Suffered Neck Infection While Enroute to Germany

After lying seriously ill in a New York hospital for more than a week, Mrs. Mable M. Volland, wife of Dr. Roscoe H. Volland and a prominent club and civic leader both in Iowa City and the state, died at 11 a.m. yesterday.

Mrs. Volland took ill in Berlin, Germany, late last month just after beginning an extensive tour of northern Europe in the company of 10 members of the National Business and Professional Woman's club. She returned immediately to the United States and arrived in New York July 23.

Hurried to New York
Dr. Volland hurried to New York on the receipt of word that she was ill and was at her bedside when she died yesterday.

Mrs. Volland's condition had been critical since last Monday, when she underwent an operation at the New York Neurological institute for an infection on the back of her neck. Her condition steadily became worse and hopes for her recovery were completely abandoned last Saturday.

Dr. Volland will leave New York tomorrow noon with the body. The funeral will be held in Iowa City Thursday or Friday.

Active in Civic, Club Work
For many years Mrs. Volland has been active in civic and club work throughout the state, serving on the state conservation board, the Iowa

Clear Skys, West Winds Aid Mercury in Slow, Easy Climb

With a clear sky and a small west wind, the mercury yesterday climbed slowly and comfortably.

Sunday afternoon a slight rain fell, bringing the season's total to 23.23 inches, 43 of an inch above the average for this time of the year.

The highest recording for the day, according to Prof. John F. Reilly, official observer, was 83 degrees and at 7 p.m. it had fallen to 68 degrees. Late last night the sky was dotted with a ragged patchwork of clouds.

Chapin Takes Cabinet Office Under Hoover

Hopeful Concerning Rise in U.S. Business Condition

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Hopeful that American business will continue to improve, Roy D. Chapin, 52 year old Detroit automobile manufacturer, took office today as secretary of commerce.

To his predecessor, Robert P. Lamont of Chicago, who was present when he was sworn in, the newest member of President Hoover's cabinet expressed gratification at the "unmistakably better tone that now prevails in our industries."

Meanwhile, Franklin W. Port, chairman of the new home loan bank board, held preliminary conferences with the board members to rush organization of this federal machinery—set up by congress at the president's request to ease the financial worries of home owners and to stimulate home construction.

The first problem is the selection of the sites for the eight to 12 banks which are to be established. The initial formal meeting of the board will be tomorrow.

Speech Lauds Peace Treaty

Stimson Sees Hope for Peace in Pact to Outlaw War

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Secretary Stimson described the Kellogg-Briand pact tonight as a forceful instrument upon which the nations of the world could rest their hopes for peace. The American people, he said, would not fail to do their share in the endeavor to make it an "effective, living reality."

Broadcasts Views
His broad exposition of the views of the state department was delivered in a speech before the council of foreign affairs and broadcast at a time when the report of the special committee sent by the League of Nations to review the recent Sino-Japanese dispute in Manchuria is impending.

More Than Gesture
The secretary called the treaty to outlaw war more than a "mere gesture" and said that a nation which sought to "mask imperialistic policy under the guise of protection of its own nationals would soon be unmasked."

He reviewed the application of the treaty to the disputes between Russia and China and between Japan and China, both centering upon Manchuria, and asserted that in its operation in both of these cases there had been frequent consultations among the diplomats of the nations that were signatories to the pact.

Money Markets Push Upward to New Gains

Cotton Prices Lead in Strongest Gain of Two Years

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—The most violent upswing in cotton in more than two years, the swiftest trading in stocks in nearly two years, and the sharpest advance in bonds in two months marked the big bull push in the nation's leading financial markets today.

Cotton surged up more than $5 a bale, as the government estimated this year's crop far below the average of recent years, and Wall Street quickly recalled that a short crop in that staple in 1921 was an important factor in boosting the markets out of the post war depression.

Waves of Profit Taking
Stocks met three successive waves of profit taking, and the last one was sufficient to reduce the day's extreme advances substantially, but many leading issues closed $1 to $6 a share higher, and the turnover of 5,544,380 was the largest since October of 1930.

At the best prices, when many stocks were up $2 to $8 a share, it was a market which would have gladdened the hearts of the bulls even in the prosperity-mad days of 1929.

The bond market forged ahead in the last hour, when stocks were slipping off from the crest, and the turnover in this market, at $14,698,000 par value, reached the largest proportions since April, in fact the largest since the leading New York banks formed their $100,000,000 bond investing pool early in June.

$10 to $40 Advance in Bonds
Advances in many issues, particularly rails and utilities, ranged from $10 to $40 per $1,000 bond. Price averages showed the sharpest gain in this market in two months. A wide range of staples participated in the advance. Wheat fut-

Triska Brothers to Appear in Court on Two Charges

Two brothers, Ernest and Frank Triska, will appear in the court of Justice of the Peace B. F. Carter today on information filed by John and Otto Mohnsen, also brothers.

According to Justice Carter, the Triska brothers were arrested Sunday night at the Mullinex pavilion south of Iowa City. The Mohnsen brothers claim that Frank Triska came to the dance intoxicated, and refused to stay away after being thrown out several times.

Ernest Triska came to the defense of his brother, claim the Mohnsens, who were doorknockers, and the two brothers fought the two brothers in a decidedly rough manner.

Ernest is charged with assault and battery, and Frank with intoxication.

Take Goods From Hawkeye Pennant Company Window

Police received the report yesterday morning that robbers took several bolts of felt, corduroy coats and trousers from the Hawkeye Pennant company building, 221 S. Capitol street, sometime Sunday night.

The intruders entered the building through the janitor's quarters in the basement and cut a hole in the wall board to enter the display rooms.

The theft was reported to George H. Frohwein, receiver for the company. He said the missing merchandise had been on display, being offered with other goods in a receiver's sale.

Walker Again Denies Graft

Flays Seabury Inquiry, Urged to Resign Mayorship

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—Mayor James J. Walker, facing a public hearing before Governor Roosevelt Thursday on charges of official misconduct, denied with added vehemence tonight any allegations of wrongdoing.

In a terse four-page communication to the governor, Walker called Samuel Seabury a "reckless and partisan prosecutor" and declared Seabury conducted a "one-sided inquiry" before the Hofstadter legislative committee.

In New York, former Mayor John F. Hyland, issued a statement saying Walker should resign immediately as a protest against what he called the "unfairness and injustice" of being compelled to defend himself in an atmosphere "which is bound to be political."

Walker indicated strongly to New York reporters he would insist upon an opportunity to cross examine witnesses at Thursday's hearing. This was taken to mean he would seek to question Seabury and thus reverse the roles they played at the Hofstadter committee hearings, when Walker was subjected to long interrogation by Seabury.

University Honors Potential Graduates

As a parting gesture before the conferring of degrees, University of Iowa officials will be hosts to the candidates for awards at the traditional graduates' dinner, Prof. Fred G. Higbee, convocation director, has announced.

The last social affair of the summer will occur Aug. 25, beginning two hours before the graduates march in academic procession to the ceremonies at 8 p.m.

Torch Singer Goes Free on $25,000 Bond

Surrenders to County Officers as Hunt Spreads

WENTWORTH, N. C., Aug. 8 (AP)—Libby Holman Reynolds, former Broadway blues singer, was released under $25,000 bail today pending her trial on a charge that she murdered her husband, Smith Reynolds, youthful heir to one-fourth of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions.

The young widow came out of the seclusion which she sought and obtained when officers of several states began a search in an effort to serve an arrest warrant on her, and surrendered to Rockingham county officers shortly before she went into court here with a writ of habeas corpus.

Silent in Court
Dressed in mourning and heavily veiled, she sat silently through the brief proceedings in which the state, through Solicitor Carlisle Higgins, consented to bail, announcing there was insufficient evidence now to support a first degree murder charge.

It was the same announcement as that made by Higgins when Libby's co-defendant, Albert (Ab) Walker, 19 year old Winston-Salem youth who was a chum of Reynolds, obtained his release under $25,000 bond.

Goes to Reidsville
After the hearing, which was witnessed by a crowd that filled the small courthouse, Libby went to Reidsville, seven miles away, in an automobile with her brother, Alfred Holman, Jr., and Dr. M. P. Cummings, Reidsville physician who attended the singer throughout the proceedings.

In concealment since the Forsyth county grand jury indicted her and

Gorilla or Missing Link? Posse Finds Fur-Lined Farmer

OTTUMWA, Aug. 8 (AP)—A hastily-gathered posse hunted a wild gorilla yesterday.

The men hurried to Rutledge, north of here, when farmers told of seeing a fierce looking animal in the woods. They found Andy Meyers, a farmer, gathering honey in a tree he had felled. To protect himself from bees he had donned a white coat and fur mittens. He had a covered with a screen.

You're Never Too Old to Learn, Says Local Airplane Fan

Sunday was octogenarian day at the Boeing airport.

Mrs. Cornelia Little, 86, of the Washington hotel, went into the air for the first time in her life Sunday evening. The trip was suggested to her by M. P. Lumsden, when she went to the airport to watch the Boeing transport arrive from Chicago. She reported that flying was a "grand and glorious feeling."

On the plane which Mrs. Little went to the airport to watch was Edgar W. Dean, 88, of Danville, N. Y. For him, too, it was the first airplane ride. He was travelling from New York to Los Angeles.

U. S. Fund to Meet Deficit Will Fill Hole Left by Falling Gas, Auto Taxes

Iowa's share in the relief fund appropriated by the federal government will probably not be used for new construction work, but will merely make up for the drop in gasoline and automobile license receipts during the next two years, according to a letter sent to the local Chamber of Commerce by F. R. White, chief engineer of the state highway commission.

Mr. White, in answer to queries from the road committee of the Chamber of Commerce concerning the possibility of paying in Johnson county, stated that the drop in these two tax resources this year was approximately $1,500,000.

If the same decrease is shown next year, he pointed out, the federal unemployment relief appropriation of approximately $3,171,000 will just suffice to make up the loss, and the state will be able to do no more than to continue with its present program of road upkeep and repair.

He stated that the highway commission had not learned whether the federal money must be matched by a like amount by the state or any of the conditions of the gift.

The road committee will meet with the highway board in the near future, to discuss plans for paying in this county. David W. Crum, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday.

Put Proposal Up to Corporation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—A proposal that the Reconstruction Finance corporation loan Iowa $20,000,000 for its state sinking fund for public deposits today was placed before local representatives of the corporation.

Attorney General John Fletcher, State Treasurer Ray Johnson and Nell Garrett, assistant attorney general, outlined the plan in a conference with corporation attorneys this afternoon.

Brenneman Pleads Not Guilty of $180 Piggly Wiggly Theft

Not guilty was the plea of Elmer G. Brenneman when arraigned on a charge of larceny in the court of Justice of the Peace B. F. Carter yesterday afternoon.

Brenneman was arrested by Officer Charles Boeck yesterday morning on a charge of stealing $180 from the Piggly Wiggly store at Dubuque street and Iowa avenue last week.

Waiving the grand jury, he was taken to the county jail after failing to pay $1,500 bond set by Justice Carter.

Germans Will Ponder Hitler Party Power

Political Leaders Meet to Consider Part in Government

BERLIN, Aug. 8 (AP)—Within the next few days every one of Germany's outstanding political leaders will be in Berlin to participate in negotiations which will determine what part Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialist party, will play in the government that is to be presented to the reichstag late this month.

The men who will take part in the parleys include Chancellor von Papen, Defense Minister von Schleicher, former Chancellor Bruening, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalist party, and Hitler himself.

Will Attend Celebration
On Thursday President von Hindenburg, who has been at his summer estate, will be in town for the celebration of constitution day.

The president has taken a firm stand against party domination of the cabinet. Previous to the reichstag elections July 31 Herr Hitler asserted that the only way he would join the government would be as its master, but recently there have been indications that the Nazis were willing to participate in a coalition.

Reports published abroad that Hitler had been offered the chancellorship by President von Hindenburg, with the consent of Dr. Bruening's Centrist party, were received with amusement at the chancellery.

Chancellor Will Not Resign
"You can deny that absolutely," said Chancellor von Papen's spokesman. "The chancellor has no intention of resigning."

The Centrists, hitherto opposed to participation in the government by the Nazis, appear to be changing their policy on the theory that Hitler and his followers should become so identified with the ministry that no doubt can exist about their responsibility for its acts.

A government spokesman told the press that even if the Nazis should be taken into the cabinet it would not change the "presidential" character of the ministry—that is, government would rely upon the confidence of President von Hindenburg rather than on the confidence of the reichstag.

Only such Nazis as enjoy the esteem of the venerable president would be invited to take portfolios.

With $900 Raised Plans for 4-H Show Near to Completion

With approximately $900 out of the needed $1,000 raised, with premium lists completed, with the rental of the old cannery factory, and with the engagement of two bands for evening programs, plans for the Johnson county 4-H club show Aug. 17, 18, and 19 are nearing completion.

A 50-piece band led by Cliff Berkeley and the North Liberty quartet will entertain visitors at the show Wednesday night, Aug. 17. The band is composed of Johnson county residents, many of them 4-H club members.

After a program by the Iowa City municipal band led by Elmer Ziegler Thursday, Aug. 18, the county health winners will be announced.

WEATHER

Raises Total Paid by Closed Banks to $797,000

Boosting the total dividends paid to depositors of Iowa City's closed banks to more than $797,000, the First National bank will begin payment of a 40 per cent dividend on all approved claims Thursday morning.

The dividend will total about $230,000 and will benefit more than 1,400 persons.

If all persons who have claims against the bank had filed them for approval by June 19, C. O. Craig, receiver for the bank, said last night, the dividend would have been larger than any yet paid by the five closed banks.

He said that the bank has on hand enough to pay dividends on another quarter of a million dollars at the present time, but that claims have been filed on only about $575,000. If the other claims had been filed, the present dividend would amount to about $320,000.

The bank will open for payment of the money at 9:30 a.m. Thursday. No extra help will be hired to assist in the payment, Mr. Craig said.

Since the five banks in Iowa City closed early this year, three dividends have been paid. Two of these have been paid by the Johnson County Savings bank and the other by the Citizens Savings bank, both under the direction of Ben S. Summerwell, examiner in charge.

The first payment was by the Johnson County Savings bank and amounted to more than $255,000 a 10 per cent dividend on all the claims against the bank. The second by the same bank amounted to about $252,000 and the third, paid by the Citizens Savings bank, totaled $80,000.

Partial reason for the laxity in filing claims against the First National bank is believed to be the difference in the procedure followed by the national and state receiverships.

In the receivership of state banks, claims must be filed only when there is a question as to its classification or validity. In the case of the national bank, filing of claims is required for all payments that are made.

Thursday's dividend includes payments on checking accounts, time and demand certificates, refused cashier's checks and drafts, and other items.

Unmuzzle the Watchdog

NOBODY DENIES that the Stimson "nonrecognition doctrine," born in the Japanese-Chinese dispute last winter and now broadened to include the western hemisphere, is a step forward in international law.

But the rejoicing is dampened a bit on reflection. In the first place, territorial imperialism is not the only kind of international aggression.

That, however, is another problem. The more serious objection here and now is that the watchdog has more bark than bite; for practical purposes he is a muzzled watchdog exerting only a moral restraint by calling attention to the theft or guilty act.

In the Manchurian conflict and in most Latin American troubles the United States has been an accessory because of arms shipments—from rifles to Boeing airplanes.

Constancy

INSURANCE THAT the University of Iowa's radio station, WSUI, will comply as nearly 100 per cent as possible to the regulations of the Federal Radio commission comes with a new commission requirement that the station install a monitor mechanism to check constantly on its operating frequency.

Previous to the installations, which will become universal in radio broadcasting, the radio station kept a check, assisted by reports from the radio district supervisor.

The reports have shown that WSUI has not varied from its assigned frequency of 880,000 cycles by more than 10 cycles in most cases.

No Room for Deficiency

CALIFORNIA State Teachers' college, which is a Pennsylvania school in spite of its name, will admit only 250 freshmen this fall, its president has announced.

Only the applicants for admission who are in possession of complete records of preparatory work and can pass the entrance board examinations will be allowed to enter.

At first glance, it might seem that such a stand means destroying the desire of an individual for education.

The student who is not prepared for college should not be allowed to enter it. If he is lacking in ability he has not a right to expect an institution to pull him through a course of study.

Deficiency in preparation does not entirely mean in scholastic standing. A student with every possible record of merit in preparatory work should not come to a college unless he can afford it.

Ghostly find lessened opportunity to appear in a troubled world. Many that formerly walked on pay days are missing from their accustomed haunts.

Too many people make the mistake of putting up their future happiness as collateral for the loan of a few dollars.

TODAY'S TOPICS

BY FRANK JAFFE

Those who have looked at the rising graph of Wall Street prices during the last few days are justified in raising some question as to the authenticity of the improvement in stocks and bonds.

No one has yet answered the questions in a way to put everyone at ease but indications are that, while the jumps in some stocks have been as much as 400 per cent, the final chart of the boom will show a settling line, nevertheless upward.

Financial commentators are assuring their clients that the stock market has turned the corner—enough to signify that the big pull has started—and that, according to Wall Street tradition, it is enough to steady the operations of the market and dissipate the last remaining shreds of worry over where this country is going to.

A writer in the New York Times points out that since none of the predicted calamities have occurred, the rise in stock prices is fearful enough to show that the financial experts of the country have become less panicky than at any time since the big crash.

He adds that "it probably means that the extreme apprehension regarding the course of events in the immediate future has been shaken or removed."

The bottom, evidently, was reached long before the worst predictions anticipated, but, along the same lines, the return up the hill started long before the expected time.

Trading last Saturday was the heaviest in two years, some 2,728,430 shares changing hands.

A total of approximately $10,000,000,000 has been added to the market values of the stocks listed on the exchange since the upward movement started about three weeks ago.

In the commodity market, however, there are no such indications of upswing; steel production and freight car loadings, two certain indices of business and industry, showing continually sagging quotations.

Government agencies may be at work behind the scenes, the Wall Street engineers may have hand-fashioned the sudden spurt—nevertheless, if it attains its objective of stimulating business and industry, buying and selling, and brings the color back to the pale cheeks of money and credit operators, what more could anyone ask?

Florida Rests Case Against British Flyer

Murder Trial Involves Famous Australian Aviatix

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 8 (AP)—The state rested its case against Capt. W. N. Lancaster today at the close of an hysterical session in which Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller told of her love for Lancaster and young Hadson Clarke, the man Lancaster is accused of slaying.

Lancaster was placed on the stand as the first defense witness. He said he was 34 and had served with the Australian and English forces in the World war. He did not appear nervous, but seemed eager to get his story before the jury.

Laughter, Tears
Mrs. Keith-Miller's testimony was given between laughter and tears. There were frequent verbal clashes between the diminutive aviatrix and N. Vernon Hawthorne, the prosecutor.

At one instance she said she would "die for" Lancaster, but when Hawthorne asked if she had not been a "traitor" to him, she answered sharply: "You don't understand our situation."

Since the death of Clarke, to whom she had become engaged, she said she had learned that "he lied to me about many things" and that she no longer loved his memory. She said his "physical condition was incorrectly attributed to me. I didn't object," she added, weeping, "for I was passionately in love with him."

Court Room Listens
A court room crowd listened intently as Mrs. Keith-Miller told of her love—first for Lancaster and then for Clarke, a writer who was preparing for publication her life story.

Lancaster, she said, she had never loved passionately, but that she had always intended to marry him before Clarke came into her life. Clarke was shot to death in her home April 21. Lancaster also was a guest there.

She said Lancaster would die for her, and Hawthorne asked her if he would lie or steal. She said he did neither, but Hawthorne persisted: "Wouldn't he steal a chicken for you?"

Would Steal Chickens
"Yes, he would do that," the witness answered, laughing. Hawthorne referred to excerpts from Lancaster's diary in which Lancaster said he and Clarke sometimes stole chickens and rabbits for food.

She told of two "suicide" notes found near Clarke's body which Lancaster later said were forgeries. "Were you not as greatly surprised to learn that Lancaster wrote the notes as you would have been if he had said he killed Clarke?" Hawthorne asked.

"Most decidedly so," Mrs. Keith-Miller said she and Clarke had discussed suicide. Ernest Huston, one-time business associate of Lancaster, was recalled and told of his visit to the Keith-Miller home on the night of the shooting. He said the pistol near Clarke was covered with blood.

A Daily Hint to Hostesses on Tempting Appetites While It's Hot

Appetizers

Appetizers are most important to the hostess of today. They can be served on either toasted or untoasted bread, and may be varied in a number of ways. An appetizer is never very large, as its name denotes, but it is usually rather delicate and attractively garnished.

Following is a list of appetizers suggested by Mrs. Edward F. Mason, 407 S. Dodge street.

Cut toast in rounds or finger strips according to the appetizer to be served on it.

Brown sardines in the oil in which they are canned. Place on toast. Cover with hot catsup and sprinkle with grated yolks of hard boiled eggs.

Mash tuna fish and moisten with mayonnaise. Mold on round of toast and garnish with stuffed olives.

Mix canned salmon with finely chopped celery. Moisten with mayonnaise and serve on rounds of toast. Garnish with cucumber slices.

Cover a round of toast with one slice of tomato and one thin slice of American cream cheese. Criss cross two slices of bacon on top. Place under a broiler until heated through.

Spread toast fingers with equal parts of cream cheese and peanut butter blended. Garnish with strips of pimento and green pepper alternating.

Add canned crab meat to thick cream sauce. Spread on toast. Sprinkle with grated cheese and serve hot.

Fill tiny tomatoes with a mixture of equal parts of canned lobster and finely cut celery. Mash with mayonnaise and garnish with capers. Serve on round of toast.

MONEY MARTS

Profit Taking Fails to Halt Gains

tures at Chicago advanced 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents a bushel, getting up roughly 10 cents from the year's low. Hides were a bull feature of the New York futures markets, advancing 3-10 to 5-10 of a cent a pound, in the largest turnover in nine months, aggregating 4,600,000 pounds. Butter and eggs reached new highs for the moment at Chicago, and in New York advances were registered by rubber, silk, copper, silver, raw sugar, coffee, and cocoa.

Discourage Rumors

Leading Wall street bankers discouraged rumors of the formation of pools to boost commodities, but indicated that they would participate in the plan suggested by Eugene Meyer to form a large fund, possibly as much as $100,000,000, from which loans would be made to finance the movement of raw materials to fabricators.

There was considerable difference of opinion among leading bankers as to the feasibility of the plan, but officials of some of the leading banks felt reasonably certain that definite action would be taken, probably first in cotton.

Financing Movement

The plan contemplates the financing of the movement of 3,300,000 bales of cotton held by the farm board and the co-operatives to the mills. Wall street has regarded the farm board holdings as a sort of sword of Damocles hanging over the markets, and a number of bankers have been anxious to get the board out of markets, expressing the hope that would be once and for all.

Rumors persisted that a powerful speculative group was interesting itself in wheat, but a number of leading bankers asserted that their institutions were distinctly not interested in any speculative maneuvers, but purely in extending sound commercial credit.

AUSTIN, Minn., Aug. 8 (AP)—Dan Taylor of Algona, Ia., reported that he had been held up by a gunman who obtained $5 and a $100 postal deposit certificate.

Canada Asks High Empire Lumber Wall

Measure Will Injure Soviet Russia Exports

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 8 (AP)—Lumber appeared today to have superseded wheat as the major commodity on which Canada will demand British tariff preferences at the imperial economic conference.

If this demand is met, it will mean Soviet Russia will be pushed out of a good part of the British lumber market which she has been enjoying the last few years.

Leaders Confer

Shortly after the arrival here of the premiers and other high officials of the maritime provinces and British Columbia, it was reported that Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada and Stanley Baldwin, leader of the British delegation, met at a private conference.

They were understood to be considerably concerned by the growing agitation on the part of dominion lumber men against British purchases of Russian timber.

To Supply One-Third

Canada, which has an enormous supply of exportable lumber, is prepared to ship one-third of the United Kingdom's annual imports of 4,100,000,000 board feet worth $140,000,000. At present the dominion supply is only 44 per cent and Soviet Russia ships 36.7 per cent.

Canadian and British lumber interests said in a joint statement that the dominion could sell Great Britain 1,000,000,000 board feet a year of soft woods. This would be one-quarter of the British requirements. Now Canada furnishes one-twentieth.

Increased Preference

To bring about such shipments, the statement said, it would be necessary for the British to increase the present preference on Canadian lumber from 10 to 20 or 25 per cent. There has been considerable agitation against the United States tariff of $3 per 1,000 feet, but export figures subsequent to June 21 are said to show that the drop in Canadian exchange has almost nullified the tariff.

Small U. S. Import

The American market is of small consequence to Canada in comparison to the British market.

The extent to which American lumber interests might be affected by an agreement between Britain and Canada may be seen in these statistics: last year the United States exported to Great Britain rough southern pine valued at $1,234,000, southern pine boards and planks worth $818,000, Douglas fir boards and planks worth $1,232,000, and Douglas fir rough timbers worth $270,000.

Gives Views of Arms Parley

Delegate Says Confident of Ultimate Success for Disarmament

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Reporting today on his European assignment as American arms conference delegate, Senator Swanson of Virginia expressed optimism over ultimate cuts in world armaments, but said diplomats would have to abandon "feather dusters" and use force if pledges emanating from Geneva are to be made effective.

Declaring all nations now were interested intensely in the economic problem, the Virginian, who is ranking Democrat on the senate foreign relations committee, asserted "real plain talk" and an improved political situation in Europe would be required to bring the Geneva promises to accomplishment.

The senator withheld an opinion on the inclusion of war debt revision in a general economic parley as proposed by Chairman Borah of the committee.

He joined with Governor Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee, in advocating removal of tariff "barriers" as a quick means of stimulating international trade.

Sportively Speaking

By Ron Tallman

The track and field portion of the 1932 Olympic Games has been concluded and the United States is crowned champion again.

As a comparison of the team strength of the U. S. against the rest of the competing nations, take a glance at the totals of the following countries, of which Finland with 72 was the closest.

The big finale Sunday was a continuation of the unprecedented record smashing which marked the Games from the opening.

The 400 meter relay team, composed of Bob Keisel, Hec Dyer, Emmett Toppino and Frank Wykoff, the dashmen who failed to qualify for competition in the individual events, pulled off the distance in an average of 10 seconds for each man's 100 meters.

In the 1,600 meter event, which is but a few yards short of a mile, George Bresnahan's quartet turned in another startling time.

Ivan Fuqua of Indiana reeled off a 47.1 quarter to start the record performance. Ed Ablowich of Southern California followed with 47.6 and Karl Warner of Yale stepped his part of the race in 47.3.

That surprising Texas girl, Babe Didrikson, failed to win her third Olympic title when she placed second in the high jump, even though she did better her world mark.

As a result of their play over the week end of the complete folding up of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Chicago Cubs and Manager Charley Grimm find themselves but a game and a half out of first place.

For an indefinite period the Cubs find themselves without the services of Rolfe Hemsley, catcher. He was suspended by Manager Grimm Saturday morning because of his "hell raising" during the series with the Phils.

AS CARR WON CROWN AT OLYMPICS

There is now no doubt as to who is the best quarter-mile runner in the world. Bill Carr of the University of Pennsylvania decisively won the crown by beating Ben Eastman of Stanford and a crack field of the field yards behind. The U. of P. star set a new world record of 46.2 seconds.

DISPUTED FINISH AT OLYMPICS

Running practically a dead heat Lauri Lehtinen of Finland (left) and Ralph Hill of Oregon are shown finishing the 5,000 meter (3 miles 188 yards) race at the Olympic Games. The decision awarding the race to Lehtinen was booed by the crowd of 60,000 as it was thought by many that the Finn deliberately prevented Hill from passing him on the homestretch.

Iowa Coach Gets Results

Write into the records another relay triumph for a Bresnahan-coached quartet and the Hawkeye style of baton-passing and quarter mile running.

Because the American team, tutored by George T. Bresnahan, University of Iowa track coach and now a member of the Olympic staff, won the 1,600-meter relay Sunday at Los Angeles in the sensational time of 3:08.2, lowering its own world's record-shattering mark of 3:11.8 set in a trial heat the previous day.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Phillies pennant hopes were given another jolt today when they dropped two games to the St. Louis Cardinals for their fourth successive defeat. The world champions won the opener, 7 to 6, and then took the nightcap 6 to 4, in 11 innings.

In the first game Sylvester Johnson sailed along fine for six innings, holding the Phillies to one hit. The Philadelphia sluggers got busy in the seventh and with Don Hurst parking his twentieth home run in the bleachers and George Davis also hitting one, the Phillies scored all of their runs. Officials Blunder on Many Decisions in Big Carnival

By GENE THORNE (Sports Editor, The Daily Iowan) LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5 (Friday)—Never in the history of modern track has their appeared such an orgy of record smashing as is being indulged in by the athletes of the tenth Olympiad.

Olympic and world's records continue to pass into oblivion as the greatest of all athletic festivals progresses. The track is kept in perfect shape, and the warm sun, with almost no wind, has favored the track since the opening day.

Distance Runs Popular

The distance runs are proving extremely popular with the crowds, which now average more than 65,000 daily. The Phils, although they have failed to come through with expected victories in some cases, attract much attention. None of them pay any attention to the rest of the runners, especially in the preliminary heats, but watch their wrist watches closely. They step out to sprint whenever necessary.

Blunder on Discus

Outside of the reference of the officials to the movies before making their choice, the worst blunder by the judges was in the discus for men.

Both the pole vault and the discus were run off at the same time, and as the bar was raised in the vault, interest became keen. Just as Nishida of Japan was attempting to clear 14 feet, Noel of France cut loose with his longest heave of the day. A roar went up from the spectators.

MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY
BY ANTHONY ABBOT

SYNOPSIS
At 11:30 on New Year's Eve, Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt arrives at the exclusive Mayfair Club in response to a mysterious summons from District Attorney Merle Dougherty. The latter informs Colt he believes Lola Carewe, known as "The Night-Club Lady," widow of Gaylord Gifford, the cotton millionaire is the "higher-up" responsible for numerous jewel robberies perpetrated recently which baffle the police. Though her husband died practically penniless, Lola lives in luxury. She arrives at the Mayfair accompanied by Vincent Rowland, an attorney. At Lola's urgent request, Colt joins her party. She voices the fear that she will not leave Mayfair alive.

CHAPTER FOUR

"WHAT Miss Carewe says is not an exaggeration," declared old Rowland, with smooth authority. "I consider that she is in urgent need of police advice and protection."
Out of the pause that followed, came Colt's voice, clear, masculine and precise:
"Why do you think you will be killed?"
"I have been warned of what will happen to me!"
"Personally?"
"The warning was clear enough—for me!"
Colt looked at her, for the first time showing the slightest interest. "A practical joke?" he suggested. She laughed at him searchingly.
"Mr. Colt, would you consider it a practical joke, if you had a dog that you had loved for years, and someone killed him?"
Colt's cigarette burned neglected between his fingers.
"That was done to my dog a week ago," Lola rushed on.
Into the gaze of Thatcher Colt had leaped a gleam of resentment—the chief was not a dog-lover, but any wanton killing stirred his resentment.
"That sounds—far-fetched!" he protested. "Where was your dog killed—in your apartment?"
"On the terrace, outside my bedroom window."
"And at what hour?"
"Late at night, while we were all asleep—my maid, my mother, and Christine Quires, a girl friend who is stopping with me."
"How was he killed?" asked Colt.
"I don't know. We just found him dead!"
Was this all that had alarmed the beauty? Yet there was no mistaking the fear that possessed Lola Carewe.
"Has anything else happened to alarm you?" asked Colt politely.
Lola shivered.
"Yesterday," she disclosed, "my pet parrot, Pandy Boo, given to me by my late husband, also died."
"How?"
"I don't know."
"Wasn't it poisoned?"
"That's the queer part. Of course I thought so. But I sent the poor thing to an animal hospital. They could find no trace of any poison at all."
Colt nodded thoughtfully.
"Still, isn't it probably only a coincidence?" he suggested.
"Not after what happened to-night."
"Just listen to this, Mr. Colt," urged Vincent Rowland, as he leaned forward. All eyes were now on Lola.
"Only an hour ago, I found a letter in the mail box in the lobby of my apartment house, as I came downstairs with Mr. Rowland. You see, Mr. Colt, we had not intended coming to Mayfair tonight. We were bound for the Lion's Paw, the new club out near Rockville Center. But as soon as we read this note, I felt I must get to you about it. We telephoned your office, then your home—your butler told me you would be here. Vincent, show Mr. Colt that letter."

The aged lawyer gravely produced a plain white envelope, from which the Commissioner drew a single sheet of ruled note paper. The message was written in cheap brownish ink, the awkward block letters apparently formed with painful care, and read:
"We have already killed the only two creatures that you ever had any real love for. Now we come to you. You are going to die before three o'clock. No human being can save you."
There was no signature. Colt carefully folded the paper and passed it to me.
"If someone meant to take your life, why warn you about it?" he objected, frowning. "The act of sending such a warning should be a psychological clue to the writer's identity."
The waiter brought the dishes of their order. Lola Carewe toyed with her fork, then lifted it, about to taste a curry of lamb and rice. Colt's voice, casual, indifferent, stayed her:
"I would not eat that if I really felt—"
"Of course," she murmured. "What a silly fool I would be to touch anything now."
"Ah, my dear Colt, then you do take this threat seriously," exclaimed Vincent Rowland with deep satisfaction.
"Miss Carewe's life may be in danger," granted Colt, tamping out his cigarette. "At least, I think she should be well-guarded tonight. I shall be glad to put some of our picked men at her disposal."
A little cry came from Lola Carewe and a grunt of disappointment from Rowland. Dougherty was staring meaningfully at the Commissioner.
"Miss Carewe had hoped for your personal handling of this case," he said to the elderly attorney. "And so, in fact, did I. It would be a great favor to me."
"I feel that only you can save my life, Mr. Colt," shuddered Lola, her white fingers quivering as they toyed with her ruby. "No one else—I am really terrified."
"Thatcher," cried Dougherty, "we can't pass this up. It's natural—you understand."
Colt nodded slowly.
"Very well," he yielded. "I shall be glad to supervise your protection by the Police Department,—if you think you need that. But only on my own terms."
"Anything?" cried Lola.
"And what are your terms?" from Vincent Rowland.
"That you, Miss Carewe, place yourself and your household entirely in my hands. We must go to your home at once—and you must answer all my questions."
"Willingly," Lola Carewe agreed, with a docile, child-like gaze.
"There must be no deviation of any kind from police orders!" emphasized Colt.
"You shall be the boss," she promised, laughing with an effort at lightness.
Poor Lola! If she had only kept that promise!

Five minutes later I was talking to Headquarters from a telephone booth under the staircase outside the Crystal Room. At the other end of the wire was Inspector Flynn. I was transmitting Colt's orders.
"The chief wants detectives and one woman operative sent at once to the apartment house at Number 700 East Fifty-eighth Street. Tell them to meet us in the hallway on the twenty-second floor. Fix it with the apartment house manager. And the chief says to step on it."
"O and also K," growled Inspector Flynn as he hung up.
Emerging from the telephone booth, I found Detective H. H. Harris, of the Fifth Avenue Squad, waiting for us. Harris was assigned to Mayfair every Saturday night. He was a first-grade detective, promoted as are all the New York detectives from the list of the uniformed ranks—a dark-haired man with a soulful expression, whose popularity with the opposite sex gained the Police Department many valuable tips. Colt had directed Harris to assist me.
"Everything set," Harris told me. "The Commissioner's car is now in front of the Forty-sixth Street entrance. Three motorcycle patrolmen are standing by. Would you mind telling me what all this is about?"
I pretended not to hear him as I reclaimed hat, stick, and overcoat and led the way up the red-carpeted stairs. Through the glass of the revolving doors, I saw the chief's car, and the round, moon-like face of the chauffeur, Neil McMahon, impassive as a Buddha above the steering wheel. The air was filled with whirling snowflakes, and the wind made a harsh sound. I was suddenly overpowered by a sense of unreality. This New Year's Eve adventure seemed remote, bizarre, incredible. The three patrolmen were huddled together like blue night-birds in the storm. The shields on their breasts gleamed brightly. One of them coughed. These men, Colt's car, the storm—all were real—but Lola Carewe's death-threat...

When our party left the Ritz Carlton Hotel that night, Lola was under strict and adequate police guard. Quickly she entered the Commissioner's car, and sat in the middle of the rear seat. Colt rode at her left, and I at her right. Dougherty and Rowland occupied the folding seats in front of us, and Detective Harris sat beside the chauffeur in front. At a word from Colt, we started off at break-neck speed through the slithering ice of the winter streets, followed by three chugging motorcycles.
"The glass of these windows is bullet-proof," Dougherty explained. For no apparent reason, Vincent Rowland laughed softly.
"Am I to take it that we are now impregnable from attack?" he queried.
The District Attorney did not reply. The car stopped before the marquee of an apartment house, a thin, tall tower on the brink of the East River. Except for the three uniformed motorcycle officers, the sidewalk seemed deserted. Shivering in the dismal cold, we hurried into the lobby. With an unnatural sense of apprehension, I looked around me. So definite and so defiant had been the threat against this woman's life and Thatcher Colt had taken it so seriously, that I was prepared to see an assassin in every dark corner.
The first three places for the United States.
Alfred Phillips of Canada was fourth, almost 20 points in the rear of the American trio, followed by Leo Essar of Germany, and Kazuo Kobayashi of Japan.
The first three diving places thrust the United States into the team lead with 27, against 18 for Japan, 3 for Canada and 2 for Germany.
Dutch Girl Second
One second behind Miss Madison in the 100 meter free style final was Willimjntje Den Ouden, 14 year old Dutch girl.
Helene took the lead after the first 25 meters and increased her advantage with every stroke on the home stretch. Third was Mrs. Eleanor Geratti Saville of San Francisco, only a stroke behind the Hollander. Josephine McKim of Los Angeles came in fourth.
These placings gave the United States the women's team 17 points with 5 for Holland 2 for Australia and 1 for South Africa.
Yokoyama flashed the best form in the 400 meter heats, but he was forced all the way by James Gilhula, United States, who was credited with a time of 4:53.3 only one-tenth of a second slower than the winner.
Taris Not Pushed
Jean Taris of France, an applicant for the world's record at 4 minutes 47 seconds, took things easy in his heat, matching the second best time of the day, 4:53.3. But he was not pushed as was Yokoyama.
The other two outstanding competitors, Andrew Charlton, Australia, and Clarence Crabbe, United States, competitors in the 1200 meters, won their heats in the identical time of 4:59.8, but each was almost the length of the plunge ahead of his opponent at the finish.
Alberto Zorilla, the defending champion from Argentina, failed to appear for his heat. Harry Barthels, United States third entry, also was missing. He was in a hospital with pneumonia.

In the Hawkeye league, the feature game of the evening was the free slugging contest between the Kublets and the Purity Bakers which wound up in a 12 to 12 tie, the former team retaining its first place tie with the Idle Elks. ## I.A.A.F. Shelves Nurmi Issue

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8 (AP)—Finland, storm-center of the tenth Olympiad, claimed at least a partial triumph today in the legislative maneuvers when the International Amateur Athletic federation, after voting itself blanket powers of suspension by a one-vote margin, then did a right-about face and decided to shelve for two years the entire issue growing out of the celebrated Paavo Nurmi case.
After listening to a good deal of oratorical aftermath to the track and field sports, which it governs, the I.A.A.F. ballotted 13 to 12 in favor of a resolution giving the executive council power to suspend any member nation or any athlete which, in its opinion, had violated the amateur rules, subject only to an appeal to the whole congress.
"Vote of Confidence"
In effect, this was a hard won

Loses Hand

BOONE, Aug. 8 (AP)—J. P. Davitt, 76, suffered the loss of his left hand Sunday night when he fainted and fell partly across a railroad track.
The sweeping price advances had caught the public imagination seemed hardly open to dispute, and the market's strongest talking point was undoubtedly its own action.

"vote of confidence" for the executive council, which had suspended Nurmi for alleged professionalism last April over Finland's protest, and then rejected the Finnish star's entry for the Olympics without passing definitely on his status.
So sharply divided was the general opinion that S. J. Edstrom of Sweden, president of the federation, was instrumental in having the whole issue reconsidered, with unanimous consent, and then put into the hands of a committee of seven for study, preparatory to action at the next congress of the I.A.A.F. in 1934.

U. S. Casts Deciding Vote
The United States created a surprise by casting the deciding vote on the compromise proposal to give the executive council the drastic power it had asked for. The American delegation was not entirely harmonious on this but its single vote was finally cast in support of the administration of Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the A.A.U. The United States thus lined up with the other larger countries, including Great Britain, Germany, Sweden, France, Canada and Japan. Finland's opposition fight was supported by Denmark, Belgium, New Zealand, Poland, Argentina and Brazil, among others.

Suspension Still Holds
A second proposal, sponsored by Finland, to "censure" the executive council for its disciplinary action against Nurmi on the ground this was illegal, was disposed of quickly, with Finland casting the only vote for it.

Meanwhile no action was taken to lift the suspension, although Finnish delegates claimed not only a victory in shelving the proposition to clothe the council with extraordinary powers but, moreover, that Paavo is still officially an amateur and entitled to compete anywhere as such.
"We will sanction Nurmi as an amateur at home or abroad," declared L. J. Miettinen of Finland. Other officials were not so sure they would permit Nurmi to continue in amateur competition.

The federation concluded its afternoon session by deciding to hold the next congress in Stockholm, in August, 1934, and to consider sponsoring the same year a series of continental track and field championship meets.

Stocks Move Fastest Since October '30

Profit-Taking Fails to Do Away With New Market Gains

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Financial markets refused to swerve from recently charted courses today; rather, they set additional sail, catching a wind that at times approached gale proportions.
Stocks, far from intimidated by last week's record, stormed upward in a turnover of 5,544,350 shares, the largest since October, 1930, when the market was taking the opposite direction. Bonds came forward in the last hour when stocks were faltering under profit-taking, the investment market's average rise being approximately a full point.
Shares closed well under their highs, but net gains of many leaders ranged from 1 to 6 points. At the best they were up roughly 2 to 8, with strength once more well distributed, although motors, utilities and rails showed prominently.
Realizing sales surged through the stock list at intervals, but not until the last hour did they cut much of a dent. Then American Telephone dropped from 114 1/4 to a closing of 110 1/4, making the net gain 2 1/8. Union Pacific more than halved a 7 point advance. Santa Fe, which had been up 8, closed 6 1/8 to the good. U. S. Steel touched 44 3/8, or about 3 points up, and cut its gain to a fraction. Case took a 5 1/2 point rally and was a point net higher. ## THE "BABE" DOES SOME STEPPING

You've got to go some to beat that Didrikson girl as the women athletes at the Olympic Games will testify. Here is the famous Texas "one gal track team" winning the finals of the 80 meter hurdles in 11.7 seconds, a new world record and her second for the games. On the Babe's right is Evelyn Hall of Chicago, finishing second. Mabel Clark of South Africa, placed third. national Harvester, Air Reduction, and Loew's closed lower. A large number of leading industrials, rails and utilities held 1 to about 3 points of better advances.
That the sweeping price advances had caught the public imagination seemed hardly open to dispute, and the market's strongest talking point was undoubtedly its own action.

Low Rent to Help Students of University

Men, Women to Receive Benefit of New Plan

Lodging at 13.1 cents per day will add 100 University of Iowa men students in their efforts to reduce expenses, while comparatively low room rates likewise will benefit 100 women from September to June.

The men who could not attend the university without such low room rates will live on the third floor of the field house, and the women will be quartered in Eastlawn, dormitory three blocks from Old Capitol.

$36 Per Year

It was announced yesterday that each man would pay only $36 for the entire year. The field house lodgers will be housed in a single room, 200 feet long by 22 feet wide with a 30-foot ceiling, and will do their studying in another large room.

A steel locker and complete bedding for each single bed will be furnished and study desks will be available. In charge of the men will be a scholarship adviser or proctor, following the system used in the Quadrangle, men's dormitory. They may eat at the Quadrangle for $4 per week or less.

Women to Pay $90

Women at Eastlawn will be charged $90 for the year or about $4.7 cents per day. By working an hour and a half each day, the Eastlawn residents will receive board for $93.50, just half of the regular rate.

Applications are being received by the dean of men and the dean of women and it is expected that the quota will be reached before the university opens Sept. 25. Only students actually in need of such assistance and those of good scholarship qualifications will be accepted.

First Assessment of Iowa Utility Properties Shows $10,000,000 Rise in Value

State Board Confident Just Valuation Accorded

DES MOINES, Aug. 8 (AP)—Assessing all Iowa public utility properties for the first time, the state board of assessment and review today announced an increase of more than $10,000,000 in the assessed value of electric, gas and waterworks properties.

The 1932 assessed value of all electric, gas and waterworks utilities was placed at $45,436,483 as compared to a 1931 assessed value of $34,101,992.

Total Gain
This increase, together with the figures previously announced on other utilities, brought the total gain the assessed value of the utilities, exclusive of telephone company properties, to $3,136,951.

The 1932 figures on other utilities included: railroads $265,810,203 as compared to $281,176,134 in 1931; interurbans, $8,377,647 as compared to $9,463,550; sleeping cars, $1,846,839 as compared to $1,847,754 and railway express agency, $347,116 as compared to $400,639.

In announcing its figures today the board said its work of surveying assessments locally made revealed that outstanding inequalities obtained. Many inequalities were corrected, its members said, expressing belief that for the first time a fair and just assessment had been brought about.

Street Railways Decline
Commenting on the decline in the value of street railways, the board said that this was only natural there being only four or five remaining in the state. "Transportation is now in a transitional stage," it said, "and with the enormous increase in automobiles each street railway finds itself with many thousands of competitors and the industry is a declining and vanishing one."

The board also announced detailed assessments placed on a long list of Iowa Public Service company properties and placed the assessed valuation of the Sioux City Gas and Electric company at $6,600,496.

U.S. Geologist Confers Here

Soil Investigator in City to Meet With Dean Kay

Curtis F. Marbut, geologist, who since 1910 has been head of soil investigation for the United States department of agriculture, is in Iowa City to confer today with Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts, who is also state geologist and head of the geology department at the university.

The conference will cover matters of mutual interest in relation to deposits made in connection with the ice sheets.

Mr. Marbut is visiting several states in the Mississippi valley on his trip. He was formerly a professor of geology and curator of the university museum at the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo. From 1905 to 1913 he was director of soil survey in the state of Missouri.

A member of Sigma Xi, national honorary research society, and of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, as well as of several geological, geographical, agricultural organizations, Mr. Marbut is prominent in soil investigation all over the world, according to Dean Kay.

Iris plants at Columbia, S. C., have bloomed continuously for several months this year—unusual, residents say.

Racing Car Driver to Demonstrate New Type of Rocket Car

DES MOINES, Aug. 8 (AP)—The latest type of rocket car, which is powered by explosive rockets, will be exhibited at the Iowa State fair Aug. 26 to Sept. 2.

Sig Haugdahl, noted dirt track racing driver, and Benjamin Lamantia, Italian pyrotechnic expert, developed the machine to be shown here. Haugdahl will drive it in the exhibition here.

The car is built of aluminum, and has a capacity of 32 rockets. It has never been driven at its maximum speed, but, theoretically, it can attain a speed of about 500 miles an hour. The rockets are released by electrical controls on the dash board.

So many surprises have been experienced in experiments with rocket cars that racing drivers call this type the "Frankenstein of the race track."
