Iowa City May Have Banking Facilities Tomorrow

Cedar Rapids Institution to Conduct Office

Will Charge Nominal Fees to Finance Department

Iowa City will be provided with banking facilities Saturday if the plans of the Peoples Savings bank of Cedar Rapids to establish a sub-office here are carried out. R. F. Torsenson, vice president of the Cedar Rapids bank, said last night that the plan would probably be worked out in time for the installation to be completed Saturday.

The office will be located in one of the banking rooms now controlled by the state banking department. Ben S. Summerwill of the state banking department said yesterday that no definite negotiations had been made but that he would suggest a window at the Johnson County bank offices or the complete use of the Citizens Savings bank rooms. The location of the office will be announced Friday.

Service Charge

Mr. Torsenson declared that there would be a definite schedule of service charges to aid in the financing of the office. He predicted that a five cent charge would be made on checks and other charges will be of a nominal nature. The office will offer a sub office banking service, including the deposit of savings and checking accounts as well as the cashing of checks.

A committee of Iowa City business men completed negotiations with the Cedar Rapids bank today and reported their success to the Chamber of Commerce offices this afternoon. The committee was composed of James A. Parden, George Nagle, Fred Racine, Prof. H. L. Rietz and Dean Chester A. Phillips.

State Approval

The committee stated that the sub office was being opened here under the authority and with the approval of the state banking department. They added that they expected to work out a schedule of service charges to cover the cost of maintaining an inventory and audit. The receiver will be announced within four days.

Audit Inventory

Mr. Snover said yesterday that the doors of the Iowa City Savings bank will remain closed for a week or 10 days until he has completed an inventory and audit. The receivership will be opened for the public's convenience as soon as possible.

An audit of the First National bank assets will be completed in about a week and the receivership offices will be opened as soon as possible. Mr. Bush arrived in Iowa City yesterday and assumed immediate charge of liquidation proceedings.

Apply for Dividend

The application for dividend order in the Johnson County Savings bank will be presented in District court to Judge Harold D. Evans Saturday morning, according to definite announcement by Ben S. Summerwill, examiner in charge. Dividend checks will be distributed before Feb. 15.

Will Clean Hawaii

In order to cope with the wave of crime and disorder revealed by the Massie "honor-slaying" case, Governor Lawrence M. Judd of Hawaii has created a new territorial police force.

Receivers to Handle Bank Affairs Soon

Will Open Offices for Closed Institutions Within 10 Days

Receivership offices for the Iowa City Savings bank and the First National bank will be opened within 10 days according to Joseph Snover, state banking examiner, yesterday. The appointment of the receivers, J. F. Rush, assistant national bank examiner, who is in charge. Papers opening the receivership of the Iowa City Savings bank were filed with the clerk of the county court yesterday. The bond for the examiner was fixed at $40,000. The appointment of the receiver will be announced within four days.

Conflicting Views

There were conflicting views tonight on the result of the contest, but both sides indicated confidence. This difference of opinion extended to the Democratic attitude, although Brown's friends claimed some support in that party.

Brown, who is general counsel of the radio commission, is a former Republican leader of Ohio and was state manager for President Hoover in the 1928 primary campaign in that state.

Political Complaint

Senator Couzens is understood to have complained against Brown on the ground that he was a political appointee.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, expressed the view Brown would be confirmed if the hearings to be held on his nomination were satisfactory.

Senator Fess, Republican, Ohio, is supposed to take the place of Ira E. Robinson who resigned.

Mr. Hoover in a few days must make appointments to the board of the reconstruction corporation and in the meantime is postponing the selection of a successor for Oliver Wendell Holmes, who recently resigned as an associate justice of the supreme court.

Committee to Discuss City Bank Needs

Herman Smith Selects Group; Meets at Noon Today

Plans for early establishment of a local bank are to be discussed this noon when a committee, appointed yesterday, meets at the Jefferson hotel. The committee, selected by Herman Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce, with the unanimous approval of the board of directors, is composed of Arthur J. Cox, Lee Nagle, Merritt C. Spidel, Prof. Henry Rietz, Dean Chester A. Phillips, Henry G. Walker, Willis W. Mercer, and Albert Sidwell.

The committee originally planned to discuss the matter yesterday afternoon but because some of the members were in Cedar Rapids arranging for the opening of a bank of office here the meeting was postponed until today.

First consideration of the committee will be to determine whether reorganization of the Johnson County bank, which is approximately half completed, or the formation of an entirely new bank, will be of most value to the community. All the members of the committee are pledged to go thoroughly into all phases of the banking needs of Iowa City and decide on the course of action of most value to the entire city and its surrounding territory.

3 Banks to Pay Dividends Soon

Court orders for dividend payments on the Citizens State bank of Mount Vernon, the Helmer and Gartner State bank of Mechanicsville and the Farmers and Merchants Savings bank of Tipton will be obtained immediately, according to an announcement last night by Ben S. Summerwill, examiner in charge of the three institutions.

The payment was authorized yesterday by L. A. Andrew, receiver for the banks and state superintendent of banking. Mr. Summerwill was in Tipton yesterday arranging for the payments which will be made before Feb. 15.

Naval Committee Ends Hearings on Fleet Expense Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—After hearing testimony that approval of the Vinson bill along with work already authorized would permit the expenditure of $853,589,905 on the fleet, the house naval committee today concluded its hearings.

Captain E. S. Land of the navy presented the figures.

They showed that over a 10 year period, the bill by Chairman Vinson would authorize 121 new ships to cost $612,250,000; that 16 vessels now building would require $99,218,906; and that 15 already authorized but not under construction would take $147,121,000.

Doctor Sent From Room by Mrs. Judd

Courtroom Crowded With Spectators at Trial

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 21 (AP)—With flashing eyes, Winnie Ruth Judd, confessed slayer, drove a prosecution psychiatrist from the courtroom under a burning tirade today as testimony was started in her trial for the slaying of Agnes Anne LeRoy.

"I won't have him near me," she cried, leaping to her feet to confront Dr. Joseph Catton of San Francisco, who approached her chair during a court recess. "He's talked about me! He's acted like a little boy. Get out of here!"

Dr. Catton leaves.

Dr. Catton, who before leaving San Francisco to appear as a witness, expressed his opinion Mrs. Judd was sane, left the courtroom immediately.

The defense has indicated it will attempt to establish insanity.

Mrs. Judd also is under indictment for the slaying of Hedvig Samuelson. Both women, the state charges, were killed on or about October 16, in Phoenix, and their bodies sent to Los Angeles in trunks.

Crowd Crushes Woman

Would the spectators mobbed the courtroom corridors in futile efforts to get into Judge Speakman's little courtroom to hear first state testimony against the defendant.

One woman, caught in the crush was extricated with difficulty. The crowd remained massed outside the court room door throughout the day. Only a few more than 100 could get into the room.

Hoover Finds Choice Balked

Couzens Will Contest Radio Commission Appointment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Prompt opposition to one of President Hoover's nominees arose today and meanwhile the chief executive delved among possibilities for filling a half dozen vacancies still confronting him.

Hoover had Mr. Hoover's choice of Thad Brown to be a member of the radio commission reached the senate before Chairman Couzens of the interstate commerce committee announced he would contest the appointment, which goes to his committee.

Conflicting Views

There were conflicting views tonight on the result of the contest, but both sides indicated confidence. This difference of opinion extended to the Democratic attitude, although Brown's friends claimed some support in that party.

Brown, who is general counsel of the radio commission, is a former Republican leader of Ohio and was state manager for President Hoover in the 1928 primary campaign in that state.

Nebraska Farmer Victim of Livestock

JACKSON, Neb., Jan. 21 (AP)—Mike Deloughery, 70, Dakota county farmer, was found dead in the barn yard of his farm today, a victim of livestock.

A doctor who examined the body expressed the belief that Deloughery had been kicked by a horse and then attacked by hogs when he was either unconscious or unable to arise.

Kidnaped Man's Wife Willing to Pay Reasonable Ransom

DENVER, Jan. 21 (AP)—The griet stricken wife of Benjamin P. Bower, 62 year old baking company executive who was kidnaped from his home last Tuesday night, offered today to pay "any reasonable sum" for his safe return.

Her offer, made public through newspapers by her attorney, James Marsh, was designed to offset the effect she felt might have been created in the minds of the kidnapers by the announcement of several rewards for their apprehension, totaling $2,100.

The failure of the abductors to negotiate for the $50,000 ransom they originally demanded from the owner of the bakery, Stephen Knight, through Mrs. Bower, left

Hurry Action in Congress to Aid Loans

Second Business Revival Measure Ready for Signature

Day in Washington

Senate and house conferees signed final draft of reconstruction finance corporation bill, and president asks $500,000,000 appropriation for it.

Thad H. Brown of Ohio named a member of the radio commission, and Senator Couzens (R. Mich.) announced opposition to confirmation.

Senate and house adopted conference report on bill to add $125,000,000 to capital of federal land banks.

Senator Glass (D. Va.) assailed as false statements by Secretary Hyde that European loans made by Wilson administration were "without legal right."

Senate manufacturers committee approved Costigan-LaFollette bill for $375,000,000 direct federal aid to unemployed.

Carrie Chapman Catt retired as chairman of national conference on the cause and cure of war.

Senate voted down Bingham resolution proposing to suggest governors call prohibition referendum.

Four Marines Get Distinguished Flying Cross for Fighting

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Award of the distinguished flying cross to four marine corps officers was announced today by Secretary Adams, for their participation in an aerial attack on a large group of bandits in Nicaragua last June.

The officers are: Captain Byron F. Johnson of Youngstown, O., now at Quantico, Va.; and Lieutenants Charles L. Pike of Des Moines, Ia., now at San Diego, Cal.; John N. Hart of Portsmouth, N. H., now at the naval station, Pensacola, and John S. E. Young of Ocean Grove, N. J., also stationed at Pensacola.

Chicago Wins Financial Aid

Political Leaders Effect Measure to Revise Tax Machinery

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Political and civic leaders have won the first clash in the fight to restore Chicago's credit.

With the aid of downstate assemblymen, weakened over after days of pleading, legislation was effected today in the special session of the state legislature to revise Cook county's tax assessing and reviewing machinery.

Further Support

Upon such revision hinged any further financial support from Chicago's loop banks. Tonight, expectations ran high that, with this accomplished, bankers would soon honor additional tax anticipation warrants, filling the empty coffers of city and county governments.

Re-establish Credit

Mayor Cermak, who quitted a vacation rest in Florida to lead the legislative battle, expressed the belief that "as soon as it is humanly possible, we will have set up the new machinery to re-establish Chicago's credit."

This, the mayor added, will bring pay to the teachers, firemen, police and thousands of other municipal employes who have been "living on promises" for nearly a year.

Jury Returns Verdict

WEST UNION (AP)—A jury returned a verdict of guilty against A. J. Soeder of Davenport who was on trial on a charge of violation of the state securities law by selling bonds without a license.

Teachers College Selects 20 "Tutors" From Student Body

CEDAR FALLS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Twenty "well-known" tutors" chosen by the student council and a faculty committee of Iowa State Teachers college were announced today. Pictures of the group will appear in the feature section of the 1932 college year book.

The students chosen were: Robert Burley and Harris Burberry of Wellman; Wendell Braigert of Cedar Falls; Don Cole of Ames; Alvin Stueger of Waverly; Robert Cunningham and Gwendolyn Bliker of Waterloo; Wayne Johnson of Norfolk, Neb.; Arnold Scheider of Duluth, Minn.; Robert Allen of Independence; Cletus Bower of Coon Rapids; Thorrell East of Audubon; Marshall Kathon of Osage; Olive Morgan of Chicago, Ill.; Maxine Vall of Benson, Wis.; Charles Vandover of Kearsley; Freda Steinberg and Robert Hinton of Waterloo; and Ruth Latta and Richard Purdy of Cedar Falls.

Attack Charge Flames Anew in Honolulu

Officers Hunt Convict for Alleged Attack on Woman

HONOLULU, Jan. 21 (AP)—A new attack upon a woman and a grim hunt for a desperate convict as the suspected assailant, were heaped upon Honolulu's grim of trouble today.

The city, still reeling over other attacks, the lynching of one alleged assaulter and the ensuing deluge of investigations and reform movements, was stirred anew by the story of Mrs. Toka Okazaki, 29, a Japanese. She said she had been attacked by a man who overpowered her escort on the outskirts of the city last night.

Medical Men Report

Medical authorities made varying reports as to the accuracy of her story but finally announced the evidence showed she had been criminally assaulted.

Mrs. Okazaki identified a photograph of Daniel Lyman, escaped grand convict, as the assailant and police were ordered to shoot if necessary in their hunt for him. Lyman escaped from Oahu prison December 31, 1931, along with Lui Kalkapu, burglary convict. The latter was captured and returned to prison for life after confessing to criminally attacking a school teacher Jan. 2.

To Ask Indictment

As the man hunters went into action, City and County Attorney Gilliland completed preparation to go before the grand jury to ask the indictment of Mrs. Granville Fortescue; her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Masse; E. J. Lord and Albert O'Jones, for the murder of Joseph Kahanawai, suspected attacker of Mrs. Masse.

New Dry Chief

Elected president of the Anti-Saloon League to succeed Bishop Thomas Nicholson, of Detroit, Bishop Ernest G. Richardson (above) is head of the Methodist Episcopal church in Philadelphia. The election was held at the annual convention of the league in Washington, D. C., at which F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the organization, advocated a non-partisan policy in an attempt to secure the support of "drys" in all parties.

British Hope for Success at Lausanne

Assert Germany Will Not Pay Debts With Bonds

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The British government's announcement that the Lausanne reparations conference will be postponed does not mean the conference has been abandoned, it was said today in official circles.

Preliminary work for the meeting is being continued, a competent spokesman said, and the government hopes the conference ultimately will be held and will prove successful.

"New" Plan

No one in official quarters took seriously what one of the London newspapers described as a "new" plan to solve the reparations problem by allowing Germany to meet her obligations with railroad bonds instead of cash.

According to the published version of this report, the cabinet had given "sympathetic consideration" to the plan, but this was denied. The scheme is not new. It has been discussed on several occasions, most recently in Paris. One authority declared today it was a "dead issue."

Laval Invites MacDonald

It was announced Prime Minister MacDonald had been forced by the pressure of domestic affairs to decline with regret an invitation from Premier Laval of France for a discussion of mutual problems over the week end.

Chinese Government Plans Army Reduction

NANKING, China, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Chinese government has decided to reduce its army from 1,200,000 men to 80,000, the official Kuomintang news agency announced today.

The announcement explained that the morale of the present force is poor and its equipment inadequate. By cutting its strength more money will be available for equipment.

Guatemala City Feels Earthquake Tremors

GUATEMALA CITY, Jan. 21 (AP)—Strong earth tremors were felt this morning at Zacatepequez, authorities reported.

Great columns of smoke issued at the same time from volcano De Fuego, greatly alarming inhabitants of nearby towns.

Slam of Car Door May Prove Fatal

ALBION, Neb., Jan. 21 (AP)—A slamming automobile door smashed Taylor Smith's head last night and he may not live.

Smith, who is 22 years old, was riding with State Senator Harry Kunkel in a truck four miles north of here and got out to scrape iron from the windshield. As he re-entered the door was slammed. Smith is still unconscious.

Criticize U. S. for Attitude in Debt Problem

France Willing to Cut Armaments; Wants New Ratio

By The Associated Press

Disarmament has brought its train of complications into an international situation already involved with reparations and war debts.

Developments yesterday briefly are:

1—A call was sounded in the French parliament for a security pact with the United States, for which France in exchange might reduce its armaments one fourth.

2—France announced a willingness to participate in a reduction of naval armaments at the Geneva arms conference next month, providing a geographical ratio of naval forces first was agreed upon. This brought into the problem the hitherto unsuccessful efforts of France and Italy to reach an accord on the size of their respective forces.

3—Washington's attitude was given as opposed to guaranteeing French security and as favoring a discussion of cuts in land armaments at Geneva, rather than a reduction of naval forces.

4—The United States was criticized in the French parliament for failing to cooperate more closely with France in international negotiations. Chancellor Bruening was criticized for his statement that Germany was unable to pay reparations, Edouard Herriot, radical-socialist leader, reading into it an intention no longer to pay, which France could not tolerate.

5—Great Britain, on the sidelines, insisted that preliminary work for the postponed reparations conference at Lausanne had been delayed, but not abandoned. Germany wants a final settlement of the problem as soon as possible, based on its declared incapacity to pay.

British Hope for Success at Lausanne

Assert Germany Will Not Pay Debts With Bonds

PARIS, Jan. 22 (AP)—The United States was sharply criticized in the French chamber of deputies late last night for an aloof attitude toward France in international negotiations.

The criticism came from Edouard Herriot, leader of the radical socialists, in debate on a request from Premier Laval for an expression of confidence in his new cabinet.

Confident of Support

The chamber adjourned early today until afternoon with the premier being closer to his aid than support for his foreign policy.

M. Herriot deplored America's rejection of a proposal 12 years ago for a pact mutually guaranteeing the security of the two nations.

"Assure Peace"

"The United States, which often gives us advice," he said, "would gain by being closer to us in international negotiations aimed at knitting the whole world to assure peace."

He also criticized the statement of Chancellor Bruening that Germany could no longer pay reparations and reminded the chamber that recourse could be had to the Hague tribunal under the Young plan by any of its signatories in event one of them failed to pay its intergovernmental debts.

Atmosphere Tense

The chamber met in an atmosphere made tense by Germany's refusal of a simple extension of the Hoover moratorium and complicated by a call for union with the United States a pact guaranteeing mutual assistance for defense in any case of aggression.

It was expected that before the question of confidence was submitted the premier would force a practically unanimous vote from the chamber by a resolution declaring France could not require reparations from Germany and would not be able to pay England and the United States if her own payments from the Berlin government were cut off.

Expect Laval Majority

Predictions were that when the question of confidence came—the vote was not expected until early Friday morning—the new Laval ministry would receive a majority of at least 45.

When tonight's session started Deputy Delson caused a disturbance by saying he wished to see the government's majority enlarged by a group composed "solely of French deputies."

Socialists Insulted

The socialist members took this as an insult and made such noise President Bouisson suspended the sitting.

The suggestion for a pact of mutual assistance with the United States was made by Deputy Foregoet in a speech in which he recalled that America stepped in during the war and predicted she might do so again.

"Germany" "Evening"

"In the face of a Germany filled with a desire for revenge," he said, "the best asset France could have would be the defensive aid of the United States."

Declaring America's signature on such a pact would be "an enormous step on the road to peace" M. Foregoet inquired: "why not ask her to do it?" and the deputies applauded him.

WEATHER

IOWA — Cloudy to partly cloudy, slightly colder in south-east portion; rising temperature in extreme west portion Friday; Saturday mostly cloudy and warmer, rain or snow by night.

Society and Clubs

Clyde McCoy Will Entertain at Pica Ball

Journalistic Motif Will Prevail; to Award Unique Prizes

A giant typewriter, telephone, and other journalistic accoutrements against a varicolored background, will form the setting for Clyde McCoy's 12 piece Columbia recording orchestra at the Pica Ball, Friday, Feb. 5. The announcement was made last night by Frank Jaffe, J3 of Paterson, N. J., general chairman. The affair will be held in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Programs will be of gold, with black and gold typewriters suggesting the journalistic theme. They will be tied with black cords and will contain a humorous account of Pica Ball activities, among other features. Mrs. Ida B. Yetter Hostess at Meeting at King's Daughters

The altruistic work of King's Daughters was discussed and slides were shown by Mrs. F. J. Mansfield of Burlington, state president of the organization, at a meeting of Electa Circle yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ida B. Yetter, 519 S. Summit street.

Outstanding among their activities is the maintenance of hospitals, homes for the aged, children's nurseries and day schools, homes for girls, and vacation camps. This work is being done not only in the United States but in Africa, Hawaii, India, England, Switzerland, and various other countries throughout the world.

In Iowa King's Daughters maintain a hospital at Perry, an old people's home at Burlington, and a girls' camp at Bluff Park.

Mrs. Mansfield, who plans to visit all the Iowa circles within the next few weeks, left immediately after the meeting for Tipton. While in Iowa City she was the houseguest of Mrs. Edwin T. Davis.

Mrs. Yetter and Mrs. W. F. Bolter were hostesses at a pot-luck luncheon preceding the meeting. Thirty members were present.

Junior High School Graduates Honored by Members of Faculty

Members of the Junior high school faculty entertained pupils of grade 8A at a theater party last night. The occasion was a farewell for the boys and girls before their entrance into high school next semester.

Among the teachers who accompanied the group to the theater were: Kathryn Barry, Helen Burns, Agnes Krerup, Charlotte Davis, Helen Heller, Russia Harris, and Esther Reinking.

Following the show, the party returned to the schoolhouse for refreshments. Ice cream was furnished by faculty members, and cakes baked by mothers of the pupils were served with it.

Those on the serving committee were: Mrs. F. D. Francis, Clara Frei, Mrs. John Randall, and Clarence Miller.

Two Children Run Down While Walking Home From School

DES MOINES, Jan. 21 (AP)—Kenneth Lewellen, 9, and Thomas Sharpnack, 11, were injured, probably fatally while on the way home from school today when struck by a car driven by Alfred Beckman, 39.

Both boys received skull and leg fractures and hospital attendants held little hope for their recovery tonight. In a statement to police Beckman said the boys, hand-in-hand, ran out from behind a bus, which had stopped on the opposite side of the street directly in front of his machine.

Mrs. Thornton I. Ainley, an eyewitness, corroborated Beckman's statement. He took the boys to a hospital immediately after the accident.

Bridge Club Installs Officers

Yearly officers of the A. O. C. Bridge club were installed last night at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Milton J. Katzenmeyer, 501 Oakland avenue. The following officers were installed: Mrs. Lela Watkins, president; Mrs. Etta Benjamin, vice president; Mrs. Crum, secretary; Mrs. Dessal McGinnis, treasurer; Mrs. Eleanor Letts, press correspondent; Mrs. Myra Mentzel presided as installing officer.

Games of bridge were played after the business meeting.

Junior High School P.T.A. to Meet

American Legion auxiliary members will be hostesses at a card party at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the club rooms at the American Legion Community building.

Bridge and euchre will be played and the event will be in charge of Mrs. Robert Schell.

Shipper Says Lines Conduct "Bars" at Sea

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board told the house merchant marine committee today he believed that American lines "run bars" at sea.

He said a concern buying ships had received a free gift of $8,000 worth of liquor listed as "medical supplies" because the government could not "put itself in the bootlegging business" by selling the liquor on board.

"Isn't it true that all American steamship lines except the Dollar services run bars and isn't it a fact that it is foolish to keep it secret—that the lines are losing trade thereby?" asked Representative Leback (R., N. J.).

"I believe that is so," O'Connor answered slowly.

Chairman Davis asked O'Connor if "medical supplies" were not sold as "liquor" after leaving the twelve mile limit.

O'Connor insisted the liquor turned over to the Chapman interests was "medical supplies" and that $8,000 worth of medicinal liquor was no large stock. "An ordinary barber would have that much," he said.

Alpha Deltas, Currier Tie Cage Tourney

Currier hall and Alpha Delta Pi will share honors as winners of the intramural basketball tournament, unless a playoff game is scheduled for next week. Their match last night resulted in a 20 to 20 tie.

The Alpha Delt lineup included: forwards, Katherine Herrig, A2 of Wall Lake; Thelma Kenefick, A4 of Eagle Grove; and Helen Smith, A3 of Iowa City; centers, Orel Crane, A1 of Holstein, and Ruth Meikle, A2 of Bedford; guards, Agnes Hogan, A4 of Tiffin, and Mary Taylor, C3 of Plainfield.

City School Teachers to Receive Pay

Possibility that Iowa City school teachers would not receive wages next month was dispersed yesterday with the announcement that tentative plans are being considered for the issuance of warrants carrying six per cent interest by the Iowa City school board.

The necessity of the move was brought about when claims of $91,580.76, which the Iowa City independent school district had against the state sinking fund on deposit in the First National bank when it closed, were found unpayable for two years. This was shown in a statement given Supt. I. A. Opstad and George E. Frohwein, president of the board, by State Treasurer Ray E. Johnson.

Monthly teacher's payroll, as well as other bills, were met by the board Jan. 15. Financial arrangements are expected to be made by next payday, Feb. 12.

Teacher's salaries are paid from the general fund, which amounted to $83,813.33 when the bank closed. The state sinking fund, which protects such deposits, is created by the interest paid on school funds.

More than $75,000 in taxes are expected to be received by the district April 15. Smaller amounts than this will come in before that date but unless tax payments are larger than usual this sum will not be sufficient to meet the payroll requirements, reported Superintendent Opstad.

Iowa City school teachers were pointed out the board's financial position by Superintendent Opstad. It was shown to the teachers that the board had a bonded indebtedness of $118,000, while the legal indebtedness allowed is three quarters of a million.

Oxford High School Wins First Place in Declamatory Contest

Oxford was awarded first honors in the high school declamatory contest held at 8 p.m. in the court house by winning three first places.

Clifford Goodrich, Oxford, won first place in oratorical and Wayne Burr, Lone Tree, second. In the dramatic division, Nelson Simpkins, Oxford, was first and Emmerich Hart, Lone Tree, second. First place in humorous was given to Patricia Hughes, Oxford, and second to Shirley Burr, Lone Tree.

The winners of first and second places in the contest held Wednesday, will compete with first and second place winners in last night's contest in the finals to be held next Wednesday, in the court house.

Prof. H. G. Barnes, of the speech department of the University of Iowa, judged last night's contest.

Senate Gets Bill to Help Unemployed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The drive for federal appropriations to help the unemployed swept a $375,000,000 bill onto the senate floor today with indications of Democratic-Republican support.

Despite the president's unyielding opposition, the senate manufactures committee voted 6 to 2 to approve the Costigan-La Follette bill authorizing relief appropriations of $125,000,000 for this winter and $250,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning next July.

The bill was given the solid support of Democrats and independent Republicans on the committee, but Democratic leaders were non-committal with respect to their attitude on the measure. It was indicated that although the bill may have the support of many Democrats, it probably will not be made a party issue.

The bill provides that 40 per cent of the money should be apportioned among the states according to population, while the balance would be allocated in accordance with needs.

Under the 40 per cent provision, the maximum the states could draw this winter ranges from $12,000 for Nevada to $15,900,000 for New York.

The remainder of the fund would be divided by a federal emergency relief board. The director of the children's bureau of the labor department would administer the act under the supervision of the board.

Those aims, in brief, have as their ultimate goal the setting up of an independent state for the White Russians in the territory which is now the subject of dispute between China and Japan. The recent declaration of Japanese Premier Inukai that his country "would not accept Manchuria as a gift" lends color to the report that Japan, which has no love for the soviets, would welcome a strong man in Manchuria as a bulwark between its possessions and Red Russia. Moreover, a man like Semenov, who has an abiding hatred of everything red, would be doubly welcome.

The situation in which White Russians in Mongolia find themselves today is none too pleasant. Virtually men without a country, they dare not go back to their native Russia, as their lives have been declared forfeit. And they are permitted to live in China only on sufferance, being subjected to the strictest regulations and often the victims of race persecution.

The only thing in their favor is the Mongolian hatred of the soviets, which dates back to 1924 when a Sino-Soviet treaty oriented outer

Mongolia to the soviet union, depriving many landowners of their possessions and forcing them to migrate to inner Mongolia.

Semenov, a smart tactician, may also be banking on the support of the great powers, which are in a state of perpetual nervousness regarding future soviet activities on the Chinese border. In other words, the general imagines himself as the logical watchdog to keep tabs on his most deadly enemies, who are also regarded with hostility by the great powers.

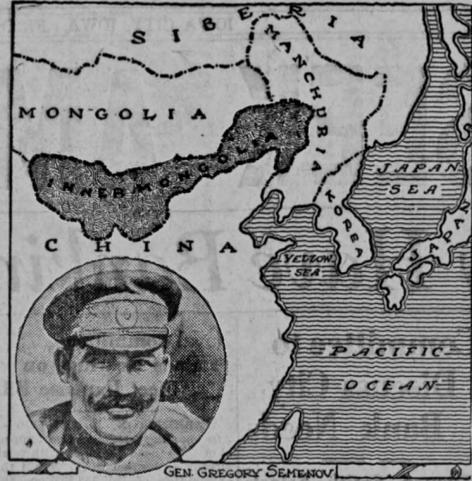

General Semenov's movement for an independent home for his White Russians may or may not be successful, but if the matter is left to Japan the chances are that he'll make a good showing, as it is well known that he has been in Japanese pay for several years.

In appearance Semenov is decidedly ferocious-looking and after seeing him one can readily understand the terror he inspired in the people of Trans-Baikalia, Siberia, where his military activities and himself are still spoken of in frightened whispers. He had a distinguished record in the World war and his campaign against the soviets following the Russian revolution proved him a man without fear, a great soldier and an iron disciplinarian.

One of his most noteworthy exploits was in 1917 when he attacked the stronghold of Manchui, in the province of Hallungkiang, with a force of only 16 men, and drove out the soviet garrison — vastly superior in numbers.

A course in insurance has been added to the curriculum of the business school of North Carolina State college.

White Russians in China Plan State of Independence

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R. — According to reports trickling to this city from Manchuria, the situation in that isolated province may soon be further complicated by the entrance into the ring of White Russians and Mongolians as claimants of part of the territory now occupied by Japanese forces.

General Gregory Semenov, former Cossack officer in the Czar's Imperial army and leader of the White Russians, who led an army against the Bolsheviks in 1917 and later harassed the Red army for nearly four years, is reported to be in Mukden, Manchuria, negotiating with the Japanese invaders relative to the independence of inner Mongolia and the expansion of that territory to take in part of the Japanese-occupied province of Manchuria.

Fleeing from Russia after the failure of his guerrilla war on the soviets, General Semenov, together with about 50,000 of his followers, took refuge in inner Mongolia, which is theoretically a part of China proper.

After years of propaganda, the general has at last succeeded in instilling the desire for independence and expansion in the five Mongol princes who rule the province where he found sanctuary. And with the Japanese now using the "big stick" on China, Semenov sees a golden opportunity for the realization of his aims.

Those aims, in brief, have as their ultimate goal the setting up of an independent state for the White Russians in the territory which is now the subject of dispute between China and Japan. New Priests for Old

KAZAN cathedral in Leningrad, once the richest and most fashionable of the churches of the former Czarist capital, is now to be dedicated to the "glories" of Godlessness. Distinguished members of the Soviet Academy of Science have been charged with the task of transforming this church into the largest and best arranged anti-religious museum in the union. It will be their task to prove through exhibits that all religions are based on myths, illusions and lies.

Where once the devout sought comfort and truth through communion with the God of Christianity, followers of a new doctrine will seek solace and comfort in the iconoclasm of their leaders and in the worship and praise of Communism.

These people have not cast off religion. No human being, it would seem, has ever done that. What they have done is to substitute one religion for another—the worship of Communism or state for Christianity. About a thousand years ago the ignorant serfs of the great steppes and the rich plains hailed the consoling doctrines of a new religion as a light in the darkness of superstition and dread, as a rock to which they might cling in their misery and suffering. But their priests and their confessors used their religion to rob them, to trample them further into subjection, to place them under the crushing heels of the kings.

Today, the descendants of that same people are again grasping at the straws of a new religion which according to its priests, will make them free.

Now they are called to the shrines of St. Lenin and St. Stalin to praise the new truth which is to unshackle them, which makes them victims of forced labor, which decrees that they be shot if they forget or neglect their specified duties.

"Speed the five-year plan," is the prayer upon their lips. "Then will we be free. Then will we have heaven here upon earth."

Perhaps they will see heaven. It is the earnest hope of sympathetic persons that they will. But, at the same time, they should take care that their new priests do not cause them to lift up their eyes to heaven, as did the old, while they fasten even more securely about their throats the fetters of subjection.

Germany Cannot Pay

GERMANY CAN no longer pay reparations, declares Chancellor Bruening. Such a frank statement, though not surprising, has brought about a new crisis in European affairs.

Bruening's announcement was apparently intended to prepare world opinion for the position the German delegation will take at the Lausanne conference. It has awakened new suspicions among the creditor powers, especially France and Belgium.

Previous to the report, it was considered by political leaders of France that the most practical way out of European financial difficulties lay in a limited cancellation of all international financial obligations inherited from the war. But with the publication of Bruening's announcement a decided reaction has set in. The French press and the nation's political leaders, who recently were discussing modification, are now insisting more loudly than ever that France cannot afford to let reparations be dropped.

Whatever position the French are taking, it appears from Premier MacDonald's statement of Jan. 10 that the British will be inclined to support Bruening at Lausanne. It seems probable that neither delegation will accept any plan that does not provide for the scaling down or outright cancellation of European debts to the United States.

Thus Bruening has virtually called upon Europe to choose between crushing Germany and repudiating the war debts owed this nation. There should be little difficulty in deciding which course Europe will choose in its extremity. France will insist upon Germany's paying, but Europe is unanimous about cutting down payments to this country.

That leaves considerable consolation in the thought that cancellation would be better anyway.

Surplus Grain

THE WETS continue to make extravagant claims about the increased consumption of grain that would be entailed, providing the manufacture of beer could be made legal again.

They have made statements which promise that all unemployment, all surplus grain, all everything in fact, would be made right again. That with the beer on legal sale at restaurants, beer gardens, and the like, people once more would be made happy, all the depression would disappear, all who wanted work could find employment either in the places dispensing the drink or the breweries, and those who did not want to work could forget their troubles in the delicious drink. But this propaganda is vitally different from that which these same persons put forth in 1917, when the United States was entering the World war, and was planning to conserve food products. This is shown in the following item from the Evening Star, Washington, D. C., of May 7, 1917:

"Headed by Gustav Pabst, a delegation representing the brewers of the United States, was heard today by the senate agriculture committee on Senator Gronna's bill to forbid the manufacture of grain into alcoholic liquors during the war.

"The actual amount of grain used in brewing, principally barley, they told the committee, represents less than three-quarters of one per cent of all the grain produced in the United States, and in addition to that, the barley used, they said, is not a staple human food, here or abroad.

"The amount of land required to raise all the grain used in brewing in the United States, the committee was told, is less than seven one-hundredths of the total of all the agricultural land in the country. From these figures, the brewers argued that the brewing industry was too small a factor to be considered in the food conservation program."

But evidently these same brewers intend to produce a great deal more beer, and use a great deal more grain than in the time before prohibition, or someone has the figures juggled.

Wet or dry, both sides should display a little common sense in their arguments.

Reno Forever!

(From The St. Louis Post Dispatch)

We are in doubt what to do about Chihuahua—whether to wish it well, or hope it chokes. That Mexican state, just across the Texas line, has decided to toss Reno into the Truckee river. It has perfected a divorce law which makes all other models obsolete, including Nevada's. Residence is unnecessary. Personal appearance is waived. If you can't come, write. Where Mr. and Mrs. want it, they get it. No lingering delay. No tedious court proceeding. The decree is granted the day the application is filed. Served like flapjacks, or, to maintain the atmosphere, like hot tamales.

When Arkansas and Idaho tried to "muscle in" on Reno's territory, we spoke right out, in withering terms. You may have forgotten it, but, just the same, we did. But there was nothing priggish in our indignation and nothing righteous, either. What moved us to wrath was that Arkansas and Idaho contributed nothing new in the ideology of divorce. All they did was to try to steal Reno's stuff by copying the Nevada statute. Base imitators. Miserable plagiarists, as we say in literary circles. No originality. No daring. No storming of unstormed ramparts. Just old Nevada wine in new Arkansas and Idaho bottles.

Now, Chihuahua has blazed a trail into snappier divorces and cheaper, too, if one must include the economic motif, as one pretty generally must these days. Philosophically, then, Chihuahua is entitled, we suppose, to a bravo! But right here the old heritage asserts itself. Chihuahua is alien. Reno, erring, wayward and incorrigible though she be, is of our own household. So down with tequila freedom! No hundred per center will get his divorce in Mexico. And the Latvia fashion, which Publisher McLean tried to install, is also a dud.

Our opening doubt is dispelled. We're for Reno.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

The other day, Representative Dickstein, Democrat, New York, told the senate beer committee: "If you offered a girl a drink before prohibition, she'd slap you in the face; today if you don't have one with you, she'll kick you in the pants."

Whether the congressman was speaking from experience or from observation, or just joking, was not revealed by him or any enterprising news hound. But he must have been around snooping somewhere, because nice women don't kick gentlemen.

Comes a story from New York that quotes Cardinal Hayes as declaring that American womanhood is passing through the most dangerous era in its history. Speaking from the pulpit in St. Patrick's Cathedral, the prelate asserted:

"The world seems to have set its face against high Christian ideals—it has no sympathy with them. It seems to be trying to destroy all that is pure and good and noble in woman."

At least he didn't blame the depression—but—well, what about the rest of us?

Off told is the story of the famous soldier who was killed when he tripped coming out of a church his first Sunday back from the war. A new version was reported by the Associated Press the other day.

It seems that William C. Smith, Jr., chief pilot of the Coast Airways, was killed when he fell out of a hotel window while sleepwalking.

Now, if there were less absent minded professors and more absent minded pilots and such, Mr. Smith might have hooked on his parachute before dropping off to sleep.

Tsk, tsk. A man isn't safe in his own home these days, it would seem. A Cedar Rapids insurance agent suffered a fracture of his left hip this week when his chair slipped while he was playing bridge at the Chamber of Commerce.

We suspect foul play, thinking he might have been pushed off his chair when he trumped his partner's ace. Now, he ought to wire Culbertson or Lenz to find out the correct way of sitting in the right kind of chair. Maybe that will turn into a prosperity boom for the furniture manufacturers.

Pity the lot of handsome Clarence Bledsoe, husky footballer at the University of Washington. Bledsoe's college career, after what just happened to him, will probably be unbearable from now on. His fraternity brothers will shun him, and his teammates will snicker behind his back.

The poor fellow was named the "perfect man" at the Washington institution by women students, who judged on the basis of popularity, good looks, ability to wear clothes, and dancing prowess. But did they say a thing about brains? That's just what they did not do, and that's why all these tears for Mr. Bledsoe.

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

First Semester 1931-1932. Saturday, January 23, 8:00 A.M. to Saturday Noon, January 30, 1932. The regular program of class work will be suspended, and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D and E, as shown in the form below; and Speech 1, 01 and 3 as shown at "N.B." below).

The Program Committee directs the attention of both students, and instructors and professors, to the regulation that there is to be no deviation in the case of any examination, from this schedule, except as authorized by the Committee, on the student's written petition, filed in ample time, supported by the recommendation of the department concerned, to provide relief from an excessive number of examinations within a single day. Deviation for the purpose of getting through earlier will not be permitted.

In the cases of conflicts (within the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D and E) the schedule itself, as presented below, provides a general method of making adjustments.

All classes whose first weekly meetings have occurred as indicated in the rectangles below, meet for examination during the periods noted in the tops of these three columns, and on the days noted in the rectangles directly opposite at the left of the double, vertical line.

Table with columns for Examination Period (8:10 A.M., 10-12 A.M., 2-4 P.M.), Date (Jan 23-30), and Special Group (A-E) with subjects listed.

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed (Read by columns, and alphabetically within the particular group, who will arrange a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than regular class hour on January 18 and January 19.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or, in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first clock-hour of the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 21 meets for lectures T Th Sa at 8. The first meeting is, consequently, Tuesday at 8,—and the class will meet for examination Monday, January 25, 2-4, according to the tabular form above. Again, physics 125 meets twice each week, T F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination is, therefore, Friday, January 29, 2-4.

N.B. All sections of freshman speech 1, 01, and 3 will meet in the buildings and rooms and on the days and at the periods designated below:

Table listing sections for Special Groups A-E across days from Jan 23 to Jan 29, including section numbers and room numbers.

"ODD" classes,—namely those whose first or only weekly meetings occur on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, or Saturdays, or which meet "as arranged," will be assigned for examination, as announced to each such class by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods:

- 1. From 4 to 6 on any day from January 23 to January 29, inclusive.
2. Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D and E, since for such "odd" classes, these five examination periods will be found quite available.

In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure, it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times,—if no student is a member of more than one of these classes.

According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may continue an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for any phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time."

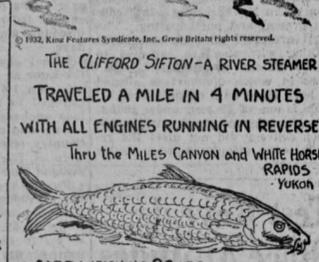

According to another faculty regulation, which is on record as adopted by the faculty, a student absent from the final examination should be reported "Abs"; unless the instructor recognizes that his work up to this examination has been a failure, in which case the final report should be "Fd,"—even though the student may have been absent from the final examination. No examination should be given, subsequently, to such a student until after the absence has been excused by the Committee on Admission and Classification, as shown by a partially filled special report card, signed by the Secretary of the Committee, as indicating that the absence has been excused and that the student is authorized, subject to the consent and at the convenience of the instructor concerned, to take the final examination.

Explanation of Yesterday's Cartoon: A razor 3,500 years old! The razor 3,500 years old, with which Karl Ludwik Messing shaves every morning, originally belonged to King Thutmosis III who ruled Egypt in the sixteenth century B.C. It was brought to Europe by an ancestor of the present owner, who was a member of a German Scientific Commission active in Egypt about 90 years ago. The razor which is made of bronze alloy has a perfect shaving edge, although it has been used by three generations of the Messing family.

It is not known how the ancient Egyptians managed to temper bronze to a razor effect. The secret may have been in the alloy used, aided by a process of patent hammering. Tomorrow "The singing strong-man."

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Thinking of taking up Hollywood's new fad, polo? Better reconsider. Even with horse-flesh selling way below par, the game's a luxury. Darryl Zanuck, one of the film colony's leading enthusiasts, has 5 mounts, which cost him $7,500.

Jimmy Gleason, Will Rogers and the rest all have large stables. According to Zanuck and Gleason, it costs from $200 to $250 a month to play polo. This includes upkeep of horses, veterinary services, saddles, blankets, balls, mallets and other equipment.

The Warner Brothers enthusiasts even went so far as to have a practice field built on the studio back-range. They had to split the $5,000 cost. Polo, they say, makes worse addicts than golf.

And in polo, you stand to break worse than commandments. HERE IS A CONSIDERATE THESPIAN

THESE THINGS ARE PASSING STRANGE

Jack Oakie, Paramount's jester, calls these paradoxes to my attention: Hollywood, the film city, is not a city but a suburb.

A trailer in the advertising film which is shown in advance of a film. Sound pictures can be made only where there is silence. Film players can make as much noise as they want in still pictures. The slower a camera is turned, the faster the action will be.

And a sound-mixer who really mixed the sounds would lose his job.

PEERING INTO JOAN'S FUTURE Joan Bennett's screen future has been mapped out for some time to come. When she finishes that long postponed story, "She Wanted a Millionaire," Fox will put her in "Widow's Might." And after that, she will have the lead in "Society Girl," the John Larkin-Charles Behan play, which recently came to Broadway.

And, off screen, there's her engagement to Gene Markey. It's finally serious.

Garth, Denver Educator, Will Lecture Here

Graduates Sponsoring Talk on Racial Psychology

"Race psychology," will be the subject of a lecture to be given by Prof. Thomas R. Garth of the University of Denver education department, tonight at 8 o'clock, in chemistry auditorium. The talk is under auspices of the graduate college.

Professor Garth received his B.A. degree from the University of Denver in 1909, and a year later he obtained his M.A. degree from the same university. In 1927 he received his Ph.D. from Columbia university. He became a psychologist of the New York post graduate school in 1912, and served in this capacity one year, after which time he became an assistant in education at the State Normal school, Farmville, Va., leaving there in 1915.

He was then an assistant in the New York Parental school for one year, leaving this position to become principal at the Barton Heights school, Richmond, Va. After serving here for a year he became head of the State Normal school at Canton, Tex., remaining there two years. He was then named adjunct professor of psychology at the University of Texas, leaving after a year of two years service to become professor of education at Denver university, the position that he still holds. Professor Garth served twice as an instructor in summer schools, first at the University of Colorado in 1921, and at the University of Iowa in 1922.

The speaker was an assistant on the Rockefeller hookworm commission in 1920, and is a member of the American Psychology association. He is also a member of the Anthropological Association of America, the Psychological Society, the American Association of University Professors, the Academy of Science, the National Society of College Teachers of Education, the Colorado Schoolmasters' club, Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa, Kappa Delta Pi, Phi Kappa Phi, Delta Upsilon, and Acacia. He is also a fellow of the A. A. A. S., and a member of the executive board of the Meeker home for defectives in Denver.

Author of Books

Professor Garth is the author of the books "Mental Fatigue During Continuous Exercise," and "Racial Psychology." He has also written numerous papers on the latter subject.

The lecture tonight will be illustrated by the use of lantern slides.

Young Slayer Goes to Chair

Crowley's Hatred for "Cops" Foremost in Last Hours

OSBURNING, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—A hatred for "cops" that was as intense as (Two Gun) Crowley's only explanation for the slaying which sent him to Sing Sing, condemned to death in his mind even as his final hours on earth passed today.

That hatred caused him to spurn the second successive day a visit from his former sweetheart, 17-year-old Helen Walsh, who was captured with him in a siege on a New York apartment last spring. She turned the evidence at his trial.

Scorns Sweetheart

"I want nothing to do with her," the scrawny youth told Warden Warden. "I hear she's going with a cop. I don't want to see anyone but my family."

"Two Gun" left a message of sympathy for Laves, when he saw the warden's bandaged hand, the result of a fracture suffered in a fall last year. He said: "Gee, I feel sorry for you."

Crowley made a menu for his final meal.

T-Bone Steak

"I'll have a big juicy T-bone steak, with lots of mashed potatoes, salad, ketchup, jelly, bananas, coffee, an ice cream soda and a box of cigars."

Crowley's capture was made at the end of a widespread search by a posse force incensed at Crowley's slaying of a fellow officer who had surprised him in a lonely lane on Long Island.

Police had been seeking the youth for shooting a New York detective who sought to arrest him in a New York office building. They also had sought him and Rudolph Durringer in the killing of Virginia Brannan, a dance hall hostess. Her slaying was traced to Durringer, who later was convicted and last month was hanged to death in the same electric chair which Crowley was called to sit tonight.

Ohio Committee Endorses Hoover

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21 (AP)—The Ohio Republican state central committee today endorsed President Hoover for a second term in the White House and gave him what is usually a free hand in selection of candidates for delegates to the Chicago national convention.

Overwhelming Hoover sentiment among committee members was evidenced by the fact that but two of the 48 votes were cast in opposition to the Hoover proposals, which are construed as insuring the president's solid delegation from Ohio.

Guard Against Racial Disorders

LIEUT. THOMAS H. MASSIE, MRS. GRANVILLE FORTESCUE, ALBERT O. JONES, JOSEPH KAHAWAII, MRS. THALIA MASSIE

HONOLULU—Civil and naval authorities throughout the Hawaiian Islands are prepared to cope with any racial disorders that may grow out of the killing of Joseph Kahawai for whose slaying Mrs. Granville Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U.S.N., and two enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, are being held. The affair created a sensation in all quarters here as well as in Washington and New York, where both Mrs. Fortescue and Lieut. Massie are well known.

Unwilling to trust the prisoners to the custody of the local prison authorities, the accused three were taken aboard the U.S.S. Alton for safety.

The killing of Kahawai, who was awaiting a second trial charged with participating in an attack on Mrs. Massie, daughter of Mrs. Fortescue, last September, is the latest sensation growing out of the release of four natives and a Japanese accused of the crime. The jury disagreed at the first trial and the five were released on bail. The first reprisal came in the flogging of Horace Ida, the Japanese. He said he was kidnapped by American sailors, taken three miles up the mountains to the historic Pali and severely beaten. Officials were warned that sailors intended to wreck a native dance hall near the scene of the attack on Mrs.

Railways Ask to Cut Wages of Employees

Say Ten Per Cent Cut Needed to Improve Credits

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Railway managements of the United States offered today to do "everything practicable" to stabilize employment if their organized workers would "contribute toward a general revival of business" by accepting a 10 per cent wage reduction.

The presidents had the floor today in their negotiations with union leaders and they covered almost every point made thus far by either side.

Labor had asked the "whole picture" of the financial difficulties of the carriers. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, answered with statistics he had taken two days to compile. The picture, he said, was of an industry rapidly losing credit, facing additional bankruptcies unless help arrived.

"Whatever is Practicable"

The presidents amended their previous statement regarding the stabilization of employment. Instead of saying they did not think it possible to work out a definite method, they promised to do whatever was practicable to relieve the "fear of unemployment." They did not agree to the labor suggestion that employment be stepped up to the 1930 figures, an increase of 10 per cent or more.

On all other proposals made by the brotherhoods and unions, the rail executives gave little if any ground. They indicated they were unwilling to agree to labor proposals regarding the six hour day, coordination of train crews and train lengths, the protection of labor in railroad consolidations, and a billion dollar bond issue for grade crossing elimination.

Cut to Improve Credit

"We believe," said the president's committee in a formal statement, "a reduction in the compensation of all persons engaged in railway service is an essential step toward enabling the railways to improve their credit, increase their employment and purchases, and thereby contribute toward a general revival of business."

David B. Robertson, head of the labor delegates, called attention to the words "all persons engaged in railway service" and asked if that was meant to include the lower paid unorganized employees, many of whom have not been affected in reductions thus far. Willard responded that the unions agree to a reduction, it was the plan to cut all other employees in similar manner.

Failed to Earn

As to the necessity of saving of about $215,000,000 which could be made in the pay reduction, Willard said 72 railways failed to earn their fixed charges last year and that, unless net earnings could be increased, this year the number would be "much larger."

"The railway companies that are failing to earn their fixed charges are plainly in danger of becoming bankrupt," he said. "In addition, in 1932 there will become due and payable the principal of $405,000,000 of railroad mortgage bonds, equip-

Senator Glass Attacks Hyde for Statement

Insists on Legality of Post War Loans to Europe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—An assertion by Secretary Hyde that the Wilson administration's post-armistice loans to Europe were illegal today aroused Senator Glass of Virginia to emphatic denial and an ardent defense of the man under whom he served as secretary of the treasury.

The Virginian shouted to an intent and well-filled senate chamber "that in spirit and in text the statement of the secretary of agriculture is false from beginning to end." In addition he quoted a letter from Secretary Mellon saying "neither the treasury nor the World War debt commission has ever taken the position" that the loans were "without authority of law."

Impression Prevails

Meanwhile an impression prevailed in official circles that Europe was approaching a crisis growing from the repayment of these loans and Germany's declared inability to continue reparations payments. Inquirers at the state department were reminded informally of the American position that debts and reparations are separate and that Europe must work out its own debt problems before seeking the approval or rejection of the United States for its plans.

Senator Fess, Republican, Ohio, interrupted Glass to read a statement made by Herbert Hoover in January, 1920, in the closing days of the Wilson administration opposing further loans to Europe.

Glass heatedly replied that this was "irrelevant" and said that he himself as secretary of the treasury at that time had "more succinctly and emphatically" declared against additional help to Europe.

Glass Says

The distinguished secretary of agriculture, said Glass, "had he desired to be informed rather than eager to project this partisan fabrication, might have turned to the head of the cabinet table and asked the president if he regarded the $236,865,000 loaned in the post-armistice period to be expended under his administration as made in contravention of the plans of the congress; and that is but one example of loans made in discharge of prior commitments, and a few other loans made outright without prior commitments but within the spirit and purview of his acts of congress."

Hyde's statement was made recently in a speech and Glass said he had repeated it twice since over the radio. Hyde said that Woodrow Wilson and two of his secretaries of the treasury, William Gibbs McAdoo and Glass, had made the loans after the armistice "without legal right."

Glass quoted Secretary Mellon as saying that the war did not actually end until 1921 when the treaty of peace was signed and that he and the war debt commission had held to that policy.

Stock Market Prices Show Slight Decline

Sell Off Follows Rise During Portion of Session Hours

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—A diffident stock market today failed to reach a decision on trend.

Although during most of the session prices looked a little stronger, there was a sell-off toward the close and the averages had a fractional decline. Volume was around recent low levels at 1,237,768 shares.

Wage Cut Expected

Trading seemed to be under professional auspices, operators in the rail group were reluctant to leave the carriers idle and bid them up 1 to 3 points, presumably on the strength of a conviction that an agreement on the wage cut was surely coming; in fact, advances received by some brokerage houses said a settlement was expected by the end of this week. Gains in the rail shares tapered off eventually and a few, including New York Central, Canadian Pacific and Southern Pacific, finished with small losses.

U. S. Steel touched a new high for 1932, selling a point higher at the best but losing virtually all its gain. Certain market circles feel the corporation will make another quarterly dividend payment of $1 on the common; nevertheless, there is no unanimity of opinion as to what action will be taken and the usual

Assortment of Guesses is Going the Rounds

The fourth quarter of 1931 was undoubtedly the poorest, but much probably depends on how the directors view current trends.

Tobacco Expects Dividend

American Tobacco shares were banking on the hope of an extra dividend. Other issues in the group quieted down. General Electric and General Motors sagged. American Telephone crossed 122 before slipping back. American Can, Union Carbide, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse and Western Union closed steady to firm. Case, Sears Roebuck, Allied Chemical, International Telephone and Radio reacted fractionally.

HOW VOICES CAME FROM FRONT

Here is a diagram illustrating the course of the remarkable radio broadcast of General Honjo (right, inset), commander of the Japanese army in Manchuria, and Floyd Gibbons (left inset), famous International News service war correspondent, from the war zone. Relayed through a field transmitter from Mukden, Manchuria, to Tokyo, Japan thence to San Francisco by short wave, the program was carried to New York by special transcontinental phone circuits for distribution to stations of the WJZ red network, while NBC short wave units at Pittsburgh and Schenectady retransmitted the program to Europe, where it was rebroadcast.

Nelson to Make Government Test for Improving Locks

There are ports on ocean vessels and ports that these vessels visit and then there is port wine. But Martin E. Nelson, assistant engineer in charge of the war department hydraulic work, is going to center his attention and that of his assistants on a different kind of port during the next few weeks.

The way that a ship is taken past a dam is by means of locks. In order to make locks work properly there must be an equality of pressure on both sides of the lock gate. Mr. Nelson recommends a proper series of ports to get this equality of pressure. The ship enters the lock and then it must either be lifted or lowered. Water is either removed or added to the quantity already in the lock chamber. A conduit leading from a series of openings in the sides of the lock chamber does the work. And these openings are ports.

Damage to Vessels

When the water is let into the conduit there is naturally more velocity at the openings nearest the entrance. A good deal of the water rushes past the first openings and at the ports farther down the conduit, a greater pressure builds up, forcing the water out faster. This causes surges in the water in the lock chamber. According to Mr. Nelson these surges are hard on the vessel that may be in the chamber.

The object of tests that are to be started soon will be to find out if by changing the design, size, or shape of the openings in the side of the lock chamber, some way of avoiding the building up of the water at one end of the chamber can not be avoided. A uniform flow of water through all the ports is what Mr. Nelson desires to attain.

To Use Models

In order to get an accurate picture of actual conditions, a series of models will be tried out to measure the success of the theoretical plans for changes in size and spacing noted on them.

Standard sizes of lock chambers will probably be used as a basis upon which to build the models. On the Ohio river, the standard size is 600 feet long and 110 feet wide. This will probably be the size of locks to be constructed on the upper Mississippi, according to Mr. Nelson. A smaller standard is

Spanish Send Ship Troops to Put Down "Anarchist" Strikers

MADRID, Jan. 21 (AP)—Troops were rushed today into the province of Catalonia and a naval destroyer was ordered to Barcelona, the principal Catalan city, to combat revolutionary strikers who launched what Premier Azana declared to be an "anarchist movement."

Buses, taxicabs and private automobiles were commandeered to transport a battalion of infantry and detachments of cavalry, artillery and the sixth guard to the district around Manresa, where the strikers cut railway and communication lines.

Reports from the district late tonight indicated that some semblance of order had been restored.

Students Fix Mecca Week Show Plans

The date of the Mecca show was set as Saturday, March 19 by members of the Associated Students of Engineering at a meeting in Iowa Union last night.

This action breaks a tradition of years and makes three events of Mecca week occur within two days. These are the Mecca Ball on March 18, the exhibition on the afternoon of March 19, and the show the evening of March 19. The show has been held the Thursday evening of Mecca week.

A contest for the sales of Mecca dues to engineers was announced at the meeting. The prizes to be awarded salesmen are, the payment of Mecca dues, and a ticket to the Mecca Ball.

Reports from the show, exhibition, dance, finance, banquet, and publicity committee heads were heard. A concerted drive to sell Mecca dues was announced by Donald E. Farr, '34 of Waucoma, the chairman of the finance committee.

The Gay Bandit of the Border

By TOM GILL

SYNOPSIS

In the Mexican desert, a masked rider, his gun still warm, hides in the sheltering mesquite as the cavalry ride past. They stop beside the prostrate figure of a man. "Lopez!" they exclaim, and a shiver runs through the group. A jeering laugh bursts down from above, and gazing up they see the masked rider outlined against the sky. Across the border, tall and handsome Ted Radcliffe arrives at Verdi Junction. He is met by a pretty girl who drives him to the home of his friend, Bob Harkness. She leaves without giving her name.

"Get out," he ordered briefly, "before I twist your neck."

CHAPTER III

Lunch over, he went out to the corral where, in the shadow of the saddle horse, a grizzled Mexican sat braiding a leather girth. He touched his sombrero as Radcliffe approached.

"I am Manuel," the Mexican announced in slow Spanish. "Can I serve the señor?"

"Just now, Manuel, the best of service would be a horse to ride. Will you saddle one?"

But Manuel within the next few minutes saddled two horses, and, handling the reins of the larger animal to Radcliffe, said casually, "Don Ebb would not have the señor ride alone on this, his first day."

Smiling, the big man nodded and they turned south toward the Mexican boundary, Radcliffe ahead, the old Mexican shuffling along at a useless trot, while silently he told himself that the big Eastern gringo could at least ride.

Presently they dropped down from the mesa into a little river valley which, Manuel told him, marked the Mexican line. Here they watered their horses, then crossed and bore still farther south into Mexico. To the left a ranchhouse appeared, from whose chimney a blue pencil of smoke pointed straight upward, bringing to the horsemen that sweet, aerial smell of burning mesquite. On either side little checkerboard fields of green told of spring's coming, and of arm crops just breaking through the soil. They told, too, of toil and care in the face of adversity, and of warring battle waged against the desert's stern hostility. It was an outpost, that ranch, an outpost of man, the homemaker, invading the desert. Beyond the water-tank's motionless windmill a few cattle rested after the day's grazing.

All the world was hushed. The benediction of a desert afternoon brooded over the land—the friendliness of tilled fields and human habitation. To Radcliffe, the utter peace of it held him.

He was about to speak when a shrill scream pierced the stillness and straightened both men bolt upright in their saddles. Again that agonized scream, and from behind the ranchhouse a barefoot peon boy fled toward them in shrill terror down the slope. Behind him two Mexican vaqueros ran clumsily in high-heeled boots, lashing the boy with their quirts, cutting through the thin shirt until again he screamed in an ecstasy of pain. With each stinging blow the boy leaped frantically into the air, and at each jump his pursuers laughed and struck again. Once he fell, but staggered to his feet beneath a hail of blows.

As Radcliffe spurred forward, the boy caught sight of him, and with a maddened speed made for the rider. Seizing his stirrup, he turned upward a suppliant face, revealing across his dark cheek the deep welt of a quilt.

"Help me, señor," he cried in Spanish, and even as he spoke the leading vaquero seized him and raised his quilt to strike again. Radcliffe's leg flashed over the saddle horn. He seemed to strike the ground and the vaquero at the same instant, and in the next second the nearer Mexican rose in the air, turned twice, then sprawled face down upon the sand. In consternation his companion halted, and after a moment of stupefied silence called to Manuel in Spanish, "Who is this gringo fool that he interferes with the riders of Paco Morales?"

Before Manuel could reply, Radcliffe himself answered. "Come just a little nearer, amigo, and I will interfere yet again." The giant muscles of his shoulders twitched as he eager to strike. The vaquero thoughtfully stepped back a pace.

Gently Radcliffe spoke to the boy. "Why do they beat you?"

"Because I watered my father's cattle at the stream, señor. They say the stream is low and that the water belongs to Paco Morales."

"Is this so?" He looked up at Manuel.

The old Mexican shrugged. "The stream belongs to all. But the herdsmen of Morales do not suffer others to use it."

"How can they prevent it?"

Moody Manuel nodded toward the vaqueros. "Paco Morales has more than a hundred riders. They shoot well and are unfair. That is why men who are wise do not dispute them."

The boy's frightened eyes looked up at his pursuers. "But the water from our well has dried. Is it the will of God my father's cattle should die?"

Twirling his quirt the vaquero laughed. "I am no priest. But certainly it is not the will of Paco Morales that you should use his water or his grass." Again he scowled at Radcliffe, "Jito, our leader, will soon make this gringo regret he ever raised a hand against one of our riders."

Grimly Radcliffe smiled back. "If you would only come a little closer, I might make it two of your riders." He raised the man to his feet and thrust him toward his comrade. "Get out," he ordered briefly, "before I twist your neck."

Sullenly the Mexicans turned up the hill, and, reaching in his pocket, Radcliffe dropped a silver dollar into the peon's hand. But Manuel's face was troubled as they rode back toward the border.

"It is not often, señor, that one touches a herdsman of Jito's band," he said at last. Then, after a moment's silence he chuckled aloud. "Qué va, how that carter flew through the air!" He looked admiringly at the great muscular body and the thick neck. "But the fellow was right. Jito will try to tear you apart for this."

"Do you think he could?"

Again Manuel took in the big, tightly knit form, the arched chest, and arms like flexible steel. "Now, by Our Lady, I do not know," he said doubtfully. "There is none on the border one half so strong as Jito. Caramba! It would be a fight worth living for."

In silence they rode slowly up the long slope toward the mesa, and Radcliffe, remembering his dinner appointment at the military post, touched spurs to his horse, reaching the ranchhouse full five minutes ahead of the perspiring Manuel. He hurried into his evening clothes just as an army car drew up before the bungalow, and was driven through a crimson desert sunset to the little cavalry post that lay on the outskirts of Verdi. Thirty-five years ago it had been a refuge against hostile Navahos in the days when Verdi itself was a turbulent cow camp. But now for many a year the well-kept military reservation had dozed through a long, uneventful succession of commanding officers. Before the quarters of the latest of these the car stopped, and Radcliffe read the sign over the vine-covered porch. "L. R. Blount, Major, U. S. A."

It was Mrs. Blount who received him—Aunt Clara, he remembered, the girl had called her.

From the first he liked this vigorous, middle-aged woman. Liked the firm handshake, the keen, straight look and the deep restful voice.

"I sent for you before the others." She led him to the broad fireplace. "That was partly selfishness to have to myself the new mysterious arrival. And then I can describe the managerie before it arrives. For, like a perfect hostess, I've invited everybody that matters—and several that don't."

Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, said the principal difficulties still to be overcome so far as he was concerned, were financial terms. He indicated he was not yet satisfied with the terms offered.

After a couple of hours of conversation it was announced the official signing for the match tentatively had been fixed for one o'clock tomorrow.

Scribes Vote Olympics Best for This Year

To "Cover" Possible Dempsey Go Rates Next in Poll

(Note: This is another of the series of stories on results of The Associated Press sports editor's poll of newspaper experts on topics of national interest. It answers the query: "Among the outstanding prospective sports features for 1932 which would you prefer to cover?")

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—It will be necessary to enlarge the accommodations for the experts of the nation's press at the Olympic stadium this summer if the desire of the majority to "cover" the 1932 international games is fulfilled.

In response to the Associated Press questionnaire, 51 out of 90 sports editors and writers declare they would rather cover the Olympics than any other feature on the year's calendar. This represents 56 per cent and probably is a fair index of the feeling generally among newspaper experts.

Prefer Track, Field

Most of those desirous of going to Los Angeles indicate a preference for the track and field sports, blue ribbon feature of the Olympics, but the varied appeal of the international program of events is indicated.

On a "if and when" basis, a Dempsey-Schmeling fight for the world heavyweight championship, is the second choice. Fifteen would rather see the old "man mauler" in action than anything else.

The world series of baseball is preferred by eight others, among them one who would like most to see John McGraw's Giants and Connie Mack's Athletics meet again after a long interval.

Kentucky Derby Appeals

The Kentucky derby appeals to four observers as the most attractive event, especially if Top Flight, the white horse favorite, runs at Churchill Downs.

Various features of the 1932 football season are attractive to six others, including the next Notre Dame-Southern California game, the Army-Naval renewal and even the Rose Bowl encounter, which takes place in the first day of 1932.

Preferences in golf are hinged upon a possible return of Bob Jones to competition this year.

Three Duels Planned for Feb. 20; So Shift One Meet to Friday

Three Hawkeye athletic duels on the same day has caused a shuffling of the cards originally, a swimming meet and track meet with Minnesota, and a basketball game with Indiana had been scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 20.

The change made moves the tank meet up to Friday night before Feb. 19, leaving just the basketball game and track affair for the Saturday events.

Managers May Sign for Heavyweight Go at Conference Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Joe Jacobs and Johnny Buckley, managers of a couple of pieces of expensive fistie bric-a-brac, went into a long huddle today in an effort to reach an agreement on terms for a heavyweight championship bout here in June between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey.

After a couple of hours of conversation it was announced the official signing for the match tentatively had been fixed for one o'clock tomorrow.

Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, said the principal difficulties still to be overcome so far as he was concerned, were financial terms. He indicated he was not yet satisfied with the terms offered.

New Old Gold

Ralph Martin of Traer, who has recently joined the freshman tracksters, brings with him a record of athletic accomplishment from high school.

With the pole vault as his specialty, Martin garnered four letters in track and captained the team as a sophomore. In addition he won three letters each in basketball and football, captaining the football team in his junior year.

Martin won the state pole vaulting championship last year and the year before, establishing and bettering the record with each win. His record is 12 feet 5 1/2 inches.

In his junior year Martin also won the state javelin title.

Last year he captured second place in the pole vault at the National Interscholastic track and field meet at Stagg field, Chicago. His height this time was the best of his career, 12 feet 5 3/4 inches.

For the last three years Ralph has won the pole vault in the Cedar Falls invitation meet and holds the record of 12 feet.

He also won the Iowa invitation indoor meet last year with a vault of 12 feet 8 inches.

Since coming to the university Martin has earned a numeral in football showing himself as a promising linesman.

He also occasionally ventured forth on the track and has to show for his efforts a second place in the mile relay at the Drake relays.

Martin is 18 years old, stands 5 feet 9 inches tall, and weighs 170 pounds.

Television in Beginning of Great Future

Professor Potter Tells Rotarians of Late Developments

"The day is not far off when television will broadcast complete scenes, for it presents limitations no greater than those of the early days of radio," said Prof. James L. Potter, instructor in electrical engineering before Rotarians yesterday noon, in quoting M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting company.

Professor Potter cited the problems upon which engineers are working for the perfection of television broadcast as increasing the size of the image, synchronizing the scanning discs of the broadcasting and receiving mechanisms, and changing from a peep-hole to a screen-viewing type of receiver.

New Field of Research

"The University of Iowa has become interested in television experimentation," Professor Potter explained, "because it is a new means of communication, because it affords a new field of research, and because as an educational institution, the engineering school must keep abreast with science."

According to statistics, four per cent of knowledge is received through the sense of taste and touch, 13 per cent through the ears, and 83 per cent through the eyes.

"By these statistics," the speaker said, "television may be calculated to increase the effectiveness of advertising as an educational institution, the engineering school must keep abreast with science."

Principle Learned in 1880

As early as 1880 a German experimenter recognized the principle of the basic method. A published account told of a proposed television instrument which was never realized because of a lack of equipment. Both Edison and Bell outlined methods of transmitting pictures, but did not have the use of the photo-electric cell or the neon lamp which are vital parts of the present-day instrument.

With lantern slides, Professor Potter explained the fundamentals of television. A projecting lamp is focused by a lens upon a portion of a scanning disc revolving at the rate of 900 revolutions per minute. The disc allows light to pass through it and into the photo-electric cell in proportion to the shading of the image being reproduced.

30,000 Impulses Per Second

An amplifier, attached to the photo-electric cell, which must receive impulses at the rate of 30,000 per second, feeds the impulses into the radio transmitter for broadcasting. The transmission of moving pictures requires 15 to 20 images to be broadcast per second. Though pictures broadcast on experimental instruments are generally four inches square, one company has broadcast images as large as 10 feet square.

In the receiving instrument, the scanning disc must be perfectly synchronized with that of the broadcasting mechanism in speed and size. A neon tube capable of flashing on and off at the rate of 30,000 times per second, comprises the essential part of the receiver. Ionization of the gas in the tube produces a red glow with the same principle employed as in neon signs. Flashings of the neon lamp vary in intensity with the shading of the broadcast image.

Dean Williams Present

Dean C. C. Williams, engineering college, introduced the speaker, who was assisted in his demonstration by Prof. E. B. Kutz, head of the electrical engineering department.

Guests at the luncheon were: Charles C. Carey of West Liberty, James K. Kuntz of Cedar Rapids, and Thomas S. Woods, James H. Isham, and Harry D. Henry, all of Iowa City.

Local Legion to Help Needy Iowa Citizens

Forced to suspend direct employment of needy Iowa citizens when two local banks closed Tuesday morning, the American Legion unemployment relief association yesterday began to concentrate on retrenching employment agency activities.

Early next week a drive will be started to bring the need for cooperation before Iowa City residents. Boy Scouts will distribute cards throughout the city, urging anyone with work to be done to notify the committee headquarters, phone 4321.

A meeting of the committee will be held either Monday or Tuesday to devise means of raising funds to carry on work on various civic enterprises at which 12 men were employed last week.

Several contributions expected this week from local organizations failed to materialize because of the bank closings, according to G. A. Kenderdine, secretary of the relief committee.

Court Holds Scott Guilty in Nebraska Trial for Robbery

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 21 (AP)—Jack Scott this afternoon was convicted of participating in the $800 Denton bank robbery in 1930 by a district court jury. It was his second conviction on the charge. The state supreme court held evidence at his trial when he was sentenced to 20 years in prison, was insufficient and granted him a new trial.

The maximum sentence on the charge is 25 years. Scott has three days in which to file a motion for a new trial and the time will not be passed until the time elapses.

Forrest Holtzclaw who confessed to the robbery and now is serving a 10 year prison sentence told the jury Scott blew open the bank's safe at night with nitroglycerine.

High School Pupils Give Doyle's Story at Assembly Meet

A stage adaptation of "The Adventure of the Mazarin Stone" by Arthur Conan Doyle, was presented at a general assembly yesterday morning at University high school. The story was arranged for stage production by Isabelle Smith and Donald Foerster, students at the high school and members of a special English class taught by M. F. Carpenter.

The cast of the play was: Dr. Watson, Kenyon Runner; Billy, Holmes' page boy, Wilfred Tapper; Sherlock Holmes, Elmer Hughes; Count Mylius, the crook, Kenneth Stearns; Sam Merton, the count's accomplice, Thomas Crumley; Lord Cantlemere, Holmes' client, Edwin McCollister.

The play was directed by Agnella Gunn, instructor, Isabelle Smith and Donald Foerster.

Car Licenses Net Johnson County Profit

After withdrawals by the state treasurer a balance of $104,319.09 remains in the Johnson county treasury from the sale of automobile licenses in 1931, announced Allen Harlock, head of the auto license department, yesterday.

A total of $171,486.25 was received by the local license department in 1931 and placed in local banks to the credit of the secretary of state and the state treasurer. Two and one-half per cent of this amount, was placed in a maintenance fund for the state motor vehicle department. One per cent, or $1,714.86, was given to the secretary of state with which to pay general expenses and refunds from the primary road fund.

After withdrawal of $152,598.41 by the state in monthly installments and after the various percentages were deducted the balance was placed in the primary road fund. The state treasurer reserves the right by law to draw upon each county according to the amount in their possession. The county treasurer is required to keep a sufficient amount of money on hand to honor these drafts on presentation.

In Johnson county in 1931 there was received 10,617 car registrations from which the county was permitted to retain $5,258.50 or a fee of 50 cents per registration. This amount was set aside for the expenses required for the registration of motor vehicles.

Sales for the month of December, 1931, being the month in which the bulk of sales are made, were $114,381.75. Previous sales for the same month in 1930 were $107,651.75, showing an increase of $6,730.00 in 1931.

Night Trains Continue Run Temporarily

IOWA FALLS, Jan. 21 (AP)—The state railway board in a hearing today decided against the removal of the Rock Island night train between Cedar Rapids and Sioux Falls, S. D.

It was announced, however, that the train, No. 419, will operate under a revised schedule leaving Cedar Rapids at 1:45 a. m. and arriving in Estherville at 8 a. m.

The board members said two-day trains between Cedar Rapids and Estherville will be continued until they have further time to consider applications of the railroad for permission to discontinue the service.

Numerous protests were received by the board from communities along the line after the railroad announced its intention to abandon the night train. Representatives of the road agreed to continue the service pending today's hearing.

Campaign of Democrats to Open in City

Johnson county Democrats will put their campaign machinery in motion at a luncheon meeting of the central committee in the American Legion Community building Saturday noon.

Harry Shulman, who will be chairman of the meeting, announced yesterday that invitations had been extended to members of the central committee and to Democratic city and county officials. All Democrats were urged to be present.

Several Democrats will address the meeting on the problems of the 1932 campaign. The speakers have not been chosen, but it was indicated that someone prominent in the state Democratic organization would be asked to speak, in addition to local leaders.

Court Registration Conduct at University Schools

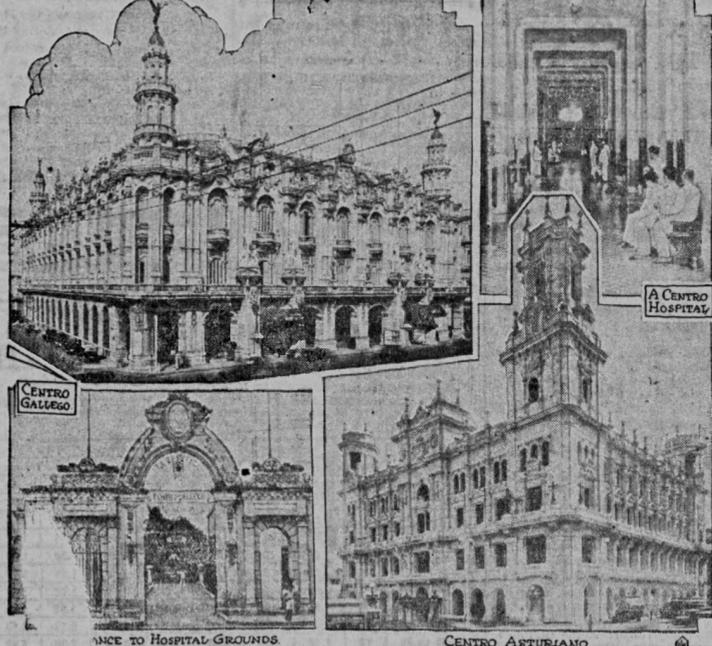

Registration for next semester at the University high school and elementary school is being conducted this week. Fees may be paid next week, according to Harry K. Newburn, principal.

A demonstration of the various rules in high school basketball will be given by boys of the twelfth grade today at 8:40 a. m. in the high school assembly. Bob McCloy is chairman of the committee in charge.

Senate Approves Award

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Plingham resolution to authorize President Hoover to award gold medals to Wiley Post and Harold Gatty for their record setting round the world flight was approved today by the senate commerce committee.

A Leaf From Cuba's Book

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A swift analysis of conditions that prevail in these United States today, with its shuffling, patient breadlines, motley armies of "hunger-marchers" and hordes of mendicants, brings home to the most dull-witted that what this country needs is not, as a famous statesman once said, "a good five-cent cigar," but a scheme that will not only remedy the present trouble, but prevent a recurrence.

All kinds of plans have been proposed, even the ignominious dose system of Great Britain, but so far none has been found practical. But while our statesmen and social workers have been seeking inspiration from Europe and building up theories, it is just possible that they have been overlooking a good bet in not studying the manner in which Cuba handles its health problems. With slight variations, the scheme might possibly be made over to insure not only against ill health, but also against the conditions we are up against today.

Cuba sells protection against illness at two dollars a month to nearly one-ninth of the entire population of the country. The idea is not new, as it originated years before Cuba won its independence from Spain. The plan is worked through a series of clubs, called Centros, membership in which guarantees free medical attention and dental treatment, examinations, medicine and surgical operations in the various clinics or hospitals of the particular club of which one is a member.

But most visitors are not aware of what these centros really accomplish. Their clinics are the most up-to-date in the world, with medical staffs of 20 or 30 surgeons, and are usually located in a beautiful setting on the outskirts of the city.

Should a member's illness necessitate a trip abroad, his expenses are paid plus a weekly indemnity for a period of twelve months. Should he contract a disease such as cancer or tuberculosis, he is taken care of for the balance of his life at one of the special sanitariums maintained by the centros for the purpose.

Not only that. For his regular monthly dues of two dollars, each member receives life insurance, can educate his children in the schools maintained by the centros and can avail himself of the club's banking facilities — not to mention the enjoyment to be derived in the social activities of the largest clubs and membership in the strongest organization of Cubans who take advantage of the plan is about 400,000.

Americans who have visited these clubs are amazed at their splendor. They are comparable to the royal palaces of Europe or to any other buildings in the world, for that matter. The visitor always comes away asking himself how they can possibly do so much for $2 a month.

It seems reasonable to suppose, to the layman anyway, that this old Cuban custom might be remodeled to cope with the problem of unemployment as well as sickness. The plan cannot in any sense be regarded as a variation of the dose system. It is purely a form of insurance that has been well tested as it applies to health. Its unqualified success in that field entitles it to a trial in the battle that is now raging against destitution.

Iowa Farm Bureau Delegates Hear Proposals for "Return to Honest Dollar" at Meeting

DES MOINES, Jan. 21 (AP)—Four suggestions looking to a "return to the honest dollar," the securing of a "normal supply of available money," and the effecting of a "sound and sufficient expansion of credit" tonight were laid before voting delegates to the Iowa Farm Bureau federation convention.

These proposals were among more than 50 recommendations, including several referring to marketing, taxation, credits, and other propositions suggested for relieving "grave agricultural conditions," which will be voted on at the closing sessions Friday.

Explain Proposals

The four suggested measures are: (1) "We call on the Federal Reserve board and the governors of the Federal Reserve banks to purchase government securities in large volume and thus lay the ground work of the credit expansion which the present $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction corporation so clearly contemplates."

(2) "We urge on President Hoover the advisability of calling an international monetary conference to consider international action of re-nationalizing silver either by the method of bimetalism or symmetrism as may seem most practical."

(3) "We urge special attention to carrying out the monetary resolution providing for 'reversing the process of deflation' to the point where general prices are returned to the average price level at which the present long-time indebtedness was incurred and stabilizing them there."

(4) "We urge the desirability in all measures of this sort for expanding the financial resources of the federal land banks and launching the emergency Credit corporation) that they not only take out the frozen assets of the insurance companies and banks but also of furnishing a "fictive credit for the agricultural west and south."

Eradicate T. B.

Another suggestion made by the committee to the delegates re-affirmed the stand of the federation for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis. Regarding roads, the committee concluded that: "An expansion of our paving program is unwise under prevailing conditions."

The paving designated in the constitutional amendment submitted to and approved by the voters of Iowa should be completed as rapidly as possible.

"County primary road bonds be retired on or before their due dates and that refunding be avoided unless necessitated by statutory limitations."

Taxation

On taxation, the committee expressed its opinion that "ability to pay be the true basis for taxation" and recommended a study "of the machinery to administer the income tax and the necessary changes in our assessment to bring about a more equitable distribution of the general property tax burden."

Among the other resolutions proposed by a committee including A. V. Brandt, Sanborn, J. H. Anderson of Winnebago county, Julius Lensch of Shelby county, and Mrs. O. E. Milner of Mt. Pleasant, were the following, which commended: "The 'fine leadership' of the federation's farm women."

The activities of the federation's insurance department.

The service company of the body. The cooperation of labor "in our efforts to solve our mutual problems to maintain a reasonable standard of living."

Governor Dan W. Turner for his "conscientious and consistent efforts to carry out the mandate committed to him by the electorate of our commonwealth" and for his leadership in "remedial tax revision," "judicious retrenchment" and "economy in the business of government" and for "maintenance of law and order."

Funeral Sunday for King C. Toohy at North Liberty

Funeral service for King C. Toohy, former Johnson county resident, who died Wednesday morning at Carthage, Mo., will be held Sunday at the Methodist church at North Liberty, with the Rev. A. M. Smith in charge. Burial will be in the North Liberty cemetery.

The body will arrive in Iowa City this morning and will be held at the Oathous funeral home until the time of the service.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. Olive Files of North Liberty, and Mrs. Maude Ewing of Gardner, Kan., two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Lind of Chicago, and Mrs. Maggie Stoner, a twin sister, of Iowa City. Six grandchildren and one great grandchild also survive.

Iowans Name Candidates for Congressmen

DES MOINES, Jan. 21 (AP)—Political interest in Iowa today centered on the congressional race, with developments involving two present congressmen.

Representative Charles E. Swanson of Council Bluffs, Republican, took out nomination papers to seek reelection in the new seventh district. The Democratic nomination in the district already has three aspirants.

At Burlington, Max A. Conrad, attorney, announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination to congress from the first district. Conrad opposed the Republican incumbent, Representative W. F. Kopp in the election two years ago.

Others who took out nomination papers included: for state senator—Howard Ballew of Moulton, Republican; T. W. Killon of Centerville, Democrat; Ora E. Husted of Truro, Republican; for state representative—J. E. Craven of Kellogg, Democrat; and A. S. Beary of Albion, Democrat.

Champ Cattle Carload Nets Winner Profit

DENVER, Jan. 21 (AP)—The grand champion carload of feeder cattle exhibited today in the national western stock show brought $15.50 a hundredweight, or 50 cents a hundred more than the 1931 price.

A champion carload was raised by Fred C. De Bernard and sold to John D. Moehler of Schleswig, Ia., who said he would fatten them on his farm and exhibit them in the international exposition at Chicago. Last year Moehler bought a carload of De Bernard's Herefords and won first prize in the Chicago exhibit.

First prize Hereford yearling steers, shown by Peavy brothers of Steamboat Springs, Col., were sold to Cobb and company of Sioux City, Ia.

John Turin of Kiron, Ia., bought the reserve grand champion carload of feeder cattle, exhibited by the Banning-Lewis ranches of Colorado Springs.

Deny Rehearing for Woman Acquitted of Poisoning Husband

DES MOINES, Jan. 21 (AP)—The state today was denied a rehearing on the state supreme court's opinion reversing the conviction of Thida Miner of Olin in connection with the poison death of her husband.

The court sustained a defense motion to strike out the state's petition. In the previous opinion the higher court had held that the district court judge erred in instructions to the jury which tried Mrs. Miner.

Young Man Kills Girl, Shoots Self

EDGE MOUNT, S. Dak., Jan. 21 (AP)—Jealousy was believed the motive for the slaying today of a high school girl by a young man who later killed himself.

Officers said John Vivian, 22, had kept company with Belva Petro, 18, but that she recently seemed less attentive. Today he waited her return from school. Police said he shot as she entered her home and then went to his living quarters to shoot himself.

Attorneys File Eight Suits in District Court

Power Company Sued for Utility Stock by Mrs. Brock

With today bringing the last day for filing suit petitions for the February term of district court, Iowa City attorneys filed eight suits yesterday afternoon with Walter J. Barrow, clerk of the district court.

Mrs. George F. Brock, through her attorneys, Messer and Nolan, is suing the United Power securities, the United Light and Power company, and the Iowa City Light and Power company for 10 shares of utility stock. She states that on Sept. 30 she purchased 10 shares of stock and gave a check on a local bank in return. The bank closed Oct. 3 and Mrs. Brock was notified Oct. 21 that her check was tied up in clearing. She asks that the court grant her the 10 shares of stock, which were not given her upon date of purchase.

Van Dyke vs. Kook

Evalyn Van Dyke is suing Juanita Naomi Zook for $2,500 damages as a result of being struck by a car driven by the defendant. The plaintiff, through her attorney, Kenneth Dunlop, states that the accident occurred last month while she was crossing an alley between Davenport and Fairchild street on Dubuque street. The Zook car was going north on Dubuque. It turned into the alley striking the plaintiff and knocking her to the ground. Plaintiff was going north on Dubuque at the time of the accident.

Suit for Divorce

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, Lillian Sterrett filed application for divorce from A. J. Sterrett. She asks absolute divorce, $100 attorney's fee, and the custody of their minor child, Ruth Sterrett. She is represented by C. B. Russell.

Five Collection Suits

Five suits for collection judgments were filed. They are: Timothy Cogan vs. A. B. Murphy et al, promissory note of $3,850. Ed L. O'Connor represents Mr. Cogan. Ed L. O'Connor vs. Henry King, $200 services rendered. Mr. O'Connor will be his own attorney. E. D. Carl vs. George and Julia Crawford, $685.79 promissory note. E. L. O'Connor represents Mr. Carl. James A. Hennessey vs. Frank and Mary Michael, asks $2,717.50 indebtedness resulting from real estate sales. E. L. O'Connor represents the plaintiff. Regina Schneider vs. David Ellis James et al, promissory note of $4,006. J. M. Otto represents the plaintiff.

No Freezing Weather

Freezing points in Iowa City thermometers have not been touched since Tuesday night. The lowest mark registered Wednesday night was 39 degrees. At 7 a. m. yesterday the pointer showed 44 degrees. During the day there was only a one point rise and at 7 p. m. the mercury had dropped to 35 degrees.

Funeral Rites at 9 A. M. Tomorrow for A. B. Frisbie

Funeral service for A. B. Frisbie, former Iowa City resident who died Wednesday at 6 p. m. at Racine, Wis., will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at St. Mary's church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. The body will be brought to the Hohenschuh mortuary this morning.

Mr. Frisbie was the father of Mrs. George J. Keller, wife of George J. Keller, manager of the Iowa Water Service company, of 221 S. Lucas street, and of Mrs. Robert Beffel of Racine. He was the grandfather of Cora and William Morrison of Iowa City, and of Ethel and Georgine and Jack Keller, children of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Keller, and of Robert Beffel, Jr., of Racine.
