Men Behind the News

And See What Yost's Desire for Fun Brought Him!

(The following is another of the personalities behind the news series, appearing daily in this paper.)

By W. H. BEATTY

(Copyright, 1931, by Associated Press)

ANN ARBOR, June 12 (AP)—

A hulking six-footer, with a voice that can rattle the rafters, he spells bins an after-dinner group with barely audible, crowing tones.

A student and master strategist of modern military maneuvers, his favorite trick was to send a football team into a game under orders to use the creaking "old 83," a play the coaches knew all about—except the "when."

"Just for fun"

He's Fielding H. "Hurry Up" Yost, a business genius who, just for fun, took up coaching football.

Yost has outgrown the "Hurry Up" title—tacked to him in the days when Willie Heston and Walter Eckersall were the Western conference's unstopables, and when he "Hurried Up" University of Michigan football teams into four successive undefeated seasons.

"Old Man Yost" Now

Now it's "Old Man Yost," gymnasium builder and after dinner speaker, with a program of "athletics for all."

Under the guidance of "The Old Man," football receipts have built three athletic buildings and a golf course at the University of Michigan. Yost snorts at mention of "over emphasis," and points to the athletic plant football has built at Ann Arbor.

A great athlete in his college days, Yost is a strong advocate of physical training for everybody.

The Grand Rapids alumni sent him a set of golf clubs two years ago, and he's still threatening to become a golfer.

Loves "Old 83"

"The Old Man" will demonstrate "old 83" anytime, anywhere. He developed that play, and he loves it. It is a fake line buck which finally develops into a lateral pass and a run around end, after the play apparently is stopped. Yost claims it never has been correctly diagrammed by scouts.

"The Old Man's" favorite anecdote is a recital of a conversation between himself and Louis Elbel, composer of "The Victors," Michigan's stirring football march.

"Tell Me, Louie"

"Louie," I said, "how did you happen to write that wonderful song back in '98?"

"The Michigan football team inspired me," said Louie. "They came from behind in a great rally to defeat Chicago."

"Louie," I said, "how fortunate for Michigan to have you for a student—a boy who could compose a wonderful song like that."

"And Louie, how fortunate for you that you chose Michigan for your alma mater. If you had gone to some other school you might never have had any occasion to write 'The Victors.'"

Daisy DeBoe Must Serve Jail Sentence

LOS ANGELES, June 12 (AP)—Daisy DeBoe, former secretary of Clara Bow, motion picture actress, must serve a 18 months jail term, the district court of appeals ruled today, imposed for grand theft conviction.

The decision was made by the court in discharging an alternate writ under which Miss DeBoe's attorney, William Belme, attacked the constitutionality of the state probation act and obtained her release from the county jail on $5,000 bail.

She was ordered remanded immediately into the custody of the sheriff.

Miss DeBoe was convicted specifically for theft of an $874 fur coat from Miss Bow while she was employed by the flaming-haired actress as secretary.

After serving more than a month in the county jail, Miss DeBoe was released under bond pending her appeal.

The court ruled that in filing an application for probation Miss DeBoe had waived her constitutional right to appeal which she contended was interfered with by the 18 month term as a condition of probation.

North Dakota Board Protests Increase in Rail Freight Rates

BISMARCK, N. D., June 12 (AP)—

Vigorous protests against the proposal of the nation's railroads to petition the interstate commerce commission for a general increase in freight rates of 15 per cent were wired to the federal commission tonight by the North Dakota board of railroad commissioners.

Ben C. Larkin, president of the state commission, in the telegram objected to the proposal as "being unlawful and denying the people of North Dakota inherent rights." He called attention to economic conditions, declaring they are such "that a general rate increase would be disastrous and would greatly prolong the present severe business depression."

Court Rules KTNT Must Close "Mike"

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—

Efforts of Norman Baker to continue the operation of radio station KTNT at Muscatine, Ia., today encountered a checkmate in the district of Columbia court of appeals.

The court dismissed a stay order under which Baker has been operating since June 5, when the radio commission decided he was "not operating in the public interest" and must suspend broadcasting.

Ordered to Cease

The radio commission ordered Baker immediately to cease broadcasting from his station.

Baker was granted the stay order pending consideration of additional points by the court. The stay was opposed by the commission, which expressed belief Baker would continue operating in an "unsatisfactory manner."

"Unwarranted Attacks"

A recommendation by Chief Examiner Ellis A. Yost that Baker's application for renewal of his permit be denied precipitated the court action. Yost charged Baker made unwarranted attacks on persons and organizations who had criticized his car institute.

Appearing before the radio commission, Baker urged Yost's recommendation be ignored. He also threatened to demand a senatorial investigation.

Broadcast Cut During Program

MUSCATINE, June 12 (AP)—

Broadcasting at radio station KTNT, Muscatine, was stopped at 3:40 p.m. this afternoon, in compliance with an order from the radio commission at Washington.

Broadcasting was cut off in the midst of a program, when a telegram from the commission was delivered following dismissal of a stay order by the District of Columbia court of appeals today. The stay order was granted to Norman Baker, operator of the station, June 5, when the commission had ordered him to stop broadcasting at midnight on that day.

DES MOINES, June 12 (AP)—

Hanford MacNider, United States minister to Canada, today urged a close union between young business men of the United States and Canada as a means of fostering closer relations between the two countries.

Speaking before the United States Junior chamber of commerce, he suggested that young men's groups in each country send to those in the other names of young men contemplating changes of residence between the two.

He praised the present cooperation between the two countries, citing it as an example that might be followed in the relations between all nations.

He urged the group, as "the future business leaders of the United States" to "cherish the friendliness and business cooperation between the United States and the dominion which has been a model of foreign relations in modern history."

Police Again Stumped in New York's Latest Death Mystery

District Attorney Seeks Two Men, Alleged Slayers

MINEOLA, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—

The wandering trail of a taxi carrying a girl dazed by gin or narcotics led detectives tonight to another blank wall in the Starr Faithfull case.

The trail's end was a corner drugstore in Flushing, where a car chauffeur left his disheveled fare last Thursday night after driving for hours from the Chanin building, in Manhattan, through the byways of Queens.

Not Sure of Identity

Had this girl been Starr Faithfull, Greenwich village madcap and acid manufacturer's daughter, whose scantily clad body was taken from the surf at Long Beach last Monday under circumstances indicating murder, the Nassau county authorities would have been nearing the end of their quest for her slayers.

Richard Findley, elevator starter in the Chanin building, looked at the body in a crematorium and said he believed it was. A policeman who had been summoned because of the girl's actions in the Chanin lobby, thought it was, but said the body was clad in a different dress.

Relatives Give Alibi

Stanley E. Faithfull, the girl's stepfather, denied it, as did her mother. Starr was at home at that time, they said. Inspector Harold R. King of Nassau police cast doubt on it because "so many people look alike."

Sy Bookman, the chauffeur, who said he drove for hours in a vain attempt to find a vague address in Queens, was to go to the crematorium to look at the body. He told police his fare stopped once during the ride to buy a bottle of "clear fluid" that looked like gin.

Convinced of Murder

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, convinced the girl was murdered last Friday by being held under water, and sticking to his statement that several persons prominent socially and politically had reasons to desire her removal, presented all the evidence at his command to a grand jury.

The case was presented as "the state vs. John Doe and Richard Roe," indicating indictments against two men were sought.

Sister Acts Strangely

The witnesses included a physician who believed the girl was forced into the surf; her stepfather;

Quick Truce Seen in Italy

Vatican Hastens to Get Reorganization Settled

ROME, June 12 (AP)—Quick settlement of the Vatican's differences with Italy was forecast today as the pope turned over to Pappalardo Borghini-Duca a note with instructions that it be delivered to Dino Grandi, the Italian foreign minister.

Expect Reply Tomorrow

It was expected the Vatican's reply to the government would be delivered tomorrow.

The pope spent nearly an hour and a half discussing the document with theuncio, and Vatican circles expressed confidence that within a week accord would be established with the government, or at least closely approached.

Vatican in Haste

It is known the Vatican desires to hasten at least a temporary arrangement. Italy, however, seems to be in no great haste.

The government considers the Vatican's reorganization of Catholic action is evidence the pope intends to eliminate or prevent the alleged political activities of the organization. As that was the main issue in the controversy the signs are optimistic.

Women Still Hope Dry Candidate Will Try for President

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—

The Women's Christian Temperance Union still hopes that one or the other of the two major political parties will nominate a dry candidate for the presidency in 1932.

Denying the union had any intention at this time of forming a third political party, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, said this afternoon the organization could make no further announcement until both parties had refused to adopt dry platforms.

Pantages on Stand in Girl Market Case

Theater Magnate Says Woman Tried to "Possess Him"

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 12 (AP)—

Alexander Pantages, wealthy theater man, today testified in the "girl market" case that he had no advance knowledge of an alleged hotel party here and denied acts with Lydia Nitto, alleged by the state to constitute violations of the juvenile court law.

Pantages said his only purpose in coming to San Diego last Oct. 16, was to arrange with George R. Daley for the payment of an $80,000 note.

Pantages Explains

The state charges Pantages and Jessie H. Shreve, a co-defendant, conspired with Olive Clark Day and William Jobelmann, alleged operators of a Hollywood "girl market" to bring Miss Nitto, 17 years old, a minor, to the hotel.

Pantages said while he and Shreve were waiting for Daley they decided to go to Shreve's theater to get a financial statement in preparation for the conference.

Miss Nitto testified she was taken to the theater by Shreve with Mrs. Day and Helen Livingston, another girl, to await the arrival of Pantages.

Women Appeal

Pantages said three women returned with Shreve and they drove to the hotel. He said he left Shreve and the women in the lobby, but as soon as he reached his room the three women came up with Shreve and asked if John P. Mills had been found. Mills was accused in the alleged conspiracy, but pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor and turned state's witness. Pantages said the women settled down in the room and Mills soon arrived.

"This Nitto girl tried to take possession of me," Pantages said, "telling me she was sorry for me because I looked so bad. So I walked over and said to Shreve, 'Jesse, you'll have to get rid of these women; we've got business to transact.' She and Mills left with two of them but the Nitto girl stood around and talked."

"Finally I said 'listen, lady, you'd better go join your friends. I'm busy.' So she left."

Correction

In the May 27 issue of The Daily Iowan under the heading "Doors that Journalism Opens" there appeared a statement that Helen Erwin, graduate of the university, is assistant editor of "True Romances." The Daily Iowan wishes to correct this statement as Miss Erwin is in no way connected with that publication but is serving in the same capacity on "Modern Romances."

Iowa Greatest Circus State, Says Pioneer of "Big Top"

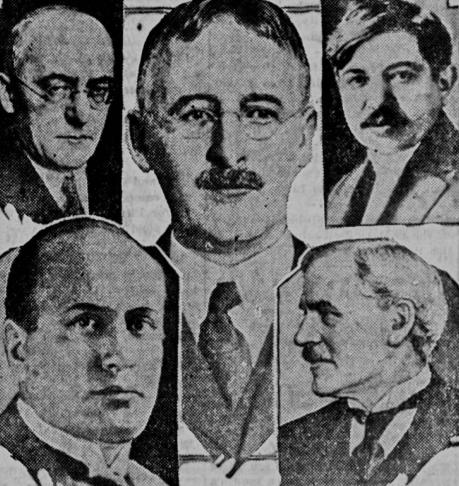

DES MOINES, June 2 (AP)—The last exponent of the circus parade among the owners of the large railroad shows is Col. Fred Buchanan, veteran showman of Granger. The gay tunes of the circus band, the caged animals, and lines of elephants and camels draped with richly colored robes in his estimation are still the greatest attraction in the business.

Former City Editor

Colonel Buchanan, whose Robbins Brothers circus is one of the largest independently owned circuses in the country, learned the art of ballyhoo as a newspaperman in the nineties. At one time he was city editor of the old Des Moines Capital.

Early in the new century the lure of the open road and the smell of sawdust under the "big top" led him to acquire a show of his own. That was when the "open road" was mud-

Accuse Iowan in Bank Deal

Ottumwa Indictments Place Blame in Theft "Job"

OTTUMWA, June 12 (AP)—Indictments charging participation in the $90,000 Ottumwa Savings bank robbery last Sept. 8, and interference with the administration of justice were placed on file here today against Dewey M. Berlovich of Des Moines.

Sheriff Ralph N. Baker has requested Des Moines officers to arrest Berlovich, whose bonds were set at $55,000 by Judge Elmer K. Daugherty.

Arrested in January

Berlovich was arrested last January on the bank robbery charge but released when the grand jury failed to return an indictment. Subsequent investigations by Assistant Attorney General Neal Garrett and State Agent E. C. McPherson led to his indictment.

The interference with justice charge was based on his alleged attempt to intimidate George Smith of Ottumwa, an expected witness against William Hildebrandt of St. Paul, who was held in connection with the robbery. Governor Olson of Minnesota refused to issue extradition papers for Hildebrandt.

Other Records

Berlovich previously had been arrested in Chicago in connection with the million-dollar robbery of a Lincoln, Neb., bank after officers claimed he tried to dispose of $15,000 worth of bonds allegedly included in the loot. The charges were dismissed when he showed that he was not in Lincoln the day of the robbery.

Crisis Looms in Politics of English Party

Parliament Threatened as Labor Element Faces Defeat

LONDON, June 12 (AP)—Liberal and labor leaders today made desperate efforts to avert the crisis which threatens the labor government with defeat Tuesday and consequent dissolution of parliament and a general election.

As matters stood there were no signs of weakening in the liberal determination to press for amendment to Philip Snowden's land tax proposals upon which the fateful vote will be taken Tuesday.

No Compromise

Nor was there any evidence that the laborites would be willing to accept the liberal amendment.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, David Lloyd George, Mr. Snowden and Sir Herbert Samuel met today and, although their conversations were strictly private, political commentators were confident the whole situation was exhaustively reviewed in the hope that the general election, desired by neither party, might be averted.

No Relief in Sight

The attitude of Chancellor Snowden, who is understood to be against any form of compromise with the liberals, has greatly complicated the problem of the MacDonald government. On all sides, however, it was found increasingly difficult to believe that some way out of the impasse would not be discovered before Tuesday.

Jury Accuses 69 Violators of Dry Law

Charge "Scarface Al" Men With Making, Peddling Beer

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—"Scarface Al" Capone, the gang chieftain, and 68 others were indicted today by a federal grand jury on 5,000 charges of violating the prohibition laws.

A recent conviction for contempt of the federal court and an indictment on income tax evasion charges paved the way for the government's action against the overload of a gigantic syndicate making and marketing beer for the Chicago metropolitan area.

The indictment charged Capone and 68 of his henchmen with 5,000 offenses in manufacturing and transporting beer continuously since the national prohibition law became effective in 1920.

Goes Into History

District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson delved back beyond the days of Capone's opulence in obtaining information for the indictment, going back to his early operations here as "Al Brown," the ambitious young hoodlum who was to become king of the underworld.

"The United States against Alphonse Capone, otherwise called Al Brown, A. Costa, Albert Costa, Frank Ross, John Brown, Snooky Capone, Frank Hart and Louis Hart," the indictment read. There followed the names of the other three score defendants.

Brother's Name Absent

Notably absent were the names of Capone's lieutenants, his brother Ralph, and Sam and Jack Guzik, recently convicted of income tax evasions; Frank Nitto, the "enforcer," serving a penitentiary term for a similar offense.

Johnson said today's indictment dealt mainly with the beer interests of Capone's organization rather than with the gambling, vice and labor racket branches. It named Joseph Fusco as Capone's beer boss. Ralph Capone, Johnson said, is mainly interested in the gambling operations and at any rate he is already under indictment on liquor conspiracy charges in connection with the Cotton club and the Montmartre cafes in Cleveo, stronghold of the gang.

Arrested Last Week

The indictment was returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes who issued the warrant for Capone's arrest last week on income tax violation charges. The $50,000 bond Capone posted last Friday was allowed to stand for today's action. Many of the other defendants had scheduled bonds ranging from $2,500 to $10,000 for previous arrests in connection with seizures of stills and breweries.

The government cited 19 overt acts. It must prove at least one to obtain a conviction. Johnson, asked if he had a good case, replied, "well, we never indict unless we have one."

Began in 1922

Charges were unfolded in orderly sequence, Capone purchased a truck from the Betz Motor Truck company in Hammond, Ind., on Dec. 22, 1922, the indictment alleged, under the name of "Al Brown." He bought another truck June 5, 1923, from the same company according to the indictment.

John Peterson, John Doyle and George Anderson, it was charged, transported the second truck, containing 32 barrels of beer, to Chicago's southwest side. Financial transactions tied up with beer sales, the indictment said, were represented in a telegraphic money order sent to Capone in Miami, Fla., on March 14, 1928, by George Howlett. On June 12, 1930, Capone, Fusco, Howlett, Jack Heinan and Bert Delaney met in the Lexington hotel here, headquarters of the gang, to discuss ways of circumventing the prohibition laws.

200 Offenses, 8 Breweries

The indictment recites 200 offenses of manufacturing alcohol and beer at eight Chicago breweries, and 4,000 offenses in transporting that many trucks, each containing 30 barrels of beer. The government did not estimate Capone's profits but prevailing prices for beer indicate the syndicate possibly collected as much as $75,000 a day, or more than $200,000,000 in 10 years.

The government indicted Capone for evading payment of income taxes on only $1,038,554 between 1924 and 1929, saying it was not prepared to prove other extensive earnings.

Four years ago the Capones were indicted for liquor conspiracies. The charges were dismissed two years later.

Iowa Crop Report Below Normal Says U. S. June Bulletin

DES MOINES, June 12 (AP)—Iowa's crops on June 1 were all below average except winter grains and peaches, the monthly report of Leslie M. Carl, federal agricultural statistician, said today.

Although winter wheat production prospects were nearly 18 per cent below the previous five-year average on that date it was slightly above the normal average. The crop prospect was 6,026,000 bushels as indicated by the condition of 85 per cent, Carl reported. In 1930 the crop was 8,325,000 bushels. The 10 year average is 83 per cent.

Frequent rainfall is needed in some western wheat counties to prevent serious yield damage by the Hessian fly. The present growth of vegetation of all kinds has concealed the probable menace of the fly in major wheat sections along the Missouri river.

Name Heads for Summer Sport Group

Plans for the organization of the summer recreational sports for both men and women have been put into operation with the naming of group supervisors in different sports.

Prof. Portia Wagenet of the department of physical education for women and Jack Skien, freshman coach, who are in charge of the plan, said yesterday that the organization of groups at the tent city, Quadrangle, and dormitories was nearing completion.

Members of the groups living outside the camp and dormitories have not completed their organization as yet. Esther King is in charge of the women's group, which will be known as "What Nots."

George K. Lowry, Harold Rath, and Earl Voltmer have been appointed as supervisors of the "Dudes," men living outside tent city and the Quadrangle. They will oversee tennis, volleyball, and kitchenball, respectively.

Quadrangle supervisors, named yesterday, are Orle Miller, horse shoe; John Curtiss, tennis; E. L. Hill, volleyball, and W. P. Ostle, kitchenball. No leader has been appointed for the "Prisoner" golfers.

Jane Pettit is in charge of the group for women at tent city, the "Vagabonds," and Maxine Smith heads the "Dorms," or those living in Currier hall.

Staff Members Plan Chamber Music for First Summer Term

Faculty musicians will form a chamber music group and make several public appearances during the first term of the summer session, Prof. Phillip G. Clapp, head of the music department, announced yesterday.

The group will consist of Prof. Frank E. Kendrie, first violin; Louise Rood, second violin; John Kuypers, viola; Kenneth Forbes, cello; and Prof. Phillip G. Clapp, piano. All members of the organization are on the faculty of the music department.

Miss Rood was a guest instructor during the 1930 summer session, and Mr. Kuypers, who is a member of the Minneapolis symphony orchestra which gave a concert here last winter, has been a member of the summer music faculty for the last three years.

The faculty chamber music group will appear for the first time at the informal reception for students and faculty tonight at 8 o'clock presenting a string and piano quintet by Cesar Franck.

Uncle Sam Grants Export License for Shipments of Arms to China Government

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Nanking situation, linked directly by acting on the suggestion of the Nanking government, the state department during the last month has granted export licenses for arms shipments to China. The licenses were requested by that nation through the American legation at Peking.

Dr. C. C. Wu, in announcing his resignation as Chinese minister to Washington yesterday, said war like preparations by the Nanking government, through purchase in the United States of arms likely to be used against the people of Canton, his native city, had prompted his resignation.

The application through the American legation to the department, instead of the usual procedure of applying through the Chinese legation at Washington, was said by department officials tonight to effect no change in policy.

Under Secretary Castle said several licenses for export had been granted upon China's request. He added that if future requests came through the American legation in China, and they were known to be bona fide they would be acted on in the same way as if they were received through the Chinese legation here.

The procedure was described by the under secretary as a routine matter, state department officials believing the important point to determine was whether the requests were actually from the Nanking government.

Rapid developments in the Cantonoments has been based on rumors and reports, which in many cases must be discounted because of their apparent source.

So far as actual military activities were concerned, officials said nothing sufficiently definite to warrant an opinion on the situation had been received.

From a distance, however, it appeared that the Canton insurgent movement does not constitute an immediate threat to the Nanking government.

The national government under Chiang Kai-Shek is looked upon by officials here as the most stable which China has had for many years.

Rake Waters for 3 Missing Lake Victims

CLEAR LAKE, June 12 (AP)—Searchers today continued their unavailing probing of the bottom of Clear Lake in the hope of finding the bodies of three Ackley men believed drowned while on a fishing trip Wednesday.

The workers used a specially constructed set of grappling hooks in the hope of locating the bodies of Herman Becker, Lester Lemke, and

Robert Young. The trio were expected back Wednesday afternoon, but when they failed to return a search was started. The next morning their overturned boat was found at the bottom of the lake.

Belief that the trio lost their lives was strengthened today by the story of Mrs. F. L. Grey of Seymour. She said she saw three men fishing in a boat at 3:15 p. m. Wednesday and that one of the men stood up and fell overboard. She said she paid little attention to the incident because of the presence of a number of boats near the scene.

Legislating Beauty

IN THESE columns is reprinted a discussion of the Massachusetts law on construction of billboards along public highways. The notable thing pointed out in the editorial is the fact that a master appointed by the state supreme court has upheld provisions in the law which prohibit signboards that interfere with unusual scenic beauty.

The Iowa legislature has so far failed to fall in line with the growing tendency of the states to preserve natural beauty within their respective boundaries by this kind of signboard legislation.

The law in this state prohibits erection of signs which are a menace to safe driving, or construction of signs within the boundaries of the public highway. But the code is silent on the scenic aspect of the question which several other states have seen fit to regulate.

The movement now under way to make a scenic highway of the Cedar Rapids road should point out to thinking legislators that laws making such projects easier would be considerable of a stimulus to furtherance of a state beautification movement.

Until the Iowa legislature does produce such statutes those working on the highway No. 161 plan will have to rely upon a spirit of cooperation among local and Cedar Rapids merchants to perfect their scheme.

That should work out smoothly, but there is apt to be a rub when an attempt is made to relocate or remove signs of national advertisers who are out of touch with local sentiment and perhaps not too sympathetic with the wishes of unknown backers of a proposition a thousand miles away.

If this new beautification movement is to be at all significant the way is through legislation even if there must be some slight shudder at adding another law to the overburdened statute books.

For More Parking Space

THERE has been plenty of discussion, some of it official, about removing the parkways in the center of Iowa avenue to make room for more traffic. To date there has been no satisfactory action.

Before the coming of center parking on the business streets the removal of these parkways would not have resulted in so much real benefit, but under the new system the space occupied by the plots between Clinton and Linn streets would be of considerable help in solving the parking problem.

These down town garden spots might have been appropriate early in the city's history, but they are only in the way now except in the residential section of Iowa avenue where they are a real asset to the community.

Removal of the parkways and the substitution of paving would be an expense, it is true, but in the long run a saving would result for the parkings now require considerable care and the flowers planted in them provide another annual cost.

It is likely that those who find it their first daily problem to find parking space would gladly waive aesthetic and sentimental consideration in favor of two more blocks of center parking area.

Such a move would be of particular advantage to students because of the proximity of the location to the main campus, and would do away with the undesirable congestion that is present in the two blocks at almost any hour of the day.

Special Privilege at West Point

ALTHOUGH Hartwell Bonesteel, III, seems to have been a popular member of the graduating class at West Point, the wisdom of permitting him to receive his diploma without being present at commencement exercises is doubtful.

There was no precedent in the annals of the United States Military academy for such a privilege, but the boy, through the intervention of President Hoover was graduated although he was lying on a hospital bed where he has been since last December.

It is not like the army to break a time honored, rigidly kept rule no matter how pressing the circumstances are surrounding a particular case. The question of what to do in future cases will doubtless arise and become quite a problem. Doubtless there have been as deserving candidates for graduation in the past who were denied similar exemptions.

Perhaps the next youth who asks for the same privilege will not have influence with the president and will be refused his request. Thus West Point will be laying itself open to criticism on the ground that it lets politics interfere with the proper administration of military education.

Wilson won an election on the slogan "He kept us out of war," but Hoover might use "He saved us from a special session" as his next year. —Cincinnati Enquirer

Is the Law Prevailing?

TRAFFICKERS in liquor on a large scale basis are reported by Prohibition Director Woodcock as falling into the clutches of the law.

In his report the director announces that jail sentences are growing longer and fines getting lower, all of which proves to him that the police are nailing the big shots.

A detailed study of the report, no doubt, would reveal whether a few of the leaders are doing time or an increasing number of the lesser lights are paying the usual price. Statistics are great things but they have a convenient peculiarity—ambiguity.

Beer and alky racketeers are like weeds, continually being killed off by police and each other, yet being replaced with a fresh lot after every onslaught. Chicago gangland is probably no less thickly populated despite Director Woodcock's optimistic report.

But if authorities are nabbing the higher ups in the liquor racket they are on the surest route to wiping out the flourishing traffic. Minor violators seldom amount to more than a pebble on the beach; there are too many surplus pebbles.

When enforcement agents begin to set their caps for men like Capone, Moran, and Joe Saltis, they are up against a tough proposition, but two or three of the racketeering nobility are worth hundreds of the rabble. The higher the police aim the more satisfying their results—and so the merry chase goes on.

If Yale won't take Sinclair Lewis' Nobel prize medal, he might try some of the second hand dealers. —Indianapolis News

Modern algebra textbook writers are deleting the problem about "How long will it take a frog to get to the top of the well if he jumps two feet and slides back one at each attempt?" They are substituting the DO-X story. —Cedar Rapids Gazette

A Bay State Billboard Ruling

(From the Kansas City Star)

A master's report, filed with the supreme court of Massachusetts, pertaining to the regulation of billboards along highways will be almost equally interesting in the numerous other states seeking relief from highway encroachments.

The Massachusetts law grants large authority to the highway commission, including the power to grant or refuse specific applications for the erection of billboards and other roadside structures. Twenty-two outdoor advertising concerns asked injunctions to prevent the commission from enforcing the regulations it had prescribed under the law. The regulations have been upheld by the master named by the supreme court and will be reviewed, and answers thereto from the billboard companies heard, in the near future. Meanwhile the report of the master, who upholds the highway commission, is interesting because of the provisions upheld.

These provisions prohibit the erection of any billboard or other structure where it will obstruct the view of a bridge or curve, thus creating a menace, or, in thinly settled sections, where the appearance of a sign might divert the attention of a driver, making the distinction that in business sections such signs would not divert attention from the road. Permits are not granted for billboards within 300 feet of parks or reservations, if in view of same, nor within 50 feet of a highway except in business sections, nor more than 50 feet in length and 12 feet in height except in business sections, nor for any location where the structure, in the opinion of the commission, having a regard for the health, safety, danger of fire and unusual scenic beauty, would be harmful to public welfare.

The striking advance in these regulations is with reference to the protection of scenic beauty. The master found on this point that "beauty, in the sense intended and employed in the framing and administration of the rules and regulations, has, in fact, a real and substantial economic value to the commonwealth and its citizens." Several other states, notably California, have undertaken to protect scenic beauty against incongruous encroachment by means of rural zoning. If such zoning can be done reasonably and fairly through a duly empowered state highway commission, the process is greatly simplified.

Questionable Questionnaires

(From the New York Herald-Tribune)

Some of the questionnaires, we learn, are beginning to question questionnaires. High time, say we. The Association of American Colleges, reckoning as inevitable questionnaires (a) from the United States office of education (b) from the foundations (c) from the standardizing agencies, and (d) for church-related colleges, from the church boards of education, proposes that the colleges pool their resources in dealing with more questionable questionnaires. Faculties, faculty groups, individual professors and various kinds of graduate students seem to be reckoned as non-inevitable questionnaires, and the association proposes that the questioned colleges send their questionnaires to the association. The association would then (a) disapprove the questionnaire (b) approve it with modifications, or (c) approve it without modifications, and return it properly stamped and labeled.

The proposal is doubtless good as far as it goes. But we are old-fashioned; we believe in punishment. The method leaves the questionable questionnaires totally unscathed. The worst that can happen to them is that the association shall refuse to grant them the use of the authorized union label. It seems to us that something should be done to the pestiferous crew of questionnaire makers. A properly equipped staff could, we are sure, work out a really rip-snortingly cruel questionnaire to be applied to all would-be questionnaires. It should include a thorough investigation of the victim's ancestry and a fundamental housecleaning of his unconscious mind. What led him to make questionnaires? Was it because his father snored on Monday nights, or because his mother ate her breakfast eggs without salt? A little knowledge of the intricacies of modern psychiatry would suggest questions guaranteed to tangle any young candidate for a Ph.D. in his own reactions so inextricably that he would never devise another questionnaire. It would, in short, be a questionnaire to end questionnaires. That is the only kind we can conceive approving, and the only adequate punishment for the awful crime of questionnaires.

Bigamist Asks Aid in Trial for Slaying

MILWAUKEE, June 11 (AP)—George (Jiggs) Perry, awaiting trial at Eagle River, Wis., for the slaying of Cora Belle Hackett, today appealed by letter to Attorney John J. Dolan, Milwaukee, to aid in his defense.
Dolan, whom Perry described as an "old friend," said he would go to Eagle River to talk with Perry.
Perry, accused by police of having married at least six wives bigamously, appealed to several of them for financial aid. Failing to obtain it, he sought Dolan's help. Perry is accused of shooting Mrs. Hackett, another woman whom he married bigamously, at the conclusion of their honeymoon in the Lac Du Flambeau region.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON—"Hell 'n Maria" Daves is at it again. He no sooner got home from London for a White House visit than he coined an expression which probably will live. Diplomacy, the general averred, is "easy on the brain; but hell on the feet."
That ought to become popular with a lot of senators and congressmen. They are forever shooting up Washington diplomats, both home-grown and imported. It is always open season among some of the close-to-nature politicians "on the hill" for generals, admirals and diplomats.
Back in war days, when every other man in Washington, it seemed, wore some sort of uniform, "Jim Ham" Lewis enlivened a senate debate by waving a scornful hand at khaki-clad figures sprinkled about the gallery, referring to them as "gilded military strapons."

There was a rush for the dictionary to see what a "satrap" was. The book said it meant, among other things, "a despotic subordinate official," and satrap had a quite a vogue for a while.
It remains to be seen how the Daves "hell-on-the-feet" definition of diplomacy takes. If it has any such run as the original "Hell 'n Maria" Davesism, it will be long before Washington diplomats hear the last of it.
At that, Mr. Daves might be excused for a little peppery-tongued freedom of speech. Perhaps he is one of the most disappointed men in public life. He came so near having a look-in at the presidency a bit back; yet here he is again a White House guest instead of host.
THAT PIPE!
Whether the news that Daves is sailing back to London again at an early date, reversing reports that he was about to visit this "Hell-on-the-feet" business of diplomacy, will be altogether popular with London hostesses is doubtful if Washington gossip has it right.
The general's famous understating pipes came in for a lot of publicity among the Britishers when he went over as ambassador. It has been whispered about since then, however, that some of the good ladies of London who entertain ambassadors regret that the general goes armed with that pipe so constantly and works persistently.
There is this to be considered about Daves' plans to stick to diplomacy for a while. He is located at a point where he can do and has done yeoman service in behalf of the coming Chicago world's fair.
And the Daves family is very much committed to that show.
Short of a now not discernible opening to revive his supposed presidential hopes, the general's most effective base of operations still would seem to be London.

Dorothy Heston, 19 years old and pretty, is known as the Queen of American stunt flyers—but, she's afraid of boys. This slim young girl, shown above with her instructor, Ted Rankin, at Cleveland, has performed every stunt known to aviation, although she has been flying less than a year. But she does admit she'd rather be somersaulting in the air than "dating" with the boys.
Dorothy has been given a contract as a feature performer at the National Air Races in Cleveland in August, the first woman ever given such an honor.

Mellon Will Have Heavy Day Monday

Money Comes, Goes at U. S. Treasury; Deficit Same

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—More than $1,500,000,000 will flow into and out of the treasury next Monday, but the government deficit still will be approximately $1,000,000,000.

For its quarterly financing program, the treasury will sell $821,000,000 in 3-1/8 per cent bonds, at the same time it will pay off $589,000,000 in maturing certificates of indebtedness, receive $90,000,000 in interest payments and $20,000,000 principle on war debts from foreign nations.

Income Tax Receipts In addition it will receive the second installment of tax on 1930 incomes which should run between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000. It also must pay $90,000,000 in interest on the public debt.

The government has spent much more in the fiscal year ending June 30 than it has collected, rapidly declining income taxes and customs duties together with increasing expenses sent the total expenditure of the government on June 10 and $3,948,209,025 while collections from all sources totalled only $2,856,145,135, leaving the government with a deficit of $1,092,063,890 on that date.

Expenditures Increase Meantime expenditures have increased $257,000,000 for the fiscal year compared with the same period of last year. General expenditures increased $187,000,000 to $2,257,700,490 and ordinary expenditures amounted to $3,527,116,525 compared with $3,176,952,760 last year.

Among the chief causes of the increases was the public building program, a larger postal deficit which has reached $127,517,315 compared with $85,074,870 a year ago, expenditure by the farm board of $201,048,654 since last July 1 compared with $114,473,531 in the previous fiscal year, and increased spending by the veterans' bureau which has been credited with $225,192,254 this year compared with last year.

Another Bond Issue? The sale of bonds Monday is expected to be the forerunner of another bond issue later in the year which also will be used to reduce the short term debt now amounting to approximately $3,400,000,000.

During the remainder of the month the treasury expects to collect about $263,000,000 in taxes of various sorts, bringing the total for the month to $290,000,000 and total collections of all sorts for the fiscal year to approximately $3,200,000,000. Expenditures are expected to reach approximately $4,100,000,000 which would leave a deficit of approximately $900,000,000. It is possible this may be decreased by larger income tax collections than expected.

New French President to Take Office

Ministry Will Face German-Austro Problem

PARIS, June 12 (AP)—The massive plaque of the grand master of the Legion of Honor, together with its broad scarf of red, will be affixed to the bosom of Paul Doumer tomorrow—and from that moment he will be head of a French government that faces many problems.

Immediately after the ceremony of inauguration, which will take place in the Elysee palace, Gaston Doumergue, newly married retiring president of France, who has headed the state for seven years, will catch a train for Toulouse, where he and his bride have prepared their home. M. Doumergue will leave many delicate matters in the hands of his successor.

He will leave, also, Pierre Laval, who will continue as premier. Cabinet Resigns In accordance with precedent, Premier Laval's cabinet will present its collective resignation in order that the new president may be free to ask someone else to form a new ministry. However, Doumergue already has indicated that Laval and his ministry will be asked to continue at their posts.

The first pressing problem Doumergue must consider is the naval construction program, for which they must attempt to obtain an appropriation from parliament. Reparations Problem The Laval cabinet, also will be charged with the duty of carrying on vigorously the naval negotiations in Italy, in the hope that the accords signed March 1 may be made workable. The reparations problem also faces the incoming government.

The age-old problem of France's relations with Germany will crop up again, especially in reference to the proposed Austro-German customs union, of which the French view is extremely skeptical. It is predicted, however, that the nation will strive for better relations with Germany.

Sweetland Stops Phils; Cubs Subdue Quakers for Third Straight of Series

Potent Hitting Features 7-1 Bruin Victory

Wilson, Hemsley, Jorges Lead Twelve Hit Assault

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—Les Sweetland, aided by some potent hitting on the part of his mates in the late innings, defeated his former mates, the Philadelphia Phillies, today by a 7 to 4 score. The victory gave the Chicago Cubs three straight victories over the Phils, and was Sweetland's sixth win of the year, with only one defeat.

Arlett gave the Phils a lead in the first inning when he tripled to score two runs and the Cubs were unable to make this up until the sixth, for young Frank Watt, making his first major league start, was an effective pitcher.

But hits by Wilson, Hemsley and Jorges scored two runs in this inning and the Cubs never relinquished this lead. Harold Elliott, Phil Collins and Jim Elliott were pounded in the seventh and eighth for four more runs.

Stephenson, Hemsley and Jorges supplied the hitting heroics in Chicago's seventh victory in 11 games with eastern clubs.

Sportively Speaking

WALTER JOHNSON

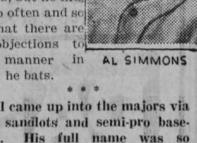

Fans have come to regard the National league pennant pursuit as a neck and neck race, and that of the American league as a runaway affair. They are probably astounded to see that the Athletics are leading by a mere three and a half games. At this writing the Cards' margin is two and a half games, subject to change any day with notice in the sport pages.

The American circuit marathon lies between two contenders—the A's and the Senators. Under Walter Johnson's astute management that club has been shipping down the Mackmen's lead, and are plugging along in wait for the Philadelphians to strike a slump, and then scoot into first place.

Johnson, the famous Big Train of the Senators for 26 years, won over 400 games for the capitol city nine. He's winning battles these days for the outfit, but from the sidelines rather than on the mound. The spirit of his team is generally believed to be one of its chief assets in stock.

Remarkable hurrying has been largely accountable for the spurt of the club. Last season the Nats held the leadership for a brief interval. They were gradually worn down by the pace-setting Mack's. Many fans expect to see the same thing happen this campaign, but it does not seem as likely to occur. The deciding days will come July 5, 6, and 7, when the rivals clash at Washington.

One of the hitting gentlemen who makes the Senators' offense a flag a difficult task is Al Simmons, the huge Milwaukee Pole. He has an awkward stance at the plate; he violates a dozen rules of how to bat when he swings; but he hits 'em so often and so far that there are no objections to the manner in which he bats.

AL SIMMONS

Al came up into the majors via the sandlots and semi-pro baseball. His full name was so lengthy that sports editors shaved off a half dozen syllables to get it to fit into the box score. Scribes have been grateful to the Milwaukee journalists ever since.

Board to Present Letters, Numerals

More than 130 sports awards will be presented to University of Iowa athletes, Monday afternoon by the board in control of athletics. Both freshmen and varsity athletes will receive recognition at this time for their participation in the spring sports of baseball, track, tennis, and golf.

By the awarding of letters and numerals, it is expected that the total for the school year just ended will come close to the record of 1928-29, when 351 honors were given.

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Henry Johnson got off to a slow start today, but settled down and pitched the Yankees to an 11 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox. He held the Sox to four hits, all of which came in the second and third innings, and batted in three runs with a pair of doubles.

Ben Chapman led the Yankees' 13 hit attack on McKain, Lyons and Moore driving home four runners, three of them on his home run with two on base in the fifth. He also stole his 17th base. Lou Gehrig clouted his tenth homer of the season with Ruth on base in the sixth.

Cards Drop Third Game by 7-5 Count

Fighting Braves Stage Massacre at Red Birds' Park

ST. LOUIS, June 12 (AP)—The fighting Boston Braves continued their heavy assault on the St. Louis Cardinals, winning the third game of the series here today 7 to 5 and handing the champions three consecutive losses for the first time this season.

The Braves got to Eurlieigh Grimes early in the contest, scoring five runs in the first two innings. Berger and Dessen hit for the circuit.

Late rallies by the Cards in the eighth and ninth failed to produce the necessary tallies, although Frankhouse and Zachary were sent in to Brandt's rescue.

Giants Pile Up 14 Hits for 8 to 2 Win

PITTSBURGH, June 12 (AP)—The New York Giants continued to pound Pittsburgh pitching today and made it two out of three over the Pirates with an 8 to 2 victory. The Giants piled up 14 hits off three Pirate hurlers.

Pittsburgh started fast against Fred Fitzsimmons, scoring two runs in the first inning but Lindstrom dampened the rally with a fine catch of Bennett's drive against the right field wall and Fitzsimmons pitched shutout ball for the rest of the game. He allowed only six hits.

Doesn't Despair

Manager "Donie" Bush

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—There are a number of baseball managers who, outwardly at least, are able to laugh off their losses and look forward to a better day, but Donie Bush is not one of them.

The stock pilot of the Chicago White Sox suffers openly. His blue eyes lose their twinkle and assume a deep, hunted expression when you ask him about his charges.

First Losing Club

"I've never had a losing club until the last two years, and darned if I can learn to like it," he said.

Rained out for the second straight day, Bush sat in the hotel lobby and listened while Lou Barbour, the club's traveling secretary, explained why the Sox are in fifth place in the American league instead of third.

Barbour proved, with a few light-hearted calculations, that with anything like an even break the Hose would have been up around the top by now, but he failed to console Bush.

"Look what's happened," Bush continued, using his fingers to check off the items. "Ted Lyons, my ace pitcher, develops a lame arm. Smead Jolley chips a bone in his ankle and has been out practically all year. Carl Reynolds develops a charley-horse and we had to send him home. There's three of my best men out."

Fraser Gets Wild

"Not only that, but Al Thomas, whom I had counted on, has failed to deliver, and Earl Frasier, one of the most promising young right-handers I have seen in years, develops a wild streak that he can't shake.

"Here we've won only one out of 15 games against Washington, New York and Philadelphia. With all my men in there going good we might have broke even."

Russell Better Than Uhle; Red Sox Win

BOSTON, June 12 (AP)—Jack Russell had the edge on George Uhle in a pitchers' battle today and the Red Sox defeated Detroit, 3 to 1. Russell allowed the Tigers three hits, while his teammates were able

BIG SIX

Johnson's Men Take Seventh Straight Triumph

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Even Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's mound ace, could not stop Washington's slugging streak today, and the Senators won, 7 to 1, their seventh successive victory.

Joe Cronin, who was back in the game despite an injury which forced him out of the game yesterday, and Joe Kubel led Washington's attack. Cronin, with three hits out of four times up, drove in two runs, and Kubel with two doubles and a sacrifice out of four times at the plate, accounted for three.

Colorado Boys Favorites at Stagg Meet

Negro Hurdler Tops Qualifiers; Wins in Both Events

STAGG FIELD, Chicago, June 12 (AP)—Bronzed athletes from Ft. Collins, Colo., high school, today served notice on the field in the twenty-seventh renewal of the University of Chicago national interscholastic track and field championships, that they are after their fourth title.

The Ft. Collins team, apparently better balanced than when it won in 1925, 1926 and 1928, qualified six men for the finals or semi-finals tomorrow and with 20 men on the squad, apparently had enough power to win again. Salem, O., high and Oak Park of Chicago, also qualified six men, and promised to give the Colorado team a hard battle.

The team title battle apparently was restricted to a few outfits, but the struggle for individual championships was wide open. Heading the list of double qualifiers was Amosden Oliver, lanky Negro hurdler from Roosevelt high, Dayton, O. He turned in the best marks for both high and low hurdles. He did the 120-yard high in 15.6 seconds, and raced the low in 24.8 seconds.

Arrayed against Oliver in the hurdles were Wallace of Eagle Lake, Tex.; Pantling of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Central; Burton of Dupont Manual, Louisville; McMurray, Ault, Colo.; Knowland, La Grande, Ore.; March, Vermillion, S. D.; and Harkey, Webster Groves, Mo.

Trials were held in both dashes, both hurdles, the high jump, pole vault, discus, javelin, broad jump and shot put today. Semi-finals will be held in both dashes and both hurdles tomorrow, with finals in the other events tried today.

Home Again, Armour Eyes U. S. Crown

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Tommy Armour, open champion of Great Britain and Canada, king of America's professional golfers, returned today from his latest triumph overseas, keen and eager to tackle the one great world left for him to conquer this year—the American open. You never could tell, as the black Scot of Edinburgh held the British open title in the hollow of his left arm while photographers pored him on the deck of the Aquitania, that this arm was shattered by machine gun bullets during the World war. There was no sign, as he squinted into the talking picture camera and told how it felt to be Bobby Jones' successor as Britain's golfing ruler, that he was blinded in one eye by the same leader ball. "It was lucky to win," he said, the lean dark face smiling. "It wasn't

Wheat Trade Wrestles With Rain Reports

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—Wheat traders are wrestling with the Canadian situation. Those who believe that there has been severe damage to the spring wheat crop on both sides of the international line lean to the buying side on breaks. However, a large number of traders, admitting likelihood of a shorter crop, say there is too much wheat forthcoming in North America and in the world generally, with too much timidity on part of speculators and little disposition among foreign importers to warrant a large and well sustained advance in prices. Other traders are awaiting the movement of the new domestic winter wheat crop, which they believe will bring hedging pressure and lower prices, unless demand is greatly improved.

Rails Center Attraction on Dull Market

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Railroad securities provided most of the interest in today's security markets. The stocks took considerable profit-taking in the morning, but forged slowly ahead thereafter and closed with net gains of 1 to 9 points. On the bond market second grade rail listings made encouraging progress. Industrial and utility shares were largely inactive and at times heavy, although they recovered with the transportation issues. However, their net changes were small and somewhat irregular. The market was very dull throughout the session and the turnover dropped to 1,600,000 shares. Liquidation attributed to nervous holders brought wide breaks in German bonds, while the continued repatriation of funds held in Germany weakened the reichsmark. Bankers suggested that among the possible steps which could be taken by the reich to strengthen confidence would be an increase in the discount rate and a release of earmarked gold. There has been a drop of $15,900,000 in gold earmarked for foreign account at the New York Federal Reserve bank this week, but there has been no indication as to how much was for Germany and how much for Canada. The Canadian dollar has recently been weak.

Railroad Heads Ask 15 Per Cent Raise From Commission

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—The presidents of eastern, southern and western railroads meeting here today voted unanimously to petition the interstate commerce commission for an increase in freight rates of 15 per cent. The 15 per cent increase will apply to all freight rates and charges except those enjoying differentials. Such rates will be increased by the existing differentials will be preserved. For example, if the present rates on a shipment from one station to two destinations are, respectively, $1.00 and $1.15 a ton the new rates to both destinations will be increased, but one will remain 15 cents lower than the other.

The Emperor of America

by Sax Rohmer

(Synopsis of Preceding Installments) Commander Drake Roscoe of the United States navy, incurs the hostility of a mysterious criminal band when he tries to aid Peter Champion, a millionaire, who is marked for death. He takes Champion to the steamer Ruritania, where his friend, Dr. Stopford, is chief surgeon. Shortly before sailing Stopford finds Roscoe missing. He determines to go ashore to find him. Neither Roscoe nor Stopford suspect that Madame Czerna, whom they have met several times, is an agent of the criminal band.

"The lock's jammed. But that ain't my point. There's some funny game on. First of all, this evening, comes a police captain—sent by the commander. We find the lock's jammed, and he says, this copper: 'I'll be back with somebody to force it.' He didn't. Then, half an hour ago, comes a steward off your ship—"

"Wearing his uniform. He come from the commander, too. Must have done, 'cause he had his keys! Said he'd called for clothes and a bag, as the commander had spent the night on board and was leaving by late train for Philadelphia. Keys won't work. Off he goes. Now, here comes you—"

"What! What!" Stopford stared. "My man, Huff, by all that's holy! Ashore tonight? In uniform! But—out—what about gettin' a locksmith?"

"They're trying to find one. But it's late, you see."

"Where did this steward go?"

"He said he was going back to the ship."

Stopford gazed searchingly at the speaker.

In a small, square room, high above New York city, a man sat at a long narrow table. The room was draped in strange shadows. A pedestal lamp on the table afforded the only light.

"Report of Divisional Chief B."

"Report of Zone officer in charge of party covering the Ruritania."

"To hand. Zone Officer 3 C reports that Roscoe was not seen to leave the ship by way of the pier. Group master covering from North River confirms. Sector Captain 3 C 3 has advised that steward who went ashore at ten-seventeen, after proceeding to Roscoe's apartment and finding it empty, went across to Hotel Memphis, immediately opposite on West Forty-fourth street, and booked accommodation for Dr. Stopford. Steward is in room. Sector Captain 3 C 3 standing by at Hotel Memphis. Report timed 11 p.m.—at which hour Stopford was still on board. Report ends."

"Why? Dr. Stopford!" exclaimed someone who spoke with a charming French accent.

"He turned. A woman stood at his elbow. She smiled, extending her hand, and Stopford's heart jumped gladly.

"Madame Czerna!" he exclaimed. "This is miraculous—but beastly annoying!"

"Annoying?" Madame echoed. "Simply maddening!" Stopford declared. "Because"—glancing up at the hotel clock—"I have just 56 minutes to catch my ship!"

"As he glanced aside, the woman's beautiful eyes regarded him swiftly—strangely. When he looked into her face again, she veiled the tell-tale eyes with lowered lashes.

"I am sorry, too," she murmured. "I had hoped we might have had supper—"

"I beg of you," said Stopford earnestly, "don't misunderstand. I'm in a flat spin. Just sit down for two minutes while I find out something; and then—dare I ask you to share a wild ride to the Ruritania? There's a bottle of Mumm, right vintage, at the other end—if we're in time!"

"It is horrid," Madame declared, pouting deliciously. "But I will come, yes, if I may."

A SUGGESTION

Eddie GULLION, who seems to know everything that goes on around Pathe, heard about the proposed change of name for Duryea.
