The Narrow Scarf is Chic

Pattern 2344

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

The narrow scarf is a new detail to flatter the wearer's face. Here it trims a stunning sports dress of white, on which the scarf and belt in blue create a delightful, contrasting note. The bodice effects jacket-like lines above a slim, front-pleated skirt. The model, however, is one-piece. Long sleeves are included. Good in linen, pique, shantung, silk or broadcloth.

Pattern 2344 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39-inch fabric, 1-4 yard contrasting.

Group to Give Fifth Concert at Iowa Union

Local, Visiting Artists Will Take Part in Program

The fifth annual spring concert of the woman's chorus of the Iowa City Woman's club will be presented at 8 o'clock tonight in the main lounge of Iowa Union by a 33 voice ensemble, and solo artists, both local and visiting.

"The River of Stars," by Bawden, an Indian cantata adapted from Alfred Noyes' poem of the same name, will feature the program. It narrates in song the legend of the Niagara River and of the Mohawk Indians. Dramatic interludes will be read by Mrs. Kermit J. Dreier of Hampton, and Mrs. Ruth Vernon will sing vocal solos.

Mrs. Ellett Directs
Mrs. Alexander Ellett is director of the chorus, and piano accompaniments will be played by Mrs. Maud Whedon Smith. Among the solo numbers will be vocal selections by Mrs. Ella Zopf Woods, who recently moved from Des Moines to Iowa City where her husband is in the college of medicine.

All three guest artists have had extensive musical training and experience. Mrs. Woods, while living in Des Moines, was a member of the WHO radio quartet, was soloist at the First Methodist church of that city, a member of the Chicago Civic Opera company when it presented "Carmen" in St. Louis, Mo., four years ago. She formerly appeared as soloist with James Brett Kennis, an authority on Negro spirituals, and with Clarence Dickerson of New York city.

Mrs. Dreier Holds State Office
Mrs. Dreier, a sister of Mrs. Robert Smith, 518 Rundell street, is second vice president and junior club organizer of the Iowa Federation of Music clubs, as well as the instructor in dramatic art at the public schools of Latimer.

Mrs. Vernon has studied under Rosa Raisa, grand opera singer, and has also received music instruction through the sponsorship of the late William Wrigley, Jr.

The program is as follows:
The Cloister Gate.....Grieg
Chorus
Soloists—Mrs. Floyd Nagler and Mrs. David Yarnell.
The River of Stars.....Bawden
Chorus
Soloist—Mrs. Ruth Vernon; dramatic reader, Mrs. Kermit J. Dreier.
Contralto solos
Il Mio Bel Pasco (My Arden Longing).....Marcello

The Cry of Rachel.....Falter
Let All My Life Be Music.....Spross
Mrs. Ella Zopf Woods
Reading, "The Acid Test," a one-act play—Smith.
Mrs. Kermit J. Dreier
The Seraphic Song.....Rubenstein
Chorus
Soloist, Marian Andrews, contralto; Frank Long, violinist.
No charge will be made for the program. All persons interested in music are welcome to attend.

Art Circle to Meet Today

Art Circle will have a regular meeting this morning at 10 o'clock in their meeting room at the public library. Mrs. Samuel Hayes will speak on "Other contemporary painters."

Group Starts New League

100 Guests Attend First Reception, Program of Organization

A reception and program last night at the Knights of Columbus hall, attended by approximately 100 guests marked the first meeting of the newly organized Converts league sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America. A talk upon religious problems encountered in many years experience was given by the Most Rev. Bishop Henry P. Kohlman, bishop of the Davenport diocese, and formed the main part of the program.

Shannahan Addresses Group
Catholic literature was the subject of a short speech by Msgr. William P. Shannahan.

Lieut. W. F. Longwell spoke on "An appeal to converts."

Two musical numbers, "An Maria," sung by Marie Anderson, and "We Need Thee, Heart of Jesus," sung by S. A. Rummelhart, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Philip C. Englert, were given.

Mrs. A. F. McMahon was in charge of the program.

Four on Committee
The Converts league committee includes the following: Mrs. A. F. McMahon, chairman; Mrs. William P. Sherridan, Mrs. Helen Graf, and Mrs. Philip C. Englert.

Hostesses for the reception held in the Knights of Columbus parlors were: Alice White, Mrs. Dan J. Peters, Mrs. Frank L. Englert, Mrs. Charles A. Bauer, Mrs. Vincent J. Moravec, Mrs. Mary Murphy, Nora Donohoe, and Margaret Regan.

High prize in bridge was awarded to Mrs. Florence Crawford at a meeting of the A.O.C. bridge club last night. Second prize was won by Ella Benjamin.

Ruby Davis was hostess to the club at her home, 413 E. Jefferson street.

The New Tonic Is Here!

The buying public today knows that price appeal is a flat tonic—that it has lost its force.

Better made goods at moderate prices is the new order of the day. The eye has moved off the price tag and looks to the QUALITY of the material and the workmanship in the garment.

For—the buying public is "Not so dumb" these days. It knows merchandise today as never before. It knows that QUALITY is the keynote of our entire stock and that here the price will always be right.

Former Student Writes of Experiences as Leader of Expeditions in South Seas

Describing the experiences of an expedition leader in the south seas, William F. Coultas, who is now with the Whitney South sea expedition at its headquarters in Rabaul, New Guinea, tells in a letter received by Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of the university museum, some of the varied experiences he has had since he graduated from the University of Iowa in 1927.

learn the native names of the birds as taken, one can soon develop a working vocabulary with the natives. Then when the native starts forth with his bow and arrow or shot gun, as the case might be, one can tell him in his own language just what to get. It's surprising what those boys can do when they want to.

The Bush-Man

"He is a shrewd fellow, this bush-man, scrupulously honest and truthful if he learns that the white man is also honest and truthful. He doesn't believe in sympathy, thinks kindness a weakness, never thought of doing things 'for the sake of science,' harbors his own thoughts and his own devils within his own breast, never talks of gossips about his own business, and wants to be paid for every single thing he does. The shrewdness of the Scotchman or the craftiness of the Armenian are mere tin-toys as compared to this fellow.

Director Dill was one of Coultas' instructors while he was attending the university.

Bismarck Archipelago

At present, the expedition is definitely settled in the Bismarck Archipelago, with headquarters at Rabaul. We have the large islands of North Britain and New Ireland for a starter and hope to continue on to the lesser islands as time goes on. Now, we will continue as a land unit, without the services of the schooner, which means the complete reorganization of the whole complement. Our past experiences have all been with the vessel, which gave us a permanent base that could be shifted at a moment's notice. Our supplies were handy and we had a place to return to when we had worked an area. With a land unit, things will be different again. There are a hundred arguments pro and con on the relative merits of the two methods, either being preferable as one cares to look at it.

Sponsor Dies

Harry Payne Whitney, the sponsor of the expedition, died in the latter part of 1930. Since then, the museum committee has been forced to give up the vessel through lack of funds, etc., but has not, to date, found it necessary to give up the whole undertaking. In fact, I think I have sufficient funds at hand to carry me into 1934, barring unforeseen developments. The France is here in Rabaul, where we hope to dispose of her.

Working with a schooner has its drawbacks—there is the continual upkeep of the thing; the question of a competent captain, one who will at least try to stay sober in part (an almost unheard of thing in this part of the world). Then the crew, so many governments will not permit the natives to leave their respective groups of islands. That means that we are continually training new crews. With a schooner, one has a permanent home, can go any where he likes without thought of steamship service.

Troubles With Natives

Now, as a land unit, we will be in the bush much longer at one time and will probably obtain more complete series than we did in the past. I have been at the work long enough now to visualize pretty well our wants and troubles with the natives. I firmly believe that it takes three years or more in this part of the world to develop into a competent expedition leader, or for that matter, into a sound expedition man.

Every island, and for that matter, every tribe on every island, presents something new. I work with the native entirely. He is a good ethnologist, knows every bird by name and habit. He knows their habitat, the time to look for them, etc. If one will take the trouble to

Engineering Award Goes to L. R. Grigg

Leslie R. Grigg, Ed of West Liberty, has been adjudged the winner of the Tri-Cities Junior membership prize of the Associated Students of Mechanical Engineering. It was announced yesterday by Prof. Ralph M. Barnes of the college of engineering, faculty chairman of the local student branch of the A.S.M.E.

His paper for the competition was on "Vocational Interest tests." The prize is presented each year to the student, either junior or senior in mechanical engineering, who prepares the best paper during the year before the regular weekly meeting of the student chapter. Mr. Grigg's paper is the result of tabulated study of all junior and senior mechanical engineering students on an interest test basis.

Winning of the award entitles Mr. Grigg to membership in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers for one year with all dues and initiation fees paid for by the Tri-Cities section, as well as to a certificate signed by the Tri-Cities secretary. This is the fourth award that has been made to the local student chapter.

Faculty men who judged the contesting papers were: Prof. H. O. Croft, Prof. Thomas G. Caywood, and Professor Barnes, all of the college of engineering.

Nine Elevators in University Hospital Transport Patients, Freight, Drugs; Millions of Wires Regulate Systems

By MARIAN SPEELMAN
Modern transportation facilities, used to carry patients, freight, food, and drugs, are exemplified in the nine elevators used at University hospital every day.

Two passenger carriers of the duplex, collective control type, one freight, three stretcher elevators, two food lifts, and one hydraulic elevator used in the drug room compose the scheme. All are of the latest type construction.

Passenger Elevators
The two passenger elevators are the most intricate and interesting. Consider some of the things they do.

A button is pressed and either car may respond. When one car answers a call, the other does not. When traffic becomes heavy, for instance three calls at a time, the other elevator which may have been inactive, begins to answer calls.

If one car has a capacity load, no new passengers are taken at intervening floors. If the car is carrying below capacity, additional passengers are collected as the car goes up and comes down. Each car makes a complete trip, one always ending at the first floor, the other at the seventh floor.

Motors on Roof
The motors and generators for the various elevators are located in pent houses on the hospital roof, and the number of wires used to control this intricate system runs well into millions. The whole affair resembles a gigantic switchboard, or constantly flashing lights.

The three stretcher carriers are designed solely for conveying stretcher patients from wards to operating rooms. They are about twice the usual size, and are round

New York Painter Holds Demonstration for Students

Sidney Dickinson, painter and instructor in the New York City Design in New York city, is visiting in Iowa City for several days, giving demonstrations in portrait painting before students in the graphic and plastic arts department.

Monday, Mr. Dickinson used as the subject of his portrait study Howard James, Iowa City high school senior who won first prize last month in the state high school art contest and received the Proudfoot scholarship award. Yesterday, his subject was an old Irish man, a type study. During the demonstrations, each of which lasted about two hours, Mr. Dickinson talked informally about his work as he painted.

Does Portrait of Jessup
Two portraits painted by Mr. Dickinson while previously a visitor on this campus are those of President Walter A. Jessup and Prof. Benj. F. Shanbaugh, which are now hanging in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

He has also done portraits of Woodrow Wilson, former president of the United States; John G. Hibben, president of Princeton university; and

American Society of Engineers Will Hold Last Meeting of Year

More Unnecessary Waste: THOUSANDS of desperate men are fighting a forest fire near Quebec, trying to halt the eager flames which are leveling forests, laying waste to entire communities and reducing millions of feet of valuable timber to worthless ash.

What started those mounting flames is not known—forest fires are usually of unknown origin. But the mystery is a difficult one—a careless camper, a lit cigarette thrown into the brush—and a great forest is threatened.

The Quebec tragedy cannot be helped, now that the damage has been done. But, the fire carries a warning to all the nation. The out-door season is approaching—unless campers and drivers are more careful, the entire northwest is in danger.

Men and women who are meticulously neat in their own homes think nothing of leaving smoldering coals in an out-door camp. The very people who leave ash trays about in convenient places in their homes as a definite hint to smokers are reckless in the way they dispose of lit cigarettes out of doors.

Gentlemen and ladies should be as well-mannered outside as indoors. The strictest supervision cannot permeate the great forests of the nation—another forest fire can be prevented only by individual care.

Arkansas county mails $1 check to a man for his services on a jury in 1872. And probably the case has been decided on the last appeal by now, too.

Mr. Wickersham has just explained the commission report. Explanation of the explanation will follow, maybe.

Find a candidate for an office anywhere who is not firmly convinced that his nomination and election is a vital need if prosperity is to be returned to this country.

The recent second annual report of Gates W. McGarrah, president of the bank for international settlement, should serve to take some of the edge off a few of our statesmen and many current campaigners who insist that the depression in America was caused by too much government in business or too much wasted effort and taxpayers' cash in government or too little of something else.

McGarrah, however, says: "The tidal wave of uncertainty and fear, which endangered several national currencies and some banking institutions, originated in Austria, swept quickly through Hungary and Germany, and after devastating these areas flowed onward to Britain and the Scandinavian countries, backwashing into the United States, and carried unusual demands on the American gold supply and credit system."

And then he goes on to explain that such a widespread movement could never have occurred if the economic system of the entire world had not been of so unified a nature.

This interdependence among nations shows itself quite strongly in the identical situations throughout the world of production, employment, trade, and profits.

That means, of course, that there's not a chance of one nation recovering entirely from this worldwide situation unless every other nation recovers concurrently. That's why such matters as disarmament and reparations and war debts and the tariff are of primary importance right now.

That's why, this year, it's imperative that every governmental post of any responsibility be filled by someone whose stand on those matters—whether pro or con or on the fence—will be in the interests of world recovery. This is not a time for narrow, selfish planning; it's the time to be world-minded.

And yet, just because our recovery is dependent upon the recovery of the other nations, it doesn't follow that there is nothing to be done about it. Our unemployment problems, the banking situation, farm relief, and social welfare generally are at the present time crying for attention. The thing to do is to formulate a program of recovery for the U. S. that will best aid—rather than hinder—complete world recovery. It is no easy task to look beyond the Atlantic and Pacific boundary lines or beyond 1932-33, in legislating to relieve the American situation.

But because it must be done if our progress is to be mirrored in other lands and if we are to retain—or recover—our place at the head of the line of governments, our government must be in the hands of competent planners, it must be more representative than ever before, and must necessarily take the lead.

Whether that means that the United States should go off the gold standard, cancel all debts, pay the soldiers' bonus, endow the federal farm board with twice its present purchasing power, repeal the eighteenth amendment, "soak the rich," reorganize the federal reserve in the interest of a greater and smoother flow of capital, boost the tariff rates, or go communistic, is beside the point.

When, and if, our government becomes truly representative of the will of the people and every administrative chair seats a capable, strong, farseeing official and the channels of trade and industry and agriculture have been flushed clear of obstructions set up by politicians and partisan favoritism then, perhaps, no one will snicker when somebody in authority says: "The country is on the road to recovery" and "Prosperity is just around the corner."

Arnold Zweig, German novelist whose "Claudia" and "The Case of Sergeant Grischka" are widely known, expressed his view of the situation in a recent radio address: "... And now the crisis is whispering to the astonished nations that their self-help does not really bring any help at all; that high tariffs and isolation enable no one to buy more, and that he who considers his neighbor an enemy suffers just as much as the country that has an attitude of kindness."

Break the Barriers! THERE ISN'T much more that could happen to surprise Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife. And for that matter there isn't much that might happen any more to disillusion the rest of the nation about crime in the United States.

Nothing anyone can say or write about the situation is likely to do much good. Nothing but direct, swift action from the only source that seems capable of getting things to happen, will help.

When the Lindbergh baby was found dead the other day, the United States government sent into action several thousand of its best justice department investigators. That force, coupled with new and more vigorous demands in congress, no doubt hastened this latest and most startling development in the Lindbergh murder case.

The nation has witnessed before how men in authority have become corrupt, how citizens held in high esteem have been revealed as enemies of society. John Hughes Curtis, the Norfolk "intermediary" in the case, whom Lindbergh trusted and who was aided in his work by two friends of the famous flyer, perhaps is not to blame. Those glib, trusting souls who took things for granted and became first victims of the hoax were doing only what the country demanded—expending their best efforts to recover the child.

The real agency at fault in the Lindbergh case is somewhat obscured by the arrangement that prohibits federal interference in affairs of the sort in any one state. If the federal government were endowed with the power to take such matters in hand immediately, many similar crimes might never have occurred.

The truth in that assumption is brought out by the attempt in congress to pass a bill making kidnaping across state lines a federal offense, punishable by death. The same idea might be carried further into the crime channels of the nation with wholesome effect.

Thanks, Mother Nature! MOTHER NATURE has done what congress was afraid to do—given aid to those farmers who feared that a grasshopper plague would reap more destruction on already harassed farms. Cool, wet weather this week seems certain to remove danger of a grasshopper threat such as worried the middle west last year.

It is unfortunate that mother nature couldn't help out a worried nation in other ways—by settling the problem of debt reparations, the veterans bonus and the sales tax. The nation isn't always as fortunate as it has been about the grasshopper plague—but, after all, the people do appreciate even an occasional streak of good luck, even if it comes from mother nature and not congress.

Crumbling Party Lines ANOTHER country is tried of political party lines.

Japan's military leaders issued an ultimatum yesterday, and refused the support of any government that was not truly national in scope. Partisanship will be completely out of the picture, if the army has its way.

That the army will have its way cannot be doubted. Japanese government, through its constitution, provides that the minister of war, a cabinet member, must be a general in the imperial army. Consequently the army can absolutely put a quietus on the formation of any cabinet which does not meet with its approval, and since the cabinet must take the major share of governmental duties, the blockade is just as effective to the establishment of a government.

The step is a good one. It is only that the politicians of Japan could not arrive at such a conclusion without the insistence of their military that is to be regretted.

A super-party, with all petty differences forgotten, working at maximum efficiency toward a common goal, just administration of a nation's affairs—that is an ideal setup for any country.

No political mud slinging, or promises to voters; no party platforms of differing types. Such a situation is hard to imagine in America. Probably the nation would miss its political campaigns, its orators, and handshakers. Just for a while, perhaps.

The real value of a staunch party line is highly questionable. Popular opinion would do more to decide what the nation wants in its legislation than any platform builders. Some future day will likely see the United States breaking from the restrictions of party lines, as it has seen Japan begin to leave them.

It should not be necessary by force of military power to open that breach. It should be opened through common sense and an understanding of efficient administration.

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed (Read by columns, and alphabetically) within the particular group, who will arrange a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than regular class hour on May 9 and 10.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or, in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first lecture or the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 22 meets for lectures T, Th, S at 8. The first regular meeting is, consequently, Tuesday at 8—and the class will meet for examination Thursday, May 26, 2 p.m., according to the tabular form above. Again, physics 126 meets twice each week, T, F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination is, therefore, Wednesday, June 1, 2 p.m.

N.B. All sections of freshman speech (2), (2), and (4) will meet in the buildings and rooms and on the days and at the periods designated below:

1. Wednesday, May 25, 8-10 (Course 2): Sections AA LA 15 Sections CA LA 6 Sections EA LA 14 AB LA 7 CB LA 105 EB LA 118

2. Thursday, May 26, 2-4 (Course 2): Sections BA LA 6 Sections BD LA 19 Sections DC LA 118 BB LA 15 DA LA 7 DD M.U.Stu. BC LA Aud. DB LA 14

3. Friday, May 27, 2-4 (Course 2): (Course 02): Sections FA LA 15 Sections GA LA 6 Sections ZA LA 7 FB LA 4 GB LA 118 ZB LA 14

4. Saturday, May 28, 2-4 (Course 2): Sections GC LA 118 Sections HC LA 14 Sections IB LA 7 HB LA 16 HE NS Aud. IC LA 15

"ODD" classes, namely those whose first or only weekly meetings occur on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, or Saturdays, or which meet "as arranged," will be assigned for examination, as announced to each such class by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods:

1. From 4 to 6 on any day from May 25 to June 2, inclusive.

2. Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D and E, since for such "odd" classes, these five examination periods will be found quite available.

In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure, it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times,—if no student is a member of more than one of these classes.

According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for any phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time."

According to another faculty regulation, which is on record as adopted by the faculty, a student absent from the final examination should be reported "Abs.;" unless the instructor recognizes that his work up to this examination has been a failure, in which case the final report should be "F;"—even though the student may have been absent from the final examination. No examination should be given, subsequently, to such a student until after the absence has been excused by the Committee on Admission and Classification, as shown by a partially filled special report card, signed by the Secretary of the Committee, as indicating that the absence has been excused and that the student is authorized, subject to the consent and at the convenience of the instructor concerned, to take the final examination.

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

Second Semester, 1931-1932 Wednesday, May 25, 8 a.m. to Thursday, June 2, 4 p.m. The regular program of class work will be suspended, and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D and E, as shown in the form below; and Speech (2), (2), and (4) as shown at "N.B." below.

The Program Committee directs the attention of both students, and instructors and professors, to the regulation that there is to be no deviation, in the case of any examination, from this schedule,—except as authorized by the Committee on Admission and Classification, on the student's written petition, filed in ample time, supported by the recommendation of the department concerned,—to provide relief from an excessive number of examinations within a single day. Deviation for the purpose of getting through earlier will not be permitted.

In the case of conflicts (within the SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D and E) the schedule itself, as presented below, provides a general method of making adjustments.

All classes whose first weekly meetings have occurred as indicated in the rectangles below, meet for examination during the periods noted at the tops of these three columns, and on the days noted in the rectangles directly opposite at the left of the double, vertical line.

Table with columns for Examination Period (8-10 A.M., 10-12 A.M., 2-4 P.M.), Day (Monday to Tuesday), and Special Group (A, B, C, D, E) with associated course numbers and departmental instructions.

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed (Read by columns, and alphabetically) within the particular group, who will arrange a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than regular class hour on May 9 and 10.

The Human Statue—The curious human statue of Omei Shan is in reality the mummy of the first Manchu Emperor of China, Shu Chi. The emperor was balked in a love affair and so decided to renounce the throne and to spend the rest of his life in the solitude of the monastery of Omei Shan (temple of the golden peak), the greatest sanctuary of China. The ex-ruler rose to be the abbot of this monastery, and after his death the body, arrayed in the imperial yellow silk robes, was preserved with a coating of lacquer and bronze, and placed on a pedestal to be venerated as the eternal human statue. The emperor died in 1661. But I was permitted to gaze at a smooth, full-fleshed face, which in death was very lifelike and bore a human peaceful expression. Unwanted Babies—The birth of a boy is the happiest event in a Chinese father's life, but he will sorrow over the birth of a girl. Such unwanted children are usually placed within the "Baby Tower." Only one infant may be deposited within the tower at a time, and the person removing it is compelled by law to adopt the foundling and to care for it the rest of its life. Should anyone attempt to add another occupant to the tower, he is compelled to adopt the baby already in it. Tomorrow: Working Beyond Life's Span.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD—Many a Hollywood producer is casting a jealous eye on the box-office receipts of "Scarface," so-called last of the gang films.

In the inevitable scramble for substitutes, Universal are secretly and hurriedly preparing a story with a run runner hero. To overcome censorship objections they will show the final triumph of the law, with the run runner either killed or imprisoned.

Tom Reed, who recently completed "Radio Patrol" for the U. is doing the story, an original, and Edward Cahn will direct. If the part fits Lew Ayres, he may do it, which makes the "steenth story now lined up for him.

Orders are to rush the idea into production form.

They tell it that Al Jolson's fancy new yachting cap and coat are relegated to the moth balls.

It seems Al went on a friend's boat to Catalina Island and, resplendent in his new outfit, was parading by the dock where the Catalina company's steamship Avalon was taking on passengers.

A woman and a little boy were standing on the dock. "Mama," said the little boy, pointing to Al. "Get me a suit like that."

The mama, a stout Jewish lady, beamed on Al. "So, Solmie," she chided. "You have to work for the company to wear one of those."

AND SO TO GOSSIP Fight fans, who always number many Hollywood celebrities, were quick to appreciate the drama of the occasion when James Cagney arrived at the stadium the other evening with Lee Tracy. It was Tracy who replaced Jimmie when the sorrel-topped actor walked out on the leading role in "Blessed Event." . . . These same stadium fans put more than 300 signatures on a greeting poster to be sent to Joe E. Brown in the hospital . . . Anna May Wong's sister will probably be one of the three Oriental actresses to go to Alaska with M. G. M.'s "Eskimo" company.

Captain Peter Freuchen, author of this book and a great bearded fellow, was asked which was the coldest month up there. "Well," he said mildly, "we seldom had a dog freeze before December."

W. S. Van Dyke, who'll direct the expedition, has picked out 20 books to read during the long northern nights. Heading the list is "The Three Musketeers."

DID YOU KNOW—That Ann Dvorak is a composer, with two published songs?

Students Will Vie for Latin, Greek Prizes

Examinations for the Lowden prizes in Greek and Latin will be held Friday and Saturday. The awards for the Lowden prizes, each amounting to $25, will be given by former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Oregon, Ill., an alumnus of the University of Iowa.

The Greek examination will be held Friday at 2 p.m., the latter half of the Latin examination beginning at 3 p.m. on the same day. The first half of the Latin examination will be given Saturday at 9 a.m.

Examinations will be open to juniors and seniors who are majoring in the classical languages. Some knowledge of Greek is a prerequisite for the Greek examination and qualified students may compete for both prizes. Both prizes will not be awarded to the same student, however, and the department will reserve the right to withhold either or both prizes if the examinations are not considered adequate.

This year, examinations will be based upon selected readings from ancient philosophy. Readings for the Greek examinations are: "From Homer to Theocritus," by Capps; "A Survey of Ancient History to the Death of Constantine," by Laisner; "A History of Greek Art," by Tarbell; and "A Companion to Greek Studies," by Whibley.

The readings upon which the Latin examinations will be based are: "A Survey of Ancient History to the Death of Constantine," by Laisner; "Latin Literature," by Mackell; "A History of Greek Art," by Tarbell; and "A Companion to Greek Studies," by Whibley.

University Graduate Dies in California

Henry Ruwe, who received his B. A. degree from the university in 1923, died at Monrovia, Cal., May 9, according to word received by Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department.

Mr. Ruwe contracted tuberculosis during the World war. His death followed several years of illness. While on this campus he was prominent in speech activities.

Author, Playwright to Visit University

Paul Green, author of the play, "Tread the Green Grass," and Lamar Stringfield, composed of the music for the same play, will visit the university campus in July for the performance of their production, to be given by the University theater as one of its summer plays. Mr. Stringfield is to conduct the orchestra for the performance.

This follows the custom of the university, which has been observed in the past, of bringing a playwright to the campus each summer to meet with the university actors and the members of the all-state high school casts.

Students May Get One Dollar Rooms

MOUNT PLEASANT, May 18 (AP)—A college education now is cheaper than for many, many years. At Iowa Wesleyan college a plan will be started in September whereby a student's expenses for a year will be not much more than $400.

Jackson Giddens, business manager, said the proposal will "give more students the benefit of a college training." Rooms will be available for as little as $1.00 a week.

Cubs' Eight Run Rally in Seventh Inning Crushes Phils, 9-4; Yanks Win, 3-2

Pound Three Pitchers for Winning Runs

Bud Tinning in Relief Role, Gets First Major Win

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—The Cubs blasted Ed Holley, a former teammate, from the box during an eight run uprising in the seventh inning today to defeat Philadelphia 9 to 4.

The Phillies led by 4 to 1 going into the seventh, but six hits, three walks and three errors gave Chicago the decision. With the exception of Lane Richebourg and Charley Grimm, who led the Cub attack with four and three hits respectively, the big Philadelphia right hander had subdued the Bruin hitting, only one run scoring in the first six innings while he and his mates were getting to Charlie Root for three runs in the fifth. Root left the game for a pinch hitter in the sixth, young Bud Tinning hurling the rest of the game and getting credit for his first major league victory while he held the Phils to one run in the seventh.

The big inning started with Richebourg popping up to end a streak which had seen him get three singles in his first three times up. But before the uprising could be checked the Cubs had batted Holley, and Nichols from the box and scored on Snipe Hansen. Thirteen men came to bat in this wild inning, Johnny Moore flying out with Herman and English still on base to end the scoring.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Philadelphia .....000 030 100-4 10 4 Chicago .....000 010 80x-9 14 0 Batteries: Holley, Nichols, Hansen and V. Davis; Root, Tinning and Hartnett, Hemsley.

Martin Returns as Cards Beat Braves

ST. LOUIS, May 17 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals knocked out two doubles and a single in the third inning today to score all the runs which gave them a 4-3 win over Boston in the second game of the series. Today's victory gave St. Louis an even .500 percentage.

Bill Hallahan, Cardinal hurler, allowed seven hits. He struck out the first Brave batter, let Urbanski by with a single and walked Berger. Then Worthington hit a home run which scored Berger ahead of him. The Braves scored their other run in the sixth inning, this time Worthington's single sending home Berger, who had doubled.

Pepper Martin, back in uniform after an enforced absence due to a dislocated shoulder, accounted for a double which batted in two runs, a single and a walk, while he grounded out his fourth time at bat. Collins' single, with the bases loaded, produced the first two runs for the Cardinals, Martin's double adding the second pair.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Boston .....200 001 000-3 9 0 St. Louis .....004 000 00*-4 7 1 Batteries—Brandt and Spohrer; Hallahan and Mancuso.

Boner Costs Giants 2-1 Game With Reds

CINCINNATI, May 17 (AP)—The New York Giants literally tossed away a 2 to 1 decision to the Reds today in a tight pitching duel between Bill Walker and Ray Kolp. With the score tied at 1-1 in the ninth after Bill Terry had hit his eighth homer of the season in the fourth inning, the Giants lost their chance for the winning run when Terry failed in an attempt to make a triple out of a double. Two singles followed.

In the tenth, George Grantham made his fourth hit for Cincinnati, Babe Herman was intentionally passed and then Walker made a wild throw past first on Clyde Manion's safe punt, letting the winning run score. Score by innings: R. H. E. New York .....000 100 000 0-1 9 1 Cincinnati .....100 000 000 1-2 10 0 Batteries—Walker and Hogan; Kolp, Frey and Manion.

Robins Lose 3-1 as Pirates Bunch Blows

PITTSBURGH, May 17 (AP)—The Pirates clustered their hits off Babe Phelps in the third and fourth innings today and accumulated enough runs to beat Brooklyn 3 to 1 behind the six hit pitching of Bill Harris. Lloyd Waner hit a homer in the third. Brooklyn could not score against Harris until the eighth when a bad throw by Vaughn put Dan Taylor on base and Frederick's single and a double play brought him home.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Brooklyn .....000 000 010-1 6 0 Pittsburgh .....002 100 00*-3 7 2 Batteries—Phelps, Helmaach and Lopez; Harris and Grace.

Sportively Speaking

By Bill Rutledge

A discussion of a Cub-Yankee world series for next fall is admittedly very premature, but I am going to take delight in presenting one. The Bruins became the first major league club to hit the 20 mark in the victory column yesterday when they whipped those bothersome Phils, 9 to 4.

While falling in their opportunities to set two new American league records, the Yanks stowed away their eighth straight win yesterday in trimming the Cleveland Indians, 3 to 2.

Talk of the Cubs and Yankees battling for the mythical world's baseball championship was rampant during the summer of 1923. That was the day of the Bruins' "Murderer's Row," made up of Hack Wilson, Riggs Stephenson, and Kiki Cuyler. Charlie Root was pitching his heart out for the Chicagoans—doing an extra amount of relief hurling in addition to taking his regular turn on the mound. For a time it looked as if Root would win 30 or more games.

Then came the late August pennant drives of the National League contenders and the Cubs were almost lost in the rush when the Pittsburgh Pirates, under the manateership of Donie Bush, grabbed off the league championship.

The Washington Senators are slipping back as a threat to the American league flag. Although they will make determined rallies between now and next September, their chances for second or third place are far better than their chances for first. The collapse of the Senators' greatest bulwark, their pitching staff, has ruined their chances. The Athletics look good for second place—but reserve the top berth for the Yankees.

(Note: Tuck this column away until September 27.)

First Division Position Seen for Hawkeyes

Saling to Lead 18 Man Squad in Big Ten Track Meet

A squad of about 18 athletes will handle the University of Iowa's campaign for points in the Western conference track and field championships Friday and Saturday at Evanston.

Coach George T. Bresnahan will pick his men tonight, following a series of time trials, he said, and the team will depart for Evanston via automobiles tomorrow morning.

Advance calculations give the Iowans between 24 and 28 points, and a possible place in the first division. The team collected 24 points in 1930 and 1931, placing sixth last year and fifth two years ago.

Capt. George Saling is a possibility for first place in both the high and low hurdles, or may split the events with Keller of Ohio State. Saling's high hurdle mark of 14 4-10 has not been equaled by any American athlete in 1932.

Other Hawkeyes who should score include: Robert Adamson or Walter Nugis in the 220-yard dash; Miles Jackson, high hurdler; LaRue Thurston, low hurdler; John Okerlin, pole vaulter; Wesley Youngerman, hammer and discus thrower; Gordon Lagerquist or Sidney Dean, quarter miler; Dale Barker and Robert Corong, hammer throwers; and Jaro Soucek, javelin; and the mile relay team.

It is probable that Iowa will not be represented in the mile and two mile runs since no men with scoring possibilities are now running in those events.

Hold 4 Events on First Day in Pentathlon

The all-university pentathlon got away to a slow start yesterday afternoon as the freshman squad was having its telegraphic meet and the varsity men were taking time trials. The only events of the scheduled 13 that were run off were the 100 yard dash, broad and high jumps, and the javelin throw.

In the century dash, Mandelblatt came in first with a time of 10.7. Beauchamp's toss of 165 feet and 1 inch was the best javelin mark of the day. Loynachon sailed through the air 20 feet and 11 inches to win the broad jump. J. H. Schaffer lifted himself over the high jump bar at 5 feet, 7 3/4 inches to nose out Parker Bennett for first place by 3-4 of an inch.

The meet will be extended to Thursday because of the slow start. Today's events will include the rest of group one and three which were to have been finished yesterday.

LIVESTOCK CLUB TO MEET
Boys' livestock club members of Johnson county will hold a meeting in the Farm Bureau office tomorrow at 8 p.m. to consider the subject of horse judging. Those interested in livestock judging are invited to attend this meeting.

Varsity Track Squad Holds Time Trials; Yearlings End Second Day of Wire Meet

Russell Henry of Tingley was elected honorary freshman track captain by his teammates yesterday. Henry, known most for his versatility, has consistently lead the squad in high scoring.

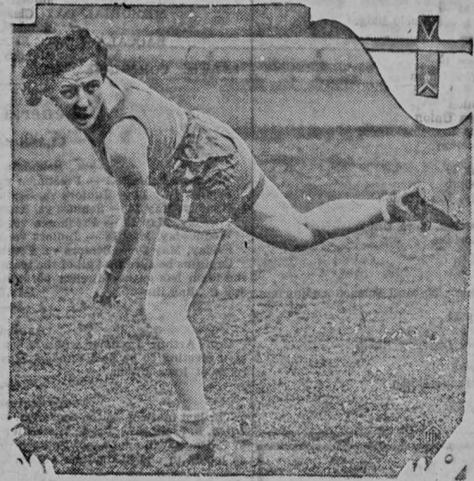

In the spring frosh track meet he garnered three firsts, two seconds and a third. Last week he registered points for the team in two events against the Wisconsin yearling team. In the telegraphic meets with Ohio State and Indiana this week he has already won the quarter and the half mile against Iowa men.

Some of Henry's marks are 100-10 seconds flat, 220-22 seconds, 440-51.2 seconds, 880-2:04 minutes; high jump-5 feet, 10 inches, broad jump-22 feet, and pole vault-11 feet.

Freshman tracksters competed in six more events of their telegraphic meets with Indiana and Ohio State and varsity cindermen held six time trials in the second day of practice at Iowa field yesterday. The wire meet will be finished today with the running off of the shot put, one mile run, and 220 yard dash. The winner of the mile will receive the annual cross country captain's trophy.

Of the frosh affairs the 880 yard run went to Russell Henry in 2:04. Henry won the 440 on the previous day and had never run the half before. Verne Schlaeser continued to

Iowa Host to Historic State Meet May 28

Thirty-sixth Renewal of Collegiate Cinder Carnival

Most venerable track and field meet in Iowa, the historic state meet will have its thirty-sixth renewal May 28 with the University of Iowa as the host institution.

Definite scheduling of the classic championships of the Iowa Collegiate association was announced yesterday by George T. Bresnahan, coach of the state university's team.

Invitations now are en route to many of Iowa's institutions. It is expected, however, that the university, Iowa State college, Drake, and Grinnell will enter the largest squads, with only a scattering few athletes from several small colleges.

The meet has not been held at Iowa City since 1923. In 1925, after being decided at Grinnell, it was abandoned until 1930 when it was revived in the Drake stadium. Des Moines also was the site of the affair last season.

It will be the second meeting of the year of the four major teams. In March, the state university won the indoor tilt with 52 1-2 points, with Grinnell in second place with 42. Drake scored 39 and Iowa State accounted for 29 1-2.

Sixteen events, four more than were on the indoor schedule, will comprise the official program. They are: track, 100, 220, 440, 880, mile, and two mile runs; 120-yard high and 220-yard low hurdles; half mile and one mile relays; field, high and broad jumps, pole vault, javelin and discus throws, and shot put.

Iowa's team will defend its championship in attempting to win the meet for the ninth consecutive time. The Hawkeyes edged out Iowa State last spring by a seven point margin.

Regulation Football Game for Saturday Afternoon Cancelled

Cancellation of the regulation football game scheduled last week as the closing event of the University of Iowa's spring practice was announced yesterday from the department of athletics.

Coach Ossie Solem declared that his squad would be depleted this week because of departmental examinations and that minor injuries further are harassing some of his best players.

Therefore, he said, it would be too difficult to play a regular game with outstanding players unable to go into action.

Drills will close tomorrow afternoon, according to Coach Solem, after one of the most successful spring practices in the history of the university. The athletes will assemble again Sept. 15 for the official opening of autumn drills.

Hawkeyes to Vie in River Swim Today

Having taken their last night workout in the river last night, the University of Iowa varsity and yearling swimming teams are set for the annual spring river swim from the city park island to the Iowa avenue bridge, which is scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock tonight.

Bruce Grove, freshman middle distance ace, will swim a favorite in the one and one-fourth mile grind, and Francis Presler, 220-yard man, is also expected to show some speed.

Jack McGuire, captain and 100-yard plunger of the varsity; and August Anderson, captain and sprinter of the frosh squad, will also be seen in action, and should give both Grove and Presler a very close race. Presler won second place last year, and Boyd Liddle has come in first for the last two years.

With the current faster than it has been in either of the last two years, better times are expected today.

Three trophies and seven medals will be presented to the first ten men finishing.

University canoe races will be run off Friday at 4 o'clock.

Irish Tracksters in Meet With U. High, St. Ambrose Friday

Local St. Patrick's tracksters will swing into action for the third time this season, Friday, when they tangle with University high and St. Ambrose of Davenport in a triangular meet at Iowa field.

The affair was originally scheduled as a duel between the Davenport school and University high, but was extended to include the Irish.

The St. Pat's team will probably consist of Megan, Wetrich, Burns, Emanuel, Gutierrez, Scannell, Duane, McNamara, and Pugh.

League Totals
American 111, National 93, total 204.

Trip Indians to Get Eighth Straight Win

Averill's Home Run in First Snaps Yankee Shutout Streak

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—The Yankees steamed past the eighth stop in a run away winning streak today, beating Cleveland for the third straight day, 3 to 2, but failed to crack the American league record for scoreless innings.

Needing to hold the opposition without a marker for but one more inning to equal the record of 41 consecutive scoreless sessions set by Cleveland 29 years ago, young Johnny Allen who started the Yankee string of shutouts, grooved one for Earl Averill in the first inning and the Indian center fielder smashed a home run into the right field bleachers.

Allen recovered to hold the Indians to seven hits but he was outpitched by Mel Harder, and needed the finest sort of fielding to pull him through. As Allen weakened in the seventh, Lazzer's stabbing catch of Morgan's liner snuffed out a threat, and two lightning double plays, the first in the eighth with the bases loaded and the second in the ninth, pulled Allen's game from the fire.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Cleveland .....100 001 000-2 7 0 New York .....010 200 00*-3 4 2 Batteries—Harder and Sewell; Allen and Dickey.

Macks Beat Tigers 2-1 Behind Earnshaw

PHILADELPHIA, May 17 (AP)—George Earnshaw's four hit shutout gave the Athletics the Detroit Tigers today, 2 to 0. The game went into the seventh inning before the winning runs were tallied.

Jimmy Foxx opened the seventh with a single to left, advanced to second on Roettger's infield safety and was safe at third on Wyatt's poor throw of Williams' bunt. Jimmy Dykes followed with the winning blow, a single to left that scored Foxx and Roettger.

Foxx soared his batting average to new heights by making three hits in four times up. Score by innings: R. H. E. Detroit .....000 000 000-0 4 2 Philadelphia .....000 000 20*-2 7 1 Batteries—Wyatt and Ruel; Earnshaw and Cochrane.

Gaston, Berry Help Chisox Down Boston

BOSTON, May 17 (AP)—With one of their former batteries working against them, the Boston Red Sox today dropped the third game in a row to the Chicago White Sox, 7-3.

Milton Gaston, former Red Sox hurler, worked with Charley Berry, traded to Chicago recently. Gaston was touched for 10 hits but he started four of Chicago's five double plays to choke most of the Boston rallies. It was Gaston's first victory of the season.

Danny MacFayden of the Red Sox pitched high grade ball most of the way but ragged support ruined his performance. Score by innings: R. H. E. Chicago .....000 023 101-7 7 2 Boston .....000 010 020-3 10 2 Batteries—Gaston and Berry; MacFayden, Michaels and Tate.

Browns Win Third in Row From Nats

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Walter Johnston's Senators today lost their third straight game to the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 2.

Bob Burke, left handed, held no secrets in his pitching, the Browns pounding him for three hits in the first inning and cracking out six more in the fourth, off him and Ragland for six runs. Bob Friedrich made his major league debut by hurling the last two frames for Washington.

Blaeholder steadied after the first inning and kept the Senators in check with 10 hits. Score by innings: R. H. E. St. Louis .....200 001 002-11 14 0 Washington .....200 000 000-2 10 1 Batteries—Blaeholder, and Ferrell; Burke, Ragland, Friedrich and Berg.

Delta Sigs Down Sig Chis to Enter Finals in Horseshoe

The Delta Sigma Delta horseshoe team "got in there an' pitched" yesterday to go into the finals of the inter-fraternity horseshoe tournament. It defeated the Sigma Chi team in two straight games by a score of 50 to 31 and 50 to 24.

By winning yesterday the Delta Sigma Deltas will be pitted against Phi Kappa Sigma in the finals for the championship. The deadly accuracy at finding the stake gave the Delta Sigs an easy victory over their opponents. Canby and Hamilton threw the shoes for the winners. Peterson and Meyers pitched for the losers.

Gamma Alpha Takes Greek Doubles Title

Gamma Alpha took the intramural tennis doubles crown yesterday by virtue of their win over the Pi Kappa Alpha team. Only one game in the two sets was taken by the Pi K.A. duo, the score being 6-0, 6-1 in favor of the Gamma Alphas.

The Gamma Alpha netsters used hard, well placed drives coupled with smooth coordination to annex their one-sided victory. Evans and Sorrus welded the rackets for the victors. Wickey and McCurdy represented Pi K.A. in the net dual.

Sig Pi's baseball team blanked Theta Xi yesterday afternoon in the fraternity league 11 to 0.

Wander and Ammann carried out victory gave the winners leadership in the Iowa conference baseball title chase.

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

SYNOPSIS

Pretty Mary Kennedy breaks her engagement to the elderly but wealthy sports promoter, Buck Landers when she falls in love with his young ward, Steve Moore. Landers kidnaps Steve and threatens to frame him unless Mary marries Landers. Mary flirts with Landers' henchman, Bat, to gain his confidence. She learns of Steve's whereabouts and goes there alone. In a dingy flat, Mary is confronted by two thugs who deny all knowledge of Steve. They hold her and phone Landers. Landers arrives and orders his men out. When Landers refuses to leave, Mary shoots at him but misses. He flees. Steve confesses to Mary that he is engaged, but she loves her.

CHAPTER XXXII

“BUT that's all over now, Steve?”
“Yes, that's all over now,” he echoed. “It's all over so far as I'm concerned. But the hard part of it is that Eileen doesn't know. I haven't had a chance to tell her—and it makes me feel like a dog.”
“Will she mind it very much, Steve?”
“I passed a bothered hand across his forehead.”
“I'm afraid she will. She's a wonderful girl—a lovely girl. Her brother is my best pal, and her mother and father have always been marvelous to me. When I came East to start in with Buck Landers, we all thought that within six months or so Eileen and I would be married here. As a matter of fact, the family was coming East for the Summer anyway—Mr. Calvert has a Summer home up in the Catskills.”

Mary's voice was no more than a whisper. “You could write her a letter, Steve.”
He compressed his lips and shook his head.
The startled feeling in Mary's heart changed slowly into a dull ache. All at once, she seemed helpless to combat this new menace. But she tried to make her voice sensible.

“But surely Steve she will release you without any trouble once she understands how much we love each other.”
“But I couldn't explain it properly in a letter to her—and I can't hurt her, and her whole family, too much,” Steve said earnestly. “It will have to be done tactfully and as honestly as a thing of this kind can be done. But they are wonderful people, Mary, and it's up to me to be as fair as possible to them in every way.”

She pressed his hand. “I know you'll always be fair to everybody, Steve.”
“I knew you would understand, darling. Now please try to understand a little more. The whole Calvert family was due to arrive in New York day before yesterday. They were leaving immediately for the Catskills—and we had agreed that I would run up and visit them right away. I think I had better do it, Mary—in fact I'll have to do it, for Eileen's sake. Tell me you understand.”

A rich and beautiful girl named Eileen Calvert...

She bit her lower lip and held back the tears. It was going to be bitter to surrender him—to risk him to another girl who loved him.

“I want you to do whatever seems best—and right,” she said.

He seemed relieved, his spirits heightened. He pressed both her hands.

“You're not afraid to let me go, are you?”
“No, Steve.”
“You darling!” he breathed, and again their lips clung together.

But the peace of her heart had been disturbed. Even as his lips pressed hers, Mary was trying to imagine what Eileen Calvert was like. Was she beautiful? Yes, undoubtedly, for Steve could have cared only for beauty. Rich and beautiful and cultured—with a fine big home in which to entertain him—Eileen Calvert certainly would have a tremendous advantage over Mary with her pitiful little stock of qualifications. It was no good pretending—she knew that Steve would be in danger from the moment he came again under the spell of the California girl. He might visit her from a sense of duty... but a re-awakening love might hold him.

“Did you love Eileen very much?”
“I thought I did—till the minute I knew you. I feel like a dog for breaking faith with her—but Eileen will have to have the truth. I'm sorry, but it can't be helped.”

During the balance of the ride to Brooklyn they scarcely spoke or stirred, except when the taxicab jounced. Her love for him was increasing, with a deeper, tenderer emotion, that had a mysterious strain of something fiercely maternal in it. His sophistication, even something of his glamour, seemed to fade, and he was but a harassed and distressed boy—a bewildered boy who was trying to act like a big man. Ah, but she would help him to develop, with her guidance and wisdom, into the wonderful man he was going to be.

When they were married she would not weigh him down with cares and responsibilities; she would not make him an ordinary, domestic husband, resentful of his lost freedom. She saw herself as his partner and his inspiration; in the first few hard years she would work, too, so that they might dwell together as untrammelled lovers.

They arrived in Brooklyn and found her sister and children had gone out for the afternoon. The housekeeper, who knew Mary well, let them in the small apartment with a pass key.

“What I want mostly right now is a bath and a shave,” Steve said. Mary found her brother-in-law's razor for him, and while he revolved in the tub, she fried bacon and eggs, and made coffee and toast in the tiny kitchenette. The quick recuperation of youth stimulated them both, and the food brought back their buoyant energy. He helped her wash and wipe dishes, and later sat on a low footstool at her feet, with his head in her lap. She smoothed his thick brown hair with her hands.

“How long before you'll come back, Steve?” she asked dreamily. “They wanted me to spend a month—but I'll shake loose inside of two weeks, easily.”

But if he was to leave her immediately, this was no time for dreaming; she had to be practical. She wrote down her sister's telephone number and address on a piece of paper, which he put in his billfold. In turn, he scribbled the Catskill address of the Calverts. In case of emergency they knew how to reach each other. Mary would either stay with her sister while Steve was gone, or keep in close touch. They would write each other every day. Oh, positively!

“But must you go tonight, Steve darling?” she asked regretfully.
He took her hand and pressed it to his lips. “The quicker I go, the sooner I can come back. Look here, Mary—I can just pop over to the rooming house and get my grips and grab a train for up there tonight. I can phone out to the house from the station, and they'll send a car in for me. You see, darling, I'll be killing two birds with one stone. I'll be squaring things with Eileen, and making plans for our future at the same time. You know, darling, I got to do a lot of planning to make everything clear and straight, and happy for us.”

“Steve...” Her voice fluttered a little. “Nothing possible could come up to interfere, could it?”
Tears misted her eyes. He squeezed her hands until they hurt; his face grew suddenly serious and his voice hoarse.
“Listen to me, Mary—as long as I live—as long as I'm on this earth or any other—that long I'll always be in love with you—and only you. You're my sunlight and moonlight—you're the sky and the earth and the ocean to me.” The serious look left his face and he grinned. “How's that for poetry?”

“It's adorable!” she cried, and her face was illumined.
“I want to marry you as soon as I can,” he went on quickly. “I think Landers is thoroughly licked, and he won't trouble us any more. But let me get myself together first—I want to have a long talk with good old Bill Calvert, Eileen's brother. He's a boy with a level head and I can tell him everything. You see the Calverts have a lot of connections in New York, and maybe Bill can help me get some kind of a job here. Oh, he'll do it like a shot. Just give me a little time, Mary darling, just a few weeks.”

She stooped and kissed his forehead. “I could wait for you forever.”
“But I don't want to wait a minute longer than is necessary,” he protested. “It's a bit of uphill pull right now—but never fear, we'll reach the top soon.”

His brave words echoed in her heart and she smiled. Yet, suddenly, the future seemed as dark as the night—what would Eileen Calvert be like? A tall, graceful girl, with luminous dark eyes—exquisitely beautiful.

Beckett Tops Field in Quad Competition

Race Narrows Down for All-Round Title in Athletics

With the close of the athletic season in sight and but four events left from which to garner points, the Quadrangle individual all-around race has narrowed down considerably, finding Beckett easily leading the field with 99 markers to his credit.

The closest follower is Case, having amassed 77 points during the season of competition. Other leaders are Barnes and Osborn, each with 67, and another pair, R. Anderson and Mandelblatt each having 65.

This competition is based on a system of grading that awards 10 points for participation in any event, two points for winning a first place or one for a second place in any team or individual victory. As a reward for high honors there will be a statuette and four cups ranging in size according to the rank of the individual in the win column.

Along with individual efforts to capture high scoring honors there are trophies for team play within the sections of the Quad. The scoring scale is the same as in the individual contest.

First and second place in this part of the athletic competition is more closely contested finding a narrow margin separating the two leaders.

Standing of the sections:
Section D, 534 points; section B, 524 points; section A, 403 points; and section C, 264 points.

Entry blanks are posted on the main bulletin board at the Quad now for entrants in the all-university canoe race on May 20. This is open for all teams of two that care to enter.

Ramblers in Fourth Win; Beat Oxford

The St. Mary's baseball club scored its fourth consecutive win yesterday by defeating Oxford 2 to 1 in a five inning game played on the city park diamond. This is the second time Oxford has lost to the locals.

Oxford got off to an impressive start by scoring a run in its first inning at bat, but the Ramblers retaliated by evening the score in the same session.

Belger, pitching his first game for the local nine, had much the better of it in the contest, showing up especially well in the second inning, when he used only five balls to set the opponents down. The scoring was finished in the same inning when Gaulocher, the Ramblers' fielder, scored the winning run.

Extensive practice sessions have had a telling effect on the Ramblers. In the game yesterday they exhibited much faster and smarter baseball, and their error column was kept much cleaner than in any game to date.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Oxford.....100 0-1 2 2
St. Mary's.....110 0x-2 2 3
Batteries—Donahue and Edwards; Belger and Maher.

Lindbergh

further resulted in many official airplane trips, auto trips as well as keeping Colonel Lindbergh away from home and activities during the most important phase of the case in pursuit of fictitious clues.

Discrepancies
Gov. A. Harry Moore had “felt all along that not much credence should be placed in Curtis' story; “the coast guard said the confession bore out conclusions they had reached because of discrepancies in Curtis' description of the boat used by the supposed kidnapers and because a search by boat and plane was futile; police in Norfolk said the confession coincided with information uncovered there since the baby was found murdered.

Police became suspicious, the governor related, because the notes Curtis used in telling his story were in manuscript rather than memorandum form.

Hasty Notes
“It did not seem possible,” said Moore, “that a person making hasty notes, as would be expected, would be so careful in writing them. He would make quick notes. That made police suspicious.”

The governor said he did not know under what charge Curtis could be held. In response to inquiries Colonel Schwarzkopf announced Curtis has not as yet been placed under arrest.

Possible Charges
As possible charges, the governor suggested seeking to obtain money under false pretenses or “hampering the ends of justice.”

It was also pointed out that if the mails were used in any way a charge might be made against him by postal authorities. Norfolk authorities immediately began to cast about for possible procedure with regard to prosecution.

At the outset the efforts of the three Norfolk men were generally regarded as bona fide. Admiral Burrage, who was credited with obtaining an audience for them with Colonel Lindbergh here, had been the commander of the cruiser Memphis which returned the flyer to this country after his epochal New York to Paris flight. Colonel Lindbergh came to the telephone personally and the admiral identified himself by relating intimate incidents aboard the cruiser.

Prominent in Society
Dean Dobson-Peacock was a widely known clergyman and Curtis, while suffering business reverses, had been prominent in southern society. The gas engine and boat company of which Curtis was president filed a petition in bankruptcy in Norfolk May 5, 1932. Liabilities were given as $357,173.32 and assets at $224,301.39. The company later was reorganized as the J. H. Curtis gas engine and boat corporation.

The astounding revelations of Curtis sent police authorities into a conference. It became known that Colonel Lindbergh had informed officials he had no objections to the state of New Jersey offering a reward for the capture of the murderers of the son but he did not want it to seem that he was asking for such action. The most generally discussed figure was $50,000.

HAPPY ONCE MORE

The joy of life that for many long, weary months was absent illuminated the features of Mrs. Granville Fortescue as she was photographed in Chicago, where she paused for a brief stay before proceeding to her home in New York. Convicted, then freed with her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two navy enlisted men in the famous Honolulu “honor slaying” case, Mrs. Fortescue now looks forward to a complete pardon.

Auto Racing Opens Sunday at Parlor City

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
CEDAR RAPIDS, May 17—Frontier park will open its 1932 season of dirt track racing here Sunday afternoon with one of the most diversified and thrilling producing programs ever presented here.

In addition to the famous Ash Can derby—in which only cars of less than $50 value can compete—and a complete program of racing with outstanding drivers in the Midwest competing, B. Ward Beam, nationally prominent operator of A.A.A. sanctioned auto races who is managing the local track this season, has announced that he will stage his International Congress of Daredevils which recently exhibited in St. Louis.

Included in the program of 14 thrilling events are the somersaulting car which speeds down the track and flips end over end with the driver in the seat, the roll over car in which the driver turns his car over sideways, and the head-on collision between two cars which race around the half mile oval and collide before the grandstand with the drivers staying with the car until they hit.

The popular “Speed” Adams of Marion should be hard pushed in the races by Allen Nelson, a Parlor City driver, who entered his new Sitman Special.

DIXIE DUGAN—

By J. P. McEvoy and J. H. Striebel

Judges Select 10 Next Best Contributions

"Dr. Lawyer, Dentist" Known to Ripley Before This

It might be unusual that Iowa City has a "D. Lawyer, Dentist," but when the contest editors in The Daily Iowan Ripley Believe-it-or-not competition that closed Monday at 6 p.m. recalled that Ripley had published that fact more than a year ago, all three persons who submitted it were ruled out.

After the judges had selected 10 best contributions they found several hundred more on their hands that included a few worth special mention. So they selected 10 more that are worth printing but did not quite make the grade in the local contest.

National Competition

The 10 winners published in yesterday's issue of The Daily Iowan have been sent on to national headquarters in New York city to compete with contributions from all over the country.

Following are the 10 second best ideas selected for special mention:

Believe it or not, a few years ago a car containing thousands of sticks of gelignite, a powerful explosive, was wrecked while descending a gold mine in South Africa. Not one stick exploded in spite of the terrific impact, even though the car actually ran over many of them. (This occurrence was witnessed by H. Thornton, Sr.) Submitted by H. J. Thornton.

"Cows Have Pups"

Believe it or not, cows have pups. The female fur seals of Alaska are called "cows" and the young seals are called "pups." Submitted by C. L. Watters, 425 E. Jefferson street.

Believe it or not, Dr. Cleaves is a surgeon of Cherokee. Submitted by L. H. Redenbaugh, 528 Rundell street.

Fish Strangle Man

Believe it or not, a man was strangled to death by a fish. In the spring of 1926, a resident of Kipahulu, Maui, T. H., went fishing in shallow water about a mile from his home. He caught a three inch "Hinalia." He unhooked it and held it between his teeth while preparing to catch another. But he stumbled, and in the effort to check his fall, loosened his jaws and allowed the fish to slip deep into his mouth and lodge in his throat. The nearest physician, from Hana, a town 10 miles away, was called, but before he arrived the man had succumbed. Submitted by Katsuyuki Izumi, 17 W. Fairchild street.

Ruth Aurner Entered

Believe it or not, the state with the longest coastline lies in the middle west. Michigan's coastline extends 1,624 miles while Florida has 1,145 miles of coastline and California 1,100 miles. Submitted by Ruth Aurner, 303 Lexington avenue.

Speaking of Crashes

Believe it or not, if two automobiles, each travelling 75 miles an hour collide, the crash is about the same as would be produced by rolling them from the top of the Woolworth building in New York city. If the automobiles are travelling 75 miles an hour each is travelling 110 feet per second. With a head on collision, the two meet at 220 feet per second. The Woolworth building is 760 feet high. An automobile dropped from the top would, neglecting air resistance, strike the pavement with a velocity of 222 feet per second, practically the same as the speed with which two cars travelling 75 miles per hour would meet, as in the preceding paragraph. Submitted by C. C. Wylie, 1505 Muscatine avenue.

Believe it or not, neither Atchison, Topeka, or Santa Fe are on the main route of three trains of the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe railroad. Submitted by Norman C. Meier, 402 Brooklyn place.

One Policy Firm

Believe it or not, one small life insurance policy was the only policy written by the Wisconsin Marine and Fire Insurance company, yet, abnormally large profits were made by the company and the founders retired wealthy. The company was chartered in Milwaukee, Wis. in the year of the panic, 1837. Submitted by Ray Treimer, 220 E. Davenport street.

Believe it or not, a man may be his own grandfather. Adam married a widow who had a grown daughter. Adam's father visited Adam and fell in love with and married Adam's daughter-in-law. Thus Adam's father became Adam's son-in-law, and Adam's step-daughter (being Adam's father's wife) became his mother. In time, Adam's wife bore him a son, who became Adam's father's brother-in-law and Adam's uncle, as the child was a brother of Adam's step-mother. Adam's father's wife (Adam's step-daughter) also had a son, and he, of course, is Adam's brother and his grandchild, for the child is Adam's daughter's son. Therefore, Adam's wife is his grandmother and Adam is his wife's husband and grandchild at the same time. And, as the husband of one's grandmother is his grandfather, Adam is his own grandfather. Submitted by Louis H. Diercks, 900 N. Johnson street.

Some Horsepower

Believe it or not, two-thirds of the way around the world was traversed on 1/46th of a horsepower. Between the dates of Dec. 30, 1925 and March 1, 1926, L. G. Windom, of Columbus, Ohio, established communication with two amateur radio stations in Australia and one in South Africa by means of a very small radio transmitter consisting of

COURTHOUSE PIGEON HOLES

Another Marriage License
Harold E. Block, 23, and Alice L. Potter, 19, applied for a marriage license in the office of Clerk of Court Walter J. Barrow.

Files Final Report
The final report of George L. Falk, referee in the case of Emilie M. Mutchler vs. Albert Hemmer was set for May 23 at 9 a.m. Falk asks to be dismissed as referee. F. B. Ovens is attorney for Mutchler and Davis and Davis represent Hemmer in the action.

Drivers' Licenses
Applications for drivers' licenses were filed in the office of Sheriff Don McComas by Dwight Hunter, John Hook, I. F. Dobraura, Allen H. Peterson, Luella E. Martin, R. D. Lambert, W. H. Singleman, and Mrs. John I. Holden.

8 Testify in Damage Suit

Witnesses Appear for Plaintiff in Bauer Accident Case

Eight witnesses were called yesterday in the second day of the damage suit in which D. A. Hebel, executor, and R. R. Schroeder, administrator, of the estate of Walter H. Bauer, ask $20,000 judgment against Robert H. Smith and the Western Casualty and Surety company for the death of Bauer in an automobile accident last November.

Mrs. Florence Wagner of Marengo, the last and principal witness of the afternoon, was a passenger in Bauer's car at the time of the accident which occurred on U. S. highway 6 four miles west of Grinnell.

Testifies of Damage

She testified that Bauer's car had been damaged in a collision with a car driven by L. W. Whitford. It had been pushed off to the side of the road, she said, to allow other cars to pass.

According to her testimony, some time elapsed between the time of the collision with Whitford's car and Bauer's death. She said that a wrecker had been called to come for the damaged car and it was while they were awaiting its arrival that Bauer was struck by Smith's car.

Bauer Struck

The testimony brought out the fact that Bauer was struck as he was standing by his car. The impact, Mrs. Wagner said, threw his body 25 feet ahead of the car.

Other witnesses who testified for the plaintiff are: L. W. Whitford, who figured in the first collision; Edward Conkie of Cedar Rapids, who testified as to the position of Bauer's car and the extent of the damage; Ruben Sharf of Iowa City, who identified photographs of the highway and the wreck; Robert McKee of Des Moines, who recognized Bauer and Mrs. Wagner and talked with them before the fatal accident. Mrs. Robert McKee, who substantiated her husband's statement; F. L. Sandahl, who noticed a car, presumably the one carrying Bauer's body, turn around near Bauer's and drive east; and Dr. W. D. Hall of Marengo, who testified to finding blood and hair on the hinge of the car door.

Believe it or not, a man may be his own grandfather. Adam married a widow who had a grown daughter. Adam's father visited Adam and fell in love with and married Adam's daughter-in-law. Thus Adam's father became Adam's son-in-law, and Adam's step-daughter (being Adam's father's wife) became his mother. In time, Adam's wife bore him a son, who became Adam's father's brother-in-law and Adam's uncle, as the child was a brother of Adam's step-mother. Adam's father's wife (Adam's step-daughter) also had a son, and he, of course, is Adam's brother and his grandchild, for the child is Adam's daughter's son. Therefore, Adam's wife is his grandmother and Adam is his wife's husband and grandchild at the same time. And, as the husband of one's grandmother is his grandfather, Adam is his own grandfather. Submitted by Louis H. Diercks, 900 N. Johnson street.

Junior C. of C. Hears Hahn at First Meeting

"A referendum should be submitted to the people regarding the eighteenth amendment," Clarence A. Hahn, Republican candidate for congress from the first congressional district, said in a speech before the first regular meeting of the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce last night at the Jefferson hotel.

Outlining his platform further, he advocated a reduction in government expenditures and the furtherance of all legislation beneficial to Iowa farms and industries.

As the last step in completing the organization of the Junior group, committees were chosen to have charge of membership and picnics.

Those named on the membership committee are Cloyd Shelladay, chairman, Benard Sheridan, Emory Kelley, Robert Whiteis, and Gene Taylor.

The picnic committee, which is to begin arrangements for a picnic on the third Tuesday in June, is made up of Nate Kendall, Ivan Petty, L. Merick, Alfred Giese, and Virgil Grandrath.

Members who plan to attend the state convention of Junior Chambers of Commerce at Mason City next Monday will be announced some time this week. The local club sent a petition for membership to the state organization Monday.

Three new members were announced at the meeting, Theodore M. Rehder, Van Crawford, and Gus Pusateri.

A 199 type bulb with input powers ranging from 0.49 to 0.57 watt. This figure out to be an average of about 17,500 miles per watt power or 17,500 miles on 1/746 horsepower. Submitted by Paul E. Griffith, 45 B Quadrangle.

Aurner Talks to Kiwanis on Iowa History

Tells of Early Settling, Building Up of Site Now Iowa City

"Right here we are standing on historic ground," C. Ray Aurner said, speaking on the subject "Know Iowa" at the Kiwanis club luncheon yesterday noon in the Jefferson hotel.

Mr. Aurner's talk was given in accordance with a proclamation issued by Governor Dan Turner designating the week May 8 to May 14 as "Know Iowa week."

History of Johnson County

M. Aurner localized his speech by telling of the history of Johnson county. He told of the first settlement at the site which Iowa City now occupies and of the building of "Old Capitol" with its winding stairs.

"Iowa is the connecting link between the old Northwest territory and the Louisiana Purchase," Mr. Aurner said, commenting on the origin of the state. "Originally Iowa was attached to Michigan in accordance with an act passed by congress and was subject to the laws of that state. Later it was attached to Wisconsin and finally it was given the right to govern itself."

John Brown Headquarters

By way of local history Mr. Aurner disclosed the fact that John Brown once had headquarters in the old Davis drug store which was located in the heart of Iowa City's business district.

Proceeding the main speech, Edward S. Rose, speaking in behalf of the Rotary club, congratulated Alvin W. Bryan, a member, upon his being appointed dean of the college of dentistry. E. M. Elcher of Washington, Ia., Democratic candidate for congressman, was a guest at the luncheon.

Sale of Memorial Poppies for War Veterans, May 28

Saturday, May 28, is the day designated this year by the National American Legion auxiliary as "Poppy Day." Mrs. R. V. Campbell, chairman of the local auxiliary unit's memorial poppy committee, announced yesterday.

"How soon these men who are barred from most occupations because of injuries received in the country's defense can be placed back at work making poppies depends entirely upon the public response to the auxiliary's poppy sale," Mrs. Campbell said.

During the winter and spring several thousand disabled veterans have been given employment making the little red flowers which the auxiliary will sell May 28, to be worn in honor of the World War dead. Nearly 10 million of the flowers have now been completed.

"The situation for the disabled veterans is especially desperate this year," Mrs. Campbell pointed out.

Students Will Give Play Over WSUI

"A Soul's Tragedy," a play by Robert Browning, dealing with the question of government, will be presented over WSUI tonight from 8 to 9 o'clock. It is under the direction of John Wray Young, instructor in speech.

The cast is: Eulalia, Alberta Bond, A2 of Peterson; Luitlalo, Maxine Vincent, A2 of Shenandoah; Ognibin, Frank Walker, A4 of Clarion; Chiappin, John Price Hughes, A2 of Ottumwa; a citizen, Alice McDaniel, A3 of Washington; a girl, Vivian Rockwood, A3 of Renwick; a woman, Evelyn Paul, A1 of Cedar Rapids.

Next Wednesday evening at the same time, "Colombe's Birthday," by Browning, will be presented.

Nurses Meeting Postponed

Due to the departure of Mayor J. J. Carroll to attend his sister's funeral in St. Louis, Mo., a meeting of the Visiting Nurses association called for last night was postponed by Leo E. Kohl, president, until next Tuesday.

Winter Wheat Report Hoists Grain Prices

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—Piling up of evidence that domestic winter wheat crop prospects had deteriorated, not improved, since May 1 gave a vigorous hoist to grain values today.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1-2, 14 cent above yesterday's finish, corn at 1-2 decline to 1-4 advance, oats unchanged to 1-4 higher and provisions unchanged to 15 cents up.

Corn and oats averaged higher with wheat. Considerable buying of corn against sales of wheat took place at times. Rural offerings of corn were larger.

Provisions responded to upturn of cereals and virtually ignored a downward trend of the home market.
