Reed Flays President in Address at Des Moines

Raps Hoover Statement on Gold Standard

Forwards Evidence to Prove Truth of Contentions

DES MOINES, Oct. 10 (AP)—Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, in the Democratic reply to President Hoover's opening campaign speech, tonight asserted Hoover's statement that the country was nearly forced off the gold standard to be "absolutely untrue."

Speaking in the coliseum where the president last week opened his active campaign, the one time Missouri solon also referred to a statement on Governor Roosevelt's tariff views as "willful perversion of the truth," and referred to the body of the president's address as "a series of incorrect statements and unjustifiable deductions."

Reed quoted Sen. Carter Glass (D. Va.), former secretary of the treasury, as the source of his information that the country "was never within $2,700,000,000 of the lawful suspension of gold payments."

Senator Reed quoted sections of the president's address as to the battles which Mr. Hoover said were fought in silence, listing this as one of the "perils" mentioned that the country was at one time within two weeks of being forced off the gold standard.

"The fact is that the drain upon our gold reserves was largely occasioned by the mismanagement of the federal reserve system, and also that the system has been greatly strengthened by the Democratic Glass-Steagall bill," Reed said.

Charges False Rumors
"But the astounding thing is that at the very time efforts are being made all over the country to restore confidence in the financial system, Mr. Hoover is willing to spread false rumors about the federal reserve banks in an effort to win an election," he declared.

"His statement has done infinite harm and if credited will send a shiver of fear throughout the financial and industrial world," he said. He quoted newspaper headlines reporting lower market prices as an indication of the effect of the Hoover speech on stock and grain markets the following day.

Turning his attention to the tariff, Reed said Mr. Hoover charges that Governor Roosevelt promises a reduction of farm tariffs and asserts that the Democrats will reduce agricultural tariffs after they come into power.

"Perversion of Truth"
"I denounce this statement as a willful perversion of the truth," Reed said. "Governor Roosevelt has never said that he favors a reduction of tariffs on farm products which can be shipped into the United States."

He interpreted the views of the Democratic party as expressed in its platform and the statements of Governor Roosevelt as holding that the Grundy tariff bill is too high, that it has brought retaliatory tariffs and has destroyed this country's markets abroad for both farm and manufactured products.

"That is a very different thing from saying that the tariff against the importation of farm products should be taken off, a fact which Mr. Hoover and his advisers well know when they prepared his false statement to be delivered in the agricultural belt of the country," Reed told his audience.

Lauds Demo Tariffs
He said the Democratic party in both houses of congress had supported measures to bar competitive farm products and their substitutes, and expressed his personal belief that the farmer should have protection equivalent with that enjoyed by manufacturers on things he must buy.

Of what President Hoover termed "pork barrel" legislation and contentions, Reed said:

Racine Posts Bond on Gambling Count
Fred Racine, charged with keeping a gambling house, waived to the grand jury and posted bond of $500 yesterday in the court of Justice of the Peace Elias J. Hughes.

The information was signed by Byron L. Johnson. Punch boards were confiscated by Earl Gaugenhaupt and Byron L. Johnson, state agents, Friday night in a raid on Racine's cigar store No. 1.

Field Will Speak Here During Corn Festival Oct. 20-21

Henry Field, Republican candidate for United States senator, will be one of two speakers to appear in Iowa City in connection with the Johnson county corn festival Oct. 20 and 21. The announcement was made at the meeting of the program committee of the merchants bureau Sunday afternoon.

Many other events for the occasion were discussed, but no final decisions will be given until after the meeting of the same group this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the American Legion Community building.

M. E. Bishop Will Speak at Iowa Vespers

Bishop William F. McDowell of the Methodist Episcopal diocese of Washington, D. C., will speak at the third university vesper services, at Iowa Union next Sunday. His appearance here will conclude a week's tour of the state, during which time he will visit Sioux City, Indianola, and Ottumwa.

Bishop McDowell has maintained a close contact with student life in the middle west by his attendance at the annual Lake Geneva Student conference for the past quarter of a century. No other man has appeared more frequently upon the platform at this well-known student gathering.

He is the author of many books, and has addressed students in nearly every larger university and college in the country.

For the last seven years, Bishop McDowell has been resident bishop of Washington. Prior to that, he was resident bishop of the Chicago area.

Hold Funeral Ceremony for John Matthes

Funeral service for John Matthes, 72, was held yesterday at 2 p.m. at the Beckman funeral home, with the Rev. Harry D. Henry officiating. Mr. Matthes died Saturday morning at his home at 1027 Keokuk street.

He was widely known throughout the community, having lived all his life in Johnson county and served 40 years as a constable in Iowa City. He is survived by his wife, four sons, two sisters, a brother, and six grand children. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Matthes, and three sisters, Margaret, Nellie, and Elizabeth, preceded him in death.

Waterman Chosen President of Iowa City Engineer Club

The Iowa City Engineers club met last night at the American Legion Community building for a dinner and business session. About 25 members attended.

New officers were elected as follows: Prof. E. L. Waterman, president; Prof. G. F. Corcoran, vice president; Nolan Paze, secretary-treasurer; G. M. Griffith, member of the executive council.

Prof. Floyd A. Nagler of the college of engineering gave an address "Mastering the Mississippi," in which he discussed flood control methods of the past and plans for the future. This address was first given before the national meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at New Orleans last winter.

New Radio Feature Inaugurated by Mott

"The Midwest in prose and poetry," a new series of radio broadcasts to be given under the auspices of the school of letters, was inaugurated last night from station WSUI by Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the school of journalism.

The series will be on the air each Monday from 8:40 to 9 p.m.

Pharmacists Select New Class Officers
Oscar E. Wentz, P1 of Waterloo, was yesterday elected president of the freshman pharmacy class for the coming year.

Trusty Denies Story Told by Prison Guard

Says Illegal Whipping Preceded Death in Sweat Box

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 10 (AP)—The suicide theory of the death of Arthur Mallefert in a prison camp sweat box last June was invented for the protection of Captain George Courson, one of two former guards on trial for murder, who are charged with the murder of Arthur Mallefert, New Jersey youth who was serving a term at the camp. William Roberts, one of the convicts who was at Sunbeam when Mallefert met his death, testified that the youth was stripped naked and locked in the "sweat-box" where he was found strangled.

Judge Gibbs allowed the testimony to stand over vigorous defense objection, as applied to Courson, but instructed the jury not to consider it in connection with the case of Solomon Higginbotham, the other defendant.

Whipping of prisoners is illegal in Florida. "Bob, there's liable to be trouble over this," Blake said Courson told him after Mallefert's death.

"Yes, Cap'n, it is a pretty tight spot," the trusty said he answered. "He told me to go in and get five or six witnesses who might be able to clear him at the trial. I did. After I went out I told Courson I thought he had a story that would hold water."

The witness said it had been arranged for "Snyder" not otherwise identified, to say Mallefert had demonstrated in the box how he was going to kill himself by deliberate hanging on the chain.

Agrees to Stay
"Courson said, 'all right; what am I supposed to say?'" the witness went on, "I told him just to back up that story. He agreed."

The trusty said the agreed suicide story was told to F. P. Youngblood, justice of the peace at South Jacksonville, by Courson.

The justice, other witnesses had testified, held an inquest unnecessary.

This afternoon the jury was taken to the prison camp to inspect the surroundings and to look at the sweat box.

WITNESSES IN "SWEAT BOX" CASE

This unusual picture shows bestripped convicts entering the courtroom at Jacksonville, Fla., to testify at the trial of George Courson and Sol Higginbotham, former officials at Sunbeam prison camp, who are charged with the murder of Arthur Mallefert, New Jersey youth who was serving a term at the camp. William Roberts, one of the convicts who was at Sunbeam when Mallefert met his death, testified that the youth was stripped naked and locked in the "sweat-box" where he was found strangled.

Roosevelt Makes Plans for Speaking Tour Through South

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP)—After accepting an invitation to give his views on the extent to which the federal government should engage in relief activities, Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight went into a conference to complete the itinerary for his southern trip.

He decided to make a radio speech from the executive mansion Thursday night at 10 o'clock over a national hookup to outline his relief views in response to a letter signed by 10 welfare workers, acting on their own individual initiative.

Their letter said they were asking the same five questions on relief, public works, unemployment insurance, the children's bureau, and education of both candidates.

The Democratic presidential candidate conferred tonight with James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, to complete the itinerary for the southern trip which will swing back into the political battleground of the mid west before striking back to Albany.

Several of his recent visitors have brought word that he is not needed in the southern states and thought is being given to the possibility of further shortening that leg of the trip so as to give him more time in the middle western states which many consider the real battleground of the campaign.

Church Gets New Pastor

Rev. Patrick J. O'Reilly Formally Installed at St. Pat's
The Rev. Patrick J. O'Reilly was formally installed as pastor of St. Patrick's church at 3 p.m. Sunday with the Rev. A. J. Schulte, pastor of St. Mary's church and head of the Iowa City deanery, presiding at the ceremony as the representative of the bishop of the diocese.

Father Schulte was attended by the Rev. W. L. Hannon and the Rev. N. J. Pfeiffer of Muscatine. Short talks were given by Father Schulte, Father O'Reilly, and Msgr. W. P. Shannahan of Davenport. Attending Monsignor Shannahan as chaplains were the Rev. Joseph O'Donnell of Washington, Ia., and the Rev. Thomas McCann of Newton.

The service was followed by solemn benediction of the blessed sacrament, with Father O'Reilly in charge, assisted by the Rev. T. J. Lew of Davenport as deacon, and the Rev. E. D. Neuzil of Davenport as sub-deacon.

Following the service Monsignor Shannahan presented the parishioners to Father O'Reilly at an informal reception at the rectory.

Other clergymen who attended the ceremony were: the Rev. Walter E. Boeckman, the Rev. G. A. Lillis, the Rev. M. Diamond, the Rev. William F. Lynch, all of Iowa City, the Rev. J. A. O'Neill of Parnell, the Rev. Thomas O'Dowd of Williamsburg, the Rev. W. E. Carroll of Marengo, the Rev. P. D. Moore of Nichols, the Rev. J. P. Quinlan of Davenport, the Rev. H. T. Traeger of Hills, the Rev. N. Meinhardt of Lone Tree, the Rev. B. Jacobsmeier of Riverside, and the Rev. John Courtney of Victor.

WEATHER

IOWA—Generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday; slightly warmer Tuesday.

Where and When to Vote

Polls will be open from 7 o'clock this morning until 8 o'clock tonight.

Each ballot contains both ordinances, with space to vote either "yes" or "no."

"Yes" means the voter approves the granting of the franchises to the Iowa City Light and Power company.

"No" means he opposes the granting of the franchises.

Voters of the first ward vote at the court house; second ward, city hall; third ward, C.S.P.S. hall; fourth ward, American Legion Community building; and fifth ward, Iowa City Bottling works.

Hoover Will Give Address in Cleveland

Marks Second Away-From-Home Talk in Campaign

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—At the auditorium in Cleveland, Ohio, where Calvin Coolidge was nominated for the presidency in 1924, President Hoover will deliver his second away-from-home campaign address next Saturday night, Oct. 15.

The president's intention to make his second political trip of the campaign to Ohio was announced at the White House today shortly before Postmaster General Brown and Carmel Thompson, chairman of the Buy-ahoga county (Cleveland) Republican organization, discussed plans with him.

Just as the president did in his recent swing into Iowa, Brown said, so Mr. Hoover probably will stop his special train at several cities along the route. By so doing, he will be able to speak briefly to at least half a dozen audiences from the rear platform of his car.

The postmaster general told newspapermen that the chief executive in his Cleveland speech probably will touch upon unemployment conditions and the question of depressed farm prices, among other things.

"Certainly he will speak about unemployment," he said. "We are feeding thousands of people in Ohio who can't feed themselves. It is one of the most pitiful sights I have ever seen."

Brown said Mr. Hoover is being pressed by Republican leaders in many parts of the nation to visit their sections. He said invitations were pouring in from New England and the east as well as from the midwest and Pacific coast.

The president still has under serious consideration, Brown said, the advisability of a tour across the continent before election time. Various presidential conferees said the president probably will make this trip a swift one, returning to Washington almost immediately.

Fire Chief Amish Issues Warnings on Fire Hazard Dangers

"The $40,000,000 Baltimore fire was started by a carelessly dropped cigaret," said Fire Chief Herman Amish yesterday, "and most of the fires here are caused by carelessness."

"I cannot urge too strongly the inspection of furnaces, chimneys, and electric wiring before the winter months. Most people have a tendency to put off, until it is too late, repairs that would prevent fire."

Proclamations officially designating the period Oct. 9 to 15 as fire prevention week have been issued by President Herbert Hoover, Gov. Dan Turner, and Mayor J. J. Carroll.

Firemen have made inspections for fire hazards in fraternity and sorority houses and in other buildings away from the downtown district and are now inspecting the business houses.

Fire Chief Amish urges everyone to cooperate in the drive against fire hazards.

Fall Causes Death

WASHITA (AP)—A broken neck suffered in a fall from a haymow about three weeks ago caused the death of A. T. Zimmerman, 66, unmarried farmer.

U.S. Legation Asks Greece to Hold Insull

Financier Says Truth Will Come Out Eventually

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 10 (AP)—The American legation tonight asked the Athens police to hold Samuel Insull for extradition to the United States to face indictments for embezzlement and larceny in the collapse of several big power companies. The police promptly complied with the request.

The former Chicago utilities magnate had previously been taken into custody because his identification papers were not in order, and he sipped coffee on a balcony of the Grand Bretagne hotel.

The superintendent of police then made inquiries at the American legation and was informed a coded cable had just been received authorizing an application for extradition.

The superintendent ordered the definite detention of Insull, and the American was told he would spend the night at the police station.

The station staff prepared the best room in the place for the financier and he had the accommodation of an adjoining bath. He was offered a meal in his quarters, but accepted only a sandwich and a glass of soda water, thanking the officers heartily for their attentions.

Blames Arrest on Enemies
"This whole affair is a result of a thirst for vengeance on the part of my enemies," Insull told inquirers tonight.

"The truth will out finally," he added, but refused to say whether he was prepared to return to the United States voluntarily or fight extradition.

"I have committed no crime and there is no warrant out for me," Mr. Insull declared in a newspaper interview shortly after the Greek police took him in custody. "The failure of my company was not fraudulent."

"Purely as a Tourist"
"I have come to Athens purely as a tourist. I find the climate delightful."

One of the leading attorneys of Athens was recommended by local friends to the Chicagoan, and this lawyer immediately made a strong protest to the police. The attorney asserted there had been no request for the arrest of his client and argued that a fine would take care of whatever was wrong with his papers.

Police indicated they intended to keep Mr. Insull in custody.

Club Hears G.O.P. Talk

Paul Cunningham, Republican candidate for state representative from Polk county, spoke last night to about 75 members of the Johnson county Republican club at a dinner in the Pine room of Reich's cafe. He talked on general policies of the Republican party.

Seven members of the Iowa Women's Republican club were present from Des Moines and gave short talks. They were: Mrs. Mary Huncke, state president; Mrs. Walter Wennerberg, financial secretary; Mrs. Mary Peterson, auditor; Mrs. Laura Byron; Mrs. Kathryn Reynolds; Mrs. Alma Larchfield; and Mrs. Mary Allred.

Gas Company Waits Verdict on New Grant

8,000 Ballots to Take Care of Large Vote Anticipated

Voters of Iowa City will go to the polls this morning to cast their ballots in what promises to be one of the liveliest special elections in recent years.

The question of whether or not the city shall grant new 25 year franchises to the Iowa City Light and Power company is the matter to be decided. Eight thousand ballots have been printed for the election and City Clerk George J. Dohrer said yesterday that all indications point to one of the heaviest turn-outs ever seen in a special election here.

Polling places, at the same locations as in other elections, will be open from 7 o'clock this morning until 8 o'clock tonight. The ballots contain the two ordinances, with places for voters to vote either "yes" or "no."

The franchises, which would give the light and power company authority to operate in Iowa City for 25 years beginning today and which would replace the present agreements that do not expire otherwise for 15 more months, were passed by the city council a little more than a month ago in the form of ordinances.

Favorable Arguments
Reasons given by the company for seeking the franchises now are:

1—Installation of natural gas in Iowa City. Preparations are now going forward for the piping of natural gas from the mains of the Northern Natural Gas Pipe Line company near Answorth to Iowa City and Cedar Rapids. It is said that this installation would cost approximately $250,000 for Iowa City and that, to secure such a loan, the light and power company must have the assurance of long time operation that the franchises would provide.

2—Unemployment of labor. It is claimed that installation of natural gas would give employment to many Iowa City men this winter.

Promise Better Service
3—Better service. Natural gas, though more expensive per cubic foot, is said to contain many more units of heat value. It is said for that reason to be a cheaper and a better fuel than manufactured gas.

4—Lower rates. The light and power company claims that as a result of the change to natural gas, he consumers would be saved $37,000 a year. It is also proposed to lower the electric rates, effecting a yearly saving estimated by the company to be $15,700.

Unfavorable Arguments
Arguments advanced by opponents of the proposition are:

1—That natural gas has not proven elsewhere to effect savings to the consumer and that, if it were desired to install it, the gas would always be available, whether the franchises are granted now or not.

2—It is claimed by the opponents that installation of natural gas would not greatly benefit Iowa City labor and that, in the end, men now employed would be put out of work by the substitution of natural gas for coal in the company's plants.

3—Opponents of the franchises contend that natural gas has proven unsatisfactory in other communities. (In support of this, they cite the "housewives' war" now in progress in Chicago.) They claim natural gas is smoky and oily. Also, they point out that the company is not restricted by the franchises as to the quality of service.

4—It is the contention of the proposition's opponents that rates will be raised instead of lowered. Here, also, they point out that the franchises contain no restrictions as to rates. On this point, supporters of the franchise claim that regulation of rates is vested in the city council and that such restrictions have no place in franchises.

Officials Named
Officials for the election are: First ward, Mrs. W. J. Weeber and Mrs. L. H. Billick, clerks; R. S. Hunter, Frank Fairall and John Bradley, judges; Frank Cannon and C. Zager, polls.

Second ward: Mrs. Robert Vogt and L. H. Hess, clerks; Nell Kennedy, Mary Mahan, and Flavilla Fonda, judges; and John Leonard and G. H. Fonda, polls.

Third ward: Anna White and Charles Borts, clerks; Frank Nesvaci, Emma Ries and William J. Kanak, judges; and Dessal Teffy and Albert Borts, polls.

Fourth ward: Nell Murphy and Mrs. Emerson G. Hoopes, clerks; A. T. Calkins and Katherine Novak, judges; and John Suplee and Roy McLaughlin, polls.

Fifth ward: Mabel Davis and Regina Hogan, clerks; Henry Durst, Mrs. William Darby and Carrie Owen, judges; and Dan Callahan and Wildred Waldron, polls.

Women Voters Hear Outlines of Party Platforms, Issues

Hear Viewpoints of Socialists, Democrats, Republicans at Luncheon Meeting Yesterday

Outlines of party platforms and political issues from the viewpoints of Socialist, Democratic, and Republican parties were heard by the local chapter of the Iowa League of Women Voters at its luncheon meeting yesterday.

Two candidates for office, Mrs. Laetitia Conard of the Grinnell college faculty, and Edward C. Eicher, Washington, Ia., lawyer, with a university student, Vergil W. Tacy, A4 of Council Bluffs, were the speakers. Mrs. Conard, Socialist candidate for governor, spoke for her party. Mr. Eicher, United States representative candidate on the Democratic ticket, outlined his party plans, and Mr. Tacy was the Republican representative.

Business for public benefit was explained by Mrs. Conard as the basis of the Socialist platform and policies. Mrs. Conard defended municipal ownership of utilities by pointing out successful operation of power plants in this state which are so controlled.

Socialist Platform

Democratic control, the citizens' welfare, cultivation of an international attitude, lower tariff, and the ultimate aim of total disarmament were the points stressed in the Socialist platform.

Mr. Eicher expressed a need for "vital change" in national policies, especially the League of Nations, foreign loans, high tariff, and aggressiveness in seeking European markets for American produce.

Repeat of the eighteenth amendment, lower cost of government, new tariff plans, and unemployment aid were the promises of the Democratic party touched on by the candidate.

Defends G.O.P.'s

Defense of political stands taken by the Republican party composed Mr. Tacy's talk. A promise of the party to stay with the liquor question until proper legislation had been effected, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, farm loan banks, and immigration laws were referred to.

Mrs. Minerva S. Knight, president of the local league, introduced the speakers and led the discussion.

Mrs. Homer Cherrington, local chairman of living costs, gave a summation of her study of local franchisees in a report which preceded the talks. The meeting was held at Youde's inn.

Answer to Anonymous Circular

An anonymous circular attacking the proposed gas and electric franchises was distributed Monday afternoon, apparently in the hope that its false and misleading statements must go unanswered for lack of time. I ask the fairminded people of Iowa City to give this circular only the consideration which the work of an author of anonymous communications is generally accorded.

This circular purports to emanate from a "Citizens' Protective Association," though who compose such Association or who selected the author as Protector of the citizens of Iowa City are not divulged.

This unfair, eleventh-hour propaganda against the frank presentation of the Company in its efforts to bring a progressive improvement in service and rates to the people of this city we have answered as fully as limited time will permit on another page in this paper, which we ask you to read. As the manager of this Company who has lived among you as a citizen for fifteen years, I request you to read this answer, the truth of every statement of which I personally guarantee.

There have been three communications in the press opposing this franchise: The first from Roland A. White, who is a student in the University; the second from one who signs himself "E. A. Eaton," 1029 Rochester Avenue, but who does not reside at such address and is not a resident of Iowa City, and the third from Professor Jacob Van der Zee, whose communication you should compare with the mentioned circular, in which circular such communication appears word for word. You may draw your own conclusions.

These franchises ask nothing but the right to continue business in Iowa City. Their ratification will mean employment of labor, the advantage of natural gas, and lower costs. We are proud of the record we have made in this community for efficient constant service. Our pledge that good service will continue and that the change from artificial to natural gas will be made with little inconvenience and without expense to the householder may be depended upon, anything which a self-appointed "Protector" may say to the contrary notwithstanding.

Letters to the Editor

To the editor and readers of The Daily Iowan:

The communication of Professor Van der Zee, appearing in your Saturday issue of October 8th... I have carefully read, some of which is pertinent to the questions at issue in view of the wide-spread discussions going on in the public press relative to utilities in general.

tached point of view. Having lived in Iowa City for 17 years and having dealt with the present operating company I want to suggest that if equitable and fair dealing has any weight or merit, these elements should be taken into consideration by the voters of Iowa City.

Very Truly,
C. Rollin Sherck,
Councilman-at-large.

To the editor and readers of The Daily Iowan:

Just an attempt of a very ordinary citizen, and an old employe of the Iowa City Light and Power company, and to answer the letter published in the Press Citizen and Daily Iowan Saturday, Oct. 8, by one of Iowa City's distinguished citizens, Prof. Jacob Van der Zee.

He wants to know if the people really know what a franchise is. I think the majority of the ordinary citizens know that a franchise is simply a permit that gives the party asking for the franchise the right to go ahead and do the work as they have asked to do it in the franchise.

Professor Van der Zee also goes so far as to say that the company does not even agree to furnish the people of Iowa City with gas or electricity. (Doesn't that sound rather silly?)

I wonder if he thinks the company might sometime just for fun shut down their gas and electric plants just because it does not say in the franchise that they are going to furnish gas and electricity.

Word About Service
Now just a word about service. I have been in the employ of the company for 30 years and my work has been chiefly in building lines such as setting poles, trimming trees, and general construction work.

Interests Safeguarded
But mark you, they are not asking for an "exclusive" right. There is nothing in these franchises that would prevent Iowa City from building its own plants if it wanted to, or from accepting the services of some other operating utility company which might underbid them.

I am not a stockholder of the Iowa City Light and Power company and therefore speak from a de-not worry about that for the employes and the company have never had any very serious trouble about that and we think we can handle that part without any outside aid.

Accommodate
The professor seems to be peeved to think that the franchise does not require the company to give full publicity to all of its affairs. If he thinks there is something going on that is not proper and legal let him come to the office and ask to see the books and I think Mr. Meyers will be glad to accommodate him.

Now in conclusion I just want to say to the voters of Iowa City that Professor Van der Zee is a much more capable writer than I am, and a much more educated man than I am, but what I have told you in this simple article are things that I know, and not things that might be or things that I guess. I have been in the employ of the company for 30 years and I will truthfully say that I have never known anything that was done knowingly by the company that was not for the best interests of the public.

This letter was written without any aid or coaching by any member of the company. I feel it my duty and I want to be as fair to the public and my friends in general as I am to the company. And you can rest assured if you will go to the polls and vote yes for both franchises on election day, Oct. 11, you will have nothing to be sorry for.

Yours very truly,
A. O. Carlton,
A Satisfied Employee.

TO the editor of The Daily Iowan: Thousands of Iowa Citizens will today be voting on the franchise question and as a member of the Iowa City council I desire to say that the franchise ordinances were not passed unanimously by the council without full and careful consideration.

An organization calling itself the "Citizens' Protective Association," but without names of officers or members given, states that "no citizen was given a chance to criticize or object to these franchises."

This is manifestly untrue. The ordinances submitting the franchises were after long preliminary discussion unanimously passed by the council Sept. 2 and ample opportunity has since been afforded to analyze them and produce criticism.

They say that "before such rights are given away competent counsel for the city should make sure that we have full protection." This is not only a reflection upon the judgment and integrity of both of the city council and mayor and city solicitor, but it presupposes that the Citizens' Protective association are almost alone interested in the public welfare.

The writer is neither a stockholder in nor an attorney for these or any other public utility corporations, but as a member of the council and as a citizen on behalf of myself and fellow members of the council, I state that our only aim was and is to secure for Iowa City and its citizens the best and most favorable terms possible from a public utilities at all times.

question and for this reason supported these franchises. With a chance to secure immediate lower rates on electricity and with improved natural gas at our doors at a lower rate and at the same time an opportunity to afford employment in the next few months to a considerable number of our people, the council, acting unanimously, passed and submitted these ordinances to the people for their ratification or rejection.

the people have the final word. Responsibility does not rest alone on the mayor and council. We have done our duty as we see it and with the public abides the issue. We stand by what we have done, not apologetically, nor anonymously, and we assert that the people of Iowa City have no cause to believe that their interests have been betrayed or neglected by their sworn city government.

Respectfully,
G. A. Kenderdine.

Visits With Children at Iowa City Schools

The 4B class at Longfellow school reports that it has four gold stars on its dental chart. Keith Ohl, Roger Kessler, and Dorothe Lorenz did not need any correction, and Billy Bauer has returned his blue card.

Jeann Leimbach, Leroy Weeks, Dorothy Smith, Wilda Manson, Eileen Zager, Vernon Schump, Betty Kloos, Clea Bragg, Viola Matthes, Ivan Young, Kathryn Lemon, and Hazel Chadek. Thursday Evelyn Rouner read to the class from "Youth's Christian Companion," Clea Bragg read from "Junior Joy," and Eileen Zager read a few verses from the "Book of Nonsense."

Return Cards
Children in the 5A class who have returned their blue dental cards are Henry Edler, Adele Hughes, Teddy Lewis, Richard Martin, Mildred McLachlan, Marion Mears, Virgil Parker, Howard Smith, Jack Stoner, and Patricia Trachsel. This means they have visited a dentist this year and their teeth are in good shape.

Twenty-five persons in the 6B class got superior marks in problem scale No. 2. Fifteen have stars, meaning they have perfect teeth. The class just finished studying about Mexico in geography. Seventeen had 100 per cent in spelling.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"Yes" or "No"

AS THE VOTERS go to the polls today to pass judgment on the matter of extending for 25 years the franchises of the Iowa City Light and Power company, issues appear to be unnecessarily confused.

Sound arguments can be found on both sides; the problem of the voter, and his obligation, is to avail himself of all the information at hand, to weigh it with an open mind, and to vote accordingly.

The case of the light and power company has been repeatedly stated during the last two weeks. The franchises are available for the perusal of everyone.

The present franchises of the company do not expire for another 15 months. The request for new franchises at the present time, according to the company, is for the purpose of borrowing money with which to install natural gas. This installation, it is said, would cost approximately $250,000 and in order to borrow so large a sum it is imperative that the company be assured of continued operation over a long period of years. It is pointed out that both franchises must be renewed at the same time because both the light and gas facilities would be necessary as security for the loan.

The strongest argument advanced for the granting of the franchises is the prospect of providing Iowa City with natural gas in the near future. It is estimated that the improvement would effect a yearly saving to the consumers of about $52,000.

Arrayed against these contentions are arguments which must not be overlooked and which must be considered in the light of unbiased reason and in the best interest of Iowa City.

First of all, those who oppose the proposition claim that nothing can be gained by granting the franchises now, but that much might be gained by forcing the company to wait until the expiration of their present contract.

It is pointed out by them that, whether natural gas is installed in Iowa City or not, the line to provide it will be put through to Cedar Rapids and that Iowa City will always be able to tap into it. This fact, they say, refutes the contention that the franchises must be granted immediately for the purpose of obtaining natural gas.

Opinions differ as to the desired contents of franchises. The franchises offered today are brief and place few specific restrictions upon the company. They make no requirements as to quality of service or the fairness of rates. They merely give the Iowa City Light and Power company the privilege of providing Iowa City with gas and electricity for a period of 25 years.

Proponents of the franchises contend that such matters have no place in long term contracts with public utilities; that changing conditions will call for changes in rates and in service. They place responsibility for such regulation upon the city council and other governmental agencies.

The city council is vested with authority to so regulate. The question is merely, "Will the city council use its authority and act for the best interests of the consumers?" There are those who believe not. They contend, also, that the best time to dickie is before, not after, a contract is signed.

No one will question the sincerity of either side. The interests of both parties, the company and the public, must be considered. In voting, nothing must be allowed to stand in the way of securing for the consumers fair prices and service of the highest quality.

The Season is Young

THOSE WHOSE hopes were somewhat elevated by Iowa's fine showing in the Bradley game a week ago Saturday and by Wisconsin's poor showing against Marquette must now feel the severe shock that comes with such a letdown as the final score of the Hawkeye-Badger contest last Saturday. But those who gave Iowa only a fighting chance all along and who realized that a championship football team cannot be developed overnight may be found still convinced that Iowa can come back, however slowly. And those who witnessed the game at Madison know that Iowa's team, facing the huge odds of experience and power, put up a terrific fight in every quarter. It is to the credit of Ossie Solem's men that the crimson wave failed to produce a "blow-up"; perhaps did more ultimately to strengthen the morale of the squad than materially diminish it.

It may be recalled that during the intermission at one of last season's basketball games, Burt Ingwersen cautioned the assembled fans not to expect Ossie Solem to work wonders with the little available material his first year at bat. Sports writers throughout the state hold high hopes of a great Iowa football team if the new coach is given half a chance.

Iowa's team certainly was overrated and Wisconsin's underrated for last Saturday's affair. Wisconsin has championship possibilities, plenty of veterans and reserve strength, lots of versatile players. Iowa has a splendid backfield, a slower line that needed just such a lesson as Wisconsin handed out. More scrimmaging, more drill will eventually knit the team closer together, and even with the dearth of heavy tacklers and bulky guards, Iowa will yet be proud of its 1932 football edition.

Ironically enough, one factor at Wisconsin served both to defeat the Iowa team and to point out the main reason for that defeat. A player on the Badger team who did more to wreck Iowa's hopes than any other was a native of this state, typical of many good players who are attending out of state institutions. Such men should be brought to Iowa if there is ever to be another Hawkeye championship team.

This is not an attempt to alibi the defeat at Madison. It is an attempt to stem the criticism of the few who insist on passing judgment after but two games, one of them non-conference, the other played against considerable odds.

The spirit of the Iowa squad may have been shaken immediately after the Wisconsin game. By this time the defeat has been forgotten, its valuable lessons being incorporated into the preparation for the Indiana game next Saturday. If Iowa fans would be fair and just, they can look to their team for inspiration. The season is young—and even Rome, you know, wasn't built in a day.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

Insularity, historians call it.

Insularity began when the first settlers of English America risked a hazardous six weeks ocean voyage to escape from Europe, that continued as immigration from all of Europe represented a similar flight from oppressive conditions to the hope of something better.

The American revolution cut official ties with Europe, and the war of 1812, thanks to Napoleon Bonaparte, furthered the newly won independence. Then came the Monroe doctrine, which amounted to putting up a "keep off" sign in letters, like those in John Hancock's famous signature, big enough for the monarchs of Europe to read.

During all this time most Americans were too busy looking west away from Europe to the growth of their own country to pay much attention to the concerns of the old continent, except those new arrivals who corresponded with relatives and those commercial men who had trade relationships to the east.

And as far as competing with foreign powers for empire was concerned, the United States didn't care particularly so long as foreign nations kept off the western hemisphere—until, that is, the end of the nineteenth century when she had virtually exhausted her own territory's possibilities for expansion.

Then came in rapid succession events that toppled insularity off its throne and plunged the nation into the World war, letting it emerge having swallowed—hook, line, and sinker—the economic entanglements of foreign loans while stubbornly refusing the political entanglements of international agencies to carry out the high ideals of Woodrow Wilson.

Now, after 12 years of trying to perch here in the old aloofness when the 3,000 miles of ocean really insulated this continent, the United States is in the throes of a depression which demonstrates that not even the mightiest of nations can withdraw from the concerns of all nations. And thence arises the question of what will be the country's foreign policy on and after March 4 next.

For its major importance in the working out of solutions toward world recovery, the world problem has been relatively ignored in the current campaign, and what international issues have received attention were recognized because of direct bearing on domestic difficulties.

As far as the economic aspect is concerned, the United States has attained a new creditor-exporter status since the World war which entirely reverses her foreign relations—except in the attitude of the government. What will the next administration do about the virtual abolition of reparations at Lausanne, about the war debts on which the famous moratorium has expired?

Raymond Leslie Buell of the Foreign Policy association says that "the United States cannot collect the interest on its investments abroad, or recover its export trade, unless it lowers its tariff." Meaning that, as Herbert Hoover screeches at us for his well executed moratorium, Franklin D. Roosevelt (and an increasing number of Republicans) are right in seeing that new conditions demand new tariff policies.

The hostile attitude of Japanese toward the kibitzing of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson in the Manchurian situation represents as vital a problem as will be faced as far as possible war is concerned—for more than one administration.

The League of Nations now begins to look like a failure short of thorough reorganization, and disarmament conferences as an editorial paragrapher said, about got around to the question of dispensing with snowballs in August. Quoting Buell again, "the United States must determine whether to continue its present policy of insisting upon armament reduction by agreement, with 'parity' for itself in naval matters, or whether to proceed with the reorganization and reduction of its mainland military establishment solely in accordance with its defensive needs."

Clinging to its economic nationalism, in which the tariff is the characteristic factor, the Republican party has gingerly progressed to international cooperation in such matters as development of the "non recognition doctrine, but its secretary of state spoke last spring of the Philippines as "the base of our economic empire in the orient."

On the other hand the fact that the last Democratic president, probably the most internationally minded leader this nation has had, sanctioned invasion of Mexico and entrance into the World war suggests that the roots of international difficulty go deeper than ideals. About which more tomorrow.

BEHIND THE SCENES

— IN HOLLYWOOD —

STUDIO GOSSIP

By HARRISON CARROLL

SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Somewhere in the land today, an almond-eyed youth approaches an undreamed-of destiny—the chance to play that great emotional role, the lead in "Broken Blossoms." Secretly, for the talkie rights are not quite clear, R-K-O has launched its daring scheme to feature a young Chinese in the part immortalized by Richard Barthelmess on the silent screen. Under orders from head-man David Selznick, studio scouts are combing the Chinese colonies of Los Angeles and San Francisco. Later, if the search is fruitless, they will extend their quest to New York and other American centers of Oriental life. First requirement, of course, is that the candidate speak English. Second that he physically resembles the sensitive, poetic hero of Thomas Burke's tender story "The Chink and the Child." Mr. Selznick, they assure me, is not forgetful of the fact that Carl Laemmle, Jr., has tried for months to find an Indian youth to play the lead in "Laughing Boy." He realizes the long chance of entrusting such an important role to a screen newcomer, and to a young man of a different race. But he yields to his sense of drama, which is another name for showmanship. He says: "Find the boy." Under the glare of studio lights the other day, Eddie Cantor was making violent love to Lydia Roberti, one of his leading women in "The Kid from Spain." Watching the scene from the sidelines were the comedian's two youngest, Marilyn and Janet. Suddenly, the director called: "Cut!" Eddie turned to the kids and said: "Now don't tell mama about this. You know daddy has to make a living somehow." BOULEVARD TOPICS: Hollywood is noted for its informality, but Ramon Novarro hit a new peak by attending the opera in a sweat-shirt, covered by an overcoat. He was with two other young men and they may have sat in the balcony. . . The film colony paid great tribute to Lily Pons in her first appearance here. Many stars had boxes and the audience stared openly at Ruth Chatterton, wearing an old-fashioned orange evening gown with puffed sleeves. She was with George Brent and Helen Hayes, Norma Shearer and Irving Thalberg had another box; also Leslie Howard and Lowell Sherman. Other cinema celebrities in the audience included Jeanette MacDonald and Bob Riche, Mary Carlisle and Jerry Horwin, and Ginger Rogers and Mervyn Leroy. Later on, most of the operetta showed up at the Coconut Grove, where Walt Disney was giving a Mickey Mouse birthday party. Lily Pons got an ovation when she came in and joined the party of Mrs. Edith Hughes. Miss Pons' manager, Frederick Chang, introduced Hollywood to a new kink in neckwear. His tie was embroidered all over with the script: "Repeal the Eighteenth Amendment." DID YOU KNOW— That Charles Bickford toured the world as a coal-passer in the famous Roosevelt fleet.

Stock Market Takes Slump With Grains

Breaks Through Last Week's Low Level

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Stocks broke through last week's resistance levels today coincident with losses of a cent a bushel in wheat and a softer bond market.

Pressure was most pronounced against so-called pivotal shares, especially rails and a few miscellaneous issues, which were feebly supported against the increased liquidation and professional selling that followed publication of U. S. Steel's backlog report.

Sinks After Announcement
Prior to this announcement the market had been doing fairly well, up one to two points or so, but the amount of increase in unfilled orders seemed to have disappointed traders.

Union Pacific had an extreme loss of more than 8 points and Santa Fe, at the worst, was off 5 1/8. New York Central, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific and Pennsylvania skidded 2 to 3 or so before a flurry of short covering at the close generally reduced losses.

Telephone Heavy
American Telephone was conspicuously heavy, breaking under par. It finished at 100, down 3 3/8 net. U. S. Steel preferred dropped nearly 4, although the common net loss was only a point. Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Case, North American, and Bethlehem preferred gave up 2 to 3, and a large assortment of others was down at least a point. Sales totaled 2,281,940 shares.

The gain in steel corporation tonnage amounted to 15,495 tons. September witnessed a fair sized expansion in operating ratios, so that the rise was taken as a sign that buying, at least by small countries, had shown some appreciation.

Woman Killed in Automobile Smash

DES MOINES, Oct. 10 (AP)—Olive Ringrose, 27, formerly of Sioux City, was fatally injured Sunday when the car in which she was riding collided with another car three miles south of Monroe, on U. S. highway 63.

Miss Ringrose was given medical attention at Monroe, and was then brought to a hospital at Des Moines where she died.

EXPLANATION OF SUNDAY'S CARTOON

The ships of Halifax harbor; Captain George suffered shipwreck of the big "Laurel" in 1857, as a result of which he lost a leg. The limb was interred in Herring Cove on the western shore of Halifax harbor. Eventually the captain was appointed lighthouse keeper at Mauger's Beach, McNab's island, which is on the eastern shore of the harbor, for three years every ship entering or leaving the harbor passed between Captain George's legs.

An original flag: Out of the nine provinces constituting the dominion of Canada, Nova Scotia is the only one flying its own flag, which is neither French nor English in origin but all its own.

It is a white flag with the Blue St. Andrew's Cross dividing the field in four. In the center is the double-towered Lion of Scotland ramping in gold. The design is based upon the coat of arms of Sir William Alexander, first grantee of the province, and the Royal Coat of Arms granted to Nova Scotia by King Charles I in 1625.

Tomorrow: "An indigent American treasury."

Telephone Building Opens to Public as Intricate Electrical Mechanisms Go on Demonstration During Week

The panorama of the modern telephone system, from the coaling to the most intricate electrical mechanisms, is being unfolded this week at the new telephone building.

A period of "open house" which began yesterday and will end Friday is being held with Carl Cone, local manager for the Northwestern Bell telephone company, as host. Working machinery is opened to the public, and guides are furnished to all visitors between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. during the week.

Visitors are first taken to the basement, where the heating system, power equipment, battery room, and cable vault are located. Here they see machinery used to keep the telephone system running, even when city power is temporarily out of order. In the cable vault, extending the length of the building, are the transcontinental and local cables.

On the first floor are testing and repeating apparatus, as well as offices of the company. Trouble testing mechanisms are said to be so accurate that the location of trouble on country lines may be calculated to within a few feet. Expansion and contraction of cables due to temperature variations are measured in order that adjustments may be made to keep resistance equalized. Repeaters are used on long distance wires to increase volume lost by distance.

The switchboard room, and the operators' rest room and kitchenette may be seen on the second floor, and the dial sender frames and call placing equipment on the third floor. Here the visitors may see where the cables branch out into thousands of wires which wind about their respective connections. All workable machinery may be seen in action.

Johnson County Hunters Wait on Opening of Duck Season

With 10 days of the open season on wild ducks, geese, and squirrels already gone, Johnson county hunters are officially, at least, taking advantage of the opportunity.

Since the opening of the season Oct. 1, 139 hunting licenses have been issued through the office of John Kadlec, county recorder. Two hundred and twenty-eight persons prepared for the sport early, getting their permits during September. Applications are still being made at the rate of several a day, William J. Nerad, deputy recorder, said yesterday.

The open season on wild ducks and geese lasts until sunset Nov. 30. Squirrel hunters may continue the sport until Dec. 31.

Revised Iowa fish and game laws which became effective Sept. 1 limit the number of geese allowed to any one hunter in a day at four. At no time may he have more than eight in his possession.

The bag limit on ducks of all kinds is set at 15. However, this shall not include more than five elder ducks, and not more than 10 of any one, or of the aggregate of two or more of the following species: canvasback, redhead, greater scaup, lesser scaup, ringneck, blue wing teal, green wing teal, cinnamon teal, shoveler, and gadwall. Wood duck, ruddy duck, and buffhead ducks have no open season.

The total of ducks in one person's possession may not exceed 21, with not more than 20 of any one kind. Not more than 25 live duck decoys may be used at any one shooting stand or blind.

Iowa Dietitians to Attend Conference in New York City

ed committed the Democratic party to the policy of creating an unsound currency and unstable financial situation, Reed declared that "it is enough to say that if the Garner bill is a 'pork barrel bill,' then Mr. Hoover is in lard up to his eyes.

"Indeed he is the responsible author for that kind of legislation," Reed asserted, recalling that at a conference of governors in New Orleans in 1928 the president advocated adoption of a $3,000,000,000 public works program.

Senator Reed said the Garner bill "simply puts this proposal of Mr. Hoover's into effect.

Charges About Face

"For the man who was the author of these various schemes to now denounce those who carry them into effect is as unjustifiable as for a man to deny the paternity of his own child and turn against one who gave it protection.

"If I had any criticism to pass upon Jack Garner it would be that he ever even for a moment followed the lead of Herbert C. Hoover," he continued.

The opening section of Reed's speech was devoted to picturing Hoover as a prophet. The former senator said the president in his Des Moines speech and elsewhere has told the people that he plans to restore prosperity and that these plans will certainly work.

"It will be observed, however," Reed said, "that none of them can be demonstrated until after the election. What we are asked to accept, therefore, are Mr. Hoover's prophecies.

Quotes "Prophecies"

"He quoted 'prophecies' he said the president has made in the past and then recited statements from various sources as to their 'fulfillment' which he said showed Mr. Hoover's unreliability as a prophet.

"Surely the time has come when we should cease to place confidence in either the prophecies or the schemes of Mr. Hoover," Reed declared. "His predictions have come to naught.

"If he has accomplished anything, it is the establishment of a species of capitalistic socialism," he concluded in rounding out this phase of his address.

"For I assert that it is Socialistic in principle to take the money from the people by taxation and loan it and the government credit to assist great banks, trust companies, railroads, and other large institutions, because they are in distress, as it would be to impound the national wealth to take care of the mass of men and women who also are in distress."

"Support World Finances"

In referring to the body of Mr. Hoover's speech as a "series of incorrect statements and unjustifiable deductions," Reed added, "but there is one thread which runs through it all, namely, that it is the duty of the United States to sustain the financial structure of the world."

He declared this to be the natural view of a man "who has spent 23 years of his adult life abroad. . . Who came here with a scheme to reduce the price of American farm products and who, without authority of law, carried his scheme into effect and thus laid the foundations for agricultural bankruptcy."

Reed invited the attention of his audience "to the picture of Mr. Hoover weeping over the misfortunes of the American farmer," declaring the president never had been a farmer, "he had been a promoter of mines and mining stocks."

Recalls Hoover Statement

He declared Mr. Hoover in testimony before a joint congressional committee in 1917 had asserted that prices must be regulated for the benefit of the consumer and had advocated fixing a price to keep prices at a lower level. Arbitrary prices fixed by Mr. Hoover, Reed said, "made the farmer the special victim of the war."

Reciting prices in other countries at that time, Reed said that "to Hoover the American farmer can charge a large portion of his present financial difficulties."

For the agricultural remedies he said the president had proposed Reed quoted from a pamphlet published in 1925 in which Mr. Hoover said: "Continuous over-production means unmanageable surplus, and that can only be corrected by prices low enough to make production unprofitable for some part of the acreage in use."

"Ever Since War"

"This policy of starving out surplus has been in progress ever since the war," Reed added.

Reed devoted little attention to the 12 agricultural recommendations which the president sponsored in his Des Moines address. Of the suggestion that war debt payments to secure expansion of foreign markets for agricultural products, he said:

"He tells you in one breath that he proposes to collect the foreign debts and in the next that in some mysterious way he is going to wipe out the debts due by Europe by sending them our wheat in addition to the money we have heretofore given them.

Sketches Farm Board Status

"This kind of financing," Reed suggested is illustrated by the situation of the farm board which he said is now trying to sell in China for $15,000,000 the wheat it bought for $25,000,000 and proposes to loan China $15,000,000 to pay for it. "Thus we will have $40,000,000 invested in the very doubtful note of China for $15,000,000," he said.

MATERIAL evidence that there is a new spirit at Iowa is apparent since the Hawkeyes took their sound trouncing at Madison last Saturday.

Of course, there are some of the people who didn't see the game who are looking glum, and as usual, there are a certain few who attended who are grumbling, but all in all the crowd had few complaints.

IF THE Badgers can play football Saturday after Saturday the way they did against Iowa, the Big Ten team that whips them will be champion.

Any more "blues" stories from Madison are unnecessary if the Badgers can play ball the way they did against Iowa.

AND don't forget that this Iowa blocking halfback, Herman Schneidman, played a whole of a game against the Badgers.

Understand, this column is no alibi whatsoever. The Hawkeyes could have turned in a better game than they did.

WRESTLING comes into its own tonight as Mike Howard presents his first show at the American Legion auditorium.

Hawkeyes to Run Against Cornell Team

Hawkeye cross country men will not compete with Indiana at Bloomington this Saturday according to an announcement by Coach George Erenshahn.

The squad will be given time trials today over a one mile distance. The entire team will take part in the meet with the Purple contingent, however.

Cornell will be headed by Ralph Itnyre who last year took second in a triangle meet between Grinnell, Iowa, and Cornell.

For the first time since 1915, Washington university's football varsity scheduled a game with the school alumni this fall.

Promoter Mike Howard to Use New Rules in Opening of Indoor Wrestling Season

Harold Timm Engages Big Minnesotan in Semi-Final

Wrestling again claims the local sports spotlight tonight as H. Glenn Croy of Des Moines meets Leslie "Red" Beers, former University of Iowa star.

Promoter Mike Howard has long been after these two local favorites to present as the main event of his first venture in the field.

Croy, former Hills wrestling schoolmaster, has been taking on the best that Des Moines promoters have been able to offer him in the last year.

Beers, former Big Ten and A.A.U. 160-pound champion, learned the game under Coach Howard.

Both men declare themselves in excellent condition for the match, and both are confident of winning.

According to word received yesterday, a group of Croy's followers from Des Moines will make the trip here by bus for the match tonight.

Young Hargraves will box four rounds with Wilbur Wyjack as a curtain-raiser.

Decisions will be made by two judges, using a point system similar to A.A.U. rules.

Wrestling will be held under the new professional rules drawn up by Coach Howard.

The doors open at 7:30 p.m. and the first preliminary will start at 8:30 p.m. sharp.

After trouncing Kalona in the opening game they were installed as the underdogs in their first intra-city clash.

City Rivals to Battle Friday

Shamrocks, University High in Important Contest

Iowa City's private feud over the little matter of the best color for the football championship flag will be finished this week when the exponents of the blue background and the backers of the green meet at close quarters to fight it out Friday.

Friday afternoon in the old Iowa stadium University high will "be at home" to St. Pat's in the deciding game of the city series.

In order to give a clear cut claim to any team it will be necessary for the Shamrocks to beat the Blue and White eleven.

Up along the river, the Blue and White of University high still remains untrammelled after two starts.

After trouncing Kalona in the opening game they were installed as the underdogs in their first intra-city clash.

Feeling that they are just rounding into shape, the U high team intends to play its best game of the year Friday and let that speak for them.

Coach Solem Sends Hawkeyes Through Tough Scrimmage

Makes Shifts for Game at Indiana, Sat.

"Zud" Schammel Tried at Fullback; Laws on 1st Team

The usual Monday-after-the-game limbering up workout was replaced by a stiff scrimmage yesterday afternoon as Coach Ossie Solem began reorganizing the Iowa football squad after the trouncing at the hands of Wisconsin last Saturday.

The game revealed numerous shortcomings which the Hawkeye mentor is determined will be on the mend when the Hawkeyes meet Indiana at Bloomington Saturday.

Basketball Practice Starts This Evening

Opening practice for the 1932-33 University of Iowa basketball season will occur in the field house tonight at 7:30.

Coach Williams urges every man with any ability to report. The squad will be divided into two groups, each meeting twice weekly during the first part of the football season.

Equipment may be obtained at the field house all day today.

Later, Schammel returned to tackle, and Marvin Kuhn, smashing 191-pound sophomore, went in at fullback.

The yearlings had little success in their attempts to use Hoosier plays on the varsity, but were fairly successful in stopping the first string offense.

Bill Boelter, who scouted Indiana for the Hawkeyes last week end reported that they are fast and strong, clever on offense, with a dangerous running and passing attack, which produced a 7 to 7 tie against a startled Ohio State eleven.

Coach Solem indicated that he will scrimmage his squad as much as possible this week as he points them for the Hoosier conflict.

Back to End But soon after practices started this fall, Coach Solem had him back in his old position of end, one which he filled for two years as a prep.

Besides his three years of gridiron competition at Valparaiso, Miller was exceedingly active in three other sports.

A Case Star Basketball, where he became known as a guard and center, getting all-regional recognition as a senior, found him competing for four seasons as did track.

was sent to a hospital, and Brad Robinson, given the day off after his release earlier from confinement for a bruised head.

MADISON—Although none of the Badgers who saw action against Iowa last week suffered, Coach Clarence Spears gave the first team a rest and concentrated on the reserves.

The second stringers were given new plays which they demonstrated as the varsity watched. No changes in the lineup were anticipated for the Purdue game.

Chalmers Cissel, Cleveland second baseman, is credited with the longest home run yet hit in the new Cleveland stadium.

MICHIGAN BEATS WILDCATS, 15-6

Michigan triumphed over Northwestern, in the first of the Western conference's important skirmishes, at Ann Arbor, Mich., Saturday. Picture shows Olson of Wildcats kicking in first quarter.

CHICAGO AND YALE TIE, 7-7

Vic Sahlin rushes through a nest of Bulldogs to gain 22 yards for Chicago against Yale in first quarter of Saturday's game at Yale Bowl. Sahlin got the ball on a kickoff and with a little interference might have gone farther. The Maroons threatened dangerously in the last period.

Little Hawks Prepare for Clinton Tilt

Coach George Wells sent his Little Hawk football men through a long practice last night as he prepared them for their next contest Friday night with Clinton at Shrader field.

Unsatisfied with the work of his line in the University high game last Friday, the City high mentor gave most of his attention to teaching them how to block and tackle in last night's practice.

Lanky John Miller Good Performer in Basketball, Track, Baseball as Well

By RON TALLMAN

When Coach Ossie Solem takes his University of Iowa Hawkeyes over to Indiana next week for their second Big Ten conference football game, there will be one man on the squad who is returning to native soil.

John E. Miller is the fellow, tall and somewhat spindly with his 6 feet 3 inches in height and 180 pounds in weight.

Your Interests are Best Served by Voting 'YES' for Both Franchises

THE BROADSIDE DISTRIBUTED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON LISTS 11 STATEMENTS, EACH ATTEMPTING TO MISLEAD THE PUBLIC ON CERTAIN FEATURES. THESE ITEMS ARE ANSWERED—DEFINITELY STATING THE FACTS.

ITEM 1. We have told you in our advertisements and in our booklet that the cost of natural gas for the same use would be $24,400.00 less per year to the domestic customers than the present cost of manufactured gas. These statements are correct—the assertions of uninformed critics to the contrary notwithstanding. Actual experience shows that the volume of gas used by the consumer is decreased in direct proportion to the increase in heating value. This fact is also stated definitely in U. S. Bureau of Standards, Bulletin No. 290.

The manufactured gas now supplied to Iowa City contains 530 heat units (B. T. U.) per cubic foot. The natural gas proposed contains more than 1,000 heat units per cubic foot—almost twice as many. In use, it takes only 530 cubic feet of this natural gas to do the same work as 1,000 cubic feet of manufactured gas. This by comparison would be the same as selling manufactured gas at $1.32½. The present cost of $1.60 compared to the comparative cost of $1.32½ is a reduction of 20 per cent on the average consumer's gas bill. The proposed rate with its lower steps will permit even greater savings where more gas is used. The present minimum charge of 25c per month is not sufficient to cover the cost of reading meters, rendering bills and the fixed expenses. If gas service is used regularly by any family the bill is more than the proposed minimum charge. The additional revenue from the proposed minimum charges were included in the tabulation of savings to gas customers under the proposed rates.

The natural gas is piped from Texas, more than 800 miles away, and most of the cost is caused by the transmission and local distribution. The larger part of the cost of most commodities is in delivery from its origin to the final user; for example, fish in the ocean are free. The expense involved is for bringing them to your home or market ready for use.

ITEM 2. Gas and electric rates did not increase during and following the war, as did the costs for rent, food, clothing, taxes, wages and salaries. The cost of living, as a whole, increased more than 100 per cent over pre-war costs, but the average rate for electricity increased only five per cent and the average rate for gas was increased less than 50 per cent. However, substantial reductions in electric rates were made in May, 1923, in December, 1928, in January, 1931, and a further reduction is now proposed. The proposed gas rates will result in a reduced cost for gas to the residential customer of approximately 20 per cent and as the use of gas increases further reductions in rates will be made. We are sorry to say that our costs will not permit a reduction in gas rates unless natural gas is secured. In fact, gas rates must be increased if manufactured gas as at present is to be furnished in the future. The new franchises and natural gas will make for lower costs and it is for this reason that the rates will be reduced if the franchises are granted. It has always been and will continue to be the policy of the Iowa City Light and Power Company to make reductions in rates whenever costs will permit.

ITEM 3. The consumer is protected as to both price and service by the state laws of Iowa, which grant to the city council full authority to fix rates and determine service. No citizen with the interest of the people at heart would want these matters settled in advance of changing conditions.

ITEM 4. Natural gas is easily properly adjusted. It burns with a clean, blue hot flame. As it would be served in Iowa City it would be found to be actually cleaner, hotter and cheaper. Much has been learned since the appliances in the first few cities were adapted to use natural gas and much more is now known about this fuel.

The difficulties that have arisen are preventable, and should not be repeated here. Pressures will be maintained at any amount needed to give good service.

In referring to Chicago, it should be borne in mind that there they do not use natural gas, but mix it with manufactured gas and deliver this mixed gas. Here it is proposed to use the natural gas at it comes from the pipe line, right from the gas wells. This gas has practically no odor, in fact, a chemical is introduced here to give the gas a distinguishing odor before it is distributed.

ITEM 5. In the contract that will be made, if the franchises are granted, with the Natural Gas Pipe Line Company of America (which Company is not connected directly or indirectly with the Iowa City Light and Power Company or any affiliated Company), the pipe connecting Iowa City with the trunk line near Ainsworth will be paid for, owned and operated by the Iowa City Light and Power Company. Arrangements have been made to do as much of the construction work by hand as is feasible, and Iowa City labor and supplies will be given preference. No arrangements have been made to supply natural gas to Cedar Rapids, but if natural gas is supplied to Cedar Rapids a larger line between Ainsworth and Iowa City may be built than would otherwise be required, and the expense of the larger line would then be divided equitably between the Cedar Rapids and Iowa City Companies. This would reduce the cost to the Iowa City Company, which would be reflected in the rates. The Pipe Line Company sells the gas at the trunk line and the connecting lines are built by the distributing Companies. Iowa City will not be supplied with natural gas now or in the future without building or sharing in the cost of a line between Ainsworth and Iowa City. If the franchises are granted natural gas will be supplied Iowa City whether or not a line is built to Cedar Rapids.

The laying of mains inside the City Limits and the connections and changing of the equipment at the Gas plant is almost all hand labor. What natural gas is supplied the Gas plant will be maintained as a distribution center and for emergency service, which will require at all times a number of workmen. Regular work will be provided by this Company for the men now employed at the Gas plant who may not later be required there. If natural gas is used at the Power House the number of men will not be reduced.

ITEM 6. The charge that these franchises have been hurried in their presentation to the council and the people is unfair and untrue. They were drawn substantially in accord with the franchises now in force; carefully considered by the light and ordinance committee of the city council; submitted to the city attorney, Mr. W. J. Hayek, and amended to comply with his suggestions; and submitted also to Professor C. M. Updegraff, former city solicitor of Iowa City and an authority on Public Utilities before action by the City Council, where the approval was unanimous. After passage by the Council the Company, at its own expense, and in addition to the four weekly publications in the newspapers as provided by law, sent to every customer a printed copy of the ordinances. Readers of the paper do not need to be told of the efforts which have been made to bring to the attention of the voters of Iowa City every phase of the questions involved. What have you to say of the fairness of an attack which makes the unwarranted assertion that these franchises are sought by "high pressure" methods.

ITEM 7. The charge that these franchises grant a monopoly for twenty-five years is made either maliciously or through ignorance. They do not grant a monopoly at all. The law prohibits the granting of an exclusive franchise and the ratification of these franchises does not prevent the city from granting the privilege to others or from furnishing gas and electric service by the municipality itself if the people so desire.

A twenty-five year franchise is authorized by statutes and is more advantageous than one for a shorter period of time to both the people and the Company for with a considerable period of service assured interest rates are less and this saving is reflected in rates. Besides, extensions and betterments requiring large investments are justified only in case the company is to be permitted to utilize them over a series of years. The franchises of this company, which are about to terminate, were for twenty-five years, and because of that term the company has been able to make major improvements and extend the service at a saving to consumers.

ITEM 8. The assertion is made that whether these franchises are granted or not will make no difference in the service furnished and the suggestion is made that the company is attempting to "scare" the people of Iowa City. Nothing is farther from the truth. The facts are that if these franchises are defeated the pipe line will not be constructed and no extensions of service or additional improvements will be made for the reason that with such a definite denial of the right to continue the service to this community beyond the present term no funds can be secured for new improvements.

This means new customers can not be connected and expenditures can not be made to increase the capacity of our facilities to serve additional load and appliances. We appreciate this would be a serious state of affairs for all concerned and it is to avoid such a situation that we have taken the time and gone to the expense of telling you the facts and the truth. A certainty of good service and lower rates can only be had by voting Yes on both franchises today, October 11th, 1932.

ITEM 9. The assertion is made that no citizen was given a chance to criticize the proposed franchises. This is a misstatement. These franchises were fully discussed with many Iowa City citizens and particularly with the representatives of the people, the City Council. To speak of the granting of the franchises as a "bargain" between the people and the company shows a misconception of the relationships of a public utility with consumers. The public grants only a right to do business and its own representatives fix the service and rates. Whatever assists the company in saving is reflected in lower costs to the consumer.

ITEM 10. Complaint is made that this is not a proper time to hold an election. This criticism is without merit. The election at this time instead of in connection with the national election assures a decision on the question alone unaffected by politics. The registration is large, due in great measure to the continued suggestion of the company that everyone register for this election. With the granting of the franchises at this time, work on the natural gas pipe line can and will be commenced at once, an important consideration when employment is so much needed.

ITEM 11. The circular distributed as eleventh-hour propaganda proceeds in the erroneous assumption that this is a contest between the people and the Company. On the contrary this is a contest between the common interest of the people and the Company on one side and a limited number of malcontents on the other. A vote "Yes" for both the gas and electric franchises means progress—employment—better gas—lower bills. This is our pledge to the people of Iowa City.

Every statement we have made has borne the signature of this Company, and we stand squarely back of everything we have said. These statements are not theories, but facts based upon actual practice and experience. This company has owned and operated the gas and electric company in Iowa City for twenty years and believes that the past record merits your confidence and support.

Enrollment in Extra Classes Begins Oct. 14

Offer Large Variety of Subjects to Students

Registration for Saturday classes will begin Saturday at 8 a. m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union. Classes are open to any one who has completed a year of college work, or who is 21 years of age. The aim of the classes is to combine residence work with home study. Teachers and others are thus enabled to pursue their regular vocations while studying toward a degree or taking extra work.

Courses are offered both in the graduate and undergraduate schools. Studies to be offered are: economic history of the United States, philosophy of education, the small town and its school, improvement of the written examinations, testing and remedial techniques in elementary knowledge, children's literature.

Social Studies
Curriculum problems in the social studies, administration and supervision of commercial education, American literature, classical tragedy, lettering, decorative design, American biography, survey of nutrition principles, applied textile design, consumer problems, teaching of journalism in high school, voice, piano, special projects in music, individual lessons on stringed instruments.

Technic of orchestral and band instruments, high school program in physical education for women, principles of government, elementary psychology, advanced general psychology, religion—how to teach the Bible, introduction to sociology, the family, dramatic production in secondary schools, problems in speech training, experimental dramatic production, child welfare—problems in social attitudes, and child study.

Three Hours Credit
Three semester-hours credit will be given for the completion of each course. Not more than six semester hours shall count toward fulfillment of the minimal residence requirement for advanced degrees.

First class meetings will be held this Saturday from 8:10 to 9:50 a. m. from 10 to 11:40 a. m., and from 12:30 to 2:10 p. m.
A general meeting of all students will be held at 8 a. m. Saturday in the main lounge of Iowa Union. All students who plan to enroll must be present.

Dean Returns From Parley

Reports Action on Unification of State Laws

Dean Eugene A. Gilmore of the college of law returned to Iowa City late Sunday from Washington, D. C., where he attended the forty-second annual national conference of commissioners on uniform state laws during the last week.

The conference is being followed this week by the meeting of the American Bar association, also at Washington, which Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law is attending.

Professor Perkins is serving on committees giving reports on criminal law procedure.

According to Dean Gilmore, the national conference approved the reports of the committees on the uniform automobile liability act, the uniform narcotic drug act, the uniform machine gun act, and the uniform mechanics lien act. These will be submitted for the approval of the American Bar association at its meeting this week. If accepted, they will be recommended for general adoption throughout the United States.

The national conference also discussed reports of the committees on the uniform acknowledgment of instruments act, uniform trust administration act, uniform aeronautics act, and the uniform cooperative marketing act.

The two other representatives of Iowa present at the meetings were Judge Jesse A. Miller of Des Moines, and Hazen I. Sawyer of Keokuk.

Nystrom Placed
Clarence W. Nystrom, who received his doctor of philosophy degree last summer in speech, has been placed by the graduate college. He will be professor of speech in Taylor university at Taylor, Ind., for the coming year.

Wisconsin Drys Unite
MADISON, Wis.—In an attempt to discourage the use of liquor among University of Wisconsin students, Frank Davin, St. Mary's (Kentucky) graduate and all-southern end in 1925, arrived in Madison last week for the purpose of organizing a university chapter of the Saracens, national dry organization.
"While the Saracens do not attempt to coordinate activities of other dry organizations, we go at our purpose in a different way," Davin says. "We believe in holding an open forum, giving the drys and wets an opportunity to argue the question."
"People think today they cannot have a good time without liquor. With them liquor is a substitute for intelligence."
The Saracen movement, which is only one year old, was founded by Arthur M. Barnhart, Chicago millionaire, and is now serving under the presidency of Louis T. Laflin, Lake Forest, Ill. A. A. Stagg, Chicago football coach, is honorary president.
Davin promises an announcement soon regarding the first Saracen open forum in Madison.

New Government Planned
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Rising out of the ruins left by a series of ballot box riots and an acid throwing episode last spring, a new plan of student government was announced last week at the University of Minnesota replacing the outworn system in effect for nearly 20 years.
Containing scarcely any of the old provisions, the new constitution drawn up during the summer by student representatives and faculty members provides for an all-university council of 22 members, 13 more than the council dissolved in May by President Lotus D. Coffman. Besides regularly elected members from the various colleges, heads of the more important university organizations will sit on the new council.
Another primary change is the creation of a judicial body, composed principally of faculty members to decide questions of eligibility and appeals from decisions of the council.
Holders from the old system will be the board of publications and the board of governors for the Minnesota Unions. Ineligible for membership on the council are editors of the three major publications, all paid activity participants, captains and managers of major athletic teams, presidents of Y.W.C.A., Y.M.C.A., W.S.G.A., W.A.A. and other miscellaneous classifications.
An innovation will be the holding of open air forums before the opening elections Oct. 21.

SYNOPSIS

Life to lovely Patricia Braithwait was a series of parties, trips abroad and now—Palm Beach. Her castles crumble when her Aunt Pamela informs her that Mr. Braithwait's fortune is depleted and suggests that Pat marry the wealthy, middle-aged Harvey Blaine to insure her own and her father's future, warning her that love fades. Aunt Pamela is seriously considering Blaine to save the father she adores, when she meets a fascinating young camper, who only reveals his first name, Jack. Despite their instant attraction for one another, Pat discourages future meetings. That night, Pat cautions Blaine to be matter-of-fact and not sentimental in trying to win Pat, stressing the point that his one advantage is the fact that Pat is desperately hard up and worships her father, who lives for Pat alone. Pat decides to have a heart-to-heart talk with her father.

CHAPTER EIGHT

"Here's a nice place to sit." Heart pounding in hammer blows, Patricia made room for her father on a log washed up by the tide. "I want to have a serious confab with you about going home," she said gaily. "I'm fed up with Palm Beach."

Her face burned. For the first time in her life she was not dealing openly with him. "Oh, God, of all loveliness, don't let it be true!" she prayed.

The old man considered. Naturally he had no intention of taking her to her devastated home. It might be said he had no intention in any direction other than to keep heartbreak and ugliness from his child, waiting upon a more mature understanding to help her when the time came that she must know.

"Money, as money, had never figured largely in his consciousness. He had had very little in years—the largest sum at any one time being that received for the furniture. Substance had a larger importance in his mind than exchange. And substance had been his, always, in so far as he had need, however small the exchange in hand. And there had been enough of that when argently needed.

Even now, there were ways—his life insurance, paid up and never touched. This, however, was to be thought of only as a final and desperate resort, since it was Patricia's. But at least it could be thought of. For himself there would be enough of the land as long as he lived.

Pamela's conclusion that he had brought Patricia here with an idea of displaying her to a fashionable marriage market had never entered his head. He was merely giving her what he had always given her—the advantages of beauty.

Without thinking, of it, he had known she would marry a man of wealth. Not for his wealth but because she had had contacts with no others. When, he did not consider. In God's good time, not sooner. Not later.

Seeing her father's evident perturbation, Patricia's heart strained in her bosom. A terrible sickness swept her.

"I've been thinking for some time of talking to you about home," he said meditatively. "Things have arisen while you've been away that I didn't want to trouble you with."

"Have you been keeping secrets from me, Dadums?" she demanded with a brilliant smile. Inwardly she prayed: "Dear God, don't let it be true."

"No. Merely delaying confi-

"Well, that's a good alibi. Maybe I'll use it if ever one of my secrets should find me out."

"The fact is," he went on, "the house became unsafe, due to the caving, and I had to have it taken down."

Patricia busied herself over a sandspur caught on her skirt. "Oh, God, stand by." Aloud: "When did this happen?"

"About two years ago."

"But where did you live while I was in school?"

"I built a house farther back."

Her heart sang. Then it was not so bad as Aunt Pamela thought. "I might have known God couldn't be so cruel."

"The house, however, is rather small," Mr. Braithwait continued. "Hardly the place to take a young lady who must have space for house parties and the like."

"Oh God—Dear good God—stand by. Stand by!"

It was as if she had been lifted high in an elevator on rotten cables that had suddenly given way, and she was dashing down to death.

"So I thought we wouldn't return," her father was saying. "It would cost considerable to enlarge the house sufficiently. And a plantation is a dull place for a girl. We could take an apartment somewhere in the vicinity of New York for the coming summer. Next winter your cousin Pamela plans to bring you out and I shall return to the plantation to look after things. It is unlikely that you will care to return after a winter in New York, and it may be that I can arrange my affairs so we can go abroad. A year in Paris—"

"Economic!" thought Patricia miserably. "Or more likely a stall. He hasn't been square with me, My Dadums hasn't been square with me and he's covering now. But he did it to save me hurt. Always everything for my happiness."

"Paris is the usual thing," Mr. Braithwait was saying. "Unless, of course, some gay young dog steals you from me in the meantime," he finished with a smile.

Ah! He too expects that salvation. . . . Only he doesn't put it up to me as Aunt Pam did. . . . Well, that's that. . . . I had to be sure. . . . Oh, but I'm so beastly selfish!

"I want my own play. I want to drift by moonlight with strange young men, listening to the opera of the sea. . . ."

"How do those plans suit you?" her father asked anxiously.

"Capital." She sprang up. "Confab's over. And I promised to be back for the tea dance."

At a quarter after five she met Blaine on the veranda. They went for a sedate walk in the gardens. And though enraged by Pamela's picture of him, he nevertheless had wisdom enough to be circumspect. It tore his vanity to think of offering his money to a girl like Pat, keeping his person out of sight, so to speak; but her consent was the important thing. He never doubted that once she was his, he could win her award.

"I know you couldn't love a man of my age, Patricia," he said, pausing in the hope that she would refute him, "but if you would consent to be my wife I feel that my consideration might in time win your regard, if not your affection. It would be my privilege to make your father's remaining years easy, as well as to surround you with every luxury."

She kept her eyes resolutely away from his face. "You are generous and kind, Mr. Blaine, and perhaps in time I would get used to—" (she checked herself on the point of saying: "used to your face")—"to the idea of being married to an older man. I don't love you. But I'd try. Really try."

"I ask no more," he said, raging inwardly, but also, triumphant. "Will you shake hands on it?"

She gave him her limp hand, surprised and grateful that he asked no more. "I think we won't tell Father, though, for a few days, if you don't mind. I have reasons. And shall we go back to the hotel, please?"

"Your will is my law," he said fervently.

"Oh, why are old people so bromidic?" she thought. "How much nicer if he'd said, 'you're the cat's breeches, kid.' Then involuntarily she recollected that Jack had not used one word of slang and she had liked it."

Plan Honors for Engineers at Convention

University, Transit to Act as Hosts Oct. 27-29

The University of Iowa and Iowa Transit, monthly engineering publication, will be hosts to the twelfth annual convention of Engineering College Magazines, associated, Oct. 27, 28, and 29. Delegates will be present from 23 undergraduate engineering magazines.

Ted R. MacDougall, E4 of Conesville, general chairman, is being assisted by Eugene R. Clearman, E4 of Iowa City, and Edward J. Lynch, E4 of Clinton.

Business Sessions
Highlights of the convention will include business sessions all day Thursday and Friday, and Saturday morning, group luncheons Thursday and Friday, a banquet Thursday evening, and tours of the campus. Delegates will be guests of the Associated Students of Engineering at the Techni Ball Friday evening at Iowa Union.

Schools expected to send delegates are: Universities of Colorado, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Wisconsin, Purdue university, Ohio State university, Marquette university, Cornell university.

Schools Represented
Armour Institute of Technology, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Iowa State college, Kansas State college, Oregon State college, Pennsylvania State college, Rose Institute of Technology, Sibley School of Engineering, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Business Research Report Cites Gain in Farm Markets

The mid-summer tone improvement of national markets, especially in farm products, struck a responsive chord in Iowa's business conditions.

But continued gains in the state still are dependent upon conditions in the central markets, it is explained in the current report of the University of Iowa bureau of business research.

Farm Prices Aid
During July and August, prices of farm products rose about 20 per cent above the figure for the two preceding months, with the result an general business boosts.

Now basic production conditions within the state are favorable for continued improvement, if only the central markets hold up, according to this report compiled by Prof. George R. Davies of the college of commerce.

After the sunken levels of summer, the tendency toward improvement is a basis for hope that the depression's lowest point finally has been passed.

Other Lines Gain
Business building, railroad carloadings, and employment are other lines which have displayed some degree of definite improvement, Professor Davies' statistics showed.

Within the nation, the most encouraging sign is the rise of several per cent in the wholesale price level. Professor Davies labels this as the most significant rise recorded during the entire depression, since it means an increase in purchasing power in many quarters and also an alleviation of debts and taxes.

predicts even greater progress in the future. It cites the difficulty of solving practical problems in existing hydraulic laboratories.

In conclusion, the editorial says, "The growth of the Iowa institution is welcome not only because of what it means for that laboratory alone, but also because of the stimulus it will give to the development of hydraulic research plants at other centers of learning."

Shradel Appointed Head of Engineers' Homecoming Group

Arnold J. Shradel, E4 of Riverside, has been appointed by President Walter A. Jessup as chairman of the Homecoming committee for the electrical engineering department.

He will be assisted by Leonard J. Sabs, E4 of Salem, S. D., and Jack A. Sayre, E4 of St. Charles. Prof. R. R. Whipple is adviser.

In recent years the electrical engineers have furnished lighting effects for the corn monument and Homecoming arch. This year they will have an independent project, which will be selected at a meeting tomorrow.

Ralph Lewis Wins Proficiency Medal

A proficiency medal indicative of highest average in his unit in medical department instruction has been awarded to Ralph W. Lewis, M3 of Iowa City, by the war department. Lewis earned his award at the Ft. Snelling R.O.F.C. camp last summer.

In athletics Lewis also was proficient, winning first place in the 118 pound class wrestling tournament and playing on the University of Iowa baseball team, champions of the camp.

Fire Hazards Get Attention From C. of C.

Bywater Outlines Status of Fire Department at Meeting

Briefly outlining the principles of Fire Prevention week, and sketching the present status of Iowa City's fire fighting equipment, Dr. W. L. Bywater spoke before members of the Chamber of Commerce at its luncheon at the American Legion Community building yesterday.

"The importance of fire prevention cannot be too much stressed," Dr. Bywater said, "not only at present during Fire Prevention week, but for the whole year. Inspection for fire hazards starts this week. Every possible care will be taken in this inspection, but it is for the people of Iowa City to follow out the work begun."

Praises Amish

He praised the work of Fire Chief Herman J. Amish, who in the capacity of his office has made many previous inspections and saved the city from what might have later brought about serious fires. It was again brought to the attention of the chamber by Dr. Bywater that the fire department is still laboring under a shortage of man-power. He pointed out that there is supposed to be one fireman for every thousand persons in the city. At present Iowa City has, with an approximate population of 15,000, but eight hired fire fighters.

"Iowa City," he said, "from the standpoint of apparatus is amply protected. The fire department is now equipped with 247 feet of ladder and has two pumps. More men are now on 24 hour duty. But at least 12 men are needed to work the apparatus, and in that respect Iowa City is behind other cities in the state which have, in almost every case, within at least one of the number needed on the fire fighting force."

Amish Speaks

Following the talk by Dr. Bywater, Chief Amish was presented to the members and reiterated the speaker's emphasis on the importance of Fire Prevention week.

Carl S. Cone, manager of the local telephone company, extended an invitation to the members to visit the company's new building and to view the dial equipment recently put into operation.

But he was so informed by secret service men who found him hidden between two coaches. He was released after questioning, and kindly "gentlemen of the press" helped him on his way.

Four Members of Society to Attend Davenport Meeting

Several Iowa City members of the tri-city chapter of the American Society for Steel Treating will attend the October meeting at the Elmhawk hotel in Davenport this evening. G. C. Riegel of Peoria, Ill., will give the principal address. "Metallurgical selection and heat treatment in Caterpillar tractor plants."

Among those planning to make the trip are Louis J. Waldbauer of the chemistry department, Prof. John Fielding of the mechanical engineering department, E. A. Wagner, G. of Anita, and Leonard P. Meade, G. of Western Springs, Ill.

Funds used to purchase 21 furnaces for the mechanical engineering laboratory were donated by the American Society for Steel Treating.

Baker Points to Success of Market Plan

Claims Co-operative Marketing Raises Prices

FALLS CITY, Neb., Oct. 10 (AP)—Officials of southeastern Nebraska's apple marketing system already claim the month-old co-operative plan is successful.

Darle Baker of Shubert, secretary-treasurer of the board of managers, said formation of the co-operative and production of a smaller crop had increased prices 20 per cent.

Market Apples

"Our plan is to process, pack, and market all apples grown in Richardson and Nemaha counties and to control the truck movement of the fruit as well as have a centralized market for it. This eliminates unfair competition," Baker asserted.

"Thus we are able to maintain a standard pack and grade and are enabled to co-operate more closely with wholesalers and jobbers."

Sold in Pool

Ten firm have joined the co-operative. Each grower picks his own fruit and delivers it to the plant in Shubert. There the apples are put through the washer and grader and packed under the supervision of J. W. King, vice chairman of the directorate. When the fruit arrives at the plant, it is checked and the owner given credit for it. Finally the apples are sent out by truck and each grower receives his share according to grade, variety, and price of his products.

Baker estimated 70,000 bushels of apples would be packed and marketed at the Shubert plants this fall. The plant employs 40 men. The washing and grading machine has a daily capacity of 3,500 bushels, and is said to be the largest in the central west. Five cars can be loaded daily at the plant.

Plan Dad's Day Program

Plans for Dad's day were the topics of discussion as A.F.I., senior men's honorary society, met in regular session at noon yesterday, in Iowa Union. Capt. Thomas E. Martin was a guest at the meeting.

which also offers three scholarships a year for papers written by students.

Measuring Device Perfected by Iowa State College Man

AMES, Oct. 10 (AP)—An instrument which measures changes as small as .57 of one billionth of an inch in dimensions has been perfected by George A. Fink, graduate assistant in physics at Iowa State college.

So delicate is the device that six thicknesses of filters are used to absorb vibrations, yet train movements a quarter of a mile away can easily be detected.

It measures dimensional changes in objects placed in a strong electrical field. Measurements are read through a telescope and mirror arrangement, which is used to determine changes by means of light wave interference.

VOTE "NO"

Housewives and Husbands Attention, Please!

- The Gas and Electric Company has peppered you and your church societies with nice letters, pleasant telephone calls, and smooth out-of-town visitors.
- You have heard wonderful stories about the beauties of natural gas—how clean, blue, hot and cheap it is.
- The Company assures you that if you have no objection on election day (today) natural gas will be your Christmas present this year.
- And your husbands, who have paid high gas and electric bills for years, will be allowed by the Company to keep not less than $52,700 in their pockets next year. No matter how "hot" it is, natural gas for $2.50 as promised will be no relief — you now pay $1.60.
- The Company changed the rates for electricity in 1929 and 1930 and made you "New Years Gifts" of $36,000 and $30,000. Did your electric bills prove it or did the Company make annual reports to prove it?
- What will you and your husbands give the Company in return for all those fine promises? The Company is bold enough to suggest that you simply vote "yes" for two 25-year permits to use the streets and alleys of Iowa City. Beware of high-power salesmen whose chief aim it is to land franchises easily worth several millions of dollars.
- If you vote "no," will your kitchens go cold and your houses be dark? Have no fear; the Company has two franchises now with 15 months more to run; and even after January, 1934, the company can not cut you off.
- What to do? Vote "No" until YOU know and WE know who is lurking in the woodpile. "Better be safe than sorry" when such important things as gas and electricity for the next 25 years are the issues.
- The Power Company will not really volunteer to reduce its rates until YOU act. The Company is now making its first offer—not its last. The thousands of small users of gas and electricity will not benefit even though the Company does put through the promised "reduced" rates. Vote NO and find out what the Company really will do when it knows you mean business.

GO SLOW, IOWA CITY, GO SLOW

Natural Gas - A Smoke Screen

NATURAL GAS is the smoke-screen behind which the United Light and Power Company of Chicago (owner of the Iowa City Light and Power Company) is trying to put over a fast election on Iowa City today.

With employees of the Company acting as shock troops, storming every household; with every society and club asked to listen to experts; and with columns of high-priced publicity bombarding every eye, the Company today is confident that the people of Iowa City are going to march to the polls and hand over two choice and valuable franchises "just for the asking."

But if you will stop just a moment to consider, you will see that nothing is to be gained for Iowa City and much may be lost by hasty action.

WHY SUCH A RUSH?

Ill-advised and hasty action in 1923 granting a franchise to the local water company cost you some $13,000 this summer—without any appreciable results.

Giving away valuable rights without getting adequate protection in return has always been costly in the end.

There is no good reason why the city council should have been stampeded into giving two proposed franchises three rush readings in one night. Such matters should be fully discussed and carefully digested, not only by all the councilmen but also by interested citizens, before they are given to the voters to ratify.

The Company's existing franchises have 15 months more to run. Why all this haste now by the Light and Power Company?

LET US TAKE TIME

Voting "NO" today does not necessarily mean that we do not wish to give franchise contracts to any company for light, power and gas.

It merely means that before such rights are given away for any period (and 25 years is much too long), competent counsel for the city should make sure that we shall have full protection.

Six months between now and the city election next March is not a bit too long for us to be discussing all sides of this important gas and electricity question. Let candidates for mayor and the council discuss the issue.

The voters of Omaha have twice refused to allow natural gas to be forced upon them. Natural gas was rejected by them by a vote of 35,498 to 5,117. Why? Because artificial gas was cheaper!

Natural Gas and $52,700 Savings -- The Bait!

NATURAL GAS is the bait which we are asked to swallow.

What has natural gas—or any other kind of gas—got to do with giving a franchise for electricity?

Examine the proposed franchises and you will fail to find a single word which guarantees that natural gas will be brought to your home. What will the Company do? Will it mix natural gas with artificial, as in most places. Until that question is definitely answered in the franchise, vote NO.

DO YOU KNOW?

You know that a natural gas pipe line passes north of Ainsworth. But do you know that the Company owning the pipe line is partly owned by the Chicago company which also owns the Iowa City Light and Power Company?

And do you know that this same company owns the Cedar Rapids Gas Company?

And do you know that options on land have been taken west and north of Iowa City so that a pipe line can be run from Ainsworth to Cedar Rapids via Iowa City?

If the Chicago owners of the Iowa City Light and Power Company want to force natural gas into Iowa City to mix with their manufactured gas, or to sell it straight, they do not have to ask us for a franchise. They can do it any time—simply pipe it over from Coralville when the trunk line is in. That is the simple truth.

There is absolutely no relation between the use of natural gas in Iowa City and the granting of two new franchises at this time.

Natural gas has been touted as a great saver, although it is hard to see how raising the rate from $1.60 to $2.50 will be any saving. We can see no "progress" in such an offer. So the public utility powers figure us slow enough to hand them a franchise worth millions of dollars, just for the asking.

VOTE "NO" TODAY

Let us insist on a square deal for ourselves. Let us vote "NO" today—and keep on voting "NO" until there are submitted to us two franchises, properly drawn, which will give us protection, instead of uncertainty, at the hands of a public utility monopoly.

Consider this appeal on its merits! No matter what the weather, be there to vote. If you have any reasonable doubt at all, vote "NO."

Vote "NO" today.
