U. S. DEFICIT MAY SHOW DECREASE

Men Behind the News

Respectable Comedian Wears "Cheaters" on Location Only.

(This is one of a series of stories dealing with the little known side of personalities behind the news.)

By BRIAN BELL
(Copyright, 1931, by Associated Press)
HOLLYWOOD, June 18 (AP)—Harold Lloyd never appears on a motion picture screen without spectacles and never wears them off the stage.

He is one of the most photographed men in the world with his "specs" and one of the least without them. Only five sets of portraits.

He has made more than 500 comedies but he has had only five sets of portraits made in the last 10 years. When he decided to make horn-rimmed glasses his trade mark he had to try three times before he found the right pair.

His idea of a great vacation is to go to New York and attend the theater every available afternoon and night. He had been in "pictures" for years before he visited New York and even yet he has not been to Europe, although he has threatened from time to time to go across.

His Beverly Hills home is one of the show places of southern California but there is nothing flamboyant about it. The estate includes a nine hole golf course, measuring 1,600 yards, with 17 water hazards furnished by a canoe course running through it. There is also a swimming pool.

Plays Backgammon
The comedian is almost shy. More often he may be found playing backgammon in his dressing room with an extra boy or an assistant director, than with another "big shot."

Flower Dog Fancier
Lloyd can call every flower on his extensive grounds by its scientific name. He is a fancier of Great Danes and at one time he had as many as 65 in his kennels.

Students Inspect Waterworks
A group of 10 chemical engineering students, under the direction of Prof. Hubert L. Olin of the chemistry department, made a trip to Cedar Rapids yesterday afternoon to study the new municipal water plant located there.

Review of All-State Orchestra

BURLINGTON, June 18—Never has radio reception been so ideal as it was for the concert given by the all-state high school orchestra under Prof. Charles B. Richter broadcast over station WSUI tonight.

Hoover Gives Cheerful Note After Journey

Plans No More Long Trips Away From White House

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—President Hoover came back to the White House tonight cheerful and optimistic over conditions he observed on his four day tour of the central states.

His views were expressed informally to members of the party as the special train traveled through fields of ripening harvests in crossing West Virginia and Virginia today.

Good Crop Outlook
The prospects for bumper crops visible throughout the trip apparently contributed to the hopes entertained by the president. Today's route led across a stretch of last year's ruinous drought belt.

To Stand on Policies
The president came back to Washington determined to stand on the policies he outlined in his speeches in the middle west and he made it clear he planned no other extended trips away from the capital.

Republicans With Chief
Republican leaders who joined the presidential special at various points were eager to discuss politics and were frank in their expressions of hope of a favorable reaction to Mr. Hoover's utterances in this territory where Democrats scored gains in the last congressional election.

Students Inspect Waterworks
The president at Indianapolis before the Indiana Republican Editorial association named the business depression as the "dominant" problem of the day and upon that issue he is apparently determined to face next year's campaign.

Parents Hear Final Session of Conference

Little Done in Child Study Work, Says P. H. Furley

By AL MITCHELL
Although adolescence is a subject of the utmost importance for those whose have to deal with children, little careful research has been accomplished in the field, asserted Paul Hanly Furley of the Catholic university of America, Washington, D.C., in his lecture which opened the last day of the child study conference.

"The reason that we have done little with the problem is that the meanings attached to the term itself are confused," he said. Mr. Furley summarized recent work in the field of adolescent behavior, and analyzed the relation between physiological and psychological phenomena of adolescence in his talk. He emphasized the importance of a thorough understanding of the psychology of adolescence.

Must Understand Children
"Society can only hope to control the younger generation," he said, "by first being sure that it understands these growing boys and girls."

Three round tables, conducted by Mr. Furley, Prof. William E. Blatz, and Prof. Ada H. Arlitt concluded the morning program. Prof. Amy L. Daniels, of the Iowa child welfare research station told parents at the afternoon session that, although the problem of selection of the child's diet was new, such selection was more dangerous today than in previous years, since changes in foods and their handling have generally resulted in a lowering of food values.

Rats Show Diet Effects
She showed effects of poor balance in diets by exhibiting a colony of rats which had been the subjects of nutrition experiments. The animals varied widely in size, although they had been allowed to eat an unlimited amount of different foods, prepared so as to lack certain vital elements.

Expressing the thought that parents are under an obligation to give their children the fundamental teachings of religion, but that the final choice should rest with the child, Prof. William E. Blatz of St. George's school for child study, Toronto university, Canada, concluded the three day program.

More than 400 persons registered for the conference, representing 84 Iowa towns and 35 states. Iowa City registration was 93, and Cedar Rapids was second in strength with 66.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 18 (AP)—Jurisprudence took cognizance of a sixth or "divining" sense blind persons are reputed to have and granted a divorce here yesterday to Dr. Ernest R. Cleaves, an osteopath, because of his testimony regarding that which the sixth sense disclosed.

He told the court he heard, sensed and "divined" that his blind wife, Mrs. Lillian Cleaves, also an osteopath, was hugging and kissing another blind man on certain occasions.

Just Pleasure Trip
Although it was officially insisted that Mr. Mellon's visit was nothing more than a pleasure trip, during which he hoped to visit his son at Cambridge tonight, there was an increasing tendency to connect his presence with the momentous question of reparations and war debts.

Hanging of Texas Preacher Blamed on Church Troubles

DALLAS, Tex., June 18 (AP)—B. P. Brown, part-time preacher who was stripped of his clothes by four masked men early today and hanged to a chandelier above the pulpit in the North Dallas Baptist church, tonight blamed dissension among members of the congregation for the attack.

The hanging, he said the men told him, was "an example" to his pastor, the Rev. H. P. Marler. A former member of the church who recently resigned as a deacon was arrested this afternoon for questioning.

Enforcement Begins to Function

SUCCESS of the federal government in bringing Al Capone to justice and promise of similar achievements to be forthcoming in New York and other gang infested areas, is definite proof of the efficacy of the transfer of prohibition enforcement from the treasury department to the department of justice.

When District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson closed his successful campaign against Capone, the conviction meant more than just the imprisonment of another gangster. It was symbolical of the fate which all gangland is bound to suffer eventually. It indicated that at last federal enforcement had gathered itself into at least a semblance of a smooth working machine. Such a perfect mesh of evidence would never have been drawn around Capone in the days of treasury enforcement, and it is probable that other Chicago and New York criminals will come to a realization of the new regime before long.

The majority of those who oppose prohibition do so not because they believe every man should be allowed to drink himself to death but because they don't believe the present law will work. They are satisfied that it has been given a trial and has been proven worthless.

But if the government will continue to hit the mark it has made by getting Capone not only will the important faction of the anti-prohibition element be fairly well silenced, but the whole world will have an example to follow of successful prohibition in a great state.

Queen Mary Entertains

SOME persons have curious methods of doing things. Queen Mary, for example, is going to help relieve the depression in England by giving a huge ball for all the young society folk because they have been forced to do without so many social events this season. Dress regulations of formal court functions will be relaxed to help the good cause along.

In America, well meaning philanthropists who want to aid those whom the depression has hit, set up kitchens and bread lines, inviting everyone upon whom fortune has frowned to partake of soup and crackers.

Instead, Queen Mary will serve punch and delicacies to the young elite, while thousands of unemployed must be content with just the bare necessities.

Her Majesty would do better to exercise her sympathy over the mass that needs it, rather than cater to upper strata of court society.

Campaign Against Sovietism

A COMMITTEE of 100 men and women has been appointed to investigate possibilities of an international organization to combat sovietism.

The group should have little difficulty in obtaining a substantial following, but in that very fact lies a danger that modern civilization is going to let itself be frightened by a sheet in the dark and become blind to the advantages of broad mindedness.

This international committee against sovietism had best limit itself to keeping the spread of misleading and lurid propaganda in check within the borders of the states affected. Sovietism in itself isn't the world owes it to itself to avoid stamping out something new just because it fears the loss of a venerated old order.

Active crusading against sovietism in any form would be a grave mistake for the progress of the world has come from radical movements of various kinds. The proper method of treating new movements has been demonstrated by history, their virtues should be absorbed gradually without revolutionary movements, and their unhealthy features cast off at the same time.

A motto which appeared in front of a local church this week could be applied to keep over eager patriots from going beyond reason in their efforts: "A conservative is one who worships a dead radical."

Population Decline in 1950?

NEWS that America is facing a shortening of the birth rate, or at least of the rate of population, is actually an encouraging sign rather than a doleful indication that the country is going to the dogs.

The latest to predict that the trend in the near future will carry the country to a static state and thence to a reduced population is Dr. Robert R. Kuczynski, vital statistic expert working at the Brookings institute in Washington.

Dr. Kuczynski says that by 1950 or 1960, unless unexpected developments occur, should be the time when the static state arrives in the country.

The Christian Science Monitor says that "statisticians acknowledge that the slowing down of American population to a standstill or even a decline would be a spectacular event and one with the deepest social and economic consequences to the world at large as well as to the United States.

"Between 1920 and 1930 the United States made a population increase larger than most European countries, but the birth rate declined over the previous decade, and declined more rapidly than the corresponding decline going on in Europe."

Although the Monitor suggests that a cessation of population increase would have profound influences, nothing is said as to whether they would be good or bad.

It will probably be a good thing all the way round if the population does ease off a little in proportion to mechanical and social progress. It will mean for one thing that the poverty attendant upon large families will be abolished to a large extent, and a healthier, happier race of women will result.

Increasing restrictions on immigration will probably be another factor, and one of the surest ways of reaching prosperity will be through less population, more employment, and a greater share of natural resources per capita.

Nature will doubtless make accommodation if there is a real dearth of population, but a temporary decline should operate to advantage.

The president of Barnard college begs the girls in the graduating class not to look about for gainful occupations just now when so many more needy ones are out of work. Apparently he doesn't count marriage as a gainful occupation, though those who take it up usually gain an eye full of experience, if that counts for anything. —Boston Transcript.

What European royalty seems to need most is a few competent ring makers. —Arkansas Gazette.

A Los Angeles driver won against an engineer at a crossing. This peevish railway company; for the brakes were jammed on so hard that they did $154.70 worth of damages to the train. The engineer got the judge's decision and the motorist paid the bill. This should be a lesson to autoists and restrain them from hurting trains. —Los Angeles Times.

In Minnesota a man drawn for jury duty is found to have been dead 13 years. Since he has seen no newspaper and has no opinion or bias in the case, it is assumed he is acceptable to all. —Detroit News.

Tennessee Won't Come Down

The Tennessee legislature has gone fundamental again, refusing to repeal the law prohibiting the teaching of theories contrary to the book of Genesis. The effort to coax the state down out of the tree was both feeble and futile. It will throw coconuts, but will not come down. In its recent financial experiences it has been made a monkey of so many times and so thoroughly that it can go through the treetops with a greater feeling of security than when it is on the ground. Tennessee is primitive and proud of it. The view is leafy and luxuriant from where it is and the air is good—out in the breeze on a swinging bough.

Selected Freshmen

While the ancient barbarities have been mostly removed and with the general progress the innocence and veridancy once attributed to the freshman must have passed into "sophistication" even in his period of sub-freshmanship, it is a surprise to learn that his intellectual growth has been so extraordinary. It is true that at present only the choicest specimens, the flower of the flock, are exhibited; but what a flock it must be from which such golden fleeces can be sheared! President Hutchins of Chicago university has a freshman class in literature. He has found scholars worthy of the teacher. The Chicago Tribune records that the "seventeen selected freshmen" of this class have just been subjected to "a comprehensive examination."

They were allowed to bring with them the books that they had studied and the notes they had made of lectures. To survivors of the old regime this license seems incredible. Ghosts of generations of proctors scowl from their Elysian peepholes. What! The "ponies," the "horses," actually asked to gallop with heavy foot into the examination room? The pickers-up of scraps of paper, the watchmen of white cuffs are crestfallen. Worthy Mr. Bohn smiles seraphically from his ethereal Covent Garden. Not on such homely chargers do these our freshmen ride. They are there "to show that they had grasped the underlying significance of the works and writers they had studied." The rascals actually say that the examination was "fair." It was just a comparatively easy test of their general knowledge of the literature of the Western world from the days of ancient Greece to the city states of the medieval ages and the Renaissance.

As even the wisest youngsters of today can have read mighty little of that long literature, they can have given for the most part only their impressions of it from books and lectures. If such knowledge must be thin and discursive, at least it opens horizons far wider than most freshmen, most undergraduates, most graduates have ever known. To "discuss the Renaissance in the light of the books of this course" requires at least comparison and preference of theories, even if they be at second-hand. The beginnings of thought are there; and if a certain percentage of freshmen is going to think, the thought is almost insulting to many or most graduates. Here are a couple of the "soit" tasks given to these accomplished youths:

State the conception of the good life and the good state according to Plato and Aristotle, Cicero and Marcus Aurelius, Dante and Machiavelli.

Write the table of contents and the preface for a book entitled "Orthodoxy and Heresy from Augustine to Aquinas."

Our heart is with the unselected freshmen, who were probably at a ball game while these things were asked in the torture chamber. Behold still another "menace," the overeducation of freshmen. These young gentlemen are a reproach to their elders. But youth will have its way. Doubtless some philanthropist will endow a School for Backward Graduates.

Blatz Speaks to Iowa City Rotary Club

Urges Training Rather Than Suppression of Emotions

"The emotional side of the child should be developed along with the rest of his early training," said Dr. William E. Blatz, when he addressed the Iowa City Rotary club yesterday noon at the Hotel Jefferson.

Dr. Blatz, director of St. George's school of Child Study at Toronto university, Toronto, Canada, told the Rotarians that the modern trend in the training of the child is not to completely suppress the child's emotions but rather to train them so they would be receiving the greatest benefit of these emotions.

Anger Basis of Ambition
"Anger is the basis of ambition," he said, "and if the child is taught to use his anger in the right way he will doubtlessly succeed." Fear as well as anger must be trained if the child is to progress and this can only be done by a process of selecting the right things to teach the child to be afraid of.

E. B. Moore, of Lincoln, Nebr., and Glenn G. Fordyce, of Iowa City, regional and local directors of the Boy Scouts gave short talks on the local scout movement.

Rotary Guests
Guests at the luncheon were: H. Van Hettlinga, and Elmer Ziegler of Muscatine; George E. Davis of Keokuk; Howard Rutherford, Menomonee Falls, Wis., A. B. Grimes of Muscatine; M. G. Davis of Ames; A. J. Draper of Jefferson; F. A. Marty, Cloquet, Minn.; Frank W. Jones of Anamosa. Arthur J. Cox, Prof. George D. Stoddard, Dr. E. W. Rockwood, Charles S. Gallher, Glen C. Fordyce, and Francis M. Wood of Iowa City.

Hawkeye Lumber Company Files Suit Against Nina Pixley

In a new equity case filed for the September term of the Johnson county district court the Hawkeye Lumber company filed a petition yesterday to recover payment for lumber and other building materials from Nina Pixley et al.

Furnishing materials amounting to $1,125.67 for improvements on lot 19 of the sub-division of the southeast one-fourth section of Iowa City, the lumber company asks for payment for the materials, 6 per cent interest since April 11, and costs of the action from a forced sale of the property.

With Frank F. Messer for attorney the company requests that the court order sale of enough of the property to cover its lien and that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the property.

Two Couples Obtain Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses were issued to two couples at the Johnson county courthouse yesterday.

Cordelle Niswander of Iowa City will be married to Arthur E. Putz of Ossian, according to the license records. James Falls and Thelma Brock, both of Oxford, also obtained marriage permits.

Local Man in Hospital After Shooting Self

August Wagner, 60, a day laborer, shot and critically wounded himself yesterday morning at his home at 1129 Hotz avenue. He had been under a doctor's care for the past six months and suffered from melancholia.

Mrs. Wagner was in the cellar of the house at 10:40 a.m., when she heard a shot upstairs. She found her husband lying in bed, having shot himself once through the chest with a .38 caliber revolver.

The bullet was fired downwards and to the right, piercing a lobe of the liver and emerging about four inches to the right of the spinal column, shattering a lower rib.

Wagner was removed immediately to the Mercy hospital where slight hope for his recovery was expressed by hospital officials.

Iowa Men Begin Military Work at Minnesota Fort

Arriving at Camp Snelling, Minn., Monday, 48 students from the University of Iowa medical and dental corps began six weeks of military training in preparation for becoming reserve officers in the United States army.

Immediately upon their arrival they were subjected to a complete physical examination to determine their fitness for military service. They were then issued their equipment assigned to companies "B" and "C," and started on their duties as soldiers with callisthenics, drill, and instruction.

There are also present at the camp nearly 500 other students and about 50 officers for the summer training season. These men make up the R.O.T.C. units of approximately 20 colleges and universities from the states of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, and Missouri.

Halsey Returns From Michigan
Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of the department of physical education for women, returned yesterday from Forest Beach, Mich., where she lectured this week at the mid-west conference of health education instructor, in Y.W.C.A. held there June 9 to June 12.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Memler, 139 Parsons avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. George Memler, 1154 Hotz avenue, left Wednesday morning on a motor trip through Canada. They expect to be gone for one month.

Cubs, Robins Divide Twin Bill; Malone Hurls Shutout Ball in Nightcap

Pat Allows 5 Hits; Bruins Pound Out 14

Brooklyn Wins by 7-5, Loses, 8-0; Wilson Hits Homer

BROOKLYN, June 18 (AP)—Speed ball pitchers dominated the proceedings at Ebbets field today as the Robins divided a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs.

Dazzy Vance hurled the Robins to a 7 to 5 victory in the opener, striking out 11 batters for a new season record, but Pat Malone stopped the locals dead in the nightcap while his mates pounded out an 8 to 0 triumph. Malone allowed only five scattered hits, three of them by Babe Herman.

Hack Wilson, last year's National league home run king, hit his seventh homer of the season off Vance

Sportively Speaking

By Bill Rutledge

The old dazzer is still dazzling. Dazzy Vance always had a gripe against the Cubs and threw it at the Cubs with a gripe today. And yesterday he polished off his strikeout ball and threw it at the Cubs with such effectiveness that a 7 to 5 victory was registered by the disillusioned Flatbush clan. Only six Bruins batted in the first two innings. Eleven of them whiffed in the course of the encounter, a league record for the season.

DAZZY VANCE

Among the blows gathered by the Cubs off the Robins' ace were home run number nine by Rogers Hornsby and homer number seven by Hack Wilson.

At this date last year Hack had clouted 16 circuit drives. Of course, you all know that in 1930 Wilson was the home run monarch of the league. His slump and consequent benching set him back so far in home run standings that he will probably not be able to catch up his last season's mark ere the current campaign closes.

The Phillies have a monopoly

Eleven Tracksters Will Compete for Iowa at Lincoln

The University of Iowa will be represented by 11 candidates at the National A.A.U. track and field meet at Lincoln, Neb., July 3 and 4. Those expected to compete are L. D. Weidon, Elmo Nelson, George Saling, Ed Gordon, Harry Tennant, Melvin Stadler, John Beckner, Graham Moulton, Laurence Bisom, Cyril Pelechia, and Walter Nugis. Henry Canby will not compete because of a leg injury.

Competitors will be divided into two divisions, senior and junior. The junior class is open to those who have not won a first place in a national meet.

on National league home run honors. If it's not one of their team, it's another. When Buzz Arlett isn't leading the pack of four-bagger swatters, then Chuck Klein is.

The Athletics and Senators should be knocked out of the lock step in which they have been marching at the head of the American league procession. The two teams swing into western territory for a lengthy tour. The Mackmen will be the guests of the White Sox, the Senators of Cleveland.

Twilight league fans are looking forward with eagerness to Tuesday night when the two league leaders, the Odd Fellows and Dewey's clash at city park. The record of neither nine has been blemished in evening competition.

3 Coaches to Give Talks on '32 Olympics

Bresnahan, Schroeder, Armbruster Lead Discussions

Topics relating to the world Olympic games will be discussed this afternoon at 4:10 p.m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Three University of Iowa coaches connected with conducting the Olympics will give talks. The main address will be given by Coach George T. Bresnahan of the track team, who has developed seven Iowa members of American Olympic teams. Both members of committees conducting trout, next winter and spring, Ernest Schroeder and David Armbruster will speak.

The sports authorities will discuss various phases of the Olympic games at Los Angeles next year. The program will be a round table discussion.

Coach Bresnahan has been prominent in United States Olympics since 1920. Four Hawkeyes competed in the games at Paris in 1924, and in 1928 he coached three men to places in the games at Amsterdam.

Among Bresnahan's proteges have been Frank Cahel, who was runner-up for the Olympic 440 meter hurdles title, and George Baird, who was a member of the Yankee 1,600 meter relay team which established a new record in winning the international championship.

BIG SIX

(By the Associated Press)

Riggs Stephenson, Chicago Cub slugger, gained in the National league batting race yesterday when he collected five hits in 10 times at bat in a double header against the Dodgers. His .500 average for the day boosted his mark to .363, only one point behind Bill Terry of the Giants, who hit two out of four to hold second place.

The leaders:

Hagen Shells Par With 68 in Open Golf

MIAMI VALLEY CLUB, DAYTON, O., June 18 (AP)—Walter Hagen found the range of the rolling fairways of the Miami Valley course today and shelled it with a record smashing 68 that shoved him one shot in front in the western open golf championship fight.

The Hag just about made the first 18 hole round of the 72 hole struggle a one-man show until Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., came in late with a 69 to do some crowding.

Sir Walter had brilliancy and hard luck as he circled the first nine with a 36, one over par, and he had nothing but his old time genius on his way back as he ripped the course apart with a 32.

Dudley slipped in with rounds of

Moose Game Sunday With Rock Island

The Rock Island shop team will be the opponents of the local Moose Sunday afternoon at the new municipal field.

The invaders will come with a record of having won five and lost but one this season. Wheeler and Jackson will handle the battery assignments for them.

Seeking their second straight victory the local lodge nine will rely on Pauba and Penble, pitchers, and Meyers, catcher, to assume battery responsibilities.

Bowman in Semi-Finals

BOSTON, June 18 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals made four runs in the seventh off Ed Brandt to defeat the Braves today, 5 to 4, in the opening game of their series. The Cards' four runs were made on a double by Mancuso, three bases on balls and two Boston errors.

Reds Present Phils With 5 to 4 Victory
PHILADELPHIA, June 18 (AP)—Four successive bases on balls by three Cincinnati pitchers after one man was out in the ninth inning forced Chuck Klein over the plate and presented the Phillies with a 5 to 4 triumph over the Reds today.

Giants Triumph in Sixth Straight, 3-1
NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Timely hitting behind Carl Hubbell's sixth pitching enabled the Giants to down Pittsburgh, 3 to 1, in their series opener today and run their winning streak to six straight. The slender Giant southpaw had the Pirates puzzled all the way and would have scored a shutout but for successive errors by Jackson and Terry in the first inning.

The quality you want . . . the price you approve★

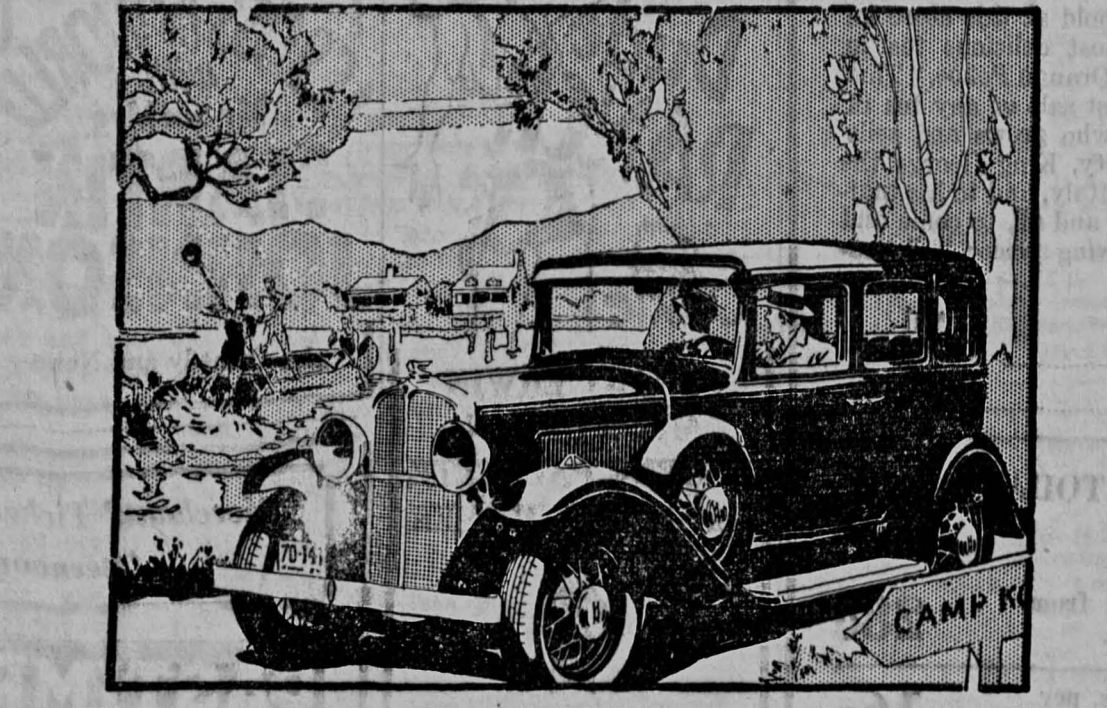

If the things you want most in a motor car have cost more than you care to pay—and if the cars you felt you could easily buy have not quite satisfied you—here is a timely message . . .

You examine the Pontiac interior, and at once you see that the upholstery is genuine mohair or whipcord. You find that seat springs are deep, cushions soft, and the driver's seat easy to adjust the way you like it.

How about protection against heat, cold, and rain?—you ask. And you learn that the fine Fisher-built Pontiac body is weather-tight and leak-proof. Everything has been done for your complete comfort.

There remains only Pontiac's effect on other people. Glances you notice along the street, and the comments of your friends soon settle that! You know you are right in your judgment.

But don't stop at this imaginary test. Take a new Pontiac out on the road and ask it to do everything you want a car to do. Let it prove that it has the quality you want—then ask the price. It's a figure you will warmly approve.

Synopsis of Preceding Installments
Commander Drake Roscoe of the U. S. navy is on the trail of a mysterious criminal band known as the Zone gang and directed by a chief called "Head Centre." Roscoe himself is marked for death, so he assumes a disguise and is known as Ramon de Sa, a dancer from the Argentine. With the aid of a friend, Dr. Stoppford, he makes his investigations, while Madame Czerna, a member of the gang, reports their movements to "Head Centre." Her duties become rather onerous, however, when she finds herself falling in love with Stoppford. Acting under orders, she goes to a tea in the apartment of Father Burke, whose brother, John Burke, is a deputy commissioner of police. Stoppford and Roscoe (disguised as De Sa) are to be there. Madame Czerna is to be escorted by Gaston Pascal, whom she does not know. Commissioner Burke, while on his way to see his brother, is kidnapped, drugged, and taken to gang headquarters, dazed, but without memory as to what has happened. However, he has done the thing "Head Centre" wished. Acting under a hypnotic spell, he has ordered the release of a number of persons held as Zone gang suspects. Roscoe thus loses a valuable opportunity to uncover clues. He ventures the opinion that Gaston Pascal, who bears a remarkable resemblance to Napoleon, is "Head Centre."

Ninth Installment
"I think what awakened me," said June Sutton, "was a sound that seemed to be very near."
"What did you do?" Drake Roscoe said.
"I lay still for a while," the girl replied. "You see, I was in a dreadful state of nerves because of the attempt on Daddy only a few days before."
"This happened last Tuesday night?"
"Yes."
"Please go on."
"Then it occurred to me that there was something under the pillow! Just as I got this idea, and stifled a scream—I wanted to scream badly—I felt a tickling sensation on my neck. I sat up. And some thing—I can't even guess what—dropped onto the sheets!"
"Then did you scream?"
"No, I didn't! I couldn't! I switched on the lamp and looked around. There was nothing to be seen. At that moment I heard a faint sound, from under the pillow again! I shot out of bed like a hare!"
"What was the time?" Roscoe asked quietly.
"I noticed particularly. It was one o'clock."
"Your room faces the tennis lawn?"
"Yes."
"Were the dogs quiet?"
"Absolutely."
"Please go on."
"For a while I hadn't the courage to move the pillow. Then, at last, I did move it... and now I come to the extraordinary thing, Commander Roscoe. I hope you'll understand why I told nobody—but why I have told you tonight. There was a wooden reel, fixed with a piece of wire, under my pillow!"
Drake Roscoe stared blankly; then:
"Cotton or silk on it?" he jerked.
"Nothing!"
"Why didn't you report this to your father?"
"I will explain," said June Sutton. "I suddenly got an idea that there was someone outside my door. I ran and opened it. I could see no one. I turned up the lights and ran to Mrs. Dean's room. I awakened her. We went back together."
"What did you tell her?"
"I just said I thought somebody was in my room."
"How long were you away?"
"Two or three minutes at most."
"What then?"
"We came back... and I was glad I had said so little. The reel was gone!"
Drake Roscoe did not speak for a moment.
"There's something else," the girl went on hesitantly, "although I don't really know if it's got anything to do with the matter."
"Better tell me all the same."
"Well, I have met a queer-looking man around the neighborhood more than once. On Wednesday I'm almost sure I saw him watching Molly over the hedge."
"Eh?" snapped Roscoe. "Describe him."
June laughed uneasily.
"I didn't say a word to Molly," she explained, "and he never appears when she is with me. But—he's queerly like Napoleon!"
Roscoe suppressed some violent epithet.
"When did you last notice this man?" he asked quietly.
"Yesterday afternoon. We passed him in the car on our way to golf."
"Near here?"
"On the corner."
"Did Miss O'Hay see him?"
"No." June hesitated, and then: "Don't tell Daddy if you can avoid it," she pleaded. "He's got worry enough. But I had made up my mind to tell you."
Dusk was creeping over the home of Page Sutton.
Dr. Stoppford looked from the window at a delicate landscape in silver and green. Beyond the smooth lawn was the shrubbery from which trees upstart like watchful sentinels, marking the boundary of the grounds. Between them he could see the waters

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood
By HARRISON CARROLL

OLD HOME WEEK
Speaking of Mary Pickford, she and Douglas Fairbanks are due in Montreal, where they will spend a week. Canada, you know, is Mary's birthplace, and was the scene of her early stock experience. While there, the star will revisit familiar scenes and make the acquaintance of her Canadian public. Douglas doubtless will play golf. There is a good deal of talk in Hollywood as to whether Mary will have succeeded in turning his mind to work by the time of their return.

Doug makes no secret he would rather play. Mary, on the other hand, wants to work. It is conceded out here that Mary, at least, will make another picture this year. Most people think Doug will, too. Maybe there'll be a definite answer next week when the wanderers come.

"Hello!" cried Stoppford, who had remained standing by the open window. "Hello! Hello!"

"What is it?" Page Sutton asked excitedly.

"Who's down there?" Stoppford was straining, now, from the window.

"Who are you, and what's your game?"

Regan, who had been heading for the door, turned and ran to the window. Sutton and Roscoe also joined Stoppford.

"All out onto the lawn!" said the latter. "Open order. There's somebody lurkin' in the bushes, and he's been listenin' in!"

Regan grunted comprehendingly and stood up, when:

LATEST GOSSIP
Norman Kerry plans to leave here in September to make his home in Europe. He says he has enough money to live there, but not in Hollywood. As far as pictures are concerned, he is ready to call it quits here. The last few years haven't brought him many parts. And, of course, there's the title of Ivan Lebedeff's life story from "Strange Woman" to "Kisses by Command"...

Frank McGlynn wins another skirmish in his campaign to get away from the Lincoln character. He is to play in "Huckleberry Finn"...

George Walsh, the former leading man, is now an assistant to an associate producer at Fox.

Most of the studios are getting up baseball teams. Fox is the latest, while First National already has Joe E. Brown's outfit and M. G. M., Buster Keaton's. Finals of the motion picture tennis tournament will be held next Sunday at the Los Angeles Tennis club. Theodore von Eltz is given a slim chance to win the singles, but the trophy is more likely to go to a musician or a young laboratory worker. I forget their names...

Male actors no longer will have to wear rouge for technical photography. The new sensitive film avoids this... Lilyan Tashman and Eddie Lowe can seat 20 people in the dining room of their new beach house, and probably will.

ANITA CAST
Something seems to have happened to Anita Page at M.G.M. She is to play opposite Buster Keaton in his new picture, and unless I am mistaken, this will be her first film since "The Easiest Way." It's hard to understand. Anita always struck me as having possibilities as an actress.
