Deputies' Drive to Protect Livestock Trucks Fails

100 Repulsed by Pickets at Battle Front

Sticks, Stones Used to Turn Trucks Homeward

SIOWA CITY, Sept. 7 (AP)—Rallying around an American flag, a crowd of Farmers' Holiday followers today repulsed 100 armed sheriff's deputies who tried to provide safe passage through picket lines near here for a caravan of livestock trucks.

As the officers in four large trucks bore down upon the angered farmers, the strikers raised the flag and with "this is our country" as their battle cry, closed in on the machines, hurled sticks and stones at the deputies, and headed the trucks homeward.

The Dairymen and the "Strike"
 WHILE THE embattled farmers of Iowa are marking time until after the governors' meeting which shall partially decide the fate of the "strike" movement, the idea is seen to have spread to the south.
 From Memphis, Tenn., Tuesday came the report that dairymen there stood ready to dump 40,000 gallons of milk into the Mississippi river unless prices were raised by Saturday. Although the dumping of such a quantity of milk into the river would in itself probably not raise the price, and would force a number of babies in the area to go without their daily supply of vitamins, it would serve simply as a protest against existing conditions.
 However, from the experience of the Iowa farmers who have probably lost more by their strike than they have gained, the southern dairymen should take warning.
 There is no doubt that the majority of the people feel sympathetic with the troubles of the farmer. But that is about all that most of them can do about it. The reason being that they have troubles of their own and would probably have that many more troubles were they forced to pay more for their food than they already do.
 All of which is secondary to the considerations confronting the farmer, who undoubtedly feels that his own troubles are such and so many that others could well afford to help him carry them. The real thing to consider is the fact that a few groups here and there, acting independently of each other, will never bring about the desired results which, from their very nature, must be nationwide in scope.
 These milk producers would do well to notice also another thing. The farmers of the midwest, and especially of Iowa, started their move with the sympathy and wishes for success of the entire people. They found however that their own fellows would not cooperate with them, and that the move did not spread over the country as fast as anticipated. In other words, they found that all they really were doing was losing what money they might make for themselves and that the rest of the world moved blissfully along without them.
 Now they are waiting for a governor's meeting called at their insistence, and which will probably accomplish nothing. They have lost the sympathy they once had. They have attained on the one hand enemies, and on the other partly hidden disgust.

A Threat and a Challenge
 NORMAN MATTOON THOMAS, in a recent campaign speech, saw in farm strikes and mine disorders and other current disturbances the beginning of the end of capitalism.
 Whether Mr. Thomas is right when he predicts the not far distant overthrow of the capitalistic system is a moot question. Some there are who will knowingly wag their heads and agree. Some will assert in sorrowful tones that the system is here to stay. And still others will deplore such blasphemy and will hail it, as a matter for rejoicing that, even though capitalism is down it is still not out.
 However that may be, one thing is certain. Mr. Thomas will lead the socialistic party more nearly to success than it has come in many years. And in doing so he will not only win the support of a solid group of voters, but the respect of the entire country.
 The accuracy of his predictions will depend wholly upon the conduct of the next administration. In its hands will very likely rest the fate of more institutions than one, including that of private enterprise.
 Unless some system is devised to protect the interests of the American working man the time may come when Mr. Thomas' predictions will come true all too suddenly and with disastrous consequences.

Prevention
 "REFLECTED limelight" is harmful to the children of men and women prominent in the public mind, thinks Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt. She will learn in November whether or not she will be "first lady" of the United States, and she is the mother of five children.
 The favors that come "things offered with strings to them that the children cannot perceive," are the worst part of the reflected glory, Mrs. Roosevelt thinks. She makes a special point of insisting that her children must commit no infractions of rules or laws, but even that is hard to maintain.
 Mrs. Roosevelt is no doubt completely right in her assertions. Who has not seen the teacher's pet whose father was head of the village school board? The same would hold true no matter what the public office happened to be, great or small.
 But she has attacked the problem in as sensible a manner as could be found. Just calm, pleasant insistence on conformation with existing regulations, coupled with cheery companionship—that method should be the best in the world.

 Too much reflected glory is a good deal like an excess of anything. It will eventually provide its own cure, but the process of curing is not usually pleasant. Stomach aches are good prevention for repeated overeating, but it is much better to realize that overeating is a bad condition in the first place.

A Puzzle in Political Science
 (From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch)
 Because they could not give the correct answer to a conundrum propounded in federal court, 54 out of 55 applicants for citizenship failed in their examinations, the New York Times reports. The question was, "Who elects the president of the United States?" It does not appear, on first glance to be a difficult question, and a majority of native-born citizens would answer, "The people," as did 54-55ths of these applicants. That answer is wrong, however. The technically correct one, hair-splitting though it be, is, "The electoral college."
 Little more use remains for the electoral college than to serve as the answer to a trick question. The people cast the votes that decide the issue, but the electoral college still goes through its solemn quadrennial rigmorale, just as it did when set up to spare the voters the terrific task of choosing their executive. Senator Norris is engaged in a campaign to abolish this archaism by constitutional amendment, and has pointed out to a third party getting a place on the national ballot. The country will rejoice with the 54 flunkers when their answer becomes technically as well as practically correct.

TODAY'S TOPICS
 BY FRANK JAFFE

If the Chicago World's Fair turns out to be a success, says Rufus C. Dawes, Charlie's brother, the fair name of the city will be vindicated. The implication, of course, is that Chicago now holds the spot for the world's worst community in matters of crime.

"I am here to tell you," Dawes declared, "that if there is any surviving spirit of Chicago, and we know there is, this exposition will succeed and become our triumphant vindication."
 But over in France, where recently was printed a story about the Iowa farmers' strike, that sounded as though the whole country had gone mad and everybody was out in the road stopping trucks laden with farm produce, to say nothing of beating motorists and dragging innocent women and children from automobiles, the fair name of Chicago will ever be linked with the crimes and atrocities of hoodlums. The term "gangster" itself, made so popular during the regime of the Capone interests, connotes the theme of Chicago associations.

If everyone in the world could travel to Chicago and visit the World's Fair and roam about the city and note how really civilized it is, then, perhaps, the vindication might be assured. But news of the success of the World's Fair is one thing to foreigners, and news of the latest gang killings is quite another.

On the other hand, there is really no good reason why the name of the city should be vindicated. Gang outrages persist, even crooked politics is extant, crimes are still the rage, and even though statistics may prove that Chicago is far down the list of American cities in crime, the association of the city with all that is wrong in society will continue for years.

Chicago may present the greatest World's Fair ever devised. It may flourish in the arts and sciences; it may establish a great name as an educational center; it may attract millions of visitors from this country and abroad; it may wipe out forever every trace of corrupt government; it may, in fact, set itself up as the model municipality of the world; yet, to his dying day every person who has heard or read about Al Capone or about the lesser kldgs of crime, about this killing and that, about the huge rum and narcotic and white slave rings, about crookedness of any sort, will remember Chicago in the composite picture as the source of it all.

Mr. Dawes would do better to hope and pray that not this generation but the next, or the one after the next, will look upon the city of Chicago in a more favorable light. And in foreign lands, where news travels slowly and ideas more slowly, it may take centuries. The stigma that Mr. Dawes would eradicate is not like a wart that might be sliced off or dug out with a surgical instrument; more than likely it is comparable to a cancerous growth that is rooted deep in the flesh, runs through the blood, and is never entirely extirpated.

"It is a grateful thing," declared Secretary of Labor Doak on Labor day, "to be able to say that the evidences are that a lightening of conditions is coming in other countries as well as within our own." Indeed it is, but the cabinet member failed to qualify his statement to imply that the matters of trade barriers and disarmament are still in the way of world prosperity.

If Mr. Doak wants to generalize he might do so by quoting the figures showing the increasing free flow of gold, increased freight loadings, decreasing unemployment, stabilization of banks and major industries, all pointing to a return of confidence. But to say that the world is going on to new heights in trade, in industry, in science, in art, in understanding, would be a much more "grateful" thing to be able to say than that we are going "back to normal times."

 (From An American Tragedy, by Theodore Dreiser)
 "Look at that! Look at that!" went on Mr. Rubenstein, turning the coat about and holding it before her. "Where in Kansas City will you find anything to equal that today? Look at this silk lining here—genuine Mallinson silk—and the slant pockets. And the buttons. You think those things don't make a different looking coat? There ain't another one like it in Kansas City today—not one. And there won't be. We designed it ourselves and we never repeat our models. We protect our customers. But come back here." (He led the way to a triple mirror at the back.) "It takes the right person to wear a coat like this—to get the best effect out of it. Let me try it on you."

Debt Cancellation and Loan Aim of "Professor C. Skinner"

WASHINGTON—The feline is out of the burlap. Not that the result is any surprise to those of us who can add two and two and arrive at the sum of four, for the aforementioned burlap was of the gauziest material anyway. The visit of Montagu Norman, astute governor of the Bank of England, to these hospitable shores under the alias of "Professor Clarence Skinner" was just another bid for an American hand-out to Europe.

From an unimpeachable source it has been learned that "Ye Professor" came on his incognito visit with a definite program relating to the old question of war debts. This program comprised six points which he used as the basis for his secret conferences with American financiers and government officials.

Briefly, the points are: First—Reduction or cancellation of the $11,000,000,000 in war debts owed to the United States by Europe. Second—A $5,000,000,000 international short-term loan, with the United States participating, to help Europe pay her debts. Third—World-wide agreement to inflate commodity prices, which action would raise the value of the pound sterling. Fourth—Reduction of Great Britain's debt to a three per cent basis. Fifth—Lowering of the Bank of England's rediscount rate to encourage the vast loan flotation. Sixth—England's return to the gold standard.

While Norman's conferences here have been entirely unofficial and informal, it is believed in informed circles that the groundwork has been laid for the opening of formal negotiations on cancellation between this country and Great Britain.

To the layman, it will appear that congress ought to have some voice in the matter before any international pow-wow on the debt question is launched. But a "joker" clause in the Mellon-Georges debt settlement agreement, signed June 18, 1923,

BEHIND THE SCENES
 By HARRISON CARROLL
 STUDIO GOSSIP
 FILM SCANDAL
 SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 7—His job of casting the Clara Bow picture almost over, Sam Rork expects to start the cameras grinding a week from today.
 The man who persuaded the famous redhead to resume her cinematic career has engaged several well-known players to appear with her in "Call Her Savage."
 Monroe Owsley, still remembered for his fine performance in "Holiday," has been given the role of the White Husband. Other important roles will be taken by David Manners and Thelma Todd.
 The only other key part to be cast is that of the heroine's Indian lover. Dozens of actors have been tested, but like Carl Laemmle, Jr., Mr. Rork is having difficulty in finding a youth who will make a suitable Indian.
 As to the star, she is down to weight, has passed all tests satisfactorily and is working with Eddie Burke on the dialogue of the picture. Burke also wrote the adaptation of the Tiffany Thayer novel.
 In the director's chair, when shooting starts, will be the veteran John Francis Dillon.
 They tell an amusing story about a producer who carried a friend to see the preview of his picture.
 After it was all over, the friend proceeded to give the film a razz.
 "For a moment the producer was taken aback, then he replied: 'Well you must admit it's simply reeks of production.'
 For reasons unannounced, Joel McCrea has been dropped from the cast of "Tess of the Storm Country." Too bad, for he was looking forward to playing opposite Janet Gaynor.
 Perhaps it means nothing, but Charles Parrell has just finished a picture and is available for a part. Meanwhile, Director Al Santel and his troupe are on the high seas where they have about four days shooting on a sailing ship, "The Martha Nelson."
 DID YOU KNOW—

Seemann Will Resume Furniture Business This Month

The 20 year partnership of Fred J. Seemann and William G. Ruppert in the Ruppert and Seemann furniture store, 20 S. Dubuque street, ended yesterday with the announcement that Mr. Seemann will open a new furniture and rug establishment late this month in the Kaspar building, 6-8 S. Dubuque street.

The new store will occupy the building which formerly housed Karl's paint store. Extensive remodeling of the building will have to be done before opening, Mr. Seemann said.

Mr. Seemann and Mr. Ruppert were both associated in the furniture business with W. P. Hohenshuh at the old location. Twenty years ago they bought Mr. Hohenshuh's interest in the business and have since operated the store as a partnership. Mr. Ruppert said yesterday he will retire from business for a time.

The Ruppert and Seemann store was almost totally destroyed by fire last January in the fire which burned the old Garden theater. All of the stock was damaged.

Mr. Seemann said he will open the new store with an entirely new stock of furniture and rugs. He expects to have completely disposed of the old stock by the time the new store opens.

These checks, issued by the government through the military department, will then be paid, when desired, to the university for part or total amounts of tuition.

Approximately 215 students in advanced courses will be included in this provision.

Weber Tells of Olympics

Talking on the Olympic games from the standpoint of the non-participants, Irving Weber entertained the Lions, meeting at the Jefferson hotel for their weekly luncheon yesterday.

As a former member of the University of Iowa swimming team, Mr. Weber was particularly interested in the aquatic events of the Olympics, which he visited. "The performance of the Japanese swimmers was marvelous. Their team members, all about 15 years old, excelled the swimmers of all other nations except in the diving contests," he said.

Although the general spirit of the Games was clean and sportsmanlike, the women athletes usually played to the grandstand, Mr. Weber stated. He stated that the best race in the program of events was the 800 meter run, in which the English and Canadian contestants fought for first place until the finish. "The biggest thrill for me was the crowning of Gordon and Saling as Olympic champions," he said.

SPORT Potshots by EUGENE THORNE

WITH the opening game of the Iowa grid schedule on tap Oct. 1, just two weeks after practice starts, Coach Ossie Solem will face a real task in naming the starting lineup for the Bradley Tech tussle.

It will be remarkable if many of the "coaches" in the stands don't find things wrong with the lineup, and fall to point out how much better their favorites would have looked in there.

OSSIE has been spending much of his time since coming back to Iowa City listening to the praises of almost every candidate who is going to report on his particular friends.

Joe Mowry, Minneapolis center-fielder and Iowa's latest outstanding contribution to organized baseball, has been burning up the American association this season, and has turned loose with a brilliant barrage of base knocks for the last two weeks.

WHILE there are many who declare that the manager of a professional baseball team is not as important as the players, there are many more who give the manager the lion's share of praise or abuse, as the case may be.

In spite of the fact that the team was winning, and Dixon was selling at least one player a year, there was dissatisfaction, and he was let go.

BUT even though Dixon has Davenport up at the top—by just the slightest of margins—the ugly rumors of drunkenness among the players when they came to game go floating around Davenport, according to reports.

Braves Hand Cubs Twin Upset, 11-4, 2-0, as Bucs Divide Pair

9 Run Rally Brings About First Defeat

Cantwell Bests Bush in Tight Mound Duel in Nightcap

BOSTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—The league-leading Cubs today made an inauspicious start on their last eastern trip of the season by dropping a double header to the Braves, 11 to 4 and 2 to 0.

Pat Malone was the victim of a barrage of hits in the first game after he had held the Tribe to one hit in six innings during a pitchers' battle with Fred Frankhouse.

Starts Own Downfall

He started his own downfall in the seventh, however, when he failed to touch first base when taking a throw from Manager Charlie Grimm, the incident seemed to upset big Pat as the Braves immediately found their batting eye and aided by Chicago errors, proceeded to make nine runs before the side was retired.

Baxter Jordan, recruit first sacker, had a prominent part in the rally, driving out a double with the bases full. The next four men also hit safely, and Malone was sent to the showers.

Pitchers' Battle

The second game was a pitchers' battle most of the way between Ben Cantwell and Guy Bush. Jordan touched the Chicago right-hander for a home run after two were out in the first inning and then the scoring ceased until the last of the eighth when the Braves put over their second run.

Urbanski's clean single, Jordan's hunt and scratch singles by Randy Moore and Wally Berger accounted for the final tally.

The Cubs' fielding was sloppy in the opener while the Braves fielded sensationally in both games turning in three fast double plays in each contest. The teams will play another double header tomorrow.

Dizzy Dean, Cards Lose to Phils, 6-5

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7 (AP)—Jumbo Jim Elliott was given the verdict over Dizzy Dean today as the Phillies won the opening game of the series from the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 5.

The Phillies took the lead in the third inning on bunched hits and kept the advantage throughout the game.

Jim Bottomley and Manuscio accounted for four of the St. Louis runs with circuit drives, Bottomley making his with two men on the bases in the first inning. Whitney also had a homer.

Moore, Ou Pace Giants to 7-5 Win

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Paced by Joe Moore and Mel Ott, the New York Giants came from behind to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 7 to 5 today.

Moore made five hits in as many trips to the plate, one of them a home run which started a three-run rally in the seventh. Mel Ott connected with his thirty-second homer of the season in the same inning to put the Giants out in front.

The Reds scored four of their runs off Waite Hoyt in the first four innings but could do little with Luque's offerings during the remainder of the game. Red Lucas went the route for the losers.

Score by Innings: R. H. E. Cincinnati.....020 200 100—5 12 1 New York.....100 200 31*—7 12 0

English Stars Fall Before U. S. Netsters in National Tourney

Average Old Gold Grigger 180 Pounder

John P. Stutsman, six-footer, weighs 180 pounds and is 21 years old.

Because the senior tackle possesses these characteristics, he represents the average man who will play football at the University of Iowa during the next three months commencing a week from today.

The 55-man squad, of course, includes 150-pound Willard Minkel of Ft. Dodge, as well as the heaviest candidates, Francis Schammel of Hudson and Clifford Jensen of Toledo, Ohio, each 225 pounds.

Baker Tallest, Oldest

It also has Randall Whinnery of Ft. Dodge and Melvin Kinsinger of Malcolm, who are 5 feet 7 inches tall—and Glen Baker of Davenport with his 6 feet 4 1/2 inches of altitude.

Then there are four athletes who are 18 years old—George Teyro of Hopkins, Minn., Harold Weber of Muscatine, William Ash of Ames, and Don Dorsey of Cumberland. Baker, the tallest, likewise is the squad's old man, with his 27 years.

Half Between 180-200

Almost half of the squad members fall in the weight range of 180 to 200 pounds and there are eight men who better the 200-pound mark. The 180 to 190 region includes 17 candidates, more than any other, although there are 15 players who weigh between 170 and 180 pounds.

As the squad list now stands, he made Coach Ossie Solem has made any shifts in positions, there are 23 backs, 13 tackles, 10 ends, seven guards, and two centers.

Georgia Plays Without Vets

Power Expected to Add to Chances of Green Golden Tornado

(This is one of a series of stories on football prospects of major college teams.)

By DILLON GRAHAM (Associated Press Sports Writer)

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 7 (AP)—There'll be power as well as the customary deception in Georgia's football offense this season, but Coach Harry Mehre doubts his team will be experienced enough to go far.

In man power the varsity will be heavier than Georgia eleven of 1930 and 1931. In seasoning it will be markedly inferior to those crack outfits.

Mehre placed the team's success squarely upon the sophomores and reserves who must all the holes left gaping through the loss of 20 regulars.

Lost Man by Graduation

The team of 1931, mostly composed of seniors, which won from New York university and Yale and lost only to Tulane and Southern California, largely passed out in June through graduation. With it went a complete starting backfield, four guards, two tackles and two ends, one an all-American.

Downs, Dickens, Roberts and Chandle, the backfield axes; Vernon Smith, one of the country's best flankmen, and the famous pair of red-haired guards, Leathers and Mattox, are among those missing.

The backfield outlook isn't so dark, but prospects are that five of the seven first spring linemen will be playing their first varsity game when Georgia opens against Virginia Polytechnic Oct. 1.

Good Backfield

The husky 185-pound Wendell Sullivan is back at quarter to do most of the kicking and passing. Buster Mott, another 185 pounder and fast, appears a sure halfback selection, along with Joe Crouch, a reserve, and Homer Key, the midget speedster. A 195 pound sophomore, Buck Chapman, will play fullback.

Graham Batchelor, the big center, has been moved to end with another regular, McWhorter, remaining at the pivot post. But the remainder of the line from tackle to tackle must come from untried performers.

"We'll have more actual power, and maybe we'll be able to say 'Here We Come' to the opposition and really plow through rather than gain our yardage through trickery," Coach Mehre says, "but basically we'll use the same stuff as last year."

Schedule Lighter

The schedule, lighter than a year ago, follows: Oct. 1—Virginia Polytechnic at Athens.

Oct. 8—Tulane at New Orleans. Oct. 15—North Carolina at Athens. Oct. 22—Florida at Athens. Nov. 5—N.Y.U. at New York. Nov. 11—Clemson at Clemson. Nov. 19—Auburn at Columbus, Georgia.

Nov. 26—Georgia Tech in Atlanta. (Tomorrow—Notre Dame)

BRINGING PUNCH INTO POLITICS

Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, is shown as he greeted Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for the presidency, when they met at the McNeill dinner in Bridgeport, Conn. Both Roosevelt and Tunney made speeches, the New York governor pleading for harmony in the party and praising the work of former Governor Alfred E. Smith. This was the first time since the Chicago convention that Roosevelt mentioned his erstwhile opponent by name.

Babe Ruth Makes Hurried Trip to New York; Yankee Slugger Fears Appendicitis

DETROIT, Sept. 7 (AP)—Babe Ruth, the New York Yankees' perennial candidate for home run hitting honors, left for New York tonight to be examined and treated for what he fears is an attack of appendicitis.

He was seized with severe abdominal pains late today and, without notifying the Yankee management, boarded a train with his wife at 8:30 p.m. for New York.

The seriousness of his illness probably will not be known until he reaches New York and is examined by the club physician.

The Yankees arrived today to open a series with the Tigers tomorrow. Manager Joe McCarthy was not with them, but is expected tomorrow.

Mark Rothben, secretary of the club, said later that Ruth had called McCarthy, who is in Buffalo, and received permission from him to go home.

The first word of Ruth's departure received by Rothben or Arthur Fletcher, Yankee coach, came from newspapermen who had heard Ruth was being boarded a Michigan Central train, Rothben said Ruth had seemed in good health yesterday, when he hit a home run in an exhibition game at Binghamton, N. Y., but that he had not seen him today.

Fletcher said he had seen the Babe during the morning and that he had seemed well then. After inquiring among the players, Rothben confirmed the report of Ruth's departure.

"He was seized with a pain in the stomach and called up McCarthy in Buffalo," he explained. "He told Joe he thought he was getting appendicitis and Joe gave him permission to return to New York."

Without more definite information on the Babe's illness, neither Rothben nor Fletcher would speculate on the possibility the slugger might not be available for the world series.

National Loop Pennant Race Tightens Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—The National league battle lines were drawn a little closer together today as the result of the opening skirmishes along the eastern front.

The Chicago Cubs' lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates was reduced to five games when the league leaders dropped two games to the Braves while the Pirates and Dodgers were breaking even. The Dodgers also gained a full game on the Cubs but still trailed by nine games.

Here's how the three leaders stand with games to play and games behind Cubs.

Seven Americans Led by Vines Get Into Quarter-Finals

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—England's tennis favorite were routed from the national tennis championships today, leaving seven American stalwarts to fight it out with France's one-man team, Henri Cochet, for the crown held by Ellisworth Vines, Jr.

The wholesale elimination of the British contingent saw the great H. W. (Bunny) Austin bow to Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, this nation's intercollegiate champion, and Fredrick Perry lost a bitterly fought decision to Sidney Wood, Jr., the former Davis cupper. Edward Avory and John Olliff went out before Wilmer Allison and Frank Shields, respectively.

Plays Great Tennis

Wood's victory over Perry, scored against tremendous odds after he had dropped the first two sets, was the day's thriller. The scores were 2-6, 4-6, 6-0, 6-0, 7-5, with the American playing some of the greatest tennis of his career.

Perry lost his temper over several decisions and was an easy victim in the end.

Sutter smashed through Austin, England's No. 1, by score of 6-2, 6-0, 7-5. The New Orleans star, with a vastly improved service and steady all-court game, promised to make plenty of trouble for George Lott, Jr., his opponent in tomorrow's quarter-finals. Lott defeated Takeo Kuwabara, Japanese champion, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Vines Wins Easily

Vines overwhelmed Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, co-holder with him of the national doubles title, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1.

Cochet had nothing easy in Johny Van Ryn, the eminent Philadelphiaan, despite the fact he turned him back in straight sets, 7-5, 6-3, 6-6. Lester Stoeffen, the power house from Los Angeles, became the only unseeded player among the eight survivors by trimming Gregory Mangin of Newark, national indoor champion, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4.

Shields triumphed over Olliff, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, while Allison subdued Avory 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. Tomorrow Shields tackles Cochet and Allison meets Wood.

Little Series to See Three Former Stars

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 7 (AP)—Jack Seltzinger, Johnny Murphy and Carman Hill have moved around quite a bit since the last "junior world's series," but they appear headed for duty in the 1932 league classic just the same.

Seltzinger and Murphy, stars of the 1931 championship St. Paul club of the American association, were sold to the New York Yankees, but later were sent along to Newark for further seasoning. Seltzinger plays second and Murphy pitches.

It wasn't seasoning, though, that figured in Hill's shifting. This former big leaguer, now close to 40, was sent from Rochester, 1931 International league champion, to Columbus of the association. After showing poorly there he was picked up by Manager Donie Bush of Minneapolis.

Iowa's other home games for which stadium seats are being reserved are Nebraska, Nov. 5, and Purdue, Nov. 13.

Homecoming Tilt With Gophers Most Popular With Fans

With purchasers evincing the greatest amount of interest in the Minnesota game, ticket applications for the University of Iowa's three chief home football contests are being filed at a satisfactory rate.

Charles S. Gallier, director of ticket sales, so reported Wednesday, a week after application blanks were dispatched to 23,000 persons.

The unusual interest in the Minnesota game he attributes to the fact that it is the first home conference affair on the 1932 schedule as well as a feature of the twenty-first annual Homecoming.

Iowa's other home games for which stadium seats are being reserved are Nebraska, Nov. 5, and Purdue, Nov. 13.

Plan 'Sippi Valley Title Series Tilts

DAVENPORT, Sept. 7 (AP)—The play-off series between Rock Island and the winner of the second half championship in the Mississippi Valley league will open in Rock Island, Sept. 13, according to plans made at a meeting of representatives of the Rock Island, Davenport and Burlington clubs with Dr. C. R. Logan of Keokuk, league president, today.

In case of a tie between the Burlington and Davenport clubs for the second half pennant, these teams will play one game to decide which will meet Rock Island in the post-season series.

Should Davenport win the second half pennant, the games, seven if necessary, will be rotated—the first in Rock Island, second in Davenport, alternately, should Burlington win, the first two games will be played in Rock Island, the next three in Burlington, and the remainder in Rock Island.

Admission prices were set at 40 cents general admission with 25 cents extra for grand stand seats, tax included. All games will be played at night. Umpires selected are

Even Break Cuts Margin to 5 Games

Pirates Rout Mungo in First, 8-3; Lose Second, 4-2

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, starting their final bid for the National league pennant, broke even with the Brooklyn Dodgers today to shave a full game off the lead of the Chicago Cubs, who lost two games to the Braves.

After extending their winning streak to 11 straight with an 8 to 3 victory in the curtain raiser, the Pirates fell before the southpaw slants of Fred Helmach in the second game, losing 4 to 2. The even break left the Pirates trailing the Cubs by five games with the Dodgers another four games back.

Score Early

In the first game, the Pirates concentrated their 12-hit attack in the first inning off Van Mungo, scoring six runs on five hits. Joe Shaute pitched effective relief ball but the Dodgers were unable to connect with the offerings of Bill Swift. Six hits, five in the third and fourth innings, was the best the Dodgers could do with the young Pirate right hander.

Capt. Pie Traynor and Tony Piet cracked out three hits each in the second game but the remainder of the Corsairs found Helmach's delivery puzzling. Twice Piet drove Traynor across the plate with doubles and in the ninth blasted out a triple with two out.

The Dodgers made only eight hits off Bill Harris but three of them came in the second for one run and three more in the fourth for their second tally. They counted again in the sixth and seventh, a wild throw by Gus Subr permitting Helmach to score the fourth run.

MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY BY ANTHONY ABBOT

SYNOPSIS Lola Carewe, "The Night Club Lady", is mysteriously murdered in her penthouse apartment at three o'clock New Year's morning. An hour later, the body of Lola's guest, Christine Quires, is found in Lola's room, Christine had been killed first and her body hidden. Dr. Hugh Baldwin attributes both deaths to heart failure. Guy Everett, Christine's New Year's Eve escort, claims he brought her home at 12:15 and then went riding alone on the Motor Parkway. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, denies seeing Christine return. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt discounts District Attorney Dougherty's theory that Lola was killed by a jewel thief ring she headed and that Christine met the same fate for knowing too much. Vincent Rowland, Lola's lawyer, discloses that Everett loved Lola and was jealous of Dr. Baldwin. The police are on the trail of Christine's brother, Edgar, who left his Rochester home for New York after receiving a telegram New Year's Eve. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Dr. Multooler, the medical examiner, contradicts Dr. Baldwin's statement that heart failure caused the deaths. A strap picked up in Lola's room evidently caused the bruise on Christine's neck—after death. Everett confesses he hid about riding on the Motor Parkway. He states Christine told him she had discovered a plot to murder Lola and feared for her own life because of her knowledge, adding that Dr. Baldwin was involved. The picture of the young man found in Lola's room is identified by the Paris Prefect of Police as that of Basil Boucher, a young bank clerk, who met a dancer named Lola in Paris, robbed a bank to buy her a ruby, and then disappeared. Basil's parents sold medical laboratory specimens. Professor Luckner, a scientist, finds a scorpion's antenna—the instrument of death—among the particles of dust gathered from Lola's room. Colt is puzzled as there were no punctures on the bodies. Luckner calls the Commissioner's attention to Lola's robe.

Colt bent down and gave a turn to the screw of the instrument. A low exclamation escaped him.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE THE microscope was placed over a part of the innards of that bisected sleeve. Colt bent down and gave a turn to the screw of the instrument. A low exclamation escaped him. "I see two dried red spots—of blood?" "You are right, Herr Commissioner!" "Then—the scorpion was in the sleeve?" "I believe that, too—" "But the bathrobe was put on wrong—" "I know nothing of that." "Of course, it was! And the scorpion had to be in the sleeve—" "Ah!" cried Professor Luckner, "if that were so, the scorpion would make frantic efforts to escape—most surely it would bite—" With a handkerchief, Thatcher Colt wiped moisture from his brow. "Professor—how could a person obtain such a scorpion? I must know that." "The professor gave a demure wink. "One could go to Durango and look in the cellars of old houses," he suggested with an enormous chuckle. "But otherwise, it would be well, very difficult to obtain such a scorpion." "But it could be done?" "Oh, yes, if one were connected with a university laboratory—a biologist or a medical research man—they could arrange it." "But how?" "Through supply houses who keep the research laboratories stocked with necessary insects, birds—all sorts of living creatures. Did I ever tell you the story—" Colt laid his hand lightly on the old professor's elbow. "The police have to travel fast, professor. I have sent an agent already to call on these supply houses!" "Ja wohl! But how? Are you a mind-reader?" "Having reassured Professor Luckner and thanked him profusely, Colt led the way back to our car. Sitting with military erectness in the back seat, he deliberately filled his pipe and lighted it. Then he said: "It would be possible for a medical man to get that scorpion. The only marks found on Lola's body were the punctures of a hypodermic needle—made by a medical man." "But the analysis showed the solution was harmless," I remonstrated. "Colt's nod was infinitely sad. "Right. But do you remember how Doctor Baldwin as he stood beside Lola reached across her body to lift up the arm that was farthest from him? Why? Suppose he did that strange action because he knew the bite of the scorpion was already there—" "And he put the point of the hypodermic needle through that bite?" I gasped. "It could have been done," said Thatcher Colt. "I am not ready to say that it was done. But I do want to have a few words with Doctor Baldwin. We have one telephone call to make and then—" Colt gave directions to the chauffeur to take us to that haunted apartment building where Doctor Baldwin's office was under the same roof with Lola Carewe's home. The telephone call was made from a drug-store on a corner of Amsterdam Avenue, one block west. Colt wanted the latest reports from his office before tackling Doctor Baldwin. Flynn was at Headquarters, bursting with eagerness to talk with the chief. It was only a brief talk, but the facts given to Colt were indeed disturbing. The first was that no employee of the North Star speakeasy could remember having seen Guy Everett in the resort on New Year's Eve. No attendant had opened the grill iron door to admit the actor, the coat-girl did not remember taking his coat, and no waiter would admit to having served him. Furthermore, additional inquiries made in the apartment house where Doctor Baldwin made his home, opened a fascinating new field for speculation. It was known that late in the previous evening Mrs. Baldwin had a visitor—a man whom no attendant recognized and who had remained with Mrs. Baldwin until a late hour! "And further," added Flynn, "you know how I sent a man out to the medical laboratory supply houses. Well—I got something hot. Doctor Baldwin has been buying bugs—poisonous—scorpions—" "Will they swear to that?" rasped Colt suddenly. "Sure—a fellow there named Villafrañca—he sold Baldwin a fresh one this morning!" "Hold on to him!" exclaimed Colt. "I'll talk with you later." In solemn silence, Thatcher Colt hurried back to the car. Back toward Morningside Heights we hurried. But now a change had come over town and sky, as, indeed, a change had come into my own suspicion-haunted brain. When we had entered the drug-store to telephone, we had left behind us crisp, yellow sunshine. Fifteen minutes later the light and warmth of the winter morning were gone. We were embraced in a damp plume of fog. I felt gloomy and depressed, and without sensible reason, except the fatigue of our long and unabated efforts. Seemingly we were coming nearer to our quarry, and working with multiplying clues. Yet my dependency increased as our car rolled down the steep slope of Morningside Heights. On we hurried, past the little French cathedral—Eglise de Notre Dame—with its Virgin in a rocky niche over the altar, surrounded by the flames of a thousand candles, and decked about with crucifixes of persons miraculously healed. The sight of it seemed to me infinitely tragic and forlorn, and this impression deepened as we scurried by St. Luke's Hospital, and Gabriel blowing his long trumpet over the seven chapels of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Down under the roaring bridge of the elevated at One Hundred and Tenth Street raced our police car, while the shatter-proof glass of the car windows became obscured with a coating of silver mist that made of the car's interior a chamber of isolation, a compartment of reflection rolling on balloon tires. I looked at Thatcher Colt. He was refilling his pipe. He looked at me with a lightly amused air that hid, I knew, a deep crisis of excitement.

Stocks Climb to New Highs Despite Wheat

Number of Favorites Clamber to New Peaks

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Stocks clambered to a new average high for the year today, making their bids against the uninspiring example set by leading commodities. A sag in wheat and a hesitant cotton market were no deterrent to bullish enthusiasm which reached a high temperature in the last hour when new peaks for the year were made by a number of favorites. Transactions during the final 50 minutes approximated 1,200,000 shares. Volume for the day totaled 4,124,202 shares.

Wide Assortment Net gains of 1 to 3 points or more embraced a wide assortment of stocks, especially favored were the utilities, motors, metals and steels. Rails chugged along with the crowd. U. S. Steel common came within an ace of setting a new high for 1932, again touching 52 1/2. It closed there, up 2 1/2. The preferred gained a couple of points. General Motors and Chrysler both set a fast clip in the automobile division, the former gaining 2 points. General Electric, American Can, Gillette, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Western Union, Du Pont, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Westinghouse were up 2 to 3 net. American Telephone 3 3/4 and Auburn Auto 10 1/4. International Telephone, Radio and United Aircraft were strong and active.

Market A-Flutter The measured advance of the forenoon had its moments of skepticism when it was seen that the two leading staples were having some difficulties, but professionals interested in several low priced issues added zest to the slow rise by pushing those shares and it was not difficult to set the whole market aflutter. The Standard Statistics Association resuscitated closed at 73.9, the highest since early December, and 3.2 points net higher. Bullishness was enhanced by the rise in electric power production for last week. Domestic copper was quoted at 6 1/4 cents a pound, a notch nearer the 7 cent price which, some say, is the goal of the present movement. Another encouraging bit of news was the "Iron Age" estimate that steel production had risen 1 1/2 points this week to 14 1/2 per cent of capacity and the review's notation of firmer pig iron and steel scrap markets.

Bond Market Prices Slow

Shows Uncertainty in Spite of Stocks' Gain

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Enthusiasm lagged in the bond market today with little attention apparently being paid to the upturn in stocks. While a number of utilities and industrial issues moved up moderately, the speculative rally displayed an uncertain tendency. Sales totaled $11,316,000, par value, and the average for 60 corporate securities lagged 1-10 of a point.

Government Section Active The United States government section was active for the first time in a number of sessions, responding to reports that the treasury's new $1-150,000,000 note and certificate offering for Sept. 15, had been heavily oversubscribed. Treasury 4 1/4 was made a new high for the year and Liberty First 4 1/4 also recorded a new 1932 top figure but dropped back later. Late rallies enabled a number of the rails to turn losses into small gains. Among these latter were Allegheny 6s, Baltimore & Ohio 4 1/2s, Chesapeake corporation 5s, St. Paul 5s and New York Central 5s and 6s. The more feeble loans included some of Rock Island, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Frisco, and Southern Pacific.

Register Moderate Gains Moderate gains were recorded by loans of American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Postal Telegraph, International Telephone, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, Dodge Brothers, Goodrich, Goodyear, Texas corporation, and Warner Brothers. Remington Rand 5 1/2s gained 4 1/2 points. The foreign section was generally firm. German government obligations sagged. Argentines again advanced as much as 3 3/8 points. Haiti Republic 6s were also up 4 and the Japanese list rallied moderately.

Davenport Firms Get Illinois Road Contracts

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 7 (AP)—Low bidders on road construction contracts announced today by the Illinois state highway commission included two Davenport, Iowa, contractors. The Central Engineering company offered to put to grade 2.5 miles in Polk county for $56,525.08, and the McCarthy Improvement company bid $84,228.24 on the project to grade 7.11 miles in Union county.

Government to Spend $49,000 for Dredging

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Secretary Hurley today approved the allotment of $49,000 for river and harbor work. Of the amount, $17,000 will go to continue the dredging of Willapa river and harbor, Washington, and $32,000 for repairs to the west breakwater at Agate Bay, Minnesota. W. A. Kennedy, Goldboro, N. C., farmer found a cluster of 12 ears of corn growing in his field. A wedding was held in a newspaper office at Danville, Va.

Trader Criticizes Views on Wheat Holdings of Farm Board

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—A statement by Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa that the threat of farm board holdings has been removed from the wheat market has brought the following reply from President Peter B. Carey of the Chicago board of trade:

"Such is distinctly not the case. With its inevitable insincerity, the farm board has concealed the amount of future wheat contracts which it holds. It has thrown a new shadow of doubt across the markets.

"Simply transferring its cash grain holdings to future contracts by no means removes the letters from the markets. Nor can the markets respond in full measure as long as such dominance remains.

"Broken farm board promises have destroyed the confidence of farmers, the grain trade and foreign buyers. Only a complete end of this bureaucracy can bring permanent improvement. If maintained, its pledge not to sell wheat before Jan. 1, should be an aid to prices.

"But if this new futures trading policy only pours more commissions into the Farmers National Grain corporation to maintain a top heavy payroll, then the damage is simply prolonged."

An Old Gag
Actors may not be born great, but they start pretty young. At least, that's what a naive matron decided yesterday after she was fooled by the old confidence game. This is the way it happened: a small boy stood on the sidewalk near the post office, locking down at the parking and sniffling loudly. A woman stopped, and he told her that he had lost the dime that he was to buy bread with. The woman smiled with charitable understanding, pawed through her purse and handed a coin to the lad. The look of soulful melancholy left the boy's face. "Hey, Bill, got a quarter this time," he whooped to a confederate as he dashed across the street.

And incidentally, according to Charles Kennett, president, none of the persons receiving furniture or clothing from the relief association are registered with the Social Service league, so there is no duplication of effort.

cently he would call out troops only if the situation became too acute for county authorities to handle.

Denies Receiving Resolution
The Iowa executive said he had not received a copy of a resolution in which county leaders of the holiday association asked him to attend a governors' conference here Friday and to use his influence to obtain a middlewestern embargo on all farm goods.

Governor Turner will leave Des Moines Thursday for Sioux City, he said. Plans for the conference, at which it is expected that the orderly marketing of farm goods will be discussed, were going forward today under the supervision of Governor Green of South Dakota, who invited 15 governors to attend.

Awaited Sheriff's Escort
The truckers had waited at Le Mars, seat of Plymouth county, for Sheriff Rippey's escort. He mustered all able-bodied and available men in as his deputies and set out in four trucks.

The pickets threw poles, logs, timbers, and rods across the highway. When Rippey and his force approached the barricade, he alighted from the first truck, ordered his deputies to remove the obstructions, and shouted that he would shoot anyone who interfered.

Disregarding the threat, the farmers rushed at the deputies and compelled them to get into the trucks.

Shouts at Farmers
Rippey clambered on top a truck and shouted to the farmers that "they apparently did not want the laws enforced."

"You elected me to office the first of the year to enforce your laws," he yelled, amid boos and catcalls. "Now you don't want the laws enforced. You don't have a leader who will listen."

Sheriff John A. Davenport of Woodbury county, of which Sioux City is the seat, sent a squad of deputies to the Woodbury-Plymouth county line to guard any trucks that should cross. James is just beyond the boundary.

Police Ready for Emergency
Later all Sioux City police officers were called from their beats and ordered to the police station, to be ready for any emergency at James. The non-selling campaign was started in Iowa Aug. 8. At all other places where it has been put into

Fear Italian Reaction
The Socialist newspaper Vorwarts expressed some apprehension that Italy, which has supported the German position, might dislike the turn the German effort has taken. While Germany has indicated that it will remain aloof from the disarmament conference if the question remains unsettled, Italy has invited that the question be settled at Geneva.

"Isn't it somewhat imprudent," the newspaper asked, "to make such a threat when even Italy, from whose support so much is expected here, unequivocally contravenes the threat to stay away from the disarmament conference?"

Reports of ideal weather for wheat movement in Canada led to persistent selling by houses with Winnipeg connections. Winnipeg wheat receipts today aggregated 1,981 cars against 846 a week ago and 1,100 at this time last year.

It was contended in some quarters that if United States government financed holdings of wheat futures were in December contracts, the line estimated at 40,000,000 bushels constituted a menace to the market, as the holders would have to accept delivery or switch into May.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat, but corn rallied owing to better shipping demand.

Provisions reflected downturns of cereals.

Corn showed a firmer tone relatively than wheat, as country offerings of corn were generally above the market. Meanwhile shipping de-

Germany Planning World-Wide Air Service

Object of Captain von Gronau's Flight Around the Globe Is to Make Survey of Arctic Route, Linking Germany and North America with the Orient.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—That the around-the-world flight which Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, famous German aviator, is now making with two of his fellow countrymen, is the preliminary step towards the establishment of the most ambitious aviation undertaking yet attempted has just been learned from an authentic source in Berlin.

The undertaking is nothing less than an air mail and passenger service which would link Berlin with the United States, Canada and the Orient. For years, in fact ever since aviation began to take such giant strides, Germany has been considering the possibility of such a world-wide line of aerial transport, but up to the present had cherished the belief that only aircraft of the Zeppelin type would be suitable for the undertaking. Of course, one can readily see that the outlook for the inauguration of such a service would be terrific.

However, when von Gronau made two successful trips from Germany to the United States via flying boat, the powers that be in Berlin began to sit up and take notice. Here was an angle they had failed to take into consideration.

Accordingly, they sent von Gronau off on a secret mission to check the feasibility of carrying out the "round-the-world air service with
