FARM PICKETS OBTAIN JAIL RELEASE

Roosevelt May Exclude Public From Probe

Applause for Testimony in Ouster Cause

City Counsel on Stand in Hearing; Judge "Has Faith"

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP) — Governor Roosevelt today threatened to exclude the public from the Walker ouster hearing after a burst of applause following upon a pointed exchange of remarks between Samuel Seabury and Arthur J. W. Hilly, New York city corporation counsel.

Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter investigating committee, questioned Hilly about an inquiry into fee splitting charges against the mayor's brother, Dr. William Walker.

"How many years do you think your investigation will take?" Seabury asked.

"Not One Tenth."

"My investigation won't take one tenth of the time a certain other investigation has taken," Hilly shot back, "and I venture to say it won't cost the state anywhere nearly so much."

Roosevelt raised his head quickly and looked at a group of women along the wall as applause followed.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I can't have any applause at this hearing. I shall have to exclude the public if there is any more."

A few seconds later, Mr. Roosevelt's face became white and he shook his finger at Hilly as he questioned him about fee splitting.

"Yes or No?"

"Do you consider it to be the interest of the city for doctors to split fees?" he inquired. "Answer 'yes' or 'no'."

"I'd have to know the circumstances," Hilly replied.

"Do you want to make that your final answer?" Mr. Roosevelt said in a sharp tone, pointing his finger at the witness.

"Yes," said Hilly.

A Republican, Supreme Court Justice Lockwood, previously told Governor Roosevelt he had "the greatest faith in the integrity of Mayor Walker after a friendship of 20 years."

Walker, a Democrat and a member of Tammany Hall, claims the ouster move was originated by Republicans for political motives.

Lockwood appeared as a character witness for the New York mayor.

Object to Lockwood

"You have watched the mayor's conduct of his administration for the last six years," asked John J. Curtin, counsel of the mayor. "Will you tell us his excellency what—"

"What's this?" interrupted Mr. Roosevelt. "A character witness?"

Curtin said he was, and Seabury objected to his testimony. The governor permitted the justice to testify, but requested Curtin not to introduce any more character witnesses.

Seabury asked Justice Lockwood, who said he had read newspaper accounts of the Walker investigation, if they "changed your idea of the integrity of Mayor Walker?"

"Not in the slightest," the jurist replied.

Lockwood's brief appearance at the day's session was the only bit of color in a dull review of the Equitable Coach company's franchise. Seabury claims Walker influenced the granting of the franchise to add a friend, State Senator Hastings, and in return for financial backing was assured.

Temperature Slips as Thunder Signals for Rainy Weather

Abruptly ending a tedious week long climb to 90 degrees, Iowa City temperature tumbled yesterday afternoon when a sharp clap of thunder broke the solid grey clouds that had gathered all morning and started a three hour rain.

More than a half inch of rain fell in the brief three hours, bringing the total for the 24 hours ending at 7 p.m. to .33 of an inch.

The highest point reached by the mercury yesterday was 86 degrees, three degrees lower than Wednesday. It had fallen to 68 degrees at 7 p.m.

"Stay Out of Rut," Advice to Graduates

Prof. Stoddard Speaks at Convocation Ceremonies

Challenging the graduating class to stay out of any rut after graduation, and urging its members to think and develop the art of thinking, Prof. George D. Stoddard gave the August convocation address last night at a ceremony in which 273 awards were granted.

Professor Stoddard addressed the graduates and an audience which filled Iowa Union main lounge, inclement weather having made it impossible to hold the ceremony on the west approach to Old Capitol as planned.

Lies in Self

With "Limits of education" as his topic, he declared that the real key to happiness and service as ends of education lies within ourselves. A goodly number of the limitations are self-imposed, either by the individual or by the society which he helps create. But the limits which we needlessly impose are seriously below those which nature necessitates."

As to heredity being a limiting influence, Professor Stoddard admitted that while this is sometimes true, fortunately such cases form only a small fraction of the population. "But above this feeble-minded group, there is a much larger one whose limits of education, along strictly educational lines, are pretty

Miners' Army Beats Retreat

Chief of Highway Police Orders Men to Go Home, Stay

COULTERVILLE, Ill., Aug. 25 (AP) — Vanquished with several automobiles battered and bullet-torn, the bedraggled remnants of a nine mile motorcade—the striking miners big push into the operating southern Illinois mine fields—tonight filtered home with orders not to attempt a similar invasion.

The orders came from Chief

Moody of the state highway police who directed evacuation of Coulterville, where about 4,000 strikers gathered for a mass meeting today to determine a policy after the cavalcade was routed by clubs, pistol, machine gun and shot-gun fire by nearly 300 deputies near the Franklin county line last night.

About 100 strikers suffered clubbed heads. Only six were found badly enough hurt to warrant hospital treatment. Two had gun shot wounds of minor consequence, authorities said.

Moody appeared here about 10 a.m. today with about 40 subordinates. Cars and trucks were massed near a park where speakers addressed the miners in a mass meeting.

Name Committee

A policy committee had been appointed to determine if the strikers were to go back to Franklin county to attempt to persuade working miners to strike because of the $5 wage scale, supplanting a $6.10 agreement terminating last March.

Before the policy committee made its report Moody's men already started trucks and cars out of the town. A few state police led the caravan, Moody said, and had orders to see that the cars dispersed.

Friends Meet at Oskaloosa OSKALOOSA, Aug. 25 (AP) — A membership of 7,642 in the Society of Friends was reported to the annual meeting here. During the last year 321 new members were received and the loss of members totaled 48.

Edith Rockefeller McCormick Dies

Dies of Cancer

Matron Dies of Cancer at Hotel Rooms

Illness Lingers During Long Period; Death Comes in Coma

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 (AP) — Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, leader of Chicago society and once acknowledged as the world's wealthiest woman, died of cancer in her apartment at the Drake hotel today at 3:40 p.m. (CST). She would have been 60 years old next Wednesday.

For weeks she had lain bedfast, strength ebbing beneath the ravages of the malady for which science has found no cure. Yet life clung on, as she rallied from death-like coma more than once after physicians had thought the end imminent.

Separates Family

Death separated her at last from her family as approaching death brought her children to her after a long estrangement.

For years she had but seldom seen Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser, Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard, and Fowler, her son, but they gathered at her bedside as her illness became critical, forgetting family schisms. She was visited too by her divorced husband, Harold Fowler McCormick; her brother, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and by Edwin Krenn, the Swiss architect and real estate operator who had long been her associate in business and society.

When the end came her former husband; both daughters and their son, and Krenn, Major Elisha Dwyer Hubbard, a son-in-law, and Mrs. Fowler McCormick, the former "Fifi" Stillman, were at the bedside.

Death Quiet

Mrs. McCormick quietly slipped into death, without recovering from a deep coma into which she had sunk earlier in the day.

The only close relative whom Mrs. McCormick had not seen during her fatal illness was her father, the venerable John D. Rockefeller, Sr. His age, her friends said recently, prevented him making the long trip from his New York estate to Chicago. If any message came from him in her last days, it was not made known.

Mrs. McCormick must have known death was not far off when just a few weeks ago she abandoned at last her Lake Shore Drive mansion, the gift of her father. She moved at that time into the Drake hotel apartment where she died.

U.S.-Norway Flyers Over North Ocean

Projected Flight Under Way at 4 A. M.; Weather Good

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Aug. 25 (AP) — Far out on the hazardous west to east air trail of the north Atlantic tonight were Clyde A. Lee of Oshkosh, Wis., and John Bochkon of Brooklyn, N. Y., in a projected non-stop flight from Harbor Grace to Oslo, Norway.

Lee and Bochkon took off in their plane, the "Green Mountain Boy," at 4:02 C.S.T., this morning. Clear skies were overhead at the takeoff and a tail wind pushed them along toward their goal.

Heard No Reports

Hours later no word of their progress had been received from ships at sea. Although the weather was favorable here, it was expected Lee and Bochkon would have to battle a rainstorm about 600 miles off Newfoundland. Otherwise, weather reports indicated they should have clear weather to Europe.

The 3,150 mile route laid out by the aviators would carry them over Dublin, Ireland, Boston, England, and Cuxhaven, Germany. They carried gasoline sufficient for 37 hours of flying, or seven hours longer than they estimated would be necessary for completion of the hop.

The first leg of the flight was begun at the Barre-Montpelier, Vt., airport Tuesday.

Lee in Command

Lee, 24 year old former barn-storming flyer, was pilot-commander of the flight with Bochkon as copilot.

Bochkon, 29, and like Lee, unmarried, is a former member of the Norwegian flying corps.

Landfall on the Norwegian coast will mean a return to the homeland for him after an absence of several years.

Luther Convention Opens

DES MOINES, Aug. 25 (AP) — The annual convention of the Lutheran League of Iowa opened here with more than 100 delegates attending.

Plane Noses Over

NEWTON, Aug. 25 (AP) — Congressman Florell H. La Guardia of New York, seven other passengers and the crew of a United Airlines trimotor plane escaped injury when the plane nosed over during a forced landing at the airport here. Dismantling fuel supply and motor trouble caused Pilot Ralph Johnson to land in the small field.

It is not enough to say that Davis has not yet been proved guilty. At the present moment he is a candidate of the Republican party of Pennsylvania for the United States senate. The Republican party cannot afford to run a candidate who is under suspicion. If Davis should be convicted, his conviction would leave Pennsylvania Republicans with no one of their party to vote for, and would be equivalent to handing the Pennsylvania senatorship over to the Democrats.

Chief of Police Henry A. Alber said he had ordered the arrest of any members of the organization soliciting funds or begging.

Lyman E. Cook of Burlington, leader claimed the order has 1,800 members in Iowa, and that a winter encampment has been established here. He said he served under W. W. Waters in the Washington bonus army.

Hold Man After Crash

NEWTON, Aug. 25 (AP) — Virgil Wilson, 35, of Monroe, was held in jail pending investigation of the death of Orval Koons, 38, also of Monroe, when their auto crashed into a bridge railing near that town. Wilson was driving the car,

Iowa Citian Attacks Office Expenditures of Attorney General

AVOCADO, Aug. 25 (AP) — Edward L. O'Connor of Iowa City, Democratic candidate for attorney general, in a speech tonight attacked expenditures of the attorney general's office.

He declared a reduction of $5,000 a year is possible in the cost of operating the office and promised to make such a reduction if elected to office.

O'Connor said the expense of the attorney general's department has mounted from about $14,000 a year in 1912, when Attorney General John Fletcher entered the department, to about $114,000 a year at present.

Amelia Sets New Record for Aviatrixes

Spans Continent in 19 Hours to Establish Pair of Marks

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 25 (AP) — Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, a tired but cheerful aviatrix in brown jodhpurs and a leather jacket, landed at Newark airport today, completing the first non-stop spanning of the continent ever made by a woman flyer.

Successive where she had failed once before, the tousled-hair young woman brought her Lockheed Vega monoplane down at 9:31 a.m. C.S.T., exactly 19 hours, four minutes, six seconds after her hop-off from Los Angeles.

Newest Records

Tucked in the cockpit with her, Mrs. Putnam carried two new aviation records: a transcontinental speed mark for women, and a new distance flight record for women.

In making the new distance record, Mrs. Putnam surpassed the previous standard of Ruth Nichols by several hundred miles. Miss Nichols set her mark of 2,000 miles on a non-stop jaunt from Oakland, Cal., to Louisville, Ky.

Successive where she had failed once before, the tousled-hair young woman brought her Lockheed Vega monoplane down at 9:31 a.m. C.S.T., exactly 19 hours, four minutes, six seconds after her hop-off from Los Angeles.

Tries to Make Bond

Previously Justice of the Peace Jack Dewitt had attempted to arrange for bonds with T. O. Tacy and Roy M. Harrop, Council Bluffs attorneys who represented some of the prisoners.

Hasty instruction to new deputies in the use of the sawed off shotgun caused the first casualty in the farm strike movement. Claude Dall of Council Bluffs, one of the new deputies was fatally wounded when a gun being demonstrated by Deputy Ora Kinsell was discharged accidentally. Joe Ludwigs, another deputy, was less seriously wounded. Kinsell said he did not know the gun was loaded.

Reports of approaching picket sympathizers grew more alarming as each hour passed during the afternoon. Shortly after a caravan of 30 trucks and numerous passenger autos were reported passing through Honey Creek, a short distance north of here, three Omaha police officers with two submachine guns were added to the guard about the jail.

Crowd Gathers

Local citizens, curious to know what might develop, massed about the jail, adding to the size of the crowd.

As they came straggling into the city, the farmers did not at once assemble at the jail, but stood about in groups on the street corners a few blocks from where their comrades were imprisoned.

One group passed through the city and took up a position on U. S. highway 34 south of the city at the spot where officers used tear gas last night in a clash with pickets.

The tense air about the jail finally was broken when Snyder and LaFosse began their parley. When they returned from the picket camp after arranging bail the besieging farmers slowly dispersed. The deputies slowly retired into the court house.

The agreement forestalled the possibility of sending national guardsmen to the scene. Governor Turner, after being informed that the farmers had retired, issued the following statement:

Governor's Statement

"Sheriff LaFosse is handling the situation in Pottawattamie county and it does not in my judgment demand troops."

"This picketing proposition is bringing new problems but I have faith in the good judgment of the farmers of Iowa that they will not resort to violence in this Farmers' Holiday movement."

With disorder at least temporarily averted, LaFosse held a secret conference tonight with representatives of the police department, city officials, the Chamber of Commerce and the Farmers' Holiday association.

Huey Says—

"WE WILL have evolution or revolution in the next five years."

That's what Huey P. Long, the senator from Louisiana, is telling them down home these days in his campaign to "soak the rich" or bust.

Conditions, says Huey, must be changed, where "12 men make more money than everybody else in the country put together." The big issue before congress is not prohibition but "the breaking up of big fortunes."

If only congress will adopt my plan, he says and limit incomes to a million dollars a year and inheritances to five million, nobody would have to pay taxes but these big fortunes. Now, wouldn't that be grand? Nobody would have to pay taxes!

"For example," says Huey, "suppose Rockefeller made 100 million dollars a year; under my plan, I would let him keep one million and the government would take the other 99. Suppose Andy Mellon, who has about eight billion dollars, would die tonight. Well, I would let him give each of his children five million, making a total of 25 million dollars. The government would take seven billion, 975 million and nobody would have to pay taxes except the big fortunes and it would give money into the hands of all the people."

Well, there are only as many things wrong with Huey's logic as there are points. In the first place, there will never be such a law as Senator Long advocates. In the second place, it wouldn't work. In the third place, the more money available for government spending, the more money the government would spend, until all the big fortunes that the government had collected had been paid out to make other big fortunes in different hands. There will always be big fortunes—but the government won't get its hands on them.

Keeping Up Interest

IOWA CELEBRATES . . . at all costs. The state's biggest holiday was declared officially open yesterday morning, and into its capital began to come the thousands of individuals who have planned to spend a few days just entertaining themselves.

The opening event of the fair was centered about the activities of 300 boys from over the state yesterday. The boys were in competition for state championship honors in stocks and crop judging.

Right there lies the biggest asset of the fair—it's opportunity for the boys and girls who have come from Iowa farms and intend to go back to them. Iowa is, has been, and will be, a state where the farm is the center of the entire system of life.

Any opportunity that the state may find to help its youngsters keep their interest in farming is the best insurance that those youngsters will grow up to become masters at the crafts of the soil.

All the competitions in the state exposition are planned with that end in view. It is not the mere winning of a ribbon or some other form of award that prompts a farm boy to raise a better specimen of hog than his friend down the road. That is a secondary, although a pleasant reward.

It's because of a real interest in the farm and in methods of raising that better hogs than the boys labor at farm problems. The state fair provides the incentive.

Political Stumbling Blocks

THERE IS ONLY one great difficulty in trying to achieve governmental economy, thinks A. R. Hatton, professor of political economy at Northwestern university, and that may be summed up in the whole group of politicians that dominates the government. Too much misplaced emphasis has been laid, he declares, on the constitutional difficulties surrounding consolidations of governmental functions and offices.

He spoke in particular reference to the county unit but his remarks are applicable to the state or nation. Just as local opposition from communities would have to be met in making a county change, so sectional opposition from local minded congressmen must be met when any national change is to be made. And, just as the national government overwhelms the local in size, so does the opposition vary increasingly.

It wouldn't do to foster a group of representatives in congress who are entirely national minded, nor is the opposite particularly desirable. The trouble now is that congressmen, for the most part, are open minded on matters of national import to the extent that a change for the better is satisfactory to them as long as it doesn't harm a hair of any constituent's head—and when all the congressmen with similar ideas are laid end to end, the blockade is sufficient to halt any far reaching economies.

But How to Get It?

A STORY OF modern treasure hunting has been written in recent newspaper accounts of the Merida Salvage expedition which rivals "Treasure Island," "Captain Kidd," or any of the tales of gold-seeking along the Spanish main.

Divers, working with the latest scientifically designed apparatus, which permits work for periods of several hours at depths of more than 700 feet, have located the strong room of the "Merida." The ship sank near the Carolina coast May 12, 1911, after a collision in a fog.

Quite a contrast with the stories of treasure maps, uncharted islands, piracy, mutiny, and all the other angles of thrills in treasure hunts, is furnished in the modern version, where a carefully organized expedition works on schedule to salvage valuables from the sea.

Yet there are probably plenty of modern thrills for the salvage seekers. Not the least of these is the fact that awaiting them behind the doors of the strong room lies more than four millions of dollars worth of gold and silver bullion and jewelry.

The aggregate of treasure which lies beneath the ocean must be so enormous that it could hardly be estimated. Listed in marine disasters during the century between 1829 and 1929 there are more than 500 ships, not including those sunk in the World war.

Not all of these, of course, carried as much valuable cargo as the "Merida." But with even a few thousand dollars of cargo in each ship, the total would be more than enough to make a nation wealthy, if it could all be reclaimed and salvaged.

A hog's squeal is the only part of him that isn't used, while that is the only part of a gangster that ever proves useful.

BY FRANK JAFFE

Conditions similar to those being fought by mid-western farmers now hold in the Boston food markets where in the last few weeks there has been such a deluge of farm produce that old-timers say they haven't seen the like in 15 or 20 years.

Farm trucks loaded to capacity stream into the city and at the beginning of this week there were so many lined up on the markets that some farmers were turning homeward to feed their products to the pigs and cattle.

Prices fell so low that producers might just as well have given their products away. One farmer sold a box of corn for 25 cents but the box cost him five cents and the trucking rate was 20 cents. The normal price is 85 cents a box.

As if that weren't enough, the common complaint of the farmers is that while they bring fresh produce into the Boston market daily, the Boston dealers do not patronize them, buying instead long distance goods from California, Florida, Georgia, and Texas.

Iowa farm strikers with their "buy nothing—sell nothing" slogan and campaign for better prices for farm products, certainly merit the cooperation—not the sympathy—of all agencies concerned with the welfare of the farmer, including the state. But one is hardly apt to extend a helping hand when lawless methods are employed and where strikers violate the ordinary rights of others.

If the troops must be called out to put an end to the rioting and unlawful blockading of roadways and looting of trains, then the entire movement will collapse, the props knocked from underneath, its greatest supporters and well-wishers—the rest of us—alienated. Certainly everyone wants to see 60 or 85 cent corn and similar increases in hog prices, but not at the cost to state prestige that the movement now presages.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania will probably be roundly criticized for asking the state Republican committee to request the re-election candidacy resignation of Senator James J. Davis, who was indicted last week for participation in a nation-wide lottery. But the principle underlying the governor's request is one that might be met with wider response to the benefit of our government.

Assuming that the indictment is proved by subsequent trial, Davis would do well to step out of the political picture and say discriminating voters the trouble of kicking him out. There is always the chance, however, that there won't be enough discriminating voters. If he isn't guilty of violating a federal statute, then, of course, he need only say so.

Often it is so easy for crooked politicians to convince voters that they are the victims of cruel and biased persecution, because, unfortunately, that has happened. But the sooner those who make a habit of betraying the public trust are found out, the easier it will be to develop an era of honest politics.

Book Bits—

(From Something About Eve, by James Branch Cabell)

She justified her charitableness with a logic which was plausible. She argued that all men were better content after they had become domestic animals. She pointed out that her lovers, in particular—Why, but Gerald could see for himself how little vexed were her steers and geldings, now, by affairs of the heart. Upon every imaginable moral ground they had been made better by their double transformation. They did not run after lewd females, they were not blood-thirstily jealous of one another, and they were asleep every night at a respectable hour. If Gerald had only known them, as she had known them, when they were gentlemen of high distinction and reigning monarchs, he would never argue about an improvement so obvious.

Besides, domestic animals were spurred by magnanimity and altruism into no devastating wars, thirst did not often make them covetous of money, neither did self-respect induce them to spend monies foolishly; religion did not lead males to brag in any pulpit, nor did the conscientiousness of a sheep ever make of him an ever-muddling and pernicious pest. In fine, the domestic animals were disfigured by tiny human virtues, and were quite easy to get along with.

Housing Service Office Making Up Lists of Rooms for First Semester, 1932-3

The housing service, located in Iowa Union, under the direction of Prof. P. E. Holmes, has started to make out its list of rooms for unmarried students, and rooms and apartments for married students for the first semester of 1932-3. It is necessary to do this at this time as the office gets many calls for rooms and apartments during the summer months.

This office urges all householders who have rooms and apartments to rent in the fall to advise them early so that their names may be placed on the lists.

The housing service is also making the yearly inspection of rooms at the present time. If there are any householders who have not been on the approved list, and care to take students, they are urged to get in touch with this office, so that the necessary inspection may be made.

Finding of a Painted Box land turtle near Waukeen, the first of the species found in the section in many years.

Catching of an undetermined kind of fish near Waverly with unusual jumping ability. Placed in four inches of water it had eluded officers investigating the wrecking of a motorcycle, moored. His beach is named Wreck Beach from the number of ships that have gone ashore there.

BEHIND THE SCENES — IN HOLLYWOOD —

By HARRISON CARROLL

STUDIO Gossip

FILM SCANDAL

SCREEN
COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—The first hint that Ronald Colman is planning to retire sometime in the future has emerged.

For almost two years, the reticent Ronald has been secret owner of a stretch of seagirt empire south of Carmel on the wild big sur coastline.

Here he has bought several hundred acres, with a half-mile of beach protected from the winds by a headland. The country is full of game, with quail, deer, wild-cats, mountain lions on it.

When the new convict-built coast road is finished, Ronald will be able to drive there from Hollywood in a few hours. That is his option with Sam Goldwyn is renewed at the end of the year, and he doesn't give himself completely to those proposed Lansdale stage shows.

After Colman finishes "I've Been Faithful," the screen version of "Cymara," he still has another picture to do for Goldwyn. Nothing further than that has been decided. But it is likely he will devote himself intensively to the development of his secluded, sea-washed estate.

River Room Scene of Last Meeting for Many Students

More Than 250 Meet at Graduates' Dinner

Against a setting of crystal ice blocks forming the word IOWA back of the speakers' table, some 250 candidates for degrees, together with friends and relatives, ate together for the last time during their college days, in the river room of Iowa Union last night.

The dinner was an annual affair given by the university as a farewell to members of the class graduating in the August convocation. Dean Paul C. Packer of the college of education, director of the summer session, presided at the occasion, and President Walter A. Jessup spoke briefly.

Bowls of early autumn flowers and tall ivory-colored tapers decorated the tables at which the guests were seated.

The University campus and August convocation of 16 years ago was recalled by Dean Packer in his talk. Aug. 25, 1917, four students received B.A.'s, five received M.A.'s, one a B.S. and no Ph.D.'s were granted.

Last night's number represented an increase of more than 2,600 percent, he pointed out.

Opportunities exist now, said President Jessup in his talk, which were thought impossible, or at least not realized, before. He cited examples of various persons who, meeting with reversals during the last winter, had put the time to good use by furthering their education and taking advantage of chances which they had not seen before.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

Mont Blanc: Mont Blanc, the highest peak of the Alps, rising to a height of 15,781 feet, is neither in Italy nor in Switzerland as is popularly assumed. It is situated in France, about seven miles from the Franco-Swiss border.

An Italian Fascist claimed a few years ago that he had climbed Mont Blanc for the purpose of renaming it Monte Mussolini in honor of the Italian dictator. Mussolini accepted the honor but was astonished when it was called to his attention that the mountain is not within Italian territory at all.

A Best Seller In Spite of 20 Publishers: "Robinson Crusoe," a best seller for the last 215 years and probably for all time to come, was written by Daniel Defoe, who founded his tale upon the experiences of Alexander Selkirk, a castaway on the lonely island of Juan Fernandez. The manuscript of "Robinson Crusoe" was rejected by a score of book publishers who failed to foresee the immense popularity of the work. William Taylor, who finally purchased the book, made a considerable fortune by it.

WHILE the Philadelphia Athletics were fumbling the Browns 15 to 5 yesterday, they pushed their individual totals of hits and runs up in a rather spectacular manner. Hadley, Gray and Cooney took a whirly at attempting to set the A's down, but none of them were very successful.

Every man on the Mack team hit safely, and Jimmy Dykes and Tony Freitas, the bunters, were the only ones who did not get at least two bungles. "Mule" Hassel led the Philadelphia attack with three hits in four trips to the plate, but it was Al Simmons who really caused the Browns the most grief, for he drove in five runs. Simmons was left out in the scoring department though, being the only Mackin not to score at least one run.

Bush Goes Route
Guy Bush went the route for the Cubs, having only one bad inning and allowing only seven hits, while the Chicagoans hammered four Dodger flingers for 13 blows, clutching them in two big innings to score all their runs.

The third inning was almost enough to win the game and after the fourth, when they scored six times on four hits, a brace of walks and a costly error by Slade, all the Cubs had to do was play the game out.

Bach Wilson Benched

Hach Wilson was benched in the sixth inning because he grounded into a double play when he had a chance to put Brooklyn into the running with almost any kind of a hit. Two runs had scored and the bases were loaded when he came up. Brooklyn didn't get another chance to tally until Cuccinello clouted a home run with two out and none on base in the ninth.

Giants Hit Hard to Nip Cards, 6-5

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25 (AP)—Louie's relief pitching and some lusty Giant clouting gave New York a 6 to 5 victory over the Cardinals today and evened the series.

Louie pitched steady ball after Mooney was driven to cover in the fifth while the Giants pounded Hallahan for 11 hits in five frames and continued against Derringer and Carleton for a total of 17. Eddie Marshall led with three singles and a double.

Pepper Martin hit a home run in the fourth.

Phil's Blast Buc Crew in Twin Bill

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25 (AP)—The fighting Phils made the Pirate big look like the wreck of the Hesperus today, grabbing both ends of a double header, 11 to 3, and 6 to 5, to set up a record of seven consecutive wins over the Bucs.

The first game was a walkover for Philadelphia. Meine, Spencer and Brane being flogged for 13 hits, while Hansen held Pittsburgh to eight.

It took the visitors 10 innings to win the second game.

Gophers Face Hard Schedule in Bierman's Coaching Debut

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A bomb laden eight game schedule is tempering Minnesota's optimism over their new state university football coach, Berndt Bierman, and the return of their line-cracking idol, Jack Manders.

Another sobering influence is the absence of four regular 1931 linemen, including the All-American guard, Clarence Munn.

The schedule Bierman inherited from Fritz Crisler when the latter went to Princeton as head coach is probably the toughest the Gophers have had in a decade. Six of the eight games are major engagements and the other two, the opener with South Dakota State and a tiff with Mississippi, won't allow for much catching of breath.

Of five Big Ten contests, three on the Gophers' 1932 card are with the joint owners of the 1931 conference title — Purdue, Northwestern and Michigan — while the other two are with Iowa and Wisconsin, both under new coaches this year. Ossie Solem is at Iowa and Dr. Clarence Spears, former Minnesota mentor, is the new boss at Wisconsin.

The sixth big time engagement is with Nebraska's hard-hitting Cornhuskers.

Some aid in the stormy schedule is seen in the fact that only two games are away from home—the Iowa and Wisconsin battles, neither an especially long jaunt.

More evidence on the sunny sides lies in the presence of such tried and tested performers as Brad Robinson, end, Marshall Wells, tackle, and Myron, forward-passing quarterback.

Other leading candidates are Capt. Walt Hass, back, Roy Gee, center, and Elmer Appman, guard, all lettermen. There are a half-dozen impressive sophomores headed by Carl Tengler, for whom some have hopes as "another Joeating, Nagurski or Manders."

SCHOLARSHIP COSTLY

Evanston, Ill. — Excellence in scholarship can be blamed for the loss of Hank Mellin, quarterback, to the ranks of Northwestern university's football team this fall. Hank, who won his letter last year, is an Austin scholar and he attained such a high scholastic average during the last two years that he was selected as a member of a group who will study in European universities for the next year. Mellin prepped at Evanston high school where he starred in football, basketball and baseball.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY
BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1932, BY COVICI-FRIEDE INC., DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Following the receipt of a death threat, Lola Carewe, known as "The Night Club Lady," is mysteriously slain in her penthouse apartment at 1 a.m. New Year's Day. Dr. Hugh Baldwin reports death due to heart failure. The only clue to the murderer is a medical laboratory specimen box found outside Lola's window. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt attaches importance to the young man whose photograph is found in Lola's room, and whose identity Lola had refused to reveal beyond his first name, "Basil." At the mention of "Basil," Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, becomes hysterical. It is known that Lola quarreled with Guy Everett and Vincent Rowland, a lawyer, over investments. Eunice, the maid, confesses she was employed by Everett to report the goings on in the apartment. The mystery deepens with the finding of the body of Christine Quires, Lola's guest. Christine had been killed before Lola and her body hidden until an opportune moment arrived for the murderer to place it, soaking wet, in Lola's room. The findings are similar to those in Lola's case except that Christine's neck was bruised after death. Everett, Christine's last escort, claims he left her at the apartment elevator at midnight New Year's Eve, and then went for a ride on the Motor Parkway, alone, arriving home after 3 a.m. Mrs. Carewe informs Colt that Christine lived with a brother, Edgar, in Rochester.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

HAD Christine any private income?"

"Oh, yes, she was rather wealthy in her own right—that is to say, I believe she will be—I mean she would have been in two more months."

"She was coming into an inheritance?"

"Yes—of about a million dollars, I believe. There was something about her father having left her money which she was to come in full possession when she was twenty-three years old."

Now Colt's line of questions swerved sharply.

"Do you know of any love affairs?"

"None."

"She had admirers—"

"Yes, but I think she took none of them seriously—that is what she always told me."

"Was this because of a disappointment in love?"

"I know nothing about that. She did not confide in me."

"Now, Mrs. Carewe," resumed Colt, "I want to ask you if you know of any person who would have any reason to wish for the death of Lola or of Christine—or who would benefit from their deaths in any way."

"Absolutely none," declared old Mrs. Carewe.

"Who will get Lola's inheritance now?"

The mother shook her head unhappily and supposed she would, but she did not know. And she knew nothing of Christine's affairs.

"Did you ever know Christine to quarrel with anyone?"

The old woman gave Colt a quick, uncertain glance; then her eyelids covered a tell-tale expression and her fingers twitched at her handkerchief.

"No—not really," she sighed at last.

"Are you sure?"

"Yes."

"As a matter of fact, didn't she quarrel with you only this afternoon?"

The old lady's eyes opened brightly and she nodded her head vigorously.

"Oh—that! I suppose Eunice heard. Well—we did have a tiff. But

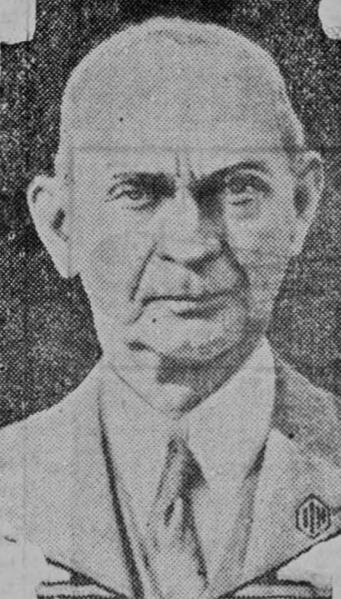

With some amusement, I observed District Attorney Dougherty's glare at this newest development.

Rainbow's End

Tired of humdrum business routine, Claude A. Wells, former manager of the Chicago Merchandise Mart and erstwhile treasurer of Marshall Field and Company, turned his back on desks and directors' dinners and went to Libby, Mont., where he is mining gold. Wells said that he has wanted to dig gold ever since his boyhood and now his dream has come true.

Flushed at Colt's compliment, the two detectives began to make ready their machines. Meanwhile Colt went to the telephone and asked for long distance. In an incredibly short while, he was speaking to Captain Wagner, head of the Rochester Detective Department.

"Hello, Captain. I need your help in a hurry. I want to find a man named Edgar Quires. He lives on Onondaga Avenue—"

At the other end of the wire, Captain Wagner had already reached for the telephone book, and as Colt finished, he had his finger on the listing.

"She was afraid of him?"

"Yes, frankly—she was. But that was foolishness."

Colt brushed aside her comments.

"Now there remains what to me seems a difficult point," resumed Colt. "Lola was found wearing a flannel bathrobe. Do you know if it was hers?"

"Yes—she always liked it."

"Did she wear it often?"

"Whenevver she felt chilly."

Colt nodded thoughtfully, but he asked no more questions. Promising Mrs. Carewe that she would be under constant guard, he bade her a comforting goodnight. When we reached the living-room, Colt and Doctor Mutooker conferred in low tones. Then the Medical Examiner went the way of his two cadavers—out of the pent-house and down to the Morgue.

"Chief," said Inspector Flynn, from the open door of the guestroom where Lola had died, "Adams and Thompson are here—with their apparatus."

Field Pledges
Self to Hard Work in Talk

Will Set Farming on Sound Basis If He's Elected

MONTICELLO, Aug. 25 (AP)—Henry Field, Republican candidate for United States senator, tonight pledged himself "to six years of the hardest work I ever did in helping put through every measure to help set farming on a sound basis" if he is elected.

"The farm situation is being made political football to the injury of American farmers," Field said, "and particularly the farm board."

"Haywire" in Practice

He said the board should be recognized as "a sincere enough attempt by both parties to remedy this problem, but one that has gone 'haywire' in actual practice.

"We need something else—changes that will make farm legislation effective and certainly I'm in favor of trying anything that offers fair promise of success."

He suggested development of new uses for farm products, particularly the manufacture of by products to increase the demand for the raw product.

Need Less Land

"We can get along with fewer western irrigation projects to bring more land into competition with our Iowa farms," he added. "And there is plenty of land put to the plow when we had war time prices that ought to be returned to reforestation and grazing."

He outlined the agricultural problem as two-fold: one phase the immediate needs of the farmer, the other "the long swing for permanent improvement."

He advocated immediate joint action by federal, state and county governments with banks, insurance companies and individual creditors to forestall general farm bankruptcy resulting from tightened credit and low prices.

Study Aid to State Waters

Will Experiment With Improvement of Trout Stream

DES MOINES, Aug. 25 (AP)—A study of trout stream improvement will be started as a basis for future efforts along this line, the state fish and game commission announced today.

Glover Branch of Otter creek, two miles from West Union, has been chosen for experimental work to be directed by Clarence M. Tarzwell. Tarzwell was obtained from Michigan to start the work.

On the completion of his study Tarzwell will submit to the commission a report of his experiments and recommendations for continuing the improvement of trout stream conditions.

These will include such factors as food conditions, improvements in stream condition, which streams can be well stocked, and the means of maintaining water levels.

The commission this week also directed the attention of fishermen to the closing of the trout fishing season in Iowa on Sept. 1. The earlier closing time was set to further protect trout during the spawning period.

Closing of the Center street dam on the Des Moines river in Des Moines to fishing was another development of interest to fishermen.

Million Game Fish Taken From Water by State Workmen

WAVERLY, Aug. 25 (AP)—A million and a half game fish, ranging from tiny minnows to good-sized nibblers, have been taken from the bayous and backwater pools along the Cedar river and placed in the river.

State fish and game commission workers, assisted by local members of the Izaak Walton league, used 300 foot seines to comb the stagnant pools, transferring the fish to water-filled tanks mounted on tracks.

Carp and mud turtles were removed from the nets and destroyed.

Bureau of Investigation
Reports of Men Held for Robbery Here

Ray Selby and James Stull, who are being held in the county jail pending action of the grand jury on a charge of robbery with aggravated, were reported by the United States bureau of investigation yesterday to be Paul Eslip, 20, and Ovel Trimble, 22, of Cedar Rapids. The men are also wanted in Cedar Rapids on a similar charge of robbery.

Heslop and Trimble were arrested Aug. 17 by Iowa City police and identified by Lloyd Kent, 502 Grant street, as the men who accosted and attempted to rob him near the Rock Island station. When Kent balked, one of the men slugged him over the head with an iron bar.

Fingerprints of the accused robbers were taken by the police and sent to the bureau of investigation. The bureau's report was received by Chief of Police Frank L. Smith yesterday.

The report showed that Heslop has served time at Eldorf and was convicted in Cedar Rapids last August of breaking and entering. He was arrested on a larceny count there last September. Trimble has been arrested in Cedar Rapids for breaking and entering, assault and battery, and petty larceny.

Cedar Rapids officials said yesterday that they would take charge of the men if they are released from the Iowa City charge. Information was filed in district court there July 28 charging Heslop and Trimble with robbery. They are said to have slugged Joe Dvorak, a resident of Cedar Rapids, over the head with a revolver butt after robbing him of $5.

Wonder Who

We wonder who the fleet footed man was who tried to break into Prof. John A. Eldridge's office in the physics building Wednesday night. The watchman heard him in the halls about 2 a.m. and chased him, but he ran like an antelope and couldn't be caught. While the watchman called the police, the prowler escaped through a window. Police found a long wire with a loop on the end stuck through the mail slot on the door of Professor Eldridge's office.

Another appeal from the appraiser placed on the condemned property north of Iowa Union, which is to be used for the erection of a fine arts group by the university, was filed yesterday in district court. Rosa Corso and Ignacia Lazlo ask $15,000 damages for the property of the Michael Corso estate. They claim $15,000 is the reasonable market value of the property. Dutcher, Walker, and Ries are the attorneys.

Rails Slip on Market Track

Sales Drop on Decline With Total of $14,000,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP)—Railroad bonds skidded on a slippery market track today and the casualties, especially among the speculative loan categories, were numerous.

Sales dropped considerably on the decline, however, totalling only $14,751,000, par value, but the average for 6 corporate securities dropped seven-tenths of a point, the largest day's recession since May 31.

The market opened fairly firm and a number of the previously depressed carriers displayed rallying tendencies. However, many of the recently buoyant issues ended with losses of 1 to 3 or more points.
