

DEBT PARLEY AWAITS U. S. PLAN

This Talk About Gold

Treasury Expert Tells How Money Moves Between Nations.

(Below is a dispatch prepared by Charles D. Watkins, who covers the United States treasury at Washington for the Associated Press, dealing with various aspects of finance involved in the present international negotiations.)

By CHARLES D. WATKINS

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—

Like water seeking its own level, gold flows to that country producing and selling the largest amount of commodities.

If the gold of the world was evenly apportioned among the nations such a division would last only until the non-producing nations could spend it with the producers. Production of goods attracts gold just as a magnet attracts a needle.

Gold Transfer to U. S.

Gold has flowed into the United States at the rate of about $417,000,000 in the last year and in the month of June the United States gained $156,000,000, of which $90,000,000 was in one week, due chiefly to transfer of gold from Germany.

American interests had loaned huge amounts to German interests on short term credits and when confidence in the German situation was shaken the Americans recalled their loans.

Such an unprecedented amount of gold could not have been shipped in one month from Germany and the transfer was made possible because German interests held large amounts of gold in this country which in international financial language was "earmarked" for the Germans. When the loans were called the German's turned the gold already here over to Americans to pay the debts.

Germany Lost $230,000,000

From May 31 until June 23 the German Reichsbank lost $230,000,000 in gold and $20,000,000 in foreign exchange bringing its ratio of reserves to total note and deposit liabilities to 40.4 per cent in the face of the legal requirement that the minimum be 40 per cent.

It was in this period that President Hoover proposed a year's postponement on all payments on inter-government debts. Such action would enable Germany to postpone for one year reparations payments totaling approximately $400,000,000. It would allow debtor nations to hold up for one year payments to the United States totaling about $245,000,000.

The latter amount represented the payments due for the twelve months on the $11,000,000,000 loaned to America's allies during and just after the World war. The allied nations were granted a long period of years in which to make repayment. The moratorium offered by President Hoover was about the same as a banker telling a merchant that it would waive payments due on his note if he did not seek to collect a loan over due grocery bill from a citizen whose financial failure would injure the entire community.

Banks Finance Loans

While the allied nations were discussing President Hoover's proposal the situation became so critical in Germany that the bank for international settlements at Basel, Switzerland, was called upon for aid and arranged a loan of $100,000,000 to Germany. The money was raised by the bank of England, bank of France, the federal reserve bank participated to the extent of $25,000,000.

In arranging the loan the bank for international settlements fulfilled one of the phases of its operations for which it was organized under the Young plan for reparations payments.

Three Held After Police Find Large Load of Weapons

AMES, July 21 (AP)—State and city police officers tonight were questioning three men who were arrested after being found in an automobile heavily laden with firearms.

Two Iowa Men

The trio gave their names as Theodore Ebsen of Cicero, Ill., and his brother, Harry Ebsen of Duncombe, Ia., and Otto Shreck, restaurateur of Nevada, Ia.

Schreck said at first he was merely a passenger from Des Moines to Nevada in the Ebsen car. Later, police said, he admitted having served two penitentiary terms. He told police he was confined nine years in a South Dakota prison for assault with intent to kill, and two years in Leavenworth for transporting a stolen car from one state to another. Police said the Ebsens have police records.

Taken into Custody

The trio was taken into custody by Police Chief W. J. Cure, who said he found a high-powered rifle, a sawed-off shotgun, several automatic pistols, and a suitcase of ammunition, including dum-dum bullets.

Charges had not been filed.

Among the applications, 116 were from school districts, most of them comparatively small. Counties applying for exemption were Buchanan, whose appeal is pending, and Lyon which was granted exemption.

Included in the municipalities granted exemption were Ft. Madison, New Sharon and Pierson. School districts granted exemption included Lincoln, Bernard and Julien, Dubuque county; Adams No. 4, Keokuk county; Westfork No. 2, Lawton consolidated and Fair Play, Woodbury county.

MOOSE LAKE, Minn., July 21 (AP)—The condition of W. W. Curfman, superintendent of Lawrence, Kans., schools, hurt in an automobile crash near here Monday in which three others were fatally injured, remained critical tonight. Curfman, who suffered a fractured skull, has been unconscious since the accident.

The accident, which claimed the lives of Mrs. Curfman and her ten year old daughter, and W. F. Frazee, 40, vice president of the Iowa Manufacturers' Association of Cedar Rapids, Ia., also resulted in injuries to Mrs. Frazee and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Aldrich of Cedar Rapids, who were riding in the Frazee car, and an eight year old son of the Curfmans. The body of Mr. Frazee was taken to Cedar Rapids by airplane this afternoon for funeral service. Albert B. Fall Spends First Day in Prison

Officials Guard Against Injury to Health of Prisoner

SANTA FE, N. M., July 21 (AP)—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior now convict No. 6,991 in the New Mexico state penitentiary, was reported in good spirits tonight after his first day in prison. He was confined in the penitentiary hospital.

Dr. Eugene W. Fiske, prison physician, found physical ailments which had been reported by physicians, who have previously examined Fall. "At present he will be kept in the prison hospital, under observation," said Dr. Fiske. "We will watch in particular for any evidence of decomposition of the heart or other effects which might result from the 7,000 foot altitude. He will be kept by himself until such time as his habits of a lifetime can be modified."

Will Adjust Fall Gradually

Dr. Fiske explained that Fall will be gradually adjusted to prison routine, which is quite in contrast with his habit of late sleeping and reading half the night. "We cannot abruptly change his habits and put him in a general ward in his present condition. His case is no exception in the history of the New Mexico prison. He is not the first man who has been received in the prison hospital direct from an ambulance," Dr. Fiske said.

Warden Swope Taciturn

Warden Ed Swope would not say whether Fall had been put through the prison routine of fingerprinting, photographing and other details of "dressing in" prisoners. Fall was received at the prison last night to begin a sentence of a year and a day for his conviction of accepting a bribe of $100,000 while secretary of the interior for granting naval oil leases.

Fall's ailments were listed by Dr. Fiske as arterio-sclerosis, myocarditis, chronic pleurisy, arrested tuberculosis and arthritis, particularly of the spine.

Illinois Prison Guards Fear Blast Attempt

JOLIET, Ill., July 21 (AP)—The new state penitentiary at Stateville, scene of violent riots and a ruinous fire last spring, bristled with machine guns today as an extra strong force of guards and 60 highway policemen stood watch in anticipation of a reported plot to bomb the walls in a wholesale delivery.

The deadline for the expected bombing, 2 p.m., passed quietly and without noticeable tension on the part of the 700 convicts working in the prison yard or 1,400 others confined to cells. Ward Henry C. Hill, however, said the precautions would not be relaxed.

The prison "grapevine" brought news of the purported plan to authorities. It was not determined, however, whether convicts to whom explosives had been smuggled were to set them off from the inside of the penitentiary or whether confederates were going to blast it from the outside.

Workers Put Cap on Michigan Well After Sixty Hours

MT. PLEASANT, Mich., July 21 (AP)—A 60 hour battle to quell a burning gusher was at an end tonight with the fire extinguished and the well tightly capped.

The fire was extinguished with steam and water this morning, having burned since early Sunday morning.

The death toll in a gas fire which flared up Saturday night while several hundred persons were watching the newly brought-in gusher, stood unchanged tonight at eight and only five of the injured remained in the hospital.

Eastern Mine Districts See Labor Rioting

Senator Davis Gassed; Miner Wounded in Ambush

PITTSBURGH, July 21 (AP)—The mining districts of West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania were the scenes of strife today.

At Scranton, in the anthracite area of Pennsylvania, U. S. Senator James J. Davis was slightly gassed when state policemen and other officers hurled tear gas bombs to break up disorder at the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America. The senator was present to make an address.

Miners working in the strike-harassed bituminous coal fields were ambushed for the second time in two days and one man was wounded seriously.

Bullets Fly

A fusillade of bullets fell among a group of 50 miners at the McKinleyville mine of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Coal company near Wellsburg, W. Va. William Thompson was shot through the shoulder.

About two score shots were fired from a wooded hillside. Officers found no trace of the attackers. Members of the National Miners union have picketed the mine.

Snipers Reported

The first instance of sniping reported in the coal fields since the strikes began more than two months ago, occurred yesterday in southern West Virginia where two men were killed by bullets fired similarly from ambush. Five men are under arrest in connection with the shooting.

Ohio authorities were guarding a suspect in the killing of a youthful picket near Martins ferry last night, fearing a mob would wreak vengeance on the man.

The Pennsylvania coal fields were quiet, violence having subsided since a fight between followers of the National Miners union and the United Mine Workers of America at Canonsburg Sunday.

None of the strikes seemed near settlement. The United Mine Workers have obtained wage agreements and recognition with some operators, negotiating as individuals, but none of the operators has shown any disposition to deal with the N.M.U., which demands recognition of its union in addition to a higher wage scale.

Sonderleiter Freed From Beer Charges by Des Moines Jury

DES MOINES, Ia., July 21 (AP)—Kenneth Sonderleiter was freed today from charges of keeping intoxicating liquor, brought about by John B. Hammond. A jury in the court of Justice of the Peace J. H. Ward returned the verdict of not guilty after being out less than one half hour.

Hammond has indicated that he will carry his case to the Iowa supreme court contending, that near beer which Sonderleiter possessed, is illegal in that it contains some alcohol. A chemist, Noah Davis, testified that the near beer contains .3 of 1 per cent alcohol.

Hammond has lost two similar cases in near beer encounters recently, to the Atlas Beverage company and Charles Hewitt and Sons company.

500 Fighting Forest Fires

Three Areas Still Defy Control; Blacken Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 21 (AP)—Three fires which have caused wide-spread damage to forests still burned in Wyoming tonight. Two others were brought under control.

Forest officials estimated that more than 15,000 acres of timber had been burned the last two weeks.

Five hundred men were fighting the flames. Roger W. Toll, superintendent of Yellowstone National park, recruited every available park and forest ranger to stop flames which have been spreading in the Basin creek area. The fire had burned almost 10,000 acres.

A large crew was fighting a fire in the Teton National forest which has been burning two weeks. More than 6,000 acres of timber has been destroyed.

In the Pinedale-Lander-DuBois area three fires occurred but one, in the Sweetwater basin, was out tonight and another near New York lake was under control. The other fire, near DuBois on Jockey's fork, was completely out of control and 175 men were battling it.

Envoys From Seven Nations Expect Climax in Economic Conference at London Today

A GLANCE AT International Debts

By The Associated Press
The plenary session of the seven-power conference at London today is expected to receive a report from its committee of finance ministers which held a long session yesterday discussing plans for financial aid to Germany, but did not make public the results of its parleys.

In London Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany were described as being unaware of a new proposal of President Hoover which was made public at Washington yesterday by Acting Secretary of State Castle. The French finance minister also denied official knowledge of the Hoover proposal.

Acting Secretary Castle said that the proposal had been telephoned to Secretaries Stimson and Mellon on Friday and that the two secretaries spoke to the French and German officials about it Saturday.

Prominent Wall street bankers yesterday were said to be generally inclined to endorse the Hoover proposals.

The proposal was expected to be presented to the plenary session today.

Dry Officers Lead War at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, July 21 (AP)—Federal authorities here today declared war on liquor resorts of Kansas City's north side where last night a reputed gangster was slain during a raid and four men including two federal agents were wounded.

Charges of conspiracy to violate the liquor laws were filed against nine men arrested in the raid. A tenth man is sought.

Police believe the raided establishment, the Lusco-Noto "Flower shop" was the place where the murders of Jimmy Howard, reputed booze peddler, Louis Olivero, a deputy sheriff and Jack Dalton, former deputy sheriff, were plotted.

Officers said today John Callo began his gun fight with the raiders after the raid virtually was at an end and some of the men had departed. Callo was slain by Lieut. E. L. Nelson.

The agents seized 14 gallons of liquor and some firearms and ammunition.

Commission Gives Low Bids on Work in 5 More Counties

AMES, July 21 (AP)—Low bids totaling $151,564.50 for bridges and culverts on primary highways in Adams, Jackson, Louisa, Page and Fremont counties were announced late today at the state highway commission office.

No paving projects were included. Prices were taken on bituminous surfacing in Boone, Hardin, Franklin, Marshall and O'Brien counties but figures were not announced.

Largest bridge culvert contract probably will go to Ben Cole and Son of Ames whose price of $60,174.50 was low for construction of four bridges, 48 culverts and extensions of primary 148 between Corning and the north county line in Adams county.

Acceptance of an invitation was received from the governor today by C. W. Motter, chairman of the national publicity committee of the Legion and an officer of the Nebraska department.

Governor Woodring, Motter said, will speak at a joint session of the Legion and the women's auxiliary. During the afternoon he will review the annual convention parade.

Finance Ministers Meet Alone; No Solution Disclosed

LONDON, July 21 (AP)—The seven-power conference faced a delicate situation tonight as the eyes of the participants were turned upon tomorrow's sessions at which developments were expected of the greatest importance in the process of the attempt to save Germany from financial and economic collapse.

Prolonged Session
The outstanding work of today was a prolonged session of the finance ministers of the various nations who met for several hours, but did not report the result of their deliberations.

The committee of ministers had been given the task of devising a plan for solving Germany's problem. During the evening it was unofficially reported that the financiers had reached a decision, but no confirmation was obtainable. An official communiqué was issued in which it was said that the results would be communicated to the plenary session of the powers tomorrow.

Proposals From Washington
Press reports cabled from Washington of new proposal made by President Hoover were eagerly read by delegates of various nations. Both the French and German delegates said, however, that they had not been officially apprised of the proposals.

In all conference circles it was insisted that a new American plan had not been submitted, but it was assumed that one would be submitted tomorrow.

Acting Secretary Explains Proposal

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—A hopeful attitude that the London conference of ministers would conclude successfully within a few days its work for economic relief to Germany was expressed tonight by a high administration authority.

Acting Secretary Castle of the state department made public today the American proposal to provide financial relief to the Reich. The plan was first talked over with Secretaries Stimson and Mellon by transatlantic telephone last Friday, Mr. Castle said.

Confer With Germans, French
The two secretaries spoke to the French and German officials about it Saturday, he said, adding that Mr. Stimson had discussed it in the ministers' meeting early today in London. The acting secretary said he did not know if the secretary had read to the delegates exactly what was made public by the Washington government but that he had put forward the idea.

American Proposal
In simple language, the American proposal was: That world bankers should maintain the present volume of $1,200,000,000 in credits to Germany.

That the German government should strictly enforce complete control of foreign exchange to prevent preferential or arbitrary withdrawals.

That a committee selected by the bank for international settlements or another authority consult with bankers for renewal of outstanding credits, inquire into Germany's immediate needs for further credit and plan the conversion of short term credits into long term credits during the next six or eight months.

America's share in the credit volume is $600,000,000. France's share is about $60,000,000.

In an informal explanation, Castle emphasized the proposals were not in the nature of a moratorium. He pointed to three elements considered by the United States to make the present a favorable time for such a plan.

Germany received immediate assistance in her crisis, he said, through President Hoover's debt moratorium plan, bringing relief to the extent of about $400,000,000.

German trade balances are favorable and increasing, Castle added, the "flight of the mark" has been stemmed and the internal banking situation regularized by domestic decrees.

The next step, he continued, is to stabilize and assure continuance of the volume of short term credits now held by foreign bankers and institutions.

Immediately following the marriage ceremony, the bride's parents were hosts at a wedding breakfast at their home. Decorations were in pink and white.

Mrs. Riley graduated from Iowa City high school in 1925, and has been connected with the Hawkeye Pennant company.

Mr. Riley graduated from Iowa City high school in 1925 and from Hohenschuh Carpenter college of embalming at St. Louis, Mo. He is connected with McGovern's funeral home in Iowa City.

THREE LOAVES FOR A BUSHEL

Ray Shanahan (left), wheat farmer of Saline county, Kansas, effects a trade with Sam Myers, Salina merchant—a bushel of wheat for three loaves of bread. The transaction was made when the price of wheat touched 25 cents a bushel. Shanahan and Myers estimated the bushel of wheat would make about 56 loaves of bread, which is about the amount of bread Shanahan would get for an acre of wheat on the trading basis of three loaves for a bushel.

Pennsylvania Faculty Man Urges Quick Decision on Railway Increase Petition

(America's railroads are now appearing before the interstate commerce commission requesting a 15 per cent increase in freight rates to preserve the investment value of their bonds, held directly or indirectly by millions of citizens. Dr. Edward S. Mead, professor of finance at the University of Pennsylvania, discusses their request in this interview with J. R. Brackett, Associated Press business writer.

PHILADELPHIA, July 20 (AP)—Dr. Edward S. Mead of the University of Pennsylvania believes the interstate commerce commission should reach a decision quickly, pro or con, on the railroads' request for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

"Unless the commission gives its decision earlier than the time usually taken for hearings and consideration," said Dr. Mead, who has made a study of the rail problem, "1931 will be gone.

Bonds Threatened
"And most proponents of the increase contend nearly $7,000,000,000 of high grade rail bonds will be illegal for New York savings bank and trustee investment because railroads earnings have fallen below the legal requirements.

"While other states have less stringent bank requirements, and though life insurance companies work under more lenient rules, their investing policy, they admit, is greatly influenced by New York's policy. It is influenced so much that if the bonds should become illegal by cause of too slight earnings, the result would be in the words of the security holders committee, 'a collapse of prices comparable to the most panic days.'

Must Hear All Parties
"The commission can hardly work faster, since it must give audience to all parties and make a thorough study of an exceedingly involved problem.

"Even so, the situation may not be so bad. The New York legislature can act in February to alter the law and make 1931 a breathing spell. Then, if in 1932 the 15 per cent increase, assuming it is granted, produced enough revenue, or if there should be a good upturn in business, the bonds would not be disturbed.

"Applied to the earnings of 1931, however, the rate increase, even if fully productive of expected revenue, would fall short of restoring the credit of those roads whose credit is endangered.

Not Real Earnings
"For the earnings of 1931 are not real earnings, because the railroads admittedly did not account for deferred maintenance costs in their published earnings. They admit their 1931 earnings are overstated.

"This deficiency must carry over to 1931, and it must be made up. For it is a physical deficiency—in ties, rail, cars and locomotives.

"If this deferred maintenance and the regular 1932 maintenance, are, as they must be, to keep up efficiency, deducted from the $400,000,000 estimated gain from the rate increase, some of the largest railroads could not make the required earnings even in 1932.

"Evidently some more effective relief must be given, if the calamities which insurance companies and savings bank envisage are to be averted."

Georgia Coleman certainly makes a regal queen, what! You see, she has just retained her grip on the national diving championship by defeating all comers at the competition staged at Bronx Beach, N. Arms Reduced to Lowest Point, Says French Note

PARIS, July 21 (AP)—French armaments have been reduced to the lowest possible point, the government declared in a memorandum on disarmament issued today in answer to the request of the League of Nations council for information preliminary to the 1932 world disarmament conference at Geneva.

"Disarmament Political"
In the memorandum, France takes the position that disarmament is a political, rather than a technical, question. The country, it said, has reached the low limit in disarming the present state of Europe and the world and it resists any suggestion that disarmament can be based either on population alone or in relation to the strictly limited armament imposed upon the central powers at the end of the World War.

The declaration was considered here to indicate clearly that France would find it necessary to make increases in case any action were taken relieving Germany of the treaty limitations.

To assure the security which France continues to insist is the only basis for disarmament, the government considers that it is necessary first to develop a system of mutual guarantees, such as the Rhine guarantees signed in connection with the Locarno pact.

The memorandum adds that France has reduced her forces to the present level only because she obtained the Locarno guarantees.

"No Unilateral Guarantees"
She asks no "unilateral guarantees," a large part of the memorandum is given over to explaining her reductions showing important cuts in land forces since the war.

The increase in naval forces were declared to be commensurate with needs for home and overseas defense, and the slight increase in air forces was said to be due to the increased military importance of this arm.

Regret is expressed that France did not sign the London naval treaty but the government hoped that the disarmament conference will lead to a "complete solution of the problem."

Livestock Men Will Discuss Cooperative Marketing Aug. 4

STORM LAKE, July 21 (AP)—Representatives of 19 northwestern Iowa counties will be invited here Aug. 4 to discuss organization and establishment of a cooperative livestock marketing unit, officers of the Iowa Livestock Marketing corporation announced here today.

The officers indicated that the August meeting probably will result in a request to the farm board that a survey be made of the territory to determine where concentration points should be located. The counties to be included are Buena Vista, Calhoun, Sac, Palo Alto, Keosau, Webster, Humboldt, Emmet, Clay, Ida, Cherokee, Pocahontas, Dickinson, O'Brien, Osceola, Lyon, Sioux, Plymouth and Woodbury.

At the meeting today were R. F. Cole, manager of the state marketing organization; A. V. Brady of Sanborn and J. H. Horlacher of Storm Lake, directors; and County Agent G. L. Gunnerson of Buena Vista county.

Oklahoma Relieves Henryetta Jobless; Red Cross Assists

HENRYETTA, Okla., July 21 (AP)—Aid for Henryetta's jobless and hungry was arranged today by the Red Cross and municipal and state officials.

Henry M. Baker, national Red Cross representative who arrived from St. Louis, announced a trained Red Cross worker would come here to handle the situation in this coal mining district.

Only those unable to work and needy women and children would be given food, Baker said.

Mayor Morgan said conditions had been exaggerated and that only about 500 men rather than 8,000 more as previous estimates had it needed work.

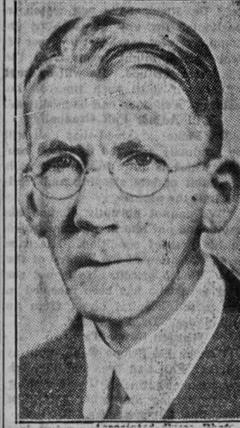

Seek Girl's Body in Irrigation Canal

SCOTTSDALE, Neb., July 21 (AP)—The water level in the Pathfinder irrigation ditch is being lowered from 11 feet to five feet to further the search for the body of Eva Lou Galoway, 6, Lingle, Wyo., drowned in the ditch Saturday night, it was revealed here tonight.

Decision to lower the water was a compromise between the Galloway girl's family and the farmers whose lands are irrigated by the ditch. C. L. Cross, director of the Pathfinder dam, tonight estimated lowering the water to help the search may cost $100,000 in the effect on irrigated crops.

Alfalfa Bill May Use Quilting Bee to Settle Trouble

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 21 (AP)—Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray has a new plan for untangling the Red river problem—through placing the matter in the hands of women.

A quilting bee on the banks of the river with women from Oklahoma and Texas converging at the new free bridge between Denison and Durant, and "removing anything in the way that prevents their getting together," would be an excellent solution of the controversy, Gov. Murray said.

"You know, the national guard wouldn't shoot a woman if she came along and took a few barbed wires out of the way—neither would a Texas ranger."

He smiled.

"I think that a group of women in Denison and Durant are going to open the free bridge," Murray gravely announced.

Texas rangers have been guarding a barrier at the south end of the Durant-Denison free bridge since

U. S. Indicts Five in "Wizard" Financial Case of Huckins

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 21 (AP)—Five persons in the Elmer Huckins financial "wizard" case were indicted by the federal grand jury here July 22. It was revealed today with the arrest of John Niles, former postal inspector, one of those indicted.

Niles posted $3,000 bond with the clerk of federal court.

He is charged on 14 counts with conspiracy to use the mails to defraud. Niles, related to the Huckins family by marriage, was a postal inspector for nearly 15 years, attached to the Chicago office and working in Wisconsin and Michigan.

52 Per Cent Returns
The others indicted were Elmer Huckins, who was charged as the leader of a family that had obtained "investments" on the promise of 52 per cent returns; his wife, Amelia; their son, George Earl Huckins; and a sister of Mrs. Elmer Huckins. Huckins and his son claimed their only business was a Cedar Rapids, Ia., cigar store.

U. S. Commissioner Harry L. Kellogg, Milwaukee, freed the indictment "wizard" of similar federal charges, in 1929, but Elmer and his son were tried in Iowa for obtaining money under false pretenses, convicted, and appealed. Elmer's appeal is pending and George won a new trial. It is possible the federal charges may be tried before the new state trial is reached.

No Cigar Business, Says U. S.
The government will contend, said E. J. Koester, assistant U. S. district attorney, that the Huckins family never was in the cigar business.

Niles, who resigned from the postal service when the Huckins case first came to public attention, has been living at the Huckins estate at Hancock, Wis., where his son acts as caretaker. U. S. marshal's deputies sought to serve the warrant on him there but he volunteered to come to Milwaukee for service.

The marshal's office said service of the warrants could not be obtained in the eastern Wisconsin district. It was thought that the Huckins family was living in Chicago.

Excursionists Plan Visit to U. S. Arsenal

Extension Week End Conduct Week End Journey

When summer session excursionists leave the south entrance of the liberal arts building next Saturday at 7 a. m., bound for Rock Island and Davenport, they will be on their way to visit the largest arsenal in the world, an interesting museum, and a region rich in historical interest, says Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division arranging for the trip.

Acquired by Treaty
"Rock Island was acquired by the United States government through a treaty made by William Henry Harrison and five chiefs of Sauk and Fox Indians at St. Louis in 1804," continues Mr. Mahan. "Fort Armstrong was erected in 1816 as one of the posts on the Mississippi frontier, and George Davenport, for whom the city of Davenport was named, arrived with federal troops and became the post sutler, later establishing the Davenport home-stead, which is among the interesting spots visited in the tour."

Will Visit Cemetery
The Confederate cemetery, where he buried nearly 2,000 Southern troops who died while being kept in the prison camp established on the island during the Civil war is another place visited, when excursionists will drive on a 10 mile trip around the island. The government shops, which during the World war employed 16,000 men in the manufacturing and assembling of tanks, tractors, gun-carriages, and field pieces, are also visited, together with the warehouses where the government reserve of war supplies is kept.

Those making the trip this Saturday who have cars, as well as those who want transportation, are required to register by 5 p. m., Friday, either at the main office of the extension division or at the office of the college of education in East hall.

Showing of Visual Education Material to End This Week

This is the final week for the visual education exhibit being shown in room C-5, east hall, under the supervision of Lee W. Cochran of the visual education department of the extension division.

Motion pictures, both silent and "talkies," various types of projectors, films, slides, and other aids to visual education in the classroom are demonstrated daily except Saturday and Sunday, at 4 p. m. "The exhibit is not, as many people seem to think, an advertising or selling campaign put on by commercial film supply companies," says Mr. Cochran, "but rather an educational project of the extension division, designed to serve as a guide for schools planning to purchase visual education equipment."

For those who cannot attend at the specified time of display, Mr. Cochran will arrange special showings.

University Student Injured at Bathing Beach in California

With both arms and his right leg paralyzed as the result of injuries received while bathing yesterday at Buha Beach, Cal., Arthur H. Wentworth of Newton, a student of the University of Iowa, was in a serious condition at a hospital in Santa Ana, Cal., according to reports received here yesterday.

Knocked down by a heavy breaker, Wentworth received a fractured vertebra, said the reports. Wentworth, the son of the Rev. Charles Wentworth, Methodist pastor in Newton, was a sophomore in the liberal arts college last year. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Engineering Rooms Made by Rebuilding Top Floor Quarters

New quarters for the engineering department are being created through the rebuilding of the third floor of the electrical engineering building. They will be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the fall term, according to a statement made by Prof. Frederic G. Hibben, head of the engineering drawing department.

The remodeled arrangement will include three drafting rooms, two class rooms, a suite of offices for the staff, and space for the university drafting bureau. In addition to providing enlarged and increased facilities for the department, the change releases space in the engineering building heretofore occupied by the engineering drawing department, so that it will be available for the use of other departments.

Munich Professor Concludes Series of Physics Talks

Prof. Arnold Sommerfeld, visiting physicist from the University of Munich who has been lecturing here during the last two days, concluded a series yesterday afternoon with a discussion of the Ramsauer effect, an effect created by the deflection of electrons by single atoms. The introduction of wave mechanics concepts has removed much of the difficulty in interpreting the phenomena encountered when electrons pass through gases, said Professor Sommerfeld. As the concluding part of his lecture, the physicist compared the existing theory of Ramsauer effects with available experimental data.

Heiress Threatened

Mrs. David Pebstone Scobie, the former Florence Yates, wealthy heiress of Beloit, Wis., is on her honeymoon in the east while Chicago police are seeking details of the $15,000 extortion plot against the bride. Miss Yates and Mr. Scobie, who is a young Chicago broker, were married at Beloit Wednesday, but it was not until Thursday that police learned of threatening letters received by Miss Yates' elderly chaperon, Miss C. Haskins. The letters demanded $15,000. Miss Yates, the daughter of the late Porter B. Yates, inherited $20,000,000 from her father's estate.

Housewives Notice! Three Tons of Washing Just Part of Day's Work for University's Laundry

The university is practically a city in itself with all its facilities for looking after its needs independently. One such is the laundry, a three story red brick building, 20 N. Gilbert street, which handles three and a half tons of clothing daily. The laundry is under the directions of the grounds and buildings department. The main purpose of the institution is to adequately and efficiently serve the hospitals and dormitories on the campus, which must be kept supplied with clean linen constantly. The work is done by 44 white clad men and women under the supervision of Mrs. F. G. Bradley, forelady. Trucks Carry Laundry Trucks bring the soiled clothing from the university hospitals and dormitories to the clothes chute opening out into the alley that runs at right angles to Gilbert street. They are shot down the slide into a good sized basement room, trundled in canvas hampers to the weighing machine, and placed into the washers, of which there are six. These washers are rotating cylinders which swish the clothes through water into which hot steam has been piped. Then four extractors whirl the clothes 80 percent dry in 12 minutes by centrifugal force. These machines are capable of holding 60 pounds of washing. Soap used in the washing process comes flaked and is made into a solution before being introduced into the washer. The starch is prepared in a steam cooker which resembles a small heating stove. After the clothes have been dried, flat pieces are taken on the elevator to the first floor, and those which require hand ironing to the second. Those not needing ironing are placed in a rotating cylinder appropriately called the tumbler, which finishes the drying process. Iron by Machinery Other flat pieces are hung on poles and fed into an automatic ironer resembling a mangle. They go through these presses twice, coming out crisp and white, two hours after being put into the washers. On the top floor women with hand irons and with trouser presses finish up uniforms and other pieces requiring extra care. All steam, electricity, and water used in the process are supplied by the university. Finally the clothing is sorted, checked, and stored in individual boxes, of which there are about 400, and piled into the trucks and distributed. The building also includes on the first floor a lounge room with cooking conveniences for employees.

The Plight of Rural Schooling

RURAL education has fallen upon shameful circumstances throughout the United States was the consensus of the National Education association when it discussed the subject at its Los Angeles meeting early in July.

Of the states most sorely needing revision of rural educational systems Iowa looms large. In fact, I. H. Hart, chairman of the educational council of the Iowa State Teachers association, declared recently that "A careful survey shows that all but two states in the country have higher legal standards for the certification of teachers of their children than does Iowa."

Said former President Willis Anderson Sutton, superintendent of schools in Atlanta, Ga., at the Los Angeles convention: "... City children have every advantage, but the son of the farmer goes to school in a shack, has a teacher who may not even have been to high school. ... The state must actually favor the country child or take over the whole responsibility for education."

Supplemented William John Cooper, federal commissioner of education: "Country school finance is based upon an obsolete system: the property tax. Teaching is poor, the curriculum antiquated."

Quoth Governor George Henry Dern of Utah: "... ambitions will refuse to stay in the country. Only the stupid will be left. We shall then have accomplished the calamitous job of making the American farmer a peasant."

Mr. Hart, who believes the country boy and girl are not getting a square deal in education, doubtless basing part of his assumption on facts similar to those presented at the N.E.A. meeting, is one of the backers of a bill which failed to gain legislative attention at the last general assembly.

The new certificate bill proposed by the Teachers association requires material increase in college training with a period of adjustment of five years to be allowed in order that teachers may meet the proposed standards.

It is none too soon for legislators and the electorate to begin studying rural education in order that a suitable bill may be drafted at the next general assembly.

Pygmies on Lake Michigan: MR. AND MRS. Herbert E. Bradley, prominent Chicagoans, are enthusiastic over plans to bring a tribe of pygmy people from the African jungles for exhibition at the World's fair in 1933.

Certainly scientific investigation into the habits and customs of primitive peoples has its legitimate place in the field of education. It is even conceivable that the proposed exhibition might add something to the sum total of ethnological information, or at least to its possession by the American public.

It is too bad some inventor does not devise a means to bottle political gas so it could be made of some real use to the world.

The Prohibition Harvest

PETTY, professional knockers all over the country were doubtless silenced, at least temporarily, yesterday morning when the federal government reported indictments against 53 prohibition violators.

The half million dollars spent in obtaining the indictments is none too much as long as enforcement officials are working against the industrial alcohol plants that are the big source of the country's supply.

Coming on the heels of Al Capone's conviction and the indictment of a midwestern alcohol syndicate, the latest achievement of federal enforcement is even more striking. Even though the present method of liquor control should not prove to be the best, present indications are that the harvest time has arrived for more than a decade of painstaking preparation and blind experimentation.

Cleashaven?—Slacker!

IF YOU happen to live in Centralia, Wash., and happen, by any chance, to have a slight or light-colored beard, your fate will be in the hands of the police judge.

Officials recently began rounding up "slackers" who had shaved their whiskers, a violation of a city ordinance passed some time ago. All males must divorce themselves from their relationships with razors until after the annual southwest Washington pioneers' picnic, August 11 and 12.

A stock has been erected in the business district where "slackers" are to become the butt of the public's ridicule if the police court finds them guilty.

Centralia, Wash., abusing its municipal authority no less flagrantly because it happens to be humorous. There are several venerable documents in United States history that mention personal rights and liberties, but what of the Centralia man who doesn't like whiskers? If the town's exposition is to denote progress of civilization, the leading exhibit should be introduction of the stocks as a form of city punishment.

PITTSBURGH—Except for intermittent encounters between taxi strikers and "scabs," exposes of the mayor and voting machines, killings in the mine strike areas, bombings, communist uprisings, and tax reduction campaigns, the "Smoky City" is devoid of interest. To make matters worse, it isn't even smoky.

Seventy-five per cent of the bombings in and around the town were attributed recently by the bomb and arson squad director to Mafia who were driven out of Italy by Premier Mussolini. They form a nation-wide organization, demand and get $1,000 a shot for their work, and aim at frightening, not killing, their victims.

An investigation into the mayor's activities netted a report Monday that his new automobile, paid for by the taxpayers of Pittsburgh, consumed $704 worth of gasoline in the last 10 months, also paid by taxpayers money. However, nobody seems to want to do anything about it.

Nobody around here seems to know exactly where Iowa is. Oh, yes, they've heard of it. One or two among the better informed have recollections of something about the Big Ten in connection with Iowa. Don't know just what it was. And corn? Certainly, that's all you have there isn't it?

But interesting things are happening. Down in Wilmington, Del., (we're going through there tomorrow) a man was sentenced to 10 lashes on the back and six years in jail for stealing chickens. That's a heavy sentence for hen stealing but Delaware's system of lashing usually ends a common thief's criminal career pretty suddenly.

A woman in Milwaukee found $1,000 in currency sewn in the mattress upon which she was spending a restless night. After cutting through the bulge in the bed she was amply rewarded for her trouble. The story ends there, but if many persons with $1,000 hid it away in mattresses, jars, socks, or holes in the wall this depression would be a lot worse. Over in Germany a special commission travels around confiscating such loose money.

For the third time in three years the First National bank of Madison, Ill., was robbed for a total of about $30,000. The old saw about locking the stable after the horse is stolen might be worn out from usage but it would have saved the bank officials some worry. But it isn't too late to learn. Easy money doesn't last long and there's another year coming.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce is planning to put one over on the government unless the latter can refrain from following its ordinary procedure without getting into trouble. It all started when Miss Joyce brought jewelry valued at $10,000 into the country without declaring it. When told she might have to pay as much as $50,000 in fines Miss Joyce said the U. S. could keep her diamonds if prosecution were dropped. Now the customs officers must sell the baubles at auction and Peggy hopes to get them back for a $2,500 bid. And there isn't anything anybody can do about it. She's on both sides of the law at the same time.

Newspapermen again violated President Hoover's recent edict against personal stories about him when they heard he played a "good samaritan" role the other day. While driving to his Rapidan camp he passed an overturned car. Stopping immediately, he sent his personal physician back to give first aid treatment to an injured occupant. Anyone else would have done the same without the publicity, but Hoover—my, that's new!

SOLUTION TO YESTERDAY'S QUESTION

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON—A friend, Kansas born but long absent from his native state, got back to Washington on a brief trip home just about the time Vice President Curtis and Senator Capper were making their fruitless effort to induce the farm board to change policy on its wheat disposal plans.

"What did you hear about politics in Kansas?" the Bystander CHARLES CURTIS asked.

"Politics?" the Kansan answered. "You mean wheat, don't you? That is all they are talking about out there. They are all stirred up. You'd think they contemplated a march on Washington if the farm board doesn't do what they want."

Strategy: Which no doubt accounts for Curtis' action in jumping the board while on his look-see political tour of the state he so long represented in the senate.

Any man who is going to figure importantly in Kansas doings at the polls next year will have to have a clear record on this government-owned wheat surplus question, if the Bystander's friend is a good observer.

And Mr. Curtis admits his mind still is open as to what office he will run for next year, vice president or senator. He reiterated that he would not decide until December.

If you stop to think of it, Mr. Curtis is in a curious position. It will take all his accumulated political experience and acknowledged sagacity as to the way the wheels go 'round in Kansas to steer his course between now and convention time.

The wheat situation, with the board claiming White House support for its policy following the review suggested to the board by President Hoover, may be the liveliest domestic issue in Kansas.

Everybody seems satisfied Mr. Curtis can go back into the senate if he so desires, yet in preparation to do so he might be driven to an open breach with the administration on wheat policy.

Taken the other way around, the Hoover International debt holiday could conceivably so turn out as virtually to insure the re-election of Mr. Hoover and his vice presidential running mate, whoever that may be, in 1932.

Even the most optimistic demagogue would not deny that a pronounced upward trend from the economic depression between now and election time would have a profound influence on election results.

Wise Procrastination: Assuming that upward trend and virtual certainty of re-election as vice president if renominated, Mr. Curtis needs political adroitness to retain the options he now seems to have on both that job and the senate race without the one conflicting with the other.

It needs no political soothsayer to understand why he wants to postpone a decision as long as possible.

EXPLANATION OF YES—TERDAY'S CARTOON

"California" Taylor's beard: William Taylor, an American Methodist bishop, (1821-1902) who was later elected bishop of Africa, is described as the greatest missionary of modern times. He carried the cross to every part of the inhabited globe. Both physically and spiritually he was a giant among his associates. His cognomen of "California" refers to his missionary activities in that state. There was a note of religious humility in his personal attire, and he was wont to refer to his luxurious beard as his substitute for a shirt.

Tomorrow: "The man who wore nothing but a leather suit for 30 years."

Faculty Member's Father Dies in East

News of the death of the father of Earle L. Waterman, professor of sanitary engineering at the university, was received last night by Dean C. C. Williams of the college of engineering.

Mr. Waterman, who has been living in Barre, Vt., died there last Saturday. His son has been acting state sanitary engineer of the state of Vermont during the summer, and is stationed at Burlington, Vt.

His own generation during the last fifteen years. It is a history book, but very different from the American history taught in modern high schools. It is a fascinating story about people we have known and about events which happened only a few years ago.

"The Great Crusade," the twelfth of a series of stories about the history of American life, covers every subject and phase of American life from baseball to crime, from education to Ford cars.

After reading it, one marvels again at the problems, the trials that one nation has had to face. Perhaps we have taken many false steps in our efforts to act as we think right; maybe we have been proud in our attitude toward our neighboring nations and proud and overbearing of our achievements. But in spite of our hesitating progress, we can not help being proud of our heritage of courage to go on in the face of opposition from other nations as well as from people within our own boundaries.

The editors, in their forward, have said of the book, "The entire population being mustered into service, war became social history; the armies at the front were but the cutting edge of a weapon welded by a nation. It was a great crusade in which those who worked at home played a part as well as those who were sent. While tracing the sad results in many quarters of the moral slump which followed the end of the war, Professor Slosson also points out the artificial and illusory nature of economic prosperity under war conditions.

Nothing all these shadows, (after-war depression, scandal, the multiplicity of new laws, lawlessness and violent crime) the author still sees a picture brightened by the idealism of equal suffrage, higher education, the wiping out of the saloon, the rising level of life for Negroes, and the services of science and invention to the common life."

Book Reviews

"Sun-Up," by Will James. Scribner's $2.50. Reviewed by Clyde Moffitt.

Will James takes the position that the romantic west of youthful dreams still holds one-third of the United States. In support of his position he offers "Sun-Up," a collection of pictures, both verbal and charcoal, of a modern "wild" west. The book is filled with instances and incidents taken from the rich background of the cowboy artist. Not all the stories are new. Except that they have the old west for a background the chapters are largely unrelated. Nevertheless this volume is a worthy Will James production.

According to the author, the cowboy, whom many writers would have us believe is practically extinct except for rodeos and movies, is very much alive and active today. He still rises before the sun to saddle a half wild horse that must buck to lumber up every morning. And the little buck is only the start of a big day. Out there herds numbering to 40,000 head still roam unfenced ranges.

Even in this mechanized age cattle are handled from horseback. The horse is only a trifle less essential than the rider. So the making of a topnotch horse from a range bred colt occupies its share of "Sun-Up."

of these horses fighting for their freedom in the many pictures he has drawn. When the horse is first saddled "it's a limberback cross between greased lightning and where it hits." The technic built up through generations of fighting the wolf and cougar puts the colt to bucking, striking and kicking at the first man to lay a hand on him. The bronc twister takes off the rough edges and the cowboy completes the education. Some never learn. They go into the rough string, and if they're bad enough, into the rodeo string.

The rodeo from the viewpoint of the cowboy performer is presented in "Sun-Up." We even get a glimpse of the real cowboy taking a vacation by doing some riding for the movies.

Committee on Hospital Site End Hearing

Local Men Represent Iowa City Proposal at Des Moines

E. A. Chappell and Henry G. Walker represented Iowa City at the hearing in Des Moines yesterday on the location of the $1,250,000 veterans' hospital to be located in Iowa.

The sub-committee on hearings from Washington, D. C., were in Iowa City Sunday inspecting the proposed site here. The committee, Rear Admiral Charles E. Riggs, Gen. Frank T. Hines, Gen. George H. Wood, and Col. John J. Phelan, brought forth plans as to the construction of the veterans' hospital in Iowa.

The hospital is a part of a general hospitalization plan voted by the last session of congress for the World War veterans. The Iowa unit will have a capacity of 300 beds, and if built in Iowa City would necessitate the transfer of the regional offices in Des Moines with its 137 employees to Iowa City.

DES MOINES, July 21 (AP)—Visits Wednesday to five additional sites proposed for the new Iowa veterans' hospital will end for Gen. Frank T. Hines a survey and hearing concerning the location of the million dollar structure.

General Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, concluded a hearing late Tuesday afternoon, after which he announced that he and Dr. Frank L. Williams, regional director located here, would leave at 5:30 a.m. tomorrow to view proposed locations in Newton, Oskaloosa, Ottumwa, Albia and Ft. Dodge.

Visit Ft. Dodge

The two will return to Des Moines at noon, then go to Ft. Dodge, returning here in the evening. General Hines will leave for the west coast subsequently. Also on the morning's program is an inspection visit to the hospital in Knoxville.

Other board members, Rear Admiral Charles E. Riggs, General George H. Wood, and Colonel John J. Phelan announced their intention of leaving directly for Washington tonight. After another conference there, the decision of the board is expected to be made the first part of August.

"The committee feels it worthwhile to visit personally the sites at Newton, Oskaloosa, Ottumwa, Albia, Knoxville, Ft. Dodge, and Des Moines," Dr. Williams said. "They will probably not visit any other sites."

Forty-five Seek Site

Forty-five Iowa cities sent representatives to appear before the board today to tell how their communities fulfill the requirements the committee has announced would be demanded in the site finally chosen.

From 9 a.m. until after 4 p.m., the board heard statements of the delegates, looked at maps, photographs and charts, and listened to reasons why one city should be chosen in preference to another.

One question General Hines asked of nearly every delegation concerned the population of the towns and the number of veterans living therein.

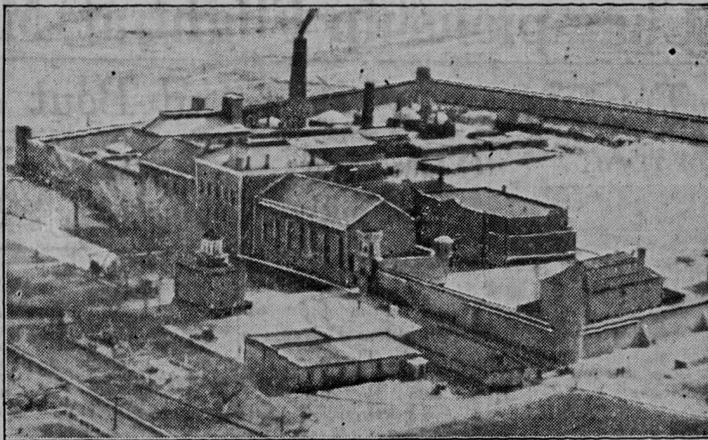

Among the cities sending delegations were Indianola, Burlington, Adel, Rockwell City, Altoona, Maxwell, Toledo, Cambridge, Stratford, Dayton, Nevada, Marshalltown, Giddens, Webster City, Jefferson, and Carroll, all of whom were heard in the afternoon, in addition to about 25 whose claims were heard in the morning. In all, about 65 localities submitted bids for the hospital.

Veterans' Representative Present

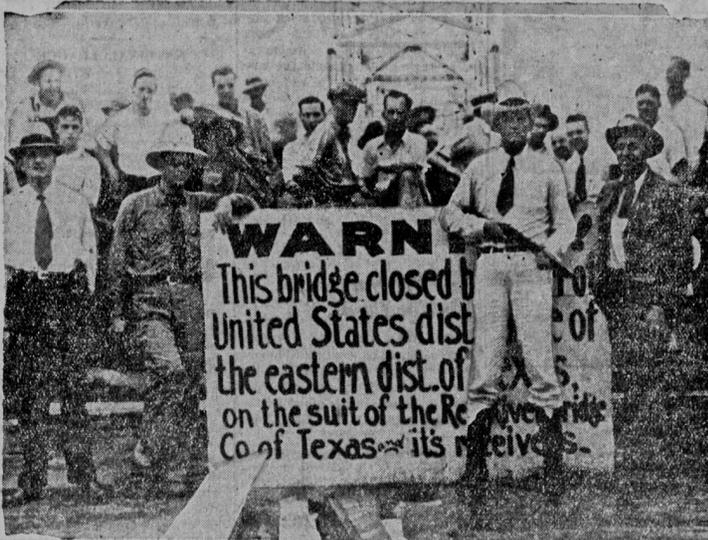

LeRoy C. Fisher, representing the disabled American veterans, appeared for no city but for certain specifications, including central location, ample hotel accommodations, and proximity to amusements and commission houses.

After listening to the reports,

Governor Murray of Oklahoma has ordered the bridge opened, but a federal judge granted an injunction sought by the receivers of a company operating toll bridges over the river, and Texas officials are determined the free bridge shall not be used.

General Hines said: "I believe Iowa is a fine state, filled with excellent cities with excellent facilities. I have learned today what a fine state you have."

Ryerson Bridge to Open First of Week

The Ryerson bridge will probably be opened to traffic the first of next week, says W. C. Mott, contractor in charge of the repairing of the bridge. Mr. Mott plans on finishing work Saturday, after which the city must finish replacing the treads before it will be opened to the public.

It was necessary to replace 23 of the plings and put new caps on all, straighten the hand rails, put in new joists and replace the planking. The cost of the repairs amounted to about $1,600.

Last Man's Club in Forty-Fifth Meeting; One Replies to Roll

STILLWATER, Minn., July 21 (AP)—Roll call of the last man's club of company B, first Minnesota volunteers, Grand Army of the Republic, had but one answer here tonight.

Though the life of the club was officially ended one year ago when Charles M. Lockwood of Chamberlain, S. D., the last man, opened the bottle of Burgundy wine and drank the last toast to his 33 dead comrades, the roll call ceremony and toast was solemnly repeated here on the forty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the club and the seventieth anniversary of the battle of Bull Run.

In the presence of other Civil War veterans and members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Captain Lockwood stood stiffly at attention, facing 33 black-draped chairs. He heard proposed a silent toast to his comrades of the past. He heard the answering names on the roll call. He heard a bugle blow "taps."

With no sentimentality and few signs of his 89 years of age, he said simply the occasion made him sad, but that it was one he could not miss if alive.

90 Per Cent of Local Juvenile Cases Composed of Children of Native White Parentage

By BOB BROWNELL

Children living with both parents of native birth composed more than 90 per cent of the juvenile court cases in Iowa City last year. Data compiled by Murna Moore, secretary of the court, shows that 90 boys and 41 girls of the 135 cases heard were of native white parentage. Of the remaining four, three were Negroes and one was of mixed foreign parentage.

Automobile stealing was the largest single factor in the 26 larceny cases against the boys. Other delinquency charges were for mischief, petty larceny, truancy, running away, traffic violation, and use of intoxicating liquor. Only one charge for use of alcohol was filed against delinquent boys.

Nine of the 19 delinquent girls were under the care of the social welfare class of the University of Iowa. Check forging, use of alcohol, ungovernable, and mischief composed the cases against the girls. The report shows that one girl was sent to a state institution for delinquency.

The average age for delinquency, according to the report, ranges from 14 to 16 years of age. Other cases and ages were: from 12 to 14, 21 cases; 10 to 13, 14 cases; and children under 10, 10 cases.

Iowa City police referred 43 cases to the court. The remaining cases were referred by school departments, probation officers, social agencies, and individuals. Of the official cases, 37 were boys and 7 girls. Of the unofficial, 36 were boys and 7 girls. Forty-one of the children had never been referred to the department before.

The juvenile court handled 43 children representing 14 families last year that had been neglected, left dependent, or otherwise mishandled. There are 23 children still under supervision of the court from last year.

One child, a Negro, was the only neglect case last year that did not have native parents. The remaining 18 boys and 24 girls were of native white parentage. According to the report, these cases are under the supervision of the juvenile court for an average of two years.

Fourteen children were living with their own parents at the time they were brought before the court, the fathers of 5 were dead, two had both parents dead, 11 had divorced parents and seven had one parent. There were six boys and 10 girls that were before the court for the first time last year. Two of these were referred twice in the same year on different charges.

Every three months a report of the records is sent to the children's

COUNTRY CLUB, MASON CITY, July 21 (AP)—The championship field in the Iowa amateur golf tournament was cut to 32 players with the conclusion today of the 36 hole qualifying round. The selected contenders were paired for their first and second round matches to be played tomorrow over the sun-baked Country club course. When the pairing process was complete, all but three scorers of 160 or lower were still in the running. A play-off late this afternoon decided which three of the six men tied at 160 would continue in the tournament.

Jordan Meet Medalist Pete Jordan, a youngster who plays most of the time on the Waterloo public links in Des Moines, captured a large statue awarded the tournament medalist. He put together two rounds of 73 to top by three strokes the best efforts of 267 golfers who started yesterday morning. His nearest rival, John Kraft of Oelwein, was forced to shoot par golf—the first 18-hole round of the tournament—to come in today with 149.

Just a stroke behind came Denmar Miller and Fairburn Kurtz of Des Moines, while at 151 was the defending champion, Paul Barton of Davenport, tied with Don McGregor of Des Moines, who led the field at the end of yesterday's qualifying round with 72. McGregor encountered difficulties on the outward nine and took 42. He withdrew from the tournament just before the pairings were made, allowing three of those shooting 160 to enter the championship flight.

Kraft Turns in 71 Kraft shot steady golf to turn in a 71 which also equals the course record set by Jock Hutchinson, former British open champion, and tied last week by Denmar Miller. Pairings placed Johnny Lasche, young Waterloo golfer sensation of last year's tournament, against Art Bartlett of Ottumwa, former champion, in the first round. Lasche conquered Bartlett last year in the semi-finals, climaxing a brilliant parade through tournament favorites. The defending champion, Barton, was paired with Blaine Asher, Spencer veteran. McKee brothers, who have a monopoly on Des Moines city championships for several years were against two central Iowa youngsters. Craig McKee was slated to meet Dick Arney of Marshalltown while his brother Bob, three times Iowa amateur champion, was matched with Dick Tang of Ft. Dodge.

McCrary Loses Jordan, tournament medalist, will face Merle Stinson of Waterloo in the first round while Kraft will tangle with Ira Allen of Davenport. Luck of the draw placed Vavra and Glen Darrow, two Cedar Rapids entries, against each other. The third Rapids contender, O. C. Trimble, was matched with Fritz Beck, Mason City youth.

One of the foremost contenders for the title, Bob McCrary of Des Moines, was eliminated this morning when he failed to appear in time for the play-off of those who posted 81 yesterday. The officials ruled him out of the tournament but he went around the course in club team competition and posted a 73 which would have qualified him.

Des Moines Places Nine Des Moines led in the number of entries qualified for the championship flight with nine. Cedar Rapids, Davenport and Ft. Dodge placed three, each, and Waterloo, Spencer and Sioux City two, each. Other places were taken by representatives from Mason City, Iowa City, Keokuk, Oelwein, Ames, Marshalltown, Charleston and Ottumwa.

Sportively Speaking

By Bill Rutledge

Two masters of oratory have surged to the sport forefront. Public speaking has always been a course recommended for athletic luminaries. The two of whom we are speaking operate in widely different fields, but both are glib. Their tongues produce excellent copy.

First, there's Jack Sharkey, the former sailor, who takes on an opponent smaller and lighter than himself at Brooklyn tonight, the winner to clash with Max Schmeling for the championship next summer.

Second, there's Charles Arthur Shires, the black eye artist, whom the Cubs are angling to obtain as first baseman—so a rumor seeps out. Arthur's pieces covered a range of subjects. He addressed Lena Blackburne while a member of the White Sox, umpires, and banquet audiences. He didn't talk much to Walter Johnson during his brief stay with the Senators.

Sharkey is more specialized in his deliveries. His speeches have been restricted to personal broadcast and terribly how terribly he's going to beat his ring rival. He gushed out before his scrap with Dempsey. He's talking a great deal before his bout with Walker.

They have ability in something besides speechmaking. Shires is a really good first baseman. His hitting has been consistent and timely. In the American association with the Milwaukee Brewers he has been swatting at .400.

Jack has exhibited boxing ability. His best fight was put up against Dempsey. He was whipping Sharkey until he fainted him.

George Roddy, who was one of the University of Iowa's crack golfers, won the championship of the first midwestern Negro golf tourney, held at Des Moines Monday. He turned in a card of 152 to win.

Banish Three Giants in St. Louis Series

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 21 (AP)—Treated roughly by both the Cardinals and the umpires during their four-day stay here, the New York Giants left town tonight for Cincinnati where tomorrow their fiery leader, John J. McGraw returns to the baseball wars after a three-day suspension.

The Giants, defeated in three games out of four by the Cardinals, fared even worse in their argument with the umpires, not winning a single one of importance. The umpires also suffered one casualty during the series, Bob Clarke, who banished McGraw Saturday for what President John A. Heydler of the National league called "abusive language." Clarke was suffering from tonsillitis today and was unable to work in the series final, but Umpire Rieger continued where Clarke left off and banished Fred Fitzsimmons and Coach Dave Bancroft of the Giants, who was acting manager during McGraw's absence.

Bancroft was ordered from the field in the fourth inning, when he protested a base on balls Fitzsimmons issued to Frisch, the hurler going to the clubhouse while Bancroft continued the argument.

The Giant-Cardinal series was featured by a bitter verbal exchange Sunday between McGraw and Heydler. McGraw, notified in the morning of his suspension, learned Heydler was in St. Louis and waited for him at Sportsman's park, berating him for "protecting incompetent umpires." Witnesses said the argument was not entirely one-sided, although McGraw generally was credited with the unofficial decision. Heydler said late McGraw was not entitled to privileges with umpires "just because he is vice president as well as manager of the New York club."

Umpire Clarke also banished Coach George Burns Saturday, but Burns was not suspended.

Sharkey Battles Walker Tonight in Milk Fund Bout at Brooklyn

Bellicose Gob Heavier Than Jersey Boxer

30 Pound Advantage in Weight, 6 Inches in Height

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Eight years of gloved warfare, success, failures and disappointments, converge tomorrow night for Jack Sharkey in the same ring in Ebbets field where he jumped into fame overnight in 1926.

And if by any chance the bellicose sailorman from Boston should fail to whip Mickey Walker, the over-stuffed middleweight who aspires to be a giant killer, he will be right back where he was before he conquered Harry Wills, the old black menace, that October night in the Brooklyn National league ball park five years ago.

Experts Pick Jack The main difference, of course, is that Sharkey, before he humbled the Negro Jack Dempsey was supposed to have feared, was a rough and tumble youngster, fresh from a battle wagon in Uncle Sam's navy, spilling for a fight, his whole career ahead of him. Tomorrow night he faces Walker at the crossroads, his conquests of Wills, Maloney, McGee, Godfrey, Stripling, Loughran, behind him. Defeat will tumble him from the front rank and ruin any chance the sailor has of another opportunity to win the heavy-weight championship from Max Schmeling, the man he fouled into the title over a year ago.

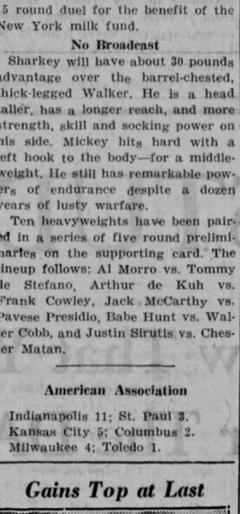

The fight experts, however, after peering at the two warriors in training for several weeks, can see little reason why Walker should win the 15 round duel for the benefit of the New York milk fund.

No Broadcast Sharkey will have about 30 pounds advantage over the barrel-chested, thick-legged Walker. He is a head taller, has a longer reach, and more strength, skill and socking power on his side. Mickey hits hard with a left hook to the body—for a middleweight. He still has remarkable powers of endurance despite a dozen years of lusty warfare.

Ten heavyweights have been paired in a series of five round preliminaries on the supporting card. The lineup follows: Al Morro vs. Tommy de Stefano, Arthur de Kuh vs. Frank Cowley, Jack McCarthy vs. Favese Presidio, Babe Hunt vs. Walter Cobb, and Justin Strutis vs. Chester Matan.

Hayworth's Triple Wins for Tigers, 4-3

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Ray Hayworth's rifehot triple today broke Detroit's losing streak of seven games as the Tigers nosed out the Washington Senators, 4 to 3 in the final tilt of their four-game series.

Hayworth's clout into deep right-center in the ninth sent Koenig across with the winning run and stopped Washington's winning streak at five straight.

Carl Fischer, youthful left hand Senator hurler, saw the three run lead his mates pile up for him in the third go glimmering as the Tigers tallied once each in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings.

Fischer was sent to the showers in the seventh and Bumps Hadley went in, yielding only four hits. The Tigers got to Fischer for 10 and had

Jess Haines started for the Cards but gave way to Jim Lindsey, who was given credit for the victory. Bill Hallahan finally finished for St. Louis. The victory gave the Cards the series, three games to one.

Bremer's vs. Academy at city park.
State Employees vs. Dewey's at Iowa field.

By BILL RUTLEDGE
Academy fell out of the Twilight league race last evening when Dewey's knocked the bottom out of their tangle at Iowa field with five scores in the first four innings.
Doug Fairbanks' nine rallied gallantly but the best they could do was to push home two runners in the last half of the fourth. The score was 5 to 2 in a stormy fit played before several hundred noisy fans.
The outcome leaves Racine's as the sole disputer of the Odd Fellows' right to the league championship. The two teams come together Thursday night at the city park.
Mitchell Fools 'Em
Mitchell's slow curves baffled the Academy batsmen. He allowed five blows. Chuck Smith flashed only occasional sparks of his blinding speed ball that has made him unquestionably the prize pitcher of the circuit.
He should have emerged triumphant, and doubtless would have had it not been for the erring Clegg.
Four Dewey counters grew out of his miscues. Before the clear store entry was aware of the fact, the game had been permanently decided. The losers displayed brilliant ball in the closing innings but the handicap of five markers was too great for them to overcome. Their error total for the evening was seven.

After Revenge
Determined to get a revenge that would be sweet off Smith for the no-hit, no-run game he hurled against them in the first encounter between the two clubs, Dewey's jumped into a two run lead at the outset. Clegg was set down at first. Ebert couldn't see Smith's blazing ball and swung vainly for three strikes.
Clegg's initial mistake allowed Blackmer to get to first. Rogge was blocked. Because of a bruised leg, Brown was put on the base to run for him. Higdon hit to Norris, but Clegg could not hold on to the throw and he was safe. While the Academy base guardian was getting the ball both Blackmer and Brown scurried home. Ebb swung to end the round.
Fill Runways
The Academy populated the bases with one out but was unable to obtain a single run when Norris and Petty swung away at Mitchell's curves. Clegg, Litchy, and Drizhal were on the bags waiting to be driven home.

In the third frame Dewey's scored their fourth run on their first hit. Ebert walked and stole second. Blackmer skied out to Norris. Rogge tapped to Smith, who made an easy 10 foot toss to Clegg. The first baseman let it go by and Rogge was safe. He went into center field as Drizhal came in to watch over first. In the meantime Ebert had scored.
Clegg began his work out in center field by pulling in Higdon's long drive. Ebb aimed a low fly to center that went for a double to count. Brown, who was running for Rogge, Mitchell lofted out to Clegg for the third out.

Another in Fifth
The victors turned in their final tally in the fourth. "Pinky" Vestermark took a base on balls. While whiffed Clegg was hit by Smith. Ebert struck out. Blackmer poked a soft single into center. Vestermark scoring. Litchy pegged to Spies to pick Clegg off second.
The Academy boys became aroused and counted twice in the fourth. Drizhal opened with a double through third base. Norris sent a well-placed single into right. Petty flied out. Kozza struck out. Burns slapped a liner over first base for a two bagger. Drizhal and Norris scoring. Smith tied to Rogge.
Both teams went scoreless the last three chapters.
Score by innings: R. H. E.
Dewey's.....202 100 0-5 4 1
Academy.....000 200 0-2 5 7
Batteries—Mitchell and Clegg; Smith and Litchy.

Rookie Fielder Talks Self Into Position on Omaha Packer Club

OMAHA, Neb., July 21 (AP)—Ceel Eash, who formerly cavorted in the outfield for the Lincoln, Neb., club of the Nebraska state league, has talked himself into a job with the Omaha Western League club.
Eash arrived in Omaha yesterday, hunted up Manager Pug Griffin of the Packers, and asked if there was a place on the Omaha club for a real hitter. Eash solemnly promised Griffin that "I'll get a chance, I'll be leading the league in a week."
Today Eash possessed a two-year contract with the Packers.
Manager Griffin later today cut Pitcher Ed O'Shaughnessy, secured from the Chicago White Sox, and

Supply Drops Tight Fray to Lodge Team

Three Runs in First Margin of Victory in 5-2 Win

By DICK NORRIS
The Odd Fellows-Iowa Supply game at the park last night, contrary to all expectations and predictions, was a battle. "Leck" Merritt's rookies played bang-up ball and held the touted lodge men to a mere five while they were gathering two. Words will fail to describe the game, fighting spirit of the Supply sang against, according to the standings, the toughest opposition in the league.
They outlast their more seasoned opponents six to five, and outside of two mental lapses which resulted in scores their game was heads up at every stage.
The Odd Fellows did not appear to have their usual zip and dash. Whether they are going stale or whether the quality of the opponent is responsible it is hard to state.
Odd Fellows Score Three
The secret order men went to bat first and started like they meant business. Watkins hit through the box and was sacrificed to second by Dickson. The mail carrier took possession of third on a passed ball, and scored when Rarick placed a safe one in center. Sulek singled to right, Rarick advancing to third. Sulek went to second while Moore was striking out and both runners scored when Krotz drove a hot one over second.
A hit by Dickson in the third and free transportation to Sulek did no damage. Dohrer counted in the fourth as Charlie Wagner dropped the toss from Jack Wagner, going to third as Tauber bunted and crossing the plate while Rouse held Watkins' roller.
Sulek Scores
Whitting fouled to Hughes to open the fifth. Ronson passed Sulek who stole second from where he scored on Krotz's drive through second.
Hughes, Charlie Wagner and Redman were outstanding for the Supply on defense, and Redman was the chief of the offensive attack with a single and two fly knock. Krotz was the offensive star for the lodge with two singles. They had no single outstanding defensive man.
The Supply chiselled a hole in the defense of the three links in the first when Redman singled cleanly to center. Charlie Wagner leaped over carefully and strolled while Jack, his brother, survived on Watkins' bobble. No damage was done, though.
Supply Counts in Second
"Constant dripping wears a stone" and the Supply's constant pecking at the apple brought results in the second. Duckett, first up, nailed one to center. Stutzman punched one into right and Duckett annexed second. Both advanced a notch on Ronson's safe one over second and scored when Redman drove a hard dou-

Shortstop Bernie De Viveros from the roster as the Packers left on a swing around the southern division of the league.

Hog Transportation Rises
DES MOINES (AP)—Tax officials said today that copies of the new rates on livestock confirmed beliefs that the transportation charge on Iowa hogs will be materially increased. In some cases the rate on hogs, single deck, is increased 10 cents a hundred pounds they stated.
Asks $15,000 Damages
SIOUX CITY (AP)—Mrs. Effie Archib of Sioux City appealed to the supreme court the diceted verdict of the district court for the defendant in her action for $15,000 damages against the city of Sioux City for the death of her husband in an automobile accident.

Grains Rise With Report of Crediting

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP)—Plans approved by President Hoover whereby American banks would maintain credits in Germany, provided other countries' banks did likewise, helped to lift grain prices today.
A substantial falling-off in receipts of domestic winter wheat, together with adverse reports of the spring crop in Canada and North Dakota, were also bullish factors.
Wheat closed unsettled, 3-8 to 1-5-8 cents higher, corn 1-4 to 1-2 advanced, oats 1-8 to 1-4 up, and provisions varying from 32 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.
Grains showed an advancing trend only after word came that American government representatives had presented to the London international financial conference a definite plan of help for Germany. Earlier, the fluctuations of wheat had been confined to extreme narrow limits, the market awaiting developments at London.

Jury Returns Open Decision on Death

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP)—A coroner's jury was unable to decide today whether Andreas Pavley, world renowned dancer and a director of the Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet, had plunged in suicide or by accident to his death from his sixteenth floor hotel room last June 25.
The jury returned an "open" verdict.
Friends of the dancer and hotel employes testified they believed Pavley had plunged through the window accidentally.

Synopsis of Preceding Instalments
Benny Darrel and his wife, Flo, are having their first taste of money and glory. Starting as "hoofers" in the "three-a-day," they land on Broadway and are stars in a musical comedy and the favorites in the night clubs. Benny keeps his head, but Flo is rather swept away in the wave of prosperity. Attention from Gus LeGrand, a night club proprietor, and Alexander Winston, a society favorite, flatter her.

Sixth Instalment
It must be said for B. B. Hummel that he managed the affairs of Darrel and Sloane shrewdly. When the Club Bon Bon closed for the season in April, Hummel booked a big time vaudeville tour, ten weeks, at fifteen hundred dollars a week. In May he signed a contract with Bergen, the producer, for them to dance in a new musical show in the autumn, at two thousand a week. Meanwhile, LeGrand had reengaged them for next season, at double their original salary. Things were coming their way.

They closed their vaudeville tour in mid-July, and repaired to Atlantic City for a rest. Flo would have preferred Great Neck, but Benny had dreamed all his life of a vacation at Atlantic City, in a big hotel, with plenty of money and nothing to worry about. So Flo, still playing the dutiful little wife, acquiesced.

In September Bergen's new revue, Hotsy Totsy, opened and was a glittering success from the start. Darrel and Sloane received a hearty reception on the opening night in New York.

"Some different from our first opening — last year," said Flo resentfully.

"What's it matter, Baby? — we got 'em goin' now, ain't we?" Benny kissed her resoundingly. They were in a taxi, halted in a traffic jam.

"You mustn't do that — with everybody looking." She drew away.

"Well, it's legal anyhow, Mamma — we're married!" Benny's cheerfulness could not be dampened.

The Club Bon Bon reopened in October, and Darrel and Sloane triumphed once more. Each evening, after finishing their sensational tour in the second act of Hotsy Totsy, they were driven (in their new magenta limousine, by their new chauffeur, in magenta livery) over to the Club Bon Bon, where, at twelve-fifteen, they danced for twenty minutes. And for this double nightly appearance they received a living-wage of thirty-six hundred dollars a week.

One important feature of their growing popularity was that they changed their dance "routines" frequently; always giving the public something new. This was due to Benny's cleverness in devising steps. Their dance numbers in the show were entirely different from the ones they performed at the night club. And their fame continued to mount steadily.

Mr. Alexander Winston was often in Flo's thoughts during the seven months of his absence. His social position, the first she had ever encountered, held her in a certain awe of him, and his cool assurance baffled her. With Gus LeGrand, however, it was different. She was more familiar with Gus LeGrand's type.

Flo realized intuitively that the proprietor of the Club Bon Bon was interested in her. To what extent, she did not know. LeGrand was cagey. He had never been over-friendly toward Benny, and he had had few opportunities of seeing Flo alone. But she was always conscious of his eyes following her whenever he was in the room.

One evening he surprised her by knocking on her dressing room door at the theater while she was making up. Benny's dressing room was on the floor above. She admitted him, and he sat by, hat and cigar in hand, while she applied the finishing touches of her makeup. In the mirror she covertly observed his florid features.

A moment passed. Neither of them spoke. Then her maid left the room on an errand. LeGrand leaned forward.

"The biggest pleasure I ever got out of life," he said abruptly, "was putting you over — making you a success."

Flo was surprised. "You've been awfully nice to us, Mr. LeGrand." She smiled at him, in the mirror.

"Some day," his thick voice continued, "we'll talk over the plans I got for you."

"For Benny and me, you mean?"

"In this game," he answered evasively. "A man can go only so far. With you now — there's no reason why you can't be the biggest dance star in the business."

Flo laughed. But her vanity was touched. LeGrand's face was very solemn.

"It's certainly sweet of you to say so," she told him.

long as he stayed there. For the first time she found herself thinking of herself as a dancer, without Benny. The idea was startling.

However, she said nothing to Benny about LeGrand's visit. The next time she met LeGrand he was stolid and impersonal, as usual. Yet she was aware of his eyes following her. A queer egg, Flo thought. She did not know that the secret of Gus LeGrand's success was his skill in playing a waiting game.

In December Flo saw Alexander Winston for the first time since his return from Europe. Though she did not, of course, know it, his protracted stay had resulted from an acquaintance with a certain Spanish lady of title: an acquaintance begun in Paris during Grand Prix week, and which had run an itinerant course over the Continent.

He was with a party of friends at a rindside table at the Club Bon Bon, and when Flo saw him, so great was her surprise that she missed a step of the dance. However, Benny deftly covered the misstep, and they finished the number to abundant applause.

"What happened, Baby?" Benny asked amiably, after they had taken their bows. "I never knew ya t' do that before."

"Oh, I guess my mind wasn't on the race, that's all."

She was thinking that Alexander Winston was even more attractive than she had remembered.

However, he sent no word to her, an omission that mildly annoyed her. There was no reason, of course, why he should have, but she resented his disinterest, nevertheless. A few days after Christmas she heard that he had gone to Palm Beach.

She saw him again in late February. It was an unexpected, and to Flo a romantic, meeting. Since their success Benny had become a member of the Monks, a minor theatrical club, and had taken to spending much time there in company with Lew Lewis and other Broadway friends. On this particular evening he had hurried through their dances at the night club to get over to a "smoker" at the Monks, and Flo was left to go home alone.

As she emerged from the side entrance, where her car waited, she saw a tall, slim figure in top hat and dark overcoat come out of the shadows. Alexander Winston.

"I'm going to drive you home," he told her, without any formal greeting.

"But I have my own car." She said it rather proudly, as if the new limousine in a way bridged the gulf between them.

"Send him away," commanded Winston.

Flo hesitated. Her life had, for the past few months, been unexciting. Fame had proved as humdrum as obscurity. Benny was almost constantly with her, and domesticity engulfed her quite as completely as if she had been a young wife in a Bronx kitchenette. To her this rich young man had always impersonated romance. Well, what harm?

She walked over to the curb and told her chauffeur he need not wait. Then, smiling, she rejoined Winston. "I hadn't ought to do this—"

"Nonsense. My car's round the corner."

Flo was not a coquette. There was a certain simple honesty about her beneath the little pretensions, acquired since their success, that fascinated Winston. In the intimate darkness of his car, as they drove twice around Central park, he let her talk about herself.

It was a part of Winston's charm that women, ten minutes after meeting him, felt that they had known him for years. Flo found herself telling him of her ambitions.

"I love nice things," she said, "and the people who have them and know what to do with them." Her lovely eyes clouded. "I've seen plenty of the other side — and it isn't so good. Oh, I'm not saying anything against people that haven't got money. I'm sorry for 'em. But, if you haven't got it, you can't have the things that make you — well, you know what I mean — charming and all that. I like people with money, because they've learned how to live. And I'm going to learn how, too — from those that can show me."

This was Flo's creed. Whatever his faults, it was what she honestly believed. Her husband would not have understood it. Winston did.

"I think it's very intelligent of you," he said. And added casually: "Would it interest you to meet some of my friends?"

"I'd love to." Her voice was eager. "They're very dull, I'm afraid," he said.

"Anything's dull that we're too used to," Flo answered.

And Winston fell to wondering about Benny Darrel.

Flo was very droll that he made her attempt to touch her hand in the car that night. She was impressed more than ever by his cool assurance. All that he and his world stood for seemed to her the most desirable thing in life. When she said good night at the door of her hotel here eyes were shining. There was no disloyalty to Benny in her thoughts: she was not even thinking of Benny.

TIME FOR NONCHALANCE
Yesterday as I was walking along West Forty-Seventh street a burglar alarm siren sounded in a nearby fur store. Immediately three men near me, all wearing civilian clothes, pulled out revolvers and started running for the shop. They were plain clothes detectives.
It was a false alarm, but I'm still jittery thinking that if the burglars had run out of the shop I would

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 21—In spite of all the sound and fury about westerns and mystery stories being the new cinema rage, matrimonial problem-dramas remain the most popular choice.
Paramount has just made a belated purchase of Ernest Pascal's "The Marriage Bed," to co-star the luscious Claudette Colbert and Fredric March. It will be the first time the two have appeared together since "Honor Among Lovers."

To delve back a bit into theatrical history, "The Marriage Bed" made its debut on the coast several years ago under the auspices of Felix Young. At the time, movie money was rumored to be back of the production, but if so it never came out into the open. Sam H. Harris later was associated with Young in a Broadway showing of the play.
The film version will be done by Mr. Pascal, who, for a number of years, has been a regular contributor to the movies.

When Warners reopen in September, William Wellman will make a new start on "Safe in Hell," with a different star. You may recall this film was stopped after four days in production because studio officials decided Lillian Bond looked too much
