GEORGE SALING WINS HURDLE TITLE

Legion Votes for Immediate Bonus Payment

Endorse Plan by Majority of Four to One

Mason City Man Will Take Post as State Head

FT. DODGE, Aug. 3 (AP) — Immediate payment of the soldiers bonus was endorsed by an overwhelming majority of delegates to the Iowa convention of the American Legion after a hot verbal battle today.

The convention voted 1,261 to 400 in favor of a minority report to this effect and instructed Iowa's delegation to the national convention in Portland, Ore., to support payment of the bonus.

Selection Assured

W. Earl Hall, managing editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette, and University of Iowa alumnus, was elected state commander by a wide margin. He had received the approval of the nominating committee and his selection earlier had been regarded as assured.

In the balloting Hall received 1,146 1-2 votes to 336 1-2 for Robert Shaw of Sigourney and 178 for William J. Rathke of Glenwood.

The bitter fight in convention on the bonus was carried to district caucuses which met for about half an hour in the afternoon. The balloting in the nine districts was one-sided for adoption of the minority report.

Previously the resolutions committee had rejected by a 7 to 2 vote a proposal favoring immediate cash payment of the bonus. Rex Fowler, Des Moines attorney, brought in the minority report.

Five former state commanders added their support to the forces opposing payment of the bonus. They were Chairman C. B. Robbins of the resolutions committee; Hartford MacNider, minister to Canada; Ray Murphy, George Pritchard and Maurice Cahill.

MacNider led the discussion against

Mercury Climbs Weather Ladder Five More Rungs

Slow but determined, the mercury yesterday climbed up five more rungs on the ladder. Little by little, it is showing signs of blistering again before the end of the month.

For the first time since the week end rain brought an end to last month's hot spell, the day was clear and there were not any clouds.

The highest temperature for the day was 87 degrees and it fell, by 7 p.m., to 76 degrees. All day a slight breeze blew from the southwest.

Lamont Quits Post as Head of Commerce

Marks Fourth Change in Hoover Cabinet Line-Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP) — Shifting his cabinet line-up for the fourth time in four years, President Hoover today accepted the resignation of Robert Patterson Lamont as secretary of commerce and immediately named Roy Dikeman Chapin of Detroit to fill the post.

Lamont's resignation was handed in, the president said, because of the necessity of his immediately re-entering private business. The Chicago engineer-financier was absent from the capital today and it was not known to what particular business he would devote his major time.

Detroit Man Appointed

Chapin, now chairman of the board of the Hudson Motor Car company, received word of his appointment during a conference with the president this morning, and was already en route back to Detroit when his name was publicly announced.

The 52 year old automobile manufacturer will assume his new duties next week in an apparently optimistic frame of mind as to the nation's economic outlook. In fact, he told newspapermen before his departure he believed the "chance in public psychology for which everybody has been praying" already had taken place.

"Business Prospects Better"

An energetic man of stocky build, Chapin said he told the president he believed "business prospects now seem better than at any time since the depression began."

Lamont, for years one of the chief executive's closest advisers, left no word in the capital as to his immediate plans. When he accepted his cabinet post in March, 1929, he was an officer or director of half a score of the nation's biggest corporations, one of which—the American Foundries company—he served as president since 1912.

Daily Iowan Music Critic Finds Strains of All-State High School Band 'Unusual'

By MARTIN BRUHL (Guest Music Critic, The Daily Iowan)

The kind of program, rich in diversity, for which the former dialists wait long, and usually in vain, reached listeners in tune with WSU's frequency at 8 p.m. yesterday, when the Iowa all-state band paraded across the etheral streets, in the opening concert under the direction of Prof. Charles Boardman Richter. It evidenced none of the distressing compromises of the moment, which so often operate to lower standards of professional band programs.

Last night the student band struck fire with the opening Tru Blue March by Kline, given with all the vitality and raciness of a

First National Bank to Pay First Dividend

$225,000 to Benefit Over 1,400 Persons

Payment Larger Than Those Made by Other Banks

More than 1,400 persons will be benefited by the payment within the next two weeks of a dividend of approximately $225,000 by the First National bank.

The amount represents a dividend of 40 per cent, the largest yet paid by any of Iowa City's five closed banks.

Word of approval of the payment was received yesterday morning by C. O. Craig, receiver for the bank, from the comptroller of the currency at Washington, D. C.

Represent 40 Per Cent

The dividend will represent 40 per cent payment on approximately $575,000, the amount of the claims which have been filed with the receiver and approved. Mr. Craig said yesterday that he has on hand approximately a quarter of a million dollars for which no claims have been filed.

The time limit for the filing of claims was set at June 19, but just claims will still be allowed, Mr. Craig said. He said that if all persons who have claims against the bank had filed them on time, the first dividend would have been nearly $500,000.

Payment Date Not Set

The exact time of payment of the dividend has not been decided and will not be known until the checks are received from Washington, Mr. Craig said.

The dividend will include payment on checking accounts, time and demand certificates, refused cashier's checks and drafts, and other items.

Signs Contract for Appraisal

Kansas City Firms to Assist in Survey of Water Plant

Mayor J. J. Carroll signed the contract with the Burns and McDonnell and the Haskins Engineering companies of Kansas City yesterday morning, authorizing them to proceed with an appraisal of the local water plant.

Two men representing these companies will arrive in Iowa City in a few days to meet with the two appraisers of the water company. These four will select a fifth man, and will then start the valuation of the water works.

Four councilmen, LeRoy S. Mercer, C. Rollin Sherok, Edward Sybil and Roscoe B. Ayers, returned yesterday from Des Moines where they spent the day in conference with Oscar Anderson, state budget director. As a result of the conference they will recommend at the next council meeting that the appraisers be paid out of city funds rather than by a bond issue.

If the council approves the transfer of funds from the corrected and cancelled assessments fund to the emergency fund, and if the budget director approves the shift, the city appraisers will be paid approximately $7,000 from the emergency fund.

Vets Gather Up Belongings to "Go Home"

"What Does He Mean, Home? We Have No Homes"

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 4 (Thursday) (AP) — The first contingent of B.E.F. left for Chicago, California and points between at 12:30 o'clock, eastern standard time this morning.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 3 (AP) — Bewildered and heartbroken, the bonus expeditious force gathered up its shabby belongings tonight under orders to "go home," but with many of its units determined to remain at their squalid suburban camp.

Camp McCloskey, where the veterans rallied after disorders in Washington last week, surrendered to the inevitable after being told of Doak Carter's resignation as chief of staff and Commander Walter W. Waters' order to disband.

Anxiety Apparent

Anxiety was apparent at the camp, official field staff headquarters in Mayor Eddie McCloskey's office and the police department as leaders of many units reported their forces were grumbling.

Mayor McCloskey addressed the veterans today just after Carter quit. He told them he will see that they are given transportation to their homes.

Barely had he left the camp, however, when disappointed veterans began shouting: "Who is McCloskey that he can put us out of Johnstown?" "What does he mean, 'home'? We have no homes."

Urges Men to Stay

Returning to the camp after the mayor had left, Carter urged the men to stay.

The mayor had told the crowd that they will be given passenger transportation to their homes through an arrangement he and several Johnstown business men have made with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He told the men Waters' orders are for them to leave and he urged them to "stick" with their commander and obey.

Steel Mills Will Furnish Transportation

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 3 (AP) — The Associated Press learned from an unimpeachable source tonight that the Bethlehem Steel corporation is furnishing the money to transport the bonus army to its home states.

Dies on High Tension Wires

Kalona Man Killed While Working on Power Line

Six thousand six hundred volts of electricity shot through the body of Walter Swartzendruber, 28, of Kalona, at 9:45 a.m. yesterday and instantly killed him.

Swartzendruber was a lineman for the Farmers Light and Power company. At the time of the accident he was removing a transformer from a pole in front of the W. G. Titus farm, two miles west of Sharon Center.

Touches High Line

The transformer, it is said, was already on the ground when Swartzendruber touched a high line carrying 6,600 volts of current. His left hand was grasping a metal brace which was fastened to the pole by long lag screws. The fact that the knuckles on his right hand and his left arm were burned led authorities to assume that the current passed through his body and was grounded through the pole, which was wet from the recent rain.

He was attended by Dr. J. L. Fry of Kalona. Fire Chief Herman Amish and Fireman Harley M. McNabb rushed from Iowa City with an inhalator, but resuscitation efforts were of no avail.

The body was taken to the Peter-son mortuary at Kalona. He is survived by his widow, his father, Chris C. Swartzendruber of Kalona, and three small sons.

OLYMPIC HIGH HURDLE CHAMPION

George Saling, the great University of Iowa hurdler, stepped away from his American teammates, Percy Beard and Jack Keller, in the 110 meter hurdle trials yesterday to win the second Olympic championship by an Iowa athlete in two days. His time of 14.6 seconds, while equalling the old Olympic record, was short of the new mark hung up by himself yesterday in 14.4.

Seabury Files Reply Against Walker Letter

Plays N. Y. Mayor in 20,000 Word Epistle

(By the Associated Press) NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Caustic charges of contradiction, evasion and falsification were directed tonight at Mayor Walker's defense of his administration by Samuel Seabury, who told Governor Roosevelt the New York mayor had proved himself "unworthy of belief" about his official conduct.

The Hofstadter legislative committee counsel, who spent a year and a half investigating the New York city government, reviewed the whole Walker case in a 20,000 word document.

Reply to Walker

It was his rebuttal to the mayor's defense of charges on which his removal has been asked.

"The record now before you clearly proves the mayor is guilty of the acts set out in the specifications," Seabury wrote, referring to his previous analysis of the evidence produced in committee hearings.

"I submit the matter to you for such action as may be just to him (Walker) and to the great public interests that are involved."

The dispatch of the document to Albany, where Governor Roosevelt ordered it made public, made more imminent a decision in the bitterly argued case.

Campaign Delayed

Although the governor has firmly stated no political consideration would influence his decision, his presidential campaigning has been delayed by the case and there has been widespread speculation about the effect the outcome might have on the state and national political situation.

Seabury dwelt at length on Walker's contention that the charges against him were not grounds for removal because they concerned his previous term. Seabury wrote: "Sorry Condition"

"It is a sorry sight indeed to see a person occupying high public office, whose honor is impugned, taking the position that the people must suffer him to continue in his public office because he was fortunate enough not to be caught in time."

Seabury made detailed rebuttal to every phase of Walker's defense.

Find Body of Missing Girl

Farm Girl, 17, Found Buried in Cellar; Suspect Held

LUDINGTON, Mich., Aug. 3 (AP)—Sheriff George Colyer of Mason county said in a telephone call tonight that Francis (Rusty) Nash had confessed he was the slayer of 17 year old Evelyn Sanford, whose body was found today buried in the basement of an unoccupied house in Freesoil.

LUDINGTON, Mich., Aug. 3 (AP)—Discovery of a brutal murder today brought to a tragic end the search for Evelyn Sanford, pretty 17 year old farm girl who disappeared from a lonely swamp road last Saturday night.

The girl's body was found buried head down in a narrow grave in the cellar of an abandoned house on the outskirts of the village of Freesoil, near which she lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sanford. Preliminary examination indicated she had been assaulted and strangled.

Police Hold Suspect The discovery came while police were holding a suspect a 31 year old bachelor, Francis (Rusty) Nash, who lived across a side street from the house where the body was found. Corporal Munger had taken Nash's home as the starting point of his successful search for the body.

Evidence of public feeling against the man immediately became apparent. State police at Manistee, where Nash is in jail, called for reinforcements after hearing reports that a mob was being organized secretly to attempt violence against him.

Pushed Head Downward Miss Sanford's body was pushed head first into a hole about six feet deep in the dirt floor of the cellar. A gunny sack had been placed over her head; her belt was around her neck, and a cord was tied about her face, as if it had held a gag. The legs and arms were trussed up behind the body, which was covered with sand.

Three physicians who performed the autopsy concurred in strangulation.

U. S. Far Ahead Cunningham of Kansas, who sped to victory in the fastest of the 1,500 meter qualifying heats, added further to the honors of the middleweight, while Bill Miller of Stanford, George Jefferson and Bill Graber of Southern California were placing 1-3-4 in the pole vault, and John Anderson and Henry LaBorde were garnering first and second in the discus to contribute to the 70 points picked up by the United States during the day's record breaking competition.

Children Contribute 800 Jars of Canned Food to Unemployed

Enough canned food to supply every unemployed person in Iowa City with two quart jars of eatables was turned over to the social service league yesterday morning.

Approximately 800 quart and half gallon jars filled with every type of vegetable and fruit were turned in at the Pastime theater yesterday as admission by children attending a special show prepared by Albert Dunkel, manager.

So large was the crowd, which started gathering at 8:30 a.m., that two shows had to be given. The food will be stored for distribution in the winter.

Perhaps... It's an old davenport, or a baby's crib, or a shotgun...

Whatever it is, someone of the Iowan readers will turn it into cash for you.

Tells Lions of Nation's Rise Once Backward Turkey Now Modern, Says Dr. Kalfayer

The development of Turkey from its former backward state to its present civilization was traced by Dr. Armen Kalfayer at the weekly meeting of the Lions club at the Jefferson hotel yesterday.

Dr. Kalfayer, following graduation from Roberts college in Turkey, came to this country, where he took a master of arts degree at the University of Iowa in 1926. He received his doctor of philosophy degree here this summer.

"Before 1919 the Turks had no word for progress," he stated. "They were an easy-going, backward nation. The Turkish man scorned labor, and the women were kept in seclusion at their homes."

He explained that most of the men were on the pay roll of the state, the church, or the army. The Christians did all the work and were taxed to support the government and the Turkish population.

At the present time, with the new government in force, Turkey is becoming a modern nation, has adopted the western alphabet, has emancipated the women, and has made its cities sanitary.

Dr. Preston Brown was the only guest at the luncheon.

New Claim to Wendel Millions By "Son" of Secret Marriage

Scotch Claimant to Vast Fortune of New York Recluse Reveals Unsuspected Romance in Eccentric Family.

JOHN G. WENDEL'S "MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE"

NEW YORK — Like a chapter out of fiction is the latest development in the great legal battle for the millions of the late Ella Wendel, New York recluse, who in life didn't have a relative, but in death has more than a Mormon elder.

From Dundee, Scotland, has come the new character to monopolize the spotlight in the great drama which promises to be more sensational than any fictional parallel ever produced on the stage. He is Thomas Patrick Morris, who, to the utter consternation of the 6,000 or so other claimants to the vast estate, claims to be sole heir to Ella Wendel's $75,000,000.

Morris, according to his story, is the son of John Gottlieb Wendel, brother of Ella, by a secret marriage, which fact, if borne out by evidence he proposes to submit, places him within the third degree of blood relation to the last of the Wendel line and makes him the legal next of kin to the late multi-millionaire spinster.

Claiming that his rightful name is Thomas Patrick Wendel, the dour Scotsman from Dundee told a tale that not only sounds feasible, but, he insists, is supported by documentary proof, including papers purporting to be a will, a marriage certificate and several letters.

Morris' story is that John Gottlieb Wendel married Mary Ellen Devine of Edinburgh, Scotland, at Castle Garden, N. Y., in 1876. The marriage was kept secret, Wendel fearing the opposition of his eccentric sister. Religious differences that sprung up between Wendel and his secret bride resulted in the latter leaving him and returning to her native Scotland, where Thomas Patrick, her son, was born on Jan. 3, 1880. Thomas was brought up by foster parents, Peter and Margaret Morris in Dundee — that is how he accounts for never having assumed the name Wendel, to which he says he is entitled. He never saw his father until he was five years old, when John G. Wendel came to Scotland and visited him at the Morris home. After that, Wendel came every year. After these annual visits, says the claimant, the Morris family was always supplied with money.

Morris came to New York in 1906 and met John Wendel who took him to the Fifth avenue mansion of his wealthy sister Ella. But the eccentric spinster would have none of him. So he left his father and went out west, where he worked in mines, painting and all kinds of odd jobs.

The Caledonian claimant to the Wendel millions has been twice married. His first wife, after bearing him five children — all of whom are living — ran away from him. On hearing of her death several years later, he married Mary Flynn, in Florida, with whom he is now happily living.

Among the exhibits which Morris, or Wendel, introduced in support of his claim is a marriage certificate, yellowed with age, which reads: "John G. Wendel, of New York, and Mary Ellen Devine, of Edinburgh, were united in Holy Matrimony on June 11, 1876. (Signed) James F. Calhoun, Pastor, Castle Garden, N. Y." The document bears the signatures William C. Swigert and Louise Schmidt.

Also in Morris' possession is a book which he says was given him by his father. It is called "The Blockade of Phalsbourg" and was published in 1870.

Detroit Man Seeks to Annul Marriage With Dubuque Girl

DETROIT, Aug. 3 (AP)—Seeking annulment of his marriage to Mary Bradley, 20, of Dubuque, Ia., James W. Anderson testified today in court that the girl's mother persuaded him to marry.

Anderson said he was a sophomore in the University of Michigan at the time. He returned to Detroit, where his father is a manufacturer, he said, and since seen his wife only once.

Circuit Judge Dewitt H. Merriam said he believed Mrs. Anderson should be represented by her next best friend and directed Anderson's attorneys to file briefs on this point.

Praise Iowa Plan
MUSCATINE, Aug. 3 (AP)—The five-day week schedule with a five per cent wage increase, instituted by the Iowa Pearl Button company has been commended by President Hoover. In a letter to O. A. Hamer, head of the company the president said: "You have certainly adopted a sound plan. It is most encouraging."

I.O.O.F. Meets

One Tarantula Is Too Many, But a 1,000—!

One tarantula by itself is popularly supposed to strike fear into the hearts of all who have much to do with it. But a thousand! Anyway, there are about 1,000 of the spiders, just hatched out from a large ball of eggs contained in a fruit jar owned by Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of the university museum. They are now on exhibition, along with a large tarantula, in the museum laboratory in natural science building.

In 1900, on the fly leaf of the volume is a letter of instructions, signed "John G. Wendel," which tells the story of his marriage and the subsequent quarrel with his bride. And on the back fly leaf there is a will, also signed "John G. Wendel," bequeathing the testator's entire property to Thomas Patrick Morris.

That's Morris' story and he'll stick to it. So would all of us if sticking meant a gift of $75,000,000.

Yesterday's Winners to Go on Their Party This Afternoon

There were 10 kids yesterday who had one big time swimming at the Big Dipper. Rides in two cars to and from the pool, two hours of fun swimming and learning to swim in the cool water, and lots of ice cream after the swim; yes sir, there were comes for everybody.

You boys and girls who live in the neighborhood of those kids who went on yesterday's swimming party just ask them how much fun they had—they'll tell you!

Ripley Explanations

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

Chopin's cell in Mallorca: Almost a hundred years ago (in 1838) the Carthusian monastery of Valdemosa, behind Miranor, sheltered the famous Polish composer Frederic Chopin and the Baronne de Dudevant, whose literary name was George Sand. Here Chopin composed the swan song of his genius, the "Thirteenth Nocturne," and Madame Sand wrote her "Spicidon."

Parisian society compelled them to this unconventional flight, and after almost a hundred years Mallorca is proud to have housed the couple, the most famous sojourners the land ever had.

The "little garden of oranges and lemons" is still there, and it was there that I sketched the authentic cell of the famous couple.

A giant of Corsica: The 7 feet 6 inch giant in my cartoon is the head of the village of Calasima. This village, situated on the slope of Monte Cinto in the valley of Niolo, Corsica, deserves more than passing notice in the "Believe It Or Not" series. It is known as the "Village of the Giants" for harboring a very curious race of men. Every male inhabitant in this village is at least 7 feet tall, while the average stature is 7 feet 2 inches.

They are said to be descended from the Herculean Goths who settled here during a great migration about 1,600 years ago. Owing to the great isolation of the village the race has been kept free from intermarriages with the outside. It is curious that in spite of continuous inbreeding the race has not deteriorated for many centuries.

Tomorrow: "The Ghostly Horseman."

Iowa R.O.T.C. Unit Wins First Honors in Ft. Crook Competition

First in automatic rifle, machine gun, and pistol firing is the record set by the University of Iowa R.O.T.C. infantry unit which recently broke camp at Ft. Crook, Neb., after its summer training period.

Individual honors for high rifle score in the university outfit went to Mark Heskett of Sanborn, while Franklin Stempel of Macedonia captured the camp honors in the pistol fire.

Approximate ammunition consumption for the entire camp, as computed yesterday by Capt. Roy Rickard of the military department, was: rifle, 55,100 rounds; automatic rifle, 6,000; machine gun, 43,500; pistol, 14,500.

Scheduling of the touring Dublin team gives the university its feature debate for the 1932-33 season, Professor Baird said. No date yet has been set, but the invaders probably will appear during October's final week.

Oxford university of England inaugurated the foreign series in 1924 and the next year Cambridge sent a crack team here. In 1931, another Oxford duo came into the middle west, as did a team from Robert college of Istanbul, Turkey.

Iowans faced the Englishmen from Cambridge also in 1927 and 1930, the Australians from Sydney in 1927, and a picked team from German universities in 1930.

Mid-West Rivals Booked
In December and March, state university speakers will attempt to win the Western conference championship. The schedule sends them against Purdue and Indiana in December and Wisconsin and Minnesota in March, according to Professor Baird.

The Celts will be making their first appearance on the university campus, but international clashes are no novelty to Iowa audiences, for this will be the ninth within the last seven years.

SKIPPY—Turn About's Fair Play

Rule Plan for Moratorium Meets With State Approval

MASON CITY, Aug. 3 (AP)—A. L. Rule's plan for a moratorium on farm and home mortgage foreclosures is being accorded wide approval in Iowa, the nominee for state senator said today.

Correspondence he has received concerning the proposal, which would allow the present owner, if he could not meet payments, to remain on his farm to act as receiver under court supervision, indicates, Rule declared, that a similar project may be introduced in the legislatures of adjoining states, as it probably will be in the coming session of the Iowa assembly.

Willing to Help
Farm organizations and others interested have expressed a willingness to help in working out the plan. Letters from persons in other states have asked an outline of the proposition and conferences about it.

"The plan is not completely developed and the sole purpose at present is to obtain views of all parties interested, in order to formulate a plan that will protect both mortgagee and mortgagor, and give the home owner an opportunity to hold on until there is an improvement in conditions," Rule said.

Similar Plan
"Many of the first mortgage holders have used a very similar plan under an agreement with the owner of the farm, but in many instances the holder of the mortgage has forced the owner to give up the property on the first defaulted interest."

"On the other hand, there have been many instances in which the owner of the land has made a lease to some other person, and then assigned the lease to some innocent third person for the purpose of getting what he could, and letting the land go.

"There has also been considerable difficulty where the second mortgage holders, who really have no equity in the property, have forced the owner of the land to turn over the crop for the benefit of the second mortgage, and permit taxes and interest to fall upon the holder of the first mortgage, which act, in turn, finally compels the owner to give up his property.

Unfair Loss
"There are many second and third mortgages in existence, which represent the fictitious profit or paper profit of the land boom of 1919, and it is unfair to throw this paper profit of the speculator into an actual financial loss to the land owner or the first mortgage holder."

If a plan for mortgage foreclosure extension is not adopted, it will mean that a large number of Iowa farmers will lose their properties, Mr. Rule pointed out.

"If some such plan as we are considering is not carried out, it will mean that the individual farm owner who has taken this land subject to fictitious profits of 1919 will be deprived not only of his land, but of years of labor and improvements that he has placed on it," he declared.

Useless Hope
"It is useless to hope that land which was sold for $250 to $500 and actually worth from $100 to $150 an acre can pay out the speculative profit between $150 and $500. Certainly this speculative profit should not be taken at the expense of the farm owner and occupant who has spent the last 12 years improving and developing the property, and leave him and his family at his advanced age to be turned out without anything upon which to depend for a livelihood."

ably will appear during October's final week.

Hugenberg's "Kaiserism" Appeal Step Towards German Monarchy

Speech of Nationalist Leader, Urging Germans to Seek "Place in the Sun," Seen as Bid for Return of Hohenzollerns.

EX-KAISER WILHELM

EX-CROWN PRINCE WILHELM

DR. HUGENBERG

PRES. VON HINDENBERG

BERLIN—Following so closely upon the heels of Adolf Hitler's recent threat that democracy in Germany will soon be a thing of the past, the strong call for the return of "Kaiserism" issued by Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the nationalist party, in a public speech at Koenigsberg, East Prussia, is not without its significance.

The Hugenberg and Hitler forces have long been allied and jointly dedicated to putting the Fatherland back in her "place in the sun" from which she was so rudely ousted during the World war. And the recent move by Chancellor Von Papen in establishing a dictatorship over Prussia is seen by keen observers as the first step in that direction—which means the ultimate restoration of the monarchy in Germany.

Lauds Kaiserism
Hugenberg, who was privy councillor under the old monarchial regime, has stated on many occasions that "Kaiserism" is the country's safest guaranty for a clean, strong and righteous state. He further declares that the real German manhood will never be developed until universal military training, forbidden by the Treaty of Versailles, is re-established, adding that German youth demands discipline and leadership which can only be had under the old militaristic order.

Not so long ago Viscount Rothermere, famous English publisher and one of the keenest political observers of European affairs, predicted that the Hohenzollerns would be holding the reins in Germany before the end of 1932.

Germany Resentful
After three years of studying the German situation, Rothermere stated frankly that the German people were growing increasingly resentful against the republican form of government under which they have lived since the revolution of 1918.

It is the impotence of the republic, he declared, which has led to the present situation.

perity that preceded the abdication of the kaiser. They would welcome a masterful hand on the helm of state, believing in their desperation that all their economic ills would fly out the window when a kaiser comes in the door.

The question now is not will the monarchy return, but who will be the next kaiser? It is thought unlikely that Wilhelm will come back from his exile at Doorn, so the best bet is former Crown Prince Wilhelm.

Irish Debaters to Argue Iowa in Meet Here

Baird Announces Event Scheduled for October

Irish blarney versus Iowa arguments will be heard on the University of Iowa debate rostrum late in October.

Principals in the international battle of words will be a team from the University of Dublin and speaker from the state university, it was announced yesterday by Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of debate.

The Celts will be making their first appearance on the university campus, but international clashes are no novelty to Iowa audiences, for this will be the ninth within the last seven years.

Irish Feature Schedule
Scheduling of the touring Dublin team gives the university its feature debate for the 1932-33 season, Professor Baird said. No date yet has been set, but the invaders probably will appear during October's final week.

Oxford university of England inaugurated the foreign series in 1924 and the next year Cambridge sent a crack team here. In 1931, another Oxford duo came into the middle west, as did a team from Robert college of Istanbul, Turkey.

Iowans faced the Englishmen from Cambridge also in 1927 and 1930, the Australians from Sydney in 1927, and a picked team from German universities in 1930.

Mid-West Rivals Booked
In December and March, state university speakers will attempt to win the Western conference championship. The schedule sends them against Purdue and Indiana in December and Wisconsin and Minnesota in March, according to Professor Baird.

Sportively Speaking

When George Saling added his Olympic high hurdles championship to the one won by Ed Gordon in the broad jump Tuesday, the University of Iowa gained that which no other school represented in the Games achieved, two titles, except for the astounding achievements of the little dusky flash from Detroit and formerly of the University of Michigan, Eddie Tolan, when he raced to double victory in the sprints, capped by his record performance in the 200 meter race yesterday.

While some folks may wonder as the reason for the comparatively slow time of 14.6 seconds in which Saling outtraced his teammates, Percy Beard and Jack Keller, the experts expected such according to Ted Husling of the Columbia broadcast chain. All of the finalists having completed in two trial races the day before, in one of which the Hawkeye was credited with a new Olympic mark of 14.4 seconds, the experts predicted that the time would be slower in the finals, the strength of timber-toppers being at low ebb.

The Iowan's great victory yesterday is a fitting climax to his spring and summer of record breaking achievements, during which he set a new world's record of 14.1 seconds in the 120 yard high hurdles at the National meet in Chicago and later bettered the world mark for the 110 meter distance, speeding to victory in 14.3 in the sectional tryouts here. But his competition is not yet concluded for the summer. First in the British-American games at San Francisco, Aug. 14, he will run on the U. S. shuttle hurdle relay team. Later in the post-Olympic meet at Soldiers' field in Chicago he will run the 110 meter event and possibly attempt for a record in the 400 meter race.

That the United States will hold its track and field championship is a foregone conclusion now. When Saling, Beard and Keller in the hurdles, and Tolan, Simpson and Metcalfe in the 200 meters swept to victory yesterday in 1-2-3 order, when Miller, Jefferson and Garber finished 1-3-4 in the pole vault, and finally when Anderson and LaBorde took the first two places in the discus, the total of Uncle Sam was greater by 70 points. The U. S. score is far out of reach of foreign competition now, the grand total reading 151.

Babe Dridickson, the Dallas, Tex., super girl athlete, made her second competitive appearance at the Games yesterday and hung up her second world record performance, racing to victory in one of the 800 meter hurdle preliminaries in the time of 11.8 seconds. Previously she had tossed the javelin more than 10 feet beyond the former record to win that event. The women aren't letting the men run away from them in the matter of record breaking. In the four events in which they have competed so far, they have registered new marks in all of them, including Miss Dridickson's amazing efforts.

Ruffing Falls in Tight Mound Duel; Ruth Fails to Hit

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (AP) — With Ted Lyons out-pitching Charley Ruffing in a 10-inning hurlers' duel, the Chicago White Sox took the series opener from the New York Yankees 3 to 2 today.

In addition to holding the Yankees to six hits, Lyons doubled in the eighth and eventually scored the tying run as the result of Funk's sacrifice and Hayes' long fly. The Sox scored their winning run in the same manner with Blue doubling, advancing to third on Grube's sacrifice and scoring on pinch hitter Fothergill's long fly to Chapman.

Only in the fourth inning did the Yanks threaten Lyons. Then Sewell singled, Ruth walked and both scored on Chapman's one base blow. The victory was the former Baylor university star's sixth triumph of the season.

Ruffing, trying for his thirteenth victory, held the Sox to eight hits but his mates were unable to hit Lyons. Ruth failed to get a hit in two official trips to the plate.

Thomas gave Detroit but five hits, one of them a double by Rhel that sent in the winning run in the sixth. Washington collected an even half dozen hits off Sorrell. Three of these were combined in the second inning to produce the only Senator run.

Grimm Gets Pledge From Cub Players

Plans No Great Change in Training Rules, Team Lineup

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (AP) — Elwood English, star shortstop, today was named captain of the Chicago Cubs, succeeding Charley Grimm, who replaced Rogers Hornsby as manager.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3 (AP) — Loyalty to the new boss of the Cubs and best wishes for the departing manager as he prepared to leave for the west were expressed today by members of the Chicago National League team.

Rogers Hornsby, deposed yesterday by President Veck, saying good bye to the players, told them he hoped they would win the pennant and the world series.

The Rajah said he had only the best of feeling and good wishes for his successor, Charley Grimm.

Receives Loyalty Pledge
Grimm, still elated over his sudden elevation to the managership, called his players together today and received their pledge of loyalty. Rain caused postponement of today's game with the Phillies, giving the new chief time to think over the plans for the Cubs' campaign for the remainder of the season.

The new leader said he contemplated no changes in line-up or training rules.

"Rog wasn't unreasonable in his training demands," said Grimm, "and I don't intend to make any changes at all."

Grimm said the club has not been hitting as it should, but if the players get going they would be in the pennant fight at the finish.

Various Reports
There were various reports regarding the real cause of the Rajah's being deposed as manager.

"Yes, there was some discussions about the way the team should be handled on the field," said Hornsby, "but when I'm the manager I run the team. That's all I have to say. Some one else should do the talking."

"I'm going home to my farm and take life easy. I won't play ball again this season because the Cubs have to pay me in full for the year. I don't have to do a thing but collect my salary."

Olympic Win Tops Career of Ed Gordon

Former Iowan, Once Frail Lad, Takes 19th Victory

The Olympic championship yesterday was the most prized personal possession of a 23 year old Negro youth, Edward L. Gordon, who last year finished his competition as a University of Iowa broad jumper.

Eighteen other major titles were won because his lanky legs catapulted him consistently around the 25 foot mark in the last five years and in 1928 he was an American Olympic team member at Amsterdam.

Wins National Titles
To him, as a tribute to consistency and ability to come through in the blazing crucible of competition, went three national collegiate crowns, two National A.A.U. senior titles, and champions at relay carnivals and in Big Ten meets.

But at Los Angeles Tuesday he confounded the track experts by soundly and surprisingly whipping the world's best leapers, including Nambu of Japan, whose world record of 26 feet 2 1/8 inches was accepted last week; Cator of Haiti, the only other man who has exceeded 26 feet; and Barber of Southern California, winner of the final American trials. His first jump, 25 feet 3 3/4 inches, was the winner.

Gordon is one young man who is glad he followed his father's advice. Nine years ago, George, Sr., surveyed his 14 year old son, worried about his spindly physique—115 pounds on a six foot frame—and suggested that he try athletics.

Father's Advice Works
The prescription worked. In high school at Gary, Ind., he became a good track man, especially in the hurdles, and gained weight and strength. When he came to the University of Iowa in the fall of 1927, he weighed 180 pounds and was 6 feet 2 inches tall.

Coach George T. Bresnahan shifted him to the broad jump. And so another prescription was successful, for now Gordon is champion of the world and the first University of Iowa athlete to win an Olympic first place.

Bees Nip Moline
BURLINGTON (AP) — Claude Passeau lost his first game of the season tonight as the Bees came from behind to take their fourth straight victory and the second of the series from Moline, 4 to 3. The winning run was scored in the ninth inning when Blenkiron singled with one out, stole second and third and scored on Jackson's tap to the pitcher.

Wipes Out Old Mark
The new champion wiped out the former Olympic mark of 13 feet 9 1/2 inches, made four years ago by Sabin Carr, former Yale star. Meanwhile Graber had to be content with fourth place. The Southern California and American champion did 13 feet 7 1/4 inches while George Jefferson, the third American entry, cleared 13 feet 9 inches to clinch third place. The discus throw was just one success.

Wins National Titles
To him, as a tribute to consistency and ability to come through in the blazing crucible of competition, went three national collegiate crowns, two National A.A.U. senior titles, and champions at relay carnivals and in Big Ten meets.

But at Los Angeles Tuesday he confounded the track experts by soundly and surprisingly whipping the world's best leapers, including Nambu of Japan, whose world record of 26 feet 2 1/8 inches was accepted last week; Cator of Haiti, the only other man who has exceeded 26 feet; and Barber of Southern California, winner of the final American trials. His first jump, 25 feet 3 3/4 inches, was the winner.

Gordon is one young man who is glad he followed his father's advice. Nine years ago, George, Sr., surveyed his 14 year old son, worried about his spindly physique—115 pounds on a six foot frame—and suggested that he try athletics.

Father's Advice Works
The prescription worked. In high school at Gary, Ind., he became a good track man, especially in the hurdles, and gained weight and strength. When he came to the University of Iowa in the fall of 1927, he weighed 180 pounds and was 6 feet 2 inches tall.

Coach George T. Bresnahan shifted him to the broad jump. And so another prescription was successful, for now Gordon is champion of the world and the first University of Iowa athlete to win an Olympic first place.

Bees Nip Moline
BURLINGTON (AP) — Claude Passeau lost his first game of the season tonight as the Bees came from behind to take their fourth straight victory and the second of the series from Moline, 4 to 3. The winning run was scored in the ninth inning when Blenkiron singled with one out, stole second and third and scored on Jackson's tap to the pitcher.

Wipes Out Old Mark
The new champion wiped out the former Olympic mark of 13 feet 9 1/2 inches, made four years ago by Sabin Carr, former Yale star. Meanwhile Graber had to be content with fourth place. The Southern California and American champion did 13 feet 7 1/4 inches while George Jefferson, the third American entry, cleared 13 feet 9 inches to clinch third place. The discus throw was just one success.

CHAPTER FIFTY-FOUR

Robin moved toward him slowly, serious dark eyes, studying the grand-dad who didn't look like anyone he had ever seen before.

"He's got a good head," her father said, taking the little boy on his knee. "Gets that from your mother's side. I wouldn't say he had any of the Sargent in him, unless it's kind of around the mouth and chin."

"Does he—look so much like me?" she faltered. "Why nobody else—nobody ever... Robin, darling, go out in the hall to Marie. She's waiting just outside the door. And come back in 15 minutes, to us? And then grand-dad and you and I will go home!"

"Goodbye, grand-dad—"

"Goodbye, sir!"

"I've always said he was adopted, you know," she continued, still a little unsteady. "It seemed the best way."

"You've changed," she said finally.

"So have you."

"I'm older. I've done what I started out to do."

"I always knew you would. I was never surprised when your name flared in the headlines, and I read about you in magazines and things. It was fate—"

"Fate! It was hard work! Oh, Ken, it's been hard. You don't know. I couldn't tell you. Besides... what does it matter. It's all over. Sit down—tell me about yourself."

"Not much to tell. It's you who—"

"Who made the front page? No—I saw your name in the papers often enough. I saved the clippings—"

"Nothing to my credit," he said.

"Oh! Some would think so. But tell me. If you did read about me, didn't you think I might have liked to hear from you? A word of congratulation—a line—something? That was hard to take, Ken—"

"She had not meant to say that. It slipped out."

"Hard to take! After you left me flat!"

"I'm flattered that you think I did. All these years I've had to live down the hurt of having been left—"

"The look in his eyes stopped her. She was suddenly too tired, too spent after the performance, the emotion of meeting him, her father, everything, to go on."

May and Bess were disgusted, simply disgusted to hear that Ken and Lily Lou were married again.

"My goodness, NOW! When she's got her career in her hands! She should have stayed with him in the first place if she wanted him. Oh, it just makes me SICK!" May said.

"Well, if she's happy..." Bess said doubtfully.

"Yes, but it isn't even as if he had amounted to anything! Raymond got the low down on the whole thing. Didn't I tell you that Ken broke with his father right after Lily Lou left for the east the first time, and acted perfectly disgracefully down there in South America? Raymond says he BOASTED about going down there to drink himself to death... yes, I know he doesn't drink now, I'm just telling you what this fellow told Raymond."

"But Lily Lou said he'd made a big success with his coffee plantations. She said distinctly that he did all that by himself, without any help from his father and that, was why she was so proud of him!"

"Oh, fudge!" May said. "Is there any class in a coffee plantation? Shipping coffee? If he wanted to do shipping why didn't he stay with his father, and have all that capital in back of him? Here he is nothing but a shipper when all the time he could have been in his father's office!"

"You've got Ken Sargent—here—out by the—"

"Yes, out by the stage door. He didn't want to come in, but I told him sure, why not? I run into him as he was leaving. Right out on the sidewalk. He's changing a whole lot, Lily Lou. Kind of lost that way he used to have that grating on me. He seemed kind of blue, walking along by himself, so I spoke to him. I hope you don't mind—"

"Don't mind... oh, no... no. It doesn't matter. Is he coming in? Here?"

"Unless he's got tired of waiting. I kind of forgot him. Guess I'd better go along. Maybe I'll come see you at the hotel tonight. That is, if you aren't busy—"

"Oh, no. I'm not busy. Do come—"

"Or if you change your mind, I'm staying over at the Travelers' Hotel on Mission street. I figured I'd stay over tonight."

"Yes—I'll call you. I'll—All right, dad—goodbye till then—I'll see you tonight—"

She went to the mirror, looked at herself anxiously. It was too late to change. She had better receive Ken this way, in makeup—with some of the thick of it wiped off. It didn't matter anyway. It was really quite funny... quite funny.

"Come in!" she said.

"He stood in the doorway."

He was, as her father said, changed. She bit her lip. An old, nervous habit, forgotten years ago...

"It was nice of you to come," she said, looking at his broad shoulders, his tanned face, his whole alien being.

He took her hand. "It was nice of you to let me come. I would not have intruded, but your father—"

"Yes—he told me."

"I've been to every performance, of course. But I wouldn't have intruded—"

"No, of course not," she murmured, scarcely conscious of what she was saying. There seemed to be nothing left to say.

Here she was, and here he was, stood between them.

"It doesn't matter." She walked over to the dressing room, dabbed at her brimming eyes. Remembered that she was still in makeup, and any minute Marie would be back with Robin... with Robin...

"You may as well know that I have a little boy—five years old."

He stared at her.

"You mean that you, that you have—"

"Yes. You and I. I called him Robin."

He was silent for so long that she couldn't bear it. He shouldn't take it that way. What right had he to look at her as if she had robbed him, when it was all his fault, when he had left her alone, to work and fight—

"You had no right to keep that from me!"

"But you—but I—"

She was too tired. She couldn't tell him. "Ken, don't you see that I—that I couldn't—"

"Lily Lou—darling—"

He lifted her in his arms, rocked her as she used to rock the Bubbchen, crooning over her, whispering the foolish endearments of long ago. And she wept, and clung to him, and wanted to talk, to explain, to ask questions... but she was too tired... and anyway, what was the use, when they were together again?

Bessie worked on the sock she was darning. "Well, it's taught me something. I'm going to let my kids live their own lives. Here we broke our necks to make an opera singer out of Lily Lou and all she wanted was that Ken Sargent."

"And Ken's father broke his neck to keep them apart and take Ken in the business, and after five years they're together again and Ken's still not in his father's business!"

The newspapers had the most to say.

There was a large picture of Lily Lou and Ken, as they were sailing for South America, right after the wedding.

Lily Lou was the proverbial opera star, wrapped in chinchilla, with orchids, large as any Nita Nahlman ever wore on her shoulder, smiling brilliantly.

Ken, wearing a polo coat that wasn't very different from the one he wore in the old commuting days, stood in the background, holding a small Robin, a youthful sailor in blue reefer and cap, by the hand.

The newspaper caption read: "Madame Lily Lou Lansing, with her husband, Kentfield Carey Sargent, on board the steamer Guadalupe— With them is Robin Lansing, Madame Lansing's child by a former marriage."

Tony was much amused when he saw the picture and the caption.

He and his friend, the chorus master, celebrated Lily Lou's wedding, in a little Italian restaurant, and waxed sentimental before the evening was over.

"Fame," said the chorus master, "Fame in her fingers! And now she will never sing again! What a misfortune!"

Tony wrapped several yards of spaghetti loosely around his fork. When most of it had disappeared down his gaping throat, he looked at his friend with wise, dark eyes and shook his head.

"Fame? Poof!" he said. "It is nothing. Does it matter if you are famous, when you are happy?"

again reminded the professional listeners that he is a past master of style, a director whose imagination functions with stimulating impulse in the pursuit of nuance and eloquent contrast. He will proceed to make young professionals of these exceptional youngsters in short order, if they listen to what he has to tell them.

Throughout the program the playing was scrupulous, always the urgent accent, the startling crescendo; for Professor Tighter is no disciple of Debussy, and fears no fortissimo. The result suggested spontaneity rather than the actual results of careful study and details that may have violated tradition.

First Chairs Divide Honors

In apportioning major honors, if that be partly of my duty, it is necessary to divide them equally between the first chair men, upon whom rested much of the responsibility and success with which the band hit the "ethereal ball" last night. And that is or was classical music served by qualified high school musicians of the state, at Iowa City with this laudible lubrication barely doing the event justice.

At the university these young musicians are developing the habit of good music, which in time may become taste, and perhaps eventually necessity. Their efforts deserve critical recognition even to the point of Chauvinism.

It is with liveliest anticipation that one looks forward to the evolution of this season's exceptional all-state high school band, under the peerless conductor Charles B. Richter.

Saling Wins Hurdles

Saling broke the tape first in the 110 meter high hurdles after he drew ahead of his teammate, Percy Beard, going over next to the last barrier. Beard was away to a great start and quickly opened up a gap but Saling came with a rush to win by four feet in 14.5 seconds. This equaled the old Olympic record but was behind the new standard for the games, 14.4 set by Saling in the semi-finals yesterday.

Jack Keller of Ohio State finished a close third in the timber-topping race, after a poor start.

and branded the mayor's explanations "false," "not satisfactory," "attempted excuses," "evasive" and "not real answers."

The mayor's contention he could be removed only for acts of his present term drew most of Seabury's fire.

"There is no provision in the constitution or elsewhere limiting the governor's power of removal of mayors," the committee counsel wrote.

Quotes Authorities

He quoted authorities. He stressed his contention that the derelictions charged to Walker had not been known publicly at the time of the last election.

"Any cause deemed sufficient by the governor," he wrote, "is sufficient cause for the removal of a mayor."

To us it seems shocking that a mayor should even be heard to urge that for malfeasance and misfeasance in office he may escape removal because he succeeded in concealing his unfitness long enough for another election to intervene.

No Preference

A mayor, Seabury wrote "is not entitled to any more 'coincidences,' to the benefit of any more doubts, to the privilege of any more improbable explanations than any other person, nor is he entitled to have his word taken in preference to that of numerous others simply because he is mayor."

Democratic Nominee Flays State Heads on Relief Measures

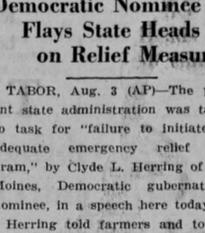

TABOR, Aug. 3 (AP)—The present state administration was taken to task for "failure to initiate an adequate emergency relief program," by Clyde L. Herring of Des Moines, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, in a speech here today.

Herring told farmers and townspeople at a county picnic that it is the immediate duty of the chief executive to guard the welfare of Iowa citizens and to take steps to relieve their distress.

His own program, he said, includes suspension of heavy road building expenditures, repeal of mandatory county road tax laws, governmental economy and reorganization, and repeal of the law requiring reassessment of real estate every two years.

Herring denied that the state government has been carried on efficiently and economically and said the state legislature rather than the governor should have credit for any reduction in taxes.

Missing Girl Found

The body of Evelyn Sanford, 17 year old high school girl of Freesoil, Mich., who had been missing since Saturday, was found yesterday in the basement of a vacant house near Freesoil. The partially clad body had been buried in a grave of loose sand 18 inches deep. A posse of several hundred, led by the girl's father, had scoured the swampland near Freesoil since Saturday.

Suspect's Fingerprints Not Yet Received

DES MOINES, Aug. 3 (AP)—Chief J. E. Ridsen of the state bureau of investigation today said he had not yet received fingerprints of a man giving the name of Roy Mercer, arrested yesterday in Oklahoma City.

He asked yesterday that the prints and records of the man held be sent here so that they might be checked with those of Roy Mercer, wanted in connection with the slaying of R. G. Sprout, Tipton vigilante, Aug. 8, 1930.

1,000 Delegates to Junior C. of C. Meet Arrive in California

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 3 (AP)—Headed by George Olmsted, Des Moines, Ia., national president, 1,000 delegates to the annual convention of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce arrived today for a four day session opening tomorrow.

A telegram from Herbert Hoover expressing confidence in the young men of the nation was read at a meeting of the directors, who held an executive session.

Vigorous opposition to the payment of any part of the soldiers' bonus not earned at the present time was voiced by Olmsted in an address. He said the bonus fixed in 1924 to be paid in 1945 with interest was considered fair then and is eminently fair now with the purchasing power of the dollar increased.

Iowa's Death Toll in Automobile Accidents Falls for 1931

Kansas Only Other Nearby State to Drop

Total of 561 Casualties Compares With 601 for 1930

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Iowa and Kansas were the only west north central states in which the 1931 death toll from automobile accidents was less than the 1930 figure.

Last year 561 Iowans lost their lives in such mishaps, as compared to the 1930 total of 601. Computed from the standpoint of number per 100,000 of population, the Iowa figures were: 22.7 in 1931 and 24.3 in 1930.

Smallest Total

The 110 deaths from automobile accidents in North Dakota were the smallest total in any of the seven states in the west north central group. South Dakota had 116 in 1931.

The department of commerce, in a provision summary, also announced that in 1931 there were 29,547 deaths from car mishaps, not including collisions of automobiles with trains or trolleys, as against 28,950 in 1930. The figures do not include those of Utah.

The death rate for the whole country was 24.9 and 24.5 for the respective years. The Pacific group of states had the highest death rate in 1931 and 1930. Next in order were the mountain group, east north central, and the middle Atlantic.

Fewer Accidents

The observation is made that in the more thickly populated centers fewer automobile accidents occur. States with the highest accidental death toll are, in order, Nevada, Wyoming, California, Florida, and Arizona. The lowest mortality rates from this cause were in Mississippi (14.0), North Dakota, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and South Dakota.

Following are the 1931 and 1930 figures from the west north central states: Minnesota 619 and 561; Iowa 561 and 601; Missouri 838 and 739; North Dakota 110 and 79; South Dakota 116 and 112; Nebraska 290 and 286; Kansas 401 and 439.

Urges Plan to Aid Destitute

Farm Head Outlines Plan to Purchase Iowa Products

DES MOINES, Aug. 3 (AP)—Charles E. Hearst, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation said today those who will administer relief to Iowa's destitute citizens this winter will be urged to buy Iowa products wherever possible for the purpose.

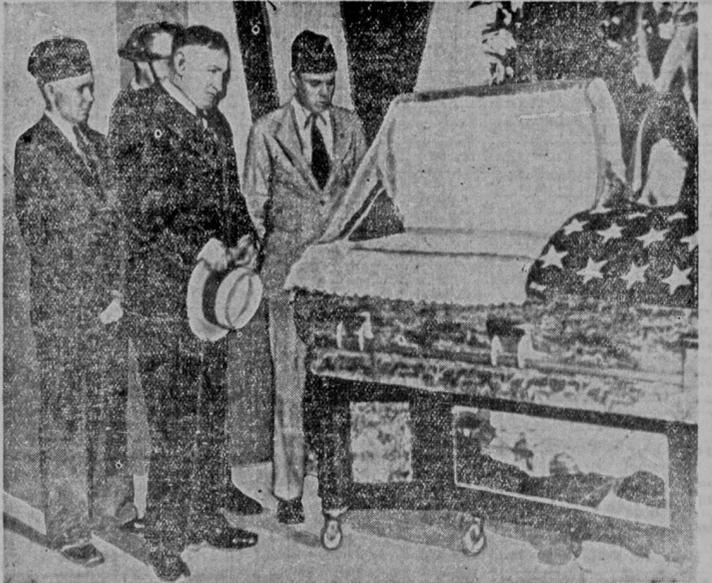

"By purchasing products in Iowa, agriculture as well as industry will be benefited, and many men given employment," he said. "A central purchasing department could undoubtedly buy Iowa food products in volume lots, thus effecting a real saving and giving Iowa's needy the best of foods."

Hearst's suggestion related to probable requests for federal aid through a new Reconstruction Finance corporation law. In this connection he declared that before state officials seek such aid a careful survey of requirements should be made.

"If those administering relief will purchase Iowa food products, I feel sure that sums of money expended will do a two-fold duty in relieving the situation this winter," Hearst said. "In that Iowa will have to pay back the money received from the federal government, it is only fair to expect that those in charge of administering relief will purchase Iowa products."

Auditor Releases Figures to Show Cost of State Inmates

DES MOINES, Aug. 3 (AP)—Maintenance of 4,057 inmates in Iowa county homes in 1930 required a total expenditure of $1,331,703.87, a tabulation prepared by the state auditor's office showed today.

Major expenses during the year included $152,056.95 in salary to stewards, $185,532.13 for other help, $99,361.89 for repairs, $141,969.43 for light, fuel and water, $223,714.99 for provisions, $41,468.20 for clothing, $30,679.83 for medicine and medical attention, and $9,711.90 burial expenses.

Cost per week per inmate ranged as high as $13.91 in Clay county and $13.37 in Warren county, it was found. Dubuque county was among the counties with much lower figures in this respect with $2.16.

Possessed 23,020.14 Acres

The county homes had possession of 23,020.14 acres at the end of the year, the report showed. The value of the land was placed at $3,615,342, and the value of the buildings at $7,737,856.

Of the total of 4,057 inmates, 1,531 were classed as insane and 2,526 as poor. Only Wright county's home showed receipts above expenditures, its figure being $1,859.72. For the entire group the sale of produce brought $462,039.60 for the year, and the net cost above receipts was $948,147.71.

LEGIONNAIRES Vote for Immediate Bonus Payment

Immediate payment of the bonus, saying, "If congress wants to pass it let it do it and the responsibility will be theirs." He maintained veterans were asking payment years before it should be made and that the money was not coming to them now.

Warns Mutiny

Cahill warned that the Legion would lose public sympathy and would be turning its back on the disabled veterans if the able-bodied insisted on the bonus. Murphy read letters received from nationally known economists, who expressed the belief it was to the nation's best interests not to pay the bonus at present.

Speakers supporting the minority report stressed the economic situation of veterans. S. P. Wolcott of Sioux City declared many were now living on charity and losing their homes. Payment of the bonus would be a constructive relief measure, he said.

Shaw Relief Owed to Vets

Shaw, defeated candidate for the commandship, asserted the government had given aid to steel corporations and railroads and that relief was owing to the Legionnaires also when thousands of them were out of work.

Irving Knudson, state senator of Ellsworth, claimed the government had given millions of dollars to Europe for reconstruction purposes, but was denying help to its veterans. He charged that Legion "highlanders" were using their influence in the caucuses to obtain a vote for the majority report which was against payment.

Ends Action

The bonus vote ended action on resolutions, the other measures having been passed without discussion. Other election results were: for vice commanders, George Yates of Des Moines, Lyle Ross of Cedar Rapids and Freeman Albright of Hartley; R. J. Laird, Des Moines, adjutant; R. C. Robinson, Hampton, finance officer; J. Leonard Pint, Ft. Dodge, sergeant-at-arms.

District commanders named were: Ray Pierce, Morning Sun, first; A. G. Lubbers, Clinton, second; E. R. Grenk, Montour, third; W. G. Henke, Charles City, fourth; Dayton Piper, Chariton, fifth; Gray Anderson, Knoxville, sixth; James Landry, Stuart, seventh; Glen Gray, Rockwell City, eighth, and Clark Bolser, Le Mars, ninth.

Shares Make Best Climbs During Year

Wheat Market Bolsters Stocks to Better Quotations

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—Shares swept into the best advance of the year today, encouraged more by a strong wheat market and by what appeared to be an irrefragable leaning toward cheerfulness, than by cold evidence on the state of trade.

Showing an average net gain of 4-1 points, which meant the best prices since mid-April, pivotal issues during the afternoon rolled upward in a manner that cost covering shorts dearly. The closing tone was buoyant.

Wheat Gains

Liberal gains in wheat coincided with reports, freely circulated here, that the farm board would soon announce its final disposal of surplus stocks. After the close word came from Washington that the board had denied such rumors, but it was indicated nevertheless that the government agency had left a comparatively small percentage of its maximum holdings.

Stocks by early afternoon were well launched on their rally. Net gains of 3 to 7 points proved numerous, late profit-taking being easily absorbed. Strength was particularly conspicuous in the barometric leaders such as American Telephone, which crossed 96 for a net gain of 7.

Steels Rise

U. S. Steel common and preferred, closed up 3 3/4 and 5-1/8, respectively; American Can, 4 5/8; Du Pont 3 1/8; Allied Chemical 6 3/8; Santa Fe 4 1/2; Union Pacific 6; American Tobacco 5 1/2; and Eastman Kodak 4 5/8.

Special strength was shown by farm implement shares. Case scored 5-1/2 and International Harvester 4-5/8. Orug Inc. climbed 5 on declaration of the regular $1 dividend, while General Motors anticipated similar action by its board, announced after the close, by firming 1-1/2. Sales totaled 2,399,024 shares, which was less than last Thursday's volume.

man announced yesterday. The books contain 12 stamps and sell for 37 cents. The stamps are exactly like the present two cent stamp in design, showing Stuart's head of Washington, but are purple in color.

A rapid sale of the books is expected by Mr. Bowman, who reports that a number of persons have been asking for the books.

AROUND THE TOWN with DON PRYOR

Raise Ya Two

An unprecedented thing happened yesterday. At least it has happened so seldom lately that it seems unprecedented. Two marriage licenses were issued at the office of Clerk of Court Walter J. Barrow. Jake Rouner took out a license to marry Laura Mabel Reber. Both are of Iowa City. The other license was given to Victor L. Weiss of Dubuque and Maylou Adele McCraney of Iowa City.

The Landlord's Voice

Josephine Lacina, in an attempt to collect $180.50 which she claims is due from C. L. and Edna P. Woodburn as rent on a house at 928 N. Dodge street, filed a petition in district court yesterday asking for a landlord's writ of attachment. J. M. Otto is her attorney.

The Same Voice

Magdalene Englert, owner of the Englert apartments, claims that Frances Haas and Margaret, Free owe her $137.50 in the way of rent. J. M. Otto is also her attorney.

Yellow Streaks

Iowa City is having its yellow streaks repainted. Workmen were busy yesterday touching up the parking lines on Washington street. The job will last for three or four days, police said yesterday.

Bit by Bit

Hitting at the $1,000 mark in their drive for funds for the Johnson county 4-H club show, the committees yesterday reported a total collected of $821.50. Reports from Solon, where a separate drive is being conducted, have not been made. Lysie S. Duncan, county agent, expects the total to be about $900.

To the Successor

L. A. Andrew, receiver for the Farmers Loan and Trust company, filed application in district court yesterday asking for authority to turn over $1,638.50 in cash and 15 promissory notes to the Security Finance company of Iowa City, successor trustee for the Iowa Zeta of Pi Beta Phi building association. E. F. Rate, D. C. Nolan, and Harold Vestermark are attorneys for the receiver. The application was approved by the court.

Conspicuous

Workmen are smearing the city park bridge with bright aluminum paint. For beauty and permanence, say the advertisements.

Grains Score Brisk Moves Up in Trades

Reports of Pool Add to Stimulation on Markets

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (AP)—Accompanied by unconfirmed reports that a $50,000,000 pool had been formed to operate in commodity markets, all grains scored a brisk advance late today.

Wheat Unsettled

Wheat jumped almost three cents from the day's low point. The soaring of grains was simultaneous with a sweeping advance of the stock market, and with big buying of wheat credited largely to eastern accounts.

Wheat Unsettled

Wheat closed unsettled, 1 5/8-1 7/8 above yesterday's finish, corn 1 1/8-1 1/2 up, oats 1-1/2 higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Helping to stimulate the rise of grain values were statements that unofficial estimates putting the 1932 probable yield of domestic spring wheat at 273,000,000 bushels were too high, and that harvest returns would turn out to be around 250,000,000.

Winnipeg advises said that with practically no rainfall Canadian wheat crops had deteriorated 2 to 9 points in the last fortnight. There were reports, too, that farmers in the Dakotas were more inclined to hold their wheat than ever before.

Corn, Oats Rise

Corn and oats rose with wheat, although earlier influenced by additive Lumber company, that the company's liens against W. H. Pixley and Nina G. Pixley, and the liens of Charles Stiller against W. H. Pixley and of Zell and Ross against William Pixley had been satisfied and canceled.

One for You and One for Me

Anna Dennis filed a petition yesterday in district court asking for an order for the sale of three pieces of Johnson county property in which she holds a one-half interest. She asks the court to divide the property equitably among all who claim an interest in it. The other half, she claims, is under mortgage to the Iowa City Savings bank. C. E. Hamilton of Winterset is her attorney.

Still Going Strong

Once more the applicants for drivers' licenses filed in and out of the office of Sheriff Don McComas yesterday rather steadily. The Iowa City residents who applied yesterday are Geneva Hayslett, Ernest H. Henrickson, J. H. Paine, Paul Nielson, and Elsie Katterjohn.
