Award Nobel Peace Prize to 2 Winners

Honor Dr. N. M. Butler, Jane Addams for Lifelong Work

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Nobel peace prize for 1931 was awarded today to Jane Addams, Chicago social worker, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, the consul-general of Norway announced tonight.

At a meeting of the Nobel Institute at Oslo, Norway, today, Professor Frederik Stang, president of the Nobel committee of the Norwegian parliament, announced each would receive one-half of the amount of the prize.

Amount Varies

The amount of each prize varies with the income from the fund established under the will of A. B. Nobel. In recent years the amount has been in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Professor Halvdan Koht, member of the Nobel committee, made an address paying tribute to the lifelong work for peace of the two prize winners.

American Recipients

Five other Americans have won the Nobel award—Theodore Roosevelt in 1906; Elihu Root in 1912; Woodrow Wilson in 1919; Ambassador Charles G. Dawes in 1925 and former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg in 1929.

Dr. Nathan Söderblom, archbishop of Upsala, received the peace prize in 1930 when the Nobel prize awards amounted $46,000 each.

Died 35 Years Ago

The Swedish chemist (at the time Norway and Sweden were politically united), each having the same sovereign) whose name the awards bear died in San Remo 35 years ago today.

Under the will he drew up without legal aid his huge fortune was apportioned in a fund for the establishment of annual awards for outstanding achievements in physics, chemistry, literature, medicine or psychology and the promotion of peace.

Predict Snow for Western, Northern Portions of Iowa

DES MOINES, Dec. 9 (AP)—Additional snow is in prospect for parts of Iowa tomorrow, arriving on the heels of a low pressure area heading from the west and north.

The eastern part of the state, which received the heaviest portion of a general snowfall yesterday, again received an additional mantle of white today.

Snow which fell yesterday ranged in depth from five inches at Davenport to less than an inch at Sioux City. The weather bureau forecast increasing cloudiness followed by rain or snow in the west portion of the state tomorrow.

Tri-City Trial Ends; Jury to Decide Fates

Liquor Conspiracy Case Closes With Pleas of Attorneys

PEORIA, Ill., Dec. 9 (AP)—Prosecution and defense attorneys in the tri-city liquor conspiracy trial wound up their cases with long blasts of oratory today, and when they were finished Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry announced he would place the fates of the 25 defendants in the hands of the jury tomorrow.

Bitter charges of "publicity seeking," "insincerity," and a reference to "four court room tactics" were made by the attorneys in their final pleas to the jury.

Evidence Discussed

Evidence concerning purchase by some of the defendants of thousands of pounds of corn sugar, hundreds of one gallon tin cans, and many pounds of yeast was discussed in detail by the attorneys. The government charges the materials were used to operate a huge distillery near Rock Island, Ill., raided July 22, 1930.

Liquor from the distillery flooded into northern Illinois and Iowa, the government charged. Although challenged to do so by the prosecution, defense counsel failed to prove that the sugar, cans and yeast ever were disposed of by the defendants or used in a legitimate manner.

Alexander Makes Plea

The government's closing plea was made by Marks Alexander, fiery assistant district attorney. It was he who made the charge of "insincerity," declaring that Defense Attorney John E. Dougherty was guilty of it in telling the jury that "it's easy to convict, don't be too easy."

Dougherty also had demanded that Alexander explain why he had not prosecuted the companies which sold corn sugar and the other materials to the defendants. Alexander replied that he had, and declared that Dougherty had been a defense attorney for one of the firms, the Fleischmann Yeast company.

Powers Tells Story of Life, Unhappiness

Places Responsibility of Murder on "Two Other Fellows"

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 9 (AP)—Sitting in the center of a brilliantly lighted stage, with the eyes of 1,200 spectators upon him, Harry F. Powers today broke down and wept as he told of an unhappy married life and blamed two mysterious strangers for the murder he is charged with committing and for which he is on trial.

His marital difficulties extended over four years, he said, and led him to join a matrimonial bureau, to send his picture and impassioned love letters to many women, and finally to call on some of his mail order sweethearts.

Prosecution Drives at Alibis

Both state and defense rested their cases during the day. The third session of the most bizarre murder trial these hills have known ended with the prosecution seeking to break through the mass of alibis built around Powers by defense witnesses.

It was considered probable the jury would retire late tomorrow to decide whether the small town case should be sent to the gallows for the first of the five killings he is charged with perpetrating in his windowless car—that of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, of Northboro, Mass.

Places Responsibility

Powers laid the responsibility on the shoulders of "two other fellows" who he named as Cecil Johnson and Charles Rogers.

Rogers had a key and free access, the defendant claimed, to the so-called death house.

He accused Johnson of stealing Mrs. Lemke from him in Uniontown, Pa. He never saw the divorcee after that, he said with a sly sob.

Tells Rogers of Life

He had met Rogers near Canton, O., in 1925, he explained, and "he was such a nice fellow," that the unhappy Powers told him the story of his marital difficulties.

The pudgy little defendant told how Rogers showed him a matrimonial bureau list bearing the names of Mrs. Lemke and Mrs. Asta Polick of Park Ridge, Ill., who was slain and buried near the Quiet Dell garage, along with her three children.

Wrote Many Letters

He joined the matrimonial society and described himself in the application as a handsome, civil engineer. He said he could not even estimate the number of women to whom he had written.

He denied he had made any promise of marriage to Mrs. Lemke.

He said Mrs. Lemke had asked him to take her on a vacation trip to Paris, Ill., to visit some friends, and he had stopped in West Virginia en route.

The deposits of nearly $4,000 he made in a local bank after Johnson had allegedly made off with the divorcee's money, the state claims, he obtained by cashing checks Mrs. Lemke gave him—Powers said consisted mostly of money he had had "around the kitchen at home."

HUNGER MARCHERS AT CAPITOL

4 Marine Officers Receive Promotions to Highest Positions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The marine corps' highest ranks today were filled with officers who had made distinguished records with the "Leathernecks" at home and abroad.

Brig. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the corps, was promoted to the permanent rank of major general and Major General Logan Feland, serving under a temporary commission, was given that rank permanently.

Brig. Gen. John T. Myers also became a major general with a temporary commission made vacant by the promotion of Feland. Col. James Breckinridge was moved up to brigadier general.

Railway Men to Fight Wage Cut Problem

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP)—Organized railway labor, with a watchful eye on a strike vote already in progress on a western line, plunged into deliberations on the wage reduction crisis today.

Brotherhood spokesmen guarded in their comment as were the secret conference sessions, seemed skeptical that any positive action would be forthcoming until the railway executives have shown their hand in plans written demand for the suggested flat 10 per cent cut.

Start Organizing

More than 1,500 men representing the various organized groups on each of the nation's railroads gathered for the first time this afternoon and began to organize themselves into a working group to tackle the wage cut problem.

Some leaders contended there was nothing to discuss but a general policy, that there could be no definite answer because the railroads had made no definite request. The rail presidents who broached the subject of wage reduction to union leaders several weeks ago stated specifically, according to the labor spokesmen, that they had no authority to decide or promise or propose anything, but were merely a discussion group.

Regarded as Test Case

As the executives of the brotherhoods and unions met in Chicago, out on the right-of-way of the Chicago and North Western between 4,000 and 5,000 laborers, mostly trackmen, were making an important decision in what many labor leaders regarded as a test case.

These men, members of the brotherhood of maintenance of way employees, were asked what they wanted to do about a movement described by the brotherhood as an "arbitrary wage cut" and by the railroad as an "equalization." One of their possible decisions was to strike.

Party Hopes to Make Own Finance Bill

Estimate 1,700,000 More Must Pay on Incomes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Confronted with a Hoover-Mellon plan for new and heavier taxation, Congressional Democrats were determined tonight to devise their own plan for replenishing the treasury.

Members of both parties gave a close and doubting scrutiny to the proposals for fractional advances on small income levies, steeper ones on big incomes and miscellaneous taxes such as those on tobacco, automobile and radio sales, amusement tickets and telephone and telegraph messages.

The administration program would reach practically the whole public beginning the first of next month. President Hoover and Secretary Mellon agreed it was imperative.

The Day in Washington

Democrats determined to formulate their own plan for replenishing the treasury after receiving Hoover-Mellon plan for tax increases.

Johnson, California Republican senator, launched contest against Hoover moratorium plan while the president completed special message asking its ratification.

Senate deadlock on organization continued as Republican independents fought re-election of Senator Moses as president pro tem.

House Democrats attacked President Hoover's legislative program and were charged with sponsoring dele.

On Capitol hill there was little challenge of the need. Next year's federal budget was submitted calling for slightly less than $4,000,000,000. If more money is not obtained, the president warned, the government a year from next June will be $4,442,000,000 behind.

One feature of the plan already certain to be stoutly contested is that which would make the higher scales apply on 1931 incomes.

The senate-house policy committee of the Democrats will begin to formulate that party's revenue proposition later this week.

Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee expressed doubt that the plan would bring in sufficient cash in view of further demands on the treasury at this session.

Secretary Mellon estimated 1,700,000 more people would have to pay on their incomes, if the lowered exemptions asked are granted.

He said the law suggested would add $2,230,000,000 to government revenue between Jan. 1 and June 30, 1934, when the administration wants it terminated.

The essence of the administration program follows:

Individual net incomes up to $4,000, now taxed one and one half per cent, jumped to four per cent.

Net incomes above $5,000, now five per cent, advanced to six.

Surpluses would start at one per cent for more than $10,000 net income, gradually increase to 37 per cent for between $100,000 and $200,000 and reach 40 per cent on incomes of more than $500,000.

Personal exemption levels would drop from $1,500 to $1,000 for single persons and from $3,500 to $2,500 for heads of families. Exemption for each dependent would be $400.

Corporation income tax would be increased from 12 to 13-1/2 per cent and the $3,000 exemption eliminated.

Included in other recommendations were increase of one-sixth in present rates on tobacco except cigars and a tax on telephone, telegraph, cable and radio messages of five cents for charges of 14 to 50 cents and 10 cents for charges over $50.

Iowa Police Hold Woman for Forgery

Woman companion of Ray Hansen, alias Hal R. Conklin, alias Fred R. Hamilton, who is held at Fairfield for murder, is believed to be Jane Moore who passed a number of false checks here Sept. 26. Miss Moore gave her name at Fairfield as Mrs. Olive Royalty.

Sheriff Don McComas, who went to Fairfield yesterday morning to investigate Miss Moore on suspicion of having obtained money under false pretenses, is making further investigation into the case. Sheriff McComas returned here yesterday from Fairfield.

Signing the name of Jane Moore, a woman gave four checks at four places in Iowa City Sept. 26 and obtained a sum of $40 in cash in change plus 20 gallons of gasoline. The checks were written on a bank at Knobnoster, Mo.

Hansen, who was traveling with Mrs. Royalty, appears in district court at Fairfield Saturday to enter a plea on a county attorney's information charging him with murder. The charge is in connection with the death of George A. Wright, M.L. Pleasant officer, who attempted to arrest him on a bad check charge last week.

Board Names Smith Acting Grounds Head

Officially announced yesterday, the appointment of Arthur A. Smith as acting successor to the late J. M. Fisk, former superintendent of buildings and grounds, was made, with the approval of the state board of education. The board's approval was given at a meeting held at Iowa State college, in Ames, Tuesday.

Mr. Smith has acted in the capacity which he now holds officially for the last six months, during Mr. Fisk's illness, which preceded his death last Wednesday.

Mr. Smith has been in charge of maintenance and operation in the buildings and grounds department since 1922. For two years previous he held a similar position in the public school system, of Des Moines.

He is a graduate of Iowa State Teacher's college and the college of engineering of the University of Iowa, receiving his bachelor of science degree here in 1915, and in 1920 being awarded an advanced degree in civil engineering.

Three Inch Snow Blankets Iowa City

Despite the heavy, damp snow that started falling Tuesday night and made a three inch blanket over Iowa City by yesterday morning, the thermometer registered moderate temperatures yesterday, reaching as high as 40 degrees.

Rain and snow together comprised .52 inch precipitation yesterday morning. Twenty-nine degrees was the lowest the mercur dropped Tuesday night and it made a one-point rise at 7 a.m. At 7 p.m. yesterday it registered at 35 degrees.

Reformatory Staff to Remain

DES MOINES, (AP)—The personnel at the reformatory at Anamosa will remain unchanged, C. H. Ireland, newly appointed warden, said after a conference with Governor Dan Turner and members of the board of control.

Award Rhodes Scholarships

Iowa representatives proved unsuccessful in the district interviews for the awarding of Rhodes scholarships yesterday, as winners from Minnesota, Nebraska, and South Dakota were announced by Prof. J. Van der Zee last night. Professor Van der Zee serves as a member of the district selecting committee.

A new prize of $10 has been offered to the person who sells the most Hawkeys between now and Saturday at midnight, when the contest closes. A second prize of $5 is also offered.

These prizes exclude the winner of the main contest.

Trust Fund

The late Cecil Rhodes left a trust fund from which a stipend of $2,000 annually for three years is given Rhodes scholars, with the provision the third year may be spent in an institution of the student's selection. The first two years are spent at Oxford university.

Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri and South Dakota sent candidates for the interviews today.

Those from Iowa were Alfred F. Conrad of Grinnell and Paul H. Engle of Cedar Rapids.

Nominated Saturday

Engle and Conrad were nominated last Saturday at Iowa City, by the state committee for Iowa, from a field of seven candidates who were interviewed here. The original selection of candidates was made from a field of 17 nominations.

June Dunn Heads Hawkeye Beauties; New Prizes Offered

June Dunn last night led the list of contestants for the selection of the Hawkeye beauties. Carolyn Hall and Kathleen Hansen were second and third respectively.

The standings of the next contestants in order were: Mary Moran, Anne Finley, Carolyn Fisher, Dorothy Sturridge, Dorothy Hughes, Virginia Hallgren, Helen Blake, Jean Hessel, Estella Strohben Mary Jane Seibert, Gwen Minish, Sarah Markovitz, and Dorothy Woods.

A new prize of $10 has been offered to the person who sells the most Hawkeys between now and Saturday at midnight, when the contest closes. A second prize of $5 is also offered.

These prizes exclude the winner of the main contest.

Jury in Harlan Killing Locked

MT. STERLING, Ky., Dec. 9 (AP)—After four hours deliberation without reaching a verdict, the jury trying William B. Jones, Harlan county mine union leader charged with conspiracy and murder, was ordered today to cease its efforts until tomorrow.

The case of Jones, first of more than a score of miners and union sympathizers to be tried in connection with Harlan county's labor controversy, went to the jury at 1 o'clock today.

Outlines Verdicts

Three possible verdicts were outlined by Judge Prewitt in his instructions yesterday at the end of evidence—guilty with death in the chair, guilty with life imprisonment, or acquittal.

In closing arguments today blame for conditions in the coal fields in connection with the strike last spring placed upon Jones by the commonwealth and upon the mine operators by the defense.

Blame Coal Corporation

"Acquit this man," Commonwealth Attorney Hamilton told the jurors, "and there will be celebrations in a thousand places in the United States and Moscow will lift the flag of communism."

Former United States Senator Robinson, closing for the defense, blamed the Black Mountain Coal Corporation and the "coal barons" for conditions in Harlan county and asserted there are 400 to 500 deputy sheriffs in Harlan county "paid by the coal barons and armed to the teeth."

Try Jones for Murder, Conspiracy; Court Rules on Case

As the executives of the brotherhoods and unions met in Chicago, out on the right-of-way of the Chicago and North Western between 4,000 and 5,000 laborers, mostly trackmen, were making an important decision in what many labor leaders regarded as a test case.

Man Calls Money Borrowed, Woman Files Theft Charges

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—On the strength of telegraph advices from Omaha, Neb., Herman Snyder, 45, was booked late today at a police station on a charge of being a fugitive from justice.

Messages from Omaha said Snyder was wanted there for the theft of $800 last Monday from Mrs. Ida Hoffman.

Snyder Mystified

Snyder appeared mystified at the theft charge and told Mrs. Hoffman, in whose home he had been boarding, last him the money so that he could go to Germany to collect a $350,000 inheritance he had been notified was waiting for him. He said Mrs. Hoffman had lent him the money with the understanding when he obtained his inheritance he would give her $5,000.

The only reason Snyder said he could assign for her making the theft complaint was that he became impatient at delay in starting his trip and left the Hoffman home before Mrs. Hoffman returned with several purchases she had gone out to make for him.

"She Can Have It"

Snyder, who was arrested on the theft charge and told Mrs. Hoffman, in whose home he had been boarding, last him the money so that he could go to Germany to collect a $350,000 inheritance he had been notified was waiting for him. He said Mrs. Hoffman had lent him the money with the understanding

Delegates Charge "Gas Bootleggers"

OMAHA, Dec. 9 (AP)—Delegates attending the annual state convention of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers association late today charged that the 1931 Nebraska state legislature had unknowingly allied itself with "gasoline bootleggers" when it amended the gasoline tax law to make reports of jobbers secret, withholding them from publication.

Commission Awards Contracts

AMES, (AP)—Contracts for construction of bridges and culverts in three counties were awarded by the Iowa highway commission on the basis of low bids announced Tuesday. The work will cost $112,001.66.

Examine Applicants

DES MOINES, (AP)—The state board of chiropractic examiners completed a three-day examination of 35 applicants for licenses to practice in Iowa.

Turner Asks Lower Crop Loan Interest

DES MOINES, Dec. 9 (AP)—Gov. Dan Turner today urged lower interest rates on crop and livestock loans in a speech before the annual convention of the Iowa Cooperative Livestock Shippers association.

The governor said he would not advise farmers to hold crops and borrow if it is necessary to pay eight per cent interest in addition to sealing charges. Credit corporations may work out satisfactorily in some cases, however, he said.

He reviewed the efforts of the Iowa farm committee to obtain aid for agriculture through conferences with the federal farm board and officers of the federal reserve banks.

President O. J. Kalsen of Huxley urged the development of local shipping associations as the basis for cooperative livestock marketing in Iowa.

"The Iowa cooperative livestock shippers are opposed to the suggestion that any central association take over the facilities and functions of local organizations, thereby making a farce of farmer ownership and control," he said.

Weather Halts Trial

DAVENPORT, (AP)—Heavy snow and sleet caused a temporary halt in the trial of D. A. Dohy, president of the defunct D. A. Dohy Securities company. Several Illinois witnesses were unable to reach Davenport for the trial because of road conditions.

Two Iowans Ordained Priests

EVANSTON, (AP)—Two Iowans were among the 21 newly ordained American priests who said their first mass in St. Peter's, St. John Lateran and other churches, in Rome. They were Maurice Mullan of Davenport and Thomas Conant of Dubuque.

Women, Grid Stars, Whiskey Seen in Chicago Faculty Quiz

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP)—What "show her that her tears won't help." The next question, apparently as perplexing, likewise failed to bring a response.

Reputation at Stake

"Suppose," Prof. Carlson said, "the reputation of the university rested upon the shoulders of a certain grid star who for one reason or another was not quite able to score in his studies. Would you fall him and be damned or pass him and be praised?"

The speaker solved it thus: "I'd flunk him and be damned."

Prof. Carlson then asked what the educators would do if a man placed a pistol at their heads and ordered them to drink whiskey.

Dean Matthews spoke up immediately: "I'd do exactly what a man who wasn't threatened with a gun would do."

Thus ended the quiz.

Chicago Trio Paid for Aid to Politicians

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP)—A "glad-hander" for visiting politicians, a woman vote getter, and a bowling team manager testified today that the Chicago Sanitary district paid them good salaries for being active at their various specialties.

Willis J. Conors, a north side politician, told two judges hearing the evidence that his chief job was to take state legislators to theaters and on tours of the city when they came to Chicago. Also, he made many trips to the legislature at Springfield as a lobbyist, he said.

Bessie Walk, the vote getter, said she received two monthly checks, one for $45 and the other for $87. She told of securing her job by telling Croves she could get for him. She added "and that's all I did."

Arthur McKeown testified that his salary was $300 a month and that his only duty was to act as manager of the T. J. Crowe bowling team, maintained for political advertising purposes.

England Plans Conference on Economic Ills

LONDON, Dec. 9 (AP)—A great "conference of governments" to investigate all the causes of the world's economic ills is contemplated by the British government, Prime Minister MacDonald told the house of commons today.

Declaring flatly that the conference would be held, Mr. MacDonald said the government would like to have it convene immediately after the banking experts' next meeting at Basel seen in their report.

One of the specific tasks of the gathering of government, the prime minister said, would be to examine "questions of international debts which lie at the base of our currency problem."

"It is the view of this government," Mr. MacDonald said, "that there should be such a conference and that it should approach its work in a spirit of realism."

The governments should examine all the facts, he continued, and should aim at an agreement "which will not merely tide over these difficulties, temporarily but will establish the whole world, now linked together by increasing social, political and economic deterioration, on a footing of hopeful endeavor."

Prof. Clara Daley Speaks to Altrusa Club on Manchuria

Three aspects of the Manchurian situation—the Chinese, Japanese, and Russian—were discussed by Prof. Clara Daley of the history department, yesterday at the weekly luncheon of Altrusa club held at Iowa Union.

Japanese interests in Manchuria due to investments there and to treaties with China, were discussed by Professor Daley. Japan has a sphere of influence in central Manchuria through control of railroads, she said.

The Russian sphere of influence lies in northern Manchuria where the Russian railroad provides a short cut across the country to Vladivostok.

Contingent claims have resulted from the fact that China has not been able to police Manchuria herself, and because of her unstable government, Professor Daley stated.

A hundred students and faculty guests have been invited. Faculty guests are: Prof. Frances Camp, Helene Blattner, Prof. and Mrs. George W. Martin, Prof. and Mrs. William H. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce E. Mahan, Dean and Mrs. George F. Kay, Prof. Amy Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. C. Ray Turner, Prof. and Mrs. Jacob Cornog.

Serve Dinner in Home Ec. Hall Tonight

Yuletide Spirit Reigns at Faculty, Student Gathering

There will be no Scrooges at the home economics Christmas dinner. An atmosphere of Yuletide cheer and spirit will abound in the dining rooms and hallway of the department tonight. Christmas trees dressed in their holiday attire of tinsel and bright ornaments will stand at each end of the hall. Individual favors will be hidden as small Christmas packages by each plate.

The dinner, given under the auspices of the Home Economics club, is planned and prepared by the advanced foods class. Decorations are the responsibility of the textile design class.

A hundred students and faculty guests have been invited. Faculty guests are: Prof. Frances Camp, Helene Blattner, Prof. and Mrs. George W. Martin, Prof. and Mrs. William H. Engineering Faculty Hears Explanation of New Television Set Television, as explained by James L. Potter, instructor in electrical engineering, was the theme of the meeting of the engineering faculty luncheon club in Iowa Union yesterday.

Mr. Potter gave an "Explanation of the principles of operation and demonstration of the S.U.I. laboratory model television system." A model television transmitter and receiver of his own construction were set up in the lounge and demonstrated by Mr. Potter.

Slides were used to illustrate several points that he wished to emphasize.

Dolphin Club Gives Banquet for Water Pageant Members

The Dolphin club, national honorary swimming fraternity, will entertain participants in its recent water pageant at a banquet tonight at Iowa Union. Fifty persons, including the queen and her attendants, will be present.

Talks by Coach David Armbruster, Irving Weber, and Wentworth Lobdell, A4 of Rockford, Ill., will feature the entertainment.

Prizes are to be awarded to those who gave the most service to the Dolphin show. Eight persons will be elected to honorary membership in the organization.

Decorations for the banquet are to center around the Dolphin emblem.

Inter-Church Society Holds "World Party" at Union Tomorrow

The traditional grand march of the all-church Christmas party, to be held tomorrow night at Iowa Union, will be led by the Rev. and Mrs. Richard E. McEvoy. With a schedule of games from many foreign countries, and decorations of foreign variety, the Inter-Church council are calling this year's festival, "The World Party."

Under the leadership of Vivian Rockwood, A3 of Renwick, five committees, each with one member from each student group represented, have been appointed to make arrangements for the party.

The program committee, headed by John Scott, G of Iowa City, has mapped the main lounge of the Union for organization of the 500 students expected to attend.

Refreshments, Christmas carols, and a Santa Claus will complete the program of the evening.

Plan Student Sing Sunday

Organizations Initiate University Yuletide Carol Service

An all-university Christmas carol service will be held in the main lounge of Iowa Union Sunday at 3 p.m. under the auspices of the Christian association assisted by Mortar board and A. F. I. This is the first service of this kind conducted by the association.

Prof. Frank E. Kendrick of the music department, will lead the singing, and the words and music of the songs will be flashed upon a screen. Margarita Williams, A 4 of Washington, is general chairman of the sing.

The program of songs will be as follows:

"Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem", "Silent Night", "Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly", "The First Noel", "Adeste Fideles", and "White Shepherds Watch Their Flocks."

15 Students Suffer Rare Food Malady

Proclaimed by university health authorities as a rare and unusual epidemic in the history of Iowa City, 15 students have been diagnosed in the last few days as victims of trichiniasis. The organisms which were transmitted to the students through the eating of unprepared pork after insufficient roasting at a Methodist student party three weeks ago, have resulted in affecting each one of the group who partook of the food.

Most of the victims, the first showing symptoms Sunday, have been running comparatively high temperatures for several days. Outwardly the effects of the malady are manifested by swollen eyelids and neck muscles.

University health doctors explain the local inflammation as typical of trichiniasis. They declare that the puffed eye glands, with some of the victims having their eyes almost entirely closed, will not result in any permanent impairment of the eyesight.

All of the students have been under the observation of the university health department this week, two of them being confined to hospital beds. Dr. Clifford E. Barnes, director of the university health department, asserted last night that the disease was not in any way contagious, and that the symptoms could only be contracted through the eating of unprepared meat, usually pork, harboring the organism.

PREMONITION REALIZED

A few minutes before Lowell Bayles, speed flyer (right), took off on the fatal attempt to capture the land plane speed record for America, at Detroit, Mich., he received a wire from his sweetheart, Miss Gertrude St. Marie (left), of Springfield, Mass., begging him to abandon the flight. Bayles' plane crashed as he was making an estimated speed of 300 miles an hour and the flyer was instantly killed. A few days previously, Bayles succeeded in breaking the record, but owing to the failure of a timing device official recognition was denied him.

Music Club Hears Schumann Selections at Coast Residence

Schumann selections were presented before 75 members of the Tuesday Morning Music club at a meeting at 3 p.m. yesterday, at the home of Mrs. Preston C. Coats, 122 E. Church street.

"The Return," "The Spanish Tambourine Girl," and "Spring Bells" comprised the ensemble group which was presented by a double quartet. Esther MacDowell Swisher played the "Sonata Opus 22 in G Minor," and a group of songs, entitled "Poet's Love," sung by Marian Andrews concluded the program. Mrs. Leonard P. Ristine, president of the organization, presided.

Following the program, tea was served. Mrs. Christian Ruckmick and Harriet Mosedale poured.

Set Example, Teeters Tells Scout Troop

If parents and scout leaders expect Boy Scouts to become good citizens, they must first set an example for the youths to follow, Dean Wilber Teeters of the college of pharmacy told 30 members of the Methodist Scout troop, No. 14, at a dinner held last night at the Methodist church.

"Scout brotherhood" was the subject of a talk by Ethan Allen, who related his experiences in the Rocky Mountains.

Songs and scout stunts followed the dinner. F. A. Nagler, chairman of the troop, was presented the troop charter.

Committeemen's certificates were presented to Prof. A. C. Trowbridge, F. A. Nagler, J. A. Swisher, and D. R. Pile.

Frank Swisher received a scoutmaster's certificate. Assistant scoutmaster's certificates were given to Irving Weber and Frank Fisher.

Scoutmasters Fred Jones and the Rev. Ira J. Houston, and Eagle Scout Dick Roberts, received awards.

An honor award, given monthly to the patrol with greatest achievement for the last month, was presented to the Wolf patrol.

League Issues New Plan for War Problem

PARIS, Dec. 9 (AP)—The council of the League of Nations came out into the open tonight after 18 days of secret negotiations and planked down the League-American compromise plan for peaceful adjustment of the Manchurian conflict.

The Japanese representative, who was "still without instructions from Tokyo," alone withheld approval of the peace program. Another wide open session will be held tomorrow at which an attempt will be made to obtain Japan's support.

The heart of the plan worked out by representatives of the United States government and League authorities is an international commission of inquiry of five "big men"—including an American—to examine fully into all circumstances which may be at the bottom of the Sino-Japanese trouble.

The negative features of this scheme, which is embodied in a resolution and an accompanying declaration, are:

Student-Faculty Rapport

IN ALL PROBABILITY there is nothing more to be desired by students and faculty, who take the true aims of education seriously, than a closer understanding and friendship between these two groups.

Both have a common aim, both are an integral part of a great institution, yet socially, intellectually, and in many other ways students and faculty have erected a solid wall of custom which rules that their respective paths must never cross.

Who may be blamed for the situation is not quite clear, for both sides of the wall frequently discuss its destruction, yet until recently no one has seemed inclined to make a real effort toward demolishing it.

William H. Morgan, whose Y.M.C.A. capacity includes him with both students and faculty as far it concerns a question of his interests, has gone to the students with a plan to make student-faculty relationships what they should be for the best interests of educational purposes.

It is now the students' move, purely and simply. They have been given the opportunity to take whatever action they wish, and some of them have worked up a tentative plan, whereby faculty members and students could meet in a common social atmosphere without the chill restrictions of formality.

If the students will go ahead and do their part a splendid student-faculty relationship will be the result. The faculty have often expressed willingness to come their share of the way.

If next semester apathy or indifference confronts the proposed plan, it will, of course, die a natural death, and the whole campus will have lost a chance to share in the creation of a magnificent institution.

But one thing is certain, the opportunity to establish student-faculty rapport is now squarely up to the students; success or failure is certain to be laid at their collective doorstep.

Another Stop Light

WHILE THE CITY council is making appropriations and preparations for improvements for the new year, it should consider putting in a stop and go light at the intersection of Iowa avenue and Dubuque street.

This is undoubtedly one of the busiest intersections in the down town district. Although serious accidents at this corner are not very numerous, there are many minor accidents that will count up in a short time.

One can stand in front of the journalism building during the noon hour any day and notice the heavy traffic and confusion at this intersection. Many university instructors and students drive down Iowa avenue and cross or turn into Dubuque street on their way home.

Not only are there many cars going through this intersection but many students from the university and from the city high schools cross at this point. Autos coming down Dubuque street and turning right up Iowa avenue make it unnecessarily dangerous for the pedestrian.

This corner is not only busy during the noon hour but at most other times with practically all of the traffic to and from Cedar Rapids going by way of Dubuque street. Also, there are several hundred students crossing the street at this point every hour going and coming from classes in East hall and the electrical engineering building.

Considering the extremely heavy traffic at this intersection, there is certainly no adequate traffic control there at present.

A Ray of Hope

A RAY OF HOPE is shining out of the clouds surrounding the life of Robert McWilliams, 17 year old Rockford, Ill., boy who slew a street car motorman. Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has granted him a 30 day reprieve. The governor states, however, that the pleas which have been pouring in on him to save the boy's life, pleas from such notable workers for humanity as Clarence Darrow and Jane Addams as well as hundreds of others, have had no effect on the granting of the reprieve.

The reason, Emmerson says, is that the boy's attorneys may appeal to the supreme court. That he would send a 17 year old boy to his death seems to cause the governor no perturbation at all. The prosecutor is "skeptical of McWilliams' men of pious gratitude" that he has been given a fighting chance for life. The prosecution is interested only in delivering its idea of justice, "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth."

If the youth's attitude of thanks that his case has been taken to the supreme court for decision seems falsely pious to the prosecution, it is because the prosecution cannot realize what the chance of life means to a 17 year old boy, even if that life be spent inside the walls of a prison.

Robert McWilliams has undoubtedly learned a lesson from the trying circumstances which have arisen since he committed his crime. A good many other boys must also have learned from this case that liquor and guns do not mix. There can be no possible good in sending this boy to the electric chair now. He has committed a terrible crime but taking his life cannot erase it.

His life in prison would be life, and much of all the goodness that life means. His sentence of death, if carried out, will be little more justifiable, committed deliberately and leisurely by sane, rational human beings and the state of Illinois, than Robert McWilliams' own crime, carried out in haste and without sober deliberation.

Education Surges On

At a time of hesitation and lagging in some directions, the heartening news is flashed in from California that Stanford university soon will be giving a course in the proper methods of angling and that "the day of the college-educated fisherman is not far off." Hasten the hour! Education should be useful, or what's a college for? Schools all down the line should perk up and add to the lists of their practical courses. The nation needs men prepared to serve it in days of testing and of trial.

Already there is an alertness to the demand. In this volume, "Universities: American, English, German," Dr. Abraham Flexner shows that several leading institutions of higher learning in this country are forging ahead with educational offerings that could not leave even the indifferent and thoughtless cold. In one there may be had sound instruction in "book reviewing," "wrestling, judo and self-defense," "clothing decoration," "food etiquette and hospitality," "gymnastic and dancing for men including practice in clog dancing," and "instruction (elementary or advanced) in school orchestras and bands." Elsewhere there are afforded such helpful courses as "kinesiology," "elementary costume design" and "principles of coaching."

So American youth may not suffer from a lack of training in fundamentals, although goodly numbers of colleges and universities have not yet fallen in line with the more practical training. The high schools can do something to fortify the young people for hardships in these institutions of higher learning that are obdurate to the call of duty and are holding out against courses in "fundamental problems in clothing," "family meals" and current trends of thought among the natives of Timbuktu.

TODAY'S TOPICS

Our glorious Land today, 'Neath Education's sway, Soars upward still, Its halls of learning fair, Whose bounties all may share, Behold them everywhere On vale and hill!

Thy safeguard, Liberty, The school shall ever be,— Our Nation's pride! No tyrant hand shall smite While with encircling might All here are taught the Right With Truth allied.

Beneath Heaven's gracious will The star of progress still Our course doth sway; In unity sublime To broader heights we climb, Triumphant over Time God speeds our way!

Grand birthright of our sties, Our altars and our fires Keep we still pure! Our starry flag unfurled; The hope of all the world, In Peace and Light imperiled, Gold hold secure!

All right, everybody—three guesses on where we got the stanzas. No, we didn't write them, and they're not entered in Norman Foerster's school of letters contest. They are lesser known lines from Sidney Smith's "America."

Right you are if you think you see good reason why these stanzas haven't been exposed to public view. They more or less help to substitute our private suspicions that exclamation points are commonly used to make up in typography what a writer lacks in wording. They lend an air of vigor and strength, and prop up words that by themselves are pretty feeble. Incidentally, Mr. Smith's better known stanzas contain no exclamation points.

Somebody ought to write a thesis on the history of the exclamation point. And speaking of these, did you notice the authority above for the grand old college of education? Our sympathy is extended to some of those who are currently "Neath Education's sway" — including those who have to prepare for teaching jobs via training in research as the degree requirement "Soars upward still."

A lot of them transfer material from books few normal human beings would care to read into these that are often anthologies of footnotes and of interest only to some future graduate student whose subject will be "The use of footnotes in graduate research on various subjects at certain universities during a recent period."

And it's all designed, we're told, to produce better teachers, teachers more skilled in stimulating that curiosity to learn, which is half of what education is, anyway.

For undergraduates, cultural backgrounds are arroyed by education requirements, many of which seem to be of little advantage except to the education curriculum. For graduates, the thesis so monopolizes attention that broadening courses are apt to receive only casual attention.

There are numerous exceptions under liberal advisers, and the tendency of the system is to squeeze dry as a bone all the petty tributaries to knowledge and to ignore entirely the main stream of human thought and cultural activity.

To All Students Now Registered in the University of Iowa Who Expect to Enter Either Our Own College of Medicine, or Any Other Medical School in the United States or Canada, for the Freshman Year's Work in the Autumn of 1932.

Last year, under the auspices of the Association of American Medical Colleges the medical aptitude test was taken by 2,222 students of 547 colleges applying for admission to the medical schools of the United States, Canada (6), the Philippine Islands (1), Porto Rico (1), Hawaii (1)—219 of these students having applied for admission to the college of medicine of the State University of Iowa. This test is required of all applicants for admission to the college of medicine of the State University of Iowa, by virtue of its institutional membership in the Association of American Medical Colleges (see the university catalogue for the current year, at the bottom of page 76).

The medical aptitude test for University of Iowa applicants for admission to any medical school belonging to the American Medical Association, for the year 1932-33, will be given promptly at 3 p.m., Friday, Dec. 11, 1931 in the main auditorium of the chemistry building.

Each such prospective applicant is notified to call at the office of the university secretary within ample time preceding the day of this test, in order to pay the prescribed fee of one dollar ($1.00) which goes to the Association of American Medical Colleges for the purpose of meeting the expenses of conducting the examination, reading the manuscript, tabulating the outcomes, and making these outcomes available to the respective medical schools.

The secretary's office will issue to each student who thus pays this fee a card certifying that the fee has been paid; and this card is to be presented by each student as he enters the main auditorium of the chemistry building just before 3 p.m., Friday, Dec. 11, 1931. An attendant will take up these cards as presented. H. C. DORCAS

Farm Bureau Turns Down No Fee Plan

Federation Demands Marketing Act Change

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP)—Turning a deaf ear to Secretary of Agriculture Hyde the American Farm Bureau federation closed its annual meeting today by reaffirming its decade-old demand for the equalization fee principle of crop surplus control.

The delegates were unanimous for the fee and for the accompanying demand that the agricultural marketing act should be amended in this session of congress to include its use.

Disregard Hyde's Plea

With this demand, the federation discarded the plea made last night by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde that farm organizations abandon the principles of the fee and the export debenture.

The final act of the thirteenth annual meeting was the unanimous re-election of Edward A. O'Neal of Alabama, as president.

Four Major Statements

The federation's major statement of beliefs was four-fold, including besides the fee and amendment: rural credits, monetary and commodity stabilization and tax reforms.

Although the Farm Bureau declared for farm board operation of the fee, it pledged its "continued support to the federal farm board in all efforts put forth to administer the marketing act in such manner as will best serve the American farmer."

Concede Export Plan

Included in the resolution endorsing the fee and the amendment was a concession to the National Grange's advocacy of the export debenture plan, putting the finishing touch to the accord on a "harmony" legislative demand reached by Farm Bureau, Grange and National Farmers Union leaders.

In this concession, the Farm Bureau expressed "its willingness to support additional amendments that would give further power and authority to the farm board for the more complete carrying out the policies of the marketing act."

Officials Hold Two Negroes Suspected of Kidnap Attempt

DES MOINES, Dec. 9 (AP)—Local authorities tonight were holding two suspects in connection with what they believe was a plot to kidnap Richard Kenneley, cigar store proprietor.

The men, both Negroes, gave the names of J. D. Charles and J. C. Smith. Charles was arrested in his room and Smith was taken into custody later after Sheriff's deputies traced a car abandoned near the Kenneley home in Valley Junction.

Kenneley was accosted early today as he drove his car into the garage at his home. The men obtained $25 before being surprised by officers who had trailed Kenneley.

Former Iowa Editor Dies in California After Long Illness

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 9 (AP)—Death has ended the long career of Lon F. Chapman, author and former Iowa newspaper editor and publisher.

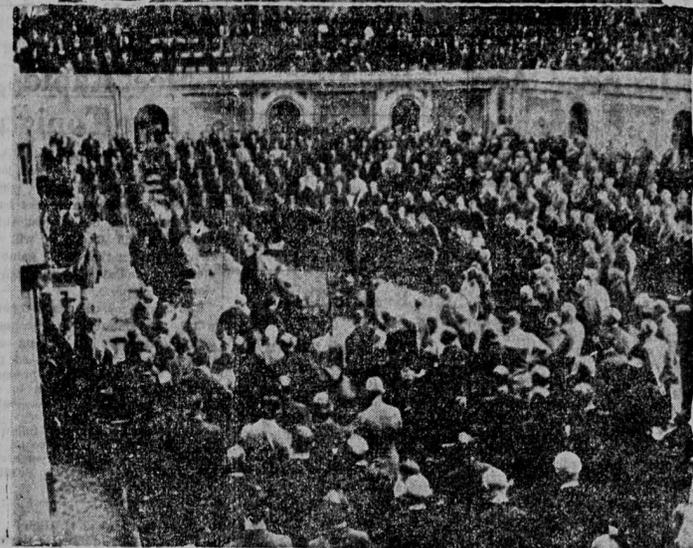

Chapman, who died yesterday after an extended illness, was associate editor and co-owner of the Pasadena Star-News. He came to California in 1897 from Iowa, where he was connected with papers at Argus, Rock Rapids and Ida Grove.

He was the author of several books including "Thirty Years in Pasadena," and a book of poems. Born in Illinois, he moved to Denison when 8 years old.

Survivors include four children and a brother-in-law, G. L. Caswell of Des Moines, executive secretary of the Iowa Press association.

War Department to Seek Appropriation for River Channel

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Expenditure of $124,000,000 was recommended to congress today by the war department to maintain a nine foot channel in the Mississippi river between Minneapolis and the mouth of the Missouri.

Major General Lytle Brown submitted the final report of his engineers approving the lock-and-dam method of improvement and estimating the annual upkeep cost at $1,750,000.

Brown said maintenance of the channel by dredging would prove inadequate, while the excess cost of reservoirs "would not be offset by any additional advantage conferred."

Consequently, the engineer chief proposed that the channel, beginning at the mouth of the Missouri and ending at the Northern Pacific railroad bridge at Minneapolis, be accomplished by a system of locks and dams supplemented by dredging.

Rock Island Agent Announces Holiday Excursion Tariffs

Three tariffs for holiday excursions were announced yesterday by Frank E. Meacham, ticket agent for the Rock Island railroad. Fare and one-third will cover all points in the middle west and south, with tickets on sale from Dec. 18 to 24, inclusive, for all trains leaving Iowa City before noon, Dec. 25, and final return limit Jan. 5.

Far eastern points, including New York, Washington, D. C., and Buffalo, N. Y., will have the same rates which will go on sale Dec. 23 and 24 with final return limit set for Jan. 4.

California, Oregon, Arizona, British Columbia, and Washington comprise the third group with rates at fare and one-fourth plus 50 cents, and will be on sale Dec. 16 to 22, inclusive, with Jan. 6 as the final return limit.

Germany Will Reduce Rates; Stirs Fascists

Government Rallies to Down Chancellor, Gerdler

BERLIN, Dec. 9 (AP) — German business realized today that its independence was gone.

Twenty-four hours of meditation on the drastic emergency decree issued last night by President Von Hindenburg brought home the fact that two men now rule Germany, economically as well as politically.

Controls All Business

These men are Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Dr. Carl Gerdler, the "price dictator" who has absolute control over all business, from the most mighty to most minute.

Dr. Gerdler indicated his course of action by asserting in an interview he would take immediate drastic steps to meet and conquer the nation's ills.

Discloses First Move

One of his first moves, he disclosed, will be to cut the prices of industrial products. Next will come freight rates and the prices of standard articles.

Government circles interpreted Chancellor Bruening's dramatic radio speech last night and the new emergency decree as marking the end of the first public encounter between the nation's two leading political personalities—the cultured chancellor and Adolf Hitler, energetic leader of the country's fascists.

Feel Decree Effects

Already the effects of the sweeping emergency decree are being felt. A considerable number of political meetings scheduled for the next few days have been cancelled. Shortly after the decree was announced 100 Hitler followers at Wuppertal in the Rhineland were arrested for wearing the banned Nazi uniform.

Board Picks Committee to Open School

Opening of the new Roosevelt school was put into the hands of a special committee with instructions to open it whenever they saw fit by the Iowa City school board at its regular monthly meeting last night.

The board also made plans for the payment of students' school funds next Saturday by Johnson County Savings bank and the Citizens' Savings and Trust company, which closed here two months ago.

Opening of the Roosevelt school has been deferred, it was brought out at the meeting, because of deep mud around the new building. The building is completed, but the mud makes it impossible for students to approach the school. Committee selected to investigate the situation are Herman Smith, Vern Miller, and E. R. Means.

Students having savings accounts in the banks will be furnished with bank books and full instructions for procedure in obtaining their money from the banks. Each student will be furnished with a receipt to take home, which is to be signed by parents if they are not going to the bank with their children, and returned. The children will then proceed to the banks, be identified, and receive their money.

Teachers in the city schools will be paid for the first half of December on the last Friday before Christmas vacation. This has been customary in the past and a motion to the effect was made by board members.

Plans were suggested at the meeting for the driving of an artesian well in the vicinity of the Iowa City high school building next spring to furnish water for buildings in the high school block.

Cubs Trade Hack Wilson, Bud Teachout to Cards for Burleigh Grimes

Red Birds to Use Hack as Bait in Deals

Want to Ship Slugger to Cincinnati or Brooklyn

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP)—Chicago's Cubs solved two of their most perplexing baseball riddles today by trading Hack Wilson and Pitcher Arthur "Bud" Teachout to the world's championship St. Louis Cardinals for their famous pitching nemesis, Burleigh Grimes.

The deal, a straight trade with no cash involved, turned the big major league player into a lively one as the Cardinals immediately offered Wilson to either Brooklyn or Cincinnati.

In trading their dethroned home run champion, the Cubs chiefs satisfied owner William Wrigley, Jr.'s ultimatum that Wilson must go; in obtaining Grimes, they secured the one pitcher who has ruined more baseball games for them than probably any two pitchers in the National League.

Hornsbly in Wager
"Why it would be a great deal for us even if we just locked Grimes up so he couldn't pitch against us," said Manager Hornsbly.

As far as the Cardinals are concerned, Wilson will never play a game for the Red Birds but will be used as bait for a deal with either Brooklyn or Cincinnati. Manager Hornsbly, who attempted to use Wilson in a deal with those clubs, however, wagered a new hat with President Sam Breadon of the Cards that Wilson would be on his payroll when the 1932 campaign opened.

The Cardinals were certain they would keep Teachout, however, as they regard the 27 year old south-paw as one of the best pitching prospects in the majors.

Seventh Club for Grimes
When Grimes dons the Cub regimentals next spring, he will have served on six National and one American league clubs. His first major league service was with the Detroit Tigers in 1913 after which he pitched for Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, New York's Giants, the Boston Braves and the Cardinals.

All baseball knows Wilson's tragic story—of how he smashed out 56 home runs and drove in a record collection of 190 runs in 1930 and then slumped to a .216 batting average and 13 home runs last year. His department of the field kicked owned Wrigley during the past season so much that the Cub owner ordered his departure.

Deals on Fire
Several deals were still on the fire tonight as club owners of both leagues continued their business sessions. Cincinnati attempted a big deal by offering Joe Stripp, and Pitcher Larry Benton to Brooklyn for Frederick Dazzy Vance, Catcher Ernest Lombardi and outfielder Ike Boone; Detroit attempted to gain Joe Judge from Washington for a catcher or a pitcher, while several clubs were dickering for Outfielder Ralph Kress of the St. Louis Browns. The New York Yankees admitted they were ready to peddle Tony Lazzeri and John McGraw of the Giants was looking for at least one good pitcher.

The Boston Braves completed a big deal with the minors group today by buying third baseman Fritz Knothe from Seattle of the Pacific Coast league for cash and players to be named later.

No Rule Change
There will be no change in the sacrifice fly rule or any reductions in the umpiring staffs of the majors next year, it was learned today. President John Heydler of the National league also announced that his circuit would continue with the 1931 baseball as all clubs were satisfied with the sphere.

The Braves also announced the sale of first baseman Earl Sheely and Catcher Bill Cronin to the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league, at a reported price of $7,500 each.

The American League voted to make no change in its official baseball meeting in New York, Feb. 22.

Card Fans Regret Grimes' Departure

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 9 (AP)—St. Louis baseball fans will bid adieu with regret to Burleigh Grimes, colorful spitballer traded by the Cardinals today to the Chicago Cubs for "Hack" Wilson, for the veteran "pitching hero" of the last world series has more than hurled himself into St. Louisians' affections.

In the past season, Grimes, who is 35, won 17 games but it was figured that he was "through" since his work the last half of the year was not good.

Braves Buy Coast Star
CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Boston Braves today bought Fritz Knothe, star third baseman of the Seattle Pacific Coast league club for cash and players to be named later. Knothe batted .320 last year and Pacific coast sports writers voted him the outstanding third baseman of the league.

Sportively Speaking

By Matt Melchiorre

The editor of the Columbia university daily is having praise and criticism heaped upon him for an editorial he wrote recently in "The Columbia Spectator." One group, which thinks football is greatly emphasized, is back of him, and the opposite faction criticizes the writer severely. Here are the highlights of the editorial entitled "Death Stalks Over The Gridiron."

"Forty football players died this season. A few more may be carried off the fields as corpses before the post-season games are ended. Football, if it is the glorious thing most coaches declare it to be, is certainly worth any number of deaths up into the millions.

"Does it not pack huge crowds into college stadiums each season? Does it not give the athletically ambitious man attending school or college an opportunity to play before a cheering grandstand, become a 'hero' and receive a soft job after graduation, not on merit, but because football was his contribution to world history.

"Does it not allow poor boys who have no desire for intellectual training, but who know the game, to attend colleges in spite of the fact that they own no money whatsoever and must depend on indulgent alumni, or similar sources for support?

"Does it not bring about nice graft for athletic association parasites, for publicity experts, for contest officials, for ticket vendors, and even for occasional professors who don't mind overlooking a little thick-headedness in the classroom?

"If men wish to commit suicide we suppose it's their business. But when a crowd of football coaches and other phenomena of the sport arrange things so nicely for the mobs in the stands that the players become human sacrifices, then the word 'murder' creeps into the picture—and stays there in spite of all the efforts men who live by, for and with football."

What do you think?

Delts Down Phi B. D's in 26-11 Contest

Phi Psi Pledges Upset Alpha Tau Omega Five 22-14

The Delta Tau Delta basketweavers downed the Phi Beta Delta quintet 26-11 in the "A" league, and the Phi Kappa Psi pledges were victorious over Alpha Tau Omega 22-14 in the only two games played in the interfraternity basketball tourney.

Don Koehn led the Tau Delts in scoring honors with 6 baskets from the field. Elliott, rony Delt guard, looked good in his position, handling the ball nicely.

For the Phi Beta Delta's Rosenberg connected for 4 baskets, 2 of which were from the center of the court.

The starting lineups: Delta Tau Delta: Koehn and Becker, forwards; Field, center; Parker and Elliott, guards.

Phi Beta Delta: Kaplan and Susselman, forwards; Blotman, center; Blank and Rosenberg, guards.

The Phi Psi's had to come from behind to defeat the A.T.O. frosh, but after darting ahead in the first part of the second period they held a safe lead the rest of the game, the final score being 22-14. Morgan, A. T. O. forward, and Jones who was substituting at guard for the Phi Psi's were tied in total points with 10 each.

The starting lineups: Phi Kappa Psi: Reed and McClintock, forwards; Wolfe, center; Parsons and Kohl, guards.

A. T. O.: Franks and Morgan, forwards; Albright, center; Sinn and Minette, guards.

Walter Nuglis of Gary, Ind. paddled his way to first place in the 60 yard back stroke swim, the second of the five events in the all-university swimming intramurals, yesterday afternoon in the field house pool.

James McClintock, Iowa City boy, captured the second place medal. Ronald White of Iowa Falls, winner of the first event, had to satisfy himself with third place yesterday afternoon.

Tomorrow the third event of the meet, the 60 yard breast stroke, will be held in the pool at 5 o'clock. On Monday the contestants will take to the water in a 100 yard swim, the next to last event on the program.

Columbia, Cornell, Rain Take Honors in Football Benefit

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—In a pouring rain that turned the gridiron into a quagmire and all but washed out charity's benefits, four of the east's football old guard battled for an hour in the mud today, with Columbia and Cornell gaining the honors.

Columbia furnished the only scoring thrills of the affair by skidding to victory over Princeton 13 to 0, in the first game, opened by a sensational 80 yard run back of the kickoff for a touchdown by Manuel Rivers.

Cornell and Pennsylvania, renewing their Thanksgiving day duel, waged a scoreless mud battle, but Cornell was declared the winner.

Youngerman Scores Slam in Triathlon to Win Varsity Meet

Taking first place in all three events of the triathlon meet staged between the varsity weight squad yesterday, Wesley Youngerman repeated his performance of last week, when he won the gold medal in a similar contest.

The silver medal for second place in the meet was taken by E. C. Mathies, with a first in discus and second in the hammer throw and shot put. Bronze medals were won by Lamar Kouba and Robert Cornog, third and fourth respectively.

Summary of events: Hammer throw—Youngerman first, Cornog second, Mathies third, Kouba fourth. Distance—145 feet.

Discus—Youngerman first, Mathies second, Kouba third, Cornog fourth. Distance—121 feet.

Shot put—Youngerman first, Shot put—Youngerman first, Kouba second, Mathies third, Cornog fourth. Distance—37 feet 5 inches.

St. Pat's Hoopsters Point for Tilt With Parlor City Quintet

Anticipating a hard struggle with the immaculate Conception cagers at Cedar Rapids tomorrow night, the St. Patrick's squad went through a fast scrimmage session yesterday.

Although basket shooting was good, the workout was marred by repeated fumbles, but Coach Joe Mowry hopes to be able to iron out the defect.

Sec. C Wins Over Sec. A by 8-7 Score

Dorsey Star of Close Quad Tournament Encounter

By an 8 to 7 score, Section C heavies won their second game in the Quadrangle basketball tourney over Section A last night at the field house. They battled all the way from Dorsey's opening free throw to his final one in the last half minute of play, one which broke a tie. The contest was a close guarding affair with nary a score in the first half other than Dorsey's free throw.

With only two minutes to go before the final run, Horwitz counted from the floor and knotted the score 7 up. A furious struggle was climaxed by Dorsey's deciding gift marker.

The lineups: Section C, Frazee, Ebert, forwards; Dorsey, center; Wilson and Nelson, guards.

For Section A, Johnson and Brady, forwards; Nelson, center; Noble and Horwitz, guards.

Section D won its second game over Section B in the other heavyweight encounter, 11 to 8. Although behind 9 to 5 at the end of the second third of the game the losers threatened near the last and garnered three points before a basket by Kensingler stopped the advance.

The lineups: Section D, Osborn, Kennedy, forwards; Wellstead, center; Kensingler and Case, guards.

For Section B, Brodsky, Schapiro, forwards; Peyton, center; Davis and Lustgarten, guards.

The Section A lightweights won over Section B with a walkaway score, 22 to 14. The game was a scoring spree for three men. Cassill for the losers netted 11 points while Norris and Brady divided honors for the winners with eight points apiece.

The lineups: Section A, Mordelblatt, Norris, forwards; Morrison, center; Brody and Cearle, guards; Section B, Cassill, Johnson, forwards; Reid, center; McRobert and Whalen, guards.

Dempsey, Gibbons in Talking Version on Championship Go

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 9 (AP)—The battle of Shelby, Mont., was fought over again today this time with a luncheon table separating the combatants.

Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons who shared the glory of that 1921 fight, tilted back their chairs following a speaking program stressing the ring greatness of each.

State Rests in Trial of Dobry on False Statement Charges

DAVENPORT, Dec. 9 (AP)—The state rested today in the trial of D. A. Dobry, president of the defunct D. A. Dobry Securities company, on charges of making false statements to the state securities department.

A motion for a directed verdict for the defense was overruled by Judge D. V. Jackson. The defense claimed that the indictments were faulty, a contention made in a demurrer overruled some time ago.

Four character witnesses for Dobry took the stand today and testified to his good character. They were Roy Fisher, local insurance man; Charles Houska, butcher; Charles Huber, insurance man; and Dr. C. E. Glynn.

"Steed" Throws Boy at "Rodeo"

RANDOLPH, (AP)—Donald Howey, 7, has just about given up a career as a "bronco buster." His "steed," a German police dog trained to harness and saddle, threw him during an impromptu rodeo. Donald suffered a broken nose.

Section C emerged on top with its second win of the tourney also, conquering Section D, 17 to 9. Woods went hot for the winners during the second period, piling up a lead that was never threatened by his opponents.

The lineups: Section C, Woods, Powell, forwards; Greenfield, center; Judd and Loria, guards.

For Section D, Feoy, Mudge, forwards; Anderson, center; Beckett and Snow, guards.

St. Mary's to Meet Rapids Five Tonight

St. Mary's basketball team journeys to Cedar Rapids tonight where it meets St. Wenseclaus. Set back by a one point defeat just three days ago, the Ramblers will be striving to win their third game of the season and start on the path of victory once more.

The team they will meet, though, will be an almost entirely veteran team, featuring the scoring and floorwork of a four year guard, Pisarik. The Suenepelmen are prepared for the invasion and plan to use much the same lineup as played Monday.

Sueppel will take the following men on the trip: Gaulocher, D. Lumsden, Belger, Rittmeyer, Jenn, R. Lumsden, Consamus, Bradley, Vogt, Pooler and Stork.

College Basketball Scrimmage at U. High

In last night's practice, University high's basketball squad listened to a long chalk talk on various offensive formations and then practiced them on the floor. The drill period was wound up with a scrimmage in which every man saw action.

New Old Gold

Creston has one good representative here in frosh basketball—D. E. Smith. Smith was ranked on the second all-state team last year, playing the position of forward.

For four years, he was one of Creston's main-stays in basketball, and for one year as captain on the basketball team.

Smith did not play baseball in high school, but earned a position as catcher on the Creston American Legion baseball team, playing for two years.

SKIPPIY—An Appreciative Audience

By PERCY L. CROSBY

Cedar Rapids, was held yesterday afternoon.

Coach Wells opened the drill with a talk on the rules, placing special emphasis on the changes for this season. After the talk two teams took the floor and a long scrimmage followed.

Stimmel, Soucek, Ballard, Brown and Elberts were in the starting line-up of the first team. Harry Dick took Ballard's place after the latter showed up poorly in passing the ball. Paul Reed went in for Walt Brown and accounted for points. Reed was used at center in yesterday's drill.

and Stimmel, who played in the pivot position throughout the Lone Tree game, was at forward.

The cagers will ease up today, and go through a light tapering drill.

Salors to Hear Game

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Navy men over the world may cheer or groan in unison on Saturday. Secretary Adams said today arrangements had been made to broadcast a play-by-play account of the Army-Navy football game to the fleets at sea and to distant navy stations.

Students Rise Against Grid's 'Big Business'

Management of Sport in General in for Criticism

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—Rebellion against the big business and showmanship trend in football has flared up among college students of the Midwest.

Added to the perennial scalp hunting for coaches of losing teams, the agitation at this season's close strikes at both winners and losers and is directed at the management of the sport in general.

At the University of Nebraska, where the 1931 Big Six title resides, the student newspaper, Daily Nebraskan, declares editorially "the football team has become nothing except an advertising agency for the university."

"Hysteria" Passing

Cornern over student apathy toward spectatorship and preference for sports in which they may compete themselves was manifest at the Big Six conference annual meeting here this week, at which, significantly, athletic budgets were cut to the bone to meet an average reduction of 20 per cent in football gate receipts last season.

Searching for reasons other than the economic condition for the reduced revenues, the directors almost unanimously agreed that student interest had waned and that the "hysteria" of the prosperity decade in athletics was passing.

Nebraska struck a cross section by selling football tickets to students at cut rates in a certain section. Athletic Director Herb D. Gish said at least half the occupants of the section were "old graybeards" to whom students obviously had sold their tickets.

Campus Papers Involved

Campus newspapers, petitions, counter petitions and handbills figure as ammunition and the Wisconsin state senate has voted to investigate the scale upon which athletic disbursements were made at the Badger institution.

A petition circulated at the University of Oklahoma seeks the ouster of Athletic Director Bennie Owen and Adrian Lindsay, head football coach, after a disastrous Sooner gridiron campaign.

Today Oklahoma football players turned up with a petition worded similarly but demanding removal of Debate Coach Walter Emery and Josh Lee, head of the public speaking department, because they haven't produced winners.

Accomplish "Nothing"

The Missouri Student, campus weekly at the University of Missouri, editorially charges football and track coaches have accomplished "next to nothing" in the last two years and says the athletic department "is more than half deadwood."

Handbills recently distributed at Lawrence, Kan., demanded not only the lopping off of the head of the Kansas athletic department, Dr. F. C. Allen, but also the ouster of Chancellor E. H. Lindley.

Dull Defeats Champlin in Mat Tourney

Wrestlers vying for all-university title yesterday completed all but two matches in the semi-final round.

Burt Dull, 146 pound varsity grappler and John Champlin, Iowa Falls freshman, put on the best match of the day, with Dull taking a decision. Champlin came out from underneath several times with clever switches, but Dull was too smart for the yearling.

Randall Whinnery, Ft. Dodge transfer, pinned F. E. Knipfer, Des Moines senior melle, in 3 minutes and 19 seconds with a half nelson and body scissors after the roughest struggle of the afternoon. Knipfer mixed willingly, but was no match for his more experienced opponent. They wrestled at 165 pounds.

In the other 165 pound match, Al Coang, Ames veteran, won a decision over L. A. Fryberger. Coang used a body scissors effectively to keep Fryberger on the defensive most of the time.

Frank Daffillito, Centerville sophomore, tossed Albert Cotton, Forest Park, Ill. freshman, with a body scissors and a reverse half nelson in 2 minutes and 43 seconds. They met at 135 pounds.

Clarence Johnson, 165 pounder from Cherokee, tossed G. D. Britton, Sanborn, with a cradle hold in 2 minutes and 35 seconds. Johnson won without extending himself.

Clarence Hubbard, Carroll, won the other 175 pound match by defeating Neldon Weigle, Riceville veteran, by the decision route. Hubbard piled up an early time advantage which Weigle could not overcome, although he was behind his man during the latter stages of the match.

H. E. Kenworthy, Grant yearling, tossed Wilmon Hass, Forest Park, Ill. freshman, in 4 minutes and 49 seconds with a crotch hold and reverse half nelson in the only heavy-weight bout of the day. The advantage switched from one to the other until Kenworthy slapped on the winning hold.

The only two matches scheduled for today send Whinnery against Joe Haddard in the 165 pound division, and John O'Leary against J. R. McCoffrie in the heavyweight class.

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 9 (AP)—The athletic council of the University of Texas voted today to eliminate the Texas relays next spring, on account of the Olympics on the Pacific coast.

City Hi Cage Squad Points for First Tilt

Two more guards have been lost to the squad.

Two more guards have been lost to the squad. Ben Seizer, it was learned yesterday, will not be eligible at least until Feb. 1. Joe Schwartz, minor letter winner last season, has been cut from the squad for training rule violations.

Saturday evening Iowa will have to guard Dick Arney, Carleton's sensational basket-maker from Marshalltown. Three of the Minnesotans are more than six feet two inches in height. Three regulars are sophomores.

WE PREFER MOVIES to MATHEMATICS BUT

Mathematics, we think, is a dull subject but we have to admit that mathematicians are pretty smart people. So when we turned one of them loose on our expense account, we listened when he told us he had made a discovery.

Stripped of technical language, here's what he proved to us:

That it had been costing us over 6% to carry charge accounts.

That's bad. Too much. Much too much we feel for anyone to be asked to pay for the luxury of saying "Charge it." If they knew they were paying for the service they wouldn't like it.

What would you have done in this situation?

Here's What We Did:

1. We discontinued all charge accounts.
2. We reduced all prices in our store 6% or more—although we have never knowingly been undersold by any store at any time on men's wear of quality equal to ours.
3. We made a pledge to ourselves and to our customers that we will in the future sell our merchandise for at least 6% less than if we sold on credit.

In establishing this policy, we were guided by the belief that most men—and women—approve efficient methods and appreciate an opportunity to save when they can be assured that quality is not sacrificed.

And every day we are more convinced of the soundness of our idea, for every day we are meeting new people—intelligent, substantial, thrifty men and women who tell us so by spending their money at

Stocks Break Through Lows for October 5

Trade Reports Bear Down Spirits of Investors

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Security and commodity markets reacted again today, stocks finally breaking through the Oct. 5 lows, as measured by the averages.

Emergency tax plans of the federal government to help meet the deficit, a gloomy crop of trade reports and further unfavorable railroad dividend news appeared to bear down the spirits of traders and investors who dribbled their efforts into a market that offered feeble resistance.

The standard statistics Associated Press composite of 90 issues closed at 69.7 compared with the old low of 70, the day's net loss being 1.5.

Final prices generally were up from the mid-afternoon minimums. Bonds weakened and wheat lost more than 2 cents a bushel.

Prepared for Higher Taxes Wall street had been prepared for higher taxes, both of the income and excise variety; a large section of financial opinion has held that too much reliance should not be placed on borrowing by the treasury.

New York Central failed to declare the quarterly payment due at this time, but the directors decided to make the dividend meeting semi-annual until business improves, thus leaving the door open to a possible payment next May without formally taking the stock off a dividend basis.

Shrinkage in Steel The year end shrinkage in many lines of trade is being felt by the steel industry, which currently, according to "iron age," is running at 26 1/2 per cent of capacity, or a new average low for the depression.

Weakness in shares was well distributed. U. S. Steel broke under 50 in the morning going to 48 1/2 and closing at 49 1/2 for a net loss of 1 1/2.

American Telephone was sold when it was learned that the tax recommendations included a levy on toll calls above a moderate charge, but the stock rallied more than a point from the low.

The net decline was 2 3/8. International Telephone was up 1/4 to 9, tobacco shares were obviously affected by the plans for higher taxes on smoking materials.

In the rails, New York Central dipped to 24 7/8, then recovered to 26 1/2, or a loss of 5/8. Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Reading, Norfolk & Western, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio were off 1 to 3.

WSUI Station to Broadcast Jessup's Talk Known in America's educational circles for his analytical discussions of problems of the profession, President Walter A. Jessup will lecture tomorrow evening at the chemistry auditorium.

His talk, to be given at one of his infrequent appearances here as a lecturing authority rather than as a president, is upon the subject, "Problems in higher educational administration." Beginning at 7:05 p.m., station WSUI will broadcast President Jessup's remarks.

Thirty-one years ago this 53-year old executive began his career in education as superintendent of schools in Westville, Ind. His first appointment in an institution of higher education was in 1911 as dean of the school of education at Indiana university.

The four years preceding his appointment to the presidency were occupied as Iowa's dean of the college of education and in 1916 he became the university's fourteenth president.

West Point Graduate Talks on "Discipline" to Engineer Society

"Discipline," a talk based on his own experiences in the army, was given by William F. M. Longwell, E4 of Iowa City, before the members of the American Society of Civil Engineers in the engineering building yesterday afternoon.

Longwell is one of the West Point graduates enrolled in the college of engineering and is a lieutenant in the army.

In a second talk, J. Peter Ottesen described his own experiences in construction work on the Owyhee dam in Oregon.

An illustrated talk will be given at the meeting of the society next week.

16 Days of Vacation at Christmas; Class Work Begins Jan. 5

Sixteen days of vacation from University of Iowa classes begin for students Friday, Dec. 18 at 6 p.m., when the institution closes for the Christmas holidays.

Resumption of classes will occur Tuesday, Jan. 5, but a week of semester examinations will precede the closing of the first semester, Jan. 30.

At the mid-year convocation of Feb. 2, more than 125 degrees and certificates will be awarded to graduating men and women.

Aero Safety, Color Discussed in Talks

"Aerodynamics safety," was discussed by John D. Cantwell, E4 of Davenport, at the meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in the engineering building yesterday afternoon.

A second talk, "Will colors on machines pay," was given by Foster E. Adams, E3 of Dubuque.

Professor Clapp Holds Honors in Varied Lines; Head of University Music Department Since World War

By GEORGE KALBACH composition, and serving for two years as conductor of the student orchestra.

In 1908, Professor Clapp received the A.B. degree, again "magna cum laude," and a year later he was awarded "highest final honors," and was sent to Europe as a Frederick Sheldon Fellow of Harvard.

For the next seven years, Professor Clapp taught in the east, at Harvard, Middlesex school for boys, Gloucester school of music, and Dartmouth college, during which time he had the advice and criticism of Dr. Karl Muek, then serving as conductor of the Boston symphony.

Professor Clapp came to the University of Iowa in 1919, after his military service overseas, and has served here ever since then, as professor and head of the music department.

Granted Leave of Absence Several leaves of absence have been granted Professor Clapp during his stay here. During the summer of 1925 and 1927, he was guest professor at the University of California at Berkeley, and in 1929 was invited to hold the same office at the Los Angeles branch of that school.

At another time he was named director of extension at Juillard school of music. For three months in 1929, he was guest conductor of the American Orchestral society in New York city.

Professor Clapp's abilities as a musician are not wholly those of performance, for he is a composer of notes as well. He has written eight symphonies, the first of which was performed by the Boston symphony orchestra in 1914, another by the same orchestra three years later, and one by the People's symphony orchestra of Boston last spring.

Compositions Produced by Symphony "Norge," a symphonic poem for orchestra, written and produced at the Pierian Sodality Centennial in 1908 by Professor Clapp, has since been revised and produced by symphony orchestras of St. Louis, New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, and Boston.

Another of Professor Clapp's works, a prelude, "In Spring," has also been presented by the Chicago, New York, and Minneapolis symphony orchestras. In 1925, the Chicago string quartet played his "String Quartet in G minor."

Professor Clapp has also composed other orchestral and choral compositions as yet unperformed, and songs, part-songs, and smaller instrumental compositions.

Problem: how to answer a million a day Users of Bell System service ask "Information" more than 1,000,000 questions every day. Providing facilities for answering them promptly, correctly, was one problem put up to engineers of the Bell System.

So effective was their solution that this prodigious task is now a matter of smooth routine. They designed desks which enable each operator to reach quickly the listings of some 15,500,000 telephones. They developed apparatus which automatically routes calls to operators not busy—and should all operators be busy at once, it stores up calls and releases them in the order received! Efficient telephone service depends upon working out interesting problems like this.

"Steel Lung" Breathes for University Hospital Patients; First of Kind Used in State

A respirator, or "steel lung" which "breathes" for the patient and makes it possible to save lives by prolonged artificial respiration, has been acquired by the University of Iowa hospital.

It is the only apparatus of its kind in the state and will be available for use of any patients suffering from infantile paralysis, post-diphtheritic paralysis, drug poisoning, severe carbon monoxide poisoning, or other causes of respiratory distress.

Enclose Patient's Body One end of the long metal chamber opens and the patient lies comfortably upon a cot enclosed within the chamber. The person's head protrudes through a soft rubber collar.

The power plant which induces respiration is mounted beneath the chamber. An electric motor operates a suction pump which is piped to the chamber and always is trying to withdraw air.

Interruption of this suction, however, is brought about by a slowly rotating valve, so the pump draws air only at intervals simulating the normal respiratory rate.

Inspiration is produced by creating a slight vacuum within the chamber and exhalation by replacing the vacuum with normal atmospheric pressure.

Patient Sleeps, Eats None of the comforts of regular hospital care are denied the patient by his presence in the respirator. While the apparatus is functioning, he may eat and sleep and can receive the usual nursing ministrations through chamber openings provided with air tight rubber collars.

Hospital officials report that the respirator already has been used successfully several times and that it is one of the most valuable additions ever made to the university institution's equipment.

FISH PREFERRED

By P. G. Wodehouse

Synopsis of Pleading Installments Ronald Fish, nephew of Lord Emsworth of Blandings Castle, is in love with Sue Brown, a chorus girl. His cousin Millicent is secretly engaged to Hugo Carmody, his lordship's secretary. Sue and Ronnie have a misunderstanding, and Sue, hoping to patch things up, comes to Blandings Castle in the guise of a wealthy Miss Schoonmaker. Lord Emsworth's sister, Lady Constance Keeble, has installed in the household one Rupert Baxter, an ex-secretary of his lordship's whom she considers highly efficient. But his lordship believes him to be slightly crazy. Baxter discovers Sue's identity and goes to her room to try to recover an indiscreet note he has written to her. He hides under the bed, just as Ronnie bursts into the room looking for Sue.

committed the actual theft was your nephew, Ronald." Lord Emsworth turned to his sister with a triumphant gesture, like one who has been vindicated. "There! Now perhaps you'll say 'He's not potty? It won't do, Baxter, my dear fellow,' he went on. "You really mustn't excite yourself by making up these stories." "Bad for the blood pressure," agreed the Hon. Galahad. "The Empress was found this evening in your caravan," said Lord Emsworth. "What?" "In your caravan. Where you put her when you stole her. And, bless my soul," said Lord Emsworth. "What?" "In your caravan. Where you put her when you stole her. And, bless my soul," said Lord Emsworth, with a start. "I must be going and seeing that she is put back in her sty. I must find Pilibright. I must—"

That afternoon Hugo and Millicent had found a prize pig of Lord Emsworth's which had disappeared. They did not know that Ronnie had stolen and hidden the animal with the purpose of producing it later and being rewarded. They hit upon the same scheme, namely to produce the animal and win such favor from Lord Emsworth that he will consent to their marriage. Meanwhile they hide the pig in Baxter's caravan. But Pilibright, a detective engaged by Lord Emsworth, sees them. Forced to quick action, Hugo telephones to Millicent at a dinner party. She at once tells his lordship that Hugo has found the pig in Baxter's caravan, and his lordship rushes home. As the car drives up to the door, a man is seen climbing the waterspout toward Sue's room. It is the detective, Pilibright, but Lord Emsworth thinks it is the "loony" Baxter. As he enters the hallway, Pilibright comes dashing down the stairs with Ronnie in hot pursuit. Thinking that Baxter has gone amok upstairs, his lordship seizes a gun and, followed by Lady Constance and his brother Galahad, rushes up to Sue's room, where he discovers Baxter under the bed.

Thirty-fourth Installment A man who has been wined and dined for a matter of some 30 minutes and, while there, has been compelled to listen to the sort of dialogue which accompanies a lovers' reconciliation seldom appears at his best or feels his brightest. There was fluff in Baxter's hair, dust on his clothes, and on his face a scowl of concentrated hatred of all humanity.

Lord Emsworth, prepared for something pretty wild looking, found his expectations exceeded. He tightened his grasp on the gun and, to insure a more accurate aim, raised the butt of it to his shoulder, closing one eye and allowing the other to gleam along the barrel.

"I have you covered, my dear fellow," he said mildly. Rupert Baxter had not yet begun to stick straws in his ears, but he seemed on the verge of that final piece of self-expression.

"Don't point that blasted thing at me!" "I shall point it at you," replied Lord Emsworth with spirit. "And at the slightest sign of violence—"

"Clarence!" It was Lady Constance who spoke. "Put that gun down."

"Certainly not." "Clarence!" "Oh, all right."

"And now, Mr. Baxter," said Lady Constance, "I am sure you can explain."

Her agitation had passed. It was not in this strong woman to remain agitated long. She had been badly shaken, but her faith in her idol still held good. Remarkable as his behavior might appear, she was sure that he could account for it in a perfectly satisfactory manner.

Baxter did not speak. His silence gave Lord Emsworth the opportunity of advancing his own views.

"Explain!" He spoke petulantly. "What on earth is there to explain? The thing's obvious."

"Can't say I've quite got to the bottom of it," murmured the Hon. Galahad. "Follow under the bed. Why? Why under bed? Why here at all?"

Lord Emsworth hesitated. He was a kind-hearted man, and he felt that what he had to say would be better said in Baxter's absence. However, there seemed no way out of it, so he proceeded.

"My dear Galahad, think!" "Eh?" "That flower-pot affair. You remember?"

"Oh!" Understanding shone in the Hon. Galahad's monocle. "You mean—"

"Exactly." "Yes, yes. Of course. Subject to these attacks, you mean?"

"Precisely." This was not the first time Lady Constance Keeble had had the opportunity of hearing a theory ventilated by her brothers which she found detestable. She flushed brightly.

"Clarence!" "My dear?" "Kindly stop talking in that insulting way."

"Bless my soul!" Lord Emsworth was stung. "I like that. What have I said that is insulting?" "You know perfectly well."

"In your caravan. Where you put her when you stole her. And, bless my soul," said Lord Emsworth, with a start. "I must be going and seeing that she is put back in her sty. I must find Pilibright. I must—"

"In my caravan?" Baxter passed a feverish hand across his forehead. Illumination came to him. "Then that's what that fellow Carmody did with the animal!"

Lord Emsworth had had enough of this. Empress of Blandings was waiting for him. Counting the minutes to that happy reunion, he chafed at having to stand here listening to these wild ravings.

"First Beach, then Ronald, then Carmody! You'll be saying I stole her next, or Galahad here, or my sister Constance. Baxter, my dear fellow, we aren't blaming you. Please don't think that. We quite see how it is. I wish you would go quietly to your room, my dear fellow, and lie down. All this must be very bad for you."

Lady Constance intervened. Her eye was aflame. "Clarence, will you kindly use whatever slight intelligence you may possess? The theft of your pig is one of the most trivial and unimportant things that has ever happened in this world, but whoever stole the wretched animal—"

Lord Emsworth blanched. He stared as if wondering if he heard aright.

"—and wherever it has been found, it was certainly not Mr. Baxter who stole it. Do ask yourself, Clarence, what earthly motive would Mr. Baxter have for coming to Blandings Castle and stealing pigs?"

It may have been the feel of the gun in his hand which awoke in Lord Emsworth old memories of dashing days with the Shropshire Yeomanry and lent him some of the hot spirit of his vanished youth. The fact remains that he did not wilt beneath his sister's dominating eye. He met it boldly, and boldly answered back.

"Under beds!" "Clarence," he said, "what earthly motive Mr. Baxter has for anything he does?"

"Yes," said the Hon. Galahad loyally. "What motive has our friend Baxter for coming to Blandings Castle and scaring girls stiff by hiding under beds?"

Lady Constance gulped. They had found the weak spot in her defences. She turned to the man who still hoped could deal efficiently with this attack.

"Mr. Baxter," she said, as if she were calling on him for an after-dinner speech. "I am sure you can explain."

But Rupert Baxter had had no dinner. And it was perhaps this that turned the scale. Quite suddenly there descended on him a frenzied desire to be out of this, cost what it might. An hour before, if not a hour before, even five minutes before, his tongue had been tied by a still lingering hope that he might yet find his way back to Blandings Castle in the capacity of private secretary to the Earl of Emsworth. Now he felt that he would not accept that post were it offered to him on bended knee.

A sudden overpowering hatred of Blandings Castle and all it contained gripped the efficient Baxter. He marvelled that he had ever wanted to come back to a house which, he said now, he loathed as few houses have been loathed since human beings left off living in caves.

His mouth tightened. "I will explain!" "I knew you would have an explanation," cried Lady Constance. "I have. A very simple one."

"And short, I hope?" asked Lord Emsworth.

DIXIE DUGAN—Relief Work

Emsworth restlessly. He was aching to have done with all this talk and discussion and to be with his pig once more.

"Quite short," said Rupert Baxter. The only person in the room who so far had remained entirely outside this rather painful scene was Sue. She had looked on from her place by the window, an innocent bystander. She now found herself drawn abruptly into the maelstrom of the debate. Baxter's spectacles were raking her from head to foot, and he had pointed at her with an accusing forefinger.

"I came to this room," he said, "to try to recover a letter which I had written to this lady who calls herself Miss Schoonmaker."

"Of course she calls herself Miss Schoonmaker," said Lord Emsworth soothingly. "You are only exciting yourself by going on like this. Probably doing yourself a great deal of harm. Now, what I suggest is that you go to your room and put a cool compress on your forehead and lie down and take a good rest. I will send Beach up to you with some nice bread-and-milk."

"Rum and milk," amended Hon. Galahad. "It's the only thing. I knew a fellow in the year '97 who was subject to these spells, you probably remember him, Clarence? Bellamy—'Barny' Bellamy we used to call him—"

"Her name is Brown!" repeated Baxter, his voice soaring in a hysterical crescendo. "Sue Brown. She is a chorus girl at the Regal theater in London. And she is engaged to be married to your nephew, Ronald."

Lady Constance uttered a cry. Lord Emsworth expressed his feelings with a couple of tuts. The Hon. Galahad alone was silent. He caught Sue's eye, and there was concern in his gaze.

"I overheard Beach saying so in this very room. He said he had had the information from Mr. Pilibright. I imagine it to be accurate. But, in any case, I can tell you this much. Whoever she is, she is an impostor who has come here under a false name. While I was in the smoking room some time back a telegram came through on the telephone from Market Blandings. It was signed Myra Schoonmaker, and it had been handed in in Paris this afternoon. That is all I have to say," concluded Emsworth. "I will now leave you, and I sincerely hope I shall never set eyes on any of you again. Good-evening!"

His spectacles glistening coldly, he strode from the room and in the doorway collided with Ronnie.

"Can't you look where you're going?" "Eh?" said Ronnie. "Clumsy idiot!" said the efficient Baxter, and was gone.

Porter Gives Conservative Note at Meet

Prof. Kirk H. Porter, of the political science department, will sound a conservative note at the conference on county government at Columbia, Mo., Dec. 11, 12.

He recalls that the pressure of the times is stimulating to adopt reform but that there is a danger of adopting radical measures. Many of the reforms which have promise on the surface, he believes, really do not have much to recommend them. He is skeptical of county consolidation and not so sure of the promises of county manager plans.

The political science department of the University of Missouri is organizing the conference in conjunction with the American Political Science association. It is one of the conferences under the auspices of the subcommittee on political education of the committee of policy. The need for constructive approach to the problems of county government in Missouri was the basis for choosing the topic for the conference.

The conference will be made up of 25 members. Half will be academic and technical members and half will be public officials and representative citizens.

170 Holiday Board Jobs Now Available Men await jobs in all sections of the nation but at the University of Iowa jobs await the men. They are board jobs during the Christmas holiday period, and there are 250 of them available with only about 80 applicants at present, it is reported by the university employment service.

Never before in the university's history has there been a shortage of job hunters. Some of the men will occupy two or three jobs, and since they cannot consume more than three meals a day will receive credit for future repasts.

Who Will Win Mary's Place as "America's Sweetheart"?

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.—The world has changed in many ways since Mary Pickford, with her ringlets and her air of maidenly unsophistication, played havoc with human hearts and won for herself the title of "America's Sweetheart." In those days the petite star occupied a niche all her own far above the myriad of lesser luminaries in the movie firmament where she reigned as undisputed Queen of the Screen.

But since, as the wife of Douglas Fairbanks, Mary has dropped somewhat out of the glaring spotlight, so far as movie fans are concerned. Her imaginary throne has been theoretically vacant during the last few years, with no one acting seriously endangering the honor and title held for so long by the beloved little star.

Not that there haven't been stars that twinkled as brightly as Mary was wont to do. From time to time one rises on the Hollywood horizon and streaks comet-like across the sky, gleaming for the moment with heavenly radiance, but its beams do not penetrate to the human heart as did the immortal Mary's.

The fact is that, as has been pointed out, the world has changed and it is no longer considered proper for a woman to be unsophisticated, soft and trusting. Consequently there is a dearth of the Pickford type among contemporary queens.

A recent canvass among 100 male movie fans in an effort to find a wearer for Mary's discarded mantle elicited such a diversity of opinion that the enquirer was as wise before as he was at the conclusion of the poll.

The names of the Bennett sisters, Constance and Joan, were prominently mentioned as being in line for honors as the outstanding female film star, but even their supporters confessed that they are not quite the type to wear the title of "America's Sweetheart." They appeal to man's love of beauty and talent, but they do not awaken the protective instinct latent in all males of the species.

Despite the modern tendency of man to show preference for woman-of-the-world type, deep down in his heart his sympathies are all with the innocent vestal who trustingly walks into the trap prepared by the suave villain of the piece. That is why the virginal Janet Gaynor is perhaps the most popular of today's crop of

Dry Director Scores Over Three Agents

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Three prohibition agents—two accused of racketeering in protection and the third already suspended for his connection with the death of a Colorado youth—today felt the swift and heavy hand of Prohibition Director Woodcock.

To a fourth federal agent recently in trouble in court the federal dry chief dealt out "another chance."

Woodcock suspended W. W. Schultz of Pittsburgh and David Gould of Baltimore immediately after a federal grand jury indicted them for extortion in Harrisburg, Penn., on evidence brought by their federal superiors.

Schultz and Gould were of a group who promised to use their influence, Woodcock explained, to get off lightly saloon-keepers and other violators.

Henry Dierks was permanently dismissed today. Woodcock suspended him recently, after Milford G. Smith, young Englewood, Col., truckman died from a wound Dierks is accused of inflicting in a scuffle over a bottle of wine.

Frederick Wilson of Buffalo, New York, was the fourth agent. He was tried with two other men for assaulting the proprietor of an alleged speakeasy. He was convicted of "third-degree" assault. The others were acquitted.

Wheat Values Cut as Paper Strength Slips

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP)—More than 2 1/2 cents new slash in wheat values today came about from extensive general selling that accompanied crumbling of securities. Contracts for May wheat the principal future delivery, went as low as 54 3/8 a bushel, compared with 73 cents just a month ago. Export buying of United States wheat was virtually at a standstill, with Canada capturing the only North American overseas business, and with Liverpool noting urgent offerings of new crop wheat from Argentina.

Wheat closed nervous, 2@2 5/8 cents under yesterday's finish, corn 7 3/8@1 3/8 down, oats 1 1/8@1 3/8 cents off, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents decline.

Despite considerable speculative purchasing inspired by the fact that grain values were once more near the low level of October, fresh downturns in wheat prices began as soon as trading started.

For at least the time being, it was in vain bulls stressed assertions that wheat had become the most liquidated commodity in the world. Uncertainty over prospective legislation at Washington regarding exchanges tended to operate as a market burden, and so too did talk that until foreign financial aches were cleared the bull side would be handicapped.

Rivers Congress Elects Reid
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Representative Reid, Republican of Illinois, today was elected president of the National Rivers and Harbors congress to succeed former Senator Ransdell of Louisiana.

Beers Murder Trial Near Close as State Introduces Witnesses

FT. DODGE, Dec. 9 (AP)—Charles Beers' trial on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Edna Defoe Oct. 14 neared its close today.

On the stand late today Beers denied all knowledge of the alleged assault upon Mrs. Defoe and told the jury his mind was a blank from the time he and Mrs. Defoe started from home that Saturday night until he awakened in the yard of his home the next day.

The state rested its case after introducing 13 witnesses to establish the contention that Mrs. Defoe's death resulted from wounds inflicted by Beers in the asserted attack.

Then there is the soft and fluffy Dorothy Jordan, whose magnetism lies in her appearance of fragility, walking the same impulse in man as the sight of a pretty kitten beset by savage dogs.

The ruddy-haired Nancy Carroll, too, has her champions. There is something about a dimple, of which Miss Carroll has a couple, that broadcasts on unspoken appeal for sympathy which the male movie fan cannot resist.

Sylvia Sydney's loyal supporters were warm in their advocacy of their favorite as the star of stars and waxed indignant when asked if they considered her equal if Mary Pickford.

But to confuse matters still further, a great many of those to whom the inquiry was put vehemently insisted that no star of today is deserving of the title that Mary earned. They assert that she has never relinquished it and has only to make a re-appearance on the screen to be once more hailed as "America's Sweetheart."

County Employees Give Annual Party

County employees at the Johnson county court house will have their annual Christmas party tonight at 7 o'clock at the Red Ball Inn. The evening's entertainment will be a banquet followed by dancing to radio music.

Deviating from former Christmas parties, court house employees will be permitted to take outside guests. An estimate last night showed that approximately 50 persons are expected to be present, breaking all former records of attendance.

Two Buses Cancelled
East bound bus leaving here at 12:20 and west bound bus leaving at 1:25 a.m. will be temporarily cancelled starting today, it was announced yesterday by R. J. McComas, local traffic manager of the Pickwick-Greyhound Lines Incorporated.

Paint, Oil Makes New Toys From Discarded Playthings

Hundreds of newly painted toys on the shelves of the Industrial Arts department at Iowa City high school make it look like Santa Claus' workshop. And they are a part of that jovial gentleman's equipment, too, for at Christmas time they will be distributed by the Social Service League.

They are the contributions of 800 children who attended the Garden theater matinee last Saturday for the price of a discarded toy, and of Iowa City Boy Scouts who have been canvassing the city for old or new playthings.

Young America is air-minded, for airplanes from cast iron planes to elaborated zeppelins are waiting there for Santa to load his sack. Toy autos, too, of every kind, have their wheels oiled and a shiny coat of paint to delight some poor child Christmas morning.

Under the supervision of A. M. Versteeg and Roy Bartholomew of the industrial arts department at the high school, 36 boys are working daily to repair the toys during the last week of school before the holidays. Dolls by the bushel basket are being tinted and dressed by the art and home economics departments with Miss Lucille Lacock instructor. Stillwells paint store donated paint for redecorating the toys.

Glen G. Fordyce, scout executive, said yesterday over 1,000 toys have been collected and more contributions are being received daily.

Physic Department Entertains Sigma Xi Members Last Night

Members of Sigma Xi and their guests were entertained by the physics department at a dinner at 6 p.m. last night and by scientific talks beginning at 7 p.m.

Prof. Alexander Ellet presented a paper on "Molecules as waves," and Prof. John A. Eldridge presented a paper on "Molecules as particles."

"Mechanics, old and new," was the theme of the evening.

Experiments in electronics and atomic structure were set up in room 17, the atomic structure laboratory, and were explained to the guests.

Engineers Hear of Scientist's History

The life history and scientific work of Michael Faraday was sketched by George Koval, E3 of Sioux City, before the members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in the electrical engineering building yesterday afternoon.

Koval stressed the fact that the science of electrical engineering was greatly advanced by the research of this great scientist.

I. Rothchilds to Give Talk
Mr. I. Rothchilds, former Iowa City merchant, now residing in Washington, Ia., will address Rotarians this noon at the Jefferson hotel on "The Jews' Contribution to Civilization."

Foresters Merge With Brotherhood

MASON CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—Merger of the Modern Brotherhood of America, which has headquarters here, with the Independent Order of Foresters at Toronto, Canada, was announced today.

The consolidation was effected at Chicago, where officers of the lodges held their supreme conventions today.

The headquarters of the merged organization will be at Toronto, with Mason City as the headquarters for a large part or possibly all of the United States.

Economist Predicts World Breakdown

MANCHESTER, Eng., Dec. 9 (AP)—Sir George Paish, eminent economist, predicted in an address today that the world's economic system would break down within two months.

"If my information is correct, and I think it is, nothing can prevent a complete world breakdown within the next two months," he said.

Lambert Witness in National Case

Prof. B. J. Lambert, head of the civil engineering department, will leave for Washington, D. C., tomorrow where he will appear as the consulting engineer witness in a waterpower case.

Professor Lambert will drive to Chicago first where he will visit his daughter, Mrs. Bruce Forward, who was operated on for appendicitis Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Lambert drove in to Chicago on Tuesday.

Made FRESH

never parched, never toasted

CAMELS are KEPT Fresh!

You probably know that heat is used in the treatment of all cigarette tobaccos. But you know too that excessive heat can destroy freshness and fragrance. That's why there could be no truly fresh cigarette except for scientifically developed methods of applying heat. Reynolds is proud of having discovered and perfected methods for getting the benefits of heat treatments and still avoiding ever parching or toasting. With every assurance we tell you, Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack. If you wish to know why the swing to Camels is nationwide and steadily growing—switch to them for just one day—then leave them, if you can.
