IOWA TO ASK 20 MILLIONS OF R. F. C.

Politicians Watch Mounting Tide of Stock Market

Iowa Turns to Thrift

State Will Cut Budget by Nine Million for Next Year, Estimate

DES MOINES, Aug. 6 (AP)—New evidence is at hand to show that thrift is the lantern in the hands of Iowa governmental officials from the governor's office to the smallest school district.

What part county supervisors will play in this universal demand—and acceptance—for economy as the guiding light in government will not be entirely known for weeks, or months, yet, but preliminary figures seem to indicate a slash of nine million dollars in their 1933 budget askings as compared to 1931 figures.

Sleepless Nights
Harassed supervisors have spent many sleepless nights trying to top off a penny here, and another there, from their next year's estimates of expenses, hearings on which are now being conducted in many communities.

But, in some instances, their best efforts have not been good enough and taxpayers have scrutinized with disapproving eyes even the slimmest possible budget.

This happened in Bremer county, whose board cut last year's tax-raised funds of $258,529 to $245,300 as the 1933 askings. The county taxpayers' league would have none of it, however. They declared incomes were too small for even this fund, and sent the proposed budget back for further diets.

Counties Not Alone
Counties are not alone in this move for economy. Recently C. Fred Porter, acting state auditor, announced state officials had saved thousands of the 1932 budget allotments. City councils have stopped pampering their sacred cows and are letting them starve. School districts have realized that things once thought essential are not indispensably important, and have erased thousands of dollars.

The handwriting on the wall is large and legible, even though figures are not all in. The whole story will not be told for some time; Aug. 15 is set for approval of county estimates; in a few communities proposed budgets have been acted upon.

Foresee New Economies

Maybe the whole picture can not be displayed until next summer with the close of the fiscal year for, judging from surpluses left from 1932 budgets (which some supervisors considered even then too puny to survive the winter), it is entirely possible that new economies will be found despite the heavy hands laid upon the 1933 askings. Figures obtained in the office of Oscar Anderson, state budget director, and from individual counties, however, tell this much, that the desire for economy is an avalanche, a flood, an overwhelming force that can not be withheld.

Leaves for Conference

FT. DODGE, Aug. 6 (AP)—R. F. Mitchell, Iowa Democratic national committeeman, today left for New York for a conference with Governor Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee and James A. Farley, chairman of the national committee. Mitchell said he would request the governor to visit Iowa during the campaign.

DIAL 4191

Temperature Back Tracks; Night's Rain Totals .36

Suddenly back tracking after a steady many day climb up to 88 degrees, Iowa City temperature yesterday tumbled.

Friday night it fell precipitately and the rain broke loose, totaling .36 of an inch by morning. The highest mark the chilled mercury reached yesterday was 72 degrees, falling off to 68 degrees by 7 p.m. last night.

At sunset yesterday, the sky was filled with long spikes of clouds like spokes of a ferris wheel that converged over the airport. The wheel moved slowly before a light west wind.

Walker Says Will Produce "Real Truth"

Promises to Appear for Hearing Before Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—In a bitter attack on his accusers, Mayor Walker tonight said he would appear at a public hearing called by Governor Roosevelt for next Thursday and would bring out "the real truth" about "these foul and outrageous accusations" on which his removal is sought.

He charged the testimony produced against him at hearings of the Hofstadter legislative committee had been "purposely manipulated."

"Just Opportunity"
He said the governor's hearing would be his first opportunity to confront "those witnesses upon whose one-sided and hearsay testimony my political life is sought."

He declared he would examine the witnesses himself in order to bring out "the entire truth."

Tofting Posts $1,000 Bond in Assault Case

Posting $1,000 bond for his appearance August 11, George Peterson Tofting of Cornville pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with attempt to inflict bodily injury when arraigned in the court of Justice of the Peace Elias J. Hughes yesterday.

Tofting was arrested yesterday morning on information filed by Nona Lewis, a roomer at 521 S. Capitol street and formerly of Lone Tree, who claims that he pushed her out of an automobile traveling at 40 miles per hour between Clinton and Dubuque streets on Benton street Friday night.

Miss Lewis was found lying in the street and was taken to University hospital soon after the accident. She told police that she was riding with five men and was pushed when she attempted to get out of the moving car.

Although police searched for the men after Miss Lewis was taken to the hospital they were unable to locate them, and Tofting was arrested yesterday morning when he came to her residence.

Miss Lewis yesterday morning retracted her story that there were five men in the car when she was questioned at her home by Chief of Police Frank L. Smith. She said that Peterson, who was driving, was the only man in the car.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Aug. 6 (AP)—Back in the days of oxen and erinolines and saloons and dust clouds on Council Bluffs' main street. . . . In the May 10, 1869, issue of The Bugle, there is an account of a southern gen'lman who objected to the eyes a northern scholar made at his lady. The southerner seized a gun. The northerner grabbed a carpet bag and ran. "And," says The Bugle, "that southern rebel fired six times at the northern scholar, putting one bullet harmlessly through

Wait Political Result of Rise in Trade Mart

Interest Mounting in Hoover's Stand on Prohibition

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—With the presidential campaign about to swing into the faster stride that will carry to November, the leaders and rank and file alike have riveted attention on three prime matters fraught with political potentialities.

Above all, of late, has the rising stock market been watched by those who see a relationship between its behavior and public sentiment toward the party in power.

More and more, too, has interest dwelt on what President Hoover will say about prohibition in his speech next Thursday accepting renomination and on how Governor Roosevelt will dispose of the case against Mayor Walker of New York.

As to the market, the only unanimity is that time alone can tell the extent to which the shifts and levels will affect the vote. Aware that a great deal can happen in many fields in the number of weeks between now and balloting time, the politically-wise are refraining from any final conclusions.

Mr. Hoover continues closely to guard his plans for dealing with the prohibition topic.

The most that can be said is that the president is taking extreme care with every detail of his speech, which is bound to be taken as a guidepost by the leaders on whom he intends to rely for the bulk of the campaigning instead of doing it himself.

While the Republican nominee has been busy with that document, his rival has found plenty to do with a very different set of papers—the records of the Walker case.

Governor Roosevelt picked next Thursday for an opening hearing for the New York mayor, making that the big day of the week, probably in view of the fact that the Hoover acceptance speech will be made here in the evening.

Shortly thereafter, the Democratic nominee is expected to act, getting the important Walker decision finally behind him with whatever help or hurt it may bring to his campaign. Then free, he begins his speechmaking in earnest.

Mrs. Volland Continues to Fail Steadily

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mrs. R. H. Volland of Iowa City today was reported at the neurological institute to be steadily failing.

The former member of the Iowa board of conservation and leader for years in the conservation movement fell ill of a neck infection while on her way to Berlin. She returned here and was operated on last Monday.

Her condition since has been critical. Her husband is at her bedside.

Mrs. Volland's condition was reported "about the same" from the institute at a late hour tonight.

Inspects C.M.T.C. Camp

DES MOINES, Aug. 6 (AP)—Gould Dietz of Omaha, seventh army corps area civilian aid to Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, inspected the C.M.T.C. camp at Fort Des Moines today, accompanied by Col. C. E. Stodter, commanding officer.

The coat-tails of the fugitive, one through the carpet bag, and one through the ear of an ox, which was an innocent bystander. A most disgraceful affair."

The Council Bluffs Daily Times on May 31, 1872, said: "A prominent citizen and an attorney was seen speeding through the city at a rate quite excessive of that allowed by our ordinances. On a street such as Broadway, such driving is highly dangerous."

Whether the prominent citizen drove a horse or ox was not disclosed.

BARES TANGLED LOVES AT TRIAL

Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, is shown as she testified at the trial in Miami, Fla., of Capt. William N. Lancaster, British flyer, who is charged with the murder of Haden Clarke, a writer. Lancaster is shown (right) with his attorney James M. Carson at the trial opening. Clarke was mysteriously shot to death in a bungalow occupied by the trio. Mrs. Keith-Miller testified of her love for both men.

WSUI Installs Check System

Meets Regulations of Federal Radio Board

To keep an absolute check on the broadcasting frequency of station WSUI, a frequency monitoring system was installed yesterday in the station's operating room on the top floor of the engineering building.

Station WSUI is licensed to operate on a frequency of 880 kilocycles, or 880,000 cycles, and by federal law is not allowed to deviate more than 50 cycles.

While the university station has kept well within this limit—has received commendation, in fact, for not varying more than 10 cycles at the most—the Federal Radio commission has required that all licensed stations be equipped with the frequency monitoring device.

The device must be run about 24 hours before it becomes settled to the temperature and to other variable conditions, according to Carl Menzer, director and chief announcer of WSUI, who superintended the installation.

During the next three or four days, official check will be made by WSUI with authorities in Chicago to accurately adjust the device. Circumstances of shipment, together with other factors, sometimes cause slight errors in the recording device, Mr. Menzer said, and it is these errors which will be eliminated during the tests.

Meteor Group Will Appear During Week

While marking time for the eclipse of the sun scheduled for later in the fall, Iowa Citizens will be given the opportunity of sharpening their powers of astronomical observation this week by viewing the Perseid meteors of the northeast skies.

From about midnight until 3 a.m., the little meteors will be visible on clear nights, as they hurtle through the skies at intervals varying from about one minute during the first part of the week up to an average of three a minute expected with the climax late Thursday night.

Prof. Charles C. Wylie, university astronomer, has organized several groups to plot the fall of the meteors, and will test his newly devised "speedometer" apparatus in determining the approximate speed of the meteors.

Treasurer Gets Funds
DES MOINES, (AP)—The state treasurer received from State Representative Otha D. Wearin $598.78 for funds collected under the legislative expense act, together with interest. The act recently was declared unconstitutional.

Walker Gets Release From Jail on Bond

Police Still Seek Hiding Place of Former Torch Singer

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., Aug. 6 (AP)—Albert Walker, co-defendant with Libby Holman in the murder charge arising from the death of her husband, Smith Reynolds, obtained his release on bond today, while attorneys for the still missing blues singer mapped their plans for a battle to keep her out of jail.

Walker, 19 year old chum of the young heir to tobacco millions, who was mysteriously shot a month ago today, was granted the privilege of bond in the amount of $25,000 at a habeas corpus hearing. His father, B. B. Walker, retired real estate dealer, signed the bond and he was freed.

Offers No Opposition
The state offered no opposition to the petition for bail.

Libby and Walker were indicted on a first degree murder charge, a capital offense ordinarily not bailable in North Carolina. Higgins consented to the fixing of bond, however, with a reservation that there should be no prejudice to his right to press a first degree charge at the trial.

The solicitor declared his course in the Walker case could not be construed to indicate he would consent to bond for Libby, who is expected to come to Winston-Salem in the immediate future and give herself up.

Father in Court Room
Among those in the court room was Libby's father, Alfred Holman of Cincinnati, who arrived yesterday with the announced purpose of arranging to keep his daughter out of jail, pending her trial.

After learning North Carolina law made it impossible to get bail for his daughter while she was technically a fugitive from justice, Holman engaged local attorneys who later announced Mrs. Reynolds would come to Winston-Salem and surrender within a few days.

Criminal Lawyer Denies Contract

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., Aug. 6 (AP)—Samuel Lebowitz, New York criminal lawyer, arrived here late today, accompanied by John Terry, described as a special investigator. Lebowitz flew to Raleigh and then came here by automobile, driven by Richard L. Dunstan, Jr., an employee of Benet Polikoff, who is one of the attorneys retained here for Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, charged with the murder of her husband.

Lebowitz declared he came to Winston-Salem to visit a cousin, Frank Urband. He would not admit he had been engaged as an attorney for Mrs. Reynolds.

Set Free on Bond

DAVENPORT, (AP)—Abner Stine-man and O. C. Rittenhouse of Muscatine were at liberty on bonds fixed by U. S. Commissioner Albert Block. They were arrested yesterday by police and state agents who said they found 24 gallons of alleged alcohol in Rittenhouse's barn. He claimed it belonged to Steinman who had rented the barn from him.

Dies at Home of Daughter

DES MOINES, (AP)—Mrs. Dyer Farnham, 73, a pioneer resident of Jasper county, died at the home of a daughter in Valley Junction. She was the grandmother of Mrs. Charles Correll of Chicago, whose husband is "Andy" of the "Amos 'n' Andy" radio team.

Two Die at Hospital

Two deaths were reported last night from University hospital. They were Gertrude Cook, 55, of Cedar Rapids, and Mattie Thompson, 7, of Chariton.

Adjustment Board Refuses Permission to Erect Buildings

The board of adjustment refused the petition of William T. Goodwin to erect buildings at the junction of U. S. highways 1 and 161 yesterday.

Mr. Goodwin's petition, asking for permission to erect a garage, cabins for tourists, a filling station and confectionery at that spot was formerly granted by the city council, although it does not comply with the zoning regulations of the city.

The decision of the board may be appealed to the district court, Mr. Goodwin stated yesterday.

Five to Head Hoover Home Loan System

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The five man bi-partisan board which will supervise the new federal home loan discount bank system—designed to do for home financing what the federal reserve system has done in the commercial field—was created today by President Hoover with a New Jersey Republican, Franklin W. Fort, as its chairman.

The board, comprising insurance, building and loan and economic experts, will have as other members: William E. Best, Pittsburgh, Republican.

Dr. John M. Gries, Rosewood, Ohio, Republican.
Nathan Adams, Dallas, Democrat.
H. Morton Bodfish, Chicago, Democrat.

Statement From White House

The White House statement announcing the new board was made public shortly after the president left for a week end of rest at his Rapidan mountain camp.

The board will hold its first meeting here Monday or Tuesday. One of its first acts probably will be to decide where the home loan banks will be located and how many there shall be. Under the law, the last of the president's major relief measures passed by congress, the country will be divided into districts where not less than eight or more than 12 such banks will be located in strategic centers.

Eleven Directors

Each of the home loan banks to be created will have 11 directors and will be incorporated at minimum capitalization of $5,000,000. The sale of shares will be at $100 per share with the reconstruction finance corporation holding a fund of $125,000,000 ready to take up any unsubscribed shares.

The banks may lend to individual home owners if they cannot secure funds elsewhere; to building and loan associations, savings banks, homestead associations, and insurance companies.

To get actual cash, the borrowing organization will deposit in the loan bank of which it is a member its promissory note for the amount of the loan together with home mortgages as collateral.

Two Die at Hospital

Two deaths were reported last night from University hospital. They were Gertrude Cook, 55, of Cedar Rapids, and Mattie Thompson, 7, of Chariton.

But Contest Continues, So Write Plenty of Letters!

Because of the fact that the water in the Big Dipper will be changed tomorrow, there will be no swimming party for that day, and for probably two days after tomorrow. It would be just a little too cool for boys and girls to enjoy.

Officers Turn to Washington for Assistance

Treasurer, Attorney Go to Capital to Hold Conferences

DES MOINES, Aug. 6 (AP)—A loan of $20,000,000 will be sought by state officials from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to take care of financial problems now confronting the Iowa state treasury.

Plans for seeking the federal loan were announced by State Treasurer Ray Johnson and Attorney General John Fletcher as they left today for Washington, D. C., to confer with officers of the finance corporation.

Of the total loan sought, about $15,000,000 would go to pay outstanding claims against the state sinking fund for public deposits, $3,500,000 would be used for future claims and a like amount to satisfy outstanding anticipatory warrants.

Reimburse Government
Money from the state sinking fund is used to reimburse governmental units for funds in closed banks, the state selling anticipatory warrants up to a limit of $3,000,000 to raise the money required.

Johnson and Fletcher pointed out that the loan sought is not a relief measure under the construction set by the Reconstruction Finance corporation but a matter of refinance to obtain money to satisfy immediately 1,377 outstanding claims against the sinking fund.

Claims against the fund include more than 1,000 from schools, 175 from cities and towns, 152 from townships, and 150 from counties, the state treasurer's records showed. All of the unpaid claims have accumulated since July.

Think Request Valid
Attorney General Fletcher advised Johnson that he believes the state is entitled to the loan for the purpose sought. It would constitute a first lien on the state retirement fund created to retire loans, Johnson said.

Since Iowa is the only state with a law having the provisions of the Brookhart-Lovrin measure which created the sinking fund, it is the only one confronted with this particular refinancing problem, Fletcher said.

"It is important that Iowa gain relief for its public office as soon as possible for the situation demands immediate action," the attorney general said. "We do not intend to pass

Major Events of Next Week Have Schedule Center

Again four major events hold the center of attraction in the university calendar for the coming week. At 4 p.m. tomorrow, Prof. George H. Coleman of the chemistry department will deliver a demonstration lecture on "Grignard reaction." The lecture will be given in room 300 of the chemistry building.

The second of the series of four summer session concerts will be played Wednesday at 8 p.m. by the all-state high school band, under the direction of Prof. Charles Boardman Righter. Unless rain interferes, the concert will be staged on the east approach to Old Capitol. If bad weather holds forth, the musicians will adjourn to Iowa Union.

René Taupin, visiting member of the faculty in the romance languages department, will conduct the final school of letters program at 7:30 p.m. in the house chamber of Old Capitol. In place of the customary lecture, the evening will consist of a round table discussion on "Literary training in the University of Paris," led by Mr. Taupin.

Summer session students will have their final opportunity to visit the United States arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., and the Davenport municipal museum, under the supervision of the extension division, Saturday. Leaving liberal arts building's south entrance at 8 a.m., the party will go by automobile on a day's excursion to points of interest about the trities.

Proving a Hypothesis

The simple analogy of a hypothetical Robinson Crusoe and his man Friday, which Millard Peck, economist, has advanced to explain in "words of one syllable" the current economic conditions, may have a chance to prove itself in the near future.

Peck sets up the analogy as follows: suppose Crusoe bakes bread, and his man Friday raises chickens; the two exchange products so that each has a bread and meat diet. They exchange 10 loaves of bread for two chickens each week, setting the price of one chicken at five loaves of bread.

Then suppose that Crusoe's bread-baking falls off to five loaves a week, accordingly, the exchange would fall from 10 loaves of bread and two chickens to five loaves of bread and two chickens. That means that each chicken would bring only half of its original price.

Friday would soon realize that there was not a surplus of chickens to cause this drop in price, but an underproduction of bread, and would see that he must cut his production of chickens in half to bring back the original price, or else see that Crusoe baked more.

Let the farmer and the manufacturer take the places of Crusoe and his man. Although manufactured products have fallen off from the point of production, agricultural products have not. Does it not follow that the farmer is overproducing and the manufacturer underproducing, destroying economic balance?

Here's the rub. The farmer cannot, like Friday, produce half as much as formerly. The solution must come with a rise in "baking." The manufacturer must again work at capacity enough to balance the value of the agricultural products.

How he will do that has been the unanswered question. But now, with the latest plans rumored for a credit pool through federal reserve banks and the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the answer seems obtainable.

The credit pool would enable manufacturers to buy raw materials; that means a place for "Friday's chickens" to be marketed. It would enable him to employ workers who now are producing nothing to exchange for farm produce. When those workers are employed, there is another "chicken market" formed.

The stock market took the rumor of this pool's formation seriously enough to make a jump two days ago that promises more. It seems to be the most concrete assurance, even in rumor, that "something" will be done.

The reconstruction corporation, with all its proposals, could do more by opening manufacturing fields than by any other means at present. Here in the agricultural belts, "Friday" is waiting with his chickens—plenty of them. If the corporation will, aided by the federal reserve, provide more "dough," in a literal sense, perhaps, so that the "Crusoes" can open their "bakeries," economies should be righted.

Hope for Expansion

"COOPERATION without compromise," to a high degree, is the characterization of the University of Iowa's school of religion, its director said Friday.

Such an end, or such a motto, would be a worthy ideal for any group. It is significant that the end was accomplished within a school where the greatest differences of opinion might arise between members of the faculty.

Centuries of war have been fought over the differences arising between the religion of one race of mankind and that of another. Not that there would be a likely battleground for any conflict in idea between faculty members of the Iowa school, but no differences have occurred.

As a people gain in understanding of another people, their differences diminish. History will bear witness to that statement. Such an instance as this furnished by the faculty men in the school of religion is another confirmation.

It would be for the best interests of the world if the influence of complete understanding could make itself felt by all the world's inhabitants. That situation would find itself, once it was gained, without war, without international fear, international doubt, and in complete harmony.

Study has gained that end for the small group in the school of religion. That same means, amplified to include all races, all languages, would gain the same end for all the world.

Law's Partiality?

NEWSPAPER readers may be wondering about the recent developments in the Reynolds murder case these days, particularly since the law does not seem to be effectively doing its job. Warrants for the arrest of Libby Holman, wife of the dead heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune, for some strange reason, have not been served. Mrs. Reynolds' father, for some strange reason, will take his own good time about producing her in court.

On good authority, it is learned that the officers sent to search for Mrs. Reynolds have not seemed very enthusiastic about their task, have not searched very far and wide for their quarry. Then comes the information that police in charge of the case know where she is but fail to arrest her.

If Mrs. Reynolds is in a "delicate condition" and cannot be disturbed, that should be for the law to decide, not Mrs. Reynolds' father, who seems to be exercising most of the authority in the case. He requests, in reply to queries about his daughter, that she be given an early trial, but fails to mention her whereabouts.

Whether Libby Holman is guilty of the crime or not, she deserves no more consideration for the law than any other person who has been indicted for murder. The duty of those in charge of the case is clearly to arrest her at once, regardless of her father's whims. If they neglect their duty, as so far they have done, they are committing an injustice to those whom they are serving. Her millions, her position, her wishes can hardly deter the processes of the law from being impartial.

Swift Justice Should Be Common

(From the Kansas City Star)

When the confessed slayer of a young woman was sentenced to life imprisonment at his trial in Ludington, Mich., yesterday, within 24 hours after the victim's body had been found, there was applause from the court room. The applause will be echoed throughout the country. But that it should have come in this instance indicates that quick justice of this sort is out of the ordinary procedure in the United States. It is something that becomes a matter of news, whereas it ought to be so thoroughly the established order that it would be taken as a matter of course.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

The former chief of staff of the bonus army has wired to President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico for permission to bring 29,000 "political refugees" into Mexico for colonization temporarily. In his message he said they had been "driven away from their national capitol and refused admission to the various states."

Such a claim is as untrue as it is preposterous. To make martyrs of the "army" is to ridicule the entire plan to obtain immediate cash payment of the veterans' certificates, and to materially lessen the chances for such payment. The members of the bonus group have not been refused admittance to the various states, furthermore, except as a lawless influence on the communities in which they settle.

And as far as being "political refugees," the bonusers will find as much objection to their cause, doubtless, among either party. To consider themselves a single political group will not aid their cause. There doesn't seem to be much cause for worry, however, about Rubio's reply. Mexico would hardly lay itself open to criticism or charges of unfriendly international feeling.

"It would be rash to predict that America is yet within sight of general economic recovery," said one of Britain's foremost economic authorities the other day. "Nevertheless, there is reason to think that the giant of the west has passed the crisis of his sickness."

"In the spring and summer there were grave symptoms, such as the growth of unemployment, the widespread failure of banks, the drain of gold to Europe and the growth of hoarding, and the distrustful public.

"These were justifiably regarded with serious apprehension, but the period of panic seems to have passed. The process of hoarding is being checked, the banking position is salvaged, and the psychology of the people steadied."

Those remarks, coming from England, show the confidence that another nation has in America. That same confidence is now being reflected in the American press, with justifiable basis in the news reports for its conclusions. Indications are available on every hand—in the markets, business transactions, employment gains, credit loosening—for Americans to see and judge for themselves.

With the crisis of the "sickness" successfully passed, the job remains to nurse the invalid gently back to its former health and strength. That requires careful consideration of every need, and every precaution against a recurrence of the malady.

"The empire content" scheme of the British empire economic conference is gradually gaining impetus, the plan now under consideration calling for all manufactured goods in the empire to contain 60 per cent empire material and labor. If that plan goes through it will affect more than $100,000,000 worth of production of American branch factories in the foreign countries.

It would mean, to the British nations, less competition from the American branch products, while the latter would come under the empire preferential tariffs. On the other hand, those branches would be almost entirely alienated from the American parents, who would not benefit from sending surplus raw materials to the subsidiary plant for manufacture. It might mean, in the long run, a rise in prices for the products of the American plants.

Book Bits

(From Metex, Monsieur! by Octavus Roy Cohen)

Orifice was very well pleased with himself. He rubbed the palms of his hands together and beamed upon Florian. And then, from the dim recesses of his brain, he conscripted the only French phrase with which he was familiar. He did not know what it meant, but he wished to show Mr. Slappey that he was not entirely unintelligent.

"An' now," he boomed, "cherchez la femme!"

Florian experienced a moment of paralyzing fear. A French phrase—and from Orifice. Florian had no idea what had been said and he was terrified lest Orifice discover his deception.

Mr. Florian Slappey did some high-speed thinking.

Then he smiled and turned to the hovering waiter. "Boy," he ordered confidently, "make it two!"

Wandering Lecturer to Give Address at Park This Afternoon

College Hill park will be the scene at 3 p.m. this afternoon of a lecture on the doctrines of the Catholic church by David Goldstein, who claims once to have been a rabid Marxian and the espouser of industrial Utopias.

Mr. Goldstein will speak from a travelling pulpit, an automobile equipped with a microphone and loud speaker apparatus, in which it is claimed he has wandered 25,000 miles through 17 states and to have spoken to 1,500,000 persons.

Today's meeting, to which persons of all denominations have been invited, is sponsored by the St. Mary's, St. Patrick's, and St. Wendelin's parishes in conjunction with the local court of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Must Tax Whole of Goods, Court Finds

DES MOINES, Aug. 6 (AP)—A tax for primary roads should be upon all property in the county, including moneys and credits, County Attorney F. C. Bush of Osage has been advised by the attorney general's office.

An opinion prepared by Carl J. Stephens, assistant attorney general, also held that the millage should be based upon the assessed value of taxable property.

The farm value of American agricultural exports was the lowest in 1930-31 of any year in a decade, reports the federal department of agriculture.

up any chance to gain relief for the fund.

"Sound Proposition"
"Loans to banks would only furnish fractional relief for Iowa's present situation," he said. "The loan we seek is a self-liquidating proposition and thoroughly sound."

Fletcher declared the Iowa situation is more serious "because 1,000 Iowa school districts have no money to start school with this September due to funds tied up in closed banks."

In addition, Governor Dan Turner has opened negotiations with the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a loan of as high as $10,000,000 to provide relief for Iowa's needy.

The governor has not asked for any specific amount but has indicated that from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 will be sought, depending on the extent of relief which may be found necessary.

Saturday the governor received from the corporation a list of the facts about Iowa which he must certify when filling a formal application for a relief loan.

IOWA TURNS

To Thrift; Will Make $9,000,000 Cut

figures given are estimates (although based on information and computations held reliable enough for interpreting trends), these conclusions now seem valid, although they may be revised later.

That 1933 budget askings in 19 Iowa counties will aggregate approximately $85,000,000.

That there will be surpluses totaling about $13,000,000 in 1932 budgets, which amount to about $38,000,000 in all counties.

That next year's budgets will be $9,000,000 less than those of 1931 and $3,000,000 less than the 1932 estimates.

That 1932 taxes will average, for all counties, about $9.501 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. These figures were arrived at by assuming that estimates available could be averaged for all counties.

Evidence that the will to save reaches into all corners of Iowa is not lacking.

STUDIO GOSSIP FILM SCANDAL SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Now that the columnist has had his day, the Hollywood spotlight turns on the publicity man. Lee Tracy, one of Broadway's better mimes, goes over to R-K-O to take the lead in Harry Reichenbach's colorful memoirs, "Phantom Fame."

His feminine visa-vis will be the dynamic Lupe Yelez.

Many are the legends about the sensational publicity stunts pulled by the late Harry Reichenbach. He smuggled a lion into an hotel, fooled the public and became the highest-priced exploitation man on the White Way.

Some of these famous tricks will be converted into celluloid and others will be invented to make "Phantom Fame" an amusing low-down on the ballyhoo racket.

Casey Robinson will direct this one and he expects to have the cameras grinding by September 5.

It actually happened, Eddie Cantor says, in a Hollywood restaurant. One of the swankier leading men came in, studied the menu and ordered pate-de-frole-gras. When it was put before him he took a bite and shouted for the waiter.

"Here, take this away," he directed.

"Didn't you order pate-de-frole-gras?" inquired the waiter.

"Yes," said the actor, "but this is goose-liver."

BOULEVARD TALK
That little ex-stenographer, Dorothy Wilson, received a salary of only $50 a week for playing a leading role in "The Age of Consent." Since she made a hit, there'll undoubtedly be an adjustment.

What with the Olympic visitors and with her popularity in her home town, Mary Pickford was greeted by a crowd of 3,000 people when she stepped off an air-liner the other evening. Returning on the same plane was the Countess de Frasso. The greeting party included Douglas Fairbanks, Gary Cooper, Amelia Earhart, Charlie Chaplin (with Faulette Goddard on his arm) and Prince Chakratong Tongyai of Siam.

The prince, who is seeing Hollywood under the Fairbanks wing, was very much upset when San Francisco scribes wrote of him as the heir to the throne.

"Quickly, I had to cable my mother to square that with the crown prince."

This 20 year old scion of royalty is on his way to study entomology at Cornell. When he completes the course he will be chief government expert on the subject.

Phyllis Haver and Bill Seeman are getting the glad-hand from all friends in the film colony. Buddy De Sylva threw a party for them before he left for Broadway and that Lawrence Schwab musical. . . . Somebody committed an amusing oversight at that banquet to the "Bird of Paradise" company the other evening. Instead of a bird of paradise carved in ice, the waiters trundled in a fine, glistening horse.

Pattern 2390

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS

Collars and necklines are the highlights of the new fall mode. This is a particularly charming treatment of the collar, slightly crushed, ending under the pointed seaming of the bodice. The skirt lines repeat those above and add pleats for animation. The frock gives a very graceful and pleasing illusion of slowness. We suggest canton crepe or sheer wool.

Pattern 2390 may be ordered only in sizes 16 to 20 and 34 to 42. Size 16 requires 3 5/8 yards 39-inch fabric and 1 1/2 yard contrasting.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted.

Out beautiful 32-page fashion catalog offers you an opportunity to choose delightful morning, afternoon and evening models suitable for wear right now and all through the summer. Book Reviews

Friday to Monday by Nancy Ross; Liverlight, $2.00. Reviewed by Herbert Prouty.

This first novel is the saga of the re-adjustments of five mentally mature persons to life choices decreed in their late adolescence by the despot social prestige. It deals shrewdly with the cultural-libido style of living affected by the ambitious fringe of the 400, and with the problems of frustrated middle age.

With a few guests, the members of a fashionable family, whose fortune has dwindled, reunite for three days in the home town which also has drifted into a state of semi-decadence. Tony Truesdale, black sheep, revives the lethargic fires of a boyhood love with a girl who has become the widowed Duchess of Brucholle. Helen Truesdale, matron, is strongly tempted to forsake her husband and children for the love of a visiting buccaner of finance. Her husband, Martin, poseur, torn between conventional ties and happy companionship with a life-long friend, lets the former predominate.

"Friday to Monday" is an attempt to do the world of Edith Wharton in the accepted Galsworthy manner. It lacks the acuteness of perspective necessary to accomplish this and it is as slow to gain momentum as a transatlantic plane. But it is witty, even cleverly written—despite conversational flights remarkably laborious in attaining smartness. The anticipating reader's soupçon of naughtiness in the offering is only partially confirmed because of the author's resort to innuendo.

Nancy Ross steers as far clear of obscenity as is compatible with knowledge of public avidity for sexiness in a "sophisticated" work. Causing her characters to regard good form and good taste the king and queen of social amenities she gives herself no cause for royal disapproval. There is not even what one might justly label a "bedroom scene," apparently considered indispensable by many best-seller and scenario embroiderers of this kind of plot. Residents of this reputedly prosaic middlewest should find the novel an entertaining two hours.

Bright Skin by Julia Peterkin; Bobbs Merrill, $2.50. Reviewed by Zella O'Neal.

With the publication of "Bright Skin" Julia Peterkin has brought forth another vivid story of Negro life on a southern plantation. Having lived in the south among the Negroes, she pictures their habits, Customs, superstitious beliefs, and careless, easy-going mode of making a living.

"Cricket," the girl with a skin neither white nor black, is ridiculed by all except her grandfather, Uncle Wes, Man Jay (her cousin) and Blue, the black boy who was taken away from his immoral mother and brought to live with his grandparents. With the blood of a roamer in her veins, attributed to the fact that she has a "bright skin," she longs to see the cities and sights outside of the plantation on which she lives. After years of hard knocks and dissatisfaction, she runs away from her home to New York where she becomes a dancer. Never wholly satisfied with her lot, and never completely accepted in any circle of friends, her life is a discordant one.

Blue has the characteristics of the slow and careless Negro. In spite of the contrast he makes with the adventuresome "Bright Skin" she always remains his one love.

even though she fails to prove true to any man.

Characteristic of Mrs. Peterkin is the fact that her characters tell their own stories. Crude and heartless as many of their expressions seem, they are typical of the Negro, and tend to live up the otherwise slow action of the book.

Adopting the style of her other books, "Black April" and "Scarlet Sister Mary" she has produced a book which makes one live the life on a southern plantation. The description of the attitude of the Negro race toward the girl who was not all black gives a hint of the pride of the black people.

Injured in Accident

DES MOINES, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stanley of Oak Park, Ill., and Melford Harrison of Indianapolis suffered severe cuts and bruises when their car skidded off the road into a 35-foot ditch at the county line on the Indianapolis road. Stanley was driving. They were brought to a hospital here.

Ripley Explanations

Explanation of Saturday's Cartoon

Steamships Are Faster In Cold Water: Since a steamship cannot store enough fresh water within its holds to supply the engines for an ocean voyage, it is necessary to condense the used steam back into water by means of condensers which are cooled by the ocean water. The condensers, to be most efficient, must be kept cool enough to allow free exhaust from the engines.

Hence, when the ship is sailing through cool waters the condensers are working more perfectly than when they are being cooled by warmer tropical waters that cause slower condensation of the exhaust steam, and a back pressure on the engines. When steamers are powered by turbine engines more efficient condensation of exhaust steam is required than in the case of reciprocating engines. Consequently the warmer sea waters tend to decrease the efficiency of a turbine more than that of any other type of engine.

What Shall I Serve...? A Daily Hint to Hostesses on Tempting Appetites While It's Hot

Sunshine Cake

The old-fashioned Sunshine Cake is the basis for numerous desserts, and can be made in a number of different ways. This recipe was suggested by Mrs. C. S. Woodford, 404 E. Bloomington street.

- 11-2 c. egg whites
- 11-2 c. sugar
- 1 c. flour
- 11-4 teas cream of tartar
- 11-2 teas vanilla
- 2 tsp. lemon juice
- 6 egg yolks

Beat egg whites until stiff. When half beaten, add one-half of the cream of tartar. Sift the sugar four times, and the flour six times with the remaining half of the cream of tartar. Add the sugar to the egg whites, then the flour, vanilla, and lemon juice. Break the yolks and fold in. Do not beat. Mix all ingredients into the egg whites as gently as possible. Bake for 45 minutes at 425 degrees. Light the oven just before putting the cake in the pan.

This cake may be covered with pineapple and whipped cream just before serving and topped with a green cherry. Another attractive dessert is made by placing one half of a canned peach on top of the cake, topped with just a dab of whipped cream, and garnished with a red maraschino cherry.

Many persons desire to serve it dry—that is, with no frosting or dressing. Sunshine Cake is very desirable for this purpose.

U.S. 400, 1600 Meter Relay Teams Smash World Records in Trials Swimmers Open Competition With Assault on World's Records

Bausch Sets World Mark in Decathlon

Finnish Star Triumphs in 3,000 Meter Steeplechase

By ALAN GOULD Associated Press Sports Editor OLYMPIC STADIUM, LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 (AP)—Finland's second long distance Olympic victory, in the steeplechase final, today added another extraordinary chapter to the track and field championships after two crack American relay teams blasted loose world records in the 400 and 1600 meter trials.

Bausch Triumphs

OLYMPIC STADIUM, LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 (AP)—Jim Bausch, American all-around star from Kansas, late today captured the Olympic decathlon championship, smashing the world and Olympic records to bits.

Bausch finished the 10-event two-day battle with the spectacular total of 8462.23 points for the greatest all-around performance of all time.

Akiles Jarvinen of Finland, who had held the previous world record at 8255.475 points, surpassed this also but had to be satisfied with second place with a total of 8292.48 points.

The former Olympic record, made by Yrjola of Finland, was 8053.29 points, in 1928.

The next three finishers, in order, were: third, Wolrad Eberle of Germany, with 8390.80 points; fourth, Wilson Charles, United States, 7985 points; fifth, Hans Siebert, Germany, 7941.07 points.

There was no question about the superiority this time of Volmar Iso-Hollo, another of Finland's younger stars, in the steeplechase but the development that the entire field was compelled to run one lap over the specified 3,000 meter distance contributed to the general furor, coming as it did on top of Lauri Lehtinen's disputed conquest of Ralph Hill in the 5,000 meter final yesterday.

Perhaps the biggest surprise given the fans was the shattering of the 110 meter high hurdles record by Salink. Dopesters on the coast had failed to give the Hawkeye much consideration, rating Keller and Percy Beard above him.

Opinion changed immediately after Salink bettered the new record set by Keller in the previous heat of 14.5 seconds. The Corydon flash equalled the accepted world's record with his 14.4 seconds flight as he nosed out Beard.

The first round heats in the 200 meter dash produced some very poor times as several of them had but three contestants, all of them qualifying. In one heat the men merely jogged the route, the time being 25.3 seconds.

The second round, though, saw Metcalfe set a new Olympic record of 21.5, Tolan equal Metcalfe's record, and Luti of Argentina and Jonath of Germany break the tape in the time of 21.4 seconds in the next two heats.

Track Extra Good The dizzy Olympic record cracking that has been keeping the crowds in a whirl since the Games started is probably in a large part because of the track. The cinder paths are in excellent shape, by far the best that the athletes have raced on for many years.

A. in 1924 and equalled by the Americans in 1928. Italy and Canada trailed the American sprinters in the second trial heat, after the Germans had won the first heat in 41.2 seconds, beating Japan and Great Britain.

Carr Takes It Easy With Bill Carr, the new Olympic 400 meter champion and world record holder, running anchor in place of Arnold Adams, put out by a sprained foot, the American 1600 meter relay quartet romped through his first trial in 3 minutes, 11.8 seconds, leaving Italy and Germany far behind.

Cubs Nip Phillies Twice, 10-9, 10-8; Second Goes 11 Innings

Eddie Tolan of the United States winning the Olympic 200-meter dash Wednesday afternoon, with George Simpson, United States, second, and Ralph Metcalfe, another American, coming in third. The winner's time was 21.2 seconds, breaking the Olympic record of 21.6 seconds for the event.

Good Track Responsible for Records

By GENE THORNE (Sports Editor, The Daily Iowan) LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3 (Wednesday)—It was the track and field stars of the middle west that drew the greatest plaudits of the crowds Tuesday as the United States continued to display tremendous strength in the Olympic Games.

George Salink and Ed Gordon of Iowa, Eddie Tolan of Michigan, Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, George Simpson and Jack Keller of Ohio State, and Lambert Reed of Bradley Tech were the lads who demonstrated to the world that they are up in front.

Perhaps the biggest surprise given the fans was the shattering of the 110 meter high hurdles record by Salink. Dopesters on the coast had failed to give the Hawkeye much consideration, rating Keller and Percy Beard above him.

Opinion changed immediately after Salink bettered the new record set by Keller in the previous heat of 14.5 seconds. The Corydon flash equalled the accepted world's record with his 14.4 seconds flight as he nosed out Beard.

The first round heats in the 200 meter dash produced some very poor times as several of them had but three contestants, all of them qualifying. In one heat the men merely jogged the route, the time being 25.3 seconds.

The second round, though, saw Metcalfe set a new Olympic record of 21.5, Tolan equal Metcalfe's record, and Luti of Argentina and Jonath of Germany break the tape in the time of 21.4 seconds in the next two heats.

Track Extra Good The dizzy Olympic record cracking that has been keeping the crowds in a whirl since the Games started is probably in a large part because of the track. The cinder paths are in excellent shape, by far the best that the athletes have raced on for many years.

A. in 1924 and equalled by the Americans in 1928. Italy and Canada trailed the American sprinters in the second trial heat, after the Germans had won the first heat in 41.2 seconds, beating Japan and Great Britain.

Carr Takes It Easy With Bill Carr, the new Olympic 400 meter champion and world record holder, running anchor in place of Arnold Adams, put out by a sprained foot, the American 1600 meter relay quartet romped through his first trial in 3 minutes, 11.8 seconds, leaving Italy and Germany far behind.

Carr did not extend himself, running his leg easily in only 49 seconds, as compared with his world record time yesterday of 46.2 seconds.

Under the Eye of Justice

No charges were filed against the four girls who appeared in the office of Justice of the Peace B. F. Carter yesterday afternoon. Without the formality of a sentence, they sat still and read the comic strips carefully saved for the last month for reference and little girls by Justice Carter.

See What I Sell

Plans are being made by many of Iowa City's merchants to place exhibits in the old cannery factory during the three days of the Johnson county 4-H club show. Most of them, S. Lysle Duncan, county agent, said, will be on the second floor of the building, but a few exhibits of tractors and farm machinery will be on the ground floor.

To Pay the Bills

Reaching very close to the mark set by Mr. Duncan as the amount he expected from the drive for funds to support the show, solicitation committees yesterday reported a total of $380. The mark was originally set at $1,000, but Mr. Duncan said he would be satisfied with $900.

Mitigation of Justice

J. R. Koelling, the man who tried to cash a check on the First National bank July 28, and who cashed two checks on the First Capitol State bank before he was captured by police, was released yesterday by Justice of the Peace B. F. Carter. He had no previous police record and he returned the money obtained by the false checks. He was allowed to go to Cedar Rapids with his wife and child.

Blue-Blood Stock From 14 States Will Compete for Prizes at State Fair

DES MOINES, Aug. 6 (AP) — Blue-blood stock from 14 states, including representatives of several famous breeding farms, will compete for the nearly $80,000 in cash premiums in the national livestock show at the Iowa state fair this month.

Preliminary lists of entries released Saturday, following the close of entries in all livestock classes, gave promise of one of the finest shows held in connection with the fair in recent years.

Rank Next to Iowa

Kansas, Texas and Nebraska rank next to Iowa in the highest in the number of herds and stables entered, although the show also will have strong representatives from Tennessee, Missouri, Minnesota, Colorado and Illinois.

A feature of this year's show will be the boys' and girls' livestock classes. Entry records are being eclipsed, the boys' and girls' swine totaling nearly 1,000 head, and there will be more than 500 baby beaves, nearly 800 sheep and more than 800 poultry raised by the 4-H club members, fair officials said.

Submit Entries

In the open classes a number of well-known exhibitors have submitted entries. Among them is Robert P. Lamont, Jr., son of the former cabinet member, who will bring his prize herd of Herefords from Larkspur, Colo.

Senator A. C. Shallenburger of Alma, Neb., has entered a herd of Shorthorns; Edellyn Farm, owned by the project. Miss Schaffter, who is now a member of the faculty of Vassar college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., intends to visit Iowa City again before returning to Vassar in the fall. Mr. Pepper is to assume leadership in the fall, of the social science department of Paducah Junior college of Paducah, Ky. His thesis for the doctor's degree dealt with county government in Colorado.
