Jury Convicts Former Minister For Wife Killing

Will Receive Life Sentence for Poisoning

Remains Calm as Jury Foreman Reads Verdict

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 25 (AP) — The Rev. S. A. Berrie, 52 year old unfrocked Cumberland Presbyterian minister, late today was convicted by a jury of the poison murder of his first wife, Mrs. Fannie Berrie.

The verdict, which carried a life prison sentence, did not appear to even momentarily break the composure of the preacher. He appeared calm when he was returned to his cell. Sentence will be passed formally next Monday.

Wife Unmoved

His comely, 19 year old second wife, the former Ida Bess Bright, a Sunday school teacher in his church, apparently was unmoved by the jury's decision.

During the lengthy trial Mrs. Berrie, named by the prosecution as the motive for the poisoning, appeared by the side of her husband and asserted her belief in his innocence.

The state alleged the preacher had been intimate with the young woman several months before the death of his first wife, and substituted poison for sedatives taken by the older woman so he might be free to marry the Sunday school teacher.

May Appeal

After being sentenced, Berrie will be taken to the state penitentiary at McAlester, where he will remain pending outcome of a possible appeal.

Off Berrie, the pastor's 26 year old son, and his wife Ruth, were in the courtroom when the verdict was read.

Mrs. Fannie Berrie, in ill health for months, collapsed and died in convulsions March 21 after taking a capsule at a church service.

The minister married Ida Bess May 17. She was exonerated of any connection with the poisoning.

Playwright to Aid Direction of Production

Mrs. Sentman, 75, Dies Here

Lynn Riggs, playwright whose manuscript, "Cherokee Night," will be staged as the December production of University theater, is in Iowa City this week to assume direction of the play.

He arrived Sunday, and plans to stay until after the play has been staged. So far this week, he has been holding readings of the various parts, preparatory to casting the play.

"Cherokee Night," a play which has never before been staged, is a story of the influence of white men's civilization upon the Indians of Oklahoma territory, Mr. Riggs' birthplace.

Another of Mr. Riggs' plays, "Green Grow the Lilacs," was presented by University theater last season.

Professor Rucknick Appointed Member of Theatrical Board

Prof. Christian A. Rucknick of the psychology department has been appointed a member of the advisory board of the National Association of Community theaters.

Under the present arrangement, the manager of the local motion picture theater has little choice in selecting his pictures. Under the plan of the newly formed association the local exhibitor will work with members of his community in selecting the best and most outstanding pictures of the year.

Japs Suggest New Plan of Arms Slash

Will Advance Theory at Next Conference in Geneva

TOKYO, Oct. 25 (AP) — A new disarmament plan, distinctly Japanese and differing from the American and British suggestions for naval reduction, is to be advanced by the Japanese representative when the disarmament conference resumes next February at Geneva, the Associated Press learned today.

Its details are a closely guarded secret, and not even an idea of its general character was offered. A high official said, however, that the plan will embrace all naval categories and will be sufficiently complete to stand alongside the proposals by President Hoover and Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain.

The naval ministry already has drafted the plan and the cabinet approved it today. Immediately afterward it was cabled to the Japanese delegation at Geneva.

On the basis of statements in the past by Japanese naval authorities, Japan would confine reductions to such vessels as are considered to be offensive warcraft.

These include aircraft carriers and capital ships. There already has been a proposal to reduce the former, and it has been suggested that gun calibers of capital ships be reduced.

Slay Wife of Prison Clerk

Police Begin Search for Mystery Killer in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 25 (AP) — Beaten to death with an empty bottle, Mrs. Maureen Bonzo, 44, wife of the record and parole clerk at Ohio penitentiary, was found dead in the basement of her home a few blocks from the prison late today.

Warden Preston E. Thomas of the prison, who rushed to the home with the woman's husband, expressed the opinion the slaying might have been the work of a paroled prisoner who held a grudge against Bonzo for some fancied wrong. Bonzo had been connected with the prison for more than 19 years.

Police, however, began an investigation on the theory the slaying was the result of robbery.

An empty change purse was found on the floor of the kitchen. The money had been removed and paper stuffed into the purse.

Mrs. Bonzo's body was found by her son, Daniel, Jr., when he returned from school. Near the body were several broken bottles which apparently had been shattered when Mrs. Bonzo was struck over the head.

Guards from the prison were rushed to the Bonzo home and police began combing the neighborhood for suspected characters.

Bonzo, grief stricken, could give little aid to authorities in their early investigation.

HILLSBORO, N. Dak., Oct. 25 (AP) — Ed Vandiver, arrested at Oskaloosa, Iowa, was bound over to the district court today for trial on a charge of robbing a Marion, N. Dak., bank, Sept. 14.

He was committed to jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond. Vandiver maintained he would establish that he was in Huron, S. Dak., the night of Sept. 13 and could not have been in Marion the next day.

Vandiver has also been questioned concerning the slaying of Lief Erickson at Fargo in June, 1930.

Hoover Will Give Talk in Indianapolis

Prepares for Fourth Appearance in Midwest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP) — With election day but two weeks off, President Hoover today decided upon a swift political journey to Indianapolis for a speech Friday night before carrying his campaign into New Jersey and New York early next week.

Even before the president's decision was made known, he drove ahead with the preparation of his speech—his fourth in succession before midwestern audiences.

Reduces Visitor List

The chief executive's visitor list was reduced to two or three callers to allow him more time for such work. After meeting with the five of his cabinet officers, he spent much of the day alone in the Lincoln study of the White House proper. He conferred there during the afternoon with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

While the president worked, however, long distance wires were kept open to the Indiana capital by his aids arranging details of the coming trip.

The president and Mrs. Hoover will leave the national capital Thursday night by special train, and following the custom of his last three campaigns swings into the interior, will make a series of rear platform speeches along the route.

Details Not Yet Arranged

Although White House aides said final details for the journey had not yet been arranged, it was indicated that Mr. Hoover would choose a route that would take him into cities and towns he has not yet visited as a candidate for re-election. The itinerary most favorably considered includes Parkersburg and Clarksburg, W. Va., Cincinnati, and other Ohio cities.

He will return to Washington immediately to prepare the speeches he will deliver Monday afternoon in Newark and Monday night in Madison Square Garden, New York city.

Police Search Whipping Band

Number of Floggings Reported Reaches Total of 19

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 25 (AP) — With three additional reports today of floggings, authorities pushed their search for members of a whipping band reputed to have beaten at least 19 persons here recently.

Officers said they believed the floggers are members of one gang, "self-appointed guardians of the public morals," to quote Precinct Sergeant G. P. Watkins of the Riverton police station, in whose district most of the victims live.

There really is no way of telling just how many have been waited on by the floggers," Sergeant Watkins said. When the first report came in from two women who were beaten last Tuesday night by a mob of eight men, no previous reports had been received by the police.

"They broke the ice," the sergeant said, "and nearly every day since we have had from one to half a dozen reports of this brutality."

To date, records in the police department and the sheriff's office showed 19 persons had fallen victim to the lash, including five white women.

William Jones, 68, dies at Home of Iowa City Relative

He was committed to jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond. Vandiver maintained he would establish that he was in Huron, S. Dak., the night of Sept. 13 and could not have been in Marion the next day.

Vandiver has also been questioned concerning the slaying of Lief Erickson at Fargo in June, 1930.

The revolt, which has raged for several months, began when de Toledo resigned as federal governor of Sao Paulo and became head of a revolutionary government.

Strikers Meet in Sioux City

Farmers Make Plans to Extend War for Better Prices

SIOUX CITY, Oct. 25 (AP) — Officers of the National Farmers Holiday association from nine middlewestern states met here today to discuss plans for extending their non-selling campaign for higher farm produce prices.

MONTANA, NORTH AND SOUTH DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, MINNESOTA, WISCONSIN, ILLINOIS, OHIO AND IOWA ADHERENTS OF 11 WEEKS OLD MOVEMENT SENT DIRECTORS HERE.

Their meeting was closed to the public, but Milo Reno, president of the national association and moving force in the campaign, said the conference were considering methods of carrying out the program and of extending it.

He declared representatives of Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma might attend sessions Wednesday.

"We're going right on with our program," Reno asserted when asked about the nature of the plans. "We feel we have been successful, and there will be no letup in our efforts."

He said a committee had been chosen to draft a statement for the press and to formulate resolutions. He said he had not attended this session, and could not give the nature of the committee's deliberations. When asked whether the association would support any political candidate, he indicated that would be unlikely.

Officers said they believed the floggers are members of one gang, "self-appointed guardians of the public morals," to quote Precinct Sergeant G. P. Watkins of the Riverton police station, in whose district most of the victims live.

He was committed to jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond. Vandiver maintained he would establish that he was in Huron, S. Dak., the night of Sept. 13 and could not have been in Marion the next day.

Citizenship School to Open Tomorrow; Porter to Talk About Issues of Campaign

Women's Associations Sponsor All-Day Session

Prof. Kirk H. Porter of the political science department will address the school of citizenship, sponsored by the Iowa City League of Women Voters and about 20 women's organizations, tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Old Capitol.

Professor Porter will talk on, "A survey of the issues of this campaign," discussing 10 or 12 important issues that may be expressed simply in the form of a question, such as the bonus payment and free coinage of silver.

The problem of the voter is to pick out the real issues from the great mass of material issued during the political campaigns and to find out the attitude of the party and the candidates on those issues." Professor Porter said he would attempt to make clear those issues and the attitudes of the two major parties and their candidates.

The school of citizenship will be in session from 9:30 a.m. Thursday through Thursday evening.

Young Voters to Share Program

Young Voters forum activities for this week include participation in the citizenship school Thursday and an additional meeting Saturday night to make up for lack of a session last week.

Under the chairmanship of Kenneth Trickey, A4 of Iowa Falls, the group had arranged to hear Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Johnson of Grinnell tomorrow at 8 p.m. Because of a conflict with the talk at that hour by Prof. Kirk H. Porter on the citizenship school, the Johnsons have been asked to share the afternoon program of that project.

Both the Johnsons are national organizers of the Socialist party. The presence of one of them on the League of Women Voters schedule will place Socialist representatives alongside Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, a Democrat, and a Republican speaker.

The Saturday night meeting, to be in the assembly room of the Johnson county court house at 7:30 p.m., is on the farm strike question.

Bar Operator Tells Story of Kubik Murder

Friend of Slain Man Gives Testimony for State

OMAHA, Oct. 25 (AP)—John Staszewicz, bar operator and friend of George Kubik, murdered bootlegger, took the stand as a government witness today in the liquor conspiracy trial of Tom Dennis, political leader, and 58 others, and testified to events immediately following the shooting of Kubik.

Staszewicz said he met Paul Sutton, then chief of detectives and now a defendant, at the hospital where Kubik lay dying and that Kubik told Sutton to go with Staszewicz and he would show Sutton where the murderers were.

Left Hospital

Accompanied by Police Captain Munch, Staszewicz said he and Sutton left the hospital. They drove to a house on the outskirts of town, Staszewicz testified. At the house, a woman told them her husband was out hunting, the witness said. He testified he then led the officers to a farm house where there were apparent signs of activity. Staszewicz said he suggested to Sutton that they drive on a ways and phone for reinforcements. They drove on, he testified, but did not phone. Presently, he added, they drove back.

Stepped on Gas

"A car was just leaving the farm, travelling fast," Staszewicz testified. "Sutton and Munch did not stop; all they did was step on the gas."

Back at the hospital, Staszewicz testified, Sutton told him "If you know anything more I don't want to hear about it."

Earlier in the day, Staszewicz testified that he had been buying liquor from Kubik and said he had been warned to quit buying from Kubik and buy only from Stanley Clurej, a defendant.

Robert Hunter, David City, Neb., who described himself as a bootlegger, identified several checks given, he testified, to Frank Oalamia, defendant, in payment for liquor.

Fire Destroys Farm Home; Three Small Children Die in Blaze

SCOTTSEBLUFF, Neb., Oct. 25 (AP)—Three small children, two boys and a girl from one to five years of age, burned to death today in a fire which destroyed the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Meier, four miles east of here.

The dead are Violet, 5; Melvin, 3; and Harold, one year.

The children were in the house alone when their parents, working in a sugar beet field some distance from the house, noticed it was burning. The blaze was beyond control by the time they reached it and the building soon was destroyed.

The three children were found in a shallow basement directly beneath a bed on which they were believed to have been lying.

The cause of the fire could not be determined immediately. The father expressed the opinion that the girl had poured kerosene into a stove causing an explosion.

The telegram said:

"I am happy to reiterate my hearty approval as expressed March 25, 1932, of the patriotic and inspiring effort of your organization to bring to the polls November 8, the largest vote in the country's history."

Miller said a similar endorsement will be made in a speech next week by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

baskets containing delicate weather bureau instruments used for investigating the stratosphere. Reward, $5 each.

Charles D. Reed, director of the weather and crop station here, does not plan to insert such an advertisement in any paper, but he and federal workers in Omaha want very much to recover the apparatus.

set had travelled 136 miles in two and a half hours, and reached an altitude of nearly 11 miles in 88 minutes and came down by para-tached to little red balloons, and three more will be liberated at the municipal airport in Omaha Oct. 26 and 27. Of the 18, only eight have so far been recovered.

The balloons carry aloft a little basket or delicate instruments to a great height. Then they burst, and the apparatus comes gently down in a red silk parachute. Automatic records are made.

Those so far recovered were found in southwest Iowa or northwest Missouri. One of the sets sent up Oct. 12 was returned by George W. Mapel of Princeton, Mo. The set had travelled 136 miles in two and a half hours, and reached an altitude of nearly 11 miles in 88 minutes and came down by parachute in 67 minutes.

A temperature 76 degrees below zero was recorded near the 10 mile level but only 70 degrees below zero 2,000 feet higher.

"The temperature changed very little between 14,000 and 17,000 feet, indicating that the base of the stratosphere was only 13,000 to 14,000 feet high," Reed said. "The wonderful protection of a comparatively thin blanket of atmosphere is here clearly shown."

Directions attached to the handle of the basket tell the finder to return it to Omaha and receive the reward.

A system of admission fees pays the cost of upkeep of Indiana's state park system.

Politics vs. Education

POLITICAL education too often seems to consist in an exchange of half-truths. President Herbert Hoover's assertion that there are $2.50 cattle on one side of the Rio Grande and $4.50 cattle on the other "and only the tariff wall between" is an example, according to Democratic spokesmen.

In the opposition, where it has been said there is about $2 difference between Mexican and Texan cattle anyhow, the word of ex-Senator James A. Reed of Missouri does not have to be taken for much more than that of a lawyer advocate. The declarations, however, of men like Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska and Editor Henry Wallace of Wallace's Farmer must be taken as the expressions of men who do not toy with the truth.

On the other side two names less well known here, but supported by creditable titles, were quoted Monday night by Attorney Harrison E. Spangler of Cedar Rapids before an Iowa City audience. One was Dean Curtis of Iowa State college, the other a cattle association officer. Both men, Spangler indicated, are experts on animal husbandry.

Other items in the partisan speech of Mr. Spangler lend themselves to comparison. He pointed out, truthfully, the pre-nomination assertion of Alfred E. Smith that Franklin D. Roosevelt would be the "corkscrew candidate of a crooked convention." He probably knows, as Senator Norris reminded Iowa listeners Saturday night, that Iowa's Senator L. J. Dickinson, then a congressman, was vehement before the 1928 primary against the man for whom he keynoted at Chicago in 1932; in 1928 Mr. Hoover was the candidate of "big business" interests; in 1932 he was the man whose statistics would show stood for the farmer, the laborer, and the common man—particularly through the protective tariff. Much the same was true of Senator Charles E. Curtis, later vice president, whom Mr. Spangler chose not to mention while picturing the horrors of John Nance Garner in the presidency.

There is no need to multiply instances where omissions and stresses and selections of facts have, from the president of the United States down to the smallest precinct captain and weekly newspaper editor, been employed for partisan purpose—often unwittingly.

If the words of the respective inventive slingers are to be believed, it's a choice this fall between a horse thief and a robber of baby banks—or about that bad—neither of whom would be fit for dog catcher of a village where all the poodles were safely chained in their kennels.

No education by politicians won't produce an informed electorate. The influence works better the other way—that of education on politics. Slowly but surely the fallacies of obsolete ideas sensed first by critical thinkers such as Adam Smith in his day, spread down through the channels of learning toward the bottom. That is happening on the tariff, where not the effectiveness of protection on a single item like that of cattle but the workability of tariffs as a whole is brought to question.

Eventually, of course, the pressure of events brings needed reforms. This depression is both a result of bad policies and a cause of changes in those bad policies. An even less desirable means of effecting change is revolution—the outcome of persistence in measures contrary to the welfare of oppressed majorities who rise in rebellion by force.

These bad policies and these defective conditions can be seen in advance with increasing experience, increasing memory of that experienced through alert historians, and increasing acuteness of contemporary observation through economists. Their remedy is a matter of a race between impartial education aimed at an approach to truth and a partisan politics aimed at victory by telling favorable portions of the truth or even, usually unknowingly, untruth.

In the race between revolution and reform now going on in several countries of the world it looks as if education is a superior force on the side of reform when compared with partisan politics. Perhaps 90 per cent of what happens is "inevitable" through the workings of forces like population growth and social evolution of which individuals are unconscious. But even then there is a remaining area of 10 per cent in which it is highly important that as many citizens as possible should be critical of contributions to their political education by partisans.

The Lake That "Jack" Built

THIS IS THE loan that built the lake, that kept the fish, that fed the hungry, and satisfied Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma...—Revised Mother Goose.

The governor wants to borrow more money from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, he says, and with the loan would construct artificial lakes, which he would stock with catfish to feed the needy.

Commissioner Henry O'Malley of the Bureau of Fisheries at Washington, D. C., on the other hand, thinks it would be a better idea if Governor Bill would raise bass, Oklahoma's best native fish, but after uttering that opinion qualified it by saying that bass would yield only 100 pounds per acre of lake; which would be hardly enough to feed Oklahoma's hungry citizens the pound of fish a day that their governor thinks necessary.

O'Malley also suggested that it might be even better should the state raise goldfish, which would produce 400 pounds to the acre, but the idea drew the veto of Governor Bill. "We don't have to raise bass or goldfish," he said "because we can raise catfish; catfish produce men who wear breeches; goldfish produce silk stocking experts."

It was only a day or so ago that Oklahoma received its share of the money being expended by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Then the governor complained because he had asked for several thousands, plus 80 cents; and he hadn't received the 80 cents. Maybe with the 80 cents he could buy a fish, pail, and water enough for both, and start his own relief agency.

TODAY'S TOPICS

BY FRANK JAFFE

As long as France insists on a Germany shorn of her economic resources, her armaments, her national unity, there can be little hope of world recovery on a large scale. For upon Germany rests the hope of world recovery—unless the Hoover moratorium is made permanent. France insists on payment while undermining Germany's ability to pay.

In March, 1931, Germany began what was to be a short-lived attempt to come back by announcing a pending customs union with Austria, contrary to specified objections in peace treaties and without the consent of the League of Nations. Immediately the announcement precipitated a withdrawal of short-term credits from Austria, leading to the failure of the great Austrian Credit-Anstalt. Other factors aided, including the original fallacy of building a small constituent nation around Vienna, which hardly could draw enough support from it to continue for any great length of time on a paying basis.

Then France withdrew its credits from Great Britain, forcing British withdrawals from Berlin. Down crashed the German financial structure and with it German industry. The Hoover moratorium late in 1931 abruptly complete bankruptcy. France, intent upon defeating the entire purpose of Germany's foreign and domestic policies—the building up of prestige throughout Europe and America—then made a series of new loans to its allies, including Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, and Rumania, as well as to Hungary. That took the latter country out of the German orbit and put another feather in the French cap. In September, the credit union idea was renounced by Germany.

But with the new Herriot policies has come a different outlook for France—one of concession—in dealing with Germany. France, last July, virtually agreed to wipe out all reparations claims. She has entered into an agreement with Great Britain to "exchange views with one another with complete candor." And Herriot has also, in his attitude toward the United States, realized that if France stands with the U. S. in supporting the anti-war pact in the Orient against Japan, the U. S. will side with France in supporting the anti-war pact in Europe, perhaps against Italy or Germany.

Nevertheless, relations on the continent are not improving, for with the development of the Italian bloc—Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Greece, and Turkey—France is meeting with a new rival for economic supremacy, while battling the German bloc—Germany, Austria—for national security.

The three immediate issues mentioned in this column yesterday, are bound up in the destinies of these three blocs, with the U. S. and Great Britain, the Soviet and the Far East becoming more and more involved in the web of circumstances.

Those issues are: 1) The Franco-German military equality problem, 2) The Lytton report concerning the future of Manchuria, and 3) the world economic conference.

France will never, it is presumed, agree to equality in arms for Germany, while Germany cannot feel secure without adequate protection and defense. Japan will find herself ultimately alone in her plan of aggression in the Orient—a natural policy for her because of restricted areas for a large and fast growing population—because France, England, and the United States must sooner or later recognize that Soviet Russia is a world power on a large scale and that her interests in the Far East are opposed to Japan's, and that a definite conclusion must be reached before permanent peace can be established.

As far as the economic conference of the world is concerned, such a parley is necessary, if war debts and reparations problems are ever to be settled and if the growing balance of power menace in Europe is ever to be forestalled. A similar conference to agree on definite tariff schedules, reciprocity among nations as producers and consumers of each others needs, is similarly as vital to prolonged economic well-being of the world.

In short, it will take farsighted statesmen of all nations meeting for the common good—for the benefit of all mankind—instead of in the interests of the stronger powers to make them still more powerful and the lesser nations weaker.

Those statesmen must of necessity entertain thoughts not of national government but of world government, not of national prides and prejudices but of international welfare. Perhaps they must join hands in a new world pact, a new league of all the nations, and revamp the structure of the world's varied economic, social, and political institutions to meet the new specifications.

Hawkeyes Entrain for Washington, D. C., Today; Hold Scrimmage

Coach Solem Names 33 Players for Trip to East

This is a red letter day in the annals of Iowa football, for this afternoon at 2:35, the Hawkeye squad heads for its second intersectional game on the east coast, and the fourth intersectional contest the Old Gold has ever engaged in away from home. Iowa met and defeated Yale in 1922, lost to U. S. C. on the west coast in 1923, and lost to Texas A. & M. last year.

All true Iowa fans will turn out this afternoon to wish Ossie Solem and his gang luck. It is the longest trip the boys will make. A victory over George Washington will carry the name of the Hawkeyes throughout the east. Spirit at Iowa has been running high. The pep meeting last Friday night was as great as any ever held here. Out on the gridiron against Minnesota last Saturday that Iowa team fought as fine a battle as any Hawkeye team in history. They desire the cheers and good wishes of every Iowa man and woman this afternoon. Give it to them!

AND Friday evening, while Iowa and George Washington are settling their differences on the gridiron, you won't have to be wondering how the game is going, for The Daily Iowan has secured a direct wire from the playing field to our office, and will present a play-by-play account of the contest on the giant gridgraph and public address system. The gridgraph is located on the south side of The Daily Iowan office. The plays will be recorded on the board seconds after they actually take place on the field.

Leave at 2:35

A nation-wide check-up by the Associated Press revealed that so far this season, there have been 11 deaths reported due to football. This does not sound so good for the game on the surface, but a closer examination of the report makes clear that things are not as bad as they seem. There has been but one casualty in college grid circles. Of the other 10 fatal accidents, six were prep school lads, and the other four were injured in neighborhood or sand lot games. Incidentally, one of the deaths was caused by blood poisoning, after the game.

THERE is, therefore, nothing so disturbing about the situation. Of course, there are those who claim that the 11 deaths were entirely unnecessary. That there should be even 11 is too bad. But you can not expect a nation full of young men and boys to sit idly about twiddling their thumbs. There would be casualties if they skated or partook of any kind of exercise. Probably there were several of this season's victims that were injured because of inadequate equipment. That can not be helped by either rules or agitation.

Hornsby Will Seek Position With Cardinals

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24 (AP)—The return of Rogers Hornsby to the St. Louis Cardinal fold, after a somewhat hectic trip around the National league circuit, may solve some of Manager Gabby Street's problems in reorganizing the former world champions for next year's pennant race.

Losing the powerful batting attack of Chick Hafey, and with Sparky Adams on the injured list, Street said in discussing the announcement today of the signing of the "Rajah" by the Cardinals on a one year contract.

The hole at third base, with Adams gone, is wide open. But Hornsby is a second baseman. President Sam Breadon predicted that if Hornsby wins the second sack berth, Frankie Frisch, a Cardinal mainstay, will be shifted to third base and with Jim Bottomley at first, complete the triumvirate. If Adams comes back physically fit, it will be difficult to bench him, however.

If the Rajah makes good his comeback, and his chances are increased with a sympathetic management, it will not only cale a hole in the infield, but give the Cardinals a former league batting champion who may supply the lack of the heavy hitting Hafey.

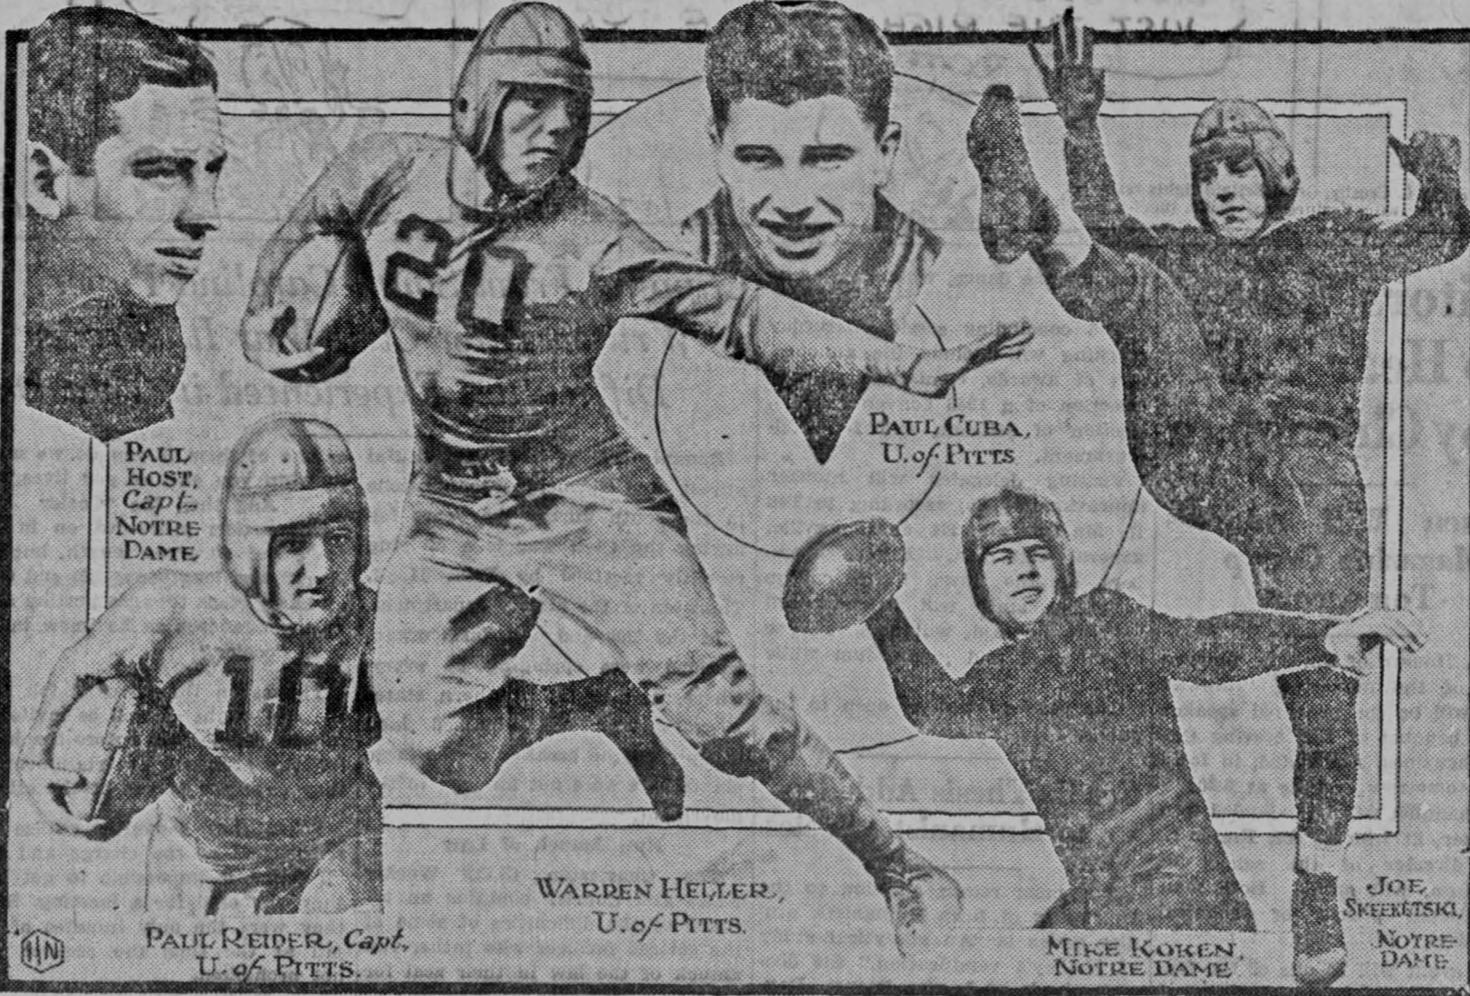

Should Hornsby fail to make the field, there is a chance he might be kept as a pinch hitter, despite his late mediocre showing with the bat.

Manager Street was optimistic today that Hornsby would stage a comeback.

Duane Purvis, Purdue sophomore halfback, was a javelin thrower on the United States Olympic team last summer.

Hawkeye Harriers to Meet Strong Grinnell Team There, Nov. 4

THEY'LL DO THEIR STUFF AS NOTRE DAME MEETS PIT

Thrills aplenty are in store for the fortunates who will witness the clash of Notre Dame's Ramblers and the Panthers of the University of Pittsburgh when they meet at Panther stadium Saturday. Both teams, with last Saturday's tough games off the schedule, have hit mid-season form and the stars shown above are due for the game of their grid careers. Pitt's famous passing pair, Reider and Heller, are better than ever and the Panthers have high hopes of squaring accounts with the Irish for last year's 25-12 defeat. Maybe they don't know Skeeketski, Koken, Host, Luckats, Kurth and a few others pretty fair footballers are still on the Notre Dame squad. If they don't now, they will on Saturday.

Buckeyes Open Up Intensive Practices for Wisconsin Game

COLUMBUS, Oct. 25 (AP)—

The offense of the Ohio State football team was stressed today as the players started serious preparation for the Wisconsin game here Saturday. Only one touchdown has been scored by Ohio in the last three contests and the coaches said this situation must be remedied.

They accordingly dished out a number of new plays, all with touchdown possibilities. Special stress also was placed on drop and placekicking.

Marshall Oliphant, who has been alternating with Carl Cramer at quarterback, sprained his ankle during practice and will be out of the lineup for Friday night.

Squad in Condition

With the exception of Zud Schammel, giant tackle, who is suffering from an attack of boils, the entire squad was in uniform yesterday, and the Waterloo husky is expected to be back in shape by Friday night.

The following men will make the trip:

Ends—John Miller, Bob Loufek, Gene Clearman, Ray Fisher, Byron Bury.

Tackles—Zud Schammel, John Stuttsman, Leo Samuelson, Don Dorsey.

Guards—Ed Dolly, Wilmon Hass, Clarence Hipp, Tom Moore, Lumin Koura.

Centers—Capt. Marc Magnusson, Leon Landre, Harold Weber.

Quarterbacks—George Teyro, Howard Moffitt, Wilbur Wallace.

Halfbacks—Herman Schneidman, Joe Laws, Lawrence Parsons, Phil Thurlie, Dutch Schmidt, Ted Marash, George Ekdahl, Tom Corcoran, Voris Dickerson.

Fullbacks—Bernie Page, Bill Ash, Marvin Kuhn.

IOWA CITY 0 4 .000

Iowa City high school's hopes of getting out of the cellar position in the Mississippi Valley conference football standing hit rock bottom last Friday night when the Little Hawks eleven was let down 95 to 0 by the big West Waterloo team.

This appeared to be the Red and White's only hope for a conference win but turned out to be the biggest defeat of the season to date. The locals were badly crippled by the presence of several new men in the lineup who had had practically no experience this year.

Their possibilities of a victory this week are very slim as they go to Dubuque to play Friday night. Their opponents are much heavier and more experienced. They are now tied with Grant high of Cedar Rapids for second place in the league standing.

Davenport stepped into first place last week by taking a 6 to 0 victory at Clinton's Homecoming while Dubuque was dropping Grant of Cedar Rapids 7 to 6, before a Dad's night crowd.

Davenport threatened three times in the first half but lacked the final punch. They scored late in the third period when Bowers went over from the three yard line.

The Dubuque high game was scoreless during the first half. Two long passes in the third quarter, Anthony to Gibbs from the Dubuque 10 yard line, was good for 40 yards, and another from Barron to Gibbs for another 40 yards followed by two running plays resulted in a touchdown for Dubuque. Grant scored in the last quarter but failed to make the extra point.

Two other conference games will be played this week besides the Iowa City high-Dubuque contest. West Waterloo will play at Grant high of Cedar Rapids Friday night and Clinton will play at Washington high of Cedar Rapids, Saturday.

The Shamrocks need a victory to bring them back to the .500 level

Delta Chis Lead Speedball Tourney After Second Win; Delt Scalp Sigma Nu, 3-0

With heavy underfooting and in a drizzling rain, Delta Chi speedball artists came through their second game, yesterday afternoon, with a 6-1 victory over Delta Tau Delta. The Dubuque street crew looked good on passing and field work but couldn't find the scoring column. Wilson again took high honors for the game with five points.

The start was slow, slippery playing conditions preventing team play. Wilson counted first with a field goal plunking down under the bar. Later a pass from Janss was converted to a touchdown by Wilson. Parker counted a foul for the losers and Janss matched it for the Delta Chis.

Thomas and Parker on offense were outstanding for the Deltas while Tompkins of the winners performed well on the defense.

The game was exceedingly rough at all stages, the field being in too bad a condition to pass or kick well.

At a meeting of the rules and ineligibility committee of the interfraternity board of managers last night, a set of qualifications was drafted to care for athletic competition during the rest of the year.

There are six provisions as follows:

1. Any person winning a numerical major or minor letter on university teams is ineligible to compete in intramural teams in that sport.

2. Any person winning a numerical major or minor letter in any junior college or other institution of higher learning is ineligible to compete in intramurals in that sport in which he won the award.

3. Any person competing on varsity of freshman teams is ineligible to compete in intramurals in that sport.

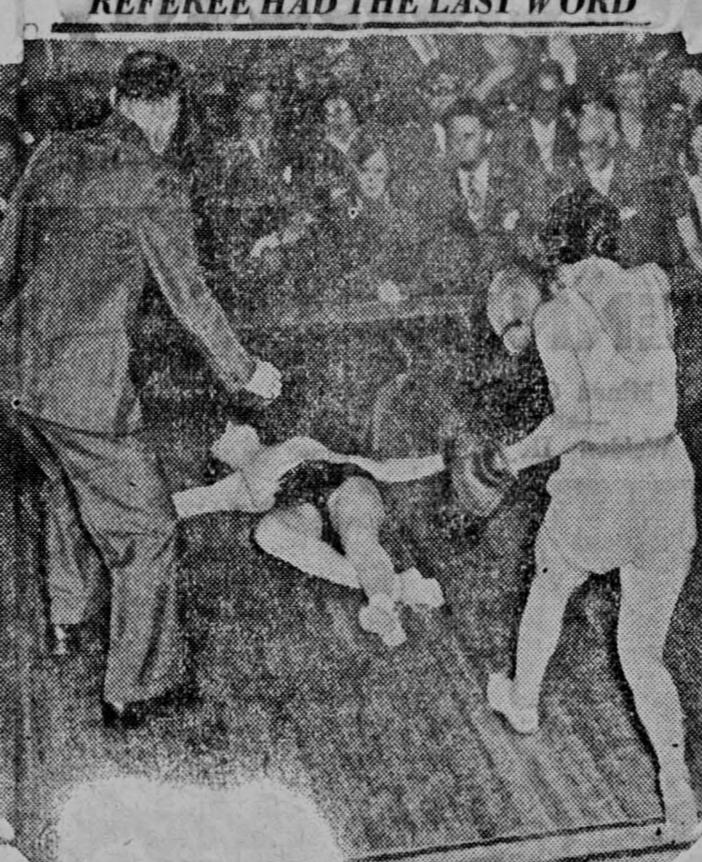

4. Any person whom a coach considers freshman or varsity caliber is ineligible to compete in that sport with intramurals.

5. Any team unable to begin play within 10 minutes after time scheduled will be subject to forfeit at the discretion of the other team.

6. Any team playing one or more ineligible men shall be required to forfeit all games previously played in which these men competed.

These rules are designed to be in cooperation with the athletic department in encouraging freshman and varsity competition, according to Robert Janss, LL of Atlantic, president of the board of managers and committee head. Arthur Hannes, J4 of Council Bluffs, and Jack Duvall, C3 of Davenport, are other members of the committee.

REFEREE HAD THE LAST WORD

Blase revellers of Gotham's night life got a new thrill in one of Broadway's amusement parlors recently when they were treated to the spectacle of two of the weaker sex putting on an exhibition of the manly art. Here is the finish of the fracas as Maxie Rosenblum, former ring champ, who acted as referee, counted 10 over Peggy Sloan, who had just received the coup de grace from Ginger Rogers (not the movie actress), of Boston. This bout was part of an all-women's program of fisticuffs.

Badger Line Star Ineligible; Failed to Fill Requisites

MADISON, Oct. 25 (AP)—Charles "Buckets" Goldenberg, veteran tackle, was ruled definitely ineligible today for further competition in Wisconsin athletics because he failed to carry the required number of courses. Loss of Goldenberg, who had played football two full seasons, brought gloom to the Badgers as they prepared for the Ohio State game Saturday.

George Thurmer, end, will probably take his place but the shift will mean many revisions in the line. Coach Spears stressed pass defense in the workout held in the the field house because of rain.

Stevens to Play

While Coach Boelter has not announced the line-up for Indiana, he indicated that Johnny Stevens, its chunky quartet, will be in heavy passes against the frosh varsity.

The line-ups for the other game have not been completed yet, but with the loss of Richards and Ewald, Minnesota should have more than an even chance to best Purdue.

Tracksters in Readiness for Second Meet

Inter-class rivalry for fall track honors will again be renewed this afternoon in the field house and on the west side as two separate meets, the upper class championships and the freshman championships, officially get under way.

The meets, holding up prizes of ribbons for the first three places, will resemble exactly the contest held last week with the exception that the half mile and the mile will not be run. The events to be contested will be the 100, 220, and 300 yard dashes, the discus, javelin, hammer throw, shot put, pole vault, broad jump, and high jump. Half of the events will take place Thursday.

Keener competition with consequent improved marks is expected in the meet today with the men fortified with an additional week of practice. Some of the freshmen hung up excellent results last week but were handicapped by lack of practice.

Outstanding freshman performers from last week such as Frank Cretzmeier, H. Davis, Mark Panther, and Bob Hemmingway are expected to better their attempts today.

Fresh football men may contest their event if they be in the weight class between 3 and 4 o'clock on old Iowa field.

HEART STRINGS

SYNOPSIS

Lovely, young Patricia Braithwaite agrees to marry wealthy, middle-aged Harvey Blaine because the father she adores is in financial straits. She hopes, however, that handsome Jack Laurence, a young camper whom she only met once—and the only man she ever wanted to kiss her—will rescue her from Blaine. When Jack fails to appear, she turns, in desperation, to Jimmie Warren, her Aunt Pamela's fascinating husband. They become infatuated and Pat breaks her engagement. Aunt Pam is suspicious but blames herself for warning Pat that love fades, inferring that her marriage to Jimmie had failed. Feeling that Pam no longer cares, Jimmie and Pat see no wrong in their "love." Then Jack appears, but Pat tells him he is too late; the emotion he awakened, blossomed to love under another's kiss. Jack, claiming he is the one Pat really cares for, refuses to give up, and the next day moves to her hotel. Jimmie avoids Pat because her father placed her in Pamela's care, and honor prevents him from masking love to her. The contest between Jack and Jimmie for Pat's love is on. Pamela looks on in painful amazement, realizing she still loves her husband.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Patricia meanwhile fluctuated between high elation and despair. She was furious at her father for putting her in Jimmie's house, under Jimmie's protection. Somehow he had suspected something, had outwitted Jimmie, and treated her like a child...

She had a nagging suspicion that the time had come when her father was going to issue commands... Well, it's too late for him to begin now. He's taught me that it was the right of every human being to live his own life...

That he had, however, lived her life worried her... Well, it just happened that I was his life. And Jimmie is mine. Dadums says himself that fathers and mothers who insist that their children live for them, are in love with themselves and are not thinking of the children. They are exacting payment for bringing up the children who didn't ask to be brought here in the first place. Course, if it comes to a question of debt and duty, I owe Dadums more than most daughters do. He's done everything for me...

But if he exacts payment for it, then he's knocked all his own teachings into a cocked hat, and I don't owe him a cent for stuffing me with lies.

Of course, there was but one thing to do—when the house party broke up, she would simply go back to the hotel. She confided her determination to Jack. He was both relieved and fearful of this step, but realizing that he could no longer remain with her, he felt it might be wiser to risk Warren's freedom from restraint—under his, Jack's, protection—than the danger of his own life.

Pamela was dressing for a costume ball at the Breakers, when Patricia came in to say she wanted to move back to the hotel. She wanted to be with the crowd. Their guests had that afternoon taken their hilarious departure.

Pamela looked up in surprise. "But what will Cousin John think?"

"He didn't think of what I'd think when he did a certain thing to me. I'm not a child. And I won't be treated like one."

"What is the trouble, Pat?"

"I'd rather not discuss it, Aunt Pam. I appreciate your goodness."

ing the tariff of products of the farm.

"Of course I have made no such proposal," he said, adding that he had advocated only the lowering of "outrageously excessive rates."

Tariff Policy

The governor said he knows of no "excessively high tariff duties on farm products" and does not intend for them to be lowered.

The governor termed "one of the most inexcusable actions" of the administration what he said was its delay in taking measures for relief of the needy.

"Cover Trail"

"The horseman of deceit," he said, is to "cover the trail" of the horsemen of destruction and delay.

"He tells you things that are not true," said the governor. "He attempts by misrepresentation and the distortion of facts to blind your eyes, to destroy your sense of direction, to paralyze your power of motion."

Criticize Treasury

He criticized the treasury on the ground it had made "misleading statements" on the amount of revenue needed. He charged that while the president publicly declared for economy his cabinet officers opposed efforts to reduce appropriations.

The president, he said, proposed budget balancing measures "two years too late."

"Unsound Spirit"

Among the "destruction" which he said has been wrought the governor referred to the "unsound spirit of speculation" and asserted "the administration gleefully gave encouragement" to it.

Governor Roosevelt said the "destruction" came likewise from the "false policy of lending money to backward and crippled countries" and "rope into every town and every county when the Grundy tariff was passed and signed."

Trade Fell

Saying that the Shoot-Hawley tariff led to widespread retaliations he asserted that after its passage American foreign trade "fell into a condition of stagnation."

He described as silly the contention he said his "distinguished opponent" was advancing that the Democratic candidate proposed to insure the farmer's market by lower-

Wheat Leads Drop to New Season Low

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (AP) — Wheat pitched headlong downward today to within 1-2 cent of the lowest price any future delivery of the grain had ever sold at in Chicago.

Abrupt withdrawal of Canadian government support for the Winnipeg wheat market was the main immediate reason ascribed for the break in values, which also was influenced by a steep new tumble in British exchange.

Corn, oats, and rye fell with wheat, and all four cereals outdid season bottom price records. December corn selling under 25 cents a bushel the first time since 1896.

Wheat closed restless, at almost the day's bottom 2 1-8@2 3-8 down yesterday's finish, corn 7-8@1 3-8 down, oats 3-8@2 off, and provisions unchanged.

Persistent stop loss selling by holders of Chicago wheat futures accompanied the general break in prices. Liquidating sales were much in evidence from the outset, and the only source of buying orders at times appeared to be previous sellers who could collect a profit.

Fresh disturbance of British exchange carrying the rates to a new low for the year was contended by some authorities to be only seasonal, but was asserted by others to be due to financial causes.

Despite brisk new export business in corn, that grain with oats and rye was governed chiefly by wheat weakness.

Provisions reflected downturns of hog values and cereals,

Hoover to Remain Democrat

FREMONT, Neb., (AP)—Herbert Hoover, 61 year old blacksmith here whose legal residence is in Manning, Ia., declared he will vote the Democratic ticket in November, as he has done for the last 40 years.

Hoover's stand was criticized by the govern-

He described as silly the contention he said his "distinguished opponent" was advancing that the Democratic candidate proposed to insure the farmer's market by lower-but I've some say about my life." So, Pamela reflected, Pat had discovered that Jimmie had been put on honor, and Jimmie alone could have told her. There was then an understanding between them... He had felt obliged to explain his restraint.

Her dismayed heart thudding painfully, she asked, "What will others think of your going?"

"Oh, the girls understand, to the old people are used to their children living their own lives."

"I'm sorry; but I suppose you'll do as seems best to you, my dear," Pamela said quietly.

Patricia felt disgruntled and miserable. "Aunt Pam, you've given me such a wonderful party. I do feel grateful; but you don't understand."

"Do, my dear. Don't you think you'd better dress?"

Hesitating and unhappy, Patricia lingered a moment, trying to think of something further to say.

Warren came in and sat watching Pamela's maid adjust her Marie Antoinette wig.

"Pat wants to move back to the hotel. Do you think we should let her?" Pamela said presently. In the mirror she saw guilty relief in his eyes.

"I don't see how we can prevent her if she wants to go."

"But what will Cousin John say?"

"That's between her and him. We have no control over her except in so far as she obeys him. And young people don't these days."

"Anyway, I'm going to wire him." He got up hurriedly and went back to his room without replying. "Heavens!" she thought, "is this one's idea to get around his own sense of decency?"

"Thank you, Mrs. Warren, I'll be glad to."

She went on graciously: "I had expected to have a rather large tea at the cottage; but I'm planning to have some repairs done while I'm here, so we'll probably move over to the hotel tomorrow. It's useless to have repairs made when one is away. They're never done right."

Patricia gave her cousin a swift look. Warren's smiling eyes did not falter. This being the first either of them had heard of repairs, they wondered just what it meant. Anyway, thought Patricia, I won't be under her roof. Nor Jimmie's protection.

She bore Jack off to the ballroom proudly—hoping Jimmie was wild with jealousy. As they passed through the Palm Room, Pat's eyes encountered a pair of soft hazel ones. She had been hearing a good deal about Mrs. Browne since she had stepped out of the elevator as Jack stepped into it, later attracting more than passing attention from "the gang" on her way back from the library. Not in fancy costume nor evening dress, the woman appeared merely a detached spectator who had dropped in to look on for a few minutes, having no real part in the hotel life. Appearing neither shy nor bold nor eager, yet interested, she had the air of an onlooker, content to remain such. No questing of eyes for company, either masculine or feminine. No restlessness, nor hint of desire to be elsewhere. Absorbed in the passing show of the Palm Room, her very quiet was impressive. Norman Thomas Returns From 38-State Campaign

Says Roosevelt Gaining Strength on Negative Sentiment

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, came back today from a 38-state campaign tour declaring that Governor Roosevelt "is running strong on the most negative sentiment ever created."

"The voters are putting cotton in their ears so they can cast their ballots for Roosevelt without hearing why they shouldn't," said the tall, lanky former minister.

Smooth Swing to Hoover

"There has been a slight swing to President Hoover lately, but not nearly as great a swing as his managers claim."

"As between the two, I'd go fishing."

Thomas called his 10,000-mile tour, during which he made 125 addresses, an "upper berth campaign."

"I'd ridden the rails if possible," he added.

Definite Trend

In declaring his expectation of a vote on Nov. 8 that "will go down in history as marking the first great definite trend to Socialism in this country," he said:

"And to think that when I campaigned four years ago I wasn't even the 'forgotten man.' I was only the 'anonymous man.' This time I've had up to 10,000 persons tramping through the rain to hear me—and many paid admission to get in."

Break Precedent

He said he would break political precedent and do a last minute bit of campaigning in Wisconsin on election eve in an effort to swing the progressives of that state into the Socialist camp.

Meantime, he has a full schedule which takes him tomorrow into Pennsylvania, then to Boston, Connecticut, and upper New York, with a rally in Madison Square Garden Nov. 3.

Thomas predicted the election of Socialist candidates for congress in Pennsylvania, California and Wisconsin. This representation, he added, would be greatly increased in 1934.

Federal Board Sees General Increase in Industrial Activities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—An increase in industrial activity, factory employment, payroll totals and railroad commodity shipments from August to September was reported today by the Federal Reserve board in its monthly review of business and financial conditions.

The board said that industrial activity and commodity movement increased by considerably more than the usual seasonal margin while the advance in the volume of factory employment and payrolls also was greater than usual for the time of year. After advancing for three months, the general level of prices showed a decline early in September.

Industrial production, the board said, increased from a low point of 58 per cent of the 1923-1925 average, in July, to 60 per cent in August and 66 per cent in September.

Auditor Will Issue Absent Voters Ballots

Absent and disabled voters' ballots are now available at the Johnson county courthouse, County Auditor Ed Sulek said yesterday.

First applications from those who will be unable to attend the polls Nov. 8 were received last week.

Ballots may be applied for in person or through the mails. In answer to the applications the auditor delivers copy of the official ballot, either personally, through his deputy, or by mail.

A notary public must be present when the voter marks his choice. The voter fills out his own ballot and seals it in the envelope furnished, swearing to an affidavit on the reverse side.

The voter must deliver his ballot in person or by mail directly to the county auditor. At no time in delivering or returning the ballot may a third party assist, according to law. If application for the ballot is made by a third person, it is sent directly to the voter himself.

Those absent voters desiring to vote may go directly to the auditor's office. County Auditor Sulek urges all absent voters to apply to him at once for their ballots.

"What on earth are you up to now?"

FINDING things out, smarty! I thought I'd examine the tobacco in a cigarette.

"Look here...this is Chesterfield tobacco. Notice its lighter color...you don't see any dark heavy types, do you? I guess that's why Chesterfields are milder."

"I'm told that uniformly lighter color is due to cross-blending. It sort of welds all the tobaccos into one."

"And here's something else. Notice that these long shreds are all cut the same width. It stands to reason they burn smoother and cooler."

"I don't pretend to be an expert but it looks to me as if they make Chesterfields right."

"Here, light one. That's the best test after all. They Satisfy."
