China Bombs Japs as War Rages in East

Jap Troops Hurry to North; Defenders Hold Ground

BULLETIN
TOKYO, Feb. 26 (AP)—The cabinet approved an extraordinary appropriation of 22,000,000 yen (currently $7,040,000) today to meet additional military expenses in connection with the Japanese expedition to Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 26 (AP)—Friday—Japanese army officers said today at noon they had surrounded Kiangwan by capturing Chinese positions immediately northwest of that village on the battle front here. This opened the way for their encircling movement. Observers received the claims with reservations.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 26 (AP)—Artillery punished first one side, then the other as intense fighting went on today in the Kiangwan sector and around Chapel between the Chinese army and the fighters of Japan.

Steadily by their success in recovering from a rout and gaining back by desperate fighting much of the ground that had been lost when the Japanese smashed the line north of Kiangwan, the Chinese turned a vicious artillery bombardment of the Japanese strongholds in Hongkew park.

Shell for Shell
Japanese guns answered shell for shell. At dawn they were doing most of the firing, for Chinese ammunition was running low and gunners had orders to use it sparingly.

The two armies battled for hours without advantage to either side. Machine guns kept up an unbroken hubbub.

Each side said its fire was inflicting heavy casualties upon the enemy, while it was suffering slightly. The Japanese said they had suffered less than 100 casualties. The Chinese said their losses were negligible.

Casualty Count Lacking
A reliable count of the casualties was lacking, but it seemed today under the apparently everlasting hail of shells and bullets that both were suffering sharply.

The Japanese managed to cling to most of their gains of yesterday excepting Miaochungchen, despite the Chinese counter attack. As a result of their advance the Mikado's men said they held the village of Kingchao, a mile northwest of Kiangwan.

Occupation Complete
Occupation of Miaochungchen, which had been disputed for several days, was completed late Thursday by the Japanese when they broke the line, but the Chinese announced early today they had succeeded in clearing the last Japanese out of that village.

The Japanese left flank between Kiangwan and Chapel launched an offensive which resulted in slight gains.

The ammunition problem was beginning to worry General Tsai Ting-kai, commander of the Chinese nineteenth route army, who told friends that he had less than a fortnight's supply on hand.

Iowa Congressmen Discuss Plans to Put Steam Under Brookhart Farm Relief Bill

Among the major provisions of Brookhart's bill, which seeks to amend the agricultural marketing act, are:

Stabilization Plans
Organization of stabilization cooperatives for corn, wheat, cotton, oats and livestock to take over the functions of the stabilization corporations.

Authorizing the farm board to sell the total exportable surplus of corn,

39,812 Unemployed Receive Positions; Wisconsin in Lead

Darrow Will Likely Aid in Hawaii Case

Lawyer Thinks of Own Health; Speaks for Self Alone

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—Clarence Darrow, criminal lawyer, said tonight he "very likely" would go to Honolulu to help defend Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three other women facing charges of second degree murder.

Final Decision Not Made
He added, however, that he had not decided definitely whether to join the defense counsel for Mrs. Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Masie and two naval enlisted men charged with slaying a Hawaiian.

He probably would be able to announce a final decision tomorrow, he said.

"A number of things I have to consider," he said, "My health, for one thing."

Darrow Speaks for Self
Mr. Darrow said he was speaking for himself alone, and that the matter was not being considered jointly by him and Dudley Field Malone, international lawyer, also invited to join in Mrs. Fortescue's defense.

"Of course, I'd be glad to have him in the case, though," Mr. Darrow added.

Mr. Darrow and Mr. Malone had a conference this afternoon concerning the case.

John Chipera Dies After Brief Illness; Life-Long Resident

John Chipera, 78, long time resident of Iowa City, died at his home at 1014 Friendly avenue, yesterday at 7:10 a. m., after a short illness.

Mr. Chipera was born in Bohemia, Nov. 30, 1853, and came to Iowa City when he was four years old.

He is survived by five daughters: Mrs. Mary Vrana of Palo, Mrs. Amelia Thomas, Mrs. Anna Yeslinek, Mrs. Elizabeth Hawthorn, and Mrs. Agnes Skriver, all of Iowa City. Eighteen grandchildren and five great grandchildren also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed. The body is at the Hohenschuh mortuary.

Spring Makes Early Entrance Into Iowa With Warm Weather

DES MOINES, Feb. 25 (AP)—Spring birds and buds—along with golf and overcast promenade—put in an appearance in Iowa today as a concomitant of abnormally high temperatures.

In Des Moines clear skies and bright sunshine sent thermometers up to 62 degrees, the highest of the year, and two degrees above the reading on Feb. 19.

Several parts of the state reported new high readings.

Attorney Gives Report
DES MOINES, (AP)—Ross Mowry, United States district attorney, said that a national report of the prohibition bureau showed that 29,807 persons were sent to jails or penitentiaries during the six months ending Dec. 31, 1931, on liquor charges from evidence developed by federal prohibition agents.

WEATHER
IOWA—Fair Friday and probably Saturday; moderate temperature.

Crowley Will Delay Choice Another Day

Grid Mentor to Decide on Iowa Position Tomorrow

Jimmy Crowley's decision "to be or not to be" Iowa's next head football coach will be made tomorrow morning, Crowley told Associated Press correspondents at East Lansing, Mich., late yesterday.

The delay was granted Crowley by the Iowa athletic board at a special meeting yesterday and relayed by Dean Chester Phillips who is waiting at Jackson, Mich., to complete negotiations with the Michigan State mentor. Crowley was supposed to have given the board his answer today.

Asks More Time
Crowley's final decision will culminate a week's negotiations with Iowa officials. He said his answer would be ready in 48 hours but after conferences with President Robert C. Shaw of Michigan State, who requested that he delay his final answer, he asked for more time.

The delay and the conferences were taken to indicate that officials at the Michigan school are doing all in their power to keep Crowley.

50-50 Chance
Chances of Iowa's signing Crowley are regarded by those on the "inside" as about "50-50," but the delay indicates that the Hawkeye offer must be exceptionally attractive if he makes the change.

Body Inspects Long's Books

Special Commission Examines Record of Claims

DES MOINES, Feb. 25 (AP)—Records of claims approved by the board of audit were scrutinized today as a special appointive commission began an investigation of State Auditor J. W. Long's accounts.

The commission, which is headed by former Governor B. F. Carroll, also received from the auditor's office county examiners' reports made in 1931, which it will consider later.

Turns Material Over
Long turned the material over to the commission and assured the three members of his cooperation at their first conference since organizing.

Gov. Dan Turner appointed the commission after receiving a report in which Attorney General John Fletcher and Budget Director Oscar Anderson alleged the auditor had overcharged the state in connection with expenses while on state trips.

Will Summon Witnesses
Carroll said the commission has not determined whether open hearings will be held but indicated that witnesses will be summoned later.

Other members of the investigating body are F. J. Harrigan of Des Moines and F. W. Strung of Grinnell.

House to Act on Sales Tax Bill in Week

Garner Says Revenue Bill Only Way to Obtain Money

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The new revenue bill, designed to balance the federal budget of 1933 and impose a limited sales tax, is expected to be completed and ready for house action within a fortnight.

The plans of the Democratic-controlled ways and means committee to finish drafting the bill within a week or ten days were made known today by Speaker Garner.

Not Yet Approved
Although the committee has not formally approved the sales tax plan, he said, it has gone over the potential sources of revenue "with a fine tooth comb" and found that a levy of this sort is the only means of obtaining all the money the treasury needs.

Secretary Mills estimated that $1,241,000,000 more than the present law will yield would be needed in the next fiscal year to operate the government on a non-borrowing basis. The committee has agreed on increases in individual and corporate income, inheritance and other taxes to raise about $450,000,000, $800,000,000 Needed

Garner said that $800,000,000 was needed instead of the $400,000,000 expected to be raised through excise taxes originally recommended by the treasury. The committee, he explained, is convinced the sales tax

Cobb Reports Replacement of State Funds

Says Ingham Supplied Funds Withdrawn by McChesney

W. J. McChesney, former university treasurer, has not yet officially accounted for $8,000 withdrawn from the permanent endowment fund of the University of Iowa in equal amounts on Aug. 4 and Aug. 11 of 1931.

This was revealed yesterday by W. H. Cobb, university auditor.

The money, however, has been replaced in the account by Harvey Ingham, editor of the Des Moines Register and McChesney's brother-in-law, Mr. Cobb explained.

University Loss Negligible
With the return of these funds the university's loss in the recent failure of the First National bank has been reduced to a negligible amount, Auditor Cobb said. All funds were secured by government bonds which have now been liquidated. Certain farm mortgages in the investment account have fallen behind in interest payments, he declared, but predicted that no loss would be involved in the event foreclosure becomes necessary.

The $8,000 withdrawal from the investment account known as the permanent endowment fund of the university was checked by Cobb when he became deputy treasurer Jan. 5 of this year. He immediately asked McChesney, retiring treasurer for evidence of its investment.

McChesney Explains
McChesney's explanation was that he had used the money on pending investments for the benefit of the university.

When over a period of a week McChesney had deferred producing a report of his use of the money, Cobb referred the matter to the board of education finance committee.

The committee in turn reported the proceedings to Attorney General John Fletcher and Governor Dan Turner.

Ingham placed the $8,000 to the university's credit Jan. 15.

Volunteers Continue to Drag Iowa River for Body of Victim

Search for the body of Ray Will, 49, who jumped into the Iowa river from the Iowa avenue bridge Sunday afternoon, will be continued this morning, Fire Chief Herman Amish, who is in charge of the search, said last night.

Approximately 20 volunteers have been searching the river bottom from the Iowa avenue bridge to the dam with grappling hooks and drags. Four row boats and two motor boats are being used in the search.

Will, a former Cheesecake banker and farmer, came to Iowa City about three weeks ago as a patient at psychopathic hospital.

'If You Asked Me, I'd Say--'

(Editor's note: Each day The Daily Iowan will ask several students, picked at random, for their opinion on some question of current interest. Their replies, together with the question asked, will be published. Today's question, with student expression, appears below.)

Do you think a university or college should require strict class attendance?

"I am opposed to enforced class attendance because it tends to make the student lax in studying and thinking for himself. In the days of the early university students were not compelled to go to classes and the result was more individual thinking and experimenting. In European universities today a similar system is employed, giving the student opportunity to evolve his own ideas or subjects in the curriculum. I prefer this plan to the tendency of American students who are forced to attend classes and accept without argument the edicts of professors."

—Robert E. Adamson, A3 of Michigan City, Ind.

"The classroom is designed to contribute a considerable portion of a student's education, and I, therefore, believe in the required attendance rule. Professor's lectures must be reckoned with in the American schools as helpful, and supplementary to text book material. A professor often helps a discouraged student who otherwise might drop from school, especially in the case of freshmen. European schools can only operate without required attendance at classes because students there are more mature than they are in this country."

—Pauline Wheeler, A1 of Burlington.

"I think strict class attendance is unnecessary. The reason for this is because most of the young men and women here at the university realize that they are here for work and do not need to be compelled to attend classes regularly. Making such an act necessary would prove to only plead the question and would cause more of an antagonistic feeling on the part of the students. As long as a student can keep up on the necessary school work required and still pass his examinations should be sufficient proof that he is getting the things from his university life that are necessary."

—Stanton U. Taylor, J1 of Bloomfield.

"In my opinion the enforced class attendance rule, where the student injures his record by cutting, is wrong. If all classes outside of the professional schools were conducted in an interesting manner students wouldn't have to be compelled to attend. In cases where courses are of such a nature that a student can pass a satisfactory final examination by studying on the outside and attending class at will, the benefit to him is more profitable."

—Clem J. Cusack, C4 of Iowa City.

"There must be a strict class attendance rule in order to uphold the standards of education for the entire student body. Students who could get by without listening to professors and following daily assignments would utterly waste the time that should be spent profitably in the classroom."

—Carl F. Damerow, D4 of Vero Beach, Fla.

Supporters of Garner Check Campaign in Nebraska

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—A "stop-Hoover movement with Clifford Pinchot at its center became a possibility today and meanwhile supporters of Speaker Garner for the Democratic presidential nomination made further efforts to curtail activities in his behalf.

Gov. Pinchot discussed with Senators Borah, Idaho; Johnson, California; Cutting, New Mexico, and Nye, North Dakota, all Republican independents, a campaign to prevent Mr. Hoover's renomination.

Pinchot May Run
From these discussions came indications the Pennsylvania Republican was seriously considering entering the race. Both Borah and Johnson, who have been frequent opponents of Hoover policies, have been mentioned as possible candidates. It was indicated Pinchot also urged them to join the pre-convention contest, but received no promises.

On the Democratic side of the picture, Representative Rayburn (D. Tex.), urged Nebraska Democrats to leave Garner's name out of the primary there and indicated the same procedure would be followed in California where a slate of delegates pledged to the speaker is under consideration.

Garner Not Active
Rayburn already had sought unsuccessfully the withdrawal from the Georgia primary of Judge G. H. Howard, a Garner supporter.

The Texas representative, a leader of the Garner forces, reiterated today that the speaker was not an active candidate, but said he would take the nomination if offered.

Helps Roosevelt's Chance
This was taken to mean that Garner would not personally consent to filing in any primaries, where consent was required, but would let the volunteer forces go ahead and place him in a strategic position in the event of a convention deadlock.

A lively contest had been contemplated in California between Garner and Roosevelt and possibly Smith, but the new move by the speaker's forces has, in the opinion of Roosevelt's friends, increased considerably the empire state governor's chances on the Pacific coast.

Murray Gets Slight Injury

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 25 (AP)—Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma and three other persons in an automobile enroute from Ft. Wayne to Indianapolis, were bruised and shaken up tonight when the car left the road near Alexandria.

The accident delayed the governor's arrival to address a political meeting here until 9 p. m. and kept a crowd of approximately 7,000 waiting.

In the automobile with Murray were Jack Edwards, mayor of Marion, Ind.; Edward Semans, Oklahoma City, manager of Murray's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, and the driver, Roy Collins.

Dr. White Dead at Olin
Dr. J. A. White, 92, who practiced medicine in the town of Olin for 50 years, died here yesterday of heart trouble following influenza. He was an alumnus of the University of Iowa and the Rush medical school.

Disarmament Conference Unanimously Elects Ruler for Measuring Armaments

GENEVA, Feb. 25 (AP)—The world disarmament conference unanimously selected a ruler today to measure armaments in its future negotiations, and turned down a Russian plan for general and total disarmament.

The ruler is the draft convention of the preliminary disarmament commission, but the inch, caliber, ton, and man power marks carved in it in 1930 by the pre-conference negotiators are rather vague and dim.

Russian Makes Plea
The resolution to make the draft convention a basis of discussion was adopted on the motion of Sir John Simon, the British delegate after Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian, had made a futile plea for his total armament scrapping plan.

The day was not without a strategic victory for Andre Tardieu, the new French premier, who gained approval of his proposal to appoint a special political commission to deal with security and arming of the League of Nations.

Show of Fight
There was a show of fight when Tardieu first broached his suggestion. He coupled with it a project to set up three commissions on effectives, material, and expenditures, to take the place of the League secretariat's plan to organize the conference into commissions on land, naval, aerial and expenditures questions.

Judge Decides Iowa Debate Team Better

Gives Decision to Side of Affirmative in India Question

Upholding the affirmative of the question, "Shall Great Britain grant immediate independence to India?" the University of Iowa's women's debating team was awarded the decision by Prof. C. C. Cunningham, school of speech, Northwestern university, following the Iowa-Minnesota debate held in natural science auditorium last night.

Better adaptation to the issues of the debate and superior presentation were the bases upon which Professor Cunningham awarded the decision to the Iowa team, composed of Elizabeth Portia Hahn, A3 of Coffeyville, Kan.; Elinor Cherny, A4 of Independence; and Josephine Ball, A4 of Fairfield. The Minnesota speakers were Lenore Wolf, Dorothy Paulson and Edna Hanson.

Cherny Opens Affirmative

The affirmative case, opened by Miss Cherny, contended that the whole history of England in India was one of self-aggrandizement and terrorism. Miss Hahn further asserted that India is ready to govern itself, while Miss Ball concluded the constructive case of the affirmative by maintaining that independence for India would be beneficial to India, England, and to the world.

Miss Hanson, in opening the negative case, asserted that disunity in India would prevent its success as an independent nation. Miss Paulson showed that England is doing unqualified good in India today. That India could not successfully take its place in the international relations of the world today, was the concluding contention of the negative presented by Miss Wolf.

Reception for Speakers

The rebuttal arguments of the contesting teams resolved themselves around the same arguments, the affirmative pointing out more strongly that India is ready for and capable of self-government, while the negative continued to stress the inability of India to adjust itself to present-day conditions.

Following the debate a reception for the Minnesota debaters was held at Iowa Union, featuring a discussion of the debate by interested persons.

American Chemical Society Hears Talk by Professor Plant

"Studies on excretion of morphine in dogs, and their implications as regards tolerance to morphine" was the title of a lecture given by Prof. Oscar H. Plant before the Iowa section of the American Chemical society last night.

Professor Plant explained tolerance as a loss of effectiveness of certain drugs when administered repeatedly to some individuals, and which necessitates an increase of dosage. Addiction to morphine creates a quietude and the addicts fear suffering from lack of it, he said.

It has been the six year study of Professor Plant, assisted by Ira Pierce, research associate pharmacologist, to determine causes and results of tolerance of morphine. Since there is no fundamental difference in the effect of morphine between man and dog, they have experimented on dogs. The dogs are fed and given hypodermic morphine injections by routine. The excretions are analyzed to determine loss of morphine.

Professor Plant has found there is no essential difference between the excretions of tolerant and intolerant animals but a difference between the amount of morphine in the tissues. The next phase which he plans to study is the oxidation of morphine in the body.

Damage Suit Goes to Jury for Decision

The $34,750 damage suit of Myrtle Rogers against the Lagomarcino-Grupe company and Vernon M. Bolt went to the jury yesterday at 5:30 p.m.

The suit is the result of a head-on collision between a car in which Mrs. Rogers was riding and a Lagomarcino-Grupe truck, driven by Bolt. The accident occurred April 3, 1931, five miles south of Cedar Rapids on U. S. highway 161.

Mrs. Rogers, who received injuries in the crash, is represented by Will J. Hayek and Messer and Nolan. Defense attorneys are Dutcher, Walker, and Ries of Iowa City and Miller, Miller, and Miller of Des Moines.

Spring Weather Prevails

Bright sun and balmy winds of Iowa's warmest day in 1932 yesterday caused the residents of Iowa City to shed their overcoats and don spring apparel. Yesterday's highest temperature was 65 degrees, rising from 32 degrees at 7 a.m. At 7 p.m. it had dropped to 63 degrees.

Seven Taken Into Honor Medic Group

Honor Two Iowa City Students in Initiation Last Night

Seven senior medical students who were elected to membership in Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical fraternity, Dec. 17 were initiated at a formal ceremony last night at Iowa Union. They are: Charlotte Fisk of Iowa City, Adrian R. Annerberg of Carroll, Glenn S. Rost of Red Oak, Daniel W. Coughlan of Des Moines, Milton F. Klesau of Postville, Carroll C. Nelson of Essex, and Marion M. Marech of Iowa City.

A formal banquet on the support of Iowa Union preceded the initiation ceremony. Dr. Arlene M. Beal, who has been a medical missionary to India, spoke about her medical experiences.

Election to membership in the fraternity is based upon scholastic standing, character, and professional promise. Usually approximately 10 per cent of each class is chosen, election being held during the junior year and another during the senior year.

Dr. John T. McClintock, junior dean of the college of medicine, is the present counselor of the local chapter, which was organized on the University of Iowa campus in 1920.

Cleason Beckwith of Corning, Otto Bettag of Iowa City, and Kenneth M. Brinkhouse of Medvelville were the other members of the present graduating class in medicine who were elected to Alpha Omega Alpha during their junior year and initiated last spring.

Mooseheart Legion Women Give Party

Mrs. Laurence Yarnish and Victor Oliva won high scores in bridge and Laurence Yarnish and Ida Seydel received low score.

Games of cards were played at 10 tables. Mrs. Florence Kohl and Mrs. Libbie Parizek were in charge of the party. The fourth in the series will take place next Thursday.

Liabon Man Sues Baker for $25,000

MUSCATINE, Feb. 25 (AP)—L. A. Leibaugh of Lisbon, today filed a suit for $25,000 damages against Norman Baker of Muscatine. He alleges that Baker injured his good name and held him up to public ridicule in a letter to H. E. Wait of Garrison.

The action is said to be an aftermath of alleged difficulties arising in the ranks of the United Farm Federation of America of which Baker is secretary. Leibaugh was formerly temporary secretary.

Doctor Tells Court About Cancer Test

Baker Trial for Libel Will Continue Into Next Week

DAVENPORT, Feb. 25 (AP)—The prospect of night sessions of federal court in the libel suit brought by Norman Baker of Muscatine against the American Medical association was abandoned today when Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye announced that proceedings cannot be concluded this week.

Dr. E. M. Perdue of Kansas City, first expert witness introduced by Baker's attorneys in rebuttal testimony, was still under cross-examination when court adjourned for the day.

Blood Samples
In his testimony Dr. Perdue described the use of an electrical device which he said would determine the presence or absence of cancer in a sample of blood. He declared a homeopathic hospital in Philadelphia employs such a test when questioned by Attorney Edward M. Burke of the medical association.

"Can you use this machine to diagnose all diseases?" Judge Nordbye asked.

"All diseases that have been worked out so far," he replied, adding that ordinary surgery is not so desirable in treating skin cancer as electrical surgery.

One Successful Institution
Asked if he thought cancer should be treated by persons unskilled in medicine, Perdue said that as a doctor he liked to think that only a physician should treat it but declared that one institution in Oklahoma City had achieved success in effecting cures.

He qualified the statement by declaring that he had only visited the hospital for an hour or so at a time and had had no opportunity to verify the truth of reported cures but said the institution had been subjected to investigations by city and state boards of health and by the government.

Hypodermics
Dr. Perdue said he did not know by personal tests the effects of hypodermic injections in treating cancer and could not say what the ingredients were in injections given patients whom he had observed under such treatments.

Early today Mrs. Mary Turner, former employee at the Baker institute in Muscatine, said she had practically no medical knowledge. She declared she had given possibly 5,000 hypodermic injections to patients at the institute without knowing the nature of the liquid used.

Marshal Takes Gun From Baker

DAVENPORT, Feb. 25 (AP)—Fred S. Hirt of Des Moines, United States marshal, told reporters today that he had taken a .38 caliber automatic pistol from Norman Baker of Muscatine during a recess in the trial of Baker's $500,000 libel suit against the American Medical association.

He said he had noticed the gun in Baker's pocket and called him outside to question him about it. Baker showed a permit to carry a revolver issued by the sheriff of Muscatine county, he declared, but was told he could not carry the gun in the courtroom and gave it up.

Court officials declared the gun was loaded. It was returned to Baker following adjournment of court for the day with the warning that he would be detained if his action is repeated.

Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye announced today that the proceedings cannot be concluded this week and night sessions, announced previously, would not be held.

Tax Bill

is the best means of raising so large a sum.

Meanwhile, Secretary Mills submitted a draft of a sales tax bill to a sub-committee. He explained it was acceptable to but not sponsored by the treasury. It is estimated that a two per cent tax on selected manufactured products would yield $600,000,000.

Will Keep Foreign Tax Credits

Earlier the full committee decided upon the second of three administrative policies. It voted down a proposal to dispense with foreign tax credits because of the harmful

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 25 (AP)—The east side's "bloody corner" at Woodland avenue and East 110th street was turned into a shambles again late today as a gangland execution squad mowed down four men in a renewal of the Porello-Lonardo feud.

Raymond and Rosario Porello, members of the fast vanishing Porello clan which wrested its underworld barony from Big John and Big Joe Lonardo in 1927 in exactly the same manner, were killed outright—riddled with steel jacketed bullets.

Stocks Close Low, Indicate Little Change

Cut in Rediscout Rate Fools Wall Street Prophets

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—The stock market changed its mind frequently today, never coming to much of a conclusion. Final prices on the average were lower, but only fractionally so, and some pivotal issues closed firm. Volume reached the small total of 1,034,459 shares.

A cut in the New York Reserve bank's rediscout rate surprised many Wall Street prophets who had looked for no change until after final enactment of the Glass-Steagall bill. However, the recent action of government bonds has been pointing toward easier money and the financial community was not entirely unprepared for the cut.

Auburn's weakness in the morning—it broke 13 points to a new low after opening 1-2 higher—proved moderately upsetting during the first hour or so when many pivotal shares gave up 1 to 2. Full recovery ensued, but list sagged in the afternoon. This movement was checked just under the early lots and prices were advancing at the close.

U. S. Steel and American Can showed narrow net advances, although these and other gains were more than offset by losses in Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Allied Chemical, General Electric, Standard brands and Westinghouse. Union Carbide, confronted with a dividend reduction, lost a point but General Railway Signal, whose payment also was reduced, rallied. Rails were quiet. Auburn reduced its loss to 7 points net.

By cutting the rediscout rate the Central bank indicated that further withdrawals of foreign gold would leave no marks on this country's banking system.

Hazleton Man, Son Die in Collision on Rock Island Tracks

HAZLETON, Feb. 25 (AP)—E. H. Kiefer, 61, and his father, Jacob Kiefer, 83, were killed today at the angling crossing near here when a Rock Island motor coach struck the automobile the younger man was driving.

It is believed the driver of the automobile did not see the approaching locomotive.

The elder man, who was once a Buchanan county supervisor and the last Civil war veteran in Hazleton, lived with a daughter here. E. H. Kiefer, a farmer near here, is survived by his widow and four children.

effect such a move might have on American export trade.

The committee approved a plan to stop up loopholes in this provision, to prevent American concerns with subsidiaries abroad from making reductions in their corporate tax payments on losses in foreign countries. The treasury experts estimated this would bring in about $6,000,000 annually.

Tomorrow the group will consider modification of the capital gains and loss provision of the income tax.

Every Product Taxed
Representative Snell of New York, the Republican leader, said that when the new tax bill is completed the cost of maintaining the "luxury of modern government" would be firmly impressed on the nation.

"In order to get money enough to balance the budget and operate the government on a sound financial basis," he said, "every man and practically every known product will have to be taxed."

Communists Disrupt Meet of Reichstag

Bruening Defends Own Foreign Policy on Reparations

BERLIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—The strains of the "Internationale" from the throats of enthusiastic communist deputies today broke up the Reichstag for the third successive day, but not until Chancellor Bruening had completed an impassioned defense of his foreign policy.

The chancellor wove his defense around his statement to Horace Rumbold, the British ambassador, in January.

Sticks to Views
"I gave plainly and clearly the German government's view in that statement," he declared, "and I adhere to it now as I did then."

In January Bruening said he would inform the world at the Lausanne Reparations conference that Germany was no longer able to pay reparations and would be unable to do so indefinitely.

Although the stormy Nazis of Adolph Hitler had been involved in the two previous uproarious suspensions of the Reichstag it was the communists alone who forced a short halt today, and two of them were ejected when the session was resumed.

Domestic Difficulties
The day was filled with domestic difficulties so far as the Reichstag was concerned except for Bruening's address, and the excitement was heightened elsewhere when the Austrian-born fascist leader Hitler, became a German citizen eligible for the presidency. He was appointed councillor to the Berlin legation of the state of Brunswick, which automatically established him as a citizen.

This was one of the many attempts made recently to enfranchise Hitler, who lost his Austrian citizenship by fighting for Germany in the World war.

Four Presidential Candidates

Hitler is one of four candidates in the field and will head the national socialist ticket. President Hindenburg, Theodore Duestenberg, the nationalist, and Ernest Thaelmann, the communist, are the others.

Thus presidential politics had been constantly and furiously injected into the Reichstag debates of the past three days, and today Chancellor Bruening took the daunt to strike back at his critics.

Funeral Service Tomorrow for Mary Lovetinsky

Funeral service for Mrs. Mary Lovetinsky, 73, pioneer resident of Iowa City, who died at her home at 726 E. Market street, yesterday at 4:15 a.m., will be held tomorrow at 8:30 a.m., at St. Wenceslaus church. Burial will be made in Oakland cemetery. Death followed a two years' illness.

She was born in Bohemia, Nov. 22, 1858, and came to America with her parents when she was four years old. She was married to Frank Lovetinsky in 1877, and until 12 years ago when they moved to Iowa City, they lived on a farm three and a half miles east of here. She is survived by her husband, one daughter and five sons; Mrs. Maynard Strub of Iowa City; Ed and Frank Lovetinsky of Oasie; Will, George and Fred Lovetinsky of Iowa City. Two brothers, Albert and Thomas Kondora of Iowa City, and 13 grandchildren, also survive.

Grain Prices Remain Firm After Setback

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Rallying from price setbacks, grain markets today developed surprising tenacity, prompted by indications of export purchases of hard winter wheat at the Gulf of Mexico.

Unfavorable crop reports from domestic winter wheat territory were current, emphasized by an official statement that the country's wheat yield for 1932 would be probably 18 to 20 per cent smaller than in 1931. Acreage reduction of United States winter wheat was estimated at 10 to 12 per cent with the crop condition 8 to 10 per cent off.

Wheat closed stubborn at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-3 lower, corn 2-5, 5-8 cents down, oats varying from 1-8, 1-4 decline to 1-2 advance, and provisions showing 2 to 10 cents gain.

Provisions were firmer in the absence of any aggressive pressure to sell.

Closing indemnities: wheat, March 59 1-8, offers; May 61 3-8, 1-3, 63 1-2, 5-8; July 62 5-8, 3-4, 64 3-4, 7-8; Sept. 64 1-4, 66 3-8. Corn—May 29 5-8, 3-4, 40 3-4, 7-8; July 42 3-8, 43 3-8; Sept. 44 5-8, offers.

Iowa T. B. Body Meets

Lauer Fails to Arrive as Main Speaker at Dinner

BURLINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Dr. John H. Peck of Des Moines, president of the Iowa Tuberculosis association, presided over the annual dinner tonight attended by nearly 300 delegates.

E. H. Lauer, director of athletics at the University of Iowa, failed to arrive for the principal address of the day, and Dr. Peck filled in on the program.

Public Health Work
Among the principal discussions were plans for carrying on public health work and the tuberculosis fight in the face of decreased budgets.

"We are proud of Iowa's tuberculosis record of less than 30 deaths per 10,000 individuals as compared with 76 per 10,000 for the nation," Peck said tonight. He urged all delegates to boost county health units.

University Doctor Speaks
Preventive measures are far better than fighting after the disease starts, Dr. Carl Jordan, University of Iowa professor, said in an address tonight.

"Health is our greatest possession," he declared. "It is the earth's greatest truth, and the pioneers of Iowa health work are to be congratulated."

Is That the Remedy?

AUTHOR CLARENCE BUDDINGTON
KELLAND, whose established field is that of literature with a humorous twist, leaves his usual haunts and discourses volubly on taxation in the March issue of the American magazine. He soundly condemns income tax as unjust and lauds sales tax as the real and effective means of equitable taxation.

However lax the author may be in his knowledge of the intricacies of taxation, he has not failed to utilize the powers of philosophy and logic in his arguments. Mr. Kelland claims that a tax on man's income is on the wrong track. Income tax, as he sees it, taxes a man's energies and exacts its toll in a lump sum. He also believes that everyone should pay income tax regardless of his income. According to Kelland there are too many evasions under the present system which render the income tax inequitable.

Author Kelland's theory that large incomes are taxed way out of proportion because a man has been ingenious enough to amass a larger portion of this world's goods than his fellow worker, fails to take into consideration the fact that these same large incomes are gaining more advantages from society than the lesser ones. Laws are passed which inevitably protect and assure large incomes, and it is quite logical that they should bear the greatest portion of the tax burden.

An example of this kind of protection is protective tariff. Protective tariffs practically assure those industries which they protect an income and a profit, and is indirectly a sales tax. But there is inconsistency here in that all industries are not protected by the same ratio of tariff.

In order to follow Mr. Kelland's plan of the taxing of all incomes by the same ratio of taxation through the whole gamut of income brackets, free trade would have to be established so that every enterprise would be on the same footing. Otherwise the author is right; there can be no equitable system of income tax under the existing plan in the United States.

Sales tax, on the other hand, is not a tax on a man's energies in assuming worldly property, but upon man's spending power. In other words, he is taxed on the amount of money he spends and not on the amount that he earns. Taxation under this system is less noticeable, because the difference in the price of commodities is negligible, yet it reaches every purse. Mr. Kelland suggests a graduated scale whereby luxuries are taxed more than semi-necessities, with very few of the necessities coming under the tax.

As to whether a sales tax is the remedy for the present muddled situation, it is hazardous to say. One of the main disadvantages of such a levy is that it can become too aggressive and encroach too much on the necessities of life. Effective legislation and administration might, however, halt such processes. And it should be remembered that at the present time the country labors under a taxing system that requires an expert to figure out the assessment of each individual, not counting mistakes made by the treasury department executives.

The Other Half

HOW DOES the other half live? That is the question which will be answered Sunday in an Iowa town, where 18 ministers of the gospel will be honored guests at a party. It won't be a tea party, nor will it be a banquet. The food will consist of the ordinary fare served to "knights of the road" who live at "Hoover House" in the town of Malvern.

The preachers will break bread on equal terms with the hobo inhabitants of "Hoover House" when they attend the Sunday party. The building is not pretentious, just an old pumping station which has been remodeled and fitted with bunks for the use of Malvern's "floating population."

And what's the good of it? There will be 18 better preachers after that party in Malvern. Christ was not loath to mingle with the poor of His day, and Kipling wrote a sentence-sermon in the words: "... to walk with kings, yet keep the common touch."

What's in a Name

THE SUPERIOR court of Los Angeles, Cal., began suit two days ago in the case of Fontaine Fox, newspaper cartoonist, and creator of the mythical town of Toonerville, of trolley fame, against the Yule family. The reason: Fox seeks an injunction to restrain Joseph Yule, Jr., from using the name of Mickey McGuire as his real name.

Mickey McGuire, the tough boy from the other side of the trolley tracks in this mythical town which Fox has created, has scribbled his way across thousands of newspaper comic pages. Junior Yule has taken his character in films, with equal success and later took the name by legal action, for his own. Now, says Fox, Mrs. Yule, who by the way adopted the name McGuire without legal proceedings, wants to capitalize on his brain child and use it to her boy's and her own advantage. What's in a name? It looks like there was going to be a fight in this one, but it still seems that of all individual rights a man can have, his own name might come first, no matter what he might wish to style himself.

Unprepared Students

In his annual report to the president, Dr. B. I. Bell, warden of St. Stephen's college, Columbia university, declared that students coming to the colleges today from preparatory and high schools are not ready for college. They are so poorly trained that the colleges are compelled to give two of the four years of college work to an attempt to supply training which should have been given in the secondary schools.

"At 18 years of age," says Dr. Bell, "an English lad or one on the continent, if he has mind enough to justify his going to the university, is ready for the university. At the same age in this country he is mostly an untrained young cub. It normally takes the junior college years, and sometimes the senior college years as well, to lick him into such shape that he may begin to work for himself at scholarly tasks."

College faculties are not the only ones who are having trouble of this sort. High school teachers complain that students come from the elementary schools unable to write or speak good English. Their penmanship is as poor as their grammar. Valuable high school time must be spent giving them some of the fundamental education they should have had in grammar school.

There must be something at least slightly amiss in the general system of public school education. Are there too many outside activities? Is there too little drill? The matter is worth looking into by parents and educators.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

The height of something or other was reached around these parts the other night when an employe of a local restaurant called in to ask yours truly for a three letter word meaning "gratuity." He probably is another victim of the depression, tips, as such, being practically unknown these days.

And yet, although the theory has often and widely been contested, there's nothing in the world like a bright, shiny coin tucked under a formerly well-heaped plate to prove that prosperity has returned.

There seems to be one obvious advantage to being a candidate for the presidency of the U.S. Governor Murray of Oklahoma, standing on a platform heaped a foot high with alfalfa, in Marion, Ind., the other day, vented his spleen on President Hoover, chambers of commerce, luncheon clubs, and eastern Democratic candidates.

Just as in France, where no limits are placed on candidates' expenditures in their campaigns, public opinion keeps the costs down, here in the U. S., where free speech is extant, public opinion draws the line at the polls.

Now, if Murray could only induce Smith W. Brookhart to accompany him on his speaking tour, and both made issues of their pet theories, the soviets in Soviet Russia would have to move over to make room for practically the entire voting population of the country.

Here's just a sample of Murray's quaint expressions: "A man that can drain, ditch, and dam a country in three years is a great engineer—even if he isn't a statesman." Well, we aren't so sure that Hoover is a statesman, but it takes a great engineer to steer a country through a period of adversity—a good talker might find his greatest asset also his greatest liability.

That sort of badgering is comparable to a recent full page spread in Kessinger's Midwest Review that blared: "Hoover Fed Belgium; Now Let Him Feed America." Both attitudes are despicable, to say the least. Instead of going about the country condemning the current administration, let Murray and every other candidate for the chief executive's job present their panaceas. And may the best cure win.

A Long Branch, N. J., power plant employe on the way to work the other morning was confronted by a boy about nine years old, pointing a .45 caliber pistol at his head. "Hands up!" said the boy. The men reached for the sky, noting that the gun was of the business variety. "What for?" he asked. "I want a nickel," the child replied.

"I'll give you a quarter for the gun," the man offered. So the boy handed over the gun and the man gave him the quarter. He explained he found the gun, loaded with six cartridges, in the ruins of an old house.

Back in police headquarters, later, the man said: "I don't want to make a complaint. I got a boy of my own. Any kid might have done that; but I'm turning in the gun to get rid of it."

A level head, in that case, saved two lives. One from death by shooting, the other from reform school and the stigma of having killed a man. It's just another argument, I guess, against leniency in firearm licensing. Another reason for government control. For ministers, it's another cause for a sermon on religion in the home; for teachers, it's bludgeon to hold over the heads of undisciplined pupils.

Where it really belongs, in whose hands the problem should actually be placed, whose responsibility it really should be, is dimly obscured by all of these. Education, religion, laws—all of them belong, all are necessary—take up the fight. It's an old, old story—and we never seem to be able to learn the moral.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Now that Fox is concentrating its operation in Westwood, more film people will be moving out of Hollywood towards the beach. This westward trek has gone on steadily with the expansion of the industry. Years ago the big stars lived downtown in Los Angeles, most of them in a rough square formed by Seventh and Ninth streets and Figueroa and Hope. Mary Pickford was in the Sinnott Apartments, while D. W. Griffith and Henry B. Walthall lived on Hope street. Blanche Sweet, Hobart Bosworth and Raymond Hatton were others in this district. Harold Lloyd had a place on Hoover, and the Glush sisters had the film colony's first hill-top home. It was on Sixth street and was much remarked because of its 25-foot retaining wall. In those days the hangout of the film crowd was "The Players' club" on Hill street, between Second and Third. Wallie Reid was president. Later on, when Paramount and Universal opened studios in Hollywood, the western movement began. Jesse Lasky, Reginald Denny, Theodore Roberts and Tully Marshall all built homes on the Vine street hill. Gloria Swanson was at Wilcox and Yuca. Gloria also was one of the first to join the Beverly Hills migration, though Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford actually started it. Other early Beverly Hills settlers were Will Rogers and the Fred Niblos. Now, of course, Malibu is a popular location. Led by Anna Q. Nilsson, Marie Prevost, Alan Dwan, Ernest Torrence, Ronald Colman, Louise Fazenda and Nell Hamilton, the film people have built one of the most famous beach colonies in the world. And if they move again, it'll have to be houseboats. AND SO, AGAIN, TO GOSSIP Helen Collins, niece of Austin Parker, will act in Paramount's "Slinner in the Sun." And the funny thing is that Miriam Hopkins, Austin's estranged wife, got her job. . . . Talk of rackets, the other evening Los Angeles radio car officers were sent after two men who were selling motorists the right to park on one of the principal downtown streets. . . . Another racket here is for independent taxi-drivers to sell tourists admission cards to the studios. . . Dick Arlen will have his appendix out as soon as he finishes "Sky Brides." He's taking nightly treatments now. . . Jack Oakie and Sari Maritza still look at things through the same eyes. . . Al Rickett will stay at Fox for at least one more year. He's got a contract that says so. And it's been approved by the Finance Board. . . . Radio's "Bird of Paradise" troupe, Dolores Del Rio, King Vidor, etc., will soon sail for home. NEW JOBS HANDED OUT Phillips Holmes didn't land that part in "Strange Interlude," but he'll probably go to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the lead in "Night Court." Karen Morley is the girl in this one. Out at R-K-O they're puzzling over a story for Helen Gahagan. Next week the stage actress makes tests for three parts. All are in well-known stage plays, which Radio isn't making because they don't own any of them. If one of these tests is satisfactory, that play will be bought. DO YOU KNOW That Louise Closser Hale, who did such a swell job in "Shanghai Express," was a war correspondent for a national magazine during the European struggle?

Paul Engle, Iowa Student, Wins Yale Poetry Contest

Paul Engle, of Cedar Rapids, has been announced winner of the 1931 competition to determine what poet shall have his works published as the current book of the Younger Poets of Yale series.

"One Slim Feather" is the title of Mr. Engle's book, which contains about 65 poems. The book is divided into four sections. It will probably be published in the early autumn.

Annual Contest

The contest is an annual affair, open to undergraduate students under 30 years of age. Only complete manuscripts, sufficient to make a volume, may be submitted. The contest is one of the largest conducted in the country. The manuscripts are judged by William Alexander Percy, poet and critic.

Mr. Engle graduated from Coe college in 1931, and has been taking graduate work in the school of letters, majoring in English and history. While at Coe, Mr. Engle majored in French and English. He graduated magna cum laude, and was a member of Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary society.

Poems in Magazines

Mr. Engle's works have been published in The Midland, Poetry, The Saturday Review of Literature, and Plain Talk. Some of his poems appeared in the first volume of "Iowa Poets," published in 1928, and in several anthologies. An anthology soon to be published, "West of the Great Water," includes some of his poems, as well as those of many other Iowa students.

The poems in "One Slim Feather" were written over a period of two years. Some of them have been written since Mr. Engle has attended the University of Iowa.

This picture will carry a tragic significance to those people who are aware of the suffering of babies in many of our big cities for lack of proper nourishment. Milk producers of Houston, Tex., are shown dumping milk into the town sewers to show their objection to the recent slash in wholesale prices made by Houston milk distributors. The price was cut from 20 cents to 16.6 cents per gallon. As this photo was made 1,500 gallons of milk were poured into the gutter.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Organized house wets today started a petition for the 145 signatures required to get a vote on a state-control prohibition amendment.

Under the new discharge rule, should 145 members sign within the next few days a vote could be had some time after March 14. Then it would take a house majority to bring the home rule proposal up for consideration.

Radio Club Plans Bi-Weekly Meeting

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the University Amateur Radio club will be held Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the westside radio clubrooms, several club issues being scheduled for decision, according to Sylvanus J. Ebert, E4 of Watertown, Wis., acting president of the organization.

It is planned, according to Mr. Ebert, at the meeting Sunday to consider changing the old constitution so that new members may be eligible to vote on group questions immediately after having taken membership. At present the organization does not have enough eligible voting members, under the old constitution, to elect officers. Should

McFarland Gets Papers

New Babies Blink, Kick for Studies of Research Group

Why new born babies wave their arms and kick and why they blink and make the myriad of other movements is being investigated in the child welfare research station at the University of Iowa.

The tiny collaborators in this scientific study are doing their part simply by lying in a cabinet device known as a stabilimeter where their sleeping and waking movements and reaction to sounds are recorded and photographed.

Conditions Regulated

All of the external conditions—light heat, humidity, and sounds—are controlled in the stabilimeter, according to Prof. Orvis C. Irwin, instigator of the research.

The bed is delicately adjusted to be sensitive to every motion of the baby and a precise apparatus records the movements and the time. From outside, sounds are transmitted to the interior and careful observations of the infant's reaction to them is made.

Special Neon Light

A special type of neon light has been developed for use in connection with the stabilimeter. This light is cold, it cannot burn the skin or injure the eyes, yet it affords constant illumination of sufficient intensity for the making of motion pictures.

Motion pictures are made at the rate of 32 to 72 per second. Babies used for the experiments are from the obstetrical ward of the university's general hospital.

Police Arrest 39

DES MOINES, (AP)—Thirty-nine persons were arrested in raids by the police vice squad on three cafes.

Hoover Will Back Finance for Education

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—President Hoover today declared for undiminished financial support of public education, regardless of reductions or adjustments necessary for national economy.

The president's stand was taken in a letter to Dr. Milton Chase Potter of Milwaukee, new president of the department of superintendence of the National Association of Education. Congratulating the department upon its conference just closing here, the chief executive asserted "we cannot afford to lose any ground in education" since "that is neither economy nor good government."

Dr. Potter called at the White House late this afternoon, and the president's letter put in writing the congratulations he himself had delivered orally.

The Gay Bandit of the Border

By TOM GILL

Copyright 1931, by International Magazine Co., Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

For years, Paco Morales ruled the peons in Mexico with an iron hand, confiscating their lands and driving them from their homes, but the crisis has come. "El Coyote," the mysterious bandit, avenges every outrage perpetrated by Morales. The ranchers await their unknown protector's word to revolt. Morales, with the aid of the U. S. Cavalry, has searched for the bandit in vain. Ted Radcliffe, an American whose late father was ruined by Morales, is in love with Adela, the Spaniard's beautiful niece. Jito, Morales' ward, is jealous of Ted. Bob Harkness, Ted's friend, tells him he has plans for settling the score with Morales. While out riding, Ted and Adela lose their way and spend the night in the desert. Adela resents her uncle's suspicions. Later, Bob returns home with Ted and learns that some of his cattle were stolen. He doubts that "El Coyote" is responsible. At Mendoza's, a notorious resort, Bob leaves Ted and goes upstairs to visit Ann Reed, an entertainer. Bob is "El Coyote" and Ann his spy. She is deeply in love with him. As autumn comes, "El Coyote" makes ready to overthrow Morales.

Ted lunged forward and struck the man full on the jaw.

CHAPTER XXXIII

Already the cattle had caught the scent of water and lumbered down the long, dry slope, stopping only in the shallow, muddy pond. The men watered their horses. Ted's mouth and throat were parched. His canteen was empty, but he viewed the yellow, stagnant water before him distastefully.

"Let's ride up the arroyo," he suggested. "We may find a spring at the head of it."

Then for twenty minutes they trotted up the narrow bed of the stream, but found no trickle of water. Manuel shook his head.

"It is no good, señor. One may not look for living water in this land until the rains come."

Suddenly he stopped and peered anxiously behind him.

"Was it not a shot?" he asked.

Ted listened. Only the creak of saddle leather as the horse moved restlessly. He turned to speak, but this time unmistakably two shots sounded from the waterhole. Without a word both men pulled their horses about and spurred at a dead run down the arroyo. Manuel was ahead by a length, and Ted saw him pull his thirty-eight from the holster and whirl the chamber. Ted's own automatic lay close against his side.

There where the arroyo widened into the waterhole, both men halted. Already they could see their cattle racing up the slope, driven by three Mexican vaqueros, yelling and shooting into the air. Down by the waterhole one steer lay kicking out his legs. Nearly a half-mile distant other vaqueros were driving another herd toward the waterhole. Ted's eyes blazed. The caution that Bob had urged so many times was forgotten. Drawing his automatic he fired at the vaqueros, and the bullet threw up the dust ahead of them. The men turned and came at a mad gallop straight for Ted.

"Don't shoot," warned Manuel quickly. "They will not shoot. These are Morales' men."

Ted rode forward, spurring his horse directly in the path of the leading Mexican. "Who shot that steer?" he demanded.

"I, señor," the leader answered, then he laughed insolently into Ted's face. "What will the big gringo do?"

Silently Ted put his automatic back in the holster. For a second he measured the distance, then lunged forward and struck the man full on the jaw. The vaquero swerved and, as his horse plunged back, fell headlong.

Without another glance Ted turned his horse toward the approaching riders. Even from that distance he recognized Jito, the huge figure at their head. A sudden wave of almost physical pleasure passed over the man at the prospect of coming to grips at last with the enemy. No one had ever dared use violence to any of Jito's vaqueros there in Mexico, where Morales' might was law. And the thought came to Ted, as he rode forward, that the man lying back there in the desert dust might be the one spark needed to set ablaze the long-smoldering enmity between those two. From that far-off day when Jito first seized his hand and looked disdainfully into his eyes—from that day both knew that sometime they must come to open conflict. They had known it, too, on that sunlit morning when Jito rode out to find Ted and Adela returning across the desert. Everyone had tried to keep them apart—Don Bob, Morales, Adela herself, but something written in the destinies of those two men willed it otherwise. And Ted, as he rode out to meet him, found it in his heart to be glad.

Jito had reined his horse to a walk, and as Ted drew up beside him the Mexican raised his sombrero in greeting.

Ignoring the gesture, Ted pointed angrily to his herd, scattered up the hillside beyond the waterhole, and to where one of his steers lay dead.

"Who ordered your men to stampede those steers away from water and to shoot into them?" Ted demanded.

"I did." Leisuredly the Mexican curled his leg about the saddle-horn and rolled a cigarette. He held out the bag and brown papers to Ted, demanded.

"Is that waterhole yours?"

"In a sense, señor, it is. At least no one else owns it, and Morales' cattle have used it for many years."

"They have used it because no one else dared. We choose also to use it."

"Señor, it may be you forget you are in Mexico. Here Paco Morales makes his own rights. If we allow every wandering herd to use the waterholes near my uncle's ranch, it would take many vaqueros to keep them from using too his grassland. Besides, we need this water. But, to be truthful, I did not know these cattle were Don Bob's, or I should not have molested them."

Ted listened silently. He could see that the big Mexican was making an effort to speak civilly—that for some reason he did not at that time seek open conflict.

"Let us put this thing on a clear basis," Ted answered. "Don Bob's herds are grazing on these lands. They are also using this waterhole because it is public property, neither yours nor mine. There is room here for both. We come seeking no quarrel, but if from now on I find anyone driving our cattle from water, I'll shoot and order my riders to shoot. Is that clear?"

Jito's face had darkened and the great cords of his neck swelled, but he chose to smile.

"Those are brave words, señor, especially when used to me. Almost I am tempted—but no. There should be no ill will between the men of Don Bob and of Morales. The man you knocked from the saddle—is was a very pretty blow—is well punished. I myself shall make double payment for the steer he stole. Esta bien?" The big vaquero smiled.

There was something too friendly about him. Ted sensed an eagerness to get away—a suppressed air of anxiety about the man. More than once Jito looked back at his own herd, where Morales' steers, with the scent of water in the nostrils, were impatiently crowding nearer the waterhole. Even as they watched, a few cattle plunged past the vaqueros. Something vaguely familiar about them made Ted ride forward, and with a sudden start he recognized on the shoulder of each the brand of Don Bob.

Manuel caught sight of them at the same moment. Excitedly he called, "Caramba, these are of the herd that was stolen last spring!"

For a moment Jito's black eyes were murderous, then he smiled. "Si, your stolen herd is back there, señor. This morning my vaqueros came upon them abandoned. Tonight I intended to notify Don Bob that the cattle El Coyote had stolen are found again." He looked searchingly into Radcliffe's eyes, and it was only with an effort that Ted refrained from smiling his disbelief. Yet it was all so clear. Jito's men had driven them away that Verdi might believe El Coyote was at last raiding the Americans.

He looked at Jito. "Don Bob will be happy to know his steers are safe. In the meantime, I am driving my herd back to that waterhole. We will probably be there an hour. After that, your cattle are welcome."

Greek Athletes Busy With Swimming, Cage Contests

Four preliminary events in the interfraternity swimming meet and two basketball games in the "B" league kept the Greek athletes busy in the field house last night.

The swimming events were run off in very good time considering the fact that most of the contestants have had little or no practice in the pool this winter.

The results of the tankster's preliminaries are as follows: 60 yard breast—first heat—Anneberg (Kappa Sigma) first, Goodwin (Delta Tau Delta) second, Fauth (Sigma Alpha Epsilon) third. Time—47.9. Second heat—Wilson (Sigma Alpha Epsilon) first, Webber (Delta Tau Delta) second, Graves (Phi Delta Theta) third. Time—49.8.

40 yard dash—first heat—White (Phi Gamma Delta) first, Anneberg (Kappa Sigma) second, Piegue (Delta Tau Delta) third. Time—21.8. Second heat—Champlin (Phi Gamma Delta) first, Clarke (Kappa Sigma) second, Work (Delta Tau Delta) third. Time—23.

60 yard back stroke—first heat—Brotman (Phi Beta Delta) first, Redus (Delta Tau Delta) second, White (Phi Gamma Delta) third. Time—45.8. Second heat—Barets (Kappa Sigma) first, Wilson (Sigma Alpha Epsilon) second, Sluank (Phi Delta Theta) third. Time—48.8.

100 yard free style—first heat—Britton (Delta Tau Delta) first, Palmer (Kappa Sigma) second, Northey (Sigma Alpha Epsilon) third. Time—1:33. Second heat—Washburn (Sigma Alpha Epsilon) first, Webber (Delta Tau Delta) second, Beary (Kappa Sigma) third. Time—1:17.4.

Phi Beta Delta and Pi Kappa Alpha received their first setbacks in the "B" loop after winning their first two games. The S.A.E.'s last but buried the Pi K.A.'s under a 15 to 4 score. Hoeh, Pi Kappa Alpha forward who burned things up in the first two games, was held to one field goal, the only one made by the team.

Seney, S.A.E. center, was high scorer of the fracas with eight points. Hill, his forward mate, also played a prominent part in the walloping. This was the second victory for the S.A.E. men and gives them undisputed first place in the standings.

The lineup: S.A.E.—Hill and Ottesen, forwards; Seney, center; Wortchow and Stutsman, guards.

Pi Kappa Alpha: Hoeh and Day, forwards; Soe, center; Browne and Wickley, guards.

The high scoring machine of the Phi Beta Delta's was stopped suddenly in the second and third periods by the Deltas who skipped away to an 18 to 14 victory for their first win in three starts. Holmes was largely responsible for the Delta's sudden reversal into winning form. He added spirit to the contest and was high point man with nine points.

The lineup: Delta Tau Delta—Dotson and Holmes, forwards; Ducander, center; Jarvis and Kann, guards.

Phi Beta Delta—S. Kroniek and Astron, forwards; Mr. Kroniek, center; Waxenberg and Marcus, guards.

Bernie Bierman, new University of Minnesota football coach, started "spring" football practice in the field house on the first day of February.

Official Urges Help to Boost River Project

DES MOINES, Feb. 25 (AP)—Gov. Dan Turner's office today received a message from Gov. F. B. Olson of Minnesota urging support of pending federal legislation for a nine foot upper Mississippi river channel.

Governor Olson's letter also went to governors of seven other mid-western states, proposing that they join in a conference with members of the Mississippi River Valley association at Sioux City or some other suitable place on or before March 7.

The Minnesota executive asserted that completion of the project "would partially free the west from its economic dependence on the east, would substantially lower freight rates and would considerably alleviate unemployment."

Governor Turner was out of his office today and his secretary said he had not been advised of the message.

Paul Jessup, former University of Washington athlete who holds the national A.A.U. discus record with a heave of 169 feet 8-7/8 inches, hopes to make the U.S. team at the Olympic games as a weight thrower.
