

FRENCH PREMIER, CABINET RESIGN

Justice Holmes Surrenders Bench on Supreme Court; Hoover Accepts Regretfully

Aged Jurist Gives Up Fight to Remain Until 91

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, one of the greatest figures in the history of the judiciary, surrendered to time today by abandoning his place on the supreme court bench.

President Hoover, with regret and expressions of great esteem for the services he had rendered, accepted his resignation.

Bent With Age
The distinguished jurist, bent with age, had fought valiantly but unsuccessfully, to remain in active service until he celebrated his ninety-first birthday on March 8.

Feebleness which approached gently in the last term of court made havoc during the summer recess. The military bearing, alert step and amazing vigor had disappeared when he returned to Washington last fall.

Punctual at Sessions
Early in the present term he missed three days from the bench, due to a slight cold. But with that exception, he has been punctual in his attendance at the sessions.

Finally the strain became too much. So today he wrote the president his health made it "a duty to break off connections that I cannot leave without deep regret—the time has come and I bow to the inevitable."

Hoover Gravesly Justice
Mr. Hoover gravely announced the resignation shortly after correspondents confronted him as he stood at his desk for the regular Tuesday noon press conference. His face lighted as he praised the aged justice. He quoted from a letter he had written telling Mr. Holmes of the gratitude of the American people for his whole life "of wonderful public service, from the time you were an officer in the Civil war to this day."

50 Years of Service
Appointed by President Roosevelt in 1902, Justice Holmes now has concluded 50 years of continuous judicial service, including that on the bench of Massachusetts. Last December he completed 29 years on the supreme bench, having remained in active service 19 years after he was entitled to retire on full salary.

He retired as the oldest man in point of years ever to serve on the supreme bench. Several predecessors, however, served for longer periods, three of them holding the record with 34 years each.

Since the death of his wife several years ago the justice has been living alone in his residence here in charge of a housekeeper along with the family.

Chicago Judge Wins Honors From Hoover

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, the former school teacher who headed the most notorious gang in the United States, was cited today for his reward.

President Hoover announced his advancement to the circuit court of appeals, seventh district, saying it was part of the recognition due federal officials for breaking up the activities of the powerful Capone gang.

Due to his background as a quiet, determined public servant, Judge Wilkerson had nothing to say. He has had little to say during the last few years, gaining his world wide reputation from his legal decisions alone.

Then comes the blow that has felled many an "outlaw." The greatest went to the chief of the gangsters, "Scarface Al" Capone. Judge Wilkerson sentenced him to 11 years, fined him $50,000 and refused to grant bail.

So great was the acclaim over the manner in which he handled the Capone case that Judge Wilkerson was suggested as a possible candidate for governor. He visited the White House a few months ago and it was reported the president also urged him to make the race.

The 62 year old jurist refused to discuss the subject. Today's announcement, filling the office vacated by the death of Judge George T. Page, apparently indicated he spurned political office.

Fire Destroys Home; Boy Burns to Death

ANTIGO, Wis., Jan. 12 (AP)—One child was burned to death, another is not expected to live and five other persons suffered burns when fire destroyed the farm home of James Robinson, near the village of Elton, today.

Aaron Robinson, 14, perished in the flames which raged so fiercely that they kept members of the family from rescuing him. His sister, Mary, 12, was perhaps fatally burned. She was carried from the second floor by her brother Benny, 19, who was badly burned.

Recent Crime Publicity Felt in Honolulu

Reorganization of City Police Department May Result

(By The Associated Press)
Tension over the crime situation in Honolulu climaxed by the abduction and slaying of an Hawaiian accused of an attack on a naval officer's wife, was relieved further yesterday but the city began to feel the effects of recent publicity.

Cancellation of reservations by individuals from the states who had expected to visit the islands during the social season just started, began to come in.

Discussion With Cabinet
While President Hoover discussed the matter with his cabinet in Washington, a committee of territorial legislators recommended to Gov. Lawrence M. Judd in Honolulu a special session of the lawmaking body.

A reorganization of the widely criticized police department of Honolulu may result if the session deals with the situation.

In Washington, Secretary of the Navy Adams authorized Honolulu naval officials to surrender custody of three naval men on trial on murder charges upon the demand of the territorial circuit court.

Previous Reports
It previously had been reported in Honolulu that the navy intended to regain custody of the trio and try them by court martial. The charge against them was preferred by civil authorities.

A house sub-committee in Washington decided that the instructions of a territorial judge to a jury which tried five men charged with attacking a naval officer's wife seemed "a thinly veiled instruction to acquit." The jury disagreed.

Roosevelt Candidacy Formally Launched by Oregon Democrats

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The presidential candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt was formally launched today.

A petition to place the New York governor's name on the Democratic presidential primary ballot in Oregon was filed by George F. Alexander, president of the Franklin D. Roosevelt for President league of that state.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is the only Democrat who has announced his candidacy thus far. Former Senator James A. Reed has said he would be pleased to have the Missouri delegation pledged for him.

Herbert Hoover, III Undergoes Operation

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 12 (AP)—A sinus infection may be serious to doctors but to four year old Herbert Hoover, third grandson of the president, it is a discomfiting but nothing to get downhearted about.

The child is in a hospital here and underwent an operation yesterday. Attending physicians said he was cheerful and much better today. They expected he would be able to leave the hospital in seven or eight days.

Changes in Plan of Final Exams Cause Delay in Publication

Because of proposed changes in the plan of final examinations for this semester, the list will not be released until Friday or Saturday morning in the official daily bulletin column of The Daily Iowan.

A pre-release posted yesterday on the second floor bulletin board of university hall, according to H. C. Dorcas, registrar, was not a copy of the final schedule, and should be ignored. It was posted erroneously, he said.

No schedule of final examinations, Mr. Dorcas added, will be official except that printed in the official bulletin column.

McChesney Resigns as Bank Head

President Forced to Relinquish Position Because of Health

Resignation of W. J. McChesney as president and member of the board of directors of the First National bank of Iowa City became effective yesterday morning with its acceptance by officials of the bank at the annual meeting of stockholders. Mr. McChesney's resignation was occasioned by a continuance of failing health.

The following statement was made yesterday by Mr. McChesney in regard to his resignation and future status in the bank: "I have resigned to regain my health. I was ordered as president and director of the First National bank and have accepted a purely advisory position as counselor, an arrangement that appeals to me strongly."

Confined to Bed
Mr. McChesney's illness reached a crisis early Saturday morning, Jan. 2, when he was taken to the University hospital suffering from nervousness and insomnia. After treatment at the hospital he was able to return to his home last Sunday where he is still confined to bed.

Succeeded by Mercer
Willis W. Mercer was elected a member of the board of directors of the First National bank to succeed Mr. McChesney by the stockholders of the bank at the meeting. Other members of the board of directors who were re-elected are: Marvin H. Day, Dean Chester A. Phillips, Thomas Farrell and Charles M. Dutcher.

Mr. Mercer will assume his duties as director immediately. The new director is president of the Economy Advertising company of Iowa City. He is also a member of the board of directors of the Iowa City Loan and Investment association. During his long residence in Iowa City he has been active in many business and civic enterprises.

To Elect President Soon
A date for the first meeting of the new board of directors was not set at the stockholders' meeting yesterday and had still not been announced last night. This meeting will be held in the near future and at that time a president will be elected to succeed Mr. McChesney. Other officers including a vice president, cashier and assistant cashier will also be elected at that time.

General Moratorium Believed Imminent in Balkan States

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 12 (AP)—A general moratorium on foreign debts among countries of the Balkans was believed imminent by many observers tonight.

Premier Muchanoff indicated that Bulgaria would declare a moratorium if it did not receive financial aid from the League of Nations. His admissions were regarded as particularly significant in view of a similar statement by Finance Minister George Maris of Greece.

Rumania, it was pointed out, also was in difficulties. King Alexander of Yugoslavia has just returned from Paris, where $50,000,000 francs (about $14,000,000) were advanced to bolster Yugoslavia's currency.

The little kingdom of Albania recently set up five commissions to seek emergency cash with which to balance the budget.

J. A. Farrell Quits Presidency of U. S. Steel Corporation

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—James A. Farrell announced tonight he was retiring as president of the United States Steel corporation.

He said his retirement would be effective April 18, the date of the annual board meeting.

Mr. Farrell, who is now 60, has been connected with the steel industry since he started work in a steel wire mill at New Haven, Conn., as a lad of 16.

He has been president of U. S. Steel since Jan. 1911.

Push Relief Measures at Washington

Reconstruction Program Holds Spotlight in Both Houses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Legislation to speed the nation toward better times today took long strides in two directions.

The house applied itself to the foremost item of President Hoover's economic rehabilitation program—a proposal that two billion dollars of new credit be provided for banks, railroads and industry by the creation of a reconstruction finance corporation. Its members expected to vote on Thursday.

The senate worked on the second of Mr. Hoover's proposals, a measure to increase the capitalization of the federal land banks by $100,000,000 and thus provide the farmer with new credit. It may vote tomorrow.

Senate Passes Bill
Each measure already had the approval of one branch of congress. The senate passed the reconstruction corporation bill 63 to 8 last night and the land bank measure went through the house before Christmas. After the votes now pending have been taken, both measures probably must go to conference for adjustment of differing provisions approved by the two chambers.

Thus, sponsors of the reconstruction corporation bill thought it probable the measure would not reach President Hoover before the first of next week.

Democrats Do Not Approve
The Democrats on the house banking committee made it clear in debate today that they do not approve that type of legislation but that they are supporting it because of its emergency nature.

On the other hand, the Republicans are attempting to eliminate several changes made by the Democratic control committee. They want the bill enacted as written by the treasury and Governor Eugene Meyer of the federal reserve board.

25 Witnesses Reveal Liquor Ring Dealings

Court Seeks to Prove Conspiracy of 47 Individuals

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—The operations of an alleged ring of liquor makers and sellers between Chicago and Clinton, Ia., were described by 25 witnesses today in the federal trial of 47 persons for conspiracy.

Seeking to prove that millions of gallons of liquor had been handled by the defendants, the prosecution introduced testimony concerning storage of alleged liquor in farm buildings, seizure of wrecked automobiles loaded with alcohol, arrest of a truck driver whose brother paid a $1,750 fine, purchases of automobiles and trucks by the defendants, full carload shipments of corn sugar, and sale of materials for stills.

Witnesses Testify
Fifteen witnesses, most of them from Clinton and western Illinois, this afternoon gave testimony in an attempt to prove that the defendants carried on their work from Clinton, Chicago, and Aurora, Ill. Among those whose names were mentioned frequently are: Mike Blumberg, alleged "big shot" at Clinton and Robert W. Besse, former state's attorney for Whiteside county, Illinois.

So far the prosecution has not mentioned connections which the defendants are alleged to have had at Waterloo, Ia.

Clinton Men Testify
Four Clinton men—Howard Zenther, Elbert Schulthiss, John B. Pritchard and Charles Hill—testified about the sale of lumber, coke, ventilators and other material which allegedly was found when agents raided a still on the Besse farm near Fulton, Ill. Earlier testimony was that Besse and Blumberg worked together in the territory around Clinton.

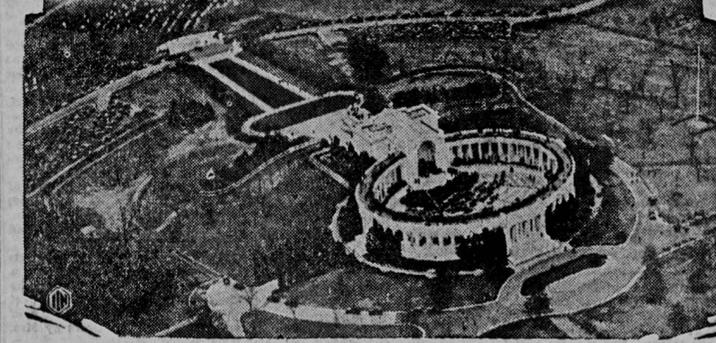

Shores of England Receive Former Iowa Elevator Boy

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Shores of England today received Sir Reginald Walseley, who gave up his job as elevator operator in a Waterloo, Ia., building, to return and claim a baronetcy.

With him was Lady Walseley, the former Marjorie Baker, who attended his mother during her last years and went to America to marry him in accordance with the mother's last wishes.

The original marriage later was set aside by an American divorce, but Lady Walseley, who had re-

LOOKING DOWN ON NEW ARLINGTON

This first air view of the amphitheater at Arlington national cemetery since the recent improvements, was made while the "hunger caravan" that Father Cox led from Pittsburgh, Pa., to seek relief from congress, was paying a tribute at the tomb of the "Unknown Soldier." In the right and left background may be seen the hundreds of automobiles that were used by the jobless in the big parade. Father Cox laid a wreath on the tomb in the name of his "hunger army."

Bones Found in Cellar of Ohio Cobbler

County Prosecutor Says Bischoff Suspected of Other Deaths

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 12 (AP)—Special investigators late today dug up bones from the earthen floor of the dark, gloomy tenement house cellar where last month six year old Marion McLean was assaulted and left to die by Charles Bischoff, 46, bespectacled and eccentric cobbler.

The gruesome find was turned over to Sheriff Asa V. Butterfield, who left immediately for Cleveland where he will submit them to experts to determine if they are human.

Prosecutor Orders Excavation
County Prosecutor R. H. Gorman, who ordered the excavation in Bischoff's cellar, said the discovery strengthened his belief that the shoe-maker was responsible for the unexplained disappearance of two children about 12 years ago.

The bones were found less than an hour after the grand jury indicted Bischoff for first degree murder on two counts, both of which are punishable by death sentences.

Two Girls, 9, Kidnaped

Police records show that two girls—Freda Hornberger, 9, and Emily Gump, 9—were kidnaped in 1919 and 1921 and have not been found since.

The confessed slayer will be brought into court tomorrow. Elaborate precautions have been taken to prevent any disturbance in the court room.

Bandits War on Jap Army in Manchuria

(By The Associated Press)
A Japanese detachment en route to Chihni, on the eastern border of Jehol province in Manchuria, was surrounded yesterday by a greatly superior force of bandits, Tokyo was informed.

Communication was being carried on by carrier pigeon. Chihni was reported in flames.

Report 500 Killed
A Shanghai dispatch quoted Chinese as saying 20 Japanese officers and 500 Japanese soldiers had been killed in conflicts during the last few days in the Chihni area.

Guerrilla tactics were being employed by Chinese volunteers against Japanese invaders in Jehol, the Chinese declared, and Japanese had called for reinforcements.

Fredie's Fall Soon
Political commentators in Shanghai predicted the fall of the new Nanking government within a few days and the return of Chiang Kai-shek, former president.

In Tokyo the emperor, in accordance with an ancient rite, prepared to inform the Sun Goddess Amaterasumikami of the attempt last week on his life, and to thank her for preserving him.

Early Poll Returns Assure Election of Mrs. H. Caraway

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 12 (AP)—The election of Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway as United States senator—an honor never before accorded a woman—was assured in early returns tonight from today's special election in Arkansas.

Opposed by two men whose names appeared on the tickets as independents, Mrs. Caraway had 5,064 votes against 445 for both opponents in returns from 16 counties, six of them complete.

Rex R. Floyd, son of a former congressman, received 355 and Sam D. Carson, who called himself a "dirt farmer" and who alone of the three made a speaking campaign, had 90 votes.

Olson Resigns Presidency of Luther College

Iowa School Leader Retires as Board Refuses Plans

DECORAH, Jan. 12 (AP)—Dr. Oscar L. Olson, president of Luther college since 1921, announced his resignation today to take effect in June, tonight at a meeting of the faculty.

He gave as reasons for retirement failure of the board of education of the Norwegian Lutheran church to approve his plans for the future of the school. The board recently voted to liberalize the curriculum but vetoed the suggestion that the college be made co-educational.

No Successor Chosen
Dr. Olson declared he did not regard this approval as sufficient guarantee for the future success of the institution. He did not announce his plans for the future and a successor to the position will not be chosen until the annual meeting of the church general body in Minneapolis late in May. Dr. Olson was graduated from Luther in 1893 and has been in educational work since that time. He came to Luther as an instructor in 1901 and held the position as head of the English department prior to his appointment to the presidency. He was granted a doctor of philosophy degree in English language and literature by the University of Chicago in 1914.

Many Improvements
During his 11 year administration Dr. Olson has been instrumental in securing the building and establishment of a library, gymnasium, athletic field, radio station, and the purchase of a farm used in conjunction with a campus boarding club. He superintended the compilation and printing of a history of the school in 1922 and supervised the raising of a $72,000 fund from college alumni and friends in commemoration of the seventieth anniversary of the college last October.

Dynamite Blasts Fail to Dislodge Ice Jam; River Cuts Channel

Dynamite blasts placed by university employes on the ice jam at the Iowa avenue bridge yesterday afternoon loosened but failed to dislodge the jam accumulated there. Meanwhile, the Iowa river had cut a channel for itself from the Coralville dam of the Iowa City Light and Power company and was flowing freely as far as the city park bridge.

As the water was apparently not being backed up much by the jam at the Iowa avenue bridge there was little fear that it might rise enough to flood over the river banks. The water has receded from the Pinkbine golf field and while still high was within its banks all along the river.

Newspapers' Report Fair, Says Metcalf

Replies to Brookhart's Charge Regarding Beer Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Chairman Metcalf of the senate committee taking testimony on the Bingham four per cent beer bill today termed newspaper accounts of the hearings unbiased and invited presentation of any evidence that newspapers were withholding space to the "dry" side of prohibition.

The Rhode Island Republican, an anti-prohibitionist, took this action in reply to a charge by Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, a prohibitionist, that the press was giving "outlandish and unreasonable" publicity in opposition to the dry laws.

Brookhart Charges Papers
Brookhart also said he had been informed that newspapers had organized a "sort of racket" against dry organizations because the latter had "refused or neglected to buy space" in the papers.

Metcalf said in his opinion press associations and correspondents representing individual newspapers had reported the beer hearings as "fairly as possible, but if it is true that there is some sort of news racketeering going on I want to invite those organizations who have such evidence to present it to this committee."

Proponents Heard
He said it should be thoroughly understood that only proponents of the bill have been heard thus far and that until the opponents have been called the news accounts obviously "must largely carry the side favoring the legislation of beer."

Among those testifying today were Representatives Clancy, Republican, Michigan, and Karch, Democrat, Illinois; and L. S. Ray, vice chairman of the legislative committee of the veterans of foreign wars.

Clancy Testifies
With Bishop James Cannon, Jr., sitting close by making notes of the testimony, Clancy said the Canadians did not understand why "we let Bishop Cannon and F. Scott McEldrie (anti-union league superintendent) dictate to our legislature and the president."

Legalization of four per cent beer, Representative Karch testified, would help bankrupt cities wipe out their deficits through license fees.

Ray argued prohibition had built up a criminal element threatening the foundation of government.

Tornado Kills 1, Injures 100 in Mississippi

ABERDEEN, Miss., Jan. 12 (AP)—One white woman was killed and approximately 100 persons, most of them white, were injured late today when a tornado struck New Hamilton, a community on the Frisco railroad, nine miles south of here.

Three hours after the tornado struck, Aberdeen hospitals were crowded and four ambulances were continuing to bring injured into the town. The dead woman was Mrs. Frank Simmons.

New Hamilton's population is composed mostly of white persons and reports reaching here said almost every resident of the community received at least minor injuries. Hospital attendants said many of the injured already brought in were critically hurt.

Laval Hands Resignations to President

All Ministers Abdicate as Crisis Comes to Head

PARIS, Jan. 12 (AP)—Premier Pierre Laval took all his ministers to Elysee palace this evening and presented their collective resignation to President Doumer. He had been in office just 10 days short of a full year.

The ministry decided to resign after the radical socialist group of the chamber of deputies, numbering 100, had refused the premier's offer to make their leader, Edouard Herriot, the successor to Aristide Briand as foreign minister, and to give the group as a whole representation in a new government according to its numerical importance.

2,800 Arrested
The cabinet crisis came to a head as the chamber of deputies convened for its first session in 1932. A demonstration by communists, in the course of which 2,800 persons were arrested outside the chamber, marked the resumption of legislative activity.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, whose illness was one of the events leading up to the resignation of the French cabinet, was reported by his friends today to be much better.

News from his physicians so heartened him that he told his associates he hoped to resume political activity after a rest. At any rate, he said, he hoped to be able to return to Geneva in his capacity as France's permanent representative at the League of Nations. That post does not depend upon the vicissitudes of party politics.

The demonstrators were taken to police stations where their papers were examined and those with proper documents were released.

A number of foreigners whose right to stay in France was considered doubtful were held for court, however, along with persons carrying concealed weapons and those who had caused most of the trouble.

Several "work and bread" signs were seized. Among the persons arrested was a woman who succeeded in getting near the chamber where she shouted "a gallery for women!"

Premier Laval had hoped that in inviting radical socialists into his government, he might enlarge the representation of the political parties and form a new cabinet more widely reflective of all shades of opinion.

Such a cabinet, the premier felt, was necessary in order that France might present a united front at the forthcoming reparations conference at Lausanne and at the disarmament parity at Geneva.

Socialists Decline
Early in the day all of Laval's cabinet colleagues placed their portfolios at his disposition. In the late afternoon it seemed his chances for forming a national union ministry were fairly good but after an hour's talk with M. Herriot and the latter's report to his parliamentary group, the radical socialists politely declined to enter into the kind of combination he had envisaged.

Some usually well-informed persons asserted that the president favored a cabinet of concentration and that if Laval's personality stood in the way Doumer might call upon Senator Jules Jeanneney, one of the vice presidents of the senate.

The senator, who is 63 years old, was one of the late Premier Clemenceau's war time collaborators.

White is charged with complicity in the robbery of the Calumet, Ia., State bank June 24, 1930.

Not Every Tom, Dick and Harry is welcome in Your Home

This advertisement prepared by McCann-Erickson, Inc., 235 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y., for the Inland Daily Press Association.

It goes without saying that strangers are not welcome in your home. You must know people before you invite them. You must know, at least, who they are—then background. You must know something about their character, habits, past history. Then you have that comforting sense of what to expect. Otherwise there are bound to be regrets.

It should be the same with the merchandise you permit to enter your home. You should know the background of every product you buy—who manufactures or produces it. You should know as much as possible about its character or quality. Then, again you know what to expect—and rarely are there any regrets.

It should never be forgotten that advertising is as much a service to the buyer as to the seller. When a manufacturer puts his money behind a product, gives it a trade-marked name and advertises it; when a reputable newspaper accepts this manufacturer's advertising and lends its good name to the product—that is a product in which you can place your full confidence.

It is a duty you owe yourself to read the advertisements in this newspaper—to get acquainted with the merchandise here advertised. And it is a duty you owe yourself to buy trade-marked advertised goods.

Advertised products are "friends"—not strangers. They come into your home with a carefully built up reputation to maintain. And unlike un-branded, un-advertised, so-called "just as good" substitutes, advertised products are ever eager to give you the most value for your money.

Farmers Out of the Red

FURTHER PROOF that cooperative farming is the keynote to success for the farmer has been submitted by the Farmer's Union in South Dakota.

Net profits totaling $41,000 for last year by the livestock commission's operations are to be distributed to the members. Profitable farming is now proved at least a possibility.

Just a Pleasing Novelty

BARELY HAS THE flurry died down over the school teacher who had her pupils write what they really thought of their respective parents than a new racket of the same sort comes to light. The Daily Northwestern, student newspaper, has prepared ballots to send to 5,000 students of the Evans-ton academy upon which the men and women are to grade their institution.

The professors will be graded in accepted collegiate style. A for perfect, and down the line to D for failure. In addition, four questions are asked in the literature which will tend to throw light upon which each student likes best as instructor and which he dislikes the most. The whole affair will be clothed in the usual veil of anonymity.

About the only outcome of this scheme is interest among the student body and faculty members who read the paper. Undoubtedly there will be several surprises in the results but the actual good derived will be almost nil. There is not much chance that the instructors will take the polls seriously and the unpopular ones may feel secretly hurt, but they will probably not reform immediately.

However, there is no reason to condemn the scheme. Let Northwestern university have its fun. It's that sort of thing that keeps wholesome youth alive in the university, a characteristic that is in serious danger of disappearing.

Korean Unrest

THE RECENT attempt of a Korean to bomb Emperor Hira-hito's carriage at Tokyo is identical with the attempt of some one who placed bombs aboard the Darjeeling Express with a view to assassinating Viceroy Willingdon in India.

The Tokyo affair registers a sign of protest against Japanese rule in Korea and the growing unrest among the people of that "hermit kingdom," and their desire to achieve independence from their militaristic rulers.

Korea is as large as the state of Kansas in size and has a population of about 20 millions. She first entered world affairs after signing a treaty with the United States toward the latter part of the nineteenth century. As the Koreans have a culture common with the Chinese, China claimed a hand in the country's affairs, but Japan stoutly opposed China's influence in Korea. The result was a Sino-Japanese war. China was defeated and the Korean monarch then signed a treaty which established a Japanese protectorate over Korea. Japan was forced to fight Russia also for the sake of Korea. Then, without any apparent rhyme or reason the country was annexed to the island empire in 1910. The Koreans gravely resented this aggressive measure but they were promptly silenced by military force.

In 1919, the ruler of Korea who granted the Japanese a "protectorate" died. The Koreans took this opportunity to launch a vigorous anti-Japanese campaign. Japan viewed the situation with surprise and concern. But, due to the strict laws and regulations with which the country is governed, the Koreans have yet had small chance for mob action. Nevertheless feeling still runs high against the Japanese. When Japan pounced upon Manchuria, ten thousand Koreans assured support to China if she would declare war against Japan.

The cause of the Korean unrest is largely due to poverty of the people who are emigrating to Siberia in large numbers with a view to obtaining a better standard of living. They are a race of peasants but they own a comparatively small portion of the land as compared to the Japanese holdings. Even in the administration, the Koreans occupy only insignificant positions.

In fairness, let it be said that under Japanese rule the country has gone through a good deal of improvement. Long railway lines, gigantic steel bridges, huge factories and workshops, and clean harbors have sprung up everywhere. Commerce and banking have also been stabilized but all these improvements do not help the Korean as much as they tend to help the Japanese themselves.

Now that thousands of Koreans who have been educated in the United States have returned home, it is futile to argue that they have no ability to handle their own administrative machinery. Neither are the Koreans ready to assume complete control of their country's affairs. Even if they are, the Japanese are not the people to transfer power easily. However, a liberal form of government in which the Koreans themselves will play an important role would help to smooth over the present unrest.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

The merger of two Cleveland banks, announced yesterday, by which deposits of approximately $273,000,000 will be consolidated in one organization in the interests of economy, efficiency, and service, is another notable move in the concerted drive for release from the present economic distress.

Similar procedure on the part of smaller institutions could probably do more for the relief of rural and semi-urban communities than all the legislation in the world.

Weeding out of choking vegetation in the potato patches of modern business, with its accompanying regrowth into greater and more delectable achievement, is a process that requires foresightedness and courage. And until businessmen in all forms of economic venture take up the rake and comb their own organizations free from encumbering debris and spray them clean of non-productive parasites on optimistic outlook is possible rationally.

Nor does such a process mean the curtailing of employes in great numbers nor the reduction of wages by huge slashes. The process of eliminating non-productiveness can be conducted in the same manner as the preceding process that makes this new move necessary — by a slow and careful readjustment — safeguarding on the way the right of every man to a living.

That the thing can be done without leaving a trail of devastated homes, ruined families, broken lives in its wake is beyond doubt. That's where the foresightedness comes in. Concurrent with this process must come a vast propaganda of better living, finding the right sort of means to get that living, and making the best use of natural abilities.

It means that every department of government, local, state, and national; every branch of social service; every educator, cleric, merchant must recognize the all important, prime consideration of cooperation.

And until political parties end their squabbling, until the churchmen and social workers and labor unions and teachers quit their haranguing, until every crease in the production and distribution situation is ironed out, the mass of population in this country and other "enlightened" ones, will find no surcease to abnormal, unnatural living conditions.

Whether present conditions were caused by excessive stock speculation, misdirected buying of valueless land, over-patronizing mail order and deferred payment schemes, unwarranted huge loans to foreign interests, non-remunerative investment in foreign holdings, disastrous loans on formerly high priced farmland, over-production of all commodities in every field, unsatisfactory monetary system — or any number of other suggested causes — makes little difference in all but one angle of the present outlook.

And that one concerns planning for a future that will be devoid of the bugbears of the past. When another decade has left its scar on the face of civilization there will be no explicable reason why it should lie in the same groove as the one just passed. If, during the centuries of so-called enlightenment that man has passed through, experience had not taught its great lesson, then we would all still be crawling around on our bellies, eating insects and fish, fearing every living thing bigger than ourselves, and speculating with wondrous awe about natural phenomena.

That may be a rather far fetched instance but if it only serves to illustrate the heights to which it has been possible for man to mount — through experience — it serves its purpose here. The next step is to realize that there is still much to be learned, many more stones to be upturned, in the quest of the right way.

And if that quest entails hardship, hardly bearable suffering, perhaps it is just as well. For if we cannot learn by doing, the ultimate in the enjoyment of life will never be reached. After all, happiness must be the goal of every man before even mild enjoyment is attained. It takes no more than appreciation of the inherent ability in humanity to make life the satisfying, desirable thing it is, to make that quest successful. And certainly, the right to happiness is the common right of every living, breathing creature.

Predicted Conference Fizzle

Increases Demands of Navy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—An opinion that the Geneva arms conference will be a "fizzle" emerged today as one reason behind the drive in congress to build the navy up to treaty limits.

Representative Britten of Illinois used that word to describe before the house naval committee how he thinks the meeting beginning in Switzerland next month will end.

Then turning to Admiral William V. Pratt, highest ranking naval officer, who was testifying on the $616,250,000 Vinson construction bill, he asked:

"Have you any confidence in the favorable outcome of that conference, admiral?"

"I don't know," the chief of naval operations replied hesitatingly. Then he added an emphatic "no."

Britten, ranking Republican on the committee, expressed unqualified opposition to approving the pending bill which would authorize $450,000 to pay expenses of the American delegation to the conference.

Coroner's Jury Gives Verdict of Murder, Suicide in Deaths

ELKADER, Jan. 12 (AP)—A verdict of murder and suicide was returned today by a coroner's jury after an investigation of the death of Mrs. Hazel McLane, 46, and her daughter, Frances, 18.

The jury decided Mrs. McLane shot her daughter and then took her own life. Their bodies were found in the living room of the McLane home Saturday night.

Alex Holmes, Strawberry Point attorney, and a friend of the McLanes when they lived in that town, said he believed Mrs. McLane was suffering from a mental disorder.

Nine days and 17 hours after leaving New York she cleared Fastnet Light-house, which is offshore from Cape Clear, Ireland. This record has never been equalled before or since. Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—After many headaches, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has figured a way to put over the asides in "Strange Interlude" and the Eugene O'Neill drama is expected to be Norma Shearer's next picture, starting in about three weeks.

I was able to find out today that the asides will be spoken by the players' voices, but there will be no lip movements, as was necessary on the stage. As the voices come in on the sound-track, the players will be going through bits of business.

This method was hit upon after many others had been rejected. One plan was to use titles for the asides; another to double-expose a second image of the player and have it speak the asides. The new method not only is more effective, but is very much more economical.

The selection of "Strange Interlude" means that Norma Shearer will not do "Smiling Through" until late.

In the meanwhile, Beas Meredyth and C. Gardner Sullivan are working on the O'Neill drama. Bob Leonard will be given the herculean task of directing.

HE CAN'T WAIT FOR THEM TO DIE

Homer Crox, author of "They Had to See Paris," has a new idea. He is collecting material for a book to be called "Epitaphs of the Living."

I like this one on Harry Hirschfield, the cartoonist:

"Here lies the body of Harry Hirschfield.

If not, notify Ginsberg and Co. undertakers."

SOME GOSSIP ABOUT FILM-DOM'S CELEBRITIES

Radio announcers get awards for diction. Why not actors? The Speech Arts Association proposes that this be done next year. Oliver Hindsell, director of voice and audition at M.G.M., conceived the idea. It's been put up to the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Adolphe Menjou writes that he played 18 holes of golf with the Prince of Wales. . . Marie Dressler begged M.G.M. to let her play the maid in "Grand Hotel," but they thought the part wasn't big enough for her. "The main thing about the maid is her shoes and her walk," says Marie. "I think I know just how they ought to be." . . . Attention, London: Edgar Wallace threatens to move to California to live. He intends to go back to England for his family on April 1. . . Ernest Booth, author of "Ladies of the Big House," probably never will see his picture. He is a liver at Fulson. . . That sequel to "All Quiet" is being delayed at Universal because it would cost $1,000,000 to produce, and that is a lot of money these days. . . Anita Louise celebrated her sixteenth birthday recently with a party at the Ambassador.

New York are legendary. Already he has set Hollywood on its ear with a prank pulled in the middle of one of the film colony's busiest streets. Gene rides to and from the studio on a bicycle, which he bought from Bert Wheeler for $7. He rents a garage for it at his apartment house and has the door man wheel it out every morning.

As he was usurping the middle of Vine street the other day, the driver of an expensive car shouted: "Hey, get over there; do you want to be killed?"

Just then the traffic light turned red. Fowler laid his bicycle in the street and strode over to the motorist. "You're just the kind of a fellow who would kill a man on a bicycle," he shouted. "That bicycle is my means of livelihood, and you would rob me of it. I'll sue you, you etc, etc."

In a flash, a crowd of 200 people had collected.

As the flabbergasted motorist gasped for breath, Fowler suddenly stopped in the middle of his diatribe, laughed, picked up his bicycle and rode away.

BOB HAS TO STAR

The reason Bob Montgomery had to withdraw from the cast of "Are You Listening?" was an immediate engagement to star in "The Truth Game." This is the Ivor Novello comedy, in which the author and Billie Burke played on Broadway. Novello came to Hollywood to do the screen treatment. "The Truth Game" will be the first of three starring pictures for Bob.

Third National Drama Conference to Meet at University, Feb. 18, 19, 20

Will Discuss Problems of Dramatic Art

2 Organizations Plan to Build Conference on 5 Topics

Two national drama organizations will meet at the University of Iowa for a joint three day conference, Feb. 18, 19, and 20. It was announced last night by Prof. E. C. Mable, director of the University theater and head of the speech department.

The organizations are the National Theater Council and National Drama conference, meeting as the third national drama conference. Previous meetings were conducted at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, in 1925, and at Yale university in 1928.

Representatives of all branches of community and university theaters, playwrights, scene designers, producers, and others affiliated with drama projects are expected to attend. All sessions will be open to the public and Little Theater groups throughout the country will be invited to send delegates.

The conference program, to be drawn up by a joint committee of both organizations, will be built around five main topics, according to the tentative plans released by Professor Mable.

These include: 1—Experimental production of new scripts; 2—Status, policies, and probable development of the community theater; 3—The curriculum in drama; 4—The aesthetic and technical aspects of dramatic production; 5—Summary and evaluation of present trends in educational and community theaters.

Besides speakers from the executive committee of the National Drama conference and members of the National Theater Council, the program committee, according to Professor Mable, has invited three special speakers outstanding in the theatrical world to present the problems of their special fields. He named Robert Edmund Jones, prominent scenic designer of New York city, as having been definitely selected. Choice of playwright and producer have not yet been made although Brock Pemberton, Lynn Riggs, Philip Barry, and Susan Glaspell have been under consideration.

George Herce Baker, president of both organizations, head of the drama department at Yale, has been a previous speaker on the Iowa campus. Members of the theater council are: Mr. Baker, president; Professor Mable, vice president; Gilmore Brown of the Pasadena, Cal., Playhouse, vice president; S. Mace, head of the Brooklyn Polytechnic institute, secretary; Kenneth Macgowan, and Mrs. Edith J. P. Isaacs of Theater Arts Monthly, advisers; Thomas Wood Stevens of the St. Louis, Mo., Little Theater; Boyd Martin of the University of Louisville; Jasper Deeter of Hiedron theater, Moylan-Rose, Valley, Pa.; Frederick Koch, University of North Carolina; Glenn Hughes University of Washington; Alexander Wyckoff of Leonia, N. J.; and Frederick McConnell of the Cleveland, Ohio, Playhouse.

The executive committee of the National Drama conference consists of: Mr. Baker, chairman; Dean Arthur Hobson Quinn, University of Pennsylvania; Mr. Pemberton; Helen Arthur, The Actors-Managers Inc., New York city; President Thomas Stockton Baker, Carnegie Institute; Prof. A. M. Drummond, Cornell university; Edith Nanerode, New York city, and Dr. Edwin Van B. Knickerbocker, New York city.

Professors Mable, Quinn, Tucker, Drummond, Baker, and Mr. Macgowan, Mr. Brown, and Mr. McConnell are members of the joint program committee.

Sessions on both educational and community theaters, business meetings, dinner, and university theater production will feature the conference. The play now being cast in the University theater, Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard" will be given especially for conference delegates.

Michigan Man Gets Summer Appointment

House Committee to Hear Charges Against Treasurer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—A house committee will sit in judgment tomorrow on charges that Andrew W. Mellon is guilty of "high crimes and misdemeanors" and should be removed from the office he has held for a decade as secretary of the treasury.

This course was decided upon today after more than an hour's secret deliberations by the house judiciary committee which is handling the Patman resolution seeking impeachment of the veteran treasury head.

It will be a public hearing. The committee will consider whether the facts presented by Patman are true and if so, whether they constitute grounds for impeachment.

Engineers to Alter Honors

Will Abandon Previous Student Scholarship Award Plan

Dean Clement C. Williams of the college of engineering announced yesterday that the engineering college faculty had changed the basis of awarding yearly undergraduate honors to the high ranking scholars in each engineering class. The former accumulative plan is to be disregarded in favor of a year by year basis of award.

Under the accumulative plan, grades made by the student during his entire academic career are used. The new plan provides for the use of grades for the current year only. "Under the new plan it will be possible for an engineer to gain honors in any year regardless of his previous record. A high record in one year will not help him in other years," Dean Williams pointed out.

Undergraduate honors are announced each fall at the time of the reception for new students given by the Associated Students of Engineering and faculty. Recipients of the awards are listed on a parchment which is placed in the hall of the engineering building.

At the end of the year the parchment is bound in the college of engineering book of honors. The book of honors is on display at Homecoming, at commencement, and at other times when alumni return to the campus.

Transfer students will become eligible for awards under the new ruling. According to the old ruling, students had to be in attendance two years after transfer before being eligible for the awards.

Hold Mason City Grocer on Four Robbery Charges

OMAHA, Jan. 12 (AP)—While Ralph E. Moore, 42 year old Mason City grocer, remained in jail here on robbery charges, his wife and two brothers sought leniency on the ground that he is mentally unbalanced.

The brothers are H. H. Moore and Edward Moore of New Hampton. Mrs. Moore visited Judge Fred Wright and told him that she might ask her husband's commitment to a sanatorium. Judge Wright announced he will pronounce sentence tomorrow.

Moore is accused of committing four robberies in different parts of Omaha within a short time Sunday night. His wife said he had left Mason City to seek work. She said she had been watching him for weeks for fear he would commit some irresponsible act. Moore, a war veteran, has been nervous and irresponsible, but not insane, since his military service, his wife said.

University Theater Completing Cast of Alice in Wonderland

Casting is being rapidly completed for "Alice in Wonderland," third of the children's plays sponsored by the University theater.

The version being used for the presentation by the children here is the one by Alice Gerstenberg. This version was first given in Chicago at the Fine Arts theater in 1918. Since then it has played in New York and metropolitan cities, where it has enjoyed long runs.

Costumes for the play are being designed by Lucy Barton, exact reproductions being made from the drawings by John Tenniel, whose work is considered the most authentic on the fairy tale.

The cast will afford opportunity for 30 children to take part, as well as positions to be filled for the backstage and production crews. The complete cast will be announced in a few days, and practice will immediately begin for the first performance Jan. 29.

University to Instruct High School Group

Choose Thirty-Two in All-State Dramatic Players

Another group of all-state high school dramatic players will be trained at the University of Iowa during the first six weeks of the summer session, it has been announced by Prof. Edward C. Mable, head of the department of speech and dramatic art.

The all-state plan, applied to dramatics by the university for the third summer, will bring a maximum of 32 high school pupils to the campus.

Criteria for the selection of the young actors and actresses will be their records in speech and dramatics, scholastic marks, and personal characteristics. Students who do superior work in the state championship play production contest in April especially will be favored.

A recognized authority in the field of school speech and dramatics will be engaged to direct the players. The leader of the 1932 group soon will be named by Professor Mable.

During the six weeks between June 13 and July 21, the boys and girls will present at least one long play and also will offer a series of one-act productions. In addition, they will study in regular courses.

The 1931 group included 19 students from such communities as Council Bluffs, Fairfield, Cedar Rapids, Oelwein, Atlantic, and Newton.

It was the first perjury trial in Linn county in more than three years.

Snyder was found guilty of driving the car that struck and injured Jack Caldwell, 11, here that day. State's witnesses today testified the accident happened at 4:15 p.m., and said Snyder was driving the car. The state's star witnesses are expected to take the stand tomorrow.

MASQUERADE By Faith Baldwin

SYNOPSIS
Lovely Fanchon Meredith wanted by the San Francisco police in connection with a murder committed by her sweetheart, "Tony." Fanchon did not know he was a gunman. She escapes by airplane under the name of "Smith." Aboard is Evelyn Howard, whom Fanchon had met on a voyage from Hawaii. Evelyn is going to New York to live with her mother, the wealthy Mrs. Carstairs, whom she never saw. The plane crashes and Fanchon is the only survivor. To get away from Tony and the past, she goes to the Carstairs home as "Evelyn." A strong bond of affection grows between Mrs. Carstairs and her "niece," Collin Carstairs, the son, is at first antagonistic because of his "cousin's" Hawaiian escapades and her self-righteous attitude when his mother offered aid, but Fanchon's sincerity overcomes his objections. They fall in love. Evelyn is alive, but has lost her memory. He threatens to expose Fanchon unless she introduces him to Mrs. Carstairs as "Cesare Gelli." He calls at the Carstairs home and is accepted by Mrs. Carstairs and Collin although they are skeptical of him. Fanchon has no alternative but to agree to Tony's demands that she induce Mrs. Carstairs to wear her emeralds to the Van Suydam Ball. Tony wears a Romeo costume similar to Collin's. On the way to the ball, Collin and Fanchon profess their love.

She put the jewels in a drawer, for safety until morning.

CHAPTER XXV
Collin, having engaged the supper dance with his cousin, looked for her and did not find her. He found his mother, however, and asked, "Where's Evelyn?" he wanted to know. Mrs. Carstairs looked up in astonishment. "I have no idea. I thought I saw her, some time ago, leaving the room with a package," she answered. "Damn that Gelli!" was Collin's unspoken exclamation, and damn his choice of a costume. He went restlessly about the room in which his mother, together with some of her friends, were playing bridge, back into the bathroom, into the conservatory and looked on the broad stairs which were covered with whispering couples. Finally, encountering his hostess, he said, as she exclaimed at seeing him, "So you've come back... how is she?" "I'm looking for Evelyn. I haven't gone away." "Evelyn?" But she went home some time ago, with a terrible headache. I thought she went with you. She said to tell Jennie that she mustn't on any account come home earlier, she was going straight to bed and would be looked after by her maid, Mrs. Van Suydam said, in some astonishment. Collin thanked her and went back to his mother and told her. "I'll go along now," he said. "Don't," said Jennie, in the middle of the rubber, "we'll both be able to get away shortly. And you'll only upset her, if she is ill and has gone to bed. Wait until I finish this hand," she ordered. When she had done so she rose and drew him aside. The lovely face, under the soft white hair combed with the green shining of the emeralds, was very troubled. "You didn't come straight here," she said. "Collin, did you say anything to upset her on the way?"

He nodded, meeting her distressed gaze frankly. "Perhaps I did. I was going to tell you tonight." "Then," advised Jennie, "don't follow her. Let her alone for a time. We'll go home together, after supper." In the meantime Fanchon and Tony had arrived at the penthouse. He went upstairs with her. Jameson let them in and Tony strode past him into the living room. Jameson was old and drowsy from waiting up. The figure was very like Collin and the costume exactly alike. He was not to be blamed for thinking it was Collin. Fanchon took off her ermine wrap and threw it over her arm. "You can go to bed, Jameson," she said. "I'll let Mrs. Carstairs in." Jameson thanked her and vanished. She went into the living room to join Tony. "All set?" asked Tony. She nodded, without speaking. Tony, without another word, opened the door softly to the penthouse terrace and stepped out on it, alone. The door closed. Fanchon went to her room. She was deathly tired. Everything was over. The next hour or two would see the end. She dismissed Emma, who was waiting. "Please get me out of this costume, Emma," she asked, "and then you can go to bed. I'll take care of Mrs. Carstairs. I know you're tired," she said. She got off the costume and slipped on a negligee. When the elderly maid had departed, murmuring her thanks, Fanchon took off the little wrap of satin and lace and put on a plain tulle dress, changing her shoes and stockings as well. Over the dress she slipped on a heavy, black satin robe, tailored, and buttoned it close to her throat. She went back into the living room, switched on the lights, went through to the pantry and presently arranged a coffee table in the living room with decanters, highball glasses, ice and Scotch whiskey. She put milk on the electric stove in the pantry to heat. Then she sat down and waited. There was no sound from Tony. She had not long to wait before Collin and Mrs. Carstairs came in. Fanchon heard the elevator stop and opened the door herself. "My dear," exclaimed Jennie softly, "Why aren't you in bed?" "My headache's better," said Fanchon. "Here, Aunt Jennie, let me take your wrap." She laid it, a priceless affair of chinchilla, over a chair. "I let Jameson and Emma go to bed," she went on, "they were half dead. I couldn't sleep so found a book and waited. I'm going to help you out of your magnificence," she went on, "and I've mixed a drink for Collin and a very tiny one for me and heated your milk for you. I thought—we might have a party," she begged. "Through Collin's mind and that of his mother, the same thought flashed. . . . She doesn't want to have anything said. . . . tonight. Mrs. Carstairs went into her room and Fanchon helped her take off the lovely costume and the jewelry. She put the jewels into a drawer, for safety until morning and laid, with hands that shook a little, the rope of pearls, the emeralds and diamonds, stripped from neck, and wrist, from hands and ears, into the big jewel case and shut the drawer upon them. From the terrace outside the living room there had come no sound. . . . When Mrs. Carstairs lifted the tiera from her head with a sigh of relief—"Barbaric thing, it weighs a ton," she said, and handing it to Fanchon, put on a lounging robe, after which the two women went into the living room and joined Collin, who, still in his flamboyant costume, was walking about restlessly.

Court Makes New Ruling Telephone Company Gets Decision in Iowa Case

DES MOINES, Jan. 12 (AP)—In what was considered the first case of its kind in Iowa, the state supreme court today held that the statutes do not require one telephone company to connect its facilities with that of another. The higher court reversed the decision of the Wayne county court which would have required the Northwestern Bell Telephone company to permit connecting its facilities with those of the Incorporated Telephone company of Allerton. The Bell company now has connection with the Middle States Utilities company of Allerton but not with the incorporated, it was explained. A decision of the Boone county district court also was reversed by the supreme court which held Mrs. Elizabeth Crouse, whose husband was killed in a fall from a car she was driving, has a right to inherit from his estate. Children and heirs of Crouse contended that the widow was barred from the inheritance because of alleged involuntary manslaughter.

France May Block Credit of Germany

Interpretations Report Renewal Approves Bruening Stand (By The Associated Press) France threatened yesterday to block renewal of the $100,000,000 short term credit advanced to Germany jointly with the bank of England, the federal reserve of New York and the world bank. Paris newspapers interpreted this action as a direct answer to Chancellor Bruening's announcement Saturday that Germany no longer was able to pay reparations. The world bank already had approved extending the credit, but that approval was made contingent on similar action by the other participants. American bankers expressed the opinion the federal reserve would agree to prolong its $25,000,000 share. Financial sources in Paris predicted that the credit would be continued if Germany made arrangements to meet it in accordance with the principles adopted for private short term debts. Belgium To Send Delegates The Belgian government decided, despite its opposition to Chancellor Bruening's incapacity statement, to send a delegation to the Lausanne conference. In Rome foreign office spokesmen accepted as in line with government policy an editorial in Premier Mussolini's newspaper demanding that something be done about debts and reparations if civilization is to survive. Police Officials to Have New Building; Construction Begins

Construction on a building which Chief of Police Frank L. Smith and Police Judge Charles L. Zager will occupy was started yesterday morning. The work will consist of rebuilding the section between the police station and the fire station and placing a partition in the building for the offices of both police officials. The building was formerly used as a parking place for cars but by putting a wall on the back and rebuilding the interior, this space will be put to use as office rooms. Chief of Police Smith will occupy the east portion and Police Judge Zager the west part. The city nurse may locate her office in the room formerly used by the police judge. John W. Leuz was low bidder on the contracts for the erection of the building, four bids in all being received by the city council at its meeting last Friday evening.

Ames Cinder Squad Lacks Vet Material

AMES, Jan. 12 (AP)—Another Cougar, another Hager or another Putnam is the need of the Iowa State college track team this year, and Coach Ed Simpson will have ample opportunity to exert all his developing ability in building up his cinder squad this winter. Coach Simpson has only seven lettersmen from last year and is confronted with a dearth of material in all field events and in the hurdles. Four of the returning lettermen are distance men and the other three are short distance runners. In the distance events, Simpson has prospects of another great distance relay team in Nagel, Eichelkraut, Chapman and Labertev, the letter winners, along with Duncan and Chisholm, sophomores who won letters in the two mile competition last fall. Labertev will not be available for some time because of a broken leg suffered last fall in the final two mile team race with Nebraska. The short distance lettermen are Kenneth Wells, dashman and football end, and Vessling and Henderson, quartermilers. Around the seven veterans Simpson hopes to build several good relay teams, but his team is expected to prove weak in dual or conference championship meets. The graduation last spring of Bob Hager, Drake relay champion high hurdler, left a gap which at present is being filled by only one man, Roy Gilman of Earlham.
