Garner Raps Financial Policies of Hoover

Claims True Money Status of U.S. Hidden

Says All Balancing of Budget to Do Again

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Replying to Republican attacks, Speaker John N. Garner tonight charged the Hoover administration with concealing the true financial condition of the country during the crisis and declared the greatest need of the United States is a "budget balanced by careful economy and scientific revenue."

The speaker said that during the recent budget balancing efforts, the record shows that the administration was either hopelessly at sea as to the actual treasury situation for two years or else deliberately concealed the true state of affairs.

Budget Not Balanced

"The budget is not balanced. The whole job must be done over."

The speaker's address was considered by Democratic leaders as his first major pronouncement of the campaign.

It was devoted almost entirely to the activities of this congress.

The speaker set out the congressional emergency program in three parts—the balancing of the budget; the "purely financial measures" to support credit; and the measures to relieve unemployment "and insure against human misery."

"The cold print of the record," Speaker Garner said, "shows that on the very heart of the whole program—the balanced budget—the Democratic congress did all that was possible to do and that the Republican administration frustrated their action by supplying misleading statements."

Gave No Aid

In the fight for the balanced budget, Garner added, "the Republican administration did not raise a finger to help."

The vice presidential nominee said the financial measures were "coalition enactments, passed through congress with perfect accord and practical unanimity. For these things neither the president nor congress is entitled to exclusive credit."

Debaters Meet in First Round of Arguments

The first round of the all-campus debate tournament was held at 7 o'clock last night when 52 debaters engaged in 13 debates on the question, "Resolved: That the American voters of 1932 should elect Hoover rather than Roosevelt as president."

No eliminations were made on the basis of the first round results. Each team will be given an opportunity to debate in the second round, and eliminations will be made on the basis of rankings in these two rounds.

All debaters who have not spoken in intercollegiate debates are being given an opportunity to engage in this tournament, which is under the direction of Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate. The teams which survive the elimination contests will engage in a final debate early in November. A prize of $20 is to be given to the winning team.

The second round will be held next Tuesday at 7 p.m. in liberal arts building. Varsity debaters are serving as judges in the preliminary rounds.

Prohibition Candidates to Speak Here Soon

John B. Hammond, nominee for governor on the Prohibition ticket, and R. G. Talmadge, nominee for secretary of state on the same ticket, will speak at 8 p.m., Oct. 19, in the council chamber at the city hall.

The Prohibition party is a national organization with candidates for state and national offices. William D. Upshaw, former U. S. congressman from Georgia, is the candidate for president.

Men Lead Women Attendance Figures in Last Five Years

How the number of men students in the University of Iowa has been increasing while the number of women remains practically constant is shown in a survey of the official enrollment figures for the last five years.

For the 12 months ending in June, 1928, there were 4,800 men and 4,403 women. Both sexes gained about the same number the following year so that there were 371 more men than women.

A large gain among men and a drop among women in 1929-30 placed the former in the majority by 723, and in 1931-32 the margin increased to 907, with 5,390 men and 4,483 women.

125 Journalists to End Annual Meeting Here

Round Tables, Talks Feature Two-Day Convention

TODAY'S PROGRAM
Morning
Iowa Union
9:30 to 10:30—Group meetings. News and editorial writing, private dining room.
Business management, sun porch. The annual, sun porch.
Supervisors' meeting, sun porch. Advertising, woman's lounge.
10:30—General meeting, woman's lounge.

Supervisors and students of high school journalism gathered yesterday at Iowa Union for the first part of a two-day session. More than 125 persons, representing 18 schools, were present.

Speeches, group meetings, and a dinner were the principal events on yesterday's program. The morning session was presided over by William Green of Washington senior high school, Cedar Rapids, and opened with an address of welcome by Prof. Frank L. Mott, head of the university school of journalism.

John A. Vieg of Burlington high school, in speaking on the business side of the high school periodicals, stressed the need for consistent cooperation in every branch of the paper or annual.

Contests in news writing, editorial writing, headline writing, advertising writing, and layout, and circulation were held in the school of journalism for students attending the convention.

Winners of the contests, who were also given an opportunity to work on today's edition of The Daily Iowan, were: LeRoy Austin, Roosevelt high school, Des Moines; Nadine Baker, Abraham Lincoln high school, Des Moines; Ruth Belsky, Dubuque; Norman Berg, Washington high school, Cedar Rapids; Lilly Christensen, Atlantic; Michael Costello, North high school, Des Moines; Ruth Gladfelter, Roosevelt high school, Des Moines; William Green, Washington high school, Cedar Rapids; Robert Griffith, Oelwein.

John Edward Jackson, Burlington; Helen Johnson, Ames; Miriam Johnson, Burlington; Donald Lobo, Boone; Kenneth McAlpine, Abraham Lincoln high school, Council Bluffs; Arthur Pickett, Ames; Lydia Rehsamen, Marshalltown; Bessie Spivak, North high school, Des Moines and Virginia Wallace, Oelwein.

Authorities to Return County Jail Breaker

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14 (AP)—Judge R. M. Gibson today signed an order for the removal of Andrew Gaze to the federal court at Davenport, Ia., to face a charge of transporting a stolen automobile from Iowa City, Ia., to La Salle, Ill. Gaze was arrested here 10 days ago and was identified by fingerprints sent to Iowa, police say, as the man who saved the bars of the county jail at Iowa City and escaped Sept. 15. He and a companion fled in a stolen auto, police say.

Math Tutors Hear Speech by Chicagoan

Speaker Raps Present Day Methods of Text Books

TODAY'S PROGRAM
Morning
North room, Old Capitol
9:30—Articulation of Junior and senior high school mathematics, E. R. Breslich, University of Chicago.

10—Showing John the logic of geometry, Mary A. Potter, supervisor of mathematics, Racine, Wis.

10:30—Geometry and the ordinary man, Jessie D. Brakensiek, Quincy, Ill., high school.

"The principles of logic used by Euclid 2,000 years ago, rather than the special requirements of present-day high school students, form the basis upon which text books are usually written, was the assertion made yesterday by Prof. E. R. Breslich of the University of Chicago before the university conference for mathematics teachers.

Convening in Old Capitol at 9:30 a.m., the conference attracted more than 100 teachers of Iowa and neighboring states for the first sessions of its two-day meeting here.

Pleading for the organization of teaching units on a fundamental basis, Professor Breslich declared that these units should follow a definite plan, and should be determined by tests given the pupils before the beginning of the particular unit.

General Preview Necessary

"Pupils should be given a general preview of the unit, as well as an outline of the work they are to accomplish," he believes. "Class progress should be tested by a series of examinations. Opportunity should be afforded for a recitation at the end of the work on the unit," he added, stressing the value of the plan in adapting to the needs of the particular class.

Showing, by means of charts, that promotion in computation is apparently based more on age than on actual skill, Mary A. Potter, supervisor of mathematics in Racine, Wis., urged that regular drills be employed to train pupils better.

In a test given to pupils in grades five to 12, she pointed out, the lowest record made in the twelfth grade was far below the highest grade in the fifth grade.

Suggests Remedy
"But a diagnosis without a remedy is useless," she continued. "And the remedy, I believe is daily drill. Drill is the father of skill."

Jessie D. Brakensiek of Quincy, Ill., high school, in an afternoon talk declared that reason, rather than rule of thumb, should be encouraged among children.

"The educated man," she said, "is one who can ask himself artful questions and then set about seriously in an attempt to discover the answers for himself."

Day's Speakers

Other speakers of the day included Harold Lundholm and Allen T. Craig, both of the university mathematics department. Mr. Lundholm discussed the value of academic credit in mathematics, many of which he has prepared himself. Complex numbers and geometry was the subject of Mr. Craig's talk.

State Files Petition Against Oil Company

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Oct. 14 (AP)—The state of Iowa in a petition on file in district court here has asked a writ of attachment against the Mona Motor Oil company for alleged failure to pay state gasoline taxes.

The petition was filed by J. J. Hess of Council Bluffs, special assistant, in behalf of the Iowa attorney general's office and State Treasurer Ray Johnson.

HAWKS AND HOOSIERS IN HOMECOMING CLASH SATURDAY AT BLOOMINGTON

After having served as a slumbering place for many traveling hoboes during the summer, the camp located along the Iowa river, north of the interurban bridge, was destroyed by police Friday.

Classes for Job Holders Start Today

Saturday Class Plan Offers Variety of Courses

The greatest number of courses ever offered under the university's Saturday class plan will get under way this morning as some 300 men and women from various parts of the state register and attend the first meetings of the classes.

Today's class meetings will be the first of a series held on 10 other Saturdays between now and spring, about three weeks apart. Fifteen departments are offering classes in 34 subjects to students who hold regular jobs and desire to work toward a university degree at the same time.

Have Varied Choices

In the present schedule of courses, registrants will have their choice of work in such varied subjects as economics, graphic and plastic arts, music, journalism, psychology, religion, history, and child welfare.

Beginning at 8 o'clock this morning, registration will take place at Iowa Union. Here will be located the assistant university examiner, who will issue admission cards to all those who successfully meet the entrance requirements.

Following the filling in of registration materials, students are to secure the signatures of various instructors who will be stationed around the lounge. Class cards are then to be filled in—one for each course entered.

Will Assist Registrants

Counselors will be stationed in the lobby to assist students in planning their courses. Upon completion of the preliminary work, students will proceed to university hall for the assessment and payment of fees. Checking of all materials, in university hall, completes registration.

With simplified registration procedure in effect, it is expected that all enrollments will be completed by 10:30 this morning, in time for first hour classes to begin at 10:50.

The first period will last until 11:25, with second periods starting at 11:30 and lasting until 12:05 this afternoon. This afternoon between 1 o'clock and 1:35, the third hour classes are scheduled to meet.

While registration and enrollment will disrupt today's schedule to some extent, all the problems of beginning students are expected to be straightened out and assignments made for the next meetings, which are scheduled for Nov. 19.

Police Burn Hobo Summer Resort

After having served as a slumbering place for many traveling hoboes during the summer, the camp located along the Iowa river, north of the interurban bridge, was destroyed by police Friday.

The camp was deserted when police arrived and set fire to the card board hut built in a clearing among the bushes.

Fighting to break the jinx that has been on them in Big Ten games for the last two seasons, the University of Iowa football team meets Indiana as the climax of the Hoosiers' Homecoming celebration at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

—That the Hawkeyes are rated as the underdogs in this game is no secret, but Coach Osgie Solem has an eleven with more power and more speed than displayed against Wisconsin a week ago, and is out to give Indiana the toughest of battles.

German Will Open Lecture Series Here

Biology Institute Head to Give Address Monday

Dr. Richard Goldschmidt, director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute of Biology at Berlin-Dahlem, will open the graduate college lecture series Monday at 8 p.m. in chemistry auditorium. His subject will be "A physiological theory of inheritance," in which he gives a physico-chemical interpretation to the symbolic formulas of the old geneticists.

Dr. Goldschmidt has carried on extensive studies on this subject for the last 20 years, and his study on the geographical variations of animals has taken him through many foreign countries. He will attend the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Chicago in June, 1933. He was the first German professor to lecture at the Paris Sorbonne after the World War.

As a professor in the Imperial university, Tokyo, he spent several years in Japan, and his book, "New Japan," is the result of this experience. He now holds a position of managing editor on a biological journal. He has written several books on heredity and on the biology of sex.

Dr. Goldschmidt's lecture is brought here under the auspices of the graduate college and the zoology department.

Dogs Fail to Locate Killer of Iowa Man

CASCADE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Bloodhounds were used in vain today in an effort to trace a man who Thursday evening shot and killed Charles Pierce, 66, at his farm home six miles from here.

Authorities were at a loss to find a motive for the slaying and for the severe injuries inflicted upon Mrs. Pierce, who was returning from a shopping trip with her husband and son, Charles Jr.

Officers said, however, that they thought it was the work of a maniac, who had lived in the Pierce home several days. The assailant, described as being about 35 years old, heavily bearded, and wearing overalls, took no money or valuables.

West Branch Woman Dies After Illness

Clara Hemingway, 65, of West Branch, died in University hospital at 10:35 p.m. Thursday after an extended illness.

She is survived by a sister, Ann Hemingway of West Branch, a brother, Elmer Hemingway of North Judson, Ind., two nieces, Mary Huff, 621 Summit street, Iowa City, and Ella Huff of West Branch, and a nephew, Elmer Hemingway, Jr., of Chicago, Ill.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Hold Rites for J. E. Haycraft

Funeral service for James E. Haycraft, 40, who was instantly killed at 7 a.m. yesterday when he was crushed beneath a pile of iron fence posts, will be held at the Methodist church at West Liberty at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Haycraft, employe of the state highway commission, was killed when a pile of posts which he and three others were loading into a truck fell and pinned him against the truck's body. They were working near the highway commission yards southwest of Iowa City on U. S. highway 1.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Haycraft is survived by two sons, Arthur, 10, and Russell, 8; his mother, Mrs. U. S. Rhodes of Plainview, Ill., and four sisters, Mrs. L. A. Nelson of Catasauqua, Tex., Mrs. Gilbert Bates of Springfield, Ill., and Mrs. Roy Woods and Mrs. Ralph Wheeler of Plainview, Ill.

The body will be at the Oathout funeral home until noon tomorrow.

Police Will Release Woman Detained for Disappearance of Two

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 14 (AP)—Detective Capt. William J. Armstrong said today he planned to release Mrs. Stella Ross, who has been held in jail here after her return from Caldwell, Idaho, in connection with the disappearance of her husband, Harry Ross, and Edwin C. Thompson of Grand Junction, Ia.

Mrs. Ross was arrested recently in Caldwell while driving Thompson's automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross and Thompson lived together in a house in south Denver this summer. After Mrs. Ross was arrested in Caldwell an investigation was started to determine the whereabouts of her husband and Thompson.

The investigation was at a standstill, Armstrong said today.

City Council to Meet

A special meeting of the city council was called yesterday for Monday at 9:30 a.m. at which time a representative of Burns and McDonnell of Kansas City, Mo., the firm which made the appraisal of the Iowa City waterworks for the city about a month ago, will report on a schedule for water rates here.

Former Grinnell Professor's Son Killed in Accident

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Eldridge Rand Herron, American mountain climber who was killed when he slipped while attempting to scale the Great pyramid in Egypt yesterday, was the son of George Davis Herron, former professor of applied Christianity at Grinnell college, Iowa.

Officials of the Rand school here, which was founded in 1906 with a fund established by Prof. Herron and his wife, whose maiden name was Rand, confirmed the relationship today. Herron died in 1930 and his wife died several years before. She also was at one time connected with Grinnell college.

School officials said Herron, who was a member of the German-American Himalayan expedition, spent most of his life abroad. He lived here for about two years recently, the officials recalled, and had particular interest in mountain climbing and aviation.

The Iowan's Daily Pattern

Attractive Home Frock

By ANNE ADAMS
The attractiveness of one apron frock can easily outdo another but this one certainly exceeds them all. The youthful collar treatment is unusual and most charming, while the sleeves and pockets create excitement in their respective places. Binding and buttons take the lead for trimmings. Printed cottons, of course, are just the things to use.

Pattern 2449 may be ordered only in sizes 34 to 46. Size 34 requires 3 1/4 yards 36 inch fabric and 4 yards contrasting binding. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send fifteen cents (5c) in coins or stamps (edits preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure the fall and winter edition of the Anne Adams pattern catalog is ready! Charming, flattering models—32 pages of the newest and best house, street and formal frocks—cleverly designed styles for large figures—and beautiful, practical models for juniors and kiddies. Lovely lingerie patterns, and suggestions for gifts that can be easily and inexpensively made, are also included. Send for the new catalog. Price of catalog, fifteen cents. Catalog and pattern together, twenty-five cents. Address all mail orders to The Daily Iowan Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th street, New York city.

Germans Rap New Plan for Arms Parley

France, Britain Would Hold Four-Power Conference

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Two days of negotiations between Premier Edouard Herriot and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald resulted today in a Franco-British agreement to hold a four-power emergency disarmament conference at Geneva to deal with Germany's demand for arms equality.

But the Germans balked at this arrangement, and tonight the crisis over world disarmament centered again in Berlin. From persons in touch with the negotiations here, it was learned that American influence probably would be needed to smooth out this latest difficulty.

Italy Approves

Italy immediately expressed her approval of the four-power parley plan. Germany, which previously had agreed to such a conference in London with certain reservations, objected to a change of venue from the British capital to Geneva on the ground that her statesmen would be reentering an arms parley under league auspices without having been granted their claim to equality in armaments.

It was this question of equality that caused Germany recently to withdraw from the world disarmament conference at Geneva.

Hope for Agreement

The British view tonight was that the German refusal was of temporary character. The British based their hope of a change in heart on the part of the Germans on the "unofficial and preliminary" character of the negotiations scheduled for Geneva.

Premier Herriot left London this afternoon in gay spirits. Mr. MacDonald motored to Chequers, his country place, for a week end of rest before the reconvening of parliament Tuesday.

Faculty Plays Students for Tennis Honor

Students and faculty members will vie today for supremacy in tennis at a tennis match and tea arranged by W.A.A. and Y.M.C.A. Matches will be played on the west side courts, south of the field house, until 4 o'clock this afternoon, after which tea will be served on the sun porch of Iowa Union.

The preliminary pairings are:

Morton Adler vs. Mrs. William Malanud; Dorothy Byers and Walter Metzger vs. Prof. Richard Whipple and Frances Keefe; Gwen Baker and John Fletcher vs. Loren D. Reid and Esther Griffith; Kenneth Hazlet and Katherine Spain vs. Prof. Joseph Howe and Margaret Crooks. Tom Miller and Hildebrand Fresse vs. Ethel Allen and Flora Diaz; Frank Wols and Margaret Parrish vs. W. F. Crowder and Prof. Elizabeth Halsey; Nancy Emerick and H. Osek vs. Esther Bulse and J. E. Perpinah; Thelma Kenefick and Bob Moody vs. Mrs. Joseph Howe and Roland White; Edith Musgrove and Bertha Anstey vs. Mrs. Richard Whipple and Marjorie Shane.

Rare Birds of India Come to Museum From Dr. W. Koelz

A rare collection of bird specimens from India has been presented to Homer R. Dill, director of the university museum, by Dr. Walter Koelz of the University of Michigan. The shipment was received Thursday, and will be placed on exhibition in the museum in the near future.

Among the collection are included a male impian pheasant, a rock eagle owl, an oriental fish owl, and a tree partridge. The owl specimens are particularly acceptable at this time, Director Dill said, because they will form a valuable addition to the present museum exhibit of owls from various parts of the world.

The shipment of Dr. Koelz also included a group of domestic birds. Among these were a pair of black-backed gulls and a pair of American elder ducks.

R. Mooney Recovers After Kidnap Attempt

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 14 (AP)—Physicians today reported that Ralph Mooney, Ft. Dodge, Ia., cattle showman who declared he was kidnaped Monday night, is improving from head injuries assertedly received at the hands of his abductors.

Mooney was advised, however, to remain quiet for about two weeks. H. W. Mooney, a brother, and A. R. Teller, a friend, arrived here and today conferred with police about the case. Ralph Mooney reported to police headquarters yesterday in a dazed condition.

State Urges Death Penalty in Trial of Prison Guards

Charge Pair Killed Convict in Camp "Sweat Box"

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 14 (AP)—Samuel B. Wilson, assistant state's attorney, told a jury today its duty is to find for George Courson and Solomon Higginbotham the same death penalty the former prison guards inflicted by torture on Young Arthur Mallefert.

Defense counsel argued the men's only offenses were minor infractions of prison rules.

The death verdict, said Wilson, would be just judgment, not only on the death of the prisoner strangled in a sweat box at Sunbeam prison camp, but on the "hellish convict system of Florida as well."

Recommends No Mercy

He demanded a verdict of guilty without the mercy recommendation that would allow for a life sentence, asserting the defense contention that the Westfield, N. J., youth deliberately hanged himself was disposed of by physicians' testimony describing self strangulation as impossible for a man who has use of his hands.

C. A. Avriett, counsel for Courson, contended his client's only misdeed was a violation of the prison regulations in using stocks, chain, and a barrel which was placed over Mallefert's body. He said there was no law in this state prohibiting the use of the instruments and told the jury: "The point had been reached where punishment as prescribed by the regulations proved inadequate and other measures had to be employed to subdue that recalcitrant boy."

Wilson, dangling the chain on which Mallefert was found hanging, called the death "Florida's infamous chain gang hanging."

"Gentlemen," he said, "you hear that this samaritan, Courson, shed tears while he was talking to Mallefert. You could as easily squeeze tears out of the molten eyes of the devil in hell as you could squeeze tears out of the eyes of a man who could invent such torture implements as these," referring to the stocks, chain and barrel.

Mallefert, serving nine years for a filling station robbery at Daytona Beach, was found dead in the little punishment cell last June 3, hanging on a chain locked around his neck tied to a rafter. His feet were bound in stocks.

Gives Short Outline

Warren limited himself to a short outline of his contention that no evidence presented by the state was of a nature that would convict Higginbotham of any degree of homicide.

Earlier in the day a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal for Higginbotham on the same ground had been denied. Counsel for Courson did not present such a motion.

Highway Commission Calls for Road Bids

AMES, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Iowa highway commission today asked for bids on 11 minor road improvement projects. These will be considered Oct. 25.

Most of the work will be graveling in Madison, Adams, Cass, Muscatine, Louisa and Dickinson counties and a single large project in Hancock, Humboldt, Kossuth and Wright counties.

One grading job is in Woodbury county and bridges will be built in Page, Poweshieck, Palo Alto counties.

Teachers Association Makes Protest Against Educational Standards

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Oct. 14 (AP)—Resolutions deploring a lowering of educational standards toward which it was held the reduction of public expenditures is leading were adopted today by the Southwestern Iowa Teachers association.

Another resolution adopted urged the legislature to enact more equitable forms of taxation. The association also went on record as endorsing a bill to raise the required standards for teachers and urging that compensation be sufficient to attract capable and well qualified teachers.

Roy M. Henderson, superintendent of schools in Glenwood, was elected president of the association which closed its two day session today with a series of forum meetings. He succeeds Miss Fern Williams of Tabor.

Rise in Stock Prices Boosts Wheat Market

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP)—Catching buoyancy from the action of the New York stock market, wheat jumped about 2 cents a bushel today.

Wheat offerings were scarce on the way up, and much talk was heard that the price was very low, and that a natural recovery from recent protracted declines appeared overdue. Buying of wheat was largely credited to eastern and foreign accounts, with some notice taken of drought complaints from western Kansas and the Pacific northwest.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1-1/2 above yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to 1/2 higher, oats 1-4 to 1/2 up and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to an equal advance.

An outstanding development was evidence of large sized purchasing of wheat here against simultaneous equal selling at Winnipeg. Indications of powerful support given the Winnipeg market was emphasized by Chicago wheat bulls, who had reports indicating a considerable falling off in first hand deliveries of Canadian wheat, and suggesting that the peak of the Canadian crop movement had been passed.

Late profit-taking on the part of the early buyers caused wheat to react somewhat from the day's top prices. A reason specified was that southern hemisphere crop news appeared more favorable.

Corn and oats borrowed strength from wheat. A moderate amount of corn was taken by exporters and at St. Louis.

Provisions ruled irregular, with lard demand good but meats trade slack.

Closing indemnities: wheat—Dec. 48 3/4, 49 1/4; May 48 3/4, 51 1/4. Corn—Dec. 26 1/2, 26 3/4; May 31, 31 1/2.

Baptists Hold Convention

SIoux CITY, Oct. 14 (AP)—The 1932 convention of the Iowa Baptist organization will be in Waterloo, with the Rev. O. G. Codd of Davenport delivering the annual sermon. A deficit of $7,222 was shown in the conference budget last year.

Seed Loan Extension Given to Farmers

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 14 (AP)—An order from Washington today extended to 1933 about $4,000,000 of the seed loans made to farmers in 1930 and 1931, which were to have been met by returns from this year's crops.

L. J. Paulson, northwest federal seed loan agency manager, said this is in addition to the $17,455,600 in 1932 seed loans extended to next year a few weeks ago. This latter amount represents 75 per cent of the 1932 loans made to 113,047 farmers in eight states, including Iowa.

Hoover Ready for New Trip Into Midwest

Will Deliver Address in Cleveland Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Continuing work on tomorrow's Cleveland address, despite a bandaged hand, President Hoover prepared himself today for a start shortly after daybreak upon his second campaign trip into the midwest.

Between dawn and dusk tomorrow, President Hoover plans to make 10 rear platform appearances in swift succession while travelling across four states. He is expected to arrive in Cleveland only a few minutes before time for his speech at 7:30 p.m. (CST) and intends to start on his return trip almost immediately after concluding.

Subjects Not Disclosed
White House aides told newspapermen they were not at liberty to disclose the subjects upon which the chief executive will speak.

They said he was deep in work upon it, and probably would not complete the address until after he boards his special train tomorrow.

Postmaster General Brown, who helped arrange for the president's appearance in Ohio, said several days ago Mr. Hoover probably would talk about unemployment and farm prices among other things. Senator Reed (R. Pa.) after a conference at the White House at which he said the speech was discussed, described it as "a humdinger." But he too declined to discuss it further.

Twice during the day, the chief executive had his injured hand treated by Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician.

It was bruised and cut last night during a White House reception at which he shook hands with more than 3,000 people. More than 1,000 additional guests waited to be greeted when finally he asked to be excused and retired.

Works on Address
Before coming to his office and again after luncheon, the president retired to the Lincoln study on the second floor of the White House in order that he might be able to work without interruption on his Cleveland address. He cancelled his semi-weekly press conference.

The first scheduled stop on the presidential itinerary tomorrow is Martinsburg, W. Va., followed by stops at Cumberland, Md., Meyersdale, Conneville, McKeesport, Braddock, Zellenople, and New Castle, all in Pennsylvania, and Youngstown and Akron, Ohio. Also the train is to slow down in passing through Ravenna and Kent, Ohio.

Mrs. Hoover will accompany the president and so will Postmaster General Brown, Michael Gallagher, Cleveland coal operator; Dr. Boone and two of the president's secretaries.

Chicago Loses

THE GRAND OLD MAN of the Midway has become too old.

No more, after this fall, will sports pages carry that half-serious, half-humorous line which blazoned first back in the limbo of the past—"Stagg Fears Purdue." And no more, after this fall, will the University of Chicago's athletes compete under the guidance of Amos Alonzo Stagg.

The age of 65 means automatic retirement from the faculty of the University of Chicago with the proviso that reappointments of a faculty member can be made yearly until he reaches the age of 70. Stagg was not too old for football; he was too old for regulations. A divinity student who was too much of an athlete to remain headed toward the ministry; born Aug. 15, 1862, when the late Knute Rockne was not yet born; that was Stagg. He studied his theology at Yale, but he is remembered as the Yale pitcher who set Princeton down with 20 strikeouts, and during the same season was selected as all-American end.

He came to Chicago when the then baby institution was first beginning to take shape; he grew up with it, and with the Western conference. Rockne was then a boy, 3 years old, in Norway; Zuppke, at Illinois, was getting started in grammar school; Kizer at Purdue, and Kipke at Michigan were not yet born.

From the days of the flying wedge to the open style of play, with line and backfield shifts and the forward pass, Stagg was a developer, a strategist.

Too much of this sort of recital of history, makes one feel as though he were reviewing facts for an obituary. There won't be any for Stagg, for years to come. He will probably find some happiness in his connections with the University of Chicago assigned to special duty.

But after 40 years on the gridiron, it's going to be hard for the Grand Old Man to take a "swivel chair" job.

Less Moral

IN A MERE talking picture, designed presumably for entertainment, is one of the finest bits of philosophy now at large in the country—and good philosophy at large in the country is a wee bit scarce in spite of enlightened political campaign contributions by such splendid, impartial, unbiased men as ex-Senator James A. Reed and ex-President Calvin Coolidge.

Or take Senator Smith W. Brookhart, who seems to feel that everybody on Wall Street is all bad, that "the financial crowd that run the government" has completely vile intentions. Take, for contrast, the unsympathetic scorn of Senator Brookhart himself by the "respectable" element.

Contrast both of those one-sided views with this report on a phase of "Cabin in the Cotton," a current First National picture, from News magazine Time:

"The philosophy of the picture is that the rich are bad and the poor are bad, but the rich are bad because nobody has told them how to be good and the poor are bad because they have to be."

But many voters will continue to believe that Herbert Hoover cannot possibly be an American because he did not vote in this country until he was 45 years old, or that Roosevelt cannot genuinely sympathize with the poor man because the governor himself is rich.

For Higher Standards

THERE HAVE previously been many editorials written on the University of Iowa's and Iowa City's playing host to secondary school students, secondary school and college instructors, and other classifications of persons who have come here from time to time to discuss certain topics of interest to them, or to vie for honors in the expression of their various personal abilities.

Again two such groups have come as visitors to the campus during the present week end. A group of students, not yet of college age, who are interested in journalism, and a group of teachers who are concerned with explaining the workings of mathematics to just such a class of students. For the group of high school journalists who are in attendance of the campus there is provided an outlet for competition in the field in which they are interested. The competition is calculated to be a real test of ability, as much so as the final contests in music, or the athletic events which are held at the university.

The standard of competition is kept high. That means that the standard of preparation for such competition must be kept to an equal or greater height. A large purpose of education in the higher degrees is to fit men and women for the teaching of a high-standard education.

Educational methods and bases change as do styles. How many schools at present teach writing by the copybook or spelling by the alphabet and syllable? Probably none. There, then, is where the gathering of secondary school teachers has provision.

The "new wrinkles" can be brought to light, explained thoroughly, submitted to constructive criticism of men and women who know whereof they speak—and then, "back home" they can be applied to the advantage of both teacher and student. And thus comes the new, higher standard.

One of Those Things

ONE MORE of the old argument about the admissibility of evidence gained by wire tapping makes the front page in the prosecution of a liquor case.

This time it is an Omaha political leader who is on the carpet charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition amendment. The principal evidence used by the prosecution is that obtained through the activities of a certain David Bezell, wire tapping expert in the employ of the government.

As in all controversies, arguments can be found on both sides. Ordinarily, one would suppose that he had every right to insist that his telephone conversations (especially if he has gone to the expense of getting a one party line) should enjoy the same measure of freedom from eavesdroppers as a conversation in his library or his bedroom.

On the other hand, the fact that evidence of one's guilt was obtained by an eavesdropper can not be expected to stand in a court of law as proof of one's innocence. One would still be guilty if he had conspired to violate the law whether his guilt has been discovered in one way or in another.

All of which makes little difference to most persons. The important matter is the fact that the case of Bezell and the political boss further demonstrates the impossibility of enforcing the eighteenth amendment.

Whether wire tapping is ethical or not, it is still a rather laborious procedure, even though the testimony of the tapper could always be taken at face value. In the end it is merely an admission on the part of the law enforcement agencies that prohibition is just one of those things.

But really, Fire Chief Amish, was it necessary to have fire prevention week drills to teach sorority girls where their fire escapes are?

Before Politics

(From the New York Herald Tribune)

We wish to interrupt the political debate to speak a word for a cause that belongs of right before any political issue. It should be uppermost in every one's mind this year. Yet it is all too likely to be lost sight of as the oratorical floods rise. We mean the prosaic but primary duty of every one with a job or an income to make his yearly contributions to the permanent charities which he has been accustomed to support in calmer years.

Perspective is a hard thing to keep at any time. It is particularly hard in a year of great suffering, when special drives for unemployment funds are necessary. The temptation is to feel that by making a gift to such emergency aid one has done one's bit. Nothing could be farther from the truth, as a moment's reflection will demonstrate.

The hospitals, the orphanages, the old people's homes, all the many institutions which make modern society a thing to be proud of and life worth living for countless thousands of men, women and children, are carrying a heavier, not a lighter, burden as a result of the depression. Ask at any hospital, for example. The free cases—free because the patients are unable to pay—have more than doubled. As family incomes have dropped, one human burden after another has been shifted to an institution. It obviously could not be otherwise.

There is not a charity which does not face this problem of an increasing burden and a decreasing income. Budgets are being pared to the bone. Every possible economy is being practiced. A certain percentage of contributors is inevitably being lost because of lost jobs and stopped incomes. Thus, reliance upon those who can with an effort keep their subscriptions going becomes a matter of life and death.

The welkin is ringing with political pleas. But there would be no politics if warm hearts and generous hands had not created and kept alive the noble charities which hold our society together. We believe in the importance of government and do our best to impress that importance upon our readers. Yet, as America is organized, with government held to relatively narrow limits, the individual's responsibility is very great. Here is, indeed, the heart of the American system. The gifts we are speaking of are the very life blood of the country.

Such is the true perspective that we would urge upon our readers. The need of the emergency funds will be great. Every one must take that need into account in planning his budget for the winter. But before everything should come the regular gifts to the charities that must carry on, good times or bad, and with heavier responsibilities in bad times than good. We ask that no sensational appeal and no excitement over political issues blind any one's eyes to this first, simple duty, as old as kindness and as young as hope.

Book Bits

(From Adam Bede, by George Elliot)

The pretty creature arched her bay neck in the sunshine, and pawed the gravel, and trembled with pleasure when her master stroked her nose, and patted her, and talked to her even in a more caressing manner than usual. He loved her the better because she knew nothing of his secrets. But Meg was quite as well acquainted with her master's mental state as many others of her sex with the mental condition of the nice young gentleman toward whom their hearts are in a state of fluttering expectation.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD -

By HARRISON CARROLL. STUDIO GOSSIP. SCREEN COMMENT. FILM SCANDAL. HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Undismayed by the lethargy of the drama, Carl Laemmle, Jr., plans to invade Broadway this year as a producer of legitimate plays. For this purpose, he has purchased the stage and screen rights to "A Kiss Before the Mirror," a comedy by Stanislaus Fodor, which is said to have been very well received in Europe. As in other Hollywood projects on Broadway, the young Universal mentor looks toward the ultimate screening of his property. The stage venture—his first—will be in the nature of a tryout. If the play is a hit, it also will save expensive competitive bidding. The idea, of course, is not a new one. Both Warners and Paramount have been sporadic producers on Broadway. A confirmed slot-machine addict, Andy Devine, stood the other day cynically feeding dollars into one of these pesky contraptions. On his last coin, there was a clink and a sudden flow of money. Scooping up his winnings, Andy noticed a worn dollar bearing the date 1863. He grinned and snapped: "Can you imagine it? All that time since this machine gave anything up." Roosevelt to Talk on Bonus During Tour

Nominee Rests at Home Before Continuing Campaign

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt turned north toward his Hyde park home for a quiet week end before setting forth on his sally into the middle western, border and southern states that may bring a declaration of his views on the bonus before he returns.

Thus far, the Democratic presidential candidate has not touched upon the bonus in any of his campaign speeches and has declined to discuss it in his press conferences, but friends of the governor believe he had made up his mind to speak on it before the campaign is over.

Will Speak Soon
A letter to Thomas B. Delker, the editor of a Hammond, N. J., paper, from the governor, made public today, said he would announce his attitude in the near future.

The governor had as luncheon guests today Senator Connally and Representative Jones of Texas. Both are to campaign for him in middle western farming regions.

Johnson to Aid
The two expressed to Mr. Roosevelt the belief that he will be elected. During the luncheon, word came to them of the statement by Senator Johnson, California's independent Republican, that he would not support President Hoover in the campaign.

The Democratic nominee paid high praise to Johnson when he visited the California's native city of Sacramento on his western trip. Governor Roosevelt expected to spend a quiet week end with his visitors. Among them will be Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the senate Democratic leader, who was the running mate in 1928 of Alfred E. Smith.

Denies Charge
Word came to Albany during the day of the statement by James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, that Mr. Roosevelt had never seen a letter about a 20 per cent ad valorem duty on sugar to which Senator Smoot of Utah had referred in a speech last night.

The statement by Farley said the letter which Smoot mentioned had been written and sent by a national committee employe, Smoot had said he was informed that Governor Roosevelt had assumed a stand for a 20 per cent duty on sugar.

University Leaders to Hold Convention Here Nov. 10, 11, 12

The Association of American Universities, composed of the presidents and deans of the 30 leading universities in the country will meet here on November 10, 11, and 12. A number of distinguished speakers have been invited to participate in the three-day program which is to be announced soon.

All of the meetings during the convention will be open to members of the university faculty, but not to the general public. The representative of Princeton university will preside at the conference.

"You Can't Get Away With It!" Even If You're Bullet-Proof

Frank McErlane, Chicago's Toughest Gangster, Dodged Machine Guns and Kindred Weapons for Ten Years Only to Be Put on the Spot by a Pneumonia Germ.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—In these days of Tommy guns and pineapples it is news when a gangster dies a natural death, in bed with his boots off, particularly when that gangster bore the reputation of being one of the "toughest guys in the underworld."

Yet the death of Frank McErlane, credited with being the inventor of the "one-way" ride whereby the business men of the underworld eliminate their rivals, can hardly be called natural in the true sense of the word. He did not pass peacefully to the beyond with a calm smile upon his face, the name of a wife or sweetheart upon his lips. He died as violently as he had lived, raving in delirium, struggling to escape the ghosts of victims he had sent on the last journey and the phantom shapes of those who would avenge them. It was necessary for four internes at the Schmidt hospital in Beardtown, Ill., to hold the dying gangster in his bed for his last few moments of life so savagely did he battle with the imaginary enemies of his fevered brain.

McErlane had fattened on crime. He had climbed to riches and power via the prohibition ladder as have so many of his ilk. Alias Charlie Ryan, he posed as a wealthy Chicago sportsman, cutting a glamorous figure as he idled on the Mississippi and Illinois rivers in his four-cabin yacht.

Since starting his climb to power in the underworld, McErlane was "credited" by police with no less than five murders. The most gruesome of these was about a year ago when Marlon Miller, McErlane's common law wife was found shot to death in a sedan on Chicago's south side. With her in the car were her two pet dogs which had also been shot to death. It was believed

Johnson Will Give Support to Democrats

Says Hoover Places Politics Above Welfare

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14 (AP)—A statement saying "I cannot and I will not support Mr. Hoover" was issued here today by Senator Hiram W. Johnson, California progressive Republican, in reply to representatives of 70 southern California newspapers who had asked him for a public declaration in favor of the national and state Republican tickets.

Too Conservative
Johnson, whose criticism of the administration recently brought words of praise from Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, asserted the president had "justly earned the title of ultra-conservative" while he (Johnson) was a progressive Republican "elected by men and women of all shades of political opinion."

The California senator asserted the difference between the two political philosophies "could be particularized in a hundred acts of the existing national administration." He described the progressivism as believing the government belongs to all the people, "not to a favored or privileged few."

Hoover
"I would not taint my record nor justify myself now by abandoning the principles for which I have battled unceasingly during my career. The Republican party is not at stake in this campaign. It is only the ambition of one man who but a little more than a decade ago did not know which was his party, and who before that had no American party at all."

WSUI PROGRAM
For Today
9 a.m.—News, markets, weather, music and daily smile.
6 p.m.—Dinner hour program.
7 p.m.—Late news flashes, The Daily Iowan.

They found McErlane in the middle of the street, a saved-off shotgun under each arm and his pockets full of pistols, hurling defiance at his enemies, none of whom were in sight. He told police on that occasion that he was out to "get the guys that are trying to bump me off."

But it remained for an infinitesimal germ, billions of which would fit on the head of a pistol bullet, to finally put Frank "Tough Guy" McErlane on the spot. The official verdict is that he died of pneumonia. But who is to say that the little germ was not merely the instrument of that immutable law that has so often proved "you can't get away with it?"

visors' meeting, declared the outlook for journalism in high schools was optimistic; that despite depression, high schools which had been teaching journalism had not dropped the courses, Miss Stoloben, in discussing the trend of high school papers, said that too many teachers were growing complacent about their successes and letting themselves sink into a rut, instead of seeking constantly for means of improving their papers.

Advocating supplements in lieu of annuals for high schools having mid-year graduating classes, and where there was too much strain upon local merchants for them to lend financial aid, Blanche Calvert of North high school, Des Moines, cited the example of her own school, which has given supplements with the regular publication.

Esther Mary Brannen of Abraham Lincoln high school, speaking on text books in the field of high school journalism explained the system of grading text books according to content, merit, suitability for the particular course, and other factors.

Sister Mary Sixtus, St. Mary's Waterloo, spoke on the mimeographed high school paper, discussing technical phases of the problem.

The problem of the school which must print its news in the local papers was taken up from the teachers angle by Ruth Everingham of Iowa City high school.

Voter Sues to Halt Ballot Printing; Protests Change

DES MOINES, Oct. 14 (AP)—H. F. Anders, as a taxpayer, today brought action in the Polk county district court to prevent the printing of the November general election ballot in the form certified to county auditors.

The petition alleged that Greenwalt originally drew up a ballot in which the Progressive party occupied the third column but that on "demand" of Harrison E. Spangler, Republican national committeeman, "unlawfully caused the ballot to be materially re-arranged."

Contending that this change caused unnecessary additional expense to the state, the petition also asserted that the re-arrangement, placing the Progressive party seventh on the ballot, was to "great detriment and injury to the Progressive party" and its candidate, Senator Smith W. Brookhart.

The petition asked that Greenwalt be required to certify to Cook and other county auditors over the state the "true, legal and official ticket as first arranged," that Cook be restrained from printing the ballot certified to him, and that Johnson be restrained from paying for the ballots which have been certified.

Hearing on the injunction request was set by the court for Oct. 21.

Wisconsin Sheriffs Halt Rum Runners; Holds Two on Bond
JANESVILLE, Wis., Oct. 14 (AP)—The largest bootleg alcohol cargo seized in Rock county during the regime of Sheriff J. S. Fessenden was accidentally discovered late today by three deputy sheriffs while driving on highway 20 near Orfordville.

The five ton canvas covered truck, apparently loaded with furniture but actually containing 1,000 gallon cans of alleged alcohol, was believed en route to Dubuque, Ia., from a distillery in the vicinity of Kenosha. The truck carried Iowa license plates.

Lewis Cardamen, 26, and Joe Lucas, 26, both of Kenosha, were arrested. Bail was set at $7,000 each at their arraignment. They will be given a hearing Wednesday.

The sheriff's deputies said they would not have suspected the truck, but Cardamen and Lucas became alarmed when they saw the sheriff's car and attempted to crowd it off the road.

IOWA football fans are hoping that Indiana hits one of her "spots" today. For the last few seasons, the Hoosiers have had the reputation of being spotty. One day they played championship ball, the next they looked like a cellar utility. Against Ohio State last Saturday Indiana stormed up and down the field, and outplayed their opponents, but were forced to be content with a tie. Maybe the Hawkeyes will begin to click today.

These second guesses never do much good, and any one can make them, but it appeared a mistake that St. Pat's didn't start flipping passes sooner in the University high game. The Irish didn't even try their passes until there was just a minute left in the fourth quarter. The two they tried were both good, although the first failed to help because of a penalty.

CLINTON demonstrated football "as she is played" against Iowa City high last night under the lights at Shrader field. There just wasn't anything Coach Wells' boys could do about it. The visitors elicited almost perfectly from start to finish, working as smoothly as many college teams. They could just run, kick, pass, and block too well. But the Red and White outfit battled.

Pitt, Army in Major Contest

Outstanding Grid Clash as Big Teams Open Up Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—College football, having completed most of its shadow boxing and hunch punching, comes out into the open tomorrow for a series of brisk hand-to-hand fights along the major fronts.

The big game season gathers headway simultaneously with a half dozen shake ups, actual and pending, in the coaching ranks. Seldom have football camps been so stirred as they have this week by the installation of a new regime at Kansas, followed by the news that Major Ralph Sasse of Army and Amos Alonzo Stagg of Chicago are directing their last big campaigns.

Pitt-Army Outstanding

West Point thereby has an added incentive for the battle with Pittsburgh's powerful Panthers tomorrow. The Army-Pitt contest and Pennsylvania-Dartmouth engagement, which should attract upwards of 50,000 to Franklin field, tied the title claims of four of the east's major undefeated eleven. Harvard should have no trouble with Penn State and Colgate figures to outscore Lafayette. Gil Doble, meanwhile, has recovered sufficiently to direct Cornell's first real test, against the recuperating Princeton Tiger, in what should be a closely fought affair.

Big Games in South

Michigan and Ohio State share the Big Ten championship spotlight with Wisconsin-Purdue. All four are unbeaten so far. Ohio State, tied by Indiana, will turn Carl Cramer loose in the hope the Buckeye quarterback can duplicate his sensational romp through the Wolverines last year. Purdue may hold a slight edge over Wisconsin, but this game looks like a toss up. The "big four" in the Southern conference race likewise come together, head on, in a brace of games which should go far toward settling the title prospects. Rarely do such scoring power houses as Tulane and Vanderbilt, Tennessee and Alabama, have so early an opportunity to open the climax valve.

Nebraska Meets Gophers

Drastring measures have been applied to revive Kansas and Missouri, in the Big Six conference, but they do not seem sufficiently strong to stop Iowa State and Kansas State, respectively. Meanwhile Nebraska, the conference champion, steps outside to tackle Minnesota. Scoreless so far this season, Southern Methodist, 1931 championship team in the southwest, has gone a long way off in search of a comeback against Syracuse university. Baylor plays Arkansas, Texas Christian takes on Texas A. & M. and the powerful Texas university team entertains Oklahoma.

Stanford, U.S.C. Ease Up

The four year reign of the University of Utah's Indians in the Rocky Mountain conference, scouts report, may be abruptly ended unless they show a reversal of early season form against Brigham Young university tomorrow. On the Pacific coast, Stanford and Southern California, each priming for the big battle at Palo Alto next week, take on non-conference opponents, West Coast Army and Loyola (Los Angeles). The conference schedule features Washington State at California and U.C.L.A.-Oregon at Portland.

University High Turns Back St. Pat's, 6-0; Fuhrmeister Scores Little Hawks Take 34-0 Trimming From Clinton in Mississippi Loop Contest

Big Fullback Again Power of Blue, White Attack With 105 Yards in 21 Attempts

Only Touchdown of Game Comes in Last Minutes of Third Quarter; Joe Glenn Mainstay of Irish Plunging Game

By HARRY BURRELL
A big, driving fullback, who couldn't be stopped, led University high to the city championship yesterday afternoon when he plunged over for the touchdown that beat St. Pat's on old Iowa field.

Larry "Schnozzle" Fuhrmeister for the third consecutive game outgained the entire opposition, and made doubly certain of the title-bearing victory by leading a 50-yard scoring drive in the closing minutes of the third quarter. Fuhrmeister carried the ball six out of 19 times and threw a 10 yard pass to Ohlmacher on another play to account for 39 yards. His kick for the extra point was low.

Good on Defense
Not only did the big back play a great offensive game, but his work backing up the line was on a par with his ball carrying. He also punted twice for an average of 45 yards. Although the heavier St. Pat's line did not offer the competition it was expected to, it did hold the Blue and White to only one score when it seemed the victors would score at least three times. A great stand in place of the 10 yard line featured the play of the Irish. One other drive was stopped on the 25 and the half stopped the winners but six yards from a touchdown.

Glenn Improves Punting
A surprising feature of the game was the punting of Joe Glenn, who averaged 35 yards on nine kicks. Until this game his punts had been going about 23 yards but yesterday he more than held his own against Fuhrmeister and Ohlmacher. Most of his kicks were out of bounds and prohibited any chance of a long run back by Myers or Schnoebelen. While the backs were plowing for steady gains, the University high line was opening up plenty and giving but little ground as the total St. Pat's yardage shows. The entire forward wall played such a steady game that no man stood out above another unless it was Capt. Arnold Rarick, who broke through several times to toss the Green and White backs for losses.

Add Passes to Play
A new note was added to the attack of the new city champs when they tossed five passes and completed four. Until this game they had failed to complete a single aerial attempt. The incomplete pass came about as the result of a bit of smart play on the part of Ohlmacher, who was on the sending end of all but one of the tosses. Trapped behind the line, with every receiver covered, he grounded the ball and saved a seven yard loss. The other tosses, three of which went to Bob Myers, totaled 25 yards.

Only Two First Downs
The pass, incidentally, gave the losers their second first down of the game. Ohlmacher's failure to cut through the line on end runs made him look bad at times, since he was thrown for several losses that could have been turned into gains. If the speed merchant had cut in he would have added at least one touchdown to his team's total. A fast, shifty back, he will do plenty to Little Seven opponents if he will smash instead of running back. His defense and blocking are assets that greatly enhance his value.

The work of Deyer, Myers and Schnoebelen was steady with Myers directing the team like a vet and taking his usual knockout on a run back of a punt. The victory gave the Kistlermen the best claim of any team to the city title, since it is the only undefeated eleven and holds a tie game with City high.

Star Iowa Tackle of 25 Years Ago to See Son Play

A father who was a star football tackle 25 years ago will return to the University of Iowa next week end for the reunion of his old football team—and to watch his son play the same position in the Homecoming game. He is Isaac E. Stutsman, superintendent of schools at Greeley, Colo., who in 1907 was a crack Hawkeye lineman. His son, John, a 21 year old senior and major letter winner, will play at least part of the game at tackle.

Stutsman the elder also won two major letters in track and was captain of the 1909 Hawkeye track team. With a bachelor of arts degree, he left the university in June, 1909, and two years later became the father of a boy. Twenty years after his father departed from the campus, John entered the college of liberal arts. Weighing 185 pounds he won a minor letter on the football squad of 1930, a major "T" last season, and now is one of the two senior tackles.

SCHAMMEL
LIKES TO OPEN LINE HOLES FOR BACKS.

A native Minnesotan, George Teyro, and two Iowa Germans, Francis Schammel and Christian Schmidt, will appear for the University in two successive Homecoming football games. With the other Hawkeyes, they play at Indiana today and next Saturday will face Minnesota in the twenty-first annual Iowa Homecoming game. Teyro, who is fighting with Howard Moffitt for the regular quarterback job, is coming fast as he gains experience. He has a side-stepping, hip-swaying agility on ball carrying trips. The best punter on the squad is Schmidt who at present is alternating with Joe Laws at right halfback. Giant of the line with his 218 pounds, Zud Schammel of Waterloo is developing into an outstanding tackle and can also perform as a smashing fullback and forward passer.

Iowa Harriers Meet Cornell

Meet This Morning in First of Season for Hawkeyes

Old Gold harriers will meet Cornell college runners this morning at 10:30 in a two mile cross country meet on Finkbine field in what will be the first test of the year for two green teams. The meet will bring together two squads composed chiefly of rookies, with the Hawkeyes boasting Leo Campisi and Norman Rosenberg as the only vets. Cornell will have three experienced men in the field in Ralph Inyre, Arch Carter, and Clarence Malt. Many New Men Inyre last year in a triangular meet with Grinnell and Iowa took second to Mike Philbrow with Campisi sixth and Malt, and Carter ranking lower. The Hawkeyes however boast a strong delegation of new men to bolster their bid for a win today. Robert McElroy has been consistently leading the field over Campisi in practice, doing so without any indication that he has opened up. A strong driving finish is his strongest asset. Bresnahan Drives Men Verne Schlaser, Jack Shapiro John Carver, Richard Bott, and Bertram Metcalf are the other new runners who may do anything this morning. Cornell's rookie strength is not known. The Iowa team has been pushed through a stiff drill this week by Coach George Bresnahan who is trying to overcome a general slowness of the men to reach a peak of condition. Emphasis has been placed on team work with the men staying fairly well bunched together. The fray today will be the last practice meet before the Hawkeyes engage Minnesota next Saturday.

Heavy Visitors Use Speed, Passes to Register Victory; Gill Leads Winners' Drive

Red, White Eleven Plays River City Outfit on Even Terms Through First Half; Falter in Last Quarter Rout

By DEWEY CUMMINS
The Iowa City high school football team lost its third Mississippi Valley conference game last night at Shrader field to a much heavier Clinton eleven by a 34 to 0 score. A fast running attack accompanied by a smooth passing combination that seldom failed to produce yardage spelled defeat for the local eleven.

Gill, a speedy little quarterback who qualified in every department of play as an all-state man, was the big gun in the visitors' offense. Running behind a perfect interference he never failed to gain at least four yards every time he carried the ball. His passes were always perfect and went for long gains while his punts, although not the best, proved satisfactory in last night's game.

Marshall Best for Locals
Lorenz, lanky Clinton end, played a leading role when he snared passes at all altitudes one of which counted for a touchdown. Wright as captain of the Clinton eleven, although a little radical at times, proved to be a great leader as well as a great tackler. He and Newlin, flashy halfback, shared the honors in kicking the points after the touchdowns, each getting two.

Marshall, Little Hawk quarterback, was outstanding for the locals with his punting. His kicks, which averaged well over 40 yards, played a great part in holding the score down. Brown, who played the leading role in last Friday's game, was continually thrown for losses last night when his interference failed to open holes in the much heavier Clinton line. The flashy fullback played his usual good defensive game.

Willard Outstanding Game
No one was playing good in the local line when it was completely smothered on every play by the more experienced Clinton line. Willard played a good game at left end but was covered by the taller visitors when he attempted to receive passes. Neither team scored in the first quarter. The period was marked by much punting and heavy penalties on the visitors for clipping. The second quarter was well over half gone when they started their march for a touchdown. Marshall kicked from back of his goal line out to the 50 yard line where Gill received and returned to the Iowa City 35 yard line. Gill went through center for five yards followed by Brown with another five yards and a first down. Gill got another yard at right end before Brown went through center for nine yards, Gill gained another three yards through center.

Locals Penalized
The play was followed by a 15 yard penalty on Iowa City for unnecessary roughness when the ball was carried to the one yard line. Pieper carried the ball over for the first touchdown. Newlin's kick for extra point was good, making the score 7 to 0 for Clinton. After receiving the kickoff Marshall punted to the visitors' 40 yard line as the half ended. The second half was a continual march down the field for touchdowns by the visitors. Iowa City's line could not stand the rapid pace set in the first half and failed to hold the heavy Clinton attack. Long gains by Gill and several completed passes brought four more touchdowns for the visitors. Three kicks for extra point were good while one attempted pass was knocked down to make the final score 34 to 0 for Clinton.

Wisconsin-Purdue, Michigan-Ohio State Games Top Conference Today

Wolverines Favored in Buckeye Tilt

Wisconsin-Purdue Fray Even; All Teams in Action

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP)—Coach "Doc" Spears' Wisconsin Badgers and Ohio State's revived Buckeyes will attempt two of the greatest "giant killer" roles in modern Big Ten football history tomorrow.

They will try to stop the steamrollers from Michigan and Purdue.

Wisconsin, imbued with a championship notion of its own since administering a crushing defeat to Iowa a week ago, will battle the Riveters of old Purdue at Lafayette while Michigan's Wolverines invade the Scarlet and Gray fortress at Columbus. The two battles are standouts of a busy day along the conference front over which all 10 teams swing into action. Northwestern meets Illinois at Champaign, Iowa tackles Indiana at Bloomington, Minnesota meets an old foe of the regional wars in Nebraska at Minneapolis while Chicago gets another "breather" by clashing with Knox on the Midway.

Wolverines Favored

Michigan, conqueror last week of Northwestern, ruled as a prohibitive favorite over Ohio State but the rivalry of the two was so lively that anything was liable to happen. Verbal lashed because of their faults last week against Indiana in an unsatisfactory tie game, the Buckeyes flashed their real form during the last few days of drill and threatened to reach the height of their power to stem the Wolverine invasion.

Wisconsin long has been a nuisance to Purdue, at Madison last fall, the Badgers beat the Boilermakers, 21 to 14, in one of the biggest upsets of the year and the blow ruined Purdue's chance for undisputed possession of the championship.

Both teams were in great condition for the game tomorrow, the homecoming match at Purdue.

Wildcats Hold Edge

Northwestern ruled a heavy favorite over the Illini despite its setback at Michigan last week. The cagey Coach Bob Zuppke had his team in high spirits for the tussle but anything but a Northwestern defeat was expected there.

On the basis of their showing against Ohio State, the Hoosiers of Indiana were picked to trounce

George Teyro is Type of Runner That Pleases; Possesses Shifty Style

By RON TALLMAN

There is an 18 year old youth on the University of Iowa football team, even now in his sophomore year putting up a real battle for the first team quarterback post, who possesses all the abilities and possibilities of becoming a star of national rank.

Side-stepping, hip-swinging, dodging, twisting runs mark his performances and make them at all times interesting and near sensational. This fancy stepper's name, who is also somewhat of a kicker and passer, is George Teyro, lightest of the Hawkeyes to start against Indiana today with his 160 pounds.

The 6 foot Hopkins, Minn., star was born in New Prague, Minn., but moved with his parents to Monmouth, Ill., where he put in all his high school competition. Hand-capped because of size, George nevertheless managed to get in three years in each of football and basketball, playing guard in the latter. His gridiron position, as now, was quarterback.

Entering Iowa last fall, he competed in football alone, winning a numeral. His major course of study is physical education, for he

Alleged Indiana Bank Robber, Killer Held on Fugitive Warrant

DAVENPORT, Oct. 14 (AP) — A fugitive warrant today was filed against James Russell in connection with the robbing of an Indiana bank and killing of a pedestrian.

Russell, who yesterday was bound over to the grand jury for participation in the attempted robbery of the Northwest Davenport Savings bank, Oct. 6, is claimed by Gary, Ind., to be Carl Richards, part owner of a south Chicago roadhouse.

Russell denied he is Richards, but Gary police advised local officials they would send evidence to support their claims. Russell's bond, originally set at $15,000, was raised to $30,000 following the filing of the fugitive warrant, obtained today after police received a telegram from Sheriff Frank Hildebrand of Starke county, Indiana.

Theodore Roosevelt May Speak for Hoover

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP) — Governor Theodore Roosevelt of the Philippines, Republican campaign headquarters announced today, probably will take part in the drive for the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

Arrangements have been practically completed for Roosevelt to make an address in Honolulu on Oct. 25, the speech to be sent to San Francisco by short wave and then broadcast over the National Broadcasting company's network, campaign directors announced.

SYNOPSIS

Life to lovely Patricia Braithwait was a series of parties, trips abroad and now—Palm Beach. Her castles crumble when her Aunt Pamela informs her that Mr. Braithwait's fortune is depleted and suggests that Pat marry the wealthy, middle-aged Harvey Blaine to insure her own and her father's future, warning her that love fades. Aunt Pam's marriage with Jimmie Warren—handsome, young lawyer—was beginning to pall in spite of the adoration she had had for each other. Stunned by her aunt's revelations, Pat is seriously considering Blaine to save the father she adores, when she meets a fascinating young camper, who only reveals his first name, Jack. Despite their instant attraction for one another, Pat discourages future meetings. Later, Pam cautions Blaine to be matter-of-fact and not sentimental in trying to win Pat, stressing the point that his one advantage is the fact that Pat is desperately hard up and worships her father, who lives for Pat alone. His financial predicament is largely due to the gradual caving in of his plantation. Pat accepts Blaine's proposal. That night, she longs for Jack and hopes he will come to see her. While dancing with Pat, Jimmie voices his disapproval of Blaine. She lifts a stricken, pleading face to his and, all at once, a new and disturbing mutual attraction grips them. After midnight, Pat makes a fruitless search of the beach for Jack. In the deep recesses of her heart, she had hoped that he would somehow rescue her from Blaine. Jimmie finds her, sobbing, and, against his better judgment, takes her in his arms and confesses his love for her. Hungry for love and protection, Pat submits to Jimmie's kisses—but even then, Jack steals into her thoughts. Jimmie insists that she break her engagement.

CHAPTER TWELVE

And throughout his struggle with himself ran the thought of Pamela. He did not feel conscience-stricken concerning her. On the contrary, he was convinced that he would do her no wrong in taking into his life the love she no longer gave him. No bitterness, no sense of personal injury touched his thought of her. Pam was as she was a marvelously lovely woman if a man could hold her. He had not held her. It was not her fault; nor his, so far as he could see. He had been faithful, indulgent, considerate, as far as lay in his power. Her love had nevertheless come to an end. And this was the confusing thing—Had his come to an end? He could not say. The years with her had brought him a high altitude of happiness such as perhaps no other woman could have given him. The memory of those years was a burning sweetness which he felt he could never lose. The moments and hours and years with Pamela were engraven on his heart, enshrined there.

By morning he had devised a scheme whereby he could relieve Pat's financial situation without humiliating her proud father or arousing his suspicions. Immediately after breakfast he sought out the old man and laid the proposition before him.

"Mr. Braithwait," he said, "I've been doing some thinking about Patricia. Pamela tells me she has a decided talent for drawing. In fact, I've seen some of her sketches and I've come to the conclusion that she could be developed into a first class commercial artist. This field doesn't require the years of study that must be devoted to achievement in portraiture or landscape painting. Don't you think it would be a fine thing to give her a year or two, or three perhaps, of study

New Buying Helps Prices in Stock Mart

Covering Outburst Aids Market in Gaining Back Losses

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—An outburst of covering enabled the stock market to retrieve its losses of the past week today.

Reasons for the short retreat were not readily discernible, since current news developments contained nothing of a surprising nature. Apparently recent followers of the short side had become a bit too overconfident and had misjudged the technical position; when they began to buy soon after the firm opening offerings proved scarce and net gains of 2 to 8 points quickly piled up. The score or so of issues that had recently been weakest showed to best advantage. Extreme gains were partially reduced, although the closing tone was generally strong.

Other Markets Rally

As usually happens when stocks undergo a sudden change of heart, other markets rallied. Bond returned a moderate average gain, while wheat netted a cent higher and cotton had a moderate rise. Most of the activity in shares was confined to the morning hours. The turnover was 2,936,710 shares. American Telephone stopped just as fast on the rally as it had slumped on the decline earlier this week. The stock sold as much as 8 1/2 points above the previous close, later reducing this gain by 2 points. U. S. Steel, up 5 at the top, closed 4 high; the preferred also recovered sharply. Allied Chemical, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Case, American Tobacco "B," American Can, New York Central, National Biscuit, Southern Pacific, United Aircraft and Du Pont were other rapid movers, although many others either did as well or were not far behind.

Car Loadings Gain

Forecasts of tomorrow's car loadings statement placed the favorable gain at 12 or 13 thousand cars.

Railroad earnings for last month will make their appearance next week. Since freight movement in September was very substantially above August, the carriers' financial statements, if it is confidently expected, will make much better reading.

Print Ballots for Elections

Eight Party Columns Too Many for Machines

More than 20,000 of the longest ballots in years will be printed for Johnson county for the general election Nov. 8. A copy of the official ballot was received Thursday by County Auditor Ed Sulek from C. C. Greenwalt, secretary of state. The county ballot was arranged and the copy sent to the printers.

The ballot will be eight columns wide, which will make it impossible for Johnson county voters to use voting machines. The machines used here have but seven columns. Parties to be arranged on the new ballot in the following order: Republican, Democratic, Progressive, Socialist, Farmer-Labor, Prohibition, Communist, and Independent.

An extra ballot will be attached here for the vote on the special question of reducing the board of supervisors from five to three members.

Township tickets will be attached in all townships except seven, which contain towns. In these townships, separate ballots will be provided for those voters not living in towns. Only those voters residing in Iowa City must register, Mr. Sulek said yesterday.

Stocks Make Strong Gains

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—The stock market surged up in one of the most buoyant recoveries of the year today, as bears appeared to have sold themselves into a trap, and struggled to extricate themselves.

Extreme gains in many leading issues ranged from $2 to more than $8 a share, and although there was some recession from the best levels of the day in the afternoon trading, leading issues generally closed with net gains of $1 to more than $7. The upswing brought average price levels back to the neighborhood of a week ago.

The strength of stocks spread to other security and commodity markets. The bond market registered substantial gains, and several principal staples, including cotton, wheat, hides and rubber closed moderately higher, despite some afternoon selling.

Hold Funeral Service for Mrs. James Reed Dead From Pneumonia

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 14 (AP)—Funeral service was held today for Mrs. James A. Reed, wife of the Missouri Democratic leader and former United States senator. She died unexpectedly Wednesday.

Dr. George Combs, pastor of the Country Club Christian church, conducted the service in a funeral home. More than 700 persons gathered to honor the memory of Mrs. Reed.

"Her life," Dr. Combs said, "was beautiful in its helpfulness and kindness to those who were overburdened." Mr. Reed sat in a small room looking into the chapel with his brother's wife, Mrs. John Reed, and Mrs. Louis Olmstead, wife of Mrs. Reed's son by a former marriage. The body is to be cremated.

Donovan a Fighter in War or Politics

"Wild Bill," G. O. P. Choice for Governor of New York, Is One of America's Most Decorated War Veterans. Has Distinguished Political Record.

NEW YORK — If for no other reason than that he combines the qualities of a first class soldier with those of an astute statesman, Colonel William J. Donovan ("Wild Bill") to a host of friends, Republican nominee for governor of New York, may truly be said to be a rara avis in the field of politics.

To one who comes into casual contact with the man the wild part of the colonel's appellation seems somewhat puzzling, for he is modest and unassuming to a marked degree. In fact, he strikes one as being particularly mild. However, men do not get the highest military decoration of many lands for meekness, so it ought to be pointed out that Colonel Donovan's mildness is packed away in moth balls when there's any fighting to be done.

Colonel Donovan was born in Buffalo, in 1883, of Irish parents. He was graduated from Columbia university in 1905 and turned to a law career at which he was eminently successful. In 1914 he married Ruth Rumsey and settled down to a happy life of marital bliss, which was interrupted by the entrance of the United States into the World war.

In the Big Parade, Donovan covered himself with glory as colonel of the "Fighting Sixty-ninth," officially the 169th infantry. It was in that aggregation of warriors that he got his nickname. That it was earned can be testified to by many surviving members of the famous regiment, for the colonel loved to fight and led his warriors on many a foray that embazoned their colors with renown.

The fact that he was the only American soldier, with one exception, to whom the United States awarded all three of its distinguished emblems for valor is testimonial enough for his qualities as a fighting man.

His decorations include the Distinguished Service Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal, the Croix de Guerre, the Croix au Merite de Guerre, and the Congressional Medal of Honor. That means that Wild Bill Donovan is a brave man in any language. Proof that he is modest as well as courageous is provided by his gesture in presenting his Congressional Medal to his regiment, asserting that it had been won by his entire command, every man a hero.

After the war, Colonel Donovan turned to politics. He was the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor of New York in 1922, and was United States district attorney for western New York from 1922 to 1924.

But it was in the regime of President Coolidge that he first achieved national recognition, when he was appointed assistant U. S. attorney general. His sterling qualities attracted much attention in this post. So much so that it was confidently predicted that he would receive the attorney general portfolio under President Hoover.

Although a Catholic, Colonel Donovan went barnstorming for Hoover in the 1928 campaign against Alfred E. Smith, and his energetic championing of Hoover was credited with attracting a large block of votes to the Republican standard-bearer which would normally have gone to the "Happy Warrior."

His labors in the Hoover cause, however, brought him no return, for the new president passed him over when choosing his cabinet. Donovan took it on the chin, like the soldier he is, and his acceptance of the rebuff won him more friends than he could have acquired were he given two cabinet posts.

Colonel Donovan is an enemy of prohibition, and he came right out and said so when accepting the nomination for governor, despite the fact that his party had adopted a moderate plank. This honesty characterizes his every action.

Colonel and Mrs. Donovan with their two children, David and Patricia, maintain an apartment in New York city, but their official home is still in Buffalo, where he first saw the light.

Veterinarian Shoots Farmer in Nebraska; Disliked Dog

Believe Quarrel Rose Following Dog's Attack

FAIRBURY, Neb., Oct. 14 (AP)—A traveling veterinarian's dislike for a farmer's dog was blamed by Jefferson county authorities tonight for a quarrel which resulted in the slaying of the animal's master, Clarence Stainbrook, 60, at Daykin.

County Attorney Arthur Denney said he would file a first degree murder charge against the veterinarian, Dr. William Frantz, 52, of Oklawaha, and that an inquest would be held tomorrow afternoon.

Killed Last Night The farmer was killed late last night and his mother, Mrs. Marcus Stainbrook, 80, was wounded critically. Officers believe she went to the aid of her son during the quarrel.

About 4 o'clock this morning officers found the veterinarian hiding in a garage near the Stainbrook home. He was placed in jail and said he did not remember anything that happened after 6 o'clock last night.

The veterinarian arrived at the Stainbrook home yesterday and planned to spend the night. Mrs. Stainbrook, widow of the farmer, said the two men drank wine and were talking in the living room when she retired. Later she heard them quarreling and said she found her husband on the floor, the doctor striking him.

Dog Wounded The farmer's dog which had been barking was in the room and had a gash in its side.

Officers believe Frantz who disliked the animal had taken out a knife to ward it off and the farmer intervened.

Junior Laws Organize for Competition

Junior law students named for Law club competition will begin work on their briefs early next week in preparation for the coming arguments of the year. It was announced yesterday by Prof. S. Mason Ladd of the college of law.

Sixteen men, whose achievements in the trials of last year and scholastic record during the year entitle them to participation, have been notified. These men were selected from about 30 who entered in the competition last year.

Of those who will participate, eight will be selected to again appear in cases in their senior year, and of these, four will argue on Supreme Court day in Iowa City, during the spring of 1934.

Juniors who will compete are: Earl Salisbury of Chariton, and Arthur Jacobson of Waukon vs. John Knox of Oneida, and Stanley Corbett of Sioux City; Dean Stauffacher of Cedar Rapids and Theo Hutchison of Algona vs. Harold Sells of Council Bluffs, and Robert Keesh of Burlington.

Ployd Ensign of Hawarden, and Fred Hagen of Ames, vs. Leonard Nelson of Boone, and Harold Reynolds of Dubuque; Howard Alfred of Des Moines, and John Gilmore of Iowa City, vs. Donald Harris of Bloomfield, and Merle Johnson of Marshalltown.

Leader Requests Report of B. E. F.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Hoke Smith, field commander of the bonus expeditionary force, issued a call today to all posts and camps in the organization to send a complete report on these subdivisions to "field headquarters" in Uniontown, Pa.

The data, Smith said, was requested by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, head of the veterans administration. Smith discussed veterans relief with Hines yesterday after he and several other members of the B.E.F. called on President Hoover at the White House.

"Ride" Victim?

Mrs. Gamma Pignataro of Brooklyn, N. Y., mother of five children, whose murdered body was found in an automobile. Police believe the woman to have been "taken for a ride," and are holding her husband, Gamma Pignataro, a restaurant keeper, and James Pagnaro for questioning. Two other men are sought as the actual killers.

Bank Reports $75,000 Loss After Holdup

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Oct. 14 (AP)—Loot taken in the daylight robbery of the Nebraska National bank here yesterday was valued today at approximately $75,000 at present market prices by A. J. Guendel, president of the institution.

The thieves who carried two machine guns and revolvers took $38,939 in cash and currency. Bonds which have a par value of $35,159 also were taken but Guendel said they were worth only $10,000 at present prices. Approximately $48,000 worth of securities were taken and of these $26,000 worth were negotiable.

Meanwhile, officers lost all trace of the large sedan used by the robbers. Both Nebraska and Kansas authorities were searching for the car. All day they hunted in southern Nebraska for a sedan carrying Iowa license plates which was occupied by five men. Late today the car was stopped at Auburn, Neb., by Deputy Sheriff Rapp. The men were unarmed and told him they were going to Iowa to husk corn. He released them.
