NATION-WIDE LIQUOR FIGHT LOOMS

Thompson Ill; Mass Vainly Awaits Talk

Appendicitis Lays Low Mayor; Condition Satisfactory

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—A surgeon's knife brought a sudden end today to Mayor William Hale Thompson's dramatic entry into the finale of a furious political campaign.

Stricken with acute appendicitis, Chicago's massive mayor was rushed, protesting, to a hospital at the very moment that an overflow crowd in a downtown theater waited to hear his characteristically mordant arraignment of his political foes.

An operation was performed immediately. At 2 p.m. he was brought from the operating room and a bulletin issued by his secretary said there was no immediate cause for alarm.

Mayor in Delicate Health
For two years Mayor Thompson had been in delicate health, almost a stranger to the public that had known him as a familiar dynamo of speech on the platforms of every ward in Chicago.

Politics was the love of his life, and he could not remain aloof. Returning from a vacation on the eastern seaboard a few weeks ago he pronounced himself in the fittest condition of years.

There was common talk in the press that he would be a candidate for a fourth mayoral term at the primaries next spring. "One election at a time" had been his cryptic response to inquirers.

Creates Party Branch
He plunged into the current United States senatorial campaign, avowing his support of James Hamilton Lewis, the wet democratic nominee, and creating a branch in his own party ranks.

The republican county organization remained true to the candidacy of Ruth Hanna McCormick.

Today he was to make his dramatic return to the hustings, a sort of "homecoming" to the political battle ground.

A crowd awaited his coming. There was no "Big Bill" on the platform, no cowboy hat waving at them in the familiar way.

A spokesman arose and made the brief announcement.

Condition Satisfactory
Two hours later, the mayor's condition was pronounced satisfactory but the attendants said they could not predict the outcome for 48 hours.

Mrs. Thompson, long in delicate health and prostrated recently when she was robbed of her jewelry at the door of her apartment, fainted at the hospital today but regained her composure after the mayor's physicians reassured her.

Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, city health commissioner and personal physician of the mayor, was summoned from Ft. Worth, Tex., and said he would leave for Chicago by plane.

E. Reclin, Will Give Organist, Noted Recital Here Nov. 9

Edward Reclin, organist, known as "America's foremost interpreter of Bach," will be presented in a recital Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. in the Congregational church.

He will take the place of the Sunday evening Union service, and is a community program to which all are invited.

The program to be given by Mr. Reclin includes: "Come Holy Ghost," "God and Lord," "Zachau," "Whatever God ordains is Good," "Walter," "From Heaven Above," "Pachelbel," "Wake, awake, for night is flying," "Krebs," "Improvisation," "Choral Harmonizations," "Bach," "Choral Preludes," "Bach," and "Tocatta D minor," "Bach."

Those sponsoring the presentation are: campus religious organizations, First Baptist church, Christian church, Congregational church, Episcopal church, First English Lutheran church, First Presbyterian church, the school of religion, the music section of the Woman's club, and Prof. Philip G. Clapp of the music department.

Brush Fires Blaze Way Through Santa Monica Mountains

VENTURA, Cal., Oct. 31 (AP)—Raging brush fires forced several hundred fire fighters to retreat today and then swept out of control, rolling through the Santa Monica mountains to the Simi hills on ever widening fronts.

4 Survivors Tell Tales of Dirigible Fire

Court of Inquiry Holds R-101 Investigation in London

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Four men who escaped with their lives from the inferno of the dirigible R-101 when she crashed and burned on a hillside near Beauvais, France, today recounted those terrifying moments just before the wreck at the court of inquiry investigating the disaster.

So harrowing was the experience that two of them asked the court not to compel them to describe the agonized screams of their comrades, and the commission was as gentle as circumstances permitted in questioning A. J. Cook, H. J. Leech and V. Savory, engineers, and Arthur Disley, radio operator.

It was a vivid story Cook told, and the others supported it with detail.

Ship Strikes Twice
About two o'clock in the morning, a few minutes before the crash, Cook had gone on duty as engineer in charge of the fourth unit engine.

The commander rang for reduced speed shortly after he reached his post. The ship dived sharply, then seemed to lunge toward the earth.

In a moment she had struck with a terrific jar and seemed to bounce before striking again. Then there was a rendering explosion which split the ship from bow to stern.

When he got the order for reduced speed, Cook said, he felt that something bad was wrong, for the craft had been going smoothly at normal cruising speed for some hours.

It confirmed a suspicion he had earlier when from his bunk near the gas bags, he observed the containers surging about heavily.

He had barely time to look over his shoulder through the engine room window when the ship went into a steep dive. She seemed to recover for a moment, then headed downward in the sharpest dive he had ever experienced.

Heat Terrible
Then she struck. It was a matter of seconds between the first and the second times the craft hit the earth, he said.

Cook tried to scramble out of the engine gondola toward the ship, but found the main body of the dirigible a wall of flame.

"The heat was terrific," he said, from the other side, but I was trapped. A longitudinal beam had blocked the opening. I lay down on an old tank and gave up hope."

"I must have been desperate," he said, "because I remember pushing the girder to one side and jumping over the side of the gondola. I landed in a tree."

Kiwanian Members Will Entertain Wives at Formal Dinner

Wives of Iowa City Kiwanians will be entertained by the club at a formal dinner at the Hotel Jefferson Nov. 11, at 6:45 p. m.

Friends of Kiwanian club members will also be entertained at the party. After the dinner the company will play bridge.

It is the plan of the committee and the hope of the club," states C. M. Updegraff, chairman of the committee in charge, "that the affair will be repeated on each Armistice night and thus become a club tradition."

Sheriff Finds Kidnap Gang's Headquarters

Yocum Held in Home of Mrs. Stockers at Lacon, Ill.

KEWANEE, Ill., Oct. 31 (AP)—The house in which Earl Yocum, Galva, Ill., and Aurelia, Ia., bank president, was held for three days and the woman who cooked the meals for him and his kidnapers were located at Lacon, Ill., today by Sheriff Charles Nash and State's Attorney Carl Mellin of Henry county.

The officers said the woman, Mrs. Frank Stockers, readily admitted her home was used by the gang. It was a stucco house a block east of the Illinois river.

Police Seek Pair
Search for the place at Lacon followed an alleged confession made by Vernon Ahlgren, Galva mechanic, who is one of two of the alleged gang in custody. Two others are being sought.

Mrs. Stockers told the officers that arrangements for keeping Yocum at her place were made by Floyd Winslow, an ex-covict, who also was implicated in the Ahlgren statement.

She cooked the meals, she said, and passed them to Winslow. To assure that she should not see any others of the gang or Yocum, she told the officers, Winslow ordered her to remain in her bedroom whenever members of the gang, other than himself, went in or out.

Ransom Package of Sticks
Winslow is one of the men sought. Orville Whiskers is the other. Ahlgren is in jail here and Harry Whiskers is held at the county jail in Cambridge.

Yocum's wife reiterated denials today that she operated with authentic members of the gang, who during the time her husband was held for ransom, which was never paid. Yocum was released when the kidnapers were told money awaited them at an agreed place.

Ahlgren, in his alleged confession, said they found a package of sticks.

Huge Masses Hail Brazilian Rebel Leader

175 Scouts Frolic at Hallowe'en Party

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 31 (AP)—The generalissimo of the authorized Brazilian revolution, Dr. Getulio Vargas, arrived here at 6:50 o'clock tonight to become provisional president of Brazil and was hailed as a conqueror.

Despite an intermittent drizzle during the day, great crowds were on hand to welcome Dr. Vargas, who was defeated for federal president in the election last spring and conducted the revolt beginning Oct. 3.

For hours before his scheduled arrival, thousands upon thousands of spectators surrounded the railway station and stood in masses along the avenue, watching the victorious southern troops marching through the streets.

The soldiers, most of them recruited from the pampas of Rio Grande do Sul and other southern states of the Brazilian union, arrived yesterday in advance of their chieftain.

Meanwhile Washington Luis, ousted as president a week ago yesterday, was still a prisoner in fortress Copacabana, forbidden to read the newspapers but able to browse through the garrison library and have his meals brought in from a restaurant outside. The deposed president still refuses to resign, however, and he was held incommunicado even on his birthday, last Sunday.

Tri-Motored Ford Plane on Exhibition at Municipal Airport

The huge tri-motored Ford plane which landed at the local airport yesterday will be on exhibition today and tomorrow and available for passenger flights under the auspices of the Nall Chevrolet company of Iowa City.

The city council, Dr. W. L. Bywater and D. W. Crum, have arranged to have the plane stay over until Monday night and do night flying at the dedication of the airport then.

Capacity of the plane is 12 passengers beside the crew. It weighs five and one half tons and is powered by three Wright Whirlwind motors. A mile high flight will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and at 4 o'clock there will be a passenger flight to Davenport.

Several local business men will be passengers on this flight.

The plane is owned by Golden State Airways of Los Angeles, Cal. It is piloted by H. F. Maish, a government licensed pilot of 13 years flying experience. J. J. Russell is chief mechanic, and E. R. Kann, traffic manager for the airways company, is also a member of the crew. All are of Los Angeles.

Science Enters Into Hallowe'en Pranks

Even science is entering into Hallowe'en pranks as paraffin displaced soap in marking the windows in the business section. Cars and even a bus of the Iowa City street railway company were marked by this substance.

Police received calls on stolen cars, but they were found just around the corner or in the next block. Reminiscences of the old timers brought up the days when buggies were found on top of barns wagon wheels were swapped, board walks were torn up and paint smeared in an indiscriminating fashion.

And the old timers complain the good days are gone as paraffin comes into its own.

Night Flying Exhibition at City Airport

Display Will Be Held Monday; Officials Are Invited

Iowa City chamber of commerce and Boeing Transport company will host Monday to the city in celebration of the completed Iowa City municipal airport.

Boeing people in cooperation with the chamber of commerce are planning an exhibition of night flying to display the new lighting system. A number of planes will participate in the demonstration.

Civic organizations, city council, the mayor, service clubs, chamber of commerce members and all city officials will be invited to join in an inspection tour of the new hangar, office, waiting room, radio department and other facilities.

Both men and women are invited to the program. A lunch will be served in the new hangar at the dinner hour for a nominal fee and will be followed by a short speaking program.

Jack C. Curtiss, Boeing official in charge of the chamber of commerce, and Dr. W. L. Bywater, chairman of the city council airport committee, will give talks.

The program is being planned for the evening in order that the community may witness the planes by night, guided by the flood lights, beacon and border lights.

175 Scouts Frolic at Hallowe'en Party

With the shrieks and groans of goblins and spooks ringing in their ears, more than 175 costumed boy scouts from the troops of the city turned the fourth annual boy scout Hallowe'en party into history.

Contests of various sorts were conducted in the gymnasium. Peanut scrambles, pie-eating contests, sham battles, and races in typical Hallowe'en fashion entertained the boys.

Prizes were given for costumes. Robert Burns and Merle Nebauer were awarded first place for their impersonation of a soldier and his mother. Lee Seger and Carl Potter tied for second place. Seger represented Peter Pan and Potter appeared in cowboy costume.

Awards for the best disguise were given to Dick Woods, William Smith, and Russell Alberts.

Coeds, Heating Impress Visiting English Debaters

Spitting, coeds, central heating, and iced water are the factors of American civilization which have most impressed N. C. Oatridge and Albert Edward Holdsworth, of Cambridge university, England, in the first two weeks of their tour of 28 American universities.

Among the many differences in English and American universities, the Cambridge men pointed out the greater informality in the English university in the method of conducting classes. Students are not compelled to go to any class unless they want to; in this way the proficiency of the professor is determined, for a class with an enrollment of 50 members may have no members by the end of the course.

Few Women Students
Athletics in the English universities do not have the following that they do in America, except for the Oxford and Cambridge boat races, which are practically a national institution. They have no organized cheering, however, and in cricket, the audience is supposed to refrain from loud cheering.

All the universities in England except Oxford and Cambridge are co-educational, but scarcely any of them to the extent of American universities. A few women students are allowed in Oxford and Cambridge, but they have no active part in the university life. "In fact," laughed Mr. Oatridge, "the general opinion is that Oxford is degenerating because

2 Cambridge Debaters Vie With Iowans

Uphold Disarmament to Obtain Audience's Vote 134-103

Before an audience of more than 300 persons the two man debate team from the University of Cambridge defended disarmament on the grounds that armaments create suspicion and distrust among the nations of the world and that they are a direct hindrance to the growth of a peace movement, in the first international debate of the year last evening in the natural science auditorium.

The Iowa team opposed disarmament, arguing that the government of a nation should insure security of its people by adequate armaments, that each nation has the right to determine for itself what part that security in military preparedness shall take, that the effect of abandonment of military preparedness would be disastrous, and that it would be practically an impossibility.

The proposition as stated was, "Resolved, that the present policy of military preparedness should be defended." The Cambridge team defended the affirmative side of the question.

Dean E. A. Gilmore of the college of law presided. Using the English style of decision, the vote, which was 134-103 in favor of the affirmative, was cast by the audience upon the merits of the question alone.

The Cambridge debaters, N. C. Oatridge and Albert Edward Holdsworth, pictured the horrors of war and emphasized the jealousies and suspicions caused by armament. Mr. Oatridge pointed out the enormous expenditures on armaments, which could be used for public health, education and other public causes.

The Iowa debaters, Herschel Langdon, L. S. of Gilmore City, and Roy McCall, G. of Bloomington, Cal., argued that the causes of war would not be removed by disarmament.

Popham Puts $350 Fine on Guilty Driver

P. B. Hildbaugh pleaded guilty to County Attorney F. B. Olsen's true information yesterday afternoon, and was fined $350 and costs by Judge R. G. Popham on a charge of driving an auto while intoxicated.

Hildbaugh paid the fine and was released.

The charge grew out of an accident on highway No. 161, near North Liberty, Thursday evening, when the car driven by Hildbaugh collided with a car driven by Thomas R. Daly, A3 of Cresco. Hildbaugh was arrested shortly after the accident occurred, and was taken to the county jail.

Lively Is New Champ DAVENPORT, Oct. 31 (AP)—William Lively, 20, of DeClaire won the Scott county corn picking championship today by husking 28.2 bushels.

Two thousand persons attended the contest. Lively is expected to enter the state championship competition at Shenandoah.

Large Guard at Oklahoma City Oil Fire

Army of 500 Called to Assist Firemen in Well Blaze

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31 (AP)—An army of a half thousand men, military and civil, guarded Oklahoma's capital tonight against the menace of a potential fire dragon—a gigantic wild oil well—that roared at the city's edge.

Nine units of the Oklahoma national guard were called to assist civil authorities in protecting life and property in the vicinity of the No. 1 C. E. Stout well, which since last night has been hurling prodigious quantities of oil and gas into the air less than a mile from the main business district.

Activities Suspended
All activities in the immediate threatened area on the southeast outskirts of the wholesale district were suspended.

Householders were warned not to light fires and residents nearest the well—mostly Negroes—were ordered to vacate their homes.

Trains were barred from tracks near the well because of the danger of their engine fires igniting the gas. Automobiles and trucks were forbidden entrance into the danger zone.

The well, estimated to have a daily production of 60,000 barrels of oil and 100,000 cubic feet of gas, tore loose last night when sand cut its connections.

Ordinary Methods Fail
Like the "Wild Mary" Sudik, famous outlaw that defied control for 11 days last spring, ordinary methods failed and a special device known as a "Christmas tree" a heavy steel conical bonnet, was being forged to drop over the belching maw of the well.

The guardsmen entered the area wearing wartime steel helmets and slickers as protection from the rain of oil. They were ordered out by Adjutant General Charles Barrett after an appeal had been made by Sheriff Stanley Rogers for military aid to supplement the efforts of his staff and city fire and police forces.

The well is just outside the city limits but much closer to the heart of the city than than the greater part of the residence districts. It is on the south bank of the North Carolina Canadian river which bisects Oklahoma City.

Senator Borah Warns of Impending Fight in Congress

By EDWARD J. DUFFY (Associated Press Staff Writer)
Signs of preparations to challenge and to defend constitutional prohibition in a mighty way multiply as the political campaigns whip to culmination.

Politicians and organizations at conflict on the issue, so energetic today in state after state, look ahead to the time when even more strenuous efforts must be exerted. They watch what's going on as keenly as do the republican and democratic headquarters in Washington.

The imminence of a struggle has been heralded by Senator Borah. Campaigning in the northwest for reelection of Senators Norris and Schall, prohibition advocates as he is, the Idahoan warned of an impending battle in congress to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

Repeat or Not?
"Repeat or not?" seems to be the pivotal point of dispute more than any other. Both parties remain divided on it, with outstanding members of each at odds.

In republican and democratic ranks alike the agitation has run from absolute support of the national law to modification for manufacture of light beer and wines, and on to taking the amendment from the constitution, letting the states deal with the problem.

But this campaign has led to an opinion in political ranks that the differences are crystallizing into sentiment, for and against repeal.

State Referendums
On Tuesday, Illinois and Rhode Island voters will express themselves on the question by referendum. Massachusetts ballots on the proposal to repeal the state enforcement act. Elsewhere, especially in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, repeal is one of the issues drawn as between democratic senatorial candidates in its favor and republican nominees against.

The way the votes fall in those cases certainly will heighten the chances for intense debate in congress, both during the approaching short session and when the new congress meets a year from December. Another year expected to further crystallization of sentiment on the repeal question will be the report of President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

Hoover to Get Report
The commission meets again the day after election, to arrange its findings from the long study of prohibition conditions. The report is expected to be made before January.

President Hoover will use that report in formulating any recommendations on prohibition he makes to congress. He has kept out of the campaign's running, but his opponent in 1928—Irving E. Smith—has told New England voters they would have to look to the democratic party for leadership.

DO-X, Biggest Plane in World, to Takeoff for N. Y. Tomorrow

ALPENSTEIN, Switzerland, Oct. 31 (AP)—Germany's great flying ship, the DO-X, which has carried almost as many as 169 persons but never has been away from sheltered lake Constance, is about ready to leave the nest in which it has hatched.

On Sunday, if the weather is favorable, the world's largest flying boat will leave for Amsterdam on what, if all goes well, will be the first leg of a cruise to New York.

After Amsterdam the DO-X will go to England and then to Lisbon, whence the start will be made for the American metropolis via the Azores and Bermuda. Maurice Dornier, in charge of the flight, said today that the earliest possible start from Lisbon would be Nov. 10, which probably would be the big airplane in New York two days later.

In preparation for this great venture the DO-X was given another trial flight over lake Constance today, principally to test the instruments and to show 25 newspapermen how the craft looks from the inside while cruising.

Democratic Rally Held in Solon Hall Thursday Evening

W. J. Keefe of Clinton, and Samuel D. Whiting of Iowa City, discussed the principal issues of the coming general election Nov. 4 at the second democratic rally of the Johnson county campaign, held in the C.S.P.S. hall at Solon Thursday evening.

Mr. Keefe, campaign manager for B. M. Jacobsen, delivered the principal address of the evening, speaking for Mr. Jacobsen with regard to the outstanding campaign issues. Mr. Jacobsen is candidate for representative to congress from the second district.

Nye Exonerated
"Meantime, has Hittchock any chance whatever of beating Norris? I wish I could think so, but from all the information I have been able to gather it looks dubious.

I am with kind regards, yours truly,

Train Kills Three

MORAN, Kan., Oct. 13 (AP)—Three persons, identified as Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hmy and their 4 year old son, Howard, of Nathan, Ark., were killed today at a railroad crossing one half mile south of here.

Their motor car was struck by a northbound Missouri-Kansas-Texas passenger train.

Women Give Hockey Meet

Visiting Instructors to Take Part; Tests to be Given

Women's physical education instructors of Ames, Grinnell, and Cedar Falls will participate today in a hockey play day being given by the women's physical education department and the Iowa City hockey club. Representatives from high schools and other colleges in the state are also expected to attend.

The day's program will include hockey games at 9:45 and 2 o'clock and 3:30 on the women's athletic field and a luncheon at noon at Iowa Union.

Physical education majors and staff members who are working for local umpire ratings will umpire at the games today and will be given tests for this rating by representatives of the United States field hockey association, including Cynthia Wesson, of the University of Wisconsin, and Signe Prytz and Jane Shurmer, members of the physical education department.

Other hockey play days to which state women's physical education instructors have been invited will be held on Nov. 15 and 22.

Early Entries Pour in for Hawkeye Beauty Contest

First entries in the 1932 Hawkeye beauty contest were made by 14 sororities and Currier hall. "I Can Do That Sunday"

The whole intent of sabbath observance is confused by an anonymous person who writes a letter to the editor in part as follows:

"I read your editorial concerning Sunday movies in East Orange, N. J. I agree with you in branding the tennis situation as senseless in regard to playing the sport on Sunday. But there is another problem at Iowa that also deserves some consideration. I refer to the fact that the libraries are closed on Sundays. Many students welcome Sunday as a day to accomplish many of their studies, especially when it is a matter of writing a theme or whatever you want to call it. Just think of what advantage it would be to many students of this university to be able to use the library on Sunday.

"Many of the leading universities in this country have adopted this plan. Iowa could keep in line as a leading university by also adopting this plan."

"Well, yes and no" may seem to be THE DAILY IOWAN stand on sabbath observance to anyone who supposes either that everyone should be made to attend church or sit at home with folded hands, or that everyone should be given all opportunity to do everything he wishes on Sunday.

Yet certainly there is a distinction between the blue law tyranny or prohibiting actions which do not interfere with the rights of others and the wide open policy of not only permitting but sanctioning and abetting what may not be regarded as desirable by the taxpayers who support this institution and whose wishes, after all, dictate much of its policy.

To insure the churches of no competition the university does not prohibit Sunday morning tennis and golf; it merely refuses to be a party to their play by denying its facilities during that time. The university is not obliged to furnish the student with Sunday sports; it does so of its own accord in response to student demand and student need.

There is a definite distinction between Sunday study and Sunday sports for students which must be clearly understood if one is to see that the university is not inconsistent in being accessory to one and not the other.

The real intent of the sabbath, which is a manmade institution and a common sense one rather than a divine, superimposed one, is to provide men with a necessary period for rest and diversion. Freedom from routine work and from daily tasks is one important part of its provision.

For the university student, who has supposedly come to obtain learning and knowledge and ability to think first of all the social contacts only secondarily, Sunday sports or even Sunday movies may be considered a diversion, like week end parties. Sunday study, on the other hand, means adding a day of routine without getting the rest period. It is hardly within the rights of a free institution to prohibit the act, but it certainly is within its rights to withdraw or deny its support. That the university has done.

Perhaps the current collegiate tendency is to make the week end rest period more a matter of Friday night through Sunday morning, with additional times on the remaining week days for "recreation." If so, until the present method of sabbath observance is altered to suit the collegiate class youth should prove adaptability by conforming to the old and proved way of doing things, or at least in not complaining when deviation from the week calendar brings with it the necessity of catching up without the opportunity of doing so.

It may be for the sincere student who finds Sunday study a necessity that the present curriculum is not perfectly designed to suit the time at a student's disposal, but it is likely that more of the conflict is with activities rather than with other studies, or even with periods of non-activity.

As the darky is reported to have said when somebody remarked, "Tempus fugit," in his presence, "She sho do!" Perhaps students who think they should have access to the library on Sunday to make up for week day deficits might consider their present motto of "Never do today what you can put off until Sunday."

Selecting the Most Popular

IT STARTED with the golden apple tossed on the banquet table of the gods on Mt. Olympus, labeled "to the fairest." Legend has it that such was the start of the Trojan war, with Paul of Troy rejecting Aphrodite, Minerve, and Hera for fair Helen.

Almost every university and college has some method of selecting the most popular girls on the campus. There are general elections where sororities and fraternities cooperate and stuff the ballot boxes to suit themselves. In large cities coeds compete with stenographers and office girls in movie theater popularity contests, and not always successfully. There are schools where faculty, student, or student-faculty committees make the choice. And sometimes the circulation manager of the yearbook governs the vote by allowing buyers of the publication to decide the issue.

These processes are means of determining political strength rather than popularity. At Iowa, with beauty the alleged criterion, the contest is redeemed by having competent critics judge the winners. As each sorority supposedly puts up its members who photograph best, the competition does somewhat as it is intended to in the selection of the prettiest.

Yet the voting phase of the contest means little more than a device to acquaint the campus with a yearbook which is good enough to stand on its own feet without that publicity feature.

Possibly the best means of arbitrating the rivalry among sororities—and it is among them rather than individual beauties—would be to have the Northwestern Bell telephone company cooperate in keeping a record of the calls received by each chapter house where there is a male voice on the other end of the line.

To Aid Labor

ENACTMENT of a law temporarily suspending all immigration into the United States is being urged by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and other leaders of trade unionism as well as scientific economists. Their position is that there are more than 3,500,000 persons out of work in the United States. In fairness to U. S. workers, the government should give them first consideration.

To do this the influx of workers from other countries should be stopped. It is possible to do this in one of two ways. Either an emergency law could be passed which would close the gates to immigrants during the emergency, or a reinterpretation of the present immigration law. Anyone liable to become a public charge may be refused a visa, and, plainly, that liability depends on and varies with industrial conditions.

An order from President Herbert Hoover to this effect would not be unfair to incoming immigrants. They would retain their priority and make their start in this country when normal conditions of employment are restored, and the plan would in itself be an aid to accomplishing the desired end.

Figures Don't Lie

STATISTICS show that every year many college graduates are jobless. Parents who have never had the opportunity for an education and have become successful in spite of this fact ask, "Why?"

The average girl enrolls for the required education courses, prepares herself for a few years of teaching, and hopefully looks forward to an eventual marriage. As a result, the teaching field is overcrowded, the supply exceeds the demand, and fathers continue to support grown children.

The unemployment problem would come much nearer to solution if college women would do the logical thing and major in some department with a larger field. Although their popularity seems less, commerce, pharmacy, professional courses and many others offer better futures and greater opportunities than teaching because they are less crowded.

Divorces have become so common that pretty soon really smart people will avoid them. —Washington Star.

The Other Side

(From The Peterson Patriot)

Some newspapers have been making a great fuss over the policy of compulsory military training at the state schools. We think a snappy cadet corps at the state university and at Ames is a great thing. It certainly is great for a lot of non-athletic fellows who wouldn't take any exercise any other way. We asked several students from here about it when they came home from the university last spring. They asserted that they enjoyed it and spoke of one fellow in particular who probably would take no exercise outdoors at all if he wasn't forced to it by compulsory training. Everyone knows that primarily this writer is a man of peace. Yet we attended the old Iowa State Normal school and got there just a month before they did away with their cadet corps for good. We enjoyed that one month we did have of it about as much as anything in college life. What could possibly be better for a fellow than to get out on a clear frosty day, head up and chest thrown back, stepping off to the tune of the cadet band, in perfect accord with all his fellows. Of course there are disagreeable days too. But we have them all through life—sometimes even when the sun is shining its brightest—so the boys in college might as well get used to that. We quote from the current issue of The Storm Lake Pilot-Tribune on the matter of military drill at college as follows:

"Military drill for the students at Ames and Iowa City was declared 'a farce' by some of the bright young collegians who appeared before the state board of education last week in opposition to this sort of physical exertion.

"One suspects that these oratorical lads are always prominent when lounge lizards get together. When it comes to three hours a week devoted to good healthy exercise that builds red corpuscles, naturally they prefer the easy chairs by the fire-side.

"As between arguments of these parlor cowboys and the logic of the sturdy citizens of the American Legion who favor such training, it wouldn't take us long to decide!

If military drill is so funny, why do the pacifists make such a serious fuss about it? "We real sarked W. W. Peters, a Legion member who saw real service in France if he subscribed to the argument advanced at the hearing last week before the state board of education; to-wit, that an hour's military drill three times a week at college makes the student militaristic.

"We used to drill several hours every day in the army," Peters replied. "But I never heard of any of the boys acquiring a fascination for war on that account."

Gathered From the News By BENNETT BURKE An American came to visit the Palace of Versailles late Monday. It was after entrance hours and the custodian turned him away. The man went without protest. Shortly afterwards it was learned that the sightseer was none other than John D. Rockefeller, who has contributed over $1,500,000 to aid in the preservation of the historic castle.

American tourists, by their pushing aggressiveness, too often antagonize foreign people. The example of Mr. Rockefeller is a relief. It seems that the more important a man is, the less he insists on others recognizing and bowing down to his importance.

Hugh Walpole, novelist, says that there are only six books in the world worth being called literature. They are: "War and Peace," by Tolstoy; "The Iliad," by Homer; "Pride and Prejudice," by Jane Austen; the first volume of Keats' poetry, "Arabia Deserta," by "Doughty"; "Canterbury Tales," by Chaucer.

Anyone who reads can instantly name other books by authors that he believes should be on the list, and most would argue strongly against some of those included by Walpole. Books are like tastes in foods—some like this and some like that. And what is literature anyway except the survival of certain writings because certain people enjoy reading them?

The United States is rather "on the spot" as far as the Brazil question is concerned. Having backed the loser, it is now up to the American government to gently insinuate itself into the good graces of the new rulers. So far there has been no move, as in the case of other South American revolution, to immediately recognize the new government. Yet Washington has not denied but what it will do so in time. Things would, however, have been easier for the U. S. if it had been more non-partisan during the rebellion. Maybe some day we will learn that it pays at times to keep the thumb out of the pie.

Cresco Girl Victim of Infantile Paralysis at Carleton College NORTHFIELD, Minn., Oct. 31 (AP)—Evelyn Thompson, 20, of Cresco, died today of infantile paralysis, the second victim of the disease at Carleton college. The college has been under quarantine since Monday. Efforts to save Miss Thompson's life by use of a respirator, or "mechanical lung," after she lost the use of muscles in her chest, proved fruitless. Robert Mason of Highland Park, Ill., was the first victim of the disease.

Hunters of Iowa City Open War on Ringneck Pheasant Today in Northern Counties

By H. BERNARD HOOK "There goes that pheasant, nail him!" Bang—bang—bang, and maybe a few more bangs, and maybe no pheasant, for the ringnecks have a peculiar shyness all their own, and are not as easy to lay down as ducks or cottontails.

Carman will bring the birds down in the Riceville territory. Many of the farmers have taken time out from their husking duties this week to hang out "No Hunting" signs.

More than 100 hunting licenses were issued from the Johnson county recorders office yesterday. This gives evidence that Iowa City sportsmen will be well represented in northern Iowa at 6:17 today, a half hour before sunrise, when the first crack of the guns will sound in 23 counties where the state fish and game department has announced a five day open season.

State Limits Bag Hunters should particularly observe the bag limit and the hours of shooting. Violators of the law, which states that no more than three birds of either sex may be bagged from the time of one half hour before sunrise until sunset, will find themselves facing a severe penalty if they are caught by game wardens.

Hawkeyes Out to Regain Prestige Against Powerful Titan Eleven Today

Iowa Squad Practices on Detroit Field

Betting Favors Titans; Speedy Backfield Big Asset

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 31 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Thirty-three University of Iowa gridders worked out in the Detroit stadium in a snappy one hour drill this afternoon. The practice consisted of a limbering up drill, punting, passing, and a brief period of formations. Tonight the Hawkeye warriors are encamped in Webster Hall here. Meanwhile several scores of Detroit gridders are priming themselves for the fray. The Titan dressing room is decorated with signs saying "guts count," and clippings of early Old Gold games.

Tomorrow's battle promises to attract a record crowd as it is the first time that a Detroit team has engaged a Big Ten foe. Betting favors the local outfit based on the splendid record Coach Dorais' gridders have hung up in their four consecutive triumphs. On the other hand, Iowa has suffered three consecutive losses and is due to break into the win column.

Iowa will rely on a strong defensive line to stop the speedy Titan backfield that has a habit of breaking loose for long runs. Ingwersen will depend upon the powerful off-tackle drives of Leo Jensvold, Sansen, Kriz, and Warrington to bring his team to the front. Injuries to Hay and Rogge will weaken the Old Gold wing posts. The Detroit line is coached by Arthur "Bud" Boeringer, former all-American center at Notre Dame. Nassuet at tackle and Hackett at end have developed into outstanding players as has Bill Fitzpatrick, ball snapper. Detroit's line has consistently opened holes to give the speedy backs a chance to go places and its blocking and tackling has been dead. In all in all, the present line has developed into one of the finest forward walls ever to perform for the Red and White.

Probable starting lineup:

Stribling Wins Via Knockout in Short Bout

BOSTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The powerful blows that flattened Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott gave W. Young Stribling, battle-worn hero of Georgia, a three round knockout over the ruffled K. O. Christner of Akron, O., here tonight in what was to have been the Arzone A. A's feature 10 round contest in the Boston arena.

Stribling fought a cool-headed battle with his courageous rival and came out of a clinch in the third to batter Christner's head with a heavy two fist barrage. One of these blows, a stinging left hook, split Christner's nose and the injury appeared so serious. Referee Johnny Brassil pulled him away from the southerner and assisted him to his corner. Then the official raised Stribling's arm in token of victory.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 31 (AP)—The golden hurricane of the University of Tulsa, repulsed the invading Colonials of George Washington university in an intersectional gridiron combat on Skelly field here tonight, 14 to 6.

The fast double tennis combination of Phi Delta Theta, Quigley and Chesterman, earned their position in the fourth round of the interfraternity tennis doubles tourney when they finally subdued a fighting pair of Kappa Sigmas, Palmer and Carson, in the deciding set, 6-2. The total contest scores were 6-2, 8-5, 6-2.

The match scores do not begin to tell of the hand to hand struggle between these two flashy combinations, who began their assaults across the net last Monday afternoon, darkness halting the contest when the score stood 6-2, 8-8. Palmer and Carson in defeat showed fine sportsmanship and displayed a brand of tennis which would have carried them to a win in most any match. The Phi Delta will next meet the winner of the Delta Chi-Phi Beta Delta contest.

Wickey Takes First to Help Iowa Score 25-30 Win

By LEROY FUNCK

Outrunning the Grinnell pack, 25 to 30, the Hawkeye harriers hung up their second win in three starts. Howard Wickey coasted in first, edging out a 40 yard lead from Pillsbury, Grinnell, on the final stretch. Wickey's time was 21 minutes, 13 7-10 seconds.

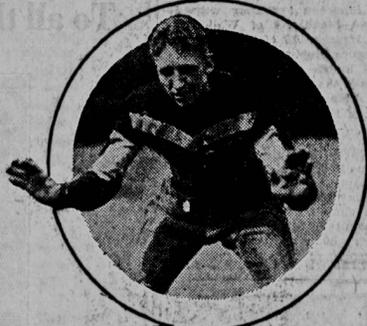

McIlrath, Grinnell, beat out Skowbo for third place. Kelly followed in fifth place; trailed by Vanatta in sixth. Secor, Grinnell, and Naylor fought it out for seventh place with the Pioneer harrier crossing the line first. Bures, Grinnell, was ninth and Gunderson tenth.

A cold, cutting wind hampered the runners and cut down the spectators to a few half-dozen officials and team handlers.

It was a nip and tuck affair between Wickey and Pillsbury throughout the entire race, with the lead shifting back and forth. Pillsbury held the lead at the end of the mile, Wickey paired with him at the two mile mark. Pillsbury gained a ten yard lead at the three mile mark. Coming in on the last 880, Wickey and the Pioneer harrier paced it stride for stride, until the last 200 yards where Wickey stepped ahead and picked up his lead by the time he hit the tape.

Fans, Meet George Rogge, Veteran Hawkeye End, Captain for Detroit Game Today

If some Iowa player should utter Walt Whitman's famous quotation, "O, Captain! My Captain!" in today's game with Detroit, he may not receive a response. The captain chosen for the contest, George Rogge, is so bruised and battered that he may not get into the game.

In this day of well advertised backfield players, ends seldom are given their due attention. Iowa fans haven't taken adequate notice of Rogge, who has been playing right end regularly without ostentation.

Not Flashy, But Steady

George isn't one of those spectacular pass receivers, but a right smart wingman who plays as useful a brand of ball as anyone on the squad. Regarding blocking, Rogge takes his hat off to no one. On defense he's probably the best the Hawkeyes have had at end in some years.

When it comes to piling up hostile interference on defense and blocking out rival tackles on offense, Coach Ingwersen relies to a considerable extent on this big, loose flankman.

This is his third year of competition. He won a major letter two previous seasons for his play at end. He also earned his numerals as a freshman.

A major emblem was awarded him in basketball his sophomore year. Last season he did not report for the cage squad. He hasn't made up his mind yet whether he'll turn out for this year's basketball team.

Ida Grove Prep Star

Rogge hails from Ida Grove, where in high school he was the town's outstanding prep athlete for four years. He played in high school basketball for four seasons. He never played end until he came to Iowa. He points with pride to the fact that Ida Grove high lost only three games in the years he played.

On the basketball quintet he played forward. His last season the prep five came up to Iowa City to participate in the state high school finals.

He was a baseball player the two years baseball was a sport in high school. At Iowa he has confined his athletic activities to football and a season of basketball.

Little Hawks Play Grinnell Here Today

Coach George Wells will send his Little Hawks against the highly touted Grinnell gridders at Shradler field this afternoon in an effort to continue the winning stride started last Saturday against the Columbus Junction outfit. Grinnell has a superb back in Kessinger who calls the signals for the visitors.

It is still doubtful as to the chances of Cleatus Stimmel, tackle and halfback who has been suffering from an injured leg. Also, Lawrence Burr may be on the sidelines unless his had knee recovers sufficiently to return to his halfback post.

The local lineup is: Isensee, center; Riecke and Miller, guards; Schroeder and Crawford, tackles; Reed and Lew, ends; Yetter, quarterback; Van der Zee and Vestermark, halfbacks; and Wright, fullback.

Moore Scores as Handymen Beat West Branch

U Hi Wallops West Branch in Hard Fight

Blue and White Show Strong Defense in League Tilt

Playing straight football throughout, the University high gridder took a hard fought game from West Branch by a score of 7 to 0 at Iowa field yesterday afternoon. With Moore driving off the tackles and around the ends, and Nicola cracking the line, the Handymen went through their opponents for consistent gains, and threatened to score several times.

Moore Goes Across
The Blue and White marker came early in the third quarter. Wyjack returned the kickoff to midfield, and U. H. started a drive with Moore and Nicola carrying the ball. The first two downs brought the oval to the 22 yard line. On the next play Moore scampered inside his right end, eluded several tacklers, and continued unmolested over the goal line. On the same play he added the extra point.

Threaten Twice
In the fourth quarter U. high threatened twice. Moore and Wyjack cooperated in bringing the ball to the 26 yard line, but the latter's pass was incomplete on the last down. After West Branch had punted, the Blue and White began another drive from their 40 yard marker. Moore climaxed this with an 18 yard sprint around left end, but as the opposing safety man tackled him he fumbled, and West Branch recovered.

The Purple and White never seriously threatened to score, and only three times did they invade U. high territory beyond the 30 yard line. After the first kickoff they carried the ball from midfield to the 17 yard stripe on straight football. Here the local line stiffened, and held for downs. Again in the third and fourth quarters they threatened with the aid of breaks, but each time were repulsed. In the third stanza Wyjack's fumble presented an opportunity. Thomas and Zalesky drove through the line for two first downs, placing the pigskin on the 28 yard line. However the next four plays netted only five yards.

No, No, West Branch
In the final quarter West Branch opened up with a passing attack. After the Blue and White had lost the ball on their own 40 yard line, Thom-

Wearing The GREEN

It was indeed a blow to Coach Otto Vogel's yellow shirts when Gerald P. Foster, Davenport grid produe, was injured the third night of freshman football practice. "Jerry" suffered a bursted spleen and was confined to the hospital for three weeks. He resumed class work last week, but will be unable to practice with his teammates for the remainder of the season.

"Jerry" attended Davenport high school and it was here that he won two football letters to start his gridiron career off with a bang. He was rated in high school grid circles as one of the best tackles in the state. His athletic ability isn't limited to football alone however—he likes track and has to his credit many medals and ribbons for firsts won in the field events. His favorite events are the shop-put, discus, and the hammer throw.

Graduated from Davenport high school in 1928, "Jerry" and his brother "Bill" entered Lake Forest Academy. During his prep career he won two letters on the gridiron playing as, flashy West Branch fullback, completed two aerial attempts to Olsen, that advanced the oval 15 yards. They were again unable to gain through the local forward wall, and lost possession of the ball. They never menaced the Blue and White goal line again during the remainder of the contest.

For University high the entire line played good football, although Lenz, Means, and Fuhrmeister made the majority of the tackles. Captain Moore starred in the Handy backfield. With his injured arm he gained more yards from scrimmage than all the rest of the ball carriers combined, while his blocking helped his team mates get away for needed yardage time and again. He was ably assisted on offense by Nicola and Wyjack, while Young displayed his usual strong defensive game. For West Branch, Thomas, Olsen, and Waters stood out.

The lineups:

U. HIGH	WEST BRANCH
Fuhrmeister L.E., L.E.	Kinsey
Prybil L.T., L.T.	West
Foster L.G., L.G.	Madsen
Lenz C.C., C.C.	Green
Westcott R.G., R.G.	Murphy
Perkins R.T., R.T.	Waters
Means R.E., R.E.	Olsen
Wyjack Q.B., Q.B.	Stratton
Young R.H., R.H.	Christenson
Nicola L.H., L.H.	Zalesky
Moore L.H., F.B.	Thomas
McCloy F.B.

his favorite position—tackle. "Jerry" is strong offensively and can always be counted on to open up a hole for the ball carriers to hurry through. Defensively he is known as a stone wall possessing that instinctive knack of bracking up the opposition's plays before they are started. In track at Lake Forest he won two letters by tossing the shotput and hurling the discus for many firsts and seconds.

"Jerry" will be unable to compete in athletics until next spring, but he expects to win his numeral in spring football and later continue his track career as a weight man.

Gehrig Spends Two Hours Under Knife

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Lou Gehrig, Yankee's first sacker, spent two hours on the operating table at St. Vincent's hospital today undergoing repairs for the 1931 baseball season.

Lou underwent an operation on his left elbow and the forefinger of his right hand, which bothered him during the closing days of the season but failed to keep him out of the Yankee lineup. He probably will be confined to the hospital for a week or 10 days.

Kyvig in Charge of Handball Sessions

Handball bids fair to assume the position as one of the major attractions in the American Legion community building program for the coming season. At present there are about a dozen men working out under the direction of Harold Kyvig, conditioning preparatory to the tournament that will decide the city championship. The tournament will begin about the first of December.

AMES, Oct. 31 (AP)—Glenn Fall, oil station attendant, reported to police that two bandits locked him in a room of the station last night and took $69 from the cash register.

Inheritance Tax Gains
DES MOINES, Oct. 31 (AP)—State Treasurer R. E. Johnston reported that inheritance tax collections during October totaled $84,328.94. During October a year ago, they amounted to $80,358.82, and during September of this year $48,963.34.

Sportively Speaking

By Bill Rutledge

The domestication of wild tabbies in purple is the task confronting Minnesota this afternoon. The Wildcats have been all go and no stop this season. They feasted on Tulane, Ohio State, Illinois, and Centre elevens—and are in search of tougher meat. They'll find it at Minneapolis.

Zoologically a Gopher hasn't much of a chance against a Wildcat, but ever since Coach Grisler's team held Stanford scoreless, experts concede Minnesota a fighting chance.

The cockiness one would expect to be present in the Purple squad after its spectacular showings and with the return of Capt. Bruder is virtually nonexistent. Every seat has been sold for this leading conference tussle of the day. The Wildcats will be spurred on by a rooting section of more than 6,000 partisans from Evanston and Chicago.

A homey little group of friends and alumni from both Princeton and Chicago will watch the tame Tigers and the weak Maroons struggle to see who has the worst team. Coach Amor Alonzo Stag or Coach Bill Roper.

Wisconsin fans are waxing as enthusiastic as ever, despite the 7 to 6 setback from Purdue last Saturday. They are confident that the Badgers can comeback after the heartbreaking loss and put a crusher on the Buckeyes. It is the first meeting of the two universities in 10 years.

It is not improbable that the fray will resolve itself into an aerial duel. For two weeks Coach Willaman has been drilling the Ohioans on a pass offense with Wes Fesley on the throwing end.

Likewise the Cardinals have been putting a sheen on their aerial weapons. It's an old Thislethwaite custom that if you can't gain on land, then take to the air.

The House of Zuppke is fast losing its old standing among the grid elite. The Illini have been buffeted about the conference pretty badly this fall and the prospects are that they will suffer more defeats. The Orange and Blue gridmen will probably take it on the chin again today, this time from Purdue.

The Bollermakers, by the way have not given up hopes of getting a cut of conference honors. One defeat, they reason, does not put them out of the running for Big Ten's mythical titles.

With the insurance salesman, Jarring Jim Bausch, in its lineup the Kansas Jayhawkers clash with Penn university this p.m. at Philadelphia. Kansas has mauled all teams it has met so far, and the outlook is that the Jayhawkers will continue.

E. H. Lauer, director of Hawkeye athletics, attributes the failure of the conference to ratify Northwestern's proposal to shift the scene of its game with Notre Dame to Soldiers' field to the Wildcats' own lack of enthusiasm for the change. "I don't doubt at all but that the conference would have granted the change had Northwestern wanted it bad enough."

Laughing Boy

By Oliver La Farge

(What Has Gone Before) Laughing Boy meets Slim Girl at a ceremonial dance and falls in love with her because she is different from any other squaw he has ever known.

His family advises him not to go with her, but after he loses his money and horse, Slim Girl persuades him to go with her to her home. She will get him much silver to work with and horses to breed, she tells him.

Slim Girl, who has been educated by the Americans, has copied many of the Americans ways. She has the ability to please white men.

Now and then she goes to the town for an afternoon. She tells Laughing Boy she goes to help the minister's wife. She goes to spend the afternoon with a white man. He gives her money, and with this money she is able to keep herself and Laughing Boy. But always she is anxious to relearn the Indian customs and the Indian songs, and she is hungry for the life that she has put behind her.

(Now Go on With the Story)

"Grandfather, let us not run around things, let us not pretend," he said. "You have not said anything, but you have said too much. Do not pretend not to know what I mean. If you like what you are doing so much that you are willing to fight about it, go on. If not, stop it. I say, not just do less of it, or do it differently, but stop it entirely. That is what I mean. I have spoken."

Red Man studied him; he was plainly in deadly earnest. He might just as well have acted instead of spoken—those men from up there have not yet realized the power of police and law. Among Navajos, the reasonable and acceptable way to have done, had he acted, would have been from ambush. Red Man felt he had had a narrow escape. He emphatically did not like what he was doing that much. Time would inevitably bring sorrow to the fellow.

"I hear you, Grandfather."

These occasional absences of from three days to over a week made complications in Slim Girl's arrangements with her American. His trips in to town from his ranch were made on business that was, as often as not, conjured up to excuse himself to himself for seeing her. Each rendezvous would be arranged in the time before, or by a note left in the little house, which she was supposed to visit at fixed intervals. Now it was occurring, as never before, that he would demand her presence on a certain date, only to be told it was impossible. Increasingly, as her love for her husband gained upon her, he suspected part of the truth, and tormented himself with jealousy. The husband whom he had always regarded as rather mythical, seemed in the past few months to have become exacting. In moments of honesty towards himself, he writhed at the acid thought of being used by a squaw for the benefit of herself and some low, presumably drunken, Indian.

He rode into Los Palos through the bottomless mud and wet of a spring thaw, only to find a note on the table:

Dear George
My husband make me go too dance I will come day after tomorrow-afternoon. please not mind.
Lillian

The poor fool cursed, got drunk and waited over.

That had been a very pleasant dance; they had ridden part of the way home with as likable a crowd as the one that rode from T'o Tiklak to the trading post. She tasted the flavour of it as she changed into her Sears-Roebuck dress and set out for Los Palos. Laughing Boy had surprised on her face, once or twice, that look of triumphant hatred when she returned. He would have been astonished could he have seen her now.

She looked back on their young, on the corral and the still leafless young peach trees, visualizing the dance, her people, and him. Her face was tender, almost yearning. Then she turned away towards the town, and braced her shoulders. For a moment she smiled, a war-path smile, and she was hard. Her upper lip curled back, showing her small, even, white teeth. Then her expression was blank; that passive look upon her oval face that made one turn to it again and again, wondering what deep, strong thoughts were going on behind the lovely mask.

He was in the house before her. She braced herself again at the door, then blotted everything from her eyes, becoming a happy, pretty woman with nothing on her mind. He rose as she entered. He did not answer her smile or move to touch her; that meant there would be a scene. Oh, well!

"Look here, Lillian, this getting too thick. Here I come in here just to see you—we made the date didn't we—and you've gone prancing off to some dance. It won't do. I don't ask so much of you, but you've got to keep your dates, do you see? Don't make me suspect you. . . ."

She hated scenes, loud voices, turmoil, protestations. God, damn this man! Jutha hago hodo slonh. She sat still, looking at him with wide, hurt eyes and drooping mouth. By and by he ran down.

"You think I forgot everything? What for you think those things, hey? I'm sorry I go away. I do it because I got to, you see? My husband, he tink something bad, I tink. So he act mean, dat man. But you know."

"The trouble is I don't know. I wonder about you. I wonder if you try at all, or just do what's handiest for you. I've got some consideration coming to me, you know."

The man was truly jealous, he was miserable, she had him right in the palm of her hand. She didn't have to say much, just let him do it. After he'd got rid of all this, the fact remained that he loved her, and that was all that mattered.

He drew her towards him, she sat on his knees, her hands on his shoulders. He bent her face back and stared into her eyes. They were deep, deep, and swimming. There was a look in them that thrilled him, a look that must be true. Now there was an imprint of real truth in her words and gestures, and the fierceness of her kiss.

She was not acting any longer, she did not have to pretend this. There was no more falsehood in it than there is in an arrow leaving a bow. She hated him. On him she had concentrated all her feelings towards Americans in general, everything that she had ever suffered. In him she was revenging herself upon them all. Her kisses were weapons, her tendernesses were blows struck in the full heat of battle. She was revenging herself, and she was acquiring the means to her perfect life.

Bound by those hours of happiness, he could not break away. These days, he gave her more money than he ever had before, more than he could well afford, seeking to bind her to him, knowing that that was no way to arrive at truth, but craving, if she were lying to him to be tied to so well he would be contented. He made many efforts to improve her, feeling how remarkable a woman she was. He wanted her to read books, but he distaste for them was deep and sincere; he wanted to make a superior American out of her. He would have liked to raise her to a position in which he could respect himself if he married her.

She was afraid always that he would ask her that, but he was not quite so lost. She kept him at tension, administering happiness and unhappiness carefully, accepted his increased gifts, and in her mind shortened the time of waiting. But it did not make a smooth road to travel.

She was beset by difficulties and entanglements, but she was conquering them one by one, even turning them to her use, as though she were taking weapons from her enemies. She could share and hand them, she could control her destinies in theirs. In her thoughts, she tasted in advance the happiness of the goal towards which she aimed, and she felt her power, power, power; and so, as far as she could tell, she was happy.

Her weaving was winning Laughing Boy's unstinted praise, and, to her surprise and great satisfaction, becoming a source of income. The trading post in Los Palos would pass on to her when she returned from tourists or people in the East. If she had been willing to weave the entirely un-Indian pictures of actual objects that so many tourists demand, she could have had all the work she could handle at fancy prices; but she refused to do anything, or use any colours not pure Navajo, and she strengthened her husband in his natural reluctance to stamp shapeless strings of swastikas, thunder-birds, and other curiosities on his silver. She was precise about it, as she was about all Navajo things. It was one piece with her eagerness to speak familiarly of everything familiar to them, to participate in every phase of their life, to acquire completely the Navajo gesture. When they were rich and lived in the North, she thought, she would make herself an influence for preserving all native ways; she would use any power they acquired in combating Christianity, short hair, shoes, ready-made trousers, and the creeping in of American-derived words. Already she had amused her husband by insisting on calling coffee by its old, cumbersome name of little-spilt-round-ones, instead of the much easier "coghwe," that had been taken into the language.

Laughing Boy's reputation was spreading. The Harvey agent had made her a tentative offer for them to come to Grand Canon. In the beginning of spring, at planting time, they moved forest and loom outdoors again. At sunset, laying aside tools, or coming in, tired and at peace from working in the soft earth, they sang together.

Now was the time when ponies began to grow fat, and the desert was all one mass of flowers. Remembering a good thing from her school days, Slim Girl brought in great bunches, Indian paint brush, fireweed, cactus blooms, and a hundred others, and stuck them in the cans about the house. This puzzled Laughing Boy at first, but later he caught on, and enjoyed grouping them, with a good feeling for arrangements of masses of colour, but little interest in the blossoms as such.

There was movement in the desert. Horse-trading picked up again. The first sprouts of corn came through the ground, the peach trees began to put out leaves; one of them triumphantly produced a blossom. The days slipped by. Life was settled, serene, and monotonous; there was no detail of it that one would wish to change.

Oregon Senator, First Seated by Appointment, Has Introduced Many Measures for Farmer

Although he first entered the United States senate by appointment, Charles L. McNary of Oregon, has long been champion of agriculture and together with Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa fostered one of the most widely known measures for the aid of agriculture that has been introduced in recent years, the McNary-Haugen bill.

Born on a farm near Salem, Ore., Senator McNary early decided on a career in the senate in behalf of the farmer, and accordingly made an intensive study of farm conditions. With the death of Senator Harry Lane in 1917, McNary secured his seat in the senate through appointment. Since that time he has been re-elected for each consecutive term.

During his first year in the senate, the Oregon senator took the side of the wheat growers and was credited with the establishment of the primary wheat market which saved $7,000,000 for the farmers of the northwest. He took an active part in promoting legislation to permit the war finance corporation to advance funds to farmers and livestock men to carry their products until sold.

Establishment of the system of broadcasting market, weather and crop reports was due to the efforts of Senator McNary; he assisted in securing the passage of the intermediate credit act, known as the rural bill. He worked for protective tariff on various western farm and dairy products and introduced the resolution which paved the way for a treaty between the United States and Canada for the protection of the Pacific Coast salmon industry. In 1920 he aided in drafting the Merchant marine act. Senator McNary has served on the senate committee on agriculture and forestry and was a member of the committee on commerce, irrigation, manufactures and public lands and surveys.

Behind The Scenes IN HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31—News-paper stories have not fallen completely from grace, for one is being written at First National to submit to Richard Barthelmess.

Dick returns to Hollywood about Nov. 24. By that time his wife, Jessica, will be entirely recovered from a recent appendicitis operation.

The star rides on the crest of a new popularity wave, following "The Dawn Patrol," over which Howard Hughes, producer of "Hell's Angels," shot First National. This picture also set Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., on a new pedestal.

As is usually the case in the movies, there was talk of following

"The Dawn Patrol" with another Barthelmess air picture, but First National apparently has thought better of it. And it thereby wins the gratitude of this department. The savior of so many fine pictures has been ruined by subsequent imitations.

THE RECIPE FOR GENIUS

Al Boasberg explains the secret of Charlie Chaplin's success: "He pays attention to detail," says Al. "When there is a time lapse of six months in the story, Charlie doesn't use a title. He waits it out, Jr., on a new pedestal."

them on a par with the screen's best known stars.

I NOTE THAT

Ann Harding and Harry Bannister are digging out part of their hilltop to put in a tennis court. Underneath will be a projection room. . . . Humphrey Bogart, who played the young man in "Up the River," is able to essay a screen career, because his father, a well known surgeon, performed an operation to remove a disgusting shrapnel scar from his lip. The scar didn't show on the stage, but the camera caught it. . . . Bill Rasmussen, an old character man, makes his office on a fireproof opposite the Paramount studio. When he is not working elsewhere, he always is to be found on the hydrant, ready in case of an unexpected call. As a result, Paramount frequently uses him. . . . Edie von Stroheim is writing the talkie version of "Blind Husbands" at home. On the occasion of his trip to Vienna, von Stroheim wore a false mustache and a wig to keep from being recognized. What a shock it had taken them off and still hadn't been recognized.

DO YOU KNOW

University to Celebrate at Homecoming

Penn State Grid Tilt Features; Socials Also Listed

Celebration of the University of Iowa's nineteenth annual Homecoming will be accomplished Nov. 14 and 15 by alumni and friends of the university with a program of about a dozen events.

Under the chairmanship of Prof. Forest C. Ensign of the college of education, a committee of 95 men and women—faculty members, students, alumni, and townpeople—are completing the details of the affair.

Attractions have been planned to appeal both to the socially inclined and to the athletic fan. A dance and two receptions are events of Friday evening and luncheons are scheduled for Saturday noon.

Iowa-Penn State Grid Game
The football game with Penn State's team Saturday afternoon is the highlight of the entire program. Penn State is the first eastern team ever to play in Iowa City, and its presence furnishes an inter-sectional game for the first time at an Iowa homecoming.

Other athletic events of Saturday include a dual cross country run with Notre Dame—another team which never before has been met in the sport—and a continuous exhibition of athletics and military activities in the field house.

Unveil Finkbine Portrait
All other activities will cease Saturday at 11 a.m. when homecomers pay tribute to the memory of William O. Finkbine, prominent alumnus who died last summer. A memorial in the form of a portrait of Mr. Finkbine will be unveiled.

Alumni are expected to represent a dozen states. Prominent among the returning graduates will be members of eight football teams which played at five-year intervals between 1890 and 1925.

Associated Students of Engineering Will Give Party Nov. 28

The Associated Students of Engineering will hold a party in Shadowland ballroom, Nov. 28. The party committee is as follows: Leo J. Aschenbrenner, E3 of Dysart; Donald D. Jenkins, E4 of Corning; Robert K. Vierck, E3 of Avoca; Orville B. Hathaway, E4 of Glenwood; and Herbert F. Bruns, E4 of Davenport, chairman.

Only those students who are members of A. S. of E. may attend.

Prof. Holmes Seeks Available Rooms for Homecoming Guests

Prof. Fred E. Holmes, manager of the housing service, is compiling a list of rooms in private homes available for Homecoming, Nov. 14-16. Professor Holmes yesterday asked those who have rooms they wish to rent during Homecoming to notify his office in Iowa Union.

Students who expect guests during Homecoming may obtain a list of available rooms at the housing service office.

Goodsell Tells Class of Near East Needs

Importance of the westernization of Turkey and the rest of the near east, due to strategic geographical position, was emphasized by Frederick F. Goodsell in his lecture before the students in the school of religion yesterday at 11 p.m.

Mr. Goodsell is executive vice president of the American board of the Congregational church. He at one time made his home in the near east.

OTTUMWA, Oct. 31 (AP)—Seized with a heart attack as he was watching a fire in the Schafer ice house near his home, Isaac Grimley, 79, died today.

"Be Ladies and Gentlemen"—Only University Ruling for Men, Women 35 Years Ago

By JEANNE TART

There was a time, 35 years ago, according to the records, when university parties lasted until the wee small hours, or, as Homer would put it, until "the early rosy-fingered dawn" appeared. There were no chaperons, and practically the whole student body turned out for the affairs. The music was furnished by the only two orchestras in town—"Punch" Dunkel's orchestra or Guy Ogle's and Bert Mahanna's.

Iowa Union was not in existence then, and sorority and fraternity houses were unknown. The dances were usually held in what was known as Smith's Armory, on S. Clinton street, a site now occupied by a garage, or in the dining room of the Berkeley hotel.

But, in spite of these inconveniences, the parties were considered by the students and the faculty members, who also attended, as rather "ritzy," and the gentlemen turned out in full dress suits, swallow-tail coats, and white gloves.

Walking was entirely out of the question—walking a distance of two blocks was not even conceived of, and they would drive up in buggies, or, if buggies were unavailable, lumber wagons would serve. There was not much drinking among the students at that time, although there were 17 saloons in Iowa City.

The first party of the year was supposed to be given by the freshmen—that is, when the freshman class could overcome the sophomore class. In those days, there was terrific rivalry between the two classes and the sophomores would do anything in their power to prevent the freshmen giving their party.

They would kidnap the president of the class, or "run him out of town," or kidnap his "girl"—anything they could think of was done, and when the time came for the Sophomore Cotillion, the freshmen retaliated—if they were strong enough. The biggest dance of the year was the Junior Hop. The other parties were the Senior Hop and the Military Ball.

The financing of the parties was quite a political affair, and was conducted much on the order of the "spoils system." There was intense rivalry in election of class president, and the candidates would promise their followers the position of chairman of the class party, for the present system of social committees was not then in effect.

The chairmen of the several classes would exchange tickets for their dances, and then would sell them to the students at whatever price they wished. Then, after the expenses of the party were paid, the spoils belonged to the chairman. There was a lively scramble for the position.

The first dean of women, Alice Young, was appointed by President George E. McLane during his administration. Then a social committee was formed who took into their hands all arrangements of social affairs, and who, deciding that the student body needed supervision, made rules to govern their conduct.

All dances were to be over at midnight, except the three principal ones—the Junior and Senior Hops, and the Military ball, and the system of "keeping hours" for women was put into effect. Previous to this time, there had been only one rule for the students to govern themselves by, and it took care of their code of ethics—to be ladies and gentlemen.

The social committee was originally composed entirely of faculty members, until Dean Wilber J. Teeters of the college of pharmacy, inaugurated against much opposition, the policy of an equal number of students and faculty, the system which is now in operation.

Women Can Now Reduce by Non-Starving Methods

By ERIC C. WILSON (University News Editor)

Fashions slender silhouette of feminine pulchritude may be attained without the martyrdom of near starvation and agonizing exercises. The way to sensible reduction lies in a carefully balanced program of diet and a sane schedule of activity, according to Elizabeth Halsey, professor of physical education.

Participation in outdoor sports is one of the most important methods. In the winter, hikes of several miles daily are most valuable, with skiing and skating at intervals. But after vigorous exercise in bracing cold weather, beware of catering too generously to a large appetite, Miss Halsey warns.

Only when reducing exercises are prescribed by an expert should they be employed. "Beauty culturists" seldom possess the necessary knowledge of anatomy and mechanics of muscle action, so are not qualified to recommend exercises for a definite purpose, the university authority declared.

Some of Miss Halsey's bits of advice are: don't—try every exercise you hear about, use massage on delicate tissues, miss an opportunity to play out of doors; do—start a hiking club of congenial people, take up some outdoor game, take a shower after vigorous exercise, join a class in directed activity.

The national mania for weight reduction is one of the severe worries of the family physician, for by instituting radical diet schedules and by too strenuous physical activity, bodily health of many women has become impaired, said Miss Halsey.

Director of Canning Association Speaks to U. Foods Class

Ruth Atwater, director of home economics of the National Canners association in Washington, D. C., talked to the sophomore foods class yesterday at 4 p.m., on "Commercial canning of foods."

Miss Atwater discussed the canning process and showed colored slides canning various fruits. She also touched on the costs and grading of canned goods, the loss of food value, and other points of interest.

Prof. Porter Talks on Modern Politics Monday at Meeting

Prof. Kirk H. Porter of the political science department will read a paper on "A search for party principles" at the meeting of the Political Science club Monday at 8 p.m., in the home of Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division.

In his paper Professor Porter will outline the principles sustaining the two major parties in American politics as separate bodies. He will discuss the attitudes of the parties on present problems in the light of their fundamental beliefs, and will explain political trends he expects in the future.

Hawkeyes Hold Titans Without Score in First Half by 11 Yard Margin

By JOHN HENDERSON
Detroit, Mich. (Special to The Daily Iowan)—More than 20,000 University of Detroit supporters filled the Titan stadium Saturday with a scattered handful of Hawkeye supporters to see the Red and White in its first Big Ten contest.

First Quarter

Capt. George Rogge of Iowa won the toss and chose to defend the south goal. Ely kicked off to the Detroit 5 yard line where O'Neill returned the oval to his own 20 yard line. O'Neill was stopped by Ely for a 2 yard loss on an attempt through left guard. Parsaca made three yards through left tackle.

O'Neill added a yard through left guard. Parsaca punted to the Iowan's 32 yard line where it was downed by a Titan end. Hickman ran the ball out of bounds. Leo Jensvold gained 1 yard through right tackle. Kriz punted the ball 65 yards across the Detroit goal line and the ball was put in play on the Titan 20 yard line. Stoen gained 2 yards at left guard. O'Neill was stopped at right end for no gain.

O'Neill was stopped at right end for no gain. Stoen was smothered at left tackle and lost two yards. Parsaca kicked to Hickman on his own 45 yard line and the latter returned the pigskin to Detroit's 41 yard line. Hickman was thrown for a 9 yard loss by Hackett who silted through the Iowa line. A pass by Hickman was intercepted by Parsaca on his own 35 yard line. He was downed in his tracks. O'Neill punted two yards through right tackle.

O'Neill raced 25 yards around Iowa's left end to the Hawkeye 45 yard line where he was forced out of bounds by Hickman. Iowa takes time out.

O'Neill took the ball on a weak side plunge but the play was called back and Detroit was penalized 5 yards for being offside. A pass, O'Neill to Hackett, was knocked down by Hickman. Ely forced Berg out of bounds a yard behind the line of scrimmage. Iowa took time out.

O'Neill slipped on a try around right end and was nailed for a three yard loss by Benjamin. Parsaca kicked to Hickman on the 40 yard Gold 20 yard line. The latter returned 5 yards and was stopped by Hackett. Lloyd Jensvold carried the ball out of bounds for no gain. Kriz quick kick rolled to the Detroit 15 yard line. Parsaca returned the oval to his own 35 yard line. Stoen sneaked through right guard for 10 yards and a first down on his own 43 yard line.

Hickman and Kriz smeared Stoen after a yard gain over center. O'Neill's pass to Wrathel on the Iowa 43 yard line was ruled complete because of Leo Jensvold's interference. Parsaca ran the ball out of bounds, making one yard.

Detroit was penalized 15 yards for holding on the next play. O'Neill passed to Hackett for a first down on the Iowa 35 yard line. O'Neill was stopped at right tackle by Benjamin. Parsaca punted out of bounds on Iowa's 25 yard line. Hickman was stopped by a horde of Titans on the next play, but made a yard at left tackle. Iowa took time out, with the ball on their 27 yard line, second down, 9 yards to go.

Leo Jensvold was forced to leave the game because of injuries and Hauge took his place.

On the next play Hickman smashed through right tackle and fought his way 13 yards for a first down on the 40 yard line. Hauge raced around right end for 7 yards. Hickman plunged through left tackle for 3 yards and another first down, on the Detroit 49 yard line.

A pass, Hickman to Lloyd Jensvold was short. Hickman tried another pass, but a Titan lineman blocked the attempt. Hickman was injured on the play and the Hawkeyes took time out.

Iowa was penalized 10 yards for a second incomplete pass and excessive time out. Kriz punted to the Titan 31 yard line where Berg was nailed in his tracks. Stoen was stopped at the line of scrimmage and on the next play he made a 3 yard gain through left guard as the quarter ended.

Score: Iowa 0; Detroit 0

Second Quarter

Parsaca hurdled over right end for three yards where he was stopped by Lloyd Jensvold. Parsaca kicked to Hickman on the latter's 25 yard line. He ran back seven yards before being forced out of bounds. Hauge slipped through right tackle on a reverse and gained 5 yards. Lloyd Jensvold ran wide of left end and netted four yards. A smash through the line by Kriz missed a first down by inches.

Kriz punted out of bounds on the Detroit 33 yard line. Stoen found left guard for 5 yards. O'Neill was thrown for a two yard loss when he was tackled by Higdon.

Parsaca's pass to O'Neill was downed on the Iowa 46 yard line giving the Titans a first down.

Time out—Detroit.

was replaced by Nelson. Cogan went in for O'Neill.

Parsaca passed to Berg who was dragged out of bounds by Jensvold on the Iowa 24 yard line. Parsaca swept around left end and dodged to the Hawkeye 11 yard line for another first down.

Mastrogany stopped Cogan when he tried to go through left guard. A pass from Cogan to Parsaca was knocked down over the goal line by Elmo Nelson and Iowa took the ball on her own 20 yard line. Nelson raced outside left tackle for 9 yards. Hickman added three yards and the Titans were given a 15 yard penalty for unnecessary roughness giving the Hawkeyes a first down on the 50 yard line. Sansen went in for Kriz at fullback.

Hickman tore around right end for six yards. A pass, Hickman to Mastrogany was incomplete. Lloyd Jensvold pounded his way through the Titan line for 6 yards and a first down on the Red and White 37 yard line. Hickman's pass was knocked down.

Hickman dived through left tackle and added four yards. Elmo Nelson was smeared for a 3 yard loss by Wrathel. Hickman punted to the Detroit 1 yard line where it was owned by Higdon.

Parsaca took the ball out of bounds on the east side lines for no gain.

Parsaca kicked to Hickman on Detroit's 30 yard line. He returned to the Detroit 26 yard mark. Warrington went in for Hickman at half.

Warrington streaked inside left end for 2 yards. Warrington's pass was intercepted by Fitzpatrick on the latter's 15 yard line. Parsaca broke loose and ran 23 yards before being downed by Warrington, giving the Titans their own 33 yard line. Berg plunged through center for 5 yards. Stoen gained a yard at right guard. Dee went in for Ely at right tackle.

Parsaca's pass to Wrathel was incomplete.

Parsaca kicked to Warrington who ran out of bounds on his own 23 yard line.

Time out Iowa.

Chapeau went in for Wrathel at left end. Rogers replaced Benjamin. Warrington tore around right end for 6 yards.

Sansen was stopped by Stoen after a 2 yard gain at left guard. Warrington made it first and ten on the Iowa 33 yard line. Nelson made three yards at right tackle.

Warrington struggled through left tackle for another 3 yards. Detroit was offside and penalized 5 yards, making it first down for Iowa on the Hawkeye 45 yard line.

Nelson was stopped by Hackett at left end after a four yard gain. Sansen shook off a half dozen Titan tacklers and raced to the Detroit 25 yard line for an Iowa first down.

Time out Detroit.

Willer replaced Lloyd Jensvold at quarterback. A pass from Warrington to Willer was over the end zone and the referee ruled no touchdown. Detroit took the ball on her own 20 yard line. Cogan's pass was broken up by Rogge as the half ended.

Score: Iowa 0; Detroit 0

Third Quarter

Ely kicked off to O'Neill on the Detroit 4 yard line. O'Neill streaked up the center of the field, out to the east side of the field and outran the entire Hawkeye eleven for 79 yards where he was forced out of bounds on Iowa's 18 yard line.

Fourth Quarter

Hantelman replaced Tompkins at right guard. Warrington went in for Hickman in the Iowa backfield.

Warrington Scores
Warrington took the ball around left end on the next play, skirted the east side lines for 40 yards, cut back to the center of the field and raced across the goal line for a 53 yard run and touchdown. Lloyd Jensvold dropped the extra point.

Score: Iowa 7; Detroit 3
Ely kicked off to Berg who took the ball on his 15 yard line and raced to the 35 yard line where he was forced out of bounds. Berg failed to gain at left tackle. A horde of Iowa tacklers cut down Parsaca at right end for no gain.

Stoen met the same fate on a similar play. Parsaca kicked to Warrington on his 25 yard line. He returned 16 yards. Warrington cut back through left tackle and gained six yards.

Time out Iowa.
Schimmer replaced Metras. Sansen plunged off left tackle for 5 yards and a first down on the Iowa 46 yard line. Warrington added 5 when he smashed through center. Nelson carried the ball through left tackle for 3 yards.

Warrington lunged through center of the line for 5 yards and a first down on the Detroit 41 yard line. Warrington ripped over right end for 3 yards. Warrington reeled off 3 more at left tackle. Sansen ripped a hole in the center of the Titan line and ploughed 12 yards for a first down on the Detroit 24 yard line.

Detroit took time out.
The ball on Detroit's 19 yard line. Nelson plunged through a demoralized Titan line for four yards. Sansen hit center for 3 yards and a first down on Detroit's 13 yard line.

Warrington failed to gain at left end. Sansen hit center for 2 yards. Sansen made a yard around right end. Lloyd Jensvold's attempted placekick was blocked. Detroit took the ball on its own 20 yard line.

O'Neill made 3 yards at left end, but the play was called back and Detroit was penalized 15 yards for holding. Stoen made 3 yards from a fake punt formation.

Parsaca kicked to Warrington on Detroit's 38 yard line. He returned to the 31 yard line where he fumbled and O'Neill recovered for Detroit. Cogan went in for O'Neill at halfback. Cogan's pass to Campeau was completed on the Titan 41 yard line for a first time. Cogan passed to Parsaca who raced to the Iowa 40 yard line.

Iowa took time out.

Army Scores Three Times Against N. D.

The Army scored a touchdown before the first period was half over. Bowman, quarterback, carried the ball across after taking a short pass from Stecker. Herb added the extra point.

North Dakota, which had held for downs on its two yard line in the first few minutes of play, had no offense to match its defense, although Jarrett, quarterback, reeled off two six yard gains on successive plays just before the quarter ended.

The Army scored a second touchdown when Malloy, sub end, gathered in a forward pass from Frenz, halfback, and galloped over the line standing up. Frenz's placement hit the goal posts. Army 13; North Dakota 0.

Coe Cornell's Homecoming Rival Today

MOUNT VERNON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Cornell and Coe, meeting in their fourth griddiron encounter in which bitterness was enhanced by student visitations to the rival campuses, battled through the first half without a score.

In the second period, Campbell, sub for Gabrielson who was injured, circled right end and had a clear field to the goal but fumbled and Coe recovered on its 10 yard line. Campbell had started his race from the 21 yard line where Cornell threw a punt. Another Cornell threat was stopped by Coe on its 3 yard line. White had taken the oval to the 9 yard mark on a pass from Griffin.

Cornell outplayed the heavier Kohawks much of the half.

Penn Shoves Over Touchdown Against Kansas on Line Play

Pennsylvania, hitting hard and fast, ripped over a touchdown in the first few minutes to take a lead of 7 to 0. Kansas kicked and Bill Graupner, Penn quarterback, ran the kick back 49 yards to Kansas 16 yard mark. Green tossed a pass to Gentle on the Kansas 3 yard line. Green smashed over and Gentle dropped the extra point.

The Kansas line rose to shatter another Pennsylvania bid for a touchdown after Penn reached the 12 yard mark. Kansas kicked to midfield.

FRANKLIN FIELD, Phil. Nov. 1 (AP)—The Kansas Jayhawkers, storm center of the Big Six conference, tackling Pennsylvania today in one of the major inter-sectional clashes of the day in the east before a crowd of over 40,000. Jarling Jim Pensch, big Kansas back whose eligibility status in the midwest recently caused a sensation, was the outstanding figure on the Jayhawkers' undefeated eleven, brilliantly costumed in crimson and white with blue headgear.

A brilliant forward pass from Masters to Greene carried the ball to the one yard line. Gette, sub for Perina, hammered over for the touchdown and Masters kicked the extra point to give Pennsylvania a 14 to 0 lead.

Pennsylvania missed another score a moment later when Riblett, an end, grabbed a Kansas lateral out of the air at midfield and raced 50 yards to the goal line. Pennsylvania was offside on the play and the ball was called back.

Little Hawks Meet Grinnell Gridders

The Orange and Black of Grinnell invaded Schrader field to play off the 6 to 6 tie of last year with Coach George Wells' Little Hawks this afternoon. The Red and White have lost three games and won two, while Grinnell has lost two, won one and tied one.

First Quarter

An ordinary crowd attended the game under clear skies and with only a slight wind blowing across from the southeast as Captain Bud Wright won the toss. Vestermark kicked off to the Grinnell 10-yard line for Iowa City. Atkins took the ball and ran it back to his own 20-yard line. Atkins lunged over Miller at left guard for two yards, but was stopped by secondary defense. H. Clark kicked to Yetter on the 48-yard line.

Wright took three yards around left end. Van der Zee fumbled but recovered for a three yard loss. Van der Zee's toss to Yetter was knocked down. Wright kicked over Grinnell's goal line. This was a 50-yard kick. Grinnell took the ball on the 30-yard line and Atkins was thrown for a one-yard loss in an attempted end run by "Bud" Wright. H. Clark kicked to Grinnell's 40-yard line.

Wright's pass was intercepted by Ahrens, who carried it back to Iowa City's 25-yard line, where he was tackled by Vestermark. Ahrens was thrown for a four-yard loss on a fake play. Inseene threw Norris for a three-yard loss on an attempted off-

Unable to Score in First Period of Tilt
STAGG FIELD, Chicago, Nov. 1 (AP)—Princeton, once a griddiron terror of the east, but defeated three times in a row this season, engaged the luckless University of Chicago eleven in an inter-sectional game today that might be billed as for the "national consolation championship. A bright, warm sun brought out a crowd of 82,000.

An exchange of two punts left the ball in Princeton's possession on its 47 yard line.

Nether team was able to make more than six yards in three attempts and the ball rested on Chicago's 17 yard line as the period ended with the score Chicago 0; and Princeton, 0.

ARMY BACKFIELD HAS POWER AND VERSATILITY—The Army can't be stopped this year by "stopping Hag," or any other single back. The Cadets have a new backfield alignment packing plenty of talent and punch. In their new wing-back formation Wendell Bowman, quarter; Ed Herb, half, and Ken Fields, fullback, play important roles.

Representatives from high schools and other colleges in the state are also expected to attend.

The day's program will include hockey games at 9:45 and 2 o'clock and 3:30 on the women's athletic field and a luncheon at noon at Iowa Union.

Physical education majors and staff members who are working for local umpire ratings will umpire at the games today and will be given tests for this rating by representatives of the United States field hockey association, including Cynthia Wesson, of the University of Wisconsin, and Signe Prytz and Jane Shurmer, members of the physical education department.

Other hockey play days to which state women's physical education instructors have been invited will be held on Nov. 15 and 22.

Goodsell Will Speak Here

Church to Hear About Foreign Service Tomorrow

Fred Field Goodsell, who will come to Iowa City tomorrow as a guest of the cabinets of the Christian associations and the churches, will speak at the union services of the Presbyterian church Sunday evening on "Foreign Service Today."

Mr. Goodsell has lived for 20 years in and about Constantinople where he worked as an educator, in contact with foreign business men, diplomats, missionaries, and political leaders throughout "the Near East."

Mr. Goodsell is executive vice president of the American board of the Congregational church and will give an address at the morning service of the local church.

The Rev. Ira J. Houston, representing the Ministerial association, will introduce the speaker. The committee in charge is headed by Edward Jones, L1 of Davenport.

Adler to Speak on Disraeli for Philo Group Tomorrow

E. P. Adler of Davenport will speak on "Disraeli" at the meeting of the Philo club tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the river room of Iowa Union. Prof. Moses Jung of the school of religion invites all those interested to attend.

Mr. Adler, a member of the board of trustees of the school of religion, is president of the Lee syndicate, an organization of newspapers in Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, and Missouri. He has taken part in numerous philanthropic activities.

Prof. Lord to Address Library Club Monday

Prof. Milton E. Lord, director of university libraries, will talk on the "Recataloging of the vatican library" at the meeting of the Library club Monday at 8 p.m. in the liberal arts drawing room. Lucille Morsch, catalogue librarian, is in charge of the program. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Zeta, Betty Pollock, A3 of Douds, Currier has entered Marjorie Dorsey, A1 of Osage, and Marcella Brown, A2 of Ossian.

Women's Groups to Begin Matches in Intramural Sports

Women's intramural pee-wee golf matches will be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week with Alice Sherbon, physical education instructor, in charge.

Intramural tennis competitions, postponed because of bad weather last week, will be resumed Monday at 4 p.m. Alpha Delta Pi and Chi Omega third teams, Delta Delta Delta and Pi Beta Phi first teams, Currier hall and Theta Epsilon firsts will meet at that time.

The postponed contests must be played off before Nov. 12, the date set for the finals.

Rainbow Girls Install Officers This Morning

"I Can Do That Sunday"

THE whole intent of sabbath observance is confused by an anonymous person who writes a letter to the editor in part as follows:

"I read your editorial concerning Sunday movies in East Orange, N. J. I agree with you in branding the tennis situation as senseless in regard to playing the sport on Sunday. But there is another problem at Iowa that also deserves some consideration. I refer to the fact that the libraries are closed on Sundays. Many students welcome Sunday as a day to accomplish many of their studies, especially when it is a matter of writing a theme or whatever you want to call it. Just think of what advantage it would be to many students of this university to be able to use the library on Sunday.

"Many of the leading universities in this country have adopted this plan. Iowa could keep in line as a leading university by also adopting this plan."

"Well, yes and no" may seem to be THE DAILY IOWAN stand on sabbath observance to anyone who supposes either that everyone should be made to attend church or sit at home with folded hands, or that everyone should be given all opportunity to do everything he wishes on Sunday.

Yet certainly there is a distinction between the blue law tyranny or prohibiting actions which do not interfere with the rights of others and the wide open policy of not only permitting but sanctioning and abetting what may not be regarded as desirable by the taxpayers who support this institution and whose wishes, after all, dictate much of its policy.

To insure the churches of no competition the university does not prohibit Sunday morning tennis and golf; it merely refuses to be a party to their play by denying its facilities during that time. The university is not obliged to furnish the student with Sunday sports; it does so of its own accord in response to student demand and student need.

There is a definite distinction between Sunday study and Sunday sports for students which must be clearly understood if one is to see that the university is not inconsistent in being accessory to one and not the other.

The real intent of the sabbath, which is a manmade institution and a common sense one rather than a divine, superimposed one, is to provide men with a necessary period for rest and diversion. Freedom from routine work and from daily tasks is one important part of its provision.

For the university student, who has supposedly come to obtain learning and knowledge and ability to think first of all the social contacts only secondarily, Sunday sports or even Sunday movies may be considered a diversion, like week end parties. Sunday study, on the other hand, means adding a day of routine without getting the rest period. It is hardly within the rights of a free institution to prohibit the act, but it certainly is within its rights to withdraw or deny its support. That the university has done.

Perhaps the current collegiate tendency is to make the week end rest period more a matter of Friday night through Sunday morning, with additional times on the remaining week days for "recreation." If so, until the present method of sabbath observance is altered to suit the collegiate class youth should prove adaptability by conforming to the old and proved way of doing things, or at least in not complaining when deviation from the week calendar brings with it the necessity of catching up without the opportunity of doing so.

It may be for the sincere student who finds Sunday study a necessity that the present curriculum is not perfectly designed to suit the time at a student's disposal, but it is likely that more of the conflict is with activities rather than with other studies, or even with periods of non-activity.

As the darky is reported to have said when somebody remarked, "Tempus fugit," in his presence, "She sho do!" Perhaps students who think they should have access to the library on Sunday to make up for week day deficits might consider their present motto of "Never do today what you can put off until Sunday."

Selecting the Most Popular

IT STARTED with the golden apple tossed on the banquet table of the gods on Mt. Olympus, labeled "to the fairest." Legend has it that such was the start of the Trojan war, with Paul of Troy rejecting Aphrodite, Minerva, and Hera for fair Helen.

Almost every university and college has some method of selecting the most popular girls on the campus. There are general elections where sororities and fraternities cooperate and stuff the ballot boxes to suit themselves. In large cities coeds compete with stenographers and office girls in movie theater popularity contests, and not always successfully. There are schools where faculty, student, or student-faculty committees make the choice. And sometimes the circulation manager of the yearbook governs the vote by allowing buyers of the publication to decide the issue.

These processes are means of determining political strength rather than popularity. At Iowa, with beauty the alleged criterion, the contest is redeemed by having competent critics judge the winners. As each sorority supposedly puts up its members who photograph best, the competition does somewhat as it is intended to in the selection of the prettiest.

Yet the voting phase of the contest means little more than a device to acquaint the campus with a yearbook which is good enough to stand on its own feet without that publicity feature.

Possibly the best means of arbitrating the rivalry among sororities—and it is among them rather than individual beauties—would be to have the Northwestern Bell telephone company cooperate in keeping a record of the calls received by each chapter house where there is a male voice on the other end of the line.

To Aid Labor

ENACTMENT of a law temporarily suspending all immigration into the United States is being urged by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and other leaders of trade unionism as well as scientific economists. Their position is that there are more than 3,500,000 persons out of work in the United States. In fairness to U. S. workers, the government should give them first consideration.

To do this the influx of workers from other countries should be stopped. It is possible to do this in one of two ways. Either an emergency law could be passed which would close the gates to immigrants during the emergency, or a reinterpretation of the present immigration law. Anyone liable to become a public charge may be refused a visa, and, plainly, that liability depends on and varies with industrial conditions.

An order from President Herbert Hoover to this effect would not be unfair to incoming immigrants. They would retain their priority and make their start in this country when normal conditions of employment are restored, and the plan would in itself be an aid to accomplishing the desired end.

Figures Don't Lie

STATISTICS show that every year many college graduates are jobless. Parents who have never had the opportunity for an education and have become successful in spite of this fact ask, "Why?"

The average girl enrolls for the required education courses, prepares herself for a few years of teaching, and hopefully looks forward to an eventual marriage. As a result, the teaching field is overcrowded, the supply exceeds the demand, and fathers continue to support grown children.

The unemployment problem would come much nearer to solution if college women would do the logical thing and major in some department with a larger field. Although their popularity seems less, commerce, pharmacy, professional courses and many others offer better futures and greater opportunities than teaching because they are less crowded.

Divorces have become so common that pretty soon really smart people will avoid them. —Washington Star.

The Other Side

(From The Peterson Patriot)

Some newspapers have been making a great fuss over the policy of compulsory military training at the state schools. We think a snappy cadet corps at the state university and at Ames is a great thing. It certainly is great for a lot of non-athletic fellows who wouldn't take any exercise any other way. We asked several students from here about it when they came home from the university last spring. They asserted that they enjoyed it and spoke of one fellow in particular who probably would take no exercise outdoors at all if he wasn't forced to it by compulsory training. Everyone knows that primarily this writer is a man of peace. Yet we attended the old Iowa State Normal school and got there just a month before they did away with their cadet corps for good. We enjoyed that one month we did have of it about as much as anything in college life. What could possibly be better for a fellow than to get out on a clear frosty day, head up and chest thrown back, stepping off to the tune of the cadet band, in perfect accord with all his fellows. Of course there are disagreeable days too. But we have them all through life—sometimes even when the sun is shining its brightest—so the boys in college might as well get used to that. We quote from the current issue of The Storm Lake Pilot-Tribune on the matter of military drill at college as follows:

"Military drill for the students at Ames and Iowa City was declared 'a farce' by some of the bright young collegians who appeared before the state board of education last week in opposition to this sort of physical exertion.

"One suspects that these oratorical lads are always prominent when lounge lizards get together. When it comes to three hours a week devoted to good healthy exercise that builds red corpuscles, naturally they prefer the easy chairs by the fire-side.

"As between arguments of these parlor cowboys and the logic of the sturdy citizens of the American Legion who favor such training, it wouldn't take us long to decide!

"If military drill is so funny, why do the pacifists make such a serious fuss about it?"

"We asked W. W. Peters, a Legion member who saw real service in France if he subscribed to the argument advanced at the hearing last week before the state board of education; to-wit, that an hour's military drill three times a week at college makes the student militaristic.

"We used to drill several hours every day in the army," Peters replied. "But I never heard of any of the boys acquiring a fascination for war on that account."

Gathered From the News

An American came to visit the Palace of Versailles late Monday. It was after entrance hours and the custodian turned him away. The man went without protest. Shortly afterwards it was learned that the sightseer was none other than John D. Rockefeller, who has contributed over $1,500,000 to aid in the preservation of the historic castle.

American tourists, by their pushing aggressiveness, too often antagonize foreign people. The example of Mr. Rockefeller is a relief. It seems that the more important a man is, the less he insists on others recognizing and bowing down to his importance.

Hugh Walpole, novelist, says that there are only six books in the world worth being called literature. They are: "War and Peace," by Tolstoy; "The Iliad," by Homer; "Pride and Prejudice," by Jane Austen; the first volume of Keats' poetry, "Arabia Deserta," by Doughty; "Canterbury Tales," by Chaucer.

Anyone who reads can instantly name other books by authors that he believes should be on the list, and most would argue strongly against some of those included by Walpole. Books are like tastes in foods—some like this and some like that. And what is literature anyway except the survival of certain writings because certain people enjoy reading them?

The United States is rather "on the spot" as far as the Brazil question is concerned. Having backed the loser, it is now up to the American government to gently insinuate itself into the good graces of the new rulers. So far there has been no move, as in the case of other South American revolution, to immediately recognize the new government. Yet Washington has not denied but what it will do so in time. Things would, however, have been easier for the U. S. if it had been more non-partisan during the rebellion. Maybe some day we will learn that it pays at times to keep the thumb out of the pie.

Cresco Girl Victim of Infantile Paralysis at Carleton College: NORTHFIELD, Minn., Oct. 31 (AP)—Evelyn Thompson, 20, of Cresco, died today of infantile paralysis, the second victim of the disease at Carleton college. The college has been under quarantine since Monday. Efforts to save Miss Thompson's life by use of a respirator or "mechanical lung," after she lost the use of muscles in her chest, proved fruitless. Robert Mason of Highland Park, Ill., was the first victim of the disease.

Chicago University Professor to Talk on Italian Painting: Prof. John Shapley of the University of Chicago will deliver an illustrated lecture Monday, Nov. 3 at 7 p.m. in the chemistry auditorium. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Iowa society of the Archaeological Institute.

Professor Shapley's subject will be "The infancy of Italian painting." The lecture is open to the public. Professor Shapley is president of the College Art association and editor of the "Art Bulletin."

Archbishop's Condition serious: ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 31 (AP)—Archbishop Austin Dowling of St. Paul, critically ill here, rallied slightly late today. He is suffering from heart disease. His physicians said the rally was not sufficient to indicate a possible recovery, however.

Foster Elected President: OTTUMWA, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Ottumwa airport corporation elected T. Henry Foster, president of John Morrill and company, as president. He succeeds Homer H. Harris, who moved to Denver.

CHILLS AND FEVER

"The farming industry is shot to pieces," thinks the farmer as he climbs out of his new Ford, robs the Freigidaire, turns on the radio, and plans to send his children to college.

RAZZING THE RADIO: If television comes in we'll probably see these headlines: DEAF AND DUMB SCHOOL TO HAVE RADIO STATION.

If the world were to come to an end, Graham McNamee would broadcast the event over an international network, and start his running account. "It's a beautiful day here folks, and we are about to write an important page in world history."

SHOTS AT THE CINEMA: "Man Trouble" "We've got 'im on the spot!" "let's take the punk for a ride!" "aw they highkicked the stuff!" "thought you'd frame me eh?" fustled in an alley, a speakeasy; that inner room; bosses' skirts. "You guessed it, another racketeer drama."

Dorothy Mackall's mother evidently did not tell her daughter all of the important facts of life that every girl should know, else the picture would not have opened on Dot throwing herself into the river.

GOVERNMENT TO PLACE 238,490 WORKERS ON PAYROLL: —Associated Press More trouble for the poor unemployed. Didn't they have worries enough without having to dodge government officials who are trying to give them jobs?

The government could just as well as not hire all of the jobless men in the country, to gather statistics on unemployment.

The nerviest individual we have ever met was a blind bootlegger who insisted on our sampling a new batch of hooch for him.

"Does Prof. Plunkem grade on a curve?" "Naw, he's a woman hater."

Eight Applications For Broadcasting Stations Repealed: WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Eight applications for broadcasting stations which had been designated for hearing were denied today by the federal radio commission because the applicants failed to enter or request hearings.

The following applications were among those denied: J. P. Soderstrom and partners of Black Hills, S. D.; Francis H. Shoemaker and Fred A. Schuf of Red Wing, Minn.; F. L. Shupe and Peter Hill, Laramie, Wyo.; and John A. Dalton, Cheyenne, Wyo.

Legion Drive Closes $9,000 Short of Goal

Mercer Calls Meeting Today to Extend Campaign

The final curtain descended on the official program of the Legion community building debt-reducing drive yesterday noon at a luncheon-report meeting. Reports revealed that the campaign had fallen short of reaching the $70,000 goal by a margin of over $9,000. $19,000 in cash pledges was needed by noon yesterday to assure a victory, and only $781 in cash was reported at that time.

Although the official campaign as outlined and promoted by the Tetchum Co. Inc., of Pittsburgh, Pa., and officers and workers of the American Legion is closed, it was expressed by those present at the final meeting yesterday noon was that "the show must go on."

W. W. Mercer, president of the board of trustees of the community building, has called a meeting for today noon of the workers who expressed themselves as favorable to continuing the effort for a short time with the hope of yet reaching the $70,000 goal. Plans for further continuance of the campaign under the direction of a few leaders will be discussed at this meeting.

City Issues Eighteen Permits for Building During Last Month

Eighteen building permits were issued by the city inspector, C. A. Kutcher, during the month of October. The total value of the improvements is $24,810. Eleven thousand dollars of permits were issued for the construction of two business places.

Residence permits came to $5,000. Garages topped any other type of building in the number constructed. Eleven permits for garages were issued, totaling $3,605. One permit was issued for a brooder house, valued at $1,000, and one for a smoke-house, valued at $75.

Two building permits were issued yesterday, one to Carl M. Lachlan for the construction of a garage, the other to the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad for a $2,500 addition to the present stockyards.

Post Office Moves to Temporary Quarters

The post office moves Saturday. Workmen are finishing the interior and preparations are being made to start moving the coming week end. The work will continue on to Sunday.

The temporary quarters are to be the old Kenyon laundry building on Iowa avenue. The building has been enlarged and improved and has one third more floor space than the present building.

Kadlec and Dinsmore Seek Offices as County Recorder

Gordon J. Dinsmore

John M. Kadlec

Gordon J. Dinsmore will seek the first public office of his career when he runs for county recorder on the republican ticket on Nov. 4.

Mr. Dinsmore has resided in Scott township most of his life. He attended the Iowa City schools and left high school to enter the World war. Upon being discharged from service, he entered the Iowa State college of agriculture where he took a short course.

Three years ago he became connected with the Greer Coal company of which he is now part owner. He is a member of the Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion and of the Masons.

If elected, Mr. Dinsmore will devote all of his time to the fulfillment of the duties of county recorder. He will be opposed by John M. Kadlec, democrat, in the election.

Six terms as county recorder and eight years as deputy recorder are the records on which John M. Kadlec is relying in his campaign for reelection to office of recorder for Johnson county on the democratic ticket, Nov. 4.

Mr. Kadlec was born on a farm in Cedar township on Nov. 17, 1882 and lived there until he came to Iowa City in 1907. During his last five years on the farm he also taught rural school in Cedar and Jefferson townships. Mr. Kadlec was a bookkeeper for the Central manufacturing company of Iowa City for three and a half years and for a short time was in the employ of the Duluth Lumber company before entering the courthouse as deputy recorder in 1911.

Mr. Kadlec is a member of the Odd Fellows lodge and two fraternal orders, the C.S.P.S. society and the Z.C.B.J. association.

News About Town

Two Arraigned
Two persons appeared before Police Judge Charles L. Zager yesterday. Roy Butterbaugh was arraigned on a charge of disturbing the peace, but the case was dismissed and the defendant released upon payment of the court costs. Paul Miller was fined $1 and costs for using the street as storage space.

Scout Work Discussed
The work of tenderfoot tests and programs for troop meetings were discussed at the leaders training course for girl scouts, under the direction of Velora B. Davis, scout director, yesterday afternoon. Another meeting will be held next Friday.

Rural Teachers Examined
Fourteen teachers of rural schools in Johnson county took examinations for the uniform teachers' certificate at County Superintendent W. N. Leeper's office during the last three days. Yesterday afternoon was reserved for state examinations but none were taken.

Building Permit Issued
A building permit was issued yesterday to Carl M. McLachlan, 920 S. Van Buren street, to build a garage, cost unestimated as yet.

Girl Scouts Take Hike
Wanda Sanger, scribe of troop 7, reported a hike south of Finkbine field this week. The girls studied trees, played games and had a "weiner roast."

Merchants Plan Meet
The Merchants Bureau of Iowa City planned an open meeting for Nov. 12. All members and merchants interested in the bureau are invited to attend. The meeting will be held in the chamber of commerce rooms at the American Legion building.

Food Students Serve Luncheon Yesterday
Hostesses at the advanced foods class luncheon yesterday were Josephine Staab, A3 of Wall Lake, Mary Hruska, A3 of Cedar Rapids, and Agnes Treptow, A4 of Iowa City. The luncheon was served to 24 guests in the home economics department dining room under the supervision of Edna Hill, foods instructor.

Girl Scouts Meet
Troop 10 of the girl scouts met with their captain Gertrude Walker at 4:15 yesterday afternoon in the Presbyterian church. Their next meeting will be a covered dish supper at Miss Walker's home on Wednesday.

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—State Senator C. F. Clark of Cedar Rapids was named to head a committee to hear proposals for the merger of Buena Vista and Coe colleges at a meeting of the Coe board of trustees. All officers of the board were re-elected.

Hunters of Iowa City Open War on Ringneck Pheasant Today in Northern Counties

By H. BERNARD HOOK
There goes that pheasant, nail him! Bang—bang—bang, and maybe a few more bangs, and maybe no pheasant, for the ringnecks have a peculiar shyness all their own, and are not as easy to lay down as ducks or cottontails.

More than 100 hunting licenses were issued from the Johnson county recorder's office yesterday. This gives evidence that Iowa City sportsmen will be well represented in northern Iowa at 6:17 today, a half hour before sunrise, when the first crack of the guns will sound in 33 counties where the state fish and game department has announced a five day open season. The other dates are Nov. 5, 6, 14, and 15.

One Party to Grundy Center
Among those from here who have armed their hunting togs and polished their weapons for the annual treat are: Dr. W. M. Rohrbacher, Dr. W. J. Harter, Edward Strub, Charles Strub, Donald Kessler, and Lee Koser who will roam the cornfields in the vicinity of Grundy Center. Dr. H. R. Jankinson and son Roger will try their marksmanship in the Algonquin territory.

Fred Racine, Fred Stevens, and Jack Donahue will do their chasing around Independence. J. W. Willard, C. E. Beck, David Armbruster, Roscoe Woods, and John W. Sheely know from past experience that Blackhawk county is a paradise for pheasant hunting, and so they are pointing their guns in the direction of Cedar Falls.

Yetter Injures Arm
Chris Yetter, H. L. Bailey, Jimmy Carol, and Joe Holubar haven't missed an open season on the ring necks, and today dawn will find them on their marks near Clarksville in Butler county. Mr. Yetter fell over a fence and tore some ligaments loose in his left arm Wednesday. This injury will impair Mr. Yetter's shooting ability considerably, however, the corn field invasion was too attractive to keep him at home.

C. F. Rittenmeyer and F. R. Novaty of Stillwell's paint store chose the meadows around Reinbeck for their attack, while Henry Rupert and Louis Krueger and Dr. Fred T. Bowers will invade Black Hawk county. Grundy county will be the hunting grounds for Fred Jacobs, who hasn't missed out on a single season. J. H. Krotz, George Krotz, Virgil Boss, and Andy

Nusser Given Pool Contract

The Wm. Nusser company of Iowa City was awarded the contract for the American Legion swimming pool at Marengo when they turned in a low bid of $6,949.80. The contract includes excavating, concrete construction, erection of a bath house and installation of all machinery.

Plans for the work were submitted by the Green engineering company of Cedar Rapids, and call for a pool 70x133, bordered with an eight foot cement beach. A section 20x70 will be made into a wading pool, varying from one inch to 2 1/2 feet in depth. The main section, 70 feet in length, varies in depth from 4 1/2 to 5 feet. Thirty five feet of the pool is 10 feet in depth, and is set aside for diving. The construction was begun last Thursday, and the drains and pipe lines for the pool are installed. Work will be pushed this fall, to enable completion of the project while the river is low.

1,000 Pythians Will Convene Here Nov. 5

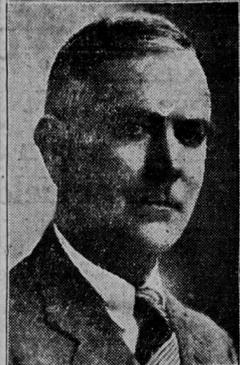

Plans for Annual Meet Being Formulated by J. L. Plum

J. L. Plum, chairman of the committee, in charge of the annual convention of the seventh Pythian district which will meet in Iowa City Nov. 5, announced yesterday that plans for the convention are nearing completion. Those in charge of arrangements are expecting an attendance of more than 1,000 delegates from the Knights of Pythias lodges in the seven counties that comprise the district.

The feature of the afternoon program, at which time addresses will be given by various of the grand officers of the state and the election of officers will take place, will be the showing of a moving picture by superior lodge officers depicting the historic story of the friendship of Damon and Pythias.

The evening session of the convention will be open to the public. M. A. Waldron of Marengo, past grand chancellor, will give the feature address of the evening program. R. A. Garber of Adair, will also make a speech, his subject being the Pythian education fund. At the present time this fund is keeping 37 students in the university.

The Eldridge lodge will bring their clown band with them to put on a feature entertainment during the evening, also their lodge orchestra which will play at the district grand ball, the closing event of the convention.

Hawkeyes Out to Regain Prestige Against Powerful Titan Eleven Today

Iowa Squad Practices on Detroit Field

Betting Favors Titans; Speedy Backfield Big Asset

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 31 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Thirty-three University of Iowa gridders worked out in the Detroit stadium in a snappy one hour drill this afternoon. The practice consisted of a limbering up drill, punting, passing, and a brief period of formations. Tonight the Hawkeye warriors are encamped in Webster Hall hotel. Meanwhile several scores of Detroit gridders are priming themselves for the fray. The Titan dressing room is decorated with signs saying "guts count," and clippings of early Old Gold games.

Tomorrow's battle promises to attract a record crowd as it is the first time that a Detroit team has engaged a Big Ten foe. Betting favors the local outfit based on the splendid record Coach Dorais' gridders have hung up in their four consecutive triumphs. On the other hand, Iowa has suffered three consecutive losses and is due to break into the win column.

Iowa will rely on a strong defensive line to stop the speedy Titan backfield that has a habit of breaking loose for long runs. Ingwersen will depend upon the powerful off-tackle drives of Leo Jensvold, Sansen, Kriz, and Warrington to bring his team to the front. Injuries to Hay and Rogge will weaken the Old Gold wing posts. The Detroit line is coached by Arthur "Bud" Boeringer, former all-American center at Notre Dame, Nassucci at tackle and Hackett at end have developed into outstanding players as has Bill Fitzpatrick, ball snapper. Detroit's line has consistently opened holes to give the speedy backs a chance to go places and its blocking and tackling has been deadly. All in all, the present line has developed into one of the finest forward walls ever to perform for the Red and White.

Stribling Wins Via Knockout in Short Bout

BOSTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The powerful blows that flattened Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott gave W. L. "Young" Stribling, battling pride of Georgia, a three round technical knockout over the rugged K. O. Christner of Akron, O., here tonight. In what was to have been the Argonne A. A.'s feature 10 round contest in the Boston arena.

Stribling fought a cool-headed battle with his courageous rival and came out of a clinch in the third to batter Christner's head with a heavy two fisted barrage. One of these blows, a sizzling left hook, split Christner's nose and the injury appeared so serious. Referee Johnny Brassil pulled him away from the southerner and assisted him to his corner. Then the official raised Stribling's arm in token of victory.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 31 (AP)—The golden hurricane of the University of Tulsa repulsed the invading Colonials of George Washington university in an intersectional gridiron combat on Skelly field here tonight, 14 to 6.

Intramuralities

The fast double tennis combination of Phi Delta Theta, Quigley and Chesterman, earned their position in the fourth round of the interfraternity tennis doubles tourney when they finally subdued a fighting pair of Kappa Sigmas, Palmer and Carson, in the deciding set, 6-2. The total contest scores were 6-2, 5-8, 6-2.

The match scores do not begin to tell of the hand to hand struggle between these two flashy combinations, who began their assaults across the net last Monday afternoon, darkness halting the contest when the score stood 6-2, 8-8. Palmer and Carson in defeat showed fine sportsmanship and displayed a brand of tennis which would have carried them to a win in most any match. The Phi Deltas will next meet the winner of the Delta Chi-Phi Delta contest.

In a game crammed with thrills and fast plays, Delta Chi defeated Theta Tau in a kitenball contest, 9 to 5. For the first four innings the game was a pitchers battle between Schantz of the winners and Smith of Theta Tau. In the fifth the heavy guns of Delta Chi began to roar and home runs by Wilson and Schantz, together with ragged fielding by the losers, resulted in five runs. Holly, Schantz, and Dvorak were outstanding for the winners and the pitching of Ken Smith was a feature of Theta Tau's play.

Behind the heavy hitting of Blumenthal and Alberts, Phi Epsilon Pi defeated Phi Kappa yesterday in a free scoring kitenball game. The score was 15 to 8. Klein pitched throughout the contest for the Phi Eps while the losers used three hurlers in a vain attempt to stop the onslaught of opposing sluggers. Alberts, resulted in five runs. Holly, Schantz, and Dvorak were outstanding for the winners and the pitching of Ken Smith was a feature of Theta Tau's play.

Hill and Dale Men Outrun Pioneer Pack

Wickey Takes First to Help Iowa Score 25-30 Win

By LEROY FUNCK
Outraining the Grinnell pack, 25 to 30, the Hawkeye hurriers hung up their second win in three starts. Howard Wickey coasted in first, edging out a 40 yard lead from Pillsbury, Grinnell, on the final stretch. Wickey's time was 21 minutes, 13 7-10 seconds.

McIlrath, Grinnell, beat out Skowbo for third place. Kelly followed in fifth place, trailed by Vanatta in sixth. Secor, Grinnell, and Naylor fought it out for seventh place with the Pioneer barrier crossing the line first. Bures, Grinnell, was ninth and Gunderson tenth.

A cold, cutting wind hampered the runners and cut down the spectators to a few half-dozen officials and team handlers. It was a nip and tuck affair between Wickey and Pillsbury throughout the entire race, with the lead shifting back and forth. Pillsbury held the lead at the end of the mile. Wickey paired with him at the two mile mark. Pillsbury gained a ten yard lead at the three mile mark. Coming in on the last 800, Wickey and the Pioneer barrier moved it stride for stride, until the last 300 yards, where Wickey stepped ahead and picked up his lead by the time he hit the tape.

Little Hawks Play Grinnell Here Today

Coach George Wells will send his Little Hawks against the highly touted Grinnell gridders at Shrader field this afternoon in an effort to continue the winning stride started last Saturday against the Columbus Junction outfit. Grinnell has a superb back in Kessinger who calls the signals for the visitors.

It is still doubtful as to the chances of Cleatus Stimmel, tackle and halfback who has been suffering from an injured leg. Also, Lawrence Burr may be on the sidelines unless his bad knee recovers sufficiently to return to his halfback post.

The local lineup is: Imsensee, center; Riecke and Miller, guards; Schroeder and Crawford, tackles; Reed and Lew: Is; ends; Yetter, quarterback; Van der Zee and Westermarck, halfbacks; and Wright, fullback.

Drake Rallies in Final Half, Scores Pair

MOINES, Oct. 31 (AP)—Led by the brilliant "Chuck" Van Kote, Drake continued its march to a second Missouri Valley conference championship here tonight, defeating Washington university of St. Louis 12 to 0 in a hard fought game.

The Bears held Drake scoreless the first half, but a hard driving Bulldog offense penetrated the Washington defense in the last half to two touchdowns.

Moore Scores as Handymen Beat West Branch

U Hi Wallops West Branch in Hard Fight

Blue and White Show Strong Defense in League Tilt

Playing straight football throughout, the University high gridderes took a hard-fought game from West Branch by a score of 7 to 0 at Iowa field yesterday afternoon. With Moore driving off the tackles and around the ends, and Nicola cracking the line, the Handymen went through their opponents for consistent gains, and threatened to score several times.

Moore Goes Across
The Blue and White marker came early in the third quarter. Wyjack returned the kickoff to midfield, and U. Hi started a drive with Moore and Nicola carrying the ball. The first two downs brought the oval to the 22 yard line. On the next play Moore scampered inside his right end, eluded several tacklers, and continued unmolested over the goal line. On the same play he added the extra point.

Threaten Twice
In the fourth quarter U. Hi threatened twice. Moore and Wyjack cooperated in bringing the ball to the 26 yard line, but the latter's pass was incomplete on the last down. After West Branch had punted, the Blue and White began another drive from their 40 yard marker. Moore climaxed this with an 18 yard sprint around left end, but as the opposing safety man tackled him he fumbled, and West Branch recovered.

The Purple and White never seriously threatened to score, and only three times did they invade U. Hi territory beyond the 30 yard line. After the first kickoff they carried the ball from midfield to the 17 yard stripe on straight football. Here the local line stiffened, and held for downs. Again in the third and fourth quarters they threatened with the aid of breaks, but each time were repulsed. In the third stanza Wyjack's fumble presented an opportunity. Thomas and Zalesky drove through the line for two first downs, placing the pigskin on the 28 yard line. However the next four plays netted only five yards.

No, No, West Branch
In the final quarter West Branch opened up with a passing attack. After the Blue and White had lost the ball on their own 40 yard line, Thom-

Wearing The GREEN

It was indeed a blow to Coach Otto Vogel's yellow shirts when Gerald P. Foster, Davenport grid produe, was injured the third night of freshman football practice. "Jerry" suffered a bursted spleen and was confined to the hospital for three weeks. He resumed class work last week, but will be unable to practice with his teammates for the remainder of the season.

"Jerry" attended Davenport high school and it was here that he won two football letters to start his gridiron career off with a bang. He was rated in high school grid circles as one of the best tackles in the state. His athletic ability isn't limited to football alone—however—he likes track and has to his credit many medals and ribbons for firsta won in the field events. His favorite events are the shot-put, discus, and the hammer throw.

Graduated from Davenport high school in 1928, "Jerry" and his brother "Bill" entered Lake Forest Academy. During his prep career he won two letters on the gridiron playing as flashy West Branch fullback, completed two aerial attempts to Olsen, that advanced the oval 15 yards. They were again unable to gain through the local forward wall, and lost possession of the ball. They never menaced the Blue and White goal line again during the remainder of the contest.

For University high the entire line played good football, although Lenz, Means, and Fuhrmeister made the majority of the tackles. Captain Moore starred in the Handy backfield. With his injured arm he gained more yards from scrimmage than all the rest of the ball carriers combined, while his blocking helped his team mates get away for needed yardage time and again. He was ably assisted on offense by Nicola and Wyjack, while Young displayed his usual strong defensive game. For West Branch, Thomas, Olsen, and Waters stood out.

Sportively Speaking

The domestication of wild tabbles in purple is the task confronting Minnesota this afternoon. The Wildcats have been all go and no stop this season. They feasted on Tullane, Ohio State, Illinois, and Centre eleven—and are in search of tougher meat. They'll find it at Minneapolis.

Gehrig Spends Two Hours Under Knife

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Lou Gehrig, Yankee's first sacker, spent two hours on the operating table at St. Vincent's hospital today undergoing repairs for the 1931 baseball season.

Lou underwent an operation on his left elbow and the forefinger of his right hand, which bothered him during the closing days of the season but failed to keep him out of the Yankee lineup. He probably will be confined to the hospital for a week or 10 days.

Kyvig in Charge of Handball Sessions

Handball bids fair to assume the position as one of the major attractions in the American Legion community building program for the coming season. At present there are about a dozen men working out under the direction of Harold Kyvig, conditioning preparatory to the tournament that will decide the city championship. The tournament will begin about the first of December.

Attendant Robbed
AMES, Oct. 31 (AP)—Glenn Fall, oil station attendant, reported to police that two bandits locked him in a room of the station last night and took $69 from the cash register.

Inheritance Tax Gains
DES MOINES, Oct. 31 (AP)—State Treasurer R. E. Johnston reported that inheritance tax collections during October totaled $84,825.94. During October a year ago, they amounted to $80,358.82, and during September of this year $48,963.34.

been buffeted about the conference pretty badly this fall and the prospects are that they will suffer more defeats. The Orange and Blue gridmen will probably take it on the chin again today, this time from Purdue.

The Boiler-makers, by the way have not given up hopes of getting a cut of conference honors. One defeat, they reason, does not put them out of the running for Big Ten's mythical titles.

With the insurance salesman, Jarring Jim Bausch, in its lineup the Kansas Jayhawkers clash with Penn university this p.m., at Philadelphia. Kansas has mauled all teams it has met so far, and the outlook is that the Jayhawkers will continue.

E. H. Lauer, director of Hawk-eye athletics, attributes the failure of the conference to ratify Northwestern's proposal to shift the scene of its game with Notre Dame to Soldiers' field to the Wildcats' own lack of enthusiasm for the change. "I don't doubt at all but that the conference would have granted the change had Northwestern wanted it bad enough."

A homey little group of friends and alumni from both Princeton and Chicago will watch the game Tigers and the weak Maroons struggle to see who has the worst team. Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg or Coach Bill Roper.

Wisconsin fans are waxing as enthusiastic as ever, despite the 7 to 6 setback from Purdue last Saturday. They are confident that the Badgers can comeback after the heart-breaking loss and put a crusher on the Buckeyes. It is the first meeting of the two universities in 10 years.

It is not improbable that the fray will resolve itself into an aerial duel. For two weeks Coach Williams has been drilling the Ohioans on a pass offense with Wes Fester on the throwing end.

Likewise the Cardinals have been putting a sheen on their aerial weapons. It's an old Thistlethwaite custom that if you can't gain on land, then take to the air.

The House of Zupple is fast losing its old standing among the grid elite. The Illini have

PASSES MAKE MICHIGAN FEARED IN BIG TEN

A backfield that passes in every direction has made the Michigan Wolverines one of the most feared teams in the Big Ten conference. Harry Newman, first year quarterback, chucks the ball to Williamson, Captain Simrall, and a few others. Sol Hudson, husky fullback, furnishes the power for line plays.

HAWKEYES OPPOSE DETROIT U. TODAY

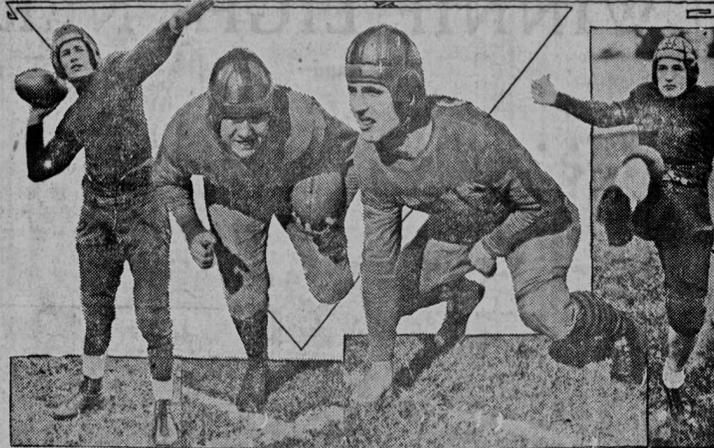

Gus Mastrogany, veteran end, will have a chance to redeem himself after his ragged showing against Purdue. Jerry Kriz is expected to see plenty of action in spite of a wounded eye. Bud Willer, fleet back, may be called upon to stem the Titan tide.

NEW BACKS RUN WHERE CAGLE DASHED TO FAME

Four sophomores, Jack MacDonald, half-back; Bill McNamara, fullback; Jim Tanguay, halfback, and Joe Lamark, quarterback, make up Chick Meehan's first string quartet at New York university. They meet Carnegie Tech this afternoon and Georgia next Saturday.

MIDDLE-WEST TEAMS MEET AT URBANA

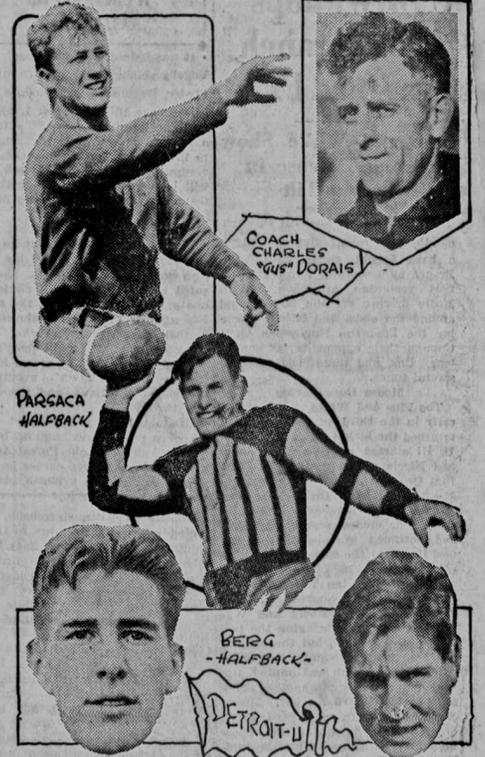

Among the classic games of the Middle West football teams to be played today is the clash between Purdue University and the University of Illinois. Purdue will place in the lineup Horace Buttner, guard, and Alex Yunevich, fullback, while among the University of Illinois eleven will be John K. Snook, of Aurora, and Gil Berry, of Abingdon, halfback. The game will be played at Urbana.

DETROIT'S GRID NUCLEUS

Rocky Parsaca, dropkicking quarterback, Berg, blocking mate of the fleet "Reindeer" O'Neill, and Captain Storen are among the stars of the undefeated Titan eleven. Hackett at end is developing into one of the best in the middle-west. Coach "Gus" Dorais has a job cut out for him to maintain his record of one defeat in 28 starts.

MAINSPRINGS IN ELI MACHINE

Yale has one Albie Booth, the "dancing sunbeam" quarterback, and a number of other players to clear a path for him. Among the more effective of these are Captain Vincent, tackle, and Kemp Dunn, halfback.
