The Boomerang

THE GAME of freeze-out, Iowa style, as being played near Sioux City by members of the Farmer's Holiday Association, has backfired to the extent that the small farmers have no ready cash with which to buy food.

Because of the necessity of meeting this situation, William Gill, secretary of the county association in that district, has listed several items of farm produce which are to be allowed transportation to markets under a partial lifting of the ban.

Included in the list are the following items:
Milk, delivered in accordance with the peace agreement settled upon a few days ago.
Perishable goods, such as garden products.
Not more than one-half dozen chickens per day for each farmer.
Not more than 12 dozen eggs daily per farmer.
Not more than two bushels of potatoes daily per farmer.

Sort of sounds like the days of the late World war, in a reversed situation; instead of allowing only so much produce to be purchased, the ban is on the selling at this time.

The balance of reserve power in the Iowa farm strike is highly favorable to the city dweller and the city merchant. The merchant is in a position to hold reserve stocks and maintain his wares for a longer period of time than the small farmer can go without purchasing foods.

"They can't starve the farmer," has been the attitude in the past. Perhaps that is true in the case of the large-scale farmer, and in that instance it is very likely true only through the fact that the large-scale farmer has an adequate reserve of food products.

The average Iowa farmer does not raise enough to keep himself and his family from starving. He does not make his own flour, probably does not even bake his own bread. He could—but he doesn't. He sells his produce, and turns its selling price into food through the simple process of purchase.

When the average farmer tries to cut off the supply to his market he cuts off his revenue, and administers a sound defeat to his own purpose.

The Joke Is Off

FOR SOME unknown reason Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt has cancelled his proposed speaking tour of the states during the rest of the presidential campaign. That takes another possible joker out of the campaign deck but leaves considerable room for conjecture. What was supposed to be a trump card played by the Republican board of strategy has now failed to materialize.

The "Roosevelt name" might have worked wonders for the Republican party instead of for the Democratic party if the governor general had seen fit to take the stump for Hoover. Just as in the recent Oklahoma primary, where a "nobody" was nominated for a high office because he carried the name of a well known personality, it was thought that perhaps a speaking tour by T. R.'s namesake would counteract any psychological advantage that Franklin Delano Roosevelt might have.

The decision of Gov. Gen. Roosevelt not to make the trip is a thoughtful one, even though it may have been the result of a suggestion by President Hoover that he remain in the Islands, or brought about under pressure of duties at home. Needless to say the name would have been confusing to voters—the Oklahomans being nearer to the rule than the exception—and a good share of them might have been converted.

While there could be no possible harm to injecting some of the Roosevelt personality into the Republican campaign, there may have been cries of unpopularity. And, if never before, this year's election must be kept as close to the issues as possible, and as thoroughly decisive as an election can be—without the distraction of a family squabble.

Gamble

THE SPORTING blood of the world flows fast at the sight of gigantic gambles where the stakes are high and the chances long.

It is doing so today as Chancellor Franz Von Papen and Defense Minister Kurt Von Schleicher of Germany gamble their political lives on the assumption that prosperity is due to return.

Headless of the attitude of the Reichstag and almost heedless of Adolf Hitler, they plan to bid for public favor and success by risking $500,000,000 for the purpose of creating jobs for Germany's unemployed.

Their chances of success lie in the possibility that business has at last reached the lowest ebb and will move upward toward prosperity. If they are right they will no longer have to fear the brown shirt bellowing. If they are wrong the already critical situation will have been made even worse and their power in Germany will become nil. It is a great gamble and one the rest of the world is watching with high pitched interest and some foreboding.

A "Good Will" Mission

(From the Philadelphia Ledger)
While it is not for our government to question the good faith of the Japanese in deciding to send Admiral Nomura to this country on a mission of "good will," it is impossible to dissociate this enterprise, in the public mind, from the impending critical diplomatic situation consequent upon the rendering of the report by the League of Nations commission now in preparation.

Secretary Stimson and more recently President Hoover have stated their government's position regarding Japan's aggressive activities in Manchuria and the recognition of the rule set up by the Japanese under the title of Manchukuo. The "good will" of the American government and people toward Japan and all other nations requires no artificial stimulus. But no special ambassador is needed to enlighten our officials as to the situation in the far east and there is no likelihood that he will be able to change their attitude toward Japan's plain acts of aggression.

A spokesman for a considerable minority of the Japanese—the out-and-out militarists—has just proclaimed that Japan should be defiant of world opinion at this crisis in her affairs. This mission of "good will" may be designed to counteract the effect of this disturbing declaration. But her foreign minister has recently defined Japan's policy in terms too plain to be misunderstood. And it is a policy that threatens the "good will" which other nations are anxious to extend to the dominant power in the far east.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

The current issue of "The Nation" carries an article entitled "Rebels Without Ideas" which endeavors to explain why the rebellion of Iowa farmers "is not merely destined to practically complete failure, but it deflects attention from whatever remedies are really possible."

For years, the article states, the farmer has been bamboozled into supporting a prohibitive tariff that makes him pay more for what he buys from the city, that forces a contraction of export trade everywhere, that undermines world confidence—on the fallacious argument that such a tariff has raised American wages and the American standard of living.

In despair, he has turned to quack remedies—credit facilities, export debentures, and Farm Boards—to support the world price of wheat and cotton. And although he has recently begun to see their futility, he has formulated no new program or conception of tariff.

The "Nation" article reiterates what is being said on every hand, by experts even in Iowa, that without the co-operation of the rest of the country, or the rest of the world, the Iowa farm strikers can hope to accomplish nothing more than a temporary rise in prices of some products, and even that will hardly repay them for what they must lose during the strike.

The trouble in this case, as in the case of the bonus "army" and other minorities that have rebelled at some time or other in the nation's history, is pointed out to lie in the organization of American politics. All minorities, all rebels, must join in a program "at once intelligent, realistic, and far-sighted," before they can make themselves heard and felt in the country's political setup.

News that daily developments in the farm strike are coming closer and closer to violence and the necessity for national guard action does not elevate the cause of the farmers above the rating it receives in the "Nation" article. Instead, it places the movement still further from success, too far from the goal it seeks to attain.

Instead of separate loans to needy communities, Iowa's general relief committee favors a single loan by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to the state as a whole, the division to be made by the general committee as the needs of the communities become known. Governor Turner, it is said, has asked for a $10,000,000 blanket loan for the state.

There may be a better chance of getting a single loan for distribution throughout the state by a general committee but not before every last resource available to the state as a whole has been exhausted. In the light that a community would have less opportunity to borrow from another source and would sooner exhaust all aid possibilities, making federal assistance mandatory in exceptional cases, the separate loans for communities would be the easier to obtain.

But no matter how obtained, it will remain for every Iowa city and town to refrain from seeking a cut of the state pie until every local agency has been resorted to, and until every citizen has cooperated to aid unemployed and destitute. And then, it will take mighty judicious slicing if the state group is to satisfy the needs of those communities. It might be better to leave the entire matter in the hands of the R.F.C.

Book Bits

(From The Return of the Native, by Thomas Hardy)
... as the nimble flames towered, roiled, and swooped, through the surrounding air, the bits of shade and flakes of light upon the countenances of the group changed shape and position endlessly. All was unstable, quivering as leaves, evanescent as lightning. Shadowy eye-sockets, deep as those of a death's head, suddenly turned into pits of lustre; a lantern jaw was cavernous, then it was shining; wrinkles were emphasized to ravines, or obliterated entirely by a changed ray. Nostrils were dark wells; sinews in old necks were gilt mouldings; things with no particular polish on them were glazed; bright objects, such as the tip of a furze hook one of the men carried, were as glass; eyeballs glowed like little lanterns. Those whom Nature had depicted as merely quaint became grotesque, the grotesque became preternatural; for all was in extremity.

Romance Is All That Matters to Fiancee of Siamese Prince

Lovely Viennese, Who Is to Wed King's Brother-in-Law, Scoffs at Obstacles. Prince a West Point Graduate.

PRINCE SUASTI PRADISH SUASTI. VERA MONTGOMERY

NEW YORK—It is only once in many, many millions of times that the romantic dreams of every young girl that she will one day become a princess are fulfilled. Prince Charmings are not as plentiful as they were in the days of the mythical Cinderella.

However, that Cupid still has the power to bring the distant strata of society to the same level is evidenced by the blooming romance of pretty, blonde Vera Montgomery, Viennese actress, and Prince Suasti Pradish Suasti of Siam.

Mrs. Montgomery, now in New York, has every chance in the world of becoming a recognized member of the royal house of Siam, for the prince is enroute to his native land to appraise his noble relatives of his intention to wed the fair daughter of the West.

At this point Kipling's bromide about the twain never meeting occurs to the reader. But let it be understood that Prince Suasti is almost as western as the woman he hopes to make his bride. He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, class of 1930, and of Ft. Humphries, Va., Engineering school. The prince had a brilliant scholastic record at the former institution, finishing twelfth out of a class of 240.

Mrs. Montgomery met the prince at a party given by David E. Kaufman, American ambassador to Siam, at his home in Pennsylvania. Love at first sight was mutual and the romance progressed until the prince laid title, hand, heart and fortune at the feet of the pretty Viennese.

There are obstacles in the way, of course. There always are on the route of true love. One of the hurdles in this case is the fact that Mrs. Montgomery is still married to her American husband, Douglas Montgomery, well-known screen ac-

FARM STRIKE

Temporary Respite in Effect Today

CHEROKEE, Aug. 31 (AP)—Tension that mounted here throughout the day was noticeably lessened tonight when county officials promised a delegation of farmers' holiday adherents that full investigation would be made of the wounding of 14 picketing farmers.

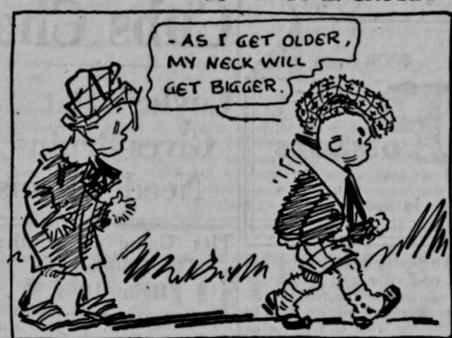

Representatives of Woodbury, Cherokee, and Plymouth county farmers, who earlier today had gathered 30 miles from here to discuss their next move, conferred with Sheriff Tilton and County Attorney Rodman and assured the officers the throng had no intention of inciting a riot here.

When reports of the gathering were received by authorities, 100 special deputies, heavily armed, were placed about the Cherokee county court house.

The officials said frankly, before the conference, that they feared the farmers planned to storm the court house. They were assured during the session, however, that such a move was not planned.

The pickets, members of the National Farmers Holiday association, which seeks to increase agricultural prices by preventing farm commodities from being marketed, declared they would continue picketing, but they promised no barricades or similar practices would be used.

SKIPPY—An Eye to the Future

College Diploma or Marriage Certificate???

Survey Finds the Craving for a Cap and Gown Often Writes Finis to Girl's Chances of Donning Bridal Veil.

NEW YORK—Girls, you can't have a husband and a career at the same time. You must take your choice between a college diploma or a marriage certificate—a cap and gown or the wreath of orange blossoms—a kitchen or a classroom—a typewriter or an egg beater—babes or books, but you can't have the whole shooting match.

A survey recently made by the Institute of Women's Professional Relations, and issued at Teachers' College, Columbia university, cites impressive figures to show that girls who go through college have less chance of acquiring a husband than girls who stay home, attend to their knitting and wait for Prince Charming to come along.

A perusal of the imposing document leads to the conclusion that the more erudition a girl accumulates the less chance she has of ever treading up an aisle to the stately strains of Lohengrin. True she may gain in earning power. But, as the song writers say, what is life without love? And what does it benefit a maiden if she gain the whole world and lose the power to make the male of the species go off his food and write atrocious poetry?

To the layman who knows very little about psychology and such things, high flown phrases like "independent ego" and "complicated cosmos" are so much Greek. But the most unlettered of the stronger sex will agree that the bride who can bake a good pie is far more desirable than the one with the alphabet after her name who makes known her experiences in ologies and isms.

Never yet was there a duncy man who could reconcile himself to dissertations on ecology or ancient literature on returning home from work. No, sir! He'll vote every time for the girl who can line him with steak, even though she believes Einstein to be an authority on uncles and aunts.

Then again, the average man likes to air his knowledge. Imagine the embarrassment of the bridegroom unable to tell his bride something she didn't already know. Not only that, but think of the terrible blow to his vanity as the more educated half of the family constantly advises him to "stop reading those trashy detective stories and read something that will improve your alleged mind."

Yes, girls, the average man likes a clever woman, but she must not be too clever. That means she must be just a few shades less clever than hubby, if the family is going to live harmoniously. Of course a really clever woman would never let her husband see that her mentality and erudition were several jumps ahead of his. But when did woman ever pass up an opportunity to score over the male?

Getting back to the survey. We are told that older women who are college graduates stand a better chance of taking the stroll on the bridal path than the younger graduate. This may be accounted for by the fact that as we grow older, we lose a lot of that independence of spirit that marked our youth. Or it may be that the years teach something that is not contained in the weighty tomes of colleges and universities—that old age without a companion is a paradise compared to the inferno imagined by the immortal Dante.

Even when college women do marry, they don't seem to be very much in favor with old Doctor Stork. According to figures contained in the survey, out of 6,865 highly educated women studied there were only 4,143 children in the entire group. That makes approximately six-tenths of a child per matriculant, or 1.1 child per married woman. Mothers outside the college group averaged 3.35 children.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

The lumber-jack's shave: To prove that the timberman of today is just as rough and sturdy as he ever was, Paul Chriss of the Oregon Woods, assisted by a steel-nerved fellow feller, J. S. Babcock, gave a public demonstration of shaving with an axe at the 4-L club in Portland, on June 21, 1932.

As deftly as the most expert of tonsorial artists, Chriss lathered the unflinching Mr. Babcock, and wielding his oversized "razor" easily and somewhat carelessly, gave the latter a perfect shave, and at the finish he broke the tense and determined silence of the audience by a laughing shout, "Next."

Tomorrow: "A fish that is a candle."

Cuyler's Bat Gives Bruins Needed Runs

Ties Game in Ninth; Hits Homer in Rainy 10th

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP)—Kiki Cuyler, pounding out a timely single in the ninth and a home run in the tenth, led the Chicago Cubs to their twelfth straight victory today, the league leaders defeating the New York Giants 10 to 9 in a weird contest played for the most part in the rain.

With the Giants leading 5 to 4 in the ninth, Cuyler connected with a single, scoring Demaree with the run that sent the game into extra innings. Guy Bush was wild in the tenth, hitting two men and giving one base on balls which, coupled with three hits, gave the Giants four runs.

Cuyler was not through, however, as he produced a home run with two men on base, after Koenig also had hit a homer, to give the Cubs five runs and victory in their half of the weird tenth inning. The five runs crossed the plate after Gibson had retired two men.

Rain delayed the game in the third inning and the remainder of the game was played on a sloppy field with rain falling most of the time.

Dodgers Trim Reds, Then Win Close One

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' pitching staff displayed two radically different brands of hurling today as they defeated the Cincinnati Reds in a doubleheader and advanced a half-game nearer second place. The scores were 7 to 1 and 11 to 10.

In the first game Clark and Shaute held the Reds to four hits which their teammates scored six of their runs in the eighth inning. In contrast, however, Manager Carey used six pitchers in the second game before finally getting the decision after Vance halted the Reds in the ninth. The Reds used three pitchers in the free hitting contest in which 34 hits were made.

Purdue's '32 Gridiron Hopes Based on Reserve Strength

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Aug. 30—Fourteen major lettermen from last fall's Big Ten co-championship squad, plus three lettermen of former years and a host of comparatively green sophomores and reserves will form the ingredients for Purdue's 1932 gridiron title defenders as the Bollermaker coaching staff tackles its reconstruction problem on September 15.

Graduation cut a wide swathe through the ranks of the squad that in the last three seasons won one undisputed championship, and one co-championship while losing only three games in 28 starts, revolving at one fell swoop 13 major lettermen, most of whom had been factors in the recent titular drives. Location of "replacement" forces to plug the gaps, and development of capable reserve strength will be the most acute problem of the coaching staff as it prepares for the ambitious schedule that includes the six Big Ten games in addition to intercollegiate encounters with New York university and the Kansas Aggies.

Strong at Center
Although "Ookie" Miller, brilliant pivot man, will be among those missing this fall, Captain John Oehler, who was rated practically on a par with Miller, will step into the center's shoes with no difficulty,

Freitas pitched only seven innings but during this time he served home run balls to Gehringer and Hogsett, his mound rival, and three blasts over the right field barrier gave the Tigers the margin of victory.

Senators in 7 to 6 Victory Over Browns

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Sweeping a three-game series, Washington trimmed the Browns, 7 to 6, today with the aid of some timely hitting and six St. Louis errors.

The Nationals' batting attack, combined with the visitors' miscues, enabled the home team to run up a 7-0 lead in the early innings, but the Browns rallied to make it close by scoring six runs in the sixth. Al Thomas, starting for the first time since July 13, when he hurt his arm, became wild in that frame and Weaver finished.

Duke Nelson Finishes 4th

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 31 (AP)—George Bladen, Memphis, Tenn., lawyer, won the 15-mile swim marathon at the Canadian national exhibition party. Bladen took the lead in the sixth mile of the grind and increased his margin steadily toward the finish.

Gianni Gambi of Italy, who gave Bladen most of his competition toward the end, finished second. The Italian, swimming strongly, went into the last lap only about 200 yards behind and held his place.

First place in the long, cold grind was worth $7,500 to Bladen, who entered the race to win enough money to get his law practice started. Gambi's second prize was $2,000.

Isadore Spandore of Port Colborne, Ont., took third place.
Marvin Nelson of Ft. Dodge, Ia., a veteran of the swim marathon, finished fourth today.

36 Hole Total of 147 Ahead by 4 Strokes

DES MOINES, Aug. 31 (AP)—Rodney Bliss tightened his grasp on first place in the Iowa open golf championship today by shooting the rain sodden Hyperion course in 74 strokes to bring in a 36 hole total of 147, four strokes ahead of his nearest rivals.

The young Omaha amateur went out in the drizzling rain that fell through the morning and brought in a pair of 37s, one over par on each nine holes. His aggregate score is three over perfect figures.

Two Professionals, One Amateur Tied for Second

Swinging along in the challenging position at 151 were a couple of professionals, Alex Olson of Mason City and Charles Kooz of Lincoln, Neb., and another amateur, R. G. (Tip) Harrison of Des Moines.

Kooz equalled Bliss' score of 74 to add to his mark of 77 yesterday while Olson had a 75 round, a stroke less than he took in battling his way through a high wind yesterday. Harrison carded a 77 today to pair with yesterday's 74.

All Pros Continue
The 104 mark was the dividing line for the low 32 and ties qualifying in the final 36 hole test tomorrow. In the group shooting that mark or better were 19 professionals, not in the low group are permitted to continue in the field but all amateurs above 160 were eliminated today.

Four strong contenders were tied at 152. One of them was David Davis, the 15 year old Des Moines boy who shot a 74 in the first round. He found a little trouble in keeping up the pace and had to be content with a 78 today.

Jordan Qualifies
Pete Jordan of Des Moines, a steady, long-driving player, added a nice 75 to his 77 of yesterday to join this quartet. The others in the group were Jim Davis of Keokuk and Joe Brown, young Des Moines professional, each of whom had a pair of 78s to their credit.

Few of the favorites were ousted from the field by the low 32 limit, but several of them seemed to be out of the running. Three players were tied at 153. Jack Hall of Des Moines and Tey Payeur of Dubuque, professionals, and Elaine Asher of Spencer, an amateur.

McKee Weakens
Bob McKee of Des Moines, 1931 amateur champion, whose 5 yesterday placed him third, found trouble today and took an 80 for a 155 total, where he tied with Bob McCrary of Des Moines, the defending champion, and Bill Gordon, Waterloo pro. McCrary had a 75 today but his 8 yesterday just about eliminated him from championship consideration.

Gene Isaacsen, Ottumwa pro, and Johnny Vavra of Chicago, former Cedar Rapids player, were tied at 156, while a stroke further back came the state amateur champion, Denmar Miller of Des Moines, along with three professionals, Charles Burkhardt of Marion, Charles Heaney of Des Moines and Don Falls of Chariton.

Tilden Posts 160
Among the stars still theoretically in the running but probably out of it were Bud Maytag of Newton with 159, where he tied with Art Andrews, Davenport pro who won the 1930 open; Dave Bonella, Ottumwa professional, with 158; and Clark Tilden, the Ames veteran, who put together two 80 rounds for 160.

Roy Horstmann, knifing ball carrier and demon tackler, remains as the only fallback of experience, and the coaches will be forced to groom replacements from a sophomore group of Purvis, Sandetur and Meade, along with Sexton, last year's reserve.

Two lettermen, Fred Hecker, and Duxie Moore, headline the list of fallback candidates. Hecker is one of the best "triple-threat" artists in the Big Ten, while Moore has shown remarkable development.

Other fallback prospects include Keegan and Hoagland, last year's reserves, and Lamb, Basker and Craig, sophomores.

Baer Gains Decision in Chicago Go

By CHARLES DUNKLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer)
CHICAGO STADIUM, CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP)—In a dramatic finish that brought the spectators to their feet screaming, Max Baer, Livermore, Cal., heavyweight challenger, decisively defeated Ernie Schaaf, the Boston strong boy, in 10 rounds, tonight, with the bell depriving the youthful Californian of a stunning knockout victory.

Just two seconds before the bell sounded in the tenth round ending the battle, Schaaf was sent flat on his face, completely knocked out.

Astonishes Spectators
Schaaf, hitherto never knocked off his feet since becoming a heavyweight, was battered into a state of collapse and pounded senseless in the thrilling tenth round, to the astonishment of the spectators.

As the tenth round started, Baer, walking into Schaaf, began clipping him on the chin with heavy lefts and rights. He forced Schaaf into the ropes with a heavy attack to the head and body, and when Ernie fled into mid-ring, he was groggy and reeling. He attempted to avoid the withering fire by backing into the ropes again, but Baer, throwing punches like a sharp-shooter, tore after him, whipping merciless punches to the chin.

Bells Prevent K.O. Win
With Schaaf staggering, Baer measured him with a savage finishing right-hand blow to the chin. Schaaf fell flat on his face, absolutely knocked out. Referee Tommy Thomas did not take up the count of the timekeeper as the bell had sounded, ending the fight, almost as soon as Schaaf hit the floor.

The Boston giant, regarded as one of the outstanding challengers for the heavyweight title, was out for almost five minutes. His seconds dragged him to his corner, stretched him out on his back, raised his feet in the air in an attempt to restore him to his senses. They doused his face with cold water, with Baer standing along the edge of the ropes looking on in triumph. He was bewildered at the spectacle of seeing the man, regarded in some quarters as the logical successor to the heavyweight title, completely dead to the world from his punches.

Other Overtime Matches
Two more extra hole matches were fought, won and lost as the overtime fever caught onto the field. Reggie Myles, tiny Scot from Ashland, Ohio, supplied the first by traveling 37 holes to upset Horton Smith, while Vincent Eldred of Pittsburgh staggered Runyan with a victory on the thirty-eighth.

Until the orgy of overtime matches spread like wildfire, Olin Dutra, tournament medalist from Santa Monica, Cal., had provided the fireworks with a 9 and 8 roff of George Smith, Chicago. Dutra, resoled off a 66, six under par, in the morning, to get an 8-hole lead and then with par golf in the afternoon troze out his rival.

Extra Holes Take Toll of Leading Stars

Hagen, Watrous Bow in 43, 41 Round Matches

By PAUL MICKELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer)
ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 31 (AP)—The wildest orgy of overtime matches in the history of modern golf shook the professional championship today, tumbling Walter Hagen and Al Watrous out of the title drive after dramatic, record-breaking struggles.

Hagen, gunning for his sixth professional crown, fell after a stirring battle that didn't end until the forty-third green where his stubborn rival, Johnny Golden of Noroton, Conn., rolled in a 10 foot putt for a birdie four. Watrous was eliminated by veer Bobby Cruikshank of New York, who waged an uphill fight seldom equaled in golf to win on the forty-first hole.

Breaks All Records
Both engagements, which capped a day of upsets that victimized such stars of the professional world as Horton Smith of Chicago, Charles Lacey of New York, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., and Denny Shute of Cleveland, runner-up in the 1931 final at Providence, broke all records for overtime golf.

The former mark was the 40 hole thriller between Reggie Lewis and Charles "Chick" Evans, Jr., in the national amateur at the Engineers' club, New York, in 1920. George von Elm and Maurice McCarthy traveled to extra holes in their classic in the national amateur of 1930 but theirs was an original 18 hole affair and lasted only a grand total of 28.

Fights Great Battle
Hagen's losing battle against the veteran, unperturbed Golden won the gallery that stormed over the course today but it was Cruikshank who fought the greatest fight.

No thrills were lacking in the Hagen-Golden fight. Not once were they separated by more than one hole as they fought on, alternating the lead four times with perfect golf. Golden took a one hole lead at noon clinging to his margin like a life preserver. He was still led by one up but a trap caught his tee shot and Walter ploughed right in with a birdie to square the match as the gallery of 3,000 roared. But it was Golden who supplied the fuel for the last ovation with that putt that sent the Haig out of the fight.

Until the orgy of overtime matches spread like wildfire, Olin Dutra, tournament medalist from Santa Monica, Cal., had provided the fireworks with a 9 and 8 roff of George Smith, Chicago. Dutra, resoled off a 66, six under par, in the morning, to get an 8-hole lead and then with par golf in the afternoon troze out his rival.

The new St. Patrick's coach expects a squad of about 20 boys on hand for the opening practice and will hand out only light drills for the first few days.

Their first game of the season is scheduled for two weeks from tomorrow, St. Mary's of Clinton coming here Sept. 17.

Army, Navy Grid Teams Will Resume Rivalry This Fall

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Army and Navy formally resumed athletic relations today for a period of three years. They broke off relations in 1927 because of opposite views on the eligibility of football men. Service football teams met in 1930 and 1931 but only for charity.

Announcement of renewal of the service rivalry that began in 1890 and once previously broken for two years in 1908, came in a joint statement of the superintendents of the two academies, Major General William D. Connor of West Point and Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart of the Naval Academy. The statement followed upon a conference in which athletic officials participated at Philadelphia today.

The first game in the series will be played Dec. 3 at Franklin field, Philadelphia.

MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY
BY ANTHONY ABBOT

SYNOPSIS

Following the receipt of a death threat, Lola Carewe, known as "The Night Club Lady", is mysteriously slain in her penthouse apartment at 3 a. m. New Year's. Dr. Hugh Baldwin reports death due to heart failure. The only clue to the murderer is a medical laboratory specimen box outside Lola's window. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt attaches importance to a young man named Basil whose photograph is found in Lola's room. It is known that Lola quarreled with Guy Everett and Vincent Rowland, a lawyer, over investments. Eunice, the maid, confessed she was employed by Everett to report the goings on in the apartment. The mystery deepens with the finding of the body of Christine Quires, Lola's guest. Christine had been killed before Lola and her body hidden until an opportune moment arrived for the murderer to place it, soaking wet, in Lola's room. The findings are similar to those in Lola's case except that Christine's neck was bruised after death. Everett, Christine's last escort, claims he left her at the apartment elevator at midnight New Year's Eve, and then went for a ride on the Motor Parkway, alone, arriving home after 3 a. m. Mrs. Carewe informs Colt that Christine lived with a brother, Edgar, in Rochester, and was to receive her inheritance shortly. Lola's room is vacuum cleaned and the dust particles sent to Professor Luckner for analysis. Colt sends to the medical examiner a hypodermic syringe taken from Baldwin's bag and a strap for analysis, also a strand of Christine's hair found near Lola's window. The Commissioner orders Basil's picture telephoned to M. Dupont, head of the Paris Police. It is learned that Edgar Quires received a telegram New Year's Eve and left for New York. Paper and ink identical with the death threat materials are found under Eunice's mattress. Everett's Motor Parkway alibi is shattered. Colt requests the Prefect of the Parisian Surete to investigate Lola's past. Rowland discloses that Everett wanted to marry Lola and was jealous of Dr. Baldwin. Colt believes revenge the motive for the murders.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

"I WAS very glad," remarked Dougherty, "that you got that hypodermic syringe from Doctor Baldwin. I would not be surprised if he were an active part of the scheme."

"But how do you connect Baldwin with the case at all—under your jewel-theft theory?"

"He was her doctor. Doctors often find out the most secret of family affairs. She may have him in her power. Don't forget what Eugie James told us."

"And is that as far as you go?" he asked mildly.

"Oh, there are lots of details still to be cleared—we haven't got a case at the moment—but we can get it by digging!"

"There is so much that is left unexplained," Colt pointed out.

"Such as?"

"Oh, major mysteries and minor mysteries—and it will take a smarter cop than I, at this stage of the game, to tell which is major and which is minor."

"Nevertheless?"

"Mrs. Carewe says she is an Englishwoman. Yet she speaks with an almost indetectable foreign accent. Why should she don't forget her origin?"

"But that isn't necessarily important, Thatcher!"

"Real clues often do not seem to be necessarily important when you find them. Like that picture of Basil on Lola's bureau. You can call it guess-work if you like, but I know that I have seen those earnest, eager features somewhere before. I cannot get that unknown boy's face out of my mind. The picture may not necessarily be important—but I believe it is. The mention of his name threw old Mrs. Carewe into a fit. Yet she said she did not know his last name. And Lola had been kissing the portrait—the scarlet mark of her lip-stick was on the glass."

"You consider these major mysteries?" asked Dougherty lugubriously.

"Time will tell. Certainly the question of Christine Quires' movements between twelve-fifteen o'clock, when she left the elevator and four o'clock, when we discovered her lying stiff, wet and dead is a major mystery. We searched those rooms thoroughly—we still do not know where she could have been concealed, although I have a theory about that. How did she get into the apartment without being seen by the three people in the place? And how did her killer get in—if none of the three persons present in the apartment is guilty?"

"Those questions, I agree, are for the moment unanswerable," rumbled Dougherty.

"Yet there are others that pique my curiosity even more," continued the Commissioner. "Why is it, for example, that the two rooms of mother and daughter offer such a crazy contrast to the rest of the apartment—and to each other?"

"Does it matter?"

"I don't know. But the contrasts remain—a peasant simplicity in the mother's room, a garish old-fashioned mid-Victorian fussiness in the daughter's—and the rest of the rooms in chaste modern simplicity. There is something behind that, Dougherty."

"Sounds metaphysical to me!"

"And without metaphysics I have seldom seen any mystery solved. There is the curious three-months' visit of this heiress at Lola's home. Why? Lola had never had any other friend visit her for so long. Your jewel theory may be right—but Christine had no jewels to amount to anything. She was heiress to a million. Did Lola intend to advise her about investments, as she did Guy Everett? Mrs. Carewe hinted at something of the kind. There is a lead that promises something. But if it does lead us anywhere, then we shall have to ask ourselves a harder question—why should Lola or anyone else want Christine to die before she received her inheritance?"

"The girl knew too much about the jewel racket," insisted Dougherty doubtfully. "I'll bet you find that her brother inherits the money after her."

"But Lola has never met the brother. You see, there is some essential factor that keeps evading us all the time—when we find that missing segment, the rest of the pieces probably will fall into place. Why was Guy Everett so nervous when we questioned him? Did he really go on a solitary auto ride last night? What method was used to kill these two women? Dougherty, old man, I could go on indefinitely reciting the riddles that still have to be answered in this perplexing case!"

"And when you get all through you'll come back to my jewel-ring idea," predicted Dougherty, gratefully accepting a second glass from the Jamaican butler.

"Perhaps," conceded Colt, "but in the meanwhile, you would not have us overlook the other possibilities within the ambit of this inquiry."

"No. But I can't keep whiffing from one opinion to another. You mean—"

"I mean that, granting at the moment we do not know how Lola Carewe and Christine Quires were slain, there are a number of people who might have killed them. We begin with Guy Everett. He had a motive of one kind or another; it seems trivial, but if he had a grudge against Lola and Christine, he might have slain them—sordid, if you like—but sheer malice has served as the motive of many murders in our records. Then there was the elevator boy. Not a very dignified or likely

Other States Better Iowa's Expense Cuts

Reduction Committee in Report Criticizes State Officials

DES MOINES, Aug. 31 (AP)—A number of other middlewestern states have gone much further than has Iowa in reducing state expenditures, the legislative tax reduction committee declared today.

Iowa's 3 per cent budget cut made by the last general assembly was contrasted with the cuts disclosed by a survey to have been made in neighboring states and Iowa officials were asserted to be only delaying necessary retrenchments.

"It must be more apparent to public officials in Iowa, and particularly to those in the state government, that they are only putting off the evil day, when they delay and postpone doing the thing recommended twice by the legislative committee—that is a reduction now of salaries and expenses," a committee report said.

Get Information

Information as to the extent of the expense retrenchment in surrounding states was obtained by the committee through a questionnaire sent out recently. Inquiry was made about reductions in salaries and miscellaneous expense in state educational and penal institutions and general state offices.

By way of comparison, the committee pointed out that the forty-fourth Iowa general assembly decreased the 1932-1933 biennial budget of $30,941,000 by 3 per cent under the 1930-1931 appropriation of $32,050,000.

Of the reports from other states, the committee said:

"The state auditor of Kansas reports a 10 per cent reduction in salaries of state educational institutions this year; 5 per cent in penal institution salaries; and 1-3 per cent in general state office salaries. It is anticipated that there will be a 15 to 20 per cent reduction in miscellaneous expenses which will follow the reduction in commodity prices."

Hold 25 Per Cent

The governor of Missouri has withheld 25 per cent of all appropriations made by the legislature for the biennial 1931-1932 out of the total state revenue fund of $24,281,000. This 25 per cent cut in appropriations is made in anticipation of an equivalent reduction in state revenue receipts.

The Michigan state budget adopted at the recent special session of the legislature will result in an expense reduction of approximately 15 per cent for the year commencing July 1, 1932 as compared to the previous year. Substantial cuts have been made in all departments from the highest to the lowest salaries.

For example, salaries of presidents, superintendents and wardens of educational and penal institutions have been cut 20 to 30 per cent. The grand total of the appropriations for the state of Michigan has been reduced from $29,315,000 in 1932 to $25,075,000 in 1933.

The following schedule of salary reductions has been made: salaries from $1,200 to $3,000, 10 per cent; those less than $1,200 no reduction; salaries of $3,000 to $4,000 a year, 15 per cent; those from $4,000 to $5,000, reduced 20 per cent; salaries over $5,000, 20 per cent.

The special session of the Wisconsin legislature gave the emergency board, consisting of the governor and the chairman of the joint committee on finance of the senate and assembly, authority to reduce any or all appropriations for the next two years not to exceed 20 per cent. Under the authority of this law and voluntary reductions in appropriations offered by institutions and departments, a total reduction in appropriations of $1,082,000 for the 1931-32 fiscal year and $1,928,000 for 1932-33 was ordered. The University of Wisconsin has reduced its salary appropriations approximately $300,000. Normal schools $92,000 and the board of control and charitable and penal institutions $50,000.

There have been as yet no drastic salary reductions in the Illinois budget according to the state auditor's office. The statutory salaries of the officers appointed by the governor for terms beginning in January, 1933, were reduced 10 to 15 per cent. There has been considerable curtailment of expenditures at the University of Illinois.

Grains Slip Then Rally Near Close

Switching Trades Put Skids Under Day's Quotations

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP)—Persistent liquidation smashed all grain prices sharply lower today, but last minute rallies brought some recovery. Weakness of stocks and cotton was the initial disturbing influence and the trade received no stimulus from the general crop news.

The chief weakening factor was switching of position by traders. Selling of the September delivery of wheat and corn by brokers unwilling to accept delivery on contracts tomorrow was heavy and the resulting decline found many stop loss orders forced into execution. Buying of deferred months checked the decline. Oats and provisions eased with other grains.

Wheat Weak
Wheat closed weak and 5-8 to 1-5-8 lower than yesterday's finish despite a rally at the close, corn 5-8 to 1-3-8 off, oats steady to 3-8 down, and provisions showing a drop of 5 to 15 cents.

The wheat market received fair support from commission houses after the extreme decline of around 2 cents a bushel, much of it coming from traders restating lines in December and May wheat after unloading their September holdings.

North American clearances of wheat and flour last week, according to Bradstreet's, were 5,865,000 bushels. Russia was also said to be making small offers of wheat for export, the first in several weeks.

Offerings Smaller
Country offerings of corn were smaller, but the market was depressed by professional selling and liquidation. Weakness was also attributed to heavy hedging sales in recent sessions.

Oats were easier with other grains. The country movement of this cereal is diminishing and offerings were lighter.

Provisions eased with grains, stocks and commodities. Closing indelimities: Wheat—September 51, 53 2-8; December 55 3-8-1-2, 57 3-4-7-8; May 60 3-8-1-2, 62 3-4-7-8. Corn—September not quoted; December 33-33 1-8, 34 1-2-5-8; May (bids) 36 1-4.

AROUND THE TOWN with

DON PRYOR

Back on Schedule
Beginning the day after Labor day, Iowa City merchants will return to their old schedules of closing times. Through the summer months, they have been closing at 5 p.m. under a hot weather agreement.

Jane and Joan
Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Dunlop have named their twin daughters, who were born Saturday afternoon in Mercy hospital, Jane and Joan.

Costly Drinks
For drinking too much, Marlon Frantz was fined $5 and costs by Police Judge Charles L. Zager yesterday. He paid the fine.

Today's the Day
Today is the day when the social service league begins canning a batch of apples and tomatoes to help hunger from the doors of Iowa City's needy families this winter.

The work will be done under the supervision of Mrs. W. L. Bywater. Persons who have an extra supply of either fruit will be doing their daily good turn by calling the social service office, dial 5752.

The Invasion
The streets appeared unusually full of cars with out of town license plates yesterday. Many of the rear seats were overflowing with bags and hat boxes and other paraphernalia.

And in many of them young looking persons were sandwiched in between mothers and fathers. It must have been the advance guard of the fall invasion which will be under full steam in another week or so.

Home Again
Mildred Parizek, secretary in the office of County Treasurer Charles L. Berry, has returned from a two weeks' vacation in New York. She will be back to work soon.

Just a Little Corn
L. A. Andrew, receiver for the Iowa City Savings bank, filed a petition in district court yesterday asking permission to pay the First National bank of Chicago $22,000 on 26,000 cases of canned corn in which the receivership holds an equity. The receiver claims that, at present market prices, it will be worth while to pay off the indebtedness and to sell the corn.

Alumni Give Pair of Gifts; Include Paper, Magnesite

Volumes of a publication issued by Hawkeye students 50 years ago and a rare specimen of magnesite are among the recent donations from alumni to the University of Iowa.

The Vidette-Reporter, weekly which was issued in the eighties, was added to the university's official archives by H. G. Lamson of Lamar, Colo., member of the class of 1884.

John A. Goodall of Mountain Home, Idaho, presented the magnesite fragment to the pharmacy museum. Commonly known as volcanic ash, magnesite is an abrasive substance.

Miss Cathryne Baltz, 19 year old Joliet, Ill., farm girl, who has been declared the 1932 milkmaid champion of the Pure Milk association of Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana. Miss Baltz' record of 18.4 pounds of milk in three minutes was made at the Will County, Ill., picnic on Aug. 20. Miss Baltz, who lives with her parents on a farm near Joliet, plans to enter a university this fall to prepare for a nursing career.

Mammoth Roamed in Iowa Long Before Glacier Time

Dean Kay Tells Size of Extinct Beast; Tusk Now at University

Terrain which now is Iowa a few thousand years ago was the home of a gigantic hairy mammoth 11 feet tall at the shoulders and bearing spirally curved tusks of about the same length.

This extinct animal has left record of his existence—the segment of tusk which has been donated to the University of Iowa by Judge O. S. Thomas of Rock Rapids after being found in a gravel pit.

After announcing the gift of the tusk segment several days ago, Dean George F. Kay, head of the geology department, now has calculated the size of the beast which once owned the huge ivory weapon.

Male Mammoth Huge
It was a fully matured male animal, Dean Kay reported Wednesday, whose length was about 13 feet from the base of the tusks to the drop of the tail, and whose height only about two feet less.

The mammoth was a member of vast herds which frequented Iowa during the glacial period. First appearing about a million years ago, the mammoths became extinct when the last ice sheet withdrew only a few thousand years ago, according to Dean Kay.

Tusk Well-Preserved
In an unusually fine state of preservation, the tusk, best of the university's collection, is 6 feet 3 inches long, and has a circumference at the base of 22 inches and at the broken end of 19 inches. The spiral curvature of the segment is 16 inches.

A conical cavity 17 inches long and 4 inches in diameter is at the basal end. When the mammoth was living, this cavity contained a large mass of pulp which served as a shock absorber when the beast rammed his tusk into enemies.

Stocks Tire After Month of Advances

Rails Move Up Late in Day's Trading to Boost Prices

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—The stock market wound up a month of brilliantly advancing prices with a distinctly tired appearance today.

The list turned emphatically weak for a time, but in the morning, and again in the afternoon, a tonio was provided by bidding up the rails. The market closed irregularly lower with most changes limited to fractions.

Further reactionary tendencies in cotton and wheat tended to accentuate the unsettlement in shares.

Shares Active

Selling was particularly active in the share market in the middle of the day, but the list turned quieter later on, and the day's turnover of 2,299,150 shares was the smallest of the week. The price average of 90 representative issues showed a net loss of 6-10 of a point.

The mid-week business statistics were of mixed import. "Iron Age" placed steel ingot output at 13 per cent of capacity, against 14 per cent a week ago, and said present indications were that the September recovery would be small. Power production, however, as reported for the fourth week of August, showed a gain over the previous week for the first time since 1929. The total was off 12.3 per cent from last year, against 12.9 in the previous week.

Rails Jump

Rather sharp advances in some of the more thinly traded eastern railroad issues aroused fresh conjecture as to the progress of consolidation. Lackawanna made an extreme gain of more than 7 points, which indicated that a short interest had been trapped. Among other thinly traded issues, Atlantic Coast Line gained as much as 4, and Louisville and Nashville nearly 6. New York Central closed a point higher, in active trading, and Union Pacific off more than 2 at one time, closed up a fraction. Another strong spot was United Aircraft, up about 2 points. American Can recovered to close 1 1-2 higher, and American Telephone, up 3-4.

U. S. Steel was off about a point at the finish and the preferred, 2 1-2. Coca Cola dropped 4, and closed off 3, net. Among issues finishing a point or so lower were Allied Chemical, International Harvester, North American, National Distilleries, and Sears Roebuck.

Russia's sheep flocks are estimated to contain 112,000,000 head, as against 106,000,000 in Australia and 51,000,000 in the United States. Oklahoma has 10 veins of workable coal deposits estimated to total 79,000,000,000 tons.

Auto Sales Remain Even

Sale of new automobiles in Johnson county remained almost even last month, according to reports of A. A. Rarick, superintendent of the auto license department in County Treasurer Charles L. Berry's office.

The total sales for August came within two of equalling the business for July, with 42 new cars being sold in August, as compared with 44 for the previous month.

Ford led the list for the month with 16 new cars sold, while Chevrolet was not far behind, showing a total of 12. The rest were: Hudson, two; Studebaker, two; Rockne, one; Pontiac, two; Essex, one; Buick, one; and Plymouth, two. In addition to the passenger cars, three trucks were sold, a Chevrolet to T. Dell Kelley, a Ford to Julius Soens, and a Chevrolet to L. L. Randall of Solon.

Hold Burial for Writer

Sue McNamara, who died in Cedar Rapids Aug. 27, was buried yesterday at Tipton, her birthplace.

Miss McNamara, who was for many years a member of the Washington, D. C., staff of the Associated Press, graduated from Irish's business college here in 1889. Her first position upon graduation was as secretary to Attorney Charles M. Dutcher.

Her position with the Associated Press came as the result of recognition won four years ago by articles written about the life of President Herbert C. Hoover.

After her work in Iowa City Miss McNamara held a position on the Des Moines Register as a reporter and then as a feature writer.

Bonds Slip to Lower Values

Rails Display Lack of Vitality; Average Drifts Down

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Despite a fair last-minute rally, the bond market today drifted irregularly lower with the speculative rails generally displaying a lack of vitality.

The trading was slightly more active than in the previous session, sales totaling $11,035,000. The average for 60 corporate securities was four-tenths of a point lower. The second-grade carriers were off from 1 to 3 or more points during the greater part of the day. Some of the losses were recovered, but the majority finished with an easy tone.

While earnings reports of the transportation group for the first seven months of this year were 57.8 per cent under those of the same period in 1931, there were indications that August would show considerable improvement.

Baltimore & Ohio 4 1-2s of 1926 were heavily traded for a loss of 3 points; Chicago & Northwestern 4 2-4s, after early weakness, emerged with a fractional gain and St. Paul 5s managed to hold their recession

Testify as to Jones' Sanity

Widow of Son-in-Law Takes Stand for Examination

BEDFORD, Aug. 31 (AP)—Additional testimony regarding the mental condition of Eliza Jones, confessed slayer of his son-in-law, today was given by the widow, Mrs. Pauline Allen.

Mrs. Allen corroborated testimony of her mother that Jones had for years complained of pains in his head, had suffered illusions and had shown indications of insanity.

Harry Hartzly, brother-in-law of Jones, was the third witness heard during the day in the sanity trial before Judge H. H. Carter in the Taylor county court.

Hartzly's testimony precipitated an argument between James R. Locke, defense attorney, and Frank Wisdom, attorney for the state, involving the statement that the witness was ordered to jail for refusing to answer questions put by a coroner's jury after the slaying.

It was expected that the hearing would be completed tomorrow with the testimony of heads of the three state insane hospitals, who recently examined Jones in Des Moines.

The hearing opened Monday before a jury of 11 men and one woman. Jones previously had admitted killing his son-in-law, Thomas J. Allen, with an ax and burying the body in a gully at the family farm July 19.

Church Gets $1,000 Gift From Estate

In the division of the estate of the late Joseph C. Guzman, the First Christian church was the recipient of a gift of $1,000, according to Mr. Guzman's will, admitted to probate yesterday by District Judge R. G. Popham.

His brother, Charles R. Guzman of Washington, Ia., and Mrs. George Augustus Smith of Salt Lake City, Utah, were each given $2,000. Three hundred dollars was bequeathed to I. B. Deaton and $200 to Evelyn and Margaret Mapes of Fairfield. The remainder was to be divided between his brother and Mrs. Smith.

A stipulation of the will provided that the $1,000 given to the Christian church shall be invested in approved securities, the income to be paid annually to the general church budget. The trustees of the church, Leroy R. Spencer, Dr. William Rohrbacher, and James Stamp, were appointed executors of the estate by Judge Popham.

Despite reduced activity in many lines of business, the Tulsa, Okla., municipal airport showed a profit for the fiscal year of 1931-1932.

It Is No Hardship

In past years, many people have always paid cash for their coal. To them, the new rule that "coal is cash" is no hardship.

To those who have used their credit heretofore, we say we are most sorry that we can no longer extend general credit. We will deliver in small lots, if necessary, to keep the bill within your pocket-book.
