Evaluation of personages supplanted evaluation of news at the Pica Ball, annual journalism party at Iowa Union last night when six persons were presented with awards during intermission.

Mary L. Hinkle, A4 of Des Moines, was given a hook because of her "good technique in getting her man," and James Murtagh, A3 of Algona, received a line for being "the man who uses his line most effectively."

A kite and the title "the purest woman on the campus" went to Myrtila Daniels, A4 of Des Moines, while George Wormley, A3 of Kingsley, received a "bumbershoot" for being "the dumbest man on the campus." Calvin Kay, as the "man with the most pull," was presented a corkscrew. Prof. Fred M. Fownall received a sinker for being "the most merciless faculty member."

Herbie Kay and his 13 piece recording orchestra from the Aragon and "Titanic" balloons in Chicago furnished the music for 600 dancing couples as they whirled under various colored lights. Green and orange predominated in the decorative scheme.

Figures of a dancing couple silhouetted against an illuminated screen on either side of which were modernistic green and white leaves of an open book formed a background for the orchestra. A black and white pica rule was hung above the book. Replicas of campus publications decorated an orange crepe paper fence surrounding the orchestra platform. Programs were gold and black miniature pica rules.

Screen Gives College Boys Best Chances

Lois Moran's Leading Man Latest College Boy to Make Grade

Wise college boys with the necessary aptitude have the best chances for a career in the motion picture business, despite the fact that Hollywood is now crowded with thousands seeking entry into the films.

The finest example of this point is Phillips Holmes, who enacts the romantic male lead opposite Lois Moran in the Fox Movietone production, "The Dancers," opening tomorrow at the Strand Theatre.

His father, Taylor Holmes, stage and screen comic, was not anxious for Phillips to follow in his footsteps, but then young Holmes was not keen on a lawyer's life.

"Some of my fellow classmates at Princeton laughed at me when I told them I intended to give up my law year at college for a career in pictures. They said I was taking a foolish gamble. For my part, I have never regretted the step and I believe that I will be able to retire after 10 years or so with more money saved and invested than I could have made in 30 years of any other kind of work."

Today Holmes is one of the most sought after juveniles in Hollywood. He recently supported Nancy Carroll in "Devil's Holiday," and Walter Huston in "Criminal Code."

"The Dancers" was adapted for the screen by Edwin Burke from the famous stage play by Sir Gerald De Maurier and Viola Tree, in which Richard Bennett scored so sensationally. Walter Byron shares the male feature-honors with Phillips Holmes, while Mae Clarke and Mrs. Patrick Campbell have the other featured roles.

Cast of 25 to Reproduce 'The Barong'

Three Act Production by Riley Set for Feb. 17-19

Based on 10 years experience gained among the Moros and Filipinos in the Southern Philippines, a three act play, "The Barong," by Prof. A. Dale Riley of the dramatic arts department, will be presented Feb. 17, 18, and 19 in the university theater. Professor Riley is directing the play.

Six Resume Roles

Six of the original players will resume their roles in this production. They are: Floyd Pillars of Iowa City, Ellen Ford, A4 of Iowa City; Warren Lee, A4 of Iowa City; Mrs. Floy Mann-Shermerhorn, of Des Moines; Herbert Lubart, A2 of New York City; and Frank Jaffe, J3 of Paterson, N. J.

The remainder of the cast, including minor native characters, will be announced by Professor Riley after selection has been completed. About 55 actors take part in the play.

Action of Play

Only one scene, that of constabulary headquarters in the Moro settlement at Mondanan, is used throughout the play. Action centers around the American captain who arouses the enmity of a powerful native chieftain by bringing a native woman to live with him at the constabulary.

The subsequent action results in removal of the old order of the "barong" and the lessening of the chief's influence. The name of the play is taken from a knife used by the Moros for killing.

Torgeson, Mitchell Introduce Road Poll Tax Bills to House

DES MOINES, Feb. 6 (AP)—The road poll tax is the subject of two bills introduced in the Iowa house of representatives.

One would repeal the present act and the other would effect a right about face in the method of payment.

Under the present law, the tax is $4 with a penalty of $1 added for failure to pay promptly. Wamstad proposes to make the tax $5 with a refund of $1 for prompt payment. He said he favored giving the payee a receipt for $5 when he paid the $4 when due.

Choral Group to Revive Old Cantata Songs

Chorus Will Appear on Concert Series Wednesday

Attired in costumes which were in fashion 30 years ago, a sextet will revive selections from the musical operetta "Floradora" when the university chorus is presented by the music department in a concert at Iowa Union Wednesday evening.

The chorus, singing for the first time on a university concert series, will be directed by Prof. Walter Leon of the music department.

In contrast with the gay tunes the Floradora sextet popularized will be the cantata for women's voices, "Blessed Damsel," with music by Claude Debussy and text by Dante Gabriel Rossetti, and the cantata, "God's Time is Best," by Johann Sebastian Bach, for the full chorus.

"One of the finest examples of modern French music in the choral field, is the 'Blessed Damsel,'" said Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department. "The Bach cantata, which the composer prepared during his chormastership at Leipzig, 'is a typically elaborate Bach work in the florid, contrapuntal style characteristic of Bach and Handel,'" Professor Clapp said.

A number of short compositions of light character will complete the program, including the "Floradora" number which Professor Clapp described as the most popular light op of its day, and one which marked the transition from traditional operetta to the modern musical operetta.

A Last Call

JUST how big is Iowa City's heart? While congress wrangles over proposed appropriations, enterprising citizens have seen a vision.

They have seen the desolation of an area laid barren by drought.

They have seen the misery of thousands of women and children of Arkansas waiting in soup lines to receive the meager bowl of soup—their daily allotment of food.

They have realized that starving persons cannot be fed upon reports and proposed legislation.

As a result, arrangements have been made to send a car of food—vegetables, canned goods, grain—to the suffering population of England, Ark. Already, the appeal for contributions has received an eager response from the people of Iowa City.

But more food is needed! And it is needed now!

Today is the last day for contributions if the car is to leave Monday, as is planned.

Don't let this project of generosity be marred by waiting until it is too late for the food to do the maximum good.

Give today!

Russian Railroads

A WEAK feature in the Russian "five year" industrialization program has been the railroads. In planning its swift and gigantic development of industry, the soviet government overlooked this feature and as a result very little money was appropriated for transportation development.

That weakness, the heads of the government have decided, must be corrected. Amtorg, Moscow's commercial agent in America, has been arranging for the Americanization of the Russian railroads. It is proposed to employ 150 American locomotive engineers, yard masters, switchmen, and all necessary workmen for a "perfect division" on the soviet railway system.

They will be placed in key positions, with a complete Russian crew under them for instruction. As soon as one group has fully mastered the American technique it will be moved out to take charge of a division and another group will be moved in for training.

From the reports of Amtorg, the Russians are receiving the fullest cooperation from American railroad executives. Whatever the Americans think of Russian political ideas, they are tremendously interested in Russian industrial experiments. American business men are found to be friendly to Russia and willing to aid in advancement of industrial situations, which is a laudable attitude and a step toward the molding of a friendly universe—or did someone hear the "cling" of a cash register in the background?

Castaway Cats

THREE thousand immigrants are being exported at the expense of the government, while 50 castaway cats park themselves on the Chelsea pier and gaze wistfully over the waters, waiting for a chance to get away.

These cats have been mascots on board various ships that came into the harbor, and they have all seen stirring sights in their travels upon the sea. But every last feline of them made the mistake of his nine lives when he deserted his ship for a spree on shore—A.W.O.L.—and came back to find himself barred from his ship.

No cat is allowed to board a British flag ship, and the gangplanks are guarded so rigidly that it is impossible for a cat to slip through without a passport. Even on ships where there is no law, there is no chance for the castaways, for they no sooner try to enter than they are attacked by the cats that are already on board, and for a time there is enough cussing and hair flying to put any land cat to shame.

The two toughest customers at the Chelsea pier, according to Ben Find, veteran watchman, are Tiger, a lean, black cat from Calcutta, and Ruddy, a Malagash drum-drum. They manager to keep from starving to death at the expense of the others, but for the rest of the castaways the food problem calls for immediate measures.

The government seems to be helping everyone else—even the slaves in Liberia. Charity begins at home. Surely funds can be appropriated for the aid of these scarred veterans who are undergoing trials and humiliation that no self-respecting cat can endure.

It WOULD Have

Einstein has expressed all known laws governing the behavior of light, gravity, and electricity in a single mathematical equation. That should prove a great time saver to college students at examination time.

Tomorrow's University

(An editorial series dealing with present trends and future possibilities of the University of Iowa. The vision of its administrative leaders, potentialities in its program, and transitions already under way will be included among examples and suggestions of how the university's functions might be carried out to better advantage.)

Pity the Poor Athlete

That the star player has an additional money value cannot be doubted. The Dartmouth-Yale game, for example, had never until last year gone to the bowl a crowd of over 55,000. On Nov. 2, 1929, solely because of the presence of Albie Booth on the Yale eleven and Alton Marsters on the Dartmouth team, an additional 20,000 turned out at four dollars a head. Booth's financial contribution to the college treasury amounted, for that afternoon alone, to at least fifty thousand dollars.

What, one wonders, must be the thoughts of a broad shouldered and impecunious young man at Yale when, after having devoted three hours a day for nearly three months to football, after having competed for the university scholarships on even terms with other young men able to give these three hours to study, after having waited his turn at the university employment bureau and having very possibly refused one or two positions because they conflicted with his special training hours—when, after all this, he puts on a blue jersey and trots into the bowl, and realizes that there is something better than three hundred thousand dollars "in the house"?

Faced with this situation, it is easy to feel, as did the Carnegie investigators, a certain righteous indignation. It is difficult to see, however, by what mental acrobatics these investigators were able to select as the object of their vituperation a system which enables impecunious boys to receive (and rarely in cash) an insignificant percentage of their own earnings—to ignore, at the same time, one of the most obvious exploitations of youth in the history of this country.

Why, under these circumstances, it should be considered dishonorable, let alone dishonest, for a young man to profit by his natural talents to the extent of the books, the food, the tuition necessary for an education is an eternal mystery. And why, if it is dishonorable for the young man to do this, it is honorable for his university to profit far more greatly by these talents, is a mystery deeper and more unfathomable.

Necessary Forests

(From the Lynn, Mass., Evening Item)

Nothing so ages a nation as denudation of its timber lands. Forests and virility of a country go hand in hand. The process of depletion of forests is not necessarily a long one, nor are the effects long delayed. Without replacement of forests by the federal and state governments and private land owners, the United States would suffer the decay of great areas, such as are found in the river valleys of China, the arid stretches of Syria and vast regions of Asia where one-time flourishing nations are now but a name.

Intelligent human beings have not yet fully gauged the significance of the fact that man is first an animal with zoological classification, before he is a builder of cities and states. Man can advance no further than his physical frame will permit unless he shall make good by conserving society as a whole. Zoologically considered the race and not the superior individual is what counts in the perpetuity of life.

It is this physical basis of mankind and civilization that must be kept in mind. In no direction is the warning more needed than in respect to perpetuation of forests.

Man long lived close to the forests and in his present highly civilized state he cannot thrive without them. He needs them to purify and enrich the air he breathes. He needs their products. They assure him an adequate and constant water supply. And these are not the only gifts of the tree to humanity. Take away the tree and where would mankind play and feast its eyes?

Without Benefit of Messenger?

The state Knights of Pythias benefit insurance association reports that it delivered $1,000 to a beneficiary within 20 minutes after news of the policy holder's death had been wired. It's all plausible enough except the part about the telegram.

Osculation is the sincerest form of flattery.

Explanation of Yesterday's Cartoon: Duke de Artois wore a silk hat six feet tall; Tomas, duke de Artois, a wealthy Spanish refugee who lived in Paris from 1830 to 1880, was a picturesque "boulevardier," chiefly conspicuous for his extravagances of dress. Withal he was a cultured man of the world, and the "colossal piece of headgear" he affected was merely an incident in a life devoted to the rigors of men's dress.

This account is contained in Carlos Espartaco's "Memoires."

Major Newell: Years ago Major E. Newell was with the Gen. Tom Thumb troupe, famous midget performers. At the age of 17 Newell was but 27 inches tall, and weighed only 23 pounds. This suggestion came from Major Newell's nephew, Samuel A. Jacobus, of 72 Ninth avenue, Newark, N. J.

H. S. Pupils to Take Work in Museum

Pupils from the upper classes of junior and senior high schools may take museum studies through a plan recently developed by Homer R. Dill, director of the university museums, with the cooperation of the extension division. Three Saturdays, April 4, 11, and 18, have been set aside for the exclusive use of the younger students. The museum staff will prepare a series of printed questions for each student. The answers may be found in the museum by studying the exhibits. Each sheet will be signed by the student with the name of his school, his grade, and his town, and will be countersigned by the teacher in charge of his group. After the answers have been examined and graded, the school receiving the highest mark will be awarded a mounted specimen for exhibition. Separate awards will be given for drawings of a merit made in the museum and left with the officials for examination and judging.

Monday Day Set for Shipping Carload to Arkansas

Iowa City's carload of foodstuffs for England, Ark., will be sent Monday.

With more than 90 contributions of foodstuffs, clothing, and grain received yesterday, it is hoped that more than one carload will be sent. A steady stream of donations was received by W. J. Harter at the relief headquarters, 408 E. College street yesterday, and in spite of inclement weather, farmers were bringing grain to the Miller Feed company and the Farmer's elevator.

Donations received by Mr. Harter included canned fruits, and vegetables, flour, rice, beans, coffee, oatmeal, spaghetti potatoes, hard cured meat, and clothing of all kinds.

Food rather than clothing is most needed now to complete the shipment Mr. Harter said.

W. L. Davis, chairman of the committee, pointed out that corn is needed more than anything else, as that will be most appreciated by the Arkansas, to whom corn meal is an important food. Only a fraction of the amount required has been brought in.

Chicago Man Talks to 100

Harry Fogleman Gives Advice to Legion Workers

"The only road to success and happiness lies in the spirit of the second mile," said Harry L. Fogleman of Chicago, at a community dinner in the Legion building last night.

Mr. Fogleman, teacher and salesman, last night addressed an audience of more than 100 business men and women of Iowa City in behalf of the Legion building.

"Success," he told them, "is the attainment and presentation of a legitimate and practicable ideal," and, "the basic principle in life and business is service."

Advice for Success

To make money, the speaker directed, you must know yourself, your degree of self development, human nature, your business, and have honor.

He told of the responsibilities of the audience, that it was up to them to make a success of the Legion building which was erected to make good citizens of their children, rather than to let them lead lives representative of those in Chicago.

Judge Byington read the plan of a group of Iowa City men for handling the finances of the building.

Plan Suggested

The campaign put on last fall failed by $10,000 and it is now intended to have 100 men subscribe $100 each, payable over a period of two years. All subscriptions would be void upon any member's failing to take care of his obligation.

The Legion board of trustees promises to make the budget balance in the future, barring unforeseen catastrophe, and has asked that a committee of five men be appointed as an advisory board to assist.

Little Hawks Lead 12-8 at End of Half

Schwartz Chalks up 11 Points for Scoring Honors

By O. T. DUEA
Playing basketball every minute, a rejuvenated Little Hawk quintet subdued the highly touted Dubuque high school team 22-16 last night on the local court to reverse a former 32-12 defeat and win their second Mississippi Valley league game. Iowa City high is the second team to defeat the Key City aggregation this season, Davenport being the only other five to beat them.

Tight Defense

Neither team was able to score during the first four minutes of play, then Van der Zee came through with a shot from out on the court to put the Wellsmen in the lead. "Bob" Barriek followed with a shot from the side of the court, causing Dubuque to shoot their final first team man, Miller and Fuller, into the fray.

Vestermark Misses

At the outset of the second period Vestermark missed two free throws and Van der Zee dropped in one of two tries from the foul line to tie the score. A long shot by Tracy placed the Key City five in the lead for the last time during the evening as a minute later "Bob" Barriek slipped in a "sleeper" to knot the count at the end of the half.

Free Throws

Free throws by both teams raised the score in the final quarter and another basket by Vestermark placed the Little Hawks in a 21-11 lead with only a minute and a half to play. But the six guns of Schwartz again opened fire at this point for two quick heaves from the center of the court to cut the locals lead to six points. A free throw for each outfit ended the scoring.

Coach Wells used the same lineup throughout the game, every man playing a star game. Although the Little Hawks showed a smothering offense than at any time this year, their defense was the bright spot of the game, holding their high scoring opponents to six field goals, all from far out on the court. Schwartz, with 11 points, was high scorer of the game, while Van der Zee with seven and "Bob" Barriek with six led the Wellsmen attack.

Smoldering enmity between Chicago and Northwestern and between Purdue and Indiana will be whipped to a sky high pitch tonight. The two tussles are the only conference contests carded for tonight.

At Patten gym the Wildcats will battle the Maroons for the mythical collegiate crown of Chicago and suburbs. Northwestern will represent the suburbs and Chicago university the city proper.

To be sure the Purple are favored; yet the Midway team has risen to exceptional heights in crucial games. It is sort of an unwritten law in Big Ten basketball that every team win a game or two and every team lose at least a game or two. The flat was ignored by Purdue last year. Neither Northwestern nor Illinois has been paying any attention to the law this season.

Iowa has games with both Purdue and Indiana to settle this season; so whatever happens in the intra-state encounter to night will be of interest to local fans, not only from the standpoint of the conference race, but also from that of the Hawkeys.

The race's biggest disappointment, the Bollemakers will press the Hoosiers hard. They have been sinking down towards the awesome ignominy of the cellar. Indiana has been keeping up in accordance with pre-season expectations.

Despite the slashing of sports at many universities for financial reasons, I. W. St. John, director of athletics at Ohio State, believes that the trend in college athletics is towards more sports. Fewer contests and greater variety is his summary of the current movement.

To substantiate his beliefs St. John points to the trend of events in the Big Ten. Conference teams formerly played 20 games a season. Now it has been cut to 17 a year, 12 of them Big Ten engagements. Similarly in baseball, Big Ten nines a few years ago played from 20 to 30 encounters. Plans are now afoot to limit diamond competition to 15 games.

St. Johns said that he hoped to see hockey, polo, lacrosse, swimming, and rifle shooting added to the Buckeyes sport program. Most universities have the last two now.

Tommy Loughran Comes Back; Wins Referee's Decision

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Tommy Loughran, a warrior they said was "through" came back to the big battle pit tonight to amaze a crowd of 12,000 with his boxing brilliance and completely outfight Max Baer, California's bid for heavyweight importance.

The former light heavyweight champion, stepping bilthely around the ring in the feet style that made him the stylist of the 175 pounders, jabbed, hooked and crossed with every punch in the boxing guide. The decision of Referee Jack Dempsey and the two judges, was unanimous. The Associated Press score card gave Loughran all the 10 rounds.

Central Takes Lead in Conference Race

DECORAH, Feb. 6 (AP)—Central college of Pella, last year's titleholder, appeared headed for another Iowa conference basketball championship tonight, having bowled over its foremost challenger rival, Luther college, 12 to 9. It was the nineteenth successive conference victory for the Dutchmen.

Only after a last half spurt were the champions able to take the measure of the fighting Norse who managed to hold Central to the lowest score in two seasons. It was a battle of defense between two clever teams, but the defense presented by the invaders proved superior in the final half.

Levinsky Chills Gagnon
BOSTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, knocked out Jack Gagnon of Boston, early in the third round tonight in the Boston Garden's feature bout, scheduled for 10 sessions. A wide right to the Gagnon jaw sent the French Canadian down. He was struggling to his feet as Referee Joe O'Connor counted the fatal 10. The Kingfisher weighed 179, and Gagnon scaled 12 pounds more.

Charles Comiskey Spikes Rumors of Trade With Indians

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 6 (AP)—Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, spiked rumors today of a trade with the Cleveland Indians, involving Willie Kamm, high priced Sox third baseman, and Lew Fonseca, Cleveland first sacker.

Such a deal, said baseball's "Old Roman" has never been given serious consideration, "and will not be made."

The 70 year old veteran, a commanding figure in American league politics for 30 years, is here with Secretary Harry Garbner and close relatives to "take a good rest," before returning east to battle toward another pennant winner.

WHATAWALLOPER THAT WILSON

"HACK" WILSON—HOME RUN KING OF THE MAJORS WHO SHOULD BE RUTH'S CHIEF RIVAL IN 1931!

For the fifth season in succession, the mighty "Hack" Wilson drove in more than 100 runs for the Chicago Cubs during 1930. His wallop accounted for 190 scores last year, which established a new record. He did not lead the National league with a .356 average, but the slugging percentage, recently compiled showed this stocky stickman topping all major leaguers with .723. All this, in addition to Wilson's most signal 1930 claim to fame, when, with 59, he came within four of equalling "Babe" Ruth's immortal record of 60 home runs for a season.

During 1930, the herculean "Hack" went to bat 585 times and hit safely 208 times for a total of 423 bases. That gave him a slugging percentage 36 points higher than his nearest rival, the redoubtable "Chuck" Klein, of the Phillies, who was 9 points better than battering "Babe" Herman, of the Robins.

This excellent showing, possibly a climax to four other hard hitting seasons, is all the more significant in that it plainly reveals Wilson's great fighting heart. He lost some critical drives in the sun when the Athletics humbled the Cubs during the 1929 World Series and was exposed to a fearful razzing thereby. But did "Hack" lose heart?

Did Primo Carnera leave anything but his old shoes (for the dog show) at Madison Square Garden?

"Hack" isn't built that way. He went out last spring and from the start had his best season thus far. Has his success swelled Wilson's? Well, he tells his fire house pals back home in West Virginia that Ruth is undoubtedly the greatest home run hitter of all time. That's the kind of a sportsman, the rugged Mr. Wilson is. May he have even a better season in 1931!

Upstate Five Holds U. High in Final Half

McClintock Sinks Two Baskets to Lead Attack

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
ANAMOSA, Feb. 6—The local basketball team defeated the invading University High tonight by the score of 36 to 11. The visitors were outclassed throughout and only managed to score two points in the final half.

A feature of the game was the excellent playing of Byers, forward, who kept away from the visitors at all times, and chalked up 10 markers in less than half the game. Rhody, at the pivot position, exhibited the best floor work and was high point man with a total of 11 counters.

For the losers McClintock was the best man. He led the scoring for the outfit, sinking two field goals and three charity tosses for a total of seven. Wyjack took care of three more and Lenz sank the other with a free throw.

Free throw was the bigger, faster crew and utilized a quick breaking, short passing offense that filtered through University high's defense time after time. At the halfway mark the locals led by a 13 to 9 margin.

Shortly after play was resumed, Lenz was taken out as the result of four personals and University high's defense crumbled and Anamosa ran wild to score 23 points in the final periods while their opponents were limited to two free throws.

Gopher Tank Team Downs Hawks, 52-23

The University of Iowa swimmers dropped the first meet of the season last night at Minneapolis when a powerful Gopher team trounced them by a score of 52-23.

One of the most serious handicaps to be suffered by the Iowans was the loss of Ray Mohl because of ineligibility. Mohl made the trip but was informed at the last minute that he would be unable to compete in the contest.

Wentworth Lobdell, captain and all-conference champion diver, was the only Iowan to win a first place. He seemed to have little difficulty in winning from Nappa with a score of 137.8 points against 124.4 for his opponent. Nappa was expected to give Lobdell a good run for the honors last night having won his event easily in the Wisconsin meet with 128 points.

Rollie Evans came in second to Kruser of Minnesota in the 200 yard breast stroke race, and Haskins came in trailing Quail in the 100 yard dash.

In the back stroke event the best Bodine could do was third place, giving way to Marsh and Meier of the Gophers.

The Iowa team will meet Carleton university in Northfield, Minn. this afternoon before continuing their journey home.

Postpone Volleyball Tilt

Engagements here between the American Legion business men's association and the Washington Y. M. C. A. basketball and volleyball teams have been postponed until Feb. 27. The net tilt is one of several dual meets preceding the local team's entrance in the Mississippi Valley volleyball tourney at Davenport, March 14.

Knute Rockne, Jr. Believes His Coach Better Than Father

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 6 (AP)—The disciplinary came to the fore in Knute Rockne today as he told with apparent delight how "they put my son in his place" when he entered Pembroke school here.

He referred to 11 year old Knute, Jr., who has won his way to a place on the school's midget eleven.

"I understand he took pains to impress the fact on his football coach that he was Coach Rockne's son," Rockne said.

"Who?" Coach Francis asked him, "Coach Rockne of Notre Dame." My son replied. "Coach Rockne? I never heard of him," that was fine.

"When my son came to Chicago to see Notre Dame play I overheard him tell some one it was his opinion, Coach Francis was a much better coach than his father and, in fact, he suspected Notre Dame had stolen quite a few of Pembroke's pet plays."

Riflemen to Compete for Wiles Trophy

Incidental to the shooting of the league matches for the National Intercollegiate championship, the Hawkeye rifle team begins this week the series of postal matches to determine the possessor of the Russell Wiles trophy, which goes to the winner of the Big Ten conference rifle championship.

The trophy, a bronze statuette of a grizzly bear, is presented to the winner by Russell Wiles, sportsman and rifle enthusiast. It has been in competition for five years, and has been won three times by Iowa teams.

Competition for the trophy takes the form of postal shooting for record among the Big Ten schools entered in the National Intercollegiate championship matches.

Each team fires against every other team in the league, targets being sent in to the National Rifle association for official scoring. The teams are composed of 10 men, the five high scores to count in competition. Each man fires 10 shots in each of three positions, prone, kneeling and standing.

Varsity, Frosh Track Squads Hold Trials for Chicago Meet

Time trials for the track meet with Chicago will be held this afternoon immediately after the wrestling meet. The consistent performers of last year's varsity and yearling squads are expected to make a good showing this afternoon. From previous workouts outstanding men have been noticed in every event.

Strong competition is in no small degree accountable for the hard training which the squad has been undergoing in preparation for the coming season.

Friday's workout consisted chiefly of limbering-up exercises. Men in each event took a light workout in preparation for today's time trials: hurdlers stressing chiefly form, while sprinters and distance men took a few easy laps in proportion to their respective events.

Several new men have made their appearance in the freshman squad. Among those reporting for daily workouts are C. A. Aagesen of Couler; R. L. Kirtledge of Iowa City, and D. O. Rae of Des Moines.

Collins Advances to Miami Semi-Finals

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)—Jack Collins of Dayton, Ohio, advanced into the semi-finals of the professional match play golf tournament here today by defeating Joe Mazzotti of Elmford, N. Y., 2 up.

Danny Williams of Westfield, N. J., won his quarter final match from Massey Miller of Norwich, Conn., 2 up.

Ralph Kingsrud of Fargo, N. D., defeated Jack Thompson of Youngstown, Ohio, 2 to 1, and John Kinder of Caldwell, N. J., had a comparatively easy time in eliminating Earl Howell of Miami, 5 and 3.

Grinnell Frosh Victors

GRINNELL, Feb. 6 (AP)—Grinnell college freshmen cagers took a 22 to 17 decision from the Cornell yearlings of Mt. Vernon here today. The Pioneer youngsters took an early lead on Waite's long shot, and held an 11 to 4 advantage at the half. Cornell rallied late in the game to pull up within three points of the leaders, but could not hold the pace.

Iowans Hope to Keep Slate Clean Today

Paul Amlie Ineligible; New Pair to Add Strength

The powerful Hawkeye wrestling team will swing into action again this afternoon at the fieldhouse against Minnesota. Two victories, one over Nebraska, and a win from Wisconsin rank the Old Gold matmen as prime favorites.

Coach Mike Howard has taken no chances, however, and the team is in superb condition. Three men will make their 1931 debuts. Scholastic difficulties have forced Paul Amlie, 135 pounder from the mat for the rest of the year and his place will be filled by Sammy Erhardt, scrappy sophomore.

Norris Replaces Weldon
Harold Norris is slated for the 145 pound post. This berth was filled by L. D. Weldon. Norris has had several years of experience and has been impressive in practice. Elmer Haberkamp, former 175 pounder has been groomed for the heavyweight division.

Four of the Iowa grapplers are as yet undefeated this season. H. Claude Peer at 125, and Capt. Loren Poyner, 165, have won both their matches in easy fashion. Larry Mueller made his first start of the year against Wisconsin and won after a hard battle, while Al Coons, who wrestled against Nebraska in the 155 pound class, took the only fall of the meet.

Charlie Coughlin, 175, won from the Nebraska man, but dropped a close bout against the Badgers.

Gophers Lack Experience
The Gophers will present a rather inexperienced but scrappy outfit. Six sophomores and two veterans comprise the lineup. They lost to Iowa State Teachers by a score of 23 to 5, and went down before the University of Chicago 21 to 13.

The big bout of the afternoon should be between Captain Poyner and Captain Orfield. Orfield, and Hauber, 135 pounder are rated as the two strongest men of the Gopher contingent.

Referee J. G. Kallas will call the first two men into the ring at 2 o'clock.

Collins Advances to Miami Semi-Finals

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)—Jack Collins of Dayton, Ohio, advanced into the semi-finals of the professional match play golf tournament here today by defeating Joe Mazzotti of Elmford, N. Y., 2 up.

Danny Williams of Westfield, N. J., won his quarter final match from Massey Miller of Norwich, Conn., 2 up.

Ralph Kingsrud of Fargo, N. D., defeated Jack Thompson of Youngstown, Ohio, 2 to 1, and John Kinder of Caldwell, N. J., had a comparatively easy time in eliminating Earl Howell of Miami, 5 and 3.

Questionable Fight Brings Suspension for Two Fighters

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP)—Jose Santa, the Carnera of Portugal, who brought his 240 pounds and six feet, six inches of height America five months ago seeking fame and fortune in the ring, was suspended for six months today by the Illinois State Athletic commission for engaging in a questionable fight at the Chicago stadium last Wednesday night.

Santa's opponent, Knute Hansen of Racine, Wis., was suspended indefinitely. Santa's entire purse of $1,500 was ordered forfeited while Hansen was fined his purse of $1,000.

The suspensions also are effective in 29 other states controlled by the National Boxing association, and in European countries under the jurisdiction of the International boxing union.

Western League to Open Season May 1

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 6 (AP)—The Western league will open its baseball season this year a week of 19 days later than customary. Dale Gear, president, announced today.

In an effort to obtain better weather for night baseball, Gear said the season will open around May 1 and close late in September. The change, he believed, would result in avoidance of spring rains.

The league's schedule committee will meet February 11 and 12 in Excelsior Springs, Mo. Members of the committee are John Holland, president of the Oklahoma City club, Don Stewart, secretary of Wichita, and Lee Keyser, president of Des Moines.

Lehmann Wins Title

HELP YOURSELF TO HAPPINESS

Twenty-Ninth Instalment Synopsis of Preceding Instalments Anne Harkness was in the studio of Steve Bernabery when he was killed by Carlotta Pascoe, who told the police that Anne was the slayer. Anne's fingerprints on the gun—she had tried to snatch it from Carlotta—support this charge. She flies and on a train meets a woman, who says she is running away from her husband, whom she married that morning. A wreck interrupts these confidences. Anne is injured and, when she regains consciousness, she is wearing the jewels and clothing of her train acquaintance. The woman's husband arrives and then he tells Anne she will have to pose as his wife, but that this will not be difficult, since his friends and servants have not seen Maqua. Later Anne learns that he is Peter Bernabery, brother of the murdered man, and that he has sworn to kill the woman who killed Steve. After several weeks of association, Peter falls in love with Anne and she with him. Even Marquas's brother, Roger, who meets Anne while trying to locate his sister, falls in love with her. However, Anne's period of security ends. She is traced through the fingerprint clue. Just when the police have her cornered, Chester Collins, a reporter, rescues her and takes her to confront Carlotta, who, although she admits her guilt to Anne, refuses to make an open confession, because she is going to have a child. Anne boards a train for the west.

his question: "How come? What's new?" "I haven't anything new," the latter replied, "but I wanted to arrest Anne Harkness myself and do it before you had a chance to take any personal vengeance." "Arrest Anne?" Peter repeated. "Have you got track of her? Do you know where she is at present?" "No, but I have a pretty fair idea where she will be before the afternoon is over." "You have? Where?" "Here." "Here?" "Yeah. Right in this room. I brought along two pair of handcuffs. One of 'em for you right now unless you promise on your honor to behave yourself and let me handle this my own way." "If you mean that I'm not to hurt her, I'll promise you that. But what makes you think that she would possibly come here?" "They always come back to the scene of the crime." "But no crime has been committed here." "Well," decided Peter, "The corpse scarcely ever knows what has happened." Watkins had come back without the beverages. "That young Mr. Mackilvaine wishes very much to see you, sir, but I made him wait outside until I found out what your sentiments were toward him, today." "Well," decided Peter, "I'm not sentimental over him at all. Do you want to see him, Lavin?" "Yes. In jail." "Send him in," Peter ordered. Roger entered almost immediately, but stopped at the door with a fair imitation of a motion picture "start of surprise." "My word, Malselm," he addressed an imaginary companion, "we're trapped. How many cartridges have you left?" "Come in," invited Peter. "We were just speaking of you." "I know. I can smell some of the words that haven't gone out yet. But be merciful, Inspector, I'll pay for your car as soon as I can sell ten more magazine subscriptions." "I've paid for the car," Peter assured him dryly. "Yes," Inspector Lavin concurred, "all you have to go to jail for is assisting in the escape of a prisoner." "That's different. But in a more serious vein, Peter, I have some bad news for you." Peter abandoned his newly accepted belief in the impossible, for a moment, and gave way to unmanly panic. "About Anne? She's been hurt or—?" "No. Not Anne. My sister." "Oh. Thank heaven it isn't Anne." "But it is Anne!" She stood in the doorway looking uncomprehendingly from one man to the other. (TO BE CONCLUDED)

Anne had been on her way west about two hours when the New York police succeeded in locating her. The incident of the canceled ticket at the train gate so vividly fixed itself in the memory of the guard on duty, as well as on that of a porter who had been going through with baggage at the time, that it was easy to trace her. "Where's the train now?" Lavin asked irritably. He had been up all night and the case had not, so far, been any particular feather in his cap. At least, so he thought. "Somewhere in Pennsylvania, I think," returned the detective who had just brought in the information. "Shall we telegraph the police at Pittsburgh to pick her up?" "I suppose so." The detective started to leave the room. "Wait a minute," ordered Lavin. "We'll have to monkey around with extradition, if we do that." "That's not much trouble." "But I've got a very special reason—a personal one—wanting to make this arrest myself." "I don't see—"

"No, but I do. Send in a stenographer there's one on duty anywhere, and turn in a call for a messenger boy as you go out." Inspector Lavin grinned to himself as he dictated a telegram which he at once ordered sent in duplicate to Mrs. Peter Bernabery, to Miss Anne Harkness and to Any Passenger Bound for Port Auburn, Col. He addressed it in care of the Pullman conductor of Anne's train, knowing well that he would see that it was delivered. "Unless," he murmured confidentially, "I have entirely missed my guess as to the way women act, especially this one, I'll bet she'll be here before night—earlier, if she can hire an aeroplane."

The institution and its beginning in the "model school" incorporated in Iowa City high school. This school provided for the practical training of university students who desired to be teachers by the method of practice teaching in the high school. In 1916 the school board of Iowa City high school gave notice that at the close of the year there would be no more practice teaching. The "model school" was then taken over by the college of education. At this time there were four schools in Iowa City; Iowa City high school, two church schools, and Iowa City academy. The town was too small to support five secondary schools, so the university combined the academy and the "model school."

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 6.—Refusal of George Arliss to appear in a scene with 24 scantily attired bathing girls led to a minor crisis this week in the filming of the veteran English actor's newest talkie, "The Ruling Passion." Hollywood's latest tempest in a teapot took place at a fashionable Pasadena home, where a Warner Brothers company was on location filming a smart afternoon garden party. In the absence of a swimming pool, the 24 girls, clad in brief bathing suits, were draped around a lily pond. As soon as Arliss sighted them, he took exception to Director John Adolph's idea of production value. In his quiet, polite way, he told Adolph that "The Ruling Passion" was no Mack Sennett comedy. Furthermore, he had his way. Assistants hurriedly rounded up drapes for the girls, and they were placed inconspicuously among the more formally attired extras. Harmony then was restored.

The camera and microphone were set up in a tumbledown Mexican settlement near San Bernardino when the raucous tones of a cheap radio suddenly assailed the ear. An assistant director was dispatched to stop the noise. Presently, he came back, scratching his head. A cunning Mexican woman demanded money to turn off the instrument. In the end, the director had to promise her a check.
