Eight Members of Holiday Party Die in Bus-Train Crash

VALENCIA, Spain, April 17 (AP)—Eight members of a holiday party were killed today and 16 injured in a collision between their auto-bus and a freight train near the village of Samarell, between Saguno and Valencia.

Four of those injured were in a serious condition. Aid has been rushed from Valencia, and the authorities have begun an investigation into the collision, which occurred at a grade crossing.

The crossing guard, apparently holding himself responsible for the disaster, committed suicide late in the afternoon.

Witnesses said the driver of the bus apparently did not see the oncoming freight train until it was too late to avoid a collision.

Updegraff Owns 1678 Deed; Transfers Land for Tobacco

Sallow with age, yet retaining the virility of its youth, a historic indenture has found another temporary home in its cycle through the sifting hands of men. This ancient deed, dating from 1678, was presented to Prof. C. M. Updegraff of the law school, by a friend in Washington, D. C., five or six years ago.

It is of the old warranty deed, or indenture type which derives its names from the curious manner of make-up in which the top edge is cut. An indenture is a formal written instrument between two or more persons in different interests as opposed to a deed which is made by one single person, or by several having the same interests. At a very early time in the history of English law when it was desired that there should be more than one party to a deed and the length of the deed allowed of it, it became customary to write two copies and then to separate the copies by cutting through the writing, which then served as a check on a fraudulent deed.

At first the cutting was done in a straight line but it occurred to someone to indent the line as an additional precaution and the fitting together of the two saw-like edges was so effective that the writing came to be omitted altogether.

In Queen Elizabeth's time, the sharp toothlike indentations were still in vogue but in the next century the indented edge came to be a series of sharp-created waves. In this particular deed, the top edge is decided by irregular although clearly distinguished from the straight edge or sharp points.

In returning to the nature and content of the document itself, we find it to be a warranty deed in which the third day of May in the third year of the dominion of the right honorable Charles, absolute lord and proprietor of the provinces of Maryland and Avalon, lord baron of Baltimore, in the year of 1678, between James Davis, planter, of Somerset county of the province of Maryland, and his wife Margaret Davis, conveying to Gideon Tillman, also a planter, a large tract of land elaborately described by metes and bounds. The consideration mentioned in the deed is 6,000 pounds of tobacco. The deed is in the form of an indenture and contains all the customary warranties which characterize real transactions of that time. The witness was undoubtedly illiterate, for his signature is indicated with only a symbolic mark and his name Edward E. Sidbury, is subscribed by another.

The document itself is of sheepskin parchment about 32 inches square and, as perhaps customary, the bottom is folded over, making a inch margin which is held in place by pieces of tape on which remain traces of the seals of the signatories. The signatories are also signed at the bottom.

It conveys no definite history nor any romantic betrayals of its previous adventures, but retains the stern mask of legality throughout. As is known, a great many old parchments are made and continued to exist in Maryland or in certain archives and various record offices, or here and there in collections of family endowments.

Documents of this general nature were frequently given as conveyances of land or as security. When they were used as security and if the debt was paid, the deed retained no legal effect but was released and became inoperative and therefore was used only as a relic of interest as indicating the legal step.

As was the custom of the time the deed was engrossed and the clear cut letters, though quaint, testify to the skill of the inscriber and the excellence of the materials used.

Census Count Shows Speed

Enumerators End Task in 126 Towns

DES MOINES, April 17 (AP)—Counting of "moss" in Iowa is progressing rapidly, with more than one-eighth of all the towns completed by enumerators of the 1930 census. Of the 965 incorporated towns in Iowa, census reports had been received tonight for 126. None of these contained more than a thousand persons except four, the largest less than 1,300.

The majority showed decreases in population, an indication, census supervisors said, of a gradual disappearance of the small town.

Alumni Raise Corn for '30 Monument

The Homecoming corn monument this year is to be the direct outgrowth of last year's monument. Under the direction of Frederic G. Higbee, executive secretary of the alumni bureau, the three kinds of corn, yellow, white, and red, which taken from the monument and placed in small, individual bags and sent out to the various alumni group organizations throughout the country.

A feature of the group meetings on National Iowa Night, March 16, was the presentation of the corn with the request that it be sown, reaped, and sent to the university for the construction of this year's monument. Many of the groups selected an official planter to be responsible for their being represented in the monument.

University officials, who hope to make this mode of construction a tradition, expect to receive corn from practically every state. The corn monument has long been the center of attraction during Homecoming and the fact that it will this year contain corn from the country over, from New York to California, makes it doubly significant.

Our Prison Population

IOWA citizens may well consider two sets of figures which have been announced this week concerning the number of prisoners in both state and federal prisons. The census report at Ft. Madison shows that more than three times as many prisoners are now confined in the state penitentiary as were confined there 10 years ago, 1,241 now in comparison with 471 in 1920. On the same day Attorney General Mitchell reported that the number of federal prisoners had increased during the last nine months by 6,277 and that every federal institution was overcrowded.

The chief of the state department of criminal investigation believes the increase of crime due largely to the "aftermath of the World War." That seems like a rather meagre explanation to account for the tripling of the number of prisoners in state institutions. Whatever the reason, the criminal situation certainly needs remedial and preventive measures.

The figures on federal prisons were presented by the attorney general before the senate judiciary committee, urging that congress act upon prison relief legislation and upon the measure transferring prohibition from the treasury to the justice department before passing any new statutes which would further increase the number of criminal offenses. He attributed the "overtaxing of the federal machinery" to prohibition, white slave, narcotic, and automobile theft laws.

Figures such as these should force home to American citizens the seriousness of the crime situation. When the number of state penitentiary prisoners triples in one decade, when the federal attorney general declares that "we have reached a point where further stimulating activities of prosecution under any law will get us into difficulties," it is indeed time for general interest in the situation.

A City Progresses

A REAL tribute to Iowa City's interest in development and modern progress is the announcement that Iowa City led all the cities of the state in the amount of remodeling done during March and ranked third among all the cities in the total value of building permits issued during the month.

Only Davenport, four times as large as Iowa City, and Des Moines, the largest city of the state, were above Iowa City in the new building evaluations. In remodeling Iowa City led Cedar Rapids and Des Moines by almost $1,000. Sioux City, Cedar Rapids, Dubuque, Council Bluffs, and Waterloo, all larger than Iowa City, trailed in the amount of building done during March.

The fact that Iowa City almost always ranks well in these figures is a real indication of the unusual interest shown here in developing a beautiful city as well as beautiful homes. On the whole, Iowa City has unusually attractive residence districts, with homes which compare favorably with practically any city of the state. The continued interest in building and improvement should ensure even greater city beauty in the future.

The increase in the beauty and comfort of the home is one of the outstanding characteristics of modern American life. The standards by which we judge those qualities are growing more exacting every year. Both the success of the recent Better Homes exposition here and the place Iowa City holds in the construction of new buildings show that this community is well in the spirit of the times.

War Progresses

ANOTHER new record was hung up by the United States Army Air Corps in California recently when a combat squadron, flying in formation, reached an altitude estimated at 30,000 feet. The test is being hailed as a new advance in military science, for, it is said, planes flying at such an altitude will be immune to enemy anti-aircraft batteries, and can attack hostile positions with comparative security.

The event is no doubt an achievement, fully meriting the praise with which it has been greeted, but its importance as a defense measure can easily be over-estimated. At best it is only another step in that long procession of changes that has taken warfare from the stone throwing stage to its modern state. And in another sense, it is only one more of those deceptions which lead people possessed of a new weapon to think that it makes them invulnerable, that it will conquer their enemies for them, and which, in the end, only precipitates their downfall.

In times of peace science is very busily engaged in inventing new and improved methods of killing the other fellow, and when war comes these efforts are redoubled. But for every new invention made, for every tactical maneuver perfected, some means of defense is always formed. The spear was met with the shield, the sword brought on the helmet, and the introduction of powder was countered with light, fast troops in open formations.

In the World War, poison gas at first threatened to wipe opposing armies into oblivion, but it was robbed of its horrors by the gas mask. The tank was met with the leveled field gun, fired at point blank range, and the airplane was forced to contend with the "archies." In view of these facts it must be concluded that it will not take long to perfect an anti-aircraft rifle that will shoot 30,000 feet in the air.

The long evolution of military science and tactics has succeeded in doing just one thing, in making war more tragic and terrible, more to be abhorred, and more and more threatening the very existence of humanity. The ultimate end of this process of evolution is hidden deep in the future, but one conclusion can be definitely attained, that the peoples of the earth must conquer war, or war will conquer them.

It is not true that there will always be war, as some men claim, for war, carried to its logical conclusion, must ultimately destroy itself.

Night Cyclists

MANY school boys in Iowa City ride bicycles thoughtlessly through the streets at night without lights of any kind to designate to motorists from, or to where they are going.

At night Iowa City is not lighted sufficiently to allow bicycles on the streets without lights. A bicycle becomes a menace to pedestrians when ridden on the sidewalk, and are dangerous to the rider if operated in the streets at night without some form of signal to passing cars.

In order to protect the children whose parents are negligent in allowing this practice, the city should adopt measures to keep night bicyclists off the street unless they have a light sufficiently bright to warn motorists and pedestrians of their presence.

President Hoover made a wild pitch at the American League opening game and got columns in the sports pages. The umpire made a wild attempt to stop the ball and got booted.

PILOTS TO FLY WEST OVER ATLANTIC

QUESTION MARK

The honor of completing the first flight westward from Europe to Long Island is to be sought twice within the next month. Dieudonne Coste is expected to arrive at Roosevelt field, L. I., from Paris before May 8, and Capt. Charles Kingsford, about the same time. Coste will use the Question Mark, in which he recently established several records for endurance and airline distance flying. Captain Smith will be remembered for his flight across the Pacific from Oakland, Cal., to Australia on what has been declared one of the most spectacular flights in the history of aviation.

The 1920 transatlantic flying season has got under way with a flying start. For announcements have just been made of plans for a westward flight across the Atlantic with the spectacular side of the feat emphasized in the form of an international race. France and England are keenly interested in the plans of their crack flyers to make the initial successful flight from the United States to Europe, since the French flyer Dieudonne Coste and the British aviator Capt. Kingsford-Smith have both announced that they intend to make the westward flight. Coste is regarded as one of the most brilliant aviators in the world. His flying career is studded with records, both for endurance and airline distance flying. He plans to use the Breguet biplane Question Mark for the flight and will be accompanied by Maurice Bellonte, who has been his companion on several of his record-making trips. The Question Mark has been completely overhauled, and now carries enough fuel for 6,000 miles at cruising speed. A new motor has also been installed. Coste will attempt a round-trip flight, for he is expected to arrive from Paris by plane. Tentative arrangements call for his arrival at Roosevelt field on or about May 8. Frank Ambrose, operations chief of the Curtis-Wright corporation, is responsible for the statement that preparations are being completed for the arrival of Captain Kingsford-Smith from England at about the same time as that of Coste. The British flyer is the hero of the California to Australia flight that is said to be one of the most spectacular feats in the history of aviation, and is regarded as one of England's best pilots. The Southern Cross used in the flight across the Pacific is a veteran Fokker monoplane and may be used by Kingsford-Smith in his attempted flight, but no specific details are yet forthcoming, although the plane's three Wright whirlwind motors were tested last year by officials of that corporation.

Waterloo Attorney Files Perjury Charge

WATERLOO, April 14 (AP)—Trial of J. L. Manly on a charge of stealing hogs was halted today when J. W. Gwynne, county attorney, was granted a continuance that he might file perjury charges against two witnesses who had repudiated on the witness stand affidavits they had signed at the grand jury hearing. The witnesses are Alex Mutch and J. E. O'Connor, both of Waterloo. Manly, who was sentenced in 1922 to serve ten years in the state reformatory for grand larceny and who was sentenced again for five years on the same charge in 1926, is now charged with stealing 20 hogs from Lloyd Lam farm near La Porte City, March 5 or 6.

Letter to the Editor

Editor, Daily Iowan: It is very true that hundreds of people will without stopping to consider, sign almost any document that is presented for their signature; therefore perhaps not a great deal of significance can properly be attached to petitions of any sort, yet the signatures of hundreds of Iowa students to the protest against compulsory military drill cannot be ignored, "pooh-hoed" as "mob spirit." What the legislature of the state will do with this and many similar petitions which will doubtless be presented remains to be seen. Honest differences of opinion on questions of this character will inevitably exist and they are not going to be brushed aside by sophomoric ex cathedra editorials. It would be more to the purpose if the editor were to invite an open forum discussion of this subject and invite outstanding members of the faculty and student body to express their opinion. -G. A. Each the bearer of a reputation in the world of music, six judges from universities and public schools in several sections of the country have been appointed for the fifth annual state high school music festival. Grain Dealers Ask Repeal of Marketing Act

MINNEAPOLIS, April 17 (AP)—Continuing opposition to the federal farm board's agricultural marketing act, officials of the Minneapolis grain exchange today revealed that they have started a campaign among all grain, produce and commodity exchanges of the country to bring an expression of condemnation of these federal agencies from the United States chamber of commerce. A preliminary draft of a resolution demanding repeal of the marketing act and condemning the board for competing with private business has been sent to all exchanges in the country, it was announced, with the request that they endorse it for introduction at the convention of the national chamber here this month.

Announcement of the move was made today by C. T. Stevenson, vice president of the local exchange, who declared that the national business policy is pointing toward a repeal because of the activities of the farm board. The national chamber, he said, in a letter accompanying the proposed resolution, should clearly express its disapproval of the marketing act. As drawn in the preliminary draft, the proposed resolution would have the national chamber of commerce condemn the marketing act "as being a monstrous interference with the free federal government in business competition with citizens of this country contrary to the principles of the chamber of commerce of the United States." It also would instruct directors of the chamber "to take steps to bring about either repeal of the agricultural marketing act or its amendment in such manner as will prevent the federal government engaging in business competition with citizens or using government funds for price fixing." Stevenson said no replies had yet been received from other exchanges. United States fairly attitude on the move, but that he expected to hear from several in a few days.

Everette Marshall has almost reached his ambition of being a champion. The young wrestler, who was hailed as an American intercollegiate heavyweight champion a year ago by scholarship difficulties at the University of Iowa, has at last secured his goal in a greater field, the professional field, where he is the leading contender after having shoved Ed "Strangler" Lewis out of the way.

Mike Howard, University of Iowa wrestling coach, who played an important part in the early development of Everett Marshall, said recently that the big blond grappler was considerably better than Wayne "Big" Munn, the first fellow to dump Ed "Strangler" Lewis off the mat.

The popularity of the former Iowa student can not be questioned. In Los Angeles, where he has been building up his wrestling prestige, Marshall has been beating all records for drawing the crowds. It cannot be forgotten that "Carnation Lou" Duro, the promoter is a master, said to be second only to the late "Tex" Rickard, perhaps, if the critics on the coast are correct. But Marshall is a thoroughly likeable fellow, and his following could not be quite so large if he did not have color, and the characteristics that appeal to the crowd. If Marshall can stay in the peak of his ambition and crowds Gus Sonnenberg out of the heavyweight picture, which he should do, it would be a noble thing to have him step out and dump a few of the fellows who are claiming championship honors from some athletic commission in the east or in some other geographic center. Shikat and Pesek are both laying title claims by historical succession, belongs to Sonnenberg, could then test their ability against a strong young fellow by the name of Everette Marshall.

Ohio Relays to Attract 7 Iowa Stars

The race of the shuttle hurdles relay team and the efforts of three performers in the weight triathlon are the probable University of Iowa competitive gestures in the Ohio relays May 3 at Columbus.

Before he shepherded his 16 man squad to the Kansas games, Coach G. T. Irsenhan declared that he would groom L. D. Weldon, Wesley Youngerman, and Wayne Massey for the all-around weight event, and that the shuttle hurdles team of Willer, Handorf, Gordon, and Salling is a likely entrant.

Weight triathlon men have the choice of four events—shot, hammer, discus, and javelin. Weldon has begun drill on the shot and discus, augmenting this with practice in the javelin, his championship event. Youngerman and Massey will omit the javelin.

Trials next week will determine whether the three Iowans are talented enough to figure in the place-winning, and the exhibition of the hurdlers at the Drake relays next Saturday will be the criterion of their entrance in the Buckeye games.

If Marquette university officials can shift the date of a tentatively scheduled meet, the Milwaukee athletes will come to Iowa field for a dual engagement with the Hawk eyes, May 17. Iowa downed Marquette by a 20-point margin in an indoor meet last month.

Rain Postpones Tennis Tourney

PINEHURST, N. C., April 17 (AP)—A cold, driving rain caused postponement of the men's semi-final round of the United North and South tennis tournament today, but the women finished their singles and doubles matches before the down-pour started.

Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Marian Jessup of Wilmington, Del., fought their way to the finals, Miss Anderson crushing Miss Virginia Hilleary of Philadelphia, 9-7, 6-1, while Mrs. Jessup was taking the measure of Miss Virginia Rice of Boston, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Last Services of Holy Week Planned Today

Seven Last Words of Christ Depicted by Program

"Jesus is a man to measure ourselves by," was the keynote of the sermon given at yesterday's noon-day Holy week service by the Rev. Ira J. Houston of the Congregational church.

"This is the anniversary of Christ's last day among his disciples," he said, "when in his last message to his faithful band he taught them to be humble, to enter into the covenant of blood with God through the drinking of the wine and breaking of the bread, and to grow spiritually."

The Rev. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, acted as chairman, and Mrs. C. G. Fort was organist.

Concluding the Holy week services, a three hour devotional program, "The seven last words of Christ" will be held in the Baptist church from 12 o'clock noon until 3 o'clock.

The program is divided into seven periods of about 25 minutes in length, in each of which will be a devotional address, special music numbers, a prayer and a scripture reading. Intermissions between the parts will permit persons to leave.

Part I, from 12 o'clock until 12:25, includes an organ selection, "The Easter Dawn," played by Mack Henderson; a vocal solo, "There is a green hill far away," by Mrs. C. A. Hawley; the address by Dr. A. E. Lambert, "Father, Forgive Them," and the hymns, "Immortal Love Forever True," and "My faith looks up to thee," by the congregation.

Featured in part II, from 12:25 to 12:50, will be a duet, "My Redeemer Liveth," sung by Mrs. Ruth Harris Olson and Toimette Balkema; the devotional address, "Today thou shalt be," by the Rev. M. Willard Lampe; and the hymn, "Rock of Ages cleft for me."

In the third period, from 12:50 to 1:15, Prof. C. A. Hawley will speak. His subject is "Woman, behold thy son," Mrs. L. G. Lawyer will sing, "Just as I am," and the congregation will sing the hymn "Alas did my savior bleed?"

Prof. Bonno Tapper is to deliver the address of the fourth period on the theme, "My God, My God, why hast thou?" A baritone solo, "God My Father," will be sung by Victor Jones. The fifth part will include special music and a talk, "I Thirst," by Harry E. Terrell.

"It is finished" is the topic of the address to be given in the sixth period, from 2:10 to 2:35, by the Rev. Wendell S. Dyringer. A cello solo, "The Rosary," will be played by Kenneth V. A. Forbes, and the congregation will sing the hymn "Jesus keep me near the cross."

Concluding the program the Rev. Guy H. Findley will speak. His topic is "Father into thy hands." Mrs. Randolph will sing "Through the darkness thou wilt lead me" and the hymn "When I survey the wondrous cross" and "In the cross of Christ I glory" will be sung by the congregation.

Raskob Letter Introduced in Lobby Hearing

Chairman Represented Seeking Fund for Dry Law Drive

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Chairman Raskob of the democratic national committee was represented today in a letter read before the senate lobby committee as having scanned the list of contributors to the democratic campaign fund and then in the capacity of a director of the association against the prohibition amendment seeking to get funds from these people for the associations drive against the dry law.

The letter, purporting to have been written last November by W. P. Smith of Philadelphia, a vice-president of the Anti-Prohibition association, to Joseph R. Hamlen of Boston, said letters were being sent to "some large contributors to the democratic and republican campaign funds last year" and that Raskob was signing "for the democrats."

"We are writing to some of our directors at the present time," the letter said, "in an effort to secure the balance of our budget by the end of the year and also to some large contributors to the democratic and republican campaign funds last year."

"The latter letters are signed by Mr. Lamont Dupont for the republicans and Mr. John J. Raskob for the democrats. I enclose copies of both letters for your information—these letters being slightly different from the republican and democratic parties."

Raskob testified recently before the lobby committee that he had contributed $65,000 to the organization and that one of its purposes was the election of congressmen favoring the repeal or modification of prohibition laws.

Question Curran
It was read while the committee was questioning Henry H. Curran, president of the association against the prohibition amendment concerning the activities of the organization in advocating repeal of the dry laws.

Curran who was directed to reappear tomorrow for further questioning, said he did not know the letter had been written.

Questioned concerning finances of the organization Curran told the committee that more than $1,000,000 would be needed this year to carry on its work. It expended $427,213 last year.

Reterring that the people of the United States were three to one against prohibition, Curran said that the present congress was three to one for prohibition and it would do no good to "lobby" in Washington.

Dry Congress
This is the driest congress we have ever had," he said, smiling at the four lobby committee members present, three of whom are dry.

"So you don't see that any progress has been made in congress for prohibition?" asked Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, a dry.

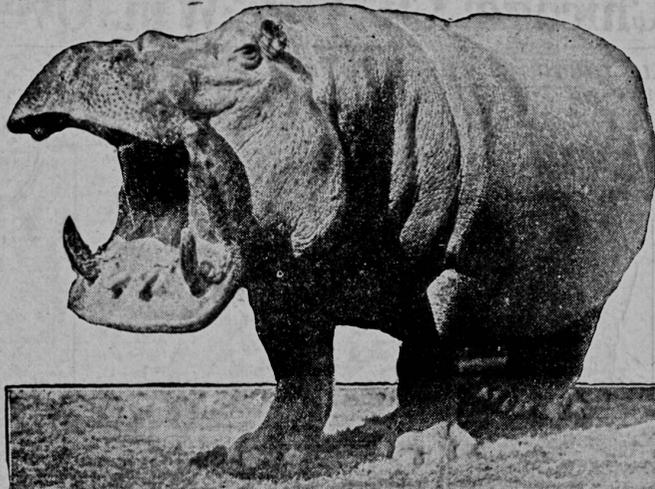

"No," Curran replied. "There has been retrogression."

At the outset of the hearing Curran charged that some of the prohibition agents did not fully represent the facts in making reports concerning killings in which they participated.

He said they made reports to "save their own skins" and that Assistant Secretary Lowman of the treasury department, in charge of prohibition faithfully reflects that subordinate's

MISS IOWA IN FAREWELL TRIP

Whoever heard of a farewell tour of a hippopotamus? Nevertheless, one—known throughout the whole world—as Miss Iowa, is beginning this year the last lap of her years of travel. It is all because she is too fat. She is quite young—only seven years old. Yet she tips the scale to some four or five tons and her transportation is a matter that the management of the Robbins Bros. circus, coming to Iowa City on April 24, have decided is entirely too much.

It is merely a matter of dollars and cents and the mighty dollar wins by declaring that Miss Iowa would be a financial success by remaining permanently in home quarters. Probably one of the factors that has caused the circus people to arrive "at a farewell tour" is that each year Miss Iowa requires a new cage with its accompanying bath room. That sort of a thing is costly when one has to be built each year on account of the added weight of the "land-water-lubber" from the African jungles.

Mercury to Meet Venus on Evenings of April 22, 27

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis., April 17 (AP)—There has been so much public interest in the discovery of a new planet at Lowell observatory, even though the object is nearly 5,000 times fainter than the faintest star visible to the naked eye, that it seems worth while to call attention to two very interesting conjunctions of the planets Mercury and Venus.

Planets are said to be in conjunction when in their east and westward movements they pass by each other, as seen from the earth. These meetings of the planets will occur the evenings of April 22 and April 27. The earth's lovely sister planet, Venus, during the last month has been creeping higher in the evening twilight—its silver white color in fine contrast with the sunset tints.

April 22, and 27, Venus will serve to point out the position of the ruddy mercury, which will be 2-1/2 degrees north of Venus, or about five widths of the moon, on each of those dates. Although of the first magnitude, under favorable conditions, Mercury is seldom seen by most persons, including even those who are familiar with the pages of the evening sky and it is said that so distinguished an astronomer as Copernicus died without ever seeing the inner planet of the solar system.

No telescope is necessary, although a field glass will help in picking up the planets earlier than can the naked eye in the twilight.

The planets will set in the northwest at about 8:30 p.m. central standard time or two hours after sunset. Venus will be visible to the naked eye shortly after 7 o'clock. Between April 22 and 27 Mercury will move eastward from Venus and will be slightly higher in the sky, but after the second conjunction, Mercury will move rapidly toward the sun and will soon be lost in the twilight.

The distance of the planets from the earth will be as follows: On April 22 and April 27, Mercury, 92 and 81 million miles; Venus, 148 and 147 million miles.

Lutheran Church to Celebrate Founding at Banquet Tuesday

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the organization of the English Lutheran church of Iowa City will be observed with a 5:30 banquet on Tuesday April 22.

The church was organized by 25 pioneers, who met on the steps of Old Capitol on April 22, 1855. Two years later the group purchased a lot and built their own church at its present location.

In order to visualize the history of the church, the members are asked to bring pictures and other information pertaining to its early history to the anniversary banquet.

Owing to the limited table space, members of the committee in charge of the dinner, request that persons planning to attend make arrangements for tickets as soon as possible.

The committee is composed of Adelaide Burge, Mrs. M. H. Taylor, Mrs. Fred Jones, Mrs. Carl Lillick, and Mrs. George Kosar.
