ACADEMY OF MUSIC, Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight told a crowd that filled every seat of the Academy of Music he considered that "to take advantage of the deprivation" of the people, "to spread among them the gospel of fear is about the most reprehensible act of a campaign that has yielded many examples of unscrupulous appeal for votes."

"I Socked Him," Says Otto. "Five Bucks," Says Judge

"I socked him in the eye and then he cussed me, judge, and that's about all there is to it," said Otto Schenk. And it cost him $5 and costs yesterday in the court of Police Judge Charles L. Zager. Mr. Schenk paid the fine and immediately filed charges against Frank Brawner for disturbing the peace. Frank Brawner also paid $5 and costs.

Countess Bethlen Delivers Second in Lecture Series

Recounts Experiences as Wife of Prime Minister

The horrors of war and the pleasures of later meeting some of titled nobility of Europe, as experienced by the wife of a prime minister, were related last night by Countess Margit Bethlen of Hungary. Speaking to an audience which nearly filled natural science auditorium, the countess mixed humor and pathos in recalling her adventures for the last score of years. Her life in her native country of Transylvania, before the World war broke out, was that of the average person of titled rank. She, Count Bethlen, and their three sons were comfortably situated in their little village.

Mott Greets Editors Here at Conference

Bring Meeting to Close With Program for Today

Informal talks, addresses, round tables, a dinner, and a university lecture were features of the program of the eighth annual Iowa newspaper conference yesterday at Iowa Union. The conference opened with an address of welcome by Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the school of journalism, in which he stressed the fact that editors are discarding expensive luxuries which were considered necessities three years ago, and getting down to fundamentals. Newspapers now are giving and interpreting the news, entertaining, and stimulating and speeding up the business of the community through advertising, Professor Mott told the editors.

Charges Libel on Credit

"This has been clearly shown since, was a libel on the credit of the United States," he said. "No adequate answer has been made to the magnificent philippic of Senator Glass the other night in which he showed how unsound was this assertion. "And I might add, Senator Glass made a devastating challenge that no responsible government would have sold to the country securities payable in gold if it knew that promise—yes, the covenant—was embodied in these securities—was as dubious as the president of the United States claims it was. Of course the assertion was unsound."

Gained First Hand Knowledge

He said that his visit to the 37 states of the union had given him a first hand knowledge "that the nation in every part is stirred by a great humane crisis." "Because of what I have seen," he said, "I have been scrupulously careful to make no idle promises, to raise no false hopes, and at the same time to engage in no personalities, no unfair innuendoes, no baseless charges against the president of the United States."

Smith Wisecracks Hoover Comeback

In a speech bristling with satire, former Governor Smith said that the administration not only had failed to bring about governmental economy but "Hoover himself with the aid of a Republican congress further bedeviled the situation by creating in four years 35 new departments and boards. "At Madison Square Garden on Monday night the president made the extraordinary statement that if we did anything to the tariff the churches, the schools and the hospitals, would decay and grass would grow on the principal streets of our great city," Smith said. "So what do you think I did about it? I immediately made arrangements for a putting green."

Editor Talks

Ben J. Preuss, editor of the Sac City Sun, said that editors are practicing economies now rather than lowering standards. The county seat paper cannot let down standards on editorials, Mr. Preuss asserted. The president of the Iowa Press association, J. M. Beck, editor of the Centerville Iowan, outlined four necessary attitudes for the community weekly editor: tolerance, a sense of responsibility towards the community and subscribers, unselfishness, and enthusiasm.

Talks of Column

In discussing the question of whether or not party papers are advisable, John Hynek, editor of the Tama News-Herald, told how he and his former partner each ran a column favoring one of the parties. A one-party paper may lose some of its subscribers through its narrowness, he said. To be fair, a paper should present both parties' views. That problem of gathering new subscriptions and renewing and collecting for old subscriptions can be solved was the contention of Herman Roe, secretary of the National Editorial association, in an address on current newspaper problems. Various schemes toward this end were outlined by Mr. Roe. New ideas were contributed by C.

Police Nab Youth as "Peeping Tom"

After a week of constant watching police arrested a 15 year old peeping tom at 6:15 p.m. yesterday on the roof of Eastlawn. The boy was released and will report to Mabel Evans, probation officer. Currier hall, Eastlawn, and various sororities on the campus have reported peeping toms recently and police have been maintaining a careful watch for the last week or so.

War Seemed Distant

"When the war first broke out," she said, "it seemed so distant—we thought of it as something that would last only a few months; and since our country didn't start it, I had not the slightest idea that my husband would be called upon to serve."

Escaped by Chance

"It was merely a chance that he escaped safely," she explained; "we flipped a coin to see which of two roads we would take back to our lines, and it happened that the road we took was the one which the enemy wasn't shelling that night."

Rebuilt Government

For 10 years, Count Bethlen knitted together the broken strands of law and government, during which time he and the countess visited other members of the royalty in European countries, and entertained them in their own home.

London Professor to Lecture Tonight in Science Auditorium

"Trends in English drama since 1900" will be the subject of a public lecture by Alardyce Nicol, professor of English literature at the University of London, England, at 8 o'clock tonight in natural science auditorium. Professor Nicol is a leading authority on the history of English drama, and is the author of numerous books in that field. Having arrived in Iowa City last night, Professor Nicol is a guest at the home of Prof. Baldwin Maxwell of the department of English, during his brief stay. He will leave soon after his lecture tonight.

Hail to the Days of Brigham Young!

Brigham Young and the sultan say "yes," but the law says "no." And so Lyle Morden, 45, was arrested yesterday by Sheriff Don McComas on the charge of bigamy and is being held at the county jail. The warrant for his arrest was issued by Justice of the Peace Elias J. Hughes.

ISSUES of 1932

2. Special Problems (a) Taxation and Economy

(Editor's note: The problem of taxation and economy is presented here as the first of three most important special problems facing the nation as it goes to the polls. The other two, public utilities and peace, will follow in consecutive issues of The Daily Iowan. The author of this article, Richard W. Nelson, assistant professor in the economics department of the college of commerce, conducts a university course in public finance; and acted as special economics assistant to the joint legislative committee on taxation that reported to the state legislature last year.)

By RICHARD W. NELSON

In one sense, tax and expenditure reductions are not issues in the current political campaign. Such is the case, at least, if an "issue" be defined as a question of policy with respect to which there exists a clear-cut difference of opinion between parties. Both major parties have declared loudly and repeatedly for a balanced federal budget and reduced federal expenditures. Each party argues that, in view of the profligate inclinations of the opposing party, the public purse may be safely entrusted only to its own care. The old quarrel between the pot and the kettle can hardly be made intellectually respectable by calling it an issue, however.

Total Outlay on 1929 Level

If, on the other hand, an "issue" is held to be simply a national problem of great importance, then surely the present fiscal question may be so labeled. The national income for 1929 was estimated to be in excess of $90,000,000,000; by 1931 it had declined to about $55,000,000,000. The expenditures of all governmental units—federal, state, and local—were between 12 and 13 billion dollars during 1929, or 14 per cent of the national income.

Samuel D. Whiting of Iowa City, and Mrs. Alex Miller of Washington, Ia., candidate for secretary of the state, will be the principal speakers tonight at a Democratic rally at Fairfield.

Revised Team

It will be a revised, and possibly rejuvenated Hawkeye eleven that will take the field at 2 o'clock this afternoon, following a week of drill during which Coach Ossie Solem tore his first string to shreds, and then reassembled it with several radical changes, in an effort to mould a hard-driving offense that will click.

On paper the Huskers hold the edge, and figure to win, but that is not taking into consideration the traditional battle which puts in an appearance whenever the two meet.

Knights of Pythias Gather in Iowa City for District Meet

Ira E. Clark Gives Main Address Last Night

More than 225 Knights of Pythias, national, state, and local, attended the regional district meeting held in the hall of the local Corinth lodge No. 24 last night. Past Grand Chancellor, Ira E. Clark of the Domain of Washington, and assistant to the Supreme Keeper of Records and Seals, of Minneapolis, Minn., was the principal speaker of the evening.

Mr. Clark spoke on the subject, "Is fraternalism worth while?" He explained that the Knights of Pythias order is founded on friendship, and told of the many ways in which the members of the organization show friendship toward their neighbors. "We should have faith in the Pythias lodge, especially now during these days of depression," said Mr. Clark. "The order has proved its worth many times. It is always first in giving aid to its brothers in distress. In times of floods, sickness, and any disaster of importance it has been ready and willing to help, not only its own members but all the needy."

Care for Homeless Children

The organization has homes in the west caring for 7,000 homeless children. The speaker said that this work alone was reason enough why the lodge should exist.

Last night's meeting was opened at 7 p. m. with the conferring of the rank of page. Herman Uhde of Davenport, district deputy and grand chancellor, was in charge of the affair, and introduced J. L. Plum, past grand chancellor commander of Iowa, who gave the address of welcome. The response was given by Frank S. Hite, past grand chancellor commander of Marengo. Next the roll call was taken which was answered by representatives from 13 lodges.

Other speakers on the program were Ward Ferguson, grand keeper of records and seals, of Des Moines and Arthur Greesing, vice grand chancellor commander, of Muscatine. Greetings to the district from the grand lodge were given by W. T. S. Rath, grand chancellor, of Alton.

J. L. Plum presented the "Dozen Club" with buttons, and this was followed by closing remarks by Fred Garber of Waterloo and Robert Hills of Marengo, past grand chancellor. A luncheon was served at the close of the meeting.

Chase, Smart Speak Before I.S.T.A. Meet

Economist Sees New Era Developing in America

DES MOINES, Nov. 4 (AP)—Iowa teachers attending their annual convention today were reminded that the age-old objectives like character training should remain the ideals of the classrooms.

In three speeches delivered at a general session and in nearly two-score talks at sectional meetings speakers stressed that although economic trends may waver teachers must remain steadfast to ideals of loyalty, honesty, morality, courage, beauty and happiness.

Teachers Must Lead

Their president, Supt. Frank L. Smart of Davenport, declared that teachers must lead in a return "to the courage of the pioneers." Dr. R. L. Lyman of the University of Chicago, asserted that character education is the foundation of American democracy. Stuart Chase, author and economist, envisioned a new social order based on an equality of purchasing power with the producing power of the nation.

Tomorrow, at the concluding session of the four-day convention, the electorate of the Iowa State Teachers' association will choose officers for the ensuing year. For the presidency, I. H. Hart of the Iowa State Teachers college extension division has been named. The nominating committee also chose Clay D. Sinker of Des Moines for the treasurer and Supt. Jack Logan of Creston for a post on the executive committee.

Asks Economy

President Smart echoed sentiments expressed by several other speakers that, while school executives must be prepared to eliminate unnecessary expenses, they must also guard against any attempt at economy that might jeopardize efficiency in Iowa's schools. "There must be no ill-advised action," he said, "taken in the name of economy which will rob the child of his inherent right to an education."

Epoch Beginning

Chase declared one era of American life had ended and that another was beginning. Steps leading to the crystallization of the epoch he said are: revision of the credit system with abandonment of the gold standard; raising of wages and the establishment of a definite minimum wage; control and regulation of investment and speculation; a public works program financed by greatly increased inheritance taxes and higher rates in the upper income tax brackets; shorter hours and shorter working weeks; national and regional planning boards to coordinate the development of this new era.

Expresses Theme

President R. M. Hughes of Iowa State college, in a sectional meeting, expressed the opinion that "the new theme in education is consolidation, correlation, and integration." This, he said, is a complete reversal of the general policy of the last 20 years of specialization and departmentalization.

On Saturday's final general program are speeches by Agnes Sampson, Iowa superintendent of public instruction, on "An educational program for Iowa"; J. N. Darling of Des Moines on "Iowa's conservation plan," and by Dr. Alexander Melikoff of the University of Wisconsin philosophy department, on "Education and the new social order."

Hoover Worships Big Money Interests, Johnson Maintains

Compares Philosophies of Presidential Candidates

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—Senator Hiram Johnson, in an address prepared for delivery here tonight, asserted that the Hoover administration had conducted "our affairs as if there were divine right of big business to exploit all the rest of us."

The California Republican, supporter of President Hoover in the 1928 campaign, spoke in behalf of the candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for president.

Two Philosophies

Proclaiming he was a "progressive Republican" Senator Johnson said the voters Tuesday had a choice of determining between two philosophies of government.

"The philosophies of government which clash in this struggle," Senator Johnson said, "are exactly the same which led to the glorious pro-

Comparative Republican adventure of 1912.

"Right of People"

"The one represents, and this is his (President Hoover's), the 'divine right' of big business and of the international bankers and of great corporations to maintain, operate and conduct our government; and the other represents, and it is Roosevelt's, the right of all the people, high and low, big and little, rich and poor alike, to share in the blessings of government and to participate, if bounty be extended, in its benefits," Senator Johnson said.

Gov. Roosevelt, he said, believed in "the old progressive doctrine—that government's first concern is its humanity."

"False Prophecies"

Senator Johnson attacked the Hoover administration as "three years of false prophecies and broken promises."

"And now in a political campaign," Senator Johnson said, "the administration that had needed no warnings preaches a gospel of fear, and with it cries, 'it might have been worse; and demands that the pilot of the shipwreck be kept at the helm.

"Condemned by Record"

"The record of the administration is its condemnation," he said. "Farm relief, gibby assured, has been a farce; unemployment, denied originally, has neither been halted or relieved; the greatest of economic questions, electrical power, is met by the old standpat laissez faire doctrine; foreign securities with little or no value foisted by international bankers upon an unsuspecting public are viewed with indifference; foreign debts are threatened to be transmuted into additional taxes for overburdened taxpayers, and the whole philosophy of government is predicated upon the divine right of big business to exploit the people generally."

Mr. Dossie said that work is the only means he knew of toward this end. His idea of work was an old-fashioned one he said, "Work hard, no matter how bad you feel."

Advertising is the "bread and butter" of a newspaper, Mr. Brown declared. He illustrated his point by showing advertising plans worked out by the Journal in cooperation with various organizations of the community, the American Legion, merchants, auctioneers, and others. Mr. Taylor stressed advertising in his contribution. "New arguments have to be supplied to sell advertising now," he declared.

"Hard times I have known," a talk by J. Kirk Latta, editor of the Morning Sun News-Herald, was drawn from his experience in 45 years of newspaper work. He expressed confidence that newspapers would always pull through their hard times.

Cross-Blending WHAT IS IT..and how does it improve cigarette taste? YOU'VE heard how fruit of one variety has been crossed with fruit of another to produce a new and more pleasing flavor. The loganberry, for example, is a cross between the raspberry and the blackberry. Chesterfield's Cross-Blend gets the same result—better taste—by a different method. It welds together the different kinds of several varieties of tobacco. Many types of Bright tobacco, a great many types of Burley tobacco, and numerous grades of Turkish tobacco are all merged into one—Chesterfield tobacco. This welding or Cross-Blending goes beyond ordinary blending or mixing tobaccos together. It actually makes every kind of tobacco in Chesterfield partake of the qualities of every other type. It's the Cross-Blending of fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos that gives Chesterfields a distinctive, better taste. They are milder. They have a flavor and aroma which, we believe, you will like.

What Price Dole?

THE unemployed riots in England are just another manifestation of the old adage about getting a plum and wanting the whole pie.

England's outbreaks center about dissatisfaction with certain phases of payment to unemployed. The system is certainly cumbersome and complex, and those shortcomings have provided much of the basis for protest.

England pays unemployment insurance money for six weeks, regardless of the means of the recipient; after that, those out of work must apply for transitional benefits, paid only if the public assistance authority is satisfied that the applicant needs the money.

The "means" test—most provocative to the applicants for transitional benefits—was given to some 840,000 unemployed between Jan. 25 and Aug. 6 this year.

The unrest is directly traceable to the "means" test, in which each applicant must reveal to the questioning authority any other means of support, whether or not some member of the family is employed, whether or not the applicant owns his own home, takes in tenants, has saved part of the insurance money he received.

But the unemployed do not like to answer personal questions of that sort and so are rebelling against them. Private affairs, after all, are private affairs, and what business is it of the state if a man out of work takes in lodgers or has an inheritance to keep him alive?

Some grievances, on the other hand, are justified. If a man owns a house, his portion of the dole ought not be computed on the capital value but upon income, which makes a noticeable difference.

The serious problem facing the British government might be alleviated by an alteration in the system. Certainly, it would never have occurred if the dole had not been put into operation in the first place.

Home-Made Happiness

HOME MADE happiness is coming to the United States more and more, in the opinion of Prof. W. H. Stacy, extension rural sociologist of Iowa State college, and speaker at the seventy-seventh annual convention of the Iowa State Teachers' association.

Professor Stacy spoke in the convention sessions this week before persons interested in adult education, and touched upon 12 divisions of what he termed the "cultural arts in rural America."

"Perhaps the most immediate reason," he told the state educators, "lies in the fact that farm people are seeking ways of freeing themselves from the cares and problems of the day.

"In other words, a little reading, music, or a few games make home something more than a house. And a saner, more rounded living should be the result of such environment.

Socialists and Tomorrow

LIBERALITY has spread over the United States in a growing wave, increasing year by year since the World war. Conservatives have become liberals and reactionaries have become conservatives.

One recalls the derision heaped upon the head of the elder Bob LaFollette only 10 years ago and the scorn and ridicule which was the lot of Eugene V. Debs. In this connection, the writer remembers the vigorous and sincere pronouncements of a then liberal Democrat who claimed that these men intended to destroy the very foundations of the constitution.

All that has changed. One by one the policies advocated long ago by the LaFollettes and the Norrises and the Debeses are being incorporated into the law and taken up by the major parties.

This tendency has grown to such proportions that Norman Thomas demands almost universal respect and admiration and meets his strongest opposition because of the general belief that a Socialist vote would be a vote thrown away on an ideal.

Experts predict that the Socialist party will garner at least 2,000,000 votes this year, the largest number in their history. It would be interesting to read the Socialist palm and to foretell its place in the sun in 1940.

But They Can Only Wait

With 47 million qualified voters in the country, there has arisen speculation as to how many of them actually will vote next Tuesday. Probably enough, or almost enough, of them will vote this time.

At all events, Mr. Garner should be in a unique position to write a history of the campaign. —Springfield Republican

TODAY'S TOPICS

BY FRANK JAFFE

The neglect of some voters to register their opinions at the polls on election day is termed "cynicism" by 1920 Democratic Presidential Nominee James M. Cox.

The voters' strike is due, Mr. Cox declares, to the growing lack of confidence in politics and government. And the lack of confidence has come about through the coercive politics instigated by Mark Hanna and the Republican leaders.

No longer is there democratic politics in the United States, the former governor of Ohio is convinced. Money has usurped the office of men. "The people" refuse "to sit in a game in which they saw the cards so stacked against them."

But Cox assured his listeners that the business of government will be conducted in purely routine fashion from election day to the day of inauguration of the new president, so that there really isn't a thing to worry about.

Mr. Cox said many other things in his speech at Cincinnati the other day—among them the startling statement that "there can be no doubt that the President is mad"—but what he said about lack of confidence in government is alone worthy of comment.

Perhaps he overlooked the fact that if anyone might be guilty of lack of confidence it is he—and all others who heap derision and censure upon those who have been duly elected by consent of the people to do the people's bidding.

Not voting does not necessarily mean "no confidence." In European parliaments, "no confidence" is sometimes the result of an actual vote, under slightly different circumstances.

This business of building up confidence depends almost wholly on the people themselves. It is what they want to believe that determines how much or how little faith they have in their government.

Nor does it follow that confidence will come with a complete change of administration and alteration of the balance in the legislative bodies.

An analysis of the reasons why many persons with voting qualifications do not take advantage of their right to vote would be too lengthy for presentation here.

But considering the number of persons who fail to vote every four years, there is little room for placing the blame on the present Republican regime.

Name S. U. I. Delegates for Meeting Here

29 Universities Will Send Officials to Sessions

Thirteen faculty men officially will represent the University of Iowa at the annual meeting of the Association of American Universities held here next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The Iowa delegation is the largest from any of the 29 member universities. Minnesota is sending four men, while three each will come from the Universities of Chicago, Illinois, Michigan, and Washington of St. Louis. One or more deans and professors will represent the other members.

Iowa Representatives

The Iowans are: President Walter A. Jessup; Deans Carl E. Seashore, graduate; Eugene A. Gilmore, law; Henry S. Houghton, medicine; George F. Kay, liberal arts; Paul C. Packer, education; Chester A. Phillips, commerce; and C. C. Williams, engineering.

Professors Edward Bartow, chemistry; Norman N. Foerster, school of letters; Edward C. Mable, speech and dramatic arts; Benj. F. Shambaugh, political science; and George W. Stewart, physics.

The meetings are not open to the public, but members of the graduate faculty are invited. The visitors will have luncheon at Iowa Union, all three days, and members of the faculty are invited to join the group, particularly those who have friends among the visitors. Friday night's dinner is open to faculty members, provided tickets are purchased or reserved at Iowa Union six hours in advance.

Visiting Delegates

Visiting delegates, together with the universities they represent are: Dean Charles B. Lipman, California; Dean Roy J. DeFerrari, Catholic; Dean Henry G. Gale, Prof. Charles H. Judd, and Prof. William A. Nitze, Chicago; President Wallace W. Atwood, Clark; Dean Howard L. McBain and Dr. Adam Leroy Jones, Columbia.

Other Delegates

Dean C. C. Williams Writes Article for "Civil Engineering"

Dean C. C. Williams of the college of engineering is the author of an article which appears in the November issue of the magazine, "Civil Engineering." It is entitled "Small earth vibrations affect foundations."

Dean Williams discusses the structural significance of jars produced by blasting, pile driving, traffic, rotating machinery, and subways, and suggests methods of lessening these effects.

The article is illustrated with charts and a photograph, prepared during experiments conducted by Dean Williams at the Universities of Iowa and Illinois.

Four Iowans Plan Trip to See Meteors

Check Apparatus for Study of Leonid Shower

Apparatus now is being checked over by three scientists at the University of Iowa as they prepare to leave next Tuesday for Arizona to observe and record data on the Leonid meteor shower.

Four men, under the guidance of Prof. Charles C. Wylie, university astronomer, will work between Nov. 14 and 20 from two points in the western state.

Use Photographs

Since the rocking mirror device for measuring meteor velocity is too cumbersome and delicate to be transported to Arizona in an automobile, the astronomers will use photographic records in the computation of velocity, Professor Wylie said yesterday.

The photography will be in charge of Ray Anderson of Cedar Rapids, while Prof. T. C. Poulter and R. E. Criley, both of Iowa Wesleyan college, will aid Wylie with the observation and computation work. Poulter will join the Byrd expedition in 1933 as meteor observer.

Unusual Display

That the 1932 display of Leonids will be the best since the early years of the century is the belief of astronomers. The little meteors may appear at the rate of more than five per minute, with the maximum likely to be reached in the early morning hours of Nov. 16.

Not only will the Iowans compute velocity, but they also will plot the paths of the flashing meteors in the atmosphere, in an attempt to discover more accurate facts about them. Since first seen more than a thousand years ago, the Leonids have remained somewhat of an enigma to astronomers.

The most famous nose in history: Salvinio Cyrano de Bergerac, French swordsman, writer and philosopher, lived to the age of 36. In his lifetime he fought more than a thousand duels. It has been historically ascertained that he killed 10 men for looking askance at his nose. This famous nose, which a contemporary writer likened to a large, yellow cucumber picturesquely curved, made its owner particularly sensitive in matters of his appearance. In view of Cyrano's skill with the sword, it was said that it was "death to look at his nose." Tomorrow: "The forgotten man."

John J. Raskob Says Election Already Won by Democrats

Outlines Program for Quick Return of Prosperity

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—John J. Raskob, in a Democratic campaign address tonight, said he considered the election already won by the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, and then outlined a five-point program "that can be quickly accomplished and will greatly facilitate a quick return of prosperity and morality in our country."

His program, as outlined in an advance copy of his radio talk given out at Democratic national headquarters, is:

"1. Pending repeal of the 18th amendment, liberalize the Volstead act to permit the manufacture, transportation and sale of light wines and beer.

"2. Levy an excise tax on beer and wine designed to produce a federal revenue of $1,000,000,000 annually, instead of having the public pay twice this amount to bootleggers for poor products illicitly made.

Change High Sur-Taxes "3. Make radical changes in the high sur-taxes on incomes, and impose a general sales tax of 13 per cent, if this is necessary temporarily to balance the budget.

"4. Drastically reduce all federal expenditures, by forcing the government to economize in all directions, exactly as every individual citizen has had to do, and in this way.

"5. Balance the budget."

'Gospel of Hate'

"Of the presidential campaign, the former Democratic national chairman and manager of the Smith-Robinson campaign, said:

"In 1928 we witnessed the sorry spectacle of our Republican opponents under the leadership of Herbert Hoover preaching a 'gospel of hate.'

"Today, four years later, that same Republican party is preaching a 'gospel of hate' to a prostrated people just as they are beginning to see a ray of light at the end of the tunnel, after three years of dread, darkness and uncertainty—all under Republican rule."

Raskob said he thought "there is an unlimited field for American prosperity," but added he was convinced "it lies in a diametrically opposite direction" from that taken by Mr. Hoover.

West Branch Rallies to Down U. High, 13-7; Irish Get 6-6 Tie

Visitors Score Two Quick Touchdowns to Take Lead; Ohlmacher Scores for Blue

Makes 40 Yard Run in First Quarter After Taking Pass; Wentz Tallies Both Times to Give Purple First Win Over Locals

By RON TALLMAN
(Assistant Sports Editor, The Daily Iowan)

All the pent-up fury of years was crowded into five rain-soaked and wind-swept minutes on old Iowa field yesterday afternoon—five minutes which saw West Branch overtake and defeat a University high eleven for the first time in the history of football relations between these two schools—five minutes; the ball game; revenge!

It was a battle all the way between these two evenly matched teams a battle which saw the Blue cross the Purple's goal in the first few minutes and which later witnessed a comeback as startling as it was irresistible to hang a 13 to 7 defeat on U. High's Little Seven record.

Score Quickly

The Blue and White Homecoming crowd didn't have long to wait before its entrant took the lead, one which lasted until West Branch made its big comeback in the third period. Starting on their own 33 yard line after Bob Schnoebelen's return of the initial kick-off, Bill Ohlmacher and Little Mike Mentzer, fullback for the day, combined to make a first down on the 43 yard line.

A five yard penalty was slapped on the visitors and then Bob Meyers, the Blue's quarterback, dropped back to his own 40 yard line to toss a flat pass to Ohlmacher on the Purple 40 yard marker. The ransy back raced for the eastern sidelines and behind the perfect interference of his mates, went down the field to score unmolested. Ohlmacher's pass to Schnoebelen was good for the extra point.

Come Back Strong

And from then on for the remainder of the first half, the U. high boys had the best of the argument. But it was an entirely different aggregation as far as spirit and head-up football that swept the locals aside at the start of the ill-fated third.

Moore, the husky fullback who had spelled disaster to St. Pat's earlier in the season, became a plunging demon, cracking off tackle time after time for big gains. But it remained for a break to bring the big turning point. The rain, which was coming down fast, made the ball slippery and turned the field into a greasy quagmire. Bill Ohlmacher, back on his own 40 yard line to kick, partially slipped and fumbled the ball. Although he recovered, the ball went to West Branch on the 42 yard marker.

Wentz Scores Twice

Seven plays later, with Moore carrying the brunt of the attack, the ball was on the University high 5 yard line. And then the chief villain in the visitors' lineup, Wentz, a climax runner of ability, smashed his own left tackle for the score. Moore added the point on a plunge.

The visitors kicked to Meyers who returned to the 30 yard line, but once more the Blue's running attack bogged down and Ohlmacher dropped back to kick. An alert Purple lineman partially blocked the attempt, the ball slithering out of bounds and another 42 yard drive was started. On three plays, Moore carried to the 22 yard line at which point Wentz once more provided the climactic punch. On a reverse to the right, the big back knifed through tackle behind good interference and stumbled his way across for the score, the last of the game.

Threaten At Last

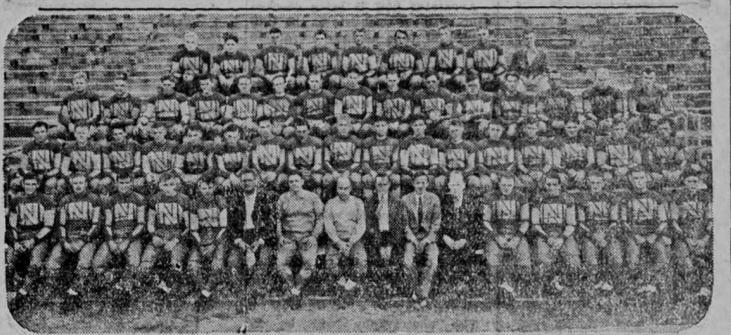

The fourth quarter was played entirely in U. high territory, the visitors once more threatening through the line as the game ended with the ball on the Blue's 12 yard line.

Dividing the main ball totting duties for the losers, Ohlmacher and Mentzer gained 29 and 24 yards respectively. In this game, with big Larry Fuhrmeister once more absent, Ohlmacher proved his worth once more as not only a good all-around offensive performer, but also a really outstanding defensive man. Time after time, he made tackles which averted long runs for scores.

Wentz, he who scored twice, ran

Strong Grinnell Outfit Wins; Leo Campisi Gets Fourth

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
GRINNELL, Nov. 4.—Iowa cross country men were beaten by a strong Grinnell outfit here today by a score of 24 to 34. Though the defeat was the third in a row for the Hawkeyes, they showed great improvement over any past performance as the whole team led for the first mile only to be beaten over the last mile and a half.

The mighty little atom, Mike Pillsbury of Grinnell, won the individual honors handsily in the time of 12:29.6, a comfortable margin ahead of his teammates Gordon and Pfeiffer, who took second and third respectively.

Campisi Fourth
The Iowa contingent was also led by a diminutive runner, Capt. Leo Campisi, who took fourth place about 40 yards back of Pillsbury and a scant distance behind Pfeiffer.

The Hawkeyes were bunched in behind Campisi in fifth place, completing the Old Gold scoring well before the fifth Grinnell man, Brown, scored in thirteenth place. Bob McElroy was sixth, Norman Rosenberg, seventh, Dick Bott, eighth, and Verne Schlaser, ninth.

Bresnahan Likes Team Work
The other Iowa men to run who did not come into the scoring, Dick Mitalvsky, John Carver, and Bert Metcalf, also finished ahead of Brown.

Coach George Bresnahan was well satisfied with the performances of the men, especially commenting on their group work. Except for Campisi, who was out ahead, the whole team ran as a unit the entire race.

BOB STONG, FIRST FROSH CASUALTY, PROMISING CENTER

By T. E. K.
Bob Stong, one of the first casualties on the freshman squad, showed signs of developing into a likely center, but in scrimmaging against the varsity, he managed to come in contact with Magnusson and 28 other bruising linemen, or so it seemed to him when he recovered consciousness, and discovered that his left knee cap was fractured.

Although his injury puts him out of competition for the season, Bob is fully determined to make good next year, and attends practices daily to learn the Solem system from the black board drills.

Bob is a product of the North high school at Des Moines, where he played varsity football for two years, gaining all-state recognition, and placing on the all-city team. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 175 pounds, and is 20 years old.

Canzoneri in Easy Victory

Holds Lightweight Title in Battle With Petrolle

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Tony Canzoneri, a masterful little champion with the grinning face and wide nose of a miniature Babe Ruth, finally met the challenge craggy-faced Billy Petrolle has been flinging to the lightweight division for years, and all but demolished the veteran tonight before a roaring crowd of 20,000 that jammed the big battle pit to the eaves.

Brilliant as any of the lightweights of legend, Tony battered the old timer from Fargo, N. D., so badly there was no question as to the victor at the end of their 15 round battle. Canzoneri failed to floor the challenger, but he did everything else the ring laws permit to win a unanimous decision.

Canzoneri never has appeared to finer advantage than he did in driving the "Fargo Express" to its worst smashup in a long and valorous career.

From the first round through the last, with just a breather at the start and a temporary stay in the eighth and tenth rounds, Tony made a target of the courageous warrior who has been whipping all comers in a thrilling comeback campaign, even to the extent of tipping slugging Jimmy McLarnin over twice one night in this same ring.

The champion's left raked Petrolle's face with jabs and hooks, right hand smashes and uppercuts thudded on his jawbone, and battle-

Hold Strong Rock Island Eleven Even

Joe Glenn Goes Over for Shamrock Score in 2nd Period

By HAROLD MITCHELL
(Staff Writer, The Daily Iowan)
ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Nov. 4.—Two second period touchdowns, which followed in rapid succession, were the limit of scoring here tonight as a fighting St. Patrick's high school eleven from Iowa City scored an upset of sorts by holding the strong St. Joseph's team to a 6-6 draw under the lights.

It was the visiting Irish's springily used passing attack which enabled them to gain the tie after the locals had rushed over their marker at the outset of the second period.

Unger Leads Drive
Unger, a big driving back, was the main cog in the St. Joe's touchdown drive. Starting from his own 15 yard line, he single-handedly rang up five successive first downs to put the ball on the Shamrock 12 yard marker from where Delp swept around end to score.

The third quarter saw little progressive activity on the part of either team, numerous exchanges of punts being the principal action. After Glenn had rambled through the St. Joe's line for 20 yards at the start of the fourth quarter to take the ball to his own 40 yard line, he fumbled, the locals gaining possession. St. Joe's then took up the offensive for the balance of the game, Unger being chiefly responsible in taking the ball to the Irish 16 yard line.

At this point, Delp went around end for eight yards and Lovell tried a drop kick with just 30 seconds remaining. Emanuel, mammoth tackle for the Iowa Citians blocked the attempt and the game ended with the ball in possession of the visitors.

SPORT Potshots

by EUGENE THORNE

WHETHER or not the Hawkeyes get a dry field today, they should be better prepared than they were against Minnesota. With big Bill Hass at fullback, the Hawkeyes have more of a chance to plow the line. If the gridiron is soggy, passes and wide end runs will be difficult, and both offenses will probably be confined to smashes. This is no reflection on Bernie Page, gritty 152-pound full that Coach Solem has been working on the first string. Page hits them all, and hammers the line hard, but he just lacks the necessary weight. He isn't through, either, for he's a real defense man.

Despite the rain and mud, Coach Joy Kistler's University high eleven and West Branch played a nice game of football at old Iowa field yesterday. Fumbles were quite noticeable by their absence, and both teams successfully used passes. The sloppy field didn't keep the backs from making long jaunts, and the crowds, huddled in the press boxes, got a good many thrills. Coach Bud Fisher got his West Branch team all steamed up between halves, and the boys came back 100 per cent stronger.

AND just to check up on the odds and ends of football—no doubt you figured that some enterprising scribe noticed out a way that showed Upper Iowa to be 37 points better than Notre Dame. Upper Iowa has not been defeated this year, so they should be right up among contenders for the national title. Colgate has forced to the front on the bid for national honors by not only boasting a clean slate, but by also having a defense that has held opponents scoreless while running up a total of 195 points. And Andy Kerr announced at the start of the season that they "might do well."

HEART STRINGS By EDWINA L. MACDONALD

Young and pretty Patricia Braithwaite becomes engaged to wealthy, middle-aged Harvey Blaine to relieve her father's financial situation. She hopes in vain that handsome Jack Lawrence, whom she met once—and the only man she ever wanted to kiss her—will rescue her from Blaine. In despair, she turns to Jimmie Warren, her Aunt Pamela's husband. They become infatuated. Aunt Pamela blames herself for leading Pat to believe she no longer loved her husband. The fear of losing him makes Pamela realize how much she really cares. Finally, Jack arrives. Pat learns he is the son of wealthy Senator Lawrence, who was kidnapped a few years ago when he went to Mexico to investigate his father's property. Pat tells him he is too late as she loves Jimmie but Jack refuses to acknowledge defeat and a bitter rivalry develops between the two men. For days Jimmie avoids Pat. Unable to stand the strain, she determines to have an understanding with him and asks him to dance with her. Overcome with emotion, Pat faints in Jimmie's arms. He is conscious of everyone's stares. As they leave the dance floor, Jack relieves the embarrassing situation by joining them. Pamela is grateful to Jack. She wires Mr. Braithwaite to come and get Pat. Pat confides in Jack that her shattered ideals of love and marriage caused her to fall in love with Jimmie. Jack tries to convince Pat that what she feels for Jimmie is not real love. Pat believes that by her disclosure she has forfeited Jack's friendship, but she assures her he will stand by as long as she wants him to do so. Mary Lou, a friend, tells Pat Jimmie was looking for her.

CHAPTER THIRTY "Arthur Savage's drunk as a lord," continued Mary Lou. "That's why he didn't leave that pillar he was leaning against when you came up. He can't. He'd fall. I tell you I'm afraid of that man. You know he comes from Tampa and he has Spanish blood or something on his mother's side. He may knife you or Mr. Warren or somebody." "My brother Cedric says he has a gun," declared a woolly headed little blonde, by name Rosemary. "And he kept saying while he was smiling red liquor in his room with Cedric—Cedric's drunk too, but not so drunk as Arthur—he kept saying 'Hell's going to pop around these gignings before morning.' Cedric told me Arthur looked dangerous." "Oh, Arthur's a big bluffer," scoffed Patricia; but a chill caught her heart. Arthur had threatened to shoot Jimmie several times in the last two days while dancing with her. And one never knew about people with Spanish blood. . . . Patricia was sitting in the lounge reading. She called to Patricia: "I had a letter from your father this morning, Patricia." "You had. Maybe there's a letter for me." She ran to the desk and inquired. There was nothing. "I don't understand it. Why'd he write you?" "He wrote in answer to a letter from me," smiled Pamela, lazily. Patricia stared at her a minute. Then her eyes narrowed, she said in a tight low voice, "Why did you write to my father?" Pamela laughed: "You speak as if he were your sweetheart and I had no right to write him." "I haven't it with me." "You let me see Dadum's letter." "Don't get so dramatic, Pat. The letter is in my room on the writing table. Ask for my key and go get it." A shamed flush overspread the girl's face. "Why'd you write him?" she asked meekly.

HOOVER Says Democrats Lying About G. O. P. (Continued from page 1) Democratic party was important in the following respects: "First, because it proves the fallacy of the foundation of their campaign; "Second, because it shows their utter confusion of mind, and either their insincerity or their utter lack of grasp of the forces loose in the world, and consequently the danger of placing men who have such a lack of penetration into the control of the government of 120,000,000 American people; "Indicates Responsibility "Third, because the continuous broadcasting of misinformation, although it is daily of conflicting character as to where this calamity came from, indicates an irresponsibility which does not promise well for the government of these same 120,000,000 people; "Fourth, because they should as a responsible political party cease to appeal to unthinking people for votes based upon their suffering by misleading them as to its causes." Attacks Explanation In his attack upon what he characterized the Democratic explanation for the nation's period of economic strain, the president said: "A circular placed in my hands since coming to this state, issued by the Democratic national committee, says this depression was manmade, and that the man who made it was myself personally. They express no gratitude that in my manufacture of this world crisis, I have let this country off easier than Russia and western Europe and South America. "In this campaign of 1932, also despite overwhelming proof to the contrary but in order to make unceasing appeal to discontent, the present Democratic candidate and his corps of orators repeat down to the last 24 hours their unceasing statement that the Republicans are responsible for this depression and all that has happened in it." Republicans Praised The Republican party, Mr. Hoover continued, might "be praised at least for the period of prosperity." He added he wished to point out that some of the greatest leaders among the "boom promoters" belonged to the Democratic party. "The Democratic candidate himself," he said, "assisted actually in promotions during that period which he now so warmly denounces. "I do not criticize his acts. He was merely participating in the prevailing mood, like the former candidate who undertook the construction of the tallest building in the world at the same boom time." Discusses "Booms" Further discussing "booms and slumps" Mr. Hoover said that many years ago the Democratic party undertook to deal with the question through the creation of the federal reserve system. "I do not criticize the federal system. I believe in it. All the point I make is that using its utmost powers it failed in the face of a great mass movement. Now the blame is to be transferred to the Republican party for having failed to do the job which they promised would be done by the panacea of their own institution." Many leading Democrats, he continued, did not "discover the Republican responsibility of this depression until it reached a vote getting stage." "Governor Smith two years ago," he said, "implied that neither he nor any man takes the position of placing the responsibility for the business depression on the president or the Republican party. And Governor Roosevelt, before he was nominated, made a characteristic vague statement of the same character." Scouts to Have Sale Kathryn Neuzil is in charge of the food sale which Troop 4 of the local Girl Scouts will hold from 8 o'clock this morning to 1 o'clock this afternoon. Proceeds from the sale will be used to pay the dues of the troop's members. Committees of three will alternate in charge of the sale every hour. A number of Clinton county farmers have formed a cooperative association for crushing limestone for fertilizer.

Hunger Leader

Wal Hannington, the militant organizer of the London "hunger march," which recently resulted in serious rioting near Buckingham Palace. Hannington is held by police, charged with "inciting to mutiny." His arrest balked plans which were being drawn up by the marchers for a mass demonstration in front of the house of commons in defiance of the police edict prohibiting it.

NELSON Tax, Costs Not Real Campaign Issues

(Continued from page 1) and efficiency" are not involved in this dispute; there is universal agreement that every dollar collected from the taxpayer should be so expended as to obtain the maximum possible return of governmental services. The issue is: how numerous are our needs and wants which can be cared for more adequately, more economically, and with a net gain in general social welfare by collective or governmental action than by individual or private initiative?

There is a striking lack of agreement among the advocates of "less government" as to what functions should be discarded. That fact justifies some skepticism regarding the likelihood of this doctrine winning general acceptance. Doubtless many departments of government will be forced to operate on budgets so reduced that some curtailment of activities will be necessary. In other situations, consolidations of departments and units may be effected. The present price level will permit substantial economies to be realized in operating expenses, including salaries of employees. In these and other ways the costs of government may and likely will be appreciably reduced in the near future. But it appears increasingly likely that the present semi-hysterical drive to "deflate" government will subside without having materially restricted the field of governmental action and responsibility. Since we as a nation have traditionally maintained the policy of entrusting to our governmental units only such tasks as are of general social concern and importance, it seems logical for us to conclude that the services of governmental agencies are among the portions of our "real" incomes that we can least afford to dispense with, even in a period of tightened belts. For a Balanced Budget The second major question is how to obtain the funds demanded by the federal budget. The tremendous shrinkage in receipts from corporate and individual income taxes and customs duties—the three leading sources of federal revenue in 1929—resulted in deficits of approximately one and two billion dollars respectively during the fiscal years of 1931 and 1932. One of three alternative policies might be adopted in this situation. First, expenditures might be reduced to a figure equal to the revenue obtained from established sources. Further consideration, however, reveals this possibility to be exceedingly remote. Fixed charges, representing interest and sinking fund payments on the funded debt, are slightly over one billion dollars annually, or 25 per cent of the federal budget. War costs, in which are included debt charges, pensions, and veterans' relief, now demand 70 per cent of all federal outlays. Civil functions and administrative agencies (presumably the target of many a broadside against "bureaucracy") are responsible for only a small fraction of total expenditures. Second, no attempt might be made to balance the federal budget, the resulting deficit being incurred deliberately, and met by selling bonds or by issuing paper money. Some persons have advocated this policy as the least painful and most salutary method of dealing with the current emergency, but the public generally has not evinced any liking for it as yet. Third, additional revenue might be secured by raising the rates of old taxes and introducing new levies. This was the answer to the question presumed to have been given by the late congress, and embodied in the revenue act of 1932. Receipts from the new levies have been disappointingly small to date, however, and it appears that the federal budget is far from being balanced for the current fiscal year. Equitable Distribution The third and final question is that confronting the state and local governments—namely, how to reorganize their systems of taxation so as to afford relief to the overburdened owners of real property and to achieve a more equitable distribution of the tax load as among persons and economic groups. The antiquated general property tax is yet the almost exclusive source of revenue of local units and is second only to highway taxes for state governments. The inequity resulting therefrom was less evident and less galling during the days of prosperity, but today, with the prices of agricultural products at less than 50 per cent of their pre-war levels, and many urban owners of small homes without steady employment or income, a problem of threatening proportions is only too painfully apparent. And at this point the writer is relieved to remember that his present task is to define issues—not to attempt their solution.

The New York Yankees, in winning the American league pennant, gained only one and one-half games on Philadelphia and two on Washington in the period from July 15 to beyond mid-September.

Orville Wicks Takes First in Husking Meet

Wins Championship in Initial Big-Time Competition

COLFAX, Nov. 4 (AP)—Entered in his first state competition, Orville Wicks, 22, of Kanawha today carried off the state cornhusking title in the annual Iowa contest, staged at the F. F. Loskot farm near here.

The youthful Wright county shucker, with Walter Johansen of Exira, the runnerup, will represent the state in the national contest to be held Nov. 10 near Galva, Ill.

Wicks picked a net of 1,845.7 pounds in the annual contest, while Johansen's net was 1,825.8. Others finishing in the money were Earl Harmon of Emerson, Mills county, who was third with 1,820.4; and Alvin Roberts of Moscow, Cedar county, fourth with 1,808.7.

Wins Fifth Place

Fifth went to R. J. Stover of Iowa State college with a net of 1,789.1, after Lee Carey of Laurel, the 1931 champion, was ruled out of the competition for protesting a judge's decision. Carey would have placed fifth.

Rain which fell last night and during the last 15 minutes of the competition today slowed down the shuckers and reduced their poundage. Although the corn was standing well the rain had toughened the shanks, making them snap less easily.

Leo Ockenfels of Van Horne, Benton county, had piled up the largest load of corn when the gun announced the end of the contest. He suffered heavy deductions for ears left in his hands and for husks remaining on the ears gathered, however.

Load Totals 2,170 Pounds

His total load was 2,170 pounds, while Carey had the second largest load, 2,150 pounds. Johansen covered the most land, having covered about 240 rods when the contest ended.

About 15,000 people saw the 18 contestants, selected on the basis of records from among the 60 winners of county competitions, start down the 100 rod rows of corn at the Loskot farm shortly after 10:30 a.m. A parade from the Colfax downtown district to the farm preceded the contest.

The crowd, which had followed the contestants down their rows, thinned out considerably when the rain set in. Judges set to work weighing the loads and making deductions for huskings and gleanings shortly after noon.

Surprised at Victory

Wicks expressed surprise at his victory when it was announced. He said he had not expected his net would be higher than the totals of the more experienced huskers, although he had worked steadily and had encountered fairly good corn.

He entered the state meet as the winner of the Wright county competition. Clarence Rockies, holder of an unofficial national husking record with his mark of 2,698.9 pounds net in the Grundy county contest, had been among the pre-meet favorites.

The new champion used a right hook and worked bare-handed. Twenty-two years old, he is one of the youngest contestants ever to enter a state meet, and probably the youngest champion in the 11 years of cornhusking competition in Iowa.

He is of comparatively slight build, being about 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighing 155 pounds. Young Wicks lives on the farm of his father, C. T. Wicks, near Kanawha. He attended the township school, leaving high school to work on the farm.

Johansen, the runnerup, also worked without gloves but he used the more generally preferred palm hook for tearing the husks from the ears. His load was less than that of the champion's, the respective totals being 1,970 and 2,090.

Production by Ohio farmers of all the sugar used in the state would bring an agricultural income of $13,000,000, it is estimated.

Empty Chairs
Dr. J. W. Kline of Ft. Dodge planned to deliver an address in behalf of Clyde L. Herring, Democratic candidate for governor, at the city hall yesterday. The only obstacle to the delivery of the address was the absence of listeners. According to a press notice, he planned to condemn Governor Turner's project of sewage disposal plants, which he claims are not needed and would be an excessive cost to the taxpayers.

The Knotters
The following faithful will have charge of the girls' section of the Knotters club at the Iowa-Nebraska game in the stadium this afternoon: Ruth Frerichs, scout executive, Hazel and Mary Vincent, Opal German, Agnes Pees, Faith Stamler, Harriet Buck, Mrs. Hal Dane, Mrs. Hugh Carson, Kathryn Neuzil, Mrs. P. F. Campbell, Edna Rahlf, Dorothy and Florence Whitmore, Marlan Norris, Nellie Marie Fordyce, Mrs. T. A. Caywood, Helen Eichler, Mrs. H. F. Smith, Maxine Schlanbusch, Margaret Miller, and Mary Alice Scannell.

More Knotters
In the boys' division of the Knotters club, there are 730 members, according to Glen G. Fordyce, boy scout executive. All the 730 members are expected to attend the Iowa-Nebraska game today and sit in their own special seating section.

These Betting Paupers
No matter how destitute some persons become, they are always willing to bet on their choice for this or their choice for that. Judging by the number of bets on the election, one would guess that of all measures to revive trade and put money in circulation, a presidential campaign is the surest. A World Series, of course, is also effective.

The Jury Rests
The petit jury, which was originally ordered to appear for duty Nov. 5, was informed yesterday that it will not be required until Nov. 14 at 9 a.m.

Ballots Sacked
Bill Kanak, deputy auditor, finished yesterday with the job which has occupied his attention for the last week or so. He has the ballots for the election all packed away in their sacks and they will be delivered to the various precincts today and Monday.

A criminal report in "The Iowa Sheriff" of this month shows that the number of criminals in the state institutions remain about constant, with so many leaving every year and about the same number coming in. The report, which gives figures for September shows 39 committed

Stocks Erase Part of Last Week's Loss

Shorts Take to Cover as Prices Begin Rise

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Stocks were readily influenced by moderate short covering today and the market got back a liberal percentage of the ground lost earlier this week.

Wheat was firm, too, while cotton and many bonds helped make the day's financial improvement rather general.

Stock prices closed somewhat under their highs of the day, the range of net advances being roughly 1 to 5 points against a slightly larger maximum.

Issues speculatively identified with a possible change in the prohibition laws were prominent throughout the session. Owens Illinois Glass expanded 5, National Distillers and I. S. Industrial Alcohol more than 2, and Crown Cork about 1 1/2.

American Telephone climbed well to Ft. Madison, 52 to Anamosa, and eight to Rockwell City. Twenty-three from Ft. Madison, 54 from Anamosa, and nine from Rockwell City were discharged, paroled, escaped, or died.

Court Term to Open With Smith Trial

The State of Iowa vs. Raymond E. Smith will be the first criminal case in an assignment for the November term of district court made by Judge R. G. Popham yesterday. Trial will start Monday, Nov. 14, at 9 a.m.

Thornton Will Speak on Past Campaigning at C. of C. Luncheon

Old time ballyhoo—the torchlight parade and soap box oratory—will be recalled by Prof. H. J. Thornton of the history department in a historical address at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Monday noon.

Special guests at the luncheon will be the University of Dublin and the University of Iowa debaters who are booked to argue the question of debt cancellation. James Auchmuty and Garrett Gill are the Irish visitors and Vergil Tracy of Council Bluffs, and C. LaVerne Kluss of Postville, represent Iowa.

Each member of the organization has been asked to bring a guest to the dinner and special arrangements have been made to accommodate the wives of members.

Railways Surgeons Name Head

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—The American Association of Railway Surgeons elected Dr. Sidney B. McLeod, Chicago, president at the closing session of their annual meeting today. Dr. Prince W. Sawyer, Sioux City, Ia., was named second vice president.

Weekly Road Report Gives Local Conditions

In the weekly road condition report of the Iowa State Highway commission, items of special interest to Iowa City residents were that persons driving on U. S. highway 149 from Williamsburg to Parnell and west should drive with care because the road is under construction, but is still open to traffic.

The report said that in driving from Columbus Junction to Nichols persons should follow No. 2, No. 161 and No. 22 via Ainsworth and Lone Tree, which are all surfaced. In Muscatine county U. S. highway 61 to the state park has a narrow winding earth detour beginning two miles south.

Grain Prices About Face to Higher Level

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—Briak right about face action lifted wheat more than 2 cents a bushel today from the commodity's record low point of 41 1/2 cents.

Signs that for at least the time being the wheat market was in a decidedly oversold condition led to more general buying than had been witnessed since the downswings began about a week ago. Helping to raise wheat prices were returns in securities and cotton.

Although reacting somewhat from top levels and showing late symptoms of fresh unsettlement, wheat closed relatively firm at substantial net gains 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 higher than yesterday's finish, corn 1/2 up, oats 1/4 to 3/4 advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Speculative purchasing of wheat came largely from eastern sources, and broadened out when selling pressure let up.

Corn and oats borrowed strength from wheat, but export demand for corn appeared to be held in check by enlarged rural offerings.

Provisions advanced with hog values.

Closing Indemnities: wheat—Dec. 42 1/2-3, 44 1/2-3; May 47 1/2, 49 1/4 to 1/2; July 49 1/4, 50 1/2. Corn—Dec. 24, 25 1/4; May 29 1/2-29 3/4.

More than 50 per cent of the population of the state of Wisconsin is licensed to drive automobiles.

Oil Burners—and Burning Oils

The future of wages, salaries and living conditions cannot be foretold and some believe it unwise to spend money now for an Electrol oil burner.

That is a matter for each individual to decide.

The cost of heating your home with Electrol or with coal is about the same in dollars; but the burner installation costs from $295.00 to $450.00 as a capital outlay.

We have yet to learn of another burner which will deliver heat at the low cost of Electrol heat.

Burning oils are now standardized according to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce and we carry a proper burning oil for all makes of burners; i.e., the grade recommended by its manufacturer.

When you are interested in oil burners or burning oils, let us have an interview.

HE HAS EXPERIENCE:
Judge Popham's years of service on the bench guarantee against hasty or inaccurate decisions. The Federal government has recognized the need of experience and makes all its judgeship appointments permanent. For the same reason the state provides longer terms than for its other officials.

HE IS EFFICIENT:
Only one case from each county decided by Judge Popham has been retired after going through the Supreme Court. This is a most unusual record, probably equalled by no other District Judge in Iowa. His thorough deliberations have prevented litigants and tax payers being put to expense of retrying these cases.

HE IS CAPABLE:
Inquire of the attorneys of the district if you would know of Judge Popham's integrity, of his legal knowledge or his judicial ability.

HE IS DESERVING:
His excellent record makes Judge Popham one of the outstanding district judges in Iowa. Experience and actual accomplishments, rather than promises or political alignment are the factors you should consider in deciding to support.

R. G. POPHAM FOR DISTRICT JUDGE
