Week of Searching for Lost Child Ends in Tragedy

Boy Found in Sewage Pool, Home Nearby

Discovery Ends Search of National Guards, Residents

MINNEAPOLIS, July 14 (AP)—The boy for whom suburban Columbia heights searched nearly a week was found dead late today in an underground sewage catch-basin near his home.

Only a few hours before 125 national guardsmen who joined local residents Tuesday were to cease hunting in the belief it was futile, a cesspool yielded the body of Leslie Delano, 20 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Delano.

How the boy met death remained undetermined. Police believed he did not fall into the chamber, although it had a removable top 10 inches square.

Few Hundred Feet Away
The catch-basin is a few hundred feet from the Delano home, is part of a sewage system of considerable length, connecting with houses and a nearby swamp.

Investigators said the child could have fallen into the system elsewhere, or the body might have been washed in from the swamp after a heavy rain Saturday.

The cesspool at the home of O. E. Spa, the third to be searched, contained the body.

Wooden Shaft Withdrawn
The wooden shaft which sinks 15 feet to the pool proper was withdrawn and turned over to the county attorney for closer inspection, in the hope it might yield finger prints, tufts of hair, or some clue to indicate whether the child could have fallen accidentally through the small opening or whether violence was used.

The interior of the shaft was studded with nails, and the child's body showed abrasions on the legs which may have come from nail scratches.

One factor adding mystery to the circumstances surrounding the finding of the body was the fact the cesspool had been searched before.

Columbia heights police, with a flashlight, probed the pit Sunday afternoon and reported nothing could be seen there at that time.

City Council Will Discuss Traffic Law

Three proposed changes in Iowa City parking ordinances have been prepared by the ordinance committee and will be presented to the city council at its meeting tonight.

The first proposed change is to prohibit all center parking on Iowa City streets and return the parking zones to the curb. According to this plan there would be no restrictions on the length of time an auto could be left at the curb.

The second proposal is the same as the first, except that parking at the curb would be limited to 90 minutes. These proposals are aimed at facilitating use of the new fire truck, which because of its length requires a greater area when turning corners.

In the third proposed ordinance change all parking will be prohibited for 122 feet from the corner on the east side of Linn street in front of the post office building, which is directly across from the fire station.

This proposal is being made because it was found by experiment that the new fire truck could not negotiate the turn out of the fire station easily if automobiles were parked in front of the post office.

Post Order to Nab Alleged Bootlegger

DES MOINES, July 14 (AP)—An order was posted in the city liquor room today to arrest Mike Talario, under federal liquor charges at Dav-entport, on sight.

Chief of Police Henry A. Alber said he "did not want Talario to become established here." The alleged bootlegger was ordered to leave town Saturday after being arrested in South Des Moines.

Flute Solo Recital Presented Sunday at 4 P.M. in Union

Lamar Stringfield, composer-conductor of the orchestra which is accompanying the University theater's presentation of the world premier of Paul Green's "Tread the Green Grass," will be presented Sunday at 4 p.m. in a flute recital at Iowa Union. He will be accompanied by Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the university music department.

Mr. Stringfield is known "not only as a composer, but as a virtuoso on the flute," said Professor Clapp. He has been active in the field of music in his native state, North Carolina, where he is a member of the faculty of the state university, and has been largely responsible for the establishment in North Carolina of a state symphony orchestra.

Premier of Folk Fantasy Opens Tonight

'Tread the Green Grass' Cast Directed by Vance Morton

The world's premier of "Tread the Green Grass," by Paul Green, will be presented by the University players under the direction of Prof. Vance Morton of the speech department, in natural science auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

The play will be repeated Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday evenings. Mr. Green, and Lamar Stringfield, who composed the musical score, are assisting Professor Morton. Mr. Stringfield is directing the orchestra which will play throughout the performance.

Dramatists to Attend
Several dramatists will attend the play tonight, including Barrett H. Clark, head drama critic for Samuel French of New York city, and E. P. Conkle, playwright. Mrs. Paul Green arrived this morning for the performance.

A ramp of varying levels has been constructed on the theater stage, and much of the action of the play will take place on it. There will be no intermission during the entire play, all scene changes taking place with the auditorium darkened.

Many of the scenic effects are being accomplished with lighting. By the use of floodlights, silhouettes of trees and buildings will be thrown on the background. A few movable pieces of scenery will be used. Several short interludes will take place in front of the curtain.

Orchestra Creates Effects
Although the production is not a musical play, there are several songs, and the orchestra creates sound effects and interprets the moods of the players.

"Tread the Green Grass" is a folk fantasy dealing with the troubled soul of a young girl, Tina Bessel. She lives in a narrow but imaginative neighborhood where folk beliefs and an "avenging" theology hold sway over men's minds.

The play depicts Tina's struggles, both mental and physical, to escape from the tolls of her environment and find release in a free and untroubled world.

Tina Loses Soul
Young Davie and other creatures of the woods play a part in leading Tina from her home into the magic circle of the forest where she loses her soul. This is shown in her insane dreams which are caused by the contending forces pulling at her.

Tina starts life as a normal girl; but trying to rationalize with the almost fanatical religious beliefs of her community drives her to insanity.

Mr. Green said, "If there is a moral to her story, it is that it does not pay to be either too imaginative or too dissatisfied with one's lot."

The cast is composed mainly of summer school students in the speech department. Prof. E. C. Mabee, head of that department, and Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, are supervising directors.

Britain Issues Statements on Debts to U. S.

Says American Delegates Not Consulted About Lausanne Treaty

LONDON, July 14 (AP)—The British government made a double attempt today to wipe out any impression in the United States that a concerted European move was being made to nullify the war debts owed to Washington.

The government issued two official statements, one of them denied that the new Anglo-French accord bound Britain not to negotiate an individual debt settlement with the United States.

Strengthened Denial
The other reiterated and strengthened the recent denial that American representatives were consulted before the European powers wrote the Lausanne treaty, which greatly scaled down the German reparations with which they meet a large part of their debts to the United States.

During the day the Italian and Belgian charge d'affaires notified the foreign office that their governments agreed with the ideas expressed in the Anglo-French pact and intended to adhere to it. It was understood that Germany, also invited to participate, was studying the agreement.

Officials Perturbed
Official quarters appeared considerably perturbed by conflicting statements and misunderstandings in regard to the accord, as well as by the tone of comment in the press and in the house of commons.

The effect of the first of the day's official statements was to make more sharp than ever the difference of opinion between France and Great Britain over exactly what the Franco-British accord means.

Premier Herriot of France said in Paris that it meant Great Britain might not negotiate an American debt settlement without first consulting his government. Britain contends that is not true.

Foreign Office Explains Pact Leniency to Germany Depends on Aid From U. S.

PARIS, July 14 (AP)—The foreign office today made public the much-discussed "gentlemen's agreement" in which the European creditor powers declared their leniency toward Germany on the score of reparations would not be effective until they obtained "satisfactory settlement" of their own debts to the United States.

Meanwhile there was no indication that the government had receded from Premier Herriot's interpretation of the new Franco-British accord, which he has asserted means that Britain can not conclude a debt settlement with America without first talking things over with France.

An official authorized to speak for the premier denied reports published abroad that the accord contained a secret fifth clause directly dealing with war debts.

After publications of the "gentlemen's agreement" the premier turned to the Lausanne conference to the question of disarmament. He studied the text of a resolution which the general committee of the disarmament conference has been preparing. The premier will leave for Geneva Sunday.

Britain Tries for Harmony

Attempts to Compose Differences With Free State

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 15 (Friday) (AP)—A scheme for investigation by tribunal of differences between the Irish Free State and Great Britain was understood to have been proposed today after the Free State had gone ahead with plans for a tariff war with Britain.

Acceptance by President de Valera of an invitation to confer with Prime Minister MacDonald in London at the same time was regarded in political circles here as hopefully altering the situation arising out of the Free State's failure to pay land annuities to the British treasury and the subsequent retaliatory tariff measures.

William Norton, chairman of the Free State labor party, after a consultation early yesterday with President de Valera, carried a plan to London, which he said was acceptable to the Free State. It is understood the plan provided for a tribunal of four members.

John Lonedog Treks Through City on Way to Canada, Yukon, With Only Two Wagons for Equipment

Looking for all the world like a Hindu fakir trudging off to the Ganges to die, John Lonedog, World war veteran, part Indian, pulled two junk laden wagons through Iowa City yesterday on his way to Canada and the Yukon.

The little man, not more than five feet tall, was brown from the steaming sun of endless pavements. His home-made wagons, each about six feet long and with wheels not more than six inches high, dragged reluctantly behind him at the end of a long rope.

By way of identification, he carried an affidavit signed before a notary public. It claimed that he enlisted in the "fourth battalion of the Royal North Lancashire regiment" at Boston in 1917 and that he was wounded at Cambrai, France, Sept. 16, 1918. Discharged March 27, 1920, at Preston, England, he returned to this country. Now, he is dragging his worthless wagon loads toward Detroit, where he intends to cross into Canada.

Comes Wednesday
Lonedog was first heard of Wednesday night when a resident of Tiffin called Sheriff Don McComas' office and said something ought to be done about him. Preston Koser, deputy sheriff, found him alongside the road. Nothing could be done, because the law does not prevent inhumane treatment of oneself.

Yesterday morning Charles Boeck of the Iowa City police force met the traveler on Wolfe avenue. He was half way up a hill, tugging, tugging relentlessly at the rope. The wagons refused to move, so Boeck pulled Lonedog and his wagons up the hill behind the police car.

At 12:45 p.m., he left the wagons in front of the Willenbrock Motor company at Burlington and Clinton streets while he went to a store for groceries.

He stopped during the afternoon at the American Legion Community building and asked for money. Mrs. Martin Pederson, head of the Iowa City Red Cross, gave him a small donation.

Police Offer Lift
By 5:30 p.m. he had reached the Log Cabin filling station on Muscatine avenue. Police found him there, nearly exhausted, and offered to give him a lift out of town to a camping spot.

Indignant, Lonedog threw the rope about his neck like a little boy going to bed out of spite, and started on down the road. He wanted to camp in town and claimed he was being denied the rights of a citizen.

As a crowd of pedestrians and motorists gazed after him with puzzled expressions on their faces and shook their heads, Lonedog, stumbling and with the muscles bulging under his sweat soaked shirt, dragged his ludicrous wagons down the highway eastward.

Downtown Property Sells for $40,000

The transfer was recorded yesterday in the office of County Recorder John M. Kadlec.

Call Marines to Help Cops Guard Capitol

Company Marched to White House, Back to Barracks

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—A series of mind-changing acts by congressional and police authorities this evening resulted in a company of marines being dispatched to keep order on the capitol grounds, where hundreds of bonus-seeking veterans trudged back and forth, but in the end the ex-soldiers were left as before.

The marines were withdrawn almost immediately, and their presence was called a misunderstanding. Vice President Curtis, Speaker Garner, Rear Admiral Butler, Commandant of the local navy yard, and Police Superintendent Glassford then conferred at length. The upshot was that Glassford ordered the capitol grounds cleared.

Reverse Order
Before he could get reinforcements to put the order in effect Senator Eingham, Republican, Connecticut, interceded. Glassford reversed the order and permitted the trudging of the demonstrators to continue as it has for two nights and two days past. The men were kept on the move by bluecoats.

There was a fairly strong intimation that Senator Eingham had been in touch with President Hoover before he approached Glassford. The police head's statement to Vice President Curtis that he had not enough police to keep up the strong guard around the nation's legislative temple had led to the marine expedition.

Curtis conferred with Speaker Garner, both told the sergeants-at-arms of the senate and house to obtain adequate protection. The military were called.

B.E.F. Cheers
As the company of marines quick-stepped up from nearby barracks, the ragged ex-soldiers sent up a cheer. The lieutenant in command of the marines—they carried rifles and wore trench helmets—saluted smartly as the company passed an American flag held by a veteran.

The detachment stopped before the high-domed building. It was but a moment before an order to march took the force away again. The veterans gave them one more cheer.

While the show outside the capitol continued, house and senate passed a bill extending to July 25 the time within which the government will furnish bonus seekers funds to take their home. An original provision of this sort expired tonight.

Temperatures Remain in 90's

Partial reason for the reduced tax levy is that one mill tax for next year will bring into the city's coffers $69 more than a mill did this year. The tax levy this year was $192,010.

The largest individual reduction in next year's estimate is in the consolidated fund, which is reduced in the proposed plan 4.75 mills from this year's millage levy for that fund. The levy will be 23 mills in 1933.

Report Two Dead and Two Prostrations in Iowa

(By the Associated Press)
Temperatures shot well into the 90's today in Iowa as the state entered its third day of scorching summer weather.

Two deaths and two prostrations were reported. George Bowles, 54, Negro, employed at the Penick and Ford company in Cedar Rapids, died a few minutes after starting home when he became ill.

William Tribble, 60, a farmer near Mason City, suffered a prostration and is in a serious condition.

At Clinton, Charles Marcus believed to be a tourist from Brookline, Mass., died from a heart attack, said to have resulted from the heat.

The weatherman held some hope for a break in the wave by forecasting scattered showers or thunderstorms together with a "not quite so warm" prediction for tomorrow and tomorrow night.

Ottumwa reported a temperature of 95 degrees and at Cedar Rapids the mercury stood one degree higher. Iowa City reported 96 degrees.

Court Collects $28,955

DES MOINES (AP)—The federal court for the southern division of Iowa collected fines of $28,955 for the year ending June 30. A total of $44,180 in fines was assessed, of which $38,165 was against violators of the prohibition laws.

Rob Station Attendant

OGDEN (AP)—Two men and a woman held up and robbed Ed Cafferly, oil station attendant, escaping with $25 but overlooking $36 in a desk.

Mercury Continues to Remain in 90's

Despite increased discomfort yesterday, the mercury clung to Wednesday's high with a reading of 96 degrees. Wednesday night's record temperatures allowed little chance for sleep and left Iowa City poorly prepared for another day of sizzling heat.

Yesterday's evening reading receded to only 87, two degrees higher than Wednesday's temperature at 7 p.m. and the highest for that hour this season.

$20,000 Tax Reduction for 1933 Budget

Consolidated Fund Gets Largest Cut From New Plan

Tax levy reductions of almost $20,000 are included in the Iowa City budget for next year which will be presented by the finance committee at the city council meeting tonight.

The total tax levy for 1933 will be $176,448 or on a basis of 55.75 mills, a reduction of 6.25 mills from this year. Expenditures for next year are estimated at $362,801.

Make Up Difference
The difference between the levy and the expenditures is to be made up from incomes other than taxation.

This levy was fixed by the city finance committee this week, in a meeting with Mayor J. J. Carroll and George J. Dohrer, city clerk.

It was estimated that there will be a balance at the end of this year of $65,240. This balance will be used to defray part of the expenses of 1933 and has been included in the total expenditures.

Higher Reform
Partial reason for the reduced tax levy is that one mill tax for next year will bring into the city's coffers $69 more than a mill did this year. The tax levy this year was $192,010.

The largest individual reduction in next year's estimate is in the consolidated fund, which is reduced in the proposed plan 4.75 mills from this year's millage levy for that fund. The levy will be 23 mills in 1933.

Republicans took no part in the discussion, which followed a day's whirl on developments on the bill. Meanwhile conferees working on the administration-sponsored home loan discount bill, carrying a billion dollar currency expansion rider, neared an agreement.

An unprecedented tangle on procedure added to the confusion in the relief situation, sending house and senate leaders scurrying to their parliamentary experts for advice on how the bill, substituted and re-substituted by each branch, was to be finally passed.

Publicity for R.F.C. Loans Halts Accord

Hoover Opposition to Publication May Bring Veto

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—The modified unemployment relief bill was jeopardized today by a new conflict between the two branches of congress which threatened to prolong the session.

The $2,122,000,000 bill became ensnarled in a dispute between the house and senate out of which some of the congressional leaders were fearful a measure would emerge that President Hoover might veto, preventing congress from adjourning this week.

House Insists on Publication

The house, by a vote of 172 to 150, insisted upon its provision in the bill requiring that publicity be given to all future loans by the reconstruction corporation.

Senate conferees, reported to have been informed that this provision was not acceptable to the president, insisted upon its elimination, and the senate upheld their stand.

Despite frank references in the senate to the possibility of a veto, there were indications tonight that the senate representatives would yield to the house when the conferees are resumed tomorrow.

Hopeful of Passage
Weary leaders were hopeful, in the absence of definite word from Mr. Hoover, that he would not veto the bill even if it went to him with the publicity clause, thus permitting adjournment Saturday.

The senate sent the bill back to conference tonight with instructions to insist upon elimination of the publicity clause on the motion of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, who said he was trying to "avoid a veto."

Chided by Senator Connally (D. Tex.) for yielding to the president, Robinson said he wanted to eliminate all controversies possible in order to pass the bill.

Seeks to Avoid Deadlock
"We ought not to get into a deadlock," he said.

Senator Long (D. La.) took the same view, and urged the senate not to risk a veto.

Connally, however, contended congress should do what it thought best and let the president take the responsibility of vetoing the bill if he wanted to. Senator Lewis (D. Ill.) agreed.

Republicans took no part in the discussion, which followed a day's whirl on developments on the bill. Meanwhile conferees working on the administration-sponsored home loan discount bill, carrying a billion dollar currency expansion rider, neared an agreement.

Music Heads Hear Talk at Last Meeting

High school glee clubs could profitably be eliminated in favor of Christians, in the opinion of Olaf C. Christensen, visiting lecturer in the music department, from Oberlin college, Ohio.

Mr. Christensen addressed approximately 50 persons last night in Iowa Union, at the final meeting of the Music Supervisors' club, speaking of the value of "a capella" singing and describing the annual Bach festival held at Bethlehem, Pa.

"A capella" singing, or singing without accompaniment as it has come to mean, leads to "character development, the development of initiative, better health, and the development of purer and clearer voices," Mr. Christensen believes.

"It also teaches singers to listen to other parts and appreciate harmonic progressions in selections, it is a method of teaching theory, and it is a means of elevating ideals," he added.

First organized by an amateur organist of Bethlehem as a means of presenting the chorals and cantatas of Bach, the Bach Festival has since grown, said Mr. Christensen, until at present, it is an affair which musicians from all over the country come to hear.

Each year is presented Bach's "greatest choral work," his D minor mass, together with several of his cantatas, in a ceremony which lasts two days. Singers from the city and neighboring country of Bethlehem, accompanied by musicians from the New York and Philadelphia symphony orchestras, present the selections.

"The sincerity, the massiveness, and the impersonal renderings of Bach's D minor mass," said Mr. Christensen, "are the things one remembers most from the festival."

Intermission in Debate on Farm Relief

Mortgage Refinancing Out of Question, Says Cole

DES MOINES, July 14 (AP)—There was an intermission tonight in the debate on farm relief in which Governor Turner and several members of Iowa's congressional forces are engaged.

The latest rebuttal speaker was Representative Cyrus Cole of the fifth Iowa district, who wrote Turner that the Iowa executive's proposals for currency inflation and mortgage refinancing were out of the question.

The argument began with Turner's telegram to congressmen and corn belt governors asking congressional action before adjournment.

Involves Loans. Cole said the refinancing plan would involve borrowing money or else the levying of "untold billions" in taxes.

"Iowa is sound and the nation is sound," he added, but the people of Iowa and of the nation have turned their eyes too longingly and too threateningly to Washington.

"But if you really believe that such refinancing can be done by legislation, which I do not believe, then may I suggest to you that you call an extraordinary session of the legislature of Iowa which is still in your care and keeping, and try this experiment on a smaller scale?"

"When confidence is restored, commodity prices will go up, and so will the prices of stocks and bonds. The trouble is in hoarding, and that can be stopped only by the return of confidence and not by the issuance of unlimited quantities of paper money."

Banford Takes Issue. Meanwhile, Dr. E. E. Banford of Centerville, sent Governor Turner, a copy of a telegram he sent to Senator Dickinson, Dr. Banford took issue with the junior Iowa senator on the latter's declaration in a telegram to Turner that Iowa's resources are intact, and might be used for setting up a state refinancing system.

Window Replaces Door at East Hall

Sounds of tapping hammers and scraping chisels echoed through the corridors of East hall yesterday. Workmen were engaged in removing a basement door in the rear of the building and constructing a window in its place.

The reasons given for the change were that the door was seldom used and it was a nuisance in rainy weather.

Summer Students to Tour Hospital

About 35 persons took the excursion through the university hospitals yesterday and a few more than that number have made reservations for the excursion today.

The students are taken by groups in charge of members of the hospital staff to the surgical amphitheater where they are told of the history of the institution. Then they are conducted through the corridors, wards, and kitchens.

RELIEF BILL Congress at Odds Over Loans

hour broke up in a fast deadlock over the publicity clause.

House Upholds Leaders. Democratic leaders then went back to the house and were sustained. The senate conferees wanted publicity only on loans made under the relief act, contending that it might be dangerous to make public loans made by the reconstruction unit to banks.

After the house action, senate leaders took the question back to their chamber.

Then the house messaged over to the senate a second relief bill exactly the same as the one that it sent to conference yesterday. This was offered as the basis for new legislation if the parliamentary situation over the conference bill should become inextricably involved.

Wipe Out Agreement. The house action in standing upon its own bill wiped out the results of a partial agreement reached by the conferees.

Under this agreement, the senate provision for loans to individuals through federal reserve banks was retained. This would have permitted the 12 federal reserve banks to engage in private banking business if the federal reserve board approved.

The conferees also had agreed to reorganize the reconstruction corporation by eliminating, from its board, as requested by President Hoover, two ex-officio members, Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board, and Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner.

Another provision, preventing loans to financial institutions, the officers of which had been on the board of the corporation within a year also had been approved, together with a $7,000,000 construction program for military airports.

New Yorker, Drama Critic, Speaks Here

Producer, Must Cater to Public Says Barrett Clark

Declaring that the drama did not necessarily belong on Broadway, but that it belonged "anywhere that there was dramatic leadership, genuine love for it, and opportunity for its expression," Barrett H. Clark, New York drama critic, addressed more than 150 persons yesterday in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

"The opportunities for good drama are even better here in Iowa City than they are in Broadway," he said.

Mr. Clark, who is head drama critic for Samuel French in New York city, spoke on "New conditions in the American theater."

He deplored the fact that many serious-minded producers "literally have their backs to the wall and can't do what they want to do and love to do" in their presentations of the drama.

The two plays which he considered as possibly the best on Broadway last year, "Merry-go-round" and "Blood Stream," he said were the efforts of honest producers "who really wanted to make contributions to the American theater" but who were handicapped because of a poor following.

Producers these days must consider the box-office attractiveness of a play above almost everything else, he said.

In a round table discussion following the lecture, the question of censorship of dramatic leadership was brought up.

"The communities are not in tune with the art theater of America as it exists," he complained, and cited examples of several instances in which local authorities had unjustly interfered with community and high school dramatic productions.

"The legitimate theater, as it is really successful, belong to a minority," said Mr. Clark, asserting that when such is the case, there will be true growth of the theater.

"If a few people would stand their ground for the best that there is, then the public in time would follow," he concluded.

Erich Funke Will Lecture at Old Capitol

As part of the Goethe Centennial observation on this campus, Prof. Erich Funke will lecture on "Goethe's art of characterization in Faust" under the auspices of the school of letters tonight at 7:30 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Professor Funke, who has been associated with the German department for about a year, was formerly a professor at the University of Halle in Germany. He has given several lectures on Goethe in Germany and Switzerland and, during the last year, on this campus.

Beginning with an outline of the principles of expression in the arts of painting and dramatics, Professor Funke will develop his theme to show the part the art of characterization plays in Faust. He will deal especially with the character of Mephistopheles, which Professor Funke considers one of the greatest masterpieces of characterization.

Passages from the opera will be read to illustrate the various points made, and one scene will be read in German if time permits.

Thornburg Protests Raising of Ban on Borer by Government

DES MOINES, July 14 (AP)—Mark G. Thornburg, Iowa secretary of agriculture, today protested to Arthur M. Hyde, federal secretary of agriculture, against the lifting, tomorrow, of the federal corn borer quarantine.

Thornburg's telegram read: "Iowa farmers protest against the abolishment of the federal quarantine on the European corn borer. This is the Midwest's insurance against the rapid spread of this destructive insect. The federal quarantine can be more economically and efficiently maintained than state quarantines and embargoes with less restrictions to trade and commerce."

State entomologists, department of agriculture representatives, and other regulatory officials met last Saturday in St. Louis to protest the move. They plan to meet again in Kansas City shortly.

Plane Drops, Three Killed

Ship Crashes Into Bay Near Duluth on Homing Trip

DULUTH, July 14 (AP)—Three men were killed early this evening when a six passenger seaplane crashed here just off St. Louis bay, near the heart of the city.

The dead: Hank O'Hara, 23, Pilot, Duluth.

Robert Bean, 18, Duluth, Lloyd Rive, Virginia.

O'Hara and Bean were killed instantly, while Rice died enroute to a hospital.

The plane was returning to Duluth from Spring Park, near Minneapolis, and was only a short distance from its landing base in St. Louis bay when it crashed.

O'Hara was flying about 300 feet above the bay when the plane suddenly went into a tail spin. The plane crashed into soft ground on the shore of the bay and pinned its occupants beneath it.

The plane was wrecked. O'Hara had been flying about three years and had a transport pilot's license. He was chief pilot for the Atwood-O'Hara Air service, operating passenger service both at Duluth and Minneapolis. Rice was mechanic for the company, while Bean was an aviation student.

DIZZY ANSWERS How to Keep Cool

DETROIT, July 14 (AP)—While a heat wave softened the city's asphalt streets, a reporter set out today to learn the most popular methods of keeping cool. He returned a little dizzy, both from the heat and the answers, which included:

Harold Waters, railroad engineer: "Put a few lettuce leaves inside your hat. If you can't get lettuce, a strip of beefsteak will do just as well."

John Demas, restaurant chef: "Drink hot coffee. The more hot coffee I drink the cooler I get."

Harold Lichenstein: "Take a Turkish bath. That makes the streets seem cool by contrast."

Psychologist Gives Lecture

Civilization Suppresses Valuable Emotions, Says Rucknick

That civilization has sometimes suppressed some of our most valuable emotions too much was the closing thought in a lecture given by Prof. C. A. Rucknick of the psychology department at the chemistry auditorium last evening. Supporting this idea he said, "Perhaps we need a little more anger, when seeing children mowed down in the streets by gangsters."

Progress in the study of the emotions was noted by Professor Rucknick. During the last few years much advancement has been made in psychological studies, and there are indications of many discoveries in the future.

Talks Illustrated. Lantern slides were used in illustrating the lecture. The first ones were photographs of machines used in studying the emotions, some of the pictures were of instruments used several years ago. One of the machines shown and explained by Professor Rucknick was used by the French during the war in testing aviators. The instrument was devised so that the subject's reactions could be registered when a pistol was suddenly fired.

The early instruments were devised with the idea in mind that the muscles responded differently to various emotions. James, the psychologist, was quoted with the example of the woman who carried a heavy truck down a flight of stairs and into the street when her home was on fire. Later, it was about all that two or three stalwart men could do to lift the truck.

Four Year Study. Emotional reactions of children and adults when viewing motion pictures have been studied by Professor Rucknick for the last four years, under a grant from the Payne foundation. Some work has been done in the local laboratory and in nearby cities, one of which was Cedar Rapids. Some findings included: "Children below 12 years of age show great emotion to all pictures of conflict. Adolescent children show more excitement over joy scenes than do the other groups."

Professor Rucknick's lecture was the last of a series presented by the graduate college during the first term of the summer session. This lecture was given this year to about a dozen of the larger Iowa colleges under the auspices of the graduate college.

Turner Seeks Aid for Farm

Appeals to A. M. Hyde for Federal Help to Iowans

DES MOINES, July 14 (AP)—Governor Dan Turner tonight made a second appeal to Arthur M. Hyde, federal secretary of agriculture, asking aid for farmers in northwest Iowa.

He said the situation is becoming more serious daily with 500 farmers having no feed for their stock and that the immediate meeting of this problem will avoid loss of starvation.

The governor wired Secretary Hyde last week for aid, and was told that the matter had been referred to the Red Cross. Yesterday the executive was advised that help for Plymouth county had been denied on the basis that the present situation is not due to the 1931 failure and stock feed distribution is not possible until human needs have been met.

"Reply of St. Louis office of Red Cross to application for relief in northwestern Iowa, denied action," the governor said in his telegram tonight. "Present situation and lack of feed is direct result of 1931, as no surplus existed from last year's crop."

"Situation becoming more serious each day with 500 families having no feed for their stock. Meeting this immediate need will serve to meet human needs as protection and feeding of livestock now will avoid loss by starvation."

Turner Seeks Aid for Farm

Appeals to A. M. Hyde for Federal Help to Iowans

DES MOINES, July 14 (AP)—Governor Dan Turner tonight made a second appeal to Arthur M. Hyde, federal secretary of agriculture, asking aid for farmers in northwest Iowa.

He said the situation is becoming more serious daily with 500 farmers having no feed for their stock and that the immediate meeting of this problem will avoid loss of starvation.

The governor wired Secretary Hyde last week for aid, and was told that the matter had been referred to the Red Cross. Yesterday the executive was advised that help for Plymouth county had been denied on the basis that the present situation is not due to the 1931 failure and stock feed distribution is not possible until human needs have been met.

"Reply of St. Louis office of Red Cross to application for relief in northwestern Iowa, denied action," the governor said in his telegram tonight. "Present situation and lack of feed is direct result of 1931, as no surplus existed from last year's crop."

"Situation becoming more serious each day with 500 families having no feed for their stock. Meeting this immediate need will serve to meet human needs as protection and feeding of livestock now will avoid loss by starvation."

Representative Americans

THE PROFESSOR from the University of Wisconsin who last February told a history conference audience here that historians ought to make the public "historically minded, capable of seeing more than one thing at a time," died last Sunday after 35 years of practicing what he preached.

Carl Russell Fish — said to be the best liked teacher at the Badger institution, who had worn a red vest to every student mass meeting since 1915 and had been greatly in demand as a pep speaker—was one of the many molders of student thought in American universities and colleges who combined with his courses that rare faculty for understanding the student mind and making it work.

He did it by deviating enough from his subject in American history courses — his specialty — to arouse the interest of his specialty in the relationship between past and present, current needs and solutions of today's problems based upon past experience and the records of past performances.

He leveled the tide of events in the last few years has brought a need for study of history as one method of discovering the eventual outcome of similar periods in American history.

Lame Ducking Repeal

A SECOND constitutional repeal measure — the "lame duck" session issue — whose urgency will become plain to anxious wishers for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, is before the nation.

Because too many state legislatures, including Iowa's, do not meet until next year, the lame duck amendment is not likely to have any bearing on the prohibition issue directly, except that lack of its passage means slower action on the wet and dry decision.

Only the most careless thinking wets believe that anything can be done for their cause very soon. The present congress is dry. The new congress, though elected in November, will be able to express no new sentiment of the country until March.

Under the lame duck amendment the newly elected congress and president would begin to function two months earlier, in January, and there would be no hangover of defeated or "lame duck" congressmen.

er continued dry or changed wet, would be felt at once. Entirely apart from the prohibition issue, which only illustrates the impossibility now of a speedy decision out of elections, the governmental change would make for more flexibility in the all too stiff political mechanisms of U. S. government.

There is great fuss and fret about prohibition repeal, almost none about this other measure. Scarcely anybody questions that the lame duck session of congress is obsolete and ought to be done away with, yet scarcely anybody can get much interested in backing this governmental reform which will be of importance longer after the prohibition issue is forgotten to all but historians.

Good Starting

A REAL LIVE WIRE is Iowa City's fairly new Junior Chamber of Commerce. Rather must it be referred to hereafter as Iowa City's chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, since yesterday marked the inclusion of the group as a member of the national body.

As a member of the state organization of only a month's standing, the group successfully completed what will probably be one of the largest contributions to the American Legion Unemployment Relief association.

One hears many times the reference to the junior chamber, "the business men of the future." That is a bit incorrect. These young men who last spring formed the group are not strictly the business men of the future, but more the business men of the present.

They are not as old in the standpoint of years in business, or of actual age, as are the men in the longer organized Chamber of Commerce, but they are well established in business circles of the city.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

Tendencies of 96 degree temperatures to upset ordinarily sweet and untroubled dispositions with no other apparent cause discernible provides a helpful suggestion as to the reason for almost unprecedented disturbance among the countries of Latin America during the last few weeks.

Most recent is the break in diplomatic relations between Argentina and Uruguay after what to northeners may seem a most insignificant incident.

Because Argentina persisted in the tendency to believe certain false rumors concerning a former commander of the Argentine army now exiling in Uruguay, the smaller state decided to recall its ambassador at Buenos Aires.

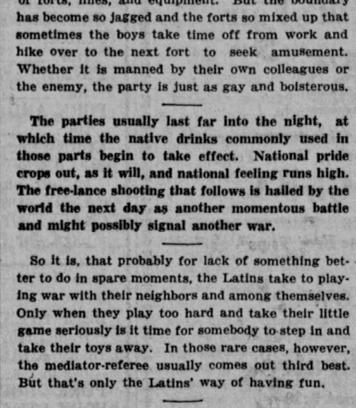

Revolts in Peru, Ecuador, and Brazil; and the collapse of peace negotiations between Paraguay and Bolivia over the historic Gran Chaco boundary dispute have been occupying the attention of other states, where just a suggestion is needed to start the ball rolling at home.

The Uruguay-Argentina break is significant to the latter state, especially, because it marks the end of cooperation of Uruguay in keeping agitators — with which South America is overflowing — out of Argentina.

Although they take their politics seriously, Latin Americans find great pleasure, it seems, in just seeing how much disturbance they can make.

Entirely apart from the prohibition issue, which only illustrates the impossibility now of a speedy decision out of elections, the governmental change would make for more flexibility in the all too stiff political mechanisms of U. S. government.

Hurley Derides Roosevelt's Pledge of 'New Deal'; Gives Praise to President Hoover

Democratic Party Lacks Program, Proclaims Cabinet Member; Lives Only by Criticism of G. O. P.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 14 (AP)—Deriding Franklin D. Roosevelt's pledge of "a new deal for the American people," Secretary Hurley opened the presidential campaign in Ohio tonight with an address to the Republican state convention in which he extolled President Hoover as the champion "of American principles and ideals."

In a quick follow-up of this week's Boston speech by his fellow cabinet member, Secretary Mills, the head of the war department, said the Democratic party lacks a program.

Follow G. O. P. Leaders

"It lives only by the criticism it is able to direct against the leadership and constructive program of the Republican party," he said. "In many essentials it always follows Republican leadership."

"Just what is this new deal?" he asked of the promise made by Roosevelt in his acceptance of the Democratic nomination.

Subsequently Hurley ventured:

"The governor may be honestly trying to give us a new deal but he is certainly dealing from an old deck—the same old deck from which William Jennings Bryan gave the American people so many 'new deals' and from which he dealt himself so many Democratic nominations for president—the same old deck that contains all the radical phrases—all the language of discontent—all the futile attempts to capitalize disorder and arouse class prejudices for political purposes. Beware governor, Mr. McAdoo, Mr. Hearst and Speaker Garner may have stacked the deck on you."

Contrast to Hoover

"Let us contrast the vague references of Franklin D. Roosevelt to a new deal with the accomplishments of President Hoover."

"From the very beginning of the depression, the president of the United States continuously has fought for the maintenance of the American standard of living."

"He insisted upon proper tariffs to meet the flood of cheap goods from demoralized Europe. He upheld the rate of wages.

"He inaugurated a program of federal construction to stimulate industry and increase employment. He sponsored a building program by state and local governments and private industry.

"He stopped immigration by executive order.

"He conciliated capital and labor. He prevented strikes and acrimony between employer and employee that have been the universal accompaniment of all former panics and depressions. He defeated the dole. He mobilized the public opinion to take care of distress. He directed the farm board to take and hold surpluses until better markets could be obtained. He bolstered up confidence in the financial world and stopped the onrush of bank failures by organizing a private bank pool of $500,000,000.

Extended Moratorium

"He extended a moratorium— which has nothing to do with the cancellation of debts—and prevented the spread of financial panic to the United States.

"The three major policies of the president stand vindicated," he said.

"We have prevented disorders, riots and social upheavals. We have cared for the needy.

"We are in a depression but we have averted panic and catastrophe. While 20 revolutions have shaken the foundations of other nations—while nation after nation has been driven from its gold standard—the United States, under the administration of Herbert Hoover, is tranquil, solvent and confident.

"The Democrats have had no program save the vague references to a new deal. The Democratic candidate has suggested no program. The Hoover non-partisan reconstruction program is still the only complete logical program offered by anyone in or out of public life to break this depression."

SO JUST TO BE ON THE RIGHT SIDE—

Florida Aghast at Prison Torture Expose

Death of Young Convict in "Sweat Box" Brings Demand for Sweeping Investigation of Brutality Charges.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — To those of us who are forever giving thanks to a benign providence for the blessings of civilization that constitute this enlightened age, the sensational revelations which followed the death of a young convict in a Florida prison camp come in the nature of a rude awakening from a dream, wherein we wandered carefree through Utopia.

If the charges contained in the revelations are true, we must sadly admit that the much-vaunted march of progress has merely been an attempt by civilization to reach the summit of perfection by a descending escalator. For the horrors which have been revealed rival the inhuman cruelties of the old Spanish Inquisition and, more recently those of the old convict ships.

"Sunbeam" Camp

The prison camp which is the storm center of the charges is ironically named "Sunbeam," and the sense of humor of the man who named it will become apparent as the story unfolds. The camp is situated in an open clearing surrounded by mosquito-infested swamp holes about 15 miles south of Jacksonville. It was erected several months ago to accommodate convicts who were working on the construction of a new highway.

Arthur Mallefert, 22, of Westfield, N. J., serving a 9-year sentence for a gas station hold-up at Daytona Beach, was one of the convicts who was working in the road gang that was quartered in the camp. And it is to the tragic death of Mallefert that Sunbeam camp owes its unenviable position in the spotlight.

Mallefert died in an instrument of torture known as the "sweat box." This structure stands in a portion of the camp that is exposed to the intense rays of the Florida sun from the time it rises in the morning until it mercifully sets at night.

The "sweat box" is a plain board building, six feet and a half high and three feet wide. The interior is of smooth boards and practically airtight, except for the meagre ventilation between the rafters and top. In this cell, reminiscent of the "Iron Virgin" of the old convict ships, are placed fractious prisoners — and, according to reports, one does not have to do much to earn the designation "fractious."

The unfortunate inmate of the "sweat box" is chained by the neck to one of the rafters and his feet placed in a device resembling the stocks of olden times. He can neither sit, kneel or lean against the wall for support, owing to his chained neck, but must retain the one position while the sun, beating down on the tarred paper roof, generates the intense heat in the tiny cubicle that gives the "sweat box" its name. Probably it is the continual sunshine in the camp that added in the christening of "Camp Sunbeam."

"Sweat Box"

In the case of Mallefert, it is charged that before he was put in the legalized torture chamber he was denuded of his clothing and put in a barrel with just enough room for his head to protrude through a hole at the top. He escaped from this by gnawing away the wood and fled to the swamp. Weak and exhausted, his naked body bleeding from thorn picks and mosquito bites, he was later captured and placed in the "sweat box," where his limbs refused to support him, causing his strangulation by the chain which bound his neck to the rafters.

Arrest Two

The inquiry which followed the death of the boy resulted in the arrest and indictment on charges of first degree murder of two officials of the camp. They are Captain G. W. Courson and his chief aide, S. W. Higginbotham, who, it is charged, passed and carried out the brutal punishment upon the unfortunate convict.

Meanwhile there is a state-wide demand that Governor Carlton open an investigation of the entire prison system. The people of Florida are incensed at the ugly blot upon the banner of their state and the popular voice cries out that the sensational charges be either proved, and those responsible punished, or disproved and the name of Florida vindicated.

Retired Court Martial Head Dies, Aged 86

Rear Admiral Snow, Navy Commandant, in 3 Wars

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 14 (AP)—Rear Admiral Albert Sydney Snow, U. S. navy retired, former commandant of the Boston navy yard and president of the general court martial during the World War, died late today at Corey Hill hospital, Brookline. He was 86.

Rear Admiral Snow had a long and distinguished naval career, marked by service in the last three wars in which the United States was involved. The Civil war, the Spanish-American war and the World war. He had been ill for some time.

Born in Rockland, Maine

He was born in Rockland, Maine, Nov. 18, 1845, and entered the U. S. naval academy in 1861. He was assigned to service on the union ship Marblehead engaged in the pursuit of the Confederate vessels, Florida and Tallahassee. He was graduated from the academy in 1865.

In 1871 he served with a punitive expedition sent to Korea as the result of an American ship being fired upon. Between 1883 and 1887 he was engaged in a geographic survey of the Alaskan coast. During the Spanish-American war he was the commanding officer of the U. S. S. Badger and after the war in 1898 and 1899 was commandant of the naval station at San Juan, P. R.

Made Commandant in 1905

He was on duty at the Boston navy yard at various times and was made commandant of the yard in 1905, serving in that capacity until his retirement as rear admiral in 1907. With the outbreak of the World war he was called back to service and made president of the general court at the Boston navy yard.

At the time of his death only one other member of the naval academy class of 1865, with which he was graduated, was living. He is Admiral W. H. Bronson of Washington.

Admiral Snow married Miss Frances M. Keating of Rockland on March 18, 1873. She survives him, together with a daughter, Miss Michael E. Snow of Brookline and two sons, Lieutenant Commander Carlton F. Snow, retired, of Rockland, Maine, and Sydney I. Snow of Philadelphia.

Interested in Lehman

But one of the "Happy Warrior's" close associates said today Smith has an active interest in seeing Lieut-Gov. Herbert H. Lehman nominated for the post he himself held for four terms and then relinquished to Roosevelt.

If Lehman is nominated, it was further stated, Democracy's 1932 standard bearer very possibly might do some active campaigning for him.

While speculation over Smith's political plans was going on, another big Republican gun boomed. Secretary Hurley opened the Hoover-Curtis campaign in Ohio with a speech charging the Democratic party lacks a program.

Would Fulfill Pledge

Smith's contemplated move to campaign for Lehman would not preclude him from taking an aggressive part in the presidential fight. It was pointed out, however, that by working for Lehman alone, he would be living up to his pledge to support the party even to the extent of taking the stump for it but would not be openly working for him. He man he fought to the last ditch at Chicago.

The lieutenant-governor is generally understood to be Roosevelt's own choice for the gubernatorial seat.

'Al' Expected to Take Part of Spellbinder

Smith Will Stump for Governor, Not for Roosevelt

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—"Al" Smith is likely to jump into his old role of campaign spellbinder this fall, but on behalf of the Democratic gubernatorial candidate rather than the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

Since his last public pronouncement—"I shall support the Democratic party"—there has been much speculation about what part, if any, he will take in the coming ballot drive.

His omission of the names of Governor Roosevelt and Speaker Garner from his statement of party loyalty led to the supposition he would be more a spectator than an actor in the 1932 political drama.

T. J. Edmonds Plans Two Appearances Here Today

An authority on social publicity, T. J. Edmonds of Des Moines, executive secretary of the Iowa State Tuberculosis association, will deliver an address on "Publicity for the social worker" this afternoon at 2 o'clock, room 213, university hall.

He is a member of the governor's committee on unemployment, president of the Iowa conference of social work, and in 1931 was on the publicity committee of the national conference of social work.

His talk will be illustrated with posters and other publicity material, in which he will point out the good and the bad points.

Ripley Explanations

Explanation of Yesterday's Cartoon

A Literary Marvel: Joseph Conrad, whose true surname is Korzeniowski, was a native of Poland, whence he wandered to Marseilles, France, to enlist as a seaman at the age of 17. Until 1878, when he came to England, English was a tongue totally unknown to him. He was over 21 when his lips uttered the first English word.

But this Polish youth was destined to attain to so masterful a command of matchless English prose as was only rarely attained by a native English author. He published his first novel at the age of 39.

Racine Nine Clinches Second Twilight League Crown; Blanks Odd Fellows

10 Doubles Teams Enter City Net Tournament; Play in Singles Advances

Astle's Four Base Blow in First Decides

Whitehill Bests Whiting in Registering 4-0 Triumph

By RON TALLMAN
Racine's 1931 champions stepped out and gained a 4 to 0 decision over the Odd Fellows at the City park last night and with it the 1932 championship of the Twilight League.

Already assured of at least a tie for the title, the boys who play for Waldo Geiger backed up Joe Whitehill's effective pitching, with some timely hitting and erased all doubt as to their right to the much sought after crown. Winners of 12 of their 13 games, Academy being the only team yet to mar the clear store nine's record, they have only Iowa Supply yet to play.

Three Scratch Hits
After a shaky start in the first inning, Joe Whiting held the Racine outfit in check until the fifth when the final runs were scored, allowing only seven hits in the six innings he toiled. Although the lodge men gathered eight safe knocks from the right handed offerings of the veteran Whitehill, the Racine ace scattered them sufficiently to escape damage. Three of these eight Odd Fellow hits were the scratchiest sort of blows.

The game got underway with Watkins surviving on Don Brown's error, but Eastwood popped up to Les Glick and Glen Baker hit into a fast double play. Anderson opened the home half with a clean drive past second base, the first of his two hits and stole second while Brown, and Glick were going out. Bill Astle, Racine's stellar short stop, struck the deciding blow of the contest when he lined down the right field line for a home run, when Rarick lost the ball in deep right field.

Rarick Gets Two Hits
Before Whiting finally quelled the uprising, Drizhal had reached first on an error, stole second and third and both Fry and Fink had walked. Rarick, who hit safely in two official trips to the plate, singled with two down in the second and went to second as Dohrer reached first, when he struck at a third strike so low that Glick let it get through him. But Whitehill fanned Moore.

In the third inning, in which Whitehill made a glove hand stab of Watkins drive, the total damage was Eastwood's single. In the fourth Rarick and Dohrer paired singles with two down, but again Moore fanned. In the fifth frame Whitehill got rid of the opposition in order.

Drizhal, who featured the Racine attack with two doubles, and stellar performances in his center field position, opened the third with the first of his two base knocks but was later caught trying to steal third, Fry, and Fink fanning.

Spectacular Catch
Roy Eastwood, lodge team manager, pulled down Kelleher's low fly to left center after a spectacular running catch, the fielding gem of the game. In the Racine half of the fourth, Whitehill was left stranded on first after his single when Anderson and Brown flied out.

The Geiger outfit, evidently wishing to make sure of the outcome, got back to the run gathering business in the fifth. Glick was thrown out, but Astle was safe when Watkins booted his grounder. Drizhal chose this point to contribute his second extra base drive, a low liner far into center field which might have gone for a home run but for the tall grass and fast fielding by Eastwood. The big fielder went on to second on the relay to the plate in attempting to catch Astle. Drizhal scored the final run of the game a moment later as Fry was thrown out at first. Another sterling play accounted for the third out when Bud Fink sent a long fly to deep left center for a potential triple but was cut off by Sulek's perfect throw to the bag.

Odd Fellows Threaten
Baker started things with a scratch infield hit in the sixth which for a while threatened to narrow the Racine lead. Sulek popped up to Astle, but Baker reached second as Hartman was tossed out and advanced to third when Glick's throw to second was wide. Rarick walked and Dohrer scratched a hit to left the bases. Here big George Krotz came into the picture and apparently had driven in two runs with what appeared to be a clean hit as it left the bat, but Don Brown reached up to spear the liner and retire the side.

Legion Golf Tourney at State Convention

FT. DODGE, July 14 (AP)—Plans for an Iowa state Legion golf tournament on July 31, the day before the opening of the Iowa American Legion convention, were announced here today.

Play will be on the country club course here. The event will be held one day, and will consist of 36 holes, with the first nine holes comprising the qualifying round. Prizes will be awarded the winner and runner-up in each flight.

U. S. Track Stars Open Battle for Olympic Team Berths on Coast

Sportively Speaking

By Gene Thorne

Today in Palo Alto the cream of America's track crop will settle once and for all the various controversies as to which of the men have the most ability. For weeks the experts have been sizing them up, comparing records, discussing personalities and temperaments, and picking the men who appeared to be destined to wear the shield of the United States in the coming battle of nations.

Today all the "dope" will be shoved into the discard, and Uncle Sam's axes will meet, many for the first time, in the final pruning down process to determine the personnel of the team. Another question that will also be partially settled is the comparative strength of east, south and west. But after this week end, there will be no division of parts of the country. The team will be made up of men from all sections, and they will be training, practicing and thinking about bringing to the United States the Olympic titles.

Well, Racine's are, once more champions of the local Twilight League, and there is no doubt but what Waldo Geiger's crew is the class of the loop. They played heads up ball all season, and took advantage of every break that came along. With the steady influence of such old heads as Bill Astle and Joe Whitehill, the younger leg came through in great shape both in the field and at bat, Nice going!

When Sherm Greene takes his Sidwell All-Stars to Des Moines to the semi-pro tournament, it will be the first time that an Iowa City team has entered the annual meet. The line-up which the Iowa City club will present is one of the fastest to be gathered together in this part of the state for some time. Greene has assembled a bunch of hard hitters and clever fielders, and his pitching staff is one of the toughest.

Iowa City fans will have a chance to see just what brand of ball the All-Stars are capable of. Tuesday night when they meet the Odd Fellow nine at the City park, The lodge outfit will present its strongest line-up against them. There will be no admission charge, but a collection will be taken up which will be used to help defray the dairy nine's expenses to Des Moines.

Will Run in Separate Heats in Prelims Today

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
PALO ALTO, Cal., July 14 (AP)—Although well "seeded" in the draw today for heats, favorites in the battle for places on the American Olympic track and field team face the keenest kind of a fight to survive the preliminaries tomorrow.

In this assembly of the nation's athletic great, most of the fields are so strong and well-matched that the experts anticipate a flock of upsets as well as record-smashing performances before the final tests of speed, skill and brawn have decided the best three performers and, automatically, the shield-wearers in each event.

There will be trials tomorrow in 13 of the 18 Olympic events, leading up to the finals Saturday at Stanford's stadium. These, with three non-Olympic contests in the low hurdles, weight throw and three-mile walk, will also make up the national senior A. A. U. track and field championship program for 1932.

New York A. C. Favored
The New York Athletic club's collection of super-stars, headed by Gene Venzke, George Spitz, Leo Sexton, the Leonard brothers and Percy Beard, appears certain to romp off with the national team title, despite strong west coast opposition.

Among the sprint races, although Emmett Toppino, Frank Wykoff, and Ralph Metcalfe have been "seeded" in separate heats of the 100-meter trials, there will be only six survivors by the time the semifinals in the afternoon. If Eddie Tolan, Wykoff, Metcalfe and George Simpson come through the 100 safely, all they will have to do then will be to run one 200-meter test each.

Tolan, the world record-holder, will get brisk competition throughout. He is drawn against Toppino in the first heat of the 100 and "seeded" in the 200 with Hec Dyer of the Los Angeles A. C. and Wykoff.

Eastman vs. Carr
The 400-meter race, Ben Eastman of Stanford and his intercollegiate conqueror, Bill Carr of Pennsylvania, are "seeded" in separate trial heats and cannot meet before Saturday but they face strong competition from the outset.

Nellie Todd, I.W.A.C. dash star, seeks tiptop physical condition in the Olympic training camp established by the Illinois Women's Athletic club in the Forest Preserve near Chicago. Miss Todd will compete Saturday at Dyche stadium, Evanston, Ill., in tryouts for the U. S. Olympic team.

Pound Three New York Hurlers; Ruth Hits 26th

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—Continuing their victorious surge through the east, which has given them nine wins in 11 games since they left home, the Cleveland Indians socked three Yankee pitchers for an 11 to 3 verdict in today's opener at the stadium.

Led by Dick Porter and Luke Sewell, each with three solid blows, the Indians pounded Penneck, Allen and Rhodes for 16 hits in reducing the Yanks' lead over the American league to eight and a half games. It was the fifth consecutive victory for the Tribe. Babe Ruth hit his 26th homer in the first and Luke Sewell hit a four-bagger for the Indians.

Tiger Pelt for A's After 7th Inning Rally
PHILADELPHIA, July 14 (AP)—The Athletics ended their losing streak by scoring seven runs in a seventh inning rally to overwhelm the Detroit Tigers, 9 to 2, today.

Until the seventh, the game was a hurling duel between Bridges and Freitas, in which the only run scored was in a Tiger rally in the third inning. But in the seventh the Athletics sent 11 men to the plate, six connecting for base hits, another drawing a pass. Jimmy Foy made his 25th homer of the season with two on base.

Phils Deluge Reds With Hits, 11 to 6
CINCINNATI, July 14 (AP)—The Phillies rained singles upon Pitcher Carroll of the Reds in the fifth inning today, greeted Ogden who relieved Carroll with Lee's triple on his first pitch, and thereby built the foundation of an 11 to 6 victory.

Three innings before the Reds had rolled up six runs of their own, cheered by the return of Chick Hafey to the game.

Iowa Supply Hangs Up 7-0 Twilight Win

"Pick Up" Academy 9 Bows in Short Game

By TOM EVANS
A somewhat nondescript group of young men played under the colors of the Academy cigar store last night, but they failed to supply enough base ball ability to beat Sherm Greene's Iowa Supply nine. The score of the game, which only went five and a half innings, was Iowa Supply 7, Academy 0.

The Supply team went right after the win with the opening of their half of the first inning. Drizhal walked, and stole a base. Then "Kootch" Smith, who filled the role of first baseman last night, dropped the throw, and Flitsch lived at first. Vestermark got a single, and Drizhal scored the first tally.

Score Three Times
Messner was thrown out, and then "Hank" Miller singled, but Bob Sampson threw two men out in succession and the inning was over. Both Flitsch and "Pinkie" Vestermark scored on Miller's hit, to make the total runs for the inning three.

The Fairbank crew did nothing but get a base on balls issued to Jacobs in their share of the second, but the book store men came right back to duplicate their efforts of the first frame. "Frosty" Davidson got a hearty knock over second base, and was sacrificed to second by Manager Sherm Greene. Then Drizhal lined one over the same spot as Davidson, and "Frosty" scored. Dale Flitsch did his duty with a blow to the river bank which was good for a trip to third base. Then Vestermark evidently thought it was no trick to do this, for he duplicated, Flitsch's achievement, to score Dale ahead.

Never Threaten
The only bid the cigar store men made for the game, was a half-hearted attempt in the fifth; the whole attack was a double by "Kootch" Smith. Otherwise they were content to stand at the plate, swing thrice, and sit down. Some few players tapped the ball slightly and jogged to first for an easy out.

Greene was on the hill for the winners, and allowed three hits in the five and a half innings. Sampson, his opponent in the pitching business, threw the ball down the center two often, and the Supply batters nicked him for nine hits, among them the two triples mentioned. The former issued one pass as compared to two for the latter.

Last night's loss shoved the Academy down to sixth place, and lifted the Supply entry to fifth place. The game was entirely uneventful, being more of a farce, and was witnessed by a handful of spectators.

"Pinkie" Vestermark seems to be in the midst of one of the league's most determined batting upfits, getting seven straight hits in the last seven trips to the plate.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

Lily Lou's chin quivered. She was suddenly homesick. She wanted to get away from this strange room, and this strange woman, and all the strange sights and sounds of the city. She wanted to bury her head on her mother's lap, and hide there, with her face against her mother's voluminous skirts, with the tangle of honeysuckle and passion vine shutting off the front porch and the old rocking chair, from the quiet street.

She didn't mind the thought of defeat, of coming back in disgrace, a failure. She didn't mind anything, but being here all alone with these people who had foreign ways of thought and speech. She wanted to be home again, where some one cared, and things were safe and unchanging.

She whisked a stray tear out of her eyes, faced the strange, kindly prima donna, determinedly. "You see—I can't tell them."

Madame Nahlmann reached soft, fat arms to her. "No, darling child, you can't tell them. And what do we care for that? Nothing! Those devils, men! Never mind. No man is worth crying over. But you must never trust one again. There, reach me my handkerchief. You see how I am? All heart—I wear myself out on other people's troubles, but I cannot help it, it is my curse—my temperament. See, I am crying more than you! Now we shall stop. I'll have more hot coffee, and then I shall be better. You too? No? Oh, yes, just a taste, from my cup . . . good?"

Lily Lou drank from the cup, set it down again with a steady hand. "That is right," Madame Nahlmann said briskly. "Courage. You have it, too. You will make a singer. My first thought was right. My first thoughts are always right. It is only my second thoughts . . . One of your duties will be to keep me from listening to my second thoughts . . . you hear that?"

Lily Lou nodded. She did not trust herself to speak. She wanted to leave, to get away from here. Nahlmann glanced at the jeweled clock by her bedside. "Eleven! It is not possible! Now you must go. I have a friend coming. He must find me beautiful—"

She slipped out of bed, a billowing mountain of silk and lace, beamed tearfully upon her audience. "Tonight! We meet on the boat tonight. Now kiss me, and go!"

Lily Lou kissed her. She went out, and stood in the hall outside the door, for a long time. She thought, "I won't go. I can't. I'll go crazy or something!"

On the way home she turned it over in her mind, arriving at no conclusion.

Mrs. Manchester had a bon voyage basket, big as a young clothes-basket, ready on the table in the hall.

Lily Lou looked at it. Examined the jars of jam and conserve, the two new novels, the box of candy, through their transparent, shiny wrappers. Sniffed at the red roses and waxy lilies of the valley tied on the handle.

"Now, now! You're not homesick already, my dear? You flatter me, not wanting to leave me!" Mrs. Manchester gushed, patting her, playfully.

"Well, I am a little homesick. I—I sort of hate to go."

"Of course you do. But think what a glorious time you will have with the famous Nita Nahlmann. Parties, receptions. All the famous people in Europe. Really, you don't know how fortunate you are!"

"Yes, I'm awfully fortunate,"

She went into the room that had been hers and looked at the piled luggage.

Lily Lou said. She thought of Madame Nahlmann, and the parties and gaiety. It would be very wonderful . . . oh, if she could only go home instead. . . "Was there any mail?" she asked nervously.

"I think so, SA-DIE! What did you do with Miss Lily Lou's mail?" They found it. Two letters, and a postcard. The postcard was a picture of the city hall in Oakland. It was from Raymond's father and said, "Best of luck in the big city. Kind regards from yours truly, R. W. Kittridge."

The air mail letter was from May and the other came from her mother. She opened her mother's letter first. It had a leaf of rose geranium enclosed, and a scrap of blue dotted swiss. "Your father is painting the kitchen white for me. It will take three coats, to cover the old oil ranges before summer, though the wood range has such a good oven I don't know that I can give it up. The swiss is for the curtains—"

Lily Lou read it through slowly. Then she read May's letter giving her a lot of news about home.

When she had finished reading it, Lily Lou stuck it in her purse with her mother's letter and her passport. She went into the room that had been hers and looked at her piled luggage. It was hard to tell whether everything had been done. Frances Bradford had moved in already. Her clothes were piled on Lily Lou's bed.

"Oh, I'll go," she thought, automatically pressing her throbbing head with her cold hands, hardly conscious that it was aching, "I'll go. I can't do anything else. And I hope the ship sinks."

The ship did not sink. It cut its way across the gray Atlantic, in the teeth of a gale that sent white spray high as the smokestacks, and shook the ship to its very timbers. Madame Nahlmann stayed in the stateroom for two days, having all her meals sent up. She had Lily Lou's meals sent up too, but Lily Lou could not eat. As Nahlmann predicted, she was sick.

At first she worried that all this would annoy the prima donna, they sharing the same cabin.

But no, it amused her. "I don't want to seem cruel," she said sometimes, eyeing poor, greenish Lily Lou with ill concealed gusto, "but it's so funny. I haven't laughed like this for 10 years, not since—but this is not the time. Some day, perhaps I shall tell you, when the babe is safely in the arms of a Bonne. We shall have a nice French one, with streamers, and petticoats. I shall get you the most crocheted, petticoated bonnet in all France. Wait! There, we shall laugh, you and I together, and laugh, and laugh—"

Nita Nahlmann did not wait. She laughed now. Loud and long. And at sight of her, with her longish, hennaed hair flying and her bright blue eyes burning in her sallow, leathery face, there were times when Lily Lou was almost afraid of her. There was something hard-ly sane.

But she was so kind. Even when her familiarities, her easy discussions of things that Lily Lou had brought up to think one didn't discuss, her direct, embarrassing questions were hardest to bear, you were conscious of her kindness, her genuine good will back of it . . . and what could you do?

Not that Madame Nahlmann spent much time in the cabin, after the second day out. It amused her to rise herself up in her most garish costumes, and sit for hours playing bridge at ten cents a point.

The sight of her turbaned head, wrapped in silver or green brocade, and her huge bulk swathed in trailing chiffon became almost as familiar as Maxine Rochon's shock of brown hair and spotted baby-blue bathrobe.

Denmar Miller Wins State Golf Title 4-3

Bests Jordan After Slump With Putter

Recovers Early Lead to Triumph Over Club Mate

By DON MCGUIRE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COUNTRY CLUB, SIOUX CITY, July 14 (AP)—Fighting a balky putter that blew away most of his early lead, Denmar Miller, young Des Moines golfer, captured the Iowa amateur tournament today with a four-and-three victory over his club mate, Pete Jordan, in the final round.

The Des Moines city champion overcame a disheartening slump on the greens to match birdie for birdie and par for par in a grim duel down the stretch further intensified by a 99 degree sun that sent waves of heat rolling up from the baking fairways.

Gets Into Trouble
Miller started the afternoon play with an apparently safe lead of four up, but he saw all but one hole shot away by the time they reached the 23rd tee. On the 19th his tee shot was wide and he pitched in close, only to miss a three foot putt and lose the hole.

One hole later he missed a two-footer to cut the margin to two up. Jordan was trapped with a beautiful 27-yard drive on the next hole but he rammed home a 10-footer for a half, and cut Miller's lead to one up a hole later when the champion again missed up a two-foot putt.

The turning point came on the 14th hole when Jordan, in the rough beside a telephone pole on his drive, had to shoot from a poor position and dropped the ball in a creek. He shot another and reached the edge of the green, but Miller was on five feet from the pin in three and holed out to increase his margin.

Miller Fights Back
After that it was an even duel and Jordan's best golf could not upset the fighting Miller. They halved the next two in perfect figures, Jordan having to fight hard to hold his own. On the 27th Miller gained back another of his lost holes with an eight-foot putt for a birdie.

The pace was beginning to tell on Jordan as the end was in sight, three down and four to go, he out-drove Miller on the last hole and their seconds lay alike just off the green. Both pitches again were close to the cup, but after Jordan missed his Miller rammed home another birdie for the championship.

The terrific match drew a steadily increasing gallery that mounted to above 500 by the time the final green was reached. They saw good golf and poor golf through the gruelling 36 holes.

Two Over Par
As far as the medal score was concerned it was not the best in the tournament. Jordan was far from his earlier round form in the morning, shooting an 80 to Miller's 75. In the afternoon both were out in 87's, two over par.

Miller was two under par for the final six holes and three over for the 33 holes of the match, while Jordan was one under for the final six and nine over for the entire match.

June Beebe, Jane Weiler Reach Finals

MILWAUKEE, July 14 (AP)—June Beebe, defending champion, and Miss Jane Weiler, both of Chicago and still in their teens, will meet at the Ozaukee Country club tomorrow in a 36-hole match which will decide the 1932 western women's golf championship.

Both finalists played brilliantly in today's matches. Miss Beebe combined a 37 and a 38 to defeat Miss Frances Hadfield, Milwaukee, three up, and Miss Weiler eliminated Miss Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, Ia., state champion, in a thrilling finish on the final green.

Miss Weiler's victory on the 18th green was the most spectacular event of the play. Two down at the turn, Miss Weiler evened the score on the 11th and halved the 12th. Miss Robinson won the 13th, lost the 14th and finished the 15th one down. They halved the 16th and Miss Robinson again evened the count on the next hole.

Both players drove long shots straight down the fairway, the iron shots also were about even, but Miss Robinson hooked a spoon shot into the rough while Miss Weiler dropped her ball 10 feet from the pin. Miss Robinson recovered splendidly, however, and lay three feet from the cup on her fourth shot. Miss Weiler missed her putt and it appeared the match was over. As Miss Robinson tapped her ball the crowd gasped. It stopped dead a few inches from the cup. Miss Weiler holed out to finish one up.

Bees Beat Hawks
BURLINGTON, July 14 (AP)—A spectacular running catch by Hawley in the ninth inning and the pitching of Paulsen who relieved Jones in the seventh to check a threatening rally, combined to give the Bees their third straight victory over the Waterloo Hawks tonight, 8 to 5.

Rosenbloom Nips Scozza in Title Bout

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 14 (AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, recognized by the New York State Athletic commission as world's light-heavy-weight champion, outpointed Lou Scozza of Buffalo, in a 15-round title bout tonight.

Rosenbloom weighed 175 pounds the class limit; Scozza, 173. Maxie needed all his fight experience to win the judge's decision after the Buffalo boy came back strong in the last four rounds and pummeled the champion from post to post.

Maxie piled up points in the first half of the battle, cuffing and slapping when Scozza attempted to bring the fight to close quarters. Scozza concentrated on a body attack but Maxie's long left hand was too much for him in the early rounds. In the eighth Maxie opened up a cut beside Scozza's left eye and pecked at it until the eleventh when Scozza managed to get inside and carry the fight to the champion.

From the eleventh on Rosenbloom was in trouble and a crowd of 10,000 persons stood and roared for the local boy to score a knockout. Maxie called on all his ring experience, however, and weathered the flurry of blows which Scozza rained in the last rounds.

Maxie appeared not to be exerting himself in the first few rounds but was content to coast along and outscore his younger rival. Of the opening rounds Rosenbloom won only one by a decisive margin. In the fourth he knocked Scozza to the canvas with a hard right. It took Scozza four rounds to recover and by that time Maxie had piled up a lead. Coming back strong Scozza plugged away and in the thirteenth floored Maxie for a count of nine. The rally was too late, however, and his winning the last three was not sufficient to give him the bout.

Minnesotans, Texans Battle for S. D. Title

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., July 14 (AP)—Texas and Minnesota were the only states represented for the semi-finals in the men's singles of the South Dakota open tennis tournament as a result of today's play.

South Dakota lost its last representative when Charles Heacock, Little Rapid City, who held the title in 1928, lost to the rangy Karl Kamrath of Austin, Tex., in straight sets. The score was 6-1, 6-0.

In a temperature approaching 100 degrees, Sterling Williams of Austin, outlasted Paul Scherer of Minneapolis, 6-3, 6-3, to enter the semi-finals.

Scherer apparently tired in the last set and committed many errors. W. F. Widen, Minneapolis veteran, accounted for Earl Calvert, Sioux City, 6-3, 6-1, while Charles Britzius, ranking player of the University of Minnesota, eliminated Paul Wolf of Sheldon, 6-0, 6-2.

One of the semi-finals will be tomorrow and the other Saturday, with the finals scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

Three Persons Die in Month as Result of Accidents

DES MOINES, July 14 (AP) — Of 380 industrial accidents in Iowa in June, 77 were falls, with the second largest number, 63, involving falling objects, A. L. Urlick, state labor commissioner, reported today.

Eight other accidents were not included, because of lack of classification. There were three deaths in this state last month in industrial accidents, two involving electricity and one because of falling objects.

Fair Offers

$12,000 for Best Horses

State Plans Promotion for Colt Raising by Boys, Girls

DES MOINES, July 13, (AP)—More than $12,000 in horse premiums will be offered by the Iowa State Fair this year to promote a revival of the horse raising in Iowa and to interest farm boys and girls in raising colts, Dean C. F. Curtis, superintendent of the horse division, announced today.

Dean Curtis believes that more horses on Iowa farms would help cut down the farmer's costs and aid in using some of his surplus crops.

Horses Scarce

"Everyone agrees that one thing wrong with the farm business is the scarcity of good, well bred heavy horses," Dean Curtis said today.

"With grain prices as cheap as they are now more horses on Iowa farms where an abundance of forage goes to waste would play a real part in helping cut down the farmer's costs and help use some of the surplus crops. The horse is bound to come back within the next few years and by raising good colts now, Iowa farmers will be in a position to profit more largely when this turn comes. Horses and mules are the only farm products that have increased in value during the last year," Dean Curtis maintained.

Special Class

A special classification for farm colts has been provided at this year's fair offering $400 in premiums on yearling grade or pure bred colts to be fitted and shown by farm boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 20.

Stocks Make Slow Drop to Lower Ground

Net Losses Average Little; Lack Stimulation

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP) — After a buying flurry in the first half hour, stocks made a dignified withdrawal to lower ground today.

Obviously, the market was unable to move counter to reactions in wheat, cotton and livestock, the commodities whose advance had stimulated them on Wednesday.

Net losses averaged small, except for a drop of 5 points in Auburn and of about a point each in American Telephone, U. S. Steel preferred, American Can, Coca Cola and Allied Chemical, the setback was of minor proportions, on the basis of net changes, although many favorites had been a point higher during the early rise.

Million Share Business

Transactions again approximated the million share mark, actual turnover being $99,205.

Although Wall Street was doubtless a little disappointed that stocks were unable to carry through another advance, brokers thought the list had done reasonably well in view of the absence of stimulating news.

The federal reserve system resumed its government security purchasing, interrupted last week, but on the smallest scale so far reported since active accumulation was started early in April. This week's increment was about $20,000,000. Borrowings of member banks rose $16,000,000, while open market bill purchases were off by approximately the same amount.

Loans Drop

The weekly condition statement of New York city reporting member banks showed a drop of $29,000,000 in loans and investments. Loans were increased in both the security and "all other" categories, the total gain being $42,000,000. Virtually all of the $71,000,000 drop by investments was in holdings of U. S. governments.

Junior C. of C. Takes Charter

National Organization Officials Visit Local Group

The Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce was presented with a charter from the national organization at a luncheon in the pine room of Reich's cafe yesterday.

Complimenting the recently organized association on its work on the Fourth of July celebration, George Olmstead, national president, urged the group to continue its program of civic achievement.

Both Mr. Olmstead and Harry Krutz of Des Moines, national secretary, explained the Junior Chamber of Commerce movement, and suggested principles of action for the local chapter.

Cooperation with the senior chamber, and the development and following of a definite program were recommended. A golden key will be presented, at the end of each year, to the member of the local organization who has shown the greatest interest in civic improvement, Mr. Krutz announced.

Announcement of the national convention to be held August 3 at Pasadena, Cal., was made at the meeting, and all members were urged to attend.

A vote of approval was given to Wendon B. Gipple for his work as manager of the Fourth of July celebration. Dan C. Dutcher presided at the meeting.

An ax, buried 18 inches beneath the bark, was found in a tree on the farm of Sam Harrison, near Philadelphia, Miss.

Futurities in Wheat Slough Into New Low

Market Closes Shaky at Day's Lowest Ratings

CHICAGO, July 14 (AP) — All future deliveries of wheat smashed down late today, and outdid the season's previous bottom price record.

Stop loss selling and general liquidation set in, with trade attention focused on warnings dispatched to President Hoover and congressional leaders that a breakdown of commodity market machinery was threatened during the heavy crop movement of wheat. The warnings, which came from the principal commodity exchanges of the country, said a grave situation had resulted from "the utterly prohibitive tax of 5 cents on each $100 value of future commodity transactions, a 400 per cent increase."

Under Wednesday

Wheat closed shaky at the day's lowest figures, 1 5/8@2 cents under yesterday's finish, corn 3-4@1 1/8 down, oats 1-2@1 off, and provisions showing 2 cents to 10 cents decline.

Collapse of wheat values took place in the final hour subsequent to unexpected increase of hedging pressure. Pit specialists said that in absence of any broad export demand, the market was dependent on speculative buying power to absorb hedging sales, and this it was unable to do.

No Bears

Aside from developments regarding the huge increase of commodity exchange taxes, the day's news was not especially bearish. Northwest advices indicated that although the spring wheat crop outlook was still good, deterioration in some sections had shaded prospects so that there would be no bumper yield.

Corn, oats and rye followed the trend of wheat.

Provisions worked lower, influenced by setbacks both in hog values and in grains.

Man Arrested on Loitering Charge at Sig Chi House

Charges of loitering were filed yesterday against a man giving the name of Andrew Gaze, and claiming residence in Joliet, Ill. He was arrested about 5 a.m. yesterday near the Sigma Chi fraternity house at 703 N. Dubuque street.

When the man entered the Sigma Chi house the beams from his flashlight woke Brydon O. Myers, a student sleeping downstairs. Myers challenged Gaze, who explained that he was looking for the Alpha Tau Omega house.

Gaze left, and Myers called the police who arrested the visitor. Although he was to appear before Police Judge Charles L. Zager yesterday, his case did not come up. A hearing will probably be held sometime today.
