Make Plans for Round-up of Children

Parent-Teacher Group Sponsors Inspection Campaign

Preparations for the annual summer round-up for children, under the auspices of the Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers, are being made by Mrs. J. V. Blackman, round-up chairman, and her committee.

The round-up of the children is a campaign to send to the entering grade of school or kindergarten a class of children as free as possible from remedial physical and mental defects. The desired goal is to educate parents to the need for periodical examinations of their children by physicians and dentists.

Since the completion of the school census, committees have been formed for each of the public grade schools of the city. The committees will visit parents of the children of school age, leaving with them physical inspection forms issued by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers which provide space for a written report from the physician and dentist. Before the opening of school, the committees will again call on the parents and collect the forms, checking on the defects which were to have been removed or remedied.

Committees are: Horace Mann school district, Mrs. Joseph Kanak, chairman; Mrs. Ray L. Kaufman, Mrs. Ruth Moore; Mrs. David Thomas; Mrs. Milo Novy, and Mrs. William Parizek.

Henry Sabin, Mrs. R. L. Mackey, chairman, and Mrs. Guy Fink, Longfellow, Mrs. Blackman, chairman; Mrs. A. C. Ohl; Mrs. Hal Bayliss; Mrs. George Koudelka, Kirkwood, Mrs. Frank Kinney, Shimek, Mrs. Ruth Augustine.

A Daily Hint to Hostesses on Tempting Appetites While It's Hot

Frozen Desserts
Queer things, our minds. Just the merest suggestion of the words "cool," or "freeze," or "ice" go far in tempting the appetites of one's family.

In these days of electric refrigerators, frozen desserts have risen in popularity. They are quickly and simply made, and are most refreshing.

These two recipes, "Marshmallow Delight," and "One-Two-Three Special" were suggested by Mrs. J. V. Blackman, 414 Seventh avenue.

Marshmallow Delight
3/4 lb. marshmallows
1 1/2 c. crushed pineapple or dessert pineapple cut in small pieces
2 c. whipping cream
2 tbsp. sugar

Cut marshmallows in fourths. Add pineapple and mix well. Pour into mixing bowl and let stand in refrigerator over night. Whip cream and add sugar. Fold whipped cream into fruit and marshmallow mixture. Pour into trays and allow to chill. Serves 12.

One-Two-Three Special

3 oranges
2 lemons
1 banana
1/4 teas. salt
1 pint water
2 c. granulated sugar
4 egg yolks
1 pint whipping cream

Boil sugar and water to thin syrup. Add orange juice and the slightly beaten egg yolk and allow to cook for approximately five minutes longer. Remove from fire and cool. Crush bananas with silver fork and add lemon juice. Add both to custard. Fold in whipped cream and pour into freezing tray. Allow to freeze without stirring during the freezing process. Serves 10.

Flyer Takes Arctic Route

Captain Gronau Starts on Third Atlantic Crossing

LIST, Island of Sylt, July 22 (AP)—Captain Wolfgang von Gronau, who has flown across the Atlantic twice by the arctic route, took off at 11 o'clock this morning for Chicago.

He will stop at Iceland and then go on by way of Greenland and Labrador. At 7:40 o'clock this morning (C.S.T.) he reported his position by wireless as just east of the Orkney islands, whence it would be a comparatively short distance to his first stop.

With him in his seaplane, the Greenland Wal, are a second pilot, a mechanic and a radio operator.

The captain made his first flight across the ocean in 1930, reaching New York in August of that year after 47 hours flying time. While he was there he talked with President Hoover about a commercial airline over the northern route.

Then last year in August he started unannounced on the second flight which landed him in Chicago on Sept. 1.

When he took off this morning the sea was so calm it was necessary to launch another plane to churn the water so his heavily loaded machine could rise from the surface.

Flying Warriors Plan Atlantic Trip

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—Baron von Schleich, so-called "black knight" of the German flying forces during the war, and Major Christopher Draper, known as the mad major of the old British royal flying corps, announced plans tonight for a westward flight across the Atlantic. They intend, they said, to make the trip in the near future and they will be seated side-by-side in the cockpit of their plane.

Other projects are: grading in Lucas county, 0.532 miles primary 14 south of Chariton; graveling in Woodbury county, 4.988 miles primary 31 from Smithland to Oto; and bridges and culverts in Johnson county on primary 6 and in Hardin county on U. S. 20.

Tate, an employee at the Fred Beck farm, had hired a truck driver to go to the B. E. McMillan farm at midnight for a load of hogs. The driver became suspicious and notified Douthrit.

After the hogs had been loaded, Douthrit, who had hidden at the farm, accosted Tate, who fled. Douthrit fired was unable to overtake Tate who went to a neighboring farm house. When a posse closed in on the farm house, Tate again attempted to escape but collapsed in a nearby cornfield.

Education Publication Has Study of Iowa Teaching Personnel

Results of an analysis of the teaching personnel in Iowa, made with a view toward remedying serious cases of under supply and over supply existing among Iowa teachers, were released yesterday as one of a series of University of Iowa studies in education.

The studies were begun in 1928, and have continued under the supervision of Prof. Everett F. Lindquist and Prof. Elmer T. Peterson, both of the college of education, who are working in cooperation with the state department of public instruction and other state educational organizations and institutions.

H. A. Jeep, '30, now a member of the Ball State Teachers college staff at Muncie, Ind., and M. F. Price, '29, now a member of the administrative staff of the Detroit, Mich., public schools, also cooperated in the research, and excerpts from their doctor's theses appear in the publication.

Although the present publication is a condensed statement of the four year analysis, complete results are now being compiled by the state department of public instruction for publication in the fall.

Securities in Rise as Mart Shows Action

Rails Take Leadership in Exchange After Merger Approval

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Security and commodity markets profited by the new urge to speculate for the advance today, the result being a rather general rise in prices.

Railroad stocks and bonds quite naturally assumed leadership on the stock exchange, for Wall street was attracted by approval of the eastern trunk line merger plan by the interstate commerce commission even if actual consummation may be some distance away. Oils also made a bid for favor.

Active Session

Shares closed somewhat under the best, with net gains of a point or so fairly plentiful. It was the most active session since early June when the market responded to announcement of the security-buying corporation sponsored by leading banks, and the net advance, averaging about a point, pushed prices virtually back to the top of that rally. Sales totaled 1,444,905 shares.

Rail stocks were hardly buoyant, although many carrier bonds earned that description. Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Baltimore & Ohio and Delaware & Hudson stocks forged ahead a point or two before meeting much opposition; some preferred equities in the transportation division did considerably better.

Shorts Cover

On the strength of this showing shorts covering appeared elsewhere, giving maximum boosts of 2 to 3 points to American Telephone, U. S. Steel preferred, People Gas and Auburn, Steel common, American Can, General Electric, Union Carbide, Du Pont, Atlantic Refining, Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, Woolworth, Consolidated Gas and North American were up from a fraction to a point net.

General Motors earnings were published coincident with the close. The corporation earned seven cents a common share in the second quarter and 24 cents in the first half year, which means that a sharp improvement must appear if the annual dividend at the present rate is to be covered in full. Cash and marketable securities were under a year ago, but the management maintained its traditional position of strong liquidity.

Bury Youth as Police Search

Slayer of Son-in-Law Still Missing in 3 Day Hunt

MALVERN, July 22 (AP)—While authorities continued to scour the hills and woods in this vicinity for Fred Cozad, 44, the body of his son-in-law, Gale Vandershule, 20, whom he shot to death Wednesday, was buried here today.

His widowed daughter, Mildred Cozad Vandershule, 18, and his wife were present at the funeral service with the family pastor.

Near collapse from the tragedy that shattered her high school romance, Mrs. Vandershule today expressed the opinion that her father would never be taken alive.

The shooting occurred Wednesday night when Cozad met the youth near a carnival. In an argument over Gale's refusal to go to the Cozad home in an attempt to effect a reconciliation with his wife, Cozad fired two shots, and then fled before a dozen witnesses could recover from the shock.

"I know father did not intend to kill him," Mildred said. When she told him that Vandershule had failed to keep an appointment with her that night he went to look for the boy. A quarrel had arisen between the youthful man and wife, who were married three months ago, over whether they should live with Vandershule's parents.

Talking Cow Part of State Fair Plan

DES MOINES, July 22 (AP)—A talking cow will tell visitors at the Iowa State fair this fall just what kinds of feed she likes and the kinds of results that may be expected under different feeding formulas. The cow will be one of the exhibits sent to the fair by the United States department of agriculture.

Others will include an exhibit showing common causes for losses in swine raising and ways to reduce them; the 1932 market requirements in lambs; results of experiments by the department in feeding beef cattle and grass and grain; and a consolidated study of pork production, giving a comparison of dry lots and pasture feeding.

Here's One for the Long Distance Traveler

The attractions of Canada's Mid-West National Parks and Summer Playgrounds

Mid-Western Canadian Provinces

The Great Plains region, a land of vast prairies and a great network of mighty rivers, has always held a lure for the traveller. There is a fascination about this region which rivals that of the desert but without the disadvantages of the latter; for the Canadian prairies show a rapid transformation from the red man's hunting ground, to the position of "Granary of the Empire." Here modern cities have arisen on what were frontier trading posts not many years ago. Here too may be enjoyed the advantages of the latest additions to Canada's great National Parks system—the Riding Mountain Park in Manitoba, and the Prince Albert park, in Saskatchewan.

The National Development Bureau, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Canada, has prepared a series of road maps, showing the main highways in the United States and Canada and connecting roads, which are exceptionally useful in planning a vacation tour. Mid-West Canada and the adjoining part of the United States is covered by a "Middle West" sheet. The Bureau also issues a number of booklets, of interest to the tourist and sportsman. Both the maps and booklets are gladly supplied free of charge. Applicants should be as specific as possible as to the particular provinces and districts in which they are interested in order that other useful information may be supplied.

Something New in Rackets

IF A DARK LOOKING individual approaches you on a dark night, pokes a cold, hard, glistening object in the vicinity of your ribs and says, between his teeth: "You're buyin' 1,000 shares of Capone Oil tomorrow, see? Or I'll put you on de spot," don't be alarmed.

News that the great Alphonse, late of the Chicago beer front and now summering at his Atlanta mansion — the gray stone one with the iron grillwork — is planning to purchase Col. Zack Miller's 17,500-acre ranch in Oklahoma — home grounds of the now defunct 101 Wild West shows — conjures up no end of delightful possibilities.

For Colonel Miller, last of the illustrious line, will retain only royalty interests in the ranch, which contains oils and minerals in great stores. You see, the Colonel needs the cash, Capone has it, so there is a great bargain in store — for Capone.

Anyway, the Capone syndicate, says Honest Miller on his way to talk business with Crook Capone, will be free to drill "wherever and whenever it pleases." The Sinclair and the Rockefeller must needs look to their laurels — or stock tickers — when Capone, preferred and common, gets on the market. Maybe there could even be a Chicago Policeman's Association of Capone Stockholders.

Mistreating Convicts

IT'S SURPRISING to one who lacks complete information about life in Florida prison camps and convict road gangs why there are so few reports reaching us of mistreatment of criminals except when three sudden deaths bring about a statewide investigation. And it is doubly strange why the head of the state prison board, who is responsible for launching the inquiry, took no action previous to this time, although he must have been familiar with conditions. If he didn't know what went on in the road camps over which he had jurisdiction, he wasn't performing his duty to the people of Florida.

We've heard about and read of life in Georgia and Florida convict camps, of floggings and chaining, and worse forms of brutal treatment, but we've thought they were so much sensational "copy" for magazine freelance writers who knew little or nothing about the situations. That impression came from hearing or reading of no state investigations into conditions mentioned by the writers.

If strangling a convict to death by locking him in a sweat box, fastening heavy chains about his neck, placing his feet in wooden stocks, is the modern and approved method of handling criminals and making them behave, then we'd better go the whole way and start eating naughty little children.

Von Papen's Choice

WHAT SEEMS LIKE a great chance for Chancellor von Papen to exert the iron fist in Prussia much in the Hohenzollern manner, at second glance is hardly more than a political gesture of the von Hindenburg regime.

The martial law in Prussia will be aimed at putting down the outbreaks between Communists and Hitlerites, hitting at the basic cause of recent disturbances. At the same time—if it is successful—the coup by the federal government will be a deciding factor in the July 31 Reichstag elections.

One of Hitler's constant declarations concerns his ability, and only his, to keep order in Germany, to quiet the warring political factions, to bring peace among the states. The more that assertion is pondered, the more von Hindenburg's move looms in the light of a political gesture.

The chief issue before the voters at the Reichstag elections will be whether Germany wants a strong federal government—supported strongly by the Reichstag—that will be able to keep peace in the country until it has a chance to fight its way back to prosperity.

Meanwhile, von Papen sits at the head of a new cabinet, formed out of the federal government, over Prussia. While he is apparently a dictator, he cannot hope to attain the meaning of that term that Germany knew prior to 1871. His only choice is to do the bidding of the people, in the last analysis, instead of his laying down the law.

An Eye on Britain

ALTHOUGH ostensibly convened for the purpose of setting the financial house of the British Empire in order, the economic conference at Ottawa commands the attention of the United States as well as other leading nations of the world. The welfare of 450,000,000 people is at stake as far as the Britons are concerned, while America's 124,000,000 is nothing to be sneezed at, either.

And while American observers hardly believe that the all-British conference will do anything to precipitate a tariff conflict with the United States, Washington had better keep one eye on Ottawa and the other on Canadian bacon, beef, cattle, grain, potatoes, dairy products, and maple sugar. Ottawa is out to protect its infant industries from the United States, and Washington is all for protecting its children from Canada.

Just as America has no desire to lose the $2,000,000,000 markets afforded by the British, the empire has little desire to lose the rich American markets, which at the peak, absorbed some $1,500,000,000 of her products. But right now Britain is "in the red"—her income from foreign investments and exports is far short of expenditures. The income of the United States from similar sources, on the other hand, exceeds the outlay for imports and services.

One reason why Ottawa is so utterly dependent upon the outcome of this conference for her economic safety is because of failure to reach an agreement with the United States on the tariff issue. Well, the upshot of the matter is that England is out to regain some of that waning allegiance from her satellite and at the same time divert as much as she can of the U.S. and other extra-British trade back within the folds of the empire. If anything like that should occur on a large scale, the United States may be sorry she didn't keep both eyes on Ottawa.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

Has it ever occurred to you that some day your mind would snap, that you would "go crazy"? Do you ever feel "queer"?

If you haven't, says Dr. L. Cody Marsh of Kings Park (Mass.) State hospital, you certainly are missing out on one of the worthwhile things in life. Dr. Marsh, by the way, is very much interested in "extra-mural psychiatry," a new departure as it were from ordinary psychiatry and allied sciences.

And so, Dr. Marsh conducts a school of research, a sort of halfway house between the insane asylum and the psychopathic hospital, where people can come and gather around a table and tell those creepy, scary, "fishy" sounding tales of mental bugaboos, while the doctor, of course, stands by and does the explaining. He is a so-called "debunker" of old-wives tales and other ghost stories.

But before a student can enter the "school" he must come within the following categories:

- 1—Normal persons with personality or emotional difficulties.
2—Those with psychoneuroses.
3—Those with history of psychosis who desire extra-mural assistance.
4—Those threatened with psychoses.
5—Those with vocational or social problems.
6—Parents, educators, and social service workers who desire a practical knowledge of mental hygiene.
7—Those who wish to know more about the art of living.

The trouble with most Americans, says Dr. Marsh, is that they attach a sort of stigma to the word "psychopathic" and fail to confide in the right kind of expert, best suited for particular kinds of mental ailments. That's why, in his school, Dr. Marsh enrolls "students," instead of admitting "patients."

In every home, says the doctor, there is a "hidden impressario" who casts everybody in a special role. For example, in one family, one member is cast as the spoiled child, one as the villain, one as the moody boy, or one as the goody-goody. This role is fixed at the age of six and, according to Marsh, neither hell nor high water can change it until the affected person leaves the family. Outside, and away from his home's "hidden impressario," the bad boy can come under the influence of a new "hidden impressario" and lead a new life.

It's all very complicated, of course, at first reading. Otherwise, if it were clear and simple to everybody, no one would enroll in Dr. Marsh's "school." But it sounds rational because everybody knows that such things occur, that people who change their environment change their lives, and Dr. Marsh wants to help those who can't seem to break away from the old power of the home that only leads them on to a weak and doddering old age, to say nothing of a frustrated life in the worst cases.

Well, there are lots of people who could use the treatment, but they could do lots better treating themselves. Ordinarily normal people, quite often, are afflicted with psychoses along certain lines—and they lack just the right sort of incentive to get rid of them. And everybody, we're told, is really not all there in the upper story, to some degree, varying with the individual. It seems like Dr. Marsh has a long, long way to go if he would cure everybody; there are too many among the afflicted who wouldn't be happy if there wasn't something wrong with them. So handy for bridge games, et cetera.

BEHIND THE SCENES

— IN HOLLYWOOD —

By HARRISON CARROLL STUDIO GOSSIP FILM SCANDAL SCREEN COMMENT

BOULEVARD TALK. Looks like a false alarm on the Harry Bannister-Nancy Lyon engagement. He is flying to New York to call for Europe. There's no question of waiting for a final divorce decree either. He and Ann Harding split via the Reno courts. Mechanics in Charles Bickford's garage are doing double duty these days. After fixing your car, they'll sell you neckties from the Bickford clothing shop. One clause which Irene Dunne insists on having in her new contract is a guarantee of time off to visit her husband in New York. The star was prepared to throw over her whole career if this couldn't be arranged. She and her doctor husband may take a vacation trip to Honolulu. Seems that Greta Nilsen didn't go to New York after all. Will Rogers is back at last and Fox will rush his picture into production. Saw Pauline Stark lunching at M.G.M. She's looking very smart these days. That yacht of Buster Keaton's is one of the largest in the film colony. He bought it at a bargain ($25,000). The sober-faced comedian will be at M.G.M. for at least two more pictures. He is a big bet in the European market. More evidence that the movies are going journalistic. Charles Rogers will produce a picture inspired by that recent senatorial investigation of the stock market crash. It will be called "The Billion Dollar Scandal," and will spin a story of rocketing finance among the big-wigs of the land. Conceiving the idea recently, Mr. Rogers called in Gene Towne and the two of them worked out the story during the course of a couple of week ends at Santa Barbara. Now scenarist Graham Baker has been called in to help prepare the screen treatment. As matters stand, "The Billion Dollar Scandal" will go into production upon the completion of "Madison Square Garden." It will be Rogers' third production of the year for Paramount, and will be directed by Harry Joe Brown. No cast has been selected as yet. People in Hollywood, says Gwll Andre, are not happy. The Danish beauty, who left an artist's model career in New York to come out here for a try at the talkies, made this confession recently to friends. She also said she doesn't find film parties very amusing. In spite of this, she likes the stars she has met and intends to stick to her career. That threatened breakdown of Lilyan Tashman wasn't as serious as first reports indicated. Hollywood's most daring style queen is well enough to accept a picture engagement in "Those Who Love." She replaces Evelyn Brent who withdrew from the cast at the last minute after an argument over billing. This is the picture in which Mary Astor makes her screen comeback. DID YOU KNOW— That Clive Brook got his first picture job in England because he could blow smoke rings?

British Government May Not Agree to Further Food Duties

Remark Acts as Shock for Delegations

Open Sessions Come to End in Discussion at Ottawa, Ont.

OTTAWA, July 22 (AP)—A chance suggestion that the British government will agree to no further duties on food-stuffs electrified delegates to the imperial economic conference today.

It came from Mrs. Walter Runciman, wife of the president of the British board of trade, during a routine interview with the press. She said in effect that the British consumer would not sacrifice free trade in staple foods to insure the success of an imperial economic unit. Because of her position as the wife of a cabinet member, a number of the delegates accepted her remark as semi-official.

It is especially significant, for the Canadian program, which soon will be presented in detail, is regarded as a suggestion that Great Britain impose a tariff on meat and wheat imported from countries outside the empire.

When he submitted the outline of his proposals yesterday Premier Bennett of Canada asked for extension of British preferences to Canadian imports in return for increased Canadian preferences to British manufactured goods. Great Britain has no tariff on wheat and meat, and until there is one no preference can be granted on those products in British markets.

Persons close to the United Kingdom delegation said there was a belief the specific results of the Canadian proposals on London's policy would include a British tariff on food products and preferential treatment for those imported from Canada. Neither the Canadian nor the British wheat trade favors a quota system for empire grain in British markets.

Therefore, it is argued, if Canada is to be repaid in kind for preferential treatment of British products, it must be through a British tariff system which will raise barriers against other exporting nations in favor of empire nations.

Presumably this situation will be discussed early in the negotiations of the several conference committees which were appointed today. The open sessions of this conference are over and the real bargaining will be done in committee. It is not likely there will be another open session of importance until the committees have something concrete to present.

Bonds "Ride" on Railroads

Carrier Loans Rise in Earlier Trading; Profits Show

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—The bond market took a ride on the railroads today and the excursion proved profitable for all concerned. Encouraged by the interstate commerce commission's approval of a proposed consolidation of eastern roads, carrier loans raised their prices in early trading and despite some later profit taking the majority held substantial gains at the close. The industrials were not far behind the rails in popularity and the utilities more than held their own.

Diverse Opinion
While there was some diversity of opinion among railroad leaders as to whether the consolidation plan was practical at this time, the financial district was inclined to take the optimistic view. Gains of from one to around four or more points were recorded by most of the active carriers.

Industrials were led by the oils, issues of Pure Oil, Shell Union, Sinclair, Skelly and Texas corporation scoring substantial advances. Loans of International Telephone were heavily traded for net advances of more than a point and issues of American Telephone and Postal Telegraph steadied.

German Paper Gains
The foreign section was again supported by the German government department, the 5-1/2's and 7's gaining more than a point. U. S. Government obligations were fractionally higher as a whole, although registered treasury 3's were up more than a point.

Stocks Jump
The plan apparently met general approval in the securities markets. Railroad stocks jumped $1 to $3 per share and bonds rose $20 to $45 per $1,000 bond.

The presidents of the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central, the four systems promoting the mergers plan to meet in New York next Tuesday to consider it.

B. E. F. Gets New Lease on Crude Homes

D. of C. Commission Rescinds Orders to Evacuate

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—Members of the bonus army living in a shanty-town along Pennsylvania avenue were given a new temporary lease on their crude homes today by the District of Columbia commissioners, who rescinded previous orders to clear the area by midnight. Instructions to postpone the eviction were given to Superintendent of Police Glassford in an order which said the action was being delayed "on account of certain possible legal requirements."

Previously Glassford had informed leaders of the bonus seeking veterans that they must clear out and had received defiant refusal in return.

Act After Conference
The commissioners took action after lengthy conferences with Glassford, Colonel Grant, director of public parks, and other federal officials. There were indications it might be necessary to secure orders before proceeding with the evacuation.

The issuance of the new orders averted temporarily what threatened to become a sharply drawn issue between the bonus marchers and police.

Walter W. Waters, leader of the E.E.F. moved his headquarters into the disputed area and told his men not to "move an inch from the property you fought to protect during the World war."

"Stand Your Ground"
"All you have to do," he shouted, "is to stand your ground and let them arrest you. They can take you to jail, for we are not going to move an inch off this ground."

Meanwhile Roy W. Robertson, leader of the California contingent which has refused to ally itself with Waters, announced he expected all his men to be out of town by Sunday. Some of his men left today and others will follow tomorrow.

Rail Leaders Like Merger

See No Possibility of Putting Plan Into Practice Soon

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission's eastern railroad consolidation decision today was given wide approval by railroad leaders of the east, but all agreed that many months will pass before the plan can be made operative.

Chairman Couzens of the senate interstate commerce committee, who so far has approved none of the consolidation plans, joined in predictions that a "long time" would pass before the four great systems are finally formed. He declined to comment on details of the decision saying he would study them during the summer.

Stocks Jump
The plan apparently met general approval in the securities markets. Railroad stocks jumped $1 to $3 per share and bonds rose $20 to $45 per $1,000 bond.

The presidents of the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central, the four systems promoting the mergers plan to meet in New York next Tuesday to consider it.

Two executives who have been leaders in pushing the consolidation plan today declined to comment on the decision. At the Pennsylvania railroad offices in Philadelphia W. W. Atterbury, president of the company, declined to talk at this time.

Roosevelt to Begin Appeal in New Jersey

Demo Leader to Open 10 Weeks Travel, Vote-Seeking

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—In New Jersey, heart of the eastern industrial section and one of "Al" Smith's strongholds, Governor Roosevelt on Aug. 27 will launch his personal campaign for the presidency.

Democracy's standard bearer will begin 10 weeks of intensive traveling, speech-making and vote-seeking when he goes to Sea Girt, N. J., on that day to address a rally.

If the expectations of Jersey leaders hold true, 100,000 Democrats will greet their nominee on that occasion.

Hoover Opens Earlier
Sixteen days earlier President Hoover will have opened his own campaign with his speech of acceptance.

The Roosevelt announcement came from Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Smith's floor leader at Chicago, who has thrown the entire support of his Jersey organization behind the man he sought to defeat.

Persistent but unverified reports are that the seashore rally will be marked by a public reconciliation of Roosevelt and Smith.

All Smith's close associates would say about the prospects of his going to Sea Girt, where 100,000 hailed him in 1928, was:

"He had received no invitation yet." Meantime, James A. Farley, new national chairman and campaign manager, continued his drive to enlist the whole-hearted support of all who were on the Smith bandwagon.

Chairman in Massachusetts
From New Jersey, where he had eulogized Hague for his sportsmanship, the energetic Farley went to Massachusetts, which also sent a Smith delegation to Chicago.

In a hotel at Springfield he spent two hours with Gov. Joseph B. Ely, who placed the 1928 party leader in nomination last month. Ely is the only anti-Roosevelt leader not on record as a supporter of Roosevelt.

As they came from their session, Farley announced: "Governor Ely and I have gone over the situation very carefully and I have arranged for Governor Ely to meet Governor Roosevelt in Albany some day next week. After that visit Governor Ely will issue a statement."

Ely smiled and declined to say whether the announcement indicated an accord was imminent.

See Conflict Over Estate

Disagreement Rises in Naming Reynolds' Executor

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., July 22 (AP)—Two conflicting moves aimed at distribution of the late Smith Reynolds' estate came to light today.

W. N. Reynolds, uncle of the tobacco fortune heir, announced from Roaring Gap that he had been asked by Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, the widow, to act as executor of the 20 year old husband's estate.

Notified by Letter
Reynolds' statement came after he had received a letter from an unnamed New York legal firm notifying him one of its members had been appointed executor.

He said he had presumed, until he received word from Libby Holman that she wished him to act as executor, that she had retained the New York firm. He added he had not learned who employed it.

In Cincinnati, Alfred Holman, father of the former New York revue star and himself a lawyer, said:

"I am my daughter's only attorney."

Smith Reynolds, shot to death on a sleeping porch of his home here two weeks ago, was a minor when he died. Seven years hence he would have received a $15,000,000 share of his late father's estate.

Small Fortune
Young Reynolds' personal fortune was relatively small.

A court fight may be necessary to determine whether Libby Holman is entitled to dower rights in the $15,000,000 or solely in her husband's personal fortune.

Mrs. Reynolds under North Carolina law has 30 days from the date of her husband's death to apply for a letter of consent to act as executor. After 30 days, other members of the Reynolds family can apply.

Hold Pair in Girls' Death in Minnesota

Student of University Suicide, Coroner Announces

LAKE CITY, Minn., July 22 (AP)—Two men were held for questioning tonight by state and county officers investigating the mysterious deaths of two Rochester girls.

They were arrested at Plainview after a sister-in-law of Louise Prigge, a victim, told officers one of two men who called for Louise and Frances Polikowski Tuesday night lived there. She knew his first name, and said Louise went out with him occasionally.

Officers declined to reveal names of the men held. They planned to question them later. Plainview is 15 miles from the Prigge farm.

Accident Possibility
Inquest testimony of a midnight bathing party strengthened the belief of some officers that one or both girls died accidentally. At the same time a third death, that of Agnes Stevens, 22, of Melrose, Mass., a University of Minnesota coed, whose body was found 20 miles from where the other two were discovered, was ruled a suicide by Coroner Russell Edstrom of Goodhue county.

His formal verdict was that Miss Stevens, found dead in her automobile today by two fishermen, shot herself in the head with the pistol she still grasped. No inquest will be held.

Testifying during a short inquest session, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Buske, living on a farm near the Zumbro river, said two men and two women came to the stream Tuesday night and that all, clad only in under garments, entered the water.

Leave Tuesday Night
It was Tuesday night that the girls left the Prigge farm near Rochester, with two men. The body of Louise Prigge was found Wednesday night and that of Frances Polikowski yesterday. Both were clad in under garments only. The Buskes expressed the opinion the two girls were members of the laughing group they heard enter the water. They retired and did not hear them depart.

After a few other witnesses told of finding the bodies the inquest was recessed until next Tuesday because Rochester clinic specialists examining internal organs were not ready to report.

Ripley Explanations

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

The freezing paradox: To melt ice into water it is necessary to supply a definite quantity of heat, over 79 calories for every gram of water. The heat is absorbed or is rendered latent, causing no rise in the temperature of the water.

Conversely, when liquid water becomes solid the latent heat of fusion has to be dissipated. Thus water while freezing generates a quantity of heat amounting to 79 calories for every gram of water.

Summary of Iowa Demo Platform

DES MOINES, July 22 (AP)—Revision of the tax system including predatory levies, drastic reduction of governmental expenditures, agricultural relief and strict enforcement of the state's banking laws were advocated today in the platform adopted by the Iowa state Democratic convention.

In addition, to relieve and equalize the "ruinous burden" of taxation on real estate, the platform favors an income tax with sound exemptions, a sworn return by taxpayers on intangible property, and endorses the national platform in its entirety.

Must Aid Farm
Declaring there can be no return to permanent prosperity until agriculture is restored, the party advocates the agricultural plank of the national platform for better financing of farm mortgages through reorganized farm bank agencies at low interest rates on an amortization plan; effective control of surpluses; extension and development of the farm cooperative movement, and enactment of every constitutional measure that will aid the farmer to receive for basic farm commodities prices in excess of production.

The platform also urges cessation of reclamation projects, development of farms owned and controlled marketing agencies, equality for agriculture in world-wide market information and service, adoption of banking laws and a credit system adapted also to agriculture, encouragement of long term leasing of farm lands and reforestation of marginal lands.

Endorse Repeal
No specific mention was made of the prohibition question, other than that contained in the endorsement of the national platform.

Devoting considerable discussion to labor, the party pledges itself to legislation legalizing formation of union and collective bargaining, restriction of foreign immigration, use of Iowa coal and goods in state institutions, adoption of an old age pension, vocational training to meet the demands of technical progress, substantial reduction in the hours of labor and opposition to the present system of prison contract labor.

The platform endorses and pledges full support to the candidacies of Governor Roosevelt, Speaker Garner and state and congressional candidates and calls upon the latter to stand committed to a policy of eminent legislation that will prevent the drastic withdrawal of currency from circulation so that the dollar will have as nearly as possible uniform purchasing power.

To Enforce Preference Act
Condemning the Republicans for violation of the Iowa soldiers' preference law in spirit if not the "very letter," the party pledges itself to rigid enforcement of the law.

Setting forth the belief that high taxation rates are due to the fact that intangible personal property has either escaped taxation or proper assessment, the platform advocates a sworn statement on such holdings with an income tax provided if necessary to further relieve realty taxes.

government is urged on a departmental basis with direct responsibility upon the government.

Condemns Bank Policy
The platform condemns the policy invoked by the banking department "directing our banks to withdraw and withhold loans from Iowa farm lands and invest their funds in bonds prohibited and unauthorized under our banking laws." It declares this policy has deprived Iowa farmers of all "reasonable" credit and "has precipitated many of our banks into insolvency and our farmers into bankruptcy." Strict enforcement of the banking laws is urged relative to the banks' investments and deposits.

The platform states that the Democratic party declares that in large measure the ills suffered by the people are due "to an excessive tax burden caused by inefficiency and waste, to a complicated and expensive governmental machinery—both state and local—and to an unwise and ill-managed conduct and operation of our state banking department."

"Complete Overthrow"
The party concludes its statement of principles by declaring that "only by the complete overthrow of the group now in control of our state government and the substitution of competent leadership, can there be adopted and put into effective administration the changes and remedies necessary to bring the people needed relief."

Headed by William Riley of Des Moines, the resolutions committee labored from shortly before noon until 5:30 p.m. considering proposals before it.

Defer Action at Bedford Until Probe Goes Further

BEDFORD, July 22 (AP)—The coroner's inquest into the death of Thomas J. Allen, 26, young Taylor county farmer whose body was found buried in a shallow grave on his father-in-law's farm Wednesday, was continued indefinitely today.

Decision to defer action was taken shortly after funeral service was held for Allen. The delay will give authorities an opportunity to probe further into the mystery surrounding the death.

Allen's head had been crushed by blows of a heavy instrument, presumably a stone. Authorities want to find out why he was killed, where and by whom.

The scanty clues found about the burial scene gave little information that might lead to the answers of these questions. A spade presumably used for the burial, a few footprints, and stains believed to be blood found on the cross bars of a wagon used by Allen were the only evidence.

Eliza Jones, the father-in-law, was the last man known to have seen Allen alive. They went out Tuesday afternoon to repair a fence. Jones left for a short time and when he returned Allen was gone. Alarmed when Allen failed to return home that night, a search was instituted and the body found.

The inquest thus far has been confined to an examination of the body.

A short time later the grocer was found by his wife and mother-in-law shot to death in the back room of his store. Lower picture is a recent photo of the slain grocer and his wife. Police are conducting an investigation, being sceptical of the power of clairvoyants.
