On the Eastern Front

DISSOLVING a traditional enmity which has spanned centuries, Greece and Turkey seem to be well on the road to friendly relations.

In 1920-22, the Turks and Greeks were engaged in a death struggle in Messopatamia. About this time, racial feeling ran so high that Greek families could not live in Anatolia nor Turkish families in old Greece.

On June 10, 1930, an agreement was signed by the Turkish foreign minister and the Greek minister to Turkey which paved the way for a visit to the land of the crescent by M. Venizelos, the Greek premier. Out of this visit there came a treaty of friendship, non-aggression, and neutrality, consummated in November 1930. At the same time a naval protocol was drawn up in which the two countries agreed not to build new naval units without informing each other six months before starting to build.

The Greco-Turkish rapprochement, which would have seemed nothing short of impossible a decade ago, was brought about chiefly through the economic interdependence of the two countries. Turkey exports cereals, livestock, and other produce to Greece, and Greece, in turn, sends manufactured articles to Turkey. Also Greek shipping lines carry on an active trade in Turkey.

It was really Italy who set the stage for the rapprochement by establishing friendly relations herself with Greece and Turkey within the last few years.

Such is the international panorama visualized for tomorrow a world in which the old order of hostility and suspicion is opposed by many new phases of interdependence between countries.

Greater Freedom for a Few

A LITTLE more than an hour's ride from Berlin, Germany, is "Motzen See," where a group of back-to-nature enthusiasts romp about unhampered by the conventionality of clothing.

A credo that has been adopted by 6,000 persons states, "It is my intention to go naked as many days of the year as possible; I shall try to induce others to do the same."

The movement is almost a religion, so sure are its advocates that the "free body culture" can help many thousands become stronger physically and mentally.

But, they are an exclusive bunch, these champions of greater freedom, insisting that their members be only of the type devoted to the finer things of life.

In fact, the guests at "Motzen See' must sign a pledge that they are not given to giggling over the funny pranks nature played on her children which are so obvious when not hidden by protective coverings.

Protected from peeping toms by a high wall, the naked culturists entertain no fears of ice and cold but play about their gardens all year long.

Beautiful in theory, the whole thing is without doubt an interesting experiment for these few who have declared their belief in the higher things in life. The fact that they have had to seclude themselves from "peeping toms" and the over curious is proof enough that the movement is only for the few.

A great many founders of religions, conceiving a credo that has worked beautifully with the chosen few, have seen their theories gravely distorted and misshaper when submitted to the "hoi-polloi."

Clothing was adopted by civilized persons as protection against heat and cold as well as for adornment. This new movement, while it may be a sound health measure within a resort, is hardly to be advocated for the every day business man who must hurry about in pursuit of his business affairs in all kinds of weather, in and out of heated buildings, and at all hours of the day and night.

And More Practice

RECENTLY Paderewski amazed railroad workers in Los Angeles by practicing for hours on a piano that he always carries with him in his private car. One worker remarked:

"They say he's the best piano player in the world, and listen to him, still practicing."

Genius alone would have boosted Paderewski to the pinnacle of fame, but it has been his incessant practice that has kept him there. In taking an object lesson from this incident, it must be remembered merely trusting in the old adage "practice makes perfect" will not open the way.

According to Prof. J. G. Jenkinson, Cornell psychologist, belief in such adages creates more harm than good and is really responsible for a flock of dub golfers and dancers for they become expert only in the atrocious steps and shots that they practice. Changing the adage to "you learn only what you practice" would be more appropriaet. And keeping that in mind, practice will produce results.

Federal Week Ends

UNCLE SAM grows lenient with his hired help. From now on, in accordance with a law enacted by congress at the last session, federal employes all over the country will work only four hours on Saturday and take the afternoon off.

There is to be no docking of pay because of less time and there is to be no extra hiring of help. The government figures that its servants will be so stimulated by extra leisure that they will be able to do the same amount of work in five and one-half days that they formerly accomplished in six. The point will probably not be argued as private industries have proven it only too true.

Thus public employes will get the same shortened week end that industrial workers have enjoyed for years. And thus the number of workers enjoying the lengthened week end become greater. Possibly it will soon become a universal program and all will have Saturday afternoon off—that is all but the newspaper people.

What will be the next step? No doubt it will be to eliminate Saturday morning on the grounds that it is hardly worth while to go to work for such a short time. Then it will be, as some industries have already started, that the five day week will become a reality and the spending of week ends will become an art.

Sausage Songs

"THE most successful combination of song writers ever produced by New York's Tin Pan Alley" has been dissolved. The celebrated trio of De Silva, Brown, and Henderson, the "Three Musketeers of Music," has "gone bust." It happened in Hollywood where these artists have been engaged for five years in quantity production.

This major disaster, if one cares to look at it that way, was caused by the lonesomeness of Brown and Henderson, who pined for Broadway lights. So they checked out, leaving De Silva to carry on alone, with such help as he can muster from several hundred volunteer tin-panners, to preserve the national crooning industry.

This artistic trio, it is said, has earned more than $7,000,000 by song writing, in spite of—or possibly because of—the fact that only one of the three could play the piano or write music. A tolerable amount for ordinary folks, but a slight remuneration for geniuses who keep the world happy!

"It has been too much like grinding out sausage," lamented Brown, as he started east. Was ever a truer word spoken? The American public knows.

A Planet's Birthday

ON MARCH 13, the planet Pluto observed its first birthday, as recorded on scientific records. A year ago, scientists of the Lowell Observatory in Arizona announced the discovery of this planet, the ninth of those revolving around our sun. It was dubbed "Planet X" at that time. Since it revolves in a world of darkness at a distance of 3,800,000,000 miles from the sun, the name of the newcomer was changed to Pluto.

Dr. Percival Lowell many years ago calculated Pluto's existence and predicted its ultimate discovery in the heavens. Fate dealt a cruel break to Dr. Lowell, however, for he died in 1916, a prophet with a dream unfulfilled.

Pluto's size has been established as about that of the earth. Being on the outer edge of the solar system, about 40 times as far from the sun as the earth, the dark planet takes 250 times as long to swing around the sun as does our earth. Its rate of traveling speed is estimated as from two to three miles a second as compared with the earth's 18.5 miles per second.

Too Many Inventions

TOO MUCH progress is likely to call a halt to all progress. This seemingly paradoxical sentiment was voiced by Charles Edison, son of Thomas Edison, and president of Thomas Edison industries, when he declared that too many inventions is one of the troubles of the civilized world.

He cites the radio industry which he declares has become a "regular racket," as an example of the danger in too many inventions.

What Mr. Edison seems to have overlooked is the fact that modern legislative and business proceedings are still more or less immersed in a morass of obsolete detail and inefficient methods which makes it impossible for them to keep pace with the rapid advance of science.

Taking Mr. Edison's own example, the radio industry, it is quite conceivable that the industry could be controlled by certain laws and regulations in much the same fashion as the railroads, telegraph services and so on are controlled today. But the establishment of such laws and regulations would be a slow and laborious process.

Necessity, we have been told, is the mother of invention. The crying necessity now, however, according to Mr. Edison, is to restrain too much invention. Then we must either discard the old maxim or apply it as a working principle—to business and legislative methods instead of to science.

Comparing the actor's career to the radio artist's, a writer says "a stage star has 10, and often 20 fruitful years." In a broad sense "fruitful" might include grapefruit dropped from the balcany. Detroit News.

Engineers report that the Bagnell dam in Missouri will back up the water of the Marais des Cygnes 129 miles. Kansas once had a row with Colorado which went up to the highest court of the land over Colorado's robing Kansas waters by irrigation. It may yet have to fight Missouri for backing her waters up on some of her flood streams.

General Butler Received Two Congressional Medals of Honor: In 1900, during the Boxer rebellion, General Smedley D. Butler, who was then serving his first year in the Marine Corps, received the Congressional Medal of Honor "for conspicuous gallantry during an attack on the walled city of Peking, China." Again in 1917, while he was serving with the Marines in Haiti, he received a like decoration. General Butler also has the decorations of Army Distinguished Service Medal, Navy Distinguished Service Medal, and Brevet Medal.

Women Who Talked Too Much Were Muzzled: Padlock proceedings against women who talked too much were part of German jurisprudence in the Middle Ages. A woman who made herself obnoxious either to her husband or to the community at large, by nagging or scolding could be proceeded against under the muzzling law. If convinced, a sentence of from one hour to a year could be pronounced against her, during which time she was obliged to wear a muzzle. Muzzles of that kind are exhibits in almost every European Museum.

Letter to the Editor

AN APPRECIATION OF OSCAR R. COAST

To the editor of The Daily Iowan:

Gone is our friend. No more shall we see the pleasant smile or feel the warm hand clasp that marked the pleasure of meeting.

The voice is still. Still, did I say? Ah, yes, but even so he speaks and ever will of nature's beauty, through the canvas, where-upon his cunning skill caught and stayed the sunset gleams, the fatal-glow, and moonlight on the ocean.

There they are and again do they proclaim his joy in truth and beauty, and thus his soul speaks to yours and mine and to all who are not blind.

'Tis good to have lived and loved and worked. 'Tis better still to have left behind a message that beauty may be seen where e'er we look.

Yes, our friend has gone, and yet remains until for us the end.

VOSS
WASHER

Now, the 1931, improved Voss electric, porcelain tub washer may be bought for the lowest price for which a truly highgrade, full-sized electric washer has ever sold!

Basically this new model is of the same fine quality as VOSS washers which have sold for as high as $150.

It is the only washer, we believe, at anywhere near this low price, which has been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

For ONLY

$59.95

The only Washer That Cleans by the Hand Washing Method

Even more important to you than the low price, is the fact that the VOSS agitator exactly duplicates hand-washing action in all its gentle thoroughness. No other washer can offer this feature. The VOSS agitator washes in the clean active suds at the top of the tub, away from the dirt which settles to the bottom—just where you would wash by hand.

The VOSS has a full-sized, porcelain tub, Lovell wringer with large 21 inch rolls, Westinghouse motor, all mechanism fully enclosed and running in oil, and all other features you expect in a modern washer.

The VOSS Duplicates Hand-Washing Action!

When you wash by hand, you wash in suds at top.

The Voss Agitator washes in the suds at the top.

Dirt always falls to the bottom of the tub.

Dr. A. H. Joehnk Says Owners Opposed Cattle Test

That numerous Johnson county cattle owners once held the same opinions on the tubercular tests as those now opposing the work in Cedar county, but changed their views after actual experiences with it was explained yesterday by Dr. A. H. Joehnk, state veterinarian.

Opposed Tests

"Some Johnson county dairymen were opposed to the test when they submitted their cattle to it less than six months ago with heavy loss to their herds," Dr. Joehnk said.

"Instead of fighting the work, however, they followed the cattle to slaughter and saw for themselves how badly infected the animals were. They later found that after they received pay for the salvage, and indemnity from the state and federal governments, that the net proceeds were about the same as if they had sold the cattle as healthy animals, deducting sale expenses," Dr. Joehnk continued.

Results Convincing

One local man, after losing 54 head of cattle, visited the plant where they were slaughtered. Results were so convincing that he has now become a supporter of the test, going so far as to offer his services in fighting the opposition in Cedar county.

First tubercular tests in Johnson county were made more than 15 years ago. Infection is now low due to an ordinance passed in Iowa City 11 years ago requiring a test of all dairy cattle from which milk was supplied to the city.

Nineteen Per Cent Infected

At that time 19 per cent of the cattle were found to be infected. These herds have been given the test for tuberculosis once each year in an effort to check the disease.

If these infected cattle had remained in the herds, or had been sold into other herds, infection would now be very high. If beef herds had been tested at the same time and infected animals condemned, infection in the county would be slight, as proven by the work with dairy cattle, Dr. Joehnk concluded.

Plea for Church Unity Professor Hawley's Message at Trinity Episcopal Church

Professor Hawley was welcomed to the pulpit of the Trinity Episcopal church by the Rev. Richard E. McEvoy as the special preacher for the Lenten service Sunday morning. Recognized as a leader in the movement for church unity, Professor Hawley presents some of his convictions on the subject in the accompanying sermon. He is author of four books and is now collaborating with other students of the history religion in preparing a book on "American Christianity." Professor Hawley has traveled extensively throughout Europe and the Holy Land. He did his graduate work at Columbia university and the University of Basel, Switzerland, and at Halle, Germany.

(Editor's Note: This is the ninth of a series of articles on sermons delivered from local pulpits, to be presented on this page every Tuesday morning.)

By WILLIAM RUTLEDGE

A plea for churches to lift themselves above petty indifferences and unite towards a common end was made by Prof. Charles A. Hawley of the university school of religion from the pulpit of Trinity Episcopal church Sunday morning as the special Lenten service preacher.

The "divisive spirit" that keeps religious organizations apart, Professor Hawley believes, clouds Christianity and impairs the work of the church.

"Christianity can become a world-wide religion" if the component parts can be moulded into a single unit.

"Petty Loyalties!"

"Let us be done with divisive terms, remnants of ancient quarrels, nationalism of dead princes, and primitive tribalism. Not on this mountain or that. Not in this denomination or that. Petty loyalties! This in the face of a needy world."

Lenten season should be a time, Professor Hawley declared, that church leaders should put aside their selfishness and realize that all who believe in God are allies, and all striving towards the same end. The early Christians faced by great tasks felt that they were cheered on by a great company of those who had conquered.

"I can never forget the subtle, penetrating influence which I have felt when I visited the birthplace of some great hero of the faith. We have felt it if we have had the good fortune to spend an Easter in Jerusalem or Assisi or Rome. The early Christian writers referred this penetrating power to the church. In a time of trouble the persecuted were reminded that, though far from temple or sacred mount, they were, nevertheless, surrounded by a great crowd of witnesses. This word we ought rather to translate martyrs, for martyrdom had come ere the pages of the New Testament.

Opposed to Localism

"This new teaching they had learned from Jesus. Brought up as he was on the poems and prayers of the Old Testament, He, nevertheless refused to localize God. It is true that as a boy he eagerly sought the great capital and at his first passover, he tarried at the temple school insisting that He must be about His Father's business. He seems steadfastly to have avoided pilgrimages to Bethlehem, sacred to the memory of David or to Hebron, dedicated to the fame of Abraham. He seems clearly, in the earliest records, to have been intent on universalizing his message, which he called 'Good news.'

"And now in this Lenten season as we approach again the Passion of our Lord, as we meditate again His witnessing, His martyrdom, we ought to find in the church what Jesus tried to make men see."

Professor Hawley gave special praise to the work of the late Bishop Brent whom he called one of the truly great men of modern times.

Connie Mack Conditions Same Old Nine for American League Pennant

Old Manager Seeks Third Straight Win

"Big Five" Returns to Held Champions Repeat Feat

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 16 (AP)—While several rival pilots are assuring themselves and any one else who will listen that the Philadelphia Athletics are bound to crack this season, that "luck" such as they had last year can't hold out forever, Connie Mack is going serenely about his business of getting the same old nine ready for another pennant race.

He admits he would like to uncover a couple of sure fire young pitchers, but outside of that he is pretty certain the old vehicle is good for another race or two, he is so certain he is willing to stake his hopes for a third straight championship—a life long ambition—on his veterans.

Earnshaw Out?

There still are the "Big Five"—Grove, Earnshaw, Foxx, Cochrane, and Simmons — whose blinding curves and big bats have subdued the baseball world for two seasons. There have been wild reports that Earnshaw has not been able to get in shape and might not be ready to start the campaign. It is known he has been at Hot Springs for a month, but whether there is any foundation for the report his talented right arm has sprung a leak, no one in Florida seems to know.

The dealers in inside information, too, have it there will be a shake-up in the somewhat venerable infield of the A's. The 34 year old Jimmy Dykes, they say, has slowed up to such an extent he may be displaced at third, and Joe Boley's arm no longer is the whip it used to be from shortstop. To all of which Connie Mack merely smiles and assures you he intends to stand by his guns. There has not been, strangely enough, any intimation that Max Bishop might lose his job at second or the explosive Jimmy Foxx be chased off first base.

Lefty Grove Among First

Lefty Grove, who contributed 28 victories last season, was one of the first to hit camp, and he has worked like a stevedore to get in tip-top shape. It is felt here that Earnshaw's hegira to Hot Springs merely was pursuant to a desire to have himself in the pink for the season's start. His 22 wins swung the tide last year.

Providing Grove and Earnshaw enjoy their usual robust health, the pitching situation would appear to revolve about the ability of George Walberg to do a comeback. The big southpaw, who fell off 13 victories last year after having rung up 18 the previous season, has assured Connie Mack he will crowd the 20 mark this summer. If he does, there will be nothing for the opposition to do but cheer the three time champions. That would distribute perhaps 70 triumphs between three flingers, and any help obtained from Mahaffey, Rommel, Shores, Perkins and the others would be pure velvet.

McDonald Looks Good

If there is a winner among the big crop of rookies, it appears to be Hank McDonald, a 200 pound youngster purchased from Portland, Ore. He has shown so much ability in exhibition games that several managers of rival clubs have predicted he will be a big shot in his first season.

That Mack would retain his ball-busting outfield intact there was never much doubt. Al Simmons, sometimes called the "one man" outfield, Edmund "Bing" Miller and George "Mule" Haas, will be back at their old stands, despite the fact that neither Miller nor Haas burned up the league with their hitting in 1930. Simmons can crack the ball often and far enough for all three.

Mickey Cochrane already has been appointed to the catching staff for another term, with Heving acquired from the Red Sox for aid.

Sportively Speaking

Prep basketball tourney, spring football, baseball training, National Collegiate Athletic association swimming meet, Minnesota relays —are a few of the variegated athletic activities now before the sports public.

* * *

The list would vary in different localities about the state, but the high school lads top any list that would be drawn up in Iowa. The preps have awakened unparalled interest in the state championship. Not only dyed-in-the-wool followers but folks who scarcely know the difference between a free throw and a field goal have become avid readers of the title doings.

* * *

The outcome of a college or professional tilt can usually be predicted with a fair degree of consistency —but to predict the outcome of the result of the high school tourney would be as dangerous as to comment on what's already happened. It has been a frequent observation among fans that "You can't tell what the boys will do."

* * *

Taking up the second item on the list, it should be noted the high interest in spring football. Coach Burt Ingwersen has more candidates to pick from this spring than he had last fall, and still many gridmen are engaged in other sports.

* * *

Having scored more points than any Hawkeye swimming team in a Big Ten meet, Coach Dave Armbruster's natators will put on their acts at the N.C.A.A. meet Saturday at Chicago. Under present plans Wentworth Lobdell will win the fancy diving event and both relay teams will place close to first.

* * *

Some kind of a record must have been estabiished by Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Alpha Epsilon when they counted 411 free throws out of a possible 600. Hesalroad led the parade of gift tossers by sinking 24 out of a possible 30.

* * *

The varsity rifle team will have an opportunity it is not likely it will overlook, to avenge the loss from Minnesota Saturday. The chance will come at the Big Ten rifle meet March 28. But right now, the R.O.T.C. units are more concerned about the annual athletic carnival that is to be staged Saturday with 14 units participating.

Quad Sidelines

By "MEL"

Upper D and Lower B teams advanced in the quadrangle volleyball tournament last night with victories over Upper C and Lower A respectively.

Both victors took two out of three matches.

The date of the annual swimming meet has been advanced to Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the field house pool.

Drug Store Bill Introduced

DES MOINES, March 16 (AP)—Preparing and serving of food by drug stores would be prohibited under a bill introduced today by Rep. C. M. Lankland of Winneshick county by request.

The bill provides that no food may be prepared or served in ony retail establishment which offers or keeps for sale any poisonous or narcotic substances.

University of Utah officials say more than 75 per cent of the students at the institution are working their way through school.

Old Gold Wrestlers Show Strength at Conference Tourney to Close Season

Iowa wrestlers closed the season last week end at the Western conference meet at Chicago. Six Iowans entered the tournament which disclosed the conference individual championships. A third place in the 175 pound class and a fourth in the 145 pound division was the best the Hawkeyes could do.

Charlie Coughlin, 175, closed his career as a college wrestler by cutting down all opposition to get into the final round, only to be defeated by Brown of Northwestern through a decision. He was relegated to third place when Schultz of Illinois, winner of the consolation rounds, beat him.

Coughlin walloped the Illini in the Iowa-Illinois dual meet, but the championship bout, which took place shortly before, had taken too much out of the Iowa lightheavy.

Burton Dull, sophomore 15 pounder, created a sensation in the first round by forcing Dyer, conference champ, to go to the limit in an over-time bout. The Chicago flash barely nosed out Dull by a decision. Dyer went on to take his second championship in three years. Dull placed fourth by means of the consolation bouts.

Larry Mueller, 118, and Claude Peer, 126, were forced out in the semi-final round. Mueller lost to Aldridge of Indiana, who took the title, while Peer was pinned by Scott, Wisconsin. Peer experienced difficulty in making the weight, but in spite of his weakened condition, forced the Badger to go more than 14 minutes to pin him. At the end of the regular period, Peer had a slight advantage.

Captain Loren Poyner, 165, and Al Coons, 155, succumbed in the initial round. Poyner, far from physical perfection because of illness, lost to Hewitt of Illinois. Because of injuries incurred during the bout, the Illini ace was forced to forfeit his match in the semi-finals.

Coons was tossed by Kintzell of Purdue, to end his season's activities. The Iowa middleweight won two bouts during the season, both of them by falls.

"The boys did the best they could," Coach Mike Howard declared last night. "We have shown much improvement this season, and I look for a stronger team next year."

Coach Howard spoke very highly of Riley, Northwestern heavyweight, who won the title. "He has everything to be desired in a heavy—size, weight, strength, and plenty of natural ability," said Coach Howard. "The best heavyweight I have ever seen in the conference," was the Iowa mentor's summary of the Wildcat strong man.

The grapplers will meet Wednesday to elect the captain for next year. All letter winners, both minor and major, are eligible for the honor.

Intramuralites

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon free throw artists yesterday afternoon tied the high record made by Pi Kappa Alpha last week of 411 to knot up the leadership in the Greek free throw contest. Shaff of the Sig Alphs, with 22 sinkers out of 30 attempts, was best for the afternoon but failed to approach the meet high mar of 24 held by Hesalroad of Pi K.A. Jackson was second high for S. A. E. with 20 counters in the 30 tries at the hoop.

Greek volleyball teams will take up their conquest for the court championship again tonight when Phi Kappa Psi and Delta Upsilon of section one meet at 7:15, Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Tau Delta will mix in a section two battle at 8 p.m. and Sigma Nu and Kappa Sigm of section three will meet at 8:45. The schedule for Wednesday and Thursday will be announced in tomorrow's Intramuralites. Two courts will take care of the contests throughout the remainder of the tourney.

The deadline for interfraternity physical efficiency entry blanks has been set for tonight and all athletic managers are urged by "Dad" Schroeder to turn in their entries on tosses and one charity point. Participation points will be awarded for a maximum of 30 men and under.

Pirates Break Camp

PASO ROBLES, March 16 (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates broke spring training today after more than three weeks in camp, and started for Oakland where an exhibition series will be opened with Oakland of the Pacific Coast league tomorrow.

Sox Release Two

SAN ANTONIO, March 16 (AP)—Two more players, Infielder John "Blondy" Ryan and Catcher Victor Siegel, were released by the White Sox today. Ryan, former Holy Cross college star, was sent to Atlanta on option while Siegel was shipped home. He probably will be placed wth some three eye league club.

Irish Five Loses Game

St. Patrick's quintet lost to Troop 7 at Davenport last night 25 to 20 in a fast tilt where both displayed good form. Beginning the third quarter 14 to 7 St. Pat's gained steadily until they tied the score at 19 with four minutes to go. Penney scored high for St. Pat's with three field tosses and one charity point.

AMERICAN LEGION ATHLETIC NOTES

Awards will be made to two basketball teams tonight at the American Legion building following a dinner for the players in the city title series, industrial league, and club league.

The 186th Hospital company five, city and club league champs, will receive two team awards, and ten players will receive individual awards. The Fisher and Stemen cafe quintet will receive the industrial league trophy.

Clem Boyle, Legion athletic committeeman, will present the trophies. Harold A. Kyvig, Legion director of athletics, will act as toastmaster. The dinner, which starts at 6 o'clock, is open to the public.

The trophy to be awarded to the city champions is a fifteen inch silver statue of a basketball player in action. On it are engraved the words "City Champions, 30-31." The player holds a basketball at his waist.

The other two team trophies are somewhat alike in that both are all silver and the player on each one holds the ball over his head. The words "Industrial league" or "Club league" and the date "30-31" are engraved on each.

This dinner and program with presentation of awards marks the end of a legion season that has been full of basketball tilts. Each one of the eight teams in the two leagues has played at least eight league games besides those scheduled outside the leagues.

Besides the talks by the toastmaster and committeeman making the presentations, several of the players will give short talks as they receive their awards.

Girl Scout Troop Changes Time for Meeting to Monday

From now on troop 12 of the Girl Scouts will meet regularly on Monday evening at the Longfellow school instead of meeting on Thursday. Mrs. R. J. Potts and Velora B. Davis visited the troop meeting under the direction of Margaret Dane, lieutenant.

Evelyn Smith was in charge of the opening and Dorothy McGinnis was in charge of the closing of the meeting. Kathleen Potts was elected color bearer and Dorothy Smith and Dorothy McGinnis were elected guards.

Three girls from the physical education department visited troop 12 at its meeting at the American Legion community building yesterday. Mrs. James H. Weir, lieutenant, is directing a play for the mother's tea to be given by the troop in April. The Brownie pack of the University elementary school met at 3:30 yesterday on the play porch. Mary Barnes, Barbara Hargraves, and Patty Bates visited the meeting.

Track Team May Jaunt to April Relays

With a possibility of the track team making the trip to the Minnesota relays April 4, the team will remain indoors until after that time. If, however, it is decided to take some men up, those who make creditable showings in the time trials will make the trip.

After returning from the Illinois relays the team took a rather light workout yesterday.

The sprinters worked on baton passing and finished by doing a little jogging.

Everett Handorf, hurdler, spent the entire evening taking starts and short sprints in preparation for the shuttle hurdle relay event that will be on the Iowa schedule in a number of meets outdoor.

The distance men worked together and jogged through three quarters of a mile at an easy pace.

The high jumpers took a considerable number of jumps in perfecting their form. This event is expected to be one of the strong events in which competition will be plentiful at the Minnesota relays.

Oliver Sansen was the only man to work on the shot put inside as the rest of the weight men reported out door. L. D. Weldon spent the evening on the javelin and discus. Wayne Massey made his appearance in discus event for the first time

Petersen Speaks on Early Steamboating

Steamboating on the Mississippi, with all its romantic excursions, royal banquets, and packet races, was described in a historical sketch given by W. J. Petersen, of the history department, at the regular monthly meeting of the Engineers club of Iowa City, at the American Legion building last night. The talk was illustrated with colored slides.

Mr. Petersen traced the era of steamboating from its beginning, through the height of the period with "Diamond Joe" Reynolds and other famous historical characters, up to its present condition.

Strikes and Spares

Bailey Insurance Company beat the Strand Barber Shop team by a score of 2,900 to 2,685 to run up the high score of the evening. The insurance company team also scored high single game with 645 points.

The Reliable Electric company team rolled a 2,552 score to win over the Daily Iowan aggregation which tallied 2,435. The Dee Recreation Parlor team scored 2,487 points over the Gartner club's 2,403.

Frazier won both the high game honors and high series honors with a 252 in the former and a 645 in the series column.

Bresnahan Makes March 25-26 Date of Freshman Relays

For the first time this year the freshman track team will get a chance to show its strength. March 25 and 26 has been chosen as the date to hold a meet for the frosh runners.

The schedule will include all of the events. The outdoor events will include the javelin, hammer throw, shot put, and the discus.

Points will be given in the first four places and medals will be awarded to the first two places. A ribbon will be awarded for every event in which points are made.

This meet will be one of the deciding factors in which numerals will be awarded and every freshman who is out for this sport is expected to take part in the meet.

Little is known of the freshmen runners now but from a general survey of the performances when working with the varsity it is expected that there will be plenty of competition in the meet.

Former Hawk Wins Title at Cherokee

Thomas Stevens of Cherokee, who was a freshman at the university the first semester, won laurels in the sports world last week end by winning the Mid-west A.A.U. 112 pound title in the meet held at Cherokee.

Stevens, twice high school state 118 pound champ, placed first in that division of the university wrestling meet early in the year. He was forced to drop out of school at the end of the first semester but plans to re-enter here next fall.

New Line in Smith Case

Officers Will Interview Wife of Man Who Lost Car

PERRY, March 16 (AP)—Investigation of the disappearance of John Smith and the finding of a charred body in his burning truck near Denison Feb. 3 tonight centered around an intended interview with Mrs. Smith.

Will Return

Officers found she had gone to Jefferson today and would return tonight. They expected to gain her assistance in correlating numerous known activities of Smith just prior to the finding of the truck. The body, at first mistakenly identified as Smith's, was brought to Perry and buried, but exhumed last week when doubt was cast upon its identity.

Other clues traced to prospective salesmen for Smith who had paid $50 as evidence of good faith for their connection with the sale of his disinfectant, came to naught today when it was found that their financial transactions with Smith were their only connection.

Insurance Bobs Up

The insurance angle of the case came to the fore with the discovery that Smith had applied for a $10,000 double indemnity policy from the Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company a short time before his "death." Investigators reported unfavorably on the application.

Smith had double indemnity policies with three firms which would have paid $50,000 to his widow, the sole beneficiary, in case of accidental death.

Officers said tonight they were holding three suspects who were apprehended as they were attempting to leave Clarinda. The officers would not reveal the names of the men.

Coroner L. D. Walker said that an inquest would be held tomorrow morning.

Blue Lodge to Meet for Third Rehearsal

Members of the Blue lodge will meet at the Masonic temple tonight to rehearse a program to be given at the presentation of the third degree March 31.

A. H. Holt has charge of the program, which is being used in order to confer in more full form than has been done before. The program has been worked up by local Masons. Two rehearsals have been held before this one.

Eta Sigma Phi Will Have Party at Coe

Members of Eta Sigma Phi, honorary society composed of majors and faculty members in the Latin and Greek department, will be dinner guests of the Coe college chapter at Hotel Montrose, in Cedar Rapids, Wednesday evening, March 18.

Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the Latin and Greek department, and Alpha Braunwarth, A4 of Muscatine, will give short addresses on the after-dinner program.

Blue Lodge Meets

Regular business meeting of the Blue lodge was held last night at the Masonic temple with Roy T. Lee in charge.

Royal Arch Masons Will Meet Friday

Royal Arch Masons will meet Friday afternoon for instruction. Dinner will be served at 6 p.m. at the Masonic temple, followed by business meeting and inspection in the evening.

Charles R. Baumgartner of Manchester will have charge of the afternoon's instruction, and the chapter will serve the dinner in his honor. George S. Easton, high priest, will preside at the evening meeting.

Phi Epsilon Pi First in Debate Finals

"Saving only one of the five lives lost in student automobile accidents this year would warrant the installation of a plan whereby students were prohibited from driving automobiles while in attendance at this university," claimed the victorious debating team of Phi Epsilon Pi in the final inter-fraternity debate last night at 8:30 in liberal arts auditorium.

Phi Epsilon Pi was represented by Theodore Grinspau, A2 of Des Moines, and Theodore Steinberg, M4 of Cleveland, Ohio.

Phi Gamma Delta, represented by Park Rinard, A2 of Clear Lake, and Frank Humphrey, A2 of LeRoy, Ill., defended the negative of the question.

The affirmative argued that there is a need for the abolishment of automobiles because of their pernicious influence, which causes the students to waste time, causes moral delinquency, and an economic waste, and because these student automobiles are a public menace as they cause an increase in petty thievery, property damage, and the number of fatal accidents.

The negative attempted to prove that there was not a need for the abolishment of automobiles since the percentage of deaths is below the national percentage over the same period of time, that the system would not be practical, and would be undesirable, and unjust.

Clyde W. Hart, associate professor of sociology and commerce, Bartholow V. Crawford, associate professor of English, and Jacob Van der Zee, professor of political science, judged the debate.

Plans Completed for Iowa City's Second Cub Pack Last Night

Plans for Iowa City's second cub pack were made last night at a meeting of interested boys and their parents at the Methodist church. More than 20 boys attended.

Five mothers were selected as leaders. They are Mrs. P. A. Scannell, chairman; Mrs. William Buckley; Mrs. J. D. Lemons; Mrs. A. C. Ohl, and Mrs. J. T. Holloway. William Buckley is chairman of the pack committee. Other members are J. D. Lemons, and H. W. Crain.

Registration with national Boy Scout headquarters will be completed this week, Frank Swisher, cubmaster, said last night. Local registration will be completed within the next three days.
