dale campaign. Acting as captain of the squad and president of the cross-country club, he has been trying to interest distance men into coming out for his favorite sport next fall.

In the near future when the distance men have acquired enough training, trials will be held to admit new members to the cross country club. Several harrier runs have been scheduled for the traveling trophies donated by the alumni during the spring season. Anyone who has not won a letter in cross country will be eligible to compete.

FOR THE BETTER BOXES OF VALENTINE CANDY TRY
Racine's
FOUR STORES

Though the coldly accurate measurements of New York's boxing official list Primo Carnera as 6 feet 6 inches tall, instead of the 6-11 ballyhoo announced by some of the big Italian's boosters, even that 6-6 data puts the ferocious "Fiddle Feet" in the class of sport's skyscrapers.

Victorio Campolo, Carnera's Argentine rival, is slightly less than 6 foot seven inches. When and if they clash, it should be certainly a "Battle of the High C's," a "Duel between the Alps and the Andes," a "Mountain Men's Melee."

Sound boxing opinion has long held that there is such a thing as being too big to fight well. Rings are cluttered with the names, heights and weights of huge hulks that were battered out of championship lists by much smaller but inspired fighting phenoms of the Jack Dempsey sort. So convincing seems this lesson from history that many hold that "every pound over 200 and every inch over 6-foot-2 is a handicap to a fighter."

But in certain other sports—basketball, for example—height is of much advantage when united with playing ability. That net game now is featuring two great college stars—each 6-foot-6, and each called "Stretch" Murphy. They play center—one for Purdue and the other for Loyola, and they are not related to each other.

Height is also of marked advantage at first base in baseball, "High Pockets" George Kelly of the Giants and Reds for years being ideal especially because of his remarkable reach.

As far as is known, the tallest and biggest man ever active in professional sport was Charley Freeman, "the Michigan giant," who boxed in America and England years before the Civil war. History has it that he was 7-foot-6, and weighed 350 pounds. There may have been Carnera-like ballphoogers in those days and those statistics may be exaggerated. At any event, Freeman was only a mediocre fighter. He was never even a near-champion.

Fighters on Legion Card Wind Up Last Training for Bouts

The climax in training activities among the boxers who are to compete in the 26 round amateur fight show that will be staged here tomorrow night in the American Legion gymnasium has been reached during the last few days, as big fellows, little fellows, and middle-sized fellows poked merrily away at each other with scant regard for their opponent's feelings.

If training and general good shape can be taken as any criterion, the six round semi-windup between the shadowy Snubs Ganoway and Al Reed, both clever, hard hitting heavyweights, will be a real crowd pleaser, and one that may at any moment end in a knockout.

Ganoway is in the pink, or rather, in the light brown, of condition and should be able to take care of the shifty Reed in first class condition, but it is well known that Reed carries enough high explosive in his six-ounce gloves to put the lights out for the big black boy if he is able to reach Snubs' elusive chin.

Hagerty, Armil, and Fillenworth have all been training with the Davenport Negro, and all appear to be in first class condition, as is Kelsh, Hagerty's opponent. Jimmy Hicks, who meets little Buddy Green of Lone Tree, has been sparring with Harry Gottlieb, who also has taken unto himself a tough adversary in the form of Babe De Angelis, the battling Phi Chi.

Ely Trains a Little; Lifts Auto Off Ice

Harold "Bugs" Ely, varsity football tackle, demonstrated yesterday that he is already in shape for heavy gridiron competition next fall.

Ely single handed, by the use only of those muscles which so successfully strewed opponents about the grid last fall, picked a struggling sedan off slippery Washington street, and moved it to a safe position off the ice.

Tankers Hold Time Trials

Prime for Meet With Washington U.

A series of competitive tryouts, which were conducted yesterday in the regular pool practice and will be continued this afternoon, are being resorted to by Coach Dave Armbruster in tuning up his machine for action against Washington university Saturday, at St. Louis, Mo.

Washington university was Missouri Valley champion in swimming in 1928 and is reputed to be one of the strongest teams in collegiate competition which Iowa will meet on this year's schedule. They boast this year's team as being one of the strongest teams ever entered by the school.

It is the aim of the coach to select the four fastest men in the sprint events who will make the trip and consequently swim in the 40 and 100 yard free style races, the 160 yard relay and the 100 yard medley relay. Petersen, Crookham, and Snell will no doubt be of this number.

During the sprint tryouts of yesterday, the unexpected occurred when Bagon and Mitvalsky nosed out Larson in a fast race. Larson was a regular member of the relay sprint team of last year as well as the medley relay.

Evans easily copped first in the 150 yard back stroke, his specialty, with Wright and Weeber a close second and third.

Mohl, expert in the 100 yard backstroke, has been unable to practice since last Saturday's meet because of a slight injury. However, Lloyd and Lowell competed in this event, Lloyd beating Lowell in a fairly close race.

Lobdell has also been off the board since last Saturday because of a minor injury to his knee. Sam Fertenfeld has also been laid up to some extent with a hand injury received just before the meet with Chicago. Smith, Iowa diver, is ineligible and will not compete. Tomorrow's tryouts will include the 440 yard free style, 100 yard free style, 150 yard back stroke and the 300 yard breast stroke.

Wells Sends Men Through Easy Session

With three games left to play on their 1929-30 schedule, the Little Hawk hoopsters are concentrating their practices on basket shooting. Their scoring during the second semester's playing has been below average and they hope to get back into shape before the sectional tournaments.

Coach George Wells gave his boys a general practice last night including basket shooting and passing, followed by a light scrimmage. Vestermark returned to practice last night after resting Monday because of an injured arm.

The Red and White hoopsters will again battle for a higher position in the Mississippi Valley conference standing when they meet the fast Grant high team of Cedar Rapids on the home floor Friday night. The Parlor City five defeated the home quintet 27 to 17 in the first game and they are doped to win the contest Friday night. A victory over the Grant high five would give them a possible chance for second place in the conference standing.

The Little Hawks will meet the Washington high five at Cedar Rapids, Feb. 21, in their last conference game of the season. The last game will be played on the University high court to decide the city championship. The Little Hawks hold one victory over the Blue and White five now and will attempt to make it two in the next tussle.

QUAD LIGHTS

By LOUIE

Staging a desperate last period rally section A's heavyweight basketball team defeated section D's heavies to the tune of 14 to 12. The game was fast, and section A showed flashes of championship basketball.

The game last night was the second of a series of three games to decide the heavyweight title of the quadrangle. In the first game section B defeated the A outfit 15 to 12, and is now favored to cop the heavyweight crown.

Weller, center on the section D team, was high point man with eight points last night. Lentz, section A forward, trailed him with seven points to his credit. Campbell, guard, and Porter, diminutive forward, were the best men on the D team last night, while Lentz, forward and Willer, forward, were the highlights on the A team.

The game was slow at the start but with Seeger's basket, his only counter of the game, the fireworks started, and from that time until the end of the game there was no let-up. The first period ended 4 to 2 in favor of the A hoopsters.

The second period of the game was much faster, and the D team outscored the A sharpshooters, and the end of that period saw the D team out in front with a 10 to 4 lead.

In the last period the A boys woke up and before the D team could pull together the six point lead had vanished and the score was 12 to 10 against the A outfit with three minutes to go. At this point Willer sank a basket from under the hoop and a minute later Lentz contributed his third marker of the evening. This was the last score made in the game, and the A group won 14 to 12.

The next game will be Thursday night. Sections B and D meeting in what will probably be the last game of the heavyweight division. Section B has already defeated the A team and needs to win Thursday night in order to win the crown. Should section D come through with a victory the three teams will again be tied for first place, and another three game series needed to decide the winners.

Injury Keeps Hawk Guard Out of Drill

Iowa Cagers Practice for 2 Game Jaunt to St. Louis

With but three days left in which to prime for their pilgrimage to St. Louis, where they will tangle with the Concordia seminary basketeers Saturday and the St. Louis university quintet the following Monday, the Old Gold hoopsters went through a stiff workout against the reserves last night.

Spradling, who has now registered and will be eligible for the southern trip, was back in his old position at center, but "Dutch" Reinhardt, regular guard, was on the bench with a sprained ankle. Although he will probably be able to play through both games this week-end, "Dutch" will be unable to practice until the latter part of the week. This is the second time in three weeks that Reinhardt has had an ankle injury, and on the first occasion it kept him out of the Iowa-Oklahoma Aggie contest until the last few minutes of play, when Bobby Kinnan was forced out on personal fouls.

The scoring duel between Spradling and Hildreth should prove an interesting feature of the four remaining Hawkeye basketball games, and one that should be very detrimental to Iowa's opponents. By making 24 points in the last two games, Hildreth has now come within 11 points of Spradling's lead. Although each has made 25 field goals, Spradling has registered 22 free throws to Hildreth's 11, making "Sprad's" total 72 against 61 for Hildreth.

Third place honors are held by "Chuck" Williamson, the other forward, who has garnered 44 points. In one respect, however, Williamson holds a distinction not shared by Hildreth, as both he and Spradling have made 16 points in a single contest; Williamson's total coming from 10 free throws and 3 field goals chalked up against Drake, while Spradling made his high score against Nebraska.

Coach Williams gave his proteges work on both offense and defense last night, using the regular squad of Hildreth and Williamson, forwards; Spradling, center, Kinnan and Jebens, guards; against a combination of Mowry and Eshleman, forwards; Figg, center; Valett and Schwartz, guards; with Rogge substituting for Eshleman in the last part of the session.

Pete Bauch Gets Release From Cage Squad at Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 11 (AP)— Frank (Pete) Bausch of Wichita, 200 pound sophomore guard, has been dropped from the University of Kansas basketball squad for insubordination, Dr. F. C. Allen, coach and athletic director, announced to the squad tonight.

Frank, who is a brother of Jim Bausch, first string center on the cage squad and back on the Jayhawker football eleven, played center for the Kansas gridiron squad last fall.

Dr. Allen said he went Home Saturday and failed to notify the athletic department of his absence, which became known when he failed to appear for the Kansas-Nebraska game here last night.

Baily Stars for Home Team; Spratt Aids Losing Quint

(Special to The Daily Iowan)

MOLINE, Ill., Feb. 11—The local St. Joseph quintet downed St. Patrick's of Iowa City, here last night in a fast contest by a score of 16 to 11. The St. Joseph's five led by a count of 10 to 5 at half time.

Bailey, Moline forward, was the outstanding star of the game. He was stopped from piling up field goals but played a good floor game and was responsible for seven points for the winners with one field goal and five charity shots.

Spratt starred for the losers with three field goals and two gift shots. He carried high point honors of the evening. St. Patrick's go across the river to Davenport tomorrow night to meet St. Ambrose and will play against St. Patrick's of Cedar Rapids in Iowa City Friday night.

Meet Parlor City Quintet Here Tonight

Immaculate Conception Plays Locals for Second Time

St. Mary's high and Immaculate Conception high of Cedar Rapids will mix tonight for the second time this season. St. Mary's will be striving for their fifteenth consecutive win and the Cedar Rapids aggregation will be after the scalp of the undefeated school.

The rivalry between the two camps has always been strong, and this rivalry culminates tonight in the fourth game in two years between the teams. St. Mary's won the last three games by a one point margin. Considering the spirit in which the players on each team enter the fray tonight it should be one of the hottest battles of the season on any of the local floors.

The Ramblers took a hard workout in their last practice, but two of their reserve men, Healey and Seeman, upon whim Coach Sueppel has been counting considerably especially for the tournaments, were out of the game and will be tonight, Seeman because of sickness and Healey with a turned ankle.

Immaculate Conception had a hard game with Parnell Monday night and this may have some influence on their work tonight. The Cedar Rapids coach places much faith in the services of his new center, McGillicuddy, and his big guard, Wunderlich.

Probable lineups:

Peer, Jones Wrestle in 125-Pound Class

Except for tryouts tonight in the 125 pound class, the wrestling team will remain intact for the Nebraska match, Saturday. Peer and Jones are the leading contenders for the 125 pound berth. In the tryouts for the Cornell competition last week Jones won out over his opponent by a small margin, thus he gained the right to wrestle against Cornell.

Coach Mike Howard feels that the two men are so evenly matched that another tryout will be necessary tonight to decide the 125 pound contestant.

Coaches Announce 66 Tracksters Will Compete in Iowa - Carleton Meet

Iowa Enters Nine Major Letter Men

Carleton Sends Seven Veterans; Hawks in Time Trials

Rivals in track and field for the first time, 66 athletes have been nominated by University of Iowa and Carleton college for the dual meet here Saturday afternoon, it was announced by Coach George T. Bresnahan Tuesday.

The Hawkeye coach has entered 48 men in the 12-event meet—every man on his indoor squad who has a chance to win points.

Of the Old Gold entrants, nine are lettermen: Acting-Captain Canby, Gordon, Saling, Ferguson, Depping, Moulton, Craig, Wilcox, and Roberts.

Seven of the 18 Carleton men are veterans, the list being headed by Captain Severson, distance runner; Gossard and Pank, hurdlers and jumpers; and Baker and Salvi, half milers.

Hold Time Trials

Time trials for the track squad at the field house yesterday afternoon showed that with the exception of the running high jump most of Coach George Bresnahan's men were performing up to form in comparison with the trials held last Friday. In the 75-yard low hurdles, Beckner dropped two-tenths of a second from his time of last week and finished first in 9.8 seconds.

The high jumpers including Gordon, Craig, Blandin, Jenks, Mollenhoff, and Hutton, did not reach the high marks of last week. Gordon jumping 5 feet 9 1-2 inches whereas last week he jumped better than 6 feet, Craig and Handorf also equaled Gordon's mark yesterday. Freshmen trying out in this event were Bryant, Von Dickinson, Hutton, and Hutchinson.

Three heats were run in the 75-yard dash with Conway taking first place in 7.8 seconds. Hubbard, Jordon, and Redel ran in this heat, placing in the order named. In the third heat, Bush, Proctor, Bell, and Banta ran. Bush's time was 8.2 seconds. The third heat went one-tenth of a second faster than the second with McLeod taking the lead. Shockelford, Ayers, and Leabold followed.

Willer and Thurston tied for first in the 75-yard high hurdles in 10 seconds flat. Handorf was stepping on their heels and Balzer followed close in. During the frosh heat of this event, G. Moulton and Bryant made good time.

Mile and Half-Mile Fast

The mile and half mile were speedy races. The full distances of these events were not run. With Jack Moulton finishing first and only running two laps, the half milers broke the tape in 1:15.7. Stanley and Miller followed not far behind Moulton.

With only three laps to run, Wickey and Skowbo, milers, tied for first place in 3:28. Nagle finished third.

Showing marvelous pace judgment, Tommy Kelly, cross country captain, finished a nine lap run many yards ahead of the field in 7:23.4. Parrish placed second with a time of 7:34.8, and Trott came in third.

In the first of two heats for the quarter mile (running only one lap), Depping finished first with :33.6 seconds, followed by Thurston and Isaacs, with Hay finishing last. The second heat showed Kay as the winner in :34.9 seconds, crowded by Tousey, McFarland, and Beckner.

In the freshman heat of this event, Alexander ran a powerful lap in 34 seconds flat. Hoskinson, Vesaly, Lagerquist, Dean, and Quin entered this race.

In the shot put tryout, it was shown that Roberts, Massey, and Youngerman are the best men that Capt. Thomas Martin has for this event.

Massarsky Has Pulled Tendon

Still recuperating from a pulled leg muscle, Massarsky who specializes in the 75-yard dash, was unable to take part in time trials. This week he began to take light workouts and expects to be in shape for competition early in March.

Varsity, R. O. T. C. Rifle Teams Have Shoots This Week

A steady nerve, a steady arm, and a steady eye are the basic requirements of a good rifleman, and the varsity and R.O.T.C. shooters will have to be exceptionally steady this week as they are matched with units of five strong colleges.

The varsity team is competing with the University of Cincinnati, the University of Washington, and Stanford university. Their scores in these matches will also be entered in the league match with Texas Technological of Lubbock, Tex.

The R.O.T.C. unit is entered this week in a corps area match which embraces more than 100 military units of Minnesota, South Dakota, North Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas.

Saturday afternoon the local army men will meet Coe college here in the fourth annual shoulder to shoulder match. On the evening following the contest, both teams will be the guests of the local R.O.T.C. unit at a banquet to be given at Iowa Union.

Among those attending the affair will be Colonel Davis and Sergeant Seay, of the Coe military department; Col. Converse R. Lewis; Capt. R. O. Miller, rifle team coach; J. J. Gibney, assistant rifle coach, and H. L. Jennings, commander of the local post of the American Legion, who will present the trophy to the winning team.

Hack Wilson Wins Court Decision in $20,000 Law Suit

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP)—Hack Wilson, the "Dempsey of the Cub dugouts," won a $20,000 fight today without tossing a punch.

A jury in superior court decided the pugnacious Cub center fielder, was not guilty of assaulting Edward Young, a Chicago milkman and an anti-Wilson fan, during the St. Louis-Chicago game at Wrigley field, on June 21, 1928, and automatically rejected Young's suit for $20,000 personal damages.

The verdict, gained after but 25 minutes deliberation, not only saved Wilson virtually all the money he expects to make playing baseball this year, but was regarded as a vindication of those fiery baseball players who now and then rush into the stands to silence fans who jeer and taunt their efforts.

Iowa City Track Men Hold Initial Practice Session

Indoor track at Iowa City high school will officially begin this afternoon when Coach George Wells issues a call for all track men. The thin clads will meet at the high school gym this afternoon to receive instructions from the coach, and get their equipment.

Capt. Raymond Kittredge and several other men have been working out during the last few weeks in the university field house. They will continue practice in the field house until they go out of doors, if the proper arrangements can be made with the university officials. Prospects for a good track team are poor for the city high school unless more candidates turn out than in previous years. Few men are expected out until after the basketball season closes, when Moffitt and Vestermark, two of last year's veterans, will probably report.

Carnera Wins Fourth Straight Bout From Martin in St. Louis

ARENA, ST. LOUIS, Feb. 11 (AP)—Primo Carnera ended his fourth fistic encounter in America in one round and 50 seconds tonight when he knocked out Buster Martin, Tulsa, Okla., policeman in the second stanza of their scheduled 10 round bout.

Landing his first effective blow in the second round, Primo Carnera, huge muscle man from Venice, knocked out Buster Martin, Tulsa policeman, tonight after 56 seconds of the stanza had passed.

Mel Gahnon Meets Joe Rivers Friday in Cedar Rapids Go

(Special to The Daily Iowan)

CEDAR RAPIDS, Feb. 11—Mel Gahnon, fast Wichita 143 pounder, will attempt to put the skids under the classy Joe Rivers, local favorite, when they meet here Friday in the 10 round main event of a 32 round boxing show staged by Matchmaker Johnny Fryear in the city auditorium under the auspices of the local American Legion post. In the six-round semi-windup, Slick Jesnick of Newton, will tangle with Billy Hoon, Muscatine welterweight.

Two other six-rounders are planned; one of them a return match between Young Trimble and Battling Albie, who fought a close battle here two weeks ago, and the other between Orley Thorrington, 155 pounds, of Lisbon, and Don Netolicky, 165 pounds, of Solon. The four round curtain raiser will be a contest between two middleweights, Ray Smith of Cedar Rapids, and Jack O'Conner of Tama.

Cloggers Drill for Exhibition at Game

About 40 men reported for clog dancing yesterday, continuing preparation for the exhibition to be given at the Drake-Iowa basketball game Feb. 22, and were accompanied on the clarinet by Howard Miller, A2 of Garwin. Much improvement in form was shown over that of the last rehearsal and Coach Aaron Kipnes is quite pleased with the progress of the class.

Yesterday's session was devoted to the practice of the half-breaks, or first fundamental step of the buck and wing, and to the introduction of the breaks, or second fundamental step.

Last Night's Results

Delts Trim Sig Pi's

The Delta Tau Delta's are just around the corner from the fraternity basketball championship. They got an eyeful of the coveted title last night with a victory surge coming in the late minutes of the game that seared a Sigma Pi quintet, which couldn't believe it was defeated. The score was 18 to 16.

The score itself tells the story of what will be written into the intramural records as one of the outstanding thrillers of the 1930 campaign. The Delts did not possess the lead until two minutes before the final whistle when Rice pushed in a short shot to knot up the count, and Parker followed a second later with the winning goal.

The Delts have only the mediocre Delta Sigma Pi five left on its schedule. The last dangerous curve was rounded with the upset of the Sig Pi's.

Sig Pis Strong

However, in justice to those Sigma Pi's it is necessary to recite that they played a whale of a game. For two periods they completely outclassed the Delts with a defense that rendered the Tau Delt attack useless. Only in the waning moments the game slipped through their fingers.

The first chapter they handcuffed the Delt scoring aces. Laws got the initial basket. Roberts put in a gift throw. Parker sent in a free toss. Rice flipped in a field goal from the tip-off play. Voecks counted a basket on a follow up. Laws added a complementary point. The period closed 6 to 3 in favor of Sigma Pi.

O'Shea opened the second session with a side shot. Rice followed with a gratis throw. Wander sank a free throw. Voecks eluded two guards and rushed in for a basket. Roberts tore in for another goal. Day intercepted a pass and heaved in a long shot. Boegel went in for O'Shea at left forward.

Boegel Counts

Boegel celebrated his return to the lineup by scoring a basket and a free throw in rapid succession to tie the count. Sigma Pi lost no time in regaining the lead. Townsend dribbled down the sidelines and under the hoop for a basket. He sank a beautiful shot from mid-floor. Ensign put in a charity throw as the third closed with Sigma Pi ahead, 15 to 12.

In the last round Sig Pi's saw the lead they had maintained melt away. O'Shea returned to the Delt lineup in place of Boegel. Rice took the ball out of a scramble and threw it into the hoop, and followed with a short shot. Parker swept through his opponent's defense and dropped the ball in. Laws made a free throw. In the last minute of the game Sig Pi's made a frenzied effort to even the score by throwing long shots from all positions on the floor.

Delta Sig's Whip Sig Ep's

Spies was the big gun in the Delta Sigma Pi artillery that blasted its way to a 21 to 18 victory over Sigma Phi Epsilon. Spies rang up four field goals and three free points.

The Sig Ep's were at no stage of the game in the lead. The Delta Sig's held the advantage, 5 to 3, at the termination of the first frame. The Sigma Ep's pulled up within one point the ensuing third, 12 to 11. The final third the winners scored nine tallies to assure themselves of triumph.

This and That in Sports

by Walter T. Hanson

The meeting of the University of Iowa board in control of athletics Friday afternoon will be of interest to Iowans. The board may not form any immediate conclusions, but it is hoped by many people that the Hawkeye board will continue the campaign to reinstate 10 of the athletes involved in the "loan fund" case. It may be that the board will decide to petition the conference committee for action at the May 23 meeting of the Big Ten chiefs. This meeting of the Iowa athletic leaders will be the first since the Hawkeyes were reinstated to the conference. They will consider various matters concerning the new policy in athletics. This morning the eligibility committee, consisting of Dean C. C. Williams, Prof. F. G. Higbee, and Prof. Louis Pelzer is scheduled to meet. This group has been working on plans to revise the method of certifying athletes in the future, perhaps after the models used by other Western conference schools, according to reliable sources.

Charles Kennett, golf coach of the University of Iowa is a firm believer in pasture pastime as a universal sport. The veteran Iowa coach, following his return to the United States after visiting his old home in England, discussed what sport involves the greatest individual test. "A man playing golf must go through the greatest strain," said Coach Kennett. "He must keep keyed up during the day that the match takes place, and after the contest is under way every play is a test of the person's ability to retain control of his faculties in order to win." No other sport in America leaves a longer period of tension for the individual competing in the game, he argued. Football is a more unified sport, with 11 men dividing the responsibility and relieving tht strain on the individual, he continued. The pitcher in a baseball game has everything concentrated upon him during a game, but the time is shorter, and gives him more time to let up, was another point mentioned.

The importance of the strain on the golfer may be questioned by many who consider it a method of relaxation, but some who study the results of the game upon certain temperamental people might say that Coach Kennett was right. This brings about a case of a fellow who played golf, and took his golf seriously. He weighed over 200 pounds and could hit that ball hard, but quite often dubbed it sadly, which caused a temporary outburst of strong words. His most famous saying came once after he had socked the ball hard and lost it for the time being, "I can't hit it, and if I do I lose it." However, this gentleman would dub the ball and then break the wood shaft of the club, and toss it away. Caddies took advantage of this and picked up the clubs, refitting new handles to the iron for a small sum and selling them. This went on until the hot tempered man discovered what was going on. He smashed handles, carried them over to the lake close at hand, and threw them away, thereby completely ridding the world of this troublesome iron that made golf so distressing.

Golf has taken a wide hold over the country. This cannot be denied. To see people playing it in small towns, small cities, and big cities, gives an example of the spread of the support in the last few years. To say that it is working upon the imagination and interest of the public is to admit that it has gained a firm hold in the countryside as well as the cities. It may even get to the stage where some farmers will play a game of golf after a day in the field in order to get a touch of the sport. This may not be entirely a flight of the imagination. The university course will soon be a scene of activity, and it is proposed that a faculty golf tournament be worked up this spring to open the season. Several golf meets may take place this year in Iowa City, and though it is not much of a sport for the casual onlooker to watch, unless it is a title event, the contestants and their friends find the lure great.

Spring Gridders in Fundamentals Drill

Since Coach Ingwersen will not be in the city for spring football practice Thursday, it was held yesterday. The drill consisted mostly of fundamentals such as passing, foot work, and running interference. Later in the session, working the backs and linemen together, offensive tactics were taught, with emphasis placed on off tackle plays and timing. The workout was capped off with the usual 50 yard dash.

Coach Ingwersen urges that all candidates for the 1930 varsity squad report at next practice, Friday.

UNIVERSITY JUNIORS DEFEAT IOWA CITY

University junior high beat Iowa City junior high 17 to 15 in a fiercely fought struggle after the Anamosa tilt last night on the university high floor. The score at the half was tied at seven all, and was 15 to 15 until with but 20 seconds to play, Zimmerli tossed one in to clinch the game for the university junior high quintet.

Phillips played a good game at center for the winning five, while Brown looked best for the losers. Friday night university junior high will engage Kalona junior high on the local floor after the high school meets West Branch.

Marilyn Miller as "Sally" in her picture that has won the hearts of all Iowa City—still playing at the Pastime theater.

Two More Veterans Report to Kennett for Varsity Golf

The old saying that you can't stay away from the golf game is beginning to show truth. Many new and familiar faces were seen yesterday at practice in the field house for the first time. The hidden urge to break in a new set of clubs and to break last year's score has brought out more Hawkeye golf candidates than have ever before reported for preliminary practices.

Among the experienced men appearing for the first time this year at yesterday's practice are Robert Rieckhoff, who will be playing his last season with the Hawkeyes, and Wilson Radcliff, who is also on his last stretch of competition.

Other varsity men now practicing are: Harold Heynen, Marc Stewart, Paul Pennock, Edmund McCardell, Ben Bowne, D. R. Gibson, Edward Carmody, George Roddy, William Blaylock, and E. M. Knaack.

Freshmen who will endeavor to outclass their classified superiors are: Martin Blackburn, Harry Long, Robert Severson, Robert Jenkinson, D. G. Ross, Ben Williamson, Joseph Schlanger, Sherwood Felsing, Carl Beck, Thomas Daly, Verlin McMahon, George Masters, Orlo Bush, Edward Herrmann, George Ahrens, and Richard Alexander.

Practice will be held outside as soon as weather permits, but for the present candidates will meet daily at 4 p.m. in the field house.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 11 (AP)—The University of Missouri won a hard fought victory from Creighton university of Omaha here tonight, 29 to 21, playing the first half under the suggested change in rules without a jump at center.

Baptist Pastor Talks to Club

Discusses Creed of Martyr President

A talk on "The creed of Lincoln" by the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, pastor of the First Baptist church, featured the program of the Kiwanis club yesterday at the Legion building. He discussed very little of the life of the great American, but instead stressed the character of our martyr president.

According to the Rev. Mr. Dierks, Lincoln's simple creed was but three statements, namely, "I believe in God; I believe in people; and I believe in myself."

"Lincoln is a good example of one who could be profoundly religious without belonging to an organized body of worshippers, because of his extreme amount of faith," declared the Rev. Mr. Dierks. "Are we producing as many great characters as we should with all of our educational facilities," asked Mr. Dierks after discussing the simple education of the great emancipator.

More than 50 members attended yesterday's meeting. Claire Kirkpatrick of Des Moines, an actuary with the state department of insurance, and G. I. Hest of Washington D. C., were the guests. Prof. C. M. Updegraff announced that there has been progress made in the proposed building of a wading poo' for children in the city park W. C. Beck announced that for the las' two years the committee for underprivileged children had made it possible for two high school pupils to graduate with the aid of funds given them by the club.

Kiwanis Will Bring Marine Players Here

A proposal for the Kiwanis club to bring the United States marine band to Iowa City next September met with the approval of the club at their luncheon yesterday noon in the American Legion building.

After considerable deliberation over a date and the place to hold the concerts, it was decided that the band should come here next Sept. 19 and that the field house would be the most suitable place of meeting. G. L. Hast, booking agent for the organization, explained the proposition at the luncheon and told of the cross continental tour that the popular band is planning to make.

Entertainment, Mr. Jennings, Mr. Hageboeck, Mr. Parizek, Dr. E. C. Patton and William Wagner; budget, R. S. Kirkpatrick, Mr. Wagner and Joe Cilek; housing, Mr. Beck, Delmar Sample, and Mr. Kirkpatrick.

Civic, Mr. Hayek, Mr. Sample and Mr. Mitchell; membership, Dr. Patton, Dr. Love, Mr. Sample, Mr. Beck, Mr. Cilek, Dr. Jacobsen and Mr. Kirkpatrick; boosters, Mr. Cilek, Shirley Laudon and Dr. Love.

Athletic Dr. Jacobsen, Mr. Hayek, and Dr. Patton; public health, Dr. Love, Mr. Jennings, and Mr. Laudon and extension, Mr. Jennings, Mr. Laudon and Mr. Mitchell.

Farm Bureau Will Broadcast Program

Members of the Scott township farm bureau under the direction of George Petsel will give the mock trial, "That Farm Bureau Police Court Case" to be* broadcast over station WSUI Friday at 8:30 p.m.

The cast will include: S. K. Slemmons, judge; Grover Hudson, culprit; Mrs. Grover Hudson, culprit's wife; Joe Kutz, policeman; Willard Taylor, township president; Daniel Ashbury, boys' club leader; Paul Kutz, plaintiff; and Mrs. George Petsel, home project leader.

Other features of the program will be special music by the orchestra under the leadership of J. C. Miller of Graham township, and a quartet of Washington township 4H girls comprised of Edna Yoder, Louise Bontrager, Agnes Swartzendruber, and Arvilla Eimen.

Dan Overholt of Penn township and Rollin E. Barnes of East Lucas township will both sing solos; C. C. Swartzendruber of Washington township will give a humorous reading; and the orchestra of Graham township will play a barn dance number.

Firemen Put Out Basement Blaze

Fast action by the fire department yesterday morning prevented serious destruction and loss of property, when a building owned by the local order of Odd Fellows and located in the downtown business district caught fire in the basement.

Firemen reported the cause to be from the piling of packing boxes too near the boiler of the heating plant. The flames were extinguished without trouble. Slight smoke damage was reported in the Henry Louis drug store located above the boiler room.

In the senior high school the tenth grade boys have elected as officers Ed Fairchild, president; Dick Jessup, vice-president; Robert John Adams, secretary; Harold Beck, monitor; Herbert Dill has been elected president of the senior boys.

ST. PATRICK PUPILS DO PRACTICE WRITING

The pupils of the seventh grade of St. Patrick's school are making posters for Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. This is an annual task of the seventh grade.

Practice for the Palmer method writing test has begun in St. Patrick's school and the best writers will receive Palmer diplomas in June as a reward for their efforts during the school year.

The parts for the boys' play, "Modern machinery compared with antique," which will be given March 17, have not been cast as yet. Marie Busler, the public speaking instructor, is testing the boys and the cast will be chosen from the boys in the grades as well as from the boys in the high school, some time next week.

LONGFELLOW PUPILS STUDY CURRENT NEWS

Current events, although more difficult, have been adopted by 6B discussion classes at Longfellow school rather than news outlines.

Five B class is devoting much time to geographical features including a study of Lake Titicana in the Andes of South America, supposed to be the highest navigable lake in the world.

Both sixth grade classes and 5B are engrossed in basketball practices. The 6A's have beaten 6B so far in one game.

Betty Fairbanks gave a birthday party on her sixth birthday for 1B last week.
