Money Views of Roosevelt in Limelight

Prohibition Put Aside at Least for Time Being

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The views of Franklin D. Roosevelt on the handling of the economic situation—past and future—have for the time at least overshadowed prohibition and all else in the presidential campaign.

Ever since President Hoover accepted renomination last week with a lengthy exposition of the administration position, the Democratic nominee's speech of today in Ohio has been awaited the more.

Economics to Hold Sway
Now that he has advanced propositions of economic policy, while at the same time charging the administration with having "prolonged and deepened" the depression through "staggering" and being "not frank—not honest—with the people," arguments on the economic issue bid fair to hold sway.

Mills Repeats Charges
Secretary Mills in Rhode Island yesterday repeated the Republican view that the Democrats have no economic program to offer but "contradiction piled upon contradiction and confusion added to confusion."

Secretary Hurley goes into the same state next week to make the administration rejoinder to today's Roosevelt speech, in which the Democratic nominee said the Republicans are proposing no solution to the economic difficulties "except more debts, more conferences under the same bewildered leadership; more government money in business and no government attempt to wrestle with basic problems."

And so it goes, with prohibition another vehicle for the give and take between the party members that is bound to accelerate as November draws near.

One Killed as Electric Train Leaves Rails

KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 20 (AP)—A Chicago woman was killed and 23 persons were injured when a North Shore electric train left the rails and plowed into a field three miles south of here this afternoon.

The three car train, north bound from Chicago to Milwaukee, twisted rails and shattered ties for 200 yards. Then the first car rolled down an embankment and stopped upside down in an alfalfa field.

The two other cars tore away from the first, bumped off the ties a short distance and finally stopped on the right of way, leaning at a precarious angle.

A hundred passengers were thrown about in the careening cars. Those in the first car were hurled violently from floor to ceiling as it rolled into the field.

Partner in Alleged Slugging, Robbery of Kent Waives Grand Jury

James Stull of Oskaloosa, partner of Ray Silva of Davenport in the alleged robbery and slugging of Lloyd Kent, 562 Grant street, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace B. F. Carter yesterday, pleaded not guilty, waived the grand jury, and was taken to the county jail in default of $5,000 bond.

He is accused of robbing Kent near the Rock Island station about 11 p. m. Wednesday, and then slugging Kent over the head with a brick pin. Kent escaped and called police, who found Stull and his companion, Silva, standing near the station.

Mercury Strains Back Up to Usual Summer Standard

Up the long scale of August weather the mercury climbed an arduous four points yesterday, straining back into the 80's by one degree.

With the slow rise in temperature came also a few wandering clouds. They were long ragged tufts, like scattered filling from a comforter.

What breeze there was was light and not very assertive. It came slowly from the west. At 7 p. m. the temperature had fallen to a comfortable 68 degrees.

Three Alleged Killers Silent

Held in Council Bluffs on Charge of Slaying Racketeer

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Aug. 20 (AP)—Three Texans, held in connection with the slaying of Angelo Sivigliano, 31 year old former Kansas City racketeer, were removed from Omaha late today and placed in the Pottawattamie county jail here.

Sivigliano was found shot to death on a highway near Glenwood, a week ago tonight. Mills county authorities questioned the trio here late today, but the Texans remained silent.

The men are Archie M. Jenkins and C. J. Hester, both of Houston, and Ralph Arnold of Dallas. An Omaha ballistics expert has decided bullets fired from Jenkins gun are similar to the nine which killed Sivigliano.

County Attorney W. W. Gilliland of Glenwood is preparing a complaint charging Jenkins with slaying, and said that in view of the fact that more than one person participated in the shooting, the other men will be held.

Will Enlarge Union Library Director Says

Enlargement of the Iowa Union library situated just off the main lounge was announced yesterday by Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of Iowa Union.

To be completed by the time school opens in September, the addition to the present reading room will increase the capacity of the library to a total of about 2,000. Mr. Fitzgerald said, by adding some 650 books.

It will also more than double the space available to readers.

The addition, to join the west walls of the present library, will utilize the northeast corner of the sun porch. The velvet curtains which are used to separate this section of the porch will be kept drawn, and bookcases eight feet high and built in removable sections will be placed against it, with the curtains as a background, thus forming one wall of the new room.

The ornamental wrought iron gates forming the west entrance to the present reading room will be kept open to provide passage between the two rooms.

Furnishings for the new part will be continued with the same motif as those in the present library, and will consist of green carpets and hangings, tan furniture, and curtains over the windows.

The furnishings, including the bookcases, can be removed to other quarters so that this part of the sun porch may be used for all-university parties and on other occasions when maximum space is desired.

Four Die

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 20 (AP)—Four Butte men were asphyxiated today by accumulated sewer gas in an excavation. One of the dead was a fire department captain. Three other firemen were overcome but physicians said they will live.

Roosevelt Outlines Nine Point Economic Program in Initial Presidential Campaign Talk

Attacks Republican Administration, Platform

COLUMBUS, Aug. 20 (AP)—Nine "fundamental" economic remedies, which he said were for the protection of the "great mass of average American men and women," were proposed today by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt as he fired the opening gun in his road campaign for the presidency.

Charging that the president's acceptance speech and the Republican platform are "empty of hope," the Democratic standard bearer also aimed a four-barreled attack at the Hoover administration.

Thousands Hear
Thousands who had jammed the streets to cheer the New York governor as he arrived in the city earlier in the day, sat in a baseball stadium to hear his first-away-from-home campaign speech. He was introduced by James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio.

"I propose an orderly, explicit and practical group of fundamental remedies," Governor Roosevelt declared. "These will protect not the few, but the great mass of average American men and women, who, I am not ashamed to repeat, have been forgotten by those in power."

Nine Proposals
His nine proposals are:
1. Prevention of the issuance of "manufactured and unnecessary securities of all kinds, which are brought out merely for the purpose of enriching those who handle their sale." And a requirement that sellers of legitimate securities disclose their bonuses and commissions.
2. Full federal regulation of "holding companies which sell securities in interstate commerce."
3. Federal authority in the regulation of buying and selling securities and commodities.

Bank Supervision
4. More rigid supervision of national banks "for the protection of depositors."
5. Discouragement and prevention of the "unrestrained use of bank deposits in speculation, to the detriment of local credit."
6. Separation of investment banking and commercial banking.
7. Restriction of federal reserve banks, whose funds, prior to 1929, (Turn to Page 7)

Iowa Graduate Named to Head Publication

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 20 (AP)—James F. Barton, national adjutant of the American Legion in the last seven years, today was appointed general manager of the American Legion (monthly) Publishing company.

Barton fills the vacancy created by the death of Robert F. Smith, killed while mountain climbing in Colorado. Barton is a graduate of the University of Iowa law school.

National Farmers Holiday Instigator Looks Forward to Great Economic Reform

"War" Shows Success at Sioux City, Says Reno

DES MOINES, Aug. 20 (AP)—The mind that conceived the National Farmers Holiday association envisions the development of the movement into the greatest economic reform in the nation's history.

Milo Reno in an interview today discussed the growing momentum of the organization he founded and now leads, price increases already achieved by blockades around Sioux City, and the eagerness with which thousands of farmers have pledged themselves to cease marketing their products until they get production costs plus fair profits for them.

Two Fundamentals
These show the progress of the movement, he said, but bigger things are hoped for.

"If we can establish two fundamentals in the minds of the public,"

IN ROOSEVELT'S HANDS

Here is an unusual view of New York's city hall, the fate of which is bound up with the present Walker-Seabury hearing before Governor Roosevelt. Rumors have circulated to the effect that Mayor Walker (upper right) may resign before the governor announces his decision in the case. In such event the mayor could stand for re-election next November. But if ousted by the governor, Walker would be succeeded by the president of the board of aldermen, Joseph V. McKee (left), who would serve out the mayor's unexpired term. Mayor Walker denied he has any intention of quitting under fire.

Rockefeller at Sister's Side

Sees Mrs. McCormick Against Advice of Doctor

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 (AP)—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick's family circle was nearly complete tonight in the hotel suite in which she fought for her life.

Her famous brother, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., about whom she has asked repeatedly for a week, completed a hurried trip from Maine against his doctor's advice in order to cheer her.

Shows Vitality
His arrival had that effect, word from the sickroom said. Mrs. McCormick roused herself with the same surprising vitality with which she greeted her daughter, Mathilde, upon her arrival from Switzerland recently.

Arrives By Train
The New York financier remained in the room a long time. He had rushed there ahead of his wife and son and welcoming nieces upon his arrival by train from Boston this morning.

With her brother, her former husband, Harold F. McCormick, and their three children around her, Mrs. McCormick lacked only the presence of her 92 year old father to comfort her.

"I think it is inadvisable for him to travel because of his age," his son said today.

Mrs. McCormick has not seen her father since her divorce in 1921.

Kentucky Boy's Bruised Body Found Hanging on Limb of Tree; 3 Held

OLIVE HILL, Ky., Aug. 20 (AP)—The bruised body of Roy Rickey, 10, was found hanging from the limb of a tree today near the home of his father, Clyde Rickey. Coroner Henderson said the child had been dead two or three days.

After a coroner's inquest, the boy's father, his stepmother, and Jim Day, who had been living at the Rickey home, were taken to the county jail to be held for investigation.

Witnesses at the inquest testified the boy's father and stepmother had often beaten the child severely. Coroner Henderson said footprints of a man were found under the tree.

Farmers May Still Prevent Sale of Milk

Say Non-Selling Strike Should Include All Produce

SIoux CITY, Aug. 20 (AP)—Boottleggers here were reported to be having their own troubles with the presence of farm strike pickets along the highways leading into the city.

Liquor dealers said that most of the booze runners have suspended operations because of the pickets and the presence of large groups of deputy sheriffs along the roads. They indicated that a raise in price might result.

WASHTA, Aug. 20 (AP)—Barricades erected by striking farmers caused injuries today to Harvey Harrison, trucker, who defied the farmers' warning not to ship his hogs to market.

Harrison's leg was broken when his loaded truck struck a barricade of timbers and rolls of woven wire. The blockade was piven on the highway by 75 farmers after they had learned he planned to truck two loads of hogs to a railway depot.

SIoux CITY, Aug. 20 (AP)—Whether farmers whose blockades have stopped all but a few truck loads of produce outside the city will recognize a price compromise and lift their embargo on milk was a growing source of apprehension tonight.

Leaders of the Farmers Holiday association strike and the milk distributors and producers dispute any loads of milk will be permitted to go through the tightly-drawn picket lines, but many of their followers declare their non-selling strike should be continued on all farm products.

Fear Disorders
Several county officers said they feared disorders would occur at the picket lines Sunday, if a settlement of the new disagreement were not reached before that time.

Some of the milk producers who were not parties to the milk price agreement are dissatisfied with the new price of $1.80 a hundred-weight, new price of $1.80 a hundred-weight, have held out for the original demand of $2.17.

The new rates, which will increase the retail price from eight to nine cents a quart, are due to go into effect Sunday.

Maintain Barricades
Meanwhile the barricades on seven state and federal highways are being maintained. No trucks bearing livestock, butter, eggs, poultry, or other farm products are permitted to pass.

Sheriffs of Woodbury and Plymouth counties still maintain a force of several hundred deputies to escort trucks through the lines, but during the last two days no trucker has asked their assistance.

Those farmers who have not been converted to the Holiday movement, (Turn to page 3)

End Letter Contest Monday With Afternoon Swim for Winners at Big Dipper Pool

Swim Editor Invites Children to Send Suggestions

The grand finale to more than three weeks of The Daily Iowan-Big Dipper free swim contest for Iowa City boys and girls between the ages of 7 and 13 will take place tomorrow. The last 10 letter writers will spend a happy afternoon at the pool as special guests of this newspaper and the pool management.

The contest supervisors have enjoyed their work—reading and judging the letters—and now want your comment. If you were one of the winners, write in and tell them how you enjoyed the afternoon, and what suggestions you have to offer about holding another similar contest next summer.

Here are the names of the 10 boys and girls who are going swimming at 2 p. m. tomorrow, if the weather holds up:

- Marion Burrows, 10, 405 S. Dodge street.
- Austin Dickens, 7, 921 Fifth avenue.
- Richard Dickens, 9, 921 Fifth avenue.
- Eugene Figgins, 9, University camp.
- Donald White, 9, 429 Iowa avenue.
- Helen White, 13, 429 Iowa avenue.
- Max Johnston, 12, 10 S. Gilbert street.
- Carol Batholomew, 13, Front street.
- Jane Jacobsen, 8, Park road.
- Donna Mae Roberts, 11, 1463 N. Summit street.

The Daily Iowan car will call for these youngsters at 2 and return them at 4 p. m. tomorrow. In case of rain the swimming party will be held Tuesday afternoon at the same time.

Statement Issued by Minister of Economics

BERLIN, Aug. 20 (AP)—Barricades hindering the exportation of German goods must be removed if Germany is to meet her foreign debt payments, Prof. Hermann Warmbold, minister of economics, declared today.

The cabinet member—the only one held over from the old Brüning administration—denied emphatically that the government was considering a one-sided reduction in private debts or that the Reich was about to send a special debt commission to the United States.

Asks Removal of Barriers
With equal emphasis, he called for the removal of trade barriers that the nation might meet debt service totalling 1,500,000,000 marks (currently $357,000,000) a year.

"Some days ago New York financial organs claimed that Germany still was flirting with the idea of reducing her private debts, especially in America, by a one-sided operation," said Professor Warmbold.

"During the Lausanne conference I stated that the German government had not even considered reduction of private debts as regards either capital or interest.

Do Everything Possible
"Even at that time I observed that the Reich's government would do everything humanly possible to render the Reich's service on debts safe under all circumstances and that private German debtors would do all within their power to live up to their obligations. That still is my standpoint."

"It cannot be denied, however, in the event the general deflation assumes still more severe aspects, that the disparity in value between money and goods and between old and new debts will increase. That is why treatment of private indebtedness is not a special German but an international question. It cannot therefore be clarified by an exchange of views between Germany and America alone.

People Must Negotiate
"The German government always took the standpoint that it is solely up to the German private debtors to negotiate with American and other foreign creditors whenever they believe they no longer can meet service on their debts.

"Governments concerned could interfere only insofar as, through measures of a political-economic nature, they might attempt to call a halt to deflation and thereby create sound foundations for the debt situation.

"The governments also could contribute to alleviating debt service by removing the legal or other hindrances obstructing an arrangement between creditors and debtors."

Germans May Take New Constitution

BERLIN, Aug. 20 (AP)—The possibility of a new German constitution, in which the word republic would not be mentioned, emerged today as one way out of the present political crisis.

A leading Bavarian statesman informed the Associated Press that such a constitution will be drawn up if the new Reichstag, which meets August 30, can not agree on a constructive program and fails to continue the cabinet of Chancellor von Papen in office.

Although the new charter would not mention the word republic, this informant said, it would not necessarily mean restoration of the monarchial system. Instead, the final form of the government would be left an open question.

When the Reichstag meets the von Papen cabinet will present its reconstruction program and ask for cooperation. In the event that Adolf Hitler's National Socialists join with the Communists, Centrists, Bavarians and social Democrats in a motion of no-confidence, it is understood the cabinet will dissolve the Reichstag under article 48 of the constitution which grants extraordinary powers in emergencies.

After dissolution the cabinet would promulgate a new electoral law in which there would be important restrictions affecting the voting age. Under that law a new national assembly would be elected to draft a constitution omitting all reference to the republic.

Gangster Cupid's Love-Dealing Bullets Fatal to Alums of Iowa

News of Engagements, Approaching Weddings Continue as Alumni, Former Students Follow Path Leading to Altar

The love-dealing bullets of Gangster Cupid have buried themselves in the hearts of six more alumni and former students of the University of Iowa. The most recent announcements of weddings and engagements that have been received are as follows:

Wilson-Davidson

The country home of Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson at Stanwood furnished the setting for the wedding, Aug. 4, of Miriam Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Davidson of Stanwood, and E. Raymond Wilson, son of Mrs. Charles B. Wilson of Morning Sun.

The bride is a graduate of the Stanwood high school, Monmouth college, and the University of Iowa. She was instructor in the girls' school in Assut, Egypt, and in the junior college in Tipton. For the last two years she has been assistant dean of women at Monmouth college.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Iowa State college at Ames where he received the degrees B.S., and M.S. He took further graduate work at Columbia university, New York, and spent some time studying in Japan.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson sailed Aug. 13 on the S. S. Bremen for Germany and Mr. Wilson will continue his studies in Europe, also spending some time at Geneva.

Jones-Robbins

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Robbins of Marlinsburg recently announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Garnet, to Dr. Everett Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Jones of Hayesville. The wedding will take place early in September.

The bride-elect, who graduated in 1931 from the University of Iowa, has taught in Newberg for the last year. Dr. Jones completed his course in dentistry at the University of Iowa in June. He is now associated with the U. S. marine hospital at Norfolk, Va., where he and his bride will make their home.

Romborg-Fisher

The marriage of Louise Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fisher of Red Oak, to Ensign Albert Kenneth Romborg of Long Beach, Cal., took place Aug. 6 at the Church of the Angels, Los Angeles.

The bride attended the University of Iowa, affiliating with Delta Gamma sorority, and graduated in 1930. Mr. Romborg is an alumnus of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis and is now a commissioned officer in the navy.

Unger-Gaffin

Lois Gaffin of Storm Lake and Galet M. Unger of Gaza, were united in marriage at the Christian parsonage at Spencer July 28. The bride graduated from the Storm Lake high school, attended Buena Vista college and the University of Colorado, and for the last two years has been teaching in the Storm Lake school.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Unger of near Aurelia. He graduated from the Cherokee high school, attended Grinnell college, and graduated from the University of Iowa. At present he is superintendent of the schools at Gaza.

Karch-Sargent

In an afternoon wedding on Aug. 2 in the First Presbyterian church at Cedar Rapids, Mary Sargent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amor Hartley Sargent of Cedar Rapids, and

Prize Gal from Golden West Has No Thespian Ambitions

Lovely Californian, with Penchant for Riding Bucking Bronchos, Prefers Secretary's Desk to Screen Stardom.

EMERYN McHALE "FINEST OUTDOOR GIRL"

NEW YORK.—From out of the west, where men are men and women are motion picture stars, or trying to be, comes svelte, blonde Emeryn McHale, hard-riding cow girl from the great open spaces of California, to demonstrate to the cynical beaux of Broadway that not all beauty queens yearn for stage or screen glory.

Emeryn is in the eastern metropolis as a reward for her winning the title of the "Finest Outdoor Girl in California." She did not annex her laurels by the simple expedient of looking decorative in a revealing bathing suit and bestowing a toothy smile on the judges. No, she! Emeryn was hailed as the pride of her sunny state for her skill at piloting a heaving, bucking, sunfishing broncho, her picturesque range costume and her undeniable beauty plus personality.

Now one would imagine that a party capable of handling the hunk of dynamite that is laughingly called a cow pony would have lost some of the attributes of maidenly gentleness. But in the case of Miss McHale this is not so. She is modest to the point of bashfulness and cannot understand why we in the effete east should think there is anything remarkable about a lovely girl risking life and limb for the thrill of mastering an ornery broncho.

When asked if she had ever considered going on the stage or into the movies, this daughter of California seemed rather startled at the suggestion. Then she shyly admitted that it would be just lovely to be offered a chance, but hastily adding that she wouldn't be interested in any such proposition.

Complimented upon her looks, Emeryn again registered surprise and confessed she had never given them a thought, although she does occasionally gild the lily with a wee touch of lipstick.

Miss Hale is 17 and is a junior student at Placerville high school, where she is specializing in typing and shorthand. This lets out her secret ambition, which is to be a private secretary. Somehow one cannot imagine Emeryn, bubbling over with vitality and love of the outdoors, taking dictation. But she seems the kind of person who gets what she goes after, so it is safe to say that she'll realize her ambition.

Fame and the admiration of her native state came to Emeryn rather unexpectedly when she entered the twenty-first annual rodeo in Salinas, Cal., last month. She was one of 25 contestants, and the judges based their decision on cultural and educational accomplishment, counting 2 per cent; personality, 25 per cent; horsemanship, 25 per cent; appearance, 15 per cent, and costume, 10 per cent.

To her surprise and delight, Miss McHale was chosen sweetheart of the rodeo and later was awarded the state title. Though glad that she

Post-Nuptial Honor Given to New Bride

Mrs. H. E. Wickham Accorded Shower by Group

As a post-nuptial courtesy to Mrs. Harold E. Wickham, the former Marian Findly, whose marriage took place Aug. 6, a miscellaneous show-er was given yesterday afternoon by her sister, Elizabeth Findly, Mrs. Hugh Tudor, and Esther Belle Moore. The event, which was in the form of a bridge and tea, took place at the Delta Zeta sorority house.

Bridge was played at three tables during the afternoon. Following the games, a group of love songs was sung by Hugh Tudor, accompanied on the piano by Marjorie Coleman.

Tea was served on the sun porch which was decorated in pastel shades. A bowl of pink roses and blue delphinium formed the centerpiece for the tea table. Tall cream colored tapers added to the decorations. Mrs. Tudor poured.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickham are making their home in Iowa City and plan to re-enter the University of Iowa in the fall, where Mr. Wickham will be a senior in the college of engineering and Mrs. Wickham a junior in the college of liberal arts.

A Daily Hint to Hostesses on Tempting Appetites While It's Hot

A Fall Menu

When fall arrives and the children have to walk home from school and father from the office against a stiff wind, cook is always greeted by demands for food and plenty of it.

Mrs. A. R. Bement of Iowa apartments, suggests the following savory menu for you to tuck away until autumn. Perhaps you won't be able to wait until then and will want to use it for company or as a rainy day meal.

- Veal Cutlets
- Browned Potatoes
- Creamed Cauliflower
- Clover-leaf Rolls
- Butter and Jam
- Tomato and Bean Salad
- Pineapple Sponge
- Cake
- Coffee

To prepare meat: Cut the veal in serving pieces and dip in beaten egg and bread or cracker crumbs. Brown the cutlets in butter and pour over them brown cutlet sauce and allow to simmer for an hour and a half or until the meat is tender.

Recipe for brown cutlet sauce:
1-4 tablespoon of butter
1-2 tablespoon of flour
1-8 teaspoon of salt
1-2 cupful of stock or water
1-4 teaspoon of table sauce
1-4 tablespoon of chopped parsley

Prepare as any brown sauce by browning the butter, adding the dry ingredients and blending well. Remove from the fire and add small quantity of the liquid. Blend well and add the rest of the liquid. Return to the fire and let it boil for one minute. Remove, add the table sauce and parsley. Pour the brown sauce over the cutlets.

Book Reviews

Roaming the Eastern Mountains by John T. Faris; Farrar and Rinehart, $3.

Mr. Faris, a mountain enthusiast in general, and an enthusiast of the eastern mountains in particular, takes you roaming from Maine to Georgia. And what a delightful journey it is! The author knows just where to go for the most beautiful scenery, the sparkling mountain streams, the most awe-inspiring vistas.

I want to see the eastern mountains now, although I had no particular desire to travel there before. But Mr. Faris is so genuinely enthusiastic, and the glimpses he gives you are so enticing the country takes on a glamor and lure that is irresistible.

The author not only knows the country, but he also is familiar with the history and Indian lore of the territory. And he is generous in sharing his knowledge with you. To his own descriptions of the mountains, lakes, and streams he adds the testimony of poets and other travellers as to the beauty of the region. Means of access for motorist, train traveller, and hiker are described.

Illustrating the book are pictures which give promise of the splendor of the eastern mountain ranges, which are apt to be neglected for the more rugged, lofty peaks of the Rockies.

To a middlewesterner used to plains and gently rolling hills, mountains have a special appeal. So "Roaming the Eastern Mountains" is a book with more than usual interest. For it is a source of pure enjoyment, has an educational value, and affords the reader a vicarious vacation.

The House of the Opal by Jackson Gregory, Scribners, $2; Reviewed by Frank Jaffe.

The House of the Opal, built by a madman who disappeared with the jewel after which his idiotically constructed mansion was named 40 years before the present narrative, finally turns up as the madman's murderer and thief. But before he is brought to light as the perpetrator of the crimes, every man in the house is under suspicion until near the closing chapter.

Even Paul Savoy, who finally "solves" the mystery by predicting each new horror, is a potential criminal. Except that Paul Savoy kept a jump ahead of the real criminal and managed to keep his companion guests of Mainwaring Parks on edge in the interim until none of them was quite sure that he was not the guilty party.

Such an array of precious stones of immense value was never before seen gathered in one spot, nor had the House of the Opal ever been tenanted by such a distinguished group of men. And, in the same degree, never had there been such a raging storm as now blew and swished about the eaves and gables. Drifting snows that covered each new footprint piled around the house and the lake front that gave the only approach to the house was seething with billows. An admirable setting for the Opal of Nonius!

How several of Mr. Parks' guests were mysteriously "killed" then found in a semi-conscious condition under equally mysterious circumstances, how some of the most highly valued gems in the world disappeared, only to come to light with the solution of the "murders" is told in a terse, gripping story checkered with action. Jackson Gregory lives up to his reputation of "Emerald Trails" and "Captain Cavalier" in this mystery. It's a real thriller, to be read on dark nights only for complete appreciation.

Politicians to Meet at Fair

Democrats, Republicans to Hold Rallies With Party Leaders

DES MOINES, Aug. 20 (AP)—Rallies of both major political parties will make the approaching state fair more than ever the tactical board for the drafting of fall political campaigns.

Republicans will gather in a statewide rally at the fair grounds, Aug. 30, and Democrats will hold a "victory rally" for party leaders and supporters Sept. 1, fair officials and party headquarters announced today.

Keynote speakers at the Republican gathering will include Governor Turner, Senator L. J. Dickinson, and Henry Field, party nominee for United States senator. The day also will be featured by party conferences of both men's and women's organizations.

The Democratic program will feature addresses by Louis Murphy of Dubuque, senatorial nominee; Clyde L. Herring of Des Moines, candidate for governor; and N. G. Kraschel of Harlan, candidate for lieutenant governor.

A number of congressional and local nominees and members of the state central committee also will take part in the Democratic program. Several conferences are on schedule and a luncheon for party leaders is planned at noon.

repeatedly. There were callers. He was in the midst of arranging another speaking tour. He had only a few minutes before he was to set out again to attend a mass meeting of farmers in Wisconsin.

But, after each interruption, he picked up at just where he left off.

Handling Surplus

What about the accumulating surpluses on the farms?

"This can be handled in one of two ways," he replied.

"Either it can be held on the farms, for general distribution and marketing, under the supervision of a farmers' committee, or it can be bought by the government at the cost of production and stored until it is used to satisfy the food demands of the nation.

"One of these two ways is inevitable, not only now, but always. And the farmers, in either way, must get production costs, based on American standards of living.

Gambling

"It is a curse, this control of surplus by speculators and gamblers in and out of the farm board. The sham battle today of the farm board group and grain speculators is not to assure farm prices equal to production costs, but to determine which of the great gambling institutions can get control of the farm surplus."

Then he quoted figures to show there is not surplus of farm goods—no overproduction.

Farm Experience

Milo Reno is no novice in agricultural economics. He was born on a farm and spent his youth there. For nine years he was president of the Iowa Farmers union. His career has included the presidency of the Farmers Union Mutual Automobile Insurance association, and the general management of the Union's Life Insurance company. In 1930 he was nominated by the Farmer Labor party for United States senator from Iowa.

He is 65 years old, gray haired, keen eyed, stern faced, well-built. He is a man of great energy. His parents were emigrants, of French descent, from Pennsylvania. He was educated in an Oskaloosa, Ia., academy.

which seeks to obtain the cost of production plus a fair profit are reluctant to hazard loss of their products or personal injury.

Movement Spreading

The holiday movement is spreading rapidly in Iowa, Nebraska, and South Dakota. Nearly all counties in northwestern Iowa, northeastern Nebraska, and southeastern South Dakota are organized for participation in the strike.

Some of the strike leaders expressed the opinion that because the Sioux City Milk Producers' association had won an 80 per cent increase in milk prices, they should permit trucks hauling raw milk to pass through the picket lines.

Should Maintain Embargo

Others, however, believed that the embargo should be obtained until the prices of all farm products had advanced sufficiently to insure a fair profit for all farmers.

One Plymouth county farmer, an acknowledged leader, declared that the producers should be permitted to market their milk since they had won their battle.

In Chariton, Boone, Blencoe, and other Iowa towns the picketing movement gained headway.

Des Moines Today's Scenic Spot; Circle Trip South of Capital City

Get to Know Your Capital

To Iowans with a desire to know their capital city is directed the appeal of this tour. Those who drive into Des Moines today to visit the city's "show places," will discover many points of interest.

A drive through the business district should include a visit to the civic center on the river front.

Here may be seen the new federal building at East First and Walnut streets, the city hall at East First and Locust streets, the municipal courts building at East First street and Court avenue, the city library and the Coliseum at First and Locust streets, and the post office building at First and Walnut streets.

Beautiful Residences

Residential sections of the city, especially beautiful and worth seeing, include the winding street, northwest of Fifty-first street and Grand avenue, and the group of streets south of Grand avenue, at Forty-first street. All sections of this city point to home ownership and civic pride.

The lagoon and landscape gardening of the waterworks park south of the Eighteenth street bridge, will provide a pleasant half hour for those who drive there.

All city parks are beautiful, and a drive through Greenwood park, at Grand avenue and Polk boulevard, past Ashworth swimming pool and back on the eastern boundary of the park takes the tourist past the outdoor Sylvan theater.

Drake Observatory

Union park, at East Ninth street and Mattern avenue, boasts beautiful flowers, green lawns and picturesque vistas. Motorists may approach the park from near the Sixth avenue bridge.

At the top: A Union park vista; center: Greenwood park wading pool; lower right: the state capitol; lower left: the picnic cabin in Greenwood park. —Courtesy Des Moines Register

In Waveland park on Polk boulevard, visitors to the city may view one of the city's fine municipal golf courses and the Drake university municipal observatory.

Historical Building

In the historical building, across the street from the capitol, are many objects of historical interest.

East Des Moines, on highway 32, is located the airport being used pending development of the new airport south the city.

Camp Dodge

Northwest of Des Moines, on Merle Hay road, is Camp Dodge training camp during the World war and now used for the annual encampment of the Iowa national guard.

Nears Scene of "Strawstack Murder"

Leaving Des Moines, the route leads southeast over highway 63 to Prairie City and Monroe, south on state highway 14 through Red Rock to Knoxville, then over state highways 2 and 60 through Pleasantville and Hartford to Des Moines.

Scene of Murder

A short side trip is offered five miles north of Hartford where state highway 158 turns east and leads to Carlisle, near which was committed the now famous Carlisle strawstack murder.

Between Des Moines and Monroe, an ever changing picture of Iowa farm life greets the motorist—beautiful farm homes, small streams winding through wooded plots and pastures and livestock grazing.

Considered as Capital

Red Rock, a small town on the banks of the Des Moines river, is rich in both beauty and history. The town, named after the ledges of colored rock in the vicinity, was once considered as a possible location of the state capital.

In early days it was on the Indian trail across Iowa and was the rendezvous of bandits and renegade Indians who were the terror of travelers on the trail.

Deserted Quarry

On the north bank of the Des Moines river there is the abandoned quarry which at one time was thought to be one of the largest sandstone quarries in the nation.

South of Des Moines, on South West Ninth street, is Fort Des Moines, United States army post, where the drill ground and soldiers' quarters are interesting. Those who are there in the evening, when the flag is lowered on the parade ground, will witness a stirring ceremony.

The scene with the above four maps is on White Breast creek near Knoxville. —Courtesy Des Moines Register

Color Along Lane

The uniform ledges from which the rock was taken are now carved with initials and dates. In places where the rain has seeped into the rocks are caverns, natural dens for animals. Among the trees are great slabs of rock, moss covered, lichen grown.

70-Foot Walls

Three principal quarry pits still remain, the largest with walls rising 70 feet. Two of the pits are smaller than the first, although no less beautiful. Landslides have taken place and paths are red with the sand of the rocks.

Half sunken in the debris from rocks, decaying vegetation and silted soil are the trucks of the old cars which hauled the stones from the quarry. Two engine beds with iron bolts which held the donkey engines in place are visible.

The "Old Slough"

Here are the covers and the "old slough" where anglers try their luck with fly and bait.

In Knoxville, beautiful homes and parks mark the change from rustic to urban beauty and adjacent to highway 60 is the United States veterans hospital No. 57, where nearly 1,000 World war veterans receive treatment.

Crosses Creek

On the hospital grounds are a number of fine buildings which house the patients and employees. The nurses and officers are quartered south of the highway while farther south is the hospital farm.

Racket—At State Expense

(From the Mason City Globe Gazette) It is time for Iowans to wake to the fact that they are being made the goat in the interminable series of investigations and audits which in the last year and a half have been directed against the state board of education and the University of Iowa.

Those with a selfish motive to be served—either "getting" somebody connected with the administration of our state educational system or obtaining control of that system themselves—have succeeded in transferring the cost of their fight to the taxpayers of Iowa.

Up to this time, the expense actually on the books is somewhat in excess of $100,000—more than is paid to the president and the administrative heads of every college in the university.

Unless a halt is called, Iowa will some of these days approach the place where higher education will be costing more than higher education.

Incidentally the state's chief executive, unwittingly and in good faith, we believe, is exhibiting a disturbing proneness to be drawn into the controversy on the side of those whose ideas and ideals are in no sense identical with his.

While maneuvering to make the state pay the costs of their grudge fight against the state board and the university administration, this same clique has hit upon a strategy which has made the governor its tool. And its members are laughing up their sleeve at the success of their scheming as they sit beneath the tree waiting for the fruit to fall in their laps.

The thing that happened in the case of the protracted audit ended and reported on within the last few days is revealing of the whole campaign against the university. When it was evident that there were no shortages or irregularities not already uncovered by the university and the board of education in their own system of audit and accounting, the auditors turned their audit into a survey and—entirely lacking in an understanding of the subject—essayed to dictate sweeping educational policies.

Whether they actually received such instructions or not, their report would have been no different if at the outset of their work they had been talked to in these terms:

"Your job is to pick things to pieces. Find everything wrong and nothing right. Ignore such unimportant considerations as the fact that Iowa's accounting system is accepted as a model by the national university association and that the University of Iowa is looked upon as one of the greatest state universities in the United States. Don't give 'em credit for a thing except dishonesty."

There is not the slightest basis for a major part of the work done by these auditors and if Iowa's state legal department were desirous of saving a large amount of money for the state, it could claim an unwarranted exceeding of authority in everything beyond the audit specified by law.

But that which is past is not half so important as what is going to happen from now on. Are the taxpayers of Iowa going to continue putting up the money for a viciously personal battle against their own university at a time when interest should be focused on economy?

There should be—and there must be—a large reduction of expense at the university and the other institutions under the control of the state board of education. From indications already observable, there is a full appreciation of this necessity for retrenchment on the part of those who direct the state educational system. It can be made through the slicing of salaries and through a cutting down of services. The governor is well within his province when he demands this.

It is vitally important, however, that whatever is done along this line be done by somebody interested in the cause of education rather than in "getting" somebody's job, manipulating the university for personal gain or setting up a machine whereby education will become a plaything of politicians as it has become in Oklahoma, Mississippi and some other states that could be mentioned.

Stated briefly, this investigating business has become a racket and nobody is going to be fleeced quite as much as those who ultimately have to pay the bill—that is the taxpayers of Iowa.

The Battle of Propaganda

THE WAR is on in earnest. Bombardments are falling thick and fast on both camps, and both are certain of victory. Democrats and Republicans alike are satisfied that each has the winning combination, candidates and platforms, to sweep the November elections.

Opening his active campaign yesterday, Demo Candidate Roosevelt remarked that his government will not be "empty of hope" as has that of the Republicans. He promised instead to bring orderly, explicit, and practical fundamental remedies to restore this fair land to the prosperity it once knew.

The Republicans, on the other hand, assure voters that with a few exceptions the years of their administration have witnessed prosperity, progress, and sound government. Roosevelt is rapped for broken promises concerning prohibition repeal even before he has stepped into office.

If the search is carried far enough, some truth might be found in what is being said, buried deep among the vituperative smoke screen of each party. If each voter takes upon himself the task of delving into the problems debated on the political stump and sifting the oratory of both campaigns he will have little trouble in deciding the issues on his own.

Politics today exemplify too much what a speaker once said concerning a city office seeker: "He won't make much of a mayor, but boy, what a candidate!"

A Great Show

IOWA CITIANS and 4-H members can well rejoice over the success of the show that closed Friday. In the estimation of many of the 11,000 who attended, it was the best livestock show Johnson county has ever had. From the point of competition and quality, it came far beyond all expectations.

It is significant that in these times there is no decrease noticeable in the enthusiasm of members of the 4-H clubs nor any reduction in the excellence of livestock shown. That the show this year was a success in every way leads to the conclusion that far from being discouraged, the younger generation on Iowa farms is carrying on as if this were as prosperous a year as ever.

To those who support and boost the 4-H endeavors comes the satisfaction that each year marks another step forward in the methods and problems of the farm. The young men and women, whose training comes from experience and the supervision of experts, are to be congratulated for their 1932 show, not only for the amount and quality of the product, but for the work and will that goes into every 4-H project.

If President De Valera can hit upon some easy way, constitutional or otherwise, to fire a recalcitrant senate, maybe he'll be good enough to pass the secret to a wistful U. S. A. —Boston Transcript

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

And now from Germany comes another one of those regular statements saying that the nation can not pay any war debts or reparations and would the rest of the world please act accordingly.

But this time, along with the old plaintive cry, comes a suggestion from the minister of economics that maybe Germany would pay if the barriers hindering the exportation of German goods were removed. The only real obstacle to German payments, it would seem, is trade, not politics.

The German minister also brought up the old question of how much responsibility of private debts a country ought to take. "The German government," he declared, "always took the standpoint that it is solely up to the German private debtors to negotiate with American and other foreign creditors whenever they believe they no longer can meet service on their debts.

"Governments concerned," he adds, "could interfere only insofar as, through measures of a political-economic nature, they might attempt to call a halt to deflation and thereby create sound foundations for the debt situation." And another thing that governments might do would be to remove the legal obstacles to arrangements between creditors and debtors.

Aside from all other suggestions relating to payment of international debts, the one regarding trade is the most important by far. No matter what governments do in the line of setting up legal aids or hindrances, none can be absolutely effective if the exchange of goods is unbalanced. Of course, if a surplus already exists in the creditor country, lowering of tariff rates would be almost suicidal. Perhaps, on the other hand, if there had been no tariff walls in the first place, the original surplus might never have occurred.

What ought to be a really important issue in the coming election—the results of the British export conference—will probably be shunted into a back seat. But the results are there, and if the common people don't care about them, the U. S. Steel corporation, et al, do.

Trade preference agreements were signed which will mean the loss of about 60 millions in U. S. trade income every year they are in force. That applies to steel and iron; the U. S. loss in the textile markets is beyond ready estimate. And to top it all, comes a statement from a British spokesman that informs the United States it ought to be grateful that at least one-fourth of the world—the British empire—saw the way clear to prosperity.

Four hundred fifty million people will be benefited by the Ottawa parley and the machinery it has set in motion. At least 120 millions will get a push back into the dark alley from which they are just beginning to emerge. The results of the British parley are not going to help the United States, and it is up to whatever party that is now convinced of victory in November to start figuring on a new plan of U. S. world trade to offset the British arrangements.

Canada probably will be the recipient of the greatest boost in all her history by the arrangements just concluded. She won her major point—chiefly against Russian "dumping"—that trade preferences granted her in British markets be guaranteed by protection against state controlled competition. Canada, with her millions and millions of dollars worth of potential products, has the brightest outlook of any nation in the world, partly to the discomfiture and discredit of the greatest country in the world.

Book Bits

(From Dante's Convito)

Natural death is as it were a haven and a rest to us after long navigation. And the noble soul is like a good mariner; for he, when he draws near the port, lowers his sails, and enters it softly with feeble steering; even so ought we to lower the sails of our worldly operations, and turn to God with all our understanding and heart, that we may reach this haven with all suavity and with peace. And herein we have from our own nature a great lesson of suavity; for in such a death as this there is no grief nor bitterness; but as a ripe apple is loosened from its branch, so our soul without grieving departs from the body in which it hath been.

Housing Service Office Making Up Lists of Rooms for First Semester, 1932-3 The housing service, located in Iowa Union, under the direction of Prof. F. E. Holmes, has started to make out its list of rooms for unmarried students, and rooms and apartments for married students for the first semester of 1932-3. It is necessary to do this at this time as the office gets many calls for rooms and apartments during the summer months.

This office urges all householders who have rooms and apartments to rent in the fall to advise them early so that their names may be placed on the lists. The housing service is also making the yearly inspection of rooms at the present time. If there are any householders who have not been on the approved list, and care to take students, they are urged to get in touch with this office, so that the necessary inspection may be made.

Recital A recital by the French horn quartet will be given at the music rehearsal hall, Monday, Aug. 22, at 8 p.m. The public is invited.

Christian Endeavor The Fidelity C. E. society of the Christian church, 221 E. Iowa avenue, will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the church parlors. Leader, Robert Hedges. University students and all other young people are invited to attend and participate in the discussion. YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

Chemistry Lecture Prof. W. G. Eversole will give a demonstration lecture on "Interfacial films," Monday, Aug. 22, at 4 p.m., in room 300 of the chemistry building. The lecture is open to students in chemistry and others who may be interested.

August Convocation The August convocation will be held Thursday, Aug. 25, at 8 p.m. on the west approach to Old Capitol. In case of unfavorable weather, the exercises will be held in Iowa Union lounge.

Campus Excursion Persons interested in an excursion to the university hospitals are invited to participate in a tour on Wednesday, Aug. 24, at 4 p.m. Since the university hospitals staff can accommodate only a limited number at a time, it is requested that people who wish to join the party call the summer session office, university extension 8362, for reservations. Meet at the main entrance (tower) of University hospital. SUMMER SESSION OFFICE

Library Hours Library reading rooms in the natural science building and library annex will close at 6 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 25. Library hours from Aug. 26 through Sept. 24 will be 8:30-12 a.m. and 1-5 p.m. Departmental libraries will be closed during this period, with the exception of chemistry, education, engineering, and medical libraries. Special hours will be posted on the doors. GRACE WORMER, acting director

POLITICS ARE JUST LIKE THAT

Despite the apparent accord that existed when this photo was made, Father James R. Cox (left), head of the official "Blueshirt" army, and Colonel William Hope (Coin) Harvey, head of the Liberty-Jobless party, did not remain long in agreement. They met near St. Louis to make plans for a joint political convention of unemployed, but quarrelled over who should be the parties' candidate for the presidency. As a result they began to hold separate conventions about a mile apart.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD - By HARRISON CARROLL

STUDIO GOSSIP: HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Two great ambitions are to be realized by Joe E. Brown in one swoop. Warner Brothers have decided at last to make "Elmer the Great" with the chasm-faced comedian in the title role. Joe has been hankering after this picture for many months. It is to start after "You Said a Mouthful," which begins about Aug. 22, is completed. "Elmer the Great" will also give Joe E. an opportunity to do what he has always wanted—a characterization which does not depend alone on his oral cavity and his ululating gifts. Although, if the fans really want his howl and his yawn, some way will probably be found to get them in. Ring Lardner and George M. (Michael) Cohan are the playwrights of "Elmer the Great." It is one of the most successful baseball comedies put on the stage. The Burbank studios will probably cast it with famous baseball names, waiting for the off-baseball season to use them. El Captain's show record was broken by Joe E. Brown when he played the baseball comedy 13 weeks there, returning to Hollywood after long runs in San Francisco and Oakland to do another 2 weeks. BOULEVARD CHATTER: Mar's Dressier led the star parade to Santa Barbara for the fiesta this coming week end. The heat is still on for Estelle Taylor and Lyle Talbot. Irene Dunne is on her feet again after the cold she caught voyaging from Honolulu. R-K-O is looking for a picture with music in it for Irene. Lloyd Corrigan is back from his European trip, working on a story for Allison Skipworth and Stuart Erwin. Shooting is expected to begin next month. Charlotte Susa, the foreign star who speaks perfect English, is on the M-G-M lot. Lawrence Grant has invented an aluminum camp chair that folds up for the hip pocket. The Barrymores continue playful. Lionel was sent talking to a stray dog outside the M-G-M gates. He showed up on the set of "Rasputin" and some one asked him what happened to the pup. Lionel lifted his Russian beard and brought it forth. Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., return to Hollywood the first week in September. Robert Montgomery, the town's perfect patient, is expected out of the hospital in two weeks. S.W. Johnny Weissmuller, first surrounded by girls, then lurching with Bobbe Arns in the M-G-M commissary. Ralph Forbes, in uniform for "Smilin' Through," uncertainly greeting chance acquaintances in his new status. Some one says, "Laughing Boy." The selling of the Montmarc rouses a lot of old ghosts from their haunts. The once-famous haunt of the stars is being looted by the man who bought its movables at auction. Champagne buckets, silverware, over which famous exquisites and Hollywood's elite chafed away the hours, the wall seat where Greta Garbo used to sit in her public days—all are going. The parade has passed on up the boulevard. Across the street, a film theater's marquee flings "Merrily We Go to Hell." Hollywood is being prepared to greet another matinee idol from Europe. He is Francis Lederer, who is regarded in the capitals over seas as another Chevallier. R. K. O-Radio has bought a story for him already. It is "Night Are Made for Love." It is planned to make his first picture, which he arrives in Hollywood after New Year's. Before that, the new Healy Throb will play on Broadway in "Autumn Crocus," a play in which he has been stirring London stands.

University to Hold Extensive Play Program

Preliminary Schedule of Drama Listed by Mable

Realizing the need for cultural education other than that to be gained from classwork, the university has planned an extensive drama program for the coming year.

Preliminary announcement of the proposed schedule has been made by Prof. E. C. Mable, head of speech and dramatic art, and director of the University theater, including the declaration that Lynn Riggs, playwright, will personally direct the premiere of "Lonesome West," to be given Nov. 15, 16, and 17.

Other Dates Reserved
Other dates reserved for University theater productions are Oct. 25, 26, and 27; Dec. 6, 7, and 8; Jan. 17, 18, and 19; Feb. 14, 15, and 16; March 7, 8, and 9; April 4, 5, and 6; May 9, 10, and 11.

Working only with new manuscripts—an idea carried through from last year when Owen Davis' "Harbor Light" and three plays by Paul Green, including "Tread the Green Grass," were presented by the University theater—the coming year promises to be one of world premieres.

Plays Included
Included among these, according to Professor Mable, will be plays selected from manuscripts now under consideration. Among the plays now being read over are three others by Lynn Riggs, one by Maxwell Anderson, three by Richard Maibaum, another by Paul Green, two by Howard Chensy, two by Frank Elser, some by Prof. A. Dale Riley, and one each by Virgil Geddes and Warren M. Lee.

In addition to the work of the University theater in natural science building, Professor Mable also plans to expand the work of the Studio theater in Iowa Union.

Will Direct Studio Theater
Richard Maibaum, graduate student from New York city who wrote "The Tree," produced on Broadway last year, and Ellsworth Conkle, who will seek his doctor's degree here this fall, will be in charge of the productions of the Studio theater.

Also at the Studio theater will be produced four children's plays, to be under the direction of Helen Langworthy, formerly a member of the university faculty, who has been at the State Normal school in Kirksville, Mo., for the last three years.

"HIGHEST CLASS CIRCUS ON EARTH"

For many years the great Hagenbeck-Wallace circus has been known as "the highest class circus on earth." This worthy slogan was acquired only by the presentation of the greatest features and the most extraordinary attractions regardless of cost. This season is no exception, as you'll see when the big show comes to Iowa City on Wednesday of this week for afternoon and night performances at the circus grounds. One of the outstanding features of the 1932 program will be the famous Hanneford family of bareback riders with Poodles, the one and original riding clown. Poodles is not only the best clown rider of the present day, but all members of the family are famous as accomplished equestrians. His wife, Grace, his sister, Elizabeth, and his brother-in-law, Ernest Clark, play important roles in the success of the act, which is guided by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hanneford. The show has been greatly increased in size this season, and offers the largest zoological display entourage in America. The huge menagerie top alone this year measures 100 feet by 350 feet—the equivalent of a city block. Under this mammoth canvas will be found scores of newly imported wild and ferocious jungle beasts.

Investigator Predicts Falling Population for State of Iowa

Although census figures will not show the results of falling birth rates an increased emigration from Iowa for at least two decades, in years to come there is likely to be a steady decline in the population of the state.

This is one of the predictions of Bernard Karpinos, G of Iowa City, in connection with the writing of his thesis for the master of arts degree which he expects to receive next Thursday.

Only because large families were common a generation ago, writes Mr. Karpinos, has the population of Iowa been able to show a slight increase.

Further facts set forth by Mr. Karpinos in his thesis in sociology included the discovery that every 100 Iowa mothers at the present time bear 97 children. There are now, however, more women between the ages of 20 and 45 because the preceding generation reared large families which now have reached those ages. It was found that the natural increase, or the increase of births over deaths, from 1920 to 1930 in Iowa was 6.7 per cent. This increase was entirely in the older groups—not in the younger group, members of which will have children in the future.

Smoot Renominated

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Utah Republican state convention renominated Senator Reed Smoot by acclamation late today after adopting a platform declaring "the Republican party does not bind its candidates or individual members to any definite course of action as to the question of modification" of the prohibition amendment.

Death Rate to Exceed Births

Karpinos predicts that later the birth rate in Iowa will be 15.9 per cent, while the death rate will be 17.1 per cent. Similar studies for the entire United States show that there is still a natural increase in population, with every 100 mothers bearing 102 children.

Comparisons of the 1900 and 1930 census reports show that in former years the population between the ages of 8 and 19 years comprised 42.2 per cent of the total. In 1930, it comprised 37.2 per cent.

The population between the ages of 45 and 64 increased from 13.8 to 19.1 per cent, while that from 65 to 74 increased from 3.3 to 5.1 per cent. The population over 75 years increased from 1.6 to 2.3 per cent.

Ripley Explanations

Explanation of Saturday's Cartoon

The Initialed Fish: A real fish story, and with the proof to back it up, was unfolded at the Fish Pier in Boston, June 29, 1932, when the Boston schooner "Juffe" of the O'Hara fleet arrived from Western Bank with a catch of halibut.

M. Robert Muse, one of the crew, was amazed at the sight of the initialed halibut, recognizing it at once as the same fish he had caught two years previously. He had carved his initials on its left side and had thrown it back, as being too small for the market.

The lettering, unobliterated, stands out clearly, leaving no question that the fish had remained in the same area all this time, only by some freak of fate to fall captive to the man who originally yanked it out of its Grand Banks home.

Dodgers Down Reds Twice, 6-0, 6-1, as Cubs Nip Philadelphia, 6-5

Hack Wilson, O'Doul Lead Twin Victory

ALTHOUGH the Cubs are winning most of their games, they do not show nearly enough power to give them more than an even break...

Hack Wilson collected five hits out of five trips to the plate in the first game of the double-header between Brooklyn and Cincinnati yesterday...

It would indeed be the height of irony if Wilson should be one of the deciding factors in the final standings. And between such "cast-offs" as Jack Quinn, Lefty O'Doul, Wilson and Glenn Wright, the Dodgers have a club which must be conceded at least a 50-50 chance to cop the flag.

And while the National league teams are battling for the league title, the New York Yankees are sweeping along to the American league crown. Much of the Yanks' success is brought about by a powerful offense, which though a bit wobbly at times, is enough, coupled with classy baserunning, to win most of the games.

JUST how much of an offense the Yankees have is indicated by the string of games they have played without suffering a shut out. After yesterday's battle with St. Louis the New York Americans had played 117 games without being held scoreless.

Went to the automobile races at the Mississippi valley fair at Davenport yesterday afternoon, and couldn't help but marvel at the way those fellows drive "blind" on the curves after the first two laps in the sweepstakes race, a 10 mile event, but nobody smashed up.

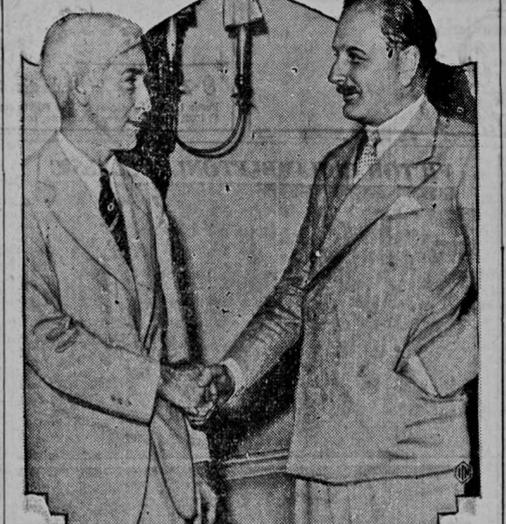

THE rumor that Iowa will construct a track on the west side with the same material as was used at the Olympics was taken care of by Coach George Pressnath. Burned peat was used on the Los Angeles track because they couldn't get cinders, the Hawkeye member explained.

Lefty O'Doul, National league batting champion in 1929, seems about to become king of the sluggers in the senior loop for another time.

Jimmy Foxx Still Leads Holds A. L. Leadership in Five Offensive Departments

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 (AP)—American league pitchers, gained more ground on the leading batsmen during the last week, the eighteenth of the campaign, whittling averages down from one to seven points, but failing to dislodge Jimmy Foxx from the top position.

According to semi-official averages which include Friday's games, only three of the first 10 sluggers made gains, the most notable of which was a nine-point jump by Rick Ferrell of the St. Louis Browns.

Hold Four Leaderships Foxx also remained in control of four other leading marks. He added one home run to his total, giving him 43, and batted in four runs to lift his collection to 128.

Minus Gene Sarazen, P.G.A. Looms as Wide Open Battle ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Thirty-two new traps, bunkers, treacherous winds and heavily matted rough stand between Tom Creavy of Albany, N. Y., and successful defense of his P. G. A. title over the Keller course here starting August 30, but one major hazard—Gene Sarazen—seems to have been already eliminated.

Brody-Reddig Duo Wins to Robins-Everett Combination

By CLAUDE PEER (Staff Writer, The Daily Iowan) CEDAR RAPIDS, Aug. 20—Showing a sudden reversal of form, the doubles team of Merle Robins and Max Everett smashed and pounded through the hard driving combination of Reddig and Brody with an overwhelming score of 6-1, 6-1, to enter the finals of the Eastern Iowa tennis tournament here tomorrow afternoon.

Brody and Reddig were swept off their feet by the merciless attack that drove placements to all corners of the courts for points. Brody Gains Finals John Van der Zee of Iowa City, fell before the veteran Brody in the quarter-finals of men's singles play, 6-1, 6-3.

Champion Superior Miss Butler was unable to use her strong forehand drives against the careful placements of Miss Day and also faltered on many of her backhand strokes. The scores of the two set matches were 6-2, 6-3.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20—Victory may have been sweet to all the athletes from every land who have won Olympic crowns and broken world records in the great international meet, but the fondest recollections of the 1932 Olympics seem to be in store for King and Queen of the world's springboards, Mr. Mickey Riley Galitzen and Miss Georgia Coleman.

Stock Market Shares Show Small Gains

Throw Off Reactionary Tendencies of Last Session

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—The stock market was overshadowed today by the still briskly advancing bonds, but shares were at least able to throw off the reactionary tendencies of the previous session.

Shares finished with a number of gains of fractions to more than a point in prominent issues.

Rail Shares Stiffen Rail shares stiffened in the last hour, on appearance of the weekly report of the movement of revenue freight, showing a total of 512,431 cars in the week ending Aug. 13.

Standard Gains Standard of Kansas rose about a point on news of sale of some of its properties to Standard of Indiana.

Bees Down Rocks, 3-1 BURLINGTON (AP)—Tony Gober held Rock Island to four widely scattered hits today while the Bees took advantage of eight blows off Schneider to take the opening game of the series, 3 to 1.

False Policies "It encouraged speculation and over-production through its false economic policies."

Delayed Relief "It refused to recognize and correct the evils at home which brought it forth, delayed relief, and forgot to reform."

For Individuals "I believe that the individual should have full liberty of action to make the most of himself, but I do not believe that in the name of that sacred word a few powerful interests should be permitted to make industrial can-nofodder of the lives of half of the population of the United States."

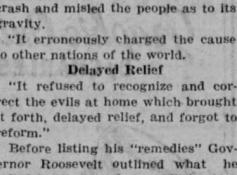

Will Not Influence Prices "In the second place, I assure you that high public officials in the next administration will neither by word nor by deed seek to influence the prices of stocks and bonds."

Of the other two, the governor said: "Finally I propose two new policies for which legislation is not required. They are policies of fair and open dealing on the part of the administration with the American public."

Outlines Program in Initial Speech (Continued from Page 1) Were used practically without check for many speculative purposes.

Total Eclipse, Interesting Since Dawn of Intelligence, May Be Viewed on Aug. 31

DES MOINES, Aug. 20 (AP)—The phenomenon of the total eclipse of the sun has interested mankind since the dawn of human intelligence. We have a number of instances in the Bible which undoubtedly refer to solar eclipses, and Herodotus tells us that during a battle between the Lydians and the Medes the sun was suddenly darkened. The combatants, thinking it a sign of the immortal gods' displeasure, ceased fighting and made a treaty of peace. From this vague description mathematicians have been able to carry their calculations back across the centuries and establish the fact that the eclipse occurred on May 28, 584 B. C. Two Kinds of Eclipses There are two kinds of eclipses: Lunar, caused by the moon passing through the earth's shadow, and solar, caused by the moon's shadow touching the earth. They are very different in character but are the same in principle. The reason we do not have an eclipse of the moon at each full moon and an eclipse of the sun at each new moon is because the plane of the moon's orbit about the earth is inclined to the plane of the earth's orbit about the sun. If a full moon or a new moon occurs when the line of intersection of these two planes points towards the sun, we have an eclipse either lunar or solar, but when this line points away from the sun, an eclipse is not possible. One of the astounding discoveries handed down to us from the ancients is the Saros. It is composed of 18 years, 10 days or 18 years and 11 days, depending upon the number of leap years in the period. Regular Period Between Eclipses This period is due to the fact that 223 lunations or months are almost exactly equal to 18 years 10 or 11 days. The difference is about one third of a day. In this interval our earth rotates 120 degrees, so that each succeeding eclipse occurs about 120 degrees farther west. Solar eclipses, therefore, have birth days each 18 years for a long period of time. The eclipse of June 8, 1918, is an example of this phenomenon. It was the forty-second birthday of an eclipse which occurred May 28, 1900. The forty-third birthday of this eclipse will be 18 years and 11 days after June 8, 1918, or June 19, 1936. The forty-fourth birthday will be June 30, 1954. All of these occur precisely at new moon. The solar eclipse is the greatest spectacle in nature. The first indication of the eclipse is when the moon touches the western edge of the sun. This is the first contact. For about an hour one watches the steady encroachment of the moon's dark disc upon the bright disc of the sun. About five minutes before totality the surroundings take on a weird appearance. Animal life notices that there is something unusual. Nature Arrested The landscape appears in a green-

Well Toasted An electric toaster at the home of Mrs. A. E. Knoke, 122 E. Davenport street, did an unusually good job of toasting yesterday. Without Mrs. Knoke's knowledge, it just kept on toasting and toasting and filled a room with thick, evil looking smoke. Firemen turned the toaster off. Might and Then Again R. J. McComas, ticket agent at the bus station in the Jefferson hotel, said yesterday that the Interstate Transit lines might, and then again, they might not, have special rates to the state fair. Rejuvenation Smith's cafe, 11 S. Dubuque street, closed last night for repairs. The shutdown is expected to last two weeks, during which time the floor will be repaired and the building will undergo a general rejuvenation. Calm Down Fire Chief Herman Smith yesterday issued a warning to fire bugs who chase furiously after the fire truck when it goes on calls and to those motorists who pay little heed to the shrill sound of sirens. He insisted that fire followers stay at least a block behind the truck and that drivers pull to the curb and stop when they hear a siren behind them. Why Not Free? Word was received yesterday that the Rock Island railroad will offer unusually low round trip rates to Chicago next week end. In fact they are so low that they don't look right. Excursionists will leave either at 10:50 p.m. next Saturday or at 1:37 a.m. Sunday. The tickets will be good for return until train No. 9 Monday morning. Prosperity The number of Iowa City unemployed passed the 450 mark yesterday, to reach a high point of 452, when four persons registered at the American Legion Unemployment Relief association office. Five men, hired by the association, will work at the city park this week. Asks $1,809,600 DAVENPORT, Aug. 20 (AP)—A suit filed in district court here by E. W. Clark, receiver for the defunct Federal Surety company, asks judgment of $1,809,600 against J. E. McKutchan, an officer of the Liberty Insurance company of Dayton, Ohio. DES MOINES, Aug. 20 (AP)—Methods of applying for federal relief loans for Iowa communities will be discussed at a meeting of the governor's state relief committee here Aug. 30. Roosevelt Captain Evans Woolen of Indianapolis, Ind., recently appointed chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic national committee, is shown at work in his office at the committee's New York headquarters. Expenses for the current presidential campaign are expected to be kept down to a minimum by both parties.

Mrs. McCormick's Illness Reconciles Estranged Kin Famous Family Split for Years by Numerous Disagreements Reunited at Bedside of Dying "Queen of Chicago Society."

CHICAGO—No longer existent are the family feuds which for many years disrupted the happiness of the Rockefeller-McCormicks. When the word first went out over the wires that Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, confined by illness to her room in her Chicago hotel, would probably not recover, a note of compassion was struck which had its echo across the entire breadth of the American continent and even on the other side of the Atlantic. In Switzerland, Mrs. Mathilde Oser, daughter of the reigning queen of Chicago society, decided that the blood of a Rockefeller was thicker than the water of estrangement and hurried to France, where she boarded a steamer to be at her mother's side. From Los Angeles came word that the dying woman's former husband, Harold Fowler McCormick, who was divorced from the daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., in 1921, and who later was married to and divorced from Ganna Walska, glamorous opera singer, was enroute to Chicago. Major and Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard of Connecticut, the latter being Mrs. McCormick's daughter, hastened to this city and went directly to the sick room. At the same time it was indicated that the arrival of Fowler McCormick, the dying woman's son, who last year married Pini Stillman, principal of a sensational divorce case of a decade ago, would be on hand without delay. Finally, at his New Jersey retreat, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was described as willing to let bygones be bygones, with mutual forgiveness the watchword. The younger John D. who visited his sister a month ago, when her financial troubles became known, made his peace at that time. These eleventh-hour forgivenesses of family differences marked the end of a stormy period of years, with Mrs. McCormick at odds, nearly all the time, with practically her entire family. She was reckoned for years the richest woman in the world. Always a shrewd business woman, she increased her fortune by wise investments in real estate. Even when she was forced to close up her great stone mansion recently to save expenses, she was still, according to keen financial observers, the world's richest woman. The reason for her long-standing estrangement with her famous father was never made completely clear. Her troubles with her brother were never as serious as her other estrangements, but were intermittent. Her disagreements with her three children were all the result of what she considered ill-considered and injudicious marriages. Ironically, the three children joined with John D., Sr., and John D., Jr., approximately a decade ago in a successful fight to prevent Mrs. McCormick, then only recently divorced from the harvester magnate, from contracting a marriage which they considered "injudicious." The protests of Mrs. McCormick's family followed her romance with Edwin Krenn, 15 years her junior. The romance was the outgrowth of a friendship which had begun 10 years earlier in Zurich, Switzerland, when Mrs. McCormick, recently graduated from a school of psychoanalysis, launched a cult of her own. Krenn was one of her first pupils. The marriage never took place. But for the last 10 years, this same Edwin Krenn, having turned his mind to real estate, shrewdly managed Mrs. McCormick's vast holdings, possibly a hemorrhage of the brain. Fisher, his wife and small son escaped with minor injuries. They were enroute to Minnesota on a fishing trip. For the first time since its completion, toll is being collected from vehicles crossing the municipal bridge across the Mississippi at St. Louis. Receipts are used for unemployment relief.

Trade Parley Rumors Jolt Grain Prices

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 (AP)—Jolted by reported action of the British empire economic conference regarded here as likely to revolutionize trade relations with the United States, grain prices tumbled today. Wheat fell to about 7 cents a bushel under last week's high point, and oats outdid all bottom records since 1926. The downward plunge of values followed trade advice that Great Britain had agreed to establish six cents preference on wheat from British empire sources as against wheat originating elsewhere. Wheat closed nervous, 5-5/8@1 cent lower than yesterday's finish, corn 1-2@7-8 down, oats 1-8@5-8 off, and provisions unchanged to five cents up. On the breaks in prices, wheat went to below 50 cents a bushel for September contracts, the first time of late. At no stage did the market show much power to rally. Increasing receipts of wheat in Canada added to market weakness. Meanwhile, widespread notice was taken of a statement by one of the largest houses in the grain trade saying it had been hoped that with termination of United States farm board stabilization operations and disposal of the board's accumulated wheat stocks the United States might regain its former share of the English market for wheat. The six cents preference now given British empire wheat, however, destroyed that hope, the statement said. Corn and oats dropped with wheat. Provisions responded to grain weakness, but recovered. Closing indifferents: Wheat—Sept. 48 3-4@7-8, 51 1-4; Dec. 52 1-8@1-2, 54 7-8@55; May 57 1-4, 59 1-2. Corn—Sept. 30, 30 7-8; Dec. 31 5-8@3-4, 32 5-8; May 37 1-4, offers.

Children's Hospital Patients Will Attend Circus on Wednesday

All patients of the Children's hospital who are able to make the trip will be taken to the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus Wednesday afternoon by the Nall Chevrolet company. According to Vern Nall, manager, four cars will call at the hospital and take the children to the show, where they will be admitted free of charge by the owners of the circus. The free admission for hospital patients was obtained by Mayor J. I. Carroll, as a condition to giving a permit to the circus allowing it to operate within the city limits.

Take Body of Mrs. Fry to Oskaloosa

The body of Mrs. Lois Fry, 22, of Rose Hill, who committed suicide by jumping into the old Hutchinson quarry on Riverside drive after escaping from the psychopathic hospital Thursday afternoon, was returned to Oskaloosa Friday evening. The body was found Friday morning by a boy who had gone to the quarry to fish, and was removed by firemen.

A New Low-Cost Movie Camera Using Low-Cost Film

CINE-KODAK EIGHT is not only surprisingly inexpensive to buy, but also radically economical to use. It costs but $29.50, and cuts film expense nearly two-thirds. A newly-developed film-saving principle is responsible. Four images appear on the film in the usual space of one. Price $2.25 a roll. Cine-Kodak Eight is equipped with a Kodak Anastigmat f. 3.5 lens that requires no focusing... and has many other refinements. Come in and let us show you. You Pay No Tax; Eastman Pays It.
