Wilkins Talks on New Plan of Exploration

Travel Speech Opens Lecture Series at Iowa Union

Lecturing before a moving picture screen constantly filled with graphic illustrations of his words, Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins last night presented to more than 600 people which filled the main lounge of Iowa Union an account of his adventure and achievement at the two poles.

Before beginning his reminiscences, Captain Wilkins, mentioned briefly a new adventure which he expects to be the greatest in his life—an expedition by submarine to the areas surrounding the north pole in search of a place on the arctic ice of sufficient permanency to make it suitable for the establishment of a station for weather observation.

His craft, besides being equipped with hatches for underwater escape, will be furnished with drills for piercing the ice from underneath. One of the sets of drills will be 13 feet long and will enable the explorers to bore through the ice for that distance a hole large enough to permit the passage of a man. In the event that thicker ice is encountered, smaller drills will be used to make holes for air renewal, and the submarine will be sailed to a better place under the ice.

Wants Weather Observing Station
In all his exploration, Wilkins has had as his aim the establishment of stations for weather observation in the belief that a better knowledge of meteorological conditions at the poles will permit more accurate forecasting of weather all over the world. The plan on which he is working calls for the establishment of 12 such stations in the antarctic and 20 in the arctic regions. Positions for the 12 in the antarctic have been selected, and future work will be in the north.

In his pictures, Wilkins showed scenes from the activities of his party in the flights made from Point Barrow. Several of the airplane accidents of the expedition were pictured, and Wilkins explained the delays which he encountered throughout 1925 in his attempts at exploration from that Alaskan point. Besides his life, daily work, members and acquaintances of the party, and scenes of the little explored country north of Point Barrow filled the screen and were climaxed by the flight of 1927 from there to Spitzbergen.

Home Trough Graham's Land
The triumphal trip home from that accomplishment gave place to the more barren views of Antarctica, as Wilkins explored into Graham's land during the seasons of 1928-29. His most important discovery in this last exploration was that Graham's land is not a vast continent as was originally supposed, but is in reality a series of comparatively small islands.

Recalls "Detroitter"
He recalled that his plane the "Detroitter" which he used in his northern expeditions was afterwards used by Kingford-Smith who called it the "Southern Cross" in his flight from California to Australia.

Court Ruling Causes Alarm for Traders; Ask for Rehearing

CHICAGO, Oct. 29 (AP)—The Illinois supreme court, it was announced today, will be asked to rehear the case in which it ruled last week that transactions in contracts for future deliveries of grain and other commodities are void when an understanding exists that no actual delivery is to be made.

The Illinois high court affirmed the decision of a lower court in a suit brought by James K. Flordan, a broker, against William McCabe, a trader. The courts held the intention of the purchaser is the lone factor that can distinguish a gambling transaction from a legitimate futures deal. In this case, it was held that McCabe never intended to buy or sell grain, but had planned to profit by the fluctuation of prices.

The decision caused a furor among traders on commodity exchanges in which dealings in future delivery contracts form a large part of the business. Apparently short selling of securities also may be affected by phases of the ruling, unless a rehearing is granted, although the court disclaimed any intention to pass upon the validity of Chicago board of trade contracts.

Pardon in United States Clears Way for Heir of Estate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 29 (AP)—A pardon which clears the way for a young South American to return to Venezuela to collect his share of an estate estimated at $2,000,000 was granted today by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson.

The recipient, Louis Vargas, reared on his father's ranch in Venezuela, educated in Switzerland, had been in this country only a short time when he was arrested in connection with a holdup and sentenced to from one to 10 years in the penitentiary. After serving three years and 11 months at Joliet he was paroled, went into restaurant business in Chicago and was married.

Last month he received word that his father, a rancher and oil man, had died in Venezuela. An immigration law forbids ex-convicts from returning to the United States, so Vargas, through attorneys, appealed to the parole board and the governor.

Governor Emmerson's pardon—an absolute one—will permit Vargas to return to the United States without interference, after he has collected his share of the estate.

Wilkins Cites Value of Polar Exploration to Big Business

Study of Arctic Weather Aids in Adequate Forecast

By MAC NOWLIN
Results of a revolutionary nature, and deep significance to all mankind were ascribed to polar exploration by Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins, in an interview with The Daily Iowan yesterday. He created a vision which consisted of the possibility of advance warning of droughts, floods, cold waves, and excessive heat—insurance against famine, and unexpected business disruption.

"Observation and experiment," Wilkins explained, "have led to the belief by scientists in the concreteness of the theory that weather conditions all over the globe have their inception in polar conditions, and may be forecast whole seasons in advance through the intelligent study of weather cycles at the poles."

Weather Reports Inadequate
It has been a lack of adequate means for the study of arctic and antarctic weather conditions, he further explained, which has made accurate forecasting in the past of so little reliability for more than a few days in advance.

To Establish Stations
It has been to bring about this dream that Wilkins has been working in the past, and will work in the future. He does not make these expeditions because he is interested in exploring for itself, he says, but that he may establish stations in appropriate position for such polar observation.

Revolution Glorious Memory
"It is my privilege to let the world know through The Associated Press that the revolution headed by Dr. Getulio Vargas and directed against the government of Washington Luis Pereira De Souza, former president of Brazil, has been victorious throughout our country and that the twenty-fourth of October of 1930 will be one of our glorious memories," his statement said.

Green Wants Aid, Jobs for Nation Needy
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—Confidence that unemployment can be largely conquered if wholehearted cooperation is obtained toward providing work was expressed tonight by William Green, the president of the American federation of labor, in a statement estimating that one sixth of the nation's population was "threatened with acute need" this winter.

To Punish Wrong Doers
"For this reason the provisional government has dissolved both legislative chambers: the house of deputies and the senate. In the new elections representatives of the people will be elected to the new congress, and in order that the free will of the Brazilian people can be expressed without coercion or fear, the electoral law will be reformed; the election of administration of government which was in the hands of a dishonest group under the protection of the fallen government will be punished as well as all those persons who were direct contributors to the mismanagement of affairs."

No Profit for Him
He acknowledges that fortunes have been made in the past from exploration, but says that he does not expect to profit personally from his findings. It is his opinion that information from the stations which he is establishing must be under government control.

Old Hatreds: ANCIENT rivalries and hatreds, it seems, will go in spite of worldwide movements for understanding and universal brotherhoods.

Today while Aristide Briande is advocating a United States of Europe, a twentieth century version of Hadrian's wall is going up along the eastern border of France.

This protecting wall, or rather chain, consists of machine gun nests, small forts armed with machine guns and light artillery, and huge agglomerations with batteries of big guns, ammunition dumps and underground barracks stretching virtually along the entire front which borders on Germany.

Three years from now the fortification will be completed and France may again feel secure against any invasion.

But after all, can she feel secure? For centuries, since ancient feudal despots warred incessantly over the territories now occupied by Germany and France, the two peoples have tried to make themselves secure by means of walls, hidden fortifications, and large armies.

No wall is ever so solid but that a battering ram can penetrate it. No army is ever so large or so well trained that it cannot be outnumbered or overpowered.

In 1870 Germany imposed upon France an indemnity which she thought would keep her down for a century. France paid her indemnity, every cent, and came back stronger than ever.

Now Germany finds herself in the position occupied by France in 1870. But Germany, as did France, will come back. And when the time comes no protecting wall will keep her zeppelins and her airplanes from French territories. The relative positions of the two countries will be shifted again and again until either they destroy each other, or forge the hatreds of their fathers so that protecting walls and standing armies will not be necessary.

International Awareness: A SOUTHERN newspaper recently contrasted attitudes in North and South America by saying that in Brazil citizens figured an election worth going to war over while in the United States they lacked enough interest to register.

Much of this lethargy and disinterest is evident on the University of Iowa campus. To a large extent students have insufficient thought of relating that which they learn to the happenings of state, national, and world.

In Latin America students participate in revolts against the established regime. While no one would advocate such measures in the different situation which prevails here, yet there should also be intolerance of nonchalance and indifference to world affairs.

that humanity has been forced to accept the unique.

Whether it be in the field of religion, science, literature, or morality, the tendency of the masses is to cling to the conventional until it molds within their minds. Then appears some nonconformist—a Socrates, a Columbus, or an Einstein. Being hailed as a radical, he is deemed a menace to society, is administered a draught of poison hemlock, thrown into chains, or called a madman. Within a few decades his work is reconsidered and finally accepted as fact.

Universities have their nonconformities. The students who insist on reading Modern Aircraft or Scientific Monthly instead of Homer is hailed as a "dumbbell" in the English section or fails in math, only later to turn into a Daniel Webster or an Einstein. A misfit is expelled from school and becomes a Lindbergh. Once more society realizes that she has judged too quickly and harshly.

The evil of education has been the insistence of uniformity of method and product, upon molding and not developing the student. The University of Iowa has its nonconformities. Be tolerant—the potential genius deserves his place in society.

Why Get Excited? NEWSPAPERS in all Iowa are bewailing the lack of interest in the coming state election. Candidates plan great political meetings and at the appointed time find only a handful of persons willing to listen to their plans and promises. So few readers are interested that newspapers are printing little or no news of the event.

But after all, is this indifference so deplorable? Is there any really good reason why Iowans should get excited over a matter that was practically settled last June? Iowa's state election is in June, not November. This state is so strongly republican that a nominee of that group is almost sure to be elected.

The tendency of this one party trend is to increase interest in the June election and to make the fall vote a mere form. This system has its advantages. Campaigning is expensive, but by concentrating on one election more effective results are obtained. It is one thing to create interest for a few weeks, but to maintain it for half a year is another problem.

An Embarrassing Fact: IT IS A recognized fact that professors in colleges are very much underpaid. Everyone knows it would be folly to attempt to estimate the real money value of Iowa's faculty. They earn a living wage, but doesn't the public forget the high standards Iowa's professors are expected to live up to? If they raise a family and send their children to school to get an education equivalent to their own, by the time the children are educated there are few professors whose sayings will permit them to retire when they should.

There are men on Iowa's faculty now that should be retired not only for their own good, but for the betterment of this institution. They have given the best of their lives to education, and it is indeed sad and pathetic to think they are not able to retire. The average professor, had he gone into business or one of the other professions with his education would be financially independent to retire when old age claimed him.

Two hundred colleges in the United States provide for a pension system. Iowa is asking for $75,000 to inaugurate such a system. It is proposed that five per cent of each professor's salary will also go into this fund to retire men that have given themselves to further education. If Iowa expects to keep her present faculty and to improve it each year, as has been her aim in the past, it will be necessary for her to establish an assurance against old age, and a reward for service.

To The Wise: PRESIDENT Herbert Hoover recently announced that there would be a reduction of social activities in Washington this winter. The president believes that the world depression should be met with fewer governmental expenditures. If the chief executive takes that viewpoint of the financial situation, it is important that people follow the same course.

There has been agitation as to which is the best policy to follow during a depression—to spend money, or to save it. A late number of Literary Digest contains an article quoting various writers on both sides of the question. President Hoover has now taken sides with the savers.

Money may seem to be plentiful to some persons, but right now is the time to stop spending so much for pleasure. This winter will bring an added burden to most persons in the form of helping to support those individuals who are out of work. It is time now to anticipate one's future expenses. Better be careful now, than to rush the country blindly on into a crisis, which would mean extreme misery to many persons.

Take President Hoover's viewpoint of the situation. A word to the wise should be sufficient!

Legion Ends Second Year of Civic Aid

Building Failed to Pay for Self; $70,000 Shortage

Two years ago the American Legion building opened its doors to the public as a community center. It offered and has continued to offer for little or no charge, rooms and facilities for carrying on various civic activities. Organizations such as the chamber of commerce, women's relief corps, the Legion auxiliary, and the boy and girl scouts have made their headquarters there.

Other enterprises that have found accommodations include the annual automobile show, the better homes show, the flower show, local talent plays, and athletic shows. It has given itself a community building in every sense, extending the same privileges and services to all.

Two years service under capable and competent management has proven that the building can not be expected to pay for itself, as the operating costs far exceed the returns figured by the charges made to organizations that rented room or floor space.

This situation resulted in a determination to annihilate the $70,000 indebtedness by resorting to the debt-reducing campaign which has been in progress during the last three weeks.

Despite the efforts of the leaders and workers in the drive the project as far as not resulted in a complete victory. The present fund including bonds and cash, now stands at $16,262.87.

At a report meeting yesterday noon, George H. Frohwein, chairman of general solicitation, urged every worker in the campaign to concentrate on cash subscriptions during the next two days.

Mr. Frohwein stated that $10,000 must be raised by Friday to save the community building for Iowa City. He also stated that $15,000 in cash is needed to meet the accounts payable and put the building on a firm footing.

L.J. Dickinson Lauds Chief

Says Hoover Makes Good on Campaign Promises

President Hoover has redeemed his campaign promises to agriculture by setting up the federal farm board and revising the tariff, Rep. L. J. Dickinson, republican candidate for senator, said in a radio address over station WOC-WHO last night.

"The farm board is placing the control of the American farm market with the farmers," Dickinson said. "The farm products will eventually be controlled through organizations owned, operated and managed by farmers."

Dickinson reviewed his proposal concerning the introduction of a bill in congress which will place a tariff on grain sold, short on American markets by foreigners. He asserted that the agricultural rates in the new tariff law are the highest in history.

He said: "That the business depression was due to world wide economic crisis over which we in this country have no control. President Hoover has been courageously meeting these effects by industrial building programs."

Leaders End Merger Plan

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 29 (AP)—The American Lutheran conference, a federation of seven church bodies embracing congregations in every state and in each Canadian province, was organized here late today with adoption of a constitution by unanimous vote of their representatives.

Without effecting organic union, the conference is intended to bring into closer working relationship the mission and educational facilities of the churches which embrace a membership of 1,377,000 persons, 3,848 pastors and 6,886 congregations. The constituent synods will retain their identity.

Choose Officers Friday
Officers of the federation, which will be one of three large central Lutheran bodies in this country, will be chosen Friday.

The joint Ohio synod together with the Buffalo and Iowa synods, all with members largely of German extraction, have perfected the merger of the American Lutheran church effective next Jan. 1, or which Dr. C. C. Hein of Columbus, O., will be president. Besides these three, those entering the federation today are the United Danish synod, the Norwegian Lutheran church of America, the Augustana synod, Swedish in origin, and the Lutheran free church of Norwegian origin.

To Lay Plans
Details of the federation's working plan are to be drawn up Thursday and Friday by the corps of 125 delegates authorized to organize it through action taken separately by the synods which each previously approved the fundamentals of the constitution.

Dr. Hein, in his keynote address today, urged a continuation of activity in the direction of further amalgamation of Lutheran groups.

The other major Lutheran federations, in this country, are the United Lutheran church of America, an organic union of 33 synods formed several years ago, which has a membership of 1,820,000 persons, and the Synodical conference, formed about the Missouri synod, which is credited with 1,351,000 members.

Repeal Note Sounded for Party Planks

G. A. Kenderdine Backs Repeal of Tariff Regulation

"Repeal of the present tariff law is to be one of the party planks in the present democratic campaign," according to G. A. Kenderdine, Iowa City, candidate for justice of the state supreme court.

Mr. Kenderdine added that, "A new enactment would provide a fair measure of equality between European manufacturers and our own, and at the same time will not cause the European buyer to discriminate against goods."

"The banking system of our country needs a reform which would make the circulation of money more flexible and more responsible to public need."

"The real theory of farm relief would be found in a reduction of the tariff, inasmuch as the farmer buys in a protected market and sells in an open market."

Mr. Kenderdine was unanimously nominated as candidate for justice of the state supreme court at the democratic state convention. In 1912 he was nominated for the post of lieutenant governor, and ran in 1928 as candidate for attorney general.

Legion Board States Exact Status of Campaign; Need Pledges to Save Building

In belief that the public should know the exact status of the campaign to save the American Legion community building for a continued life of service to this community, the board of trustees of the Legion building, made the following statement yesterday noon:

"The result of our appeal for bonds has been satisfactory but unless new pledges and cash are received the financial plight of the community building will be no more relieved than if the campaign had not been attempted."

"The objective of this campaign, $70,000, was arrived at by adding to the total of $55,000 second mortgage bonds issued the amount of $15,000 in cash to be paid over a two year period. This is the absolute minimum that will save the community building for Iowa City. Of the subscriptions so far, only $4,962.87 has been in cash pledges, the remainder of the fund being represented in donations of bonds."

"This means that it is vitally necessary for approximately $10,000 in additional new money to be subscribed to this fund during the balance of the week as the present cash total is far from sufficient to meet accounts payable. This must be done or we must be done or we must surrender the building."

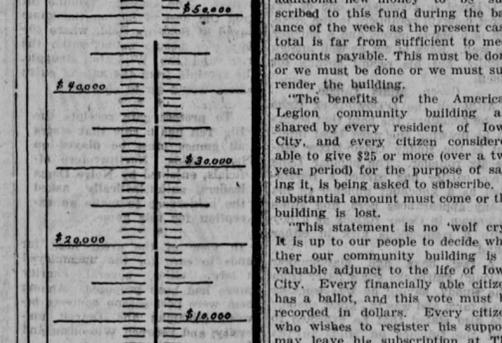

"The benefits of the American Legion community building are shared by every resident of Iowa City, and every citizen considered able to give $25 or more (over a two year period) for the purpose of saving it, is being asked to subscribe. A substantial amount must come or the building is lost."

"It is up to our people to decide whether our community building is a valuable adjunct to the life of Iowa City. Every financially able citizen has a ballot, and this vote must be recorded in dollars. Every citizen who wishes to register his support may leave his subscription at The Daily Iowan, the Press-Citizen, or the community building."

"By the final tabulation all of Iowa City must be prepared to abide, and by it the trustees must be governed. This campaign was scheduled to close last Friday. A loyal and public-spirited group of 65 business men gave liberally of time and energy last week that this case might be presented properly to our community."

"This week they continued their work, determined that each and every citizen shall have the privilege of registering his decision as to whether we should or should not have a community center. We await your instructions."

"The Board of Trustees, American Legion Community building."

Bobby O'Dowd Meets Al Bork in Main Event at Legion Building Tonight

Green-Millis Tangle May Steal Show

30 Rounds or Fewer on Fight Menu for Tonight

Bobby O'Dowd of Cedar Rapids, and Al Bork of Nashua, meet tonight in an eight round headline bout in the second American legion boxing show of the season.

O'Dowd is considered one of the better 115 pound battlers about the state, and Bork, who fights at four or five pounds heavier, has beaten such good boys as Pep Jennings, state flyweight champion, and Vale Felegano of Des Moines.

Green, Mills Tangle Although the O'Dowd-Bork fight is the headline, the bout that seems to be drawing the most local interest is the Buddy Green-Mixer Mills six rounder.

Another bout of promise is the third meeting between Orley Thorington of Lisbon and Hard Oil Lehr of Waterloo.

Jimmy Hamilton of Cedar Rapids, and Harvey Carothers of Moline, meet in the other six rounder.

Alex Fidler of Cedar Rapids will be the third man in the ring, and the boxing commission will make its first appearance.

Green Wants Charity Game Governor of Michigan Condemns Rules of Big Ten

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 29 (AP)—Gov. Fred W. Green today issued a statement criticizing the western conference for its decision against moving the Notre Dame-Northwestern football game from Evanston to Soldiers field, Chicago.

The governor said that if rules were permitted to stand in the way of the proper game, it will be unfortunate for the unemployed, the sport, and the two institutions.

Fate Turns Tables; Coach on Sidelines

CLARKSVILLE, Ark., Oct. 29 (AP)—It's one thing to teach and entirely another to demonstrate, George Cole, football coach of the college of the Ozarks here, has found.

Sportively Speaking

By Bill Rutledge

With fine disregard for public sentiment and splendid contempt for a worthy charity plan, nine professors in control of Big Ten athletics adhered to the letter of conference rules and voted down Northwestern's request to transfer its game with Notre Dame from its stadium to Soldiers field.

This move would have raised an estimated $300,000 to be spent in providing food and clothing for Chicago's great army of unemployed.

All seats in Doyce stadium for the big game have been sold for months. The Chicago Tribune hit upon the idea of having the game played at Soldiers field, where 60,000 more people could watch the Irish and the Wildcats struggle.

To protect gate receipts the Big Ten has a rule that states all games must be played on home fields.

In view of the great need for funds to care for the unemployed in large cities, several charity games had been proposed.

Our own Rollie Williams planned a basketball game between Notre Dame and Iowa for March 14, the proceeds to go to charity.

Faculty control of athletics may make for purity but not for popularity. Unless the attitude of this oligarchical circle of professors, who rule the conference, changes, the best friendship between sport fans in the midwest and the Big Ten will be ruined.

The prof's will ruin college football just as boxing commissions have destroyed the popularity of boxing.

The faculty members in control of conference athletics throw up their hands in holy horror at the idea of players receiving favors for their athletic prowess on the grounds that it is unsportsmanlike.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—Twenty-two colleges including one middle western institution, have entered a total of 265 athletes for the twenty second annual varsity cross country championship to be run at Van Cortlandt park here Nov. 17, it was announced today.

The Midwest will be represented by two runners from Michigan State—Clark Chamberlain, who finished fourth last year, and Donald Conrad.

Chamberlain is conceded an excellent chance to take the individual title away from the east for the first time as the three men who finished ahead of him have wound up their college cross country careers.

The Bears clash with the Cyclones this afternoon at Iowa field in the fourth game of the little frosh grid series.

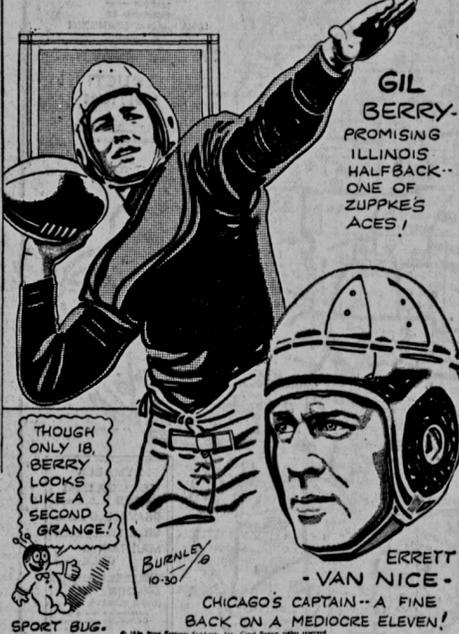

The Minneapolis Red Jackets, members of the National professional football league, scored a smashing 35 to 0 victory over the White Line Transfer Tigers, local semipro, tonight at the Drake stadium.

Both elevens partook of a light workout yesterday. As the turf was slippery, the coaches did not drive the frosh far from the field.

With the return of Glen Baker, giant tackle on the frosh line, the forward wall showed more resistance to the varsity last night. The first string tackle had been out because of water on the knee, but now the injured member appears to be on the mend.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 29 (AP)—Coach Pat Page today continued his experiments to strengthen Indiana's forward wall. Mankowski's return from the injured list ousted Spannuth from the center position.

Illinois was the runner-up in 1929; the winner, the two previous seasons. Last June that great machine disappeared via graduation.

Coach Handy sent his Blue and White gridders through an abbreviated drill yesterday, due to the slippery condition of the field.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 29 (AP)—James O. H. Simral, captain of the University of Michigan football team, has never felt the thrill of hugging a ball back of an opposing college goal line.

Always a Back Simral has been a back all three years at Michigan. He has started in 18 games.

Michigan has a custom—it amounts almost to tradition—of allowing the captain to make the first score in the practice game at the beginning of the season.

In The Background Simral has had a nameless share in Michigan scores. It has been his part to kneel on the ground after every touchdown and for every victory kick and hold the ball for the kicker.

Coach George T. Bresnahan sent the Old Gold hurriers out over the hills and dales at a gallop yesterday in a pace judgment time trial.

Joe Pfeiffer has been elected captain of the freshman squad. The entries for the freshman handicap race, open to anyone without major experience, are coming in fast.

33 Old Gold Gridders Depart Today for Detroit Game

Gridders Set for Big Clash; First Invasion

Hawkeyes to Practice in Detroit Stadium Tomorrow

A long workout on a slippery field concluded the Hawkeye preparations for the invasion of Detroit Saturday. Coach Burt Ingwersen drilled his warriors long and hard in polishing off his attack but did not neglect the defense department as he sent his ends and backs through a hard tackling session.

Ends Receive Attention

Following a brief punting drill, the varsity backs knocked down the poorly attempted heaves of the second string. Ray Story and Gus Mastrogany received a long workout on tackling as the Titan running attack has a reputation of sweeping the ends time after time. Jim Hay's torn ligament will probably keep him out of the fray but Captain George Rogge's leg has improved to the extent that he will probably start.

Little Hawks Drill for Grinnell Contest With Light Workout

Iowa City high school gridders were run through a slippery drill last night on Shrader field. Most of the time was devoted to signal practice with the first string men polishing up some of the new plays that are to be used against Grinnell this Saturday.

Doubt was expressed by the Little Hawk mentors as to the probability of Cleatus Stimmel and Lawrence Burr being in condition for the contest Saturday. Stimmel has been suffering from an injured leg. Burr received a twisted knee in the Columbus Junction game last Saturday and it is still in bad shape.

The first string men held another scrimmage session with the third team last night with the result that the first team tore through the subs.

Following a brief punting drill, the varsity backs knocked down the poorly attempted heaves of the second string. Ray Story and Gus Mastrogany received a long workout on tackling as the Titan running attack has a reputation of sweeping the ends time after time.

With Iowa's Varsity

Fans Haven't Heard Much of Alex Rogers Yet; Probably Will During Cage Season

Iowa sport bugs haven't heard much about Alexander Rogers of Florence, Miss., except for a few stray references now and then about the fact that he is on the football squad or to his freshman athletic showing.

But when basketball rolls around sport writers will probably be making quite a fuss over him. Rogers looms as one of the outstanding of the new cage candidates.

Shows Improvement Right now his attention is focused on football. He has been transformed from an end to a tackle. The improvement he has shown this season has been a source of pleasure to line coach Frank Wickhorst. His best performance was presented in Thursday's scrimmage.

On freshman squads last year he won numerals in football, basketball, and baseball.

Football was among the things he learned in college. There weren't enough boys in the home town high school to form a grid squad. But he didn't learn the game at Iowa.

He was a transient athlete for two years after graduating from high school. He went to Mississippi college a year, and a year to Mississippi A. and M. Numerals were given him from both schools in football, basketball, and baseball. He has settled down for a career at Iowa.

Rise of Florence Five From that humble town rose a prep basketball five that in the four years Rogers was at center, was three times runner-up to the state championship, and finally climbed up to third place in the University of Chicago's national interscholastic cage tournament in 1927. It had also competed in the meet of 1924. Rogers was the team's and one of the tourney's leading scorers and prominent players. He was picked by tournament officials as an all-American high school center. The big Mississippian is hardly rangy enough for a college center. On the frosh squad he tried for forward post. Yet Coach Williams, lacking any exceptionally tall player, may send him back to his old position.

Princeton Explains to Navy PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 27 (AP)—Because of the failure of Princeton supporters to remain in the stands after the Navy-Princeton game here Saturday while the midshipmen sang their alma mater song, the undergraduate council of Princeton university today sent a letter of explanation to Admiral S. Robison, superintendent of the naval academy.

Hooks and Jabs by "Baldy"

Tonight's fight night.

Which reminds me that Bobby O'Dowd of Cedar Rapids, who meets Al Bork of Nashua in the headlines, had a chance to pull at good one on "Doug" Fairbanks, and wouldn't take it. "Doug" called O'Dowd after he heard that Heccedro Montello would not be able to fight, and asked Bobby if he would take Vale Felegano. Bobby replied that Felegano had been working with him for two weeks, and that the act would be a song and dance.

That's the kind of fighters "Doug" is trying to get here. Good, sportsmanlike boys.

Buddy Green, the Lone Tree wildcat, and Mixer Mills of Cedar Rapids are still mouthing dire threats of the physical vengeance they intend to impose each upon the other. Both boys are plenty hard punchers, with dangerous hands. Anything can happen. Take your choice. Personally I think it might rain.

Another bout that might turn into somewhat of a grudge battle is the Orley Thorrington-Hard Oil Lehr affair. Both have decisions in previous fights. Snow.

Hope the commission isn't as hide bound as the Big Ten athletic board with absolute control.

Collegians Chase Racon FAIRFIELD, Oct. 27 (AP)—Parsons college students held an impromptu racon hunt today when a 'coon was seen near the chapel early this morning. After a two-hour chase the animal was shot from a tree in which it had taken refuge by Sanford Roelke of Donnellson.

Thus, it is no wonder that Norman Siefkin of Rolfe won towers six feet and three inches and is filled out to the extent of 220 pounds looms up well as a freshman football candidate.

Siefkin played fullback at Rolfe for three years and was captain of the high school team his senior year. In addition to gridiron activities, he can toss the shot with facility. After football season he will report for track.

Young Stribling to Fight Jack Sharkey

ATLANTA, Oct. 29 (AP)—The Constitution says W. L. "Young" Stribling, heavyweight contender, has agreed to meet Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight here, in January, and that a guaranteed offer of $50,000 has been made to Sharkey by the Atlanta baseball and amusement company.

The promoters already have booked a Stribling-Dekut bout here on Armistice day. Stribling, the Constitution says, has agreed to a percentage cut. The offer to Sharkey's manager was telegraphed tonight. Stribling is in the east, preparing for a fight booked Friday in Boston.

HARLAN, Oct. 28 (AP)—Phillip McAndrews, 50, shot himself in the presence of his wife and five children. Financial worries and the death of a favorite sister were said to have caused the act. Physicians said his wounds would prove fatal.

Wearing The GREEN

Lined up with the fresh grid aspirants is Ralph Johnson, who hails from Newington, Conn., and is playing first string tackle on Coach Otto Vogel's yearling varsity. Johnson is over six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds.

Johnson attended New Britain high school and was graduated there last June. He was honorable mention for the Connecticut all-state team during his junior and senior years, being rated as the best tackle on the New Britain squad. During his prep career he won three letters on the gridiron playing alternately at the guard and tackle positions.

Johnson is a track man as well as a gridster and he likes to stretch out on the distances. His record in high school credits him with one major letter for his outstanding work in the mile event. During his senior year of high school he found time to play baseball and won his letter as an outfielder. He was elected baseball manager of the New Britain nine last spring.

In scrimmages against the varsity Johnson looks good in the line and is playing a great defensive game. According to Coach Otto Vogel he is one of the shining lights on this year's yearling list.

Crowds Attend Funeral Rites of Financier

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—Prominent figures in New York society, politics, business and sports attended funeral services today for Harry Payne Whitney, sportsman and financier who owned one of the country's largest fortunes, at St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal church, on Park avenue.

More than a thousand stood outside in the rain, while the church was filled with Mr. Whitney's friends. Among them were members of the Whitney and Vanderbilt families, Elihu Root, George F. Baker, secretary of the navy, Charles Francis Adams, and Joseph E. Widener.

Two men who played with Mr. Whitney on the "Big Four" polo team which won the International cup from England in 1909, sat by his side. They were Devereux Milburn and Lawrence Waterbury.

Floral pieces from virtually every prominent family in the United States blanketed the entire church and altar of the church. Dr. Endicott Peabody, head master of Groton school, conducted the services assisted by the Rev. Robert Norwood, rector of the church. Burial was in the family plot at Woodlawn.

Mr. Whitney, the reputed possessor of more than a hundred million dollars, died of pneumonia last Sunday night at his home on Fifth avenue. He was 58.

Iowan Writes on Industrial Basic Needs

McCarty Survey Tells of Work Done by Iowa Experts

Already being fashioned along sane and logical lines, the Iowa industrialization program includes three basic needs—an industrial survey, research into new uses for raw materials and an educational campaign to stimulate public interest.

These are some of the conclusions reached by Prof. Harold H. McCarty of the college of commerce. Results of his studies have just been published by the bureau of business research.

Experts Utilize Products

Much has been done to fill these needs, he said. Under the general supervision of the engineering experiment station of Iowa State college, a state industrial survey has been launched as provided for by the legislature.

Progress in industrial research has been notable, for new uses have been found by Iowa State college scientists, state university chemists have unearthed facts about the usefulness of Iowa coal, and commercial concerns have discovered new products and processes.

State Has Been Remiss

The state has been remiss in the education of the people as to the value and importance of Iowa's present industries. A definite program of education is needed for the overcoming of the prevalent conviction that Iowa is not an industrial state," the professor believes.

Since 1914, the manufacturing industries of Iowa have grown at about the same rate as those of the nation as a whole, Professor McCarty pointed out. Rise of the meat packing, washing machine, and tractor industries are among the important developments.

Dean Williams Tells Engineer Faculty of Proposed Association

Plans for an engineering association composed of the engineering colleges of the Universities of Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota were outlined yesterday by Dean Clement C. Williams of the college of engineering at the weekly luncheon of the engineers faculty club.

An informal vote disclosed that those present favored the movement. Dean Williams said that if it is deemed worth-while to form the association that annual meetings will be held at alternate universities.

"Actuarial benefits of group insurance" was the topic of the address given by Prof. Henry L. Rietz of the mathematics department. A discussion of the benefits of insurance to both the group and the individual followed Professor Rietz' address.

Dean Returns From College Conference

Dean Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college returned last night from Berkeley, Cal., where he has been representing the University of Iowa at a meeting of the Association of American Universities.

Dean Seashore left the early part of the month for Eugene, Ore., to visit two sons, Robert and Siegfried, both of whom are instructors in the psychology department at Oregon university.

Iowan Studies Race Problems in Hawaii on Honolulu Faculty

Research in the field race relations now is being carried forward in Honolulu, Hawaii, by Prof. Edward B. Reuter, University of Iowa sociologist.

Granted a year's leave of absence from his university duties, he assumed his new work last month. He also is a faculty member of the University of Honolulu.

The university man is known for his studies of the Negro problem in the United States.

Dickinson, Turner Rated Favorably by Anti-Saloon League

DES MOINES, Oct. 29 (AP)—A report on the attitude of candidates in the Nov. 4 election toward prohibition was made public today by the Anti-Saloon League.

Senator Steck, democrat, was reported not satisfactory, but Representative L. J. Dickinson, republican candidate, was given a satisfactory status.

Dan Turner, republican gubernatorial nominee, received a "very satisfactory" rating, while his democratic opponent, Fred P. Hagemann, was listed as very unsatisfactory.

KNOW YOUR UNIVERSITY

Toothbrush Used by Head Hunters in Africa Among Curiosities in Dental Museum

Even the pilgrims had dentists. Proof: reposing in the dental museum is a turnkey for extracting teeth which was brought over in the Mayflower.

Although the collection is primarily for teaching and for the preservation of historical data, it is not too technical to be fascinating to the non-professional. It includes sets of dental instruments dating back many years, displays of fused molars, and animal skulls used in the study of comparative dental anatomy.

The teeth of these skulls range from walrus tusks over two feet in length, to the pin-like denticles of the rattle snake. Human skulls show teeth formations from the age of four months to adulthood.

There are cases of instruments and old fashioned implements including the simplest kind of a casting machine. It is a flat board, covered with a piece of asbestos which was used by the first casting clinic in Iowa. There is a quaint little old wall cabinet which looks like a doll's dresser.

One of the latest additions is a cabinet displaying pathological specimen of cysts and tumors to be used in class work. Portraits of the deans of the college hang on the wall. There are pictures of all the dental graduating classes from the first eight men in 1883 to the class of 1930 with over 70 graduates.

A diploma bearing the name of Jacob H. Besore, wrinkled and stained with age, is on the wall. It was one of the first ever granted.

At one end of the room is a row of old dental chairs. They are massive, upholstered creations in red and green, dating from 1890. "Have your teeth extracted in comfort," must have been the motto then. The sufferer probably presented a picture of heartache contentment, enthroned on his tapestried elegance.

The collection includes a gas mask used by the dental division of the medical unit in France during the World War. Examples of tartar which the old school dentist removed from teeth measure an inch across, impossible as it may seem.

Steps in making a modern sanitary tooth brush are demonstrated here. The finished product looks very different from the tooth brush used by a tribe of head hunters in Africa. This is a fibrous stalk, frayed at one end to rub the teeth and with the handle curved twice to scrape out the inside of the mouth.

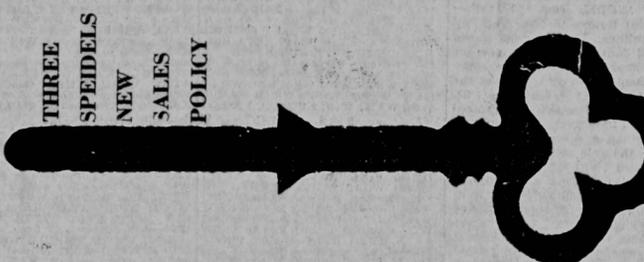

The latest addition to the museum is a homemade turkey used in 1852, and a set of forceps which date back to 1848, donated by E. L. Moravac of Cedar Rapids.

Elongated residents of Hutchinson, Kan., after suffering bruised foreheads, have complained to city officials that awnings on the main streets are too low.

The Texas game commission saved 774,500 fish from small streams and lakes during the summer drought.

A clock, broken for two years, started to run again after a light earthquake in Santa Monica, Cal.
