Science Teachers of Iowa Hold Annual Conference

Lindstrom of Ames Talks on Heredity

Seventy-Five Persons Register for First Day's Session

Nature's law of heredity was pictured last night by Prof. E. W. Lindstrom as "something that every father believes in until his son begins to act like a darn fool."

Professor Lindstrom, who is head of the department of genetics at Iowa State College, was introduced by Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts to an audience that filled the chemistry auditorium as the feature of the first day's program of the second annual conference of science teachers of Iowa.

Despite the fact that he credited the fall of past civilizations to the uncertainty of heredity, Professor Lindstrom said it was a fortunate thing for the world.

"I think of how often the world might have been ruined had some of our most rabid reformers been able to remake us," he said.

Professor Lindstrom declared that "the number of combinations of hereditary traits possible would total 282,000,000,000, and one is never allowed to be formed more than once. As a result, no two persons are alike."

Professors Better Minds

This uncertainty as to the traits the offspring will inherit from parents has prevented the creation of better minds and artists in proportion to the world's population than existed in the Greek civilization of 2,000 years ago, he added.

Professor Lindstrom expressed the belief that geneticists may soon find the answer to evolutionary doubts. He told of a Russian who "has actually produced new species in the laboratory" by crossing the cabbage and the radish and developing a new form sterile to both parents.

"By bombarding the genes and chromosomes with radium and x-rays," he added, "we have produced new hereditary characters and combinations." As examples, he told of the use of inbreeding and hybrids in the creation of the highest yields of corn and of highly inbred lines of poultry and swine which will soon be developed and used commercially.

Seventy-five Register

The registration of nearly 75 persons opened the conference at 1:45 p.m. yesterday at Old Capitol.

Prof. Charles L. Robbins of the college of education, the presiding officer at the afternoon meetings, gave the opening address with a presentation of the objectives of the conference. "To gain new material in science and to promote a better teaching of science in the high schools and colleges is the chief purpose of the conference," Professor Robbins stated.

"To give life a new meaning to students and to open up a new world to them is the aim of the advancement of chemistry in high schools," stated Ralph H. Manley, instructor of chemistry in the Burlington high schools and junior college.

"Teachers must constantly be on the alert for new methods of teaching chemistry if they are to hold the interest of their pupils." He spoke of the American chemistry society prize essay contest as a means of arousing interest in chemistry.

In his talk on "A high school course in chemistry as a study in history," Prof. Horace G. Deming of the chemistry department at the University of Nebraska, defined chemistry as the study of the gradual growth of man's command of materials and history as the study of the growth of human spirit.

Professor Deming outlined the development of chemistry from the primitive age to the present time showing that modern materials are based on the achievements of the ancients.

Symposium Today

The principal feature of today's program will be a symposium held under the joint auspices of the science conference and the Iowa chapter of Sigma XI at 7:30 p.m. in the chemistry auditorium with the theme "Taming the Mississippi." The symposium, conducted by Arthur C. Trowbridge, professor of geology; Floyd A. Nagler, professor of hydraulic engineering, and Prof. S. M. Woodward, head of the department of hydraulics, with Prof. George W. Stewart, head of the department of physics and natural president of Sigma XI, presiding.

There will also be morning and afternoon meetings with addresses on physics and biology.

Ward Lamp Confers With Y. M. C. A. Officials

Prof. M. Willard Lamp, director of the school of religion, left this morning for Chicago where he will confer with officials of the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A.

A committee of which Professor Lamp is a member will discuss plans for a faculty student conference which will be held in Detroit during Christmas vacation.

Is Iowa Licked?

Tonight at 7 p.m. on the banks of Iowa river the fate of a football game will be decided, not by divine power, not by an omnipotent judge, but by men and women of this university. To this tribunal will not be presented the question of Iowa or Purdue gridiron supremacy, but in its hands will rest the power to say whether or not tomorrow several thousand university daddies will see Iowa fight or undergo the humiliation of seeing eleven football players licked before they start.

All week Pi Epsilon Pi has sent out frantic calls for boxes, barrels, anything combustible to help build a mighty tower of flame for tonight's pep meeting when students and daddies send their grid representatives over the top.

Until today their plea has been completely ignored.

If Iowa students are whipped today their team will stand no more chance against the Purdue eleven tomorrow than a ship in a holocaust.

Men and women of Old Gold who are so wrapped up in their own selfish interests that they neglect to contribute something to tonight's bonfire are shouting to the world that this university is full of pseudo-sophisticated, spineless mollycoddles who are willing to take a licking lying down.

Five thousand persons at the Union tonight and a 50 foot high bonfire alone can refute that indictment.

Poet Speaks on Rural Life in Old Capitol

"AE," George Russell, Urges Cooperative Organization

Speaking yesterday afternoon before a crowded senate chamber in Old Capitol, George W. Russell, Irish poet-economist—better known as "AE"—challenged Americans to build a rural civilization which will contain so much of pleasantness, prosperity, and culture that rural dwellers will no longer feel it necessary to migrate to cities in order to gain the best things of life.

This ideal state, Mr. Russell believes, may have a partial realization by the organization of cooperatives imbued with a spirit of nationalism.

An explanation of the cooperative method and his belief in it, the economist traced the growth of the Irish movement, and cited the benefits which have been derived from it.

He pictures first the condition of Ireland before the initiation of a cooperative organization by Sir Horace Plunkett in 1894. There existed then, he said, some 600,000 small landowners living for the most part in poverty, disunited, and each interested only in the furtherance of his own petty aims. The result was governmental corruption and a diminution of national spirit.

It was upon this scene that Sir Horace introduced his economic scheme, First, Mr. Russell said, was organized in England last July and went on an extended honeymoon to South America. Just before they sailed to return to the United States, four ministers of the Methodist church he overheard supposed Indians plotting the death of the Tribune reporter last June in a roadhouse at Wheeling, while McAdrian was a deserter from the army post.

Bishop W. N. Alsworth, with whom the charges were filed, is expected to appoint a committee of 12 ministers to determine whether a church trial is necessary.

Bishop Criticizes Journal

In his suit today, the bishop also found fault with an Evening Journal account on Sept. 27 last. It inferred, he said, that C. B. Stimp, an attorney and a secretary to Canon, "condoned when the latter was present, his wife, Mrs. Helen Hawley McCallum and his secretary, at the time of the late Mrs. Cannon's death and, while there, telephoned his sons to obtain information as to his wife's condition. The first Mrs. Cannon died two years ago.

Mistresses File Charges

The bishop and Mrs. McCallum were married in England last July and went on an extended honeymoon to South America. Just before they sailed to return to the United States, four ministers of the Methodist church he overheard supposed Indians plotting the death of the Tribune reporter last June in a roadhouse at Wheeling, while McAdrian was a deserter from the army post.

Bishop W. N. Alsworth, with whom the charges were filed, is expected to appoint a committee of 12 ministers to determine whether a church trial is necessary.

Cannon had also said he understood Hearst had criticized one of his editors for not connecting the bishop with a difficulty involving one of Cannon's sons in California. Hearst, Cannon further charges, had said one of the duties of the Hearst newspaper was to destroy the influence of the group of which the bishop is a member.

According to Russell these associations of farmers working for common profit and knowledge have not only brought about a greater degree of prosperity and a more cultural information, but they have done away, in a large measure, with certain political methods so that the Irish Free State is today the most honest in Europe.

He emphasized that the greatest benefit is to be derived from local organization where individuality is not lost sight of. The local organizations should be, he said, a part of a state or regional cooperative so that through regular meetings of delegates from the various localities a broader view may be transmitted to the villages.

He warned that city life is devitalizing and gave that as his argument for the betterment and expansion of rural civilization.

Denver police headquarters held the opinion O'Loughlin's recent investigations and arrests may have caused his enemies to seek revenge by kidnapping the child.

Impressed by Architecture

Mr. Russell is greatly impressed by the American architecture. He views it as a sign of progressive culture. Architecture, plastic arts, surgery, he says, are examples of the culture which has its roots in a vital energetic control over outside forms. This outer control is one of the initial stages in the development of a culture, he explained, and literary culture begins on such a foundation with a turning in from material outside impulses to spiritual finer thoughts. He feels that America has already begun this inner speculation and is building for poe-

Hearst Faces Libel Charge of $5,000,000

Bishop Cannon Claims Publisher Intended Malignant

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Attempts to discredit Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, south and malign the character of the present Mrs. Cannon were charged today in a $5,000,000 libel suit the bishop filed against William Randolph Hearst in the District of Columbia supreme court.

The churchman charged that last July 24 and 27 the New York Evening Journal and other Hearst newspapers printed accounts saying the bishop had been at the home of his present wife, then Mrs. Helen Hawley McCallum and his secretary, at the time of the late Mrs. Cannon's death and, while there, telephoned his sons to obtain information as to his wife's condition. The first Mrs. Cannon died two years ago.

Court Thinks $50,000 Bond Too Excessive

Court Reduces Figure, Sammons Awaits His Release

CHICAGO, Oct. 16 (AP)—A third member of the "public enemies club" was removed from the streets of Chicago today, but a supreme court decision that $50,000 bond is asking too much of an alleged vagrant made easier the lot of James "Fur" Sammons.

The high court at Springfield ruled that Judge John H. Lyle of the Chicago municipal court disregarded and openly violated constitution and law in fixing prohibitive bond and reduced the figure to $5,000. His attorney was expected to furnish the money and obtain Sammons' freedom shortly.

Less happy was the fate of George "Red" Barker, alleged labor racketeer and gunman. Chief Justice John P. McGroarty of the criminal court found he was at large by virtue of a habeas corpus writ the circuit court of Peoria county had no right to issue. Barker was handed to the custody of parole officers and removed forthwith to the Pontiac reformatory to round out four years of a term for robbery and parole violation.

Barker's withdrawal from the municipality signaled the erasure of a third name from the list of men not wanted here. Jack Zuta was written off the records by enemy gunmen. Willie Niemeth went back to Baltimore, and was tried and sentenced to prison for a $47,000 payroll robbery.

Sammons, incidentally, is still under the shadow of extradition proceedings for the same crime that cost Niemeth his liberty. The supreme court in lowering his bail on the vagrancy charge pointed out that he had of piling up exoneration bonds on the older count the authorities should arrest him on charges of driving while intoxicated carrying concealed weapons, vagrancy and assault to kill, with bonds on each count. The court said the public could scarcely be expected to obey the law when the courts openly bail.

"Excessive bail is not to be required for the purpose of preventing the prisoner from being admitted to bail," the ruling said.

The Lingle murder mystery broke into print again today with report of a new investigation. Corporal Thomas McAdrian, a guardhouse prisoner at Fort Sheridan, told Waukegan officers he overheard supposed Indians plotting the death of the Tribune reporter last June in a roadhouse at Wheeling, while McAdrian was a deserter from the army post.

Bishop W. N. Alsworth, with whom the charges were filed, is expected to appoint a committee of 12 ministers to determine whether a church trial is necessary.

730 Invitations Sent Out to Bird Display

Will Hold Reception at Bird Museums
November 5

Invitations to attend a reception in the museum Wednesday, Nov. 5 at 8 p.m. for the purpose of viewing the new Jones collection of birds have been mailed by Homer Dill, director of the university museums. Mr. Dill sent 750 invitations to museums and scientific institutes throughout the country. Local invitations will be mailed Nov. 1.

The Jones collection, which includes 600 birds and 8,000 birds' eggs, was donated to the museum in 1925 by Mildred S. Jones of West Woodstock, Conn., and Frederick Ellsworth Jones of Newburg-on-Hudson, N. Y. The specimens were collected by their father, Clinton M. Jones, a naturalist and a Congregational minister.

George T. Baker of the Iowa state board of education was instrumental in acquiring the collection. At the same time that the collection was acquired, the museum received Mr. Jones' observations of birds, covering a period of 50 years. This record, now on display in the museum, will be published later.

According to Mr. Dill it would be difficult to set a value on the collection, but as a conservative estimate, he said it would run into several thousands of dollars.

Speakers of Four States Attend Meet

Speakers from four states have been signed to address the University of Iowa's conference for English and speech teachers of the state's high schools and junior colleges.

The conference, third of the year's series of gatherings for teachers, is scheduled for Oct. 23, 24, and 25. Teachers of mathematics and science already have convened at the university.

Included upon the program will be these outstate professors: E. H. Wilds, head of the department of education at Western State Teachers college, Kalamazoo, Mich.; E. U. Rugg, head of the same department at Colorado State Teachers college; A. T. Weaver, head of the University of Wisconsin's speech department; and W. P. Sandford, director of the public speaking division at the University of Illinois.

Coste, Bellonte Reap Reward at Texas for Good Will Hop

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, who sowed the seeds of daring on the ocean, reaped a golden harvest today.

At a luncheon in their honor they were given a check for $25,000, representing the prize offered by William E. Easterwood, Jr., of Dallas, for extending the flight from Paris to New York as far as the Texas city.

Yesterday they had privately received a check for almost twice that amount, the unexpected balance of the fund raised by the Good will flight committee, composed of various wealthy men interested in aviation. The presentation today was made by Colonel Easterwood. Coste responded in French, telling of the reception he and Bellonte had been given in many cities. From now on, he and his comrade would consider that they had two countries, France and America.

Fascists Move to Fix Interest Rates at Five Per Cent

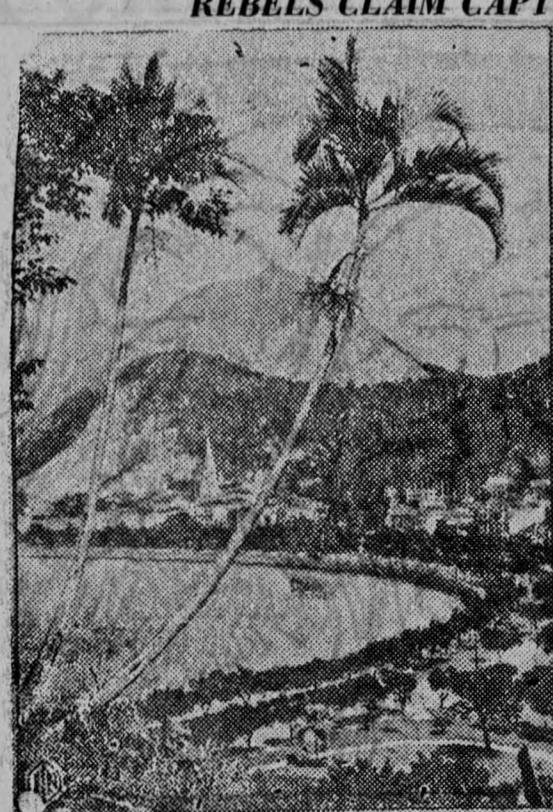

BERLIN, Oct. 16 (AP)—The national socialists (fascists) introduced a motion in the Reichstag today fixing interest rates on all investments at five per cent, all other rates in excess to be considered usury and punishable with three months in jail.

The motion demands that all monies, belonging to Germans abroad must be reported to the German authorities and made returnable to Germany on demand. Confiscation of property in Germany "for the benefit of the German people" and penitentiary sentence under the high treason act would be provided for those who refuse to obey the order.

Another motion offered by the fascists would end trading in shares on the bourse.

REBELS CLAIM CAPTURE OF BRAZIL PORT

Dispatches coming through Uruguayan sources indicated the Brazilian rebels had routed the Federal forces from their last stronghold in southern Brazil by capturing the important seaport of Flori-

Child Welfare Station Fits Model Furniture to Children

Miniature tables, chairs, and beds built to fit the stature of boys and girls from one to five years of age furnish the home laboratory of the Child Welfare station, 10 E. Market street.

The house, formerly a large private residence, was remodeled into what is now being used as one of the several preschools in the city. It is furnished throughout with a view to making it as home-like and pleasing to childish eyes as possible.

The front door opens on a large hall on the left of which is the school office. On the right, is the main room, containing tiny tables and chairs which serves as the dining room and play-room. To the rear of this room is a small one where the children's wraps and changes of clothing are kept.

Each child has his own special wire basket and if he is too young to read, he distinguishes his own by a small picture on a cardboard disk which serves as a symbol. For example,

Taylor Asks Church Convention to Back Drys, Race Equality

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Urging the churches to "eternal vigilance" on the prohibition question, Dr. Alva W. Taylor of Vanderbilt university today told the international convention of disciples of Christ that "if we take at the gate, the enemy will take it."

Taylor, one of the two secretaries of the Disciples' board of temperance and social welfare, also asserted that educated Negroes "will not tolerate our Uncle Tom attitude" and that unless the race question is dealt with "there is serious trouble ahead."

Discussing unemployment and world peace, he said "If Christian conscience cannot operate on these questions, it must miss the crucial issues of this civilization."

The purpose of the organization is to find and eliminate radio disturbances by the combined efforts of the radio council. Mr. Anderson expects to return and meet again with the council which is a national organization with thousands of members operating successfully in as many towns.

Faculty Annuities

A HIGHLY educated man, first young and vigorous and later gray haired and methodical, stands before his classes year after year at the University of Iowa endeavoring to fashion the highest types of men and women from a varied assortment of students that come to Iowa City.

His salary is small. That is of little interest to him as long as he has enough to live decently and follow the pursuit which absorbs his interest. But one day it is observed that he is growing inefficient, lacks vigor, forgets important aspects of the subject, fails to hold the interest of his class—that he has passed his day of usefulness.

A year or so later, he is asked to retire, and the money question which he has subordinated all his life suddenly becomes vital. Under the present system, he has nowhere to turn, and may be forced either to lower his standard of living or depend upon charity.

President Jessup, seeing this situation, will ask the forty-fourth Iowa assembly for $75,000 with which to start an annuity fund. A system whereby each member of the faculty contributes 5 per cent of his salary, the state adds an equal sum, and pensions are provided for retired professors from the total will follow if the legislature grants this request.

Of course there are two sides to the question. It may be argued that professors' salaries compare favorably with those in other occupations who are obliged to care for their own old ages. This argument does not take into account the genuine public service rendered by these educators, that their positions require a rather high standard of living, and that they are notoriously underpaid.

Penury is hardly an adequate reward for a man who has devoted himself to the service of the university and humanity at large. An institution which holds its head as high as Iowa does should provide something better. President Jessup's plan seems to be the solution.

Liquor on Dad's Day

THE liquor smudge, which propaganda has attached to the state university's name has been blotted again this week by two raids. One of these brought to light a "saloon," almost pre-prohibition in its aspects and operating near the city, while the other relieved the alleged kingpin of Iowa City's liquor traffic of a quantity of fluid.

On the same day, a man was fined $100 and costs when he pleaded guilty to illegal transportation of liquor, and a series of similar cases since school opened have helped to produce an unsavory atmosphere.

What's to be done about this? It's the old story. One bootlegger caught brings down more condemnation upon the city and the university than 100 operating quietly. And yet the city must be cleaned up from time to time.

Dads will be swarming into the city this week end, partially to see the Iowa-Purdue football game, but primarily to see their student sons and daughters and inspect the environment to which they are subjecting their offspring. These fathers, who have shown their confidence in this university as a place of culture and education, cannot be disappointed. Evidence of drinking would be a powerful factor in destroying this confidence in many cases.

So the most recent cleanup and the hint that it will be renewed must be taken as a timely corrective measure for a bad situation and the "dirt" attendant with it as a part of the evil rather than the corrective measure.

Hard Up

RECENTLY the Literary Digest printed an article on its first pages entitled "Causes of the world's hard times." It quoted quite freely from the country's thinkers as to the probable causes of the world's present distress, but it neglected to comment upon one very apparent cause called "too much spending."

The five dollar a day man last summer, attended all the movies, supported an automobile, spent the week ends in the city, and took several weeks' vacation in the east. Now as the chilly winds of fall indicate that winter is coming, this same man "hard up," with no coal in the basement, no winter coat for little Mary, not even an insurance policy to prove that he did think about his family. This is not a new situation for him, he usually faces the winter with the same prospects. But he knows that his community will help them through to spring, then all will be merry again.

The nation seems to be laboring under the false impression that happiness is to be found only in spending money. Real satisfaction and pleasure is derived by saving money. Then when the icy winds arrive, there will be money to buy the coal and the warm clothes. In order to make a thrifty nation, more persons should take care of themselves, instead of depending on charity. "The world owes me a living," is the favorite saying of so many of the world's dependents. One reason why the nation is hard up today, YOUTH'S CYNICISM—is because too many people have been thinking in terms of those very words!

Save your dollars, help bring the country back to a sound basis!

Youth's Cynicism

IS MODERN youth a cynic? He is, if one is to believe Bertrand Russell. In the east this cynicism is not so pronounced, because there the youth has reached the stage of his education where he can put everything that he learns to a definite purpose. The western youth has gone beyond that. He has lost his ardor. He believes that there is "nothing left remarkable under the visiting moon." If his education has been of a literary nature, he has skill that he cannot exercise in any way that seems important to himself. So he becomes a cynic.

But that is what Bertrand Russell says. In only one way has modern youth as a whole adopted cynicism, and that is in its original form. It was introduced 440 B. C. by Antisthenes, a pupil of Socrates. Those cynics taught that virtue was the only good, and its essence lay in self-control and independence. The modern meaning of the word is a morose individual who holds all other views than his own in supreme contempt—a snarler.

The cynicism of modern youth lies not in contempt, but in independence. Puzzled he may be, but usually tolerant. If he cannot agree with the views of others, he sets for himself a code of his own beliefs, but he is willing to tolerate other ideas, and "may the best man win."

Students and Automobiles

SEVERAL large universities forbid students to have automobiles in their possession. The principal reason for the ruling admittedly is that the automobile is considered a rival of books for the student's time.

According to this theory, the student with a car is continually tempted to get behind the wheel and "go places," and more often than not yields to the temptation to the detriment of his learning.

But properly used, the automobile is a time saver for the student, as for anyone. With classes far from his places of residence, usually the case at a university, this handy means of transportation will save the average collegian from 15 to 45 minutes each day, depending on the distances he must traverse and the number of trips back and forth he may make.

The conscientious disciple will apply the additional time to his school work.

Those who let the automobile interfere with obtaining the most from college if deprived of their ears would find some other excuse for avoiding their books.

Result is Worth the Effort

TO THE casual observer, it is apparent that the whole idea of college seems to have been peculiarly abbreviated to the making of grades. It makes one wonder at times why students attend college. It points out the failure of the grading method, and shows a weakness in the educational system.

If a student could be made to realize that it is what he gets out of a course that is most important, and that grades are but an indication of the type of work which he is doing, how much more he could accomplish. How much more sincere would be his effort to gain the best out of every scholastic opportunity offered him. Cheating is a futile effort if one considers the matter more seriously. No one is harmed but the student who stoops to copy or to get his work by another's effort. The satisfaction acquired from a grade earned in that manner can be but temporary, while the worth and sense of security which one gains as the result of assimilating one's own work are things which will be most obvious long after college days are over.

After graduation, grades mean nothing; experience and knowledge mean everything. If the student would try to get the most that he can from a subject, and if he would obliterate the idea of grades from his mind, how much more satisfaction would be possible in the long run.

Support Your Theater

SINCE the university theater is composed of members of the faculty and student body, and works for the pleasure of the university and the community, it should be supported by them.

Iowa City is fortunate in having entertainment which is so highly rated in the United States. It does not present cheap shows, common to numerous other cities, but wholesome plays developed for educational decent amusement.

Appreciate the art offered in your city and buy that season ticket for university plays now.

County Politicians Open Fall Campaign

Party Heads on Mark for Hectic Scrap

Registrations for New Voters Oct. 23, 24
and Nov. 1

By STAN WOODRING

Johnson county's political potpourri sizzled nearer its climax yesterday when the democrats kicked off the lid and became the first party to begin into active fall work. Democracy named the Jefferson hotel as its political headquarters and the G.O.P. is expected to set a chief dispatchers' headquarters by next week.

Registration for persons who failed to turnout at the last general election, newcomers, or those changing precincts, will be Oct. 23, 24, and Nov. 1 with the grand parade to the polls slated for Nov. 4.

Dr. W. L. Bywater, city alderman, who will direct democratic destinies over the country as central committee chairman, and Ken Dunlop who will lead the republican clan in a similar capacity, have already climbed on their highhorses with party cohorts and backslapping, hand shaking and "remember back before hard times....." stuff due to fill the air for the next three weeks.

Two Demos Unopposed

Johnson county democrats have a blanket ticket for all seven county offices but the republicans have left clean slate to their opponents in two major positions, those of auditor, where Ed Sules has no republican opposite his name, and for clerk where W. J. Barrow has a whitewash square.

Hopping up a notch to state politics Sam D. Whiting of Iowa City finds many a republican to harass him as he seeks reelection to the general assembly, while tables are reversed for judge of the eighth district court where Harold D. Evans, republican, has clear shooting to reelection.

Grads Race for Attorney

For the balance of county offices County Attorney F. B. Olsen will find opposition from Kenneth M. Dunlop. Both are Iowa university graduates and Olsen has been practicing law 19 years and Dunlop five years.

Charles Berry will find Roscoe Gardner, republican, blocking a repeated victory for him in the treasurer's race. Berry has seven years experience in the office while Gardner bases his efforts on 10 years as Graham township clerk and lifelong residence in the county.

Seeking to continue an unbroken chain of democratic county officers John M. Kadlec is on the ticket for reelection with 10 years as recorder and eight years as deputy recorder chalked up in his political book. Gordon Dinsmore carries G.O.P. hopes. The latter was born and reared in the county and now resides at Coralville.

Sheriff's Race

Don McComas, on the democratic line for sheriff after one of the hardest fought primary races in history of county politics when he eked out victory from Sheriff Frank L. Smith last June, is opposite Will Rowland, republican and W. Lucas township politician, guardian of the peace and behavior of their area.

R. P. Jones, John W. Cary, and D. J. Peters, all good roads boosters and present board members, are the democratic bets for county supervisors. The trio of republican appointees is S. K. Clemmons, farmer, Aaron Cox, former board member, and W. R. Hughes, farmer and lifelong county resident. Chas. Lacina, democrat, and Frank Patera, republican, will scrap it out to fill a vacancy on the supervisor's group.

Hunters "Borrow" Boat, Blow It Up

R. C. Sassina, Johnson county hunter, is bewailing what strikes him as a total lack of sportsmanship on the part of a pair of local nimrods.

Two men, duck hunting at Swan lake "borrowed" Mr. Sassina's boat by shooting its chain in two; then after using the craft all day, blew a hole in the bottom and left it.

Mr. Fuhrmeister, the farmer who had charge of the boat, heard the last shot and ran down to protect the property. Threats of the two men to "beat him up" silenced him, however, and they escaped.

Eastman Presides for Auto Dealers

Eastern Iowa division of Chevrolet dealers held a service meeting and luncheon at the Hotel Jefferson yesterday noon.

Speakers were: Parker Eastman of Davenport, who presided at the meeting; R. McKay, and Ray Harrison, also of Davenport, and S. A. Dougherty, Chevrolet representative for this territory.

Towns in this division represented at the meeting were: Cedar Rapids, Mount Vernon, Mechanicsville, Lowden, Clarence, Tipton, Bennett, West Liberty, West Branch, Muscatine, Columbus Junction, Washington, Riverside, Durant and Iowa City. There were about 30 men present.

Records Show Sale of Licenses Increase

An increase of 734 fishing and hunting licenses sold before Oct. 15, 1930, over a similar period last year is shown by records in the office of the county recorder. Last year 2,145 licenses were issued before Oct. 15, whereas a total of 2,879 have been issued this year.

Pheasant season opens Nov. 1 in 33 counties, and has an additional date Nov. 5, 6, 14, 15. Johnson county is not included in those with open dates. Bags will be three birds a day regardless of sex.

M. Maher Held in Drunken Driving, Released on Bond

Matt Maher, 513 S. Dodge, was arrested yesterday morning on charges of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He collided with a car driven by Mrs. P. C. Packer, 249 Macawana avenue, near the west end of Iowa avenue bridge. Mrs. Packer escaped without injury, and Maher received minor cuts about the face.

Maher was released from the city jail on bonds of $1,500, signed by Charles Shay, 804 E. Davenport.

Reading of charge and preliminary hearing were waived to the grand jury, in a hearing in Justice of Peace R. F. Carter's court yesterday afternoon.

Flower Sales Will Decide Cup Winner

In preparation for Forget-me-not day tomorrow a display of the trophies, to be awarded the sorority and the sorority girl selling the most flowers, is arranged in the George Hauser flower shop window at 205 E. Washington street.

The prize to be awarded to a sorority is a silver loving cup engraved. Silver candle holders are the award for the individual selling the most.

Chautauqua Break-up Leaves $200 Funds

Definite decision made by the chautauqua board members to discontinue chautauqua programs has led to a question of the proper disposal of $200 remaining funds.

Suggestions were made to give it for charity work. The committee for disposal of funds including E. G. Hoops, chairman, B. V. Brindinstone and Dr. T. L. Hazard. Further discussion brought about a vote for erecting something of permanency. The committee will consult the city park board asking for aid in combined effort to beautify College park formerly used as chautauqua grounds.

Hors D'Oeuvres

In many European countries smoked salmon, tuna fish, salami, sliced sausage, etc., are favored as an appetizer.

The epicurean Parisian considers such dishes altogether too substantial and prefers in their place anchovies, stuffed olives, pimento and other vegetables with olive oil.

Below we offer you other suggestions and you may be sure that whatever your tastes—we have them all. Pimento cups stuffed with cheese, Caviar canapes decorated with pearl onions, halves of hard cooked eggs stuffed with sifted egg yolk mixed with mayonnaise and pimento, mashed grilled sardines on toast, tomato and anchovy canapes, Spanish (green) stuffed olives, California (ripe) olives, and artichoke hearts marinated and lemon garnish.

Other suggestions are: potato salad with pearl onions, small red beets (marinated), iced Spanish (green) stuffed olives, hearts of artichokes (drained and marinated), and vegetable salad drained, marinated, and served on lettuce leaf.

Antipasto, anchovy filets, tuna fish, green asparagus tips (marinated), Japanese crab meat salad, pickled onions, yellow tomatoes stuffed with caviar and pearl onions, strips of pimento soaked in olive oil.

Garnishes are water cress, parsley, tiny pearl onions, sliced hard boiled egg, strips of pimento and cucumber rings with pimento.

Sensational Golf Features Quarterfinal Matches in Women's Golf Match

Stars Reach Semi-Finals in Golf Meet

Glen Collett Matches Strokes With Helen Hicks Today

LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB, Los Angeles, Oct. 16 (AP)—Booming drives and flashing short games combined today to furnish a huge gallery with some of the most brilliant golf of the week as four feminine stars stroked their way to the semi-finals of the thirty-fourth annual women's national championship.

No upset marred the play, the four favorites, Miss Glen Collett, New York; Miss Helen Hicks, Inwood, N. Y.; Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, and Miss Virginia Van Wje, Chicago, all going into the semi-finals. Three matches produced sub par golf while the fourth ranged on the borderline of standard figures.

Champion Advances

Four times winner of the title and striving for a third successive reign, Miss Collett defeated Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y., 3 and 1. The defending champion won the first two holes and was never headed although her more youthful rival managed to square accounts once, at the eighth.

Miss Collett won the ninth with a par 3 to make the turn one up. Each toured the first half in 33 par figures.

Miss Collett was four under women's par when she finished, while Miss Wattles was two under.

Feature Struggle Today

Lured by what promised to be the greatest battle of the day, more than a thousand spectators trailed Miss Hicks, 19 year old star, and Mrs. Leona Pressler of San Gabriel, Cal., Miss Hicks won, 2 and 1. The crowd was not disappointed. For ten holes the pair battled even. They finished the first nine all square, Miss Hicks stroking a 38, one under par, to 39 for Mrs. Pressler, 1929 national runner up.

As a result of the victories Miss Collett will oppose the flashing Hicks girl tomorrow in what figures to be the most sensational round of the tournament.

Miss Van Wie Wins

In today's upper bracket matches, Mrs. Hill and Miss Van Wie pulled through without difficulties. Mrs. Hill, medalist, eliminated the rising young star, Miss Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N. H., 3 and 2, while Miss Wje routed Mrs. Ivy Green of Culver City, Calif., by the one sided score of 7 and 5.

Mrs. Hill shot a 38 for the first nine and was give up at the turn. Her opponent slumped badly, using 43 strokes.

Miss Van Wie had a 38 for the first nine and at the 13th was five under par. Mrs. Green made the turn in 44.

Miss Van Wie will match strokes tomorrow with Mrs. Hill, the tournament medalist.

Kansas Ags, Iowa State in Home Games

Other Big Six Squads Invade Foreign Gridirons

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16 (AP)—Missouri led the exodus of Big Six teams to foreign battle fields this weekend and by Saturday morning all but two will have departed. Iowa State and the Kansas Aggies are the two to remain at home.

The Tigers tonight had crossed into Canada and were skirting Lake Erie on the way to Buffalo. They were to arrive in New York city for a workout tomorrow—the last before they meet New York university Saturday for the third consecutive year.

Five thousand Oklahomans tonight made plans to trail the Oklahoma varsity into Dallas for the big southwest game Saturday with Texas.

Ag's Work on Defense

For the first time in a week, the Kansas Aggies worked on ways and means to stop the Kansas attack. Against Kansas pass plays the squad did not function so well, but coaches hope to have the defense polished after another drill tomorrow.

Kansas, according to observers, "looked great" as the Jayhawkers went through a formation drill in near freezing weather. The team showed unexpected ability in a forward passing attack.

Iowa State ended its drill under the flood lights, a drill in which forward passing and kicking was emphasized. Paul Trauger, brilliant veteran quarterback, seemed certain to play against Nebraska even though a slight attack of gout has kept him from practice regularly. Bob Smith, the tackle injured in the Illinois game and announced out for the season, also is slated to play, his shoulder having healed rapidly.

Nebraska at Ames

Nebraska left home tonight but went only as far as Omaha. Tomorrow the trek will continue on to Ames for a workout. Then tomorrow night the squad will come back a short distance to Des Moines to see the Drake-Grinnell night contest. Brown or Manley will replace Mathis at quarterback.

Grappling Candidates Please Coach Mike

Coach Mike Howard last night expressed himself as "well pleased" with the interest displayed by grappling candidates thus far. Practically all the men are reporting twice a week. Coach Howard is holding all the men to this amount of work because of the late season.

Four varsity prospects went through snappy workouts in yesterday's session. They were: C. H. Coughlan, H. F. Timm, L. M. Oliver, and L. W. Mueller.

Iowa Writers Recall Flashy Grid Victories

Recent Gopher Defeats Linger in Minds of Six Scribes

The 1923 and 1929 victories over Minnesota and the win in 1925 over Illinois share honors as the best University of Iowa football games ever seen by a dozen sports writers from state daily newspapers.

Each of the three triumphs was chosen by three writers, the defeat of Notre Dame in 1921 was selected by two men, and the strange Michigan game of 1923 by one.

To Appear in Programs

Brief articles describing each game, written by the sports scribes, will appear in the official program of the Purdue-Iowa football game here Saturday.

Iowa's sensational last-minute victory over Minnesota last fall, 9 to 7, was selected by W. E. Van Zyle, Muscatine Journal; Bert McGrane, Davenport Tribune; and John O'Donnell, Davenport Democrat.

In descriptions of this game the inspired play of the Iowans and the winning touchdown by Fran Pape were featured as being outstanding.

In the 1923 clash, the 90 yard dash of Howie of Minnesota and the 65 yard sprint of Pape and the subsequent goal after touchdown by Irvin Nelson to win the 7 to 6 game for Iowa, prompted the choice of Leo Kautz, Davenport Democrat; Bill Baylus, Burlington Gazette; and Gilbert Schantz, Iowa City Daily Iowan.

Recall 1925 Victory

The game of 1925 with Illinois when "Red" Grange and his Illinois team held a 10 to 6 lead late in the final period, and Nick Kutsch of Iowa raced 48 yards to the 2-yard line and crashed over the winning touchdown on the next play, was rated best by Lloyd Hagan, Sioux City Tribune; Brad Wilson, Creston News Advertiser, and Jack Patton, Iowa City Press-Citizen.

Looking far back in football annals, Iowa's feat of vanquishing Notre Dame 10 to 7 in 1921 was acclaimed by Frank J. Hutton, Waterloo Tribune, and Earl Coughlin, Cedar Rapids Gazette, as the finest exhibition of Hawkeye football. Michigan's 9 to 3 victory over Iowa in 1923, was picked by Edwin R. Moore, Jr., Waterloo Courier.

Bulldogs Put Faith in King for Pioneers

DES MOINES, Oct. 16 (AP)—All was quiet along the Des Moines sector of the Missouri Valley front tonight as the Drake Bulldogs and the Grinnell Pioneers neared the "zero hour" before their homecoming battle here tomorrow night.

Only a very light signal drill was given the Drake players who hope to crush the Grinnell aspirations for the conference title by the deceptive dashes of Lynn King and the defensive power of their heavy line.

Resting their hopes for the first Grinnell victory since 1926 on the effectiveness of their aerial game, the Pioneers concluded their drills with a short passing rehearsal and an abbreviated signal drill. All of the men are in excellent physical condition.

In the other valley game scheduled for tomorrow night the strong Oklahoma Aggies will meet the Oklahoma City university team, at Oklahoma City, in a contest which is likely to test the powers of the Aggies who are none too well off physically.

Long Signal Drills for the Creighton team marked the finish of preparation for the Marquette contest at Omaha Saturday night. Coach Art Stark said his team was ready and that every man was in good condition, fit to give Marquette its first defeat.

Washington university coaches worked hard today to correct the bad timing which has bothered the team's offense. The Bears play Westminster at St. Louis Saturday.

Hammill Grants Extradition

DES MOINES, Oct. 16 (AP)—Gov. John Hammill granted the extradition of Pat Flaherty of Sioux City to Norfolk, Neb., to face charges of assault with attempts to do bodily harm.

St. Pats Face St. Wenceslaus Without Backs

Loria Constructs New Backfield Around Pooler

Gloom prevailed in the St. Pat's football camp as final preparations for Saturday's game were being made Thursday night. With scholastic difficulties and injuries, Coach Louis Loria is having his hands full getting a team ready for the invasion with St. Wenceslaus of Cedar Rapids.

In the game with Wilton Junction, Sprat, the speedy quarter-back received a wrenched knee and it is likely that he will see little action in the battle.

It seemed that misfortune shadowed the Irish forces Wednesday night long enough to see that Wilkinson, Sprat's running mate, injured his arm.

Billicks will be unable to participate in Saturday's game, due to his scholastic standing. He will be greatly missed in the backfield.

Dovsksky, powerful fullback, was recently expelled from school. This all means that Coach Louis Loria is without the smashing backfield that pushed the pugilists over the Wilton Junction territory there last Friday.

The probable lineup for the St. Wenceslaus game will be: McNamara and Pinney, ends; McMann and Kelly, tackles; Donohue and Connell, guards; Emanuel, center.

The backfield has a lone veteran, Pooler, 100 pound. Meegan and Wetrick will play half and full alternately. Glenn, who formerly played an end, has been shifted to quarterback.

The game will be called at 10:30 Saturday morning at Shradet.

Purdue Loses End

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 16 (AP)—Another cripple was added to Purdue's list just before the Boilermakers left for Iowa City to meet Iowa Saturday. Bateman, clever sophomore end, who was expected to team with Moss against the Hawkeyes, suffered a badly sprained ankle in the final drill of the week and will not be able to play for several weeks. Of Purdue's other casualties, Van Bibber, White, Weaver and Moss, only the latter is likely to start Saturday.

Tom Kelly to Run His Last Races for Iowa This Year

Tom Kelly, captain of last year's cross country team, has earned the reputation of being one of the most consistent cinder path artists ever to wear an Iowa sweater. Kelly is a senior this year and will be running his last races over hill and dale in an effort to fly Iowa's colors above those of such teams as Notre Dame, Chicago and Minnesota.

Hailing from Parnell, it was in this small town that Tommy first donned the running shoes. The year he entered high school was abolished and he was forced to practice and enter competition alone. For three consecutive years Kelly took first in the county meet running the mile event. During his last two years of high school he topped two firsts in the half mile at the county meet. To climax his senior year he finished second in the annual mid-western interscholastic meet.

As a junior he jogged out another major letter in cross country. Hickman and Kelly ran to a tie against Missouri. Tommy skinned the course for a second against Minnesota. In track Kelly took seconds in the two mile event against Marquette, and Carleton. Later he took a third in the state meet.

In an effort to climax his career successfully this year, Kelly will be running hard to uphold the Old Gold colors.

Tonight, he starts his first race at Minnesota against the strong Gopher hill anddale squad. Tom will serve as captain in the meet and although he has been ill for several days, Coach George Bresnahan says that Kelly will put up the same performance as he always does.

Barbara Balluff, A1 of Davenport, carried off high honors at the women's novice swimming meet yesterday at the women's gymnasium with a total score of 15 points, three first places. Frances Fourt, A1 of Fairfield, was second with 11 points, taking first place in the 20 yard free style.

Judges for the meet were Blythe Schee, Jane Shurmer, and Alice Shurmer, members in the women's physical education department.

Twenty Grand Noses Out Equipoise in Feature Race at Churchill Downs

Whitney Colt Clips Record in Mile Race

Twenty Grand Defeats Equipoise to Cop Rich Prize

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Louisville, Ky., Oct. 16 (AP)—Twenty Grand, Mrs. Whitney's fleet colt, won his richest stake here today, defeating by a neck Equipoise, H. P. Whitney's leading two-year-old, in the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes, worth approximately $25,000, to the winter. The mile race was run in 1:36, one-fifth of a second under the track record.

Twenty Grand, second choice in the betting, paid 37.5¢ for a $2 win ticket. The place price was $2.82 and show, $3.22. Equipoise, the odds on favorite, paid $2.24 to place and $2.26 to show.

Equipoise Takes Lead

The seven juveniles were away to a good start. Equipoise quickly assumed a commanding position and soon taking the lead. Twenty Grand dropped back and was last during most of the running on the back stretch. At the back turn he moved up to fourth place and began disposing of the leaders.

At the turn into the stretch, Equipoise was leading, but with a burst of speed Twenty Grand moved up, passed him and drew away. Then followed a fine stretch duel with Twenty Grand lasting to within a neck. Knight's Call held on well to outlast the others for third, but was a full 10 lengths behind the leaders. Back Log ran fourth. The also rans were Deemster, Don Leon and Jay Walker.

Winner Derby Favorite

The Jockey Club stakes, closing feature of the fall meeting, at Churchill Downs, usually determines the winter book favorites for the next year's Kentucky Derby. By his fine race today, Twenty Grand entered the forefront of derby prospects.

Twenty Grand now has won four of his six starts, but the total of his winnings prior to today was little more than $10,000.

Noted Writers to Cover Only Big 10 Game

An army of sports writers from half of Iowa's daily newspapers and more than a dozen out-of-state publications will cover the Purdue-Iowa football game Saturday in the University of Iowa stadium according to the list of press box reservations. A sports editor and an assistant will represent most of the 23 Iowa papers. However, the number of writers to see the Hawkeyes only Western conference game will exceed the 100 mark.

The lake city will be well represented when the prominent scribes. Edward Burns of the Chicago Tribune and Edgar Munzel of the Herald and Examiner arrive at the press box. Among other out-of-state papers, the Lafayette, Ind., Journal and Courier, Moline Dispatch, Rock Island Argus, La Salle Post-Tribune, and DeKalb Independent, all of Illinois.

Many Iowa dailies will also be well represented. The Dubuque Telegraph-Herald, Davenport Democrat, Davenport Times, Muscatine Journal, Webster City Freeman-Journal, Boone News-Republican, Perry Chief, Waterloo Courier, Waterloo Tribune, Fort Madison Democrat, Cedar Rapids Gazette, Des Moines Register and Clinton Herald, will be right on hand when the opening whistle blows.

Varsity Harriers to Race at Minnesota, Cornell Team Here

Varsity harriers were put through a stiff workout yesterday in final preparation for the Minnesota meet at Minneapolis, tomorrow.

The team will leave this morning at 7:30 by auto for the Twin Cities. Eight men will make the trip accompanied by Coach George T. Bresnahan and assistant coach Charles Brooks. Dick Parrish, one of the men to have made the trip was at the last minute declared ineligible by the scholarship committee.

Although Minnesota has an inexperienced team this year, they were able to defeat the North Dakota Aggies last Saturday over a three and one half mile course by a score of 26 to 30.

The varsity B team will meet Cornell on the home course, Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

The Cornell team includes Captain Davis, Sweeney, Ladd, Sivitzer, Bearman, and Wetzler.

The varsity B team is composed of Tenant, Parish, Clark, Fairchild, Thurston, Davis and Klewin.

Both the Old Gold teams have shown strength in practice and Coach Bresnahan is expecting much of them this week end.

Irish Point for Tech

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 16 (AP)—Coach Knute Rockne continued to drive his Notre Dame varsity at top speed today, and was a little encouraged at the showing against Carnegie Tech formations. The first and second elevens were given a long shadow scrimmage against Sidlow boys, after which Rockne ordered an hour of drill on their own stuff. The field was almost in darkness when the varsity teams were released, but the third and fourth squads were held for a lively scrimmage against the freshmen.

Miller May Not Make Trip; Wells Gives New Plays

Many novel formations and trick plays will probably be contributed to football science tomorrow afternoon. Coach Ingwersen doubtless has a few tricks up his sleeve he will spring on Purdue. The Boilmakers will have some fancy stuff of their own.

Thus far the Hawkeyes have played only common football, with few exceptions, presumably to withhold everything for their drives on Purdue, Penn State, Nebraska, and road trip opponents.

In the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech Illinois - Northwestern, Wisconsin-Pennsylvania, Ohio State-Michigan, and other important games break and intricate plays will be uncovered.

Takes Wisconsin for example. The Badgers used only five simple formations, four of them ordinary running plays, in defeating Chicago. All their trick plays, however, have been shown away for more prominent rivals. Besides Coach Thistletonwaite figured he could whip the Maroons without resorting to strategy.

Likewise Iowa has adhered to fundamental football in its games thus far, conserving its deceptive formations and sleight of hand plays for its outstanding opponents. The Hawkeyes had nothing to gain in spilling Oklahoma or Centenary. On the other hand the Aggies and the Gentlemen, with everything to gain, threw caution to the winds, showered passes on their ends, and attempted to score by any means.

Hawkeye Drills Wildcats

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 16 (AP)—Rain, cold, bone-chilling, Coach Dick Hanley kept his vacillated Northwestern squad on the fence for two hours today, with most of the session being devoted to a dummy scrimmage against Illinois.

No sure arms have appeared among the regulars, and Hanley plans to start the same lineup against the Illini that opposed Ohio last week. The Wildcats will not leave for Champaign until Saturday morning.

Wearers of the GREEN

By Gerry A. Copatelli, of Rock Falls, Ill., holder of the Rock river conference javelin record, is a candidate for a guard position on the freshman football team. Measuring six feet in height, and weighing 180 pounds, Gerry is using his size to good advantage on the freshman line.

As a high school track man, Gerry made letters in two seasons of competition. His record breaking javelin toss was made in May, 1930.

Elected captain of the grid team during his senior year, Gerry led his mates to second place in the conference. Three letters were the result of his gridiron playing.

Gerry's showing at guard on the court team brought him two more letters. His basketball team won the conference and district titles last year.

When the gridiron season closes Gerry will go out for yearling basketball, and follow with track in the spring. Iowa opponents had better keep their eyes on this star athlete.

Frosh Ready for Yearling Grid Clashes

New pep and interest has been added to freshman football practice with the dividing up of the squad into four teams. Two of the newly chosen fledgling elevens tangled in scrimmage on Iowa field, Thursday night and it would be difficult to find better matched teams.

Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock two of the groups, the "Cyclones," under Coach Irvin Nelson, and the "Bears" under Coach Gaynor, will battle in a regular game. This will be the first of a series of contests among the four teams according to Jack Skein, one of Iowa's frosh football coaches.

Later on the "Lions" and "Wildcats" will hold their fracas. The Wildcat team is now made up of the following men: O. E. Schmidt, capt. F. H. Adams, S. Brady, E. L. Croxdale, J. A. Duvall, F. L. Nelson, E. W. Paul, T. L. Sells, E. S. Tanner, C. B. Ware, Schrenfelder, J. Hirst, Siekkin, McClure, and P. Wormley.

The Bears are: N. O. Rule, capt. E. C. Garlock, P. K. Jantzen, V. T. Mikulas, L. L. Mitchell, W. W. Patterson, J. Radloff, E. R. Reese, D. W. Sellergren, B. E. Hellin, W. E. Merritt, S. Zethamel and R. Redus.

The Lions include: Swaney, Orrick, Cooper, Harmston, Copotelli, Armstrong, Kouba, Page, Greedy, Pickering, Thurt, McCarthy, Foster, Thomas, Landis, Radloff, Hill, Larson, Baker, Fisher, Millback, Davis, The Cyclones listed are: Lester Glick, capt., M. Wolves Fear Buckeye Passes

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 16 (AP)—Michigan worked overtime today in an attempt to find a better defense for Ohio State's forward passing maneuvers. A short pass executed by the freshmen bothered the varsity and Coach Kipke went almost the whole drill against the play.

Dent Alumni Will Convene Here Today

Members Will Read Papers on New Treatments

More than 200 alumni of the college of dentistry are expected to be in Iowa City to attend the dental alumni conference today, which will be in the form of a meeting instead of the clinic of previous years. This method is being used to stimulate the alumni dentists to do more writing and to present papers on dental subjects.

At 10 o'clock this morning the Triangle club will meet at Iowa Union with Dr. Walton R. Kinzer, president of the alumni association, presiding. An address of welcome will be given by President Walter A. Jessup.

A paper on "Oral surgery for the dentist," by Dr. W. A. Lamphere of Des Moines, will be read at 10:30 and will be discussed by Dr. L. L. Moravec of Cedar Rapids and by Dr. E. Lecher of Dubuque.

At 11:15 Dr. William M. Storey of Madison, Wis., will read a paper on "The diagnosis and management of tooth removal," which will be discussed by Dr. C. I. Anderson of Manilla and Dr. R. C. Gillet of Oskaloosa.

"The porcelain jacket crown" will be read by Dr. E. W. Howard at 1:15 this afternoon, and will be discussed by Dr. L. C. Hemsworth of Waterloo and Dr. P. W. Richardson of Iowa City.

Dr. L. R. Johnson of Chicago will read a paper on the "Prevention of malocclusion in general practice" at 2:15. This will be discussed by Dr. R. W. Noland of Des Moines, and by Dr. Max Kadecky of Dubuque.

A paper on the "Rational use of electro-therapy in treatment of pyorrhea" will be presented by Dr. T. H. Hurst of Ft. Dodge at 3 o'clock and will be discussed by Dr. R. A. Greenwaldt of Cedar Rapids and Dr. H. G. Buck of Ames.

Members will have a business meeting at 4 o'clock and at 6:45 this evening they will attend the mass meeting at Iowa Union.

The executive committee has engaged Dr. Howard R. Raper, specialist in the use of modern radio-graphic methods, to talk tomorrow morning at 9:30.

The committee in charge consists of Dr. O. E. Schlanbusch of Iowa City, chairman; and Dr. W. L. Schenck of Iowa City, and Dr. G. C. Anderson of Avoca.

Blast Kills Algoma Man
ALGONA, Oct. 16 (AP)—Hans P. Hansen, a bachelor, was instantly killed while blasting stumps on the Frank Miller farm two miles south of Algona. A premature charge blew off a piece of stump which hit him and broke his neck. Hansen had lived in Kossuth county 50 years and was prominent in the Odd Fellows organization here.

Reelect Green Labor Head

Federation Retains All Officers; Selects Next Capitol

BOSTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor in convention here, today reelected its entire set of officers headed by President William Green and selected Vancouver, B. C., as the 1931 convention city.

The selection of Vancouver was preceded by serious debate on the merits of holding the meeting in the United States or Canada. The opposing cities were Columbus, O., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

W. D. Mahon of Detroit, president of the Amalgamated Steel and Electric Railway Employees of America, led the fight for Vancouver. Mahon referred to the union spirit of north-west Canada and declared the convention would do much to acquaint urban men in that section with the A. F. of L. ideals.

The convention approved a report of the executive council which supported a resolution dealing with railroad consolidation entered in connection with Senator Couzens of Michigan. It also asked that congress enact consolidation legislation "necessary to protect employees, shippers and communities served by railroads and to prevent inflation of railroad values."

The question of the executive council. The council's report on this subject, in which it said it had endorsed none of the measures thus far enacted, was referred to draft a constructive and adequate measure, was approved.

Immigration was the subject which centered the greater part of the day's discussion, and one of the most important resolutions adopted called on President Hoover to create a "long range planning committee of public work as a means to avert distress from that cause."

The resolution provides that the president and other officers of the federation confer with President Hoover with this end in view.

A report of the resolutions committee urging congress to "enact legislation designed to reduce immigration into the United States" was adopted. The report said, "in times like the present, there should be almost complete exclusion."

Other immigration measures approved urged the establishment of a border patrol to enforce restrictions against Mexican immigration; exclusion of Filipinos; the granting of permission to manufacturers establishing new industries here that will not compete with any other already established, to obtain employees under the "selected immigration" clause of the existing law, and prohibition of border crossing by Canadian workers for the sole purpose of working in the United States during the day and returning to Canada at night.

Men Present War Drama

Play Cast Appears in Drama Written by Englishman

Disillusion and sacrifice are portrayed in "Journey's End," a war play to be presented Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday by the university theater. The drama was written by R. C. Sheriff, an English insurance agent, who gained prominence through the play.

The story presents conditions four years after the war when the ideals of heroism have faded. War heroes, soldiers, and villains are all presented, each character speaking for himself.

The play with no women characters tells the story of English officers in a trench near Quentin. A young captain is forced to send out a raiding party headed by the brother of the girl whom he loves. The chances for return are slight.

Another view of war life is shown in the portrayal of the lieutenant who faces neuralgia just before the battle.

Prof. Vance M. Morton is directing the cast, with the scenic design under supervision of Huntley D. Sellman.

The cast remains as announced excepting four newly selected members: company sergeant-major, Julius C. A. 3d of Chicago, Ill.; a runner, Albert H. Tarwell, A. 4d of Blantford, Eng.; and two private soldiers, George Ball, A. 2d of Iowa City, and Byron Blotky, C. 3d of Des Moines.

New Jersey Agents Make Large Haul of Newark Liquor

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 16 (AP)—Whiskey valued by federal agents at $1,000,000, the largest haul in the history of Newark, was seized by police and firemen today at an old factory. Four men found in the building were arrested.

Police also held for questioning Abraham Aronow, whom they said they found in a garage at the rear of the plant in a truck marked "ice cream."

Hoover, Jr., to Winter in High Altitude

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—A bungalow overlooking Asheville, N.C., today was selected as the home of Herbert Hoover, Jr., during his convalescence from a tubercular infection this winter.

The twenty seven year old son of President and Mrs. Hoover is to leave the presidential camp in the Virginia mountains early next month and occupy the home of Henry Berger on Sunset mountain.

Captain Joel T. Boone, in announcing the selection, said the decision had been based largely upon Asheville's proximity to Washington.

The bungalow is built at an altitude of about 2,500 feet. It overlooks a golf course and the city of Asheville, while in the distance Pisgah mountain is visible.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., who has been at the Virginia camp with her husband, is expected to precede him to North Carolina early in November and arrange for occupancy of the house. Their three children are to remain in California.

The son of the president took an indefinite leave of absence from his work after his health broke down early in September. At the time of the diagnosis Dr. Boone said a complete and early recovery was probable. Today he said the patient had shown satisfactory progress.

Jealousy of Husband Unbearable; Wife of Erratic Gets Divorce

CHICAGO, Oct. 16 (AP)—How a 14 year old girl was kidnaped and forced to marry a suitor her sister had rejected, was told Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch today.

Angelina Puzzuti, now 20, told the story, and added to it a narrative of years of jealousy and mistreatment at the hands of her husband, Ignatius Puzzuti of Rock Island, Ill. Judge Lynch indicated he would grant the divorce.

Mrs. Puzzuti said that her family selected her husband for her sister, September 28, 1924; she testified, after the sister had refused marriage, she was forced into an automobile and taken to Rock Island, where the ceremony was performed before a judge.

"He was so jealous," she told Judge Lynch, "that he took me to a 15 cent picture show once and refused to let me laugh for fear of attracting attention."

When he accused her of having "a boy friend," she said, her husband locked her in a room for four days and beat her continually. She said she finally escaped and returned to Chicago.

Bandits Kidnap, Rob Man
CEDAR RAPIDS, Oct. 16 (AP)—Otto Austin, 32, reported to police that he was kidnaped last night by four men in an automobile and robbed of $24.75. He said he was released at the city limits.

State Debate Group Plans Reorganization

The Iowa high school debating league is now organizing for its twenty-fifth season with nearly 100 schools enrolled in its membership. The question for debate this season will be "Resolved that the chain store system is detrimental to the best interests of the American people." This proposition is being debated by high schools of nearly 50 states.

A more efficient plan of local control has been worked out for this year with the four former debate districts reorganized into 16 divisions. The purpose of this reorganization is to secure a larger local autonomy in the method of holding debates.

Schools will have the option of a debate tournament, three or four rounds of preliminary debates before the eliminations take place, or the customary plan of eliminating after each round of debates.

The league's purpose is to promote public discussion in all secondary schools in Iowa, to establish friendly rivalry between schools, to foster citizenship, and to give practice in the art of debate.

Final organization will be complete and debates will start in the districts some time in January.

Members of the executive committee are Prof. A. Craig Baird of the speech department, chairman; Bruce E. Mahan, director of university extension division; Harry A. Greene, professor of education; Prof. E. C. Mable, head of the speech department, and L. A. Opstad, superintendent of schools, Iowa City.

Brookhart Predicts Republican Victory at General Election

DES MOINES, Oct. 16 (AP)—A Republican victory in Iowa at the general election Nov. 4, is already certain, in the opinion of Sen. Smith W. Brookhart, who spent today in Des Moines on government business.

He predicted success for every representative in the election. He does not expect to campaign for the ticket in the state.

Brookhart said he is opposed to short selling of grain, and expressed the belief that a bill prohibiting such practices will be introduced in congress.

Petition Halts "Womanless" Library Will

LE MARS, Oct. 16 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Becker filed an objection today to the will of her father, T. M. Zink, who left his estate for a "womanless" library. She claimed that he was the victim of a manomania.

Her attorneys submitted a petition in district court asking that the will be refused probate on the ground that Zink was of unsound mind.

His hatred for women, extending for many years, had grown into a partial insanity, they contended.

The objection also claimed that Zink's will "is an insult to the womanhood of America and the world, and a libel and slander and is against public morals."

It provides a trust fund for the establishment, 75 years hence, of a library which shall contain books written only by men and to which only men shall be admitted.

Mrs. Becker's petition lists six other reasons against the will dealing with technicalities in the trust fund.

Zink's widow is not expected to join the effort to break the will because a prenuptial agreement arranged for her finances. She is permitted to live in their home for a rent of $40 a month.

The Le Mars city council has delayed consideration of accepting the provisions of the will offering the library to this community until court action on its legality is completed.

Zink, an attorney, wrote in the document that his "intense hatred for women" was the result of his experience with them, his observation of them, and study of literature and philosophical works.

Presbyterian Church Fights Compulsory Military Training

CEDAR RAPIDS, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Iowa synod of the Presbyterian church today voted to table a resolution opposing compulsory military training after a lengthy debate.

The fight for the resolution, introduced by the Iowa City Presbytery, was led by Dr. Archibald Cardle of Burlington. Speakers opposing it included the Rev. H. Sears Thompson of Ottumwa, moderator; the Rev. Paul Fowler of Winterset, and W. C. Edison of Storm Lake.

The synod will meet next year at Fairfield, while the United Presbyterians, also in session here, chose College Springs. Both groups finished their business sessions today.

T. H. McMichael, president of Monmouth college, addressed a joint meeting of the synods of the two organizations. He said the questions are of emphasis rather than fact.

Laughing Boy

By Oliver La Farge

His feet took him up onto the high place above the spring, where he had slept before. There he made himself comfortable with his back against a pinon trunk, smoking. Everything was whirling within him; it was necessary to put his thoughts in order. He had never imagined it was anything like this. He had lived the intimate life of the hogahn, he knew the camp-fire jokes; but there was never a hint of this kind of thing. It might be just American tricks, but he thought not. No, it was she, her power. She was stronger than iron or fire. That drink was medicine, but she was not medicine; it was just she herself. That blade of grass of a girl, that little Slim Girl, she could make his belly turn over inside of him, she could make his interior dissolve. He sat wondering at her and at himself. So very uncontrolled, at moments he felt ashamed, but mostly it was wonder. That girl was like one of the Divine People. One should not forget one's self, but this was a beautiful thing.

He had fought, and sung, and raced horses, and known the uplift of the great dances; he was old friends with hunger, cold, fatigue, and suddenly contrasted feasting and comfort; he had lived out to the tips of his fingers, but this was something that made everything else turn thin and shadowy. That was her magic, perhaps, and it was wonderful, it altered life; that she gave complete fulfillment, where everything else was painful. Her house was better than other Indians' houses; her food was richer than other Indians ate, and she fed one's spirit with a perfection that only she could give. Hunger was dead where she was. She was not like The People; life with her would have to be different, but the trail was beautiful.

She was not like The People; life with her would have to be different, but the trail was beautiful.

Breakfast was welcome when it came.

"Today you must get me wood for a loom," she told him. "It is a long time since I have woven, but I have beautiful blankets in my mind. I shall weave and you shall make jewelry."

"No, today, before we do anything, we must make a sweat-bath. This is all different, here. We are starting off new. We must make ourselves clean, we must make a fresh start. And, besides, how can you weave? You have no sheep."

"I shall buy wool in the store in town. They sell good wool there; the people round here bring it in."

"Why do we not raise sheep? I have some in my mother's flock I could get."

"Who will keep them? You will have your horses and your jewelry; that will be plenty. I must always be going in to work for that missionary woman."

"I do not like your working in there."

"Why, have you some bad thought?"

"No, I have no bad thought. But a house is empty when the woman is away."

"I used to work for her every day; now I only work sometimes. She gives me good money. It is because of her that you will have silver to work with. Tomorrow, when I go in, I shall bring you Mexican silver. And those days you can go tend to the horses. By and by, when we have made much money with your jewelry and horses and my weaving and work, we shall go back to your country. We shall go back rich. Is it not a good plan?"

You have spoken well. Here, I do not know about these things, but you know, and your words are good. It is enough for me that I have you. It is not just that we are married, but we are married all through; there is not any part of us left out."

"No; there is not any part of us left out. And you do not want a second wife. Laughing Boy?"

"Slayer of Enemy Gods said, 'Then I shall let you live,' they say."

He heard Talking God call in the distance. "Wu, wu, wu! Then the god called again, nearer. He knew that the other children were there, and that the snow coming through the smoke-hole melted in the air, and fell on the fire with little hisses. It was his uncle speaking. It was Wind God speaking in his mind; he were the same. None of that was clear; only the old, familiar words came to him, very definitely, spoken with emphasis, as when one wants to impress a lesson upon children.

"Slayer of Enemy Gods came to the Hunger People, they say... He said, "Now I am going to kill you, because you are bad for my people." Hunger Chief said, "If you kill us, nobody will be hungry any more, nobody will care about teasing. They will not go out and hunt for good food, venison, and fat prairie dog. Nobody will want to go hunting," he said, they say."

"No—not." The extra-emphatic, three syllable negative, "E-doo-ta," long drawn out, with the decisive sign of the right hand sweeping away. "Have you a sister you want me to take? If you want help here, in the hogahn, I will get one, but she will not be for me. She will be in the way. You are enough for me; perhaps you are too much for me, I think."

Quickly she kissed him. He felt embarrassed, and loved it.

He had to teach her the ritual and song of purification, but, with faint childhood memories to aid her, she was quick to learn. Her close attention pleased him, and it was a pleasure to hear her sing. He was only sorry for her, that she had for so long been denied these things, and angry and puzzled at the schools and the American life that had forbidden them. In the end, he taught her songs that she had no business knowing, quite aware of what he did, as a kind of unavowed tribute and token of the special quality he felt in her.

After the steam bath and the water and the foaming yucca-suds, it was good to lie with hair spread out, drying, and talk vaguely of things to be done, and now and again to touch her. Great achievements completed themselves in a phrase. He drew the design of a bracelet in the sand; he braided his hair and mimicked the nasal speech of a Ute. They fell to talking of the ways of different tribes, the old wars, and the present semi-hostility between the Navajo and the Pah-Utes.

There is not often trouble with them, he told her, but we do not like them. They're wild up at that country beyond Ojito, where they are hard to catch, and they steal things. Mostly they trouble the Mormons; the Mormons are afraid of them, they say. Since I was a little boy, only once we had real trouble with them. Then one time we went on the war-path for them. I went on the war-path that time.

He felt proud of the part he had played, and wanted to tell her all about it.

That was three years ago; I was just about full grown. Blunt Nose, he made the trouble, that one. He was chief of a band of them; he lived up beyond Naesia Canon, near Tee Namazh. That is wild country, almost in the mountains. He was bad.

"He used to kill Mormon cattle all the time, a cow, and a cow, and a cow, here and there. He needed to keep no sheep. He did it the way he pleased. He wore two pistols and had a gun on his saddle, they say. He would ride down the middle of the trail, and not turn out for any one.

She woke happy, watching him under lazy eyelids as he stood outside the door, naked save for his breech-clout, with the level sunlight touching the edges of his flanks and ribs, making a golden reflection when his uprisen arms bunched the muscles at his shoulders. She thanked God and the gods indiscriminately. Whatever happened now, this could not be taken away. She shifted the blanket, closed her eyes, and assumed sleep.

He sat down beside her, a little nervous about her awakening. Her eyelids quivered, she yawned de-

On Other Campuses

University of Arkansas

For the past 25 years a tradition has been observed at the university—"senior walk." The walk, originated by the class of 1905, has been lengthened each year by the graduating class, which puts down a new slab with the numerals of the class laid. Freshmen are denied the privilege of treading on its hallowed stones until Thanksgiving day.

University of Kansas

Freshmen men, fearing the paddles swung by the Men's Student Council, K men and Sachem, appeared on the campus a day early with their crimson and blue ribbons flowing from their caps. Some of the freshmen looked rather surprised when they passed Green Hall seeing that the flag was not out. Some, not wishing to take the chance on a hidden flag, doffed their caps when they passed the danger lines.

DO YOU KNOW

There is lively competition among the telegraph companies and the railroads for Hollywood trade. One of the methods used to drum up wire business is to notify studios of theater openings all over the country.

It is customary for the film companies to telegraph good wishes to exhibitors.

Within the last few years most of the transcontinental rail lines have established branch offices in Hollywood to cater to the film people. They also employ men who do nothing but canvass the studios for prospective travelers.

Ninth Annual Dad's Day Celebration This Week End; Under A. F. I. Auspices Five Years

Today marks the ninth annual celebration of Dad's Day, although it is only the fifth Dad's day week end as sponsored by A. F. I., senior men's honorary society.

In the fall of 1926 Peter Janss, then president of A. F. I. went to see President Walter A. Jessup to discuss how Dad's Day might be a more special affair like Homecoming. There had always been the Dad's Day football game, and the dinner after the game, but the attendance at the latter never exceeded 150.

President Jessup agreed to appoint a faculty committee as advisers so that the group from year to year might have the experience of previous years to work with, since A. F. I. is composed of senior men who would not be back the next year.

Files have been kept in the office of R. H. Fitzgerald, so that the trove might thus make each Dad's day better than that of the year before.

The first year after the organization of Dad's day under the faculty advisors, attendance jumped to 900 at the dinner, and since then has never been below 900 to 1,000.

A. F. I. Completes Dad's Day Plans,
Banquet and Tour

A. F. I. took a final check on arrangements for Dad's Day yesterday at luncheon in Iowa Union. All committee reported completion of plans.

The committee in charge of the tour of the campus Saturday morning have requested cars of all the fraternities, sororities, and business men of Iowa City. Those in charge of this work are: Clarence R. Messer, D4 of Dysart, chairman, Boyd N. Liddle, 44 of Davenport, and Alice C. Bond, 44 of Iowa City.

Speakers for the Dad's Day banquet will include Howard A. Schumacher, A4 of Sterling, Ill., for the sons, Anne Bradford, A4 of Davenport, for the daughters, and Senator A. O. Hauge, for the dads.

Fraternities and sororities will cease sale of Dad's Day dinner tickets by Friday noon.

Senior Engineers
Choose President

Basil Deegan, E4 of Peterson, was elected president of the senior engineering class yesterday afternoon in the students room of the engineering building.

Officers include Orville H. Tousley of Oak Park, Ill., vice-president; Frank E. Wilkens of Waterloo, secretary-treasurer.

Emil H. Rausch of Waverly, retiring president, conducted the meeting until the new officers were installed.
