HONOLULU JURY FINDS FOUR GUILTY

Saling Breaks Drake Relay Record

Iowa City H. S. Student Wins State Speaking Contest Here

Sioux City Takes Home Debate Honors in Contest

East high school of Sioux City and Iowa City high school shared honors in the Iowa interscholastic public speaking contests held here Thursday and Friday, according to announcements made last night at the dinner given by Delta Sigma Rho at Iowa Union.

The Sioux City team was returned victorious in the finals of the high school debating league, while Ansel Chapman, representing Iowa City high school, won first place in the finals of the extemporaneous speaking league.

Round Robin Series

East high's victory came at the conclusion of the round-robin series which was completed yesterday afternoon. The Sioux City debaters were winners in four debates, losing two. The fight for second place was close. Thomas Jefferson high school of Council Bluffs winning over Ames. Both teams won three and lost three but the decision went to the Council Bluffs school upon the basis of individual speaker rankings. Newton high school, victor in two debates and loser in four, was the other entrant.

Chapman Defeats Three

Chapman won his first in the extemporaneous speaking contest yesterday afternoon in natural science auditorium, over a field of three other contestants. Council Bluffs again received honors when James Williams, representing Abraham Lincoln high school, was awarded second place in the speaking contest. Other entrants were Wells Barnett, representing West Waterloo high school, and Lillian Arent, representing Humboldt high school.

The winners of first and second place in both divisions were awarded silver and bronze plaques. First and second place winners in extemporaneous speaking and the six speakers who ranked highest in the debating contests will be awarded four year scholarships in the college of liberal arts.

Winning Debaters

Members of the winning debate team were Farnell Mahoney, Lloyd Johnson, Robert King and Addison Hickman. Members of the Thomas Jefferson team were Wilma Ellis, Josephine Carroll, Paul Conley and Jack Siddens.

The evening banquet, held in honor of the high school debaters and speakers and initiates of Delta Sigma Rho, was presided over by Elizabeth Larson, A4 of Council Bluffs, president of the honorary speech fraternity. The four initiates were presented during the course of the program. They were Carlton Starr, A3 of Fairfield; Charles Kluss, C3 of Postville; Thomas Nugent, A3 of Council Bluffs; William Alken, L2 of Corydon.

The address of the evening was given by Prof. H. L. Ewbank, University of Wisconsin, national president of Delta Sigma Rho. Professor Ewbank pointed out the worthwhile qualities of debate and encouraged debaters not to become discouraged because so few people seemed interested in their work. "Training for leadership seldom attracts large audiences of onlookers," Professor Ewbank stated.

To Relieve Business Area of Parking Problem--That's Aim of Tagging, Says Chief Smith

That the drive being waged against overtime parkers in the 90 and 10 minute districts has as its object to relieve the streets of cars left standing for long periods by merchants, clerks, students, and townspersons who persistently violate the rule, was explained by Police Chief Frank L. Smith yesterday.

"The drive," said Chief Smith, "is and has been from the outset an attempt to make the streets as clear as possible of locally parked vehicles that might just as well have been left on less busy streets. While cars belonging to out-of-townners have naturally been tagged, no fines have been levied.

Cooperation Will Help

"With summer approaching and the consequent increase in tourist and out of town trade it is to the advantage of the entire city to cooperate in removing local cars so as to make room for those entering town to transact business. No farmer or tourist has ever been fined for over-

Mills Urges Tax Studies

Advocates Coordination of Federal, State, Systems

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP) — A commission study "to secure the coordination in our state and federal systems of taxation which we so sorely need" was advocated tonight by Secretary Mills in an address to the New York City Bar association.

Proposing that President Hoover and the governors' conference join in naming the commission, he expressed confidence the necessary funds for research could be raised and called this an auspicious moment to start in view of the popular interest.

After a review of the evils of uncoordinated federal and state taxes, he declared the aggregate tax burden "is so great as to constitute an economic factor of such prime importance as to affect directly or indirectly almost every sphere of public and private activity."

Statistics for 1930 showed that taxes collected by the federal, state and local governments reached the "staggering sum" of $10,266,000,000, amounting to one seventh of the estimated national income of $71,000,000,000. The increase from 1923 to 1930 was 42 per cent.

Plan "Farmers Holiday" Meeting

Every hospital in Iowa having 40 beds or more is included in the survey. Iowa City is the twentieth town visited thus far, and the work is approximately half finished. Dr. Rector's next stop will be Sioux City.

Seek Doctor in Oklahoma

Investigators Peer Into Criminal Operation Industry

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 29 (AP) — A sinister trail of malpractice drew investigators today as they peered behind the scene of the death of two University of Oklahoma coeds. Officers sought Dr. Richard E. Thacker, 62 year old physician charged with murder for an alleged illegal operation and prepared to resist an osteopath's efforts to obtain release from the cell in which he is held on a similar accusation.

"Go-Betweens"

Shadowy private homes and alleged paid "go-betweens" in what he said was a virtual "criminal operation industry" were probed by County Attorney Lewis R. Morris. Investigators assert Mrs. Frank Lee, secret bride of a University of Oklahoma athlete, and Virginia Wyckoff, both university coeds, are only the latest of 10 or more victims of recent criminal operations here.

Set Hearing

Hearing was set for Monday on the attempt of Dr. J. W. Eisinger, the osteopath, to obtain bond on a murder charge in connection with the death this week of Miss Wyckoff. Morris said he would oppose the habeas corpus petition.

A report that Dr. Thacker, accused of performing an operation on Mrs. Lee, was seen in Ft. Worth, Tex., en route to El Paso, caused Morris to ask authorities at the international boundary to watch for the fugitive. He disappeared Saturday.

Righter Will Judge Contest at Dubuque

Prof. Charles B. Righter of the music department left yesterday for Dubuque, where he will be one of the judges of a music contest given by parochial high schools. Professor Righter will judge the wind instrument and band divisions of the contest.

Tonight Professor Righter will conduct a massed band concert. The band will be made up of all the members of the bands competing in the contest. The contest and concert are part of the music week activities, being given under the auspices of the Dubuque Playground association.

IOWA QUALIFIERS AT DRAKE

120 yard high hurdle—Saling (new meet record of 14.6) and Jackson. Discus—Youngerman. Shot put—Sansen. Pole vault—Okerlin. Javelin—Sansen, Soucek. One mile relay.

By DON MCGUIRE

DRAKE STADIUM, Des Moines, April 29 (AP)—Athletes of the Western conference contributed three new marks to the Drake relays today in the opening rounds of the twenty-third annual classic.

Indiana's medley relay team shattered the intercollegiate record in that event, while George Saling, University of Iowa hurdler, and John Brooks, Chicago university Negro broad jumper, set new marks in their individual specialties.

Hoosiers Set Record

The Hoosiers, anchored by the driving Henry Brooks, raced the 10 laps of the medley relay in the impressive time of 10:19.1, which bettered by nine-tenths of a second the intercollegiate mark made by a Yale quartet back in 1915. The time likewise improved the old Drake mark of 10:21.6 made by Iowa State last year. The start of the race scarcely indicated an easy Hoosier victory, as Marich running the first quarter, was kept back in the field. Neese, running the half mile lap, started near the tail enders but finished in third place and Kemp gave Brooks a lead of 10 feet over Howery of Notre Dame as they started the final mile.

Mile in 4:17

Brooksmith was clocked in 4:17 for his mile and finished 120 yards ahead of the Notre Dame star.

The record breaking performance of Saling was the first event on the program. He raced the 120 yard high hurdles in 14.6 seconds, running against a slight breeze. The old mark was 14.7 made by Hager of Iowa State last year. Saling finished well in front of Roden of Wisconsin, the other qualifier in the heat.

Brooks' performance in the broad jump was the most surprising of the day. He leaped 24 feet, 8 3/8 inches to better by 5 5/8 inches a record set by Dehart Hubbard of Michigan in 1924.

100 Yard Dash

The surprise of the 100 yard dash preliminaries was the elimination of Thompson, University of Minnesota ace who won the event at the Kansas relays last week. Thompson tangled with Klauer of Kansas and Tierney of Marquette in the fastest heat and finished third, out of the qualifiers. The time for this heat was 9.9 seconds.

Tierney's qualifying placed two Marquette men among the final six as Ralph Metcalfe, the Hilltoppers sophomore star, won the second heat.

The two sprinters also collaborated in giving Marquette victories in their heats of the 440 and 880 yard relays.

Other Qualifiers

Illinois, Nebraska and Kansas also qualified in both events. The University of Iowa half mile quartet, winners at Kansas last week, hooked up with Illinois and Nebraska in one heat and failed to qualify. The Hawkeyes, however, came through to qualify in the mile relay along with other Iowa teams. Iowa State and Grinnell, Michigan and Missouri were the winners in the two heats of this race.

Fordham Star Tops Penn Relay Winners

PHILADELPHIA, April 29 (AP)—The first major offensive along the eastern track and field front today developed Joe McCluskey of Fordham university as the foremost American candidate for 1932 Olympic steeplechase running honors.

Hearing for Gas Line

DES MOINES (AP)—The state railroad commission set May 31 for hearing in Cedar Rapids on the application of the Central States Electric company for authority to operate a gas pipe line between Pella and Knoxville. The line was constructed in 1929 but application was made to comply with the law.

City Council Hears Street, Paving Plans

Construction Projects Main Business at Monthly Meet

Routine business occupied the attention of the city council at the regular monthly meeting last night in the city hall.

Proposed construction programs include the extension of water mains, sidewalks, and paving on several city streets. The extension of water mains on Marcy street, Ridge street, and Ginter avenue and the building of sidewalks on Russell, Fifth, Gilbert, and Clinton streets was referred to the city engineer with instructions to draw plans for the improvements.

To Seek County Aid

A proposal to pave parts of Linn street, Burlington street, and Muscatine avenue was referred to the street and alley committee and the city engineer with instructions to take the matter up with the county board of supervisors to see whether the county will aid in the project. It is planned to pave Linn street from Burlington street to College street, Burlington street from Linn street to Muscatine avenue, and Muscatine avenue from Burlington street to Russell street.

Discuss Petition

A petition requesting the city to connect the south end of Ferson avenue to U. S. highway 6 was referred to the city engineer for a report on the advisability of the project. The city engineer was notified to make plans for an extension of sewers on Fourth avenue and Church street.

A remonstrance to a petition asking the city to widen Dill street was accepted by the council and placed on file. The objectors claim that widening of the street is not necessary and would spoil the natural beauty of the neighborhood.

License Air School

The mayor and the city clerk were instructed to enter into a contract with the Shaw Aircraft company giving that company exclusive rights to the airport for instructional purposes. The aircraft company will pay the city $15 a month for one year for the privilege.

The council voted to send Fire Chief Herman Amish to the State school for firemen at Iowa State college at Ames for four days beginning May 24.

Authorize Tank Building

The construction of one 200 gallon naphtha tank and two 500 gallon gasoline tanks was authorized by the council. H. D. Short, at 219 S. Madison street, will install the naphtha tank and the Hawkeye Material company and Gasoline Alley will install the gasoline tanks.

The question of repairing a hole in the pavement in front of the Jefferson hotel was discussed and it was decided to attempt to get the Interstate Bus company to pay a percentage of the cost. A petition of the company for permission to park one bus for 30 minutes was referred to the chief of police.

Employees of the city in the city hall will be given a half holiday on Saturdays from May 1 to Oct. 1. The motion was passed unanimously by the council.

The city clerk was ordered to advertise for bids for gasoline and oil. The bids, which will be for a one year contract, must be on file with the city clerk by Friday. The city will also advertise for bids for the painting of the Park street and the Ryerson avenue bridges.

The city engineer was ordered to prepare plans for a garage to house the new police car.

The reports of the finance committee and of the city treasurer were approved and accepted by the council.

Hawkeye Contest Closes at Midnight

With individual Hawkeye sales ending at midnight tonight, contestants are soliciting sales with renewed energy that they may win one of the cash prizes. Harold Cassill is still in first place, but Harriett James, who is in second place, John Rolleston, third, and Lucy Marsh, fourth, are impairing his position.

Edward Kelly is in fifth position, with Charlotte Kanealy and Hunter Gehlbach tied for sixth place.

Other contestants are: Edith Erickson, Max Dillon, Kenneth Kohler, Brydon O. Myers, Harold White, Elmer S. Neufeld, Esther Griffith, Mabel Tompkins, Harold A. Brown, and Albert L. Vestermark.

Returns Manslaughter Verdict After 48 Hours; Asks Leniency

Declared guilty last night by a jury that deliberated more than 48 hours, these four defendants in the Hawaiian "Honor" trial will be sentenced for manslaughter next Friday. They are Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of Mrs. Massie; Thomas H. Massie (top, right) who pleaded to the slaying as an act of insanity; Albert Jones (bottom, left) and Edward J. Lord, both sailors convicted in the lynching conspiracy.

Massie Trial History

Events of Trial Date Back to Last September With Attack on Mrs. Massie, Subsequent Killing Drew World Attention

HONOLULU, April 29 (AP) — When Mrs. Thalia Massie, blonde young wife of a navy officer, became bored at a party one night last September and went alone for a walk toward Waikiki beach, she involuntarily provided the start of a series of seething events which convulsed Hawaii and reverberated in Washington.

Mrs. Massie was seized, beaten and criminally attacked, allegedly by five men, among them Joseph Kahahawai, young native athlete.

She said Kahahawai broke her jaw and assaulted her when she prayed for mercy. The five men were brought to trial but the jury disagreed.

Resentment Springs Up

Resentment sprang up in the navy group constituting a generous portion of Honolulu's population, against what was termed the Hoodlum class. Naval circles charged the police with inefficiency and with being unduly friendly toward the native and oriental elements for political reasons.

At the same time there were rumors, later brought into the court records, about the attack victim and her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N. One was that Mrs. Massie had NOT been attacked, but merely had been seeking notoriety; another linked her name with that of a navy officer acquaintance of her husband, and still another said it was Massie who broke her jaw and that he was getting a divorce.

Say Honolulu Unsafe

Rear Admiral George T. Pettengill, commander of minesweepers in this area, informed Admiral Richard H. Leigh, commander of the battle force of the United States fleet, that Honolulu was unsafe for the wives of naval officers.

Some wives reputedly armed themselves for protection. The navy shore patrol was enlarged to preserve order.

On Jan. 8, while making his daily report to the court pending retrial of the Massie attack case, Kahahawai was lured into an automobile by a fake summons. An hour or two thereafter, at the end of a wild chase toward Koko Head, just outside of town, police stopped an automobile driven by Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of the attack victim, and containing Massie, and E. J. Lord, navy enlisted man, and the sheeted body of Kahahawai.

Three Arrested

The three were arrested on the spot and the fourth suspect, Albert O. Jones, was arrested later at the Massie home.

Public feeling ran high. The four accused of the killing were given into the custody of naval officers at Pearl Harbor as a measure for their safety. Army and navy en-

Decision May Carry Penalty of Ten Years

Judge Sets May 6 Date for Pronouncing Sentences

By WILLIAM H. EWING
HONOLULU, April 29 (AP) — Twelve men of varied racial origin tonight convicted of manslaughter the four persons accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai for vengeance. The jury recommended leniency.

The defendants, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie; his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and two navy enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, received the verdict with varying reactions.

Mrs. Massie Sobs

A sob broke the tense silence when Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the naval officer and victim of a criminal attack in which Kahahawai allegedly confessed partaking, heard the verdict which may mean 10 years imprisonment for her husband, the admitted killer; her aristocratic mother, and the two navy "gobs."

For 48 hours the strangely constituted jury labored on the case.

Then it was suddenly called into court by the presiding jurist, Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis.

Sends Jury Back

Its foreman, John Stone, American, reported there were prospects of reaching a decision "within a reasonable time," and the judge sent it back to work.

A few minutes later word spread that a verdict had been reached. Every available policeman was rushed to the judiciary building, from which Kahahawai was abducted last Jan. 8 and where the long trial had been held.

Police Pack Building

Packed with police, the building looked like a garrison as the defendants filed in to hear their fate.

Mrs. Fortescue was the first to arrive. She looked haggard. She was accompanied by her sister and brother, Mrs. Helen Ripley and Robert Bell. Then came Massie, Lord and Jones.

For the first time Lord appeared nervous. A policeman stopped him at the door and made him throw away a cigaret.

Jury Files In

The jury of five Americans, three Chinese, a Dane, a German, a Portuguese and an Hawaiian, filed in. The tension was even greater than it had been in the many dramatic climaxes of the long trial.

Solemnly Judge Davis asked: "Gentlemen of the jury, have you reached a verdict?"

"Yes, your honor," said John Stone, American and foreman, rising. He handed four sheets of paper, containing a verdict for each defendant, to the clerk, Monor Word, who in turn passed them to the judge.

Massie Breathes Heavily

Massie leaned forward, breathing heavily. Judge Davis handed Word the papers and asked him to read them. Nervously he read: "We the jury, find the defendant Thomas H. Massie guilty of manslaughter. Leniency recommended."

There was a loud sob from Mrs. Massie, interrupting the clerk and she wept bitterly. Her convicted husband tried to comfort her by placing his hand on her shoulder while he was standing. She was seated.

Next Verdicts

The next verdict, the same as for Massie, applied to Mrs. Fortescue. She did not flinch, but turned and spoke to Jones, who stood beside her. In rapid order the clerk then read the verdicts applying to the two enlisted men. Neither Lord nor Jones showed emotion.

As Word finished, Montgomery Winn, of the defense, arose and gave notice of appeal. Judge Davis announced the defendants would be placed in custody of Capt. Ward Wortman, a naval officer, and that sentence would be pronounced a week from today.

10 Minute Climax

The climax of the long drama-charged case was over quickly, requiring only about 10 minutes.

As the defendants walked out Mrs. Massie still was sobbing. Massie's lips were white and set. Mrs. Fortescue's countenance was blanched, but her eyes were dry and there was an air of defiance in her manner. Lord and Jones smiled at friends who spoke to them.

Rain Prevents Golf Matches

Weather Fails to Halt Enthusiasm of 16 at Luncheon

Although April showers prevented women golfers of the Iowa City Country club from playing the matches scheduled for yesterday at 9:30 a.m. at the first "ladies day" function of the season, they failed to dampen the enthusiasm of 16 fans who attended the 12:30 luncheon at the club house and heard Thomas H. Mrs. Ralph Parsons and Mrs. Thomas Brown were hostesses at the function, which was the first of the regular Friday women's events which will be given weekly throughout the summer. Mrs. W. P. Whites was present as the guest of Mrs. J. Hubert Scott. Mrs. A. O. Craig, a new member of the club, joined the woman golfers group for the first time.

Games of contract bridge were played during the afternoon. A business meeting was also held, at which Mrs. Thomas Brown, general chairman of the "ladies day" events, presided. Plans were discussed for matches and other golf events which will be held during the coming season. Hostesses for the meeting next Friday will be announced later.

committee's slogan can be translated into its true meaning by those who run and read, 1932 should be a banner year for touring in Iowa.

Avoid That Accident

THE FOLLOWING advice to the motorist, given recently by Maxwell Halsey of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, carries a message to every driver and should be highly impressed upon each. It is somewhat more terse and pointed than previous bits of don'ts to motorists.

1. Regulate your speed to driving conditions. Twenty-five miles per hour may be more dangerous than 45 miles per hour under certain conditions.
2. Do not drive faster than will permit you to stop within the assured clear distance ahead. Some one may suddenly come out of an intersection or around a curve.
3. Know the rules and regulations and obey them. They are designed to bring safety and their disobedience will cause accidents.
4. Keep on your side of the road, it is the safe side.
5. Do not pass unless you can see that no one is coming and that you have enough room.
6. Signal before you turn and turn from the correct lane.
7. Drive smoothly—the unexpected is liable to cause accidents.
8. Have your car inspected and maintain it in good operating condition.
9. Give the pedestrian more than his share of the right of way—pick on some one your size.
10. Slow down and be particularly careful when pavement is slippery or when visibility is poor.

A Georgia judge has decided a husband is merely a "figurehead." And his wife heads the things about which he has to figure.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

During the last few years a more concentrated and intensive effort to effect efficiency in agricultural methods, industrial organization, and social control has invaded this country than in almost any previous time of comparable length and importance. The effort is still going on as evidenced in the automobile industry and in almost every other large industrial enterprise.

The cry for efficiency and economy in government has of recent date spread through the land with the result that both houses of congress are now engaged in deliberations that will eventually result in fewer departmental organizations, less overlapping, better results for less of the taxpayers' money. But the thing that has been overlooked is that which is closest to the taxpayers' homes' local government especially, and extending through county and state organization.

Because with all its night sessions and stringent measures to bring about economical government, congress can only hope to affect but approximately 20 per cent of the total federal government expenditure, the resulting legislation can hardly do the trick of restoring the nation to economic stability. But in local government—city, county, state—there is overlapping and extravagance such as the federal organization could never be guilty of.

Way back when Iowa was divided up into counties and townships, the measure of area for each unit was based upon how far a man could walk in two hours—the time agreed upon in which he might leave his work and travel to the county seat to vote—or upon how far a horse could travel in time to get his rider to and from the county seat from remote corners of the district that he might buy and sell and carry on the necessary business and legal transactions.

But the billions of dollars the state has spent on paving and road maintenance in line with the advances in transportation methods has changed all that. Now an automobile can traverse not only three or four counties but the entire length or breadth of the state in one day, while two hours is ample time for a man in any part of any county to get to the county seat.

It is obvious that state government at least, has not kept pace with society. And now that is necessary for change, society overlooks the real root of the evil. For example instead of 99 counties in Iowa with varying areas of from Kossuth with 984 square miles down to Louisa with 396, much could be gained if consolidation were to reduce the 99 to 20 or less.

Beauty and Paving

IOWA—Beauty Everywhere, Paving Everywhere—so reads the slogan picked yesterday by the Iowa Tour committee to be used as the 1932 campaign to increase tourist travel in the state.

More than 10,000 slogans were submitted, which may lead one to wonder why the committee couldn't have chosen something shorter with a bit more rhythm; a motto with more snap so that it would flow more easily, and linger longer with the many thousands of tourists who will read it on highway maps, billboards, and tourist literature this summer.

A close study of the slogan, however, drives home a significant meaning, something that only few states can boast of—beauty, paving. Beauty in the picturesque bluffs overlooking the Mississippi river in the northwestern part of the state, in the historic state parks and Indian reservation, in the many towns and cities with their beautiful homes, in the rolling agricultural lands with progressive farm homes and improvements, and in the many rivers and streams that flow lazily through every part of Iowa.

And Iowa beauty can be appreciated because motorists can get there and back on miles of paving, more paving than any other state west of the Mississippi. If the Tour

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

Second Semester, 1931-1932
Wednesday, May 25, 8 a.m. to Thursday, June 2, 4 p.m.

The regular program of class work will be suspended, and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D and E, as shown in the form below; and Speech (2), (3), and (4) as shown at "N.B." below).

The Program Committee directs the attention of both students, and instructors and professors, to the regulation that there is to be no deviation, in the case of any examination, from this schedule, except as authorized by the Committee on Admission and Classification, on the student's written petition, filed in ample time, supported by the recommendation of the department concerned, to provide relief from an excessive number of examinations within a single day. Deviation for the purpose of getting through earlier will not be permitted.

In the case of conflicts (within the SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D and E) the schedule itself, as presented below, provides a general method of making adjustments.

All classes whose first weekly meetings have occurred as indicated in the rectangles below, meet for examination during the periods noted in the tops of these three columns, and on the days noted in the rectangles directly opposite at the left of the double, vertical line.

Thursday, June 2	Monday at 3 (Except those in SPECIAL Groups A, B, C, D and E).	Tuesday at 4 (Except those in SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D and E).

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed (Read by columns, and alphabetically) within the particular group, who will arrange a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than regular class hour on May 9 and 10.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or, in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first clock-hour of the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 22 meets for lectures T Th 5 at 8. The first meeting is, consequently, Tuesday at 8, and the class will meet for examination Thursday, May 26, 8 a.m., according to the tabular form above. Again, physics 126 meets twice each week, T F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination is, therefore, Wednesday, June 1, 8 a.m.

"ODD" classes, namely those whose first or only weekly meetings occur on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, or Saturdays, or which meet "as arranged," will be assigned for examination, as announced to each such class by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods:

1. From 4 to 6 on any day from May 25 to June 2, inclusive.
2. Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D and E, since for such "odd" classes, these five examination periods will be found quite available.

In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure, it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times, if no student is a member of more than one of these classes.

According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for any phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time."

According to another faculty regulation, which is on record as adopted by the faculty, a student absent from the final examination should be reported "Abs." unless the instructor recognizes that his work up to this examination has been a failure, in which case the final report should be "Fd."—even though the student may have been absent from the final examination. No examination should be given, subsequently, to such a student until after the absence has been excused by the Committee on Admission and Classification, as shown by a partially filled special report card, signed by the Secretary of the Committee, as indicating that the absence has been excused and that the student is authorized, subject to the consent and at the convenience of the instructor concerned, to take the final examination.

The king of nonchalance—Charles Holbert, the "Nonchalant Fall Guy" is a building cleaner by trade. He was working at his calling on a scaffold off the 14th floor of the Union Trust building in Cincinnati, O., on Dec. 8, 1931, when his foot slipped, precipitating him 14 stories to the ground. One of the ropes upholding the scaffold, which Holbert managed to grab in a gloved hand, broke the force of the fall. He made a perfect three point landing upon a coil of hemp. When patrol No. 2 arrived in response to a frantic summons, to take him in to the hospital, Holbert, entirely unharmed, was puffing at a cigaret.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Just because Janet Gaynor turned it down, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," shan't go begging for a star.

Fox officials believe they have found on their own lot the only other girl in Hollywood besides Janet who could play the part. She is Marion Nixon, and she'll get the chance, with Al Santell directing as originally planned. The boy has not been selected as yet but productions will get under way in the near future. Just as I predicted, Janet and Charlie Farrell will co-star in "The First Year."

The idea to substitute Marion in "Rebecca" bobbed up early in the studio's difficulties with Janet. Hurdled tests were made of Marion and she first tried out on a group of feminine employees. They thought she was fine, so the tests were arranged to New York for a private showing before Fox bigwigs in the east. News of their concurrence has just been received.

Movies Mold Child Outlook, Says Doctor

So Chicago Psychologist Tells Iowa Science Academy

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa, April 29 (AP)—Social attitudes of children are definitely and lastingly changed by the motion pictures they see, Dr. L. L. Thurstone of the University of Chicago said in an address here tonight.

The psychologist, whose intelligence tests and books on psychology have brought him national prominence, spoke at a general session of the Iowa academy of science, which today began its forty-sixth annual convention.

Make Experiments
Studies Dr. Thurstone and his associates made among children in several Illinois communities show, he said, that a number of films dealing with the same subject may have a cumulative effect on the way youngsters regard such items as religion, vice, war, and race prejudice.

For example, before a group of Genoa, Ill., children saw the picture "Four Sons," they said they liked the English, Irish, French, and Swedes better than they did the Germans. Afterwards, Dr. Thurstone declared, they preferred the Germans to all except the English.

Causes Lasting Effect
In Mendota, Ill., a test showed the film "Street of Chance" changed distinctly the children's attitude towards gambling. "All Quiet on the Western Front" was said to have produced a distinct antipathy to war in the minds of west Chicago children.

"Although the effect produced by the pictures showed some lessening after a lapse of a considerable period of time," the speaker said, "the attitude shown the day following the showing of a picture was persistent after 19 months. The investigators concluded that the change in attitude occasioned by a motion picture was persistent after 19 months. The investigators concluded that the change in attitude occasioned by a motion picture is lasting."

200 at Meeting
About 200 students and teachers of science from many sections of Iowa were in attendance today. Among them were members of the Junior Academy of Science of Iowa, which is conducting its first convention.

The Iowa section of the American Association of University Professors will meet Saturday afternoon. Dr. Thurstone will speak on "A new examination plan in relation to college efficiency," and Dr. H. S. Conard of Grinnell college will speak on "Ethics among professors."

Seashore on Program
Discussions of these topics will follow, with Dean C. E. Seashore of the State University of Iowa, President D. W. Morehouse of Drake University, Dr. J. E. Evans of Iowa State college, and Prof. H. M. Kelly of Cornell college leading.

Academy to Move Display

1931 Winter Exhibit to Leave Iowa Union on Monday

The exhibit of paintings now on display in the lounge of Iowa Union, part of the 1931 winter showing of the National Academy of Design, New York, will be taken down Monday, according to an announcement made yesterday by Prof. Catherine Macartney, head of the graphic and plastic arts department, under whose auspices the exhibit was brought here.

The showing, which is one of the traveling exhibitions circulated by the American Federation of Arts, is composed of about 40 paintings, representing some of America's best known artists. The painting "Eagle Lake," by Jonas Lie, which has been at Iowa Union for the last few months, was in the academy exhibition. The portrait of Sidney Dickinson by Aden F. Arnold, instructor in the graphic and plastic arts department, was also displayed with these paintings last December.

Other works which persons may see for the last time today and tomorrow in the Iowa Union lounge are: "Forest Vistas," by John E. Carlson; "Wood Interior," by John E. Costigan; "The Coal Car," by John Follinsbee; "Uplands," by W. Granville-Smith; "Through Wyoming Sage," by F. Tenney Johnson; "Moonrise," by James Knox; "White Peonies," by H. Dudley Murphy; and "Springtime Vale of Lanherne," by W. Elmer Schofield.

Stromsten to Speak
Prof. Frank A. Stromsten of the zoology department will talk on "What is evolution?" at the Men's forum of the Presbyterian church tomorrow at 9:45 a.m. This is one of a series of talks being given under the general topic, "Understanding the universe."

Sportively Speaking

By Bill Rutledge

It's getting so that every time Capt. George Salting steps out in a track meet the laurels fall about his head. His principal rival, Jack Keller of Ohio State, failed to qualify at the Big Ten indoor meet; so George didn't get a chance to trim the Buckeye hurdler. Yesterday at the Penn relay Kellers barely won his heat in 14.8 seconds while Salting was negotiating the event in the record time of 14.6 seconds.

Given a dry, fast track and a breezeless day, Salting can be expected to whittle Bob Hager's former mark down further. Then, too, Salting does more than perform in the individual events, running on the shuttle and other Iowa relay teams. Tomorrow he will probably be used in the mile relay since the 880 yard quartet failed to qualify.

The Chicago White Sox management has the right idea, but that is about all. It has only a slight notion of how to do it. Their rampant trading activities are not producing the results, and deal with the Boston Red Sox won't help much. The Chicago Americans were foolish to part with "Bump" Hadley in the swap with the Browns.

Lou Comiskey, Jr., means business. He is willing to go to any extremes to assemble a winning combination. He is going to extreme all right; but is still many players away from a consistently victorious crew.

Joe Mowry'll be up in the majors if he is not careful and does not stop cluttering the ball for the Minneapolis Millers with such a sensational fashion. If Joe gets into the big show, he's pretty certain to stay there. A suggestion to Mr. Comiskey—quit trading and purchase Mowry from the Millers as soon as possible.

Robins Fall Before Klein's Slugging, 13-6

PHILADELPHIA, April 29 (AP)—Chuck Klein, Philadelphia right fielder who has been one of the slugging sensations of the National League ever since he joined the club, gave a convincing demonstration of how much damage his bat can do as he led the Phillies to a 13 to 6 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today.

Klein had a perfect day at bat with four hits and batted in six runs. The rest of the Phils followed his pace by rapping three Brooklyn pitchers for 13 hits, including six doubles, a triple and two home runs. The Dodgers got one more hit but they were unable to cluster them well enough to drive Ray Benge from the mound.

The first time up, Klein smashed a drive through a hole in the right field fence and it went for a double, driving in Dick Bartell.

In the second inning Chuck came up again, this time with the bases loaded after Van Mungo had walked in a run. Klein responded to the opportunity by slamming the ball over the right field wall for a homer and four more tallies, the high spot of the Phils seven run rally.

Chuck drew a walk and a run off Freddy Helmach in the fourth, singled in the sixth and made his final base hit in the eighth, driving in Bartell from third.

King Upsets Mickey With Left in First

"Bulldog" Comes Back Strong; One Vote for Levinsky

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—Mickey Walker, a great little battler, out-weighted 23 pounds, bounced off the canvas in the first round to conquer King Levinsky in a viciously fought 10 round battle in the Chicago stadium tonight.

The verdict, however, was not unanimous, although it was generally popular with the howling crowd of 20,000 spectators. The referee, Eddie Purdy, voted in favor of Levinsky, while the two judges cast their ballots for Walker.

PETROLLE, BATTALINO MATCHED

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express and Baz Battalino, former world's featherweight champion, were matched tonight for a 10 round battle in the Chicago stadium May 20.

The match was closed after Gen. John V. Clinin, president of the National Boxing association, was advised that the Cincinnati boxing commission had reinstated Battalino after his unsatisfactory performance in a match with Freddie Miller in Cincinnati last fall. Petrolle and Battalino met once before in New York with Petrolle winning on a technical knockout in the twelfth round. Their engagement in the stadium will be over the 10 round route.

Goes to Wrong Corner
Walker, knocked flat on his back in the first round by a terrific left hook that followed a right hand blast to the head, instinctively jumped to his feet without taking a count. He was blinking and bewildered, but the courageous fighting instinct that brought to him the championship in two divisions, the welterweight and the middleweight, alone enabled him to survive the storm of gloves that Levinsky threw.

As the round ended a few seconds after Walker was floored, the New Jersey Irishman was so dazed that he walked to Levinsky's corner. Jack Kearns, his manager, doused him with water to bring him to his senses. The knockdown made Walker a bit cautious as he came out for the second, but with the start of the fifth Walker was a wicked fighter, dealing out terrific body punishment with Levinsky attempting to land but missing punches to the head.

Walker won because of his experience, his ringcraft and his ability to sink a murderous left hook deep in the pit of the Kingfish's stomach. Levinsky had trouble in getting away from Mickey's left to the stomach and Walker's ceaseless body punching gradually slowed him up. The swinging Kingfish fought only in spurts in the closing rounds. In the eighth round, however, after Walker had stung Levinsky with two left hooks to the head, the Kingfish—fighting mad—swung a half dozen heavy rights to the head, the last one spinning Mickey half way across the ring. Walker kept to his feet and came back to trade punches.

Joe Mowry Gets to First 14 Times in Row; Sets Record

Joe Mowry, former University of Iowa baseball captain and hitting star, who has won a regular berth in the Minneapolis club's outfield this season, has hung up a new American association and major league record in his second year in organized baseball.

In games of Monday, Tuesday and Thursday of this week the Hawkeye slugger reached first in 14 consecutive times at bat. In 1911 Tris Speaker of Cleveland was safe at first 11 straight times and in 1923 Johnny Cooney of Milwaukee raised the mark by one.

A consistent hitter since the opening of the season, Mowry hit safely in his last two times at bat Monday, was safe at first in six times up Tuesday when he collected five hits, two of them doubles, and on Thursday he got five hits, including a homer and two doubles, and a walk in six trips to the plate.

"THE LOVE TRAP"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

SYNOPSIS

Mary Kennedy, pretty secretary, becomes engaged to Buck Landers, wealthy sports promoter, who is much older. Later, Mary meets young Steve Moore, Landers' ward, who is attracted to one another immediately. Landers asks Steve to entertain Mary while he is out of town. The bond between the young couple grows but thoughts of Landers form a barrier. Mary tells Steve she does not want to marry Landers. One evening Steve takes Mary in his arms. Then, conscience stricken, he tells her they must not see each other again. Next day, Landers' former sweetheart calls on Mary and threatens her. Mary longs for Steve but days pass with no word from him. Finally he comes to say he is going west. She persuades him to stay. They spend the evening together at Landers' hotel.

Steve's arms fell from around Mary; they looked with queer, startled expression at the intruder. Where had he come from... how had he known?... The flush was still on both their faces.

Mary stared at Landers. His face was stone. The eyes were alive—they were like ice, frozen from anger. With a swift horror she realized there was murder in his heart...

Buck Landers needed no explanation of the obvious scene before his eyes. Mary was in the arms of Steve Moore—his intelligence, at one bound, understood everything. She half expected immediate vio-

you. You don't look like a rat and a double-crosser, either. Not a look at you."

"You don't understand," cried Mary. "If you understood you couldn't talk that way to Steve."

"What beats me," said Landers, "is how I could be taken in by a couple of cheaters. You, too, Mary—I thought you were different from the mob around here. But you're the worst!" There was an impregnable harshness about him, almost a wildness, that was difficult to combat. Nevertheless, he held himself in leash.

Mary lifted her eyes and looked straight at him. "I'll admit it looks

Mary stared at Landers. His face was stone. The eyes were alive. They were like ice, frozen with anger.

CHAPTER XVII

"STEVE, dear, are you awfully poor?"

"Horribly," he responded, cheerfully.

"I'm so glad of that," she told him, her voice magic. "If you were rich it wouldn't seem natural—for us. I think I'd be afraid of your money. I'd be thinking that you'd pity me for being poor. I don't want anything like money to come between the way we feel for each other."

"That's marvelous!" His face was illumined.

It came back to Mary how false was the doctrine her mother had always dimmed into her ears against loving a poor man. What a terrible creed it had been! Money divided people—it broke them up into classes. Gladly, with her heart throbbing, she was proud to be in love with a poor man. She was caught again in the arms and they snuggled in the corner of the sofa. There was no future—only this blissful present.

She knew this was love. Deep, deep in her heart the truth was a bell—she knew, too, that kisses, the kisses, would be impossible in their fullness—it not been for their insecurity that remained so mysteriously calm while she was with this fire of the blood and madness of adventure. She told him.

"Steve—Steve, I love you—I love you—I love you."

He bent his head, without speaking, and stopped her mouth.

"Steve—you haven't told me—"

She waited for him to whisper the few words that would be her pledge forever against the rest of the world. She put her hands on his face.

His voice was faint, muffled with emotion:

"My darling, my lovely girl—I love you! As soon as I saw you, darling, I loved you—but, I tried to hide it."

Her breast was heaving. "I don't care about anything else, Steve. We belong to each other now—from now on. I'll never want anyone else. I'm yours, Steve. Do you want me to wait years for you? I'll wait for you, I'll follow you around—"

"I'd die for you!" he told her desperately.

She put her lips to his and closed her eyes, lost in utter happiness.

There was a draft of air—the door from the corridor opened. A tall, terrible-faced form came into the room, slammed the door behind him with a bang.

government "assume close responsibility for law and order in the islands."

Gross Exhibits

With an array of gruesome exhibits—blood stained sheets, rope, clothing and other articles taken from the death car and from the home of Mrs. Foresee—Kelley swiftly built up a vivid circumstantial story of how Kahahawai was kidnapped by the four accused and taken to the Fortescue house, where he was shot to death.

Lieutenant Massie to the stand. The young officer told how he had arrived home to find his wife brutally beaten and sobbing out the story of the attack; how the case preyed on his mind and how rumors circulated after the attack case jury disagreed.

Mind Goes Blank

Massie said he and the three other defendants plotted and carried out the abduction. He said he confronted Kahahawai with a pistol, demanded a confession and that his mind suddenly went blank when Kahahawai said "yes, we done it."

Dr. J. Thomas Orblison and Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, Los Angeles alienists, testified Massie suffered from "shock amnesia," the moment of the tragedy.

The defense cast ended in a spectacular scene with Mrs. Massie on the witness stand. Between showers of tears she told of the attack and her subsequent ordeal, and how it affected her husband.

Kelley Iris Mrs. Massie

On cross examination Kelley handed her a paper, supposedly written by herself in a psychopathic examination and purporting to contain an admission of difference with Massie and a few months before the attack.

"This is a confidential paper between a physician and patient. Where did you get it?" she demanded.

Kelley insisted she say whether she wrote it.

"I refuse to answer," she stormed, and tore the paper to bits while spectators applauded.

True Colors

"Thank you, Mrs. Massie," said Kelley angrily, "at last you have shown yourself in your true colors."

In rebuttal the prosecution produced three alienists. Dr. Paul Bowers, Dr. Robert Faus and Dr. Joseph Catton, who, although barred from observing Massie because of Darrow's objection, testified that in their belief he was sane.

In a caustic exchange with Darrow, Dr. Catton pictured Massie, a native of Kentucky, as a sane, normal southerner stirred to anger and vengeance in firing the fatal shot.

Asks Golden Rule

In a plea of more than three hours Darrow emphasized the insanity and unwritten law aspects of the defense and asked the jurors to apply the golden rule in judging the accused.

"If these people are sent to prison it will place a blot on these fair islands that not all the waters of the Pacific can wash away," the aged defender said.

Kelley excoriated Massie in his closing argument and again hinted that the naval officer had not told the truth on the stand.

"Believe in Lynch Law"

"If you let these people go," Kelley argued, "they will make Massie, an admiral because he and Admiral Pratt think alike. They both believe in lynch law."

Calling each juror by name, Kelley closed with:

"Without being swayed by mercy or by admirals—for in the language of Smedley Butler I say to hell with the admirals! There is no reason why you cannot bring in a unanimous verdict of guilty.

"We do not ask for vengeance—only justice."

Demo Leader Mounts Stand to Aid Friend

Roosevelt Comes From Washington to Help Banking Head

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt spent a half hour on the witness stand at a turbulent criminal trial today in an effort to aid a friend and appointee.

It was one of the few times in the history of the state a governor has stepped into a criminal court in such a role.

Appears as Witness

Roosevelt came from Washington to appear as a witness for Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banking, who is charged with neglect of duty in not closing the Bank of United States, with its 400,000 depositors, sooner than he did.

The governor was asked questions about Broderick's ability, honesty and character; about what efforts were made to save the bank; about merger attempts and conferences of big bankers.

Causes Arguments

Most of his replies precipitated arguments between opposing counsel. Once he was forced to sit silent for nearly 10 minutes while the lawyers battled over the legal propriety of allowing him to continue his line of testimony.

Max D. Steuer, famous criminal lawyer and special prosecutor in the bank case, jumped up from his chair many times with objections to the governor's replies.

Tells of Meeting

After more verbal tilts between Steuer and Martin Conboy, Broderick's counsel, Roosevelt made the first official disclosure that a meeting of powerful banking interests was held at his town house the night before the bank was closed.

He said a member of J. P. Morgan and company, and officers of several big banks were present. The governor and Broderick tried unsuccessfully to induce them to take over the Bank of United States, which at that time had deposits of $160,000,000.

Read No Reports

He said he had received definite reports of the bank's condition, but replied "of course not" when asked if he had gone over the reports of the various bank examiners.

Samuel Untermeyer, famous corporation lawyer, still is pressing his efforts to re-open the bank, depositors of which have been repaid many millions of dollars by the state banking department.

Steel, Du Pont and General Electric, of the manufacturing companies, were particularly subject to fresh offerings, although net losses in some instances amounted to less than a point. General Motors sagged 5-8 to 10 1-2 which bespoke the market's opinion that another dividend cut was coming. National Lead slumped 8.

Man From Decorah Finds Body of Youth Missing Since April

DECORAH, April 29 (AP)—The body of Glen Amdahl, 21 year old Ossian farm youth who disappeared April 2, was found late today a few blocks from the center of Decorah.

Sheriff Mike C. Graf of Winnebleshiek county and Coroner John M. Boehm announced they would examine the body to determine whether Amdahl came to his death by his own hand or otherwise.

Officers agreed there seems to be no motive for murder.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Berge Amdahl, Ossian farmers, offered $200 reward, which Anderson will claim.
