

VETS GIVEN TWO WEEKS TO GET OUT

Muddle Faces Demos on Eve of State Convention

Cutler Again Enters Name as Candidate

Leaders Will Proceed With Plans to Name Lieut. Governor

DES MOINES, July 21 (AP)—Gathering here on the eve of their state convention, Democratic chieftains found a muddled situation in regard to their choice of a nominee for lieutenant governor.

Francis Cutler of Boone withdrew his formal resignation as the party's nominee for the post. Party leaders, however, said the convention meeting tomorrow in the Coliseum would go ahead with the plans for nominating a candidate.

Permits Withdrawal In a conference tonight between Cutler and party members it was indicated that the Boone man still may decide to withdraw and throw his support to some other person.

Secretary of State G. C. Greenwalt permitted Cutler to withdraw the resignation which had been filed yesterday and Cutler also said he had withdrawn a resignation submitted to the state central committee.

Greenwalt explained that in permitting the withdrawal he acted in accordance with an informal opinion of the attorney general's office which held that inasmuch as the resignation had not been accepted Cutler had this right.

Denies Privilege State Chairman R. F. Mitchell of Ft. Dodge contended, however, that Cutler could not withdraw the resignation and said the convention would fill the vacancy considered to exist.

He indicated that this might be followed by court action to prevent the listing of Cutler and to compel the placing of the convention's nominee on the ballot.

In the event that the convention does nominate it was considered likely that the name of N. G. Krascchel of Harlan, a candidate for the senatorial nomination in the primary, might be considered. Cutler endorsed Krascchel for the post after submitting his resignation early this week.

Enters Discussion The name of Dr. J. L. Peppers also entered the discussion when W. F. Powers announced that the Webster City man would be advanced for the post. Powers said he would place Dr. Peppers' name before the convention with the full support of the Hamilton county and other delegations in the same session.

Also awaiting convention action is the selection of a nominee for auditor of state, since none of the primary entrants received the required 35 per cent of the total vote.

Prospects tonight were that W. V. Shaw of Newton, C. W. Storme of Ft. Madison, Ed Bachman of Manson and Ed F. Medary of Waukon, candidates in the primary, would split the vote in the opening balloting.

Will Draft Brief Platform In the pre-convention discussions tonight the opinion was current that the convention would seek to follow the example of the national gathering in drafting a brief but comprehensive platform.

Farm relief, governmental economy and tax reduction probably will receive the major share of attention in the platform the resolutions committee will place before the convention. Approval of the entire national platform and of the party nominees for state and national posts is assured.

District caucuses at 10 a. m. will start the day's program. They will be followed by the opening of the convention proper in the Coliseum an hour later. Louis Murphy of Dubuque, the party's senatorial candidate, will deliver the keynote speech.

State Commission Lets Contracts for Road Work in Iowa

AMES, July 21 (AP)—The state highway commission today awarded contracts totaling $290,182.

The Cameron, Joyce company of Keokuk was awarded the contract for paving 14.41 miles of U. S. 218 in Mitchell county for $179,598.32.

Contracts were let for bridges and culverts in Dallas, Mitchell and Kosuth counties for $46,060 and for grading in Dallas, Humboldt and Kosuth counties for $43,911.

Gravel surfacing work will be done in Adair and Keokuk counties at a cost of $20,612.

Kansas City Man Gets Broadcasts of Television Station

Programs broadcast from the university's recently licensed television station are being received in Kansas City, Mo., according to word received by James L. Potter, instructor in electrical engineering, from C. B. Brown of Kansas City.

The signals were received with an intensity known in television work as "R9" a reading which is very good, according to Dean C. C. Williams of the college of engineering.

Mr. Brown, who is manager of the Kansas City Television corporation, has recently accepted a scholarship to do research work at the University of Iowa next school year.

Canada Offers Suggestion to Lower Tariff

Would Drop Own Rates If Move Met by Rest of British Empire

OTTAWA, July 21 (AP)—Canada struck deep into the heart of the problem of the imperial economic conference at its opening session today by proposing to lower her own tariff walls for British empire products, if the empire would do the same for her exports.

But through her premier, R. B. Bennett, she warned there should be no preferences that would isolate the British empire from the rest of the world.

This qualification was particularly significant since 70 per cent of British empire trade in the past has gone to foreign countries. American interests were vitally involved because the United States in 1929 got a major share of the commerce of the British dominions.

Follows Opening Ceremony The Canadian premier's proposal followed close upon an impressive opening ceremony which began with carillon bells and booming guns announcing the arrival of Lord Bessborough, governor-general of Canada, at 11 a. m. This was the signal that set the conference in motion.

Accompanied by Premier Bennett, the governor-general ascended the speaker's dais and read a message from King George urging cooperation since "The British empire is based on the principle of cooperation."

"Momentous Conference" The governor-general added in his own right that this might well be the most momentous conference ever held within the empire.

Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain next proposed the election of Mr. Bennett as permanent chairman and, seconded by Stanley Bruce of Australia, the motion was carried unanimously.

The Canadian premier's first act was to propose the customary message.

Three Suffer Injuries as 2 Cars Collide

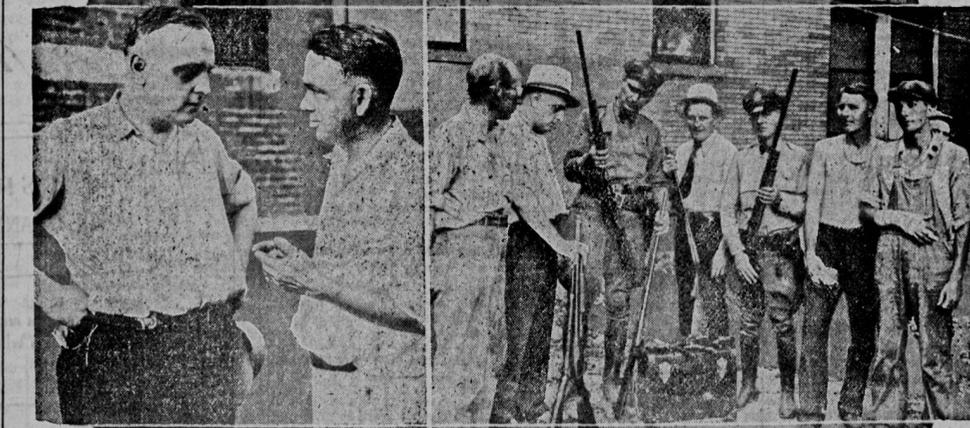

Edmund Geary, A of Superior, Wis., was seriously injured and two others were hurt shortly before midnight last night when two automobiles crashed about a mile north of Butler bridge on U. S. highway 161.

Geary, who was badly lacerated about the head and neck, was riding in the rumble seat of a car driven by J. K. Herbert, E of East Boston, Mass.

Rounding a curve in the road, Herbert's car was said to have gone out of control veered to the left side of the road, and struck the rear of a car driven by Leo Tesar. It swirled down a steep embankment and ran through a barbed wire fence. The back-lash of the barbed wire after the car had gone through was said by witnesses to have caused Geary's injuries.

Others injured are Ila Katherine Todd, G of Leteher, S. D., who was riding with Geary, and a five year old daughter of Tesar. Both were taken to University hospital.

ANOTHER SCENE OF ILLINOIS LABOR CLASH

One man was killed and 22 others wounded in a furious battle Tuesday at the Illinois river federal dam project at Marseilles, Ill. The rioting was the outgrowth of a labor feud of several weeks standing. Picture at left shows Sheriff E. J. Welter (left) of LaSalle county, questioning H. W. Miller, Jr., superintendent of construction company building the dam. Group photo at right, left to right, Carl Zetterbee of Joliet, Sheriff Welter, Roy F. Father of Local Woman Dies After Prolonged Illness

William C. Brownlee, 72, father of Mrs. Thomas Martin whose husband was nominated for state railroad commissioner on the Republican ticket at the convention this week in Des Moines, died at the home of his other daughter, Mrs. Harold Clearman, near Oxford early Thursday morning.

He had been ill for about a year and a half. Besides his two daughters Mrs. Brownlee is survived by his widow.

The body will be at the McGovern funeral home until Saturday morning. Burial will be in Hopeland cemetery, Galva, Ill., at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Creative Power Necessary in Solving Difficulties, Says G. W. Stewart at Convocation

More Than 800 See Graduation of Students at July Ceremonies Last Night on Approach to Old Capitol

Declaring that the utilization, by and through creative power of material and mental resources will do much to alleviate present and future difficulties, Prof. George W. Stewart, head of the physics department, addressed 204 graduating students and an audience of more than 800 last night at the July convocation ceremonies on the west approach to Old Capitol.

Citing examples of problems in industrialization, international relations, religion, and education, which had been solved by the application of this formula, he asserted that much yet remains in the way of improvement in each of these fields.

Education Needs Advance In education particularly, Professor Stewart pointed out that "It is not even now far enough advanced to claim that it seriously cultivates the creative attitude of mind. . . . Its past performance indicated its power for the betterment of man, and the diagnosis is that this power has by no means reached its full strength."

He pointed out, and the encouragement of the creative attitude of mind, will eliminate the problem of overproduction, which was one of the industrial problems he took up.

Greater Demand for Brains While the doors of opportunity are not noticeably open, he said, yet when one considers the need of able minds, "it would seem that for these, a bad state of affairs affords, in a few respects, the better chance."

He continued by declaring that just as the most difficult educational tests are the most discriminating, so are the present times the most discriminating between the excellent and the mediocre student, and that therefore, "brains are now demanded as never before."

Drawing from observations made while on a recent trip around the world, Professor Stewart discussed the problems of international relations, placing particular emphasis upon the troubles between China and Japan.

Encourages International Peace "Even with the recent news of quarrels in South America before us," he said, "I say with confidence that we should not be discouraged concerning future friendship and peace among nations. . . . The world of tomorrow will be less quarrelsome, more interested in justice based upon adequate knowledge, and withal much happier."

The talk was delivered as the convocation address at the ceremonies in which President Walter A. Jessup, assisted by the deans of the various colleges, presented 141 advanced degrees, 63 baccalaureate degrees, and 20 certificates to students from 27 states and the District of Columbia.

Convocation officials of the evening were Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, master of ceremonies; Frederic G. Hisebe, director of convocations; Prof. John E. Briggs, university marshal; and Prof. M. Willard Lampe, university chaplain.

Prior to the ceremony, the graduates were guests of the university at a dinner in Iowa Union.

Students Start Second Term Registration The close of the first term of summer session and registration for the second period almost coincide.

For, less than 12 hours after the July convocation of last night, with its awarding of 204 degrees, students begin today enrolling for the final term of five weeks which opens Monday.

Almost all of the registration process will be completed by the time the first classes convene, university officials believe.

Utilizing for the second time the simplified form of registration coupons instituted at the beginning of the first term of summer session, the procedure will be much the same as for last term.

Registration materials may be obtained this morning from the registrar's office in University hall, and fees will be payable this afternoon and tomorrow.

Students now on the campus who are expected to stay for the second term are requested to complete their registration as soon as possible, in order to allow time for students not yet in Iowa City to register before classes begin Monday.

Education Board of Cedar Rapids Cuts Next Year's Budget

CEDAR RAPIDS, July 21 (AP)—The city board of education today cut $246,992 from its 1933 budget, the largest reduction made by any of the local taxing bodies.

The decrease means a reduction of 16 mills in the levy, cutting the latter to 53 1-2 mills. It was made possible largely through using the accumulated balance and eliminating the sinking fund levy.

The city council previously had decreased its budget $57,000 and the county $157,845.

Break Seen in Heat Wave

Rain in Early Afternoon Brings Relief to Iowa Citizens

DES MOINES, July 21 (AP)—The heat wave showed a few slight signs of abating today, mainly on the strength of the weather man's prediction of cooler weather in the southern and extreme eastern portions of Iowa.

Clouded skies during the morning today checked Old Sol from getting a running start toward higher marks and temperatures ranged a degree or two lower than the marks of the last few days.

Some rain fell in southwestern Iowa last night, Clarinda reporting a fall of 1.7 inches. Atlantic and Lamoni also reported slight precipitation.

Sages Were Right And once more the weather sages were right.

Predictions of the prophets that yesterday would bring relief from nearly two weeks of sweltering sun and breathless humidity were partly realized in the early afternoon when a noisy, tumbling bank of clouds came suddenly from the northwest and took the city by surprise.

The first warning of the storm, which was mostly a great noise signifying little, came at 1:20 p. m. with a sharp, reverberating clap of thunder. Pedestrians in shirt sleeves looked up and lengthened their strides.

Driven by a stiff, refreshing breeze which lowered the temperature 12 degrees in less than an hour, the rolling clouds, which should have been black but were only deep, muddy brown because of their thinness, swiftly darkened the city.

Then, heralded by the thunderous trumpets, a ludicrous small trickle of rain spattered on the streets. The clouds scudded on to the east, the moisture evaporated from the pavement, and the mercury climbed back upward, undaunted.

The highest temperature recorded by Prof. John F. Reilly, official observer, was 96 degrees. By 7 p. m. it had fallen to 82 degrees. A thin haze in the west late last night looked promising.

Zoology Department Members to Leave for Laboratory Work

Prof. Emil Witschi and Prof. Robert L. King, of the zoology department, and Eleanor Siffer, research associate in zoology, will leave within the next week for Woods Hole, Mass., to engage in a month's work at the Marine Biological laboratory located there.

The name of Prof. Harold W. Beams of that department, who leaves tomorrow for the laboratory, was announced yesterday.

The first three named will also attend the International Genetics Congress to be held at Ithaca, N. Y., following their period of work at Woods Hole.

City Bans Parades SIOUX CITY, July 21 (AP)—Street parades will not be permitted in Sioux City hereafter unless permits for such demonstrations are granted by the public safety department, Commissioner Thomas H. McBride has announced. Permits will be issued only to recognized local organizations, he said.

Blakley Sentenced to One to 10 Years for Breaking, Entering

Lee Blakley, 18, who pled guilty when arraigned in district court Wednesday on a charge of breaking and entering, was sentenced to from one to 10 years at the men's reformatory at Anamosa by Judge R. G. Popham of Marengo, yesterday morning.

The youth, who admitted entering a cabin south of Iowa City, owned by Edwin B. Wilson, on April 25, was defended by Dan C. Dutcher, while Judge Popham passed the sentence. Judge Harold D. Evans took charge of the district court at Marengo.

Blakley will be taken to Anamosa within the next few days by Sheriff Don McComas.

Iowa Faculty Men Work on Child Survey

Two University of Iowa men, Prof. George D. Stoddard and Prof. Christian A. Ruckmick, are assisting in a nationwide survey of the influence of motion pictures on children.

Both are members of the Payne Fund research committee composed of eminent child welfare specialists and psychologists. Professor Stoddard is director of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station and Professor Ruckmick is a member of the psychology faculty.

Aid Compilation of Facts The university scientists are cooperating in the compilation of facts concerning the ways in which the health, attitudes, and conduct of children are shaped by theatrical motion pictures. A movement towards wholesome pictures is the goal of the Motion Picture Research council of which the Payne fund committee is a unit.

Former President John G. Hibben of Princeton university is chairman of the council, which numbers among its members Prof. Edwin D. Starbuck, former member of the faculty here.

The Rev. W. S. Dysinger, pastor of the First English Lutheran church of Iowa City, is assisting Professor Ruckmick in the experiments here.

Published in Fall Results of the research will be first published in the September, October, and November issues of McCall's magazine, when three articles written by Henry J. Forman will deal with the effect of motion pictures on sleep, health, and conduct.

Later, more complete results will be published in eight or nine volumes, also written by Mr. Forman, which will be issued by the Macmillan company.

Four Guests on Farewell Club Program

At an informal farewell luncheon of the Rotary club at the Jefferson hotel yesterday noon guests representing four states gave short talks. The guests have been attending the summer session here for the last six weeks.

H. S. Rutherford of Menomonee Falls, Wis., presided and spoke for Wisconsin. Wiley G. Brooks of Burlington presented a eulogy of Iowa, Ray Graham of Mason City represented Illinois, and A. W. Thompson of Lansing spoke of the achievements of Michigan.

Dean Henry S. Houghton of the college of medicine, who has recently returned from a trip to the Orient, gave a short talk on his experiences at foreign Rotary club meetings.

A song program was led by Ray H. Bracewell of Burlington and Elmer Ziegler of Muscatine. Guests at the luncheon were: Prof. E. C. Ensign; R. G. Popham; Marengo; A. E. Rankin; Hampton; F. C. Laun, Wausau, Wis.; H. U. Challand, Sterling, Ill.; B. H. Graeber, Guttenberg; T. C. Green, Ackley; E. C. Kerr, West Liberty; and Nat Buck, Creston.

Federal Aid Plan Signed by President

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—President Hoover signed into law today the gigantic federal relief plan that masses $3,800,000,000 in one offer for invigorating business, increasing employment and relieving human destitution.

His approval came five days after the $2,122,000,000 bill that nearly doubles resources of the reconstruction finance corporation and opens its purse to needy states, emerged from a last-hour congressional snarl.

The president's signature, attached without ceremony or public comment, makes the relief act immediately effective.

Iowa Boats Show Increase DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa owned motor boats on federal waterways were increased by 120 in the year ending July 1, the customs office here reported. License records listed 4,099 boats, the majority on the Mississippi.

Bonus Army Gets Orders to Evacuate

Means Apparent End of Drive to Receive Payments

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—A sweeping evacuation order directed against the bonus marchers today by the commissioners of the District of Columbia gave the veterans two weeks to vacate virtually every building and vacant lot now occupied by the army.

By tomorrow night all government buildings occupied within Washington and all private buildings taken by the men without consent of owners must be emptied. By Aug. 1 all tents and rolling kitchens borrowed from the national guard must be returned. By Aug. 4 all public park property must be vacated.

End of Army If the orders are fully carried out, apparently it will mean the end of the bonus army which has been quartered on Washington since early June—since before the house voted payment of the bonus only to have the senate kill the plan.

Not Disposed to Accept Edict Walter W. Waters, commander in chief of the principal branch of the army, was not disposed to accept the edict as the end of the extraordinary expedition.

"They can issue orders," he said, "but I don't know how they are going to enforce them."

The order to Glassford followed and supplemented word from the treasury that the federal property along Pennsylvania avenue near the capitol would have to be vacated by Sunday. This area is being prepared for erection of new federal buildings.

Vacate Within 48 Hours Before the latest orders, Roy W. Robertson, leader of the California contingent announced that he and his men were going to vacate the capitol within the next 48 hours. They said they were going to tour the country "on the rods" and work against members of congress who had voted against the bonus.

At the veterans administration the line of men seeking transportation home moved slowly through the necessary red tape. Approximately 4,000 bonus seekers have gone home on money advanced by the administration. Veterans can borrow against their bonus certificates to go home until midnight Sunday.

Signs Bill for Loans Late today President Hoover signed into law a bill making it possible for 215,000 more World war veterans to borrow up to half the maturity value of their adjusted compensation or bonus certificates, and reducing the interest rate on such loans to 3 1-2 per cent.

The measure extends the privilege formerly given the great majority of the World war veterans to those who have not had their certificates for two years. The veterans administration will be ready to make loans under the new provisions next Monday.

FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1932

Gratification

EVERY YEAR, as university students take degrees, some comparison is made with years before; some trend may be established, some facts deduced.

This year, a negligible decrease in the total number of degrees to be awarded was noted as students last night attended the convocation. That drop was not great. Only a dozen less students took degrees last night than did at the similar ceremony in 1931.

Here, on the other hand, is a real point for deductions and conclusions. Last year, 125 students were given advanced degrees at the July convocation. Last night, 141 students gained the advanced awards.

Master of arts candidates numbered 94 last night, the largest classification of those taking degrees. Master of science degrees were given to 24 students. To 20 men and women went the award of doctor of philosophy.

Such an increase, year by year, in a steady fashion, must indicate an increased regard for the value of the higher branches of education. That such an increase comes particularly in the summer session is a good indication of the increased value of that section of the university year to the seeker of higher awards.

The advantages of the summer session to the professional man or woman who holds a seasonal position throughout most of the year have been outlined many times before, and they are most familiar to those students who have actually completed their work during the summers.

It is gratifying to see more and more students realizing those opportunities and taking the advantages they offer. It is especially gratifying to note that they have chosen the University of Iowa as the best place for the fulfillment of their plans.

Cutting Out Deadwood

ANOTHER CUT INTO a needless expenditure came Wednesday when President Hoover issued an executive order abolishing the radio division of the department of commerce. Dismissal, at once, of all employees and officials not necessary to the service, and the return to the treasury of all unused appropriations will follow.

The work will be taken over completely by the federal radio commission, which has functioned for several years in conjunction with the old division.

The case is a clear one. The radio business just outgrew the old system. It had been created when there was little commercial radio, little amateur radio, and no broadcasting. Since its primary function lay in the administration of wireless communication between ships and shore telegraph stations, it was created as a part of the bureau of navigation within the department of commerce.

Now the ship communication has fallen to secondary importance in need of administration. The need for administration lies first in broadcasting, second in amateur and experimental transmission.

The solution has been readily observable. It has also been easily remedied.

Improving Nature

AS THE COMING OF the railroad was viewed by the prairie settler years ago, so is the coming of another means of transportation far older than that by rail. Bringing the ocean far into the mainland is its purpose.

The projected plans for the St. Lawrence-Great lakes waterway have brought visions of a new economic era to the land-locked states of the midwest. Eighteen states can see, 10 years from now, a panorama of ocean steamers churning their way through 1,500 miles of what is now reserved for fresh-water craft, linking the midwest with the world, through the sea.

The department of commerce says that 24,000,000 long tons of freight, foreign and domestic, are available for movement through the seaway. And of this total, 17,000,000 long tons represent potential foreign trade, which previously and at present can be moved only through rail communication.

It costs less to ship by water. Therein lies the whole secret of the revival of trade hopes.

From the grain centers of the United States to Liverpool, the present shipping cost under rail-water combinations, is 17.6 cents per bushel. Eight to 11.2 cents per bushel would be the cost under the seaway plan.

These few pennies per bushel amount to quite a considerable sum in the aggregate. These amount to a difference between profit and loss to the grain producer of the north-west and central districts.

Other exports than wheat would also receive a proportionately greater opportunity to compete with an increasingly complicated foreign market. It is estimated that the seaway would mean a $40,000,000 addition to the value of the small grain crop in the district alone.

And then, the employment of thousands of men who would be needed to dredge out a channel through the St. Lawrence rapids, and to deepen harbors, strikes home forcibly to those who are out of jobs, and those who are honestly trying to provide them.

An American missionary is on his way to labor among the criminal tribes of Central India. Now will enlightened Indians kindly send a few missionaries to labor among the criminal tribes of Chicago and points east and west in these United States?

There may be novelties in the presidential campaign, but it is already evident that there will be the usual amount of pointing with pride and viewing with alarm.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

What may seem like unessential bits of information about business pickups here and there may still be unessential when gathered together from isolated points and laid end to end. On the other hand, when in a normally barren month there come reports of this and that factory running night and day to fill rush orders, this and that steel mill and shoe concern putting former labor quotas back to work, something is either wrong with our calculation or right with the country.

I'm inclined to believe the latter, although there are still many long faces going the rounds that need squeezing down and broadening out. They may come around in time, however, and like Christmas, or New Year's, or Thanksgiving, or St. Swifth's day, finally make the grade little the worse for wear.

Although indicating that there is some life in the poor, old, abused function known as Business, these bits of optimistic gloom chasers should not be misinterpreted. They represent only a breathing spell after a strange spring and summertime hibernation, as it were, and need careful nursing along until they are able to shift for themselves. Pretty soon others will take the cue and poke their noses out of musty old factory sites that once hummed with the wheels of industry, see the sun and begin to caper around.

In the Akron, Ohio, mills of the India Tire and Rubber company, for example, workers will be paid the money they lost by a wage cut of 20 per cent that went into effect last January. The amount of the cut will gradually be added to pay checks until the 450 employes will have forgotten they ever were underpaid.

The Smith Engineering company at Cleveland, Ohio, is working a 24 hour schedule with three shifts, trying to make enough controllable pitch propellers for airplanes to fill orders. The Standard Silk company of Philadelphia expects to put its entire force of 955 employes back to work by the middle of August.

The U. S. Steel company has bought 25,000 tons of scrap melting steel from the New York Central, indicating increased activity for steel workers, always a sure sign of returning inroads in allied trades. As if the disease were catching, the West Virginia Coal company of O'Fallon, Ill., expects to resume operations in the immediate future at the old wage rate of $6.10 a day.

The Ayes Custer Stove company of Bloomington, Ill., will put 200 men back to work this week filling orders obtained at some recent furniture shows. The Republic Steel corporation of Youngstown, Ohio, reopened one-third of its open hearth furnaces the other day.

Those are only a few of the indications throughout the country that can mean but one thing—people are going back to work as employers are getting orders—orders come from people who want to buy, this time, and who are loosening up. And people are loosening up because, gradually, credit is easing under the long strain of compression. And more people are beginning to buy the things they have needed but have gone without because they thought it best to hold on to their cash resources.

There are other factors at work to insure a definite upswing. Government agencies, private concerns, individuals are cooperating to banish the black clouds of despair and get those long promised and much heralded silver linings out in the open where everybody can see them. This time it's no fake, no false bottoms or sliding panels for the good signs to disappear as soon as things get underway. The only essence of magic is in how the country has pulled through. But that doesn't concern anyone now except those who do the planning and they've probably learned enough to know better next time. At least, so we all hope.

It's real and it's solid—that much is certain; what remains to see is how fast the upturn can make depression just a memory. There will be a time—and it isn't so far away—when those who kicked and squirmed and suffered will have their say. It won't be a revolution in the French or Russian sense of the word. It will be a revolution in the American sense—a slow but steady stock taking and sane reorganization. Interest in governmental processes, and in economic regulations that resist tampering most destructively, is increasing. Before long, as years go in history, the United States will boast a government of the people in which every voter will know rather than try to guess "What's going to happen next?"

Book Bits

(From O Pioneers! by Willa Cather)

Of all the bewildering things about a new country, the absence of human landmarks is one of the most depressing and disheartening. The houses on the Divide were small and were usually tucked away in low places; you did not see them until you came directly upon them. Most of them were built of the sod itself, and were only the unescapable ground in another form. The roads were but faint tracks in the grass, and the fields were scarcely noticeable. The record of the plow was insignificant, like the feeble scratches on stone left by prehistoric races, so indeterminate that they may, after all, be only the markings of glaciers, and not a record of human strivings.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

To All Students Now on the Campus Who Expect to Register for the Second Term of the Summer Session

We invite all students now on the campus to call at the registrar's office between Wednesday morning, July 20, at 8 a.m. and Friday noon, July 22, in order to obtain their registration materials for the second term and so have the opportunity to make their selection of courses, obtain the counsels of such of the professors as they wish to consult, and prepare their registration cards by Friday noon this week. Then, on Friday afternoon and Saturday this week they will pay their tuition fees.

According to this program all students now on the campus will have the opportunity to complete their registrations so as to be wholly ready for uninterrupted meetings with their classes next Monday morning; and thus give, also, opportunity for students not here this summer who will be coming to Iowa City, to register for the second term.

Fees will not be received until Friday afternoon and on Saturday this week. Respectfully,

H. C. DORCAS, registrar

POLITICS OR SOCIAL CALL?

Beneath the surface of this informal chat between Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt (left), Democratic presidential nominee, and Colonel Edward M. House there may be a deal of significance, when one considers that the colonel, an intimate adviser of the late President Wilson, is one of the world's greatest political strategists. The governor stopped off at the colonel's home in Beverly Farms, Mass., enroute to Albany after ending his vacation cruise along the New England coast.

BEHIND THE SCENES

— IN HOLLYWOOD —

STUDIO GOSSIP

By HARRISON CARROLL

SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Catching the Olympic fever, R-K-O is rushing into production today with "Sport Page," Jerry Horwin's story of a hard-boiled newspaper scribe.

With time pressing the casting of this picture turned into a last minute scramble for players. Columbia was persuaded to lend Constance Cummings to take the feminine lead opposite Joel McCrea. Another frantic call to M. G. M. garnered Robert Young for an important part. In the comedy lead, you'll find your old friend, Benny Rubin, who has been playing hokeyo in Hollywood for many months now. David Selznick has had cameramen at all the recent Olympic tryouts to get atmospheric shots for "Sport Page." The first work with the cast begins today under the direction of Casey Robinson.

Wildest of all Hollywood premieres was the opening of "Strange Interlude," Eugene O'Neill's famous drama of Asides.

Pushing his way into the theater after three strenuous hours at the mike, Jimmie Durante exclaimed:

"Seems like a lot of fuss just to hear a bunch of actors speak their minds."

BOULEVARD GOSSIP:

Another near-unknown is on the verge of getting a contract with Samuel Goldwyn. She is Phyllis du Barry, English actress, who has been playing out here in a musical called "Hullabaloo." Miss du Barry, whose name is to be changed, has taken a test and Goldwyn holds an option on her services. She is a brunette and has done a number of musical comedy leads in Australia.

Rumor is, the producer wants her for one of the parts in "Cynara."

here under the weather. She's still under the weather. . . Now that the honeymoon is over, Sharon Lynn will come back to the screen as the vamp in "The Big Broadcast." She's married you know, to Barney Glazer, Paramount supervisor. . . Stamp collectors, you have a fellow enthusiast in Edmund Lowe. . . After shaking the kinks out of the story, Paramount will film "Hot Saturday" after all. But without either Carole Lombard or Richard Arlen, Gordon Westcott is one of the few members of the cast to be retained. . . Director Henry King is a stickler for detail. He flew to Arizona to get a prize pig for the picture "State Fair" . . . Many of those slaves in de Mille's "The Sign of the Cross" will be athletes from Southern California colleges. These lads draw $10 a day. . . Returning travelers are Helen Gahagan and Melvyn Douglas. She goes into rehearsal for the coast production of "The Cat and the Fiddle," while he awaits a picture assignment from Samuel Goldwyn.

Dean Seashore Addresses July Graduates at Dinner

Over 260 Present at Affair Held in Iowa Union

Before more than 260 students, faculty members, and others who were guests of the university at last night's dinner in Iowa Union complimenting the class which graduated at the July convocation, Dean Seashore discussed the present and future of education.

Garden flowers and smilax adorned the tables. Dean Paul C. Packer presided at the dinner, and introduced President Walter A. Jessup, who in turn introduced Dean Seashore, the speaker of the evening.

Prophecies New System
Prophecying an entire revamping of the educational system within the next few years, Dean Seashore looked forward to the time when one's major preparation for life will come in the graduate college, and when the liberal arts courses will be chiefly preparatory in nature.

The education of the future, he believes, will be more for democracy, and will be equal for both men and women.
"In these days, if a person wants something done, he acquires the services of a specialist in that field," he said, arguing that the specialization required can be gained by study in the higher field of learning through the graduate college.

Opportunity for Development
In the future there will be opportunities for developing one's whole personality, not just one's intellect in particular, he declared. "There will be an entirely new system which will outdo our present conception of courses in higher learning.
And there's nothing like living on a rising scale, a changing order, and going from better to better," he concluded.

Lodge Holds Picnic for Past Officers at Beckman Residence

The lawn of the Charles Beckman home, 406 Reno street, was the scene of a picnic at 6:30 p.m. yesterday for past noble grand of Carnation Rebekah lodge No. 376, and their families. Fifty persons attended.

The evening hours were spent playing cards. Prize winners in 500 were: Mrs. Caroline Darby and William Kanak, first; and Mrs. Frank Fryauf, Jr., and Ben Monroe, low. In bunco, Mrs. Charles Miller received prize for high score and Mrs. John Kadlec, low.

Out of town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Modlin of Eldora and Mrs. Blanche Cochran of Chicago, Ill.

Schroeders Entertain 16 at Dinner-Bridge

Prof. and Mrs. Ernest G. Schroeder entertained 16 guests at a dinner-bridge Wednesday evening at their home, 104 S. Governor street. Honored guests were Prof. and Mrs. C. W. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Aycock, all of Lansing, Mich.

The guests were seated at small quartet tables decorated with yellow flower centerpieces during dinner. In the bridge games, prize winners were Prof. Charles H. McCoy and Mrs. Aycock.

Professor and Mrs. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Aycock will leave for their homes this morning.

Special Grand Jury Impanelled in Nick Coin Murder Case

DAVENPORT, July 21 (AP)—A special grand jury was impanelled today to consider the cases of Louis Sprigden and Charles Elder of Muscatine, being held in connection with the death of Nick Coin, over the objections of their attorneys. The body also will consider other pending cases.

The preliminary arraignment of Sprigden and Elder was deferred indefinitely.
In instructing the jury, Judge W. W. Scott did not touch on any individual case, but directed the jury-men that it is their duty to investigate "all-indictable offenses" with which persons in jail are charged.

Death "Accidental," Coroner's Verdict in Aviator's Case

SHENANDOAH, July 21 (AP)—Accidental strangulation was the verdict of Dr. Ralph Lovelady, county coroner, in the death of Raymond Funk, 26, Bloomington, aviator found strangled to death in a rope swing at the home of his father-in-law, W. L. Leavitt, last night. He is survived by his wife and a 4 months old son. Funk was a member of the Caterpillar club and had survived five airplane wrecks. He was a grandson of Charles Metz, founder of the Metz Brewing company of Omaha.

Party in Honor of Bride-to-Be Given by Moneta Sanger

Complimenting Elyne Lucky, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Grinstead, 331 S. Johnson street, Moneta Sanger entertained at a "kid" party Wednesday evening on the lawn of her home, east of Iowa City. Miss Lucky leaves soon for Nevada, Mo., where her marriage to Cecil A. Roberts will take place July 31.

Various "kid" games were played during the evening hours, after which lollipops and cup cakes were served. The guest list consisted of Edith Reicke, Alma Fullerton, Marjorie Love, Miss Lucky, Janice Phend, Vivian Ratzlaff, Ardis Sanger, and Elizabeth Zobel of Leavenworth, Kan.

What Shall I Serve---? A Daily Hint to Hostesses on Tempting Appetites While It's Hot

Cottage Cheese
Queer, isn't it, that when guests just "drop in" casually for an afternoon call, or perhaps a game of bridge the first thing the "lady of the house" thinks of is: "What shall I give them to eat?" Or perhaps you're a housekeeper who always has something on hand. That, of course, is a rather difficult problem during hot weather. But a torrid temperature is no deterrent to the clever hostess.
Have you ever stopped to think what possibilities there are in cottage cheese? This menu, suggested by Mrs. Emerson G. Hoopes, 326 S. Johnson street, is delightful to serve as a simple luncheon for unexpected guests.

Jury Probes Man's Death Near Bedford

BEDFORD, July 21 (AP)—A coroner's jury this afternoon began an investigation into the slaying of Thomas J. Allen, 26, whose body was found in a shallow grave on the farm of his father-in-law, Elza Jones, near here.

After an examination of the body, which showed several skull fractures from blows on a heavy instrument, presumably a stone, the inquest was adjourned until tomorrow, when witnesses will be called.

May Have Planted Body
Further examination of the gully in which the body was found gave rise to a theory that Allen might have been killed at some other spot and the body hauled to the grave in his wagon.

Stains, believed to be blood, were found on the cross bars underneath the wagon and tracks of its wheels were found to have led to the rim of the gully, from which it was thought possible the body might have been rolled down to the grave.

Foot prints had previously been discovered leading out of the gully in the opposite direction to that in which the wagon tracks were found. An old spade believed to have been used in digging the grave was found about 30 feet away in a position indicating it had been thrown there. It was sent to Des Moines for examination for possible fingerprints.

Had Repaired Fence
The spade belonged to Jones, the father-in-law, who had gone out with Allen Tuesday to repair a fence along the gully.

Jones left a short time later and when he returned Allen was gone. He repaired the fence and paid no attention to his son-in-law's disappearance, believing he had gone to help a neighbor with threshing. When Allen failed to return that night a search was started and the gruesome discovery made.

Allen apparently was killed by blows from a stone, although no blood stains were found on stones of suitable size in the vicinity.

YESTERDAY'S CARTOON
Coughing bullets—After carrying in his head, for 58 years a bullet with which he was wounded in the eye at the battle of Vicksburg, July 1, 1863, W. V. Meadows coughed up the projectile on March 21, 1921. At the Meadows was at his home in West Point, Ga., and suffered no ill-effects whatever from the astounding experience.

Mr. Meadows, who was a member of G company, 27th Alabama infantry, was blinded in his right eye, necessitating its removal, but the bullet was not removed at that time.

The facts of this unique case are authenticated by the many residents of West Point who knew Mr. Meadows.

Tailed women—Tailed women are peculiar to the remote parts of Northern Nigeria which are tributary to Great Britain. The women of the Kagoro, Kajji, Attakka, Moroa, Katab and Jaha tribes inhabiting that part of Africa all assume mushroom shaped tails as the outward and visible sign of married dignity.

The tail is made of palm fiber, very tightly drawn together and bound with string. Sometimes an iron ball is attached to the tail, to lend it vocal emphasis. The men of the "tailed women" are ferocious headhunters.

Iron Grasp of Dictatorship Holds Prussia

"Business as Usual" as People Wait in Quiet

BERLIN, July 21 (AP)—Dictatorship gripped the state of Prussia with a hand of iron today and, although there were stirrings of opposition, it appeared the people would wait peacefully for the Reichstag elections July 31 to vote their opinions.

In Berlin and the province of Brandenburg, both under martial law, business went on as usual while Chancellor Franz Von Papen, self-appointed federal commissioner of the state, presided over the first session of the new Prussian cabinet.

Formulate Formal Protest
Meanwhile the ousted members of the old cabinet held a meeting of their own to formulate a formal protest against their dismissal to be laid before President Von Hindenburg.

It was announced that on July 31 the supreme court at Leipzig will hear the charge by the deposed Prussian ministry that the federal government acted unconstitutionally in appointing Chancellor Von Papen federal commissioner in charge of the state with dictatorial powers.

Joins in Protest
Bavaria joined Prussia in that protest. Baden, not questioning the right of the Reich to appoint a commissioner, filed a telegraphic complaint with the court.

In Essen the social Democratic bloc lined up with the opposition by refusing to sanction a leave of absence for Mayor Franz Bracht, who is serving as Von Papen's deputy in the Prussian dictatorship.

The eyes of Germany were on the south, where the states are violently opposed to the seizure of Prussian power by the Reich, fearing it sets a dangerous precedent.

"First With The News"

Sportively Speaking

By Gene Thorne

The hard-hitting Sidwell's outfit got a dose of its own medicine last night when the Odd Fellows trounced them 11 to 0 at the City park. It wasn't hits so much as a flock of errors that did most of the damage, however. It is queer how errors run. A team may go for several games and play great baseball, including a bunch of sensational plays, and then go to pieces and play like a bunch of school kids. That goes in all classes of baseball. The big leagues turn out a good many terrible games every season. Incidentally, last night's defeat was the first suffered by George Poor since Racine's beat the dairy nine early in the season. He has won six and lost two this season.

Indications are that the Mississippi Valley tennis tournament here in Iowa City next week will attract some of the finest talent in the state. Meet officials, under "Dad" Schroeder are working hard on the entries, and expect a large list. The meet is open to everyone, and summer school students are especially encouraged to sign up. Meet headquarters are at the offices at the field house, and anyone wishing to enter the tourney may do so by going to the offices or calling "Dad" Schroeder.

In an interview with an Associated Press reporter yesterday, Keneas Mountain Landis, commissioner of organized baseball, said he couldn't see a single "financial angel for the minor leagues." An act of congress and the United States treasury are needed to help out the smaller leagues, according to Landis. Baseball has suffered along with other business, the former judge admits. He also recognizes that the minors are in the worst shape. But he can suggest no remedy. To the suggestion that the major leagues use their "surplus" to help, the commissioner merely snorted, and said he didn't know whether the newspaper same or his own job was the crasiest.

While the major leagues are no doubt suffering in somewhat the same manner as the minors, much help has been given several leagues by major league clubs using them as farms. The Mississippi league has been given considerable help in this way. Most of the big time clubs must have something in the purse. It is their interest that the minors keep running, for that is where future big league material gets its seasoning. The question will probably be definitely settled at the December meeting of minor league owners.

Olympic officials are probably thinking their lucky stars, or what ever it is that takes care of Olympic officials, that the United States is as sports-minded as it is. With times as they now are, the financial worries of said executives should be great, and long. But they aren't. Fans are going or getting ready to go to Los Angeles from all parts of the country. Some of them will spend hundreds of dollars, and others will get by on little or nothing—but they will be there. Latest reports show well over a million tickets already sold, for the greatest of all sports carnivals, and orders are still pouring in. For the sports follower, it will be well worth it though. There is one show that does not need a money back guarantee.

Reddig Takes R.O.T.C. Net Singles Title

FT. CROOK, Neb., (Special)—Displaying a fiery brand of tennis that at times threatened to match the blazing fury of a blazing 100 degree sun, Ron Reddig, Iowa tennis captain, doured Wilson, Nebraska net star, 6-0, 6-0 for the singles title and paired with George Annmann to give Iowa a slam in the R.O.T.C. tournament by a 6-4, 6-3 win over Tice and Buck, South Dakota, in the doubles.

Reddig's exhibition of near perfect tennis marked the high point of the tournament which he finished without the loss of a single set. The power of his game can be shown in his record of games lost. In three matches he dropped only eight games and seven of these were in his match with Mansen of South Dakota when he was forced to play without his glasses.

Although he was apparently tired after his singles match, Reddig came back with a half hour of rest and played the same dazzling type of tennis to help his fellow Iowan take the doubles crown. This marked the second year that Iowans had made a clean sweep of the tournament.

Weaver Beats Tiger Club in Series Finale

Holds Detroit After 3 Run Rampage in First Inning

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Washington regained fourth place in the American league today by trimming the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4, in the closing game of the series. Monte Weaver settled down after a shaky first inning in which Detroit scored three runs. He gave up nine hits, four in the first, but kept them well apart after that. The Senators talked once in the second, and collected two more in each of the fourth and fifth innings. Wyatt went the route for Detroit, in the closing game of the series. Another pair was scored in the fifth on singles by Manush—raising to 20 his string of hits in consecutive games—Cronin and West. Score by innings: R. H. E. Detroit 3 00 0 100—4 9 2 Washington 5 10 0 200—5 10 0 Batteries—Wyatt and Ruel; Weaver and Berg.

Browns Upset A's 5-3 in Final Game

PHILADELPHIA, July 21 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns broke their losing streak of 11 in a row by taking the final encounter of the five-game series with the Athletics today, 5 to 3. Stewart held the Mackmen to four hits. He allowed only one hit in the first seven innings and halted a two run rally in the eighth by causing Fox to hit into a double play with two on base. Score by innings: R. H. E. St. Louis 5 10 0 115 10 2 Philadelphia 3 00 0 020—3 4 0 Batteries—Stewart and Ferrell; Mahaffey and Cochrane.

Red Sox Rise Up to Knock Off Yanks

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Larry Boerner and Wiley Moore, rookie and veteran pitchers of the lowly Boston Red Sox, ended the Yankees' five-game winning streak today as they pitched the last place club to a 3 to 2 victory over the league leaders. They allowed two hits apiece, Boerner working the first seven innings and Moore getting credit for the victory by hurling the last two. Pickering's double and Warstler's single off Wells in the ninth scored the winning run. Score by innings: R. H. E. Entries Come for Net Meet

Three Illinois Players Enter 'Sippi Valley Title Clash

Receipt of the first entries for the University of Iowa's Mississippi Valley tennis tournament next week was announced yesterday by E. G. Schroeder of the department of physical education. The meet occurs July 27, 28, and 29. Three Illinois stars were among the first to file entry. They are John Curtiss, former Northwestern university player who ranked high in the Big Ten; Dick Goepel of Rock Island, who paired with Ronald Reddig to win the men's doubles title in last year's meet, and H. A. Kniss of Monmouth. Ted Swenson, former University of Iowa player, has registered from Cedar Rapids and says he will bring several other high class performers to the affair. From Valley Junction will come Verle Davis, a competitor this week in the Iowa State tourney. Viola Mitchell of Iowa City, is the first entrant in the women's singles, Schroeder said. No men's doubles teams yet have formally entered. With the conclusion of the Iowa championships this week end, a number of players are expected to sign blanks for the university's meet. Deadline for the receipt of nominations is Tuesday afternoon, July 26. AMERICAN ASSOCIATION Minneapolis 21-5; Louisville 4-13. St. Paul 13; Indianapolis 2. Kansas City 6; Toledo 5.

Bresnahan's Talent Gets Recognition

George Bresnahan's talent for developing hurdlers, quarter milers, and broad jumpers at last has been officially recognized by the American Olympic committee. News from Los Angeles that the University of Iowa mentor has been appointed coach of hurdlers, broad jumpers, and the 1,600-meter relay runners on the United States Olympic team recalls to Hawkeye fans his unusual success with athletes in those events. Eight of his men have made the last three Olympic teams, one of them the 1928 and 1932 squads. Hurdlers' Parade Begins A distinguished parade of Hawkeye hurdlers has marched forth from the university to win national titles in the last 10 years. Charles Brookins, low hurdler, was the first; his mark still is the accepted world's record. Brookins shifted to the 400-meter hurdles for the Olympiad of 1924, along with Chan Coulter, a made-over quarter-miler. The world's champion low hurdler finished second at Paris, only to be disqualified for a technical hurdle offense he never actually committed. Cuhel Forces Burghley Four years later it was Frank (Bab) Cuhel, another national champion low hurdler, who was a Yankee 400-meter hurdle star at Amsterdam. He was runner-up to Lord Burghley of Great Britain for the Olympic title, forcing the winner to equal the Olympic record. Now George Saling is an outstanding American on the 1932 team in the 110-meter high hurdles after a record-splitting season. Saling also has run the 220-yard low hurdles and the 400-meter hurdles in close to world's record time. Relay Runners Famous As to his ability as a relay team coach, Bresnahan developed the 1923 mile quartet whose American intercollegiate record existed for seven years, and in the last decade his teams have won more than 60 per cent of their races at major carnivals. He strengthened his reputation as a tutor of quarter milers by coaching two of his pupils to Olympic team membership—Eric Wilson, one of four Americans to run the 400-meter dash at Paris in 1924; and George Baird, who in 1928 ran lead-off on the Olympic champion 1,600-meter relay team which created a world's record. Gordon Champ Jumper Edward Gordon, who has just made his second Olympic team, is Bresnahan's best broad jump pupil, having won 17 championships, including three National Collegiate A.A. and two National A.A.U. titles, since 1923. The Iowa coach yesterday began drilling his 13-man squad of American Olympic athletes. His charges are: Saling, Jack Keller, and Percy Beard, 110-meter high hurdles; Glenn Hardin, Morgan Taylor, and Joe Healy, 400-meter hurdles; Gordon, Lambert Redd, and Richard Barber, broad jump; and Ed Ablowich, Ivan Fuqua, Arnold Adams, and Karl Warner, 1,600-meter relay.

That Strength Rests in Races Under 400 Meters By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor) LOS ANGELES, July 21 (AP)—The United States track and field forces not only will be fortunate to capture any footrace beyond 400 meters but figure to be reasonably sure of winning no more than nine of the 23 separate events making up the featured Olympic program, in the opinion of Head Coach Lawson Robertson. The 1928 American team captured eight track and field events, including the 400 and 1,600 meter relays. Some Good Men "We have some exceptionally good men, but I cannot see how we are any better balanced than four years ago," Robertson declared after seeing approximately 50 of his charges safely moved to the Olympic village today and issuing orders for a resumption of training. "I would say we had an excellent chance to win the following events: 100 and 200 meter dashes, 400 meter run, 400 meter relay, 1,600 meter relay, high hurdles, pole vault, high jump and discus." Welcome Gordon A Negro delegation was at the railroad station to tender a demonstration for the dusky sprint stars, Ralph Metcalfe and Eddie Tolan, among others. But these two had preceded by other means to the Olympic village and welcome turned to Ed Gordon, Iowa Negro broad jumper. The honor of taking the Olympic oath, representative of the entire international athletic assemblage, seems likely to go to F. Morgan Taylor, Illinois A. C. veteran and former Grinnell, (Ia.) college athlete who is the 400-meter relay team for the third straight Olympiad, the only American athlete with this service record. Taylor 30 Years Old Taylor is 30 years old, married and father of one son, head of the English department at Quincy, (Ill.) high school, 1924 Olympic low hurdles champion and still holder of the world record of 52 seconds flat for the 400-meter event. Besides favoring Taylor for this individual distinction, the American Olympic committee also is expected to name Clarence Crable of the Los Angeles A. C. for the honor of bearing the team standard in the inaugural parade and ceremonies. Crable is a veteran of the 1928 games. Taylor would bear the national emblem, besides taking the Olympic oath. Here's Bill Carr of Pennsylvania, breaking the tape to win the 400-meter event in the final of the American Olympic tryouts and national championships at Palo Alto, Cal. Carr set a world's record of 46.9 seconds for the event, proving that his victory in the I. C. 4A meet was not a fluke. Ben Eastman, the Stanford star quarter-miler, is shown finishing second.

Women's Golf Title Defender Pushed Hard

Lucille Robinson Nearly Ousted by Young Mason Citian MASON CITY, July 21 (AP)—Heavy casualties in the ranks of the Des Moines contenders and the near-elimination of Lucille Robinson, the defending champion, featured the quarter-finals of the Iowa women's golf tournament. Miss Robinson was the only golfer from the capital city to survive the test today, three of her fellow townswomen falling before the attacks of Charlotte Ames of Clear Lake, Mrs. S. A. Repp of Mason City and Mrs. Dave Bonella of Ottumwa. It took some of the best brand of golf Miss Robinson could uncork to subdue a determined uprising by Betty MacPeak, Mason City's favorite, two up. Near Upset The local girl got off to a great start before the champion could set her war clubs unnumbered and by the time they reached the sixth tee Miss MacPeak had a three up lead. Miss Robinson found herself hit and cut the margin to one up at the turn by winning the seventh and ninth, then evened the match on the 11th. From then on Miss Robinson had the better of the going, taking the lead at the thirteenth. Miss Robinson had an 82, one over par, for her round, and Miss MacPeak had an 84. Tomorrow the champion will meet Miss Ames, who found plenty of trouble in turning back Mrs. J. W. Hubbell, one up. Former Champion Wins The two Des Moines casualties in the lower bracket were Mrs. George Whitmer, the city champion, and Mildred Galmieier. Mrs. Whitmer lost a 5 and 3 decision to Mrs. Repp, who as Frances Drake won the 1928 championship. Mrs. Bonella, Mrs. Repp's opponent in tomorrow's semi-final, piled up her advantage over Miss Galmieier on the outgoing nine, leading five up at the turn. ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 21 (AP)—The New York Giants today defeated the Rochester Redwings in an exhibition game, 6 to 3.

Celebrate Return With Winning Blows in 9th Frame

PITTSBURGH, July 21 (AP)—Captain "Pie" Traynor and Lloyd Waner, two of the Pirates' "cripples," celebrated their return to the Pittsburgh lineup today by getting together in the ninth inning to score the run that beat the Phillies, 3 to 2. The victory, Pittsburgh's second in the five game series, increased the Bucs' National league lead to 2-1-2 games as all their other rivals were idle. With two out in the last half of the ninth Traynor, who played the full game after an absence of two weeks because of an injured finger, broke the spell with a single. Waner, taking his only time at bat, smacked a double into left center to bring home the winning run. Up to the seventh game was a magnificent pitching duel between Remy Kremer and Jim Elliott with Pittsburgh leading 1-0 as a result of Grace's single, Kremer's sacrifice and Comorosky's double in the third. CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

Lily Lou put down the letter. She thought of Uncle Eph, brown and muscular and young, in spite of his 60 years. She had always admired Uncle Eph, though the family hadn't thought he amounted to much. She admired his independence, his doing as he liked, and not caring whether people in town thought much of him or not. It hurt to think of him gone. It made her feel that some part of her was dead, too. . . . The little girl who used to gather Mariposa lilies in the fields, her dark hair flying in the hot wind. . . . who used to sit on Uncle Eph's knee in the cabin while Aunt Dolly sang gay little French songs, as she basted fried eggs with bacon grease, and cut thick slices of bread to brown later, in the fat. . . .

She wished that she could do something for Uncle Eph, wished that there were some way to tell him how sorry she was that he was gone. She didn't go to see him the last time she was in Woodlake. She should have. . . .

And then it came to her that he wouldn't have cared. He never cared whether he was remembered or not. He just went his way with his dogs and his horse, content to stop to listen to a meadow lark's song, or watch a sunset, leisurely rilling cigarettes, never in a hurry, never rushed. . . .

And if he left her everything it was for one purpose, to help her achieve her goal.

She brushed a hand across her wet eyes. Stood up. There would be no more idling with the bubbles, no more telling herself that she wasn't strong enough to work. Strong! She was strong as a horse! She'd work as she had never worked before. She'd make it up to the old man, who was asleep under the trees in Lone Mountain.

Madame Nahلمان's three performances of Carmen, at the Opera Comique were to virtually close the season. To Lily Lou's overwhelming delight she was allowed to join the chorus, and understudy for Micaela. The real Micaela was a beautiful young French girl, protégée of one of the conductors. Nahلمان disliked the girl exceedingly, and engaged in several wordy battles in the effort to get the part for her protégée, Lily Lou.

There was no reason, as Nahلمان pointed out, why Lily Lou couldn't sing it. She knew it perfectly, her voice was more than adequate. Why, I myself sang the very role of Micaela when I had no real training at all. All I had was the voice, the temperament, I won't I wasn't afraid of anything. And you—you tremble when I put you in the chorus!

"It's just the thought of it!" "Get over the thought of it. You're ready to do Gilda or Rosina this minute, or Marguerite—why do you suppose I took you up? To nurse you along for ten years? You've got to jump these things when they come. This won't come, because Blumenthal's hussy will sing Micaela in spite of the devil. But don't look so scared at the thought of it!"

Lily Lou gulped. She was never a match for Nahلمان. She couldn't explain. Nahلمان wouldn't understand. Nahلمان never felt humble and frightened. She just felt sure of herself, glad of the chance to show how great she was. She didn't feel that the music was great, and the role great, and that she was just somebody hoping to interpret the role.

But some artists did. Tony Schiarli did. He told her so. He said he didn't think you had to be sure of yourself that way. They'd often talked about it, back in New York. But you couldn't talk that way to

"If you fail me, I'm through with you! Are you a singer or aren't you?"

Nahلمان, she just didn't understand. Thought you lacked nerve. . . . Did she? Lily Lou walked the floor, worrying. Suppose after all that had been done for her, after all her training, she'd be too scared to sing a note?

The first night she could have kissed the French girl, she was so glad to see her appear in the wings, ready to go on and sing the part. Nahلمان didn't say a word about it, she was so wrapped up in her own performance. She was magnificent, flushed with triumph. Fat and old and blowsy as she looked in her dressing room—a little ridiculous even, in her laced-in bodice and roses in her too curly wig, there was nothing ridiculous about her performance. She was Carmen, and she was singing, still alluring. No wonder they acclaimed her, no wonder she was called great!

The second night Lily Lou lost her fear. She wouldn't wish the young French girl any hard luck, but if she got the chance. . . . well, Nahلمان wouldn't have to be ashamed of her. Her voice was better, much better, than the other girl's, and she was certainly as good looking. . . .

And the third night. . . . the third night she'd have almost traded her soul for the chance, except that the bubble was sick.

"Measles," said the bonne. "Nonsense!" said Leontine, the second maid. "That child has no more measles than I have the stomach ache!"

"A lot you know about it!" said the bonne, "you, who know nothing of children!"

"What, I? Know nothing of children? I who bore four, and have three living, and one with the good God, and you, a single woman, stand there and tell me, me. . . ."

"Nevertheless, he has measles," "Of a certainty, he has measles," put in Albert the butler, who had arrived to quell the disturbance, and stayed to take a hand in it, "and vinegar, good vinegar diluted."

"Then send for the doctor!" Lily

Lou cried above the din. "Let the doctor decide. What is a doctor for? Albert, you call him, and Leontine."

"Shut up, all of you!" Madame Nahلمان shouted. "Give him to me. He's all right. It's just a rash. Leontine, you stop that howling! Shut up. . . . oh, my voice, my voice. Why do you let me shout? Lily, the least you can do is to watch me. You know my temperament. Put that child down. Get my wrap, and come, it is time—"

"I'll slip over a little later"—Lily Lou said, "after the doctor gets here. Anyway, it won't matter if I don't go. I wish Albert would hurry—"

"He's answering the door. Don't fuss so, Lily. You make me nervous, and when I am nervous on a night like this—"

"It is an old one, from the Opera Comique, an old man, Madames," Albert said, returning. "His says Monsieur Blumenthal sends his regards, and Mademoiselle Dejeor has broken her ankle and can't go on. So if Madame Lansing—"

"Heaven be praised, Quick, Lily—Leontine, take the child—"

Madame Nahلمان was slipping into her wrap—"Come, Lily!" "Lily Lou was rooted to the spot. She looked at the waiting child, at the red-faced, indignant Leontine, the angry nursemaid.

"I hate to leave him. . . . The regular understudy could—"

"If you fail me, I'm through with you! Are you a singer, or aren't you? Make up your mind— and quick—we'll both be late!"

Lily Lou bent her head, kissed the baby's soft little neck, Nahلمان was right of course. It was her chance. The baby would be well cared for. . . . Albert would go for the doctor. . . .

Susanne Coin put a wrap over her shoulders. The three women went down the thickly carpeted stairs. Lily Lou heard the bubble's whimpering cry, as the door closed behind them.

Coggeshall in Close Victory Over Burgess

Rugg Scores Startling Triumph Against Dullng

DES MOINES, July 21 (AP)—Harris o'Coggeshall, ranking Des Moines player, had a nip-and-tuck battle with Al Burgess, Kansas City, in his third round match of the men's singles in Iowa tennis tournament here today.

In the other quarter-finals match of the men's singles division Jack Taylor, Austin, Tex., junior player, will oppose Nelson McIninch of Kansas City, Missouri Valley junior champ. McIninch trimmed Taylor today in their quarter-trimmed match in the junior division, 10-8, 8-6.

Dick Rugg, ranking Iowa junior player and defending champion, appeared in rare form to turn in a startling victory over George Dullng of San Antonio, Tex., 6-4, 6-0. Three other threats remain in Rugg's path. They are Paul Annear, local champion, and Nelson McIninch and Bill Kiley, the Kansas City pair.

Betty Butler, seeded at the top of the women's draw, proved her right to the high ranking by gaining the final round with a 6-4 victory over Mrs. Eleanor Bell, veteran Cedar Rapids woman player, Mrs. Bell, state champion 10 years ago, gave her younger rival a terrific battle, but could not match Miss Butler's hard-hit shots.

In the doubles Mrs. Bell and Mildred Geiser of Sheldon defaulted to Bothilda Mahler and Diana Southern, Des Moines pair. Mary Heller, Dubuque, and Marjorie Mace, Waterloo, defeated Elizabeth Carpenter and Helen Hanson, another Des Moines duo, 6-2, 6-3.

John Van der Zee of Iowa was defeated in his third round match in the junior singles by Bill Kiley, Kansas City in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1.

Iowa Third in R.O.T.C. Track Meet

Lack of First Places Costs Ft. Crook Crown

Nebraska . . . 55 1/2
South Dakota . . . 27
IOWA . . . 24 1/2
Wyoming . . . 11
Creighton . . . 3

FT. CROOK, Neb., (Special)—Failure to count a single first place cost Iowa the chance to place better than third in the annual R.O.T.C. track and field meet.

Although Nebraska's overwhelming advantage in numerical strength precluded any hope of a first place, the Hawkeyes were picked to finish second but the lack of gold medal men forced them to finish third, three and one-half points back of South Dakota.

If Iowa were to point to one specific cause for their position it could well be Eldon Brummitt, Rocky Mountain broad jump star. It was he who cut the Old Gold team out of its last chance for a first place when he jumped nine inches past Clyde Hutton's best mark to upset the favorite. Right down to Brummitt's last jump Iowa had a first place clinched but the Wyoming Cowboy's leap of 22 feet 10 1/2 inches beat them.

All told Iowa counted six seconds, two thirds, two fourths and a tie for another.

Keith George, 440; Hutton, broad jump; Ray Nelson, 220; Bob Gorr, discus; Ted Maresh, 50 yard dash, and the mile relay team all added three points to their team total.

Frank Stempel, in the shot, and Elmer Bladow, in the mile run, finished third with Ken Hull and George Ammann fourth in the shot and discus events. Bob McQuay finished in a two way tie for fourth in the high jump.

The summaries: 440 yard dash—Won by Hedlin (N); George (I) second; Buck (SD) third; McCooghan (N) fourth. Time—56.7.

Shot put—Won by Hulbert (N); Frank (SD) second; Stempel (I) third; Hull (I) fourth. Distance—47 feet 11 inches.

Mile run—Won by Segar (N); McMasters (N) second; Bladow (I) third; Hegness (SD) fourth. Time—5:02.5.

Broad jump—Won by Brummitt (W); Hutton (I) second; Wells (N) third; O'Halloran (SD) fourth. Distance—22 feet 10 1/2 inches.

Half mile run—Won by Atkins crop firing, corn maintained price levels a little higher than yesterday, but finally dropped on indications of a break in the heat wave.

Stock Market Gains Despite News Reports

Ends Day With Rise Averaging Point Per Share

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Stocks pulled themselves up by their bootstraps today. Thanks largely to the strength of food, tobacco and oil shares the market closed with gains averaging a point, although in many so-called pivotal issues advances were of fractional or negligible proportions.

Lacking support from the news, which included word of restiveness in Germany and a proposal of more liberal British-Canadian tariff preferences, there was an inclination to put a professional tag on the rally.

Preferred Stocks Strengthened. Preferred stocks again strengthened, although much of the trading was in odd lots. However, there were net gains of 2 1/2 to 6 1/2 points in senior equities of Union Pacific, Santa Fe, American Sugar, Eastman, General Banking, Loeys, Sun Oil and Case, among others.

Sante Fe and Union Pacific common were each up more than a point net, while National Biscuit, Loose Wiles, American Tobacco B. Liggett and Myers B, Standard Oil of Kansas, Texas Corp., and California Standard made an average rise of about one. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Du Pont, Westinghouse, Case, Atlantic Refining, Union Carbide, General Motors, Consolidated Gas and North American firmed fractionally.

Closes at High Level. The market closed at its highest level of the month, although falling a little shy of the mid-June peak. Sales totaled 925,810 shares, a robust turnover measured by recent standards of activity.

Set Date for Hearing. DES MOINES (AP)—Aug. 9 was set by the railroad commissioners for hearing an application of the Natural Gas Pipe Line company for right to construct a connecting line at Muscatine.

BRITISH NATIONS

Meet in Canada for Conference

Age of loyalty to the king. The delegates rose to adopt unanimously a previously prepared motion—a motion which incidentally did not include the word "loyalty."

Stand With Other Delegates. The Irish Free States, whose Dail Eireann recently voted to abolish the oath to the king, stood with the other delegations.

In moving the election of Mr. Bennett, the head of the British delegation stated the purpose of the conference. Echoing the idea of cooperation voiced by the king, he said the conference marks a crossroad.

The first endorsement of the Canadian plan came from Premier Bruce, who added that Australia also favored establishment of a monetary policy to restore prices and confidence.

Qualified Approval. Then came New Zealand with qualified approval and, through J. C. Coates, the head of her delegation, she even offered in certain cases to increase ariffs of foreign goods.

Speaking for the Irish Free State, Sean T. O'Kelly declared his country was willing to cooperate, but said that Free State acceptance of general principles of economic relationship must be governed by the degree to which they serve the interests of the people of the Free State.

Hope for Success

"We most earnestly hope," he said, "that the conference will be a success whether or not the people of the Irish Free State can share in the ultimate benefits to the same full extent as the peoples of the other nations whose representatives are gathered here."

Apparently O'Kelly referred to the current tariff war between Great Britain and the Free State which was started after Ireland had withheld land annuities due in London. Great Britain retaliated by imposing a 20 per cent general tariff, and the Dail Eireann retorted in kind. Its tariff bill, however, has not been finally passed.

Urges Restoration of Gold. South Africa agreed that the conference must try to lower tariff walls, but N. C. Havenga, head of her delegation, came out flatly for restoration of the gold standard "at such parities as various states may find possible."

The other dominions, India, New Zealand and Southern Rhodesia, all promised cooperation toward a successful conclusion of the conference.

Grains Slide to New Lows in Reactions

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP)—Reactionary trends today wiped out an advance in wheat, and took oats and rye to fresh bottom price records.

Oats fell to the lowest point since 1896, rye to the lowest this season. A letup in high temperatures north-west diminished fears of crop damage, and the markets suffered from absence of sustained buying.

Wheat closed irregular at 1-4 to 1-8 advance, corn 1-8 to 3-8 down, oats 3-8 to 1-2 off, and provisions at a rise of 12 to 17 cents.

Selling of December wheat, apparently for government financed agencies, contributed to late weakness. Export demand for United States wheat was lacking, although 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat was bought today and an equal amount yesterday.

Transient upturns in wheat values accompanied reports that the northwest no longer expected bumper yields, but that a better than average outturn was indicated. Persistent slackness of demand harshly affected oats.

Iowa messengers said oats at present prices would not pay to thresh. Illinois producers were reported as receiving only 10 cents a bushel. Influenced by scattered reports of

State Committee Urges Investigation of Costs in County Office

Expenses of Court Clerk Listed High

Recommends Probe to Bring Further Slashes

DES MOINES, July 21 (AP)—Local tax groups today were urged by the state interim committee on reduction of governmental expenditures to investigate the expense of offices of clerks of courts with a view to effecting reductions.

The state committee pointed out, however, that there has been little increase in this expense in the state in the last decade while the amount of fees collected by the office has gained considerably.

Expenses

The 1930 salaries and other expense of the clerk of courts offices amounted to $388,006, the committee reported. In 1928 the total was $433,997 and in 1929 the total as shown in reports to the state auditor was $432,617.

As compared to this increase of about $34,000 in the 10 year period, there was a reported increase of about $90,000 in fees collected by the office in 1929 over 1920. This increase in fee receipts was found to have taken place mostly in larger counties.

Urged to Investigate

"Local tax committees in the counties are urged to investigate the expense of this office to see whether further cuts can be made in this expense in different counties," the committee said.

"While an excessive clerk of court's expense in some counties as compared to others of the same population may be justified, yet such abnormal expense ought to be investigated to ascertain the reason."

Difference in Costs

As an example the committee pointed out that although Pottawattamie and Black Hawk counties have about the same population, the 1920, 1928 and 1929 clerk of court expense in Pottawattamie county was nearly half again more than that of Black Hawk.

Among other counties whose clerk of court expense apparently has been high as compared to others of similar population the committee listed Johnson, Muscatine, Dallas, Appanoose, Benton, and Floyd.

AROUND THE TOWN with DON PRYOR

The City's Hardest Problem

Yesterday District Judge R. G. Popham listened in juvenile court to the stories of a group of small Iowa City boys who have been arrested by the police over a period of several weeks. They are charged with many misdemeanors, from stealing boats on the river to breaking into grocery stores. Discussion around the town centers not on the punishment they will receive now, but on what, if anything, Iowa City will do to make decent citizens out of them.

Hunger Parade

One more down but not quite out enrolled at the American Legion Unemployment Relief association office in the American Legion Community building yesterday. The addition of his name brought the total of Iowa City's unemployed to 424.

More Potato Salad

Scott township members of the Farm bureau will determine national political issues and discuss the slowly rising price of hogs Sunday at a picnic in the city park.

Finis

District Judge R. G. Popham yesterday approved the final report of J. M. Kadlec, referee in the case of Otto Lepic vs. Charles F. Lepic, et al. The report shows that the referee sold a lot in Woods addition to Otto Lepic for $800.

Some People

Yesterday a prominent man in Iowa City was given a ticket for overtime parking. When he brought the ticket to the station, he complainingly told police that he lived in the country and didn't know about the parking ordinance. A bystander recognized him and mentioned that he worked in a local store. He paid his $1 fine as have other citizens.

Rushing Business

Six residents of Iowa City applied at the office of Sheriff Don McComas yesterday for drivers' licenses. They are Mrs. D. R. Campbell, H. J. Alfrey, Leota M. Wheatstone, Ida Wray, Dr. Henry S. Houghton, and Jean Wilson.

The waterway will extend from Montreal, Canada, to Duluth, Minn., and will take seven years to construct. Standing in the background is Col. Hanford McNider, United States minister to Canada.

Mrs. Helen Huntoon, Wife of Professor, Dies of Heart Attack

FARGO, N. Dak., July 21 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Wheatley Huntoon, wife of Homer B. Huntoon, professor of architecture at North Dakota agricultural college here, died yesterday of a heart attack. She was formerly a commercial artist in Texas.

Mrs. Huntoon was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Wheatley of Ft. Worth, Tex. Professor Huntoon is a native of Des Moines and a graduate of Iowa State college.

Funeral service is expected to be held in Des Moines late this week, relatives said.

Here Comes the Landlord

Mary Holland filed a petition in district court yesterday asking for a landlord's writ of attachment against the property of Fred and Lena Douglas in an attempt to collect $140 rent which she claims is due on her house at 1017 Cook street.

Receives $341.80 From State Senator

DES MOINES (AP)—The state treasurer received $341.80 from State Senator John W. Kent of Charlton which he had collected under the legislative expense act, declared unconstitutional.

Assistant Attorney General Issues Opinion for F. B. Olsen

DES MOINES, July 21 (AP)—Witnesses may be subpoenaed in hearings before a juvenile court, an attorney general's opinion held today. The opinion was one of several written by Gerald O. Blake, assistant attorney general.

The same opinion, written at the request of County Attorney Floyd B. Olsen of Iowa City, also held that in such cases witness fees could be paid, that fees also could be paid persons appearing voluntarily if the judge so ordered, and that the fees should come from the juvenile court fund.

Entitled to Relief

County Attorney Carl Hendrickson of Cedar Rapids was advised that a person who served in the coast guard in the war is entitled to veterans relief if it is determined the coast guard was under the jurisdiction of the navy department.

In an opinion for County Attorney D. W. Harper of Creston Blake held that a Britisher or soldier of one of the allies during the war who has since become naturalized in the United States is not entitled to property exemption.

No Exemption

Under the statutes the step-mother of a deceased soldier cannot claim exemption, an opinion for County Attorney Clifford M. Vance of Mt. Pleasant held.

County Attorney R. R. Bateson of Eldora was advised that there is no provision in the statutes for a county auditor to waive collection of the penalty for failure to obtain dog licenses before April 1.

No Provision

C. Fred Porter, acting auditor of state, was told that there is no provision that would permit a city council to reimburse the water department for loss of revenue where they had cancelled water rentals due from a fair association or exposition park.

Property of the Syrian Orthodox church in Sioux City formerly used as a parsonage is not exempt from taxation, County Attorney Ralph Pritchard of Sioux City was informed.

Visiting Lecturer to Make European Trip

L. L. Dines, visiting lecturer in mathematics, from the University of Saskatchewan at Saskatoon, Can., is leaving today for New York city, preparatory to sailing for Europe July 29.

While abroad, he will attend the International Congress of Mathematicians, to be held at Zurich, Switzerland. After staying about two months in Europe, Mr. Dines will return to the University of Saskatchewan for the school year.

Posses Seek Malvern Man for Shooting

Fred Cozad, 44, Fires at Son-in-Law at Carnival

MALVERN, July 21 (AP)—Posses were combing the hills and woods about Malvern tonight in search for Fred Cozad, 44, who last night shot his 20 year old son-in-law, Gale Vandershule, as he left a carnival. A dozen persons witnessed the shooting and hundreds more attending the carnival heard the shots.

Confesses to Marshal

Cozad later met Night Marshal Jake Frazier on a street and confessed before fleeing into the hills. Vandershule, who was graduated from high school last year, married Cozad's only daughter, 18, on April 16. They went to live at the home of Vandershule's parents, Mrs. Vandershule said she left after a month and returned to her home. She said she made several attempts at reconciliation and her husband had agreed to meet her at a swimming pool last night. He failed to keep the appointment and Cozad, learning of this, sought him.

He met Vandershule near the carnival and attempted to persuade him to go to the Cozad home. In an ensuing argument, witnesses said, Cozad fired twice as the youth attempted to grab the gun. The bullets entered the youth's stomach.

Frazier said Cozad approached him later on the street and said, "I've just killed my son-in-law and I'm going up to the house and tell my wife and daughter. You can get me there."

As Frazier got out of his auto and started for Cozad the latter ducked into some bushes and fled.
