BATTLE AGAINST SALES TAX GROWS

Use Devitt Aspirin

Tiah Prescribes for World's Hangover; And It's Genuine.

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—Life, says Tiah Devitt, is "rather a mess" the world has a hangover; this is the aspirin age; people are neither real nor honest, and it is no longer any use to be a good, sweet maid.

Years ago the raven-haired Miss Devitt came from Oskaloosa, Ia., to see life from a few new angles. Now she has written a book in answer to novelists who tell what the world thinks of the younger generation.

"The Aspirin Age"

The 24 year old girl's story of what the younger generation thinks of the world is called "The Aspirin Age."

Since she left her prairie home Tiah Devitt has been in rapid succession:

1. A mannequin.
2. An artist's model.
3. A ghost writer of African adventures and children's bedtime stories.
4. A Broadway actress.
5. One of those girls who demonstrates things in a store window to attract the crowds.

Then she put a blonde wig over her jet-black hair and went into the movies.

She Knows Life Now

Now, she says, she knows life from most every angle and feels competent to pass judgment.

She declared, as she discussed herself and her book, that small towns are full of girls like Tiah Devitt—sophisticated, modern, ambitious.

"There are two classes in the small town," she explained, "the young moderns who go around the cockeyed drunk on one party to the next, and the Mr. and Mrs. Grundys, who sit in rocking chairs discussing the young moderns."

"Don't Know What To Do"

"The fast set is that way because they are restless and discontented and don't know what to do about it."

"It surprises me to see how many people there are in small towns who have talent and don't do anything about it, while New York is full of little girls running around trying to do things, but with no talent at all."

She suggests the small town "moderns" instead of playing bridge and drinking, establish progressive schools, plan community kitchens "so each family won't have to cook three meals a day" and try to wipe out the appalling slums they have.

Miss Devitt is the daughter of a distinguished lawyer, her mother is a member of the Iowa state board of education, and her grandfather was Lorenzo L. Lewelling, one of Kansas most famous governors.

'If You Asked Me, I'd Say—'

Should the committee which is working on the university's five year calendar add an extra day to Thanksgiving vacation, keeping in mind that such action would probably subtract one day from the Christmas or spring recess?

"If they would choose Christmas vacation from which to take the extra day, I would be in favor of such a plan, because it would provide one real vacation between the beginning of the fall semester and the beginning of Christmas vacation."

—Mary Jane Seibert, A1 of Des Moines.

"Such a revision of the calendar should be enacted because it would give to those students whose homes are at a considerable distance the same chance to get home which those living closer to Iowa City enjoy during Thanksgiving vacation."

—Josephine Ball, A4 of Fairfield.

"Yes, providing the Christmas vacation were the one to be cut shorter. One really gets a little out of the habit of studying during such long Christmas vacations as we have had before, and the plan would also make more nearly even the intervals between university vacation periods."

—Felicia Cronin, A4 of Janesville, Wis.

"Making a longer Thanksgiving vacation would be far more advisable, even at the expense of cutting a day from the Christmas vacation. There are enough days recess at Christmas time as it is, and more students would be enabled to get home oftener during the year."

—Donald Hankens, L2 of Cherokee.

Henry L. Rietz to Serve as Director of New State Bank

Editor's note: This is the fifth of a series of articles presenting the directors of the new Capital State bank. The sixth will appear in an early issue of The Daily Iowan.

Head of the mathematics department of the University of Iowa since 1918 and a recognized authority in the field of actuarial mathematics, Henry L. Rietz will prove an invaluable member of the board of directors of the new Capital State bank.

After graduating from Ohio State in 1899 with the degree of bachelor of sciences, he went to Cornell where he took his Ph.D. degree while serving as an assistant in mathematics. The following year he spent at Butler college as professor of mathematics and astronomy, leaving there in 1903 to begin an association of 15 years with the University of Illinois.

Some positions Professor Rietz has held in addition to those with universities are: president of the Mathematical Association of America, president of Gamma Alpha Alpha fraternity, vice president of the American Institute of Actuaries, consulting actuary for the Illinois pension laws commission, and president of the Iowa Academy of Sciences.

During his 14 years as a resident of Iowa City, Professor Rietz has been prominent in both university and civic enterprises. He is president of the Iowa City country club and for more than seven years has held the presidency of the Iowa City Building and Loan association.

Active in fraternal work, he is a member of Triangle, Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Xi, Phi Beta Kappa, and Gamma Alpha fraternities. Among the books he has written are: "College Algebra," "Mathematics of Finance," "Introductory College Algebra," "School Algebra," "A Handbook of Mathematical Statistics," a publication of the National Research council, and a monograph on mathematical statistics.

Two Missouri Students Shot

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 22 (AP)—Jerry Cebel, captain elect of the University of Missouri wrestling team, and Frank Luckey, both students in the university school of engineering, were shot tonight and officers were questioning two or three students in the school of law. Luckey was reported seriously wounded.

Four law students yesterday had appeared before a justice of peace and asked that four engineering students be required to give peace bonds following the "kidnaping" Saturday of Mary Butterfield of Kansas City, whose coronation as St. Pat's queen at the engineering students annual ball was prevented by the "abduction." Whether there is any connection between the "kidnaping" and the shooting could not be learned immediately, however.

Cebel and Luckey were shot while on a street near the campus.

Helen Keller Worse, Cancels Engagements

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—Helen Keller, blind lecturer, who is suffering from an affliction of the gall bladder, was said at her home tonight to be "not so well" as yesterday but to be resting comfortably. She has cancelled her engagements until next fall.

Oskaloosa Author Dies

Oskaloosa (AP)—Liston McMillen, 83, author of "Christian Hygiene" and "Monograph on International Peace" died following an apopleptic attack. He was admitted to the Mahaska county bar in 1869.

Charles L. Bull Dies at New Jersey Home

ORADELL, N. J., March 22 (AP)—Charles Livingston Bull, naturalist, explorer, fiction writer, animal painter and taxidermist, died at his home today from an injury suffered many years ago. He was 57.

Mr. Bull had been a friend, associate and adviser of many famous explorers. As taxidermist at the national museum in Washington he mounted some of the late Theodore Roosevelt's collection.

Freshman, Sophomore Honor Roll Lists 137 Students; Women Outnumber Men in Tabulation by Margin of 3

Scholastic skill during the first semester of 1931-32 won an average of "B" or better for 137 sophomores and freshmen in the college of liberal arts, it was shown yesterday in a report issued from the office of Registrar Herbert C. Dorcas.

The honor roll lists those who attained the three point average on a full schedule of 12 semester hours or more. Women outnumber men by a small margin, the count being 70 and 67. Eighty-four sophomores and 53 freshmen are listed on the roll.

Raids, Clues Fail to Solve Kidnap Case

Lindberghs, Police Give No Indication of Progress

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 22 (AP)—A spectacular raid on a New York apartment, the visit of a prominent Chicagoan with confidential information, and more than the usual flood of "hot tips" all apparently had failed tonight to bring the Lindbergh kidnaping case any nearer solution.

As the third week since the abduction drew to a close, there was no indication either from police or from Colonel Lindbergh's confidential agents that any real progress was being made in the hunt.

Raid Bronx Apartment

After keeping a Bronx apartment under surveillance for days, detectives rushed the place in the hope of capturing Harry Fleischer, Detroit purple gangster, who is wanted here for questioning about the kidnaping and in Detroit in connection with the slaying of three racketeers.

But instead of Fleischer, the raiders found only two women, an 8 year old boy and a jobless man in the place. All were released after questioning.

Chicago Man Offers Tip

Meanwhile, from the Lindbergh home came a police announcement that H. Wallace Caldwell, former president of the Chicago board of education, had called with information concerning the case.

A report spread that he had been in touch with the kidnapers; that he had received instructions for no one but the famous flyer.

But Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent said the information brought by Caldwell "has been checked and found to be of no importance in this investigation."

Seek Brooklyn Gangsters

An attempt to link an alleged invasion of the Sourland countryside by Brooklyn gangsters with the kidnaping was spiked by Colonel Schwarzkopf.

"Police have diligently searched the Hopewell area," he said, "and have found a number of homes owned and inhabited by persons living in Brooklyn, but so far we have not been able to establish any connection between these people and those responsible for the crime."

China Revolts in Manchuria

Mutiny of Cavalrymen Swells Rebellion Against State

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 22 (AP)—A mutiny of 1,000 cavalrymen, who joined the Chinese irregulars of Tsing Hai, anti-Japanese war lord, swelled the revolt against the new Manchurian state of Ankuo today.

The troopers formerly were under the command of Hsi Hsia, governor of Kirin province in the new regime of Henry Pu-Yi.

Tsing Hai has held Fu Yu, a strategic point, since March 16. Hsi Hsia has ordered other troops stationed at Nungan, 35 miles north of Changchun, to recapture Fu Yu and has called on the Japanese for help.

Soviets Move Rolling Stock

HARBIN, Manchuria, March 22 (AP)—Li Shao-Keng, president of the Chinese Eastern railway, has protested to its Soviet Russian vice president that 50 locomotives and other rolling stock were removed across the border into Siberia without Chinese authorization.

Li Shao-Keng recently was appointed president of the railroad by the new Manchurian regime after it dismissed Mo Ten-Hui, former president. The line is jointly owned by Soviet Russia and China.

The Chinese and Russian officials, however, have agreed that the flag of the new Manchuria state shall replace the Chinese national flag on the composite banner of the railway, hitherto divided horizontally into the Chinese and Soviet flags.

Former Des Moines Banker Succumbs

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—John A. Elliott, 51, former Des Moines banker, died tonight after an illness of three weeks from heart trouble. Burial will be at his Iowa home.

He came to New York two years ago as vice president of the Underwriters Trust company. Surviving are the widow, Mildred Elliott, and a daughter, Janet.

State, County Snow Plows Clear Roads Around Iowa City

State and county snow plows, aided by rising temperatures, cleared Johnson county highways for Easter vacationists yesterday. All highways were open last night, though dirt roads were still impassable.

With temperatures rising to 34 degrees, two inches of snow melted yesterday, filling the streets with slush. Although a large crew of men worked all day on sidewalks and street crossings, frequent "roof slides" spattered walks in the business district.

Last night, at 7 p.m., the temperature had dropped to 27 degrees, and rapidly freezing streets made driving unsafe.

Hoover Sure of Iowa Vote, Says Leader

Garner Boom Appears, Georgia Will Boost Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—The presidential boom for Speaker Garner reappeared today and meanwhile President Hoover was assured of Iowa's 25 convention delegates and Georgia got ready to increase Governor Roosevelt's lead for the Democratic nomination.

From William G. McAdoo came a prediction that Mr. Garner had "an excellent chance" to be his party's standard bearer and an assertion that prohibition was not a party but a local issue.

Economic Issues First

He told the Texan at a brief conference that he would win California's delegation of 44 in the May primary over delegate states pledged to Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith. Later in a press conference he said:

"I think hungry stomachs are a much more serious matter now than dry throats and therefore I feel the next campaign will be settled on economic issues and the present state of the social order."

Democrat Calls on Hoover

While a movement began in Chicago to elect a bloc of Illinois delegates to the Republican convention pledged to prohibition repeal, President Hoover was called upon by Senator Bratton, New Mexico Democrat, to state his views definitely on prohibition.

Car Skids in Ditch West of Coralville; Injures Two Persons

Two persons received slight injuries yesterday at 6:30 p.m. when the car in which they were riding struck ice on U. S. highway 6 west of Coralville and skidded into the ditch. The car was headed toward Iowa City.

Lillian and Vaughn Briggs, both of Detroit, Mich., occupants of the car, were taken to University hospital where medical examination revealed minor injuries. They were released immediately following the examination.

Two other cars, a Chevrolet and a Packard, crashed into the ditch along U. S. highway 6, west of Coralville last night. The accidents, caused by icy pavement, were not serious.

Tornado Toll Rises to 273; Many Injured

Southern Area Bears Brunt of Twisting Storm Winds

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 22 (AP)—Two hundred and seventy-three persons were killed, hundreds of others were injured and made homeless and unestimated damage wrought by a series of tornadoes that dipped into five southern states last night and early today.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 22 (AP)—Tornadoes which slashed across five southern states last night left 275 dead and perhaps 2,500 injured.

More than two score widely scattered communities were affected.

The distribution of casualties by states with injured estimated:

Alabama—230 dead and 2,200 injured.

Georgia—34 dead and 150 injured.

Tennessee—17 dead and approximately 60 injured, less than a dozen seriously.

South Carolina—2 dead and 25 injured.

Kentucky—2 dead, injured unestimated.

Alabama bore the brunt of the storm, one of the south's major disasters. Here 190 persons lost their lives when the howling winds blew down their homes in two score communities.

53 Killed in Georgia

Thirty-three were killed in Georgia, 16 in Tennessee, two in Kentucky and two in South Carolina.

Not until broken communication lines were restored today was the full extent of the storm's toll learned. The death list grew from only a few more than a hundred during the night, but rescue crews aided by daylight and the restoration of communication, brought reports that sent the casualty list mounting.

Runabout Course

The twisting winds struck first at Northport, in northwest Alabama, killing 28 and injuring scores of others. Traveling a runabout course the storm appeared next at Demopolis, Faunstead and Linden in the southern section of the state. They struck next in the northeast section, hitting Lomax, Thorsby, Columbiana and other communities.

At the same time a tornado dipped down on a half dozen communities in Tennessee. Five members of one family were killed near Palaski when they were buried beneath the wreckage of their home. Five others lost their lives near Consauga.

Infant Drowns

At Cleveland the storm snatched an infant from its mother's arms, dropping it into a well where it drowned.

Striking in the northeastern and northwestern sections of Georgia, a tornado took more than a score of lives near Dalton, Cartersville, Athens and Rome. Single casualties attributable to the storm were reported at Decatur, Atlanta and Millidgeville, Ga.

Buildings Wrecked

A path a quarter of a mile long was left in Whitfield and Murray counties in North Georgia, and churches, homes and barns were wrecked.

At Dalton an unidentified white man was blown to the top of a tree, the wind blowing a piece of wood through one of his arms. He hung suspended until daylight when he was rescued and taken to a hospital believed fatally injured.

Rescue Worker

Rescue workers pressed into wrecked communities and homes throughout the tornado ravished areas all day and night still were working tirelessly in aiding the hundreds of injured, and in providing shelter for those left without homes.

The Red Cross was organizing in Alabama for quick relief of the injured, and Gov. B. M. Miller appealed for contributions for the storm sufferers in a formal proclamation to the people of his state.

Saying "there will be great suffering unless they are aided properly," Governor Miller's proclamation called on people of the state to contribute to relief funds for distribution through the Red Cross.

Engineers Continue Tradition; Take Dip in Cold River Water

Here's another engineering tradition—but it doesn't have anything in particular to do with Mecca week, and it was not scheduled as part of the annual engineering festival.

But that didn't make any difference to Robert E. Griffin, E4 of Iowa City, and Robert L. Hardman, E3 of San Diego, Cal. They just slipped on swimming suits, and plunged into the Iowa river, just south of Iowa avenue bridge yesterday afternoon. They didn't stay long!

As for the tradition—1932 marks the fourth consecutive year that the two have gone swimming on the twenty second day of March.

Ireland Cuts Binding Tie

Free State Announces Abolition of English Allegiance Oath

LONDON, March 22 (AP)—The Irish free state served notice on an anxious England today that the oath of allegiance to the King, almost the last tie that binds Ireland to Great Britain, would be abolished.

The Irish situation, which J. H. Thomas, British secretary for dominions, described in parliament as "grave" will be discussed at a cabinet meeting tomorrow morning.

Removal Mandatory

J. W. Dulaney, high commissioner in London for the free state, informed Mr. Thomas that the Irish people by overwhelming vote in the last election had made mandatory the oath's removal.

His statement, which admittedly made the Irish situation serious after 10 years of peace between the two nations, was in answer to a request of the dominions secretary for "correct information" to the intentions of the new Irish government of President Eamon de Valera.

De Valera Affirms Intention

Mr. Dulaney said that whether the oath to the British crown should be retained was purely an Irish matter and the people had signified their wish in the vote that raised de Valera, republican leader, to power.

Meanwhile, Mr. de Valera was reaffirming his intention to abolish the oath and retain Irish land annuities in his first speech in the free state senate in Dublin.

Provision for Tax on Estate Hub of Fight

House Bowls Over Party Leaders, Defeats Levy

(By The Associated Press)

House postponed vote on sales tax in new revenue bill until Thursday, after increasing estate tax to maximum of 45 per cent on estates over $10,000,000.

Senate defeated proposal to eliminate $11,000,000 dry enforcement fund, and Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, presented petition asking judiciary committee to submit eighteenth amendment repeal or modification measure for vote.

Senate went on record as favoring 10 per cent cut in all governmental operating appropriations, returning four department bills to committee for cut.

William Gibbs McAdoo predicted Speaker Garner had "an excellent chance" to be Democratic standard bearer.

Chairman Stone of farm board denied reports stabilization wheat would be dumped abroad.

Red Cross organized relief in six states struck by last night's tornadoes.

Senate mining sub-committee considering bill for federal coal operation regulation was told dollar-a-day wages were paid in some Western Pennsylvania fields.

Day in Washington

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Unrelenting anti-sales tax forces again bowled over house party leaders today and raised to record heights the estate tax provision of the new revenue bill.

Confident they could defeat the 2.25 per cent levy that forms the base of the $1,096,000,000 bill, the bi-partisan sales tax foes unsuccessfully attempted to keep the house in session when it was proposed that a decision be postponed until Thursday.

Intense Feeling

Intense feeling ran through the membership on the crowded floor during four hours of acrimonious debate. The galleries were filled with hundreds of men and brightly dressed women who frequently violated the rules to applaud or cheer speakers.

Stalled Truck Blocks Traffic

U. S. highway 6 was partially blocked for approximately three hours last night when a 10 ton Blatz beverage truck and trailer, enroute from Milwaukee to Des Moines, slid off the road into the ditch in front of the Phi Chi house. Engineers Forsake Transits, Slide Rules for Stage Play

By AL MITCHELL

According to the standards of drama, public speaking, and terpsichorean art, it may not have been so good—but say, how they enjoyed it!

Iowa engineers forsook their slide rules, transits, and monkey wrenches last night, turning dramatists long enough to stage the climax of events of Mecca week, the 1932 Mecca show, "Adam's Apple," a comedy farce by Test Dalton. The results came off the stage of the Englert theater to an audience that snickered, laughed, and finally broke down and howled with happiness.

Ruth L. Burnstedt, Mecca queen, presented the players.

The drama feature itself unfolded the story of an imaginary rich uncle, used for five years as an excuse for a fond husband's poker parties; complications set in when the uncle turned out to be not so imaginary after all, and the climax came as he proved himself a real Santa Claus.

Uncle John, the mystifying personality, was played by Lewis Long; Adam Van Alstyne, the loving husband and inveterate poker player, supposedly a stock broker and man about town, was taken by Guilford Moravec; Billy Aldrich, engaged to Adam's sister-in-law, was played by Eugene Clearman; Sidwell Smith and Phil McClintock adopted gowns and aspirate voices for the evening and capably impersonated the ladies in the case.

Mrs. M. A. H. Jones Gives Book Review

"In his novel, 'All Passion Spent,' Sackville West has deliberately reversed the usual order of plot beginning with the heroine's life at the age of 88 years, and tracing it back to her youth," said Mrs. M. A. Jones, in her review of the book before the literature department of Iowa City Woman's club yesterday. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. L. Bywater, 230 Magowan street.

"The novel is a dramatization of the resentment of old age against the 'tyranny of youth,'" said Mrs. Jones.

Pattern 2309

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

BY ANNE ADAMS

Paris decrees straighter lines without sacrificing grace and freedom, and that means pleats; also broader shoulders, which brings us to this stunning model styled just to the last word in chic. The pointed seamings on bodice and skirt are decidedly slenderizing, too, and a real boon to the figure. You'll enjoy this frock in one of the new silk prints, in cotton, mesh or linen. White and pastel shades are popular.

Pattern 2309 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 or 39-inch fabric.

Wilma Hauth Weds L. Lenz

Rev. W. S. Dysinger Reads Single Ring Ceremony

The marriage of Wilma Hauth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hauth, 1191 Hotz avenue, and Lysle Lenz, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lenz, Muscatine road, took place yesterday at high noon at the English Lutheran church. The Rev. W. S. Dysinger read the single ring ceremony. Eleanor Ballard attended the bride, and Raymond Prybil was best man.

The bride was attired in a gown of white fillet lace, long and sleevesless, over which fell a white tulle veil trimmed with lace. She wore white lace mitts and carried a bouquet of calla lilies. A blue taffeta frock was worn by Miss Ballard. A blue hat, trimmed in pink, completed her ensemble. She carried pink roses. Mrs. M. H. Taylor played on the organ "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin as the processional, and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the recessional. Musical numbers, "O, Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly" were sung by Mrs. Olin Hauth.

Following the ceremony a four-course wedding dinner was served at Youde's Inn to 20 members of the immediate family. Blue tapers trimmed with smilax, and baskets of sweet peas decorated the dinner tables. Individual nuptials in blue and white, and individual candles burning at each place at the table were other decorations. A tall, tapering wedding cake decorated in blue and white occupied the center of the table. Near it stood a miniature bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Lenz left late yesterday for a short honeymoon. They plan to be at home on a farm near Iowa City the first of next week. Mrs. Lenz is a graduate of the Iowa City high school and Irish's Business college. Since her graduation she has been employed at the Iowa City Light and Power company. Mr. Lenz attended the university and has been engaged in farming.

River Work, Snow Give Jobs to Many

Employment Director Reports Surplus of Labor

SIoux CITY, March 22 (AP)—Although T. L. Taggart, state director of employment, in his February review of Iowa industrial conditions today said there was a general surplus of labor, he reported that federal river work, clearing away snow, and relief programs furnished employment for many Iowans.

Railroad coal mines, he said, showed a slight increase in operations, but bad road conditions curtailed somewhat activities in the state's wagon coal mines.

Acceptable working schedules, he said, were reported generally by meat packing plants, flour mills, factories making soap, gloves, and baskets, wholesalers and retail stores, creameries, produce plants, and candy and biscuit factories.

Building Below Normal
Building in this state in February was far below normal, he said, and transportation industries were also curtailed. Restricted operations were reported in such enterprises as gypsum, woodworking, farm machinery, sheet metal, and clay products plants.

Sioux City—Federal work furnished employment for about 75 men. Harvesting ice and clearing away snow gave 600 men work. Municipal relief programs included employment for 900 on a part time basis. Meat packers and millers had full time schedules but six industries operated with greatly reduced forces.

Businesses Increase Employment
Des Moines—Hotels, restaurants, and an automobile assembling plant increased employment, but plant and factory operations remained on part-time schedules in most instances.

Council Bluffs—Below normal conditions prevailed in practically all plants.

Waterloo—Work was found for many idle men in relief programs. Operations in almost all manufacturing plants were restricted.

Burlington—Full-time schedules obtained in three factories, one remained inactive, and all other plants were on a part-time basis.

Little Change in Industries
Cedar Rapids—There was very little change in employment conditions, as practically all plants operated on part time schedules. Relief measures included part time work for 600 men and women.

Clinton—A corn syrup refinery had normal operations, but a surplus of labor was apparent, most noticeable in railroad, metal, and wood-working industries.

Dubuque—Little change was reported in the industrial employment situation, most of the establishments operating part time.

Factory Closes
Ottumwa—A farm machinery manufacturing plant, throwing 300 men out of work. Work is expected to start soon on a $400,000 addition to a meat packing plant.

Davenport—A meat packing plant, feed mill, and washing machine factory reported satisfactory schedules, but a curtailed program was noticeable in factories, building trades and railroad work.

Mason City—A meat packing plant operated satisfactorily, but all other industries worked part-time.

"Relatives" Flock to Claim Estates of Hermit Women

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—The prodigious estate of two aged women, whose hermit-like lives were strangely similar, today attracted enough claimants to populate a village as lawyers sought to untangle the skein of distant relationships.

One contest involved the millions willed to charity by Ella Von E. Wendel, who thought herself the last of her family when she died in the gloomy brownstone mansion that still stands amid the sleek modernity of midtown Fifth avenue.

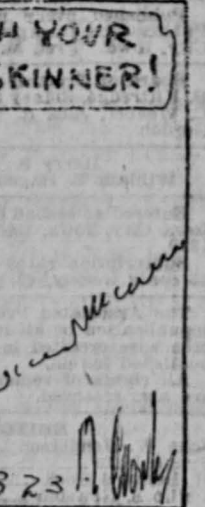

Hoarded Fortune
The other involved the fortune carefully hoarded by Mrs. Ida Mayfield Wood, who refused to trust banks after the panic of 1907 and kept nearly a million in cash in paper bags and the lining of old black dresses.

Surrogate James A. Foley is hearing both cases, though a question as to his jurisdiction has been raised by the multitudinous Wendel heirs, because the decedent also had a residence at Irving-on-the-Hudson in Westchester county.

Prolific Claims
So prolific were some of the claims of relationships that Foley warned: "This must not drift into a farce or a reproach to our probate system." He said Miss Wendel's name will be placed in the center of a chart of concentric circles, each line representing a degree of relationship. Those whose relationship is closest will have the right to contest.

There were fewer claimants for the relatively small Wood estate, though two groups sought to be named administrators.

Rise and Fall of Kreuger, Swedish Match Monarch

AT THE PINNACLE. IVAR KREUGER. ALFRED LOEWENSTEIN

LONDON — The strange death of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king and industrial giant, that almost precipitated a national crisis, bears a remarkable resemblance to that of another colossus of European industry—Captain Alfred Loewenstein, who committed suicide by jumping from an airplane over the English Channel.

Loewenstein, too, played with millions, reached the pinnacle in world industrial affairs, and then, meeting reverses, decided to take the dark road to the land where stock quotations never disturb the slumbers.

According to police, Kreuger died by his own hand in his palatial apartment in Paris. The motive for his self-destruction was the same as Loewenstein's. Bankers had shut down on his credit. It was only a short time ago that Kreuger visited the United States and had a talk with President Hoover. At that time he was sitting on top of the financial world with no apparent sign of the dark shadow of death marring the brilliance of his achievements.

Kreuger was always something of a mystery man. He never granted interviews, until 1929, when he came to the American public for money. Even then he managed to remain more of a legend than fact.

lending money to foreign governments in exchange for match monopolies. This scheme brought in torrents of gold. The governments got cash. Kreuger sold matches at a profit without competition, and the governments paid the loans from taxes collected on Kreuger's matches.

Two of his biggest deals were obtaining from President Poincare a semi-monopoly in France in return for a $75,000,000 loan in 1927 to help stabilize the franc, and the German monopoly when he came to the rescue of the mark.

In the United States Kreuger sold 75 per cent of the matches through his International Match company. It was not until 1929 that he began to feel the pinch of competition. Russia began to ship out matches cheaper than Kreuger could afford to do with all the outstanding loans to governments remaining unpaid.

Then came the big depression, and these governments, owing millions to the match king, frankly confessed their inability to pay their debts; so Kreuger's great scheme of monopoly proved a boomerang. Now he is dead and the vast empire of matches, wood pulp, iron ore, steel mills and gold mines, as well as banks, will have to go ahead with a new hand on the helm.

Popham Sets Date to Hear McCabe Case

Hearing on the appointment of a receiver to take charge of and collect rents and profits of the mortgaged premises of Edward F. McCabe and Mary McCabe was set yesterday in district court by Judge R. G. Popham for April 2 at 9 a.m.

The appointment of the receiver was asked in a petition filed Monday afternoon in district court by the state board of education for the use and benefit of the state University of Iowa against the McCabes, W. F. McClesney, the First National bank, et al.

The petition states that the McCabes gave seven promissory notes to the university totaling $19,000 in 1922 and that neither principal nor interest on the notes have been paid.

All rents, incomes, and profits derived from the property, which is secured by a mortgage held by the board, was to have been delivered to the board. They state that they do not know how much has been collected by the bank and W. J. McClesney, who holds a deed on the property subject to the mortgage.

The board asks that an accounting be made by the defendants showing where the proceeds on the property went.

Talk It Over With Her

MOTHERS' day, and the week end of festivity which Iowa's Mortar Board accords to that occasion, is more than a month away, but a reminder of its approach is peculiarly appropriate today.

For a large number of students will be going home to see mother for perhaps the last time before that annual day of homage arrives.

Unquestionably Iowa students are unanimous in their desire to have their mothers with them as guests on that Mothers' day week end. Mothers are pretty generally rated as about A-1 pals, the kind that are welcome at any time, the sort of pals that take precedence over any other kind of week end plans should they even suggest a visit.

Yet strangely enough no Mothers' day has ever seen 100 per cent of Iowa mothers on the campus. In fact that figure has never been approached nearly enough to make mention of the east of the trip a valid explanation.

The real reason probably lies in the fact that Iowa students are apt to be careless, forgetful. They fail to realize that that personal invitation is the one that will make mother decide to come to Iowa City, not the formal printed invitation sent to them by Mortar Board and the university.

And now spring vacation presents an ideal opportunity for every student to put it across to his mother in the way no letter ever could that she is welcome here for Mothers' day, that her own son or daughter is intensely interested in having her here for that occasion.

She'll appreciate the thoughtfulness of that personal touch even if she can't come. And if she doesn't decide to visit Iowa City May 6, 7, and 8, it won't be because she hasn't been really invited.

Sloppy Streets

IT IS true that no one can hardly be expected to be prepared for all the vagaries of Iowa weather, but a situation existed in Iowa City yesterday, may perhaps exist today, that would have borne more attention even though no one was prepared for it.

Huge banks of snow, cast up by zealous sidewalk sweepers, melted freely under yesterday's sun, but at many down town intersections they could find no outlet in the city's storm sewers because the intersections were not cleaned after Monday's heavy snow fall.

Crossings were pools of slush and water, almost impassable for the pedestrian who wished to protect his clothing.

Keeping the city streets, particularly those where traffic is heaviest, free from obstruction is just as much the city's responsibility as providing adequate lighting at night or efficient police service.

Hacked as it may sound, Iowa City's unemployed still need help, are ready to work at a reasonable wage. The city has done an excellent job of keeping the streets in good condition during most of the winter, and it is unfortunate that yesterday's situation was allowed to arise. Certainly there is every reason why it should be taken care of early today.

A College Prank?

LAW and engineering students seem to be pretty much enemies on more than one college campus. Saturday when Mary Butterfield of Missouri university was leaving her sorority house to go to a beauty parlor to prepare for the annual engineer's ball where she was to be crowned queen, she was abducted by five youths.

She was taken to a nearby town and not brought back until late in the dance, too late for the coronation ceremonies. She was unable to identify her abductors, but it was presumed that they were law students trying to put one over on their engineering rivals. The question arises: When is a college prank not a college prank? Certainly this act was more than a prank. The girl's parents heard of the happening and, hysterical, rushed to Columbia from Kansas City. A burden was put on the university authorities. Collegians used to get a big kick out of having a freshman call the dean's number, telling the first year man that a girl would be on the other end of the line waiting to talk to him. Other similar harmless jokes have been played, but abducting coeds and keeping them hidden away is not in that category. Fortunately this manifestation of collegians is fast dying out, appearing only in isolated flareups which attract undue national attention because of their rarity.

Money Finds Employment

FARM in southern Iowa was recently sold three times within a week, bringing at each sale a price from $1,000 to $2,000 higher than the last.

rounded by prospective buyers with enough cash to make the deal but without confidence in the current rumors that May 1 will see the start of a rise in land values.

Can it be that the reconstruction corporation is right about the value of restoring money to circulation? Is it possible that after all "back in our own back yard" is the place for good, sound investment that will put money to work making more money again, bringing the mid west back to its normal condition of prosperity?

Later Information

(From the Kansas City Times) A Communist organizer, speaking to a small group here, asserted that the United States was trying to get a "slice of China" and that the government already was printing 33 million draft certificates to force American workers "to fight for John D. Rockefeller in Manchuria." The information is entirely correct. The number of the draft certificates being printed, as the act of congress finally was amended (H. R. 798, and S. 642), is 97 million. The change was made in order to include in the draft all school children above the age of 8, as they are known to be particularly loyal to Mr. Rockefeller because of the bright new dimes he distributes, and besides are eager for the jaunt to Manchuria.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

Because the number of college graduates is increasing faster than the demand for them, Dr. Harvey N. Davis, president of Stevens Institute, believes the economic importance of a college education is going to decrease in the future.

Not that it will become altogether worthless to spend four years in college, thinks Dr. Davis, because more and more young people will go merely for the increased enjoyment they will get out of life afterward.

Development of the ability to think and appreciate will become more the aim of colleges and universities than the ability to absorb knowledge in the form of technical instruction. But, according to the Stevens prexy, the best all around preparation for obtaining a living may be, after all, the study of mathematics, physics, and chemistry.

But while the economic advantages of a college education may be on the decrease, the necessity of such training as a liberal curriculum affords may become greater as special fields crowd out the specialists.

Even for a thorough appreciation of values in life, a college education with emphasis on cultural development can be made to repay the absorber more than the time and money expended.

Neither is specialized training worthless in view of overcrowded conditions and keen competition, for with a liberal background other fields reveal new possibilities.

Reminiscent of the "Midland" magazine's recent appeal for succor comes news that "Poetry: A Magazine of Verse" is faced with suspension of its April number unless some "angel" comes to the rescue of its founder, Harriet Monroe.

Twenty years ago this magazine began to circulate among a select clientele. In 1913 it printed Joyce Kilmer's "Trees" for the first time. That same year Vachel Lindsay received $20 from "Poetry" for his long poem, "General William Booth Enters Heaven." Altogether the magazine has paid about $10,000 to authors of verse; issuing now about 4,000 copies.

Like "Midland," the verse magazine gives expression to new writers and old, containing only the finest of their creations. Appreciation of good literature, however, like tastes for any luxury, seems to be affected by economic distress. A few individuals can save this landmark of American culture from oblivion, rather than witness another demonstration of death by materialization of culture.

That the United States is not a safe place in which to live is fast becoming the belief of English readers of the London Daily Express and other widely circulating English newspapers.

The Lindbergh kidnaping case has aroused comment that is leading also to the feeling that America is hardly a safe place to visit. The consensus is that the U. S. is in the grip of a cancer-like growth that eventually may eat the heart of the entire social and judiciary structure.

In England, it is agreed that the greatest deterrent to crime with violence is the cat, a whip with nine lashes, that may be prescribed by a judge in passing sentence. In particularly flagrant cases, the convict may be given 10 lashes with the cat each month of his imprisonment.

Criminals have come to fear the cat more than the noose. Some have been even known to ask for the death penalty rather than repeated floggings. In the United States, floggings are the exception rather than the rule, while the noose and electric chair are hardly universally employed.

But as long as the public has become apathetic toward crime, there is nothing for the criminal to get worried about. Nine times out of ten he can get away with only a minor fine or short term prison sentence. Perhaps we ought to start flogging income tax evaders, murderers, and hit-and-run drivers, to say nothing of kidnapers.

Stocks Resist Decline; Abate Early Losses

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—Stocks had several unfavorable factors to contend with today, but in the main offered reasonably good resistance to a resumption of the decline. Afternoon short covering reduced early losses to moderate proportions, and in a few instances was robust enough to bring about small net gains. By and large, however, leaders closed lower. Motors and metals acted rather discouraged most of the day, while American Telephone, Royal Dutch and several preferred issues displayed greater than average heaviness. Turnover increased slightly to 1,098,000 shares.

The break in wheat, reflecting the farm board advisory committee's recommendation that surplus be sold quickly in non-competitive foreign markets, and a weak market for German bonds were unsettling developments. In addition, financial needs of railroads received emphasis from Baltimore & Ohio's application for a $5,000,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation loan.

GRETA NOT BROKE. Greta Garbo didn't lose her fortune in the collapse of the securities of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king. This from her business manager, Harry Eddington, who denies the Scandinavian actress had a single dollar invested in these enterprises. Early reports here were that Greta had dropped thousands of dollars in the venture.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS One of the stories the late Edgar Wallace wrote for R.K.O. will go into production in the near future with Merian C. Cooper directing. Fay Wray has been signed for a lead, and negotiations are on with several other players. There is no title for the story as yet. It is not "The Man Without a Face," which Radio also owns.

LOOK OUT, COLUMNISTS You can look for an epidemic of columnist-heroes in the new films. Warner Brothers now admit that "Blessed Event" cost them more than any other story ever bought by the company. They'll use it as a starring vehicle for James Cagney and production will not be too far in the future.

As a matter of fact, I happen to know Greta has nearly a million dollars in good American securities. Her fortune is so great she really can go back to Sweden and never act again.

Skinner Sees Bright Future for Engineers

Expert Speaks Before Student, Faculty Group

Bright prospects for the immediate future of the electrical industry and electrical engineers were expressed yesterday by Charles E. Skinner, assistant director of engineering of the Westinghouse company, in a speech before electrical engineering students.

"Youths may get the idea that present conditions forbode a dark future, but this is the third major depression I have witnessed since I entered the electrical engineering field. Electrical engineering is little more than half a century old, but in that time it has undergone more complete and revolutionary changes than any other industry. The changes continue today, and electrical engineering will help solve today's problems," said Mr. Skinner.

No Time for Holiday
"Some have suggested that inventors and research men take a holiday, but it seems to me that the present conditions will soon be over, and that the next 50 years will see as much advance as the last. We have learned economy and efficiency during the depression, we have not lost our tastes for conveniences and luxuries, and each problem in research, each new discovery is an advance."

The United States has gone farther than any other nation in using electricity in the home, for light, heat, cooking, ventilation, and refrigeration, increasing the amount of current used by 25 per cent even during the years of depression; the installed capacity of heating plants in the country far exceeds the motor capacity electric heating being more efficient and economical, and more easily regulated than any other; all these things Mr. Skinner takes to mean that the use of electricity is growing and will continue to grow.

Future Traction Demand
More electric trains, improved trolley cars, and electrified marine engines were described by the speaker as some of the forms of electric traction for which the future would have a big demand, and he pointed out that the radio and all its by-products has opened an entirely new industry which offered employment for a great many people.

"Television is on the way, and soon will be here in commercial form so each householder can speak, hear, and see. The apparatus will not be cheap, perhaps $500 for a set for the home during the first few years, but that and a lot of other obstacles will gradually be removed," Mr. Skinner asserted.

Stone Claims Reports Hurt Grain Market

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—A "malicious attempt to manipulate" the grain market was attributed by Chairman Stone of the farm board today to sponsors of reports that large amounts of stabilization wheat will be dumped abroad. He declared untrue persistent reports that George S. Milnor, general manager of the Farmers National Grain corporation had gone to Europe to arrange for the disposition of large quantities of government-owned grain, in addition, Stone asserted flatly that no stabilization wheat would be dumped anywhere, and said the board's program for selling its holdings in monthly allotments, announced last July, had been followed and would not be changed.

Milnor sailed for Europe a week ago. Since then wheat prices have steadily declined and the report to which Stone referred has spread.

SIOUX CITY (AP)—The question of the appointment of David H. McKee, trustee in bankruptcy, as temporary receiver for the Hawkeye Building corporation of Waterloo was taken under advisement by Federal Judge George C. Scott.

Iowa Union Acquires Pictorial Who's Who

Who's Who, in a pictorial collegiate version, is Iowa Union's most recent acquisition.

Pictures of famed individuals on the campus will be displayed in the exhibition case in the front lobby. Candidates for "Miss Pep," representative men and women, and university party committee members serve as examples of those whose photos will rate in Iowa's Who's Who.

The Mecca queen and her attendants, together with Mecca Ball committee men, now have their pictures on exhibition. The case will be taken care of and the pictures will be arranged by the Union board.

Democratic national committee, Senator Bratton said:

"It must be made clear that Hoover has a duty toward his dry supporters, if not indeed toward the entire country, of stating definitely where he stands on this question.

"If he is prepared to accept a Republican platform pledging that party to a more liberal attitude or for resubmission of the amendment to the people, the least he can do is to indicate to his partisans that such is his position. If, on the other hand, he objects to a wet plank in the Republican platform he certainly should not let the Republican convention blunder, as it is apparently bent on doing, by making a declaration contrary to the principles of its candidate."

Roosevelt Leads Democrats

Roosevelt, out in front for the Democratic banner with 57 of the 100 delegates chosen by his party to date, goes before the voters of Georgia tomorrow in a preference primary. He is assured of the southern state's 28 votes, although the delegates themselves will not be named until a state convention April 6.

The McAdoo-Garner conference lasted only a few minutes. Asked by newspapermen what he thought of Roosevelt's chances, McAdoo said only a few delegates had been chosen thus far. He added it was very difficult for a candidate to get the required two-thirds and said he still favored abolishment of this party rule, despite Roosevelt's present lead.

Brave Mother Hailed in Sanity or Death Gamble

MRS. LILLIAN MOORE and DIANA. MRS. ANNA BOLLINGER. DR. HALSEIDEN.

NEW YORK—Mothers, not only all over the United States but throughout the entire world, are deeply interested in the Spartan decision of Mrs. Lillian Moore to take the one chance in one thousand that will either restore her baby to mental normalcy or result in the death of the 13 months old infant.

Mrs. Moore made her decision after surgeons had explained that the child would grow up a hopeless idiot. Stripped of technicalities, the trouble is that the bone structure of the child's skull closed and hardened too soon, not giving the tiny brain an opportunity to expand. Consequently, the mentality of the child remains, and would continue to remain, that of an infant a few months old.

The proposed operation, in which the odds against success are one thousand to one, is one of the most delicate ever attempted. It will be necessary to bore a hole in the baby's skull to permit air to enter and surround the brain convulsions, rendering them visible to the eye of the x-ray. From data thus obtained, surgeons will determine the utility of prying apart the ossified portions of the skull, giving the brain room in which to expand.

Since agreeing to the unique gamble between death and sanity for her baby, Diana, Mrs. Moore has been the recipient of many letters complimenting her on her courage, proving that the human viewpoint has changed considerably in the past few years.

It will be recalled that a similar case of a life and death decision was the subject of a nationwide feature, in Chicago, about 17 years ago. A baby was born to Mrs. Anna Bollinger so terribly deformed that even the father could not bear to look at it. Oddly enough it was the fourth child to which Mrs. Bollinger had given birth, the others being two normal, healthy girls and a normal, healthy boy. However, the newly-arrrived infant was born with only one ear, one side of the face was that of a withered old man. There were internal abnormalities, such as dual organs on one side of the body and none on the other. There was an entire lack of one vital canal, without which the little morsel of humanity must slowly die of intestinal poisoning.

When the father saw the baby he was horrified, and asked the physician in attendance, Dr. Harry J. Halseiden, "Does it have to live?" The doctor assured the unfortunate man that the baby could not live without operation. Whereupon the father voiced his objection to prolonging the life of a child that must grow up at best a feeble-minded, deformed maniac.

Dr. Halseiden hurriedly consulted a group of his colleagues, and 14 out of 15 in the group agreed that death was preferable to the life that was in store for the malformed infant.

Accordingly, with the consent of the child's parents, Dr. Halseiden let nature take its own course, with the result that the child died in four days.

Immediately a storm of criticism burst. Men and women from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico gave their opinions as to the course the doctor and the parents had pursued. An effort was made to have the merciful doctor indicted, but the coroner's jury returned a verdict that no doctor should be forced to act against the dictates of his conscience.

That the world is gradually becoming more broadminded is evidenced by the reaction of public opinion to Mrs. Moore's life and death gamble with her child. Furthermore, the many cases of so-called "mercy-killings" in the last few years have drawn more praise than criticism. A notable case was that of James S. Stenhouse, of Millersburg, Ohio, recently acquitted for killing his child, admittedly an incurable imbecile, and suffering in intense agony. There have been many similar cases abroad, and in no instance was the perpetrator punished for the deed of snuffing out a life that had become a torture.

Three Debaters Will Clash With Michigan

Three Iowa intercollegiate debaters will leave today for Ann Arbor, Mich., where they will engage the representatives of the University of Michigan in the final Western conference debate of the year tomorrow night.

The debaters, who will discuss the problem of debt cancellation, are: Edward L. Carmody, L2 of Davenport; Orville A. Hitchcock, G of Hyndman, Pa.; Edwin W. Schoenberger, G of Marion, Ind. Iowa speakers will uphold the negative in the debate.

The debate was originally scheduled for last week but Michigan officials asked that it be postponed.

Lampe Talks on Jesus' Life

"The essential meaning of the life of Jesus was that he combined the highest thing in ethics with the deepest thing in religion," said Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, who discussed "The life of Jesus" at the all-university Lenten services yesterday.

"He gave to love the sanction of God," Professor Lampe said. "And he showed that he meant what he said by bearing the cross."

Professor Lampe summarized the outward circumstances in the life of Jesus; that he had few advantages of a formal education; that his public teaching was confined to three years.

Irene Ruppert, A4 of Iowa City, played a violin solo, "Song Without Words," by Mendelssohn-Kreisler, for the services.

This morning the Rev. William P. Lemon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will give an address on "The meaning of the cross," and Miss Ruppert will play Massenet's "Meditation." The service will be held in the women's lounge of Iowa Union from 7:30 to 7:45 o'clock.

Shambaugh to Begin Course

A University of Iowa student, in a single summer session course, may now receive insight into major fields of human knowledge.

This innovation, called the campus course and presenting approaches in liberal and cultural education, will be given between June 13 and Aug. 25 by Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the department of political science and for years one of the university's most popular lecturers.

Synthesis of the curriculum of a liberal and cultural education is the purpose of the course.

University Women May Take Canoeing

An opportunity for all women of the university to learn canoeing will be offered after spring vacation by the women's physical education department. Prof. Marjorie Camp will be in charge.

Classes are scheduled daily at 3 p.m. Practice will be on the Iowa river.

Police Arrest Aliens in Coal Miner Strike

Pennsylvania Officers Seize Spaniard for Deportation

WILKES BARRE, Pa., March 22 (AP)—Pennsylvania police started today a roundup of aliens whom they accuse of inciting violence and the stoning of workers in the insurgent strike in the state's rich anthracite region.

The strikers have broken away from the authority of the United Mine Workers of America and are striking in defiance of district officials in an effort to force equalization of work.

Find Radical Literature
Pennsylvania state police at Jessup seized Angelo Nunes, a Spaniard in the region only six weeks. After finding radical literature in his room and evidence of his alleged illegal entry into the United States, they turned him over to immigration authorities for deportation.

They continued to hold Mrs. Katherine Meindkowski of Wilkes Barre, arrested yesterday at Ashley for distributing communistic literature.

Pinchot Enters Picture
Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania also entered the mine picture today. He wrote a senate mining sub-committee hearing in Washington advocating passage of the Davis-Kelly bill to stabilize the soft coal industry with an amendment to provide for arbitration of labor disputes.

He also made clear his stand on picketing.

In an interview with the Associated Press he said:

"I have given definite instructions to state police that peaceful picketing is to be permitted but violent interference with men who wish to go to work will not be allowed.

Must Keep Peace
"It is my business to keep peace and I shall leave nothing undone to that end."

Thomas J. Maloney, leader of the insurgents at Wilkes Barre, said a delegation will call on the governor in an effort to arrive at an understanding as to what he means by "peaceful picketing."

K. R. Hodges Wins $3 Cash Prize for Mecca Dues Sales

Final results, compiled yesterday by Donald E. Farr, E4 of Waucoma, chairman of the Mecca finance committee, show that Kenneth R. Hodges, E4 of Iowa City, is the winner in the contest for the sale of Mecca dues. Hodges will receive the $3 cash prize offered this year to the engineering student selling the largest number of dues.

The difference of one sale prevented Eugene R. Clearman, E3 of Iowa City, from tying Hodges in the selling race. The salesmen and the number of dues sold by each follows: Kenneth R. Hodges, 45 Eugene R. Clearman, 44; Gordon H. Houck, E3 of Carbon, 16; Charles O. Simmons, E3 of Iowa City, 12; Carllos A. Kampmier, E1 of Cedar Rapids, 11; David W. Marchant, E4 of Silvis, Ill., 10, and Clarence F. Schmarje, E4 of Muscatine, 7.

Tax Bill

up the controverted estate and sales tax provisions for quick disposition. For the fourth time during the consideration of the bill they struck hard at the wealthy and compelled the agitated house to accept the Ramseyer estate tax boost amendment by a teller vote of 196 to 149.

Maximum Rate

The amendment, sponsored by Representative Ramseyer (R. Iowa) called for a maximum 45 per cent rate on estates of more than $10,000,000, graduated from one per cent on estates of $50,000.

It was estimated by the Iowan to yield between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000 after three years, but not more than $100,000,000 in the first year because the value of estates would be not fixed until 18 months after death.

New Amendment

The present maximum rate is 20 per cent on estates over $10,000,000. The ways and means committee recommended a maximum of 40 per cent, with an exemption of $10,000. Under the Ramseyer amendment the division of 30 per cent to the states and 20 per cent to the federal government is undisturbed on the first 20 per cent of estate tax collections but of the remainder 25 per cent would go into the federal treasury.

Action came after the house had defeated a super-estate tax proposed by Representative Lewis (D. Md.), which would have reached a maximum levy of 40 per cent on estates over $500,000. The vote was 204 to 45.

Ramseyer Explains

Many members were under the impression when they voted for the Ramseyer amendment that its 45 per cent maximum was in addition to the 20 per cent in existing law, for a total of 65 per cent. Later Ramseyer explained his rates exceeded that recommended by the ways and means committee by 5 per cent.

The house will take up minor legislation tomorrow but when it resumes consideration of the sales tax Thursday it will have several amendments to dispose of before a real test is made.

Propose Exemptions

Ways and means committee amendments proposed by acting Chairman Crisp, exempting food, clothing, prescribed medicines, farm implements, insecticides and malt syrup when used in making bread, and one by Representative Cullen

Violinist Will Give Concert

Misha Elman, violinist, who will play at Iowa Union March 30, has been a pioneer in many phases of his art. He was the first violinist to present a solo recital in America. When he announced at the time of his debut in 1908 that he had provided no assisting artist, his manager was aghast, and insisted that no American audience would stand for two hours of unadulterated violin music. An audience which filled Carnegie hall to the doors proved that even managers can be wrong.

To Elman is given the credit for introducing the Tchaikowsky concerto to America. At the time it was practically unknown in this country. This concerto caused its composer much pain, as during his life it was commonly considered a failure. Following Elman's performance of it, it became so popular that the following year the artist was requested to play it 25 times with leading orchestras.

Besides the Tchaikowsky concerto, the violinist also first presented to this country concertos by Goldmark, Glazounoff, Bruch, and Ernst.

The first violinist ever to make a coast to coast recital tour, Elman has now repeated the performance six times.

D. N. Y. to impose a three cent a pint tax on beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content, will have to be decided upon.

Before the house adjourned Representative Doughton (D., N. C.), leader of the opposition, made a motion to strike the sales tax from the bill.

Root Pitches First Full Game as Cubs Whip San Francisco Seals, 3 to 1

Limits Rivals to Single Hit in 5 Frames

Stephenson in Stellar Role for Bruins; Hack Stars

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22 (AP)—Charlie Root held the San Francisco Seals to six hits today in his first full game performance of the training season and the Cubs won, 3 to 1.

Root permitted only one hit in the first five innings, but eased off in the closing sessions and was nicked a little more frequently. Riggs Stephenson punched out two doubles, both of which were converted into runs and Stanley Hack's triple, followed by Billy Herman's single, accounted for the other score.

Pipgras, Penock Hurl; Yanks Win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22 (AP)—With Herb Penock and George Pipgras pitching three hit all, the New York Yankees defeated the Boston Braves 2 to 0 today.

The Braves collected their three scattered hits off Pipgras after Penock had hit them hitless through the first five innings.

Old Tom Zachary was on the mound in the first inning, when the Yankees scored all of their runs on three of their six hits. Zachary was touched for one more hit in the fourth—a single by Gehrig—and Ray Mancum, international league recruit, led the Yanks down with two sac' blows—singles by Sewell and Lazzari in the sixth and seventh innings respectively.

Score: R.H.E. Boston 0 3 0 New York 2 6 0 Batteries: Zachary, Mangrum, Mulligan and Hargrave; Penock, Pipgras and Jorgens.

Brooklyn Swamps David Nine 19 to 3

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 22 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers went on a scoring rampage today, defeating the House of David 19 to 3.

While Krider and Mattingly, rookie hurlers, were holding House of David to eight hits, the Dodgers collected 18 sac' blows off a trio of opposing pitchers. One of the blows was a home run by Cohen, who replaced Hack Wilson in center field.

Score: R.H.E. House of David 3 8 2 Brooklyn 19 18 1 Batteries: J. Day, Weirman, O'Grady and Barrett, Friedman; Krider, Mattingly and Richards, Pichich.

Mackmen Defeat Philly Subs 15 to 7

FT. MYERS, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Two teams, billed as the Athletics and the Phillies, but looking unlike either tangled in a bit of exercise here today, and the Mack club won, 15 to 7.

Connie Mack used few regulars, while Burt Shotton brought mostly substitutes from Winter Haven. Homers were hit by Bishop, with two on and by George Davis and Rube Bressler for the Phils.

Score: R.H.E. Philadelphia (N) 7 12 0 Philadelphia (A) 15 22 5 Batteries: Bolen, Adams, Fallenstein and Teat, Connell; Rommel, Bowman, Walberg and Madjeski, Heving.

Tigers Get 18 Hits; Smear Giants 11 to 2

LOS ANGELES, March 22 (AP)—Making 18 hits off the pitching of Gibson and Parmelee, Detroit defeated the New York Giants, 11 to 2 in an exhibition game here today.

Gibson was the chief victim. In six innings he gave up 18 hits and seven runs. Wyatt and Goldstein allowed only six Giant hits.

Score: R.H.E. Detroit (A) 11 18 1 New York (N) 2 6 0 Batteries: Wyatt, Goldstein and Ruel, Susce; Gibson, Parmelee and O'Farrell.

Elect Milo Bowers Drake Grid Captain

DES MOINES, March 22 (AP)—Milo Bowers, veteran guard and former Roosevelt high athlete, was elected captain of the Drake university football team tonight at the annual banquet in the home of President D. W. Morehouse.

President Morehouse, Coach Ossie Solem and John Briley, retiring captain, were the speakers, and Dr. L. S. Ross, chairman of the athletic council, was toastmaster.

Friedman to Play With Brooklyn Pros

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—Benny Friedman, for two years star of the New York Giants professional football team, today announced the signing of a contract with the Brooklyn club of the National Professional Football league.

Friedman, an all-American quarterback at the University of Michigan, will manage and coach the Brooklyn eleven in addition to playing.

Sportively Speaking

By Bill Rutledge

The University of Wisconsin wants Veenker to do for the Badger football team what he did for the Iowa State Cyclone eleven—bring grid glory and victories. Veenker was comfortably situated as football assistant and head basketball coach at Michigan, when he left for Ames.

The Cyclones hadn't won a game in three years. Veenker transformed everything last fall, and Iowa State lost only one game instead of a whole schedule-full. Wisconsin is looking for just that kind of a coach.

For a time it appeared that the Badger athletic council would have to ask Glen Thistlethwaite, resigned mentor, back. His consent to direct spring football practice was obtained. It is reported that Thistlethwaite is considering several offers from Big Six and Missouri Valley institutions. A widespread and belated turnover in the coaching profession has featured the late winter and early spring sport news.

The winning of the Big Ten rifle championship Saturday was the fourth straight for the Iowa team. The streak started in 1929. The list of conquests reflects no little credit on Coach Raymond O. Miller.

Hack Wilson, baseball's comeback figure, has been going great in spring practice games. He's been batting .450 for the Brooklyn Robins, and knocking out a few over the fences. That swatting average will look a hundred times better on the Fourth of July than today.

New Old Gold

College life is not new to John Morgan of Mason City. Although he is a candidate for the freshman baseball team, Morgan is familiar with campus life, having attended the Mason City junior college.

While attending that institution he played first base on the baseball nine. Marked batting ability was shown by Morgan when he hit .320 for the season, besides fielding his position flawlessly.

Morgan also played basketball while attending the junior college and gained a reputation for himself as a dependable running guard. He played on the team for two years.

A commerce student, Morgan is 19 years old, weighs 160 pounds, and is six feet, two inches in height.

Sig Nu's Nip Phi Chi Team in Volleyball

Postpone Water Polo Games; Pi K. A. Victors

Although there were three sports scheduled for play among the interfraternity athletes last night, only two games of volleyball were played, the Sigma Nu's surprisingly defeating the Phi Chi six, 16-15, 3-15, and 15-12, and the Pi Kappa Alpha's easily downing Delta Sigma Pi, 15-3 and 15-6.

The water polo game scheduled between Sigma Nu and Phi Kappa Psi was postponed until after the spring vacation as was the playoff game for second place in the "B" basketball league between Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Nu.

The upset of the Phi Chi volleyballers was brought about largely through the spirited play of Thurlie and the sizzling serves of Wagner. Both of the games that the Sigma Nu's triumphed in were close throughout, the first one being a duce affair. Only in the second game did the Phi Chi's display the kind of volleyball that has branded them one of the better teams of the section. Their outstanding player was Osterhagen who, with his height advantage, was the best spiker on either bunch.

Bennett Stars With their point-getting centered around big Parker Bennett, the Pi Kappa Alpha's had things all their way over Delta Sigma Pi. Had the Pi Kappa Alpha's played the same caliber of ball during the first of the schedule as they have lately, they would be strong contenders for first place.

The other two games to be played were forfeited, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Tau Delta winning non-sweating affairs from Phi Beta Delta and Alpha Tau Omega respectively.

A game between Delta Sigma Pi and Delta Tau Delta which was to have been played two weeks ago and was called a double forfeit because the two teams failed to show up, will still be played according to the intramural bosses. This throws the section two standings into quite a muddle. But the Deltas will more than likely walk through the Delta Sig's and Phi Beta Delta, their final opponents.

Gamma Alpha has bit to defeat Delta Chi to get the section one championship. The dope figures them to do this and they will probably turn back the section two winners also to get the grand champ title.

Dick Porter to Hit in Lead Off Position for Cleveland Club

NEW ORLEANS, March 22 (AP)—Dick Porter today was "put on the spot" as the Indians lead-off man when the American league baseball season opens in about three weeks.

Although ball players generally shy at the lead off job in that it cuts their chances at slugger and batting in runs, Porter welcomed the offer, recalling that as a lead off man with the Baltimore Orioles his batting average fell off 30 points but that Manager Jack Dunn raised his salary the next year.

The Indians had no exhibition game scheduled today.

Hawk Tracksters May Participate in Kansas Relay Meet

Tentative entry of half a dozen University of Iowa athletes in the Kansas relays at Lawrence April 23 has been filed by Coach George T. Bresnahan.

While nothing definite about the participation of the Iowans yet is assured, the Hawkeye coach would like to specialize on the half and mile relays in the season's first outdoor meet.

Last year, the Old Gold baton men were second in the half mile, traveling the distance in 1:27, the third best mark made in the United States. Iowa holds the Kansas relays mile record of 3:20 set by the quartet of 1926.

Report Board May Approve Ames Coach

Officials Remain Silent; Spring Practice to Start April 13

MADISON, Wis., March 22 (AP)—Wisconsin university's prolonged hunt for a football coach apparently remained static today with the name of George Veenker, Iowa State college mentor, prominently mentioned.

Reports that Veenker had been appointed went without denial from Badger athletic officials and it was stated on good authorities that only the board of regents formal approval of the appointment remained.

The approval might be made by telephone from their homes, it was indicated, or it might await a meeting of the executive committee Friday.

Spring practice drills start April 13 and the new coach is expected to come here then. The resignation of Glenn Thistlethwaite is effective June 1.

Hawks Better Three Indoor Track Marks

Smashing of three University of Iowa indoor track records has featured the Hawkeye season during the last month.

Captain George Saling ran the 60 yard high hurdles in :07.4-10, to clip a fifth of a second from the old mark held since 1923 by Joe Allison. The leader, in the state indoor meet last Saturday, scored 17 points, the biggest total ever registered by an athlete in the field house.

The other individual record-breaker is Stuart Skowbo, who set a new half-mile standard of 1:57.5-10. This erased the time of 1:57.8-10 made in 1928 by Jack Moulton.

When the mile relay team of Walter Nugnis, Gordon Lagerquist, Sidney Dean, and Saling traversed the distance in 3:23.8-10 at the conference meet, the four year old record fell.

Senators Win 6-5

BILOXI, Miss., March 22 (AP)—A flock of errors, mental and physical, contributed to the Washington Senators 6 to 5 victory today over the Toledo Mudhens.

St. Mary's to Enter Spring Sports Field?

Possibility of Ramblers Competing in Track or Baseball

By RON TALLMAN St. Mary's Ramblers may shatter an age old tradition this spring—that of having never participated in any sport other than basketball.

From the time that school was started until classes were suspended for summer vacation, basketball was the sole sport in which the Ramblers competed during the last years. But that is almost certain of being changed this spring.

No definite plans have yet been made, but Coach Francis Suplee feels sure that the usual spring cage drill, which he gives those eligible for competition the next winter, will be supplemented with either baseball or track.

Squad Enthusiastic

The St. Mary's boys have completed a long and arduous basketball season—one which was highly successful—and would be fully justified in resting until they once more took up the sport next fall. When brought up the subject of spring competition though, the members of the squad were enthusiastic.

All of them baseball fans, the diamond sport was particularly favorable to them, although, if it could not be arranged otherwise, track would suit them. The prospects for the Blue and White in either of these fields would be of the best, for though the material is not of the greatest in numbers, all of the boys are possessed with considerable ability.

May Form League

Should the diamond sport be taken up, Coach Suplee said there is a possibility that a high school league would be formed with teams from several nearby towns. This would be the first such high school organization in this part of the state.

For Leo Gaulocher, captain and leading scorer on the Rambler team the last season, and Ralph Lumsden, the big, driving stalwart on the court and one of the best prep athletes in the city, a spring sport would give them a chance to further add to the laurels of already brilliant careers.

Irish May Have Spring Football

With an experienced eleven ready for service and every prospect for a winning team next fall, football will probably be the sport selected for spring training at the local St. Patrick's high school. Track and basketball are the other alternates that might be chosen.

Graduation in June will not seriously cripple the Irish squad. There will still be left a full backfield consisting of Glenn, Pugh, Wetrich, Nolan, and J. McNamara, besides such stars in the line as Emanuel, all-city tackle, McMahon, Connell, Grady, Pinney, and White.

Oakland Club Bows to Pittsburgh 5 to 1

OAKLAND, Cal., March 22 (AP)—Continuing their barnstorming winning streak, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed Oakland's Pacific Coast league club today, 5 to 1.

Bill Swift held the home boys to seven scattered safeties.

GRAND NATIONAL WINNER

Never once mentioned as having even a remote chance in the big race, Forbra (above) led the field home in the English Grand National Steeplechase. The winner was quoted in the odds at 50 to 1. Egremont was second, Shaun Gollin was third. None of the American entries finished in the money.

Hawks Elect Johnson '33 Mat Captain

Clarence "Swede" Johnson, Cherokee sophomore, was elected captain of the 1933 Iowa wrestling team last night.

The announcement was made by Coach Mike Howard following a meeting of this year's letter winners.

Hailed at the start of the season as the best Hawkeye prospect in 10 years, Johnson came through with high point honors for the season, and gained the reputation as the cleverest man on the team.

Wrestling in the 155 pound class during the dual meet season, Johnson won against Cornell, Minnesota, Iowa State Teachers, and Illinois. His lone defeat in the dual encounters was to Chicago.

In the Big Ten championship meet at Bloomington, Ind., he dropped down to the 145 pound division, where he was defeated in the final round by Golings of Indiana. A defeat in the consolation gave him third place.

Last Friday in the state collegiate championship meet at Ames, Johnson placed second in the 145 pound class, losing to Maynard Harman, Tutor flash, in the fastest match of varsity competition.

Although this was his first year of varsity competition, Johnson boasts plenty of experience on the mat. He wrestled on the Cherokee high school team, and has taken part in several A.A.U. tournaments. He was runner up for the 145 pound title in the midwest A.A.U. meet last year.

Riflemen Add Two Wins in Postal Meets

Reports received yesterday on last week's postal matches give University of Iowa rifle men two more victories and one defeat for their final week of telegraphic competition.

The Hawkeye R.O.T.C. team turned in a 3,724 to 3,466 win over the University of Kansas, while the Old Gold freshmen broke even in their matches with fresh squads of the University of Wisconsin and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The Iowa yearlings' total of 1,319 was enough to turn back the Massachusetts team, whose score was 1,307, but fell short of the 1,351 total made by the Badger prep.

Five perfect scores, four in the prone position and one in the sitting position, were turned in by varsity snipers in the closing week of scheduled postal competition. Individual scores in the senior division were:

Hospital Cagers to Meet Sterling A. C.

The 186th Hospital company basketball team will journey to Sterling, Ill., Saturday, for a post season game with the Sterling Athletic club. This game will mark the end of the season for the local club.

The Sterling A. C. team are the champions of the eastern Illinois Independent league. They have dropped but two games this season. The hospital team has 18 victories to their credit this season and but three losses.

U. Hi Track Team Meets Lyons Today

Locals Favored to Win Season Opener at Field House

University high's track and field team will swing into action for the first time this year when it attempts to repeat last year's victory over Lyons at the field house at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Coach M. F. Carpenter indicated last night that his Blue and White thinclads have an excellent chance of hanging up a victory in their initial effort this season. Led by Phillips and Cannon, 440 and mile titleholders in the Little Seven conference, University high should win handily, barring upsets.

With the greatest weakness appearing in the shot, the local tracksters appear to have a strong team. Dever, Phillips, Ohlmacher, and Captain Cannon are expected to collect the majority of the points for the Blue and White in the meet today, with additional help coming from McCloy, Fred Moore, Foerster, and Meintzer.

Coach Carpenter has nominated the following men for the contest: Pole vault—Dever, McCloy, Fountain.

50 yard dash—Ohlmacher, Phillips, McCloy, Wyjack.
1 mile run—Captain Cannon, Adams, Stevens.
60 yard high hurdles—Means, Hager, McCollister.

High jump—Ohlmacher, Means, H. Moore.
Shot put—Phillips, Foerster, Warren, Jessup, Crumley.
440 yard dash—Phillips, Ohlmacher, Sykes.

Broad jump—Foerster, Meintzer, Wyjack, Sykes, Fuhrmeister.
Half mile run—Cannon, F. Moore, H. Moore, Christensen.
60 yard low hurdles—McCloy, Means, McCollister.
Four lap relay—McCloy, Means, Ohlmacher, Phillips.

Dark Horses Nip Dribbler Quint, 24-21

The Dark Horses lived up to their name yesterday, and flashed surprising strength to upset the first-place Dashing Dribblers, 24 to 21, in the third round of the local St. Patrick's round robin cage tournament. The game was a battle for scoring honors between the captains of the two teams, Pinney and Scannell.

The Dark Horse victory complicates the lead in the tourney, they having lost to both the other teams, while the Dribblers had won over the same quintets.

A last minute basket by Floerching gave the Golden Tornadoes an 15 to 17 victory over the Green Waves, and a tie with the Dashing Dribblers for first place honors. The contest was a duel between the two captains, Megan and Glenn, who were playing opposite guard positions.

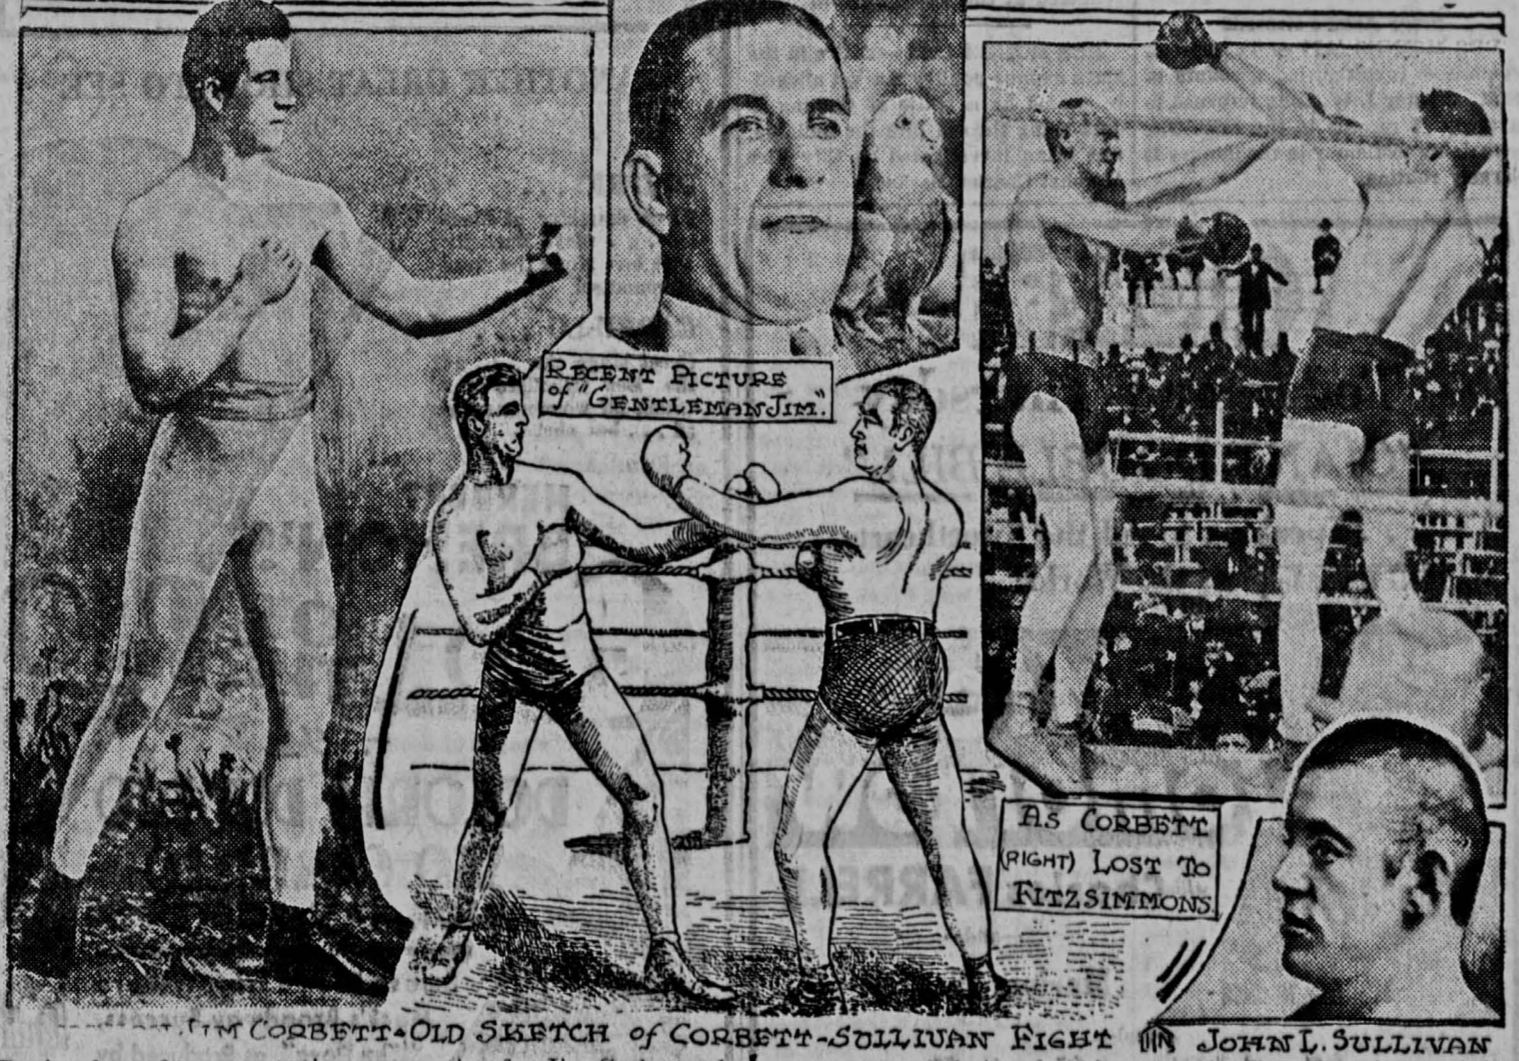

The Dribblers will meet the Golden Tornadoes tomorrow in a play-off to definitely settle the question of supremacy, while the Dark Horses and the Green Waves will argue the cellular championship. No more games will be played until after Easter, and tomorrow's contests may prove to be the final battles of the tournament.

Ace Hudkins Sued

LOS ANGELES, March 22 (AP)—Ace Hudkins, boxer, today was sued for $50,000. Leonard Wood, charged that Hudkins, known to boxing as the "Nebraska wildcat," severely beat him last Jan. 9 in a street altercation. The complaint described Hudkins' fists as "dangerous weapons."

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—Uncle Sam's tennis forces took a commanding lead in their indoor team match with France when George Lott, Jr., and John Van Ryn scored a four set victory over the visiting pair, Jean Borotra and Antoine Gentien, tonight. The scores were 15-13, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

"GENTLEMAN JIM" CORBETT IN HIS GREATEST BATTLE

JIM CORBETT-OLD SKETCH OF CORBETT-SULLIVAN FIGHT OR JOHN L. SULLIVAN

Boxing fans of two generations are rooting for Jim Corbett, who is staging the greatest battle of his career, a fight for life, in his home at Bayside, Long Island, N. Y. The one-time heavyweight champion is in his sixty-sixth year and his condition is reported as serious. "Gentleman Jim" won the heavyweight crown at New Orleans on Sept. 7, 1892, by knocking out John L. Sullivan in the 21st round in the biggest upset ever known to the ring. Sullivan was an overwhelming favorite over the San Francisco stripling. Corbett held the title nearly five years, losing it to Bob Fitzsimmons, who knocked him out in 14 rounds at Carson City, Nev., March 17, 1897. "Gentleman Jim," however, remained a prominent figure in the sport world. His present illness is the first serious attack he ever suffered.

But Aunt Clara would not be put off. "Tell me what's the matter, or I'll go and pry it from the major," she warned.

"We've got to win that freedom back for him. He couldn't live without it," said Ted.

"The game is up, old son," he said. Then, to the others, he added, "I'm the major, I think, was somewhat surprised to learn that El Coyote and Don Bob were one and the same wicked person."

"Bob!" Both women had gasped at the word. Both had started toward his chair, and now they stood struck into sudden immobility.

Within the house the sound of clock ticking seemed to redouble intensity. A bee buzzed noisily among the vines, then slowly it and understanding returned to the little group.

Adela's hands closed desperately about his arm. "Bob, old Bob. Say it isn't true. It was like a cry of pain. 'Not you, Bob.'"

"Myself." Then in his low, clear voice Bob told them all. He told it without regret, without emotion, as one might tell a tale that had happened long ago to someone quite remote. He told of the mistake his band had made, of the bargain with the major, but at the future he said nothing, and at the tale's ending he tossed away his cigarette and rose.

He looked worn and weary. These people that he loved more than all else in life—he had brought them pain. Suddenly he wanted to get away—to be alone, before it became unbearable.

"I'm going over to the bank and then out to the ranch," he smiled at a sudden recollection. "Yesterday I lost a dinner to the major. Tonight if you can spare him, Aunt Clara, I want him to come and claim it. It may be my last chance to entertain for some time."

As he turned toward the steps the girl flung both arms around his neck. "Bob, Bob," she whispered, "there's a way out somewhere. There's got to be. We'll find it. Ted will find it. In the meantime, you won't do anything foolish, promise?"

"I promise." Half smiling, he crossed his heart.

With wet lashes, the girl kissed him, then watched the straight, slender figure pass for the last time down the winding road.

A somber luncheon. Through it all they made and remade plans for helping Bob. Yet each time the fullness of all plans became manifest as the inescapable fact arose that, so far as the United States government was concerned, no defense existed. Blount summed up the charges that would be brought. Don Bob had stirred up a sedition along the border, he had smuggled arms into Mexico and employed force against the citizens of a friendly nation. He had killed. A black record.

The idea of escape ran through the mind of each—yet they knew that nothing would persuade Bob to go unless the major released him from his word. And it was a mute tribute to the integrity of the old soldier that not once did any of them ask him to release his friend from that promise.

Aunt Clara came nearest when, after a long, baffled silence she said, "If Bob's life lay in my hands, I'd tell my sense of duty where to go in short order."

"You'd let him escape? It's the one thing I can't do, of course," the major said.

"I know. You've been too long a soldier for that. But I wish I could be you for just five minutes. I'd release Bob, go fishing a week, and come back with renewed energy to hunt my pet bandit. Yes, dear, I know you can't. I'm only telling you what your depraved will would do."

"I still believe his only hope is to get Morales's help," Blount said at last. "Morales has nothing to lose, but his revenge. He has won and can dictate his own terms. He can get Bob's promise to leave the country. He can have Bob's ranch and his cattle. From now on he could be the undisputed lord of the border. Wouldn't that tempt him?"

Ted turned to Adela. "You know best. For myself, I'll promise anything for Bob's freedom. I'll turn over to your uncle the Esperanza property—the one piece of land he needs to give him full control from the border to the foothills. I'll work for him, I'll manage Bob's ranch for him. Do you think he might, dear?"

The girl pondered. "No one has ever known my uncle, not really. I never have. So I can't say, I'm almost afraid to guess. I know he hates El Coyote with a deep, unreasoning hatred. It's as if on the subject of El Coyote he isn't quite sane; but once he knows it's Don Bob—she raised both her hands in desperation. "What good does it do to talk and wonder? If uncle's our only chance, let's take it, and take it now. It means putting myself in his hands again, but I'll risk that."

The major laid his hand on hers. "You're his only chance, Adela. Morales can ruin Bob or he can spare him, but Bob himself will never ask. That wouldn't be his idea of the game. So you've got to do it, you and Ted, and I'll scribble a note adding my own plea. I'll tell Morales that every man in Verdi will respect him the more for showing mercy. I'll tell him the government will look favorably on such an act." He raised harassed eyes. "Great God, if I could only believe it would do any good!" And he hurried inside the house.

Ten minutes later with the girl at the wheel Ted was being driven out toward the desert. The sun of late afternoon hovered over the foothills, changing the blue mists to mauve and purple, touching them with rose, making the sands glisten, out to the edge of the world. Cactus blooms dotted the desert, telling of another spring. Torn with spent hopes he watched the ever-changing miracle of sunlight and cloud, and in silent understanding the girl laid her cheek against his shoulder.

Without turning his eyes, he spoke. "All this"—he nodded toward the splendor of spring about them—"it reminds me of something Bob once said about the great beauty of the world and the queer ways of men. One thing he loved above all else, Adela—freedom. The freedom that allows each man to live his life. And to bring freedom to the border people he has lost his own. We've got to win that freedom back for him. He couldn't live without it. He wouldn't want to. It will be hard enough to leave his beloved desert."

"I know, dear. We must, somehow, make the miracle happen."

Phillies Through Slugging for Fun; Learning "Inside Stuff" From Burt Shotton

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Whether or not the country goes Democratic in the national elections this year, the Phillies will change the label on their brand of baseball.

After years of slugging from their shoe tops, trading punch for punch without getting anywhere in particular, Burt, the gray fox, is teaching his boys "inside stuff."

The Phillies are not only running the bases but actually stealing them. This correspondent as an eye witness to an almost incredible day's work in which these Phils produced a double steal, working the sacrifice for the hit, and the run, finally wound up by executing a squeeze play with a rookie catcher, Al Todd, at bat.

Look of Wonder To our look of wonder and amazement on the bench, Shotton smiled warily, as though about to pull a half dozen rabbits out of the hat bag, and explained: "Whether or not it gets us anywhere, we are going to have more variety in our play this year than before."

With the best pitching prospects he has had in years, a first class infield, good catching and hopes for a better outfield defense, Shotton believes his club will show improvement.

It has no pennant hallucinations but it has a chance to break into the first division if Clive Dudley comes through to make a pitching "big four" with Phil Collins, Ray Bengue and Jumbo Jim Elliott, who won 19 games last season. Shotton will be delighted if the team can add a dozen more games to the "won" column.

Dudley Promising Dudley won only eight games last season whereas the other three averaged 15 apiece. He should do much better this year. In addition, Shotton has a trio of exceptionally bright prospects in Roy Hanen, angular southpaw from Dallas; Reg Grabowski, picked up as a free agent; and Edgar Holley, who won 14 games for Kansas City in 1931.

and looks like a real find. Bob Adams, former Jacksonville boy who twirled for Richmond last season, is another good prospect although he needs more seasoning. Stew Bolen, southpaw, and Frank Watt, righthander, both may be retained.

Although already well fortified behind the bat with big Virgil Davis, a heavy hitter, and Harry McCurdy, one of the best blockers in the backstopping business, Shotton has picked up a great looking catcher in Al Todd, the boy who hung the knockout wallop on Dizzy Dean in the Texas league, Al can throw, hustle and hit better than the boys figure.

No Infield Worries Shotton has no infield worries with a smooth working quartet consisting of Don Hurst, the much improved Les Malton, Dick Bartel and Capt. Pinky Whitney, but he is very much in need of outfield support for the great Chuck Klein, who has never looked better in training. His defensive work has been especially sensational.

George Davis, former New York university boy, who hit .343 with St. Paul last year, is getting a thorough trial in center and may make the grade. Hal Lee looks to have the call in left. Fred Brickell and the veteran Rube Bressler, who can also sub at first base, are in reserve.

General Consents to Check Hunter's Tale of Missing Explorer RIO DE JANEIRO, March 22 (AP)—Gen. Candido Rondon, noted authority on the mystery lands of Brazil, consented today to check back on the trail of a trapper, who appeared at Sao Paulo last week with a story that he had seen the missing explorer, Col. P. H. Fawcett.

Rondon reiterated, however, his conclusion that the trapper, Stephen Rattin, either was mistaken or was falsifying.

"Rattin's story is totally contrary to my knowledge of the Mato Grosso region," General Rondon wrote.

In return for this concession, Rio Grande political leaders agreed to withdraw their insistence upon a supreme court inquiry into the recent "military attack" on the Rio De Janeiro newspaper Carioeca, permitting the case to follow a normal course in the courts.

Thus was healed a break between the provisional president and his colleagues from the south, which had threatened for two weeks to disrupt the political equilibrium of Brazil.

Abolish School Dentist CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—Despite protests of the City Dental Association and the Parent-Teacher association, the school board abolished the school dentist and the ungraded school. Economy measures led to the action.

Boston Red Sox Try Batting Eyes in Long Workouts

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 22 (AP)—Manager "Shano" Collins today put his Boston Red Sox rookies through a long morning session and spent the afternoon drilling the veterans. Both squads stressed batting, for Collins wants his players in a slugging mood when they open their spring training schedule against the Hartford club of the Eastern league here Thursday.

Tripp Sigman, new outfielder, worked out with the regulars and made a good impression at the bat. Outfielder George Stump, a gripe victim, was reported recovering.

Lobdell Drops Name From National Meet

Wentworth Lobdell, three times winner of the Big Ten fancy diving championship, was scratched last night from the list of two contestants who will represent the University of Iowa varsity swimming team at the National Collegiate A.A.U. championships Friday and Saturday at Ann Arbor, Mich.

After repeated warnings, university doctors have convinced the champion that participation in this meet might mean serious sinus complications later. He will, however, make the trip with Capt. McGuire, varsity dash man, and Bruce Grove and William Busby of the freshman squad, Coach Armbruster said last night.

Capt. August Anderson of the frosh will also be missing in the Iowa lineup because of transportation complications.

Former Resident Dies Meckle Dodder, sister of the late Mrs. A. G. Tucker, a former resident of Iowa City, died at her home in Rock Island Monday night. Her body will be brought to Iowa City for burial in Oakland cemetery following a funeral at the Knox funeral home in Rock Island today. Surviving her is her nephew, C. F. Tucker of Duluth, Minn.

Mississippi Express Company Fined for Shipping Live Quail

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss., March 22 (AP)—Prosecution of the Railway Express agency for the shipment of 907 live quail by express threatens to become expensive.

The company was fined a total of $90,700 last Thursday by a magistrate who held that a state law was violated by the quail being in cases on a railroad platform, consigned to points outside the state. A fine of $100 was assessed for each quail.

L. A. Smith, Jr., attorney for the express company, said today he would appeal, make a separate case out of each of the 907 quail and demand a jury trial in each case.

In addition, Smith said, he will demand the birds be brought back for identification. The quail were liberated after their seizure.

White Sox Continue Batting Drill; Pilot to Cut Squad Soon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 22 (AP)—Chicago's White Sox put in another day of batting practice today, as Manager Lew Fonseca deliberated on where he will start trimming the squad.

Only two more days will be spent here, and the last game of the series against the San Antonio Indians will be played tomorrow. The northward jaunt will start Friday, with Ft. Worth the first stop.

Stage Class Demonstrates Use of Lights

The possibilities of the use of light in dramatic production were demonstrated last night in a lighting demonstration, produced under the direction of Hutton D. Sellman, technical director of the University theater. In natural science auditorium, the entire production was conceived and staged by the classes in stage lighting, under the direction of Mr. Sellman.

The successful use of light as an accompaniment to the dance was the high point of the demonstration. By variation of the intensity, color and distribution of light, the tempo and rhythm of the dancer were followed easily. The dance was created and directed by Janet Cummings, instructor in the women's physical education department, and interpreted and directed by Janet Cummings, City. Mr. Sellman was in charge of staging and lighting.

The stage manager for the demonstration was Wilson B. Paul, G of Cedar Falls. Incidental music was furnished by Harry Thatcher, instructor in the school of music.

State Rests in Murder Case

Louis Goodwin Tells of James Campbell, Mrs. Gross

After six days of lengthy examination and cross examination the state rested its case yesterday at 4:20 p.m. in the murder trial of James S. "Slim" Campbell, charged with slaying Mrs. Anabel Gross last Thanksgiving day.

At 4:30 p.m. the defense introduced its first witness, Louis Goodwin. In response to questions of Paul Toomey, defending, he told of the times that Mrs. Gross and Campbell were at the Williams hotel, of which he is owner.

Testified for State
He further contended that the murdered woman and Campbell were on the best of terms. Goodwin had also been called to the stand previously to testify for the state, represented by County Attorney F. B. Olen, prosecuting.

Last of 22 witnesses to be called on the stand by Mr. Olen was Chief of Police Frank L. Smith, who testified for the state that he had been present at the interviewing of Campbell on the night of the shooting.

Admitted Owning Revolver
In response to questions of Paul Toomey, cross examining, it was brought out that Campbell had admitted having owned a .32 caliber revolver and that he took it with him to the home of Mrs. Gross on the day of the shooting. Chief Smith was on the stand for more than one hour and a half.

County Coroner George Marech and W. H. Bender, who were both called to the stand yesterday, testified that they had performed an autopsy on Mrs. Gross and that they believed death to be due to two gun shot wounds piercing the left lung.

Other Witnesses
Other witnesses called to the stand yesterday were Police Officers Wesley Sedvec and Joe Dolezal, Preston Koser, and Mr. Bender, who is an expert in firearms.

Campbell, previous to the trial, claimed that he had gone to the home of Offie Trospier, 916 Maiden Lane, and had asked Mrs. Gross to leave with him.

When she refused he drew a gun with intentions to kill himself. They struggled, he said, and the gun went off. He saw blood on Mrs. Gross but ran out of the house without stopping to examine her wound.

Rev. E. A. Worthley Leads Second Holy Week Service

Speaking on the subject, "Could Jesus be contemporary," the Rev. Evans A. Worthley of the Unitarian church led the second Holy Week service at the Englert theater yesterday noon.

"It is only through experience, heroism, and sacrifice that we can understand the emotions of others," he stated. "In order to make Christ live among us we must have great experiences, we must meet our problems and fight for what we think is right."

The world, he said, is living under conditions of strain and excitement, and it is doubtful whether people can stand such an intense life. "The only way that we can stand this life

Courts May Restrain Coal Mine Strikers

Ohio Company Asks Injunction to Stop Picketing

ATHENS, Ohio, March 22 (AP)—The courts were called upon today to intervene in the strike of bituminous coal miners in the Hocking Valley and Sunday Creek fields.

In an effort to gain protection for miners who want work, the Sunday Creek Coal company went into the Athens county common pleas court and asked for an injunction restraining the United Mine Workers of America from picketing the concern's mines, trespassing on its property, and intimidating miners. The petition names striking miners and international and local officers of the union as defendants. No date for a hearing on the petition was fixed.

Dynamite Tracks
Despite Governor George White's ultimatum that the Ohio national guard would be sent into the strike fields if law violations continued a section of railroad track into Millfield mine No. 1 was dynamited.

Leaders of the strikers, who seek recognition of the union and higher pay than that offered by the operators, toured the region today, urging the strikers to maintain order. While pickets were out in force, the situation was very quiet.

Strike May Spread
Rumors persisted that the strike would spread to the eastern and Cambridge fields in Ohio and the Panhandle region of West Virginia. Scale committees of these fields will meet with similar committees from the Hocking-Sunday Creek regions in Bellare Thursday. Announcement of this meeting came on the heels of a statement from the Hanna company that the day rate for miners in the Eastern field would be cut from $4.30 to $3.20. The company served notice that the mines would be closed down if the men did not want to work at the new rate.

Judge Rejects Direct Verdict in T. B. Case

ANAMOSA, March 22 (AP)—Judge H. C. Ring today overruled a defense motion for a directed verdict in the trial of two Cedar county farmers on charges of conspiracy to obstruct the Iowa compulsory tuberculosis cattle testing law.

Judge Ring said he believed the evidence presented by the state was sufficient to warrant continuing the case before a jury.

J. C. Franco, W. L. Harding, and H. J. Jefferson, counsel for the defendants, J. W. Lenker and Paul Moore, presented the arguments asking the directed verdict. C. J. Lynch replied in behalf of the state.

Following Judge Ring's ruling at 2:30 p.m. the defense testimony began. Moore and Lenker are charged with inciting disturbances which led to the mobilization of Iowa national guardsmen to enforce the testing law in southeastern Iowa last fall.

lel Sullivan, W. G. Ott, and George A. Paschal.

Petitions to Sell
Edgar Ashton, administrator of the estate of James Lukavsky, asks to be permitted to sell land in Johnson county. Hearing of the petition was set for March 29.

Today's program, under the auspices of the Lions club, will be the third in a series of five. The Rev. R. E. McEvoy will talk on "The appeal of the Master." The meeting will open at 12:05 p.m., and will close at 12:30 p.m. Lions will meet for their regular weekly luncheon at the Jefferson hotel immediately following the service.

Officers May Solve Looting
Suspect Two Men of Complicity in Ely Bank Robbery

CEDAR RAPIDS, March 22 (AP)—Linn county officers believe the $2,880 robbery of the Ely Savings bank May 15, 1931, may be solved.

One man, John Traynor, who Monday was sentenced to an indeterminate sentence of 30 years in the Ft. Madison prison on an assault charge, was said today by Deputy Sheriff Roy Radebaugh to be suspected of complicity in the Ely holdup.

Return Suspect
Meanwhile, Walter G. Gulick, who once lived here, was being returned from Indianapolis by Deputy Sheriff Larry Condon and State Agent Ray Scott on a warrant charging complicity in the robbery.

Traynor, also known as Jack Hines, and Gulick were involved in a gun battle with Des Moines detectives in Des Moines Feb. 11. Traynor and Detective Joe Loehr were wounded and the former pleaded guilty, in connection with Loehr's injuries, to a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, on which he was given the prison sentence Monday by Judge Loy Ladd in Des Moines.

Waived Extradition
Gulick was released from Des Moines police custody in connection with the affray. He was arrested recently in Indianapolis, however, and waived extradition.

Officers here said today a third man, whom they did not name, also was suspected of participation in the Ely holdup.

State Republicans Elect 25 Delegates to National Meet; Hoover Supported by Iowans

DES MOINES, March 22 (AP)—Working with nearly perfect harmony, the state Republican convention today elected 25 Hoover delegates to the national convention and pledged the support of Iowa Republicanism to the re-election of its native son as president.

It assured a delegation pledged to Hoover in three ways, first by voting to instruct its seven delegates at large; next, through the instruction of delegates by district caucus; and finally by adopting a resolution pledging the entire delegation.

Pledge Loyal Support
Resolutions adopted at the closing session also "pledged the loyal and energetic support of the Republicans of Iowa," to the president, who was referred to as "that great statesman and leader who was born on the prairies of Iowa."

The resolutions also commended officials taking the lead in reducing governmental expenditures and advocated further reduction "until a fair relationship is established between expenditures and income."

Endorse Relief Program
By adopting the proposals of its resolutions committee the convention also went on record as endorsing the unified relief program sponsored by the three national farm organizations and urged its speedy adoption by congress.

It also advocated such changes in the tariff "as may be necessary to permit the exchange of our agricultural surplus for the products of other nations on a reciprocal basis." No mention was made of prohibition.

Contest Over Proposal
The only indications of anything but nearly perfect harmony came in a brief contest over the proposal to instruct the seven delegates-at-large, and in an effort to submit amendments to the resolutions as a minority report.

A roll call vote by counties on the instruction of these seven delegates showed that the proposal had carried 1,268 and one-ninth to 103 and eight-ninths. The roll call was demanded by "Rube" McFerrer of Webster City in the motion for instruction made by Rep. Frank Elliott of Davenport.

The delegates-at-large named by the convention were Governor Turner, J. N. Darling of Des Moines, Mayor Edwin Manning of Ottumwa, Joe Anderson of Thompson, Martha McClure of Mt. Pleasant, Senator J. Dickinson and King Palmer of West Union.

Famine, Smallpox Sweep Refugees' Camps in China; 50 Per Cent of Cases Fatal

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
SHANGHAI, March 22 (AP)—Famine and pestilence in the form of smallpox, which menaced foreigners, were sweeping over the crowded camps of warfar's refugees in China today.

Foreigners are particularly susceptible to the type of smallpox prevalent here, said Dr. Wu Lien-Teh, director of the Chinese maritime quarantine service. Hundreds of them have heeded warnings and undergone vaccination.

Disease Virulent
The disease was in a very virulent form, with half the cases thus far fatal, Dr. Wu said.

At Hongkong, Saigon and other refugee centers 142 cases were reported last week end. E. Koehlin, French consul-general, died of the disease.

Steamers entering and leaving Shanghai are required to take special precautions against smallpox, while Hongkong has ordered that all persons arriving there from Shanghai must be vaccinated before they may enter the port.

Eat Bark From Trees
Famine, not a new condition in a

China frequently visited by drought and floods, has driven the people again to eating the bark of trees, the chaff of thrashed grain and weeds, said Sir John Hope-Simpson, British director of the China famine commission.

The income from special Chinese taxes for relief of sufferers from last year's floods in the Yangtze valley has been cut from $750,000 to $175,000 a month as a result of the hostilities, Sir John said. The crisis required desperate measures.

Sell U. S. Wheat
The commission is forced to depend almost entirely on the sale of American wheat, donated to the food relief organization, for income and must raise much more money, he said.

A complaint against Japanese air patrols continuing to fly over the area behind the Chinese lines was filed with the League of Nations inquiry commission by 25 Americans and British residents of Shanghai.

Japan Raids
From Soochow came reports of Japanese air raids, with the wounding of a peasant couple by a flying Japanese machine gunner over Hang-

Actress Loses in Second Suit Trial

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—A verdict of $40,000 was returned against Marjorie Rameau, actress, today in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Mabel Manton, widow of the late Kevitt Manton, actor.

Mrs. Manton had testified her husband began to transfer his affections to Miss Rameau while they were playing together in 1924-1925. The first trial of the suit two years ago resulted in a disagreement.

Grain Values Fall to New Low Levels

CHICAGO, March 22 (AP)—In a storm of selling, largely to stop losses by holders of future deliveries of wheat, all grain values suffered a collapse today.

Maximum breaks of 3 cents a bushel tumbled wheat to the bottommost point reached since Oct. 10, and pulled corn down to new low records both for this season and in several options for many years back. One of the chief unsettling factors was a recommendation by the wheat advisory committee of the federal farm board that government financed wheat be moved promptly to save storage charges, and that congress provide additional funds to enable the board to extend further credits to purchasers overseas.

Wheat closed nervous 1 3/4@2 3/8 cents under yesterday's finish, corn 3/4@1 1/8 down, oats 1-2@5/8 off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

From the outset, the wheat market had to contend with the disturbing influence of an unexpected downturn in quotations at Liverpool. Reports say that confidence there has been shaken, with millers withdrawing as buyers.

chow. Japanese aviators denied they had fired on Hangchow or any other Chinese position since the cessation of hostilities.

Dr. M. P. Young of the American Freshwater mission at Soochow, however, said the low-flying planes menaced safety and created a state of tension.

Japanese army officials said they had no intention of stopping the patrols, which were merely watching Chinese military operations, until a truce is finally effected.

Senate Wets to Seek Vote on Repeal Bill

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Senate anti-prohibitionists today served notice they would seek a vote on repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment and dry leaders confidently challenged them to proceed with their plans.

Earlier, Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, moved to strike from the justice department appropriation measure the $11,000,000 dry enforcement fund and was defeated without a record vote.

Present Petition
Then Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, presented a petition signed by 24 members asking the judiciary committee to submit to the senate for a vote one of the varied resolutions proposing repeal, or modification of the eighteenth amendment.

The submission of a petition is unnecessary to bring a measure from committee for a vote. A motion may be entered any time and a majority vote of the senate is all that is required.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, suggested that the anti-prohibitionists get together on some form of resolution before asking the senate to vote.

Ready for Issue
Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee told Tydings he was ready to take up the issue in the senate in mediately by unanimous consent.

Tydings said he wished the petition to lie on the table until March 30 at which time he would move to bring about a vote. Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, circulated the petition on the Republican side.

Borah, a leader of the prohibition forces, suggested with a smile that the vote be had on April 1.
