IOWA CITY, IOWA SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1931

VOL. XXXI NUMBER 185

IOWA OPENS GAGE SEASON TONIGHT

City Council Accepts S.U.I. Aid for Fire Protection

Will Advance $7,500 Sum in Two Parts

Appropriation Provides Purchasing of New Equipment

Iowa City fire protection was extended more specifically to include non taxable university property last night at city council meeting when the council voted to accept a $7,500 state board of education appropriation for additional fire equipment.

Two Allotments

The state contribution to the local fire unit will be advanced in two equal allotments, City Solicitor Will J. Hayes explained in presenting the appropriation to the council.

Housing Problem

Mayor J. J. Carroll pointed out that a service truck might prove too long to be housed in the station and still provide room for the fire chief's car.

Milk Ordinance

Other major business transacted last night included passing of an ordinance governing the bottling and selling of grade "A" milk, hearing and accepting of a two year paving program for Iowa City, and reconsideration of bus parking regulations at the intersection of Washington and Dubuque streets.

Mechanically Capped Bottles

Milk and cream must be delivered in mechanically capped bottles and should the temperature of the milk rise over 60 degrees, the milk must be in parchment paper containers in sealed cans properly wrapped.

Health Inspection

Persons having any form of communicable disease, as determined by the city medical examiner, will not be allowed to work on dairies selling grade "A" milk. The board of health will recommend health inspection of applications for possession of such dairies.

Parking Limit

A parking limit of 10 minutes for out of town buses was ordered by the council. Provisions as to parking space for the buses were not made at the meeting.

Paving Plan

Presentation of the two year paving plan by the city engineer included streets to be paved, alleys to be surfaced and sanitary sewers to be installed during the coming two years. The matter will be further studied and presented to the council at its next meeting.

Streets to be paved

Streets to be paved on or before April 1, 1932, are: Burlington street from west side of Linn street to west side of Muscatine avenue; Linn street from north side of Burlington street to south side of College street; Jefferson street from center line of Van Buren street to center

Reuter Gives Baconian Talk on Hawaiians

Discusses Situation of Chino-American Residents

Within the polyglot population of the territory of Hawaii, the third generation of Chinese, united with Americans, and American in sentiment, knowledge, belief, and loyalty, lives today. Their situation was described last night by Prof. Edward B. Reuter of the sociology department, in the opening lecture of the Baconian series.

Coories Attain Prosperity

The coories did not leave the islands, gradually becoming more and more prosperous in a realm of easy and rapid economic advances. But in attaining their prosperity, they incurred the antagonism of the groups which they had formerly served.

Continuous Change

It was a continuous change, only discernible when seen in contrast with the life of the Asiatic Chinese, but its result was sure. The Chinese dialects were lost in the transmission to the second generation; and although the final result has been the formation of a race whose manner of life closely approaches the European and American norm, the individuals have become "pidgin" in language, and polyglot in culture.

Continuation of the Baconian Series

The series, which is presented under the chairmanship of Prof. Walter F. Loehwing of the botany department, President Walter A. Jessup will speak Dec. 11 at the chemistry auditorium, on "Problems in higher education administration." The talk will be broadcast from WSUI, beginning at 7:05 p.m.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 4

(AP)—Loyola university defeated Drake university's Bulldogs 22 to 7 here tonight. The Bulldogs led 7 to 6 at the end of the first period, but thereafter the Loyola eleven started a steady drive to victory.

Only about 5,000 persons were in the stands to see the intersection contest which was fought in a crisp chill atmosphere.

WOULD OPEN CHICAGO TO SEA

The mid-west's plea for a waterway to the sea was voiced by state governors at the meeting of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association in Chicago Thursday. Front, left to right, are Governors Leslie of Indiana, George White of Ohio, George Shafer of North Dakota, and in the rear are Governors J. Erickson of Montana, Floyd Olson of Minnesota and Warren Green of South Dakota as they studied the map of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project that would open Chicago to 80 per cent of the ships on the world's oceans.

Hoover's Kin Acquitted in Liquor Court

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 4 (AP)—Cornelius Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, was acquitted of a liquor possession charge today by Police Judge C. A. M. Spencer.

Judge Frees Executive's Brother-in-Law of Possession

The verdict was received with applause by the crowded courtroom. Leavitt, a retired plumber, testified he did not know what the sack contained. It had been thrust into his hands by Dalley with a request to "throw it away," he said.

Continuation of the Baconian Series

The series, which is presented under the chairmanship of Prof. Walter F. Loehwing of the botany department, President Walter A. Jessup will speak Dec. 11 at the chemistry auditorium, on "Problems in higher education administration." The talk will be broadcast from WSUI, beginning at 7:05 p.m.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4 (AP)—In the midst of hearty laughter over the antics of Joe E. Brown, film comedian, who was making a personal appearance in a theater here last night, Mrs. Mary D. Armstead, 53, fainted from a heart attack and died before aid could reach her.

Plan Terminal at Iowa City for Transcontinent Air Lines

Feeder air lines from many points in southern Iowa may have the Iowa City municipal airport as their terminal, announced David W. Crum, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who has received word from southern Iowa towns that activity has begun to connect the lines with the transcontinental air line here.

It is now necessary to make more direct connections. There has been a very sizeable increase in the use of the air mail in these cities during the past year and their service could be speeded by the change.

Ida B. Smith Attacks Foes of Prohibition

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Des Moines, vice president of the women's Christian Temperance union, today launched a broadside attack upon opponents of prohibition in a speech before the opening session of the regional conference here.

Speech Predicts Home Will Keep Statute on Books

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Although directed to keep its loans principally to banks and trust companies, it was given permission to lend up to 12 1/2 per cent of its capital stock and bonds outstanding directly to individual corporations.

Germany to Renew Fight Against Paying

Hoover Plans Huge Finance Organization

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—President Hoover plans to spread before congress the outline of a huge federal finance organization, simulating in part the structure of the war finance corporation with its government backing of many millions.

Not Surprising

Word that he was at work upon it, however, was regarded in some quarters as more of a confirmation than a surprise. Last Oct. 6, in announcing his $500,000,000 credit pool, he served notice such a step would be recommended if he considered it a "necessity."

Reaches Decision

President Hoover's decision in favor of an organization along the lines of the war finance corporation, was reached after a study of the effects of his National Credit corporation plan.

Loan to Banks

Again hundreds of millions of dollars were loaned. As late as 1928, those charged with the corporation's affairs were active in liquidating $475,500,000 in loans made to farmers and stockmen.

Attack on "Liquor Lobby"

Mrs. Smith attacked the "liquor lobby in Washington" as the "liquor traffic in the guise of various organizations with high sounding names," whispering to members of congress that prohibition has failed.

Judge Places $23,000 Bond on Crusader

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—Daniel L. Gilday, the liquor and vice crusader who shot 17 year old Herman Knol, was held on $23,000 bond today by a judge who said "this defendant has laid down hard and fast rules for the conduct of others and now he has run afoul of those rules."

Court Says Defendant Broke Self-Made Conduct Rules

The prosecution waited to file charges against Gilday until young Knol's recovery from his bullet wound in the abdomen was practically assured. His physician said today that "everything is favorable."

Tech Team Will Also Depend on Green Players

Probable Starting Lineups
IOWA
Kotlow LF LF Stephens
Glick RF RF Mace (c)
Brecher C C Davis
Break RG RG Koshler
Pilkins LG LG Gibbs

By BILL RUTLEDGE

It will be a great evening for sophomores tonight at the Iowa field house.

Only two veterans have been named in the starting lineups for the Hawkeye and the Bradley Tech quintets.

Members of the squad who have been occupied with football this fall, in addition to Rogers—Howard Moffitt at forward, Harold Swamy and Phil Thurtle at guards—will be worked into the lineup gradually.

His back court mate will be Douglas Pilkins of Eagle Grove. Both prospects have appeared impressive in practices since Oct. 1.

Lester Glick has earned a forward berth and as the season progresses Moffitt may be teamed up with him. The two have played together on Iowa City junior high, high school, and university freshman quintets.

Unseasoned players will carry Bradley's attack as well as Iowa's. Capt. Frank Mace, the visitors' scoring ace, is lone starting veteran.

A third straight triumph over the Hawkeyes is Bradley's objective. Champions of the Little 19 conference two years ago, Coach A. J. Robertson's team defeated Iowa 38 to 25.

A last minute free throw was the margin of victory last year.

Buyers Seek Prize Stock for Yuletide

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—Festive boards in all sections of the nation and on the high seas will greet, come Christmas, under steaks, chops, roasts from animals which gained fame at the international livestock exposition here.

Prices paid this year are, in general, lower than the champion steers, wethers and barrows have brought in other seasons, but the representatives of "best places" have been in the forefront at all sales.

500 Couples Dance to Music of Husk O'Hare's Orchestra at First Formal of Season

Gowns of Brilliant Hues Vie at Sophomore Cotillion; Programs for Event Carry Silhouettes of Old Gold

Not chilled by the iciness of the wintry cave which housed Husk O'Hare and his orchestra at the Sophomore Cotillion, in the main lounge of Iowa Union last night, gowns of brilliant hues vied for a glamorous effect. One caught glimpses of Old Capitol silhouetted in gold on the black leather programs which dangled on gloved arms of dancers. More than 500 couples attended.

Nelle Traer, A2 of Davenport, general chairman of the party, was attended in a tightly fitted gown of black velvet, with the neckline cut to a low V in back. A twisted girle of black and crimson velvet completed the gown. With it she wore long, brilliant earrings, black broadsword slippers, and a black velvet wrap. Her escort was G. Andrew Ammann, A4 of Bounton, N. J.

Turquoise Blue Crepe
Lucy Marsh, A2 of Keokuk, wore a gown of turquoise blue crepe, fashioned with a peplum around the waist. Long, white gloves, turquoise blue shoes, and a black velvet wrap completed her costume. Miss Marsh, who was a member of the committee, was escorted by Lyman Mitchell, A2 of Cedar Rapids.

Bertha Heitland, A2 of Sibley, a member of the committee, wore a gown of blue lace over coral, fitted princess fashion, with a large coral sash bow in the back. Coral sandals, long coral earrings, and long white kid gloves added to her costume. Her wrap was of cloth-of-silver, trimmed in seal and ermine. She was escorted by Richard Speirs, M3 of Spearville, Kan.

Black Velvet
A long, sweeping, black velvet formal, décollete with slender shoulder straps crossing in the back, was chosen by Margaret Morris, A2 of Waterloo, a member of the committee. Her sandals and hose were of black. In contrast were the brilliant earrings, brilliant pin, and brilliant bracelet which were her accessories. She wore a wrap of black velvet, trimmed with white fur. Her escort was William Dotson, A1 of Waterloo.

Jean Kelso, A2 of Waterloo, was gowned in white satin. Her dress was fitted tightly at the waist by a black velvet belt, and flared from knees to floor. Her sandals, hose, and long kid gloves were of black. She wore a wrap of black velvet with a white fur collar. Tom Moore, A2 of Waterloo, a member of the committee, escorted her.

Watermelon Rose Satin
A formal of watermelon rose satin, closely fitted at the waist, and flaring in soft folds to the floor, was worn by Margaret McCulley, A2 of Omaha, Neb., who was a member of the committee. Her dress was of rhinestone buckles matched her dress. Shoulder straps of the gown were of brilliant, as were her necklace and belt buckle. Rhinestone earrings and bracelet were her accessories. A turquoise blue velvet jacket with a white fur collar completed her attire. Her escort was Kenneth Judy, M4 of Iowa City.

Zita Maher, C3 of Iowa City, was the guest of Leo Aschenbrenner, E4 of Dyars, who was a student chaplain. Plainness marked the design of the red flat crepe gown worn by Miss Maher. A black chiffon cocktail jacket, ornamented with silver beads, added distinction to her attire. She wore long silver earrings and black crepe slippers.

Green Taffeta
A light green taffeta frock, fashioned with a tight-fitting waist and a generous flare in the skirt, was the choice of Mary Lewis, A3 of Osceola. She wore slippers tinted the same shade as her dress, and long, white kid gloves. A beige caracul jacket completed her costume. Her escort was Paul Strain, L3 of Muscatine, a student chaplain.

Chaperons were Dean and Mrs. George F. Kay, Dean Adelaide L. Burge, Dean Robert E. Rienow, Prof. Fred J. Lazell, Dr. and Mrs. Lee Travis, Prof. and Mrs. Clyde Hart, and Prof. and Mrs. Lonzo Jones.

Theta Xi
Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Locke, Coach and Mrs. Burton Ingwersen, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Meyers, and Mrs. Grace Meyers were dinner guests at the Theta Xi house, Thursday evening.

Water Silk Parisian
A sweeping, black water silk Parisian creation was selected by Betty Meyers, N3 of Iowa City, who is a student chaplain. She wore long black gloves and black slippers. Rhinestone earrings and bracelet were her accessories. A turquoise blue velvet jacket with a white fur collar completed her attire. Her escort was Kenneth Judy, M4 of Iowa City.

Restaurant Owner Gives Prescription for Success

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—A man who started in the restaurant business as a bus boy and became owner of a string of cafeterias in Iowa and Illinois today wrote a prescription for the business ailments of restaurateurs.

Carl G. Stoddard, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., told the directors of the American Restaurant association, of which he is past president, that he made more money this year than he did in 1930 and then gave this formula for success:

"Aggressive salesmanship backed by increased advertising appropriation and adjustments to environmental conditions."

"Don't quit," he said, "because business is poor. Go out and get it. 'People must eat. Just give them quality food at right prices. 'Don't cringe before new situations. Meet them with improved service and better food.'"

Stoddard urged the association to speed the canvass of members for a national advertising fund.

The directors recently voted to raise $1,000,000 for advertising purposes and Stoddard is directing the drive.

Court Admits Proof Against 29 Gangsters
Judge Allows Evidence Given in Trial of Bootleggers

PEORIA, Ill., Dec. 4 (AP)—Two thousand sheets of paper by which the government hopes to prove the existence of a liquor conspiracy were accepted as evidence today against 29 defendants in federal court.

The huge mass of documents offered by 113 witnesses during the last three weeks was admitted by Judge Louis Fitzhenry with only three exceptions. These included police photographs of Dominic Leonetti of Davenport, Ia., one of the defendants, and Otto Apperson, indicted but never arrested in connection with the conspiracy alleged to have existed in the tri-city area during 1928, 1929 and 1930.

The third exception was a ledger showing that shipments of corn sugar, lin cans and coke to defendants in East Moline, Ill., ceased when a distillery operated by other defendants nearby was raided.

Although the government withheld a few exhibits showing telephone calls between the Tri-City area and three Chicago defendants, prosecutors practically finished their case today.

The evidence admitted, included hundreds of bank drafts and cashiers' checks, telegram money orders, telephone calls, express bills, freight receipts, orders for 8,600,000 pounds of corn sugar, 100,000 pounds of yeast, records of more than $1,000,000 in bank deposits purporting to link all defendants in the manufacture, transportation, distribution, and sale of alcohol and raw materials necessary to the business.

Defense Attorney Waugh of Chicago lost a battle to keep from the jury complete records of about $1,000,000 in bank deposits made in Chicago by Newberry under eight names.

New Development
A new development came in the trial today when the government demanded that Edward Corwin, reporter for the Peoria Star, break a confidence and testify to a conversation with Newberry regarding $30,000 in checks he received from Jack Wall, another of the defendants.

"I didn't report it," Corwin said. "I was seeking information from Marshall myself."

The reporter said he was uncertain if Newberry said "whiskey" or "automobiles" or what. The government admitted losing the point.

Franchise Defeated
MARION (AP)— Voters defeated a proposal to grant a 25 year franchise to the Cedar Rapids Gas company.

3 Farm Boys Get Ovation at Emmetsburg

EMMETSBURG, Dec. 4 (AP)— Three farm boys who made good in Chicago came back today to a welcome Emmetsburg and Palo Alto county haven't accorded in many years.

Two said their victory in the crops judging contest at the international livestock exposition strengthened their desire to be farmers the rest of their lives.

Plans to Become Crop Expert
John Williams, the 19 year old leader of the team, a junior college student now and a football player, declared he plans to become a crop expert.

"All the hours we spent preparing for the competition were worth it," he maintained. Spencer Torkelson, 18 year old high school junior, is his father's best hired man. He's going to be a farmer too.

Hasn't Decided Vocation
As for Merritt Giffin, the 14 year old son of a former farm bureau president, hasn't decided yet his vocation. Things for him are complicated because he also has won honors in declamatory work.

When the boys and their coach, Virgil Webster, Palo Alto county agent, arrived on the noon local, most of the town and many persons from all parts of the county were at the station to greet them and offer congratulations for winning the international 4-H club judging championship.

Entire Town Turns Out
It was a blustery day, but streets around the station were packed long before the train was due.

Their parents, too, Mr. and Mrs. Art Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Torkelson, and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Giffin, attended the luncheon. The boys were given fountain pens.

at tabloid newspapers, which make him say things he doesn't say, and he flees from persons who suggest that Al Capone is a modern Robin Hood.

Although he has been in the United States for only a short time, he knows all about the monetary system. Ten dimes make a dollar and all that sort of thing. He isn't angry at the motion pictures for altering his books, and he causes him no worry when Americans and English alike buy his novels by the hundred thousand. He is interested in anything that anyone has to say, and he likes to tell funny stories.

For Charity

ALWAYS WHEN the need has arisen for organized charity to tide a large part of the population over a difficult situation numerous enterprises have hastened to capitalize on the situation for private gain.

At this time, when welfare organizations are being started or increasing their activities all over the country, it is of the utmost importance that attempts by individuals or groups to exploit the situation for their own advantage be rigorously checked.

Worse than maladministration of charity funds or petty graft are the pseudo charities which flourish under the banner of charity, extorting contributions from generous and gullible philanthropists only to divert the receipts into channels which are far from the doors of the needy.

In such a time it becomes only too easy for those who are staging public performances of any kind to label their enterprise with the magic word "charity" and thus attract an attendance which is indifferent about getting its money's worth, secure in the feeling of having helped the unfortunate poor.

Holy Cross and Boston college played in a charity football game recently, and when the fiscal results were tabulated it was found that the unemployed were $12,000 in debt. This was after a deduction of $30,000 "expense money" for each of the two institutions.

One writer suggests that the logical way to balance the books is for the unemployed to hold a "charity" contest for the benefit of the two schools.

No one will question the high purpose of those contests which are given in good faith for the benefit of the unemployed or destitute. But in order that the fake charities may not destroy the effectiveness for good of the bona fide benefit contests, some means of regulating good and bad alike should be found and put into effect immediately.

The Gift Personal

JUST ONE OLD toy, is the price of admission for the boys and girls of Iowa City at the Garden theater Boy Scout show at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

The Boy Scouts are sponsoring the project but the toy, not the show, is the idea. All toys will be repaired by children of the public schools and distributed at Christmas time to toyless boys and girls.

The Toy Becomes a Tool

IT APPEARS that the period of stunt flying and long distance flights, insofar as these two no longer serve a useful purpose, is drawing to a close.

psychology department of the University of Indiana. "Smoking a pipe with eyes closed isn't very satisfactory because you can't see the smoke curl up or the fire in the bowl."

The fact is, that human beings often do not enjoy things for the reasons they think they do. A pipe, for instance, is not smoked nearly so much for the tobacco it contains, as because it is pleasant to handle, serves as a focus of attention, and gives one a feeling of mastery, the professor has decided.

Lee cream also has its share in deceiving its ardent supporters. It has not gained its popularity because it is actually "good to eat" but because it is cold, it feels smooth on one's tongue, and has been accepted as a favorite dish.

Professor Yeager points out that food, which tastes good in one restaurant, may, if transferred to another place, be wholly unsatisfactory. "The food would be the same as far as the actual taste goes, but it's the music, the decorations, and the general atmosphere that serve to make one thoroughly enjoy his meal."

If the Indiana professor's deductions are right, at least we can be thankful that human beings are such susceptible creatures and hope that they will go on enjoying ice cream and cigars.

It would be a great tragedy to drop two such necessary luxuries merely because they aren't as good as persons have always believed them to be.

Some of the college students, writing home vainly for funds, begin to think that the college is simply the well-known school of adversity.

Hold on a little longer, men! Pretty soon you won't have to feel apologetic about the trousers and the shirtwaists. Fringes, we see, are going to be stylish.

That's odd, because once we happened to be in New York and heard and saw things that would make Pine Center's waitress blush.

But that was up in the 170's and over to the right a few blocks where probably Mr. Aswell never ventured. Y'see, there's a difference between the brightly lighted Broadway at Forty-second, and the street lamped wilds of apartment house districts.

Just as much difference, no doubt, as there is between the waitress at the Central hotel and the nearby farmer's daughter.

But that's all beside the point because the author of the magazine article doesn't stop at mere superficialities but goes on to say that "the columnists, preachers, novelists, and parents who have so long hinted at the dark iniquities of Manhattan should be ashamed of themselves. They are sending armies of young men into the town every year under false pretenses."

That sort of thing makes us appreciate the value of subsidization, and speculate on what the Moral Turpitude commission of New York city had to do with it. Because, to the square inch, New York isn't one jot cleaner any way you look at it than Pine Center. And except for the fact that liquor and play girls come in wholesale lots in the larger city, there isn't any difference.

"After 10 o'clock there is nothing to do except attend a midnight movie or one of the more respectable night clubs where carbonated cider costs $30 a quart," he continues, and admits that there may be some so-called playboys who spend from 50 to 75 thousand berries a year on a high time, but that they really don't get their money's worth.

Well, the lights may go out at 10 p.m. but—it's just like the sidewalks coming in at the same hour in Pine Center. It doesn't make a bit of difference to the high time minded. And you'd really be surprised at how far $20 can go.

Now, we aren't press agenting for the big town nor are we boosting its merchants. Really and truly, though, you don't have to divorce yourself from all those fancy ideas about N. Y. after dark, because it may not be entirely fancy. On the other hand, there are innumerable young filing clerks and salesgirls and typists and messenger boys who actually live their lives in the filthy place and come out as clean as a whistle, if that makes any difference when it comes to passing in one's checks.

Y'know, Aswell, who by the way, is just another Broadway columnist and should know his ropes, is primarily interested, it seems, in pushing pins in the bubbles of collegians who might on the well known road to ruin via thoughts of Broadway, and who got that way from reading other columnists' columns about the great white way.

And, after all, you can't really judge New York from Pine Center because you haven't seen or heard the lower east side, or smelled the river front or the zoo, or sneaked through the Village by moonlight and little else, or hobnobbed with the hobnobbers on the upper ups, or gone three stations past your destination in the subway because the pack was so sardicelike you couldn't get near the door, or be followed down lower Park Row by a dark hulk, or anything. And, since those are some of the things we've always wanted to do, too, let's both call this Iowa guy's bluff and spend our hard earned money in Iowa City.

Alpine weighed 300 pounds at the age of three years, 400 at the age of 12, and even gained three pounds while ill with the whooping cough. At present she tips the scales at 732 pounds, although she is only 20 years old. The most remarkable thing about Alpine is that she has no double chin, despite her weight. The Judge Without a Court: Judge Harry F. Newton of Tennessee, was elected judge of the Juvenile Court in the general county election of Hamilton county in August, 1930, and then learned there was no court for him. The Juvenile Court was created by the legislature at Nashville, but the county never appropriated any funds for it. Judge Newton is shown by his townsfolk as "The Judge with a heart and no court."

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL. HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood is its old gay self with Lupe Velez and Phil Dorsay back in town. Lupe is dominant for the moment, but Phil's "Allo, hee boy!" resounds about the boulevard and in the livelier gathering places. For Phil, there is no depression. "This is my biggest year," she says enthusiastically. "I have made three pictures and I went out for five weeks of vaudeville and stayed five months. If I want to go back after holidays, there are bookings waiting for me." I have an idea, though, film jobs are going to terminate Phil's wanderings for a while. She is taking a test at Paramount, where she has a good chance of playing opposite Maurice Chevalier in the French version of "One Hour With You." After the first of the year she is scheduled to be in Will Rogers' sequel to "They Had to See Paris."

Honor Group Names 23 to Membership

Select Students From Medicine, Law, Liberal Arts

Agnes Christensen, A4 of Iowa City; Clara B. Smith, A4 of Marshalltown; Harold J. Hoge, A4 of Springfield; and Dorothy Jean McManus, A4 of Keokuk, were named yesterday as electorates to Phi Beta Kappa honorary scholastic fraternity, as the five highest seniors in residence.

The five were nominated on the basis of 90 or more earned credits, honors credits not including, 45 or more of which were earned in the University of Iowa college of liberal arts.

Nominate on Credits Earned
Nominated on the basis of 150 or more earned and honors credits, 45 or more of which were received in the college of liberal arts, with 60 or more earned and honors credits to be earned by graduation were the following members of the February, 1932, graduating class in liberal arts: Esther J. Bishop, A4 of Alcon; Benrose Boyd, A4 of Keokuk; Ruth L. Burnsted, A4 of Webster City; Francine Lacey, A4 of Keota; William Lipstein, A4 of Newark, N. J.; and Harriet A. Stevens, A4 of Iowa City.

Among graduates of June, July, and August, 1931, nominated on the basis of 80 or more earned and honors credits gained in the college of liberal arts were Mrs. Grace P. Herren, Mrs. Nita Shaw Phillips, Richard L. Miller, Henry V. Price, Fred E. Ekfelt, Richard W. Malbaum, Ruth M. Meyer, Hannah M. Nyholm, and Leon O. Wirling.

Three Graduates named
Three graduates of June, 1931, who received B.A. degrees in combined courses in liberal arts and law, liberal arts and medicine, and liberal arts and engineering were named, as follows: Donald Brockey, Edward L. Carmody, and Jack R. Voltersten. Nominations were made on the basis of 90 or more earned and honors credits 60 or more of which were received in the college of liberal arts.

Make Dinner Plans
Plans were made at the meeting to hold initiation for the newly elected members, and the usual dinner shortly after the Christmas holidays was discussed. Prof. Jacob A. Vander Zee of the political science department, is chairman of the eligibility committee in the elections.

Integrated Bar Would Aid Legal Justice, Says Sayre

"Improvement in the skill of lawyers and betterment of justice administration in the state probably would result if the proposed integration of the bar becomes reality," believes Prof. Paul L. Sayre of the college of law.

In a survey of the proposal he pointed to the advantages of the scheme which would aid not only the lawyers themselves but the public also, he finds.

Professional knowledge would be shared rather than secreted when lawyers convene to discuss the actual technique in the handling of a case or when the mutual problem of practice, Professor Sayre thinks that the attorneys would do more effective work for their clients and bring justice more economically to the public than otherwise would be possible.

Eight states at present possess some form of integrated bar, the constitutionality and provisions of which have been tested thoroughly in the courts after more than five years of operation, he says.

Difficulties which might constitute objections are that the making of all state lawyers members of the integrated bar would curb individual initiative which results from the present voluntary association. Opponents also maintain that lawyers naturally are individualistic and creation of a fixed body is not compatible with best relations between attorney and client.

The entire proposal is being studied by a committee from the Iowa State Bar association, and the group will draft a statute for submission to that organization next June.

Chevrolet Announces 1932 Model With Many Changes

On display for the first time, Chevrolet's new car for 1932 will be shown to the motoring public at the Nall Chevrolet company showrooms at 120 E. Burlington street today.

Along with an announced speed range up to 65 or 70 miles an hour and a 20 per cent increase in power, the new car also incorporates many mechanical and body changes from the 1931 model. Free-wheeling, streamlined bodies, silent synchromesh transmission, smaller wheels and larger tires, front seat adjustment, and counter balanced crankshaft are some of the radical departures made from last year's model.

Feature Front End
The manufacturers of the new Chevrolet herald a "stabilized" front end construction as a feature of the 1932 model that is making its appearance in the automotive world for the first time. This "stabilizing" is explained as accomplished by placing the front fenders, radiator, and headlamps on a single fender support unit. This enables the front end to sway with the body as a unit when on bumpy roads, reducing the weave seen while driving off of the pavement. There is also less possibility of squeaks and rattles developing at points of stress.

In exterior appearance the new Chevrolet looks, because of its new larger tires and smaller wheels, like a longer and lower model than that of last year. The wheelbase, however, has been kept the same, being 109 inches. Most striking of the car's new features is replacement of the usual panel of louvers in the hood by four ventilating doors on each side, with handles so they may be opened to any desired angle for engine ventilation.

Many Changes
Within the new car, mohair or broadcloth upholstery will be option-

Mysteriously Shot

Mystery surround the shooting of beautiful Doris Wilson (above), 26 year old University of Pittsburgh graduate and daughter of H. M. Wilson, a leading Butler county physician. The girl died of a bullet wound at her home in Evans City, Pa., in the small hours of the morning. The tragedy occurred shortly after her return from a party with Richard Kelly, who is being questioned concerning events up to the time he bade her good-night.

Farm Solves Divorce Evil, Says Leader

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—City women well might take their cue as to how to hold a husband from the farm wife, believes Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson of Albia, Ia.

"The latter doesn't have to beat a path to a beauty shop to keep her mate, said Mrs. Richardson, the only woman to have received the distinguished service medal of the American Farm Bureau federation.

"She does it by woman's greatest beauty—wholesomeness, cleanliness and health," she added.

And that she does her job well is shown, Mrs. Richardson said, by the divorce court figures—only one per cent among farmers.

Pausing in her work on the national federation's convention program, Mrs. Richardson expressed belief that the girl who marries a farmer has a much greater opportunity for a happy home and a fuller life than the girl who marries a city dweller.

Each member of the farm family is working toward the same end, she explained, success of the farm and therefore the success of the home.

Mother Burns Six Year Old Child's Hands With Poker

TEFFIN, O., Dec. 4 (AP)—After admitting she burned the hands of her six year old daughter with a stove poker, Mrs. Eliza Bland, 60, of Jackson township near here, was fined $25 today, but the fine was suspended when she gave evidence of sorrow, and promised to give her children better treatment in the future.

The little girl, Helen, was kept in custody of Sheriff George Burkett tonight, but three other children, Mary, 10, Harry, 12, and Frances, were allowed to return home with their mother, pending further investigation.

Mrs. Bland told Probate Judge V. A. Bennehoff she burned Helen to "break her of a childish habit." She had intended to "burn her only a little bit," she said.

Dr. William Marston is conducting the fateful experiment, in which students took a keen interest. P.S.—Believe-It-or-Not Rip's veracity stood the strain.

Romance Language Students Frequent Specialized Library

About 450 volumes are borrowed each month from the Romance language reading room, 211 liberal arts building, a library specifically adapted to the needs of first and second year students in French and Spanish.

Grace Cochran, associate professor in Romance languages, who is in charge of the reading room, believes this to be one of a very few in the United States providing material in French and Spanish literature for the particular use of a limited group of students.

Hours in which the library and reading room is open are: Monday, Tuesday and Friday 8:45 to 10 a.m., and 1:45 to 3 p.m.; Wednesday and Thursday 8:15 to 10 a.m., and 1:45 to 4 p.m.; Saturday 8:45 to 10 a.m.

Prince of Wales, Queen Mary Sick

LONDON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Queen Mary nursed a cold at Sandringham palace today as the Prince of Wales left a sick bed at York house.

The queen developed a cold and was ordered to remain in her room until she had recovered. Dr. Frederick Williams said her condition was in no way serious.

The prince went to Ft. Belvedere after several days treatment for a chill with malarial symptoms. No alarm is felt in his case.

High School Students to Visit Educational Centers Here Today

A proposed trip which the Sharon township high school students were to have made to various university and city educational enterprises two weeks ago, but which was postponed at the time because of inclement weather, will be made today. The group of more than 60 pupils under the tutelage of the Rev. R. E. Kearny, pastor of the Evangelical church in Sharon will arrive in the city about 9 o'clock this morning.

The group will go immediately to the visual education bureau, of the extension division, located in East hall. Here, Leo Cochran, of the bureau, will show talking and silent moving pictures, explaining their use in teaching education in Iowa schools.

From the bureau the visitors will go to the engineering building, where television will be demonstrated to them by James L. Potter of the engineering college. Mr. Potter will talk on the possibilities television has as a science.

Leaving this place, the class will go to the central offices of the Bell Telephone company, 227 E. Washington street, and to the new telephone building, located at 302 S. Linn street. They will inspect these offices under the guidance of R. H. Vickerstaff. This will be the last stop before lunch.

After lunch, the group will inspect the air-mail broadcasting station KIS at the airport.

Drastic Solution

This is Mayor Roland B. Marvin, of Syracuse, N. Y., whose sensational action in ordering all married women to be discharged from the city payroll has attracted nationwide attention. According to the mayor's plan, the vacant jobs will be filled by jobless men with families and single women who are in need of work.

Bartows to Attend Engineering Meet

Prof. and Mrs. Edward Bartow left yesterday for Atlantic City, N. J., where Professor Bartow will attend the semi-annual meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

"Disposal of wastes formed in the manufacture of starch and beet sugar," will be the subject of a paper which Professor Bartow will read at the meeting.

Jury Gives Woman Life Imprisonment for Killing Husband

FREEPORT, Ill., Dec. 4 (AP)—A jury after three hours' deliberation today convicted Mrs. Vera Witte, 30, of slaying her husband and fixed her punishment at life imprisonment.

The state charged that Mrs. Witte shot her husband, William, 53, to death in a fit of rage last June 9 in front of the courthouse here shortly after Judge W. J. Emerson had denied her plea for separate maintenance. The shooting occurred within sight of the courtroom where she was tried.

Judge Harry L. Leer, who presided at the murder trial, said he would hear motions for a new trial next week.

Big Ten Votes to Suspend Illinois, Ohio State Relay Carnivals for Year

Retrenchment Policy Brings Schedule Cut

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—Economy will be rigidly enforced in the 1932 athletic program of the Western conference.

The retrenchment policy, made necessary by the falling-off of the 1931 football receipts, which shouldered the financial burden of the other sports, was agreed upon today, when the "Big Ten" athletic directors, coaches of all sports, and faculty representatives opened a two day schedule and business meeting.

As a means of saving money, it was agreed upon to drop the University of Illinois relay carnival and the Ohio State outdoor relays for one year, abolish spring training trips in the south for baseball teams, and to reduce the games and meets for all teams to a minimum.

The baseball schedules, which will be limited to 12 conference games; swimming, wrestling and gymnastics restricted to three meets; four tennis and golf meets in conference competition, three indoor track meets, three outdoor track meets, and two dual cross-country meets.

In only one sport did the economy fail to strike. That was in basketball. Heretofore, Big Ten basketball teams have been limited to 12 conference games and five nonconference contests. This latter number was raised to six, with the result that all teams will arrange additional games.

No discussion came up in regard to the prices for football tickets next fall, and any change will be left to the universities involved.

The directors of athletics awarded the Big Ten indoor track and field championship meet to the University of Chicago. It will be held in the new $700,000 field house on March 11-12. The outdoor track championship meet went to Northwestern on May 20-21.

The tennis championship will be held at Northwestern, May 19-20-21, with the golf at Minnesota, May 20-21. George Hoff, director of athletics at the University of Chicago, said he regretted the necessity of calling off the Illinois relay carnival for a year, but the football receipts had dropped so low in a majority of the schools in the middle west that it was necessary to reduce expenses. He hoped the meet would be revived in 1932.

While the athletic directors go into a joint session with the faculty representatives tomorrow, baseball schedules and dates for sports in minor competition will be drawn up.

It became known today that the faculty committee voted more than a week ago refusing permission for Northwestern to play Southern California in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, Jan. 1. The result of the vote was not revealed after Northwestern's defeat by Purdue last Saturday.

Big Ten Announces Track, Field Schedule

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—The policy of retrenchment cut into the Western conference track and field championship program for 1932 today with restrictions being placed on the number of dual meets, both indoor and outdoor, to reduce expenses.

Coaches were limited to three indoor dual meets, three outdoor and two cross-country meets.

The following track schedule for 1932 was adopted:

Feb. 13, Ohio vs. Indiana at Bloomington; Purdue vs. Chicago at Chicago.

Feb. 20, Northwestern, Chicago, Ohio State and Wisconsin at Evanston.

Feb. 27, Wisconsin vs. Minnesota at Minneapolis; Michigan vs. Chicago at Chicago; Northwestern vs. Iowa at Iowa City (tentative).

March 5, Purdue vs. Indiana at Bloomington (tentative); Chicago, Indiana, Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue at Chicago; Iowa vs. Wisconsin at Madison; Michigan, Ohio State and Illinois at Ann Arbor.

March 11 and 12, indoor championship meet at Chicago.

April 2, Minnesota relays (indoors) at Minneapolis.

April 29 and 30—Drake relays at Des Moines.

May 7—Northwestern vs. Minnesota at Minneapolis; Wisconsin vs. Iowa at Iowa City (tentative); Illinois vs. Michigan at Ann Arbor; Chicago, Indiana, Purdue at Lafayette (tentative).

May 14—Michigan vs. Ohio State at Columbus; Northwestern, Wisconsin and Chicago at Chicago; Iowa vs. Minnesota at Minneapolis (tentative); Indiana, Illinois and Purdue at Champaign.

May 20 and 21—Conference outdoor championship meet at Evanston.

May 28—Minnesota vs. Wisconsin at Madison. Iowa at Iowa State meet. Purdue and Indiana at Indiana state meet. Ohio State vs. Navy at Annapolis.

Iowa 1932 Captains All Seniors Except Reddig, Net Leader

Only one Junior, Ronald Reddig of Davenport, the tennis chief, will captain University of Iowa winter and spring sports teams in 1932.

Senior leaders of the other sports are Elmo Nelson, Clearfield, baseball; George Salting, Corydon, track; Jack McGuire, Des Moines, swimming; Lawrence Mueller, Ft. Dodge, wrestling; and Francis Mertel, Davenport, gymnastics.

As was the case during the past two seasons, the basketball team will be captained by a player appointed by Coach Rollie Williams prior to each of the 17 games. The same plan will be continued for the golf squad.

Sportively Speaking

Iowa cagers step into the spotlight tonight against Bradley Tech. Sophomores will be well represented on Rollie Williams' lineup. The man who in our estimation is the best sophomore prospect the Big Ten has seen will make his debut tonight.

That man is Ed Break. This hoopsster plays like the finished veteran. He is extremely cool while on the court. In practice he showed this trait all the time. We never saw him flustered whenever he seemed hemmed in with the ball. Instead of "sizing his head" and just throwing the ball away, Break takes his time and before you realize it, he is either in the open or else he has passed to a teammate.

The tall Chicagoan has hands which enable him to grip the basketball with one hand. We watched him yesterday as he posed for a picture. He just wrapped his right hand around the ball while the camera clicked.

Last year Rollie Williams, in a radio talk, said Break was the best freshman prospect to come up in years. His showing during the practice scrimmages bear out the cage mentor's assertion.

We believe Iowa will get somewhere this year in basketball. Last year the cage team did not go far in the Big Ten standings. Things seem different this fall. The sophomore prospects are better than average, what with Moffitt, Glick, Filkins, Breacher, Break, and Selzer.

Iowa Colleges Discuss New Athletic Loop

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—Athletic officials of six Iowa colleges were to meet here tonight to consider the formation of a new athletic conference.

The schools represented are Coe, Cornell, Morning side, Simpson, Luther and Iowa State Teachers, Carleton college of Northfield, Minn., which is considered as a seventh member of the conference.

The proposal has been under information discussion for some time. Most of the colleges involved require one year's attendance before students are eligible for athletic teams, a rule which is not in general practice in the Iowa collegiate conference, to which Luther, State Teachers, Morning side and Simpson belong.

Yearling Hoop Squad in Hard Scrimmage

Freshman cagers were sent through an intensive scrimmage session yesterday as Coach Jack Skien sought to break the monotony of routine drill.

The workout was the last one before Coach Skien makes the first cut. About 35 or 40 men will be retained, with the weeding out process continuing until all but the most promising are dropped.

City High Five Opens Cage Season With 16-9 Victory Over Lone Tree

Reserves Win, 22-12 Over Lone Tree Scrubs

By MATT MELCHIORRE

City High bowed in its 1931-32 cage season in a most auspicious manner, the locals taking both ends of a doubleheader with Lone Tree last night in the Little Hawks' gym.

The Red and White reserves raised the curtain with a victory over the Lone Tree reserves by a score of 22 to 12. Then the varsity quintets took the floor with the visitors on the losing end of a 16 to 9 score.

Lone Tree gave the Red and White a hard tussle, throughout the first half of the varsity game. It was nip and tuck all the way with the half ending at 6 to 5 in the locals' favor. With the start of the third period Lone Tree knotted the score at 6 all, but City high came back with a vengeance and took the lead from which it was never headed.

Nelson Returns to Weight Squad—as Coach This Time

Recruited from the football coaching staff, Emerson Nelson, former star University of Iowa athlete, now is coaching men in the weight events for the Hawkeye track and field team.

Nelson, once placed high in the shot put, discus and hammer throws in a Big Ten championship meet, and his work in the weights was overshadowed only by his performances as an all-weather tackle.

Fall and early winter drills are developing the Old Gold weight men for spring meets. The team will be especially strong in the hammer throw, with Wesley Youngerman of Des Moines, and E. C. Mathies of Birmingham, each of whom has placed in the National Collegiate meet, and with Youngerman as an outstanding discus heaver.

HAWKEYES IN BASKETBALL OPENER TONIGHT

Coach Rollie Williams, who will send his 1931-32 basketball team into action tonight against Bradley Tech of Peoria, Ill., is shown above. Jack Kotlow at forward will be the only veteran in the starting lineup. Alex Rogers, who has had only five days of practice since leaving the football squad, will play some of the game at center.

All-America Honors to 2 N. U. Players

Associated Press Gives Places to Three Ramblers

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—For the second successive year Notre Dame and Northwestern, the chief banner-bearers of mid-western college football, grab the lion's share of All-American laurels for the 1931 season, in the seventh annual Associated Press consensus.

New Old Gold

Four years of basketball football, and track, all-star champ center on the Boone cage squad last year, and 12 letters,—that is the high school athletic history of Meryl Beauchamp, aspiring center on Coach Skien's frosch squad. Beauchamp received four letters in football, four in basketball, and three in track.

35 Wrestlers Will Clash in Mat Tourney

And still they come!

Total number of wrestlers entered in the all-university tournament which begins Tuesday was raised to 35 yesterday with the entrance of four new men.

Intramuralites

FISH PREFERRED

By P. C. Wodehouse

What has gone before: Ronald Fish, nephew of Lord Emsworth of Blandings Castle, is in love with Sue Brown, a chorus girl. They have a misunderstanding. Sue, hoping for a chance to make up with Ronnie, comes to Blandings Castle in the guise of a Miss Schoonmaker, a wealthy American girl whom Ronnie had met abroad and who Sue knows has been invited to the castle. She has now been at Blandings Castle for several hours, but she has not yet seen Ronnie, and so far as she knows, he is still unaware of her presence there.

At the castle is one Rupert Baxter, an ex-secretary of Lord Emsworth's whom his lordship's sister, Lady Constance Keeble, would like to see reinstated. His lordship, however, considers him slightly crazy, and says as much in the presence of Sue. Baxter, who has set his eye on the wealthy "Miss Schoonmaker," is very much upset by this defamation of his character and writes Sue a note deploring Lord Emsworth's remarks and making some very unflattering comments on his lordship's character. He is sitting in the smoking room at the dinner hour thinking about Sue when the phone rings. It is a telegram from the real Miss Schoonmaker!

Thirty-six. Installation Baxter hung up the receiver. There seemed to be something crawling down his back. His brain was numbed.

Myra Schoonmaker! Telegraphing from Paris!

Then who was this girl who was at the castle calling herself by that preposterous name? An impostor, an adventuress. She must be.

And if he made a move to expose her, she would revenge herself by showing Lord Emsworth that letter of his.

In the agitation of the moment he had risen to his feet. He now sat down heavily.

That letter...

He must recover it. He must recover it at once. As long as it remained in the girl's possession it was a pistol pointed at his head.

Once let Lord Emsworth become acquainted with those very frank criticisms of himself which it contained and not even his ally, Lady Constance, would be able to restore him to his lost secretarship.

The ninth card was a mild man, accustomed to bowing to his superior, but there were limits beyond which he could not be pushed.

And Baxter yearned to be back at Blandings Castle in the position he had once enjoyed.

Blandings was his spiritual home. He had held other offices in England, but he held one only at a salary far higher than that which Lord Emsworth had paid him—but never had he succeeded in recapturing that fascinating sense of power, of importance, of being the man who directed the destinies of one of the largest homes in England.

At all costs he must recover that letter. And the present moment, he perceived, was ideal for the venture.

The girl must have the thing in her room somewhere, and for the next hour at least she would be in the dining room. He would have ample opportunity for a search.

He did not delay. Thirty seconds later he was mounting the stairs, his face set, his spectacles gleaming grimly. A minute later he reached his destination. No good! angel, aware of what he was doing, held, stood on the threshold to bar his entry. The door was ajar. He pushed it open and went in.

Blandings Castle, like most places of its size and importance, contained bedrooms so magnificent that they were never used. With their four-poster beds and their heavy, but rather oppressive tapestries they had remained unoccupied since the time when Queen Elizabeth, dodging from country house to that restless, snipe-like way of hers, had last slept in them. Of the guest rooms still in commission, the most luxurious was that which had been given to Sue.

At the moment when Baxter stole cautiously in, it was looking its best in the gentle evening light. But Baxter was not in sightseeing mood. He ignored the carved bedstead, the easy armchairs, the pictures, the decorations, and the soft carpets into which his feet sank. The beauty of the sky through the French windows that gave onto the balcony drew but a single brief glance from him. Without delay he made for the writing desk which stood against the wall near the bed. It seemed to him a good point of departure for his search.

There were several pigeonholes in the desk. They contained single sheets of notepaper, double sheets of notepaper, postcards, envelopes, telegraph forms, and even a little pad on which the rooms account had been presumably expected to jot down any stray thoughts and reflections on life which might occur to him or her before turning in for the night. But not one of them contained the fatal letter.

He stretched himself and looked about the room. The drawer of the dressing table now suggested itself as a possibility. He left the desk and made his way toward it.

The primary requisite of dressing tables being a good supply of light, there are usually placed in a position to get as much of it as possible. This one was no exception. It stood so near to the open windows that the breeze was ruffling the tassels on its lamp shades; and Baxter, arriving in front of it, was enabled for the first time to see the balcony in its entirety.

And as he saw it, his heart seemed to side-slip. Leaning upon the parapet and looking out over the sea of gravel that swept up to the front door from the rhododendron-fringed drive, stood a girl. And not even the fact that her back was turned could prevent Baxter from identifying her.

For an instant he remained frozen. Even the greatest men conceal beneath the chill breath of the totally unexpected. He had assumed as a matter of course that Sue was down in the dining room, and it took him several seconds to adjust his mind to the unpleasant fact that she was up on her balcony. When he recovered his presence of mind sufficiently to draw noiselessly away from the line of vision, his first emotion was one of irritation. This chopping and changing, this eleventh-hour alteration of plans, these sudden decisions to remain upstairs when they ought to be downstairs, were what made women as a sex so unsatisfactory.

To frustration succeeded a sense of defeat. There was nothing for it, he realized, but to give up his quest and go. He started to tiptoe silently to the door, agreeably conscious now of the softness and thickness of the carpet that made it possible to move unheeded, and had just reached the door, when from the other side there came to his ears a sound of clinking and clattering—the sound, in fact, which is made by plates and dishes when they are carried on a tray to a guest who, after a long railway journey, has asked her hostess if she may take dinner in her room.

Practice makes perfect. This was the second time in the last three hours that Baxter had found himself trapped in a room in which it was vitally urgent that he should not be discovered, and he was getting only too technically acquainted with the previous occasion, in the small library, he had taken to himself wings like a bird and had sailed out of the window. In the present crisis such a course, he perceived immediately, was not feasible. The way to the eagle would profit him nothing. Soaring over the balcony, he would be observed by Sue and would, in addition, unquestionably break his neck. What was needed here was the way of a diving duck.

And so, as the door handle turned, Rupert Baxter, even in this black hour efficient, dropped on all fours and slid under the bed as smoothly as if he had been practicing for weeks.

Owing to the restricted nature of his position and the limited range of vision which he enjoys, virtually the only way in which a man who is hiding under a bed can entertain himself is by listening to what is going on outside. He may hear something of interest, or he may hear only the draught sighing along the floor; but, for better or worse, that is all he is able to do.

The first sound that came to Rupert Baxter was that made by the placing of the tray on the table. Then, after a pause, a pair of squeaking shoes passed over the carpet and squeaked out of hearing. Baxter detected them as they hid Footman Thomas, a confirmed squeaker.

After this, somebody puffed, causing him to deduce the presence of Beach.

"Your dinner is quite ready, miss."

"Oh, thank you."

The girl had apparently come to the table. A savory scent floated to Baxter's nostrils, causing him acute discomfort. He had just begun to realize how extremely hungry he was and how rash he had been, first to attempt to dine off a couple of sandwiches and secondly to undertake a mission like his present one without a square meal inside him.

"That is chicken, miss—en casserole."

Baxter had deduced as much, and was trying not to let his mind dwell on it. He uttered a silent groan. In addition to the agony of having to smell food, he was beginning to be conscious of a growing cramp in his left leg. He turned on one side and did his best to emulate the easy nonchalance of those Indian fakirs who, doubtless from the best motives, spend the formative years of their lives living on iron spikes.

"It looks very good."

"I trust you will enjoy it, miss. Is there anything further that I can do for you?"

"No, thank you. Oh, yes. Would you mind fetching that manuscript from the balcony? I was reading it out there, and I left it on the chair."

It's Mr. Threewood's book.

"Indeed, miss? An exceedingly interesting compilation, I should imagine."

"Yes, very."

"I wonder if it would be taking a liberty, miss, to ask you to inform me later, at your leisure, if I make any appearance in its pages?"

"You?"

"Yes, miss. From what Mr. Galahad has left tell from time to time I

Stanford to Teach Fish Luring Tactics in Winter Quarter

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Dec. 4 (AP)—The day of the college education fisherman is not far off. A course in the proper and accepted methods of luring Mr. Fish from his domain was announced today by Stanford. Prof. C. M. Sprague, associate director of physical education and hygiene, who will have charge of the course, said: "We will guarantee results but not fish. Students will be taught fly and bait casting. They will learn to the files and repair rods. But fish, no. We would not even guarantee Isaac Walton fish, could he be here to take the course."

Frosh, Varsity Tank Squads Prepare for Meet; to Hold Trials

Time trials will be held Tuesday for freshman and varsity swimmers in preparation for an interclass meet among the members of both squads next Saturday. This will be the first time trial of the year. Attention so far has been directed toward form and endurance. The trials are expected to give Coach David Armbruster a definite line on the ability of his squad. It will give the freshmen who are uncertain of themselves a chance to pick their best event. The annual frosh-varsity meet will be held during the week before Christmas vacation at a date not yet set. The last practice before the game will be held this forenoon.

Smiths Lose Number Title on Licenses

If all the Smiths in Johnson county stood in one continuous line and all the Millers in Johnson county stood in a second line, which line would be the longest? Contrary to the general accepted answer, the Millers would have a line almost twice as long as the Smith line. As shown in driver's license application forms filed in the county sheriff's office, there are 107 Millers registered at the present time and but 58 with the name of Smith. Upon completion of yesterday's application filing at the sheriff's office, the total for the last two months approached 6,000. This figure represents the approximate filing of one half the total number of motorists in Johnson county that will have to file applications before Jan. 1, 1932. Sheriff Don McComas, and Deputy Sheriffs Preston Koser and Mrs. W. J. McDonald are the persons handling the entire issuing of license applications. These three will need to handle 250 applications daily from now until the end of the year in order to have all motorists in the county registered.

Demo Senate Race Begins With Schmidt

First blood in the Democratic state senatorial race from the twenty-fifth district was drawn yesterday with the announcement that nomination papers for Paul W. Schmidt, 240 E. College street, would be circulated next week. The twenty-fifth district is comprised of Johnson and Iowa counties. Mr. Schmidt is a lifelong resident of Johnson county. He was born in this vicinity in 1886. In 1905 he became associated with his father,

Mr. G. W. Schmidt, in business at the Iowa City Iron Works. He has always been active in civic work. He is a member of the local Elks and has served as past district deputy grand exalted ruler. At present he is the first vice president of the state Elks association. He is also a member of the Knights of Columbus. Weather Thwarts Snowman Efforts of the snowman to spread a blanket over Iowa City were thwarted yesterday when the weather king ruled that the marker in the thermometer stay in the thirties, and sent the light snow of the previous night seeping into the ground. The mercury registered at 38 degrees Thursday night and at 7 a.m. yesterday. During the day the temperature raised to 33 degrees and at 7 p.m. had dropped only two points.

Violator of Dry Law Takes Long Sentence Instead of Short One

DES MOINES, Dec. 4 (AP)—H. C. Fisher will spend a year and a day in a federal prison rather than serve seven months in a county jail for violating the national prohibition act. When Fisher, who pleaded guilty with Kenneth Sonderleiter and two others to charges of breaking the dry laws, appeared before Judge Charles A. Dewey today, the court allowed Fisher credit for the five months he previously served on a year's sentence. But Fisher said he would rather not accept the offer, preferring the federal prison sentence. He will go to Chillicothe, O., federal reformatory. Sonderleiter and his wife will be sentenced Dec. 12. Anthony Rand obtained a week's postponement of his sentence. A turtle race for charity at Bessemer, Ala., attracted 1,000 entries.
