Pattern 2380

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS

At last, a fashion trend that can be called the matron's own... the coat dress. The lines invariably slenderize and numerous ways are created for adding flattering details. The model sketched, you'll agree, is the smartest of smart. Its contrasting banding, becoming revers and new sleeves are just some of the interesting details. Attractive either in prints or solid shades.

Pattern 2380 may be ordered only in sizes 36 to 48. Size 36 requires 4 yards 39 inch fabric and 3 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to include the name of the catalog. The fall and winter edition of the Anne Adams pattern catalog is ready! Charming, flattering models—32 pages of the newest and best house, street and formal frocks—cleverly designed styles for large figures—and beautiful, practical models for juniors and kiddies. Lovely lingerie patterns, and suggestions for gifts that can be easily and inexpensively made, are also included. Send for the new catalog. Price of catalog, fifteen cents. Catalog and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Address all mail orders to The Daily Iowan Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th street, New York city.

Romance Ended?

Though both parties refuse to comment, reports are persistent to the effect that Ruth Elder (above), who almost flew the Atlantic five years ago, and her husband, Walter Camp, are at the parting of the ways and will soon start divorce proceedings. The above photo of Mrs. Camp was made at the opening of the world series in New York.

Two Meetings on Schedule for Iowa City Woman's Club

Meetings for two departments of the Iowa City Woman's club have been scheduled for next Friday. Because of the annual meeting of the second district of the Iowa Federation of Women's clubs, the meeting of the crafts department has been postponed from Tuesday to Friday. Mrs. L. E. Clark will be hostess to the crafts group at her home, 518 S. Lucas street. Instruction on the art of leather tooling will be given by Mrs. Forrest Allen and Mrs. J. E. Briggs.

A luncheon will be given by members of the social science department at Youtie's inn at 12:30 p.m. Friday. The luncheon table will be decorated with garden flowers. The Democratic and Republican conventions will be discussed by Elizabeth Kelley and Kenneth Dunlop.

The Kansas board of health, campaigning against shortweight sellers, will seek enactment of heavier penalties for persistent offenders.

IOWA'S FIRST Solem-Coached Team Batters Bradley

Schmidt circled right end from the 11 yard marker, following a 19 yard gallop by Moffitt from the Bradley 29 yard line. Schmidt place-kicked the extra point.

Moffitt put the ball in scoring position again just after the fourth quarter started with a 24 yard sprint to the Bradley 17 yard line. Ash slashed through right guard to cross the goal line once more and run the total to 25 points. Schmidt's kick was low.

Ash tallied the last Hawkeye touchdown toward the end of the game, pushing the ball over from the one yard line. Schmidt again failed to convert, and the score stood at 31.

Coach Solem then sent in his second and third string men to finish the game. The Bradley score was made just before the first half ended when Handley, standing on his 36 yard line, lunched a beautiful pass to Spiech, who took the ball on Iowa's 15 yard line, and crossed the goal unmolested. Handley added the extra point, and Bradley's scoring was ended.

Bradley was helpless from that point on, with the Iowa defense smothering every serious attempt to score. The Peoria outfit made but one first down by carrying the ball, and their passes netted only four.

A crowd of approximately 8,000 fans witnessed the game.

Hoover Promises Equality, Justice, Liberty to Negroes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Upon White House steps, a delegation of more than 150 Negro voters today asked of President Hoover and received from him a declaration that "the right of liberty, justice and equal opportunity is yours."

Standing with head uncovered under a warm sun, the president, from the elevation of a curving stairway leading down from the south portico, told the Negro delegates gathered below him that he desired to carry on the Republican traditions of Abraham Lincoln. "You may rest assured," he said, "that our party will not abandon or depart from its traditional duty toward the American Negro. I shall sustain this pledge given in the first instance by the immortal Lincoln and transmitted by him to those who followed by a sacred trust."

Zeta Tau Alpha

Ruth Hanna, '32, of Danville, who has been a guest at the Zeta Tau Alpha house, left Friday for Des Moines where she will spend a week at the home of Dr. John Vernon, Sr., before going to Denver, Colo. Miss Hanna will spend the winter in Denver with her aunt, Mrs. Charles Dunford, while the latter's husband is in England.

Zeta Tau Alpha who are spending the week end at home are Jean Downing, A3 of Anamosa, and Lucille Wittick, A4 of Muscatine.

Supreme Court Okays Plan to Aid Depositors in Iowa's Closed Banks; 80,000 Benefit

R. F. C. Loans Awaiting Approval of U. S. Corporation

DES MOINES, Oct. 1 (AP)—A plan whereby L. A. Andrew, Iowa superintendent of banking, will ask the reconstruction finance corporation for funds to pay depositors in closed Iowa banks today was given final approval by the state supreme court.

Andrew previously said between 80,000 and 100,000 Iowans would be benefited if all the applications for loans for closed banks were approved.

Seeks Several Millions
It was expected that he will ask loans of several million for distribution as dividends to depositors in closed state banks and trust companies.

The banking superintendent in August completed arrangements in Washington for the loans, but operation of the plan was delayed pending the decision of the high tribunal.

Today's supreme court decision was given in a supplemental opinion for a rehearing of the case of the closed First Trust and Savings bank in Sioux City.

$135,000 Loan Approved
Andrew originally brought the case in the Woodbury county district court where he gained approval to borrow $135,000 from the reconstruction finance corporation to help the institution.

The supreme court on June 24 affirmed the lower court by operation of law, the justices being divided equally on the issue. An application for a rehearing was then filed.

Although the supreme court today remained split on the Sioux City case, it ruled unanimously that Andrew had the right to obtain loans from the corporation for the general relief of closed bank depositors.

Remove Legal Barriers.
The court denied the application for a rehearing of the case, but the supplemental finding on the legal question involving Andrew's powers removed legal barriers to his plan.

Andrew proposes to give preference to banks that have failed most recently and in cases where no dividends have been paid by the banks.

Andrew said he had been assured by corporation officials that he would be given such loans and that the money would be advanced immediately.

Retail Bureau Plans County Corn Festival

A county homecoming festival and corn carnival, to be held two days before the university's homecoming festivities Oct. 22, was planned yesterday morning at a meeting of a Retail Merchants' bureau committee in the American Legion building.

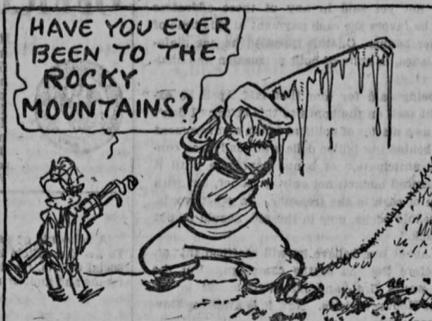

Events and contests for the carnival are being planned, including corn displays and exhibits of other farm products. Prizes will be offered for winning exhibits. Iowa City store windows will be decorated for the affair, and prizes will be awarded to the best exhibits as decided upon by visiting farmers.

A dinner and meeting of merchants will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Legion building, at which time a committee report will be given. Interested merchants are invited by the committee to attend.

Vern W. Bales is chairman of the McNamara, Charles F. Behm, Ken committee. Other members are Jay neth Bowman, and D. R. Pile.

DES MOINES, (AP)—State Treasurer Ray Johnson reported cigarette tax collections for September were $19,774.38 below the total for the same month last year. Last month $95,884.97 was collected as against $115,609.35 in September, 1931.

Book Reviews

The Indifferent Ones by Alberto Moravia; Dutton, $3.50. Reviewed by Virginia Maxson.

False people moving in a false world are the indifferent ones. Moravia, young Italian modernist whose Dutton prize novel has been translated into the English by Aida Mastangelo, writes here a psychological study of a weeding family. To each comes moral dilapidation, inevitably, logically. Each rots without resistance, passively accepting ruin and disintegration because in ruin and disintegration are their animal appetites most easily satiated.

Carla, 24 and virgin, burns for "a new life." Deliberately, with only passing compunction, she gives herself to Leo, her mother's lover. Her few vague yearnings for an uncorrupted love she chokes under the passion of desire, accepts her role as Leo's new mistress with unreflective resignation. He will not be faithful to her, the blase libertine, as he had not been faithful to her mother nor to the harlot, Lisa. Yet she yields willingly, almost eagerly.

Mariagrazia, stupid and ridiculous, remains blind to her daughter's illicit relationship. Attributing Leo's inattentions to a reattachment to was brought here Friday night from Columbia, Mo., where he was arrested earlier in the day. After being questioned here by police, Baines was removed to the Cedar county jail.

his former mistress, she frenziedly vents her jealousy upon Lisa, and, in unguarded moments, on her own family. But Lisa, gloating, laughs. Merumel interests her no longer. She seeks a fresh pure love in Michele, Carla's young brother.

Only Michele penetrates the superficiality of his surroundings. And even he is overcome by inertia. Clearly he sees the insincerity of their lives. He sees Leo for what he is, not studded and impaccable but bloated, crafty, lecherous. He sees his mother, a kept woman ludicrously attempting to retain a lost youth and a lost lover. He sees Carla, a violated girl, not inherently without virtue, but too weak to repugn the lust that consumes her.

Most of all is Michele himself indifferent. He cannot hate Leo, nor condemn Carla, nor pity Mariagrazia, nor love Lisa. He is a wooden thing, inert, passive. Rarely passion flames; it dies instantly. He cannot hope, cannot believe. Even reality is sham.

Their lives hold little beauty. Blindly, animal-like, they seek flesh satisfaction. They experience nothing fine; their very thoughts are poisoned, ugly and squalid.

For a first novel, Moravia's psychological dissections are keenly penetrating. Not untouched with irony, they try honestly to probe the depths of consciousness and expose truth at any price. At times the price is paid. Like D'Annunzio, Moravia's vision is distorted by sensuality, but he lacks the warmth, the flame of passion wherein lies d'Annunzio's. The psychological ramblings, while profound, are often clumsy, blunt, amateurish even. And sordidness so unrelieved falls, just a bit, of conviction.

13 Thirteenth Street by Natalie Sumner Lincoln; Appleton, $2.00. Reviewed by W. T. Hageboeck.

In the library of a sinister old house at 13 Thirteenth Street in Washington, D. C., the body of the fascinating Hungarian dancer, Countess Ilda Zichy is found lying on the floor with a knife wound in her back. All Washington is aghast. The characters of the book then make their appearances in rapid succession. Count Wolfgang Brody, young Hungarian diplomat, is the most logical suspect of both characters and the reader for he was the last person seen with the Countess prior to her leaving a gay midnight supper at the Cafe St. Regis.

Counter plots then engulf the reader so that it is impossible to pin the guilt of any one particular character. Each of the many characters apparently is withholding the information that Inspector Judson of the homicide squad thinks will shed the necessary light on the murder. All this has the customary tendency of leading the reader to suspect the entire ensemble of characters as guilty parties of the murder of the beautiful countess. Of course, Judson, the detective, doesn't solve the mystery. Colonel Wayne Campbell, owner of the old home at 13 Thirteenth street, and stepfather of the young count discloses the real murderer. The disclosure makes a dull ending to an otherwise good, fast-moving, conversational mystery story.

If you like mystery stories, you will like "13 Thirteenth Street." The characters are well portrayed. The author, shows her previous experience with several mystery novels in her skillful handling of counter plots. The plot moves swiftly and the final explanations of the hideous crime are quite conclusive.

But discovery of the murderer is disappointing and destroys the book's chance of leaving the reader with a good mystery story "hang over."

Centralized Relief

WITH the joining of the community chest Friday by the American Legion Unemployment Relief association a definite step was taken for the better organization of Iowa City's relief groups and a more efficient distribution of relief to local need.

As has been pointed out before by various individuals and groups throughout the city, Iowa City with its own wealth is amply able to care for its own unemployment situation. There has never been any need to ask for state or national help.

However, this fact has, at times, been lost sight of. It has been shown before that individuals are willing to donate to charitable causes. But they resent being called upon to support a number of them, and the result is often that their total contributions are less than they would have been had they felt that help would not have been required of them by many decentralized organizations.

Aside from the chances of better financial support, another point enters. In the functioning of the various relief groups throughout the city, there has been, heretofore, the constant danger of overlapping. There has always been the chance that one family might gain advantages to the disadvantage of another.

Now with funds for the most part coming from one central source, a more effective check will be possible.

Kentucky on the Spot?

STUDENTS who went into Kentucky last year to investigate mining region conditions are already using quotation marks when they say their "rights" were violated, one of the number says in The Student Review.

"We never got to see the miners whose conditions we had prepared to study," reports Rufus F. Hall; "they were concealed from us by an army of deputy-thugs, who ejected us from Kentucky." Again, "the governmental machinery of Harlan and Bell counties is being unlawfully employed to prevent the existence of conditions in the mine fields, which cannot stand the light of study, from being disclosed to the outside world."

Seemingly there is ample reason for the senatorial investigation urged last session by Edward Costigan of Colorado.

"Keeping" Criminals

JESSE POMEROY, 70, Massachusetts' most notorious life term prisoner, died the other day after serving a jail sentence that began when he was 14 years old. Forty years of his term were spent in solitary confinement.

He died at a state prison camp to which he had been transferred several years ago after many years in the state prison at Boston. Heart disease was given as the cause of his death.

He was sentenced to death as a boy of 14 for the slaying of a child in South Boston; Governor Gaston, at that time head of the Massachusetts government, refused to sign the death warrant, and the sentence was later commuted to life imprisonment.

Pomeroy's case parallels that of George Whalen in New York state, except in greater degree. Whalen managed to cost the taxpayers of New York more than $20,000 in the 52 years of his life. From 1879 until a few years ago, he had spent many short terms in prison, mostly on minor burglary counts. A decade ago, when he entered on a new term of prison life, he had served 25 years and was still a burglar.

has declared himself on almost every political subject, important and unimportant. But the governor has not yet said in any of these addresses whether he favors the cash payment at this time of the soldier bonus. On this question he has maintained silence, in spite of both persuasion and challenge.

It is being said for him that last April he expressed himself on the bonus to this effect: "I don't see how, as a matter of political sense, a government running behind two billion dollars annually, can consider the anticipation of bonus payments until it has a balanced budget, not only on paper, but with a surplus of cash in the treasury. In other words, the household books, now in the red, should be put in the black."

Those about him believe he will reaffirm this attitude before the end of the campaign. But the country wants first-hand information. It knows President Hoover's views. Now it is awaiting Governor Roosevelt's.

TODAY'S TOPICS

Politics as such has had a long and varied existence. There have been times in the history of political associations in the United States when a great majority of the voters withdrew their support from a party or a political alliance purely on ethical grounds—because they didn't have any sympathy for so-called "dirty" politics. In New York city that situation will repeat itself when Tammany-backed Jimmy Walker goes to bat against hard-hitting Joe McKee.

Tammany itself is inconsistent although recent actions have held to the Tammany way of doing things. The Walker trial before Governor Roosevelt made no difference to Tammany leaders when it came to linking up their organization with the Democratic national ticket. They disliked taking any chances of losing out on patronage if and when Roosevelt steps into the presidency. The leaders have gone the limit in making known their pledge of fealty to the tickets.

But to sensible voters—and contrary to beliefs of many political writers, there must be some—Jimmy Walker can never hope to live down the reputation of being a "cover-up" artist, a corrupt and disloyal public servant, an "undesirable" as far as the people are concerned.

McKee, on the other hand, is personally and politically friendly to Roosevelt, and while not generally thought to be affiliated with Tammany, claims allegiance to the organization. He has definitely sounded the death-knell for Walker's future aspirations politically by turning Walker's achievements topsy-turvy and at the same time righting the city government of New York to its feet.

But Tammany doesn't get along with McKee because the present mayor is on the people's side. And Tammany is doing its best to deprive McKee of his power and to undo much of his fine work. The most recent move came yesterday when the Tammany-supported board of estimate deprived McKee of his budget making powers, but McKee retaliated immediately by forcing the new budget directors to work in the open.

If New York voters are totally blind to the bad situation which existed prior to McKee's coming, and fail to interpret Tammany activities as to the entire interest of Tammany, then this writer is ready to join the long list of those who insist "there ain't no such thing" as an intelligent voter.

At a time when several campus groups are fighting against tuition and fees increases, the University of Iowa schedule of student payments remains unraised. The slight increase—$3 on a former $45 liberal arts resident tuition—of a few years ago came when there was less pinch for money and was not a burdensome addition.

And it is in public institutions that the present fights are largely being waged. At Detroit, for instance, a municipal university which had not charged general tuition suddenly applied a $100 fee and more recently attempted to increase it to $200, forestalled by an organized protest of 2,000 students. Students in Toledo university carried a battle against tuition increase to the city council.

At Chicago, notorious for the conduct of its civic affairs, Crane Teachers college was legalized last year as a free institution. Now, however, the board of education threatens to charge $100 a year or to close the school entirely if students protest. If the board does not close the school and does enforce the fee, it has been estimated that 80 per cent of 3,300 students would drop out.

It must be admitted that conditions in Chicago and Detroit, at least, reflect civic situations and that the state of Iowa deserves credit along with the university administration for the policies maintained locally.

Those policies have included a recognition that the student has an interest that must be treated sympathetically. Evidence of this comes in reduction of dormitory rates—at the Quadrangle from $56.25 a semester to $50 or to $45 if the student waives use of a telephone. And the extension of self-help dormitory facilities in the field house and to Eastlawn is additional evidence that this problem has met with genuine response.

Now, because the state is less able to support the university, the administration is resorting to economy rather than to fee increases. Whether it can do so in the future may depend on whether the state legislature of next year continues to realize the importance of not hampering state educational institutions.

Book Bits—(From New Russia's Primer, by M. Ilin) After all man is not just muscles with which to work. He is not a machine. He has a mind that wants to know, eyes that want to see, ears that want to hear, a voice that wants to sing, feet that want to run and jump and dance, hands that want to row and swim and throw and catch. And we must organize life so that not merely certain lucky ones but all may be able to feel the joy of living.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD - By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—A personality to be reckoned with—that is what Hollywood said of Katharine Hepburn after the preview of her first picture, "Bill of Divorcement." Now the eccentric young actress (she wears overalls and things 'around the studio') is being cast opposite Joel McCrea in "Three Came Unarmed."

Musicians to Organize New Chorus Group

Will Develop Potential Voices for Regular Organization

Organization of an experimental chorus, to be directed by Louis H. Diercks of the music department, with the assistance of Harold Stark, also of the music department, was announced yesterday by Mr. Diercks. The chorus has a four-fold purpose, Mr. Diercks said. First it gives to those who could not otherwise meet for rehearsals of the regular chorus, an opportunity to meet in a group.

Second, voices which are immature but which are still potential material for the regular chorus are given a chance to develop by slower stages and along lines more suitable to these voices.

Gives New Opportunities
It will also give those who wish to observe choral conducting and rehearsing, an opportunity of doing so.

And finally, the experimental chorus will take up a much wider range of musical literature than will the regular university chorus. Although all literature taken up will not necessarily be rehearsed to completion, Mr. Diercks said, it will still furnish the student with a general knowledge of considerable range.

The chorus will meet each Saturday from 10:30 to 12 a. m., in the south room of music rehearsal hall on Gilbert street.

Chorus Members Eligible
All university chorus members are automatically eligible for membership in this group; others will be admitted upon successful completion of a tryout under the direction of either Mr. Diercks or Mr. Stark.

The thirty persons who are already members of the organization are: Phyllis Pace, Margaret Anderson, Ardis Brannon, Louise Carpenter, Milton Coate, Elizabeth Crosbie, Carl Dunn, Anah Finn, Dorothy Gerber, Raymond Houseman, Rebecca Kirshinbaum, Georgia Louvar, Phyllis Martin, Avis Pixler, Gracks Quandt, Mayzee Regan.

Cathleen Thomas, Sydney Thompson, Nova Wood, Janet Woods, Margaret Woods, Eva Dawson, Ramona Jorgensen, Irene Kline, Anna Korf, Carl Thompson, Helen White, Alice Wilson, Wilma Walker, Dorothy Vesley.

Staff Members Go to Library Meet in Des Moines Oct. 15

Several staff members of the university library plan to attend the regional conference of the American Library association to be held in Des Moines Oct. 15. The states Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, and Nebraska will be represented at the conference, which will make its headquarters at the Hotel Fort Des Moines.

Mary B. Humphrey of the document division will speak before the conference on "How can libraries in the state cooperate in collection and selection of state documents?" Emma Felsenthal, library staff member, will lead a discussion on "Reading of high school pupils."

H. M. Lydenberg, assistant director of the New York Public Library, and president of the American Library association, will broadcast his address to the conference over the WFO and WOC network on the afternoon of Oct. 15.

Dean Gilmore Will Attend Conference

Dean Eugene A. Gilmore of the college of law, who returned last night from a meeting at Columbia, Mo., will leave today to attend the forty-second annual conference of the national commission on uniform state laws.

The conference will be held in Washington, D. C., Oct. 4-10. Dean Gilmore was recently appointed a member of the Iowa committee of the national commission. Other members are Judge Jesse A. Miller of Des Moines and Hazen I. Sawyer of Keokuk.

vacation (except the vacation preceding the opening of the new year) shall operate to reduce the amount of credit by one term or semester hour for each absence, unless such absences be excused by the Committee on Admission and Classification.

7. Any work missed by a student because of absence may be made up in any way satisfactory to the instructor, subject to the regulations of the department concerned.

8. Daily reports of absences on separate cards for women and men, provided for the purpose and obtainable at the registrar's office, shall be made by each instructor, and sent to the dean of women and dean of men respectively.

9. When absences occur, explanation of the same shall be made by the student within three days to the dean of men or the dean of women as the case might be.

10. The general administration of the regulations governing absences, together with the discipline involved, shall be vested in the Committee on Admission and Classification (except as provided in paragraph five above).

From the beginning of the present semester all of these regulations will continue to be in force except "8" and "9," which will be discontinued, and the following policy substituted:

Instructors are required to keep in their daily class records the names of students who are absent from their daily class records the names of students who are absent from their classes, and at the end of each two weeks when they submit to the registrar's office the names of students who are delinquent in their courses statements will be forwarded with reference to the dates when these delinquent students were absent. When such students are notified of their delinquencies it will be necessary for men to make satisfactory explanation of their absences to the dean of men, and for women to the dean of women.

Students who are found to be absenting themselves from classes without proper reason will be subject to discipline by the dean of the college.

Tea Rooms Open Today

The Dutch and Spanish tea rooms, which have been seen recently through the front windows of the Hawk's Nest cafe illuminated by soft pastel shaded lights, will be formally opened for business today, according to Merl P. Sellhamer, manager.

The rooms, reached by a wide stairway from the rear center of the first floor, will be used principally to accommodate small parties and banquets.

The Spanish room, designed to represent an open court, has a red tile roof and the walls are finished in two tones of buff to carry out the Spanish effect. The room is specially lighted with an indirect lighting system and the tables are furnished with electric candles.

Proverbial Dutch cleanliness and brightness are emphasized in the Dutch room. Finished in blue and white, the walls of the room are decorated with bright designs. Completing the effect, a colorful blue rug is used.

Ripley Explanations

Explanation of Saturday's Cartoon
A Rosebush of 11 Centuries. The ancient Rosebush of Hildesheim is said to have been planted on its present site by Emperor Charlemagne early in the ninth century, to celebrate the arrival of an embassy from Harun-al-Rashid, the ruler of the east. Another tradition connects the origin of the Old Rosebush with the time of Louis the Pious, the successor of Charlemagne, who consecrated the spot, July 815. The Rosebush still blooms on its ancient site within the small churchyard of the Dome every June, as it has done for over 1,100 years.

Students of H. O. Croft Probe Into Mysteries of Automotive Engines in Mechanical Engineering Laboratory

Is an automobile motor all that its manufacturers claim for it? Is "anti-knock" gasoline worth the money? Will an airplane engine stand the strain to which it is submitted? What are the effects of stream lining on the wind resistance of automobile bodies?

These are only a few of the questions being answered in the new mechanical engineering laboratory, west of the engineering building.

The three story stone building, 90 feet by 150 feet, was opened for class and experimental work this fall after two years of construction.

Foundry on First Floor
On the first floor is the foundry, with two cupola furnaces for casting iron, and smaller furnaces for brass, aluminum, and other metals.

There is the heat treating laboratory, where metals are heated, welded, and forged. This floor also houses a number of automobile, Diesel, and airplane engines for testing.

The steam power laboratory, with its steam engines, pumps, and turbines, and air compressors, is located on the second floor, which also contains the production methods laboratory, where the use of machine tools is taught. A modern wash room and a lecture room occupy the rest of the second floor.

Most of the third story is given over to the graduate laboratory, filled with gas-fired equipment from refrigerators to furnaces. To one side stands a 3,000 pound air compressor, soon to be used in graduate work.

Here also are two experimental devices prepared by advanced students. One is a machine for determining the character of small cone clutches, built by V. L. Prucha of Cedar Rapids. By means of this device it is possible to determine how much a clutch slips when it is applied.

The other machine, not yet completed, is the work of N. E. H. Delatke of Charlotte. It utilizes a wind resistance of stream lined automobile bodies.

Machine Design Laboratory
Other departments on the third floor are the machine design laboratory, which includes displays of automobile transmissions, speed reducing mechanisms, and other mechanical devices, and the wood products laboratory, in which embryo engineers are taught the uses of that material.

This is the setting in which more than 100 mechanical engineering majors and other students in the college of engineering carry on their work.

Cubs, Yanks Hear Cheers of Roosevelt

Demo Nominee Spends Morning With Meetings

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt joined 51,000 other Americans today to cheer alike the New York Yankees and the Chicago Cubs as they battled out the third game of the world series.

Passing from a series of conferences with Illinois Democrats and with agricultural leaders in his suite at the Congress hotel to the flag-draped stand that encircled Wrigley field, the Democratic presidential candidate for more than two hours watched Babe Ruth and his team from the Bronx beat the National league champions.

Occupied With Talks
His entire morning had been occupied by talks with numerous delegates and leaders. Among them was E. A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation.

O'Neal said Mr. Roosevelt had gone farther in his offers of cooperation than any of the national leaders of the last few years toward reaching a solution of the farm problems. In the same group that came with O'Neal were Chester Gray, legislative representative of the bureau in Washington, and Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association.

Leaders Impressed
O'Neal said agricultural leaders had been impressed by Mr. Roosevelt's proposal in his Topeka speech to call them together to work out a solution of the problem. Among others who called on the candidate was Melvin Traylor, Chicago banker who himself was a candidate for the presidential nomination, and Vincent Dallman, Springfield, Ill., editor who predicted the New York governor would receive a majority in downstate Illinois.

Roosevelt's visit to the baseball game, during which he sat in the box of Mayor Cermak of Chicago on the first base line, preceded a banquet at the Stevens hotel and a speech. He was scheduled to leave Chicago at midnight for Detroit.

Wills Wealth to Charity
DAVENPORT, AP)—The will of the late Mrs. Ada B. Winecke left a fund for the benefit of needy persons in the community. Specific bequests included $110,000 for charity, and all bequests aggregated $385,000.

Put Sergeant Hall on S. U. I. Military Department Staff

Sergeant Gordon M. Hall has recently been appointed a staff member of the military department of the university, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. Col. Converse R. Lewis, head of that department.

Sergeant Hall, who was formerly a non-commissioned officer in the third infantry at Ft. Snelling, Minn., had eight years in the regular army. He graduated from Ft. Snelling in chemical warfare. Last year he qualified as an expert rifleman.

He will have charge of shooting in the basic infantry, will help in the training of the second year basic and the first year advanced groups and will coach the small-bore shooting competition.

Steel Company Will Begin Construction

Workers from the Des Moines Steel company have arrived in Iowa City, and on Monday will begin the erection of steel on the new extension to the hydraulics laboratory located at the west end of the Burlington street bridge.

The Lanning Construction company of Oskaloosa has practically finished its contracted work on the upper half of the substructure, and by Monday all is expected to be in readiness for the steel workers.

Lazell Will Address Kansas Journalists

Prof. Fred J. Lazell of the school of journalism will be the principal speaker at the annual conference of Kansas high school teachers of journalism and high school editors to be held at the University of Kansas Friday and Saturday.

Two talks will be given by Professor Lazell, one on the ideal high school journalism student, and the other on the faults of high school papers.

Add Five Names to Orchestra List

Five new members of the university orchestra, supplementary to those announced in The Daily Iowan recently, were named yesterday by Prof. Frank E. Kendrick, conductor.

They are: August W. Anderson, A2 of Ft. Dodge, and Mildred Prettyman, A3 of Manson, violins; Thomas Collins, A2 of Clarinda, Bassoon; Louis Mangels, A2 of Hartley, first trombone; and Phyllis Olderog of Treynor, French horn.

Sets Hearing Date
DES MOINES, AP)—The state railroad board set Oct. 25 for a hearing here on applications of the Iowa Southern Utilities company for permission to construct transmission lines in Union and Adams counties.

Mary Jensen Dies at Local Hospital

Mary Ann Jensen, 5 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jensen, 610 Fourth avenue, died yesterday morning at a local hospital.

Surviving, besides her parents, are a brother, Richard, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Vrana of Cedar Rapids, and Mr. and Mrs. George Jensen of Iowa City. Funeral service will be at the Oathout funeral home Monday at 2 p.m.

Residents Purchase 35 Autos in Month

Automobile business held to an even level last month with 35 new automobiles being purchased in Johnson county during September. Records in the automobile department of the county treasurer's office also show $21 car transfers during the month. H. A. Rarick, superintendent, reported that these records are about the same as the average month.

YANKEES Take Measure of Cubs Third Time

sledge-hammer blows that broke the resistance of Root as well as the morale of the Cubs, as the Yankee powerhouse swept along to its eleventh successive conquest in world series competition.

The day, the circumstances, the ranges and the brisk following wind all were in favor of the twin Yankee sluggers and they had a rare day in making the most of it. Badgering the Cubs and the noisy bleacher crowd, Ruth struck his first home run blow in the first inning with Earle Combs and Joie Sewell on base—a soaring clout into the right field bleachers.

Two in Fifth
Gehrig opened the third frame with a high wallop into the same right field sector, then in succession the battering Babe and larruping Lou ripped off successive home runs in the fifth to put the final crusher on Ruth. Ruth's second drive, longest of the day, cleared the wire fence just in front of the bleachers in extreme center field. Gehrig's second blow bounced off a flag pole near the right field line.

Pat Malone, Jackie May, the first Cub southpaw to make an appearance, and young Bud Tinning subdued the Yankees for the rest of the game, except for a ninth inning "blow up" by the Chicago defense that led to the last Yankee run.

Many Records Go
The total of six home runs for both clubs set a new series mark, one more than the record set by the Yankees alone in a game against the Cardinals in 1928. Ruth's pair boosted his own record total to 15 circuit clouts for world series competition, besides aiding the Babe to increase his record figures for total bases, long hits and extra bases. By putting together their successive homers in the fifth, Ruth and Gehrig tied their own record, made in 1928.

Piggras Fans 5 Times
In addition Ruth boosted to 33 the total number of bases on balls. He has already added, also, to his record crop of strikeouts in world series competition but the dubious distinction of setting a new single game mark in this specialty was turned in today by Piggras, who fanned five successive times.

Outside of the biggest slugfest and the assortment of cracks at the record book, however, the onward parade of the Yankee maulers was not marked by an especially brilliant exhibition of baseball. It packed enough excitement to keep the big crowd in an uproar a good part of the afternoon, but there was not much for the home rooters to cheer about after Ruth and Gehrig put on their man act.

Tie in 4th
The Cubs never were able to catch up with their rivals, except by tying the score once, in the fourth. For the second straight game the defense of the National league champions fell far short of championship standards. Root's early unsteadiness was costly and his support was spotty. The Cubs kicked in with four errors, including two by Shortstop Jurgens, who started the very first inning with a wild throw on Combs' roller. Two straight muffs off pop flies, in the fifth, followed by Ben Chapman's double, contributed the last Yankee run.

The Cubs hit Pipgras briskly, but from the fifth inning until he weakened at the start of the ninth, the big Yankee right hander throttled the Bruisers with his "sniker" ball. Over a stretch of four straight innings, Pipgras yielded only one safe blow, a single by Cuyler in the fifth. But Manager McCarty showed no hesitation in calling Pennock to the rescue after two resounding Cub blows presented a be-lated menace.

Never Defeated
Pipgras, although knocked out of the box, received credit for his third victory in world series competition. He beat the Pirates in 1927, the Cardinals in 1928, and has never been defeated.

Cuyler's double drove in Herman, who had walked, with the first Cub run in the opening inning. Kiki's homer in the third was followed by Stephenson's single and Manager Grimm's booming double, that went through Chapman's legs, producing another run. The crowd yelled for cheer about after Ruth and Gehrig put on their man act.

Crowd Impartial
The fourth Cub run was manufactured on Jurgens' double and Lazzeri's fumble of English's grounder in the fourth. Harnett's ninth-inning homer was the last salute to the pleadings of the big crowd, which alternately spent the afternoon jeering and cheering the two clubs, somewhat impartially.

Babe Gets Lemon
Ruth was the target for a lemon thrower when he came to bat in the second inning. The fruit bounded harmlessly along the third base line, however, and the Babe responded with a towering fly that

If there was any question in the minds of Iowa fans as to whether or not Coach Ollie Solem had his squad in shape, yesterday's game gave answer with a thundering "YES!"

The line charged hard and fast throughout the game, and had the Tech forward wall back on its heels by the last quarter.

TOM MOORE was another proverbial mountain of strength in a line whose play was quite reassuring to those who saw an impossible task in building up a good line this year.

Gophers Ragged in Debut of Bierman; Boilermakers Get Impressive 29-13 Triumph

South Dakota Aggies in Only 12-0 Defeat by Minnesotans

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—A spirited South Dakota State team, fighting the desperate battle of underdogs, held Minnesota's heavier and stronger squad to a 12 to 0 victory today before 17,000 persons in the Gophers' opening game.

It was Bernie Bierman's debut as head coach at his alma mater, but the game left him viewing with disappointment the ragged play of his squad, which next Saturday plunges into Big Ten play against Purdue.

Although playing out of their class, the South Dakota team outclassed the Gophers in every department except power play. It was recourse to pure power which enabled the Gophers to score two touchdowns.

Make Many Fumbles

After a scoreless first period in which the Gopher offense contributed principally fumbles, ragged interference and weak punting, Minnesota advanced the ball in the second to within seven yards of the goal.

Francis Lund, Rice Lake, Wis., sophomore halfback, who provided the best display of running in the game for the Gophers at this point swept around his left end for a touchdown.

The hard tackling Dakotans kept the Gopher offensive impotent through the third period and once advanced the ball to within 18 yards of the goal, their most important scoring threat.

Manders Helps

The Gopher defense braced and Bierman sent in his ace, Jack Manders, 200 pound fullback for ten minutes of the final period. Manders was to have been spared any play because of a recent leg injury.

He contributed punch, led a drive, and then carved a big hole in the Dakota line to ease through Sam Swartz, halfback.

Once past the brilliant tacklers of the Dakota forward wall, Swartz broke into a wide swing for a touchdown.

The Gophers scored 18 first downs to two for the visitors.

Outruss Aggies

Four Gopher downs were scored by passes with Lund doing the most effective throwing. The Gophers gained 287 yards by rushing to 79 for South Dakota. The visitors averaged 25 yards on 12 punts, and the Gophers 26 yards on eight.

Navy Object of Upset by 6 to 0 Score

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 1 (AP)—A stubborn eleven from William and Mary turned in a stunning early season upset today by taking the scalp of the Navy's gridder by a 6 to 0 score.

It is the first time in the seven meetings of the two collegiate eleven the Virginians have been able to turn back the Sailors.

The lone score came in the second period after Navy had kicked from its 20 yard line to Palese, Indian halfback, who was downed on the Navy 40 yard marker. LaCrox, the other Virginia halfback, skirted the end to the 15 yard line. A couple of line charges gained little, and Palese on the fourth down stepped around the right end for the six-pointer. Halligan missed the kick.

Harriers Will Race Against Grinnell Five

Hawkeye cross country men will journey to Grinnell for the first meet of the year next Saturday. Coach Freshman announced yesterday. The meet will season the runners for the opening Big Ten tilt with the vaunted Indiana team on the following Saturday at Bloomington.

In preparation for the Grinnell meet the harriers, who have had but a week of practice to date, will work out in two shifts today at 10:30 in the morning and 4:30 in the afternoon.

Best of the sophomores are Bruce Grove, Tulsa, Okla., who has traveled the 440 yard free style faster than any other Iowan; William Dusby, also of Tulsa, a fancy diver only slightly less talented than Lobdell; and August Anderson, Ft. Dodge, sprinter.

Lyn Lary, flashy "Coast kid," was crowded out of a regular's job in the Yankee infield this season by Crosetti. Plenty of clubs could use him every day.

Touted Kansas Aggies Easy Victim for Purdue

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 1 (AP)—A Purdue football team looking much like that which last year tied with Northwestern and Michigan for the Western conference championship, ran all over the Kansas Aggies today, 29 to 13.

The five new parts in the 1932 Boilermaker machine functioned smoothly throughout. The winners scored nine points in the first period, 14 in the third and six in the final 15 minutes. Purdue used three complete teams.

The Aggies counted seven points in the second quarter on a beautiful run by Halfback Russell after receiving a short forward pass and on another long pass in the final period. Breen to Russell, Russell was outstanding for Kansas State.

Score Early Purdue scored two points after the game began when Captain Oehler blocked Russell's punt. The ball rolling over the Aggie end zone. A touchdown followed on a long pass, Hecker to Purvis, the latter catching the ball on the two yard line.

Kansas held the Boilermakers in the second quarter, but in the third touchdowns were made by Halfbacks Duane Purvis and Fred Hecker. The last touchdown was made in the fourth quarter on a 35 yard run by James Carter, sub for Hecker.

There were only three Purdue regulars in the lineup when Kansas scored its first touchdown, with the ball on its own 37 yard line. Breen sent a short pass over center to Russell, who dashed past the Purdue secondary defense for a 55 yard run and touchdown.

Graham Stopped The visitors' other touchdown was made in the final quarter on another pass from Breen to Russell, good for 32 yards.

"Ramming Ralph" Graham, star fullback of the Aggies, was a marked player and was unable to break away for long gains. Statistics showed that Purdue gained 304 yards, counting both passes and running plays, to 281 for Kansas State. Each eleven made 13 first downs.

Score by periods: Purdue 9 0 14 6-29 Kansas State 0 7 0 6-13 Purdue scoring: Touchdowns—Purvis 2; Hecker, Carter (sub for Hecker); Point after touchdown: Pardonner 2; Purvis. Kansas State scoring: Touchdowns—Russell 2. Point after touchdown, Graham.

Indiana Opens With 7-6 Win

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 1 (AP)—Indiana university opened its football season today with a 7 to 6 victory over Ohio university.

Babb, Negro halfback, ran 25 yards through tackle for Indiana's touchdown in the first 10 minutes of the game. Keckich, who later blocked an Ohio placekick that might have tied the score, booted the extra point.

The visitors scored in the third after Sinitic recovered a fumble by Sabik on the Indiana 20 yard line.

Ohio University Scores After Recovering Fumble

It's never too early to begin preparations for winter's intercollegiate swimming meets, believes Coach David Armbruster, so he has called out his varsity athletes.

The Hawkeye touch will start building of the 1933 swimming team next Wednesday, concentrating upon out-of-the-water work during the early weeks to emphasize proper leg and arm movements.

Capt. Steve Nielson, free style swimmer from St. Louis, Mo., will head a squad of four major and two minor letter men. Veterans include R. G. Janss, Atlantic, free style; W. A. McCloy, Iowa City, diver; and J. M. McGuire, Des Moines, the star 1932 captain who is eligible for another semester of competition as a sprint swimmer.

Best of the sophomores are Bruce Grove, Tulsa, Okla., who has traveled the 440 yard free style faster than any other Iowan; William Dusby, also of Tulsa, a fancy diver only slightly less talented than Lobdell; and August Anderson, Ft. Dodge, sprinter.

Lyn Lary, flashy "Coast kid," was crowded out of a regular's job in the Yankee infield this season by Crosetti. Plenty of clubs could use him every day.

Iowa City High Suffers 25-0 Loss

Iowa State Gains Easy 32 to 0 Win

AMES, Oct. 1 (AP)—After struggling through the first half with but one touchdown, Iowa State developed offensive power to smother Morningside college of Sioux City, 32 to 0, today.

The Cyclones made their best showing in the final quarter when their charging linemen broke through the weakening Maroon forward wall to block two punts and pave the way for touchdowns.

Harold Templeton, husky Cyclone wingman, started the scoring when he took a pass in the end zone from Capt. Dick Grefe on a faked placekick. The first real offensive showing of the game and after the Maroons had monopolized the ball in Iowa State territory for a large part of the initial period.

Coach George Veenker tried three sophomore backs in the third period and they delivered the second touchdown. Winter, Johnson and Harlan all aided Captain Grefe in the drive, Harlan breaking loose for a 33 yard run for the score.

Score by periods: Morningside 0 0 0 0-0 Iowa State 0 7 6 19-32 Iowa State scoring: touchdowns, Templeton; Harlan (sub. for D. Grefe); Theophilus; R. Grefe; Ames (sub. for Williams). Points after touchdown, Dana 2 (placements).

Buckeyes Get 34-7 Triumph

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 1 (AP)—Displaying an offense that seemed to function smoothly at times, but which occasionally bogged down miserably, Ohio State defeated Ohio Wesleyan 34 to 7 before an opening day crowd of 17,113 today.

Twice Ohio broke through the Wesleyan defense in the first period for touchdowns, one coming from a blocked punt, and then seemed unable to go anywhere in the second and third periods, but in the fourth again counting three times.

Wesleyan's lone marker came in the third period when Vandeventer, sub quarterback, broke off Ohio's left tackle and outdistanced the field in a beautiful 53 yard run.

State Teacher Eleven Whips Penn, 14 to 0

CEGAR FALLS, Oct. 1 (AP)—Playing listlessly for three periods, the Iowa State Teachers came to life in the final quarter and scored two touchdowns today, defeating Penn college, 14 to 0, in an Iowa conference football game.

Olsen scored the first goal on a line plunge from the 3 yard mark following a 40 yard dash by Harmon. The latter made the second touchdown also on a 3 yard plunge after intercepting a Quaker pass on the Penn 16 yard mark which Olsen followed up with a 13 yard gain through left tackle. The Teachers' safety man placekicked both extra points.

The gun stopped the one Quaker threat at the end of the first half with it fourth down and two yards to go. A pass, Wilkins to Graft, was good for 20 yards and brought the ball to the Teachers' 10 yard line. Three plunges netted eight yards and the Penn team was just lining up for a last sally when the referee fired the pistol.

Beloit Uses Entire Squad in 32-0 Win

BELOIT, Wis., Oct. 1 (AP)—Beloit college opened its football season today by beating Dubuque university, 32 to 0. The Iowans threatened at no time, and Coach Bob Jagard substituted so frequently in the Beloit lineup that the entire squad of 25 got into the game.

Last Minute Score Wins for LaCrosse

LACROSSE, Wis., Oct. 1 (AP)—In the last moments of the football game between LaCrosse State Teachers and Columbia college of Dubuque, Ia., today, Bill Schwogler smashed over tackle for a touchdown, giving the Teachers a 6-0 victory. Schwogler paved the way for his own score by tossing two long passes.

Arndt Jorgens clinched his job as second string catcher with the Yanks during Bill Dickey's suspension.

Little Hawks Extend Heavy Davenport 11

DAVENPORT, Oct. 1—Playing the best game they have shown this season, Iowa City high forced Davenport to use the regulars to take a hard fought victory by a 25 to 0 score here this afternoon. Davenport had planned to use only the second team following its impressive victory over Tilden Tech but the plucky Little Hawks, outweighed 30 pounds to a man, held the superior weight over them down.

The game was a costly one for the Iowa City team for it lost the services of Howell and Mutchler. Howell is out for the rest of the season with a broken wrist while Mutchler may get back into the game near the end of the season if his dislocated shoulder responds to treatment. Marshall, flashy running back, and Roberts, a newcomer in the line, were taken out of the game with minor injuries.

Big Weight Advantage It was only the vast difference in weight that gave the local team the edge for Marshall outkicked the Davenport team, both on punts and kickoffs. The Red and White's passing was more effective than that of the winners, as they connected on three tosses for about 43 yards. When they finally started scoring, the Davenport team scored once in the first quarter, twice in the second and once in the third.

Despite the heavy line of its opponents, Iowa City drove the ball to the Davenport five yard line in the first period on a series of passes and line plunges. Here the home team braced and took the ball and kept the Wells-coached team outside of its 30 yard line during the rest of the game, but twice it advanced that far.

Brown Runs 25 Yards Before they were taken out of the game, Howell and Marshall gave excellent accounts of themselves as did Brown and McGreevey. Brown broke loose for 25 yards in the third quarter to furnish the only exciting play of the game.

Yale Held to 0-0 Tie by Unknowns

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 1 (AP)—Bates resisted a closing thrust on its own one-yard line today to hold Yale to a scoreless tie in Eli's opening football game.

Lead by Billy Frazier, 19 year old sophomore halfback, the visitors not only repulsed every Eli drive, but launched several drives on their own that barely lacked a scoring punch.

Feature on Moffitt Published in Iowan Tomorrow Morning

The series of articles dealing with University of Iowa football players will be continued tomorrow with the article on Howard Moffitt, quarterback, which was originally announced as the article for today.

Hereafter, the features will be published every day in The Daily Iowan except Sunday mornings.

Wolverines Upset State Foe by 26-0

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 1 (AP)—Losing unexpected power, the 1932 University of Michigan football machine rode over the "Iron man" team, of Michigan State college today for a 26 to 0 victory.

Rated on even terms before the contest, Michigan unleashed a powerful offense, both in the air and on the ground, that kept their state rivals constantly in the shadow of their own goal posts. Only frequent substitutions by Michigan's coach, Harry Kipke, kept the score from mounting higher.

Harry Newman, Michigan's passing expert, and Johnny Regeci, starting his first Big Ten game at fullback, were at the head of the Wolverine attack, with Captain Williamson and Everhardus exhibiting brilliant play.

State's only flash of brilliance came early in the first period. When big Abe Ellowitz, halfback, ran 75 yards for a touchdown, only to be called back because both lines were offside.

Score by periods: Michigan State 0 0 0 0-0 Michigan 7 7 6 6-26 Michigan scoring: touchdowns—Regeci, Fay, Heston, Everhardus. Points after touchdown, Newman 2 (placekicks).

Illini Take Bargain Bill

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 1 (AP)—The University of Illinois football squad opened its twentieth season under Coach Bob Zuppke today by winning both ends of a double header, defeating Miami university 20 to 7 in the opener and Coe college 13 to 0.

The Illini encountered no stiff opposition, being threatened only once in the Miami game when Fertig opened an aerial attack in the third quarter which resulted in their only score.

Dave Cook scored 13 points for the Illini in the Miami game and finished midseason form. Walsber scored in the Miami game in the fourth quarter on a line smash.

Yanusuk and Schustek accounted for the scoring in the Coe game. Both touchdowns following long passes tossed by Captain Gil Berry.

Crisler's Princeton Eleven Triumphs in Opener by 22 to 0

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP)—Princeton's first non-alumnus-coached football team, at times resembling the Tiger for which it has long been known, jumped away to a running start in its 1932 campaign today by smothering a gallant Amherst eleven, 22-0.

The men of Nassau, now drilled by Fritz Crisler of Big Ten grid fame, displayed to about 10,000 fans mostly alumni and students, a deceptive line and backfield shift, a single wing back attack, and better tackling than they have exhibited in many years.

James shook off several tacklers in a 25 yard prance for the first touchdown on the first play of the second quarter and Milt Draudt went off on several similar sprints.

Spears Eleven Comes From Behind to Triumph by 7 to 2; Wildcats Forced by Missouri

27-0 Triumph Gained Only After Big Stars Enter

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 1 (AP)—Northwestern had to call in three cripples, Capt. Pug Rentner, Dick Fencil and George Potter, to quell Missouri's unruly Tigers today, but did a thorough job after getting started, winning by 27 to 0.

The three had been out with injuries and were not to be used except in case of need. Missouri was so stubborn in the first half, however, that they had to go to work.

A surprisingly large crowd of 28,000 spectators watched Missouri battle the Wildcats to a standstill in the first half, and hold the co-champions of the Western conference to a scoreless tie. Then after substitutes for the three veterans had fallen short of requirements, Hanley sent in Rentner, Fencil and Potter and the offense started to click.

Line Plays Well In its first test, Northwestern showed plenty of power and the line, which was expected to be the weak point, completely outplayed the Tiger forwards.

The Tigers put up a grand battle, but no tougher than Coach Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's All-American quarterback of 1929 and 1931. Carideo was on the field on several occasions to strenuously object to penalties.

Northwestern scored first in the third period when Roy Auguston, who replaced Ollie Olson at fullback, crashed over from the three yard line to finish a drive from the 22 yard mark. Shortly after the start of the final period, he finished another march, and before Missouri had recovered, Rentner waded a beautiful pass to Ed Manske for another score. Just before the game ended, Bennett, a sub halfback, flipped a short pass to Manske for the last one.

Olson Suffers Cut

After doing most of the work in advance of the first touchdown, Olson suffered a bad cut over his left eye and left the scoring to his understudy. Northwestern was held for downs in the first period with the ball only a foot from a touchdown. In the second frame, Olson fumbled and Missouri recovered on its three yard line, probably losing another touchdown.

All this time, Missouri presented almost nothing in the way of offense, and never, during the afternoon, was in possession of the ball past the middle of the field.

Score by periods: Missouri 0 0 0 0-0 Northwestern 0 0 7 20-27 Northwestern scoring: Touchdown—Auguston (sub for Olson) 2; Manske 2.

Points after touchdown: Potter (sub for Kawa) dropkick; Riley (placekick); Jindrich (placekick). Officials: Referee, Cochran (Kalama); umpire, Hodges (Dartmouth); field judge, Morton (Michigan); head linesman, Taylor (Wichita).

Furman Gives Army Battle; Cadets Win

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—A battling eleven from Furman university of Greenville, S. C., gave Army's cadets a bitter fight in Michie stadium today before surrendering by a 13-0 count.

The well-trained southern eleven fought the Cadets to a standstill over most of the route and nearly scored in the third quarter.

Game Ends With Ball Close to Wisconsin Goal Line

CAMP RANDALL STADIUM, Madison, Wis., Oct. 1 (AP)—Wisconsin today sustained its reputation of never having met defeat on the gridiron at the hands of Marquette but the Badgers were pushed to eke out a 7 to 2 victory in the opening game of the season.

Throughout the first half the Badgers had their backs to the wall and were forced to come from behind to win. And if the game had lasted another minute, Marquette would probably have scored a touchdown, to make Coach Clarence Spears' debut at Wisconsin an inauspicious one.

Tackled From Behind Capt. Gene Ronzani, ace halfback on the Marquette squad, threw a pass in the closing seconds of play that started on his 25 yard line. Wayland Becker, left halfback, hooked the pass on a dead run and was tackled from behind by Walter McGuire inside the five yard line. The game ended as the tackle was made.

Marquette's two points came early in the first period when Ed Rosmarynski, guard, blocked a Wisconsin punt with his face near the 15 yard line. McGuire chased the ball across the goal line, however, and fell on it for a safety.

Score in Second Half Wisconsin's score came less than three minutes after the second half began. Don Elliott, Marquette halfback, fumbled the kickoff on his five yard line, recovered it and then fumbled again on the 13 yard stripe. Ray Davis, Badger tackle, recovering, Tom Fontaine, sophomore back, skirted left end to the nine yard line and on the next play, Dick Hawthorn scored a touchdown without being touched by a tackler. Joe Lintor placekicked for the extra point.

Score by periods: Marquette 2 0 0 0-2 Wisconsin 0 0 7 0-7 Wisconsin scoring—Touchdown, Hawthorn (sub for Thurmer); point from try after touchdown, Lintor (sub for McGuire, placekick). Officials: Referee, Ghee (Dartmouth); umpire, Schommer (Chicago); field judge, Hackert (West Point); head linesman, Reid (Michigan).

Powerful Harvard Team Wins, 66 to 0

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 1 (AP)—A smoothly-working and seemingly powerful Harvard football machine opened its season today in impressive fashion with a 66 to 0 triumph over the Buffalo team which was battered and bruised a week ago by Cornell.

Using nothing but simple power plays and passes from orthodox formations, the Harvard backs, regulars and reserves alike, skirted the ends and plowed through the line almost at will.

Score by periods: Missouri 0 0 0 0-0 Northwestern 0 0 7 20-27 Northwestern scoring: Touchdown—Auguston (sub for Olson) 2; Manske 2.

Points after touchdown: Potter (sub for Kawa) dropkick; Riley (placekick); Jindrich (placekick). Officials: Referee, Cochran (Kalama); umpire, Hodges (Dartmouth); field judge, Morton (Michigan); head linesman, Taylor (Wichita).

was caught by Kiki up against the right field fence. The wind falied by only a few feet of carrying this blow into the crowd for another home run.

Pat Malone was wild but a big improvement on Root in effectiveness. He halted the Yankees in the fifth, despite filling the bases with three walks, after relieving Root. He yielded to a pinch hitter, Gudat, in the seventh, and to Jackie May, in the box. The southpaw got through the eighth but was removed in Tinning's favor, after Chapman's double brought home Lazzari in the ninth. The young righthander re-jected Crossett and chalked up the fifth strikeout on Pipgras, who thereby eclipsed the record of four whiffings, first set by Josh Devore, Giants' outfielder in 1911, and equalled by two pitchers, Bill James of the Braves in 1914 and George Mogridge of the Senators in 1924.

The fourth and perhaps final game will be played here tomorrow. With Johnny Allen, young right hander, booked to pitch for the Yankees and Guy Bush, victim of the first game defeat, carrying the last ditch hopes of the Cubs.

HEART STRINGS

By EDWINA L. MACDONALD
COPYRIGHT, 1932 BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER ONE

"Marriage is like reading a novel without suspense. No matter how charmed you may be at first with the words, a sustained effort demands little surprises, little moments of not knowing what's going to happen." Pamela said abruptly.
Her brooding dark eyes rested on her husband taking head dives into the breakers.

The beach glittered in the morning light. Noisy throngs overran it.
Gregarious women "taking the sun"
in the shade of hooded chairs. Girls and men sprawling on the sand or playing under enormous many hued umbrellas in amazing array. Overhead a violent blue sky. Clouds like lamb's fleece. And sun. White hot sun. Palm Beach in late February.

"The difference is that you can put a book down, but even in this age it isn't so simple to put down a husband," the woman continued in her slow drawl.

Patricia, sitting on the sand beside Pamela's chair, lifted amazed blue eyes to the beautiful dark profile.

"Why, Aunt Pam!" she cried.
"Have I shocked you?" Pamela's remote gaze turned to the bright young face.

"If any other woman had said to me what you have just said," retorted Patricia, "and if her husband were Mr. Warren, or as attractive and—eligible as Mr. Warren is, I'd vamp him away from her."

Pamela Warren laughed negligently. "It would no doubt amuse me to see how Jimmie would react to a vamp."

"But suppose his reaction was to love her, what would you do?"

"Don't be absurd, darling."

"Why is it so absurd? Even Palm Beach gets an attack of cold sometimes. What would you do?"

"One never knows positively what one would do; but I think if Jimmie wanted another woman I'd step out. Why not? However," she said lightly, "I can't be a party, angel child, to your designs on the handsome person and eligible bank account of my husband. Chiefly because these matters require time, and you haven't any time to waste."

"What do you mean by that?"

"That your father has exhausted himself on your education. Jimmie and I would gladly help him if he'd accept it. But any help we could never give him would be—well, just a gift. We would know he could never pay. And so would he. That would make it an insult to his pride to offer. I'd gladly take care of you to next winter; but I doubt if he'll let me do it this summer. And besides there he is—an old man, homeless, and—"

"We have the plantation."

"It's gone. The caving has been very rapid these past four years that you've been in school. I've an idea the reason Cousin John never took you home during vacation, but always met you somewhere, was because he didn't want you to see the havoc. Even the house is gone.
Your father lives in a little shack on the back of the land. You're being living, are living now, on the price of your beautiful furniture."

"Oh, Aunt Pam!" Patricia covered her face with her hands.

"I didn't tell you to hurt you,
dear. You had to know."

"Of course. Oh, my darling Daddums, why have you done this?"

"It wasn't his fault, dear."

"Oh, I mean all the money he's spent on me."

"Well, there are two ways of looking at it. He might have saved it and the two of you eked out a miserable living on it for several years longer, and you would have had no opportunities, no future. Instead, he has used it to give you a chance. And the reason I talked to Brushing off her hat with an impatient gesture, she dropped on the sand.

you as I did about marriage was because I felt if you knew the truth, as I know it, you would know there's no use in being sentimental.
It wears off. The thing to do is to select a man who can fill your life with material beauty and make your father's last days comfortable as he has made yours in the past.
Harvey Blaine is such a man."

"He has a face like an old horse," stormed Patricia.

"He's enormously wealthy, and the shape of his face is a minor thing. You'd get used to that as one has to get used to so many things in married life. He's a gentleman, and would take good care of you. He has asked me to put in a good word for him. The word I'm putting in is for you and—"

"Don't talk any more, Aunt Pam." Patricia's hands dropped into her lap. Her eyes were dry, burning. She threw back her head, lifting her small white face to the sky in a gesture of supplication.

Then, slowly pulling on her hat, she rose. "Aunt Pam, may I take your car? I saw Ben this morning, and he told me he'd brought it down.
I want to get away for a while—by myself."

"Of course, child. But hadn't you better let Ben drive you?"

"No, I want to be alone."

"Well, don't drive recklessly. You are in a reckless mood—"

"You needn't worry. I'm all Daddy has. I shan't forget that."

Pamela sighed. Her sports costume of rough oyster-white brought out the rich olive tints of her skin, the satiny sheen of her black hair and deepened the velvet dusk of her large bored eyes.

Eight years ago Pamela St. John, the most beautiful debutante of the season, having an enormous fortune in her own right, had converted society into a collection of exclamation points by rejecting a title to marry Jimmie Warren, a gay youngster who had nothing to offer her but himself and a little matter of a fortune no greater than her own. Tumultuously in love, she had married him against beleaguering opposition.

That her marriage, in spite of an overwhelming love on her side and Jimmie's, had gone the way of most marriages, she accepted as she accepted the fortunate conditions of her life. She had given up trying to understand—given up the hot white rebellion that had torn her in earlier years, retreating behind indifference and hopeless weariness.

It had never occurred to her that she could love any other man. Comparing his fine form, his rugged blondness and engaging manner with the men of their set, she was wont to acknowledge with a faint glow of pride that there was not one among them who was his equal.

Demanding the eternal lover, she resented the routine of married love and grew bored. And even while she resented Jimmie's taking her for granted, she had, unwaveringly, so taken him. She had not ceased to love him; she had simply ceased to find adventure in his love as he grew more and more the friend; less the lover. Her boredom had increased proportionately. Life had grown more and more flat and stale. . . .

Parking the car, Patricia turned into a deep new path cut through the tangle of mangrove and sea grapes which separated the road from the beach. A small, very new tent buckled in the breeze on the sea side of the jungle. Near it was a dead fire, a pile of newly opened tins. Below it, a new dory was beached.

She paused, minded to seek solitude further on. The emptiness of a newborn world spread itself before her defiant search. Intermin-able miles of sea and sand. Beyond the jungle hedge, life roared in endless procession.

With a shrug she continued down to the sea, and brushing off her hat with an impatient gesture, dropped on the sand. Her hair, worn in tumbled curls, was so pale that it held a silver sheen, welding without joint to the enormous light.
Her sports jacket formed the one splash of red on a vastness of stirring green and gold and blue.

Stock Market Shows Little Price Change

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Stocks remained in a state of suspended animation today.

Routine transactions accounted for the major part of the morning's transfers. 335,330 shares, smallest Saturday business since July 9.

Fluctuations were fractional for the most part. Week end covering lifted prices slightly at the close, giving some leaders a gain of as much as a point, these including American Telephone, Union Pacific, Public Service of New Jersey, American Smelting, U. S. Steel and American Water Works. Fractional improvement was made by American Can, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Anaconda, Harvester, Case, Southern Pacific, Union Carbide, and Allied Chemical, among others.

Rail shares reacted a little when carloadings figures were published, but steadied again. Freight statistics for the week ended Sept. 24 showed a gain of 3,444 cars over the previous period, a rise somewhat smaller than had been expected. Nevertheless, the percentage decline, 19.2, from 1931 was the smallest for any week this year, thus maintaining a two-months' trend.

AROUND THE TOWN with DON FAVOR

Free Football
Behold the wonders of science! At no time, while we wandered through the business district yesterday, were we out of hearing of the radio broadcast of the Iowa-Bradley game.

Utopia
Now that every store has a radio, and many automobiles have them, probably the next step will be to equip pedestrians, or install one in every lamp post. Indeed, one man walked down Washington street yesterday afternoon with the earphone of a pocket radio held to his ear.

Monkey Business
A wry faced, bush marmoset, or monkey, or some creature of the sort, hanging from the steering wheel of an automobile parked near the post office yesterday afternoon, worked itself into a frenzy when teased by two small boys. And it really is something to see a marmoset have a frenzy on a steering wheel.

Anchors Aweigh
About half the town, according to the appearance of the business district yesterday, was either at the football game, or hanging on to a radio to hear the local broadcast of the world series. One could see more people on the main street of Mums Junction, Mo., on a Monday morning than were on Washington street about 4 p.m., yesterday.

Lone Lament
The only petition filed at the courthouse yesterday was deposited by E. F. O'Brien and Mary O'Brien. They claim that the attachment held on their farm property by Katherine E. Kelley is null and void because, it wasn't issued within the time limit prescribed by law.

Picking Up
The drivers' license business picked up yesterday, as eight local persons registered at the office of Sheriff Don McComas. They were Katherine Hauber, Mrs. Ione Worley, Samuel Glazer, Joseph Poduska,

Local Groups Feature Student Discussions as First Week of School Comes to End

With the end of the first week of the new university year, meetings for students are again taking an important place in the program of the churches. Nearly every church features student discussion groups and social meetings.

And also with the opening of school, the university vesper service at Iowa Union takes its accustomed place as one of the outstanding religious events of the week.

Tonight the Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University of Chicago chapel, will be the speaker at the vesper service. As before, the program will begin at 8 p.m.

"Variety is the Spice of Life"

And this fall is no exception when it is variety—quality—and price in jewelry.

One can really afford to have the variety wanted in jewelry for each costume, to accentuate her beauty and charm—for no ensemble is complete without the necessary jewelry to add the touch of refinement.
