

INSULL SURRENDERS IN ONTARIO

One Dead, Two Hurt in Davenport Bank Holdup

Police Battle Four Bandits North of City

Bank Employee Turns Tear Gas on Robbers

DAVENPORT, Ia., Oct. 6 (AP)—One bank robber was dead, another was in a critical condition and their two accomplices were at large tonight following an unsuccessful attempt to rob the Northwest Davenport Savings bank this afternoon.

Two of the holdup men and a policeman were shot in a gun battle between the robbers and police officers who intercepted them on the northwest outskirts of the city shortly after the robbery attempt. The other two bandits fled into a corn field and escaped.

Policeman Injured

Papers in the dead man's pocket identified him tentatively as Ned W. Hills of Gary, Ind. His wounded companion was unidentified. Policeman William Hennelly suffered a bullet wound in the right arm in the exchange of pistol fire.

A barrage of tear gas released by a bank employe when two of the robbers entered and commanded Herbert Langfeldt, assistant cashier, to "stick 'em up," frustrated the hold-up.

Sees Number

As the bandits fled a woman who witnessed the attempted robbery took the number of the car and reported to police the direction they took. The car's description was broadcast over the police radio system and a patrol car was stationed at the northwest outskirts of the city to intercept them.

Pistol fired on the car as it sped past and the driver lost control, plunging the machine into a ditch. One bandit fled from the car, grabbed at a brief case but dropped mortally wounded. The gun battle ended.

Tells of Encounter

Raymond Peterson, 19, who was dining in the field where the two robbers fled, tonight told of an encounter with the men and gave police a description of them.

"I was working in the field about 50 yards from the road when two men approached me and ordered me to follow them. They led me half a mile through the corn field to the farm of Owen Mosier, a neighbor, where they took his automobile and told me to 'beat it.'"

Peterson said the men got into the car and started toward Mayville, about 12 miles northwest of here on primary 74. He said one man was slight of build and wore a light colored overcoat, while the other wore a dark blue suit. Both wore light felt hats, he told police.

Editor of Farming Publication Predicts Defeat for Hoover

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Henry Wallace, Iowa editor, in a statement issued today through the National Progressive league, said it was his guess President Hoover would be defeated in the middle west "after the enthusiasm of the Republican office holding contingent has spent itself in trying to squeeze comfort for farmers out of the Hoover Des Moines speech."

"Most of the farmers of the middle west," he said, "are Republicans and it would have been easy for them to accept the outworn shibboleths about the tariff, in President Hoover's Des Moines address, were it not for the fact that thousands of them have been unable to make the second payment of their taxes which came due in September, and the semi-annual installment of interest which usually comes due in September or October."

Wallace said the farmers heard the president's suggestion "that he was in favor of something being done about the mortgage situation, but could not understand just what plan he had in mind."

Gets Life Sentence

CENTERVILLE, Oct. 6 (AP)—Jack Budisell, 19, was sentenced to life imprisonment at Fort Madison upon his plea of guilty to robbing the Iowa Trust and Savings bank here last Saturday.

WEATHER

IOWA—Increasing cloudiness, cooler in west and north central portions Friday, followed by showers at night or Saturday; cooler Saturday.

Mercury Drops to New Low Level for Fall Season

Frosted mercury in Iowa City dived headlong Wednesday night to the lowest temperature of the fall, three degrees below freezing. Uncovered flowers yesterday morning were thick with frost and turned black with the first rays of the sun.

Last night, with a temperature at 7 p.m. of 49 degrees, a slightly more equitable day was promised. According to the official report of Prof. John F. Reilly, the highest mark for the day was 61 degrees.

Hoover Urged to Vary Plans for Campaign

Friends Seek Promise of New Speech Drive for Re-Election

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Back at his desk after a political swing across six states, President Hoover today considered plans for future campaign travels, but held in abeyance any final decisions.

Some of the president's friends are urging him to carry a militant campaign across the country and along the Pacific coast. Others have suggested that he go once more into the mid-west, possible to Ohio, Indiana, or Minnesota, and also along the Atlantic seaboard.

Mr. Hoover's campaign managers weeks ago said he would make three addresses, two in the west or mid-west and one in the east, and neither they nor the president have spoken officially of any expansion beyond these plans.

"No Comment" One of the chief executive's secretaries, Theodore Joslin, told newspapermen today there was "no comment to be made upon the president's plans at this time."

Tomorrow afternoon (at 3:15 p.m.) Mr. Hoover is to deliver a radio address sponsored by the women's division of the Republican national committee as part of a "Hoover day" celebration. He plans to speak also before the opening session of the American Bar association convention next Wednesday night, and to participate in the cornerstone laying of the new United States supreme court building next Thursday.

At intervals throughout today—after his special train arrived in the national capital at 7 a.m.—Mr. Hoover received congratulations upon his Des Moines address and upon the receptions given him at wayside stations on the return route.

White House aides made public more than a score of congratulatory telegrams which they said were taken at random from a mass of messages.

Appears for Photographs

During brief appearances outside his office to pose for photographers with various groups, the president smiled and waved to individuals he recognized.

Various of his callers told newspapermen in the White House lobby they had not only congratulated him upon his trip to Iowa but had delivered reports which they thought he found pleasing. Lawrence Phillips of Denver, former Republican senator from Colorado, said he told Mr. Hoover:

"Colorado is safe not only for the president but for the whole Republican ticket. You can believe that, no matter what you may have read about Governor Roosevelt's reception in the west. He did not make much of an impression."

Representative Treadway (R., Mass.), said he had discussed political conditions in the Bay state with the president and had told him he believed it would vote Republican in November.

Overtaken Auto Abandoned in Road

A Ford sedan, said to belong to Keith Thomas, a student in the university, overturned at the west end of the Burlington street bridge at 10 p.m. yesterday.

A passer-by pulled two men from under the car. Before he could question them, they hurried away. The car was left upside down on the pavement. Neither of the occupants seemed injured.

Coach Solem, Hawkeyes Go to Wisconsin

Will Battle Badgers Saturday in Big Ten Opener

Yesterday afternoon at 2:35, 34 determined looking young men boarded a train at the local Rock Island depot, and headed for Madison, Wis., where they will battle the husky Badgers in an effort to hang up an Iowa win in the first Big Ten game of the season.

Accompanying the squad was its head coach, Ossie Solem, Dr. A. S. Fourn, medical adviser, and Charles Gallier, business manager of the athletic department.

Take Workout

The Hawkeyes arrived in Chicago about 9 o'clock, and laid over there until 2:35, at which time they began the last leg of their journey to the Badger stronghold, getting into Madison at 8 o'clock this morning. The men were scheduled to sleep late this morning, but will take a workout in the Badger stadium this afternoon, and then hide out until game time tomorrow.

Coach Solem, intent upon stopping the powerful Wisconsin attack, sent the men through a light workout on old Iowa field for an hour shortly after noon yesterday. Passing defense and signal drill received most of the attention.

Every man on the squad is expected to be in top shape tomorrow for a battle which promises to be one of the most bitterly fought contests on the Iowa schedule.

Bear stories, typical of the dismal sort that drift out of Coach Spear's camp have not fooled Coach Solem, and he has prepared the Hawkeyes to meet a powerful, well-coached team.

A handful of Iowa fans and sports writers were at the trap yesterday afternoon as Coach Solem and his Hawkeyes left for their first major encounter. They will return to Iowa City at 8:30 Sunday morning.

Badgers Smooth Running Attack

MADISON, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Wisconsin varsity smoothed out its running attack and paid particular attention to new pass plays today as Coach Clarence Spears sent the squad through the last scrimmage before the Iowa game. Milton Kummer took Captain Kabat's place at guard and will probably start against the Hawkeyes. Coach Spears stood pat on the rest of the lineup.

English Novelist to Lecture Here Dec. 5

Arrangements were completed yesterday for a university lecture by John Drinkwater, English novelist and playwright, to be given here Dec. 5. It was announced yesterday by Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department.

The following day, he will lead a round table discussion. He is appearing under the auspices of the senate board on university lectures, of which Professor Shambaugh is chairman.

Herring Asks Out DES MOINES, Oct. 6 (AP)—Clyde L. Herring, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, predicted a governmental housecleaning in this "year of the big broom" in a speech before the Polk County Jury club.

Pigeon With Hobo Learnings Receives Cops' Tender Care

One pigeon knows the way of the road. Hobo-like, a homing pigeon came to the police station last night and asked for a bunk. He was given a perch atop the lockers, a bowl of food, and some water. When he had dined, he fell serenely asleep, with his head cocked to one side.

A steel band on his right leg showed that he belonged to a member of the Homing Pigeon association of America and, released for a race back home, got tired.

Really, though, he didn't apply for the lodging. He was found exhausted in front of a store and was taken to the station like any drunk.

Walker Out of N. Y. Race for Mayoralty

Cables Tammany Chief to Leave Name Off Ballot

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Former Mayor James J. Walker declined in a cable to Tammany Chief John F. Curry tonight to be a candidate for election Nov. 8 to the office from which he resigned because, he said, he did not want to "jeopardize the hopes of Democracy in the nation."

The cable was read to 20,000 delegates to the Democratic city convention a moment before the name of Surrogate John P. O'Brien, choice of the party leaders, was put in nomination. O'Brien received a unanimous nomination.

"I request that my name be withheld from the convention," Walker's cable concluded, "and this decision is based solely on my willingness to put the interest of the party above my personal desires."

He made pointed reference to the ouster hearing before Governor Roosevelt, at the height of which he resigned.

"I cannot see how I could campaign," he said in the cable from the ship on which he is returning from a health cruise, "without reciting the reasons for my resignation and without daily reminding the public of the unfair nature of the hearings conducted by the governor of our state. . . and you know I would not pussyfoot about it."

"This in my opinion would do the Democratic ticket no good. Much as I feel aggrieved by the treatment I have received I am not one of those who thinks he is bigger than his party. So I shall content myself for the time being to stand upon my record with its irrefutable evidence, which will stand the test of time and assaults for political expediency, that I have never failed to fulfill any and every trust reposed in me."

"I know I could be re-elected by another overwhelming plurality," he said, "but is that the only thing to be considered by one who has profound appreciation of the support he has heretofore received from his party?"

Set Official Opening of Hydraulics Lab; Ready in January

Official opening of the new addition to the University of Iowa's hydraulics laboratory will occur in January.

The structure, a 104 foot extension to the present building, was started early in the summer. When finished, it will give the university one of the most complete laboratories of its type in the United States.

Experiments involve all types of problems in connection with flow of water. Much of the work is carried forward in collaboration with federal government engineers, with miniature models of dams determining kinds best suited to actual conditions.

Broken Back Fails to Hinder Student's Attendance at Class

Feeling too ill to go to class today? What about the case of James McCloskey, M3 of Dubuque?

Notwithstanding a broken back and a lacerated hand, McCloskey attends all his classes on a stretcher, with the aid of a nurse and a fraternity brother. Another fraternity brother takes his notes in class, and he is given oral examinations by instructors.

McCloskey's back was broken in an automobile accident last July.

Study Needs of Education at Conference

Second Day of Meeting Features Talks by Professors

TODAY'S PROGRAM Morning Senate Chamber, Old Capitol 9—Foundations of teacher training in the University of Iowa, Prof. F. C. Ensign.

9:30—Recent developments in the Iowa Academic contest, Prof. E. F. Lindquist.

10—Problems in teaching the social studies, Prof. Ernest Horn.

10:30—The textbook, Dean J. B. Edmondson.

11—The school and social forces, Prof. George S. Counts.

12—Luncheon, Iowa Union river room; Bruce E. Mahan presiding. Address: President Walter A. Jessup.

Afternoon Senate Chamber, Old Capitol 2—Contributions of research to the teaching of elementary language, Prof. Harry A. Greene.

2:30—Formulas for superior teaching, Prof. F. B. Knight.

3—Recent trends in secondary education, Prof. T. J. Kirby.

3:30—The national survey of secondary education, Dean Edmondson.

Evening Natural Science Auditorium 8—Education and the social crisis in America, Professor Counts.

That a decided change in existing conditions is necessary if education is to progress, was expressed last night by David Spence Hill, a member of the national advisory committee on education, as he addressed nearly 400 persons at the evening session of the university's conference on supervision and administration.

"Educators need to know more economics and political science," he declared, "and likewise, economists and political scientists—especially the so-called practical politicians—should learn more about education."

In discussing national crises and education, his topic for the evening, he gave as the main features of the present crises: the effects of war, a changed intellectual and moral status, political confusion, and the economic paradox related to supply and demand.

While yesterday's morning sessions were concerned with demonstrations and conferences, the afternoon session, meeting in Old Capitol, consisted of addresses by representatives of the university faculty and by Mr. Hill.

Prof. C. L. Robbins and Prof. E. T. Peterson, both of the college of education, and Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department, were faculty members who spoke.

Farmers Again Picket Roads After Dropping Peace Policy

Minnesotans Probe Into Fatal Shooting of Guard

(By The Associated Press) From the peaceful persuasion policy of their leaders, Farmers' Holiday workers near Sioux Falls yesterday turned to highway picketing to keep livestock and grain from reaching markets in South Dakota's largest city.

Simultaneously an investigation was progressing in Yellow Medicine county, Minnesota, into the fatal shooting Tuesday night of Nordahl Peterson, 25, a farmer and a Holiday picket.

Ole Anderson, 57, and his son, Leonard, 19, were in custody, but County Attorney S. N. Knutson said that although the pair had admitted shooting Peterson, no charges would be filed until he got "at the bottom of the whole affair."

Destroyed $25,000 Plant In Burlington, Wis., early yesterday, five men destroyed the new $25,000 milk receiving plant of the Burlington Co-operative Milk association by exploding two bombs.

John Eisenbart, 55, watchman, was kidnapped, but not hurt.

Officials who investigated the bombing said they had no clues regarding the perpetrators or motives. At Des Moines one leader of the Farmers' Holiday movement, who refused to allow his name to be used, said he guessed the reasons lay in the resentment some persons harbored against Chicago or other interests establishing large receiving plants so that small dealers were harmed.

Herring Raps Anamosa Head

Charges Ireland Took Lifer to Chicago for Games

ELDORA, Oct. 6 (AP)—Clyde L. Herring, Democratic candidate for governor, in a campaign speech here tonight charged that the warden of the state reformatory in Anamosa recently took two prisoners to the world series baseball games in Chicago.

Herring called upon Governor Turner to remove the warden, C. H. Ireland, and promised that if elected to the governorship in November he would start an investigation of the matter when he took office. Between 200 and 300 persons heard his talk.

Took "Lifer" Out of State He said Ireland "took Harry Hortman, a lifer, and another prisoner outside of the reformatory enclosure, outside of the confines of the state of Iowa, to attend the baseball game at Chicago between the Chicago Cubs and the New York Yankees."

"He did this with the knowledge and consent of E. H. Felton, a member of the board of control, appointed by Governor Turner."

Warden Denies Herring's Charge ANAMOSA, Oct. 6 (AP)—Warden C. H. Ireland of Anamosa reformatory tonight said he was accompanied on a trip to Chicago by Harry Hortman, a "lifer" and a trusty in the reformatory, and by Walter Wakefield, another trusty, who drives his car.

Ireland made the statement when questioned as to assertions in a speech by Clyde Herring, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, that the warden recently took two prisoners to world series games in Chicago.

Operated Radio Station The warden said Hortman, who is 56, has for years operated the reformatory radio station, and has been helpful in keeping the inmates orderly. He has been in the reformatory 32 years.

"Hortman is in failing health," Ireland said. "He is an ardent Cub fan and a popular idol among the men here. He has been permitted at any time to go outside the walls as far as Cedar Rapids."

"The trip was made without one cent of expense to the state. "I used my own car and while there I did considerable state business."

Early Trial Predicted in Berry Case

Resolution Demands Immediate Action by Courts

Early trial of the case of the $20,000 discrepancy between the books of Charles L. Berry, county treasurer, and the First National bank seemed assured yesterday afternoon when the county board of supervisors passed a resolution demanding immediate action.

Urging that the attorneys for the county do all in their power to bring the suit to trial, the resolution contends that ample time has already passed for presentation since the petition for action was filed in district court June 18. The petition further points out that the discrepancy has been known to exist since March, and that the board does not want to be held responsible to the public for more delay.

File Report A report setting forth the status of the case at the present time was filed with the supervisors by the attorneys for the county, F. B. Olsen, William R. Hart, and Walter M. Davis. The report is an answer to an oral request made before the resolution was passed, and indicates that the case will probably come to trial soon.

The suit arose from a difference between the records of the bank and the county treasurer of a deposit made by Berry at the First National bank Jan. 2. Berry, who claims to have deposited about $26,000, has an account book with an entry of that amount and date to substantiate his statement. Records and deposit slips at the bank, however, carry a deposit of only $5,000.

Demands Accounting Audits of the books in the treasurer's office were made by the state checkers. A petition filed June 18 demanded a complete accounting by all parties. Time was granted to allow the interested parties to prepare their cases and file answers.

The complete text of the resolution passed yesterday follows: "Whereas, on June 18, 1932, a petition was filed in district court (Turn to page 3)

Russians Request Iowa Law Journal; Willing to Trade

A request for the "Iowa Law Review" from Moscow, U.S.S.R., has just recently been made by Mr. A. Karil, chief of the international book exchange department of the United Soviet Socialist Republics.

The department is a part of the society for cultural relations with foreign countries. In return for the "Iowa Law Review" they are sending their journal of law, "The Soviet Jurisprudence" and other legal publications.

Mr. Karil was referred to the university college of law through the Smithsonian institution at Washington, D. C.

Fort Dodge Man Injured in Crash

FT. DODGE, Oct. 6 (AP)—Returning from the deathbed of his wife, who died in a hospital at Iowa City yesterday, Bernhard Jensen of Ft. Dodge was injured seriously in an automobile collision near Grinnell last night, friends learned today.

The whereabouts of Jensen's son, Frank, 17, who was riding with his father, still was unknown, and whether the boy was seriously hurt and had been taken to some hospital by a passerby, or dazed by the accident, had wandered off was puzzling relatives.

Suspend Company

DES MOINES, Oct. 6 (AP)—State Securities Commissioner Charles Fischer announced suspension of the investment broker permit of Halsey-Stuart and company. A hearing was set for Oct. 18. The suspension followed indictment in Wisconsin of Harold L. Stuart and two other Halsey-Stuart officials on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Negroes Rob Woman CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—Mrs. Mary Horak, 53, was recovering from a shock that resulted from an attempted robbery at her home Wednesday night. She said two Negroes accosted her in the doorway of her home when she went to feed her pet rabbits and that they demanded money and searched her apron pockets.

Will Remain in Jail Until Bail Settled

Act Comes Following Issuance of Order for Arrest

BARRIE, Ont., Oct. 6 (AP)—Martin J. Insull, wanted in Chicago to answer an indictment for grand larceny and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of the Insull utilities interests, surrendered tonight to Ontario provincial police.

Gets Warrant He gave himself up to Inspector J. H. Putnam, who was armed with a warrant for his arrest obtained a few hours earlier from Justice W. A. Logie of the Ontario supreme court in Toronto by John Hampton, assistant state's attorney for Cook county, Illinois.

Judge Dudley Holmes, senior judge of Simcoe county, to whose home Inspector Putnam took Mr. Insull remanded the prisoner in custody until 11:30 a.m., Oct. 14.

Remains in Jail Judge Holmes said that although J. R. Boys, the former Chicagoan's counsel, was considering the matter of bail, no application had been made and Mr. Insull would remain in jail over night.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 6 (AP)—The first legal requirement for the extradition of Martin J. Insull, former utilities magnate under indictment in Chicago for embezzlement and grand larceny, was met today when a provisional warrant for his arrest was issued "in his majesty's name" by Justice W. A. Logie of the Ontario supreme court.

The warrant was obtained by Assistant State's Attorney John Hampton of Cook county, Ill., and Deputy Attorney General Edward Bayly of Ontario, serving as his personal counsel.

Refuses Return Before taking legal steps to force Mr. Insull to return to Chicago Mr. Hampton tried to prevail upon him to go of his own accord. He failed.

The Chicago prosecutor, who came to Ontario by airplane, motored from Toronto to Orillia, where Mr. and Mrs. Insull have been staying in a boarding house since last June. It was 3:30 a.m. when Hampton rang the bell at the boarding house.

Questioned by Officer "What the devil do you mean by coming here at this time of night?" demanded Mr. Insull.

"You know you have been indicted," asked Mr. Hampton.

"Yes." "And your arrest ordered?" "Yes."

"I have flown here from Chicago to ask you to return with me voluntarily and stand trial." "No," said Mr. Insull. "It is to ask me that question you awake me in the middle of the night?"

Obtains Warrant After Hampton had obtained his warrant from Justice Logie he prepared to return immediately to Orillia to have it served. It was not explained whether Mr. Insull would be entitled to bail under the extradition act.

If the former Chicagoan takes advantage of all legal possibilities, it will be some time before he is returned to Cook county in the event extradition is granted.

"Mr. Insull's packed bags," the Chicago prosecutor said, indicated to us he might be going to Montreal or some coastal point in an effort to get to Europe, but he denied any such intention."

Local Singers to Compete in Radio Audition Contest

Young singers of Iowa City and vicinity who are competing in the national radio audition will go on the air tonight at 8 o'clock over the university radio station, WSUL.

All singers between the ages of 18 and 25 are eligible to compete in the contest which ultimately will result in final auditions being held in New York city in December.

Winners of these finals will receive prizes varying from $1,000 to $3,000, and will be granted free tuition for one or two years in any United States school of music which they shall choose.

Morton Reviews Plans of Theater for This Year

Introduction of staff members, presentation of the board of governors of University Players, short speeches, and several comedy skits featured the mixer given under the auspices of University Players and the University theater in the river room of Iowa Union last night.

Arnold Gillette, art director of the University theater, was toastmaster, and presented as the first speaker Prof. Vance Morton of the speech department. In a brief outline of plans for the coming season in the theater, Professor Morton explained the new scheme of presenting for the first time, works of young playwrights.

"We think of Broadway, New York, as being the center of theatrical activity," he said, "yet there are thousands of good scripts lying on managers' desks. We are going to launch some of these plays here this year."

Members of the staff presented were: Hunton D. Sellman, technical director; Mr. Gillette; Mildred Sutherland, assistant art director; Eugene Bahn, assistant director in the studio theater, and head of radio broadcasting; Helen Langworthy, director of the children's theater; Joseph Baldwin, graduate assistant in stagecraft shop; Ellsworth Conkle, staff playwright and research associate, and Bernadette G. Zuck, secretary of the department.

Lois Lee, A4 of Iowa City, president of University Players, presented members of the board of governors of that organization.

Mrs. Pearl Bennett Broxam of the extension division told of the new plan being carried on for the sale of tickets.

Sketches from "Sidewalks of New York," a play presented last year, were given. Actors taking part were: Aurin Lee Hunt, A3 of Newton; Warren Lee, G of Iowa City; Rae Sorey, A3 of Sibley; and Caspar Garrigues, Jr., A2 of Iowa City.

The Iowan's Daily Pattern

Simple Apron Frock Pattern 2404

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS
An apron frock is an ever popular model among industrious housewives. It is easy to make, does double duty, for the fronts are reversible, and is ideal for gayly printed cotton fabrics. This model has very simple details making it twice as appealing to the newcomers in home sewing. Really half the fun of housekeeping is in making attractive garments to wear.

Pattern 2404 may be ordered only in sizes 34 to 44. Size 34 requires 4 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure The fall and winter edition of the Anne Adams pattern catalog is ready! Charming, flattering models—32 pages of the newest and best home, street and formal frocks—cleverly designed styles for large figures—and beautiful, practical lingerie patterns, and suggestions for gifts that can be easily and inexpensively made, are also included. Send for the new catalog. Price of catalog, fifteen cents. Catalog and pattern together, twenty-five cents. Address all mail orders to The Daily

Demo Chief 'Happy' Over Hoover Talk

Glad of Agreement on Questions of Farm Relief

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Governor Roosevelt today declared he was "happy" that President Hoover in his Des Moines speech "agrees with me" upon the necessity of "restoring prosperity to our agricultural interests, our cattle interests, our mining interests, as an essential adjunct to restoring general business prosperity."

The comment was Mr. Roosevelt's first reply to the Iowa speech of the president delivered on last Tuesday night.

Old Doctrines
"This doctrine," continued the Democratic presidential nominee in a radio address to luncheon meetings of the Roosevelt Business and Professional Men's league held at many points throughout the country, "I have been preaching ever since the day I was nominated, and I am happy that the president finally has come to agree with me on this point when he says:

"Every thinking citizen knows that the farmer, the worker and the business man are in the same boat, and must all come ashore together."

Mr. Roosevelt added: "I am glad also that he thereby

Waterloo, was pledged. Following the dinner there was a short business meeting.

Local Sears-Roebuck Employees Entertain Cedar Rapids Group

Employees of the local Sears-Roebuck store were hosts to employees of the Cedar Rapids branch at an informal dinner last night at Red Ball Inn. Autumn flowers and tall green tapers adorned the tables, which were arranged for 138 persons.

Special guests were: J. C. Pelletier, manager of the Des Moines store, and Mrs. Pelletier; C. G. Staubitz of Des Moines, manager of the Iowa district and Mrs. Staubitz; A. C. Cox, manager of the Ottumwa store, and Mrs. Cox; and Stanley Salter, assistant manager of the Ottumwa store, and Mrs. Salter.

Toasts were given by Mr. Pelletier, Mr. Staubitz, Mr. Cox, Mr. Salter, A. C. Ristan, manager of the Cedar Rapids store, and Charles F. Behm, manager of the local branch.

Tap dances were given by Martha Pittman of Rock Island, Ill., and Marian Wood, Catherine Grimm, and Elaine Smith, all of Iowa City.

Cosmopolitan Club Meets

A meeting of the Cosmopolitan club was held last evening at 8 o'clock in the woman's lounge of Iowa Union. Speakers on the program were Prof. Herbert Martin of the philosophy department, and Kenneth Braun, president of Y.M.C.A. The evening was spent informally.

Nagler Gets High Awards of Engineers

Receives Notification of Fourth Honor in Science

Prof. Floyd A. Nagler of the college of engineering this week became the first member of the American Society of Civil Engineers to win four medals for scientific achievement.

He received notification yesterday that an article written by himself and David L. Yarnell of Iowa City, senior drainage engineer for the United States division of agricultural engineering, had been awarded the J. James R. Croes medal for 1932.

Published in December the article, entitled "Effects of turbulence on the registration of current meters," was published in the December, 1929, proceedings of the society. It was based on experiments performed at the University of Iowa hydraulics laboratory from 1924 to 1927 by Professor Nagler and Mr. Yarnell.

The medal will be presented publicly at the annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers at New York city in January.

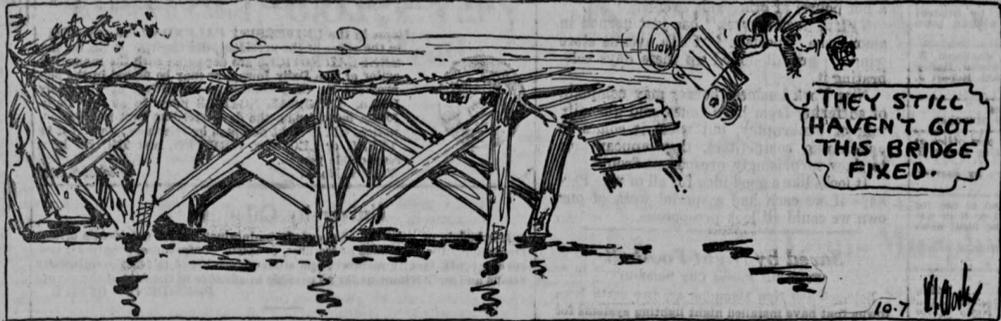

Last year Professor Nagler was awarded the Norman medal, highest honor conferred by the society. The Croes medal, second highest honor, was instituted in 1912 and named after J. James R. Croes, first winner of the Norman award.

Livingston to Speak Before Student Group

Young Democrats of the university will gather in the river room at Iowa Union at 7:30 tonight to effect permanent organization of a young voters club. All Democratic students and others interested were urged yesterday to attend.

Principal speaker for the evening will be Prof. W. R. Livingston of the history department of the university. Other members of the faculty will also address the young partisans and James Garner, nephew of Nominee John N. Garner, will speak on the organization of the national party.

Clyde Herring, candidate for lieutenant governor, and E. G. Dunn, Mason City attorney, will address the club on alternate Wednesdays from now until election day.

Chairmen of committees in charge of arrangements for the club are: Bill Weber, nominations committee, and C. LaVerne Clark, committee on permanent organization.

EARLY TRIAL

Seen in Case Against Berry, Bank

tion was filed in the office of the district court of Johnson county vs. First National bank of Iowa City; C. O. Craig, receiver of the First National bank; Charles L. Berry, treasurer of Johnson county; Charles L. Berry, American Surety company of New York, a corporation; R. E. Johnson, treasurer of state; L. A. Andrew, superintendent of banking in Iowa; and C. Fred Porter, acting auditor of state; for the recovery of $20,000 alleged to have been deposited by Charles L. Berry as county treasurer of Johnson county in the First National bank;

Ample Time
"And whereas the board of supervisors thinks that ample time has elapsed since the petition was filed that all parties interested should be ready for trial,

"And whereas said discrepancy was known to exist since March, 1932;

"And whereas the board of supervisors of Johnson county has been demanding that date be set for trial of said suit;

"And whereas the board of supervisors do not want to be responsible to the public for further delay in proceeding with the trial of said suit;

Ask Early Trial
"Therefore: Be it resolved by the board of supervisors of Johnson county, that County Attorney F. B. Olsen, William R. Hart, and Walter M. Davis be and they are hereby urged to do all within their power to bring about an immediate trial of said suit."

Answers Filed

"Berry has filed an answer; the attorney general, acting for the treasurer of state, superintendent of banking, and auditor of state, has filed an answer; and the First National bank and the surety company, as surety on Berry's bond, filed motions. The motion filed by the bank was overruled, and that of the surety company was sustained, and the county required to attach to its petition a copy of the bond given by Berry to the county, and a copy of the settlement had with the treasurer on the 31st day of December, 1931. By amendment these were both attached to the plaintiff's petition immediately after ruling was had, which was early last week.

"The bank was given five days in which to plead further, but as yet neither the bank nor the surety company has pleaded further. Pleadings from both the bank and the surety company should be filed immediately," the attorneys' report reads.

Early Date
Necessary trial notices, asking that the case be noted for trial, have been filed.

"From all indications available to us," the attorneys state, "the case should be for trial at an early date. The exact date upon which we can have the case assigned for trial must necessarily be something of an uncertainty for the reason that we have no knowledge of the nature of the pleadings that will be filed by the bank and the surety company."

Wilbur Will Speak Here

Secretary of Interior Enroute on Seven State Visit

President Hoover's secretary of the interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur, will set out the administration's policies to Iowa City Republicans at a meeting Oct. 18, E. F. Rate, president of the Johnson County Republican club, announced yesterday.

No time or place for Mr. Wilbur's appearance has been announced, but they will be determined later. A committee of five Iowa City Republicans has been appointed by Mr. Rate to take charge of arrangements for the secretary's reception and the meeting. They are: C. M.

Updegraff, chairman, District Judge H. D. Evans, Kenneth M. Dunlop, George Nagle, and H. J. Ries.

Planning to make Mr. Wilbur's appearance the highlight in the local campaign, tentative arrangements have been made for a dinner in his honor before the address, Mr. Rate said.

In an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C., yesterday Mr. Wilbur's itinerary was announced as follows: Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 10; Grinnell, Oct. 13; and Iowa City, Oct. 18. He is said to be planning a speaking campaign which will take him through at least seven states.

The Chosen One

PLACE ON THE ROSTER of the world's truly great is seldom offered to any man. Such opportunity comes a few times in a century and it comes only to the chosen ones.

The next four years hold such an opportunity for one man and for one man alone. The next president of the United States may very likely take his place as one of the greatest men of modern times.

It lies almost wholly within his power, whether he be Democrat or Republican, to choose.

The problems confronting the world today are both serious and complicated. They call for the highest type of penetration, for thoroughly sound judgment, and for unselfish cooperation.

But more than a knowledge of economics and more than the mere possession of judgment will be necessary if the next president is to take full advantage of his opportunity.

Courage and courage alone will tell. It will require a type of courage possessed by few men in the world's history.

Another Step Forward WITH THE installation of a $1,500 flood light system for Shradar field Iowa Citizens will get their first taste of night football tonight.

After various consultations by civic groups the plan was definitely accepted by the school board Wednesday morning and work was started immediately.

Aside from the added gate receipts, and with them the increased ease of financing high school athletics without added load to city taxpayers, the plan is possessed of particularly good features.

For in the fall the long twilight hours of summer are gone. The business man no longer may play his round of golf between the hours of daylight and dusk.

But night football will take care of that problem. He will still have his chance to take his mind from thoughts of business to less tedious activity.

No Santa Claus? FEW YOUNGSTERS who have spent many, many happy hours engrossed in some breath-taking adventure story have not read of the French foreign legion and its far-flung activities in odd-sounding places.

And there are fewer still who have not wished to be a carefree legionnaire, swinging along on the sands of Algeria to the tune of martial music, living a life of adventure nowhere paralleled on the face of the globe.

But several weeks ago came a story of two escaped legionnaires who, after many harrowing experiences, reached "civilization" and told a story of disappointment and regret.

The other day a young American who left his home in California because of family differences last year and joined the French legion, returned with a tale of privations in the Algerian wastes, of how he had been wounded several times in the line of duty, and of receiving five citations for bravery.

There isn't much fun in stories like that for those avid youngsters whose thoughts are bound up in careers of thrills and joyous experience. Even for grownups the realities of life are harder to face when brought to light than when they are tucked conveniently under a veil of uncertainty.

Stories of that deluding sort—like tales of sin and wrongfulness—might be secretly whispered among the few whose boyhood has long since been forgotten, but never told in the open where the cherished delights of small boys might irreparably shatter the dreams of childhood.

Putting on the Ritz

ANOTHER WEEK has been added to the calendar. This should bring the total to about 79 now, including 52 regular ones, fire-prevention week, clean-up week, brush-your-teeth week, eat-more oranges week, and a pot pourri of other gala events.

"Fifth avenue week" has just horned in among the "specials." Fifth avenue store windows are all dolled up these days celebrating it.

New York business houses may complain of suffering from hard times, and gloomily talk of bankruptcy, but when it comes to out-shining competitors, they appear able to show surprisingly prosperous fronts.

It looks like a good idea for all of us. Perhaps if we each had a special week of our own we could all look prosperous.

Saved by Night Football

Belmond and New Hampton are two north Iowa towns that have installed night lighting systems for playing high school football in the evenings. The greatly increased attendance in one season is expected to pay for the lighting system.

High school football receipts have declined a great deal all over the state in recent years with the advent of the afternoon radio broadcasts.

About five years ago some of the larger cities in the state installed lighting systems for evening games. At Burlington the first game played in the evening brought out a crowd that more than paid for the entire lighting system.

Eventually the local high school and the college will cooperate in the installation of such a system in Forest City. The increased revenue at the gate will pay for the outlay if conditions are the same here as in other towns.

There is some agitation in Forest City at the present time for such a plan.

TODAY'S TOPICS

BY FRANK JAFFE

If the five men who early Thursday took part in the destruction of a new $25,000 milk receiving station at Burlington, Wis., are ever caught, they ought to receive the maximum sentence that the law contains.

And if the law does not call for a stiff enough punishment, there ought to be a new one framed.

Destruction of property at any time is as dastardly a crime as destruction of human life and in these times is heightened by the press of the economic situation.

In this particular case, where farmers had formed a cooperative organization and built their plant with borrowed funds, to be repaid from proceeds of the association, there can be no "justifiable" motives.

Cook county officials are engaged in a manhunt that will probably never be successful. Martin Insull and his brother Samuel, always ready for any emergency, will find a way out of this one.

The thousands of people of whom the Insulls fleeced millions of dollars for their mythical utilities and holding companies, will never know restitution whether State's Attorney Swanson's men return the pair to this country or whether they roam at large for the rest of their lives.

Martin Insull hurried to the nearest lawyer—in Toronto, Can.—when he heard that an indictment charging him and his brother with embezzlement and larceny had been returned by the Cook county grand jury.

His brother, "vacationing" somewhere in Europe, could not be reached by transatlantic phone at "a late hour."

Sometime in the future when the Insull utility investment companies are dim shadows of the past, another fable of fraud will be added to the black book of the world of finance.

And someone will recall that the Insull brothers—now heroically arrayed in the garb of historical figures—were two wizards of high finance who got away with wrecking the family fortunes of their time, of precipitating a situation from which most of the families involved never recovered.

The bonus expeditionary force voted the other day to send a committee to Washington—instead of marching on the capital again—for the purpose of presenting the demands of the group.

The "army" met in a dimly lighted warehouse in Uniontown, Pa., to decide on a course of action, and before the convention was long underway, went on record in favor of immediate payment of adjusted compensation certificates.

A great ovation greeted the proposal for another march on Washington but was turned down in favor of a committee move. That was the smartest thing the bonusees have done.

The "bonus army" has attained—from its own standpoint—the qualifications of a political party, although its plans for running the government are confined to payment of the veterans' certificates.

Nevertheless, with the right sort of leaders and the right sort of organization, it might be a powerful influence before its numbered days are over. At present, unless the mob spirit overrules the common sense among its members, the "bonus army" is destined to become just another lobby.

The success of President Hoover's Des Moines address has prompted Republican leaders to urge him to tour the nation in a series of similar appearances. But although he was "encouraged" and "heartened" by the reception accorded him on the Iowa trip, Hoover is carefully considering the situation before he replies.

An extended tour of the nation might undo whatever good came of the swing to the middle west. It would give the Democrats that much more opportunity for lambasting the chief executive's remarks, and would certainly give his opponents an opportunity to point out the neglect of duty that Hoover himself has stressed.

Book Bits

(From Modern Chivalry, by Hugh Brackenridge) "Sir—I have two objections to this duel matter. The one is, lest I should hurt you; and the other is, lest you should hurt me."

"As to myself, I do not like to stand in the way of anything harmful. I am under apprehensions you might hit me. That being the case, I think it most advisable to stay at a distance. If you want to try your pistols, take some object, a tree, or a barn door, about my dimensions. If you hit that, send me word, and I shall acknowledge that if I had been in the same place, you might also have hit me."

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD - By HARRISON CARROLL

STUDIO GOSSIP FILM SCANDAL SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Two scenario-writing gentlemen of Hollywood have winged their way to New York on a mission that may add piquancy to the coming film season.

They are Gene Towne and Graham Baker and they have gone to collect data on styles—object being to write a story called "The Best Dressed Woman in the World."

In their pockets when they left were checks "on account" from David Selznick, head man of the R-K-O studio. Mr. Selznick is very much interested in the idea for Constance Bennett, who wears clothes in a way that is the envy of most women.

What makes the situation more exciting is that Lilyan Tashman, another contender for the mythical title of "Hollywood's best-dressed jwoopman," also is slated to do a story called "Style."

The result, figures the film colony, is well worth watching. And whatever else happens, the film fans are due to see some gorgeous clothes worn by two super-exponents of style.

On the set at M-G-M Wallie Beety and the wrestler, Vladek Zhyzsko, were straining mightily in a scene for "Flesh."

"That's great Wallie," praised Director John Ford. "You put a lot of realism into that scene."

"You think so?" said Wallie, as he picked himself up from the floor. "Well, let me tell you something. Any time Zhyzsko clamps a headlock on you, you're not acting!"

TALK OF THE BOULEVARD

Connie Bennett is learning to tap dance. Hooper Rutgers, of the team of Rutgers and Taylor, is the lucky instructor. . . Mae Clark has had a wig made of her own hair, which was cut off while she was ill. She doesn't have to wear it, of course, as she has plenty of new tresses. . . Little Dorothy Wilson, ex-stenographer at R-K-O, uses no rouge, powder, cold-cream, eye-brow pencil or mascara on her face. Soap and water plus youth do the rest. . . The Roy Del Ruths, both good sailors, plan a Honolulu cruise in their own yacht. The boat is being overhauled at Wilmington and the sailing date is set for the earliest possible date after Roy completes for "Laughing Boy."

Have you been following the amusing controversy between the government and Jackson Barnett, the aged millionaire Indian? . . . Jimmie Gleason says they can all atop worrying now, as he's just heard that Barnett has taken a test

English stage actor Herbert Marshall left Hollywood bound for London. He'll appear over there in "Another Language" and expects to return early in the summer to resume his screen career. . . Out making a joint personal appearance at the evening, Frances Dee and Dick Arlen suddenly realized it was the last day to register for the November elections. They commandeered the studio car and began making a tour of the town. Finally, just before midnight, they succeeded in registering at the Beverly Hills City Hall. Outside again, they discovered that one intended voting for Hoover and one for Roosevelt.

Convicts Talk in Sweat Box Killing Trial

Tell of Threats Used Prior to Prisoner's Death

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Fellow convicts in black and white stripes told a jury today of threats by two former guards against young Arthur Mallefert, who was strangled to death in a prison sweat box last June, and of their callous disregard of warnings that he would never come out of the box alive.

Solomon Higginbotham, charged with murdering Mallefert, a Westfield, N. J., youth serving nine years for a filling station robbery, was quoted as saying he would "rather kill Mallefert than eat."

Would Have Shot
At another time he was alleged to have said he would have shot the youth during one of his breaks for freedom, but was prevented from doing so by circumstances.

George Courson, former captain at the camp, placed around the youth's neck the chain with which the state charges he was strangled, it was testified, and said he would keep Mallefert in the sweat box "until Christmas—if he ain't dead."

Drank Water
Upon the captain's negative reply, it was testified, the prisoner told him Mallefert "won't be alive in the morning," but Courson paid no heed.

"The chain ain't tight enough—he can still drink water," Higginbotham was quoted as saying after a fellow convict had given Mallefert a drink in the sweat box.

Testimony was given by William Roberts, serving 45 years for robbery, and Cleo Drow, serving his third prison term. Each testified to part of the remarks alleged to have been made by Courson and Higginbotham.

Weak and Hungry
Both told the jury Mallefert was weak and hungry when he was placed in the sweat box, his feet in stocks and the chain from his neck to a rafter overhead.

Roberts said he did not see Mallefert fed while in solitary confinement from June 1 to June 3 when he was found dead in the box.

Wylie's Students in Astronomy Discover Possibility of Viewing Planet Venus During Light of Day

Do you know that the planet Venus is visible by daylight during several weeks of the year, to anyone with normal eyesight?

Most persons don't, but Prof. C. C. Wylie and his astronomy students, as a result of their erudition, have been viewing the planet almost every day since school opened.

Instructions for observing Venus on a clear day are given as follows by Professor Wylie: "Stand at the northwest corner of a large building at a distance from it equal to one-third of its height. The planet will then appear over the northwest corner of the roof as a bright point of light."

Only Planet Visible
Venus is the only planet visible in broad daylight to the unaided eye, although Jupiter has occasionally been seen a few minutes after sunrise or before sunset.

Professor Wylie relates an unusual experience in connection with the observation of this brilliant planet. He was in Storm Lake in May, 1910, when the earth passed through the tail of Haley's comet. Several people insisted that they could see the comet.

Convinces Errant Novices
Professor Wylie, as an astronomer, knew that a comet may not be seen by the unaided eye. So he proceeded with a few observations of his own and at length convinced the errant novices that they were viewing, not Haley's comet, but the planet Venus.

Accidental views of Venus are considered by scientists as responsible for the stories of stars seen by daylight from wells, chimneys, and mine shafts. Experiments have shown these tales to be untrue.

Women Start Work for Competition in Intramural Games

Practice of women's intramural sports was begun yesterday, and will continue until tournament games are completed. Meeting of the intramural sports managers Wednesday night resulted in the posting of practice schedules and competition rules for fall contests.

Jane Shurmer, instructor in physical education, is in charge of the intramural sports. She is being assisted by Irene Turner, A4 of Kellerton, hockey leader; Marjorie Kellert, A4 of Keokuk, archery; and Ruth Crew, A3 of Marion, tennis. Golf driving is also one of the intramural competitions.

Each year a silver loving cup is awarded to the sorority or girls' dormitory team winning the most number of games and sending out the greatest number of contestants. The Tri-Deltas have won the cup two successive years and will compete for the awards in this year's contests.

More than 10 million pounds of cotton fabric remnants are exported annually from the United States.

County, City G.O.P.'s Will Hold Meeting

Close co-operation between the Johnson County Republican club and the local Republican women's organization will be the purpose of a meeting in the Pine room at Reich's cafe at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

The meeting is being staged by the Johnson County Republican club and invitations have been extended to all Iowa City Republican women to attend and to aid in making plans for the campaign. Especially urged to participate in the meeting are women members of the county central committee.

Verne R. Miller, chairman of the committee representing the men's organization, will present organization plans at the meeting. Special

Student Club to Meet Today; Plan State Convention

The executive committee of the State Home Economics student club will meet tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the home economics department of the natural science building. The meeting will be followed by a luncheon at Iowa Union at noon.

The purpose of the meeting is to formulate plans for the state home economics convention, to be held here Oct. 29. Representatives from Ames, Cedar Falls, and Belle Plaine, as well as from this campus will be present at tomorrow's conference.

The university committee in charge of arrangements for the state convention will be headed by the following chairmen:

Anna Fisher, A3 of Iowa City; Theresa Christensen, A3 of Iowa City; Louise Arn, A4 of Iowa City; Mildred Mott, and Doris Hittle.

By HARRY BURELL
A crippled City high team and a physically fit University high team await the opening whistle in what promise to be the beginning of a long series of games that should make real football history in Iowa City.

Meeting formally for the first time since 1921, the two teams will meet tonight under lights and with equally strong determination to romp all over the other school.

U. High Fast
Naming a favorite for the battle tonight is almost impossible for the two schools are almost evenly matched despite a series of wholesale injuries that swept four City high regulars out of the game with three others nursing minor ailments that may slow them up against the fast Kistler-coached team.

University high is all set to run its winning streak to two in a row, with every man but Bob Schnoebelen in top notch condition. Schnoebelen has a bruised leg and a bad thumb but expects to be in the game all the way.

First for Kistlermen
Part of the advantage the Blue and White team possesses in being physically fit will be offset by their lack of experience under lights. The first engagement in the night game has a tendency to bewilder a team and this may be one of the breaks that will decide the game.

By DEWEY CUMMINS
It will be a light, speedy, and fighting Iowa City high school football team that takes the field against a somewhat similar University high eleven at 7:30 tonight at Shrader field. Although the Red and White crew is badly crippled by the loss of four veterans due to injuries, it does not lack the confidence that will be needed to stop its city rivals.

Coach George Wells has been sending his men through light practice sessions the last week to avoid injuring any more. He will have to call on all of his reserve backfield material to start the game tonight. Losing Soucek, speedy little quarterback, and Mutchler hard smashing halfback, was a costly blow to the Little Hawk camp.

Ayers to Play
Roscoe Ayers will make a great fight to fill Soucek's shoes in tonight's game. Although very light, he promises to give the Blue and White plenty of trouble with his speed and ability to shift. Ward, who has been working the halfback position with Mutchler during the first of the season will be filling the post alone tonight. The tall halfback is outstanding as a blocker and also does a neat job of catching passes.

Marshall Steady
Marshall, playing at fullback, has developed into one of the best backfield men of the Mississippi Valley conference and will be ready to display his ability in tonight's game. He does not specialize in any one department but is an all around backfield man.

Several new faces will be seen in the Little Hawk line. Howell veteran end, was Coach Wells' only promising prospect as a pass receiver. A broken wrist received in the Davenport game will keep him out of the game tonight and probably all season. Probably the greatest loss to the Red and White squad was the injury to Glasp, 200 pound tackle. He not only was the weight in the line but one of the few veterans.

Kirkpatrick, who has been showing up well on the second team, will probably start in Howell's position opposite Willard. Although he has not had much experience at end, he shows possibilities of being a valuable man with his speed and ability to tackle. Huffman, another reserve end may see action in tonight's game.

Frosh Show Strength in First Games

Ossie Solem should have plenty of good material with which to work next year, if the two games played in the freshman tourney yesterday, are any indication of the ability of the yearlings. Purdue downed Indiana 14-7, while Minnesota and Wisconsin fought a scoreless tie.

The Purdue-Indiana game supplied the major thrills of the afternoon, with 40 yard runs and long passes contributing to the general excitement.

Purdue started its offense early in the first quarter, when Ken Smith and Joe Richard took the ball down the field on plunges through the line.

Smith Scores
Smith went over for the first touchdown with a short run around right end, displaying considerable class in wriggling through two tacklers. The point after touchdown was scored on a pass, Boeten to Stevenson.

Purdue continued its smashing line attacks throughout the second and third quarters, with Richards plunging through tackle from the Indiana 5-yard line. Whitey Ewald tallied the extra point with a field goal.

The Indiana offense got underway in the fourth quarter, when a series of short passes brought the ball down to the Purdue 40-yard line, where the line held for three downs. John Stevens completely outwitted the Purdue team by running with the ball after faking a kick.

Makes 40 Yard Dash
The chunky 135 pound quarterback dashed around right end eluding the Purdue secondary defence, and made a 40-yard run for a touchdown. The extra point was scored on a pass, O'Brien to Panther.

While the Minnesota-Wisconsin contest lacked the thrills of the first game, it did produce some steady line play and plunging. The two teams were handicapped by knowledge of each other's plays, and the game turned into a guessing contest, with each quarterback trying to out-guess his opponent.

The outfits were evenly matched, and no opportunity was given for individual brilliance.

Perce Pat Malone has been one of the Cub hurling mainstays since 1928. Big Pat was twice a victim in the club's lamented series with the A's.

Shamrocks in Skirmish for Third Victory

Lone Tree Has Strong Defense; New Men Start for Irish

Seeking their third victory of the season, 23 St. Pat's gridders will go to Lone Tree this afternoon to do battle with a strong defensive aggregation which held Iowa City high to a 6 to 0 score earlier in the season and has won three straight games since then.

Although Lone Tree is one up in victories, it only defeated Mechanicsville 6 to 0, whereas the Shamrocks gave them a 20 to 0 shellacking last week. Besides working on passes this week, Coach Emmett Wilkinson has given his men three new plays which he hopes to work in the game.

New Men on Team
Three new faces will be seen in the starting Green and White lineup with Ray Floerhinger being given his first chance at left tackle, McMahon at center, and Kessell at left half. Floerhinger has only been out for a week, but has shown much promise. His weight and height will bolster the left side of the line which has been rather weak.

Signal Drill
Yesterday's practice consisted mostly of dummy signal drill. Although Glenn, halfback, who starred in the Mechanicsville fracas, is not starting the game, he probably will be in there for part of it, and his presence should cause no little worry to Lone Tree.

Change Date of Fencing Meeting

The meeting for persons interested in fencing has been postponed from Friday afternoon to Saturday morning at 11:15 due to a conflict with freshman lectures.

Thomas Ross, who received his fencing experience at Staunton Military academy, is to be in charge of the fencers this year.

Little World Series Crown to Newark; Defeat Millers, 8-7

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Newark Bears won the little world series today by rallying for three runs in the ninth inning to defeat Minneapolis 8 to 7 in the sixth game of the minor league classic. Newark won four games to two for the Millers.

Marvin Owen's home run with Jensen on base in the ninth inning gave Newark the decision in a slugfest after five Bear pitchers had failed to halt the American association champions. Earlier in the game, Red

18 Frosh Mermen Answer First Call From Armbruster

Eighteen freshman swimmers answered Coach David Armbruster's first call for practice yesterday at the pool in the field house. They will begin an intensive period of drill which will bring them out five days a week. Swimming practice will officially begin this afternoon at 4 o'clock and Coach Armbruster urges any freshman or upper classman to report out at that time.

The list of freshmen who have reported so far follows: Donald Anderson, Iowa City; Allen Dunton, Iowa City; George Ernst, St. Louis, Mo.; John Holbrook, Cedar Rapids; William Eicks, St. Louis, Mo.; Allen Hurley, Stillwater, Okla.; Adolf Jacobsmeyer, St. Louis, Mo.; St. Kott, Woodcliff, N. J.; Edgar Klobner, New Britain, Conn.; William Moershel, Homestead; Robert Martinez, Jackson Heights, Long Island, N. Y.; Richard Stark, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Jack Sies, Tulsa, Okla.; Charles Van Haesen, Tulsa, Okla.; Walter Wise, Des Moines, Iowa; Wilbur Wehmeyer, St. Louis, Mo.; Anton Zukas, Rockford, Ill.

Charley Grimm, Cub first baseman and manager, slugged .389 in the club's losing world's series struggle in 1929.

Well fellows, there's a lot of "HOOEY" going on, over "PRICES," "QUALITIES," "STYLES" etc. And there's one thing 3 SPEIDELS 3 want to say right here, "NOBODY HAS THESE 3 THINGS CORNERED." The only firm that can save you money is the one that sells for SPOT CASH, has the LOWEST OVERHEAD and treats everybody alike.

3 SPEIDELS 3 employ no "COMMISSION GRABBERS" — "CLOTHING JUGGLERS" or "FRIENDS" who profit by any form of "RACKETEERING." Our prices are based solely on QUALITY, MERIT and the lowest CASH DISTRIBUTING OVERHEAD in the entire STATE OF IOWA. And every item we sell, is positively guaranteed to give COMPLETE SATISFACTION.

Powerful Lights to Shine at Shrader Field Tonight

It's certainly going to be a light affair from all points of view tonight and especially from the University high angle when it tangles with Iowa City high in the football classic of the local season.

The light angle comes in in the matter of illumination and weight. Iowa City's first taste of night football becomes doubly important because of the intra-city aspect.

Although the lighting system will not be complete until this morning, in the opinion of several of the Red and White, who have had experience under the lights, the field will probably be better lighted than any they have played on. This includes such gridders as those at Fairfield, Cedar Rapids and Clinton.

Four poles have been set on either side of the field behind the bleachers and each one will support four 1,500 watt lamps to give a total of 48,000 watts, or almost enough light to enable the spectators to see each blade of grass, almost!

Low set poles which failed to reflect the lights to a sufficient height to permit perfect handling of punts has been the greatest fault of the illuminated sport, but the engineers working on Shrader field have attempted to set the poles high enough to eliminate this difficulty.

SYNOPSIS

"Marriage is like reading a novel without suspense. No matter how charmed you may be at first with the words, a sustained effort demands little surprises, little moments of not knowing what's going to happen," Pamela Warren informed her lovely, young niece, Patricia Braithwait, as they basked in the Palm Beach sunshine. Eight years before the wealthy Pamela had married handsome Jimmie Warren, and, in spite of an overwhelming love, their marriage had failed. Pat is shocked to learn that her father has lost his fortune. Aunt Pam suggests that Pat insure her father's and her own future by marrying the wealthy, middle-aged Harvey Blaine, warning that the glamour of love wears off. Pat goes to an isolated spot, alone, to solve her problem, where she meets a handsome young man who only reveals his first name—Jack. He tells her of his plantation, "Eagle's Nest," where he hopes to go some day with the "right" girl. A strange peace envelopes Pat in Jack's company and she wishes the witchery of the moment might continue forever, but—thoughts of her father's financial predicament break the spell. Jack, too, is fascinated by Pat and can hardly resist embracing her.

CHAPTER FIVE

Sharply it came to her that in their three hours together he had told her nothing definite about himself. He was not going to tell her. Aware all at once of the instinctive fear of the unknown, she turned swiftly through the jungle path to her car.

"Goodbye, Jack," she said as she stepped on the gas. "It's been fun. I'll never forget being once a tramp by the side of the road."

His aloofness was swept away. "But there's going to be more than once! Isn't there? You said I might come over this evening? Or I thought you did. You told me your hotel. You aren't going without telling me your full name? You meant it when you said I might, didn't you?" His words rushed out.

"Yes, I meant it—then, but we're no longer tramps by the side of the road. It was just a lovely dream-time. Things are different—in real life. And we've—I've come awake. When one is awake one knows that duties grade dreams. Goodbye, Jack. Oh, I love it all."

He stood where she left him, still as bronze. . . . As one would say, "She's dead!"—he said, "She's married."

Motor roaring. Passing car after car. . . .

He wanted to kiss her terribly, thought Patricia. And I wanted him to. . . . It's the first time I ever wanted a man to kiss me. . . . Why didn't he? Any other man I know. . . . But he isn't like any other man I know. . . . That then is what the girls mean when they talk about. . . . thrills. . . . such a cheap word. I never knew before what they meant. . . . not really. . . . Oh well, I've no time for dreaming. Aunt Pam said I must marry at once. And, of course, one couldn't say to a strange young man, "I'm poor and have a penniless old father who counts on me to save him. I'm looking for a home for us and the only one open to me is owned by an old horror of a horse-face—won't you take us quickly? I'm sure I could love you if there were time to waste on these matters. . . ."

Well, the Harvey Blaines don't waste time over moonlight and sea music. . . . Besides, this man is a stranger. Even if he were "a suitable match" . . .

Perhaps she had merely imagined he liked her; or that he had meant anything when he spoke of taking the right girl to his eagle's nest with that strange look in his eyes—and again in the tent. . . .

Because a man wants to kiss a girl—Oh, fool! I never speculated on what a man might mean before. But it takes time for those things to happen. Maybe he wouldn't ever think of me in that way. And if he did—maybe he's poor and we'd have to wait years and years. Only old things can rush into marriage with poor girls.

"No time to waste" . . . "An old man" . . . "Homeless" . . . "Penniless," sang her motor.

Perhaps he'll come over tonight anyway. He isn't easily turned aside. He showed that when I tried to freeze him on the beach. Perhaps it isn't as bad as Aunt Pam thinks. I may not have to marry at all—anybody. I'll have the truth from Dad before I do any desperate daughter stuff.

Mrs. James Darcy Warren, famed on two continents for her exotic beauty, submitted herself to a big rocker on that side of the veranda girdled hotel which commanded a view of the driveway.

Ben had reported that Patricia had not returned the car, and uneasy and disturbed, Pamela had come to the hotel immediately after lunch. She was not happy over what she had said to Patricia in the morning. Pat's youth and beauty, given time, would put her in a position to choose for herself. But in view of her father's pressing situation—ah, the pity of it. . . .

The Gulf Stream had withdrawn its cooling breath. The low land lay fallow in the heat. The older women were "resting" in their rooms; the men were on the links. Now and again young folk wandered away into a jungle-park on which the hotel gave it its back.

A taxi swung into the driveway. Porters ran out and began snatching a multitude of bags bearing foreign labels. A woman in a sand ensemble, sand shoes and hat, followed the porters up the broad steps. A medium sized woman of thirty or thirty-five, quiet, colorless in dress and manner, yet drawing the eye.

Pamela, who scarcely ever noted hotel arrivals, remarked her appearance in detail, wondering who she was: "Beautiful, without having a ny claim to beauty. Distinctive, yet not distinguished." The woman disappeared in the wide entrance; but her image, like a passing whiff of perfume, remained.

Harvey Blaine, looking like a mournful horse, came out, peering anxiously about, and joined Pamela to engage in bromide conversation about the fine weather. Scarcely hearing him, speculating about the swift charm of the woman in sand, Pamela watched anxiously for Patricia.

She saw Mr. Braithwait's tall form coming up the walk. His step was a little slow, his fine erectness drooped somewhat. Or so it seemed to the disturbed woman. She welcomed him warmly; but was saved an uneasy explanation of Patricia's absence by the sound of flying footsteps.

"Lunch over?" called Patricia from the walk. "I mean, has the hotel lunched without me?"

The fashionably garbed clothes-rack beside Pamela unfolded like the snapping open of a jack-knife; the long mournful countenance of Harvey Blaine beamed.

"Give an account of your absence, young lady." Accepting the chair Blaine offered him, Mr. Braithwait's gleams eyes regarded Patricia with mock sternness.

A proud man; determined, even a little ruthless you would say at sight of his aquiline countenance, until you looked into the golden depths of his dreamer's eyes.

Young people adored his gallant old-world manner and his whimsical smile. Most older folk liked him; but many, listening to the caustic brilliance with which he tore cherished traditions to tatters, seeming to laugh at them behind his hand, felt that he was a dangerous and devastating influence on the young who were too ready these days to take up with any idea that conferred license. Such as did not approve him shook their heads pityingly over Patricia.

Pamela smiled. These two amused her as far as anything could amuse her. Distantly related to the old man, she had known him since childhood, and as a young girl on her father's plantation which adjoined the Braithwait plantation. Patricia, born to her parents in middle life, Pamela knew less intimately. But during her brief visits to her old home she had been struck by the settled freedom existing between the motherless girl and her father. No stricture; none of the flamboyant rebellion of the modern girl; nor the battling futility of the modern parent. As if, having long ago settled all possible disputes in a conference in which each acknowledged the entire liberty of the other, they were a whimsical attitude in argument, so that one could never be certain as to whether they were serious or bantering.

"I had lunch by the side of the road with a gentleman who quoted Browning, ate out of tin cans and off paper plates," declared Patricia. "He explained to me a marvelous opera I'd heard, but was too ignorant to appreciate. He cooked me an omelet he'd learned to make in Heaven, asked me to go to the opera with him, and I promised, then changed my mind and said goodbye. He is tall and tanned as a cowboy, has nice grey eyes, dark hair with a slight wave in it and the fine leanness of face all heroes have—firm mouth, determined jaw and—well, you've read about him in a hundred novels. But his hands were different. At least I have never read of a hero that had hands like his. If I ever meet any novelist I'll tell him about those hands. Poor things, they must be put to it sometimes to make their heroes a little different and yet cut them according to the adored pattern." She rushed the words out, scarcely pausing for breath.

"I was frightfully thrilled to meet him in real life," she went on, "and I'm quite sure if I'd attended the opera with him as he suggested, I'd have gone moon-mad." She dropped into a chair beside her father.

"Good Heavens, Pat!" exclaimed Pamela. "I believe you have gone sun mad. Are you making all this up, or have you seen a movie?"

"Neither. Or maybe both. The ocean and sky and every palm and twig were moving. Even the sunlight danced. Maybe I filled all the rest in to complete the picture. We cooked our lunch over coals in the sands, threw our plates and table linen into a palmetto jungle, took off our shoes and stockings, and he rolled up his trousers, instead of his sleeves, and we washed the cooking utensils."

"Yes, quite mad," murmured Pamela. Thinking: "What a gallant little thing! Or has she brushed the whole matter aside?"

To the old man, studying the relative loveliness of his pastel-tinted child and the rich beauty of his kinswoman, it appeared that the one was a pale lily, the other a crimson rose, each quite perfect in her so different fashion.

sponsor of the two months old non-sellering campaign for better farm prices, said he did not know whether any of the holiday sympathizers had any connection with the Burlington bombing.

Not Connected to Strike

Other observers, who asked that their names be not used, declared the episode was in no way related to the strike or a milk war, a concomitant in several sections of the country with the farmers' price campaign.

The explosion occurred about 1 a.m. Windsor in a radius of 10 blocks were shattered. Eisenhart said he could not describe the men who bound him and took him a mile out of Burlington. The plant was a co-operative venture supplying milk to the Chicago Pure Milk association.

Adolph M. Krahl, director of public relations of the association, after an investigation, declared "we have no basis for fixing responsibility. All we know is that the job was done by experts."

Will Rebuild Plant

The plant will be rebuilt immediately, directors of the Burlington association decided.

Pickets established outposts on 12 principal roads into Sioux Falls and trucks, heading a warning given them Wednesday, made only a few unsuccessful attempts to go through the blockades.

Emil Loriks, secretary of the South Dakota Farmers' Holiday association, said the organization did not authorize picketing.

Early yesterday about 40 truck loads of livestock were brought to Sioux Falls markets, compared to a normal number of 200. Pickets declared they would maintain their patrols 24 hours a day. They used cables, planks with spikes, and rubber belting to stop vehicles.

2,000 Men to Join

One holiday sympathizer said 2,000 men would join the picket lines before the movement was ended.

Near Dayton, Minn., not far from Minneapolis, several trucks were stopped by pickets who carried sticks and stones, but were allowed to proceed after their drivers were warned "not to try it again."

County Attorney Knutson in Canby said: "We have received reports that many business men of Canby did not approve of picketing because it caused a letup in business. Before

Grain Slump Fails to Hurt Stock Prices

Close Day of Trade With Moderate Gains

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Stocks jogged along quietly today, little disturbed by continued heaviness of wheat and some easiness in bonds.

Trends shifted now and then, but leaders met support on moderate declines and the close was firm, with fractional gains fairly general.

Chart followers noted that the market had refused to violate the mid-September resistance level, on the basis of averages, but felt it was perhaps too early to draw positive conclusions from this performance. Trading dropped to 1,945,102 shares.

Absorb Early Offerings

Early offerings from weakened margin accounts were readily absorbed by covering and other buying, with the result that gains of a point or two were established in the morning. These held until early afternoon when farm implement shares turned reactionary. However, this slack was taken up later, although the market was hardly animated on the recovery.

Case, which had been off more than 3, reduced its loss to about a point, while International Harvester cut a point drop to a minor fraction. U. S. Steel, supported on a one point decline, firmed to close up 1/2 net; there were similar gains for Bethlehem, Du Pont, Chrysler, United Aircraft, New York Central and North American.

Closes Uncertain

Montgomery Ward closed unchanged, notwithstanding the improvement of 12.7 per cent in September business over August. American Telephone finished a shade higher. Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads were off slightly. A number of preferred stocks softened, but they were largely inactive.

News items bearing on the state of trade were scarce. The automobile chamber of commerce estimated automobile production last month at 79,166 units, or 16 per cent under August and 45 per cent below September, 1931. This set a new low for the year.

Heavy Sales Down Values in Grain Mart

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—In a storm of stop loss selling, all grades late today smashed low price records for the season.

A sudden withdrawal of buying support in the Winnipeg wheat market tumbled down October wheat contracts there to a point never before known. Cables reported Argentine and Australian wheat being offered in Europe at prices indicating keen competition with Canada from now on, and apparently precluding any large overseas business in wheat from the United States.

Wheat in Chicago closed unsettled, 14-15 under yesterday's finish, corn 1/2 down, oats 1/2 off and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Almost as soon as trading began, Chicago wheat fell to minimum prices not touched before since July 26, but buying soon expanded enough to bring about a recovery to around yesterday's finish. Then selling pressure broadened, and values gave away afresh but only in a gradual manner until the dip at last emmeshed big quantities of standing orders to stop losses. The resulting emergency was intensified by weekly contraction of demand, with Chicago wheat quotations dropping rapidly more than 2 cents a bushel.

Although current prices for corn and oats meant niggardly returns for grain on farms, all deliveries of both the feed grains outdid bottom quotations for many years back, and December oats sold at the lowest figures ever reached for that future. Action was mainly a result of wheat weakness.

Provisions were firm because of fair buying of lard.

Closing indemnities: wheat—Dec. 49 1/4, 51 1/2; May 57 1/4, 59 1/4; July 55 1/4, bids. Corn—Dec. 26, 26 1/2; May 31, 31 1/2.

Local High School Student Dies From 5 Year Old Injuries

Darrell Isell, 17, local high school student, died at the University hospital at 1:15 a.m. Thursday. Death is said to have resulted from burns received five and a half years ago, from which blood poisoning resulted. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Isell of 813 C street.

Besides his mother and step-father he is survived by two sisters, Emma and Adelaide of Iowa City; a brother, Eldon Isell of Roundup, Mont.; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Jordt of Iowa City. His father died in 1928.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Beckman funeral home. Burial will be in the Oakland cemetery.

AROUND THE TOWN with DON FRYOR

Political
Yesterday we visited the new headquarters of the Republicans and the Democrats to see what is being done in a political way. The Republicans have two rooms on the fifth floor of the Johnson County Savings bank building and the Democrats are settled in a store room at 221 E. Washington street. A trip through both offices will convince the timid voter that both Hoover and Roosevelt should be elected.

Called Off
The meeting of the Merchants' Bureau's program committee scheduled for yesterday afternoon to make plans for the corn festival and Homecoming celebration, was postponed. It is planned to have the meeting some time today.

Identity
On the side of the Johnson County Savings bank building, outside the office of the Republican headquarters, is a long black-lettered sign proclaiming the presence of the headquarters.

Going Up
On the floor of the Democratic headquarters is another sign of the same type. It is being cleaned and will soon be out in the open so the citizenry will know where to find Iowa City's seat of Democracy.

Excursion
Kenneth M. Dunlop, chairman of the Republican county central committee, and several other loyal Iowa City partisans journeyed to Keokuk yesterday to hear Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley expound the principles of Republicanism.

Alcohol
For being under the effects of too much alcohol, James Moylan paid $5 and costs to Police Judge Charles L. Zager yesterday.

Milkers Meet
Producers of milk for Sidwell's and Swanner's dairies met in the assembly room at the court house at 7:30 p.m. yesterday. It was the first meeting of the newly formed Dairy Marketing association.

Tipped
For drinking, Gilbert Alberhasky was charged $10 and costs by Police Judge Charles L. Zager yesterday.

He's Off
Police Judge Charles L. Zager yesterday gave W. M. Marshall, a traveling man charged with intoxication, his choice of taking a 20 day vacation in the county jail or getting out of town. Mr. Marshall left town.

Too Long
Overtime parking yesterday cost Mrs. M. E. Maher $1 when she appeared in police court.

Boy Scouts Select Committees; Outline Semester's Work

Permanent committee appointments featured the business meeting of Alpha Phi Omega, national honorary scouting fraternity, held last night at Iowa Union. The program of activities for the semester was outlined in addition to a discussion of aims and purposes of the organization.

It is the desire of the fraternity that as many former scouts as possible be rendered a service while in the university, according to Arthur Haines, J4 of Council Bluffs, president. One of the aims is the adjustment of the freshman to a normal college atmosphere.

An active program is to start next Thursday with a formal installation of officers, the meeting to be held in Iowa Union at 7:30 p.m.

Shirley Briggs Wins Girl Scout Contest for Artistic Posters

The poster contest sponsored by the Girl Scouts to advertise their white elephant sale, Oct. 15, ended last night with the judging of the posters.

Shirley Briggs won first prize for the most artistic poster entered by a Girl Scout, Ruth Palmer won first in the originality division, David Lemon won first in originality for those outside the organization, and

Rotary Club Shown Film at Luncheon

Presented by the courtesy of Vernon W. Nall, a series of films depicting the various stages in the manufacture of the Chevrolet car were presented to members of the Rotary club at their luncheon in the Jefferson hotel yesterday.

The films were entitled, "The Fourth Necessity," and "The Triumph of America." They depicted the development of transportation by motor car and illustrated the machines and products used in the manufacture of the Chevrolet car.

Guests at the luncheon were: Rotarians G. E. Montgomery of Boone, O. L. Frederick of Davenport, Paul H. Wilkes of Burlington, R. B. MacDonald of Moline, Ill., and Baker Terry of Columbia.

Willis W. Mercer, guest of Merritt C. Speldel; Capt. W. G. Murphy, guest of Col. Converse R. Lewis; J. E. Lannon of Des Moines, guest of Harry D. Breene; R. F. Hartzell of Detroit, guest of Mr. Nall; G. Q. Lake of Kansas City, Kan., guest of Dr. E. L. Boerner; and J. H. Isham of Iowa City, guest of Dr. H. A. Mattill.

THE MOST unexpected and pleasant things happen to you when you get the Shredded Wheat habit! That's because Shredded Wheat gives you the energy you need to make every day a push-over! It's Nature's own energy food—100% whole wheat!

That means nothing lost, and nothing added! All the energy-building elements that smart old Nature put into wheat are kept for you in Shredded Wheat.

How'll you have yours? Milk? Cream? Half and half? Order Shredded Wheat at the lunch counter.

Hoover Praised by War Secretary in Davenport Address

DAVENPORT, Ia., Oct. 6 (AP)—Secretary of War Patrick Hurley told an audience here tonight that the "backbone of the depression" has been broken and "the leadership of President Hoover stands vindicated."

In the second of two scheduled

Iowa addresses supporting the president's campaign the secretary referred to the keeping of the country on the gold standard as a "momentous achievement" and said the economic system has been saved.

Much of his address was devoted to contrasting the definite stand he said the president has taken on all important current questions with the asserted failure of the Democratic presidential candidate "to make himself clear on a single issue."
