St. Louis U. Defeats Iowa Cagers 32-25

Hawkeyes' Last Half Rally Falls Short of Mark

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 17 (AP)—A threat near the end of the skirmish gave the St. Louis Billikins their only scare in a basketball game with the University of Iowa cagers here tonight, the locals overpowering Iowa 32 to 25.

The Billikins started with a rush and doubled the score at the end of the first period, leading 18 to 9. It was not until the final minutes that the Hawkeyes began a bombardment of the Billikin backboard.

Spradling and Pigg alternating at center held the scoring honors for the invaders, with seven points each. Joe Murray, former Cleveland high school star of St. Louis, who returned as a member of the Hawkeyes, played part of the game, and counted two field goals and a free throw.

Leading the Billikins attack, Joyce scored a total of nine points against the Iowans. Bobby Kinnam, star guard of the Iowa team, was removed from the game on personals in the last half.

Ambassador Dies

A. P. Moore, Ambassador, Dies at 63

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17 (AP)—Alexander P. Moore, United States ambassador to Poland, who followed a newspaper career from office boy to metropolitan publisher and carried on into the diplomatic service of his country, died here at 12:25 p.m., today. He was 63 years old.

A seemingly minor cold, which rapidly spread into bronchial pneumonia, caused the death of the former Pittsburgh newspaperman who recently was appointed America's first ambassador to Poland. His illness never permitted him an opportunity to serve in the foreign post. Prior to his last appointment, he had served as ambassador to Spain and Peru.

Relatives said burial would be at Pittsburgh, where Moore rose to leadership in the journalistic world. It had not been decided whether funeral services would be held here.

Coast Guards Work Fast to Rescue Crew

Storms Threatens 47 Aboard Stranded Steamer

ASTORIA, Ore., Feb. 17 (AP)—An approaching storm late today caused coast guardsmen to redouble their efforts to rescue 47 members of the crew still aboard the steamer Admiral Benson, ashore in the treacherous sands of Peacock Spit, known as "the grave yard of the Pacific." Hope of saving the vessel was abandoned as the ship was driven deeper in the sands.

A breeches buoy was rigged to the ship's mast and connected with the shore by long lines to remove the crew.

The last boatload of passengers was taken ashore today as a rising gale began pounding the breakers over the stern of the ship. Thirty-four passengers were taken ashore yesterday. The Admiral Benson ran aground in a fog Saturday night.

Tugs stood by to pull the liner into the deep water if possible at high tide, although experienced mariners said the ship seemed to have settled too deeply into the sands to be saved.

The fact that the ship went ashore on a calm night was believed to have averted possible loss of life. One passenger, Mrs. A. B. Reynolds of Portland, Ore., was injured while being taken ashore in the breeches buoy.

The scene of the stranding is called the "grave yard of the Pacific" because of the many shipwrecks which have occurred on the sands. Peacock spit was first so called after the wreck of the government sloop Peacock there in 1841.

More than a dozen vessels have come to disaster in the shifting sands. The most recent was the freighter Laurel, broken in two by the pounding surf on June 17.

Opposes Dry Quiz

Senate Group Balks at Plan for Dry Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—The senate judiciary committee debated, but failed to decide today whether it wants an examination made of prohibition enforcement, after its chairman—Norris of Nebraska—had advocated a thorough scrutiny.

Senator Robinson of Indiana opposed the proposal by Norris on the ground that it would "paralyze all prohibition enforcement for two years." Both men are republican drys.

No vote was taken, the committee deciding to let the subject rest for a week. Meanwhile viewpoints of some committee members who are undecided are expected to crystallize and more argument will take place on Monday.

Democrats Divided

While the democratic drys appeared to be divided after the session, the western republican independents, of whom Senators Norris and Borah, of Idaho, are leaders appeared to be in line for it.

Senator Borah, also a dry, has charged open saloons are running throughout the country and he is a member of the committee and has expressed the opinion that prohibition would never be enforced "with the present personnel from top to bottom."

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, another republican, dry, gave the word that the attempt to enact the Norris resolution would be taken to the floor, in event the judiciary committee failed to approve the proposal.

Wets Enjoy Battle

The senate wets are sitting back and enjoying the battle among the drys. They have not much strength in the senate and do not appear to be worried about the outbreak in the dry foed.

Hoover Calls Conference of Party Leaders

Executive Responds to Alarm Signals From Republicans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Responding to alarm signals from republican congressional leaders, President Hoover tonight summoned the party chieftains in for a breakfast conference tomorrow to discuss the piled-up legislative situation at capital hill.

Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the party leader in the house, carried to the president shortly after the latter's return from Florida today, a report that the delay in the senate in passing the tariff bill was threatening any extensive legislative program going through at this session.

Watson Gloomy

Senator Watson of Indiana, the republican leader in the senate, gloomy over another victory today of the republican independent democratic coalition in slashing tariff rates, likewise gave a pessimistic report to the white house.

Mr. Hoover immediately summoned a party group together tomorrow morning around the breakfast table. He invited Speaker Longworth, Senator Watson, Representative Tilson, Senator McNary, the assistant republican leader, and the authors of the tariff measure—Senator Smoot of Utah, and Representative Hawley of Oregon.

Receives Senate Report

What remedies the president may have in mind are unknown. He will receive a report from the exasperated senate leaders that the tariff bill is under the control of the coalition with little prospect of final action in less than two weeks.

Frankly out of patience with the senate, Tilson spoke bitterly today. He believed that the bill to transfer prohibition from the treasury to the justice department was the only measure of those recommended by the law enforcement commission to have chance of success at this session.

Senate Cuts Import Duty on Aluminum

Coalition Group Wins Smashing Victory in Tariff Roly

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Senate democrats and republican independents won a smashing victory in the long tariff struggle today when they put through amendments to the Hawley-Smoot bill slashing existing import levels on aluminum to the level of the Underwood rates of 1913.

During a session marked by frequent references to Secretary Mellon and by monopoly charges hurled against the Aluminum company of America, in which the treasury head and his brother R. B. Mellon were said to be interested, the coalition succeeded in cutting the rates on crude and sheet aluminum, and aluminum household utensils.

By a vote of 41 to 39 the duty of 11 cents a pound and 55 per cent ad valorem on aluminum household utensils was reduced to 25 per cent without any specific rate per pound. All three aluminum rates approved were carried on the democratic act of the Wilson administrations. The roll call follows:

The south voted as follows: republican for the reduction, 15; democrats for the reduction, 26; republicans opposing, 39; democrats opposing, 5.

Tenders Resignation

Resignation of Cabinet Halts Naval Parley

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP)—The defeat of the Tardieu government and the premier's resignation in Paris tonight left the London naval conference becalmed in a sea of figures.

Among the delegates in London there was no hope that negotiations could profitably get under way again until France had a new government, strengthened by new blood and firmly seated in power.

In circles close to the French delegation it was stated tonight that the cabinet crisis in Paris probably would have little or no direct effect on the naval negotiations beyond delaying them for some days.

The French believed that the reshuffling of the cabinet would find Premier Tardieu again at the head of the government, with M. Briand still at the ministry of foreign affairs.

Leguys Returns

On receipt of news that the cabinet had resigned, Minister of Marine Leguys, who returned to London today, decided to go back to Paris tomorrow.

One view here of the political crisis was that M. Tardieu deliberately brought it about to strengthen his majority in the chamber of deputies and indirectly to strengthen his hand at the London conference table.

To the delegates in the London conference craft, the news came like a fair breeze to shipwrecked sailors. It was readily admitted that the new French government may prove to be insistent on the demand for a fleet tonnage of 724,479 tons, but at least the developments in Paris today served to divert attention from one of the most disappointing days of the negotiations so far.

Discuss French Attitude

At St. James' palace tonight, Prime Minister MacDonald, Secretary of State Stimson, and Ex-Premier Wakatsuki sat in conference for three hours and left convinced that the whole future course of negotiations will be influenced materially by the French attitude.

Naval Parley Row Results in Upheaval

Premier Directs Fight From Sickbed by Telephone

PARIS, Feb. 17 (AP)—The political storm threatening the Tardieu cabinet since the naval conference got under way in London broke in the chamber of deputies today, and the government went down to defeat.

A few hours later the ministers handed their collective resignation to President Doumergue, who immediately accepted it. The cabinet has been in office for a little more than three months.

The political consequences of the resignation were obscured tonight by the excitement attending the government's downfall. M. Tardieu is considered to be the favorite candidate to succeed himself, with former Premier Poincare, who recently returned from a rest cure on the Riviera second choice. Many politicians thought the new cabinet would contain both men. M. Tardieu as premier and M. Poincare as minister of finances.

Colors Flying

Premier Tardieu went down with colors flying, and though unable to rise from his sickbed, where he has been confined with a severe attack of grippe, directed the government's tactics in the chamber by telephone.

Three successive attacks were beaten off before the government finally fell on the fourth vote of confidence by five votes. The figures were 286 to 281.

The vote was taken on M. Tardieu's orders on a financial measure of M. Cheron, who in accord with the premier declined to accept resignations in pensions for the widows of officers and soldiers killed during the World war.

Before bringing the measure to a vote of confidence, M. Cheron telephoned M. Tardieu, who gave him full support.

"I am making it a question of confidence with the full approval of my chief, Premier Tardieu," the minister of finances told the deputies from the rostrum of the chamber.

Opposition Insists

The opposition hesitated for an instant and then insisted that the increase be made.

"I refuse," shouted M. Cheron. "I may not get your votes, but I am sure of keeping your esteem."

The answer of the opposition was to vote him down.

The ministers and under secretaries of state, numbering 22, were immediately after the announcement of the vote to the sickbed of the defeated premier. They discussed their letter of resignation, which M. Tardieu in defiance of his doctor's orders insisted he would deliver in person to President Doumergue.

Finally Senator Lucien Hubert, vice president of the cabinet and minister of justice, led his colleagues to the Elysee palace and handed the president the cabinet's resignation at 9:41 p.m. The president immediately accepted it. Chafing under his doctor's instructions, M. Tardieu remained at home in bed studying the situation.

Back the Team

SATURDAY evening Iowa's basketball team will meet Drake here in a return cage contest of this season's schedule.

Drake will be coming here determined to get revenge for the 25 to 18 defeat which she suffered at the hands of the Hawk cagers early in January, and with her will come many loyal supporters.

Will Iowa students be willing to let their team go against this strong rival without plenty of support? It is our belief that they will not, and that every loyal Iowan will be at the field house to see that plenty of backing will be afforded the team.

Pi Epsilon Pi, national pep fraternity, has sponsored a special cheering block, clad in orange and black sweaters, that will be there to do its share, but it is still lacking in number and with a hundred more added to the section it would go a long way toward organizing a section that would lead Iowa to victory and afford ample pep to the cheering.

It should be your duty to be at the game Saturday and as many of you as possible should join the special cheering block to organize Iowa spirit again. Let's all be there and show Drake and the team that Iowa's spirit is not dead.

Some Relief at Last

EVERY year 115,000 Americans die of cancer and out in San Francisco, two doctors have originated a serum which has actually evoked partial relief in several instances. They are Dr. Walter B. Coffey, and Dr. John D. Humber.

For years these men have worked in silence. No newspaper photographers have flocked to their doors; no keys to the city have been presented them; the press has not told us what they eat for breakfast or how many times they have been divorced. We do not even know whether they prefer to sleep in pajamas or in just plain, old-fashioned nightshirts. And yet, even in their incomplete success, these scientists have accomplished a thing as widespread in its significance as Lindbergh's flight across the Atlantic.

It is of little consequence that Dr. Coffey and Dr. Humber have failed to realize a sure-fire cure. That will come in time. What is of consequence is that the world now knows that the dread disease can be checked—that it is not beyond the power of human control.

Fear is the thing which this new discovery will cure—the gruesome fear of cancer which has ravaged American thought processes for decades.

Watch from now on how the drive against carcinoma takes enormous strides. No longer will the unfortunate patient have to fight—in addition to the malady itself—the universal thought that he's licked before he starts.

Barking Dogs

THE barking dogs of the senate got in their yelp Thursday when that body was asked to confirm President Hoover's nomination of Charles Evans Hughes as supreme court chief.

Captained by Senator Norris with Brookhart furnishing plenty of lung-power, a handful of insurgents including LaFollette, Nye, Frazier, and Borah, set about the task of preventing a man who had devoted his life to public service from achieving a position to which he was justly due and capable of handling.

The senate boomeranged the insurgent's bally-hoo and voted Hughes in while the barkers retired to seek new methods of rating the front pages. Another proof that "barking dogs seldom bite."

Serving Iowa Farmers

WALLACES' Farmer and Iowa Homestead, farm publication issued at Des Moines, announced to its readers in the last issue that a new press is to be installed as rapidly as possible. The new addition will cost nearly $135,000 and will enable editors of the farm paper to turn out 12,000 copies an hour and to print in four colors on many of the pages.

It took six full sized cars to ship the press and it will necessitate the removal of the first floor ceiling to the width of the press, as it stands two floors high.

Wallaces' Farmer and The Iowa Homestead were recently combined into one publication and the new improvement indicates that Iowa farmers will continue to receive an improved magazine. The two publications when separate were listed among the leading farm journals of the country and under the one management should serve Iowa farmers even better.

An industry as great as the agricultural pursuits of Iowa deserve the leadership of the best there is in the line of trade journals. Wallaces' Farmer and Iowa Homestead should perform the duty well; the duty is important.

Genius Invites Imitation

THORNTON Wilder, author of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," told University of Minnesota students that he did not mind how many writers turned out parodies and burlesque of his work. "A good parody is one of the most thoughtful and penetrating forms of criticism," he said.

He does not rise to defend the literary value of Mr. Wilder's work but we present the idea that this gesture is the mark of a great man. People who can take criticism gracefully and then profit by it are few. Here is a man inviting it. If more persons, although not geniuses, would face criticism of themselves much good would come of it.

As criticism we do not consider malignant gossip carried on hypocritically but the straightforward bonhommerie which grows out of long and understanding friendships. Imitation is most often taken as a subtle compliment but as in a mirror we are able to see flaws. Seeing is not enough. Action is needed. Symbolic combs, brushes, astringents and other implements must be used or else ignore the "mirror" and the intended compliment.

Hopeful Signs—Cinders

THE city of Iowa City, in response to pleas of residents of Manville heights, has done its bit in the improvement of the deplorable condition of Tempin road—but the university still remains inactive.

Owner of only about 50 feet at the foot of River street, the city has put in more than 20 loads of cinders to help iron out the gulches and chasms of the alleged street, even going so far as to dump a few loads on the south approach of a small culvert on university property.

But the great bulk of the road, owned by the university, still remains a washed-out swamp of ruts. Three thousand westsiders continue to bump their heads on car roofs and risk damaging their autos while the university sits back and awaits action by the general assembly in Des Moines. Even temporary relief would be appreciated by west-side motorists who after all only ask protection of their own life and property as they drive over the only direct entrance to Manville heights.

Iowa City at the Front

TAKING into consideration all the airports in the Chicago region Iowa City is up in the front with ten other cities. The Chicago Tribune admits this.

To quote: "Ten cities in the Chicago region are making progress in the construction of airports, and of the ten fields, six are to be larger than the Chicago municipal airport on the southwest side. The ten cities are Joliet, Elgin, Rockford, Rock Island, Moline, Iowa City, Dubuque, Janesville, Beloit, and Muncie."

HIGHLIGHTS

By Gordon G. Gauss

No other foreign country has attracted so much attention since the World war as has Russia. Newspapers are full of items concerning the conditions there, and the public constantly watches the progress of the nation. Other countries formed new governments after the war, and went their way with very little notice. But the dramatic rise of the Soviets is something more than a new government.

Russia started out with a new system of society—something which had never been tried out on a large scale before. To the average person it is a questionable system and its advantages are doubtful. Nevertheless it has not failed, as the western experts foredoomed it. Conditions in Russia today are hectic and have been ever since the war, but it is undeniable that life for the peasant class is more pleasant than under the czar.

The loose family connections, the practical ambition of religion, the strong arm methods of the soviet government, are not reconcilable with our theory of life. But to a degree they are working. For one thing, the new regime is making an attempt to build up a nation comparable with others. Twenty-eight American engineers reached Moscow only this week to supervise the erection of grain elevators and cement plants valued at $100,000,000.

Devotion to the government in its attempt to industrialize the country has been shown by women in many cities. Housewives and office girls have voluntarily given their jewels to the government to aid the movement. The practice had its beginning at Ribninsk and has spread throughout the country. Many of the articles were crosses, which also shows cooperation with the anti-religious program.

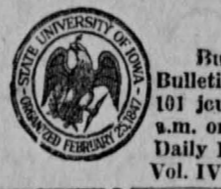

The classes which have suffered, however, are the more prosperous peasants and the business and professional men of the country. Recently thousands of these peasants were turned off their own land and forced to join the communes. Doctors have been forced to give up all private practice and turn their property over to the state. Naturally these classes have reacted unfavorably to the edicts of the government and many are leaving. Such a loss would be keenly felt in other nations where this middle class is the essence of the social system.

Russia's foreign relations and foreign policies have brought much condemnation upon the nation, as has the barbarous treatment accorded reactionaries. The high hand with which the communists are handling the Chinese question, and their propaganda attempts to stir up revolutions in other countries have been greatly criticized, and have aroused fear in foreign nations. This attitude has been strengthened by the wholesale murder of opponents of the government at home.

At the outset opponents of the system claimed the Russian government would not last. They said that as soon as its two leaders—Nicholas Lenin and Leon Trotsky—were out of the way, the communist system would fall. Lenin is dead. Trotsky is in exile. The system runs on just as well as it did before. That is what makes Russia interesting, if sinister, to the western world.

Over the Horizon

HERE they come—the nucleus of an all-electric merchant marine. Yesterday, they were a dream. Today, they are well over the horizon, linking the ports of the east and west coasts with fortnightly service. The goal of the Panama Pacific Line is to build three more turbine-electric ships thus enabling weekly New York-Frisco sailings.

Even now, the three liners California, Virginia, and Pennsylvania, constitute the largest fleet of turbine-electric commercial ships in the world.

Besides propelling these ships, electricity hoists freight, raises anchors, mans pumps, turns rudders, drives winches, and warps the vessels into their berths. It lights lamps, spins fans, operates elevators, cools and cooks food. Its magic touch is apparent on every deck.

The planning, production, and distribution of such equipment has been largely the responsibility of college-trained men who are working with General Electric and who have aided in bringing these ships over the horizon.

During the month of January, 13,621 more volumes were circulated than for the same month of preceding years, according to monthly report of Grace Wormer, acting director of university libraries. The greatest increase was found at general library and periodical room.

Through the extension department of libraries, 146 books were sent in inter-library loan service and 347 to individuals out of town, 175 of which were in connection with correspondence courses.

The installation of a new lighting system in the book stacks on the first floor and basement of natural science was completed last month. Replacing the old drop cord style, a stationary globe and shade has been fixed in the center of each stack.

Ramblers Continue Winning Streak; Win Over St. Mary's of Clinton, 21 to 12

Fay Carries Honors With 13 Counters

Grim, Shay, Star on Defense for Local Quintet

By VERNON HOYT

In a contest that had nearly 1,000 spectators sitting on the edges of their seats, and alternately cheering and gasping, the Ramblers fulfilled their supporters' hopes for a championship team by beating St. Mary's high of Clinton 21 to 12 last night. It was the Ramblers sixteenth consecutive win.

Fay, Rambler forward, was the leading light in basket shooting with six field goals and one donated toss. In addition to his superior work in shooting, he came through with neat defensive work and accurate passes. Grim and Shay, Rambler guards, were instrumental in stopping Clinton's offensive plays.

McConnell and McCutcheon, forward and guard for Clinton, worked intensively to stem the tide of St. Mary's field goals. McCutcheon was high point man for his team with two hits from the field.

Fail to Follow-up

The Clinton men failed in following up their many long shots and seemed unable to keep their hands on the ball. St. Mary's teamwork was clicking as usual and many of Fay's successful tries came after generous passing from Gaulocher, Grim, and Knoedel.

Fay made the first point of the game with a toss from the charity line. He followed almost immediately with a short shot from near the side. Knoedel dribbled in from near the center of the floor and lifted the ball in with an overhead shot. McConnell was fouled by Shad and made the first point for Clinton. Fay dribbled past and through three opposing players to make the count 7 to 1 just before the end of the first quarter.

Fay Sinks Third

After the opening tipoff in the second period, Dolan, Clinton forward, took a dribble and also a goal from near the basket. Fay sunk his third basket from the side of the floor after a quick pass from Grim. Knoedel increased the count to 11 with a flip from near the foul line and the score remained 11 to 3 for several minutes until Bach, Clinton center, let one fly from near the free section. Fay gathered in the ball after a free throw that failed and tipped it into the net and the half ended with the Ramblers leading 13 to 5.

St. Mary's opened the second half with Fay annexing another basket from under the backboard and returning soon with still another from the foul line. Gaulocher took the ball under his goal and made the score 18 to 5. McCutcheon heaved a long one and made it good just before the gun ended the quarter.

In the last quarter Clinton stiffened a bit but Grim was able to hook the more basket for St. Mary's from the side of the floor near the goal. Bach shot a foul and a few moments later McCutcheon dropped a counter from near the end of the floor.

EAR TO THE GROUND

By WALTER T. HANSON

Mike Howard's wrestling team may once more break into the win column when the Monmouth college mat squad comes here next Tuesday. A glance at the record finds that though the Hawkeye grapplers have approached the victory mark several times since March 10, 1928, they fell short each time. Winning their last dual meet against Northwestern, the Hawks have dropped eight meets and tied one. The team of last year, featuring the ace, Albert Montgomery threatened several times to turn in a team victory, but failed. This year Poyner, 155 pounder, has won consistently. Captain Jarrard, light heavyweight, has taken two matches in two meets, and John Gilchrist, heavyweight, has won all of his bouts in the three dual meets, winning two of them by falls.

Mention of Gilchrist, reminds us that the Hawkeye heavyweight is a three sport man. If he has the breaks this year he will have the honor of having a place in the three letter class. As reserve guard on the football varsity this past season he was awarded a minor I; his start in wrestling this year should give a major I in that sport; and he is practically certain to repeat in winning a track major I. Gilchrist did well last spring with the hammer event, placing in the conference meet as well as in dual meets, and he should be even better this year. Watch John Gilchrist go this season.

Recollections of an old time track man bring up points of interest concerning training and competition in early Iowa athletic history. Nate Barber, Hawkeye distance man in the 90's related his track story to Eric Wilson, University of Iowa news editor back in 1926.

"In my freshman year," he relates, "I do not believe we had any coach or trainer. The next year Doc Kalpe, the football coach trained us and the third and fourth years old 'Dad' Moulton with his 'Lady Bicycle Riders' as his main business helped us out. My career was not very wonderful, but consisted of a systematic training schedule of my own that started in September, 1895 and lasted until June, 1899 when I finished, weighing 144 pounds, though I was 6 feet 1 inch in height."

Barber had to train hard, and then he competed in the 40, 80 and mile events. He relates of a dual meet with Grinnell where Iowa won all three places in the half mile run. Brown, Wilson, and Barber made up the group of Iowa runners. Brown and Barber knew that Wilson had to be coached along to keep him up to the pace of the half, but the pace was breaking his heart, and he was ready to give

Drake Upset by Bears in Valley Tilt

Ed Meyer, Ace of Invaders Leads Attack

DES MOINES, Feb. 17 (AP)—Led by the lanky Ed "Moose" Meyer, high scoring center, the Washington university basketball team overwhelmed the Drake Bulldogs 22 to 16 here tonight gaining sole possession of second place in the Missouri Valley conference.

Meyer's scoring efforts in the first half when he made four goals was instrumental in gaining his quintet a 21 to 8 lead at the halfway mark.

The Drake players, showing little of the style of basketball which enabled them to defeat Washington last week, were unable to penetrate the tight Washington defense and scored only four field goals during the game.

Individual luminaries were Barnes and King for Drake and Meyers and Sauselle for Washington.

Little Hawks Practice on Point Making

In a final effort to improve their scoring ability, the Little Hawk basketball team will spend the greater part of this week's practices shooting baskets. The local sharpshooters were quite consistent at scoring in the first half of the Grant high game but they missed many set-ups and free throws in the last half. Captain Moffitt, who has been high scorer in many of the Little Hawk games this season, was held to one free throw by the Parlor City guards while his teammate, Wright, who has played several scoreless games, garnered three field goals.

Coach George Wells has built a defense in his team that is very hard to penetrate. The Parlor City five were stopped many times in their attempts to get through the Little Hawk defense for short shots. If he can build a scoring machine to equal this defense, the local five will go a long way in the race for the state championship.

The Red and White hoopsters will play their last conference game of the season when they meet Washington high of Cedar Rapids Friday night on the foreign court. A victory from the Parlor City five will give the locals a percentage of .500 in the Mississippi Valley conference basketball race.

Hawkeye Tracksters Begin Training for Meet With Marquette

Under the direction of Coach George Bresnahan and assistant coaches, Charles Brookins and Captain Thomas Martin, Hawkeye track and field men yesterday began a two week period of intensive training for the second indoor track meet of the season. The meet, which is a dual with Marquette university of Milwaukee, Wis., will be held here March 1.

The workouts yesterday were fairly light, consisting of warming-up and limbering up callisthenics and gun starts with 40-yard dashes. Time trials in all events will be held sometime during the week.

High jumpers worked with the sprinters and the low hurdles took the high flights. Pole vaulters worked for perfection in form and timing. Milers and half milers drilled on baton passing while the two milers took 13 laps for endurance.

The 440-yard dash, most took gun starts in addition to working for correct form and body action on the turns. Coach Martin gave his weight men individual attention.

Reuben Massarsky, Hawkeye dash man who has been barred from competition so far this season because of a strained muscle, is expected to be in condition for the Marquette meet. He will take time trials this week.

Fencing Aspirants Make Good Progress

Thirty-five men, divided into two squads, are now reporting twice weekly to Coach "Dad" Schroeder for instruction in fencing. The men are making good progress, and Coach Schroeder plans to have a tournament at the close of the season. Definite dates, however, have not as yet been made.

Taylor Ordered to Buy Dog License

Dog days are beginning early this year, so Wood Taylor was forced to admit to Judge C. L. Zager yesterday, when he was haled into court for permitting his dog to run at large without license.

Fido had taken a chunk out of the arm of Aron Taylor, a 6-year-old boy, early in the afternoon, and although the injury was not serious, Taylor was assessed the costs and ordered to get a license and restrain his dog.

Tom Warne Takes First in Pole Vault

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Jimmy Daley, Holy Cross sprinting flash, beat George Simpson of Ohio State, "the world's fastest human" at 100 yards in the final of the 60 yard dash at the New York athletic club games at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Daley gained a lead of a few inches in the first half dozen strides and increased his margin to a yard at the finish. Niles Schoening of Columbia university was third and Frank Hussey, New York A. C., veteran, fourth. The time was slower than had been expected, Daley being clocked in 5.35 seconds as compared to the recent 4.95.

Ray Conger, Illinois A.C. flyer, former Iowa State college runner, hung up his fifth one-mile victory of the season when he outran Joe Hickey of New York university, eastern intercollegiate indoor champion at the distance, and Gene Venzke, Swedish-American A.C. runner from Philadelphia, in 4:19.35 in the Baxter mile.

Conger also captured the honors in a phantom race with Leo Leonard of the Boston A.A. who is now in Australia. He had to beat Leonard's 1929 mark of 4:21.45 to capture the cup at stake.

Tommy Warne, of Northwestern university trimmed Barney Berlinger of the University of Pennsylvania and Fred Sturdy, former Yale crack now representing the Los Angeles A.C., in the pole vault.

Warne cleared 13 feet six inches to beat Berlinger by half a foot while Sturdy could do no better than 12 feet six inches.

Second Half Rampage Wipes Out Early Season Defeat

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
MARION, Feb. 16 (AP)—After battling with University high of Iowa City on even terms throughout the first half, the Marion high squad broke loose and ran up a 24-12 victory in a basketball game here tonight. In handling the invaders their fourth defeat in a row, the local basketeers reversed their early season defeat when the two teams met on the Iowa City floor.

Brooks, Marion forward, was high point man with nine points, closely followed by his teammate, Castle, with seven points. Thomas, Blue and White forward, led his team in scoring with five points. Rowe, who played a good game for the visitors, sprained his ankle late in the third period and was unable to finish the game. Patchold, regular guard, was on the bench most of the time due to an ankle injury sustained last week.

Marion opened the game with four points before University high could get started, and was not headed throughout the tilt. The score at the end of the half was 6 to 5.

In the third quarter, the locals opened up a barrage of baskets and ran their total to 16 points while holding the Handymen to 7 points. The last quarter was a repetition of the first, the Marion basketeers scoring almost at will. Shot after shot slipped through the net with unanny accuracy, while the University high cagers were unable to make good their chances except by the free throw route.

Hawkeye Gridders Begin Third Week of Fundamentals

Practicing fundamentals, the candidates for the 1930 Hawkeye football team started the third week of spring practice yesterday in the field house. Under the direction of assistant Coach Chester Meade, the linemen, grouped in pairs, drilled on offensive charging and coming out of the line to run interference.

Coach Burton A. Ingwersen put the backfield candidates through a drill consisting of angle, cut-back, and reverse plays. Next the driving ability of the prospective backs was tested by means of the bucking straps. Near the conclusion of the workout, the coaches lined up tentative teams which ran through a few plays.

Strikes and Spares

Evening honors in the Business Men's bowling league were evenly divided last night. Irvine, of the Gartner Motor company team, won the high single game honors with a score of 226 and Wallen, of the Instant Tire team, took the three game high single man laurels with a total of 558 pins. Racine's Cigar store bowlers were high in both the single game team scoring with 903 pins and the three game team scoring with a total of 2557 points.

In the games played, Racine's Cigar team took three straight from the Russell Clothing squad; Lenoch and Ciek taking the same number from Dewey's Cafe; while the Gartner Motor bowlers won two out of three from Instant Tire.

Freshman Cagers Discontinue Night Practice Sessions

Because the varsity was still in St. Louis, where they completed a two game series last night, the yearling cagers appropriated the large floor for their workout.

The practice was under the direction of "Pop" Harrison, assistant coach of the varsity squad, who chose to stress fundamentals. The group was divided into four teams, which drilled on offensive play, employing the pivot and cross-back. The guards received special attention, and were given a chance to demonstrate their offensive ability.

Night practice will be discontinued, at least for the present, and the first year hoopers will report this afternoon at the usual hour.

Jack Livermore, 16 W. College street, is confined to his home because of illness.

Gym Squad Ends Drill for Chicago

Swisher, Merton Only Men Unfit for Tilt Tomorrow

Yesterday afternoon the gymnastic squad engaged in the last hard workout prior to the University of Chicago meet to be held in Chicago tomorrow night. P. E. Swisher, who has been working to get in shape after an attack of the flu, is still in a weakened condition, but the Hawkeyes side horse specialist is expected to show fairly good form in his performance at Chicago.

Except for Swisher and F. A. Merton, whose broken foot will probably limit him to club swinging only, the squad is in good condition. Since the squad entrains tonight for Chicago today's workout will consist mainly of light exercises.

Hawkeye Golfers to Begin Practice on Approaches This Week

That inward desire to uncover the dusty golf bag and again swing the old driver is beginning to show in Iowa's golf enthusiasts for Coach Kennett had nearly a perfect turnout for indoor practice yesterday.

This last week will be devoted to the use of the various irons, and to practicing approach shots. As the competitive season draws near all candidates now reporting for practice are beginning to hear down in an effort to crack last season's score.

The sport in the game is finally bringing out the Old Gold golfers and Coach Charles Kennett is looking forward to successful season.

Throughout this week Coach Kennett will instruct all candidates as to the proper grips for iron clubs, and the various ways of judging distances for approach shots. Soon the putting lanes will be in shape and this will enable more men to work out at the same time. Plans are now under way for a reconstruction of the course and if they materialize, Iowa golf bounds will be playing on a bigger and better course.

Schroeder Plans Intramural Cage Tournay in March

In an effort to give the words "athletes for all" a real significance, Ernest G. Schroeder has announced plans for an independent basketball tournament which will be held during the first two weeks of March.

It is probable that medals or a trophy will be awarded the winning team, and if the tournament is one of elimination consolation winners will also be given a prize.

Clementine Buser, 216 1-2 E. Washington street, attended the funeral of her uncle, Albert Bisig, in Cedar Rapids Saturday.

All Fraternity Teams

Those who have been following the fortunes of fraternity cage teams will doubtless be interested in The Daily Iowan's all-fraternity teams which will appear in these columns Saturday morning of this week.

Men appointed to the three teams and the honor roll will be listed in the squads of the 31 fraternities that entered the basketball tournament and the records of the players in sectional competition will be taken into consideration.

The post-tourney struggle between the beautiful big trophy awarded to the fraternity champions will be staged Tuesday evening, Feb. 25. Following which The Daily Iowan will present its all-university teams.

DELTA SIGS

Delta Tau Delta should capture the beautiful big trophy awarded to the fraternity basketball champions by the inter-fraternity athletic council tonight in trimming Delta Sigma Pi. The Deltas are better than the best in the fraternity hoop derby. They have their ups and downs like every team, but when they're down they win by the margin of only one or two baskets, and when they're up they overpower their adversaries.

It would take a modern miracle to make winners out of Delta Sig's in this struggle. They couldn't whip Beta Psi of Sigma Pi, consequently they can hardly expect to do much against the Tau Deltas who haven't given any outward indications of not being able to keep going to the place they're headed for.

Probable lineups:

Peer, Jones Vie for Berth as Wrestlers Prep for Monmouth

The wrestling squad took a light workout yesterday after its trip to Lincoln, Neb., where they met the Cornhuskers. The next meet will be here with Monmouth college, Feb. 25.

The try-out between E. S. Jones and H. C. Peer will be held Thursday. Of the last three matches, Peer won the first and Jones the last two.

Loren Poyner, 155 pound class, Larry Mueller, who holds down the 115 pound berth, Charles Coughlin, 165 pounder, and E. S. Jones, 125 pound class, worked out last night.

Tankmen to Take It Easy for Nebraska

High School Meet to Share Swimming Bill Saturday

After a successful weekend invasion of the Washington university swimming pool, Coach Armbruster's squad of sprint men, breast and back stroke, and fancy divers, took it easy in the pool yesterday.

The Hawkeyes squad captured seven of the eight events in the meet, although good competition was shown in practically every event.

A stiff schedule of practices will be followed throughout this week in anticipation of the dual meet with the University of Nebraska here Saturday afternoon. The Cornhuskers squad is not feared but this fact will not cause a less intensive drill. Although the Nebrians have defeated Grinnell, Iowa State, and Kansas Aggies, records of their performance do not have as high a rating as that of the Old Gold mermen.

Free Throw Contest

Fraternities still have today to enter men in the free throw contest and teams in the volley ball tournament "Dad" Schroeder has extended the deadline to include today to accommodate campus fraternities who have delayed sending in entries. Tonight the schedules for those events will be drawn up.

The fraternities which have entered teams in the volley ball tournament are Sigma Nu, Delta Upsilon, Phi Kappa Psi, Delta Chi, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Sigma Pi, Phi Epsilon Pi, Sigma Pi, and Pi Kappa Alpha.

Men from the following fraternities have been entered in the free throw contests: Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Upsilon, Sigma Pi, Phi Epsilon Pi, Sigma Chi, Delta Chi, Delta Tau Delta.

Entry blanks for water polo games and the physical efficiency contests will be sent to fraternities this week.

The five events in the physical efficiency games are as follows:

Fence vault—Five feet is 100 points. Five points deducted or added for each inch over or under.

Springboard high jump—Five feet one inch is 100 points. Five points deducted or added for each inch under or over.

Pull-ups (chinning)—Eight times gives 100 points. Ten points for each additional time.

Rope climb (18 foot rope)—Contestant may climb in any style, and will be awarded 100 points for making it in 11 seconds, with 15 points for each less second.

Forty yard dash—One hundred points for covering the distance in 5.4 seconds. Fifteen points deducted or added for each 1-10 second over or under that time.

Joe McCarthy Makes Getaway for Camp

CHICAGO, Feb. 17 (AP)—Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Chicago Cubs, came to town today and made final arrangements for the first squad's getaway for Catalina Island tomorrow afternoon.

"We're going to have another big season," McCarthy beamed. "If Hartnett's arm is okay again and if our pitchers are as good as last year, we'll win."

He was especially elated over the acquisition of Lester Bell, hitting third baseman.

Only nine players, mostly catchers and pitchers, will comprise the first contingent. Several will be picked up at Kansas City and many are on William Wrigley's island already.

GRIFITHS WINS

DES MOINES, Feb. 17 (AP)—Gerrit Griffiths, heavyweight title contender from Sioux City, tonight added another knockout to his string by putting Al Costello of Chicago to sleep in the first round of their 10 round bout here.

R. O. T. C., Varsity, Frosh Marksmen Face Heavy Week

Encouraged by their victory over Coe college last Saturday, the R.O.T.C. rifle men are shooting telegraphic meets with the units of the following schools this week: Johns Hopkins university, West Maryland university, Virginia A. and M., Virginia Military Institute, University of Tennessee, and the University of Alabama.

The freshmen are competing in the same type of match with the green cup unit of the University of Wisconsin. The varsity gunners will shoot a telegraphic match with Washington State college, and the University of West Virginia this week. They will also exchange record targets with the United States Naval academy and the University of Southern California.

Readiness No Cure for War

Nations Must Disarm for Peace, Dexter

Speaking on the "Faith of Ramsay MacDonald" at the Unitarian church Sunday morning, Robert C. Dexter of Boston, Mass., said, "Prevention of war by preparedness has absolutely failed throughout human history. Armaments as protection lead only to increased arms on the part of all nations and ultimately to war itself. MacDonald has in mind a new plan: he would prevent war by taking the risks of peace. The prevention of war by peaceful means has never been tried, but at the very worst it could not be any greater failure than the plan of preparedness."

Mr. Dexter explained that MacDonald's plan would materialize only when all nations agreed to reduce armaments, develop a system of international law, establish an all-embracing world court and ultimately develop an international assembly. "We must begin to think in terms of peace and cooperation rather than of war and isolation," pointed out Mr. Dexter. "The first steps have already been taken in the inauguration of the league of nations and the world court. These institutions will be permanent only if the peoples of the world are willing to take the risks of peace and put their faith in justice and good will."

America on March on First Methodist Church Program

"America on the March" in four scenes was the principal number on the special patriotic service staged at the First Methodist church Sunday evening. The first scene depicted the colonial period, the second the revolutionary period, the third the Civil war period, the fourth the World war period. The church quartet, Mrs. Alexander Ellett, Mrs. Ruth Crayne, Clarence Glick, Maurice Dever, Frances Crayne, and Marie Tener had parts in the playlets, directed by Mrs. Crayne. The congregation sang "The Star Spangled Banner," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "My Country 'Tis of Thee." The church choir, directed by Dr. O. E. Van Doren sang "The Lord is My Rock."

Iron Miners Keep Old Grievances, Bell

A story of a strange bit of American history was told by Rev. William J. Bell, director of the social religious work in the Minnesota iron range. In his talks at the Presbyterian church Sunday. In the iron range, communities of over 1,000 people often contain less than a dozen persons who are able to speak the English language, he said. Made up of Serbians, Finns, Italians, Slavs, Russians, and Scandinavians, these towns present a serious problem in race assimilation. Enemies in Europe, these people have carried their grievances to America and engage in constant strife in their social, religious, and political life. The Rev. Mr. Bell has carried on his social work there for 17 years. The results of his labor, he says, are to be seen in the younger generation which has had the opportunity of better education and are anxious to see the dissolution of the race barriers. Sixteen university students did volunteer social service work under Rev. Bell last summer. His visit to Iowa City was sponsored by the Westminster fellowship group of the Presbyterian church which is aiding in the support of his social work.

P. T. A. Gives Annual Show

15 Varied Acts, Closed by Fashion Show, Feature Revue

The strains of "Sunny Side Up" died out, the curtains closed and the review of reviews was ended. Each year the P.T.A. of Iowa City high school entertains the students with something new and different, and this year the idea of a revue was carried out. Under the direction of Mrs. C. F. Benda, 15 acts were presented, all of the actors being aged outside the high school. Keith and Kenneth Smith, dressed as pages announced each of the separate acts which were presented on a stage decorated with an ornate fashion show on which morning glory chambered.

Mariet Foster and Paul Thomas entertained the audience with a "Teacher and pupil" dialogue. "Sweethearts on Parade" was the theme of the opening chorus in which girls from the junior high appeared. Mrs. W. J. Parizek accompanied her daughter, Eunice, who sang "The Toy Maker's Dream." Mrs. Ethel Heid, accompanied by her daughter, Dorothy, played several accordion selections. Dr. George Marech performed by clothing to well known tunes. Henrietta Daut played several pieces on the Aeolian harp and xylophone. "The Ricketty Racketty Radio" was the name of a playlet, the actors of which were "guess who?" Paul Thomas imitated an opera star, and Dr. L. G. Thomas, accompanied by Mrs. Thomas, whistled a song imitating the mocking bird.

The O'Compo brothers performed some tricks with the guitar and the violin. Griswold and McGrath tumbled in a special act. Elmer Newfeld sang popular songs. Aaron Kipnes, Esther Krausharr, Lorna Paulin, and Margaret Balou tapped some dances. Then came the review of reviews in which 1900 was Mrs. E. J. Anthony; 1905 was Mrs. Lee Matthes; 1910 was Mrs. Albert Drews; 1915 was Mrs. O. A. Carlton; 1920 was Mrs. Anna Parizek; 1925 was Mrs. Albert Shaffer; and 1930 was Mrs. Roy Blakeley. Appropriate songs were sung for each year's fashion show by the chorus, which was composed of ladies, junior high school and grade children.

Dates Set for Annual Better Homes Show

The second annual better homes show and exhibition will be held this year, April 8 to 12, at the American Legion community building. Sunday night a committee of the retail merchant's bureau met at the Legion building and set the date for the show and discussed other plans.

Because of the expected increase of both space applications, the entire Legion building will be used this year for the show. The same booth arrangement will be followed as was used last year. The visiting nurse association displaying the booth "Healthful and unhealthful foods," was acclaimed winner of the silver trophy awarded by the Economy Advertising company to the most attractive booth in last season's display, which was attended by more than 20,000 persons.

The committee which formulated the plans for the exposition was composed of J. J. McNamara, chairman, C. A. Bowman, Vern Bales, W. L. Davis, president of the retail merchant's bureau, Dr. W. Crum, secretary of the chamber of commerce, also attended the meeting.

Professor Dill Tells Botany Club of Trip on Coast of Mexico

Speaking before a meeting of the Botany club yesterday afternoon, Prof. Homer Dill, director of the university museum, related some of his experiences while collecting specimens on the west coast of Mexico four years ago.

With the aid of lantern slides, Professor Dill revealed something about the inhabitants and cities of Mexico, particularly in the region of Magatlan, a city on the west coast, and Guaymas, a town located in the Gulf of Lower California.

"No place like the coast of Mexico for good fishing," stated the professor, telling about the Rooster fish. "This type of fish is found there in large numbers and is good tasting." The pictures showed how the region around the coast was infested with numberless sea gulls and many other types of birds. The natives never kill any birds for eating purposes, asserted the speaker, because the birds prey on unsanitary food.

Professor Dill closed by saying that the trip in Mexico had been very successful from the standpoint of gathering specimens, and that the natives had been surprisingly courteous at all times.

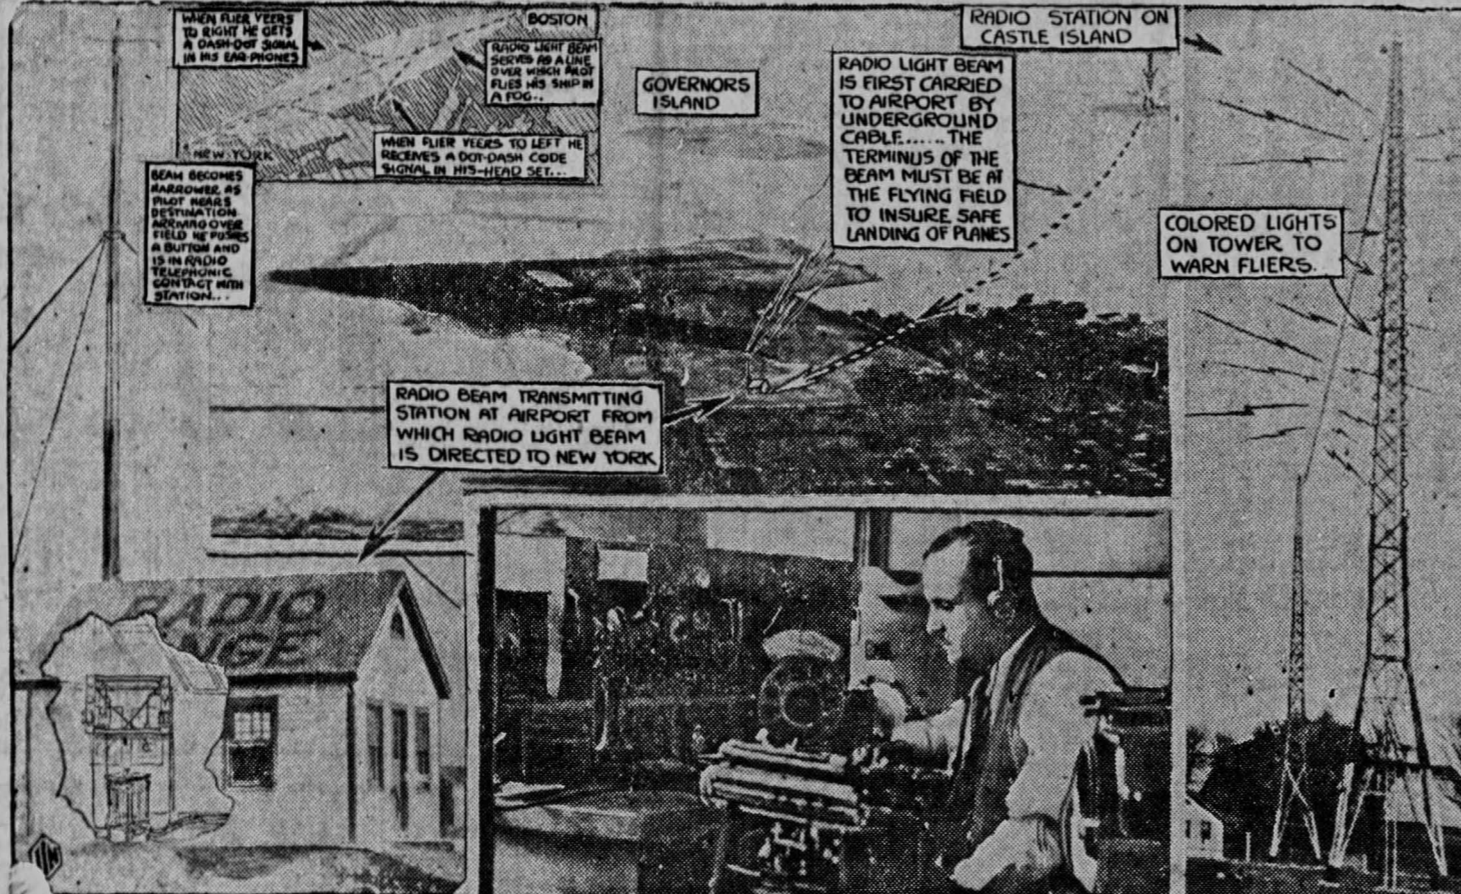

"Father" Lumpkin Former Grid Star Hit by Boxing Body

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 17 (AP)—Roy "Father" Lumpkin, former Georgia Tech backfield star, who played professional football at Fortmouth last fall, was suspended indefinitely today by the national boxing association for failure to fight Dick Powell, Ironton, O., professional football star.

Stanley M. Isaacs, N.B.A. president said an Ironton promoter paid Lumpkin $200 several days before the match which was to have been held on Jan. 16. Lumpkin later refused to enter the ring and announced he had given up his intention of boxing professionally.

Isaacs said Lumpkin fought at Nashville since failing to keep the Powell engagement and that his suspension was asked by the Ironton boxing commission.

Salmon Halted in Plans for American Derby Money Honors

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17 (AP)—The campaign of Walter J. Salmon's display for all-time money winning honors of the American turf, has been halted, at least temporarily.

Jack Pryce, trainer for the Salmon stable, announced today he had made arrangements to ship the 7-year-old "iron" horse to the Mereworth stud in Kentucky. There he will be bred to several of Salmon's mares and then put back in training for the $100,000 International race to be run at Arlington park, Chicago, in July.

Fog—aviation's deadliest foe is about to clear before the sun of scientific endeavor. Since last November a series of remarkable experiments and tests have been carried out over the air route between New York and Boston. These tests have been under the supervision of the Airways Division of the United States department of commerce which is vitally interested in the serious business of rendering the airways as safe as scientific ingenuity can devise. And aviation cannot be considered safe until man has overcome the deadly danger of fog, which has been the direct cause of the most frightful disasters of the air.

The radio light beam now acts as the guiding spirit of the aviator in fog. It is the line over which he flies his ship, and the slightest deviation from his course, either to the right or left, is called to his attention by code signals that sound in his headphones, sent by the operator who is directing the device. This chief operator is Ralph C. Soney under whose supervision the tests were carried out. His station is at Castle Island, where is located the transmitting point of the beam. The terminus of the beam is of course in the flying field to insure a safe landing, which in a fog is both dangerous and difficult.

When the pilot leaves the field a series of red lights flicker on the giant mast at Castle Island to attract his attention and so direct him to the path of the radio light beam. The beam is carried from the transmitting point to the airport by underground cable. It is quite narrow at the airport, becoming broader as the distance grows and becoming quite narrow again as it nears the terminal point. As the aviator circles over the field he pushes a button and instantaneous contact is made with the transmitting station by radio-telephonic communication. This anti-fog device has proved itself simple in operation and effective in results, and it is expected that the same method of making aviation safe from the hazard of fog will be applied over other routes.

Even Words Can Rise From Low to Higher Culture

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17 (AP)—Calvin Coolidge started something when he asked a group of New Orleans Creoles what was the origin of the word "Creole."

"It means a child born of pure bred French or Spanish parents in a new world colony," one of them explained.

"I know, but what is the derivation of the word?" inquired the former president.

"Why, er . . ." and they looked from one to another. None of them knew. They agreed to find out and let him know the origin of their own, particular, and distinct word.

So they went to reference books and sent him this:

"Creole—A descendant of white people, born in Mexico, South America and the West Indies. Derived from Spanish word Criado, a servant. Criado turned into Criadillo, then Creolle, and finally Creole."

CHAPTER XX
"There will be a good time during the next few days," Alan said. "You will find it will get under your feet in minutes. Why not put on your shoes and get out of town?"
"That's rather a good idea," Shirley said. "Thanks, Alan, but I shan't be in your shoes. Not in the least," she said. "This place is quite for two. As to the part of it—"
"Oh, that!" said Alan.
After Shirley had gone to the Fulton to pack up her trunk, Alan lingered over to take stock of the situation and found it extremely difficult.
He wandered through the rooms. He decided to go to Shirley's room. There were no clothes in his mind when he went to stay at the flat. Mr. Alan made it clear that he believed the truth. To believe the same roof would, to no significance one or the other.
And if they were real, the Macdonalds had been going to engage their own make all the arrangements. There was obvious in their being together.
He had been wholly of Shirley's sex or personality. He had given the invitation already he had started about her personal conduct.
He went downtown to the bank. He then came back to lunch. A page handed him a note.
"Dear Brenaway: Come a minute in the office and the signature was secretary."
He went at once to the office. The secretary, with a suspicious warning, "Ah, my dear Brenaway, I scarcely seem you since back. How did the news go?"
"Fit as a fiddle," Brenaway said. "The boy me your note."
"Ah! Yes. I want to see you. You see—well, you know your old man, that this has taken me—often, I feel to do it—anyhow, you feel well that one may say a damned up which one would not say in one's private life." "I can guess what you saw," said Alan. "But the news has spread."
"You are forgetting a member," said Alan. "That is, old man, there's 'My dear Cardew, your count on me not to do it.'"

CHAPTER XXX.

"There will be a good deal to do during the next few weeks," said Alan.

"You will find that the hotel will get under your feet every five minutes. Why not put up here? It would save both of us a good deal of time."

"That's rather a good idea," said Shirley. "Thanks, Alan, if you're sure I shan't be in your way."

"Not in the least," he assured her. "This place is quite big enough for two. As to the respectability part of it—"

"Oh, that!" said Shirley contemptuously. "After Shirley had gone back to the Felton to pack up and pay her bill, Alan, lingering over a pipe, tried to take stock of the latest development and found it extraordinarily difficult."

He wandered through the four rooms. He decided to give up his own room to Shirley.

There were no complications at all in his mind when he invited her to stay at the flat. Mrs. Sibbey had made it clear that no one would believe the truth. To sleep under the same roof would, therefore, have no significance one way or the other.

And if they were really going into the Macedonian business, were really going to engage their passage and make all the arrangements for traveling, there was obvious convenience in their being together.

He had been wholly unconscious of Shirley's sex or personality when he had given the invitation—and now already he had started worrying about her personal comfort.

He went downtown to see a lawyer, then came back to his club for lunch. A page handed him a note. "Dear Brennavay: Can you spare me a minute in the office," he read, and the signature was that of the secretary.

He went at once to the office. Cardew, the secretary, received him with a suspicious warmth.

"Ah, my dear Brennavay, I've scarcely seen you since you've been back. How did the rest-cure go?"

"It was a fiddle, thanks," said Brennavay. "The boy just brought me your note."

"Ah! Yes. I wanted to have a little chat. You see—the devil of it is—well, you know perfectly well, old man, that this little job I've taken on—often I feel I was a fool to do it—anyhow, you know perfectly well that one may well have to say a damned unpleasant thing which one would never think of saying in one's private capacity."

"I can guess what you mean, Cardew," said Alan. "But how the devil the news has spread, I don't know."

"You are forgetting that Felton is a member," said Cardew. "And the fact is, old man, there's a motion—"

"My dear Cardew, you can surely count on me not to cause any unpleasantness in the club," put in Alan.

"Let me go on, Brennavay," pleaded Cardew. "I am simply going to offer you a suggestion. I suggest that you refrain from actually putting in an appearance here—until, well, until you and the young lady are married."

Alan got up. "I'll think over your advice, Cardew," he said. "Many thanks. I'll let you know tonight."

He left the club without the faintest intention of considering the secretary's advice. He felt it, just a little, as the porter saluted him for the last time. The Brennavays had been members of the Luke for many generations. The Luke, as every member believed, was the most companionable and the most tolerant, the most kindly club in the world.

But the Luke could not make him marry Shirley. He did not want to marry Shirley. He wanted to see her try to marry him for money.

He heard her and his own unlimited apple sauce about Macedonian Developments, wanted to see her shirk the real work and let him finish the job by falling in love with her.

There was a tacit conspiracy on the part of everybody in the world to make him marry Shirley. First there was Mrs. Sibbey. The lawyer, while giving comfortable assurances about the writ, had tacitly assumed that he would marry as soon as the law permitted. Now the Luke had added its quota.

"I wonder when Shirley is going to begin—I wonder whether she has already begun?"

After lunching at a restaurant he went back to the flat. As he entered the block the janitor approached him.

"Mrs. Brennavay has arrived, sir, but had to go out again. I was to say that she'd be back about 7. I've taken all the luggage up, sir."

"Thank you," said Alan, and made for the staircase. Mrs. Brennavay! He had invited Shirley to stay at the flat, but he had most certainly not invited her to call herself Mrs. Brennavay. Here was an issue. He would ask her why she had called herself Mrs. Brennavay.

In the flat he sat down and wrote to the Luke resigning membership. This helped to fan his anger against Shirley. He would use this to make her come out into the open.

The hours of loneliness in the flat dragged on. He would not be in any way unpleasant about it. He would just get her to say exactly what material advantage she expected to derive from the fact of his being co-resident.

Perhaps she would come in before 7 o'clock. It was very boring sitting alone in the flat. It had been easy enough to while away the idle hours in Vermont, but his rest-cure was finished and he had left the itch of work. At six o'clock he began listening for her footsteps, wondering, at first indifferently and then anxiously, what was she doing.

She would find it different, shopping and getting about in New York without her car. She had probably never walked about before in her life.

"Therefore she is probably quite unused to traffic," came the startling but highly logical conclusion. By 7 o'clock he was convinced that she had been killed, and at five past seven he heard her footsteps and rushed to open the door.

"Hello!" he exclaimed. "I thought you'd be run over."

"I haven't had time," she laughed back. "I've had a simply terrific day. I must sit down and gasp a little."

"You look tired out," he said as she dropped into a chair in the sitting room. "Have you been looking after yourself properly? Had any food?"

"Not since breakfast," she answered. "I've been round to the consulate and I've found out heaps about Macedonia. Then there were those books you advised me to get—I had a chase for those."

He looked at her disapprovingly. She had been overtaxing her strength and she ought to have had more sense after a totally sleepless night. It was just when one was below par that all those street accidents occur.

"Oh, by the way, when I turned up here with my things from the Felton, the Janitor didn't know what on earth to make of me. And I suddenly saw how awkward it was for him—a strange young woman turning up at one of his flats with a lot of luggage—so I told him that I was Mrs. Brennavay. Remember to back me up if necessary should arise."

"All right," said Alan. "Look here, as soon as you've got your wind we're going out to dine."

A week later writes were served.

Tinker Thinks Uncle Sam to Spread Sway

Latin-Americans View U. S. With Favor Since Tours

The Spanish dominated Central American countries for centuries, Great Britain through piracy later displaced Spanish influence, the Germans poured in the latter part of the nineteenth century and were rapidly coming into control of those lands before 1914. But today, due to two events, the United States will very soon be in complete control of those nations, Clarence J. Tinker, seolar and traveller, told 100 members of the Iowa City chamber of commerce yesterday at its regular Monday noon luncheon.

The two events in recent years that have changed the attitude of those peoples toward America are: President Hoover's tour of those lands and Lindbergh's flight all over Central America establishing air routes.

Hoover's Visit Showed Interest

Prior to those happenings Uncle Sam had been looked upon as an absentee landlord and a sort of Shylock interested only in the amount of money that could be wrung from them, Tinker said. But when President Hoover took the trouble to visit those countries they regarded it as a demonstration of a genuine interest in them on our part.

In connection with his talk Mr. Tinker showed moving pictures of the Panama Canal, ancient ruins, market scenes, views of native life, and places of historical interest.

Heat Not Excessive

The heat is not excessive as people in temperate climates are wont to believe. Tinker said that it never gets any hotter down there than it does in Iowa City; the difference is that the temperature 24 hours a day and 365 days in the year never varies more than a few degrees. The Central American lands are keeping in step with the march of progress, and their commerce has reached such proportions as to attract the mercantile nations of the world, he stated.

City High Speakers Compete Today in Iowa Nine Contest

Three girls of the Iowa City high school will represent Iowa City today in the girls' division of the Iowa Nine declamatory contest in Burlington. The preliminary contest will be held this afternoon and the three highest in each of the three divisions, oratorical, dramatic, and humorous, will compete for final honors tonight.

Mary Seider will enter the oratorical section with "The Wandering Jew," Ruth Aurner the dramatic with "On Vengeance Havet," and Margaret Dane the humorous with "The Big Lie." Lola Hughes, public speaking instructor, is coach.

Eight of the nine schools are entering the contest: Ottumwa, Fairfield, Burlington, Muscatine, Davenport, Clinton, and Iowa City. Oskaloosa, the other member of the Iowa Nine conference, is not sending a team this year.

City High Band Will Give Benefit Concert Tomorrow Evening

The Iowa City high school band will present its monthly concert tomorrow at 8 p. m., in the high school auditorium under the direction of Paul Thomas.

The program is: Roll of Honor march, Evening Shadow serenade, Quartet No. 19 G Major, by the S. U. I. Philosophy stringed quartet; The Whistling Farmer, Piccolo Pete, by the band; clarinet solo by James Golsch; and a selection from Faust by the band.

The S. U. I. Philosophy stringed quartet is made up of Paul Thomas, first violin, Prof. C. A. Ruckmick, second violin, L. C. Eberly, viola, and Ruth Soll, cello.

The proceeds from the concert will be used for band uniforms.

Police Adopt Satan's Role; Find Work for Vagrant's Idle Hands

The police, rather than satan, found work for the idle hands of C. W. Graves yesterday, after he had been fined $25 and costs by Police Judge C. L. Zager for vagrancy.

After lecturing Graves on the evil of his vagabond ways, Judge Zager proposed that he leave Iowa City immediately, but Chief of Police C. F. Benda showed up at that moment with the suggestion that there was plenty of work around the department which Graves might just as well do.

So Judge Zager attached a five day sentence onto the fine and costs. "He'll leave Iowa City, then, anyhow," the judge added, "he doesn't like to work."

C. C. Committee Plans for Better Homes Exhibition

Definite plans for the second annual Better Homes exhibition have been formulated by the chamber of commerce's committee composed of J. J. McNamara, chairman, Vern Bales, C. A. Bowman, and William J. Davis, president of the merchant's bureau. This year's show will be held from April 8 to 12.

Exhibits will take up the entire Legion building. The 1929 show will closely resemble last year's exhibition except for a few new features that are expected to be added.
