But Turkish Women Have Their Own Way, at Least

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of three stories on the new Turkey. The final story will appear in The Daily Iowan tomorrow.)

By PRISCILLA RING
Associated Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1931, By The Associated Press.)

ISTANBUL, Turkey, (AP) — A general view of the harem built by Moslem man, into the harem of her own mind, is the chief performance of the average Turkish woman under the emancipating Kemal regime.

Physically free, she still is mentally imprisoned behind the lattices of her own ignorance and inexperience.

ABC's No Liberation
The obligatory ABC schools for adults cannot free her. The right to vote in municipal elections cannot lift the lattices shadowing this shadowy "average woman."

She is gracious, charming, and intelligent enough to be able to accomplish anything, but she has not yet found anything that she really wants to accomplish.

Only Few Feminists
The country has only a handful of active feminists, such as Afet Hanim, eldest adopted daughter of President Kemal, and Latife Hanim, president of the sole feminist club, the Women's Union of Istanbul, which counts about 200 members.

Deeper factors are causing intellectual and moral earthquakes for the young women. They have slid off the rock of Gibraltar of traditional parental authority. They have lost the long set of Koranic rules which guided many of the daily acts and thoughts of their parents. They have lost the ease of eastern indolence, for an economic crisis is forcing them to become breadwinners.

Hundreds Go Insane
Hundreds have lost so much and gained so little, or have so crudely tried to imitate the ways of western women, that they have killed themselves or gone insane.

But against these sad hundreds the thousands who are deftly and hungrily picking the plums out of the emancipation pie, whose other sense to leave alone, these are the thousands who know what schooling they want, and get it; know what jobs they want, and get them, and know what husbands they want, and get them too.

Have Their Own Way
As a matter of fact, Turkish women of all time have managed to have their way much more than the world suspects. A favorite ancient Turkish tale tells of a man whose wife fell into a swift river. He immediately dashed up stream, shouting to bystanders to help him rescue her. "But come this way, the current will carry her downstream!" the bystanders yelled.

"Oh-ho," cried the man, continuing to run up stream, "You don't know my wife!"

Girls, Boys Together
Education is the raft which Kemal has thrown out to save the young people of his country. Girls whose mothers learned the Koran, French, music, and embroidery behind harem shutters, are learning the three R's and civics, hygiene, zoology, side by side with boys. Primary education is obligatory and co-educational. The Istanbul university counts 21 girls in the medical school, 15 in the law school, and 15 in the school of chemistry.

While few have yet reached up to the professions, there are thousands working as stenographers and clerks in government offices and private business. Thousands more are working in tobacco and silk factories for 25 to 30 cents a day.

Tomorrow — Turkish-Russian Friendship
Wirds Appointed to Bench
IOWA FALLS (AP) — Gov. Turner has appointed John F. Wirds of Iowa Falls judge of the superior court to succeed Vice Judge Charles L. Hayes of Eldora, resigned.

Trisects 5 Ways

George H. Hurd (above), a salesman of Brighton, Mass., claims to have trisected an angle five different ways, incidentally going President J. J. O'Callaghan, of Duquesne university, Pittsburgh, four better. Hurd, who has had only a high school education, declares his method is the only true one. Solution of the problem had been believed impossible for 2,500 years until President O'Callaghan recently announced his ability to trisect an angle one way.

Jap Steamer Takes Lindy, Anne Aboard

Fog Causes Flyers to Descend at Ketoi Island

BULLETIN
NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 20 (AP) (Thursday) — The Ochiishi wireless station here was advised that the government steamer Shimushimaru arrived alongside the Lindbergh monoplane, fog-bound off Ketoi Island, in the Kuriles, at 7:55 a.m. today (4:55 p.m. Wednesday C.S.T.), and that the Lindberghs boarded the vessel.

NEMURO, Hokkaido Island, Japan, Aug. 20 (AP) (Thursday) — Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh radioed the Ochiishi radio station here this morning that the steamer Shimushimaru was near the plane and that he and Mrs. Lindbergh hoped to start "soon" for Nemuro.

The radio station's compilation of weather data showed conditions in the vicinity of Iturup Island, about half way between here and Ketoi Island, where the Lindberghs were halted last night by the fog, were becoming bad, although at the moment the clouds were high. A west-southwest wind was blowing and the temperature was 20 degrees (68 degrees Fahrenheit).

Athletic Department Deletes Part Time Weight Coach Post

Thomas E. Martin, since 1923 part time weight coach at the university, has not been reappointed for next year. E. H. Lauer, director of athletics said yesterday.

In the last seven years 15 men have won 23 places under Martin's coaching in National Collegiate track and field meets, about 40 per cent of Iowa's total team points in that meet for the period. During the same years Iowa has been first in the number of weight places won and third in the number of points scored, only Michigan and Leland Stanford surpassing the Old Gold total of 68.

Other members of the coaching staff will handle Martin's work.

Wiggins Group Awaits Reply to Declaration

Wall Street Applauds, Washington Silent on Question

BASEL, Switzerland, Aug. 19 (AP) — After startling the world today with a declaration advocating the revision or reparations and war debts, the Wiggins committee of international bankers waited expectantly to see what the United States and other great powers are going to do about it.

Comment on the report of the Wiggins committee at Basel, which advised revision of war debts and reparations, was generally reserved last night in the major European capitals and at Washington.

Germany's responsible statesmen hailed the report as a great advance over previous declarations on the subject, however.

There was no comment at the White House in Washington, or at the state department, although President Hoover and Acting Secretary of State Castle studied press dispatches from Basel carefully.

Wall street bankers, however, applauded the report as the most candid diagnosis of the international financial malady since 1929.

In Great Britain government officials were so busy with the study of their own budget crisis that they were unable to digest the Wiggins report up to last night.

Official comment was withheld in Paris pending a meeting of the cabinet tomorrow when Finance Minister Flandin expected to discuss the significance of the report to France. The French newspapers made very little comment upon it yesterday.

Backed by the prestige of the 10 strongest banking groups in the world, the Wiggins investigators, in a report made public early this morning, declared that to bring full and immediate relief to Germany and other gravely distressed nations it would be essential to make a new

"Little case of something here," said the voice of Inspector John Wade. "Looks like whisky — and bless my life, if there isn't another one!"

"We found 'em in the river," pleaded the man he called Sniffy. "Me an' Harry fished 'em out."

"Been fishing? I'll bet you have! Make fast your boat and step into the launch — lively."

Husband Finances Successor to Beat Alimony Collector

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP) — John Lamb figured that the surest way to get out of paying alimony to his divorced wife would be to find her a new husband, he testified today in superior court.

F. F. Syfer, a mutual friend of Mr. and Mrs. Lamb, appeared to be the likeliest candidate, Lamb said, so he loaned him $6,000 to go into business. Mrs. Lamb agreed, he said, for him to deduct the loan from future alimony payments.

But the former Mrs. Lamb later denied making such an agreement, and balked at carrying out the plan. Also, she said today, she wanted immediate payment of $1,285 alleged back alimony.

Judge Joseph David told Lamb to go back to the divorce court and ask the alimony payments be suspended until the $6,000 loan is repaid.

200 Dead as Rebel Forces Meet Federals

Cuba Government Lifts News Censorship After 4 Days

HAVANA, Aug. 19 (AP) — The government announced tonight that federal troops had engaged strong rebel forces in the town of Gibara, on the north coast of Oriente province, and that the insurgents had been dislodged.

It was at Gibara, an official report said today, that an expeditionary force was landed from a Norwegian boat to reinforce the insurgent strength to the town.

Military censorship on all outgoing news from Cuba, which has been in force since Sunday afternoon, was lifted by the government tonight.

No casualties in the Gibara engagement were reported officially, although dispatches to newspapers previously had estimated the dead and wounded in the fighting there at between 200 and 300.

The landing of the expeditionary force was discovered by airplane scouts, the official report said.

Meet Machine Gun Fire
Rural guard forces from Holguin, Cuba, met a machine gun force of the rebels in the mountains near the town of Sagua la Grande.

The machine gun force, it was reported, was composed of 100 men and was equipped with 10 machine guns and 500 rounds of ammunition.

The machine gun force was defeated and the rebels fled to the mountains.

Hoover, State Heads Battle Labor Crisis

Pinchot Urges Special Congress Session for Relief

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — The president and the governors of two eastern industrial states, all mentioned prominently as aspirants for presidential honors in 1932, moved publicly today for steps to alleviate nation-wide unemployment distress.

Governor Gifford Pinchot, Republican, of Pennsylvania, sent a letter to President Hoover urging him to call a special session of congress soon to consider federal aid for the jobless.

Hoover Opposes Session
President Hoover appointed Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company to form and direct a nation-wide organization to cooperate with national, state and local agencies dealing with unemployment relief, and stated a national advisory board, with headquarters at Washington, would assist him. It was made plain at the White House the president's position in opposition to an extra session remained unchanged.

New York's Democratic chief executive, Franklin D. Roosevelt, in an address at Ithaca, N. Y., tonight announced he would appoint a commission to consider state financing of rural homes for urban workers in an experiment to lessen what he predicted would be "certain misery among our people on a huge scale" in the coming winter.

Steps Interest Tammany
Each of these steps interested this Tammany stronghold, where every move made by the principal figures in national political life is watched for its bearing on the 1932 presidential race.

Governor Roosevelt's proposal attracted special attention here because it suggested he did not mean to await federal measures in aid of the state's unemployed.

The governor addressed the American country life conference. He said his plan embraced cooperation of state and private capital in the interests of workers involved in economic stress "in normal times and to make relief work more attractive in time of depression."

ILLINOIS CITY, Ill. (AP) — Hillmar Ax, 25, of Orion, was electrocuted when he touched a high tension wire.

VOLUNTEERS IN HAY FEVER WAR

Applicants from various parts of the country appeared in person or appealed by letter to be accepted as one of the 150 hay fever victims sought by the University of Illinois research hospital in Chicago in a scientific campaign against the disease. Patients, who are offered free board and lodging, are placed under observation in a pollen-free ward. Here are Ray Mador (left) and Peter Christopherson, two victims, in the pollen-free room.

Sudden Waves Panic 1,500 at Jersey Beach

One Drowned, Two Lost -Four Seriously Injured

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 19 (AP) — A wall of water broke over the beach without warning today, caught 1,500 persons in its undertow and left them struggling helplessly in a foam decked sea. One of them drowned, two were missing and four were seriously injured.

The waves, which witnesses said were eight to 10 feet high, routed on estimated 15,000 persons who were lolling on the congested beach between Central and Steeplechase piers.

Beach in Confusion
The beach that a few minutes before had resounded with the laughter of vacationists was suddenly

Golly was mild and rather spare of frame. A reddish mustache dropped over a weak chin. He had once been a ship's steward; in moments of inebriation, his claims rose as high as purser, and once he stated that he had been the captain of an Atlantic liner; but he was very ill after that.

The Mecca was a half-wooden and half-brick structure. Before the club was a strip of warfage, covered with rank grass and embellished with two seats. The wharf was warped and rotten; the ancient timbers that supported it were split and crumbled.

But the view was always fine, for here the pool was broad and the river crowded with shipping.

Lila Smith used to stand, fascinated, at the window of the dining room, and watch the steamers come upriver.

Lodgers who had returned from long voyages remarked that Lila was no longer a child. She had never lacked dignity, but now there was a charm that none had observed before. She had always been pretty, in a round faced, big eyed way. But the prettiness had grown definite; nature had given the face of the child new values.

Senator Tells Police Details of Gun Fight

Claims Revolver Not His; Hearing for Girl Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — State Senator Roy T. Yates of New Jersey, today for the first time told his version of the incidents leading to his shooting in the apartment of Miss Ruth Jayne Cramer. Until today, his condition had been too serious for authorities to interview him.

From his hospital bed, he gave officers details similar to those related by Miss Cramer, who tomorrow will be given a hearing on a charge of felonious assault growing out of the shooting. The girl has been held without bail since her arrest Friday night.

Both Drinking Heavily
Senator Yates corroborated Miss Cramer's statements that they had been drinking heavily. Like she, he said he could not recall the actual shooting but, whereas Miss Cramer had said they had quarreled, he said he had no recollection of an argument. The girl told police Yates had asked her to move into a less expensive apartment and she had objected.

The New Jersey senator, who is chairman of that state's pension survey commission, defended the employment of Miss Cramer by that department. He said the $556 for which checks had been written in her behalf had been earned by her over a period of three or four months during which she did work at his direction. He had taken the checks to her apartment the night he was shot, he said. Payment since has been stopped on the checks.

Senator Yates said he had known Miss Cramer for five and a half years and had lived with her for the last two. He paid the rent for the apartment, he said, and had bought the furnishings. He carried a key to the place.

The revolver with which police say he was shot was described to him. He said he was almost sure it was not his although he had several in New Jersey for which he holds permits.

Masked Bandit Gets $16 at Local Store
With an order to "put the cash in the bag," the Avenue grocery store, 615 Iowa avenue, was held up for 315 yesterday at 8:55 p.m. by a bandit wearing a grey mask, witnesses told police.

The bandit, judged to be about 18 or 19 years old, wore a home-made grey mask. A Dicker, proprietor, knew nothing of the holdup until he heard the clerk call the police.

In the murk of a foggy morning a rowboat moved steadily down stream. The oarsmen hugged the Surrey shore, keeping to the background formed by moored barges.

Somewhere in the east the sun was rising, but here the skies were dark. Billingsgate Market was radiant with light and over the wharves, where boats were at anchor, white arc lights gleamed.

The river was waking; the "chuff-chuff" of donkey-engines and the rattle of swaying derricks came to the men in the rowboat.

They were clear of a long barge line, and the boat was turned to the northern shore, when, on the dark background, appeared a darker object. The stroke rower saw the lines of a launch across his course, and dropped his oars.

"Wade!" he grunted.

"Out of the blackness came a cheerful ball."

"Hullo, sweetheart! Whither away?"

The police launch, edged alongside. "It's only me, Inspector Wade. We was takin' the boat down to Dorlin's to lay it out," said the bow oarsman. He had a high falsetto voice, and punctuated his speech with involuntary sniffs.

"Not Mr. Offer?" The voice in the police boat was charged with extravagant surprise. "Not Sniffy Offer? Why, sweetheart, why are you out at this hour? Let me have a look at you."

Questions in Farewell

TODAY the university bids adieu to hundreds of students, to hundreds of others goodbye. For some just another term is ended; for others another goal has been attained.

At such a time it would be entirely appropriate for the departing student to cogitate upon the recent report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. In the opinion of that foundation the college senior is little wiser, if any, than the college freshman.

The school and college curriculum consists of little else but isolated packages of specific ideas, segregated for the time being in self-contained courses, elected semester-wise and cut off by examinations and credits from any other living conditions.

The raw information which the courses had presented and which, with proper treatment, might have contributed to a fine body of intellectual equipment, was dumped outright at the close of successive terms, and when the student came out of college his effective knowledge amounted to little more than when as a freshman he entered the institution.

The only specific example the foundation gave as an indication of the "ravages of forgetting" was the college senior's failure to recognize more than "sixty-one out of a hundred words in familiar use by educated persons."

It is true that a college career should improve the student's vocabulary. But it is also true that there are many things to be gained in college experience which cannot be measured by even the most astute vocabulary test.

It is true that the teacher who fails to relate his subject matter to life itself has wasted the time of his school and of his pupils. It is also true that the student who is satisfied with merely a passing grade has indeed missed the calling of an educated person.

Only each student can answer for himself the question of how much he has profited by this summer's experience as a part of the university. If he has gained "credits only" he is or shall be aware that he or the institution or both have failed.

But if he has acquired a new viewpoint, a new outlook, a new way of looking at the world and life, not even the Carnegie foundation can convince him that the quest has been in vain.

Golden Rule Driving

ON THE new licenses for automobile drivers which will be required in Iowa after Jan. 1 are 10 pledges. Not only must the licensee assure an official that he can handle a car satisfactorily, but he must give his word to drive carefully.

"I will observe the golden rule," is the tenth pledge. This licensing move, following removal of the state speed limit, is in line with emphasis everywhere on driving with care rather than merely without speed.

Other cars provide the commonest cause of accidents. One passes another "blind" on a hill or a curve where he cannot see ahead. He meets an innocent third party. There is a collision involving at least two of the cars.

It is to stop that sort of thing that drivers' licenses are issued and checked up on. The ideal rule would be the golden rule, as indicated by the final pledge. Officials hope to make it a means of reducing accidents.

"Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you" is a good rule for drivers. It is better than saying, "Don't drive more than 45 miles an hour, on penalty of arrest."

Laws aren't meant to keep individuals from doing specified acts. They are meant to protect other individuals from injuries arising out of those acts. The new licensing is a step for the better because it clearly recognizes this fundamental purpose of legislation.

Can Coolidge Come Back?

FIRST Jack Dempsey, then Benny Leonard, announced intentions of trying to regain the eminence they once held in the squared ring, against the odds of a record which says that almost never is it done.

Now Mark Sullivan says that neighbors of Calvin Coolidge believe he will run again, in 1936 if not in 1932. Mr. Sullivan does little except to quote the Vermont speculations, though he indicates that even if Hoover died and Vice-President Curtis were not drafted, Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey, would be a more likely candidate.

About the only thing which gives any credence to the Coolidge comeback notion is that there is scarcely anybody else available in G. O. P. ranks. For Canny Calvin was never even in his prime a Dempsey or a Leonard. He donned Indian garb, embraced babies, and shook hands with no change of expression from his Vermontian granite look. Only by his sphinx-like silence did he appear to be wondrous wise.

Vermont Coolidge got out of the presidency just before the crash which threatens to cost Hoover a second term. He is safely out, with reputation fairly untarnished and with a good income from writing for newspapers. He was shrewd when he said, after a term and a fraction, that he did not "choose to run" in 1928.

Calvin Coolidge is still shrewd. Whether or not he can come back, he will allow the credit to remain a mystery for cracker box entries to mull over as long as his memory lasts. Nothing short of an exceptional Leap year proposal will ever tempt the sage of Vermont from his canny comment of 1928—"I do not choose to run."

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

According to Dr. Olga Knopf, Vienna psychiatrist, women are not inferior to men, they just think they are. The sense of inferiority is deplorable, she asserts, but equally deplorable is the tendency of the modern woman to estimate herself according to the power of her feminine attraction.

On the other hand, "useless but ornamental" women are finding it hard to keep up with the other type, that makes an effort to occupy those high positions. With women the world over entering politics and business, the theory of Dr. Knopf's complex is fast losing ground.

Modern poetry is terribly "down at the heels" while the novel is "now showing quite unsuspected powers," writes Philo M. Buck of the University of Wisconsin in his new book, "The Golden Thread."

But perhaps the modern man doesn't want a "Paradise Lost" for his casual reading. Perhaps he likes the mechanized literature, denounced by Mr. Buck as "journalism."

Along comes the Rt. Rev. Joseph Chartrand, bishop of Indianapolis, with the sweeping statement that it is "colossal stupidity on the part of man" to believe that a modern code of morals has been discovered.

It is not reasonable to believe that modern ethics can fall to the level of 1,500 years ago. Neither is it reasonable to expect that modern civilization will cut its own throat and disappear from the face of the earth.

New York police have completed a survey of 1,000 night club girls, recording their cultural background and environment, as part of the campaign to cleanse the city of vice.

Police may find easier solutions to the numerous crimes that have had their setting in night clubs and dance halls. Proprietors may now be protected against hiring girls with police records.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON. WASHINGTON - If newspaper Washington had known that an arbitration proceeding with Egypt over claims of George J. Salem, American citizen, was about to be set up, selection of Fred K. Nielsen by President Hoover as American commissioner certainly would have been predicted.

Nielsen has come to be a highly specialized man at such work. President Hoover is the fourth White House occupant to turn to his legal attainments and judicial temperament when an arbitration was in prospect.

All of which makes Nielsen's anticipated resignation from the two claims commissions set up with Mexico in Secretary Hughes' times as a basis for recognition of the government then functioning in Mexico City, of more than passing interest.

The project separated American claims growing out of the long Mexican revolutionary epoch from other classes of claims.

INHERITED TROUBLE. Three or four American members had a whack at trying to get a fair and friendly adjustment through these two commissions before Nielsen finally inherited both commission jobs.

It has been eight years since the commission started to work, yet the bulk of the claims accepted for adjudication remained unsettled when a row within the commission broke off its Washington session in July.

Just how a Mexico City newspaper came to say that Nielsen was "persona non grata" to Mexico for continued service on the claims commission it would be interesting to know.

Mexico had nothing to do with his selection, nor Washington with the selection of the Mexican commissioner. It is only in selection of the third, neutral member of such international claims courts that acceptance by both governments is involved.

That Nielsen continues to be wholly acceptable to Washington as American representative for important arbitrations seems established by his appointment to the Egyptian commission.

His resignation from the Mexican claims bodies might serve to bring a congressional inquiry into the whole question of the long delay in completing adjustment of these matters, involving hundreds of millions.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL. HOLLYWOOD—Once ruled out of the talkies because of his accent, Paul Lukas commences his first Paramount starring picture within a fortnight. It will be "The Beloved Bachelor." Some years ago Thomas Meighan made the same story as "The Prince Chap."

Playing opposite Lukas will be Vivienne Osborne, who has waited for six months to show what she can do in a picture. Miss Osborne created the role of "Aloma of the South Seas" and replaced Lenore Ulrich in "The Harem." She is under regular contract to Paramount.

As you may recall, "The Beloved Bachelor" relates the story of a young man who inherits a baby. Charles Ruggles will handle the comedy, and the picture will be directed by Lloyd Corrigan.

SAFE AS A BANK. George Olsen, the band leader, was amazed last Saturday to see his four year old youngster shove the family cat into the garbage can and pull down the lid. After rescuing the unfortunate animal, Olsen questioned his child. "I did it," replied the youngster, "so I can know where he is when I want him again."

Want to Know? Well, Maybe They Could Tell You All About it at University Registrar's Office

By GEORGE KALBACH

"Hello. Say, there's a man coming down here this fall from Cedar Falls. I'm not just sure whether he's going to teach or go to school. But I was wondering whether you could tell me his name."

Sounds like a question asked of a regular information booth, like the ones at state fairs, or perhaps at some railroad terminal. But it isn't.

It's just a sample of the questions which come in to the office of the university registrar every day.

Since most of the university records are kept at this office, persons seem to think that the girls who answer the phone ought to know most of the affairs not only of the university itself, but of its students as well.

One of the questions most frequently asked is how to spell Simpson.—Simpson, college.

"Don't They Report?" Another, asked by long distance operators inquiring for some student is, "Well, can't you get hold of him? I thought all students were supposed to report in your office every day."

But perhaps the most unusual in recent years was the query of a woman in search of someone to take care of her dog while she was gone away on a month's vacation.

Prep Debate Group Ready

Debaters of more than 130 high schools next month will begin compiling facts on compulsory unemployment insurance for their 1932 campaign in the high school debating league.

Under the direction of Prof. A. C. Baird of the department of speech, chairman of the organization, schools will meet in a series of elimination contests. The four district champions will argue for the state title at the university next April.

The league will use the triangular system for the sixth consecutive year, each school supporting two teams of two speakers each, with three or four sets of debates will be required to determine district champions.

Eagle Grove is expected to defend its championship won last April when it ended the four-year reign of a Council Bluffs school as league titlist.

Dynamite plots, too, must be contended with at the office of the registrar. One girl, who had experienced much difficulty and grief in finding out her grades for the semester, declared that if she could find the dynamite, she was going to blow "the whole registrar's office to pieces."

But she didn't find the dynamite, and the girls at the registrar's office still go on answering questions.

English Custom? Still another hard situation to cope with occurred recently when an Englishman who had taken work at the university, in a letter requesting his grades, enclosed a lock of hair. "Just an old English custom?"

Another, asked by long distance operators inquiring for some student is, "Well, can't you get hold of him? I thought all students were supposed to report in your office every day."

But perhaps the most unusual in recent years was the query of a woman in search of someone to take care of her dog while she was gone away on a month's vacation.

Lefty Grove Pitches Sixteenth Straight Victory to Equal League Record

Macks Down White Sox by 4 to 2 Count

Champions Drive Red Faber From Box in Eighth

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP)—Robert Moses Grove, the mighty left hander of the World Champion Philadelphia Athletics, today became a shareholder of the American league record of 16 consecutive pitching victories by defeating the White Sox, 4 to 2.

Connie Mack's fire-ball hurler tied the mark set in 1912 by Smokey Joe Wood of the Boston Red Sox, and equaled the same year by Walter Johnson of Washington, but not without a ninth inning scare, but he held the Sox helpless until the ninth; then a single by Carl Reynolds, his third hit of the game, a double by Lew Fonseca and an error by Max Bishop accounted for the two runs against him.

Twenty-Fifth Win
It was Grove's twenty-fifth triumph of the championship season, against two defeats. His last defeat was suffered June 5 in Philadelphia, when the White Sox beat him in the twelfth inning on a home run by Fonseca. Grove hurled six innings of that game, having replaced Mahaffey and McDonald.

Grove struck out five batters, getting Red Faber, his starting pitching opponent, twice; Jeffries who batted for Faber in the eighth, and Cissell twice. He did not walk a man, and might have had a shut out, had he not eased up a bit in the final inning.

Likely to Reach 30
Faber lasted eight innings, during which he yielded 12 hits. However, only one of the runs scored off the 43 year old spitballer was earned, but his own two errors were responsible for the other scores.

Of Grove's 25 victories, he has started 22 times, and appears certain to reach the almost magic mark of 30, this season. For the first time since Jim Bagby of Cleveland won 31 in 1920.

Tribe Slugs Out 2 Triumphs Over Nats
CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 19 (AP)—Pounding six pitchers for a total of 25 hits, the Cleveland Indians today slugged out a double victory over the Washington Senators, 10 to 5 and 10 to 8, in the first two games of a five game series.

Earl Averill's 25th and 26th home runs of the season and Eddie Morgan's 8th, were the decisive blows in the first victory, which was at the expense of Sad Sam Jones. In the nightcap "Lefty" Burke was charged with his second defeat since his recent no hit, no run game, Connally and Hudlin were the winning hurlers.

Browns Whip Yanks in Series Opener 7-3
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19 (AP)—After seven failures, Walter Stewart finally won his 11th game of the year today as the St. Louis Browns defeated the New York Yankees 7 to 3 in the first of the four-game series.

Stewart allowed 11 hits but kept them scattered except in the ninth, when the Yanks scored all of their runs. Kress, with a homer and two doubles, and Burns, who tripled with the bases loaded in the seventh, drove in six of the Browns' runs. Burns also stole home. Ruth went hitless in four times at bat and Gehrig, his rival for home run honors, was held to a single.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

Errors Aid Red Sox to Beat Detroit 9-8
DETROIT, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox defeated Detroit, 9 to 8, in a series opener here today. Twenty seven hits were made in the game, 15 of them off Johnny MacFayden, Sox hurler, who got credit for the game although he was replaced by Moore with two on in the ninth inning after Detroit made a three run rally.

Detroit's five errors helped the Sox who pounded Sullivan out of the box in the first inning. Hogsett and Bridges followed him.

Sportively Speaking

By Bill Rutledge

The principal event in fistcuffs this week is the Billy Petrolle-Jimmy McLarnin engagement at the Madison Square Garden tonight. Nothing is at stake except the grudges of the two fighters.

Petrolle's manager has been endeavoring to cancel the match when he was informed that the state boxing commission would not bar McLarnin's "slap" punches.

It was claimed by Manager Hurley that it was those open glove "slaps" that McLarnin used frequently in the clinches which were responsible for the victory of the Vancouver battler.

The jurisdiction of the New York commission widens continually. It is going to act as a medical advisory board and examine Max Schmeling's left eye. The champion's manager declares that Young Stribling gave Maxie such a bad cut over his eye that it would be dangerous for him to defend his crown again this year.

Contracts had been formally drawn up stipulating that Schmeling put up his title at stake in a clash with Primo Carnera at the Garden Sept. 17. Now Max is sojourning at home in a suburb of Berlin—quite willing to postpone a second defense of his championship until next summer.

The Helens have it at the national women's singles tournament. To title appears to be between Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacob. What honors they do not garner will be scooped up by other Californians.

The Athletics widened their lead by a game and a half yesterday by turning the White Sox upside down 4 to 2 while the Senators took a double licking from the Indians. In the other half of the world series outlook, the Cardinals had their margin cut down from nine and a half games to an even nine.

Wood Defeats John Doeg in Straight Sets
NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19 (AP)—Champion Johnny Doeg, who has yet to win an important tennis tournament this season was knocked out of the Newport Casino quarter finals today by Sidney Wood of New York, Wimbledon finalist and U. S. Davis Cup player.

Wood registered a straight set victory, 6-1, 6-1, 8-6, on a court that was dampened by three heavy showers.

The New Yorkers' victory brought him into a semi-final clash with Frederick J. Perry, the British internationalist who gained his second last bracket by upsetting George M. Lott, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

The lower half survivors were Ellsworth Vines, sensational California youth, and Johnny Van Ryn, another veteran of the recent Davis Cup war fare.

Notre Dame Golfer Breaks Par to Win Medal in State Meet
QUINCY, Ill., Aug. 19 (AP)—Larry Moller showed his home town why he became one of the outstanding "big shots" in the college golf world today by coming from behind with a great burst of par-cracking shots to capture the medal of the first Illinois state amateur championship.

Caught in a heavy rainstorm in the morning, the Notre Dame star started out with an ordinary 50 in the 27-hole struggle for the medal and then finished with a 34 and a 23 for a grand total of 107 shots, which gave him first place by four strokes. Jimmy Foley, Jr., of Chicago, finished second with 111.

Benge Stops Cardinals in First 3 to 2

Champions Comeback to Cop Afterpiece by 8 to 4

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19 (AP)—Ray Benge checked the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of their double header today, the Phillies winning 3 to 2, but the champions came back behind Bill Hallahan to win the nightcap 8 to 4.

Benge scored his fourth victory in a row and broke Jess Haines' winning streak of five straight. Don Hurst furnished the punch, hammering a single, double and a home run, the latter touching off the winning drive. The Redbirds ran off with five runs in the first inning of the second game and never were threatened after that. Taft hit a home run in the seventh.

Vance Wins as Cubs Drop to Third Place
BROOKLYN, Aug. 19 (AP)—Dazzy Vance shoved the Chicago Cubs back into third place in the National league pennant race today, pitching the Brooklyn Robins to a 5 to 3 victory in the second game after the Cubs had won the opener of today's double bill 4 to 1.

Vance fanned nine Cubs but was on the short end of the score until the sixth inning, when a four-run rally put the Robins up in front. Shale drove in three of the five Robins' runs.

Cy Moore also struck out nine Cubs in the first game and allowed only five hits but two of the nats were home runs by Cuyler and Barton. It was the first game Moore had started for the Robins since 1929.

Giants Beat Reds to Regain Second Place
NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—The New York Giants recaptured second place in the National league today as they rallied in the ninth to score two runs and beat the Cincinnati Reds 6 to 5, while the Cubs and Robins were splitting even.

After holding the Giants to four hits in the first six innings, Red Lucas blew up in the late rounds and allowed the Giants to overcome a four-run lead obtained by the Reds in the second inning at the expense of Beryl and Parmelee. Tony Cucinello was directly responsible for the tying and winning runs crossing the plate in the ninth, when, with the bases loaded, he made a low heave of Terry's grounder past Sukeforth in an attempt to start a double play at home plate.

DES MOINES, Aug. 19 (AP)—Bud Tinning, right handed ace of the Des Moines Western league club, kept pace with Lefty Grove of the Athletics today in pursuit of an extended winning streak on the mound.

Tinning turned in his sixteenth consecutive victory in defeating St. Joseph 7 to 1. It was his twentieth victory against one defeat.

His only reverse this season was May 21, when he was defeated at Pueblo 13 to 3 in the seventh inning nightcap of a doubleheader. Unofficial records show he has pitched 185 innings, allowing 150 hits and 59 runs.

Driving Rain Halts Play in Net Tournery

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—A driving rain and windstorm struck the staid old courts at Forest Hills late today and effectively culminated the day's activities in the forty fourth annual women's championship tournament after five of the eight third round matches had been played.

The five that had battled their way into the quarter finals included the four Americans, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, Helen Jacobs, Dorothy Weisel and Mrs. L. A. Harper and a lone English woman, Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall.

The match between Betty Nuthall of England, the defending champion, and Josephine Cruijck-shank of Santa Ana, Cal., was postponed until tomorrow, as well as room and caught the girl at her favorite occupation. "Yes, Auntie." Lila Smith flew to the kitchen. That rasping voice terrified her—had always terrified her. She wished sometimes for another kind of life, had a vague idea that she knew just what that life was like. It had green in it, and great spaces, like Greenwich park, and people who were most deferential. More often than not, she was dreaming of this when she was watching ships. She was dreaming now, and she poured the tea, and sent the slatternly maid into No. 7 with the cup and the slabs of bread and butter. The little square window in the stuffy kitchen was open, and suddenly she saw a man looking in at her from the wharf—a tall man, with a tanned, attractive face. He was bare headed, and his brown hair had a curl in it. "Good morning, princess!" "Good morning, Mr. Wade!" She was a little breathless. He was the one being in the world who had this effect upon her. It was not because she was frightened, though she was aware of his profession, nor yet because of the furtive character of these rare meetings. He had a tremendous significance for her, but the reason for his importance was confusingly obscure. "Why do they call you 'Busy,' Mr. Wade?" She asked the question on impulse, and was frightened before the words were out. "Because I am busy, princess," he said gravely. "I am so busy that I am an offense in the eyes of all loafers. Industry is my weakness." He paused and looked at her oddly. She heard "Mum's" heavy step and drew back a pace as the old woman came scowling into the room. "Hullo, Mr. Wade—got nothing better to do than keep my gal gossiping?" She sent Lila from the room and slammed the door. "Don't come here questioning children. Be a man and knock at the front door." "You haven't got a front door," said Mr. Wade reproachfully. "And why so angry, child? I came in from the friendliest spirit to interview Golly."

looked like a piece of sodden paper. "I'm not going to take anything from you," he said soothingly. She struggled and gasped. "Don't... I want to go to my baby... The Colonel said..." Wade threw a blanket over her, and, in doing so, caught a glimpse of the thing that she held. It was a photograph of a child. "Heaven help us!" he exclaimed. "Who is that?" "It was Lila Smith! A baby's face, but Lila Smith," she repeated. "Who is this?" he repeated. "You shan't have it! You shan't have it!" she struggled feebly. Her voice sank to a murmur. "Rush for the pier, Toller. I think she's dying." When he tried to take the photograph from the clutched hand, it was squeezed into a pulpy mass. The launch ran under the pier, and a policeman tied it up. Another policeman brought a hand-ambulance, and the woman was whisked to Westminster hospital. Wade went into the superintendent's room and found the Big Four in conference. "I'm sorry I'm late, sir," he said under his nose. "The chief constable sat back in his chair and yawned. "What is this yarn about the India Rubber men?" he asked. "You say a racing boat has been seen on the river—about the time of these robberies. Who has seen it distinctly?" John Wade shook his head. "Nobody, sir—it has not been seen, except at a distance. I have an idea it is painted black; it carries no lights, and it goes at high speed."

The first clue we had of it was when bargemen complained of the wash it made. It's been heard, of course, but whoever is running it has used mufflers, which is very unusual in a motor boat. Only two men have had a view of her. One is a river thief named Donovan, whom I took for breaking cargo two months ago. He said that he and another man were in a small boat one night when this launch came out of the blue, and they had a very narrow escape from being run down. They could give no description of the boat, except that it was very short and hadn't the lines of a motor boat at all. Jennings, one of the big chiefs, shook his head. "Why should the India Rubber men take to the river? There are twenty ways out of London, and the river's the slowest. You can go from Scotland Yard to any part of the town in a taxi, and not one policeman in a thousand would dream of taking the slightest notice. My opinion is that, after their last big job, this band is not going to operate again for years." A third member of the party, who was in control of the Foreign branch, interrupted here. "This is the work of an international crowd. As to their being finished in London—" The telephone buzzer sounded. The chief took up the phone. "When?" he asked. A long pause, and then: "I'll come right away." He rose from his chair. "The constable on point duty reports that the lights have gone out in the office of the manager of Frisby's bank." When they reached the bank, a police cordon had already been established. The manager's office faced a side street, and contained the general safe. Two lights burned there, day and night, and the safe was visible from the point where the policeman controlled the traffic. The constable's story was quickly told. He was waiting for his relief, and Big Ben was striking the last note of twelve, when he saw the lights go out. He tried the door, and then went to the window. He saw, or thought he saw, a man move into the shadow of the safe. The bank manager, who had been sent for, arrived with the keys. There was, he said, a watchman on duty, and the fact that he had not answered the repeated knocking was ominous. He unlocked the door and the detectives entered. "You had better take charge of the search, Wade—give Mr. Wade a gun," said the chief. Somebody thrust an automatic into his hand, and he plunged in. The manager's room was empty, but a second door was ajar. He pushed this open, stopped... Bang! A bullet struck the wall and covered his face with plaster. The second shot came nearer. He thrust his hand round the jamb of the door and sprayed the interior with ten shots. He did not hear the answering fire, but his sleeve was ripped to rags. He demanded a pistol from the detective who had crept to his side, passing his own back. As he did so, he heard footsteps. Again he put his pistol inside and fired two shots. This time there was no answer. It might be a trap, but he must take the risk. In a second he was in the room. It was a small office below the level of the manager's. In one corner was a steel door, behind that he could hear the sound of a motor. He tried the door. It opened suddenly—he had a glimpse of a car. Rat-tat-tat-tat! A car swept past, and from its interior came the rattle of automatic rifles. Bullets whizzed, glass crashed, and there was a scurry to cover. Then the car disappeared into St. James's park. The next morning Wade went to the hospital to see his would-be suicide. To his amazement, she had left. "A creature of amazing vitality," said the house surgeon. "Within a few hours, she walked out. Attempted suicide, was it? The policeman who brought her here thought she had fallen into the water by accident. So no charge was preferred. By the way, she was frantic about a photograph she had lost. "Did she give any names?" "Just Anna." John Wade was not interested in the woman, and she would have slipped from his mind, if it had not been for the incident of the photograph. He went to the Mecca to have a word with Lila. Without telling her what was troubling him, he asked whether she knew anyone named Anna. "Anna?" she said slowly. "I don't know anybody by that name. Yet I seem to know the name so well. Isn't it curious? Her sensitive lips twitched in the faintest smile. "She's a dream, I suppose." "Like the strange experience you once told me of?" he bawled. "No, that wasn't a dream," she said hastily. "But it was silly of me to tell you about it... It was nothing, really." He was too experienced a cross-examiner to pursue his questions, even if he had not heard "Mum's" voice just then. Mrs. Oaks had been to the city and had returned with a visitor whom Lila Smith disliked—Raggit Lane. He was tall and spare, with a thin, ascetic face that would have been good looking but for the lift of one corner of his lip, which produced the illusion of a permanent sneer. He was always well dressed; his nails were always manicured, his black hair brilliantly polished. He wore no jewelry except a small signet ring. "Mum" was vague about his profession, but Lila gathered that he followed the sea. He had tea with Mrs. Oaks in her sitting room—a large room, with two long, opaque windows. "How is the old man?" she asked, when tea was over. "Oh? Oh, he's all right. I don't want him to know I've been here today." She smiled. "You don't want him to know you've been here at all, do you? You can trust me, Mr. Lane. I never discuss anything with him, except Lila; and I don't see him more than an hour every year." Mr. Lane's brows met in a deep frown. "Who is this Lila?" Mrs. Oaks would do much for her good-looking visitor, but he had asked a question she could not, with safety, answer. She said, instead: "This fellow Wade worries me. He's always hanging around the house. I don't know whether he's after the girl, or what. You never know what a copper's doing." "Inspector Wade? He's pretty clever, isn't he?" "Mum" smiled derisively. "Ain't they all clever, by their own account? From what I hear, they nearly got him the other day, these India Rubber people. I wish they had!" Lane laughed. "The India Rubber men seem to be rather busy," he said. "Who are they?" She shook her head. "I don't know anything about 'em," she said decisively. He shrugged. "Let's get down to business," he suggested. She nodded and, going to the fireplace, rolled back the hearth rug and pried up a section of the floor. Beneath was a steel trap door. She opened it and brought out half a dozen little canvas bags filled with jewelry. Lane made his selection, dropped the articles into his pocket, and returned the rest. Just then there was a sharp rap at the door. Mrs. Oaks looked up. "Who's that?" she asked. "I should like to have two words with you, Mrs. Oaks." It was the voice of John Wade. Quickly she gathered the packages together, dropped them into the safe, replaced the parquet, and rolled back the hearth rug. While she was doing this, Lane entered a big wardrobe at the end of the room. Then she unlocked the door. "What do you want?" she asked. To her alarm, Wade's eyes were glued on the wardrobe. "I came to ask you a question, but I seem to have arrived at a very awkward moment. Quite an unimportant question—nothing whatever to do with my duties—but I won't wait." He walked to the door and beamed back at her. "I'm afraid your boy friend will be suffocated, unless you let him out soon," he said, and closed the door. "Toward evening he wandered aimlessly along Shaftesbury avenue, and passed through Leicester Square, to one of the streets that led into the Strand. A big limousine came noisily from the other end of the street and stopped before a restaurant. John Wade halted. He was not curious as to the people who were being assisted from the car by the stout commissionaire; his chief desire was not to barge into them as they crossed the pavement. "The man who alighted was tall; his head was bald, and his hard, old face was covered with wrinkles. "Come on, my dear," he said impatiently, and assisted his companion to the pavement. She was dressed in white, and wore a coat of silver tissue, with a deep ermine collar. A slim, radiant figure of youth; from her golden hair to the tips of her silver shoes she was a vision of loveliness. For a moment John Wade did not see her face, and then, as she came under the light, she turned her head. She did not see John Wade, but he saw her, and his jaw dropped. It was Lila Smith! ### Boy Scouts Will Receive Merit Badges

Other Honor Awards Given at Meeting of Local Units

Public court of honor for Iowa City Boy Scouts will be held Sept. 2, at 7:30 p. m. in the English Lutheran church. Host of the meeting will be troop 8 under the leadership of Fred Jones, scoutmaster.

The meeting was announced yesterday by Scout Executive Glenn G. Fordyce in a letter to local scoutmasters. The court will open the Scout season for the coming year.

Give Awards

Scouts that wish advancement appear before the public court of honors to receive awards. Awards that will be given are: second class, first class, merit badges, Star, Life, and Eagle advancements. Scouts that wish advancement must appear before the council before receiving their awards.

Hold Meeting Wednesday

The regular monthly meeting of the board of reviews will be held next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. on the second floor of the American Legion building. The board will be under the direction of Gordon Kent, deputy scout commissioner, Mr. Fordyce announced in his letter.

The letter further stated that plans were being made by Iowa City Scouts to celebrate the two hundredth birthday of George Washington next February. One of the projects being planned by Mr. Fordyce is that of planting black walnut seeds from the trees in Mt. Vernon. The letter suggests that the seeds be procured this fall and set out in local nurseries.

National Committee

In many councils, Mr. Fordyce asserted, a movement is on foot for Iowa City Scouts to cooperate with a national committee in charge of this celebration. The letter asks that troops wishing seeds get in touch with Mr. Fordyce in order that the number of seeds to be purchased can be determined.

Ackley Mayor New Head of Cities League

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Aug. 19 (AP)—Mayor Fred E. Trainer of Ackley today was elected president of the league of Iowa municipalities. Mayor Parker L. Crouch of Des Moines was named vice president.

The league, now holding its annual convention here, re-elected Frank G. Pierce of Marshalltown as secretary-treasurer, a post he has held since the organization of the body 33 years ago.

Representatives of six Iowa cities affected in the state executive council's order against stream pollution met in a special session today and resolved to band together when an order is issued against any one of them.

These representatives decided that if the state council sets a time for a hearing on sewage disposal for either Des Moines, Ft. Dodge, Marshalltown, Cedar Rapids, Cedar Falls, or Waterloo, that all these cities will be invited to send a representative to the hearing. This move the committee regarded as one of mutual defense.

thrown into confusion. From the water came countless cries of "help," cries relayed by those on shore to life guards who even then were dashing into the water.

The guards put out in a boat, but it capsized almost immediately. Others were launched successfully. A human chain of guards and bathers was formed, and many of those struggling in the water were saved.

Pittsburgh Man Drowned
One man's body was found floating in the water. It was identified late today by his widow as that of Charles F. McKenna, 58, of Pittsburgh.

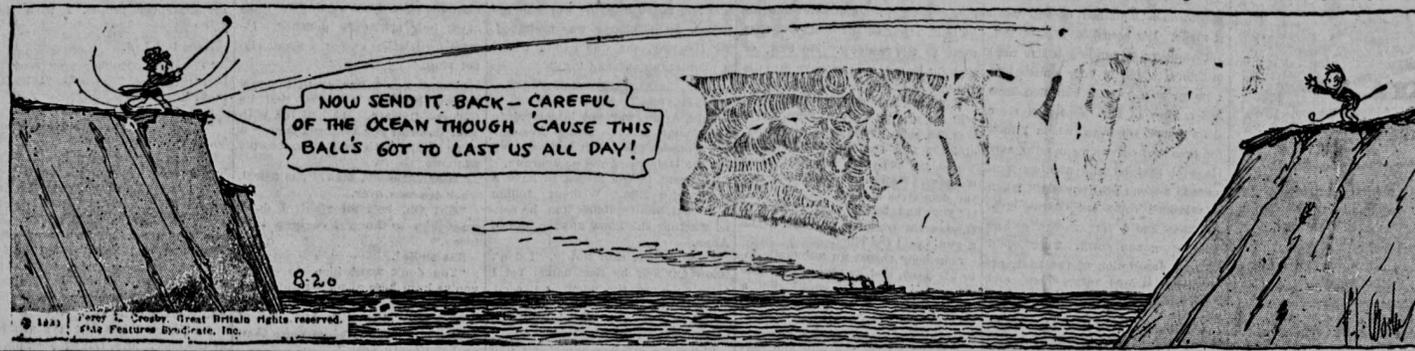

The cause of the water upheaval was not known, but opinions advanced were many. Some said they were just freak waves, others declared they were caused by storms at sea, and still others maintained they were tidal waves, resulting from a quake at the sea bottom.

Two Seek Divorce in September Court

Two applications for divorce were filed yesterday with Walter J. Barrow, clerk of the district court. The first was filed by Mabel E. Evans asking complete divorce and $5 a week alimony for the care of the only daughter, Dorothy Marie, on charges of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Charging desertion, Agnes Southard asks complete divorce from Brodie Southard. Attorney for the plaintiff is Kenneth M. Dunlop.

SKIPPY—A Long Drive.

Oil Fails to Excite Soggy Stock Market

Net Advance for Ninety Lead Issues Less Than Point

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—A soggy stock market again refused to be dragged upward by the oil shares, and although the trading ended with a preponderance of narrow gains in the more active issues, the net advance for the average of 90 representative stocks was only 1-4 of a point.

The midweek business statistics failed to provide bullish fuel for the market, and while Wall Street was inclined to regard the Wiggins report on the German financial situation as the most candid discussion of the situation in some years, the nature of the remedies proposed was interpreted as possibly foreshadowing a long period of international bickering and unsettlement.

Bond Market Steadier

The bond market was on the whole a lot steadier than yesterday, but falls continued to register low levels. In the foreign group, Germans were little affected by the Wiggins report. The Argentines were conspicuously heavy.

In the commodities, cotton again was under pressure, as the weather reports were somewhat more bearish than expected, and prices were under pressure in Liverpool.

Wheat Unchanged

Wheat finished the day virtually unchanged, but corn dropped to new lows for the season, the September delivery losing 2 cents a bushel.

The day's total turnover of shares, was only 1,064,301, the smallest for a full session in more than a week. American Can, American Telephone, and General Motors closed about unchanged, the last named recording a net gain of 1-4. U. S. Steel closed 3-4 of a point lower. Some of the merchandising issues were in demand.

Stevenson to Bring Action in Iowa Court

S. K. Stevenson, former Iowa City attorney, who was disbarred from practicing law, April 24, when found guilty of 16 of the 17 charges of unethical and unprofessional conduct brought against, filed notice of appeal to the supreme court of Iowa Tuesday afternoon at the office of the clerk of the district court.

The notice states that Mr. Stevenson appeals from rulings and orders made by the three district judges hearing the case. The hearing was held before Judges Frank Bechly, Montezuma, James Deland, Storm Lake, and W. S. Cooper, Winterset.

The appeal, filed by E. L. O'Connor and E. A. Baldwin attorneys for Mr. Stevenson, is the first of its kind to be heard by the supreme court under the 1927 disbarment law which takes disbarment cases from the district court and makes them subject to a special hearing.

V. N. A. Investigation Continues; Board to Hear Report Soon

Although no report has been made available of progress of the investigation into administration of the Iowa City Visiting Nurses office, a committee of six persons is still engaged in the inquiry.

The committee, composed of representatives of the Nurses association and the Welfare board, will probably have a report completed for the Aug. 25 meeting of the latter group.

E. H. Lauer, treasurer of the Welfare board, has not yet advanced the Community Chest budget allowance to the Visiting Nurses, although the board has guaranteed payment of salaries for those in the association's employ.

Mr. Lauer cut off the association's funds last spring following the discharge of three nurses and refused to grant further money until administration of the Visiting Nurse office had been put on a basis satisfactory to the Welfare board.

That body will take up the question of renewing payments to the Nurses' group at its meeting later in the month.

commanded by Captain Pablo Fernandez, advanced on the town and were met by machine gun fire. Immediately reinforcements moved on the city in an encircling maneuver. Meanwhile, the "Patria" guns and the three artillery pieces commenced bombardment, assisted by air attack, and drove the rebels from their strong position, including one small fort at the entrance of the harbor.

Couple Injured When Car Crowded From Highway, Overturns

Two persons received broken bones when the car in which they were riding to Muscatine from Iowa City was crowded off the road six miles east of here on highway No. 32 at 6:15 p. m. yesterday.

The injured parties, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cohen, are unable to identify the car which failed to stop after it had crowded their car from the pavement into a telephone pole, where it overturned.

The couple was rushed to an Iowa City hospital where it was found that Mrs. Cohen suffered a broken left collar bone and Mrs. Cohen two broken left ribs.

deal in the schedules of international payments.

Call for Action
After an examination of Germany's financial situation, the bankers put the question up to the governments and called on them for action. Only action by the powers along these lines can restore economic prosperity to the troubled world, the financial experts stated.

Albert H. Wiggins, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank, New York, and head of the bankers' committee, remained in Basel tonight before going to a French resort for golf and a rest tomorrow. He denied himself to all interviewers.

The American banker and his colleagues were understood to feel they had accomplished—and accomplished well and quickly—the task entrusted to them by the London seven-power conference a month ago.

Need Discreet Speculation
The next development in the active financial situation looking to the recovery of confidence and the restoration of financial stability is now the subject of discreet speculation in international banking quarters.

Two immediate possibilities loom up. Will the governments, taking up the bankers' challenge, immediately summon a diplomatic conference to tackle reparations problems? Or will they call on a banking commission—Mr. Wiggins' or a new one—to advise them as to the next practical step?

Hint Spain to Take Action on Catholics
MADRID, Aug. 20 (Thursday) (AP)—Miguel Maura, minister of interior, announced this morning that the first decree applying to activities of the Catholic church in Spain would be published Friday by the government. He declined to state what the decree would be in detail.

The minister of interior told a reporter for the Catholic newspaper "El Debate": "we are preparing drastic measures against Catholics."

In spite of the secrecy maintained by the government regarding conclusions at last Tuesday's cabinet session, well informed political circles believe that plans have been made to take energetic measures against activities of the clergy.

In these quarters it was said the government would try to prevent the bishops from appealing to Catholics to oppose the constitutional projects now before the assembly which are considered to be anti-clerical.

Iowa Rail Property Drops $14,000,000 in Assessment Values

DES MOINES, Aug. 19 (AP)—A reduction of $14,594,050 in the value of Iowa railroad property for assessment as compared to the 1929-30 total, has been made by the state board of assessment and review.

The total value of railroad property was placed at $292,487,438, while the previous figure was $307,181,488. The 1931 total includes $281,176,134 for steam road, $9,465,550 for interurbans and $1,847,754 for sleeping cars.

Transmission line, telegraph and telephone values for 1931 were set at $48,857,446, an increase of $4,974,482 over the previous year. The total includes $9,583,918 for transmission lines and $39,274,428 for telephone and telegraph.

Charge Counterfeiting EAST GRAND FORKS, Minn., Aug. 19 (AP)—Four men were arrested here today on charges of counterfeiting after operating, officers said, in several north central states. They said they were Klement Skentli, and Frank Cumeski, Ashland, Wis.; Mike Sonuka, Minneapolis, and Stanley Putrak, Chicago.

MANCHESTER (AP)—Sheriff Harry G. Utley and Acting Coroner M. J. Moran, of Delaware county, were trying to determine how Michael Kelly, 38, received injuries which caused his death. He had a fractured skull.

Defense Fined for Misquoting Murder Judge

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 19 (AP)—Speaking "officially, judicially and privately," Circuit Judge D. C. Jones today branded a statement in an affidavit filed by two attorneys for a miner as "an infamous lie" and fined the lawyers $30 each for contempt of court.

The judge's vigorous protest was aimed at Ben Golden, Palmyville, and M. F. Hall, Harlan, acting for William M. Burnett, charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff Jesse Pace in mine disorders last April.

The particular section of the affidavit that angered the jurist was the statement that he had said "miners generally are reds and communists."

After Golden and Hall had filed the affidavit, Judge Jones asked: "On what do you base this falsehood that I branded miners generally as reds and communists?"

"I don't propose to be catechised on this affidavit," began Golden. "That's an infamous lie," interrupted, "and I say it officially, judicially and privately and you and

Mr. Hall are fined $30 each. I warn you the next time you put a falsehood in an affidavit I'll tack on a jail sentence."

Bad Heart Dooms Aged Tabor Tree
TABOR, Aug. 19 (AP)—It had a bad heart, so the 75 year old tree in the front yard of the W. W. Argo home here was cut down today.

It was one of the first trees to be planted in Tabor and in size also was the patriarch of them all. It measured 15 feet in circumference at the base.

Benjamin Gardner planted the tree in the early '50s.

Deliveries of Corn Shatter Low Records

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP)—All deliveries of corn shattered the season's low price record today, the September oats dropped to the lowest figure since 1899. Persistent liquidating sales by holders of September corn had a decidedly unsettling effect, and good rains over much of the corn belt gave a further advantage to bears.

Accelerated by stop loss orders, September corn, representing grain already in store, suffered a maximum fall of 2 1-4 cents a bushel, and forfeited more than 1 1-2 cents of its premium over December, which stands for the new 1931 crop.

Selling pressure on other deliveries of corn than September was heavy at times, but less so than in September, which from the outset was on the downgrade. Shipping demand lacked vigor, and this circumstance added to the worries of holders.

Aside from small corn receipts here and at other terminal markets, nothing developed to check the tendency of many owners to let go. Doubt was expressed, however, that the chief holder of cash corn was relinquishing his grip.
